Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor or Instructor of American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Public Policy

POSITION SUMMARY: For Fall 2020 - Spring 2021, we are hiring a visiting assistant professor/instructor to teach American politics.

The political science department of Moravian College in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania is searching for a one-year, full time, visiting assistant professor or instructor (depending on degree completion status) in American politics for the 2020-2021 academic year. The position will entail a three-three teaching load that will focus on basic American political institutions and processes for a total of six courses. Candidates seeking this position must be able to teach a foundational introductory course in American political systems. Multiple sections of the introductory course would be offered over the course of the two-semester appointment. Candidates must be able to teach a course on American political parties and elections in the Fall 2020 semester. In addition to such courses, candidates for the position will be asked to offer at least two upper division courses over the academic year from among the following areas: Congress and the Presidency, Public Policy and Public Administration (Administrative Politics), and/or Environmental Politics.

ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS AND RESPONSIBILITIES: Our liberal arts courses require appropriate reading and writing assignments.

QUALIFICATIONS: Successful applicants will have ABD status or a completed doctorate in political science. For ABDs, this position will have visiting instructor status. Teaching experience is required. Moravian College is a New American College with a commitment to the liberal arts and student-focused pedagogy. Our four-person department places a high value on dedicated teaching and high levels of student engagement. The College is located approximately an hour and a half driving distance from both Philadelphia and New York City.

The deadline for applications is May 1, 2020.

Review of applications will begin on March 16, 2020 and will continue until filled. Incomplete applications will not be considered. (Moravian College will not sponsor applicants for this position for a U.S. work visa).

TO APPLY: Qualified candidates should attach their letter of interest, curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, set of recent teaching evaluations and relevant recent syllabi to their online application by clicking "Apply Now". Candidates should also arrange to send two (2) letters of recommendation to moyerd@moravian.edu. Please attach documents as a PDF file.

All positions are subject to budget availability.

University of Delaware

Rank: Temporary Assistant Professor, Political Science and International Relations

Specializations: American Politics, Presidency, Judicial Politics

TEMPORARY ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS, DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

THE UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware invites applications and nominations for a temporary assistant professor in American Politics in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu/>). Successful candidates should have a scholarly specialization in the field of American Politics. The effective start date is September 1, 2020. Position is for one year, renewable for a total of three years, subject to satisfactory performance, departmental needs and availability of funding.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POSCIR) within the College of Arts and Sciences has 25 full-time faculty, nearly 1,000 undergraduate majors and minors and 45 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The Department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and undergraduate minors in Political Science, Political Communication, and Politics and Social Justice, as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics, comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The faculty is a methodologically diverse and collegial group of research-intensive and nationally and internationally known scholars. They are outstanding teachers, mentors, advisers and public servants.

The Department seeks a temporary assistant professor with a record of strong teaching in American politics. Candidates will contribute to excellence in our teaching mission, teaching up to four courses each semester. Evidence of teaching experience is required, with the ability to teach a wide range of courses in American politics. We have particular needs for teaching the presidency, law and courts, undergraduate research methods, and introduction to American politics. The ability to teach in areas of politics, groups, and identities, or political theory is also welcome. Opportunity to develop a “topics” course is likely. Temporary faculty in the Department of Political Science and International Relations receive support for conference travel and may be eligible to compete for research funding from the department. Salary is competitive.

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga College of Arts and Sciences invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in American Political Behavior beginning Fall 2020. A multi-year contract is available.

We are seeking an American political behavioralist to teach research methods each fall and spring (a required course for all of the majors in the department at the 3000-level) and with a capacity to offer a range of courses in political behavior (such as media and politics, public opinion, campaigns and elections, and parties and interest groups, and upper-level seminars in their area of expertise). We do not need a methodologist per se, but a colleague who desires to work with undergraduates on the foundations of research design and social science methods. The successful candidate will participate in the life of the department, including supporting senior thesis projects and student engagement outside of the classroom, with civic engagement as a particular focus.

Candidates should provide evidence of prior teaching experience and their capacity to provide instruction through a variety of approaches, including online, and their experience and desire to engage with diverse populations. Review of applications will begin January 27; while preference will be given to applications received by that date, the review will continue until the position is filled.

Further information about the department is available at <https://www.utc.edu/political-science-public-service/index.php>

Qualifications:

Successful candidates will possess the following requirements:

Ph.D. in Political Science or closely-related field. We will consider ABDs with scheduled completion dates prior to the start of the position.

- Demonstrated experience in political behavior and research methodology.
- Ability to teach introductory/advanced courses in American Political Behavior and Research Methods.
- Willingness to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction.
- Willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan, including a demonstrable commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Application Procedures:

Applicants should submit the following information within our online application system for consideration:

- Cover letter/letter of interest
- CV, including up-to-date, personal contact information (email, phone, etc.)
- Unofficial transcripts
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness, including teaching philosophy, course evaluations, and sample syllabi
- Statement of research agenda
- Statement of approach to teaching and working with diverse populations

Additionally, candidates will need to include names, titles, and email addresses for three (3) references. Confidential letters of recommendation will be requested from finalists only.

Inquiries may be made to Dr. Jessica Auchter, search committee chair, at Jessica-Auchter@utc.edu.

Review of applicants will begin on January 10

Applications must be submitted electronically through the UTC Faculty Career Site by visiting: https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc\_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=2000000000

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second-largest school in the University of Tennessee System and serves a diverse student body of more than 11,600 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions with a commitment to achieve excellence, embrace diversity and inclusion and offer experiential learning opportunities for students. As an urban university, we also are dedicated to inspiring positive change and enriching our community. Each day, we strive to earn the trust and confidence of those we serve. Our goal is to make a difference in our community and in the lives of our students.

Our definition of student success is a graduate who has the knowledge required to succeed in the workplace and the personal development to show up on time, how to collaborate and work with others and to execute the steps to complete a project. We have held the line on the cost of education with record low tuition increases over the past four years. But we still have $325 million invested in eight ongoing renovations to campus buildings and construction of new facilities.

Chattanooga, the fourth-largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee on the Georgia stateline and only a few miles from the stateline of Alabama. Because of our location, UTC enrolls students from those states as well as Tennessee. The city itself has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront on the Tennessee River. For two straight years, Outside magazine has twice named Chattanooga as the Best Town Ever, the only city to achieve that distinction. Lonely Planet magazine says we are one of the Top 10 U.S. destinations, and Money Inc. calls us one of the nation's most underrated cities.

Chattanooga also is home to the first 10-gig internet network in the United States, the fastest internet service in the Western Hemisphere. The city's ongoing dedication to advancing technology has attracted dozens of startups to join companies already here such as Volkswagen, Amazon, Unum, McKee Foods, U.S. Xpress, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. United. Attractions such as the Tennessee Aquarium, Lookout Mountain, the Creative Discovery Museum for Children, Civil War battlefield sites and the African American Museum in the Bessie Smith Cultural Center bring thousands of people to the area, as do events such as the Southern Writers Conference and the musical festivities of Riverbend, Nightfall and Jazzanooga. People who love the outdoors are coming to Chattanooga in vast numbers for its multitude of offerings such as hang-gliding, kayaking, rock climbing, biking, fishing and caving expeditions. The world-famous Ironman Triathlon and Ironman 70.3 half-marathon have contracted to take place in Chattanooga until at least 2023.

In short, Chattanooga is internationally recognized as a forward-thinking city that's rich in tradition, history and wide-ranging activities. We are an exciting and vibrant place to live and work. Whether you're raising a family or single, Chattanooga has something for you.

Institut Barcelona Estudis Internacionals (IBEI)

Rank: Senior Fellow - American Foreign Policy and International Security

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, American Politics

The Institut Barcelona d'Estudis Internacionals (IBEI) is seeking to appoint a Senior Fellow in American Foreign Policy and International Security. This is a 3-year position, with a possibility of extension, and the successful candidate is expected to start in September/October 2020. The salary range is between 40.000- 48.000 per annum, depending on skills and experience.

IBEI is establishing a program on the foreign policy of the United States and international security, supported by the Barcelona based Institute of North American Studies (IEN). The main objectives of this program are: 1) To contribute to public, academic, and expert discussions on US foreign policy and its global implications, focusing in particular on US foreign policy toward Europe and the MENA region, as well as transatlantic relations; 2) To promote research on US foreign policy and international security, deepening the knowledge of relevant strategic, geo-political and socio-economic aspects of this topic; and 3) To stimulate IBEI involvement in the area of American foreign policy and international security studies through research collaboration with internationally renowned scholars.

Candidates must have a PhD degree, an outstanding publications record in peer-reviewed journals and/ or major scholarly presses, experience in convening research networks, facilitating connections between research, policy and practice, and disseminating core insights from academic research to different target audiences. Excellent interpersonal skills and an ability to contribute to collaborative research projects are also essential for this position. The Senior Fellow is expected to carry out scholarly research, promote policy debates and dissemination activities related to the program, participate in IBEI's academic activities and research clusters, as well as deliver one course per semester in IBEI's Master's degree programmes (taught in English).

Applications must be submitted by April 3, 2020. Applicants should send:

- * A letter of interest.
- * A complete curriculum vitae.
- * A sample of previous research (two papers and/or book synopses).
- * An outline of a proposed program agenda.
- * Three academic references that IBEI could contact in case of being short-listed.

Please send these documents by e-mail to: Carlos Sanchez, Research coordinator at IBEI, csanchez@ibei.org

IBEI is a graduate teaching and research institution created by of all five public universities in Barcelona (Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Universitat de Barcelona, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya) and CIDOB (Barcelona Centre for International Affairs). IBEI supports research in all fields of international politics, international relations, international security, foreign policy, globalization, development and inequalities. IBEI is an equal opportunities employer. IBEI holds the HR Excellence in Research distinction from the European Commission, which recognises the institute's efforts to create a stimulating and favourable work environment and its commitment to continuously improve human resources policies.

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs

Rank: Senior Fellow, US Foreign Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, American Government and Politics

POSITION: Senior Fellow, US Foreign Policy

TEAM: Studies

REPORTS TO: Vice President, Studies

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs is an independent, nonpartisan organization that provides insight on critical global issues, advances policy solutions, and fosters dialogue about what is happening in the world and why it matters to people in Chicago, the United States, and around the globe. As the premier, nonpartisan global affairs organization in America's heartland, we believe an informed, engaged public with access to fact-based and balanced views on global issues helps to ensure effective US engagement and supports a more inclusive, equitable, and secure world.

The Council pursues its mission to promote deeper global understanding and address critical global issues through four centers of excellence:

Public Programming and Engagement, Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy, Global Food and Agriculture, and Global Cities.

THE OPPORTUNITY

The Senior Fellow will conduct original analysis and writing on critical issues of US foreign policy and actively engage in discussion and outreach with public audiences in Chicago and the Midwest. To assure that debates and discussions in the region represent the range of important perspectives in the debate over the role of the U.S. in the world, the Council is seeking a senior fellow who favors the concept of "restraint" in American foreign policy, which constitutes a longstanding tradition that emphasizes focusing on America's national interests, favors diplomatic engagement, and seeks to limit the deployment and use of military force to the defense of core U.S. national security interests. This is an extraordinary opportunity for an individual looking to both contribute to the local, regional, and national conversation on US foreign policy and America's role in the world.

The Senior Fellow will manage a research associate, have a budget for regional outreach activities, and work closely with colleagues in the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy.

Specific responsibilities of the Senior Fellow include:

- Research and Analysis. Develop a policy-relevant research agenda on US foreign policy to further the mission of the Lester Crown Center and the Chicago Council on Global Affairs; conduct original research and analysis; publish articles in policy journals and op-eds in major newspapers and magazines; contribute commentary to the broadcast, print, and social media in response to new developments in his or her area of research; contribute to Council research projects and reports, including the public opinion research of the Lester Crown Center; meet with visiting foreign officials and experts; and communicate research to the Council's leadership.
- Chicago and Midwest Outreach. Develop and implement a robust outreach strategy of presentations and engagement with members of the Chicago Council, the interested public, academic institutions, local and regional media, and other constituents locally and in the Midwest. The expectation is a minimum of 25 Chicago and Midwest outreach events per year.
- Support Public and Leadership Programs. Assist in conceptualizing and recruiting speakers for Lester Crown Center speaker events at the Council on US foreign policy topics, including public programs, private roundtables, and the Lester Crown Distinguished Lecture on US Foreign Policy. Moderate programs on topics relevant to expertise.
- Online and Digital Presence. Establish a significant online presence to distribute content, spur discussion and contribute to building the digital identity and brand of the Lester Crown Center locally, regionally and nationally.
- Fundraising. Work closely with the Development team and Council leadership to identify new sources of funding and develop funding requests to support the fellow's projects and long-term position funding, as well as support for the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy and the Council more generally.
- Management. Manage and direct the work of research associate and interns in support of the fellow's work and the Lester Crown Center.

CANDIDATE PROFILE

The Senior Fellow will be a major voice on America's foreign policies with an established record of scholarship and, ideally, practice.

The ideal candidate will have the following qualifications:

- Advanced degree in International Affairs, Political Science, or a related field required; PhD preferred.
- 5-10 years of professional and research experience in US foreign policy.
- A strong record of research and writing about US foreign policy.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills, including the ability to communicate complex concepts and topics clearly, thoroughly, and succinctly to a broad audience.
- Demonstrated success with grant proposals and fundraising preferred.
- Demonstrated success working in highly collaborative, team-based environments, with a commitment to professional development and mentoring.

TO APPLY

Please email a cover letter, writing sample, and résumé as Word or PDF documents to hr@thechicagocouncil.org. Other career opportunities can be found on the Council's website at www.thechicagocouncil.org. EOE

Announcement of Anticipated Part-Time Faculty Openings

Department: Political Science

Effective Date of Appointment: Academic Year 2020-2021

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

About the College:

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences includes the departments of Africana Studies, Anthropology, Criminology and Justice Studies, Geography and Environmental Studies, History, Political Science, Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, and Urban Studies and Planning. We are committed to student success and inclusive excellence. The college incorporates the study of the challenges of urban America in a multi-ethnic setting, and provides a superior liberal arts education set across the disciplines of the social sciences. The college has approximately 150 full-time faculty members and an enrollment of approximately 6100 undergraduate students and 500 graduate students.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science is committed to fostering all of our students through intellectual rigor and a focus on student success, with a particular emphasis on experiential learning. The department has sixteen full-time faculty members serving approximately 625 undergraduate majors and thirty graduate students in our Master's Program. We offer concentrations in Politics and Government, Law and Society, and Public Policy and Management, and coursework in all major areas of the discipline. We are committed to inclusivity and actively interested in a diversity of standpoints on all dimensions.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

Mercyhurst University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position, with the possibility of conversion to tenure track, beginning fall 2020. A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at a liberal arts university is essential. The position primarily combines courses in judicial politics, constitutional law, and civil liberties. We are especially interested in candidates who can develop a robust pre-law program and attract new majors and minors with these interests. The candidate will serve as advisor to our pre-law society. The ability to teach courses in additional areas, e.g., general American politics courses, gender, or political theory will be viewed favorably. Energy, collegiality, and a commitment to liberal arts education are highly prized attributes. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. or who will complete it before the fall 2020 semester. Screening of applications will begin immediately and the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current vitae, transcripts (initial submissions may be unofficial copies), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching excellence, and a one-page statement summarizing their philosophy of teaching to Jennifer Verga, administrative assistant: jverga@mercyhurst.edu. Mercyhurst is a mid-sized, Catholic, liberal arts, primarily residential university, founded by the Sisters of Mercy, with an enrollment of approximately 2,500 students. Class sizes are small and the normal teaching load is 8 courses per year. For information about the political science program see the departmental website: <http://polisci.mercyhurst.edu>.

University of Akron

Rank: Director, Ray C. Bliss Institute of Applied Politics at The University of Akron

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Research Methods

The University of Akron's Ray C. Bliss Institute of Applied Politics, in cooperation with the Department of Political Science, is searching for its next Director. This 12-month position will commence August 15, 2020 and it includes an appointment as a tenured Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science.

The successful candidate will oversee the activities of the Bliss Institute, including managing its budget, supervising its full-time and part-time staff, coordinating research projects (including polling activities), administering its extensive internship program, and hosting conferences. That candidate also will be a faculty member of the Department of Political Science with teaching responsibilities. The Director also is responsible for administering the Institute's academic programs, including the Master of Applied Politics (MAP) degree program and the Undergraduate and Graduate Certificate in Applied Politics and that person will have teaching responsibilities in connection with those programs. The Director also is responsible for liaising with university, local, state, and national officials, engaging with the media, and promoting the overall mission of the Institute.

The successful candidate must be a highly experienced scholar with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field and with a record of publications in peer-reviewed journals and/or academic presses. The successful candidate also should have a record of teaching at the university level. The successful candidate also should have a strong record of administrative experience. It is desirable for that candidate to have a competency in research methods with a demonstrable interest in applied politics at the state and/or national levels. Experience in public policy, especially at the state and local levels, also is highly desirable, as is previous experience in hosting conferences in an academic and/or governmental setting.

To apply for this position, you must complete the on-line application (available at: <https://www.uakron.edu/hr/jobs.dot>) and attach a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and a list of three (3) professional references to your profile. After submission of your application, return to the "My Activities" link and upload the required documents under the "my Cover Letters and Attachments" section.

Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with reference to the minimum and preferred qualifications. This is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based. A resume will not be accepted in place of any information requested on the application. For assistance with your application or attachments please call Angie Kerley in Human Resources at 330-972-6547. Open until filled, however, initial review of applications will begin on March 2, 2020.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow/P3 Lab

Specializations: American Politics, Political Parties & Organizations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The P3 Lab at Johns Hopkins University is seeking two Postdoctoral Research Associates with expertise in multi-method, social science research to work with Professor Hahrie Han on a set of grant-funded studies of the effectiveness of contemporary grassroots organizing efforts in the United States. These studies are designed both to develop and implement measures of power-building in the communities in which these organizing efforts occur, and identify the organizational mechanisms that make this kind of work possible. All of the work will be done in close partnership with field organizations. All candidates must be comfortable working in underserved communities with grassroots organizations, have a commitment to developing data tools that can sharpen the strategic practice of field partners, and have the methodological expertise to both develop and use a range of computational tools for analysis, and also conduct qualitative data collection.

Responsibilities: Each Postdoctoral Research Associate will be primarily responsible for deep, in-depth data collection and analysis with a set of 3-4 field organizations, and be responsible for managing relationships with approximately 4-5 additional organizations. The data collection will involve getting to know the field partners well enough to work with them to co-develop a design for assessing their power-building strategies, and then drawing on a range of tools to implement those strategies. These tools tend to involve network analysis, text as data analyses, surveys, and interviews. The post-docs are also expected to participate in manuscript production for publication in peer-reviewed journals, and presentations at scientific conferences. Publications stemming from the designated research projects will likely be co-authored with collaborators in the P3 Lab. Each Postdoctoral Research Associate is also encouraged to pursue their independent research, and identify fruitful overlap between these projects and their work.

The P3 Postdoctoral Research Associate positions are available to start immediately and go until the summer of 2021 (17 months total). These positions will be located at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland 21218. Exceptional circumstances preventing relocation will be taken under consideration.

Qualifications

A PhD in a social science discipline with expertise in a wide range of research methods. Applicants must have completed the PhD requirement prior to the start of the position.

Theoretical and empirical familiarity with the field of civic data, movement building, and aspects of computational social science; experience in statistical and spatial data analysis and data visualization; advanced programming in R, STATA, or another statistical package; excellent communication skills. Experience with grassroots organizations is a plus.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit your application at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/73527> and include the following materials: (1) letter of application, (2) a two-to-five page research statement detailing your substantive and methodological research experience, (3) curriculum vitae, and (4) one or two recent samples of published work. In addition, candidates should submit three names of references at the time of the application.

Application review will begin February 1, but the position will remain open to accept additional applications until the position filled.

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Rank: IGB Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Other

The Carl R. Woese Institute for Genomic Biology (IGB) at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign solicits applications for a position as an IGB Fellow in its new theme Genomic Security and Privacy (GSP). The position is open to scholars who have completed their PhD within the last several years and who are looking for a stimulating and supportive interdisciplinary environment to carry out independent and collaborative research. IGB Fellows typically spend two or more years conducting research in an IGB theme. The theme leadership works with the Fellow to develop an individual program of research that contributes to the theme.

Recent years have seen the rise of a diverse collection of applications of genomics that have profound implications for individuals, society, and the future of humankind. The GSP theme aims to understand the consequences of these scientific and social developments through a highly interdisciplinary research team. The Fellow would contribute to studies on technology and policy for security and privacy of genomic data. Sample areas of research include: privacy-enhancing technologies for sharing genotype, phenotype, and lifestyle data; ramifications of genetic genealogy for law enforcement; models for diversity, consent, and governance; and potential issues with diverse omics data. Contributions may include seeking out and applying for grants, designing and executing studies, coordinating research with and among GSP faculty, and managing graduate or undergraduate researchers tasked to GSP projects. Moreover, there are diverse drivers of developments in the field of genomics bringing on issues that will shape the development of GSP. We encourage applications from candidates in at least these areas as they relate to GSP: Bioinformatics, Computer Science, Law, Social Sciences, and Economics.

Applicants should submit a CV, a research summary, and the names of three recommenders who can write letters on their behalf. Inquiries and applications should be directed to Nikki Gentry by email at ngentry@illinois.edu or Carl A. Gunter at cgunter@illinois.edu. The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Annual salary is $55,000, plus a $7,500 allowance.

University of the District of Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: African American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor of Political Science
African American Studies/Politics, Politics of Race, U.S. Politics and/or Public Administration

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The University of the District of Columbia's Division of Social & Behavioral Sciences invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track, 9-month faculty appointment in the Political Science Program with a target start date of August 16, 2020. Required specializations for this position include African American Studies and/or the politics of race, and U.S. government. Applicants with a Ph.D. in Political Science will be given full consideration.

The successful candidate will be expected to have an active research agenda and a strong publication record, as well as to offer both lower- and upper-level undergraduate courses relating to race and ethnicity, U.S. politics, and public policy and administration. Other potential areas of focus include, but are not limited to, black political thought, African Diaspora Studies, and intersections between race, class, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality.

Preference will be given to candidates who are able to articulate a vision that involves developing community partnerships, fostering student activism, pursuing social justice, and engaging with students from diverse backgrounds. As a small but dynamic program characterized by a transdisciplinary and critical ethos, we also welcome details about how the candidate's work would complement the strengths of current faculty and help to shape the program's trajectory.

The Bachelor of Arts in Political Science is among the most popular undergraduate degree programs at UDC. A hallmark of the program is its research-based curriculum, which includes a three-course sequence that culminates in a senior capstone project. It also offers an interdisciplinary concentration in Global Studies. Faculty are expected to participate in program, division, college, and university service activities, as well as to advise students and supervise undergraduate internships and research projects.

UDC is a public, comprehensive university with an urban land-grant distinction. It is the city's only public institution of higher education and has historically been a minority-serving institution. It serves approximately 5,600 students across its certificate, two-year, baccalaureate, masters, and professional programs. Beyond the university, the Washington metropolitan community provides an exceptional learning laboratory for faculty, staff, and students.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Letter of interest

Curriculum vitae

Statement of teaching philosophy

Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including selected course syllabi, if available)

Research statement/agenda

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The University of the District of Columbia's Division of Social & Behavioral Sciences invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track, 9-month faculty appointment in the Political Science Program with a target start date of August 16, 2020. Required specializations for this position include African American Studies and/or the politics of race, and U.S. government. Applicants with a Ph.D. in Political Science will be given full consideration.

The successful candidate will be expected to have an active research agenda and a strong publication record, as well as to offer both lower- and upper-level undergraduate courses relating to race and ethnicity, U.S. politics, and public policy and administration. Other potential areas of focus include, but are not limited to, black political thought, African Diaspora Studies, and intersections between race, class, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality.

Preference will be given to candidates who are able to articulate a vision that involves developing community partnerships, fostering student activism, pursuing social justice, and engaging with students from diverse backgrounds. As a small but dynamic program characterized by a transdisciplinary and critical ethos, we also welcome details about how the candidate's work would complement the strengths of current faculty and help to shape the program's trajectory.

The Bachelor of Arts in Political Science is among the most popular undergraduate degree programs at UDC. A hallmark of the program is its research-based curriculum, which includes a three-course sequence that culminates in a senior capstone project. It also offers an interdisciplinary concentration in Global Studies. Faculty are expected to participate in program, division, college, and university service activities, as well as to advise students and supervise undergraduate internships and research projects.

UDC is a public, comprehensive university with an urban land-grant distinction. It is the city's only public institution of higher education and has historically been a minority-serving institution. It serves approximately 5,600 students across its certificate, two-year, baccalaureate, masters, and professional programs. Beyond the university, the Washington metropolitan community provides an exceptional learning laboratory for faculty, staff, and students.

Reed College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Half-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Half-Time)

Applications are invited for a half-time visiting appointment in political science with specializations in one or more of the following fields: international relations or American politics/public policy. Candidates with an ability to teach in multiple fields are particularly encouraged to apply. The appointment begins Fall 2020.

Candidates are expected to teach three sections total across one or two semesters. All our courses are capped at 24 students. Because we are a small department, we are interested in candidates who incorporate multiple methods of analysis and integrate this approach into their teaching of undergraduate seminars and in the advising of student research.

Reed College is a highly selective liberal arts institution with a distinguished record of educational accomplishment and a strong commitment to scholarship (<http://web.reed.edu>). Our pedagogy emphasizes the conceptual and theoretical foundations of the discipline. We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand, or very near completion, by the start of the appointment. Above all, we seek candidates with a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level. Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli\_sci/. Search inquiries may be addressed to political.search@reed.edu.

Reed College is a community that believes cultural diversity is essential to the excellence of our academic program. In your application materials, we welcome a description of how you would engage and sustain the commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity statement (<https://www.reed.edu/diversity/>). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

Please send an application letter, CV, demonstration of teaching excellence, and two letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/73270>. Sample syllabi are welcome but not required. The review of applications will begin on February 14, 2020, and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Arkansas invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics with an emphasis on judicial politics. The position begins August 15, 2020. Teaching responsibilities include lower and upper-division courses in an undergraduate political science program. The department seeks candidates who can teach upper-division political science courses in constitutional law, civil liberties, and the American judicial system. The ability to teach a course in other judicial areas (for example, cybersecurity, administrative, or environmental law), would be attractive. Teaching responsibilities include introductory sections of U.S. government & politics. Other responsibilities include serving as the advisor for pre-law students and the legal studies minor. The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and demonstrate the potential for scholarly research and publication. A Ph.D. in Political Science (with an emphasis in judicial politics) is preferred. ABDs will be considered. If the candidate does not have the Ph.D. in hand, he/she will be hired as an instructor until the degree is obtained. In addition to political science, the Department also offers undergraduate degrees in public administration and international studies. To apply, submit a letter of application, current vita, transcripts, three letters of recommendation, a scholarly writing sample, course syllabi, and teaching evaluations via UCA's online application system (<https://jobs.uca.edu>). Review of applications will begin February 14, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by February 14.

Founded in 1907, the University of Central Arkansas (www.uca.edu) has an enrollment of approximately 11,700 students. The university offers 87 undergraduate and 58 graduate certificate and degree programs, including doctoral programs in five disciplines. The student body consistently scores above the national average on the ACT exam. UCA is proud of its tradition of teaching excellence and its contributions in scholarly and creative activities. The campus is widely acclaimed for its beauty. UCA is located in Conway, Arkansas, a thriving city of approximately 60,000, located in central Arkansas, and thirty minutes from Little Rock. Conway is home to a number of major industries, two private colleges, an excellent public school system, and strong K-12 parochial schools. Residents have easy access to the Ouachita and Ozark National Forests and pristine wild areas near the Buffalo National River. The University of Central Arkansas is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and encourages women and minorities to apply.

Texas A&M University*Rank: Albritton Center for Grand Strategy - Pre- and Post- Doctoral FellowshipSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Albritton Center for Grand Strategy at the Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, is inviting applications to its residential fellowship program for the 2020-2021 academic year. The program will support one pre-doctoral and one post-doctoral fellow. The Albritton Center is particularly interested in scholars that are engaging with the fundamental questions surrounding grand strategy: How should the national interest be defined? What are the threats to the national interest? How should the United States use its power in response? Applications are invited from scholars of political science, history, and other relevant disciplines.

Fellows will be expected to be in residence at the Bush School for the duration of their fellowships (September 2020 - August 2021). They will be provided with office space and access to the resources of the Bush School and Texas A&M University.

The pre-doctoral fellow is expected to make substantial progress toward – and ideally complete – a dissertation during the fellowship. The post-doctoral fellow is expected to complete a manuscript for publication. The post-doctoral fellow is also expected to teach one course to Bush School students. Finally, both fellows are asked to write a short, policy-relevant piece while in residence.

Fellows will participate in Center activities, to include seminars, workshops, and conferences. They will work with an active community of scholars in international affairs, political science, history, and other disciplines at Texas A&M University.

Eligibility:

Applicants for the pre-doctoral fellowship must be pursuing a Ph.D. in political science, history or other relevant discipline. Applicants must pass all qualifying exams and advance to the level of candidacy prior to the start of their appointment.

Applicants for the post-doctoral fellowship must have completed their PhD in political science, history, or other relevant discipline to begin the fellowship. Recent PhD recipients are especially encouraged to apply.

Award information:

The pre-doctoral fellow will receive a stipend of $39,000, as well as $5,000 in research funding. The postdoctoral fellow will receive a salary of $60,000 (payable monthly), as well as $10,000 in research funding. The post-doctoral fellow will also be eligible for the benefits package available to TAMU employees.

Application process:

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, short writing sample (no more than 10,000 words), and a letter of recommendation (preferably by the applicant's dissertation advisor) to bushschoolCGS@tam.u.edu.

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by January 17, 2020 receiving priority attention.

Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action/veterans/disability employer committed to diversity.

Valparaiso University invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science and International Relations (<https://www.valpo.edu/political-science/>). Valparaiso University ("Valpo"), a community of learning grounded in the Lutheran tradition of scholarship, freedom, and faith, prepares students to lead and serve both church and society. Located one hour southeast of Chicago on a 310-acre campus, Valpo is a comprehensive university with an enrollment of over 3,500 undergraduate and graduate students. Valpo is consistently recognized as one of the best private universities in the Midwest and is located in Valparaiso, Indiana, a county seat of 30,000 residents with high quality schools and an active social community.

The successful candidate will teach courses in American Politics, typically with a 21-credit teaching load, plus additional research and campus citizenship activities. The position will begin in fall of 2020. The applicant must be able to teach Introduction to American Government, courses in American Constitutional Law and Judicial Behavior. Preference will be given to candidates that can also teach courses related to the politics of race/ethnicity and/or politics of the environment.

The Department has five full-time faculty and over 100 majors and minors, thus we will give preference to candidates who are able to teach a broad range of courses. The Department is committed to community-based learning and operates The Community Research and Service Center, which involves students in community research projects. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field; A.B.D. candidates who have made substantial progress toward the completion of the degree and expect to have it completed by the Fall of 2020 will be considered. In addition to scholarly ability, the University places major emphasis on teaching; preference will be given to persons with teaching experience and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

As a campus with an increasingly diverse student body, we encourage applications from individuals with a commitment to mentoring students from underrepresented communities. Please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, writing sample, and contact information for three references to Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/72078>. In your cover letter, please include brief statements of (a) how you might contribute to the university's distinctive mission, and (b) what experiences you have had which will enable you to mentor a diverse student body. Candidates who submit names of references should expect that the search committee will contact these references, in confidence, and that credentials will be confirmed prior to hire. Employment will require a satisfactory criminal background check. Applications will be considered until the position is filled; however, applicants are encouraged to apply by January 20, 2020, for timely consideration.

Valparaiso University does not unlawfully discriminate and aims to employ persons of various backgrounds and experiences to develop and support its diverse community. Its entire EOE policy can be found at <http://www.valpo.edu/general-counsel/policies/equal-opportunity-policy/> .

Wesleyan University
Rank: Research Fellows in Computational Social Science

The Wesleyan Media Project (WMP) led by Dr. Erika Franklin Fowler, in collaboration with Wesleyan University’s Quantitative Analysis Center (QAC), is seeking postdoctoral or pre-doctoral researchers in computational social science to join us at the forefront of advancing real-time analyses of political and health-related audiovisual and textual messages using computational methods. WMP leverages large-scale advertising and media messaging datasets applying theory and methods from political science, behavioral and communication science, network science, data science and machine learning. The fellowship positions are for a one-year appointment beginning July 1, 2020 with an option for an additional second year contingent upon performance. Individuals with a PhD, or those working towards a PhD, in computer science, data science, political science, in quantitative social science fields, or a cognate discipline including network science or machine learning are encouraged to apply. Preference for candidates with expertise and experience in topic modeling, AI, statistical natural language processing / text mining and analysis of audiovisual materials (including sound, images and video). The fellow will work closely with Dr. Fowler, WMP’s Project Manager, and QAC faculty and staff on the analysis of textual, visual, and video-based political and health messages from a variety of sources (political/ insurance TV ads, digital/social/online ads, television news, tweets, etc.) and will be involved in collaborative publications on an interdisciplinary program to analyze the volume, content, and effect of media messaging on television and online in electoral and health policy contexts. As a Fellow the successful candidate will engage in original research, test and evaluate alternative algorithms and have the opportunity to present and publish your work. The position will also contribute broadly both to computational analysis in the QAC and in the social sciences at Wesleyan by working with undergraduate students engaged in the lab’s research projects and by offering courses in the Quantitative Analysis Center. The teaching load is one course per year in the first year and one course per semester in the second year. We strongly encourage applications from underrepresented minorities.

Mills College seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to equity, inclusion, and social justice and our desire to maintain the excellence of our faculty. In so doing, we offer our students not only the opportunity to learn about varied disciplines but to engage with diverse perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. For more information, please visit <https://www.mills.edu/>

Job Description:

The Department:

Mills College has a rich history of educating women and gender nonconforming leaders at the local, state, and national levels. The Politics, Economics, Policy and Law major builds on this heritage. This interdisciplinary major is designed around critical thinking, leadership, and transformational change. It provides students with the core methodological and analytic skills of its four disciplines while allowing students to explore issues that transcend disciplinary boundaries. It produces students with diverse analytical, methodological, and practical skills who can become leaders in legal, government, non-profit, or business careers or pursue graduate programs in political science, economics, sociology, public policy, politics, and law. Many of our graduates go on to become community leaders, including lawyers, advocates, city councilmembers, policy directors, legislative staff, elected officials, and nonprofit leaders.

The Position:

The Mills College Department of Public Policy and Political Science seeks applicants for the tenure track position of Assistant Professor to begin in Fall 2020. The new faculty member will support the department's interdisciplinary major, Politics, Economics, Policy, and Law (PEPL), as well as the master's degree in public policy and the political science major. The successful candidate will teach 18 credits per year, including two sections of undergraduate Law and Society, a graduate course in public policy and the law, and a variety of electives related to their area of interest. In addition, they will provide programming and formal academic advising for students in the legal track of the PEPL major, as well as serving as the college's official pre-law advisor.

Requirements:

We prefer candidates with a JD and a doctoral degree in a related field (Political Science, Sociology, Public Policy, etc.). We will also consider candidates with a JD and a relevant master's degree (MPP, MPA, etc.). We further welcome applications from candidates with a PhD in Jurisprudence, Legal Studies, or relevant interdisciplinary field. All candidates must have college-level teaching experience and an active research agenda. To complement the department's existing expertise and meet the college's needs, we are seeking someone whose research focuses on the United States. Topical areas of particular interest include judicial politics, gender and the law, health law, and criminal justice.

We seek candidates with a passion for liberal arts education and social justice, who will support our diverse student body, providing mentorship and academic support and opportunities both inside and outside the classroom. Candidates with an interest in community engaged learning are especially encouraged to apply.

Additional Information:

This is an exempt, full-time position and includes a comprehensive benefits package including medical/dental/vision/life/LTD insurance, 403(b) retirement plan with college match after a qualifying period. Faculty members also receive free admission to campus events, use of the pool, fitness center, and tennis courts. Tuition remission is also available after an introductory period. Voluntary benefits include: pet insurance, long-term care insurance and legal-assistance insurance.

Mills College does not permit discrimination based on pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, race, religious creed, color, national origin or ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. For more information on Mills' non-discrimination policy, please go to <https://www.mills.edu/policies/ada-policies/nondiscrimination-statement.php>.

All positions are subject to a background check. Prior to the first date of employment, an applicant's background check must be cleared.

Ohio State University

Rank: Politics of Race, Gender, and Ethnicity in American Politics

Department: Political Science

Position: Politics of Race, Gender, and Ethnicity in American Politics

Rank: Assistant Professor

Description: The Department of Political Science at the Ohio State University seeks to hire in the Politics of Race, Gender and Politics, or Ethnicity in American politics. We particularly encourage applicants with innovative approaches to studying important democratic questions, including but not limited to the use of novel data, original techniques for causal inference, and/or field or lab experiments, and they should have a high degree of theoretical and methodological sophistication. Candidates must show promise of excellence in research and teaching and potential for attracting external funding.

This position is part of a Faculty Cluster Hiring Initiative by the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University to increase diversity in our professorial ranks, foster an inclusiveness, and promote research and teaching on topics central to racial, ethnic, gender, and sexual orientation.

Qualifications: The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have the degree in hand by August of 2020. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

* a curriculum vitae;

* a scholarly paper written in the past three years;

* a course proposal and draft syllabus;

* contact information for two references;

* a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

Specializations: American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at Amherst College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of race and U.S. politics, with a particular focus on the African-American political experience, beginning July 1, 2020. Amherst College is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff. Within the last decade, Amherst College has profoundly transformed with respect to its student body. Today, nearly one-quarter of Amherst's students are Pell grant recipients; 45 percent of our students identify as domestic students of color; and 10 percent of our students are international students. We expect the successful candidate to excel at teaching and mentoring students who are diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Candidates' scholarship should examine racial politics in the U.S. and can focus on social movements, civil society, elections, civil rights, voter suppression, religion, the racial policies and constituencies of political parties, the relationship between racial and ethnic identity, and racial stratification in urban and local politics.

We seek a colleague with a record that demonstrates high-quality teaching and research, and who is committed to excellence in education at the undergraduate level. Candidates should be comfortable teaching courses both within and outside their specialties and in directing undergraduate research projects. The successful candidate must have a Ph. D. in hand or have fulfilled all requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment.

Candidates should submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/64697> a letter of application, a CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a single-authored writing sample (e.g., article or dissertation/book chapter.) Review of applications will begin on Monday, October 7, 2019, and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by this date will be assured full consideration.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track>.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Ms.

Rank: Full time NTT Track Position - Comparative Politics: Law and Society

The Politics Department at Occidental College invites applications for a one year non-tenure faculty position in Comparative Politics: Law and Society to begin in Fall 2020. The Politics Department is open with regard to candidates' regional expertise. Scholars may approach the study of law and society by analyzing the development and implementation of public policies that shape citizens' rights and wellbeing (comparative public policy) or the evolution of judicial institutions, practices, and behavior (comparative judicial politics or comparative legal studies). This is a full-time position and the faculty member will teach six courses: Introduction to Comparative Politics (POLS 120); Law and Society (POLS 140); three upper division courses in comparative politics on topics of their choosing (200 and 300 level), and one course in the first-year Cultural Studies Program (CSP), also on a topic of the candidates choosing. It is not expected that the faculty member engage in service activities for the Politics Department or Occidental College.

Strong candidates are thoughtful in their pedagogical approaches and possess a record of or potential for teaching and research excellence. Applicants should submit the following materials—as separate files—to rcorona@oxy.edu: (1) a cover letter describing your interest in Occidental (a liberal arts institution with a mission of equity and excellence) and your approaches to teaching and research; (2) a teaching philosophy that includes how you create equitable learning environments, especially for underrepresented students; (3) syllabi or sample syllabi for some of the courses listed above; and (4) a curriculum vitae. Applicants should also submit at least two confidential letters of reference, at least one of which speaks to teaching experience and/or potential, submitted to rcorona@oxy.edu. All application materials are due by Friday, March 13.

About UMass Amherst

UMass Amherst, the Commonwealth's flagship campus, is a nationally ranked public research university offering a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees. The University sits on nearly 1,450-acres in the scenic Pioneer Valley of Western Massachusetts, and offers a rich cultural environment in a bucolic setting close to major urban centers. In addition, the University is part of the Five Colleges (including Amherst College, Hampshire College, Mount Holyoke College, and Smith College), which adds to the intellectual energy of the region.

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a non-tenure track Lecturer position in comparative politics for AY 2020-2021. The position is open with regard to area and substantive focus, but the Department is particularly interested in candidates with area expertise in one or more of the following regions: Middle East/North Africa; East Asia; and South Asia.

The Department is especially interested in comparativists who are broadly trained in a range of social science traditions, and who approach the study of comparative politics critically and reflexively. The department seeks to attract candidates from diverse backgrounds who are comfortable with different methodological and theoretical approaches to the study of comparative politics. We also seek candidates who have experience cultivating inclusive classrooms, and who are mindful of students' diverse backgrounds, aspirations, and abilities.

Candidates are expected to teach a 2-2 load. The candidates should be prepared to offer a variety of courses at the undergraduate level, including a large lecture introduction to comparative politics general education course that must be taught each semester. The instructor is expected to supervise graduate teaching assistants for this course, whose responsibilities include offering discussion sections, grading and providing feedback to students.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to engage in a dynamic intellectual community within the department and at UMass Amherst. The Political Science Department at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst includes about 40 faculty, more than 1,100 undergraduates in two majors (Political Science and Legal Studies) and about 50 graduate students. The Department is dedicated to high-quality research, excellence in teaching, and strong faculty-student interaction.

Requirements:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required by the time of appointment, which will be September 1, 2020.

Additional Information:

The University of Massachusetts is committed to a policy of equal opportunity without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, or genetic information in employment, admission to and participation in academic programs, activities, and services, and the selection of vendors who provide services or products to the University. To fulfill that policy, the University of Massachusetts is further committed to a program of affirmative action to eliminate or mitigate artificial barriers and to increase opportunities for the recruitment and advancement of qualified minorities, women, persons with disabilities, and covered veterans. It is the policy of the University of Massachusetts to comply with the applicable federal and state statutes, rules, and regulations concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action.

Application Instructions:

Applicants should supply a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a teaching portfolio that includes, minimally, evidence of teaching effectiveness as well as syllabi for a 13-week large-lecture 100-level undergraduate Introduction to Comparative Politics course and one other upper level undergraduate course focusing on the candidate's regional and/or substantive interests. Applicants are required to apply online through the UMass Human Resources online application, unless unable to do so because of lack of computer access or disability.

Review of applications begins on March 30, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Rank: IGB Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Other

The Carl R. Woese Institute for Genomic Biology (IGB) at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign solicits applications for a position as an IGB Fellow in its new theme Genomic Security and Privacy (GSP). The position is open to scholars who have completed their PhD within the last several years and who are looking for a stimulating and supportive interdisciplinary environment to carry out independent and collaborative research. IGB Fellows typically spend two or more years conducting research in an IGB theme. The theme leadership works with the Fellow to develop an individual program of research that contributes to the theme.

Recent years have seen the rise of a diverse collection of applications of genomics that have profound implications for individuals, society, and the future of humankind. The GSP theme aims to understand the consequences of these scientific and social developments through a highly interdisciplinary research team. The Fellow would contribute to studies on technology and policy for security and privacy of genomic data. Sample areas of research include: privacy-enhancing technologies for sharing genotype, phenotype, and lifestyle data; ramifications of genetic genealogy for law enforcement; models for diversity, consent, and governance; and potential issues with diverse omics data. Contributions may include seeking out and applying for grants, designing and executing studies, coordinating research with and among GSP faculty, and managing graduate or undergraduate researchers tasked to GSP projects. Moreover, there are diverse drivers of developments in the field of genomics bringing on issues that will shape the development of GSP. We encourage applications from candidates in at least these areas as they relate to GSP: Bioinformatics, Computer Science, Law, Social Sciences, and Economics.

Applicants should submit a CV, a research summary, and the names of three recommenders who can write letters on their behalf. Inquiries and applications should be directed to Nikki Gentry by email at ngentry@illinois.edu or Carl A. Gunter at cgunter@illinois.edu. The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Annual salary is $55,000, plus a $7,500 allowance.

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year appointment in the 2020-2021 academic year as Visiting Assistant Professor in International Relations. Candidates should have experience teaching an introductory international relations course and be prepared to offer upper division courses in their area of specialization. Applicants who can complement our offerings in comparative politics are especially encouraged to apply. Renewal of this position for a second year is possible. The teaching load is six courses, split evenly between the fall and spring semesters.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by July 2020. Application items should include: a cover letter detailing teaching experience and current scholarly interests; two syllabi of classes taught or planned to be taught; a curriculum vitae; at least two letters of recommendation; teaching evaluations accompanied by comparative or statistical context (if available). We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, and sexual orientation. Applications materials and inquiries can be sent to the department chair, Professor Greg McAvoy, gemcavoy@uncg.edu.

UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate population of 45% ethnic minority students. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools and support community-engaged research. UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position. UNCG is located in a metropolitan area of more than 1.6 million in the Piedmont region of North Carolina, between the Atlantic Ocean and the Appalachian mountains. UNCG is an EOE/Affirmative Action/M/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

We seek scholars with strong interest and training in at least one of the following subareas: research methods, public policy, political economy or comparative politics. The successful candidate will have experience in conducting fieldwork and research that is guided by questions of larger theoretical importance.

The position involves a 2-2 course load, advising of undergraduate and graduate theses, and the development of an ambitious research agenda. Working conditions, remuneration, and career prospects will be competitive with respect to regional standards. Successful candidates will be fluent in Spanish and English and will have a concern with social responsibility and the ethical implications of knowledge and action.

The Department of Social Science offers undergraduate and M.A. degrees. Comprised of a group of young scholars with research interests that span across economics, politics, urban studies and sociology, the Department supports an eclectic approach to research, often cutting across traditional academic boundaries.

The Department also hosts the Methods Winter School each July. Montevideo is a small and very livable city, right across Buenos Aires. The Río de la Plata region is one of the two centers of the Southern Cone growing academic network alongside Santiago de Chile.

Prospective candidates should upload a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of undergraduate syllabus, 1 writing sample and three letters of recommendation to the following application webpage: <https://bpm.uca.edu.uy/public/01LPOSD>

Review of applications will begin on April 20th 2020 and will continue until the positions are filled.

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: PostDoc Fellowship - Global Innovation Program

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Defense, Immigration Policy

PERRY WORLD HOUSE POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM ANNOUNCEMENT

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship program during the 2020-2021 academic year. The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's new university-wide hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century.

We hope to bring several postdoctoral fellows to campus for the 2020-2021 academic year. We are seeking excellent scholars who study global affairs and have interest in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants in the following areas:

- The Future of the Global Order: Power, Technology, and Governance
- Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography

The Future of the Global Order
Changes in global economic, military, and technological circumstances are evident in growing concerns around the world about the future of arms control, multilateral economic institutions, technological decoupling, the future of the Islamic State, and more. The post-Cold War global order may be at a tipping point. In addition, systemic trends such as globalization and climate change mean that the challenges of today and tomorrow will be global – and require global responses. The role of automated trading algorithms in the 2010 “Flash Crash” in the United States, combined with the specter of drone warfare around the world and the proliferation of military robotics, highlight how the intersection of technologies such as cyber and robotics presents enormous challenges for global business and diplomatic norms. In a time of change, academic research has the potential to shed significant light on these issues, and highlight new and important approaches for the global policy community.

In this theme area, Perry World House will focus in part, but not exclusively, on four areas: the impacts of emerging technologies for global politics, shifting global power balances and how they influence both state and non-state actors, the evolution of international legal regimes, and the ability of the international community to sustain effective governing institutions in times of change.

Global Shifts

Urbanization, migration, and demographic changes are transforming the human environment, creating both new challenges and opportunities. The UN High Commission for Refugees said in 2015 that the world faces the highest level of human displacement since its founding in 1950. New and changing migration patterns, whether driven by civil wars, instability due to environmental change, economic hardships, or potential opportunities elsewhere, have depth and nuance that have proven hard to predict – or track. At the same time, over 66% of the world's population will live in urban spaces by 2050, raising critical questions about urban vitality and sustainability.

Yet, the diverse causes and consequences of urbanization, migration, and demographic change have not been fully understood, and are too often examined in isolation. The University of Pennsylvania is poised to contribute to pressing policy debates and to help develop new approaches to these global shifts given the University's numerous strengths in urban studies, sociology, demography, law, and politics. The Global Innovation Program at Perry World House will bring together Penn's strengths in these areas through an interconnected examination of urbanization, migration, and demography.

Requirements and Application Information

Postdoctoral fellows in Global Order and Global Shifts research areas will pursue their own research as well as participate in the intellectual life of the Global Innovation Program and Perry World House. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, publish policy relevant scholarship related to Perry World House themes, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. They will also be expected to spend up to 10% of their time contributing to the intellectual environment at Perry World House, including working with Perry World House's Undergraduate Student Fellows, as well as designing and planning engagement in relevant theme areas. Perry World House will also introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D. in the case of applicants focused on international legal regimes) in the last two years (not earlier than 2018), or who expect to complete their degree by June 2020. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 13, 2020. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the PhD degree, all postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/71103>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation.

General Information

The University of Pennsylvania is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to establishing a more diverse community at Penn (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>).

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. ### North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

One Earth Future Foundation

Rank: Research Associate

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Conflict Processes

Research Associate

Organization Summary:

OEF is a nonprofit, nongovernmental organization with a vision of developing effective systems of global governance to achieve a world beyond war, leading to our tagline "Peace Through Governance." Central to OEF's mission is partnering closely with the business community. As an operating foundation, OEF focuses on both researching and developing ideas, and implementing those ideas in practical projects. On the research side, OEF has a mandate to develop expertise in global governance and its relationship to armed conflict, with the goal of contributing both to academic understanding and practical implementations designed to reduce conflict.

Primary Role:

The primary role of the Research Associate will be to work with OEF Research staff at all levels of seniority to collaboratively develop an active empirical research program supporting OEF's core mission and work in the field. The Research Associate will be expected to work in collaboration with OEF core staff or field teams to jointly develop novel research projects of academic standard publishable in policy and popular outputs and respond to requests to provide evidence-based guidance on OEF's work in human rights and conflict, justice and good governance, networks, maritime security, economic development and conflict, or other areas relevant to our mission. The candidate's specific expertise should fit with and be in support of OEF's core mission of developing better systems of coordination that support peaceful conflict resolution and development. Specific expertise of interest to OEF includes the role of non-state actors in conflict resolution, predictors of peace and conflict, multidimensional peacebuilding, and empirical monitoring and evaluation of peacebuilding projects.

Reports To:

Director, OEF Research

Job Type:

Salaried; Exempt; Full-time

Location:

OEF central office in Broomfield, CO

Primary Responsibilities:

Develop a research agenda in collaboration with OEF leadership and program field teams that builds OEF's knowledge base about effective peacebuilding and contributes to evidence around what works. Develop budgets and staffing plans consistent with the overall research agenda and (if experience is consistent with this) hire and manage staff sufficient to execute the research agenda. Present the results of research to policy figures, academics, and other interested audiences in an accessible way that emphasizes practical lessons that can be drawn from the research and publish research in academic and professional outlets as well as OEF publications.

Write materials for popular or non-academic audiences to popularize OEF's arguments.

Work with implementation projects and other departments at OEF to contribute expertise when relevant.

Actively pursue an individual research agenda to advance OEF's goals when not otherwise engaged with projects.

Required Education, Knowledge, Skills and Competences:

This role requires a significant level of international research experience in areas related to peace, business, or governance studies. Specific requirements include

A PhD in Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, or another relevant discipline or equivalent demonstrated research experience.

Demonstrated expertise and a significant body of published quantitative or qualitative research on topics related to OEF's mission.

A track record of publishing in non-academic outlets is a strong plus. Superb organization skills.

Superb oral and written communication skills in English.

A secondary language is a strong plus.

Ability to multi-task and prioritize workload in a fast-paced environment.

Ability to maintain a flexible work schedule.

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Hans J. Morgenthau Fellow

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) invites applications for its inaugural class of Hans J. Morgenthau Fellows. In the spirit of Morgenthau, a deep thinker about international relations and an engaged participant in debates about American foreign policy, NDISC seeks to help the next generation of scholars think more about grand strategy in its larger conceptual and historical context.

Over the course of the fellowship year, fellows will discuss their own research in the context of the burgeoning literature on U.S. grand strategy, become part of the broader network of junior and senior scholars engaged with these topics, and hone their teaching skills. Successful applicants need not have any particular view of the optimal grand strategy – just a willingness to engage in the discussion of the topic seriously and debate the alternatives civilly.

The fellowship will be directed by professors Eugene Gholz and Joseph Parent and involve faculty from Notre Dame and other universities. Fellows will convene three times over the course of their fellowship year. They will begin with a week of intensive seminars reading foundational texts and discussing critical issues in contemporary grand strategy at the University of Notre Dame (early August 2020). Fellows will then participate in a one-week staff ride of the decisive battlefields of the Peloponnesian War and discuss the relevant parts of Thucydides history of the fall of Athens in Sicily led by Notre Dame faculty Susan Collins and Michael Desch (early June 2021). Their fellowship will conclude with a three-day undergraduate teaching workshop on grand strategy in Washington, DC (late July 2021).

The fellowship includes a stipend of $10,000 plus travel expenses and accommodations during fellowship activities. Ideally, Applicants will be ABD doctoral candidates in political science, international relations, global affairs, public policy, history, and allied fields but we will consider applications from exceptional graduate students at other levels. We particularly welcome applications from individuals of backgrounds not widely represented in foreign policy discussions. Applicants should submit a short cover letter explaining their interest in the program, a CV, and a letter of recommendation by March 15, 2020 to <https://apply.interfolio.com/74227>

For more information, please email: cgholz@nd.edu or jparent@nd.edu

Institut Barcelona Estudis Internacionals (IBEI)

Rank: Senior Fellow - American Foreign Policy and International Security

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, American Politics

The Institut Barcelona d'Estudis Internacionals (IBEI) is seeking to appoint a Senior Fellow in American Foreign Policy and International Security. This is a 3-year position, with a possibility of extension, and the successful candidate is expected to start in September/October 2020. The salary range is between 40.000- 48.000 per annum, depending on skills and experience.

IBEI is establishing a program on the foreign policy of the United States and international security, supported by the Barcelona based Institute of North American Studies (IEN). The main objectives of this program are: 1) To contribute to public, academic, and expert discussions on US foreign policy and its global implications, focusing in particular on US foreign policy toward Europe and the MENA region, as well as transatlantic relations; 2) To promote research on US foreign policy and international security, deepening the knowledge of relevant strategic, geo-political and socio-economic aspects of this topic; and 3) To stimulate IBEI involvement in the area of American foreign policy and international security studies through research collaboration with internationally renowned scholars.

Candidates must have a PhD degree, an outstanding publications record in peer-reviewed journals and/ or major scholarly presses, experience in convening research networks, facilitating connections between research, policy and practice, and disseminating core insights from academic research to different target audiences. Excellent interpersonal skills and an ability to contribute to collaborative research projects are also essential for this position. The Senior Fellow is expected to carry out scholarly research, promote policy debates and dissemination activities related to the program, participate in IBEI's academic activities and research clusters, as well as deliver one course per semester in IBEI's Master's degree programmes (taught in English).

Applications must be submitted by April 3, 2020. Applicants should send:

- * A letter of interest.
- * A complete curriculum vitae.
- * A sample of previous research (two papers and/or book synopses).
- * An outline of a proposed program agenda.
- * Three academic references that IBEI could contact in case of being short-listed.

Please send these documents by e-mail to: Carlos Sanchez, Research coordinator at IBEI, csanchez@ibei.org

IBEI is a graduate teaching and research institution created by of all five public universities in Barcelona (Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Universitat de Barcelona, Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya) and CIDOB (Barcelona Centre for International Affairs). IBEI supports research in all fields of international politics, international relations, international security, foreign policy, globalization, development and inequalities. ### University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer in the Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The International Studies Program at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track appointment at the rank of Lecturer in the Middle East and North Africa with a preferred primary area of specialization in global health, governance, civil society, or development, broadly defined beginning August 16, 2020.

The International Studies program is a dynamic interdisciplinary major that prepares students for careers in global affairs, international business, public affairs, and other career choices by providing them with foreign language skills, regional cultural awareness, and informed knowledge of critical international issues in global and local context. We encourage applications from candidates whose experience comes from outside academia, such as international organizations and non-governmental organizations.

The Lecturer will teach approximately three courses per semester and provide substantial service. Of those courses, it is expected that two will be core interdisciplinary courses for the International Studies Program, with the remainder corresponding to the Lecturer's specialization. The Lecturer will be the coordinator for experiential learning opportunities including internships, study abroad, and research in the international studies program. The balance between service and teaching will depend on the needs of the program and will be determined on an annual basis.

The role of lecturers is highly valued by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the University of Florida. To encourage and facilitate the professional development of lecturers, the university provides opportunities for promotion from the ranks of Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Master Lecturer. Lecturer appointments are typically for 9 months per year and are annually renewable. Salary is competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

The International Studies program is committed to fostering an environment that affirms diversity across a variety of dimensions including ethnicity/race, gender identity and expression. We particularly welcome applicants who can contribute to developing such an environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Qualifications *

Candidates must hold at least a Master's degree (a Doctoral degree is preferred for applicants from an academic background) or other professionally appropriate graduate degree by the starting date of August 16, 2020.

Application Instructions *

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/73166> and must include: (1) a letter of interest, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations if available, (4) a one-page diversity statement detailing applicants' experience promoting diversity and inclusion across teaching and service, and, (5) the names and email addresses for three references. After initial review, letters of recommendation will be requested for selected applicants. Review of applications will begin on February 17, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be completed by that date to ensure full consideration.

The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Employer dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. The University of Florida invites all qualified applicants, including minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities to apply. The University of Florida is a public institution and subject to all requirements under Florida Sunshine and Public Record laws.

Questions regarding the position may be directed to Prof. Matthew Jacobs, Director of the Bob Graham Center for Public Service, at mjacobs@ufl.edu.

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs

REPORTS TO: Vice President, Studies

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs is an independent, nonpartisan organization that provides insight on critical global issues, advances policy solutions, and fosters dialogue about what is happening in the world and why it matters to people in Chicago, the United States, and around the globe. As the premier, nonpartisan global affairs organization in America's heartland, we believe an informed, engaged public with access to fact-based and balanced views on global issues helps to ensure effective US engagement and supports a more inclusive, equitable, and secure world.

The Council pursues its mission to promote deeper global understanding and address critical global issues through four centers of excellence: Public Programming and Engagement, Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy, Global Food and Agriculture, and Global Cities.

THE OPPORTUNITY

The Senior Fellow will conduct original analysis and writing on critical issues of US foreign policy and actively engage in discussion and outreach with public audiences in Chicago and the Midwest. To assure that debates and discussions in the region represent the range of important perspectives in the debate over the role of the U.S. in the world, the Council is seeking a senior fellow who favors the concept of "restraint" in American foreign policy, which constitutes a longstanding tradition that emphasizes focusing on America's national interests, favors diplomatic engagement, and seeks to limit the deployment and use of military force to the defense of core U.S. national security interests. This is an extraordinary opportunity for an individual looking to both contribute to the local, regional, and national conversation on US foreign policy and America's role in the world.

The Senior Fellow will manage a research associate, have a budget for regional outreach activities, and work closely with colleagues in the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy.

Specific responsibilities of the Senior Fellow include:

- Research and Analysis. Develop a policy-relevant research agenda on US foreign policy to further the mission of the Lester Crown Center and the Chicago Council on Global Affairs; conduct original research and analysis; publish articles in policy journals and op-eds in major newspapers and magazines; contribute commentary to the broadcast, print, and social media in response to new developments in his or her area of research; contribute to Council research projects and reports, including the public opinion research of the Lester Crown Center; meet with visiting foreign officials and experts; and communicate research to the Council's leadership.
- Chicago and Midwest Outreach. Develop and implement a robust outreach strategy of presentations and engagement with members of the Chicago Council, the interested public, academic institutions, local and regional media, and other constituents locally and in the Midwest. The expectation is a minimum of 25 Chicago and Midwest outreach events per year.

- Support Public and Leadership Programs. Assist in conceptualizing and recruiting speakers for Lester Crown Center speaker events at the Council on US foreign policy topics, including public programs, private roundtables, and the Lester Crown Distinguished Lecture on US Foreign Policy. Moderate programs on topics relevant to expertise.
- Online and Digital Presence. Establish a significant online presence to distribute content, spur discussion and contribute to building the digital identity and brand of the Lester Crown Center locally, regionally and nationally.
- Fundraising. Work closely with the Development team and Council leadership to identify new sources of funding and develop funding requests to support the fellow's projects and long-term position funding, as well as support for the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy and the Council more generally.
- Management. Manage and direct the work of research associate and interns in support of the fellow's work and the Lester Crown Center.

CANDIDATE PROFILE

The Senior Fellow will be a major voice on America's foreign policies with an established record of scholarship and, ideally, practice.

The ideal candidate will have the following qualifications:

- Advanced degree in International Affairs, Political Science, or a related field required; PhD preferred.
- 5-10 years of professional and research experience in US foreign policy.
- A strong record of research and writing about US foreign policy.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills, including the ability to communicate complex concepts and topics clearly, thoroughly, and succinctly to a broad audience.
- Demonstrated success with grant proposals and fundraising preferred.
- Demonstrated success working in highly collaborative, team-based environments, with a commitment to professional development and mentoring.

TO APPLY

Reed College

Applications are invited for a half-time visiting appointment in political science with specializations in one or more of the following fields: international relations or American politics/public policy. Candidates with an ability to teach in multiple fields are particularly encouraged to apply. The appointment begins Fall 2020.

Candidates are expected to teach three sections total across one or two semesters. All our courses are capped at 24 students. Because we are a small department, we are interested in candidates who incorporate multiple methods of analysis and integrate this approach into their teaching of undergraduate seminars and in the advising of student research.

Reed College is a highly selective liberal arts institution with a distinguished record of educational accomplishment and a strong commitment to scholarship (<http://web.reed.edu>). Our pedagogy emphasizes the conceptual and theoretical foundations of the discipline. We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand, or very near completion, by the start of the appointment. Above all, we seek candidates with a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level. Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli\_sci/. Search inquiries may be addressed to political.search@reed.edu.

Reed College is a community that believes cultural diversity is essential to the excellence of our academic program. In your application materials, we welcome a description of how you would engage and sustain the commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity statement (<https://www.reed.edu/diversity/>). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

Please send an application letter, CV, demonstration of teaching excellence, and two letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/73270>. Sample syllabi are welcome but not required. The review of applications will begin on February 14, 2020, and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

DePaul University

Rank: Endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy

DePaul University invites applications for an endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy. Successful candidates will demonstrate a record of academic accomplishment commensurate with the appointment to the rank of Full Professor with tenure. We are seeking an intellectual leader who is well-prepared to advance an innovative, transprofessional approach to the study and practice of diplomacy that is the hallmark of DePaul's Grace School of Applied Diplomacy. The successful candidate will be a dynamic scholar with a notable record of publication, an established history of interdisciplinary approaches to the field, expertise in non-state actor and grassroots diplomatic practices, and a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching.

The Grace School is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and offers both BA and MA programs in Applied Diplomacy. It places a premium on promoting collaboration among practitioners of diplomacy in multiple contexts, and as such, its curriculum is designed to prepare students to practice diplomacy not only as foreign service officers, but also as businesspeople, scientists, NGO representatives, religious leaders, international civil servants, community organizers, artists, educators, and grass roots activists. The faculty of the Grace School represent twenty-two different departments and programs from across the University. The School is privileged to be located in Chicago, a globally-engaged city that is home to a rich array of consuls and international initiatives.

Candidates will find an enriching and innovative climate at DePaul, with institutional support for cross-disciplinary, inter-departmental, and community-engaged collaboration. Faculty draw on resources and cultivate partnerships across DePaul's centers, institutes, departments, schools and programs. Our students benefit from robust study abroad and global learning exchange programs.

DePaul is deeply sensitive to the educational goals of a culturally diverse student population and committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. We seek candidates who will reflect and engage the diversity of the university and its urban community. We strongly encourage applications from people of color, women, and individuals from other historically underrepresented groups.

Review of applications will begin on February 14th. Applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants are requested to provide a cover letter with a personal statement, a CV and a list of references. The start date for this position is September 1, 2020.

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Affairs (DIA) at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure track position in ethnicity, race, and migration at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2020. While we seek a scholar who is trained in the concepts, methods, and approaches used in the study of comparative politics and/or international relations, we are particularly interested in candidates who couple a specialty in ethnicity, race, and migration with teaching and research interests in political violence, underrepresented regions, international law, international and regional organizations, institutions, refugees, or development. Candidates are expected to have a demonstrated ability to produce high quality research, show promise of attracting external funding and teaching effectiveness, and be well trained in research methods, including qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Faculty Job site at: <http://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/136240>. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, original transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 219, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. degree in political science or a related discipline by August 2020. Applications received by February 15, 2020 will be assured full consideration.

Appalachian State University

Rank: International Relations Faculty

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations beginning August 1, 2020. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, comparative foreign policy, or leadership in international relations. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in research methods, European politics, or the European Union. A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations is required at the time of appointment. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester for faculty with an active research agenda.

Appalachian State University, in North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, prepares students to lead purposeful lives as global citizens who understand and engage their responsibilities in creating a sustainable future for all. The transformational Appalachian experience promotes a spirit of inclusion that brings people together in inspiring ways to acquire and create knowledge, to grow holistically, to act with passion and determination, and embrace diversity and difference. As one of 17 campuses in the University of North Carolina system, Appalachian enrolls about 19,500 students, has a low student-to-faculty ratio and offers more than 150 undergraduate and graduate majors.

Applicants must submit an electronic application consisting of a letter outlining teaching and research interests, a current vitae, and three letters of recommendation online at <http://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/24803>. Three letters of recommendation must also be submitted to the following address: psfaculty@appstate.edu. Any additional questions can be directed to the search chair, Dr. Curtis Ryan, at psfaculty@appstate.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2020, and continue until the position is filled. Any offer of employment to a successful candidate will be conditioned upon the University's receipt of a satisfactory criminal background report. Appalachian State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. The University does not discriminate in access to its educational programs and activities, or with respect to hiring or the terms and conditions of employment, on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, gender identity and expression, political affiliation, age, disability, veteran status, genetic information or sexual orientation.

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: PostDoc Fellowship

The Center for the Study of Contemporary China (<http://cscs.sas.upenn.edu/>) at the University of Pennsylvania invites applications to fill two postdoctoral fellowship positions for the 2020-2021 academic year. Applications are welcomed from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last two years, or who expect to complete their degree by June 30, 2020. The term of appointment is July 1, 2020-June 30, 2021.

The CSCC postdoctoral fellowships support research on all aspects of contemporary China that fall within the broad mission of the CSCC -- to advance Penn's leadership in programs, research, and scholarship about the political, legal, economic, and social factors shaping China and its role in the world today. The Center provides an institutional home for campus-wide collaboration among departments, programs, institutes, faculty and students at Penn engaged in work pertaining to contemporary China. Activities include conferences, roundtables, and a speaker series.

Fellows at the CSCC will pursue their own research and participate in the activities of the Center. Because fellows are expected to be fully integrated with the intellectual life of the Center, they must plan to physically reside in the vicinity of the University of Pennsylvania. Each fellow receives a stipend of $50,000, a $2500 research fund, and health insurance.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EO/AA employer and we welcome applications from women and minorities. CSCC will start to accept applications on December 1, 2019 and begin reviewing applications on February 15, 2020. To receive full consideration, your application should be received by February 15, 2020. Applicants will be notified of the outcome by April 1, 2020. To apply, please send a C.V., a research statement, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to cscs-contact@sas.upenn.edu.

Texas A&M University

Rank: Albritton Center for Grand Strategy - Pre- and Post- Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Albritton Center for Grand Strategy at the Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, is inviting applications to its residential fellowship program for the 2020-2021 academic year. The program will support one pre-doctoral and one post-doctoral fellow. The Albritton Center is particularly interested in scholars that are engaging with the fundamental questions surrounding grand strategy: How should the national interest be defined? What are the threats to the national interest? How should the United States use its power in response? Applications are invited from scholars of political science, history, and other relevant disciplines.

Fellows will be expected to be in residence at the Bush School for the duration of their fellowships (September 2020 - August 2021). They will be provided with office space and access to the resources of the Bush School and Texas A&M University.

The pre-doctoral fellow is expected to make substantial progress toward – and ideally complete – a dissertation during the fellowship.

The post-doctoral fellow is expected to complete a manuscript for publication. The post-doctoral fellow is also expected to teach one course to Bush School students. Finally, both fellows are asked to write a short, policy-relevant piece while in residence.

Fellows will participate in Center activities, to include seminars, workshops, and conferences. They will work with an active community of scholars in international affairs, political science, history, and other disciplines at Texas A&M University.

Eligibility:

Applicants for the pre-doctoral fellowship must be pursuing a Ph.D. in political science, history or other relevant discipline. Applicants must pass all qualifying exams and advance to the level of candidacy prior to the start of their appointment.

Applicants for the post-doctoral fellowship must have completed their PhD in political science, history, or other relevant discipline to begin the fellowship. Recent PhD recipients are especially encouraged to apply.

Award information:

The pre-doctoral fellow will receive a stipend of $39,000, as well as $5,000 in research funding. The postdoctoral fellow will receive a salary of $60,000 (payable monthly), as well as $10,000 in research funding. The post-doctoral fellow will also be eligible for the benefits package available to TAMU employees.

Application process:

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, short writing sample (no more than 10,000 words), and a letter of recommendation (preferably by the applicant's dissertation advisor) to bushschoolCGS@tamu.edu.

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by January 17, 2020 receiving priority attention.

Creighton University

Rank: Resident Assistant Professor

Creighton University's Department of Political Science and International Relations invites applications from highly motivated, successful, and collaborative candidates for a Resident Assistant Professor position in the Department of Political Science and International Relations beginning August 2020. The successful candidate will have completed the Ph.D., have teaching experience, and show promise of excellence in both teaching and scholarship. We are interested in candidates broadly trained in international relations theories and approaches. Successful candidates will also have substantial methodological training. The candidate will need to teach introductory and upper division undergraduate courses in the International Relations program. The successful candidate will also be willing and able to mentor undergraduates in substantial empirical research projects, such as the department's senior thesis requirement and contribute to collaborative faculty-student research. The position would begin in August of 2020 and is renewable for an additional academic year.

We encourage applications from qualified individuals representing all backgrounds and faith traditions who can contribute to our distinctive academic traditions. Creighton is a Jesuit/Catholic University, emphasizing formation of character as well as education in the liberal arts. It places a premium on small class size and on serious interaction among faculty and students that contribute to a strong community of learning. Creighton University is an EEO/AA employer, committed to a diverse faculty, staff, and student body. Minority and women candidates are encouraged to apply. Review of applications begins on January 6, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. Salary will be commensurate with experience.

Please submit letter of interest indicating qualifications, statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly agenda, as well as an updated C.V., four letters of recommendation, and evidence of achievement in teaching and scholarship to: Dr. Erika Moreno, Chair, Political Science and International Relations, Creighton University, 2500 California Plaza, Omaha, NE 68178.

Potential candidates are encouraged to review the Faculty Handbook at:

University of Pennsylvania

PERRY WORLD HOUSE POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM ANNOUNCEMENT

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship program during the 2020-2021 academic year. The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's new university-wide hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century.

We hope to bring several postdoctoral fellows to campus for the 2020-2021 academic year. We are seeking excellent scholars who study global affairs and have interest in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants in the following areas:

- The Future of the Global Order: Power, Technology, and Governance
- Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography

The Future of the Global Order

Changes in global economic, military, and technological circumstances are evident in growing concerns around the world about the future of arms control, multilateral economic institutions, technological decoupling, the future of the Islamic State, and more. The post-Cold War global order may be at a tipping point. In addition, systemic trends such as globalization and climate change mean that the challenges of today and tomorrow will be global – and require global responses. The role of automated trading algorithms in the 2010 “Flash Crash” in the United States, combined with the specter of drone warfare around the world due and the proliferation of military robotics, highlight how the intersection of technologies such as cyber and robotics presents enormous challenges for global business and diplomatic norms. In a time of change, academic research has the potential to shed significant light on these issues, and highlight new and important approaches for the global policy community.

In this theme area, Perry World House will focus in part, but not exclusively, on four areas: the impacts of emerging technologies for global politics, shifting global power balances and how they influence both state and non-state actors, the evolution of international legal regimes, and the ability of the international community to sustain effective governing institutions in times of change.

Global Shifts

Urbanization, migration, and demographic changes are transforming the human environment, creating both new challenges and opportunities. The UN High Commission for Refugees said in 2015 that the world faces the highest level of human displacement since its founding in 1950. New and changing migration patterns, whether driven by civil wars, instability due to environmental change, economic hardships, or potential opportunities elsewhere, have depth and nuance that have proven hard to predict – or track. At the same time, over 66% of the world's population will live in urban spaces by 2050, raising critical questions about urban vitality and sustainability.

Yet, the diverse causes and consequences of urbanization, migration, and demographic change have not been fully understood, and are too often examined in isolation. The University of Pennsylvania is poised to contribute to pressing policy debates and to help develop new approaches to these global shifts given the University's numerous strengths in urban studies, sociology, demography, law, and politics. The Global Innovation Program at Perry World House will bring together Penn's strengths in these areas through an interconnected examination of urbanization, migration, and demography.

Requirements and Application Information

Postdoctoral fellows in Global Order and Global Shifts research areas will pursue their own research as well as participate in the intellectual life of the Global Innovation Program and Perry World House. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, publish policy relevant scholarship related to Perry World House themes, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. They will also be expected to spend up to 10% of their time contributing to the intellectual environment at Perry World House, including working with Perry World House's Undergraduate Student Fellows, as well as designing and planning engagement in relevant theme areas. Perry World House will also introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D. in the case of applicants focused on international legal regimes) in the last two years (not earlier than 2018), or who expect to complete their degree by June 2020. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 13, 2020. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the PhD degree, all postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/71103>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation.

General Information

The University of Pennsylvania is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to establishing a more diverse community at Penn (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>).

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

Simon Fraser University

Rank: Simons Chair in International Law and Human Security
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Comparative Politics

The School for International Studies at Simon Fraser University seeks an established scholar for a full-time, tenure track position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor to fill the Simons Chair in International Law and Human Security, a position endowed by The Simons Foundation Canada. The start date could be as early as July 1, 2020.

The successful candidate will have a PhD in a social science discipline, or an SJD in law, and an outstanding record of research and teaching. The chairholder will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and teaching focused on the nexus of international law and human security, broadly defined. The chairholder will create new curriculum, provide intellectual leadership, and foster public understanding through conferences and symposia. The Chair is endowed with a research grant and a reduced teaching load of normally two courses per year. Appointment will be made at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, depending on qualifications.

Simon Fraser University is a leading Canadian public research university (consistently ranked #1 by Maclean's Magazine for best comprehensive university in Canada). The School for International Studies is an interdisciplinary unit with research and teaching programs focused on peace and security; international development; human rights and international law; and governance and civil society. The School is based at SFU's Vancouver campus in the heart of downtown.

This is a senior level position. Only those holding a faculty position at the Associate Professor or Professor rank will be considered. Applications will be treated in confidence and should include: a letter of application, a statement of research and teaching, one representative publication, and a curriculum vitae. Applicants should also provide the names, addresses and phone/e-mail of six academic referees of high standing. Applications will be reviewed beginning January 8, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. The position is subject to the availability of funding.

Materials should be sent in a single pdf file via email to instst@sfu.ca. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Tamir Moustafa, at tmoustafa@sfu.ca.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. SFU is an equity employer and encourages applications from all qualified individuals including women, persons with disabilities, visible minorities, Indigenous Peoples, people of all sexual orientations and gender identities, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of the university.

Under the authority of the University Act personal information that is required by the University for academic appointment competitions will be collected. For further details see: http://www.sfu.ca/vpacademic/Faculty\_Openings/Collection\_Notice.html.

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019. NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2020. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga College of Arts and Sciences invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in American Political Behavior beginning Fall 2020. A multi-year contract is available.

We are seeking an American political behavioralist to teach research methods each fall and spring (a required course for all of the majors in the department at the 3000-level) and with a capacity to offer a range of courses in political behavior (such as media and politics, public opinion, campaigns and elections, and parties and interest groups, and upper-level seminars in their area of expertise). We do not need a methodologist per se, but a colleague who desires to work with undergraduates on the foundations of research design and social science methods. The successful candidate will participate in the life of the department, including supporting senior thesis projects and student engagement outside of the classroom, with civic engagement as a particular focus.

Candidates should provide evidence of prior teaching experience and their capacity to provide instruction through a variety of approaches, including online, and their experience and desire to engage with diverse populations. Review of applications will begin January 27; while preference will be given to applications received by that date, the review will continue until the position is filled.

Further information about the department is available at <https://www.utc.edu/political-science-public-service/index.php>

Qualifications:

Successful candidates will possess the following requirements: Ph.D. in Political Science or closely-related field. We will consider ABDs with scheduled completion dates prior to the start of the position.

- Demonstrated experience in political behavior and research methodology.
- Ability to teach introductory/advanced courses in American Political Behavior and Research Methods.
- Willingness to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction.
- Willingness to engage in assisting the UTC campus in its ability to reach additional goals as specified in UTC's Strategic Plan, including a demonstrable commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Application Procedures:

Applicants should submit the following information within our online application system for consideration:

- Cover letter/letter of interest
- CV, including up-to-date, personal contact information (email, phone, etc.)
- Unofficial transcripts
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness, including teaching philosophy, course evaluations, and sample syllabi
- Statement of research agenda
- Statement of approach to teaching and working with diverse populations

Additionally, candidates will need to include names, titles, and email addresses for three (3) references. Confidential letters of recommendation will be requested from finalists only.

Inquiries may be made to Dr. Jessica Auchter, search committee chair, at Jessica-Auchter@utc.edu.

Review of applicants will begin on January 10

Applications must be submitted electronically through the UTC Faculty Career Site by visiting: https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc\_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=2000000000

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second-largest school in the University of Tennessee System and serves a diverse student body of more than 11,600 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions with a commitment to achieve excellence, embrace diversity and inclusion and offer experiential learning opportunities for students. As an urban university, we also are dedicated to inspiring positive change and enriching our community. Each day, we strive to earn the trust and confidence of those we serve. Our goal is to make a difference in our community and in the lives of our students.

Our definition of student success is a graduate who has the knowledge required to succeed in the workplace and the personal development to show up on time, how to collaborate and work with others and to execute the steps to complete a project. We have held the line on the cost of education with record low tuition increases over the past four years. But we still have $325 million invested in eight ongoing renovations to campus buildings and construction of new facilities.

Chattanooga, the fourth-largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee on the Georgia stateline and only a few miles from the stateline of Alabama. Because of our location, UTC enrolls students from those states as well as Tennessee. The city itself has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront on the Tennessee River. For two straight years, Outside magazine has twice named Chattanooga as the Best Town Ever, the only city to achieve that distinction. Lonely Planet magazine says we are one of the Top 10 U.S. destinations, and Money Inc. calls us one of the nation's most underrated cities.

Chattanooga also is home to the first 10-gig internet network in the United States, the fastest internet service in the Western Hemisphere. The city's ongoing dedication to advancing technology has attracted dozens of startups to join companies already here such as Volkswagen, Amazon, Unum, McKee Foods, U.S. Xpress, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. United. Attractions such as the Tennessee Aquarium, Lookout Mountain, the Creative Discovery Museum for Children, Civil War battlefield sites and the African American Museum in the Bessie Smith Cultural Center bring thousands of people to the area, as do events such as the Southern Writers Conference and the musical festivities of Riverbend, Nightfall and Jazzanooga. People who love the outdoors are coming to Chattanooga in vast numbers for its multitude of offerings such as hang-gliding, kayaking, rock climbing, biking, fishing and caving expeditions. The world-famous Ironman Triathlon and Ironman 70.3 half-marathon have contracted to take place in Chattanooga until at least 2023.

In short, Chattanooga is internationally recognized as a forward-thinking city that's rich in tradition, history and wide-ranging activities. We are an exciting and vibrant place to live and work. Whether you're raising a family or single, Chattanooga has something for you.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow/P3 Lab

Specializations: American Politics, Political Parties & Organizations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The P3 Lab at Johns Hopkins University is seeking two Postdoctoral Research Associates with expertise in multi-method, social science research to work with Professor Hahrie Han on a set of grant-funded studies of the effectiveness of contemporary grassroots organizing efforts in the United States. These studies are designed both to develop and implement measures of power-building in the communities in which these organizing efforts occur, and identify the organizational mechanisms that make this kind of work possible. All of the work will be done in close partnership with field organizations. All candidates must be comfortable working in underserved communities with grassroots organizations, have a commitment to developing data tools that can sharpen the strategic practice of field partners, and have the methodological expertise to both develop and use a range of computational tools for analysis, and also conduct qualitative data collection.

Responsibilities: Each Postdoctoral Research Associate will be primarily responsible for deep, in-depth data collection and analysis with a set of 3-4 field organizations, and be responsible for managing relationships with approximately 4-5 additional organizations. The data collection will involve getting to know the field partners well enough to work with them to co-develop a design for assessing their power-building strategies, and then drawing on a range of tools to implement those strategies. These tools tend to involve network analysis, text as data analyses, surveys, and interviews. The post-docs are also expected to participate in manuscript production for publication in peer-reviewed journals, and presentations at scientific conferences. Publications stemming from the designated research projects will likely be co-authored with collaborators in the P3 Lab. Each Postdoctoral Research Associate is also encouraged to pursue their independent research, and identify fruitful overlap between these projects and their work.

The P3 Postdoctoral Research Associate positions are available to start immediately and go until the summer of 2021 (17 months total).

These positions will be located at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland 21218. Exceptional circumstances preventing relocation will be taken under consideration.

Qualifications

A PhD in a social science discipline with expertise in a wide range of research methods. Applicants must have completed the PhD requirement prior to the start of the position.

Theoretical and empirical familiarity with the field of civic data, movement building, and aspects of computational social science; experience in statistical and spatial data analysis and data visualization; advanced programming in R, STATA, or another statistical package; excellent communication skills. Experience with grassroots organizations is a plus.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit your application at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/73527> and include the following materials: (1) letter of application, (2) a two-to-five page research statement detailing your substantive and methodological research experience, (3) curriculum vitae, and (4) one or two recent samples of published work. In addition, candidates should submit three names of references at the time of the application.

Application review will begin February 1, but the position will remain open to accept additional applications until the position filled.

Merrimack College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Open

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Urban Politics, Environmental Policy

Position Overview: Merrimack College invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor appointment in the Department of Political Science and Public Policy beginning in Fall 2020. Teaching load is three courses per semester. The position will support both the Political Science Department and International Studies Program, with the potential to work with other interdisciplinary programs and our graduate program in Public Affairs. The successful candidate will be expected to teach our quantitative Research Methods course as well as relevant courses in politics and public policy, based on expertise. The candidate will also be expected to develop additional courses to complement existing undergraduate curriculum.

Qualifications: Areas of expertise must include both public policy and quantitative research methodology. Areas of public policy specialization might include, but are not limited to, urban policy, environmental policy, or electoral policy. Expertise in research methods must include ability to teach relevant software, such as SPSS, GIS, Tableau, R, etc. A demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, and service is essential. PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or related field is required at time of appointment.

To Apply: Interested applicants should apply online through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15900>. Application materials should include: letter of interest, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, sample of scholarship, and three letters of recommendation.

Merrimack College seeks to nourish and sustain our five core values of leadership, community, awareness, scholarship, and service. The College is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented groups. All candidates are encouraged to describe in their application previous activities or interest in building a culture committed to diversity and inclusive excellence, as well as how they will engage in fostering a culture that values diversity and inclusive excellence at Merrimack College.

Review of applications will begin on February 18, 2020 and will continue until the position has been filled.

About Merrimack: The only Catholic, Augustinian college in New England, Merrimack College is an independent, coeducational institution with more than 4,200 undergraduates and graduate students from 34 states and 36 countries, and comprises schools of liberal arts, science and engineering, health sciences, education and social policy, and business. ## Duke University

Rank: Pre/Postdoctoral Associate

DevLab@Duke has openings for Pre/Post-Doctoral fellows working on an innovative project that combines machine learning and forecasting with extensive expert-based data collection and coordinated, cross-country field interventions. The project has two aims: first, to understand and forecast democratic breakdowns with an eye toward defending civil society against repression; and second, to detect and forecast authoritarian influence abroad.

Pre/postdoc responsibilities will depend on skills, but they are likely to include scraping data, natural language processing, and building machine learning models to predict regime backsliding as well as collecting, managing and analyzing field data from local experts around the world. Excellent data skills are necessary. Experience with visualization, python and R are desirable.

Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work in one or more of these areas:

- International Development
- Economics
- Political Science
- Statistics
- Computer Science

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Scott de Marchi and Erik Wibbels, as well other members of DevLab in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation and evaluation. DevLab activities will leave considerable time for independent research, and the position offers ample opportunity for developing new research projects in conjunction with DevLab members.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The position comes with competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year, with an option of renewal. For questions/information/submissions, please email david.dow@duke.edu. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15884>.

Universidad Catolica del Uruguay

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Public Policy

The Department of Social Sciences at the Universidad Católica del Uruguay invites applications for 1 Full-Time position in Political Science or Sociology, at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin no later than August 2021. Completion, or near completion of a Ph.D. is required. We seek scholars with strong interest and training in at least one of the following subareas: research methods, public policy, political economy or comparative politics. The successful candidate will have experience in conducting fieldwork and research that is guided by questions of larger theoretical importance.

The position involves a 2-2 course load, advising of undergraduate and graduate theses, and the development of an ambitious research agenda. Working conditions, remuneration, and career prospects will be competitive with respect to regional standards. Successful candidates will be fluent in Spanish and English and will have a concern with social responsibility and the ethical implications of knowledge and action.

The Department of Social Science offers undergraduate and M.A. degrees. Comprised of a group of young scholars with research interests that span across economics, politics, urban studies and sociology, the Department supports an eclectic approach to research, often cutting across traditional academic boundaries.

The Department also hosts the Methods Winter School each July. Montevideo is a small and very livable city, right across Buenos Aires. The Río de la Plata region is one of the two centers of the Southern Cone growing academic network alongside Santiago de Chile.

Prospective candidates should upload a letter of interest, a CV, a sample of undergraduate syllabus, 1 writing sample and three letters of recommendation to the following application webpage: <https://bpm.uca.edu.uy/public/01LPOSD>

Georgetown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow, Massive Data Institute

The Massive Data Institute (MDI) at the McCourt School of Public Policy seeks a postdoctoral Fellow with research interests at the intersection of public policy and big data to help build up--and be a part of--the research efforts here at MDI. Applicants can hold a Ph.D. in any discipline, but must conduct policy-relevant research that involves large data sets.

The Massive Data Institute is an interdisciplinary center focusing on key public policy and analytic issues involving high-dimensional data. It is the expectation that the postdoctoral Fellow will assist in building relationships across disciplines and departments within the University. Further, MDI has budding partnerships with numerous external agencies and the Fellow will be involved in conversations and interactions with potential partners. Some travel (domestic and international) may be required.

The postdoctoral Fellow will help MDI advance faculty research and impact policy. Duties include research development and support and teaching data science workshops.

Research:

Fellows are expected to engage in their own advanced independent research and engage in projects with the research faculty and affiliated faculty at the Massive Data Institute. The Fellow will also look for opportunities to collaborate with faculty and practitioners at Georgetown, and is expected to give at least one seminar presentation based on their work while a Fellow.

Teaching:

Fellows will teach 2 to 3 data-oriented workshops related on a big data topic each semester, i.e. participate in the "MDI Data Workshop Series" and contribute to the intellectual life of the McCourt School and the Massive Data Institute by interacting with students and faculty.

Administrative:

The Postdoctoral Fellow will assist the Director and Research Professors of the Massive Data Institute and help manage and supervise students working in MDI.

New York University

Rank: Lab Manager - Center for Social Media and Politics

We are looking for a full-time lab manager. In this role, you will be embedded in our research teams in order to directly support the lab's cutting-edge output. Currently, we have a portfolio of over 25 projects on a wide range of questions related to social media and politics, each of which has different substantive and methodological motivations. As the lab manager, you will have two main responsibilities. First, you will monitor and coordinate all of the lab's research projects; second, you will provide direct support to a selected portfolio of projects. Given the nature of this position, a graduate-level background in quantitative social science and/or data science research is strongly encouraged, as is experience leading teams in a fast-paced environment.

Each project will require something different from the lab manager, ranging from coordinating with our survey vendors to training undergraduate RAs. We value initiative and adaptability, as well as a passion for the research process. While far from an exhaustive list, your responsibilities will include:

- Instituting systems of regular reporting on work performed, setting goals, tracking progress towards deliverables

- Holding meetings with research teams on each project, and reporting to Faculty Directors and Executive Director on progress

- Ensuring data tasks are regularly updated and best lab practices (e.g. coding and documentation) are followed

- Managing paper writing/revisions, writing IRB paperwork, and coordinating conference/journal submissions

- Training and supervising graduate/undergraduate RAs

The Center for Social Media and Politics (CSMaP) consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty both at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Center has weekly general meetings, bi-weekly post-docs meetings, and many project-specific meetings throughout the week. Centrally located in Manhattan, the lab hosts frequent visitors. You will be given the opportunity to participate in the center's research environment, including attending conferences and seminars and working closely with a broad group of researchers associated with the lab.

The directors of CSMaP are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, and faculty collaborators, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to consider applying for this position. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range health and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

OPEN

University of Pennsylvania - CASI

Rank: PostDoc Fellowship

The Center for the Advanced Study of India at the University of Pennsylvania invites applications to fill a postdoctoral fellowship position for the 2020-2021 academic year. CASI welcomes applications from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last year, or who will complete their degree by June 30, 2020. The term of appointment is July 1, 2020-June 30, 2021 and Ph.D. must be in hand to begin the appointment.

Since its founding in 1992 within the School of Arts & Sciences (SAS), CASI has continued to uphold Penn's global reputation as a leading U.S. institution of research in South Asian studies and scholarship on India. CASI's goals are to engage in policy-relevant research focused on the challenges facing contemporary India; to nurture students' interest in contemporary India through interactions with visiting scholars and opportunities to work and conduct research in India; and to act as a public forum on contemporary India through seminars, workshops, conferences, and publications.

The postdoctoral fellow will primarily pursue their own research while organizing a seminar series and participating in the activities of the Center. The fellow has considerable autonomy in designing the seminar series and inviting speakers. There is no teaching requirement. Given the focus of the Center's work, the fellows' academic research should focus on the political economy of contemporary India.

Because fellows are expected to be fully integrated with the intellectual life of the Center, they must plan to physically reside in the vicinity of the University of Pennsylvania. Each fellow receives a stipend of $58,000, a $2500 research fund, and health insurance. The position may be renewable for up to one additional year conditional on performance and budgetary approval.

Our program values interdisciplinary research, collaboration, and collegiality; is committed to promoting a culturally diverse intellectual community; and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, and under-represented communities.

The University of Pennsylvania is an EO/AA employer and we welcome applications from women and minorities.

The deadline for submission of applications is March 15, 2020.

Applicants will be notified of the outcome by April 1, 2020. Only shortlisted applicants will be contacted. To apply, please send a C.V., a two page cover letter addressed to Dr. Marshall M. Bouton, Acting Director, CASI describing your research agenda and plans for the fellowship year, a writing sample, and two letters of recommendation to apply.interfolio.com/74397

University of the Pacific

Rank: Lecturer in Criminal Justice

Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The University of the Pacific invites applications for a full-time, three-year position as a Lecturer specializing in Criminal Justice. This position will entail teaching and curriculum development responsibilities in two new Criminal Justice concentrations – one in a degree completion program in Organizational Leadership in Benerd College, and the other in the Departments of Sociology and Political Science in the College of the Pacific. The teaching requirements are six courses per year, split between the two programs, with primary service responsibility in Benerd College. A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Sociology, Political Science, or related disciplines is required. Candidates nearing completion of their doctorate will be considered; however, all requirements for conferral of the degree are expected to be met no later than August 17, 2020. The appointment for this position may be renewable.

Both programs in which the lecturer will teach consist of many non-traditional students who are returning to school after a gap in their education and we expect the candidate to have some experience or interest in teaching this population. To offer flexibility to these students, many of whom work full-time, courses in the Organizational Leadership program are offered in a hybrid format, with a significant online component and evening or weekend class meetings. Thus, the candidate should ideally have experience teaching in an online environment, though training for quality online teaching is available. The successful candidate should also provide evidence of their commitment to or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds.

For full consideration, applications must be received by March 15, 2020. Please direct inquires to the Chair of the Department of Sociology: Susan Mannon (smannon@pacific.edu). For more information about Benerd College, visit: <https://www.pacific.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/benerd-college.html>. For more information about College of the Pacific, visit: <https://www.pacific.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/college-of-the-pacific.html>.

University of the Pacific is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer dedicated to workforce diversity. In compliance with applicable law and its own policy, Pacific is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty and staff and does not discriminate in its hiring of faculty and staff, or in the provision of its employment benefits to its faculty and staff on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, age, genetic information, sex/gender, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, medical condition, pregnancy, gender identity, gender expression or mental or physical disability

Applicants will be required to upload the following documents to their online application:

1. Cover Letter that includes a statement of teaching experience and interests
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. One Sample Syllabus (please upload under "Other Document")

Additionally, applicants are required to provide complete contact information (name, email and phone #) for at least three references, who will receive an email request to upload their letters of recommendation via PeopleAdmin.

Centro de Investigacion y Docencia Economicas (CIDE)

Rank: Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science, CIDE (Mexico City)

The Department of Political Science at CIDE invites applications for a tenure-track position at its campus in Mexico City. The position is open to any topic and any subfield. We especially encourage women to apply for the position. While immediate fluency in Spanish is not required, one year after the appointment, the successful applicant is expected to teach classes in Spanish.

CIDE is a social-science research institute, teaching graduate and undergraduate programs to select students in small groups. Our department was recently ranked as the top political science department in Latin America, as measured by publication impact. The position offers a competitive salary with a lower-than-average teaching load. For more details feel free to contact Prof. David Peña Rangel, Prof. Rodrigo Castro Cornejo (politics.jobs@cide.edu), or any faculty member.

Candidates should provide: (1) a short cover letter; (2) a detailed curriculum vitae; (3) a writing sample; and (4) two confidential letters of recommendation. Applications should be sent to Profs. Rodrigo Castro Cornejo and David Peña Rangel, Search Committee Co-chairs, at politics.jobs@cide.edu. Review of applications will begin April 1, 2020. Later applications are not guaranteed full consideration. Employment would begin in August 2020. The successful candidate is required to hold a PhD at most two months after starting employment.

Michigan State University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Post-doctoral Research Associate

Institute for Public Policy and Social Research

The Institute for Public Policy and Social Research seeks a full-time post-doctoral Research Associate to serve a fixed term position (one year renewable for a second year based on funding and performance) to oversee research on the Correlates of State Policy Project (ippsr.msu.edu/public-policy/correlates-state-policy). The Project aims to compile, disseminate, and encourage the use of data relevant to U.S. state policy research, tracking policy differences across and change over time in the 50 states as well as their causes and consequences. We have gathered more than 1,500 variables from various sources and assembled them into one large, useful dataset to serve as a "one-stop-shop" for academics, policy analysts, students, and researchers. The Research Associate will be responsible for the upkeep and expansion of the dataset, encouragement of its wide use, and use of these data to produce peer-reviewed academic research and policy-relevant public reports. Appropriate candidates will demonstrate their familiarity and use of these data and their success in using data for scholarly and public communication. We welcome applicants from political science, sociology, economics, public policy, and related fields. Interested candidates must apply for this position via the Michigan State University Tracking Systems at: <https://careers.msu.edu>. Posting number 634354.

Mercyhurst University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position, with the possibility of conversion to tenure track, beginning fall 2020. A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at a liberal arts university is essential. The position primarily combines courses in judicial politics, constitutional law, and civil liberties. We are especially interested in candidates who can develop a robust pre-law program and attract new majors and minors with these interests. The candidate will serve as advisor to our pre-law society. The ability to teach courses in additional areas, e.g., general American politics courses, gender, or political theory will be viewed favorably. Energy, collegiality, and a commitment to liberal arts education are highly prized attributes. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. or who will complete it before the fall 2020 semester. Screening of applications will begin immediately and the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current vitae, transcripts (initial submissions may be unofficial copies), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching excellence, and a one-page statement summarizing their philosophy of teaching to Jennifer Verga, administrative assistant: jverga@mercyhurst.edu. Mercyhurst is a mid-sized, Catholic, liberal arts, primarily residential university, founded by the Sisters of Mercy, with an enrollment of approximately 2,500 students. Class sizes are small and the normal teaching load is 8 courses per year. For information about the political science program see the departmental website: <http://polisci.mercyhurst.edu>.

Saint Anselm College

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellow

The Department of Politics at Saint Anselm College invites applications for a two-year year term post-doctoral faculty member to begin Fall 2020. The successful candidate will enhance the diversity of the Department's curricular offerings, teaching in one or more areas of specialization not currently included in our Department's areas of expertise, and at least partly focusing on marginalized or underserved groups. Areas of specialty could include the politics of race in America, intersectionality, politics of First Nations and/or indigenous peoples, or regional politics of with a specialization in Middle East, North Africa, or Asia. The ability to teach a course on Research Methods is a plus, but not required.

To apply, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability and research potential (samples of scholarship, articles or conference papers) and academic transcripts to the attention of Dr. Jennifer Lucas, Chair, Politics Department via the college website at www.anselm.edu/hr. Three letters of recommendation are required and should be submitted in PDF format via email to the department faculty assistant, Lorie Cochran at (lcochran@anselm.edu). Full consideration will be given to applications received by December 1, 2019.

The position includes a 2-2 teaching load, with each semester likely including an introductory course (American Government, Comparative Politics, or International Relations) and either a course on Research Methods or an upper-level elective in their area of specialty.

Interest in or experience working with students from underrepresented groups is preferred. In addition, the Department would expect him/her to serve on senior thesis committees, and to engage in conversation with the Politics faculty on methods of maintaining diversity in our curriculum. In addition to faculty development funds available for conferences, competitive funding opportunities for engaging pedagogies and presenting research are available, including grants funded by the New Hampshire Institute of Politics and the Diversity & Inclusion Innovation Fund.

A Ph.D. in political science is required by August 2020. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate level as well as scholarly research. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is preferred.

Successful candidates will be able to assist the college to further its strategic goals for institution-wide diversity and inclusiveness.

Founded in 1889, Saint Anselm College is a Catholic, liberal arts college in the Benedictine tradition. ### Merrimack College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Environmental Sciences & Sustainability

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

The Environmental Sciences and Sustainability (ESS) Program at Merrimack College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the area of environmental politics or policy, with possible expertise in areas such as environmental planning, law, or the non-profit sector. Applicants whose research focuses on either the domestic U.S. or international contexts are welcome. The ESS program is an interdisciplinary program that adopts a holistic approach. Students study environmental problems from the perspectives of the natural sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities with the end of addressing those problems at the local, regional, and global scale. Courses in the ESS program all include experiential learning wherein students develop real-world experience through campus and community-based projects. The successful applicant will be housed in the Political Science and Public Policy Department. They will teach courses in the common core for both the BA and BS degree programs and have the opportunity to develop and teach upper level courses both in the ESS program and their home department.

Merrimack College has a 3/3 course load for tenure-track faculty.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in relevant field
- Teaching experience and commitment to undergraduate education
- Evidence of scholarly activity
- Commitment to interdisciplinary teaching, collaboration, and supporting students is essential.

Merrimack College seeks to nourish and sustain our five core values of leadership, community, awareness, scholarship, and service. The College is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented groups. All candidates are encouraged to describe in their application previous activities or interest in building a culture committed to diversity and inclusive excellence, as well as how they will engage in fostering a culture that values diversity and inclusive excellence at Merrimack College.

To Apply: Interested applicants must apply online, through Academic Jobs Online. Apply here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16008>

Application materials should include only:

- Letter of application that clearly indicates the applicant's specialization area;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Statement of teaching philosophy and accomplishments;
- Writing sample; and
- Three letters of reference

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

About Merrimack College: The only Catholic, Augustinian college in New England, Merrimack College is an independent, coeducational institution with more than 4800 undergraduates and graduate students from 32 states and 37 countries, and comprises schools of liberal arts, science and engineering, health sciences, education and social policy, and business. ## University of Oslo

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Assistant Professor) on Autocratic Politics

Job description:

The Department of Political Science wants to recruit 1-2 excellent social scientists with a background from political science or closely related fields such as Economics or Sociology. The successful applicants will work as a Postdoctoral Fellow (Assistant Professor) on the ERC Consolidator Grant project 'The Emergence, Life, and Demise of Autocratic Regimes' (ELDAR). The appointment(s) is for a fixed, non-tenured term of 4 years with a 20% requirement for teaching and 5% requirement for various project administrative tasks. This means that 75 % of the working time over four years is devoted to research.

ELDAR will investigate three aspects of autocratic politics: 1) the emergence of autocratic regimes; 2) policy-making ("life") in autocracies in the areas of education, infrastructure and industrial policy, social policies, and media regulation; 3) autocratic regime breakdown. In doing so, ELDAR will address the preferences and capacities of vital actors in autocratic politics – the leader, regime support groups, and mobilized opposition groups. Team members will also study the specific, and diverse, institutions that underpin autocracies.

The project is led by Professor Carl Henrik Knutsen and is funded by an ERC Consolidator Grant. It runs from 2020-2025. ELDAR will be part of the Department's internationally leading research group on Comparative Institutions and Regimes (CIR). We encourage applicants to read about ELDAR and the project team in the project proposal.

The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines.

Qualification requirements:

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree in Political Science or a closely related discipline before taking up the post. The Doctoral dissertation must be submitted for evaluation by the closing date. Appointment is dependent on the public defense of the doctoral thesis being approved.

Candidates with a record of high-quality publications, especially in leading peer-reviewed international journals, will be prioritized. However, the length of the applicant's research career (discounted for parental leave, etc.) will be taken into account when considering the number of such publications: The intention is to recruit the person that has the best prospects for contributing to the project's research outputs by publishing research of the highest quality over the coming 4-year period.

The candidate should, in the cover letter (maximum 2 pages), briefly explain how his/her research profile and agenda will contribute to the overall goals of the project, including one or more of the suggested datasets or papers outlined in the ELDAR research proposal (link above). The applicant should further detail additional suggested contributions in the form of one or two research ideas in an accompanying research proposal (maximum 2 pages).

While not necessary, candidates with prior research experience on one or more of the topics covered in ELDAR will be at an advantage. Further, for one of the positions, candidates familiar with formal modelling, game theory, or agent-based modelling will have a clear advantage. For the second position, candidates with quantitative methods skills relevant for the project (see project proposal) will have an advantage.

Other desired qualifications and experiences include experiences with previous systematic data collection efforts, either in individual or collective projects, strong administrative and organizational skills, very good command of English, and programming and statistical software skills. Finally, the applicants' teaching experiences and qualifications may, and personal suitability for the position will, be taken into consideration.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the teaching duty component of 20 %.

We offer:

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 523 200-605 500 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro)

Budget for travel and research assistance

An internationally leading research team

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

Excellent welfare schemes, including possibilities for University kindergarten

Oslo's high-quality of living and rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter (max 2 pages, incl. statement of motivation, summarizing research interests, and how applicant will contribute to ELDAR)

A project description (max 2 pages; if cover letter and project description are merged, the maximum is 4 pages)

A CV (summarizing education, positions, pedagogical experience, administrative experience, and other qualifying activities)

A complete list of publications

Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only).

Up to 3 academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered due to their quality or relevance for the project. The 3 works should include at least one single-authored piece and at least one published journal article.

List of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered via our electronic recruiting system. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

The application deadline is 15 April 2020. The screening and evaluation of the candidates will begin immediately and a short-list will be ready in June. Interviews will be held in early August. The position will be awarded from late August 2020.

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Science (comparative public opinion/political behavior)

Job description:

There is a vacant position at the Department of Political Science for a Postdoctoral Fellow (SKO 1352) in Political Science. The appointment is for a fixed, non-tenured term of 4 years. The appointee will have a 25% teaching requirement. This means that 75% of the working time over 4 years is devoted to research.

We are looking for a fellow with a specialization in comparative public opinion/political behaviour broadly conceived. The fellow is expected to contribute to the research agenda and milieu of the WELTRUST project, "Welfare State Support and Political Trust: Integrating Economic, Cultural, and Policy Explanations". Here, it is foreseen that the fellow contributes to the design and analysis of the various primary survey panel and experimental data collected by the project. Importantly, the fellow is also expected to actively contribute to the collective research environment established by the WELTRUST project.

More about the position:

The appointee will have a 25% teaching requirement. Successful applicants must therefore be prepared to teach Bachelor's and Master's level courses within the Department's course portfolio as well as tutor Master's students.

The Department organizes teaching into five sections: public policy and administration, comparative politics, political theory, international relations, and research methods.

The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines.

Qualification requirements:

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree in Political Science or a closely related discipline before taking up the post. The Doctoral dissertation must be submitted for evaluation by the closing date. Appointment is dependent on the public defense of the doctoral thesis being approved.

Applicants must have excellent written and oral proficiency in English

In assessing the applications, special emphasis will be placed on the candidate's scientific qualifications including publication record as well as the quality and relevance of the research proposal. Emphasis will also be given to the applicants' documented teaching skills and formal qualifications, teamwork skills and personal suitability for the position.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the duty component of 25 %

We offer:

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", NOK 523 200 - 605 500 per year

How to apply:

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter (statement of motivation, summarizing scientific work and research interests)

A research proposal, including progress plan (max. 4 pages)

CV (summarising education, positions, pedagogical experience, administrative experience, and other qualifying activities)

Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only)

A complete list of publications

Upload a copy of (what you consider to be) your best publication to date (one publication only!), preferably a single-authored article published in an international peer-reviewed journal. If a co-authored work is uploaded instead, the applicant's individual contribution must be clarified and confirmed by co-authors.

List of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

Application deadline 15 May 2020.

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

The best qualified candidates will be interviewed.

It is expected that the successful candidate will be able to complete the project in the course of the period of employment.

Rank: PhD Research Fellowship in Political Science (Autocratic Politics)

Job description:

The Department of Political Science wants to recruit an excellent graduate with an MA degree in Political Science or closely related fields such as Economics or Sociology. The successful applicant will work as a PhD Fellow on the ERC project 'The Emergence, Life, and Demise of Autocratic Regimes' (ELDAR). The appointment is for a 4-year period; 75% of the time is allocated to research, 12.5% to project administration (for ELDAR), and 12.5% to teaching.

ELDAR will investigate three aspects of autocratic politics: 1) the emergence of autocratic regimes; 2) policy-making (“life”) in autocracies in the areas of education, infrastructure and industrial policies, social policies and media regulation; and 3) autocratic regime breakdown. In doing so, ELDAR will address the preferences and capacities of vital actors in autocratic politics – the leader, regime support groups, and mobilized opposition groups. Team members will also study the specific, and diverse, institutions that underpin autocratic regimes.

The project is led by Professor Carl Henrik Knutsen and is funded by an ERC Consolidator Grant. It runs from 2020-2025. The project team includes several internationally leading scholars on autocratic politics and political regimes at UiO and collaborating institutions. As a member of ELDAR, the successful applicant will also be part of the Department’s internationally leading research group on Comparative Institutions and Regimes (CIR).

Qualification requirements:

To be appointed to the position, the successful candidate must have completed a Master’s degree (corresponding to 120 ECTS) or an equivalent qualification in Political Science or a related field such as Economics or Sociology. The Master’s degree must include a thesis of at least half a year’s workload (30 ECTS), and training in research methodology. The intention is to recruit the person that has the best prospects for developing into an excellent researcher and for contributing to the project’s research outputs over the coming 4-year period.

In evaluating applications, academic qualifications will be given the most weight. Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of the highest quality.

The quality and promise of the project outline, and how this fits with the larger ELDAR project will also be of importance for evaluating the candidates. Further, given the expected contributions of the successful applicant to the larger project, the following skills and competencies will be given weight: a) administrative and organizational skills, b) collaborative and communication skills, c) command of English, d) strong methodological competency, e) statistical software and programming skills. Personal suitability and motivation for working with the project will also be emphasized. Short-listed applicants will be interviewed.

The candidate should, in the cover letter, explain how his/her research interests fit with those of ELDAR. Applicants must also submit an individual project description of up to 2000 words briefly outlining the research topic, the specific problems to be studied (preferably with clear suggestions of three or more papers/articles resulting from the project), any data collection or what data sources will be used, the use of theory and methods for empirical analysis, and a realistic schedule that details how the project will be completed within the fellowship period. The individual research project must pertain to one or more of the topics studied in ELDAR (see link above), and applicants may expect to further develop their project with inputs from the research team if s/he is hired.

In order to be evaluated, applicants must upload all documents specified below, including an electronic copy of the MA Thesis, with the electronic application.

See also the Regulations on terms of employment for Research Fellowship positions.

We offer:

Salary NOK 479 600-523 200 (approx.. 48 000 – 52 000 Euro) per year, depending on qualifications, in a position as PhD Research fellow (position code 1017)

Budget for travel and research assistance

An internationally leading research team

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

Excellent welfare schemes, including possibilities for University kindergarten

Oslo’s high-quality of living and rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply:

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests (max 1 page)

A project description, including progress plan (max. 2000 words)

A CV (summarising education, positions, and academic work including publications)

A Copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master’s degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master’s thesis.

The application with all required attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/183072/phd-research-fellowship-in-political-science-autocratic-politics>). ## University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer in the Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The International Studies Program at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track appointment at the rank of Lecturer in the Middle East and North Africa with a preferred primary area of specialization in global health, governance, civil society, or development, broadly defined beginning August 16, 2020.

The International Studies program is a dynamic interdisciplinary major that prepares students for careers in global affairs, international business, public affairs, and other career choices by providing them with foreign language skills, regional cultural awareness, and informed knowledge of critical international issues in global and local context. We encourage applications from candidates whose experience comes from outside academia, such as international organizations and non-governmental organizations.

The Lecturer will teach approximately three courses per semester and provide substantial service. Of those courses, it is expected that two will be core interdisciplinary courses for the International Studies Program, with the remainder corresponding to the Lecturer's specialization. The Lecturer will be the coordinator for experiential learning opportunities including internships, study abroad, and research in the international studies program. The balance between service and teaching will depend on the needs of the program and will be determined on an annual basis.

The role of lecturers is highly valued by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the University of Florida. To encourage and facilitate the professional development of lecturers, the university provides opportunities for promotion from the ranks of Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Master Lecturer. Lecturer appointments are typically for 9 months per year and are annually renewable. Salary is competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

The International Studies program is committed to fostering an environment that affirms diversity across a variety of dimensions including ethnicity/race, gender identity and expression. We particularly welcome applicants who can contribute to developing such an environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Qualifications *

Candidates must hold at least a Master's degree (a Doctoral degree is preferred for applicants from an academic background) or other professionally appropriate graduate degree by the starting date of August 16, 2020.

Application Instructions *

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/73166> and must include: (1) a letter of interest, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations if available, (4) a one-page diversity statement detailing applicants' experience promoting diversity and inclusion across teaching and service, and, (5) the names and email addresses for three references. After initial review, letters of recommendation will be requested for selected applicants. Review of applications will begin on February 17, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be completed by that date to ensure full consideration.

The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered &quot;official&quot; if a designation of &quot;Issued to Student&quot; is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Employer dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. The University of Florida invites all qualified applicants, including minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities to apply. The University of Florida is a public institution and subject to all requirements under Florida Sunshine and Public Record laws.

Questions regarding the position may be directed to Prof. Matthew Jacobs, Director of the Bob Graham Center for Public Service, at mjacobs@ufl.edu.

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor - Integrated Security

Integrated Security

Department of Political Science

College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. This position will have a focus on Integrated Security and will begin August 10, 2020. Teaching requirements for this position will be four courses a year (2:2).

This position will support the University's Destination Area Strategic Initiative on Integrated Security. Virginia Tech is seeking faculty specifically interested in engaging with research and curricular initiatives that support innovation and problem solving in areas such as cybersecurity, data analytics, privacy and ethics, network governance, and multiple forms of global (financial, election, human, infrastructure, network, transportation, and social media) security. The Department of Political Science is the anchoring host department for the Integrated Security Destination Area's Pathways minor.

The Department of Political Science seeks broadly trained applicants, technically proficient in transdisciplinary security studies. Applicants are required to have training in the politics of evolving contemporary systems for hybrid cyber-warfare, cyber-conflict, cyber-institutions, and cyber-defense capability, which bridge the fields of Russian, Eurasian, and global politics. Preference will be given to those with prior experience with and/or substantive training in network analysis, game theory, data analytics, statistics, conflict modelling, text analysis, and real-time online conflict simulation experiments as well as expertise in great power strategic competition tied to Russian, Eurasian, and Southwest Asian global conflicts.

For further information on the Integrated Security Destination Area, see https://www.provost.vt.edu/destination\_areas/areas\_of\_focus/da\_is.html; for further information on the Integrated Security Minor, see <https://www.pathways.provost.vt.edu/minors/is.html>.

Applicants should be prepared to offer a variety of courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. There will be occasional travel to attend national conferences and meetings. Candidates from diverse backgrounds are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate will be required to have a criminal background check.

Required qualifications: A Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field required by the time of appointment. Candidates must have evidence of an active research agenda and demonstrations of teaching effectiveness to meet the Department's key teaching needs in its B.A. and M.A. programs.

The Carnegie Foundation classifies Virginia Tech as a university with "very high research activity," and the Department of Political Science also has a strong record of excellence in teaching. Members of the Department work closely with faculty in transdisciplinary programs, including the Integrated Security Destination Area, the Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought (ASPECT), the School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA), Women's and Gender Studies, Africana Studies, and the Department of Science, Technology, and Society.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu, Job No. 512795, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, recent writing samples, and teaching evaluations, along with contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin March 9, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. Yannis Stivachtis, Chair of the Search Committee, ystivach@vt.edu, or Integrated Security Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 531 Major Williams Hall (0130), Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chair. For further information on the department, see www.psci.vt.edu

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, sex (including pregnancy), gender, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status, or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees or applicants, or any other basis protected by law. For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Rank: IGB Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Other

The Carl R. Woese Institute for Genomic Biology (IGB) at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign solicits applications for a position as an IGB Fellow in its new theme Genomic Security and Privacy (GSP). The position is open to scholars who have completed their PhD within the last several years and who are looking for a stimulating and supportive interdisciplinary environment to carry out independent and collaborative research. IGB Fellows typically spend two or more years conducting research in an IGB theme. The theme leadership works with the Fellow to develop an individual program of research that contributes to the theme.

Recent years have seen the rise of a diverse collection of applications of genomics that have profound implications for individuals, society, and the future of humankind. The GSP theme aims to understand the consequences of these scientific and social developments through a highly interdisciplinary research team. The Fellow would contribute to studies on technology and policy for security and privacy of genomic data. Sample areas of research include: privacy-enhancing technologies for sharing genotype, phenotype, and lifestyle data; ramifications of genetic genealogy for law enforcement; models for diversity, consent, and governance; and potential issues with diverse omics data. Contributions may include seeking out and applying for grants, designing and executing studies, coordinating research with and among GSP faculty, and managing graduate or undergraduate researchers tasked to GSP projects. Moreover, there are diverse drivers of developments in the field of genomics bringing on issues that will shape the development of GSP. We encourage applications from candidates in at least these areas as they relate to GSP: Bioinformatics, Computer Science, Law, Social Sciences, and Economics.

Applicants should submit a CV, a research summary, and the names of three recommenders who can write letters on their behalf. Inquiries and applications should be directed to Nikki Gentry by email at ngentry@illinois.edu or Carl A. Gunter at cgunter@illinois.edu. The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Annual salary is $55,000, plus a $7,500 allowance.

Start Date: Summer 2020

Western Carolina University

Rank: Director of African and African American Studies - #212900

WCU seeks a dynamic scholar at either the senior assistant (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenure-track or tenured) level to direct and contribute to the development of its new interdisciplinary minor in African and African American studies beginning in August of 2020. This is a nine-month position. Employment in this position is contingent upon final budgetary approval. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until a successful candidate has been identified.

The director will build the intellectual identity of the program, and will assure an exciting and collegial environment for faculty, students, and staff by fostering interdisciplinary campus, regional, and national collaboration and help shape the curriculum, mission, and community outreach of the program. Proposed by students at WCU as a necessary part of creating a diverse campus community and supported by faculty, this minor is part of an effort to encourage students to develop their analytic, research, and literary skills. The director will have a disciplinary home in one of the following departments: Anthropology and Sociology, English, History, Philosophy and Religion, or Political Science and Public Affairs.

The director's duties will include:

Teaching course(s) for student in the minor and in their discipline that support the minor and other majors on campus and conducting research.

Designing curriculum appropriate for an African and African American studies minor and facilitating the development of relevant courses across campus.

Establishing a program board of supportive faculty, students, and community members to guide the minor.

Developing signature programming associated with the minor that showcases faculty scholarship, student work, and community engagement.

Recruiting and advising students in the minor.

Managing a budget for the program.

Developing and implementing an assessment plan for the minor

Other duties could include:

Developing a growth plan.

Coordinating with cultural programs in partnership with university units and departments.

Bringing in outside scholars or speakers.

The successful applicant will join the appropriate disciplinary department in the College of Arts and Sciences and will develop, in conjunction with the Dean of Arts and Sciences and their home department head, a service load reflective of the interdisciplinary mission of the program. The director will work with a board of interested faculty, students, and community members who will aid in supporting, developing, and promoting programming.

Located in Cullowhee, NC, the campus is about one hour west of Asheville and less than twenty miles from the Eastern Band of the Cherokee Indians. WCU is in the Southern Appalachian Mountains and adjacent to several thriving communities, including nearby Sylva. The area has a mild climate, tremendous recreational opportunities, and natural beauty.

Western Carolina University is committed to a diverse and inclusive workforce by ensuring all our students, faculty, and staff work in an environment of openness and acceptance. We strive to foster a community where people of all backgrounds, identities, and perspectives can feel secure and welcome. We also value the well-being of each of our employees and are dedicated to creating a healthy place to work, learn and live. We believe in transparency and encourage you to visit our "Diversity at WCU" website. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, we strongly encourage veterans, individuals with disabilities, women, and all minorities to consider our employment opportunities.

Two-Year Postdoctoral Teaching Fellowship in Latin American, Latinx, and Caribbean Studies (LALCS)

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Latin American, Latinx, and Caribbean Studies (LALCS) program and the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies (CIS) at the College of the Holy Cross invite applications for a two-year postdoctoral teaching fellowship in Migration Studies to begin August 2020. The search committee seeks fellows whose interdisciplinary research addresses Latin American migrations from one or more of the following perspectives: migration and (im)mobilities, urban and gang-related violence, systemic economic and political factors affecting migratory flows, legal systems, gender and sexuality, labor geographies, or Christian social ethics. Candidates whose research and teaching profiles can also contribute to Latinx or Caribbean topics, as well as other interdisciplinary programs in CIS and in the College will be given particular consideration.

This position carries a 2-1 teaching load. Postdoctoral fellows are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits. To learn more about faculty life at the College & the Worcester area, candidates are encouraged to visit <http://holycross.edu/join>.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. required. For those currently in a doctoral program, Ph.D. must be completed by August 2020. Ph.D. in Ethnic Studies, Theology/Religious Studies (with an emphasis on social ethics), or other related fields from the humanities or social sciences are welcome. Strong preference will be given to those who have received their Ph.D. since 2017.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, a curriculum vitae, a statement on teaching, 2-3 sample syllabi of courses the candidate would like to teach, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation. As a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college, the College values dialog among diverse perspectives as integral to the mission and essential to the excellence of our academic program (see <http://holycross.edu/mission>). In your application, please highlight how your teaching, scholarship, and mentorship might support the College's mission and its commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/72830>.

Review of applications will begin on January 31st, 2020 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will take place in mid-February. We will conduct these preliminary interviews by Skype. Questions about this search may be directed to Juan G. Ramos &lt;jramos@holycross.edu&gt;.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 3,000 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

New York University

Rank: Lab Manager - Center for Social Media and Politics

We are looking for a full-time lab manager. In this role, you will be embedded in our research teams in order to directly support the lab's cutting-edge output. Currently, we have a portfolio of over 25 projects on a wide range of questions related to social media and politics, each of which has different substantive and methodological motivations. As the lab manager, you will have two main responsibilities. First, you will monitor and coordinate all of the lab's research projects; second, you will provide direct support to a selected portfolio of projects. Given the nature of this position, a graduate-level background in quantitative social science and/or data science research is strongly encouraged, as is experience leading teams in a fast-paced environment.

Each project will require something different from the lab manager, ranging from coordinating with our survey vendors to training undergraduate RAs. We value initiative and adaptability, as well as a passion for the research process. While far from an exhaustive list, your responsibilities will include:

- Instituting systems of regular reporting on work performed, setting goals, tracking progress towards deliverables

- Holding meetings with research teams on each project, and reporting to Faculty Directors and Executive Director on progress

- Ensuring data tasks are regularly updated and best lab practices (e.g. coding and documentation) are followed

- Managing paper writing/revisions, writing IRB paperwork, and coordinating conference/journal submissions

- Training and supervising graduate/undergraduate RAs

The Center for Social Media and Politics (CSMaP) consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty both at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Center has weekly general meetings, bi-weekly post-docs meetings, and many project-specific meetings throughout the week. Centrally located in Manhattan, the lab hosts frequent visitors. You will be given the opportunity to participate in the center's research environment, including attending conferences and seminars and working closely with a broad group of researchers associated with the lab.

The directors of CSMaP are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, and faculty collaborators, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to consider applying for this position. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range health and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

To apply, please go to <https://apply.interfolio.com/66754> <https://apply.interfolio.com/66754> &lt;a&gt;

For additional information, feel free to contact any of the faculty directors: Rich Bonneau (rb133@nyu.edu), Jonathan Nagler (jonathan.nagler@nyu.edu), or Joshua Tucker (joshua.tucker@nyu.edu). ## Johns Hopkins University

Rank: SNF Agora Open Rank Faculty - Social Cognition/Political Psychology

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at the rank of Associate or Full Professor (soon-to-be-tenured Assistant Professors with exceptional records of scholarship can also be considered) in any discipline who focus on social cognition or political psychology. We seek scholars from a range of disciplines examining the cognitive and psychological foundations of social and collective behavior, especially as it relates to questions about civic engagement and inclusive discourse across the globe or in the U.S.

This search is part of a broader initiative at Johns Hopkins University to expand expertise in social cognition within the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences and in other departments. Faculty hired to the SNF Agora Institute, however, can sit in any department in the university.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute.

Qualifications

Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The university is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the university's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2019 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2020.

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

Background: Loyola University Chicago (LUC), College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, for academic year 2020-2021. As part of a multi-year hiring initiative to diversify the faculty, the department seeks applicants with expertise in Political Theory. As an urban-based Department of Political Science dedicated to mentoring a diverse student body, many of whom come from under-represented and under-served populations, we especially encourage applications from candidates from under-represented groups. The successful candidate will be joining a department with more than 20 full-time faculty members, over 600 majors and 100 minors, and four graduate programs (BA/MA, MA/JD, MA, and PhD). For more information about the department, please visit its website at <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The Political Theory position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as an occasional graduate course in our graduate program. The candidate will be expected to teach courses in the subfield of Political Theory, including an introductory Political Theory course.

Minimum Qualifications: The candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Candidates for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research, and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Experience working or conducting research, and or teaching in the area of Political Theory is desirable. The candidate should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Candidates should submit (1) a current Curriculum Vitae; (2) a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda; (3) a statement on teaching experience; (4) a statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to mentoring a diverse student body through teaching, research, and other channels and engaging a diverse community through scholarship and service; and (5) a letter of interest to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three recommendations or evaluations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, especially in terms of scholarship and undergraduate teaching and mentorship, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Claudio Katz, Ph.D., Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Review of applications will begin on March 30, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity – including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment – is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a transformative education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformatived.

Why identify

Job description:

The Department of Political Science wants to recruit an excellent graduate with an MA degree in Political Science or closely related fields such as Economics or Sociology. The successful applicant will work as a PhD Fellow on the ERC project 'The Emergence, Life, and Demise of Autocratic Regimes' (ELDAR). The appointment is for a 4-year period; 75% of the time is allocated to research, 12.5% to project administration (for ELDAR), and 12.5% to teaching.

ELDAR will investigate three aspects of autocratic politics: 1) the emergence of autocratic regimes; 2) policy-making ("life") in autocracies in the areas of education, infrastructure and industrial policies, social policies and media regulation; and 3) autocratic regime breakdown. In doing so, ELDAR will address the preferences and capacities of vital actors in autocratic politics – the leader, regime support groups, and mobilized opposition groups. Team members will also study the specific, and diverse, institutions that underpin autocratic regimes.

The project is led by Professor Carl Henrik Knutsen and is funded by an ERC Consolidator Grant. It runs from 2020-2025. The project team includes several internationally leading scholars on autocratic politics and political regimes at UiO and collaborating institutions. As a member of ELDAR, the successful applicant will also be part of the Department's internationally leading research group on Comparative Institutions and Regimes (CIR).

Qualification requirements:

To be appointed to the position, the successful candidate must have completed a Master's degree (corresponding to 120 ECTS) or an equivalent qualification in Political Science or a related field such as Economics or Sociology. The Master's degree must include a thesis of at least half a year's workload (30 ECTS), and training in research methodology. The intention is to recruit the person that has the best prospects for developing into an excellent researcher and for contributing to the project's research outputs over the coming 4-year period.

In evaluating applications, academic qualifications will be given the most weight. Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of the highest quality.

The quality and promise of the project outline, and how this fits with the larger ELDAR project will also be of importance for evaluating the candidates. Further, given the expected contributions of the successful applicant to the larger project, the following skills and competencies will be given weight: a) administrative and organizational skills, b) collaborative and communication skills, c) command of English, d) strong methodological competency, e) statistical software and programming skills. Personal suitability and motivation for working with the project will also be emphasized. Short-listed applicants will be interviewed.

The candidate should, in the cover letter, explain how his/her research interests fit with those of ELDAR. Applicants must also submit an individual project description of up to 2000 words briefly outlining the research topic, the specific problems to be studied (preferably with clear suggestions of three or more papers/articles resulting from the project), any data collection or what data sources will be used, the use of theory and methods for empirical analysis, and a realistic schedule that details how the project will be completed within the fellowship period. The individual research project must pertain to one or more of the topics studied in ELDAR (see link above), and applicants may expect to further develop their project with inputs from the research team if s/he is hired.

In order to be evaluated, applicants must upload all documents specified below, including an electronic copy of the MA Thesis, with the electronic application.

See also the Regulations on terms of employment for Research Fellowship positions.

We offer:

Salary NOK 479 600-523 200 (approx.. 48 000 – 52 000 Euro) per year, depending on qualifications, in a position as PhD Research fellow (position code 1017)

Budget for travel and research assistance

An internationally leading research team

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

Excellent welfare schemes, including possibilities for University kindergarten

Oslo's high-quality of living and rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply:

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests (max 1 page)

A project description, including progress plan (max. 2000 words)

A CV (summarising education, positions, and academic work including publications)

A Copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

The application with all required attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/183072/phd-research-fellowship-in-political-science-autocratic-politics>). Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading and credit system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

The application deadline is 15 April 2020. The evaluation of the candidates will begin immediately and a short-list will be ready in June. Interviews will be held in early August. The position will be awarded from late August 2020.

Why identify

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Science (Comparative politics / Political Methodology)

Job description:

The position is a four-year, non-tenured research position with a 25 % teaching requirement. This means that 75 % of the working time over four years is devoted to research. In Norway, postdoctoral fellowships are fixed-term appointments for up to four years, primarily intended to qualify candidates for a career in academia. As such, it is best suited as a first job after obtaining a PhD.

The position is partly financed by the Research Council of Norway grant StREP – The Strategy of Recorded Voting in the European Parliament, headed by Professor Bjørn Høyland. The project aims to assess the effects of roll call requests on voting behavior, coalition formation and voting outcomes in the European Parliament. Read more about the project here. StREP will be part of the Department's internationally leading research group on Comparative Institutions and Regimes (CIR).

Successful applicant must be prepared to teach Bachelor's and Master's level courses within the Department's course portfolio as well as tutor Master's students.

Qualification requirements and personal skills:

Applicants will be assessed based on scientific merits and personal suitability. Priority is given to candidates with research interest in theoretical, methodological and empirical aspects of legislative politics, in particular politics in the European Parliament. Further, candidates with experience from empirical implications of theoretical models (EITM) and good R-programming skills are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates must have submitted their doctoral dissertations for evaluation by the closing date in order to be considered. A prerequisite for taking up the position is the successful completion of a doctoral degree.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the duty component of 25 %.

We offer:

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 523 200-605 500 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro), depending on qualifications

Budget for travel and research assistance

An internationally leading research team

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

Excellent welfare schemes, including possibilities for University kindergarten

Oslo's high-quality of living and rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply:

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter (max 2 pages, incl. statement of motivation, summarizing research interests, and how the applicant will contribute to StREP)

A research proposal (max 2 pages; if cover letter and research proposal are merged, the maximum is 4 pages)

Curriculum Vitae

A complete list of papers and publications

Up to three research papers

List of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered via our electronic recruiting system (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/183201/postdoctoral-fellow-in-political-science-comparative-politics-political-methodology>). Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

The best qualified candidates will be interviewed and may be invited to give a seminar.

Application deadline: 15 April 2020

Formal regulations:

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Postdoctoral fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one Postdoctoral Fellow period at the University of Oslo.

Bates College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Department of Politics at Bates College invites applications for a tenure-track position focusing on Contemporary Political Theory starting in the fall of 2020. The department is particularly interested in candidates whose research focuses on topics such as power, justice, and inequality, through the lens of race and ethnicity. Candidates who demonstrate success with marginalized and underrepresented students and lived experiences are encouraged to apply. Applicants should show a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching, to scholarly research, and to the implementation of inclusive pedagogies. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in political science completed or nearly complete. We are open to and encourage a variety of methodological approaches and paths to scholarly excellence. Faculty members teach five courses per year (usually two courses per semester and one course during a three-week spring "short term") as well as advise individual senior theses. This position would require introductory and intermediate courses in political theory as well as advanced seminars in that field. The college and the department are committed to enhancing the diversity and inclusivity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to this goal and identify their strengths and experiences in this area are encouraged to apply. Consideration of applications will begin February 15, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

QUALIFICATIONS

ABD will be considered, Ph.D., preferred.

Dartmouth College

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellowship in Political Economy

The Political Economy Project at Dartmouth invites applications for post-doctoral fellowship for recent Ph.D.'s to begin July 1, 2020. The Fellowship extends up to two years.

The Political Economy Project (PEP) is an interdisciplinary initiative combining empirical and normative perspectives---past and present---at the intersection of economics, politics, and ethics. The majority of the fellow's time will be devoted to independent research. The fellow will teach two courses per year, at least one of which will directly engage historical and normative questions related to political economy. The fields of specialty that PEP Fellows might focus on include (but are not limited to) American Political Thought, Critical Race Studies, Economics, Economic History, Philosophy, and Political Theory. The courses will be taught in separate quarters, and will range from introductory to advanced levels. The selected candidate will hold an appointment as a Lecturer in the host Department and as a Postdoctoral Fellow in PEP, and will be in-residence for the Fall, Winter, and Spring quarters. The fellow is expected to attend and actively assist in planning PEP events, and otherwise participate in the intellectual life of PEP and the College. The fellow will also join the broader community of postdoctoral research fellows that includes the Dartmouth Society of Fellows, the John Sloan Dickey Fellows, the Neukom Institute Fellows, the Rockefeller Center Fellows, the Quantitative and Social Sciences Fellows, and the Mellon Postdoctoral Fellows in the Humanities and Humanistic Social Sciences. ## Amherst College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

The Department of Political Science at Amherst College invites applications for a full-time, one-year position at the rank of visiting assistant professor in political theory.

Within the last decade, Amherst College has profoundly transformed its student body in terms of socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, and nationality. Today, nearly one-quarter of Amherst's students are Pell grant recipients; 45 percent of our students identify as domestic students of color; and 10 percent of our students are international students. Our expectation is that the successful candidate will excel at teaching and mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Candidates may focus on the history of political thought or on ancient or modern political theory. The teaching load is two courses per semester. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2020.

We seek a colleague with a record that demonstrates high-quality teaching and research, and who is committed to excellence in education at the undergraduate level. Candidates should be comfortable teaching courses both within and outside their specialty and be able to direct undergraduate research projects. We expect candidates to offer the year-long sequence of courses covering ancient to modern political theory. The successful candidate must have the Ph.D. in hand or have fulfilled all requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment.

Candidates are asked to submit electronically to <https://apply.interfolio.com/72638>, a letter of application, a CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a single-authored writing sample (e.g., article or dissertation/book chapter). Review of applications will begin on February 17, 2020, and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by this date will be assured full consideration.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Stanford University)

Call for applications: Stanford University Civics Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Review of applications begins February 15, 2020.

The Stanford University Political Science Department seeks to appoint at least one postdoctoral fellow for the 2020-2021 academic year as part of the Stanford Civics Initiative. Fellows will teach, conduct their own research, and participate in the intellectual community of the department and the university. We invite applications from recent Ph.D. recipients whose research agendas and teaching experience focus on political philosophy, political economy, and/or the history of political thought.

Stanford Civics Initiative

This new fellowship is part of the Stanford Civics Initiative (SCI) in the Political Science Department of Stanford University. SCI furthers the Department's longstanding commitment to teaching and research on the moral and philosophical foundations of democratic citizenship. SCI's goals are to strengthen, expand, and diversify the community of scholars working on issues of democratic citizenship, the history of political thought and practice, political economy, and political philosophy and to teach a full range of rigorous undergraduate courses on these topics. The postdoctoral fellows will take on integral roles in achieving both goals.

Fellowship responsibilities

This is a combined research and teaching fellowship. Fellows will have one quarter per year free of teaching responsibilities and will teach two or three seminar-style classes over the rest of the year. Fellows are expected to be on campus for the full academic year and take part in the department's intellectual community, for example by participating in the weekly Political Theory workshop and presenting their own in-progress work.

Appointment requirements and application details

The fellowship is initially for one year (September 1, 2020 to August 31, 2021) but is renewable for up to a total of three years, dependent on performance and departmental need. Salary is competitive, and fellows receive full Stanford University benefits, including healthcare, as well as research funds. Applicants must have received their Ph.D. no earlier than September 2017 and no later than the fellowship start date of September 1, 2020. Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Please submit the following via Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15741>

- A cover letter explaining why you are applying for this fellowship.
- A statement of your research interests, experiences, and plans.
- A writing sample of no more than 25 double-spaced pages.
- Two academic letters of reference.
- List of classes that you have taught and/or are prepared to teach.
- C.V.

Princeton University

Rank: Garwood Visiting Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2020 to June 1, 2021. The Garwood Visiting Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Visiting Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries in addition to all benefits.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/12907> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2019 for appointments beginning in September 2020. Awards will be announced in March 2020 or before.

FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT
 PART-TIME (formerly AA-6)

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: AY 2020 - 2021

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

University of the District of Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: African American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor of Political Science

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The University of the District of Columbia's Division of Social & Behavioral Sciences invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track, 9-month faculty appointment in the Political Science Program with a target start date of August 16, 2020. Required specializations for this position include African American Studies and/or the politics of race, and U.S. government. Applicants with a Ph.D. in Political Science will be given full consideration.

The successful candidate will be expected to have an active research agenda and a strong publication record, as well as to offer both lower- and upper-level undergraduate courses relating to race and ethnicity, U.S. politics, and public policy and administration. Other potential areas of focus include, but are not limited to, black political thought, African Diaspora Studies, and intersections between race, class, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality.

Preference will be given to candidates who are able to articulate a vision that involves developing community partnerships, fostering student activism, pursuing social justice, and engaging with students from diverse backgrounds. As a small but dynamic program characterized by a transdisciplinary and critical ethos, we also welcome details about how the candidate's work would complement the strengths of current faculty and help to shape the program's trajectory.

The Bachelor of Arts in Political Science is among the most popular undergraduate degree programs at UDC. A hallmark of the program is its research-based curriculum, which includes a three-course sequence that culminates in a senior capstone project. It also offers an interdisciplinary concentration in Global Studies. Faculty are expected to participate in program, division, college, and university service activities, as well as to advise students and supervise undergraduate internships and research projects.

UDC is a public, comprehensive university with an urban land-grant distinction. It is the city's only public institution of higher education and has historically been a minority-serving institution. It serves approximately 5,600 students across its certificate, two-year, baccalaureate, masters, and professional programs. Beyond the university, the Washington metropolitan community provides an exceptional learning laboratory for faculty, staff, and students.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Letter of interest

Curriculum vitae

Statement of teaching philosophy

Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including selected course syllabi, if available)

Research statement/agenda

Writing sample

Contact information for three references

Three letters of recommendation (required at candidacy phase)

Official transcript of terminal degree (required at candidacy phase)

Troy University

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2020. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2020 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 15, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. To apply, please visit: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com/postings/22822>

Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Visiting Affiliate Assistant Professor or Instructor in Public Law and American Politics

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in teaching, including an appreciation of or engagement in high impact practices, and interest in the enduring questions of politics. Responsibilities for the two-semester position are three undergraduate courses for the Fall 2020 semester and four undergraduate courses for the Spring 2021 semester. Each course is capped at 30 students. In the Fall 2020 semester, this will entail one class of an introductory course on American Politics, a Constitutional Law course on separation of powers, and a Politics of Judicial Process course on the U.S. judiciary. In the Spring 2021 semester, teaching will entail four undergraduate courses (either three or four preparations), comprising a combination of an introductory course on American Politics, Mock Trial (capped at 20 students), a Constitutional Law course on individual liberties, and another public law or upper-level American Politics course decided upon in consultation with the department chair. In addition to holding office hours with students, service requirements will include pre-law advising duties. Such duties comprise meeting with students interested in applying to law school, holding information sessions during the week for current students, attending open houses on four Saturdays throughout the year for prospective and admitted students and their parents, assisting students with LSAT preparation, application writing, and writing reference letters, among other tasks, and moderating the Pre-Law Society. Courses in the Department of Political Science are designated as diversity courses and faculty participate in diversity and inclusion initiatives.

Merrimack College

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

The Environmental Sciences and Sustainability (ESS) Program at Merrimack College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the area of environmental politics or policy, with possible expertise in areas such as environmental planning, law, or the non-profit sector. Applicants whose research focuses on either the domestic

U.S. or international contexts are welcome. The ESS program is an interdisciplinary program that adopts a holistic approach. Students study environmental problems from the perspectives of the natural sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities with the end of addressing those problems at the local, regional, and global scale. Courses in the ESS program all include experiential learning wherein students develop real-world experience through campus and community-based projects. The successful applicant will be housed in the Political Science and Public Policy Department. They will teach courses in the common core for both the BA and BS degree programs and have the opportunity to develop and teach upper level courses both in the ESS program and their home department.

Merrimack College has a 3/3 course load for tenure-track faculty.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in relevant field
- Teaching experience and commitment to undergraduate education
- Evidence of scholarly activity
- Commitment to interdisciplinary teaching, collaboration, and supporting students is essential.

Merrimack College seeks to nourish and sustain our five core values of leadership, community, awareness, scholarship, and service. The College is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented groups. All candidates are encouraged to describe in their application previous activities or interest in building a culture committed to diversity and inclusive excellence, as well as how they will engage in fostering a culture that values diversity and inclusive excellence at Merrimack College.

To Apply: Interested applicants must apply online, through Academic Jobs Online. Apply here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16008>

Application materials should include only:

- Letter of application that clearly indicates the applicant's specialization area;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Statement of teaching philosophy and accomplishments;
- Writing sample; and
- Three letters of reference

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Political Science/Legal Studies Lecturer/Teaching and Research Fellow

To Apply For This Position Click Here:

<https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/504632/political-sciencelegal-studies-lecturer-teaching-and-research-fellow>

Job Description:

The interdisciplinary Legal Studies Program of the Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for a teaching fellowship, expected to start on September 1, 2020. We welcome applications from scholars whose teaching focuses a range of law and society topics, although we have particular curricular needs for courses in crime, law, and society; law and inequality; law and policy; law and regulation; law and security; law, science, and technology; the legal profession; race, gender, and justice; and South or East Asian law and society. We welcome applications from scholars whose teaching focuses on American, comparative, and/or international law and society topics.

The teaching load for this position is 3-2 and includes upper division classes (typically capped at 25 students) of the successful candidate's choosing and in consultation with the Director of Legal Studies. The successful candidate may repeat one or more of these classes from semester to semester, in consultation with the Director of Legal Studies. This is a one-year position, with the expectation of renewal for a second year based on the candidate's performance, to be determined by the end of the fall 2020 semester. The successful candidate will benefit from close mentoring from Legal Studies faculty and an opportunity to engage in the vibrant intellectual life of the Law and Society community at the University of Massachusetts Amherst and the Five Colleges.

Requirements:

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. by the starting date of the appointment.

Additional Information:

Legal Studies at UMass is the oldest undergraduate liberal arts program for the study of law and society in the country, and the only one in New England at a public university. The Program is housed in the Department of Political Science and maintains its own undergraduate major. The expanding Legal Studies Program is a center for ambitious intellectual activity and research that addresses important questions about the place of law in societies around the world while helping to produce the next generation of social science law and society scholars. The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is the institutional home of the Law and Society Association, the world's premier interdisciplinary legal studies organization.

Application Instructions:

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, evidence of quality teaching (such as a teaching statement and summaries of teaching evaluations), and contact information for at least three reference writers who are willing to submit letters upon request through the UMass Careers Website. Applicants are required to apply online, unless unable to do so because of lack of computer access or disability. Inquiries about the position can be addressed to Rebecca Hamlin. Review of applications begins on Monday, March 2, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

University of the Pacific

Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The University of the Pacific invites applications for a full-time, three-year position as a Lecturer specializing in Criminal Justice. This position will entail teaching and curriculum development responsibilities in two new Criminal Justice concentrations – one in a degree completion program in Organizational Leadership in Benerd College, and the other in the Departments of Sociology and Political Science in the College of the Pacific. The teaching requirements are six courses per year, split between the two programs, with primary service responsibility in Benerd College. A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Sociology, Political Science, or related disciplines is required. Candidates nearing completion of their doctorate will be considered; however, all requirements for conferral of the degree are expected to be met no later than August 17, 2020. The appointment for this position may be renewable.

Both programs in which the lecturer will teach consist of many non-traditional students who are returning to school after a gap in their education and we expect the candidate to have some experience or interest in teaching this population. To offer flexibility to these students, many of whom work full-time, courses in the Organizational Leadership program are offered in a hybrid format, with a significant online component and evening or weekend class meetings. Thus, the candidate should ideally have experience teaching in an online environment, though training for quality online teaching is available. The successful candidate should also provide evidence of their commitment to or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds.

For full consideration, applications must be received by March 15, 2020. Please direct inquiries to the Chair of the Department of Sociology: Susan Mannon (smannon@pacific.edu). For more information about Benerd College, visit: <https://www.pacific.edu/academics/>

University of the Pacific is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer dedicated to workforce diversity. In compliance with applicable law and its own policy, Pacific is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty and staff and does not discriminate in its hiring of faculty and staff, or in the provision of its employment benefits to its faculty and staff on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, age, genetic information, sex/gender, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, medical condition, pregnancy, gender identity, gender expression or mental or physical disability.

Applicants will be required to upload the following documents to their online application:

1. Cover Letter that includes a statement of teaching experience and interests
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. One Sample Syllabus (please upload under "Other Document")

Additionally, applicants are required to provide complete contact information (name, email and phone #) for at least three references, who will receive an email request to upload their letters of recommendation via PeopleAdmin.

Mercyhurst University

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position, with the possibility of conversion to tenure track, beginning fall 2020. A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at a liberal arts university is essential. The position primarily combines courses in judicial politics, constitutional law, and civil liberties. We are especially interested in candidates who can develop a robust pre-law program and attract new majors and minors with these interests. The candidate will serve as advisor to our pre-law society. The ability to teach courses in additional areas, e.g., general American politics courses, gender, or political theory will be viewed favorably. Energy, collegiality, and a commitment to liberal arts education are highly prized attributes. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. or who will complete it before the fall 2020 semester. Screening of applications will begin immediately and the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current vitae, transcripts (initial submissions may be unofficial copies), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching excellence, and a one-page statement summarizing their philosophy of teaching to Jennifer Verga, administrative assistant: jverga@mercyhurst.edu. Mercyhurst is a mid-sized, Catholic, liberal arts, primarily residential university, founded by the Sisters of Mercy, with an enrollment of approximately 2,500 students. Class sizes are small and the normal teaching load is 8 courses per year. For information about the political science program see the departmental website: <http://polisci.mercyhurst.edu>.

Mills College

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The Mills College Department of Public Policy and Political Science seeks applicants for the tenure track position of Assistant Professor to begin in Fall 2020. The new faculty member will support the department's interdisciplinary major, Politics, Economics, Policy, and Law (PEPL), as well as the master's degree in public policy and the political science major. The successful candidate will teach 18 credits per year, including two sections of undergraduate Law and Society, a graduate course in public policy and the law, and a variety of electives related to their area of interest. In addition, they will provide programming and formal academic advising for students in the legal track of the PEPL major, as well as serving as the college's official pre-law advisor.

We prefer candidates with a JD and a doctoral degree in a related field (Political Science, Sociology, Public Policy, etc.). We will also consider candidates with a JD and a relevant master's degree (MPP, MPA, etc.). We further welcome applications from candidates with a PhD in Jurisprudence, Legal Studies, or relevant interdisciplinary field. All candidates must have college-level teaching experience and an active research agenda. To complement the department's existing expertise and meet the college's needs, we are seeking someone whose research focuses on the United States. Topical areas of particular interest include judicial politics, gender and the law, health law, and criminal justice.

We seek candidates with a passion for liberal arts education and social justice, who will support our diverse student body, providing mentorship and academic support and opportunities both inside and outside the classroom. Candidates with an interest in community engaged learning are especially encouraged to apply.

Apply at: <https://mills.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=115636>

Mills College has a rich history of educating women and gender nonconforming leaders at the local, state, and national levels. The Politics, Economics, Policy and Law major builds on this heritage. This interdisciplinary major is designed around critical thinking, leadership, and transformational change. It provides students with the core methodological and analytic skills of its four disciplines while allowing students to explore issues that transcend disciplinary boundaries. It produces students with diverse analytical, methodological, and practical skills who can become leaders in legal, government, non-profit, or business careers or pursue graduate programs in political science, economics, sociology, public policy, politics, and law. Many of our graduates go on to become community leaders, including lawyers, advocates, city councilmembers, policy directors, legislative staff, elected officials, and nonprofit leaders.

Located in Oakland, California, in the heart of the San Francisco Bay Area, Mills College is a liberal arts college for women and gender non-binary students, with graduate programs for all genders. Consistently ranked one of the top master's universities and one of the best value colleges in the West by U.S. News & World Report, Mills also has been named one of the Best Colleges in the nation by The Princeton Review. The Mills experience is distinguished by small, interactive classes, one-on-one attention from exceptional faculty, a culture of creative experimentation, and cutting-edge interdisciplinary learning opportunities which empower students to make a statement in their careers and communities. As one of the most diverse liberal arts colleges in the country, we have a strong record of academic success with first-generation students, students of color, Latinx students, LGBTQ students, and other underrepresented students. Mills College has recently become a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants with expertise and experience in supporting and promoting success for Latina/o students are encouraged to apply.

This is an exempt, full-time position and includes a comprehensive benefits package including medical/dental/vision/life/LTD insurance, 403(b) retirement plan with college match after a qualifying period. Faculty members also receive free admission to campus events, use of the pool, fitness center, and tennis courts. Tuition remission is also available after an introductory period. Voluntary benefits include: pet insurance, long-term care insurance and legal-assistance insurance.

PUBLIC POLICY

Merrimack College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Environmental Sciences & Sustainability

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

The Environmental Sciences and Sustainability (ESS) Program at Merrimack College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the area of environmental politics or policy, with possible expertise in areas such as environmental planning, law, or the non-profit sector. Applicants whose research focuses on either the domestic U.S. or international contexts are welcome. The ESS program is an interdisciplinary program that adopts a holistic approach. Students study environmental problems from the perspectives of the natural sciences, the social sciences, and the humanities with the end of addressing those problems at the local, regional, and global scale. Courses in the ESS program all include experiential learning wherein students develop real-world experience through campus and community-based projects. The successful applicant will be housed in the Political Science and Public Policy Department. They will teach courses in the common core for both the BA and BS degree programs and have the opportunity to develop and teach upper level courses both in the ESS program and their home department.

Merrimack College has a 3/3 course load for tenure-track faculty.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in relevant field
- Teaching experience and commitment to undergraduate education
- Evidence of scholarly activity
- Commitment to interdisciplinary teaching, collaboration, and supporting students is essential.

Merrimack College seeks to nourish and sustain our five core values of leadership, community, awareness, scholarship, and service. The College is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented groups. All candidates are encouraged to describe in their application previous activities or interest in building a culture committed to diversity and inclusive excellence, as well as how they will engage in fostering a culture that values diversity and inclusive excellence at Merrimack College.

To Apply: Interested applicants must apply online, through Academic Jobs Online. Apply here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16008>

Application materials should include only:

- Letter of application that clearly indicates the applicant's specialization area;
- Curriculum vitae;
- Statement of teaching philosophy and accomplishments;
- Writing sample; and
- Three letters of reference

Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

About Merrimack College: The only Catholic, Augustinian college in New England, Merrimack College is an independent, coeducational institution with more than 4800 undergraduates and graduate students from 32 states and 37 countries, and comprises schools of liberal arts, science and engineering, health sciences, education and social policy, and business. The college's 220-acre campus is approximately 25 miles north of Boston in North Andover and Andover, Mass. Merrimack is a Master's Colleges & Universities/Medium Programs institution in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. ## University of Florida

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The International Studies Program at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track appointment at the rank of Lecturer in the Middle East and North Africa with a preferred primary area of specialization in global health, governance, civil society, or development, broadly defined beginning August 16, 2020.

The International Studies program is a dynamic interdisciplinary major that prepares students for careers in global affairs, international business, public affairs, and other career choices by providing them with foreign language skills, regional cultural awareness, and informed knowledge of critical international issues in global and local context. We encourage applications from candidates whose experience comes from outside academia, such as international organizations and non-governmental organizations.

The Lecturer will teach approximately three courses per semester and provide substantial service. Of those courses, it is expected that two will be core interdisciplinary courses for the International Studies Program, with the remainder corresponding to the Lecturer's specialization. The Lecturer will be the coordinator for experiential learning opportunities including internships, study abroad, and research in the international studies program. The balance between service and teaching will depend on the needs of the program and will be determined on an annual basis.

The role of lecturers is highly valued by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the University of Florida. To encourage and facilitate the professional development of lecturers, the university provides opportunities for promotion from the ranks of Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Master Lecturer. Lecturer appointments are typically for 9 months per year and are annually renewable. Salary is competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package.

The International Studies program is committed to fostering an environment that affirms diversity across a variety of dimensions including ethnicity/race, gender identity and expression. We particularly welcome applicants who can contribute to developing such an environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Qualifications *

Candidates must hold at least a Master's degree (a Doctoral degree is preferred for applicants from an academic background) or other professionally appropriate graduate degree by the starting date of August 16, 2020.

Application Instructions *

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/73166> and must include: (1) a letter of interest, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations if available, (4) a one-page diversity statement detailing applicants' experience promoting diversity and inclusion across teaching and service, and, (5) the names and email addresses for three references. After initial review, letters of recommendation will be requested for selected applicants. Review of applications will begin on February 17, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be completed by that date to ensure full consideration.

The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Employer dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. The University of Florida invites all qualified applicants, including minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities to apply. The University of Florida is a public institution and subject to all requirements under Florida Sunshine and Public Record laws.

Questions regarding the position may be directed to Prof. Matthew Jacobs, Director of the Bob Graham Center for Public Service, at mjacobs@ufl.edu.

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs

POSITION: Senior Fellow, US Foreign Policy

REPORTS TO: Vice President, Studies

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs is an independent, nonpartisan organization that provides insight on critical global issues, advances policy solutions, and fosters dialogue about what is happening in the world and why it matters to people in Chicago, the United States, and around the globe. As the premier, nonpartisan global affairs organization in America's heartland, we believe an informed, engaged public with access to fact-based and balanced views on global issues helps to ensure effective US engagement and supports a more inclusive, equitable, and secure world.

The Council pursues its mission to promote deeper global understanding and address critical global issues through four centers of excellence: Public Programming and Engagement, Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy, Global Food and Agriculture, and Global Cities.

THE OPPORTUNITY

The Senior Fellow will conduct original analysis and writing on critical issues of US foreign policy and actively engage in discussion and outreach with public audiences in Chicago and the Midwest. To assure that debates and discussions in the region represent the range of important perspectives in the debate over the role of the U.S. in the world, the Council is seeking a senior fellow who favors the concept of "restraint" in American foreign policy, which constitutes a longstanding tradition that emphasizes focusing on America's national interests, favors diplomatic engagement, and seeks to limit the deployment and use of military force to the defense of core U.S. national security interests. This is an extraordinary opportunity for an individual looking to both contribute to the local, regional, and national conversation on US foreign policy and America's role in the world.

The Senior Fellow will manage a research associate, have a budget for regional outreach activities, and work closely with colleagues in the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy.

Specific responsibilities of the Senior Fellow include:

- Research and Analysis. Develop a policy-relevant research agenda on US foreign policy to further the mission of the Lester Crown Center and the Chicago Council on Global Affairs; conduct original research and analysis; publish articles in policy journals and op-eds in major newspapers and magazines; contribute commentary to the broadcast, print, and social media in response to new developments in his or her area of research; contribute to Council research projects and reports, including the public opinion research of the Lester Crown Center; meet with visiting foreign officials and experts; and communicate research to the Council's leadership.
- Chicago and Midwest Outreach. Develop and implement a robust outreach strategy of presentations and engagement with members of the Chicago Council, the interested public, academic institutions, local and regional media, and other constituents locally and in the Midwest. The expectation is a minimum of 25 Chicago and Midwest outreach events per year.

- Support Public and Leadership Programs. Assist in conceptualizing and recruiting speakers for Lester Crown Center speaker events at the Council on US foreign policy topics, including public programs, private roundtables, and the Lester Crown Distinguished Lecture on US Foreign Policy. Moderate programs on topics relevant to expertise.
- Online and Digital Presence. Establish a significant online presence to distribute content, spur discussion and contribute to building the digital identity and brand of the Lester Crown Center locally, regionally and nationally.
- Fundraising. Work closely with the Development team and Council leadership to identify new sources of funding and develop funding requests to support the fellow's projects and long-term position funding, as well as support for the Lester Crown Center on US Foreign Policy and the Council more generally.
- Management. Manage and direct the work of research associate and interns in support of the fellow's work and the Lester Crown Center.

CANDIDATE PROFILE

The Senior Fellow will be a major voice on America's foreign policies with an established record of scholarship and, ideally, practice.

The ideal candidate will have the following qualifications:

- Advanced degree in International Affairs, Political Science, or a related field required; PhD preferred.
- 5-10 years of professional and research experience in US foreign policy.
- A strong record of research and writing about US foreign policy.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills, including the ability to communicate complex concepts and topics clearly, thoroughly, and succinctly to a broad audience.
- Demonstrated success with grant proposals and fundraising preferred.
- Demonstrated success working in highly collaborative, team-based environments, with a commitment to professional development and mentoring.

TO APPLY

Please email a cover letter, writing sample, and résumé as Word or PDF documents to hr@thechicagocouncil.org. Other career opportunities can be found on the Council's website at www.thechicagocouncil.org. EOE

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track position of Visiting Assistant Professor in American politics with a specialization in public policy for the academic year 2020-2021. Applicants with the Ph.D. in hand are preferred, although applications from advanced graduate students are welcome.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching. The teaching load is six courses per year. In addition to the ability to teach introductory courses in public policy, we are particularly interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses that contribute to our existing major concentrations.

The University of the South comprises a nationally-ranked College of the Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. It is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background screening. The University of the South is committed to creating and maintaining a diverse campus environment. We are proud to be an equal opportunity educational institution and welcome all qualified applicants without regard to their race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, age, or veteran status.

Applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample syllabus, any teaching evaluations, and contact information for two references who can speak to teaching potential. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu/postings/4086>. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. Review of applications will begin April 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

PART-TIME (formerly AA-6)

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: AY 2020 - 2021

About the University:

One of the largest universities in the country, California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is an urban, comprehensive university that delivers award-winning undergraduate and graduate programs to nearly 40,000 students annually and counts more than 330,000 alumni who elevate Southern California and beyond. Since its founding in 1958, CSUN has made a significant and long-term economic impact on California, generating nearly $1.9 billion in economic impact and more than 11,700 jobs each year. The LAEDC recognized CSUN as its 2015 Eddy Award winner for its positive economic impact. Serving more students on Pell Grants than any other institution in California, CSUN is also a social elevator and one of the most diverse universities in the country. CSUN ranks 13th in awarding bachelor's degrees to traditionally underserved students and enrolls the largest number of students who are Deaf and hard-of-hearing of any U.S. state university. The journal Nature recently named CSUN a Rising Star for scientific research, and the NSF ranks CSUN in the top five nationally among similar institutions for graduates who go on to earn doctorates in the sciences. CSUN is where individuals rise. And through them, so does Greater Los Angeles and beyond.

CSUN's Commitment to You:

CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. ### Columbia University

Rank: Lecturer in Discipline Comparative Politics, Policy-making and Political Development

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Lecturer in Discipline

Comparative Politics, Policy-making and Political Development

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure-track, renewable position of Lecturer in Discipline in the fields of political development and in comparative politics and policy-making, to begin July 1, 2020.

Candidates must have a demonstrated record of accomplishment in teaching and research or practice related to comparative politics and policy-making and political development. Research interests or practice should be policy-relevant. Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree required.

Applicants should be qualified to teach courses related to comparative politics, policy analysis, policy-making and political development in demanding Master's degree programs in international and public affairs. There is a strong preference for candidates who have demonstrated success in teaching large lecture courses with a writing intensive focus. A major component of the lecturer's instructional responsibilities will include teaching policy analysis and policy memo-writing to Master's students as part of a required course on policy-making in comparative context.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow/P3 Lab

Specializations: American Politics, Political Parties & Organizations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The P3 Lab at Johns Hopkins University is seeking two Postdoctoral Research Associates with expertise in multi-method, social science research to work with Professor Hahrie Han on a set of grant-funded studies of the effectiveness of contemporary grassroots organizing efforts in the United States. These studies are designed both to develop and implement measures of power-building in the communities in which these organizing efforts occur, and identify the organizational mechanisms that make this kind of work possible. All of the work will be done in close partnership with field organizations. All candidates must be comfortable working in underserved communities with grassroots organizations, have a commitment to developing data tools that can sharpen the strategic practice of field partners, and have the methodological expertise to both develop and use a range of computational tools for analysis, and also conduct qualitative data collection.

Responsibilities: Each Postdoctoral Research Associate will be primarily responsible for deep, in-depth data collection and analysis with a set of 3-4 field organizations, and be responsible for managing relationships with approximately 4-5 additional organizations. The data collection will involve getting to know the field partners well enough to work with them to co-develop a design for assessing their power-building strategies, and then drawing on a range of tools to implement those strategies. These tools tend to involve network analysis, text as data analyses, surveys, and interviews. The post-docs are also expected to participate in manuscript production for publication in peer-reviewed journals, and presentations at scientific conferences. Publications stemming from the designated research projects will likely be co-authored with collaborators in the P3 Lab. Each Postdoctoral Research Associate is also encouraged to pursue their independent research, and identify fruitful overlap between these projects and their work.

The P3 Postdoctoral Research Associate positions are available to start immediately and go until the summer of 2021 (17 months total).

These positions will be located at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland 21218. Exceptional circumstances preventing relocation will be taken under consideration.

Qualifications

A PhD in a social science discipline with expertise in a wide range of research methods. Applicants must have completed the PhD requirement prior to the start of the position.

Theoretical and empirical familiarity with the field of civic data, movement building, and aspects of computational social science; experience in statistical and spatial data analysis and data visualization; advanced programming in R, STATA, or another statistical package; excellent communication skills. Experience with grassroots organizations is a plus.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit your application at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/73527> and include the following materials: (1) letter of application, (2) a two-to-five page research statement detailing your substantive and methodological research experience, (3) curriculum vitae, and (4) one or two recent samples of published work. In addition, candidates should submit three names of references at the time of the application.

Application review will begin February 1, but the position will remain open to accept additional applications until the position filled.

Merrimack College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science and Public Policy

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Urban Politics, Environmental Policy

Position Overview: Merrimack College invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor appointment in the Department of Political Science and Public Policy beginning in Fall 2020. Teaching load is three courses per semester. The position will support both the Political Science Department and International Studies Program, with the potential to work with other interdisciplinary programs and our graduate program in Public Affairs. The successful candidate will be expected to teach our quantitative Research Methods course as well as relevant courses in politics and public policy, based on expertise. The candidate will also be expected to develop additional courses to complement existing undergraduate curriculum.

Qualifications: Areas of expertise must include both public policy and quantitative research methodology. Areas of public policy specialization might include, but are not limited to, urban policy, environmental policy, or electoral policy. Expertise in research methods must include ability to teach relevant software, such as SPSS, GIS, Tableau, R, etc. A demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching, research, and service is essential. PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or related field is required at time of appointment.

To Apply: Interested applicants should apply online through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/15900>. Application materials should include: letter of interest, C.V., evidence of teaching effectiveness, sample of scholarship, and three letters of recommendation.

Merrimack College seeks to nourish and sustain our five core values of leadership, community, awareness, scholarship, and service. The College is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented groups. All candidates are encouraged to describe in their application previous activities or interest in building a culture committed to diversity and inclusive excellence, as well as how they will engage in fostering a culture that values diversity and inclusive excellence at Merrimack College.

Review of applications will begin on February 18, 2020 and will continue until the position has been filled.

About Merrimack: The only Catholic, Augustinian college in New England, Merrimack College is an independent, coeducational institution with more than 4,200 undergraduates and graduate students from 34 states and 36 countries, and comprises schools of liberal arts, science and engineering, health sciences, education and social policy, and business. The college's 220-acre campus is approximately 25 miles north of Boston in North Andover and Andover, Mass. Merrimack is a Master's Colleges & Universities/Medium Programs institution in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. Merrimack recently placed 21st in the nation for "Colleges That Add the Most Value" in Money's special Best Colleges report and was ranked as one of the top 10 colleges in the northern United States for the fourth year in a row — and the only regional college judged "up and coming" by higher education leadership in the northern United States, according to U.S. News.

This position is subject to the successful completion of a criminal background check.

Reed College

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Half-Time)

Applications are invited for a half-time visiting appointment in political science with specializations in one or more of the following fields: international relations or American politics/public policy. Candidates with an ability to teach in multiple fields are particularly encouraged to apply. The appointment begins Fall 2020.

Candidates are expected to teach three sections total across one or two semesters. All our courses are capped at 24 students. Because we are a small department, we are interested in candidates who incorporate multiple methods of analysis and integrate this approach into their teaching of undergraduate seminars and in the advising of student research.

Reed College is a highly selective liberal arts institution with a distinguished record of educational accomplishment and a strong commitment to scholarship (<http://web.reed.edu>). Our pedagogy emphasizes the conceptual and theoretical foundations of the discipline. We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand, or very near completion, by the start of the appointment. Above all, we seek candidates with a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level. Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli\_sci/. Search inquiries may be addressed to political.search@reed.edu.

Reed College is a community that believes cultural diversity is essential to the excellence of our academic program. In your application materials, we welcome a description of how you would engage and sustain the commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity statement (<https://www.reed.edu/diversity/>). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

Please send an application letter, CV, demonstration of teaching excellence, and two letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/73270>. Sample syllabi are welcome but not required. The review of applications will begin on February 14, 2020, and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Georgetown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow, Massive Data Institute

The Massive Data Institute (MDI) at the McCourt School of Public Policy seeks a postdoctoral Fellow with research interests at the intersection of public policy and big data to help build up--and be a part of--the research efforts here at MDI. Applicants can hold a Ph.D in any discipline, but must conduct policy-relevant research that involves large data sets.

The Massive Data Institute is an interdisciplinary center focusing on key public policy and analytic issues involving high-dimensional data. It is the expectation that the postdoctoral Fellow will assist in building relationships across disciplines and departments within the University. Further, MDI has budding partnerships with numerous external agencies and the Fellow will be involved in conversations and interactions with potential partners. Some travel (domestic and international) may be required.

The postdoctoral Fellow will help MDI advance faculty research and impact policy. Duties include research development and support and teaching data science workshops.

Research:

Fellows are expected to engage in their own advanced independent research and engage in projects with the research faculty and affiliated faculty at the Massive Data Institute. The Fellow will also look for opportunities to collaborate with faculty and practitioners at Georgetown, and is expected to give at least one seminar presentation based on their work while a Fellow.

Teaching:

Fellows will teach 2 to 3 data-oriented workshops related on a big data topic each semester, i.e. participate in the “MDI Data Workshop Series” and contribute to the intellectual life of the McCourt School and the Massive Data Institute by interacting with students and faculty.

Administrative:

The Postdoctoral Fellow will assist the Director and Research Professors of the Massive Data Institute and help manage and supervise students working in MDI.

Texas A&M University

Rank: Albritton Center for Grand Strategy - Pre- and Post- Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Albritton Center for Grand Strategy at the Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, is inviting applications to its residential fellowship program for the 2020-2021 academic year. The program will support one pre-doctoral and one post-doctoral fellow. The Albritton Center is particularly interested in scholars that are engaging with the fundamental questions surrounding grand strategy: How should the national interest be defined? What are the threats to the national interest? How should the United States use its power in response? Applications are invited from scholars of political science, history, and other relevant disciplines.

Fellows will be expected to be in residence at the Bush School for the duration of their fellowships (September 2020 - August 2021). They will be provided with office space and access to the resources of the Bush School and Texas A&M University.

The pre-doctoral fellow is expected to make substantial progress toward – and ideally complete – a dissertation during the fellowship. The post-doctoral fellow is expected to complete a manuscript for publication. The post-doctoral fellow is also expected to teach one course to Bush School students. Finally, both fellows are asked to write a short, policy-relevant piece while in residence.

Fellows will participate in Center activities, to include seminars, workshops, and conferences. They will work with an active community of scholars in international affairs, political science, history, and other disciplines at Texas A&M University.

Eligibility:

Applicants for the pre-doctoral fellowship must be pursuing a Ph.D. in political science, history or other relevant discipline. Applicants must pass all qualifying exams and advance to the level of candidacy prior to the start of their appointment.

Applicants for the post-doctoral fellowship must have completed their PhD in political science, history, or other relevant discipline to begin the fellowship. Recent PhD recipients are especially encouraged to apply.

Award information:

The pre-doctoral fellow will receive a stipend of $39,000, as well as $5,000 in research funding. The postdoctoral fellow will receive a salary of $60,000 (payable monthly), as well as $10,000 in research funding. The post-doctoral fellow will also be eligible for the benefits package available to TAMU employees.

Application process:

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, short writing sample (no more than 10,000 words), and a letter of recommendation (preferably by the applicant’s dissertation advisor) to bushschoolCGS@tamu.edu.

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by January 17, 2020 receiving priority attention.

North Dakota State University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

North Dakota State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track position in political economy, to begin on August 16, 2020.

The department of Criminal Justice & Political Science at NDSU is recruiting for a 9-month tenure-track position, at the rank of assistant professor—or, for especially qualified applicants, associate professor—starting Fall 2020. We seek candidates with expertise in any area of political economy, although especially invite applications from candidates who focus on the political economy of development. For candidates with a regional specialization, we are especially interested in scholars studying areas other than Europe and North America. Successful applicants should be versed in comparative or international political economy and have a strong commitment to policy-relevant research and teaching. This is a 50% research, 40% teaching, 10% service position. The teaching load is, at most, 2-2, with at least one course release in the first three years. While the tenure home will be in the Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science, this position will be affiliated with the NDSU College of Business' Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth. The successful candidate will be expected to conduct research, teaching, and outreach that contributes to the Institute's mission. In turn, the Institute may also provide opportunities for graduate student assistance, course buyouts, and summer research support. Successful applicants will be prepared to teach core undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, upper-division classes on political economy, political institutions, and global policy issues, and will have opportunities to contribute to existing and emerging programs in public policy, political and economic institutions, and global studies. The department has minimal service expectations for pre-tenure faculty.

Minimum Qualifications

The minimum qualifications for the position are: 1) a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or a related discipline, conferred no later than August, 2020, 2) evidence of research productivity, or potential to publish scholarship in peer reviewed journals, presses, and other outlets appropriate to one's field, 3) experience teaching political economy, institutions, and/or global policy courses at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels, 4) potential to contribute to the Challey Institute's mission, and 5) effective written and oral communication skills.

Preferred Qualifications

We will give priority to candidates who 1) can provide substantial evidence of research productivity and quality, 2) can provide substantial evidence of teaching effectiveness, 3) have experience pursuing and/or obtaining external funding, 4) have a research focus on the political economy of development, 5) conduct teaching and research that can contribute to NDSU's commitment to diversity and inclusion, 6) have experience working in, or developing, a global studies program, 7) have experience contributing to, or developing, a master's program in public policy, and/or 8) have a regional focus outside Europe and North America.

Application

Applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, course materials, evidence of participation in teaching professionalization activities, and, if available, evaluations by peers and/or mentors; please do not include student evaluations of teaching), and names and contact information for 3 references (we will contact references for roughly 10 short-listed applicants). All application materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.ndsu.edu/postings/10886>. Initial screening of applications will begin on or about November 21, 2019.

NDSU especially encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

The Department

The Department of Criminal Justice & Political Science has 12 tenure-track faculty members and serves roughly 100 undergraduate majors in political science, and 200 undergraduate and 20 graduate students in criminal justice. Faculty in the department teach four classes per year. The NDSU community and national organizations have regularly recognized department faculty for excellence in research, teaching, and mentorship. The college provides faculty with computing resources and tenure-track faculty within the department receive a yearly research and professionalization budget that covers travel to 1-2 conferences, and which faculty routinely supplement with College and University travel grants.

The Challey Institute

The Sheila and Robert Challey Institute for Global Innovation & Growth is an interdisciplinary institute that aims to advance understanding in the areas of innovation, trade, and institutions to identify policies and solutions that enhance economic growth and opportunity. The Challey Institute works toward achieving its mission by engaging in research, student programming, and outreach in the areas of (1) international trade, investment, and immigration, (2) innovation and entrepreneurship, and (3) institutions and policy.

The University

North Dakota State University is a comprehensive, student-focused, land-grant, research university with more than 14,000 students from 47 states and 79 countries. NDSU was the first university in North Dakota to be named to the most research-intensive category by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education and is listed in the National Science Foundation's top 100 in several areas, including agricultural sciences, social sciences, physical sciences, chemistry, psychology, and computer sciences.

NDSU values faculty members' work-life balance and the needs of dual-career couples. The College of Arts, Humanities, & Social Sciences' guidelines on family-related reassignment of duties are available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/ahss/family2010.pdf> and University policy on extension of the probationary period for personal or family reasons is available at <https://www.ndsu.edu/fileadmin/policy/352.pdf>. NDSU is an ADVANCE institution and has a Focus on Resources for Women's Advancement, Recruitment/Retention, and Development (FORWARD) program, that, as part of its efforts, has developed procedures and funding streams for dual career hiring at NDSU: <https://www.ndsu.edu/forward/>. Applicants can find more information about NDSU at <http://www.ndsu.edu>.

The Community

NDSU is located in Fargo-Moorhead (F-M), a pleasant, safe, diversifying, and growing community of approximately 245,000 people. As the largest population center in the region, F-M is a hub of entertainment, finance, information technology, and medical services for a large geographic area including the state of North Dakota, and western Minnesota. Two universities (NDSU and Minnesota State University Moorhead) and one private liberal arts college (Concordia College) are located in F-M. The F-M area has a healthy economy: ND has one of the lowest unemployment rates in the U.S., good public schools, low crime rates, ample shopping, local theatre and music companies, several art galleries, semi-professional baseball and hockey, and Division I intercollegiate athletics. Hector International Airport in Fargo is convenient and is served by several major airlines. Sun, clear skies, and clean air predominate year-round. Visiting nearby northern Minnesota lakes, canoeing, camping, cycling, softball, and soccer are popular in summer; winter pastimes include cross-country skiing, skating, and snowmobiling. The city has an excellent park system that includes several quality golf courses and bicycle/running/ski paths along the Red River, which divides Fargo-Moorhead. Fargo is an hour drive from a major resort area in the Minnesota "lakes country" and two hours from scenic Itasca State Park, where you will find the headwaters of the Mississippi river. Central and western North Dakota offer beautiful hiking, camping, fishing, hunting, and related opportunities in the Badlands, national grasslands, and numerous river valleys. Winnipeg, Manitoba is less than a four-hour drive to the north and Minneapolis-St. Paul is an equal distance to the south-east.
