

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

November 2020 | Volume 9, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4

American Government and Politics 6

Comparative Politics 33

International Relations 56

Methodology 90

Non-Academic 97

Open 100

Other 115

Political Theory 136

Public Administration 146

Public Law 154

Public Policy 157

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

November 2020 | Volume 9, Issue 11

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (3 listings)

American Government and Politics 6 (49 listings)

Comparative Politics 33 (47 listings)

International Relations 56 (59 listings)

Methodology 90 (15 listings)

Non-Academic 97 (3 listings)

Open 100 (29 listings)

Other 115 (35 listings)

Political Theory 136 (18 listings)

Public Administration 146 (9 listings)

Public Law 154 (6 listings)

Public Policy 157 (39 listings)

Total listings this issue 312

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for November

ADMINISTRATION

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

Specializations: Leadership Studies, International Security, Research Methods

Job Announcement: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, PA

The U.S. Army War College seeks a civilian or military Chair for the Department of National Security and Strategy within the School of Strategic Landpower. The Department is comprised of a rich mix of military and civilian educators, senior military strategists, and inter-agency partners. The School educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. Student and faculty research routinely provides policy relevant scholarship and advances professional expertise in landpower and other aspects of national security. The mission of the USAWC is to enhance national and global security by developing ideas and educating U.S. and international leaders to serve and lead at the strategic-enterprise level.

The Department Chair should be a leader who can translate vision into innovative and highly effective educational programs while building strong working relationships with students, faculty, staff, and administration. Important attributes for this position are the ability to identify talent, manage the operations of an academic department responsible for graduate level education, provide skillful leadership to a diverse group of faculty, and oversee a wide range of academic programs. The successful candidate must have a record of program innovation, experience in building high-functioning teams, and possess exceptional leadership skills.

Date of availability is 1 April, however latest start date is 15 June 2021. For civilians this is a term employment appointment of up to three years, the first year of which may be probationary. Salary range is $125,720 to $147,312 per year.

Duties: Lead the Department of National Security and Strategy consisting of 14 senior military officers, 13 Title 10 civilians, 5 US Government agency representatives, 1 Visiting Professor, and 4 administrative staff members. Develop and supervise the execution of a graduate-level core curricula focusing on theories of war and strategy and US national security policy and strategy in a Joint, Interagency, Intergovernmental and Multinational environment; the Regional Studies Program; the National Security Policy Program; and the Eisenhower Series College Program. Supervise the design and implementation of the Washington, DC, national security staff ride, and the National Security Seminar--both annual events. Oversee and direct a relevant, highly valued electives program including the Advanced Regional Studies Program. Promote department interests in support of USAWC educational objectives. Recruit and develop a talented and diverse faculty and staff. Develop and manage an annual budget. Actively participate in college-wide administrative requirements as determined by USAWC leadership.

Conditions of Employment

Appointment may be subject to a suitability or fitness determination, as determined by a completed background investigation.

Must have or be able to obtain and maintain a Top Secret security clearance.

Must comply with the Drug Test Program requirements (pre-employment and randomly after appointment).

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs):

Applicants will be rated based on the criteria listed below by a panel of subject matter experts appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Strong leadership skills, especially proven leadership in academic organizations.
2. Graduate degree in political science, international security studies, government, history, economics, regional studies, law or other fields related to national security. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with an earned doctorate.
3. Demonstrated expertise and experience in national security affairs and military strategy. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with superb academic credentials and high-level practitioner experience.
4. Active involvement in relevant professional organizations.
5. A record of superlative teaching national security and strategy courses at the graduate (or senior service college) level, including: designing and executing curricula, supervising graduate-level research and success in obtaining research grants.
6. Strong written and verbal communication skills, as demonstrated by publication of books and articles, conference presentations, lectures, interpersonal relations, etc.

How to apply:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below.

Applications must be received no later than 2359hrs on 6 November 2020.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

Your application should include the following:

1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are required with your application submission. You must provide official college transcripts upon request.
6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).
7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

This position may be filled by either a civilian or a military officer in the grade of Colonel/Captain (O-6). Officers from all Services will be considered. Reserve component officers may be considered if there is no funding requirement.

For details on a civilian appointment please refer to the official job announcement found at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/579475300>. Who May Apply: U.S. Citizens

Email applications for a civilian appointment to usarmy.carlisle.awc.mbx.g1-civilian-personel-division@mail.mil.

Email applications for a military appointment to Dr. David Dworak at david.d.dworak.civ@mail.mil.

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8186

American University

Rank: Executive Director, Antiracist Research and Policy Center

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Open

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Summary/Objective

The Antiracist Research and Policy Center (ARPC) at American University (AU) invites applications and nominations for a full-time Executive Director. The successful candidate will join a vibrant and collegial community of scholars, professionals, authors, advocates, activists, organizers, and creators at the University. The Executive Director will continue building a new vision for the Center, and help cohere and amplify the work of other scholars on AU's campus, while advancing their own scholarly agenda related to antiracist, research, praxis, and/or policy. Research should include an active antiracist agenda, including the study of racial inequalities and racial disparities. The director must be committed to working collaboratively with the Center faculty, fellows, and other partners on campus and in the Washington, D.C. region. Qualified candidates may be eligible for a tenured appointment in an appropriate academic unit with teaching obligations subject to negotiation. The appointment begins July 1, 2021.

About American University

American University (AU) is a highly selective student-centered research private institution within Washington, DC and is defined by its global outlook, practical idealism, and passion for public engagement. AU's nationally and internationally acclaimed faculty are renowned for their commitment to excellence in scholarship and teaching and for sponsoring programs that draw upon the extraordinary cultural, scientific, public affairs, legal, business, international, and communication resources in the greater metropolitan area of Washington, DC. Our student body is cosmopolitan and globally diverse, with over 12,000 undergraduate and graduate students represented by all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and over 150 countries. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. Learn more about the Center at <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/> and the university's strategic plan here: <https://www.american.edu/about/strategic-plan/>.

Qualifications

Our ideal candidate will be an emerging or established thought leader in the field(s) of race, racism, racial inequality, colonialism, and related fields, as well as a thought leader in antiracism and related frameworks with a track record and established trajectory of high-impact scholarly, professional, and/or creative work that focuses on antiracism and equity. A focus on the specific experiences of historically marginalized racial groups in the U.S., particularly Black, Indigenous, and Latinx groups, and/or a comparative focus on racial oppression and liberatory movements within and beyond the U.S. is welcome, as are interdisciplinary approaches. Our ideal candidate will shape the Center's strategic vision and goals while contributing to fundraising efforts for research, outreach, and events. In these and other activities, the Executive Director will be supported by a full-time Managing Director and the university's Development Office. ARPC's Executive Director should have a significant record related to antiracism which they will continue to pursue while leading the Center, while also working collaboratively with the AU faculty, students and staff to help define and deepen innovative, pathbreaking, and intersectional approaches to antiracism-related research and praxis, policy analysis and advocacy, and creative projects on and beyond AU's campus. To browse the eight thematic areas in which faculty affiliates conduct antiracism work across academic disciplines, please see: <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/faculty-affiliates.cfm>.

Application Instructions

Salary and benefits are competitive (for an overview of AU's benefits for full-time faculty and staff, visit: <https://www.american.edu/hr/benefits/>). Please include a cover letter with your application which addresses: 1) the candidate's leadership style, 2) the candidate's understanding of and approach to antiracist research, praxis, and policy and 3) how the candidate's style and approach will complement and grow the existing focal areas and activities of the Center. In addition to the cover letter, all applications must include a curriculum vitae with an appended list of three references and copies of three recent publications or equivalent antiracist projects. Letters of recommendation will be requested at a later stage. Reviews of applications will begin October 30.

To apply, visit: <https://careers.american.edu/Staff/job/Washington-Executive-Director%2C-Anti-Racist-Research-and-Policy-Center-DC-20016/676834100/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8146

Anderson University

Rank: Executive Director

The Center for Security Studies and Cyber Defense (CSSCD) was established through a $1 million dollar Lilly Endowment Grant to support both the mission of Anderson University's Security Studies Program and the surrounding community.

The CSSCD supports the mission of Anderson University's Security Studies Program to develop a pipeline of graduates with excellent technical skills, strong Christian ethics, and a desire to serve on the front lines in defending the nation, our communities, and institutions from threats, foreign and domestic, in both the physical and cyber realms. The program consists of interdisciplinary majors in Cybersecurity and National Security designed to help our students develop an understanding of security policy (national, homeland, and cyber), technical skills through experiential learning, and a set of professional ethics from a Christian-faith perspective.

The CSSCD supports the surrounding community by providing a number of low-cost or no-cost security services to local and regional constituents. These services include: 1) Cybersecurity assessment services, network traffic monitoring through a Security Operations Center (SOC), and digital or physical penetration testing. 2) Table-top exercises for testing organizational responses to security threats such as ransomware attacks, data breaches, or catastrophic events. 3) Training and certification for the local workforce through workshops and seminars taught by security studies faculty, CSSCD staff, and field experts. 4) Conferences and publications to keep our constituents informed about current security threats and the tools and practices designed to address them.

As a Christian, liberal arts institution, the mission of AU is to educate for a life of faith and service in the church and society. The CSSCD challenges our students and staff to use their expertise in ethical and constructive ways, while equipping students with the knowledge and skills that can be used to preserve and promote security in every sector of American society. Students will utilize their critical thinking skills to discover solutions to complex problems through creative and ethical innovation and apply their technical skills through the various services offered by the center.

The Executive Director of the Center for Security Studies and Cyber Defense will coordinate the Center's activities, utilizing his or her professional network to engage partner organizations, potential clients, and both governmental and industry leaders in order to contribute to the success and dynamic growth of the CSSCD as well as the cybersecurity and national security majors at Anderson University.

Duties and responsibilities

- Provide leadership towards accomplishing the mission of the center, working with a team composed of an Assistant Director, Executive Assistant, the teaching faculty of the security studies program, and students in the national security and cybersecurity majors.
- Establish and develop a broadly diverse CSSCD Advisory Board to support the center's mission.
- Promote the security studies program at AU, raising awareness of the cybersecurity and national security majors and thereby contribute to an increased enrollment in these programs.
- Develop connections with corporate, governmental, civic and social service organizations to generate business for the CSSCD and provide educational, internship, and networking opportunities for students.
- Oversee the CSSCD budget, coordinating expenses and income sources, meeting the necessary income goals to support the Center prior to the end of the grant period.
- Report to the Provost through the established academic structure.

Qualifications

Successful candidate will be a recognized leader in the fields of cybersecurity or national security who demonstrates a professional and personal commitment to the vision, mission, and values of Anderson University. The candidate will demonstrate support for Christian liberal arts education and the specific ability to integrate faith and the disciplines of cybersecurity and national security in a distinctive way. Preference will be given to candidates who possess publications in the field of cybersecurity or national security.

This position is full-time and eligible for full-time benefits.

Qualifications include:

- An entrepreneurial mindset to enthusiastically promote the Center's growth.

- Significant experience in the cybersecurity or national security fields, and a vision for the future in these areas.
- Superior communication skills.
- Ability to manage multiple projects simultaneously.
- Experience managing a team.
- Ability to develop new and leverage existing networks to advance the mission and funding of the Center.
- Willingness to travel, attend national conferences, and meet with potential partners and clients, primarily within the Midwest region.
- Bachelor's degree required. Master's degree preferred.

Direct reports include an Assistant Director and an Executive Assistant

Qualified and interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, resume and employment application to staffjobs@anderson.edu. Persons with an application on file or current university employees should send an email to staffjobs@anderson.edu to express interest in this position.

Anderson University is on a mission to educate students for lives of faith and service, offering more than 60 undergraduate majors, 30 three-year degrees, 20 NCAA Division III intercollegiate sports, alongside adult and graduate programs. The private, liberal arts institution is fully accredited and recognized among top colleges for its business, computer science, cybersecurity, national security, dance, engineering, nursing, and teacher education programs. Anderson University was established in 1917 in Anderson, Indiana, by the Church of God.

AU is an equal opportunity employer. Persons who bring diversity are encouraged to apply. Anderson University complies with federal and state requirements for non-discrimination in employment with regard to sex, age, race, color, disability, and national and ethnic origin.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8078

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor whose research and teaching focuses on Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests are related to intersectionalities of race/ethnicity, gender, social class, and representation, voter attitudes, and political behavior. Other areas of research can include protest, social movements, inequality, immigration, notions of citizenship, structural racism or identity in the U.S. We welcome applicants from any theoretical and methodological tradition.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MA/PhD), including the department's Introduction to American Politics course. The normal teaching load is 2/2. This position is part of a College of Liberal Arts-wide cluster of searches designed to increase research and teaching in critical areas related to diversity, equity and inclusion, and support interdisciplinary approaches and collaborations. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Research interests related to intersectionalities of race/ethnicity, gender, social class, and representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, protest, social movements, inequality, structural racism, or identity in the United States.

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political science, public policy, and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, including the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College of Liberal Arts emphasizes inquiry, discovery, diversity, and openness to new ideas and perspectives. It supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. The College offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life. The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university also has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment. The University of Nevada, Reno and the College strongly value diversity, equity and inclusion.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of more than 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com.

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair – Jeremy Gelman jgelman@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator – Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator – Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Race--Ethnicity--and-Politics-in-the-US_R0122870

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8233

APSA

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association <https://www.apsanet.org/cfp> Congressional Fellowship Program & is currently accepting <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homeonline> applications & for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on Congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2021. Office placements run until August 13, 2022. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to support up to two months of a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2021.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields with a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process.

Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homesubmitted> online and include:

- CV;
- 750-word personal statement;
- three letters of recommendation
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2021-2022 fellowship year by Wednesday, December 16, 2020. Please send questions about the program to cfp@apsanet.org.

Start Date: November 2021

Salary: $54,000 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8224

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in American political institutions for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department, and across other units at Vanderbilt University. We are especially interested in receiving applications from scholars of American political development and/or public policy, to help facilitate bridges between the Department of the Political Science and the Department of History, and/or the Public Policy Studies Program at Vanderbilt, respectively. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies.

Qualifications

The appointment will begin Fall 2021. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as November 9, 2020. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by November 23, 2020, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 15, 2021.

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/80426>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8227

Cengage Learning

Rank: WFH Opportunities with Cengage Learning

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Latino Politics, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Cengage Learning Political Science Team is looking for Subject Matter Experts in the following areas:

- American Government (including Public Policy and Administration)
- Texas Politics
- Latino Politics
- Racial and Ethnic Politics

All available opportunities are for a flat-fee and include narrative and assessment creation, work on Instructor Manuals and PowerPoints, and review work. Please send your CV and subject area of interest to Lauren Gerrish, lauren.gerrish@cengage.com, for more information.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8219

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Instructor or Assistant Professor, Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness

Specializations: United States, Criminal Justice, International Security

The VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Program invites applications for up to two, pending funding availability, non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience. Applicants with a Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field are preferred. Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

The Wilder School's mission is to:

- Engage, teach and inspire students and leaders to understand and solve challenges in our world.
- Advance research that informs public policy and decision making to improve our communities.
- Collaborate with communities through innovative partnerships to enhance quality of life.

The Wilder School's vision is to be the premiere resource for public policy expertise and social equity in public safety, governance and economic and community development. Ranked 39th among the nation's public affairs schools, the Wilder School has over 1,500 students and more than 11,000 alumni, with an established environment where diverse perspectives thrive and where a common interest in public service and the betterment of society unites these perspectives together. Our academic excellence attracts the highest quality faculty, staff and students, and our graduates are leaders in their professions.

Our location in Richmond, the capital of the Commonwealth of Virginia, combined with our proximity to Washington, DC, provides numerous opportunities for engaged scholarship, teaching and community engagement activities. A creative, interdisciplinary School with both academic programs and training/research centers in the social sciences and professional arenas, we reflect the diversity of the communities we serve providing students and faculty with the knowledge, skills, opportunities and experience necessary for success.

For additional information about the Wilder School, please visit our website at wilder.vcu.edu.

This position is non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience in the Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness program to begin in August 2021.

The Wilder School is seeking to continue its growth and commitment to its large and successful Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Bachelor's, Master's and Certificate programs. The faculty will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Successful candidates will join a dedicated group of colleagues with diverse interests and a demonstrated ability to teach effectively. We are interested in faculty who will demonstrate through teaching, creative expression, and/or public engagement, the richness of diversity in the learning experience through integrated intersectional approaches and perspectives.

Position Responsibilities:

1. Teaching

Successful candidates will teach within the core requirements of the graduate and undergraduate programs in Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness and may contribute to the Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration. The faculty member will be expected to carry a teaching load equivalent to eight 3 credit courses a year (4/4), involving both in-class and on-line delivery, and demonstrate leadership in developing techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles and intellectual interests.

2. Service

Faculty member may serve on program, School, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field.

For additional information, please visit <https://wilder.vcu.edu/programs/homeland-security-and-emergency-preparedness/>.

Required Qualifications:

Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

Our interest is in instructors who demonstrate a profound commitment to high-quality effective instruction who can contribute to the strength and diversity of our faculty. Successful candidates will have particular expertise in social justice and vulnerable populations in emergency preparedness, response and recovery, legal or constitutional issues, cybersecurity, and similar topics. The faculty member will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Preferred Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field.

Application Process/Additional Information:

Applications should be submitted to <http://www.vcujobs.com/postings/101225>, and include a cover-letter, a detailed CV with the names and contact information of three references, one example of scholarship or writing, and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

As a preeminent national, urban, public research university and academic health center, Virginia Commonwealth University is committed to organizational diversity, equity and inclusion - an environment where all can thrive in their pursuit of excellence.

Applicants are requested to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (typically between 150-300 words) providing your career aspirations and contributions toward promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. Through this statement, you can share how your lived experiences; and past, present, and future academic and professional activities have or will contribute to VCU's mission of promoting equity and inclusion.

Note: Examples include working with others to further the goals of equity and inclusion; leading in any capacity that tangibly promotes an environment where diversity is welcomed, fostered, and celebrated; creative activity, research and scholarship that promotes equity and parity; teaching and mentoring students, and/or engaging with faculty and/or staff from traditionally underrepresented groups to create a positive and successful organizational experience.

"Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action university providing access to education and employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, political affiliation, veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or disability".

VCU demonstrates its commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion through a number of initiatives, including an NSF ADVANCE-IT grant to increase the recruitment and retention of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty in STEM disciplines, and iCubed, a multi-faceted program designed to recruit URM faculty to collaborate with community partners in transdisciplinary cores to develop promising solutions that enhance the vitality of urban communities. Wilder School faculty are actively engaged in both initiatives.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, with priority review beginning November 15, 2020.

Contact: Maureen Moslow-Benway, Search Chair (mmoslowbenwa@vcu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8221

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years (not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.
4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8216

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence. The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281" complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)
- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVa

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

Yale University

Rank: Research Postdoctoral Associate

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2021. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Please apply online at this link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79728>.

The review process will begin on February 1, 2021. Please submit your completed application by that date for full consideration, although applications received after 2/1/21 will be reviewed if there is still a vacancy.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8205

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics) One-Year Appointment (2021-2022) (Faculty)

Position summary: The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American politics, with a specialization in media and politics. The successful candidate will be able to teach the department's introductory American government course, upper-level courses in his/her specialty and contribute to the department's undergraduate methods requirement. The ability to teach a course on the American presidency will be considered a plus. The teaching load for this position will be three courses each semester.

Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science with a subfield specialization in American Politics. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship or governance that they can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our community.

Application details: Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/3482>. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask you to elaborate on your cultural proficiencies and experiences engaging an increasingly diverse student body. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically.

Applications and letters of recommendation received by November 20, 2020 will be given fullest consideration; however, submissions will continue to be reviewed until the position is filled. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Caroline Hartzell (chartzel@gettysburg.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8200

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics) One-Year Appointment (2021-2022)

Position summary: The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American politics, with a specialization in race and identity in America. The successful candidate will be able to teach the department's introductory American government course, upper-level courses in his/her/their specialty and contribute to the department's undergraduate methods requirement. The teaching load for this position will be three courses each semester.

Qualifications. Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science with a subfield specialization in American Politics. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship or governance that they can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our community.

Application details: Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/3484>. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask you to elaborate on your cultural proficiencies and experiences engaging an increasingly diverse student body. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically.

Applications and letters of recommendation received by November 20, 2020 will be given fullest consideration; however, submissions will continue to be reviewed until the position is filled. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Caroline Hartzell (chartzel@gettysburg.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8201

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelor's, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors.

The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field
- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Science. The anticipated start date is August 2021. A completed PhD is preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests in and a demonstrated capacity to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics. We welcome applications from candidates with a specialization in political institutions and/or race and ethnicity. A willingness to teach online courses is also required. The position offers a teaching load of three courses per semester and a nine-month contract with the possibility to teach in the summer, contingent upon resources. Our new colleague will be expected to build a record of excellence in teaching, research, and service as required for tenure and promotion.

All application materials should be submitted online: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/11833>

We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2020. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and will be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries can be directed to Dr. Carson Holloway, Search Committee Chair

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8188

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Science. The anticipated start date is August 2021. A completed PhD is preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests in and a demonstrated capacity to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics. We particularly welcome applications from candidates with a specialization in political institutions and/or race and ethnicity. A willingness to teach online courses is also required. The position offers a teaching load of three courses per semester and a nine-month contract with the possibility to teach in the summer, contingent upon resources. Our new colleague will be expected to build a record of excellence in teaching, research, and service as required for tenure and promotion.

All application materials should be submitted online: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/11833>

We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2020. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and will be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries can be directed to Dr. Carson Holloway, Search Committee Chair

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8189

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate and Lecturer

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate and lecture position. PCD's mission is to promote scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. For more information about the program, please consult our website at <http://pcd.virginia.edu>.

Postdoctoral Research Associates will conduct their own research, participate in PCD programming, and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). These courses require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development. The opportunity to teach an advanced seminar on a specialized topic may also be available.

Applicants must complete all requirements for their PhD, including a successful defense, prior to start date.

The initial appointment is for 1 year; however, the appointment may be renewed for an additional year contingent upon available funding and satisfactory performance. The position is available starting from January 2021 or August 2021.

Pay is competitive, and benefits are included.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by December 1, 2020 receiving priority attention. The University will perform background checks on all new hires prior to employment.

TO APPLY:

Apply online at <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>: search for posting #R0018923 (or through Workday for internal applicants). Full URL: <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Postdoctoral-Research-Associate-and-Lecturer--Program-on-Constitutionalism-and-Democracy-R0018923-1>. Complete the application, and attach the following:

Please note that all required documents MUST be uploaded in the "resume" box.

Applications that do not contain all the required documents will not receive full consideration.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Cover letter - addressing why you are interested in this position, how your experience has prepared you and demonstrated experience working with underrepresented groups.

Curriculum vitae

Brief statement of research interest

Writing sample (no more than 25 pages)

Contact information for three references.

For questions about the position, please contact Rita Koganzon, at rk7fp@virginia.edu. For questions about the application process, please contact Nicole Robinson, Faculty Search Advisor, at nr7f@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8187

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

Specializations: Leadership Studies, International Security, Research Methods

Job Announcement: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, PA

The U.S. Army War College seeks a civilian or military Chair for the Department of National Security and Strategy within the School of Strategic Landpower. The Department is comprised of a rich mix of military and civilian educators, senior military strategists, and inter-agency partners. The School educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. Student and faculty research routinely provides policy relevant scholarship and advances professional expertise in landpower and other aspects of national security. The mission of the USAWC is to enhance national and global security by developing ideas and educating U.S. and international leaders to serve and lead at the strategic-enterprise level.

The Department Chair should be a leader who can translate vision into innovative and highly effective educational programs while building strong working relationships with students, faculty, staff, and administration. Important attributes for this position are the ability to identify talent, manage the operations of an academic department responsible for graduate level education, provide skillful leadership to a diverse group of faculty, and oversee a wide range of academic programs. The successful candidate must have a record of program innovation, experience in building high-functioning teams, and possess exceptional leadership skills.

Date of availability is 1 April, however latest start date is 15 June 2021. For civilians this is a term employment appointment of up to three years, the first year of which may be probationary. Salary range is $125,720 to $147,312 per year.

Duties: Lead the Department of National Security and Strategy consisting of 14 senior military officers, 13 Title 10 civilians, 5 US

Government agency representatives, 1 Visiting Professor, and 4 administrative staff members. Develop and supervise the execution of a graduate-level core curricula focusing on theories of war and strategy and US national security policy and strategy in a Joint, Interagency, Intergovernmental and Multinational environment; the Regional Studies Program; the National Security Policy Program; and the Eisenhower Series College Program. Supervise the design and implementation of the Washington, DC, national security staff ride, and the National Security Seminar--both annual events. Oversee and direct a relevant, highly valued electives program including the Advanced Regional Studies Program. Promote department interests in support of USAWC educational objectives. Recruit and develop a talented and diverse faculty and staff. Develop and manage an annual budget. Actively participate in college-wide administrative requirements as determined by USAWC leadership.

Conditions of Employment

Appointment may be subject to a suitability or fitness determination, as determined by a completed background investigation.

Must have or be able to obtain and maintain a Top Secret security clearance.

Must comply with the Drug Test Program requirements (pre-employment and randomly after appointment).

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs):

Applicants will be rated based on the criteria listed below by a panel of subject matter experts appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Strong leadership skills, especially proven leadership in academic organizations.
2. Graduate degree in political science, international security studies, government, history, economics, regional studies, law or other fields related to national security. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with an earned doctorate.
3. Demonstrated expertise and experience in national security affairs and military strategy. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with superb academic credentials and high-level practitioner experience.
4. Active involvement in relevant professional organizations.
5. A record of superlative teaching national security and strategy courses at the graduate (or senior service college) level, including: designing and executing curricula, supervising graduate-level research and success in obtaining research grants.
6. Strong written and verbal communication skills, as demonstrated by publication of books and articles, conference presentations, lectures, interpersonal relations, etc.

How to apply:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below.

Applications must be received no later than 2359hrs on 6 November 2020.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

Your application should include the following:

1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are required with your application submission. You must provide official college transcripts upon request.

6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).

7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

This position may be filled by either a civilian or a military officer in the grade of Colonel/Captain (O-6). Officers from all Services will be considered. Reserve component officers may be considered if there is no funding requirement.

For details on a civilian appointment please refer to the official job announcement found at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/579475300>. Who May Apply: U.S. Citizens

Email applications for a civilian appointment to usarmy.carlisle.awc.mbx.g1-civilian-personel-division@mail.mil.

Email applications for a military appointment to Dr. David Dworak at david.d.dworak.civ@mail.mil.

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8186

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.
- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8181

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University

Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science

Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8178

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Economy, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley (<http://polisci.berkeley.edu>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in the field of political methodology. The position will have an expected start date of July 1, 2021. Basic qualifications include a PhD (or equivalent international degree), or enrollment in a PhD or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

The Department invites applications from methodologists with an interest in any substantive field of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political economy, public policy & law, and race & ethnic politics, and whose research focuses on design-based causal inference, computational methods, big data, mixed-method research, statistics, historical analysis, network analysis, and other topics. Successful candidates will be competent to teach graduate-level courses in quantitative methods.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Berkeley and Political Science. Our excellence can only be fully realized by faculty, students, and staff who share our commitment to these values. Successful candidates for our faculty positions will demonstrate evidence of a commitment to advancing equity and inclusion.

To apply, please go to the following link: <https://apptrkr.com/2021267>.

It is preferred that letters of reference be uploaded by referees no later than the final date to apply (November 15, 2020). All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality found at: <http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html> prior to submitting their letters.

Completed applications must be received by Sunday, November 15, 2020 to be eligible for consideration. Please direct questions to Kristine Nera, Academic HR Analyst, at knera@berkeley.edu.

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-b23af086e7a3ab46aeb7203d48a4551f>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8176

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Fellow, Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a special faculty position as a teaching Fellow in the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

The CMU/WSP fellow will teach the Policy Forum as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC. The Policy Forum is a core course in the CMU/WSP curriculum.

The Policy Forum course takes a critical look at decision making in domestic politics and US foreign policy. It does so through weekly roundtable discussions with a diverse set of thought leaders invited by the CMU/WSP fellow. Based on intellectually significant essays that students are expected to read in advance of each class, these discussions give students an opportunity to ask probing questions about the three branches of the US government, media, embassies, advocacy groups, international organizations, and nongovernmental organizations. This course seeks to help students understand the responsibilities and activities that leaders and decision makers carry out on behalf of their organizations. Students are instructed in how to confidently and respectfully ask critical questions of those shaping policy. The term “roundtabling” is used to describe submitting an issue for critical discussion among relevant stakeholders. Knowing how to direct a roundtable is a significant element in the professional development of anyone interested in taking part in the policy arena, and this course helps students hone this important skill. In requiring students to read important essays related to each class session and then step back from discussions with leaders to write analytical essays, this course teaches students how to develop strong arguments based on solid logic and credible evidence, an essential component in making democracy work.

All classes are seminar-style and discussion based and meet once per week for 2.5 hours.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, intern, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three or four days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

This course will be taught as a mini semester course during the spring 2021 semester and will run from March 22 through May 7, 2021. The instructor will be paid $7,500 for teaching the mini semester course. This is a part-time position.

Qualifications: Ph.D., JD, (or another terminal degree), or unique combination of experience and expertise in the subject area. Robust network in the Washington, DC, from which to invite Policy Forum guest speakers.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant’s academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

<http://apply.interfolio.com/79804>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/13/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8169

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referrees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/12/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8167

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Development, Environmental Policy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American politics. The position is wide open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics — including, for example, American Political Development, race and racism, elections, inequality, environment, social movements, Congress, and education policy. Applicants who engage public policy or policy analysis in their research and teaching may be particularly welcome. The anticipated start date is 1 July 2021. The successful candidate will hold a PhD at the start of the appointment. The holder of this position will teach undergraduates and graduate students. Please submit a letter of interest to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17094>. The application must also include: a curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, a statement about your capacity to promote diversity, and three references. Completed applications are due on 10 November 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/10/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8162

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor – American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professor positions, to begin Fall 2021. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American Politics. Candidates from all subfields of American politics are invited to apply, though special consideration will be given to those whose research agendas add to the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate teaching. Review of applications will begin November 7 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC001466. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Elizabeth Simas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at ensimas@uh.edu

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8158

American University

Rank: Executive Director, Antiracist Research and Policy Center

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Open

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Summary/Objective

The Antiracist Research and Policy Center (ARPC) at American University (AU) invites applications and nominations for a full-time Executive Director. The successful candidate will join a vibrant and collegial community of scholars, professionals, authors, advocates, activists, organizers, and creators at the University. The Executive Director will continue building a new vision for the Center, and help cohere and amplify the work of other scholars on AU's campus, while advancing their own scholarly agenda related to antiracist, research, praxis, and/or policy. Research should include an active antiracist agenda, including the study of racial inequalities and racial disparities. The director must be committed to working collaboratively with the Center faculty, fellows, and other partners on campus and in the Washington, D.C. region. Qualified candidates may be eligible for a tenured appointment in an appropriate academic unit with teaching obligations subject to negotiation. The appointment begins July 1, 2021.

About American University

American University (AU) is a highly selective student-centered research private institution within Washington, DC and is defined by its global outlook, practical idealism, and passion for public engagement. AU's nationally and internationally acclaimed faculty are renowned for their commitment to excellence in scholarship and teaching and for sponsoring programs that draw upon the extraordinary cultural, scientific, public affairs, legal, business, international, and communication resources in the greater metropolitan area of Washington, DC. Our student body is cosmopolitan and globally diverse, with over 12,000 undergraduate and graduate students represented by all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and over 150 countries. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. Learn more about the Center at <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/> and the university's strategic plan here: <https://www.american.edu/about/strategic-plan/>.

Qualifications

Our ideal candidate will be an emerging or established thought leader in the field(s) of race, racism, racial inequality, colonialism, and related fields, as well as a thought leader in antiracism and related frameworks with a track record and established trajectory of high-impact scholarly, professional, and/or creative work that focuses on antiracism and equity. A focus on the specific experiences of historically marginalized racial groups in the U.S., particularly Black, Indigenous, and Latinx groups, and/or a comparative focus on racial oppression and liberatory movements within and beyond the U.S. is welcome, as are interdisciplinary approaches. Our ideal candidate will shape the Center's strategic vision and goals while contributing to fundraising efforts for research, outreach, and events. In these and other activities, the Executive Director will be supported by a full-time Managing Director and the university's Development Office. ARPC's Executive Director should have a significant record related to antiracism which they will continue to pursue while leading the Center, while also working collaboratively with the AU faculty, students and staff to help define and deepen innovative, pathbreaking, and intersectional approaches to antiracism-related research and praxis, policy analysis and advocacy, and creative projects on and beyond AU's campus. To browse the eight thematic areas in which faculty affiliates conduct antiracism work across academic disciplines, please see: <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/faculty-affiliates.cfm>.

Application Instructions

Salary and benefits are competitive (for an overview of AU's benefits for full-time faculty and staff, visit: <https://www.american.edu/hr/benefits/>). Please include a cover letter with your application which addresses: 1) the candidate's leadership style, 2) the candidate's understanding of and approach to antiracist research, praxis, and policy and 3) how the candidate's style and approach will complement and grow the existing focal areas and activities of the Center. In addition to the cover letter, all applications must include a curriculum vitae with an appended list of three references and copies of three recent publications or equivalent antiracist projects. Letters of recommendation will be requested at a later stage. Reviews of applications will begin October 30.

To apply, visit: <https://careers.american.edu/Staff/job/Washington-Executive-Director%2C-Anti-Racist-Research-and-Policy-Center-DC-20016/676834100/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8146

Claremont Graduate University

Rank: Tenured-Track Position in American Politics, focusing on State and Local Politics, American Institutions, and/or Law and Politics

Claremont Graduate University's School of Social Science, Policy and Evaluation invites applications for a tenured/tenure-track position in American Politics, focusing on State and Local Politics, American Institutions, and/or Law and Politics, beginning July 1, 2021. The position rank is open. CGU's Department of Politics and Government offers only graduate-level degrees: the PhD in Political Science; and several MA degrees including the MA in Politics, the MA in Religion and Politics, and the MA in Public Policy.

As a graduate-only research university, CGU values scholarly production, teaching, and mentoring. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in hand and maintain an active research agenda in their field of expertise, with a demonstrably strong record of publications commensurate with rank. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester, and the successful candidate should be prepared to teach graduate-level core American courses such as the US Congress; The Presidency and the Constitution; Political Parties in the United States; State and Local Politics; American Political Development, etc. We expect that the successful candidate will be expert in the use of appropriate research methods such as applied econometrics, survey research, legal research, experimental research, etc. CGU is a small university with a focus on transdisciplinarity, and therefore applicants with interests beyond one field are appreciated.

CGU is a member of The Claremont Colleges, which is composed of five undergraduate liberal arts colleges, and two graduate institutions. Joint research opportunities and teaching with the Claremont colleges may be possible.

Applicants should submit a letter discussing their interest in the position and how they could contribute to Political Science at CGU, a CV, a diversity statement (see below), and references to dpe-research@cgu.edu

Claremont Graduate University is committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to highlight their strengths and experiences in this area via their diversity statement. Applicants who have a demonstrated commitment to issues of diversity and inclusion are particularly encouraged to apply, as are individuals who have membership in one or more of the following groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding: Alaska Natives/Native American Indians, African Americans/Blacks, Mexican Americans/Hispanics/Latinx, Native Pacific Islanders (Hawaiian/ Polynesian/Micronesian), and Puerto Ricans.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8144

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;
- 6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and
- 7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

Mercyhurst University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor – Political Science

The Political Science Department invites applications for an assistant professor position beginning Fall 2021. A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at a liberal arts university is essential. The department is seeking a generalist who is committed to developing courses in constitutional law and civil liberties as well as contributing to our department needs in institutions, behavior, methods, gender, or racial and ethnic politics. The candidate will also serve as advisor to our pre-law society. Energy, collegiality, and a commitment to liberal arts education are highly prized attributes in our department. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. or will complete it before the Fall 2021 semester.

Application Process

Screening of applications will begin immediately, and the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current vitae, transcripts (initial submissions may be unofficial copies), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching excellence, and a one-page statement summarizing their philosophy of teaching to:

Jennifer Verga, Administrative Assistant jverga@mercyhurst.edu.

Mercyhurst is a mid-sized, Catholic, liberal arts, primarily residential university, founded by the Sisters of Mercy, with an enrollment of approximately 2,500 students. Class sizes are small, and the normal teaching load is 8 courses per year.

For information about the political science program see the departmental website: <http://polisci.mercyhurst.edu>.

Mercyhurst does not unlawfully discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, citizenship status, ancestry, national or ethnic origin, age, familial status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, physical or mental disability, military or veteran status or any other legally protected characteristic or because of any individual's legally protected activities.

Mercyhurst complies with federal, state and local legislation and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. This policy applies to faculty, administration and staff, applicants for employment, students and applicants for educational programs and activities.

Candidates must be currently eligible to work in the United States.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8139

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellowship

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, American Politics

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, please see our Five-Year Retrospective.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

Details

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting August 1 until July 31. Visiting Fellows will be expected to participate in a weekly community seminar series and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Harvard Kennedy School more broadly. The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space. If required, dedicated office space can be arranged that carries an additional fee.

How to Apply

Apply online here: https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_51JkxGWLaj3LpD7 for the AY 2021-2022 competition. The deadline for applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 PM ET.

The Ash Center is a vibrant and values-driven community. We are committed to diversity and welcome people of varied backgrounds, cultures, experiences, and disciplines. We actively seek applications from people of color, women, the LGBTQIA+ community, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented backgrounds.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you have questions, please contact Democratic Governance Coordinator James Rasaiah.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8131

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko at David.Sacko@usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: 11/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8132

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Post-Doctoral Position - Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Open, Public Policy

The University of Missouri's Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program is designed to develop scholars for tenure-track faculty positions at the University of Missouri and elsewhere. Applicants should demonstrate how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular discipline or through other experience. Postdoctoral positions are for two years and provide research, teaching, and professional development opportunities. The stipend is a minimum of $56,000 per year plus University benefits and professional development funds. In order to be eligible for this program, applicants must have completed their doctoral degree, or expect to complete their degree no later than July 1, 2021, at a regionally accredited university.

The University of Missouri ("Mizzou"), located in the culturally vibrant small city of Columbia, is approximately 125 miles from both St. Louis and Kansas City. The campus enrolls more than 30,000 students; it is Missouri's largest public research university and the heart of the four-campus University of Missouri System. As a member of the Association of American Universities since 1908, Mizzou is one of the nation's top institutions of higher learning.

We are currently accepting applications in the following research areas:

Political Science/Public Affairs – Scholar with research and teaching interests in race/ethnicity/diversity in politics, public administration, or public policy. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Affairs, or related field.

The deadline for applications is 11:59 PM (Central time), November 2, 2020. Finalists will be interviewed in January - February 2021.

To apply, please go here: <https://applygrad.missouri.edu/apply/?sr=959b0871-eafd-44d0-b2e6-9ce11e2ac854>

Please create an account in the Graduate School's application system. After you create an account, select the 2021 Preparing Future Faculty postdoctoral application. A completed application includes:

- Cover letter expressing interest in the position
- CV
- Statement of goals for postdoctoral position
- Diversity statement
- One-page abstract of doctoral dissertation
- Writing sample
- 3 letters of reference

Click here to read more about the University of Missouri's PFFFD program. Questions about the program and application process may be directed to Dr. Lissa Behm-Morawitz (Associate Dean of the Graduate School) at postdoc@missouri.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/2/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8133

Colby College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of Government at Colby College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position to teach American government and politics, commencing September 1, 2021. We seek highly qualified candidates who have demonstrated excellence in teaching and who are committed to working with an increasingly diverse student body. We are looking for a dynamic teacher/scholar with expertise in one or more of the following areas: American political institutions (presidency, Congress, bureaucracy), federalism, public policy, and American political development. The successful applicant will teach Introduction to American Government and Politics, an introductory course in research methods, and additional courses chosen in consultation with the department chair. Teaching load is four courses in the first year, alternating between four and five courses per year thereafter, including the option to teach one course during Colby's January term. Faculty are also expected to supervise a limited number of undergraduate senior theses.

Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. in political science by September 1, 2021. Two years of experience in undergraduate teaching as the instructor of record is strongly preferred. The successful candidate will provide evidence of excellence in teaching a diverse student body and a strong and on-going research program that is open to the inclusion of undergraduates. The college and the department are committed to enhancing the diversity and inclusivity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to this goal are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area when they apply.

Applicants should send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, statements expressing the candidate's teaching experience and research agenda, three letters of recommendation, a representative sample of current scholarship, evidence of teaching excellence, and a graduate school transcript. Review of applications will begin October 20, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions about this position should be directed to: governmentsearch@colby.edu

Apply: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79109>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8124

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (American Politics)

Specializations: Congress, Legislative Studies, Quantitative Methods

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose--to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour "the Yard" to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor in American Politics to begin as early as August 2021. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. American Politics scholars with expertise in Congress, legislative behavior, congressional elections and other sub-fields related to Congress are encouraged to apply. A strong methodological background and commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust interest to teach Introduction to U.S. Government, undergraduate research methods, and upper-level electives in their fields of concentration. The teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 course preparations per year. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable).

Preferred:

A teaching interest in the following areas: congress and undergraduate research methods.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, teaching and research statements, diversity statement, curriculum vitae, and arrange for three references that address both teaching and research abilities to the American Government Search Committee at usna_polisci_amgov_2020-group@usna.edu.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position.

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8118

Santa Clara University

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track)

The Department of Political Science at Santa Clara University, a Jesuit, Catholic university, seeks a diverse pool of applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position in US Politics with a specialization in either State Politics and Policy or Urban and Local Politics. The position will begin in September 2021. We seek a teacher-scholar with demonstrated commitment to, and excellence in, both undergraduate teaching and scholarly achievement.

Applicants must have a PhD at the time of appointment and a clear research trajectory, with experience teaching at the university level and a record of publication strongly preferred. The person we hire will teach Introduction to US Politics, upper-division courses in their area of specialty, and Introduction to Political Science Research. We are especially interested in candidates whose scholarship and teaching will contribute to the Department's public sector studies emphasis by promoting student engagement at the city, county, or state level, e.g. involving students in a locally-focused research project or integrating an experiential-learning component into a course.

For full consideration, applications should be received by November 2, 2020. Applicants should submit: (1) a cover letter addressing how the candidate's teaching and research might advance diversity and foster intra- and inter-departmental connections, (2) a CV, (3) a teaching portfolio that includes a statement of teaching philosophy and interests as well as sample syllabi and teaching evaluations, (4) a writing sample of no more than 40 pages, and (5) unofficial graduate transcripts. Three confidential letters of recommendation must be emailed directly to the department manager, Casey Robertson, at crobertson2@scu.edu by either the recommenders or a dossier service.

Located in the heart of northern California's Silicon Valley, Santa Clara is a private, Jesuit, Catholic university committed to promoting social justice in a comprehensive educational setting. Faculty are teaching-scholars who balance a commitment to quality teaching with active programs of research. A full-time teaching load is seven courses over three 10-week quarters, with a one-course reduction for research. Faculty receive scholarship support through sabbaticals and travel funds. Housing assistance is available.

Santa Clara University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer committed to the strategic goal of enriching the quality of our community of scholars by increasing the diversity among faculty, staff, and students. Women, persons of color, and members of historically underrepresented groups who can contribute to this goal are especially encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths, experiences, or interests related to achieving this goal in their letter of application.

Inquiries about this position may be emailed to the department chair, Greg Corning, at gcorning@scu.edu. Full details about the position may be viewed on the application portal at https://wd1.myworkdaysite.com/en-US/recruiting/scu/scu/job/Santa-Clara-CA/Assistant-Professor---Political-Science--State-Politics---Policy-or-Urban---Local-Politics-_R969.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/2/2020

Date Posted: 9/26/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8106

Wake Forest University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics (2 Tenure Track Positions)

Job Description Summary:

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY's Department of Politics and International Affairs is seeking applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in the sub-field of American politics to start July 1, 2021. As a department, we believe that a diverse community in which varied perspectives and identities are represented and included is a community that supports excellent teaching and scholarship. We therefore seek candidates whose areas of specialty will complement those already represented among American politics scholars in the department. More information about the department is available at <http://politics.wfu.edu/>

Job Description:

We invite applications from American politics scholars with expertise in any of the following, listed in no particular order: political thought, political development, political behavior (including mass movements), political psychology, political communication, urban and local politics, and public policy. A Ph.D. or ABD status in Political Science or a closely related field is required.

We have a particular interest in scholars with dynamic research agendas who make connections between subfields, and leverage intersectional and interdisciplinary perspectives. Faculty in the Politics and International Affairs Department engage formally and informally with interdisciplinary academic programs, including Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; American Ethnic Studies; Environmental and Sustainability Studies; African Studies, Latin American and Latino Studies; Middle East and South Asia Studies; and East Asian Studies.

We seek candidates pursuing an active research agenda and committed to excellence in teaching who are prepared to teach introductory courses in American politics and/or undergraduate research methods. Candidates will also have opportunities to develop and teach courses that connect with their research agendas. Compelling applicants will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, mentoring, and advising undergraduate students from diverse backgrounds, including international students, first generation students, and those who identify as members of historically marginalized communities.

Wake Forest University is a private, coeducational institution dedicated to academic excellence in liberal arts, graduate and professional education. Founded in 1834, the University is ranked in the top 30 among national universities. With 5,200 undergraduates and 3,200 graduate and professional students, the student-faculty ratio is 11:1. Wake Forest is a collegiate university offering a vibrant intellectual community with a rich cultural life, an impressive array of facilities and an active athletics community.

The University has a deep institutional commitment to public service and engagement with the world, encapsulated in its motto "pro humanitate." The Office of Civic and Community Engagement works to realize that ideal by serving as a hub for connecting students, staff, and faculty with community partners to create meaningful social change. To learn more about the University, please visit <https://about.wfu.edu/>

Interested applicants should apply via the University's career website at: <https://hr.wfu.edu/careers/>. The application should be submitted as ONE PDF file, which includes all of the following:

- Cover letter addressing the motivation to join our teacher-scholar community;
- Curriculum vitae including contact information for three professional references;
- Research statement describing candidate's current research and future trajectory;
- Scholarly writing sample (e.g. journal article, dissertation chapter, or draft);
- Teaching statement including plan to establish an inclusive learning environment;
- Sample undergraduate course syllabi;
- Teaching evaluations or other evidence of effective student engagement;
- Copy of graduate transcript(s) (official copies only required upon employment).

In addition to the above, we ask that candidates have three letters of recommendation emailed directly to wfupol@wfu.edu. Review of applications will begin on November 2, 2020. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled, but to guarantee full consideration they should be received by November 1, 2020. If access to the internet is an issue, a hard copy of the application can be submitted to Michaelle Browers, Chair, Wake Forest University, Department of Politics and International Affairs, P.O. Box 7568, Winston-Salem, NC 27109.

Inquiries about the application process and document submission may be addressed to wfupol@wfu.edu. Inquiries about the faculty position or department should be directed to Michaelle Browers, Chair and Professor, Politics and International Affairs, browerm@wfu.edu.

Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and inclusivity and seeks applicants with demonstrated success in working with diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Wake Forest University, and the Department of Politics and International Affairs welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and community engagement.

In order to provide a safe and productive learning and living community, Wake Forest University conducts background investigations for final candidates upon their acceptance of an offer of employment.

Time Type Requirement: Full time

Wake Forest seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce while promoting an inclusive work environment committed to excellence in the spirit of Pro Humanitate. In adherence with applicable laws and as provided by University policies, the University prohibits discrimination in its employment practices on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, genetic information, disability and veteran status and encourages qualified candidates across all group demographics to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8087

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a specialization in race and ethnic politics beginning in the fall semester of 2021. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in American politics, a course in race and ethnic politics, a course in quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other American politics courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. We welcome candidates who demonstrate excellence in reflective multicultural and inclusive teaching practices and who display a strong commitment to collaboration and interdisciplinarity. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important.

The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in American politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations if available, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. Applications received by October 20, 2020 will receive full consideration.

About Bucknell

Bucknell University is a private, highly ranked, primarily undergraduate, national liberal arts institution that also offers strong professional programs in engineering, management, education, and music.

Bucknell University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The university believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. Applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education are encouraged.

Bucknell is committed to creating a climate that fosters inclusion, growth, and development for a diverse student body, and seeks candidates who are also committed these goals.

Bucknell is committed to supporting the teacher-scholar model of faculty development. With a student-faculty ratio of about 9:1, small class sizes are a hallmark of the Bucknell educational experience. The university sponsors a range of activities to support the development of its faculty, including a Teaching-Learning Center and generous research support and leave policies.

Bucknell is located in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, on the banks of the Susquehanna River. The Lewisburg area offers a combination of outdoor recreation opportunities and small-town amenities. In addition to the cultural and athletic events offered at the University and in town, the region offers strong schools and medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is about three hours from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8070

Tufts University

Rank: Part Time Lecturer in American Politics Position for Spring 2021

Part-Time Lecturer in American Politics Position Request for Spring 2021

The Department of Political Science at Tufts University invites applications for a part-time lecturer position in American politics for spring 2021 semester. The course load is two courses. Teaching may require in-person, hybrid or remote assignments. One course should cover the U.S. Congress; the other course can be determined by the candidate in conjunction with the Department Chair. Particular areas of interest include racial and ethnic politics, gender, judicial politics, and state and local politics, though we welcome applications across the subfield.

Ph.D. or A.B.D. in Political Science or related field required. College/university teaching experience strongly preferred.

Please submit a dossier including curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests and/or experience, draft syllabi of at least one proposed course, and two letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78900>

The search committee will begin screening applications immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact James Pavlick, Administrative Coordinator, at James.Pavlick@tufts.edu with any questions.

Tufts University, founded in 1852, prioritizes quality teaching, highly competitive basic and applied research, and a commitment to active citizenship locally, regionally, and globally. Tufts University also prides itself on creating a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community. Current and prospective employees of the university are expected to have and continuously develop skill in, and disposition for, positively engaging with a diverse population of faculty, staff, and students.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8065

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant-Associate-Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Miami invites applications for an open-rank search in race and ethnic politics and policy. Senior applicants will be considered for an endowed chair position providing salary and research support. This search is part of a college-wide initiative to recruit scholars in conjunction with the establishment of an interdisciplinary Black Studies center. The expected teaching assignment is 2-2. Candidates should have a PhD or anticipate PhD completion by August 15, 2021.

Interested applicants may apply online at www.miami.edu/careers. Junior applicants should upload a single document including a cover letter; CV; a teaching statement focusing on your ability to contribute to an inclusive undergraduate political science major serving a diverse array of students; a PhD transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application); and a writing sample. Please arrange for three reference letters to be sent directly to the search chair at UMPOLsearch2020@miami.edu. Scholars applying for the rank of associate or full professor should upload a single document including a letter of interest (with a statement about your proposed contributions to an inclusive undergraduate political science major serving a diverse array of students), a CV, and a list of three references. Applications received on or before {October 15, 2020}, will be given full consideration, though the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. For further information about the position, please contact the department chair (Gregory Koger, gkoger@miami.edu). Additional information about the Department is available at <http://www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/>.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8056

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Comparative Politics or Political Economy
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, Developing Nations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or Political Economy, starting September 2021. Tenure track faculty engage in teaching, research and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). A strong research record is expected. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, though applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, diversity statement and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if applicant has prior teaching experience. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants should describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities.

Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <https://apply.interfolio.com/78296>. Review of applications will begin on October 17, 2020. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 9/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8054

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 8046

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Position (scholars who study race in American society)
Specializations: African American Politics, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stanford invites applications for an open rank, tenure line, position for scholars who study race in American society. This search is part of a university-wide initiative in which Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars who study the significance of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. Stanford seeks to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus. Appointments may be made in the following schools and departments: Stanford Law School, Stanford Graduate School of Business, Stanford Graduate School of Education, and the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Economics, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Philosophy, History, and Religious Studies. Rank is open, although a majority of the appointments are expected to be made at the assistant professor level. At the senior level, we are particularly interested in candidates with an active program of research in progress and for established scholars to have outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. A strong commitment to excellent teaching is essential.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 but the department may consider applications after this date. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16835> with a cover letter describing academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, samples of recent scholarship and a research statement of no more than three pages. Applicants for a non-tenured position should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted directly online by October 15, 2020.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 9/9/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 8038

Stanford University

Rank: Professor of Political Science & MLK Institute Director

Specializations: African American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

FACULTY POSITION AVAILABLE

The Department of Political Science at Stanford University seeks an outstanding senior scholar for a tenured professorship (associate or full) with expertise in race and racial justice in the U.S., civil rights, social movements, and/or African American politics. This scholar also will serve as the Faculty Director of The Martin Luther King, Jr. Research and Education Institute for a renewable five-year term.

The successful applicant will be expected to play a meaningful role in a department committed to dynamic teaching and to maintain a vibrant and productive scholarly research agenda. This scholar will provide intellectual, strategic and visionary leadership for the Institute. We welcome applications from scholars who are pursuing a wide range of projects that represent the broad diversity of the field of modern African American politics and racial justice. The position will be entirely located in the Political Science Department. The scholar will split time between teaching and research (50%) and directing the Institute (50%). If the directorship is not renewed after five years, the scholar's teaching and research obligations will be to the Political Science Department at 100%.

The university views filling this position as an important opportunity to raise the profile of studies relating to race and racial justice on Stanford's campus. The successful candidate should bring a dynamic vision and leadership ability to Stanford.

Recognizing the crucial benefits that diversity contributes to our intellectual vitality, the university has embarked on significant initiatives to diversify its faculty, student body, and curriculum. We encourage applications from dedicated scholars eager to contribute to this mission.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 but applications may be considered after that date. Application materials must be submitted on-line via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/16829>.

Please submit a statement of interest that includes a description of academic background and teaching experience, curriculum vitae, and research statement of no more than three pages.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8036

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu(link sends e-mail)
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 8018

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law
Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282>(link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu(link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8019

Centenary College of Louisiana

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Centenary College of Louisiana invites applications for a tenure-track political science position at the rank of assistant professor to begin August 2021. Candidates should be broadly trained in American Politics and prepared to teach a range of introductory and upper division courses including constitutional law and civil liberties, the Presidency, and public law subfields, especially public interest law. Research interests in social justice, race and minority politics, or social movements are preferred.

Candidates must also be prepared to advise the department's legal studies program. The Legal Studies minor is an interdisciplinary course of study that exposes students to a range of classes that strengthen their critical thinking and communication skills, hone their ability to interpret and apply case law, and understand the role and effect of law within various societal contexts. Centenary maintains a partnership with The LSU Paul M. Hebert Law Center that provides Centenary students who meet LSU Law admission requirements and who are interested in public interest careers an opportunity for an expedited admissions review and notification process.

Preference will be given to candidates with a strong record of teaching and a background in a liberal arts education. Engaging teaching and pedagogical skills, a record of scholarship, and a sincere commitment to student mentoring are required. The standard teaching load is six courses per year, with some opportunity to teach in immersive May and August terms, and to participate in college-wide programs such as the first year experience (TREK) program and Centenary in Paris. A completed Ph.D. by August 2021 is required.

Centenary College recognizes that diversity is essential to its goal of providing an educational environment where students explore the unfamiliar, invent new approaches to understanding, and connect their work and lives to the world at large. We thus welcome applicants who would add to the College's diversity of ideas, beliefs, experiences, and cultural backgrounds. Centenary is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Centenary College of Louisiana is a selective, residential, national liberal arts college affiliated with the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1825, it is the oldest chartered liberal arts college west of the Mississippi river and is a member of the Associated Colleges of the South.

Review of applications will begin on October 19, 2020. To apply, send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and transcripts for your terminal degree to Dr. Chad Fulwider either via email: hr@centenary.edu or to the address below. Additional materials may be requested as the search advances.

Political Science Search Committee
c/o Department of Human Resources
Centenary College of Louisiana
2911 Centenary Blvd.
Shreveport, LA 71104

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/20/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7993

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowships
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2021–2022 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and overseas, for accomplished mid and senior career professionals. Selected fellows broaden their foreign policy experience by spending their fellowships in public service or research environments.

Applications are due by October 31, 2020.

The International Affairs Fellowship (IAF) is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It provides individuals the opportunity to spend one year in policymaking or research oriented environments. The program awards a stipend of $105,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada sponsored by Power Corporation of Canada, provides selected fellows the opportunity to spend six to twelve months at a Canadian institution working on U.S.-Canada relations. It awards a stipend of $95,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan brings a cadre of American professionals to Japan for three to twelve months to study and work on U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended for those without substantial prior experience in Japan. The program awards a competitive stipend in yen.

The International Affairs Fellowship in India affords fellows with the opportunity to spend three to twelve months conducting research on India and U.S. relations. It is aimed at professionals who have had little prior experience in India. It awards a stipend of $90,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics offers economists hands-on experience in the U.S. government and the opportunity to apply a range of research tools to international economic policy issues. It lasts six and nine months with a stipend starting at $150,000.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 10/31/2020
Date Posted: 8/5/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7961

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor Race and U.S. Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Race & Ethnic Politics, United States

The Department of Political Science at Amherst College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of race and U.S. politics, with a particular focus on the Black political experience, beginning July 1, 2021. Amherst College is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff. Within the last decade, Amherst College has profoundly transformed with respect to its student body. Today, nearly one-quarter of Amherst's students are Pell grant recipients; 45 percent of our students identify as domestic students of color; and 9 percent of our students are international students. We expect the successful candidate to excel at teaching and mentoring students who are diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Candidates' scholarship should examine racial politics in the U.S. Possible topics include but are not limited to reparations, civil rights, voter suppression, movements for racial justice, the legacies of slavery for contemporary politics, the racial policies and constituencies of political parties, the relationship between racial and ethnic identity, white privilege, police violence, and racial stratification in urban and local politics.

Faculty teach two courses each semester and benefit from ample support for research, including a pre-tenure year-long sabbatical at full pay. We seek a colleague with a record that demonstrates the potential for high-quality teaching and research, and who is committed to excellence in education at the undergraduate level of the aforementioned student body. Candidates should be comfortable teaching courses both within and outside their specialties and in directing undergraduate research projects. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in hand or have fulfilled all requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment.

Candidates are asked to submit electronically <https://apply.interfolio.com/77688> a letter of application, a CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a single-authored writing sample (e.g., article or dissertation/book chapter). The letter of application should describe the main contributions of the candidate's research and the candidate's approach to and experience with teaching. Finalists will be asked to offer a presentation of their research, and possibly, a brief teaching demonstration, both via Zoom. Review of applications will begin on September 14, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by this date will be assured full consideration.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7952

Salisbury University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Salisbury University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. This is a full time, 10-month position.

Primary Job Duties: The Department seeks candidates whose expertise is in one or more of the following fields: racial and ethnic politics, political theory, and law and judicial politics. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level courses in political theory and/or American politics (political institutions and behavior and courses in the Law, Justice and Advocacy minor). The candidate will also be able to teach a research methods course. Academic advising and student mentoring are also expected as well as ongoing scholarly activities. The teaching load is 3-3 of 4 credit hour courses.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science. If ABD, applicant would be hired at the rank of Instructor and must complete doctoral degree by: May 2022. Demonstrated evidence of a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching.

Preferred Qualifications: Evidence of a commitment to political engagement, an active research agenda, curriculum development, and undergraduate research mentorship.

Applications received by October 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. The position will remain open until filled. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be contingent upon verification of eligibility to work in the U.S. and is expected to begin August 2021. Please visit our website <http://www.salisbury.edu/HR/careers/> to apply online. See the FAQs of the Online Employment Application System for more information and instructions.

To be considered an applicant, you must apply online and submit the following: 1) A letter of interest; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statements of research and teaching interests; 4) unofficial transcripts; 5) the names and contact information of at least three professional references. All documents must be submitted with your application in the online employment application system. Questions about the position should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Sarah Surak at smsurak@salisbury.edu.

This position is based in Salisbury, MD, an area with a culturally diverse population with rich cultural experiences. Salisbury University, a member of the University System of Maryland is a regionally accredited four-year comprehensive institution offering 60 distinct graduate and undergraduate programs. Founded in 1925, Salisbury University features a beautiful campus close to ocean beaches and the Chesapeake Bay and 2-3 hours from the metropolitan areas of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. SU is consistently ranked among the nation's top colleges and 'best values' by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and other publications. SU has 440 full-time faculty members serving a student population of approximately 8700.

Diversity and inclusion are core values of Salisbury University. We strive to create a truly diverse and inclusive environment where the richness of ideas, backgrounds, and perspectives of our community is harnessed to create value for our University community to include students, faculty, and staff, today and in the future. To this end, the University recruits exceptional and diverse faculty, staff, and students from across Maryland, the United States, and around the world, supporting all members of the University community as they work together to achieve institutional goals and vision. To learn more about the University's commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus, please visit <http://www.salisbury.edu/equity/>.

Applications will be accepted via Salisbury University's online employment application system.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7950

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

Mills College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Political Science

About Mills College:

Located in Oakland, California, in the heart of the San Francisco Bay Area, Mills College is a liberal arts college for women and gender non-binary students, with graduate programs for all genders. Consistently ranked one of the top masters universities and one of the best value colleges in the West by U.S. News & World Report, Mills also has been named one of the Best Colleges in the nation by The Princeton Review. The Mills experience is distinguished by small, interactive classes, one-on-one attention from exceptional faculty, a culture of creative experimentation, and cutting-edge interdisciplinary learning opportunities which empower students to make a statement in their careers and communities. As <https://www.mills.edu/uniquely-mills/facts-about-mills.php> in the country, we have a strong record of academic success with first-generation students, students of color, Latinx students, LGBTQ students, and other underrepresented students. Mills College has recently become a Hispanic Serving Institution. Applicants with expertise and experience in supporting and promoting success for Latina/o students are encouraged to apply.

Mills College encourages diversity in hiring and particularly welcomes applications and nominations from women, gender non-binary individuals, and minorities. Mills College seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to equity, inclusion, and social justice and our desire to maintain the excellence of our faculty. In so doing, we offer our students not only the opportunity to learn about varied disciplines but to engage with diverse perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. For more information, please visit <https://www.mills.edu/>

Job Description:

The Department:

Mills College has a rich history of educating women and gender nonconforming leaders at the local, state, and national levels. The Politics, Economics, Policy and Law major builds on this heritage. This interdisciplinary major is designed around critical thinking, leadership, and transformational change. It provides students with the core methodological and analytic skills of its four disciplines while allowing students to explore issues that transcend disciplinary boundaries. It produces students with diverse analytical, methodological, and practical skills who can become leaders in legal, government, non-profit, or business careers or pursue graduate programs in political science, economics, sociology, public policy, politics, and law. Many of our graduates go on to become community leaders, including lawyers, advocates, city councilmembers, policy directors, legislative staff, elected officials, and nonprofit leaders.

The Position:

The Mills College Department of Public Policy and Political Science seeks applicants for the tenure track position of Assistant Professor to begin in Fall 2020. The new faculty member will support the department's interdisciplinary major, Politics, Economics, Policy, and Law (PEPL), as well as the master's degree in public policy and the political science major. The successful candidate will teach 18 credits per year, including two sections of undergraduate Law and Society, a graduate course in public policy and the law, and a variety of electives related to their area of interest. In addition, they will provide programming and formal academic advising for students in the legal track of the PEPL major, as well as serving as the college's official pre-law advisor.

Requirements:

We prefer candidates with a JD and a doctoral degree in a related field (Political Science, Sociology, Public Policy, etc.). We will also consider candidates with a JD and a relevant master's degree (MPP, MPA, etc.). We further welcome applications from candidates with a PhD in Jurisprudence, Legal Studies, or relevant interdisciplinary field. All candidates must have college-level teaching experience and an active research agenda. To complement the department's existing expertise and meet the college's needs, we are seeking someone whose research focuses on the United States. Topical areas of particular interest include judicial politics, gender and the law, health law, and criminal justice.

We seek candidates with a passion for liberal arts education and social justice, who will support our diverse student body, providing mentorship and academic support and opportunities both inside and outside the classroom. Candidates with an interest in community engaged learning are especially encouraged to apply.

Additional Information:

This is an exempt, full-time position and includes a comprehensive benefits package including medical/dental/vision/life/LTD insurance, 403(b) retirement plan with college match after a qualifying period. Faculty members also receive free admission to campus events, use of the pool, fitness center, and tennis courts. Tuition remission is also available after an introductory period. Voluntary benefits include: pet insurance, long-term care insurance and legal-assistance insurance.

Mills College does not permit discrimination based on pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, race, religious creed, color, national origin or ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. For more information on Mills' non-discrimination policy, please go to <https://www.mills.edu/policies/ada-policies/nondiscrimination-statement.php>.

All positions are subject to a background check. Prior to the first date of employment, an applicant's background check must be cleared.

Application Instructions:

To apply, submit the following documents at <https://apptrkr.com/1705390>

- Employee Application
- Cover Letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Sample of scholarly research
- Teaching portfolio (sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and a statement of teaching philosophy,)
- Contact Information for 3 References who are willing to submit letters of recommendation

Please note that you can only upload 6 “Other” documents. You can consolidate multiple pages/documents into one file upload. The file size limit for each upload is 10Mb.

Review of applicants will begin October 18, 2019; applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/11/2019

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7457

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

as mediendesign Inh. Andrea Sindermann e. K.

Rank: two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Civil Rights & Liberties, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 100% of the regular working hours (currently 39 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on “transformations in democracy”—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy).

Tasks

The two postdoc researchers will conduct independent research and provide research support to the research department and work collaboratively with the research team on two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right

(see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department and to play a leading role in developing the unit’s workshops and research projects.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a Ph.D. in political science or a related social science discipline
- a vibrant and creative research agenda
- knowledge of, and excellent skills in quantitative research and quantitative methods
- excellent writing and communication skills in English
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

Salary for the positions: EG 14 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline a research agenda for the period of application.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with “postdoctoral fellow application” in the subject line.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8234

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Associate Professorship in Business and Government

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) invites applications for a vacant associate professorship in Business and Government.

The core research areas of the department unite the study of states, markets, and international firms in the context of societal challenges faced by emerging and advanced economies. We are creating a vibrant international hub for research and research-based teaching exploring international business, economics and politics, as well as the intersection between them. EGB’s research combines disciplines and is of direct relevance to business, policy-makers and scholars. We deliver research-based teaching into undergraduate and graduate teaching in programs such as International Business, International Business and

Politics, and International Business in Asia. To learn more about the research and education of the department, please visit the departmental homepage here

The Associate Professorship is a permanent position with research and teaching obligations.

We are looking for a candidate with a research profile at the intersection of business and government and/or economics and government. The candidate should have excellent skills in quantitative methods and ability to teach quantitative methods at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The associate professor is expected to contribute to the development of the department's research and teaching and to maintain and strengthen CBS's international research position.

These are non-exhaustive examples of research and teaching areas that the associate professor may cover:

Government-business relations

States and markets

Political economy

Comparative politics and public policy

To fulfill the research requirements of the position, the applicant chosen is expected to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the department.

Responsibilities

Research meeting high international standards, including responsibility for the academic development of the relevant discipline

Regular participation in research activities, such as research seminars, workshops and conferences

Research dissemination to the public in general and to CBS stakeholders in particular, including participation in public debate

Teaching and examination in CBS programs, including Executive Education

PhD supervision and participation in assessment committees

Promoting and developing the teaching and research capabilities of CBS and other relevant assignments at CBS

Initiating external fund raising and coordinating research projects

Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the department and to CBS-wide tasks

Qualifications

Advanced degree in political science or a related discipline

Excellent skills in methods

Documented teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of his/her pedagogical level. Please see guidelines for teaching portfolios.

Documented research production at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and books

Professional proficiency in English (written and spoken)

Copenhagen Business School has a broad commitment to the excellence, distinctiveness and relevance of its teaching and research programmes. Candidates who wish to join us should demonstrate enthusiasm for working in an organisation of this type (highlighting, for example, relevant business, educational and dissemination activities).

For further information please contact: Head of Department Jens Gammelgaard, tel.: +45 3815 2512, e-mail jg.egb@cbs.dk. Information about the department may be found here

Appointment and salary will be in accordance with the Ministry of Finance's agreement with the Central Academic Organisation.

Application

Application must be sent via the electronic recruitment system, using the link below.

Application must include:

- 1) A statement of application.
- 2) Proof of qualifications and a full CV.
- 3) Documentation of relevant, significant, original research at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and citations in the Social Science Citation Index and/or Google Scholar.
- 4) Documentation of teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of pedagogical level.
- 5) Information indicating experience in research management, industry co-operation and international co-operation.
- 6) A complete, numbered list of publications (indicating titles, co-authors, page numbers and year) with an * marking of the academic productions to be considered during the review. A maximum of 10 publications for review are allowed. Applicants are requested to prioritise their publications in relation to the field of this job advertisement.
- 7) Copies of the publications marked with an *. Only publications written in English (or another specified principal language, according to research tradition) or in one of the Scandinavian languages will be taken into consideration).
- 8) A research statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on a future research agenda
- 9) A teaching statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on pedagogical principles and a suggested future teaching agenda

Recruitment procedure

The Recruitment Committee will shortlist minimum two applicants; when possible five or more applicants will be shortlisted. The shortlisted applicants will be assessed by the Assessment Committee. All applicants will be notified of their status in the recruitment process shortly after the application deadline.

The applicants selected for assessment will be notified about the composition of the Assessment Committee and later in the process about the result of the assessment.

Once the recruitment process is completed each applicant will be notified of the outcome of their application

Copenhagen Business School must receive all application material, including all appendices (see items above), by the application deadline.

Details about Copenhagen Business School and the department are available at www.cbs.dk

Closing date: 5 December 2020.

Apply online

<https://www.cbs.dk/en/about-cbs/jobs-cbs/vacant-positions/associate-professorship-in-business-and-government-copenhagen-business-school>

With some 20.422 full and part-time students, 644 full-time faculty members, 192 PhD and 724 administrative staff CBS is a unique business-oriented university with a full portfolio of Bachelor, Masters, MBA/EMBA, PhD and Executive programmes delivered in English and Danish. Our academic staff includes internationally-recognised experts in classical business disciplines as well as in philosophy, history, psychology, sociology, law, political science, information systems and culture.

The University welcomes applications from suitably qualified candidates regardless of age, gender, race, religion or ethnic background.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 12/5/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8236

WZB Berlin Social Science Center

Rank: two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 65% of the regular working hours (currently 25.35 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on “transformations in democracy”—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy).

Tasks

The two junior researchers will conduct research and provide research support to the research department within two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right (see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

Both will review relevant literature from different disciplines, collect and analyse data, and co-author publications on the conceptual framework and the results of the studies. The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a master's degree (or a related degree) in political science or a related social science discipline

- knowledge of and experience with quantitative research and quantitative methods
- competence in handling of statistical data analyses (using syntax-based software)
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

The positions are ideal for candidates with a master in hand who want to acquire research exposure and develop a research design and analysis skills to embark on a PhD.

Salary for the positions: EG 13 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline statistical skills and experience supporting social scientific research.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with “predoctoral fellow application” in the subject line

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8235

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

Reed College

Rank: Visiting Search for Comparative Politics

Applications are invited for a visiting appointment in Political Science with a specialization in Comparative Politics for Spring 2021, with a preference for candidates who can teach upper-level courses in Latin American Politics. Visitors are usually appointed at the assistant professor level, but more advanced candidates are encouraged to apply. The salary is competitive.

We seek candidates to teach two courses during the spring semester. We have a strong preference for a candidate who has experience and/or can teach a course about Social Movements/Contentious Politics and a course about Latin American Politics (previous courses focused on Human Rights, Political Violence, and Gender and Politics). We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand, or near completion, by the start of the appointment. Above all, we seek candidates with a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level. The successful candidate must reside in or relocate to Oregon by the beginning of spring semester. Due to COVID, both courses may be taught online. Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli_sci/.

Reed College is a community that believes cultural diversity is essential to the excellence of our academic program. In your application materials, please include a description of how you would engage and sustain the commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity statement (<http://www.reed.edu/diversity/>). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

Please send an application letter, CV, demonstration of teaching excellence, statement of diversity, and one letter of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/80369>. Sample syllabi are welcome but not required. Review of applications will begin immediately and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8220

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8217

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years

(not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.
4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8216

Sungkyunkwan University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Position in International Relations or Comparative Politics (Sungkyunkwan University)

The Department of Political Science and Diplomacy at Sungkyunkwan University is building a cluster for education and research to nurture globally competitive students. The department is opening a tenure-track faculty position with academic competence and potential. Appointment is scheduled for March 1st, 2021. Recruitment major is open to the field of international relations and comparative politics.

*About Sungkyunkwan University (SKKU)

SKKU established in 1398 is highly innovative and comprehensive private university with 622 years of tradition in Korea. SKKU is based in two different locations – one in Seoul for humanities and social sciences and the other one in Suwon City for STEM fields. SKKU has been striving to reach top global university representing Korea with the financial and managerial support/ commitment of SAM-SUNG since 1996. SKKU is considered one of the leading higher education institutions in the nation according to various ranking authorities - SKKU 89th worldwide by Times Higher Education (THE), and 95th worldwide by Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) in 2019.

*Qualifications for application

- PhD with excellent research performance over the past five years. At least 4 main-authored papers in SSCI-listed journals are expected.
- Applicants who can provide excellence and advanced teaching techniques in undergraduate/ graduate student education.

*Teaching Load

9-15 credits per year (1 SKKU credit is equivalent to 1 teaching hour per week / 15 hours per semester) – duty credits for each faculty may vary depending on their research performance

*Application

- Applicants must send the following documents by e-mail to the department chairman, Dr. CHA Taesuh (tcha1@skku.edu)
 - (1) Curriculum Vitae
 - (2) List of research works
 - (3) Two representative research articles

*Timeline

- Application due date: November 3, 2020 at 6pm (Seoul time)
- Expected interview date: Second Week of November (in-person or Skype)

*Contact Information

- E-mail: tcha1@skku.edu

- Homepage: https://science.skku.edu/eng_sscience/index.do

- Address: Department of Political Science and Diplomacy, College of Social Science, Sungkyunkwan University, Sungkyunkwan-ro 25-2, Jongro-gu, Seoul 03063, Korea.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/3/2020

Date Posted: 10/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8211

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics) One-Year Appointment (2021-2022) (Faculty)

Position summary: The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of comparative politics, with a specialization in development-related issues. The successful candidate will be able to teach the department's introductory comparative politics course, upper-level courses in his/her/their specialty and contribute to the department's undergraduate methods requirement. The ability to teach a course on gender and/or democratization will be considered a plus, as will an ability to teach courses that focus on a region in the developing world. The teaching load for this position will be three courses each semester.

Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science with a subfield specialization in Comparative Politics. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship or governance that they can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our community.

Application details: Applicants should apply online at: <https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/3486>. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask you to elaborate on your cultural proficiencies and experiences engaging an increasingly diverse student body. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically.

Applications and letters of recommendation received by November 20, 2020 will be given fullest consideration; however, submissions will continue to be reviewed until the position is filled. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Caroline Hartzell (chartzel@gettysburg.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8199

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, <https://www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/>, and <https://csdc-cecd.ca/>.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, beginning in the fall of 2021. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2021. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment.

An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Experience working in and an ability to contribute to a multicultural setting is essential.

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. Applicants should submit a separate diversity statement addressing commitment to inclusivity and support for diverse populations in their past efforts and plans for future inclusiveness in teaching and research.

External applicant link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0221-WC-Stubbs-Hall/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00050523

In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Additional Position Information:

Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities; employee discounts; and more!

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8177

NYU Shanghai

Rank: Political Science, Tenured/Tenure-track

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a mid-career or senior scholar in Comparative Politics with a focus on East Asia. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related discipline. We are particularly interested in candidates able to teach a range of introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics, especially Chinese politics.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applications may be received until 12/15/20. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the third degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline.

Application Instructions:

Applications are received via Interfolio at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79653>. Applicants will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching interests, and up to five writing samples.

Additionally, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8172

Regis University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Politics

Job Summary: The Department of History, Politics and Political Economy at Regis College, Regis University, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to start in August 2021, pending final budgetary approval. The department is seeking a teacher-scholar of International Relations and Comparative Politics whose expertise is consistent with the department's mission to help students develop the empirical and analytical skills necessary to recognize and discern injustice and work for equality and dignity, particularly for historically marginalized communities.

Working at Regis University

As Regis employees, we each have a responsibility to perform our work in alignment with the mission of the University, especially with its Catholic and Jesuit values. All employees are expected to both contribute to and strengthen the university's culture of respect, inclusion and equity for all members of our community.

Major Duties and Responsibilities:

The department invites applications from and is committed to hiring qualified candidates from groups that are underrepresented in the field of Politics and among our faculty. We welcome candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic, and religious perspectives to their teaching and scholarship. The search is open to all specializations within Comparative Politics or International Relations but we would particularly welcome a candidate who could offer courses on topics such as inequality, human rights, power, conflict resolution, sustainable development, global environmental justice, representation, race and ethnicity, gender and sexuality, refugees and migration.

The position requires teaching Introduction to Comparative Politics and Introduction to International Relations. In addition, the successful applicant will have the flexibility to teach a variety of courses within both subfields, including both normative and empirical approaches. Integrative and experiential learning methods are also encouraged. While Regis values research (and a record of sustained scholarship is required for tenure), a commitment to inclusive teaching is essential; the candidate must demonstrate the skills to work effectively with racially, socioeconomically, and religiously diverse student populations. Experience or interest in supporting student scholarship and collaborative research would also be welcome. The standard teaching load is typically 3:3.

In Regis College, service - including academic advising, participating in the academic governance of the department, college, and university, contributing to the university's equity and inclusion goals, and professional development - is also an important aspect of a faculty member's workload. This position will help contribute to the department by participating in program meetings, working with other faculty teaching in the program, and advising our increasingly diverse student body.

About the Department: The Regis University Department of History, Politics and Political Economy is housed in Regis College, a Jesuit Catholic liberal-arts college in Denver, Colorado, which serves primarily traditional-age undergraduates and where care for the whole person (cura personalis) - students, faculty and staff - is a key element of our academic community. The History, Politics, and Political Economy department offers majors and minors in history, politics and political economy, as well as a minor in pre-law. Interdisciplinary collaboration is strongly valued in our department. Faculty in Politics also frequently cross-list courses with the other majors in the department, and contribute to Peace and Justice Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Environmental Studies. Applicants are also encouraged to contribute to our university's diversity and inclusion initiatives.

Position Requirements: Minimum qualifications include: a PhD in political science or a related field by 1 August 2021; a demonstrated commitment to high quality undergraduate teaching; and proven dedication to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, service, and professional activities.

Application: Electronically submit (1) a letter of application (cover letter) summarizing your interest and qualifications, (2) a curriculum vitae with the names and contact information for three references, (3) an annotated sample syllabus that demonstrates your teaching philosophy and priorities, and 4) a statement indicating how you can contribute in tangible ways to Regis University's commitment to cultivating an inclusive and diverse community and culture in the classrooms to rucareers.regis.edu. Letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations and academic transcripts will be requested of semifinalists and should not be submitted with the initial application.

The position will remain open until filled. Applications submitted by October 23 will receive full consideration. First round interviews will begin the week of November 30.

Questions can be addressed to Dr. Ian Zuckerman, Assistant Professor and Chair of the Politics Search Committee, at izuckerman@regis.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8173

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Economy, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley (<http://polisci.berkeley.edu>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in the field of political methodology. The position will have an expected start date of July 1, 2021. Basic qualifications include a PhD (or equivalent international degree), or enrollment in a PhD or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

The Department invites applications from methodologists with an interest in any substantive field of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political economy, public policy & law, and race & ethnic politics, and whose research focuses on design-based causal inference, computational methods, big data, mixed-method research, statistics, historical analysis, network analysis, and other topics. Successful candidates will be competent to teach graduate-level courses in quantitative methods.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Berkeley and Political Science. Our excellence can only be fully realized by faculty, students, and staff who share our commitment to these values. Successful candidates for our faculty positions will demonstrate evidence of a commitment to advancing equity and inclusion.

To apply, please go to the following link: <https://apptrkr.com/2021267>.

It is preferred that letters of reference be uploaded by referees no later than the final date to apply (November 15, 2020). All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality found at: <http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html> prior to submitting their letters.

Completed applications must be received by Sunday, November 15, 2020 to be eligible for consideration. Please direct questions to Kristine Nera, Academic HR Analyst, at knera@berkeley.edu.

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-b23af086e7a3ab46aeb7203d48a4551f>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8176

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references.

A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/12/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8167

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor – Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position, to begin Fall 2021. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on Comparative Politics. The ideal candidate would be someone with strong quantitative skills who specializes in any geographic area but with a research focus on institutions or representation in electoral democracies. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate teaching. Review of applications will begin November 7 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC001482. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Lydia Tiede, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at lbriede@central.uh.edu

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples. Additionally, the University prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/8/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8157

University of Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Croft Institute for International Studies (www.croft.olemiss.edu) and the Department of Political Science (www.olemiss.edu/depts/political_science) invite applications for the position of Croft Assistant Professor of Political Science in the Comparative Politics of the Middle East. This is a tenure-track position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will have their research and teaching focus on the Middle East and be able to teach introductory and thematic courses in comparative politics. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. or advanced ABD, field experience and appropriate foreign language proficiency in Arabic, strong methods skills, and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Tenure and promotion reside in the Department of Political Science. Teaching and service responsibilities will be divided equally between the Croft Institute for International Studies and the Department of Political Science. The Croft Institute, a signature program on campus, administers the major in International Studies within the College of Liberal Arts. Interested candidates should apply online at <https://careers.olemiss.edu> by uploading a letter of application, curriculum vita, and a statement of current and projected research interests. Evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and letters of recommendation should be sent to jbruce@olemiss.edu.

This position will be open until filled or an adequate applicant pool is reached. Salary is competitive.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/8/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8159

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8155

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Randolph-Macon College seeks an adjunct professor to teach one course, "Chinese Politics" online for our January term, January 6-February 4, 2021. The course may be taught synchronously (preferred) MTWRF 11:10 a.m.-1:10 p.m. or asynchronously. Pay is $3,250-$3,500, depending on degree earned.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8145

Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse

Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but preference may be given to candidates whose research interests are complementary to those of existing IAST researchers. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

To apply online please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8135

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program 2021-2023

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Founded in 1764, Brown is a leading research university distinct for its student-centered learning and deep sense of purpose. Brown University students, faculty, and staff are driven by the idea that their work will have an impact on the world. Brown is a place where rigorous scholarship, complex problem-solving, and service to the public good are defined by collaboration, intellectual discovery, and working in ways that transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 23, 2020 to the application portal:

A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits. Please also include a statement about teaching in a diverse and inclusive classroom.

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample.

Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 24; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2021.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website watson.brown.edu or contact:

Professor Rose McDermott, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. Rose_McDermott@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8128

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellowship

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, American Politics

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, please see our Five-Year Retrospective.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

Details

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting August 1 until July 31. Visiting Fellows will be expected to participate in a weekly community seminar series and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Harvard Kennedy School more broadly. The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space. If required, dedicated office space can be arranged that carries an additional fee.

How to Apply

Apply online here: https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_51JkxGWLaj3LpD7 for the AY 2021-2022 competition. The deadline for applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 PM ET.

The Ash Center is a vibrant and values-driven community. We are committed to diversity and welcome people of varied backgrounds, cultures, experiences, and disciplines. We actively seek applications from people of color, women, the LGBTQIA+ community, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented backgrounds.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you have questions, please contact Democratic Governance Coordinator James Rasaiah.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8131

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko at David.Sacko@usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: 11/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8132

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (International Relations/Comparative Politics)

Specializations: Russia, Central Asia, South Asia

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose--to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour "the Yard" to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Scholars with expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply. Candidates should be methodologically trained, and should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three courses per semester with small section sizes (no more than 20 students) and 2-3 preparations per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring and to service to the institution.

Candidates at the Assistant Professor level are preferred; however, well-qualified applicants may be considered at the Associate Professor level.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable for an August 2021 employment start date).

Preferred:

Expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, a research statement, a statement on teaching which addresses teaching in a diverse environment, writing samples, transcripts and a curriculum vitae to the search committee. Evidence of teaching effectiveness (teaching evaluations and syllabi of courses taught) may accompany the application.

Please arrange for three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and research abilities to be sent to the below email address.

Send all application materials to the International Relations/Comparative Politics Search Committee at usna_polisci_ircp_2020-group@usna.edu and use "USNA IR Comparative" in the subject line.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:

U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here: <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8120

Wabash College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor of Comparative Politics

The Wabash College Political Science Department invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor of Comparative Politics for the Spring 2021 semester.

The appointment is for one semester, and the teaching assignment will be three courses: two sections of introductory comparative politics and one intermediate-level course. We anticipate that these will be in-person courses, but with flexibility to offer hybrid instruction.

The successful candidate must have graduate training in political science. A PhD or ABD candidate with strong background and teaching experience in comparative politics is preferred.

This full-time position offers a competitive salary, benefits, and support for professional development. Wabash College does not provide H-1B or other immigration case sponsorship for short-term visiting positions.

To apply, please visit www.wabash.edu/employment/. Then click the "Apply Now" button to submit a cover letter that includes a discussion of your teaching philosophy, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references who can address your scholarship and teaching background.

Please direct questions about the position to Dr. Shamira Gelbman, Chair of the Political Science Department, at gelbmans@wabash.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, with preference given to applications received before October 15.

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men, seeks faculty and staff committed to providing quality engagement with students, high levels of academic challenge and support, and meaningful diversity experiences that prepare students for life and leadership in a multicultural global world. We welcome applications from persons of all backgrounds. EOE.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8109

Duke University

Rank: Professor

Specializations: Asian American Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

Duke University, Trinity College

Subject Area: Asian American Studies

Application Deadline: 2020/10/26

Position Description:

Duke University Trinity College of Arts and Sciences seeks candidates for two tenure-track professorships in Asian American Studies. These hires are part of an effort to increase the number of faculty with global perspectives and expertise across core departments, with support from the Office of the Provost and funded by The Duke Endowment.

Candidates should be at the assistant or associate professor level; distinguished candidates at the full professor level will also be considered. The search is open to discipline and to field. Preference will be given to candidates whose work is centrally located in Asian American Studies while also substantially linked to other fields of inquiry such as literature, history, anthropology, the arts, sociology, political science, religion, film and media studies, indigenous studies, gender & sexuality studies, and comparative race studies. Candidates will be considered in the context of the hiring department, with an interest to increase the representation of these studies across arts and sciences.

Candidates submitting materials by October 26, 2020 will receive full consideration.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, cv, work sample (an article or a chapter), and three letters of recommendation. Candidates should also indicate their preferred primary department and, where applicable, the secondary department. Review of candidates will continue until positions are filled.

Duke is committed to encouraging and sustaining work and learning environments that are free from harassment and prohibited discrimination. Duke prohibits discrimination and harassment in the administration of both its employment and educational policies.

Duke also makes good faith efforts to recruit, hire, and promote qualified women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Duke is an Affirmative Action / Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Application Materials Required:

To complete your application, submit the items below through Academic Jobs Online using this address: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/16876>

Cover Letter

Curriculum Vitae

Work Sample

Three letters of recommendation

Further Info:

<https://trinity.duke.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/26/2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8102

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The International Studies and Languages Division of Pepperdine University's Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor of International Studies (with a specialization in African Studies) beginning August 1, 2021. The ability to teach courses in at least two of the following areas is preferred: African politics, African culture and society, ethnicity in Africa, comparative politics, or comparative political economy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology is required. Candidates should demonstrate exceptional interest and effectiveness in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Candidates should also have the ability to establish a productive research program. The ability to engage students in their scholarly work would be a plus.

Pepperdine University is a private Christian university overlooking the Pacific Ocean in Malibu, California. Faculty, staff and students partner to support Pepperdine's Christian Mission. Pepperdine is committed to valuing diversity and inclusion among our students and faculty. Applicants of color are particularly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all application materials at apply.interfolio.com/78908. Review of candidates' application materials will begin on November 9th, 2020, and will continue until the search is closed.

Contact:

Dr. George Carlsen (george.carlsen@pepperdine.edu)
Divisional Dean of International Studies and Languages
Pepperdine University
24255 Pacific Coast Highway
Malibu, CA 90263

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8105

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Comparative Politics to begin Fall 2021. The department is seeking candidates with research and teaching specializations in political behavior or comparative political economy. We prefer those candidates with strong, quantitative methods training. Evidence of excellence in teaching and research, and a commitment to attracting external funds are also highly valued. We expect faculty to provide service to the department, TTU, and the community. Experience working with diverse student populations and first-generation students is highly desirable. The successful candidate will have their PhD in Political Science completed by the start of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, writing sample, contact information for three references, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applications for the position will start to be reviewed on or about 11/1/2020. For questions about the position, contact the department chair, Prof. Timothy Nokken.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8103

Eastern Illinois University

Rank: Instructor, Comparative Politics/Public Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University invites applicants for a non-tenure track instructor with a 3-year contract beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will teach online graduate and face-to-face undergraduate courses in Comparative Politics, Public Policy, and Public Administration.

Successful candidates must have a doctorate or Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, or ABD status with evidence of substantial progress toward degree completion. Candidates must demonstrate commitment to teaching excellence, along with dedication to mentoring, applied learning, diversity, and promoting inclusive excellence.

The teaching load will be 3-4 classes per semester, including 2 face-to-face undergraduate courses in non-western Comparative Politics (with the potential for curriculum development), an online graduate course in Public Policy Analysis (taught each semester), an online graduate course in Public Administration Ethics, and two additional courses. The position may include student research mentoring.

Applicants should upload the following to Interfolio, <http://apply.interfolio.com/79049>:

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references
- Graduate school transcripts

Application review begins October 14 and continues until the position is filled.

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, an International Studies option, and a Civic and Nonprofit Leadership option. The department offers an M.A. in Political Science and an online M.A. in Political Science with a Public Administration and Public Policy option. Questions about the search may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Kevin Anderson (kranderson@eiu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8089

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Latin American, Russia, East Asia

The Social Science Division of the Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences at Pepperdine University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Political Science to begin Fall 2021. We seek candidates who are broadly trained and able to teach undergraduate courses in international relations and, potentially, the regional politics of Latin America, Russia and Eastern Europe, or South Asia. Specific subfields are open, but candidates whose work engages issues of race and/or gender are especially encouraged to apply. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations, an active scholarly agenda, and a commitment to excellent teaching in a Christian liberal arts environment. Applications from candidates who will enrich the diversity of our faculty and who are committed to supporting an inclusive educational environment are encouraged.

Applicants should apply on Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78855>. Review of applicants will begin October 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. A background check will be required as a condition of employment.

Please address any inquiries regarding the position to:

Dr. Chris Soper (chris.soper@pepperdine.edu)
Chair of the Political Science Search Committee
Social Science Division, Pepperdine University
24255 Pacific Coast Highway
Malibu, CA. 90263

Application instructions:

Applications should include the following documents:

- A cover letter.

- A curriculum vitae, indicating educational record, employment record, achievements, awards, publications, and other relevant information. Please also describe any civic, religious, or charitable interests and activities, and list all current organizational memberships.
- Three confidential letters of reference. (Email addresses will be requested.)
- Official transcripts of all graduate work. (Copies are acceptable during the application process; however, official transcripts will be required for selected applicants.)
- A statement of teaching philosophy, which may focus on your motivation to teach at the university level and your thoughts about what constitutes effective pedagogy.
- A statement of scholarly agenda, which may focus on your current area of research and plans for professional development.
- A statement in support of the University's Christian mission. The University mission states that Pepperdine University is a Christian university committed to the highest standards of academic excellence and Christian values, where students are strengthened for lives of purpose, service, and leadership. In your statement, please comment on your willingness to support the mission of Seaver College and Christian values of the University including your involvement in a local community of faith and how your faith relates to your teaching, professional, and/or intellectual life.
- Student Evaluations – Please provide evidence of teaching effectiveness at the collegiate level. (This is not required to apply, but may be requested at a later stage.)

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8077

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Japan

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan>

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/4/2021
Date Posted: 9/21/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8067

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

About the Center:

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/4/2021
Date Posted: 9/21/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8062

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/15/2020
Date Posted: 9/21/2020
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 8076

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Comparative Politics or Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, Developing Nations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or Political Economy, starting

September 2021. Tenure track faculty engage in teaching, research and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). A strong research record is expected. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, though applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, diversity statement and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if applicant has prior teaching experience. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants should describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities.

Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <https://apply.interfolio.com/78296>. Review of applications will begin on October 17, 2020. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 9/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8054

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 8046

IE School of Global and Public Affairs

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science- focus on Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Global and Public Affairs (IEGPA) seeks applicants for a position at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in Political Science, with a focus on Comparative Politics starting September 1st, 2021.

We are especially interested in scholars who apply quantitative and/or formal methodologies to answer substantive questions of broad disciplinary relevance.

We would especially welcome applications from scholars with a regional focus on either sub-Saharan Africa or East Asia, but other profiles will also be considered.

We seek academics with the capacity to engage in policy relevant work, and with a commitment to institution-building: applying for research grants, participating in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expanding the IEGPA's current network and partnerships.

The successful candidate should demonstrate capacity to produce publications in top peer-reviewed outlets, both generalist and field journals, in the coming years, and have good teaching skills. Candidates must have a PhD from a recognized Department of Political Science, Public Policy, or Economics, or demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2021.

The IEGPA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA).

We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

Applications should include a cover letter and vitae, job market paper, and three academic references with their contact details.

Candidates may apply on Interfolio by October 23rd, 2020, using the following link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/77729>

Please contact Sara Flores at Sara.Flores@ie.edu for general queries about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 10/23/2020
Date Posted: 9/8/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8034

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale data collection and research program, see <https://v-dem.net>. The V-Dem Institute, Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg, has several large-scale grants from among others the European Commission, several ministries of foreign affairs, Riksbankens Jubileumsfond, the Swedish Research Council, Marcus & Marianne Walenberg's Foundation, and Knut & Alice Wallenberg Foundation.

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow is expected to conduct research with a focus on one or several of the main questions of the research program Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization (FASDEM). Details and project description can be found here: <https://www.v-dem.net/en/our-work/research-projects/fasdem/>

One of V-Dem's strengths is the flexibility and collaborative spirit of everyone at the institute, and we assume a willingness to contribute to coding of data, quality control, data management and/or teaching during peak periods. The Postdoctoral Research Fellow may be asked to perform such tasks up to one-third of full time employment (FTE).

Qualifications

The position is open to candidates who (at the time of assuming the position) have a PhD in political science or related field. Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in areas of relevance to one of the projects listed above. Research at high international level in the field of comparative democratization, autocratization, regime breakdown, authoritarian regimes, and/or political development, is required. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement.

Qualifications in one or more of the following areas are meritorious:

- Prior use of V-Dem data in applied research or similar evidence of familiarity with the project.
- Explicit interest in further extending on the sequencing methods developed in the FASDEM program
- Demonstrated experience designing, implementing and analyzing surveys in an international context. Work on survey experiments is also meritorious.
- Strong competence in advanced time-series, cross-sectional regression techniques, Vector Auto-Regression (VAR), sequencing algorithms, optimal matching methods, Monte Carlo chains, and/or Dynamic treatment regimes.
- Demonstrated R programming skills and analysis using STATA.
- Demonstrated resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to do teamwork in different configurations.
- Experience working collaboratively on a large-scale research project.
- Documented experience with service to the profession and collaboration with the surrounding community.

We will make an overall assessment of the applicants' qualifications and select one or more judged to complement the rest of the team in the best way possible for the needs of the research programs. Personal qualities and team-working skills are highly relevant for the position and are of great importance.

Type of employment: Fixed-term employment, 24 months, full time in residence.

Extent: 100 %?

Location: V-Dem Institute, Department of Political Science, Gothenburg, Sweden

Employment: Starting Spring 2021, or latest by 2021-09-01

Please apply online:

https://web103.reachmee.com/ext/I005/1035/job?site=7&lang=UK&validator=9b89bead79bb7258ad55c8d75228e5b7&job_id=16672

Applicants are expected to visit the website <https://www.v-dem.net/en/our-work/research-projects/fasdem/> and read program documents. The application should clearly relate to the FASDEM research program.

The letter of application should include a self-evaluation of how the applicant's proposed research agenda would contribute to the above listed research program, and in which ways the applicant meets the requirements specified above.

Attach to the application: a CV, an excerpt of citation count from Google scholar (including H-index), and one writing sample. The application should also include a list of at least three references from whom letters of recommendation can be solicited.

Information for International Applicants

Choosing a career in a foreign country is a big step. Thus, to give you a general idea of what we and Gothenburg have to offer in terms of benefits and life in general for you and your family/spouse/partner please visit:

<https://www.gu.se/english/welcomeservices/staff>

<https://www.movetogothenburg.com/>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 10/18/2020

Date Posted: 9/2/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8025

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 8018

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7983

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure-Track

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at the Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor (lecturer) position in comparative politics. The position is open to all subfields of comparative politics. The term of appointment would begin October 1st, 2021.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence as demonstrated by a record of publications, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive, and independent program and to pursue outstanding research.

Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Teaching at the Tel Aviv University is primarily in Hebrew, and candidates must be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, two writing samples, and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Interested individuals should send their applications to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il

Applicants should also ask three referees to send letters (on letterhead, signed) to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il by September 30th, 2020.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 30th, 2020, but may consider files received after this date.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 9/30/2020
Date Posted: 8/21/2020
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 7934

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click "Apply Now" at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7971

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2021. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in Public Law. Candidates with a secondary specialization in Comparative Politics are encouraged to apply.

Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates with an interest in teaching in the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program are desired. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement, and a serious commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Additional duties include advising and mentoring students, as well as service to the department and institution.

Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae along with submitting a teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, a single-authored writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation, and graduate transcript using the link below. <https://lycomingcollege.applytojob.com/apply/CqDmzXdfUU/Assistant-Professor-Of-Political-Science-Public-Law>

Letters of recommendations can be mailed to:

Attention: Missy Cashner, HR Generalist
Lycoming College
One College Place, Campus Box 861
Williamsport, PA 17701

To guarantee full consideration applications should be submitted by October 1, 2020. A pre-employment drug screening will be conducted.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/1/2020

Date Posted: 8/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7954

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. All applications should be submitted to jobs.carleton.edu. Inquiries can be directed to pteiken@carleton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 9/4/2020

Date Posted: 7/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7917

Providence College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics of Africa

Specializations: Africa, Developing Nations, Western Europe

The Political Science Department at Providence College invites applications for a one-year position as visiting assistant professor in Comparative Politics with a focus on African Politics. The Department welcomes applicants with a range of research foci, such as post-colonial institutions, democratization, social movements, parties and party systems, civil society, militarization and insurgencies, political economy, and statebuilding.

The teaching load is four courses per semester (two or three preparations); class size varies from about 12 to 25 students. The successful applicant will teach Comparative Politics, African Politics, and Politics 101, the introductory course for the major. There is a possibility the position may be extended for a second year.

The position includes competitive salary and benefits, as well as research support including travel funds, library resources, and grant writing assistance. The Political Science Department has thirteen faculty members dedicated to effective teaching and scholarship.

The City of Providence is vibrant and diverse city with a long history of welcoming immigrant populations, most recently from West Africa, Latin America, and Southeast Asia.

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in political science or be close to completion, and demonstrate evidence of teaching excellence, strong research skills, and potential for research productivity.

Applicants should apply online at <https://careers.providence.edu> and submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, and contact information for three professional references. For additional information, please contact Dr. Joe Cammarano, Chair of the Political Science Department, at jpcammar@providence.edu with questions.

Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7899

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science -

Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Associate Professorship in Business and Government

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) invites applications for a vacant associate professorship in Business and Government.

The core research areas of the department unite the study of states, markets, and international firms in the context of societal challenges faced by emerging and advanced economies. We are creating a vibrant international hub for research and research-based teaching exploring international business, economics and politics, as well as the intersection between them. EGB's research combines disciplines and is of direct relevance to business, policy-makers and scholars. We deliver research-based teaching into undergraduate and graduate teaching in programs such as International Business, International Business and Politics, and International Business in Asia. To learn more about the research and education of the department, please visit the departmental homepage here

The Associate Professorship is a permanent position with research and teaching obligations.

We are looking for a candidate with a research profile at the intersection of business and government and/or economics and government. The candidate should have excellent skills in quantitative methods and ability to teach quantitative methods at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The associate professor is expected to contribute to the development of the department's research and teaching and to maintain and strengthen CBS's international research position.

These are non-exhaustive examples of research and teaching areas that the associate professor may cover:

Government-business relations

States and markets

Political economy

Comparative politics and public policy

To fulfill the research requirements of the position, the applicant chosen is expected to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the department.

Responsibilities

Research meeting high international standards, including responsibility for the academic development of the relevant discipline

Regular participation in research activities, such as research seminars, workshops and conferences

Research dissemination to the public in general and to CBS stakeholders in particular, including participation in public debate

Teaching and examination in CBS programs, including Executive Education

PhD supervision and participation in assessment committees

Promoting and developing the teaching and research capabilities of CBS and other relevant assignments at CBS

Initiating external fund raising and coordinating research projects

Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the department and to CBS-wide tasks

Qualifications

Advanced degree in political science or a related discipline

Excellent skills in methods

Documented teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of his/her pedagogical level. Please see guidelines for teaching portfolios.

Documented research production at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and books

Professional proficiency in English (written and spoken)

Copenhagen Business School has a broad commitment to the excellence, distinctiveness and relevance of its teaching and research programmes. Candidates who wish to join us should demonstrate enthusiasm for working in an organisation of this type (highlighting, for example, relevant business, educational and dissemination activities).

For further information please contact: Head of Department Jens Gammelgaard, tel.: +45 3815 2512, e-mail jg.egb@cbs.dk. Information about the department may be found here

Appointment and salary will be in accordance with the Ministry of Finance's agreement with the Central Academic Organisation.

Application

Application must be sent via the electronic recruitment system, using the link below.

Application must include:

- 1) A statement of application.
- 2) Proof of qualifications and a full CV.
- 3) Documentation of relevant, significant, original research at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and citations in the Social Science Citation Index and/or Google Scholar.
- 4) Documentation of teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of pedagogical level.
- 5) Information indicating experience in research management, industry co-operation and international co-operation.
- 6) A complete, numbered list of publications (indicating titles, co-authors, page numbers and year) with an * marking of the academic productions to be considered during the review. A maximum of 10 publications for review are allowed. Applicants are requested to prioritise their publications in relation to the field of this job advertisement.
- 7) Copies of the publications marked with an *. Only publications written in English (or another specified principal language, according to research tradition) or in one of the Scandinavian languages will be taken into consideration).
- 8) A research statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on a future research agenda
- 9) A teaching statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on pedagogical principles and a suggested future teaching agenda

Recruitment procedure

The Recruitment Committee will shortlist minimum two applicants; when possible five or more applicants will be shortlisted. The shortlisted applicants will be assessed by the Assessment Committee. All applicants will be notified of their status in the recruitment process shortly after the application deadline.

The applicants selected for assessment will be notified about the composition of the Assessment Committee and later in the process about the result of the assessment.

Once the recruitment process is completed each applicant will be notified of the outcome of their application

Copenhagen Business School must receive all application material, including all appendices (see items above), by the application deadline.

Details about Copenhagen Business School and the department are available at www.cbs.dk

Closing date: 5 December 2020.

Apply online

<https://www.cbs.dk/en/about-cbs/jobs-cbs/vacant-positions/associate-professorship-in-business-and-government-copenhagen-business-school>

With some 20,422 full and part-time students, 644 full-time faculty members, 192 PhD and 724 administrative staff CBS is a unique business-oriented university with a full portfolio of Bachelor, Masters, MBA/EMBA, PhD and Executive programmes delivered in English and Danish. Our academic staff includes internationally-recognised experts in classical business disciplines as well as in philosophy, history, psychology, sociology, law, political science, information systems and culture.

The University welcomes applications from suitably qualified candidates regardless of age, gender, race, religion or ethnic background.

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: 12/5/2020
Date Posted: 10/30/2020
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 8236

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a letter of application, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than January 21, 2021. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2021, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/29/2021
Date Posted: 10/30/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8242

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellow

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants pursuing a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. This fellowship is designed to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one year (or in exceptional cases two years) of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a personal statement, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than January 29, 2021. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/29/2021
Date Posted: 10/30/2020
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 8241

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of North Carolina at Charlotte
 Department of Political Science and Public Administration
 International Relations Tenure Track Faculty Position #7115

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in international relations. Required qualifications include: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field, with a primary focus on peace and conflict with areas of interest including but not limited to migration and citizenship, human rights, race/ethnicity, and peace and conflict, gender and peace and conflict, or security and intelligence; evidence of strong potential for professional development as a scholar, including the ability to secure external funding; teaching experience at the college level; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment. The ability to teach courses in the Security and Intelligence Studies minor is also valuable. The nine-month tenure track position begins Fall 2021.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers an M.P.A., B.A., and two minors. It has 24 full-time faculty members.

Many participate in one or more interdisciplinary programs, including the Public Policy Ph.D. program, Latin American Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Africana Studies.

The department seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their work.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007115) and attach the following:

- Cover letter of application outlining your scholarly interests and agenda, including experience with securing external funding and with teaching, related to the outlined qualifications
- Curriculum vitae
- Copy of graduate transcript
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample of professional writing
- Name and contact information for three references

Applicants should have references send the letters of recommendation directly to Dr. James Walsh, chair of the search committee, at jwalsh@uncc.edu.

Review of applications begins November 15, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. James Igoe Walsh, chair of the search committee, at jwalsh@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8239

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

Virginia Military Institute

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science-Tenure-track

Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science – Tenure-track

The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in the subfield of international relations, beginning 01 August 2021. To be considered for this position, candidates must have completed the requirements for their PhD by Spring 2021.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a capacity to teach undergraduate-level courses in one or more of the following areas: International Politics; US Foreign Policy; or US National Security Policy. In addition, the ideal candidate will possess a substantive and/or geographic specialization that augments the existing strengths of the department's faculty. Preference will be given to those candidates who provide evidence of their potential to develop and maintain a vibrant research agenda and to apply their research in the undergraduate classroom. These endeavors are highly valued and well supported at VMI. Information on the IS department and curriculum can be found at <https://www.vmi.edu/academics/departments/international-studies-and-political-science/>.

Once hired, the successful candidate would be expected to teach courses on campus and in-person, as permitted by the public health situation.

Salary commensurate with experience.

This position includes a very competitive benefits package.

Minimum Qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations at the time of application is preferred, but ABD applicants expecting to complete their dissertation prior to appointment will be considered.

- Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is required. Candidates please apply online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/201897>

In addition to completing an online application, please submit a cover letter summarizing your interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and graduate transcripts

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to the VMI International Studies Department Head, Dennis Foster, at fosterdm@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by 15 January 2021. Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled. Finalist interviews will be conducted on campus and in-person, as permitted by the public health situation.

Virginia Military Institute is a state-supported four-year undergraduate military college of liberal arts, engineering, and the sciences. It is located in the southern Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Lexington, population 7,000, is also home to Washington and Lee University and offers a stimulating cultural atmosphere in a pleasant, rural setting. In a continuing effort to enrich its academic environment and provide equal education and employment opportunities, VMI encourages women, minorities, disabled individuals, and veterans to apply. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are also encouraged to apply. VMI will provide reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with documented disabilities to ensure equal access and equal opportunities with regard to employment, educational opportunities, programs and services.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/15/2021

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8230

University of Chicago

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Political Theory

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for appointment as Lecturer 1B (50% effort), for appointment in the Committee on International Relations and the College. This is a part-time, temporary position for a term January 1-June 30, 2021. The appointee will teach two courses that contribute to the IR curriculum, advise and mentor students in the development of individual thesis projects, and participate in admissions and new-student recruiting.

About the Unit

The Master of Arts in International Relations (<https://cir.uchicago.edu/>) combines rigorous core instruction with an interdisciplinary curriculum. Students specialize in two fields of study and conduct original research leading to the MA thesis.

Qualifications

Candidates must have the PhD in hand prior to the start date, experience conducting research in international relations, and a demonstrated ability to develop rapport with and mentor a diverse group of students. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience as instructor of record or teaching assistant for graduate students at a selective research university, and experience advising students on main lines of inquiry in international relations.

Application Instructions

Applicants are required to apply online through the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/80129. Applicants are required to upload the following materials: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae (3) syllabi for two proposed courses; (4) a writing sample/publication; and (5) the names and contact information for three references. References will only be contacted for shortlisted candidates. Review of applications will begin November 20, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position will be part of the Service Employees International Union.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8225

University of Chicago

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Political Theory

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for appointment as Lecturer 1B (50% effort), for appointment in the Committee on International Relations and the College. This is a part-time, temporary position for a term January 1-June 30, 2021. The appointee will teach two courses that contribute to the IR curriculum, advise and mentor students in the development of individual thesis projects, and participate in admissions and new-student recruiting.

About the Unit

The Master of Arts in International Relations (<https://cir.uchicago.edu/>) combines rigorous core instruction with an interdisciplinary curriculum. Students specialize in two fields of study and conduct original research leading to the MA thesis.

Qualifications

Candidates must have the PhD in hand prior to the start date, experience conducting research in international relations, and a demonstrated ability to develop rapport with and mentor a diverse group of students. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience as instructor of record or teaching assistant for graduate students at a selective research university, and experience advising students on main lines of inquiry in international relations.

Application Instructions

Applicants are required to apply online through the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/80129. Applicants are required to upload the following materials: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae (3) syllabi for two proposed courses; (4) a writing sample/publication; and (5) the names and contact information for three references. References will only be contacted for shortlisted candidates. Review of applications will begin November 20, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

This position will be part of the Service Employees International Union.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8226

University of Oslo

Rank: Researcher in Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces a vacant position for a researcher (SKO 1108 or 1109). The position is associated with the project "Energy Transition in Oil-Exporting Countries: Discourses on the Green Shift and Climate Change in Norway and the Gulf (Oil in Transition)" based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages and Department of Political Science. The position is funded by UiO:Energy, which focuses on advancing new ways of using energy to tackle global climate change and environmental challenges.

The project is looking for a quantitative political scientist to study changing attitudes and discourses relating to environmental politics, climate change, and renewable sources of energy, in one or more oil-producing Gulf state, e.g. Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates. We are particularly interested in hearing from candidates who can use quantitative text analysis to examine trends and topics in Arabic-language media reporting and/or candidates with experience in analyzing survey data from the MENA region. This research will result in a project report, as well as one or more article-length manuscripts to be submitted to international peer reviewed journals.

The position is available for a period of 18 months and does not involve teaching. The successful candidate will work with Dr. Neil Ketchley in the Department of Political Science. They will also coordinate with the other project members (PI: Professor Brynjar Lia; Co-I Albrecht Hofheinz; both based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages) working on comparisons between Norway and the Gulf.

Qualification requirements

Completed MA degree in political science or related social science discipline (SKO1108), or PhD degree in political Science (SKO 1109) Familiarity with Arabic text analysis and web scrapping packages available in R or cognate software and/or competence in survey data analysis and knowledge of relevant surveys fielded in the MENA region, e.g. the Arab Barometer.

Background in environmental politics and/or climate change research is an advantage, but not a necessary requirement;

Fluent oral and written communication skills in English; research proficiency in Arabic.

We offer

Salary NOK 458 900 - 555 800 (position code 1108) or NOK 555 800 - 670 100 (position code 1109) per annum depending on qualifications

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include

Cover letter statement of motivation and research interests

A project description (max. 3000 words). The project description must present a research question, identify possible empirical sources, and outline a feasible progress plan. It is expected that the applicant will be able to complete the project during the period of appointment. Applicants are welcome to contact Neil Ketchley to discuss the Oil in Transition project.

CV (summarizing education, positions and academic work)

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree Diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

Foreign applicants are advised to attach an official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university, translated into ECTS-credits.

A complete list of publications and academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered by the evaluation committee

List of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system; please follow the link "Apply for this job".. Please note that all documents must be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

About the evaluation process

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the project description and the applicant's academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The most promising candidates will then be called for interviews.

Formal regulations

According to the Norwegian Freedom and Information Act (Offentleglova), information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, even in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Neil Ketchley: neil.ketchley@stv.uio.no, +47 22844351

Head of Administration Dagfinn Hagen: dagfinn.hagen@stv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 11/24/2020

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8223

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level. We seek candidates who are broadly trained in International Relations with a specialization in international security. We encourage candidates with strong quantitative methodological skills, and experience teaching research methods, to apply. This position involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, with a two-one teaching load.

We seek faculty members who share IPS's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion, and who have a commitment to teaching and mentoring that will enhance the work of IPS and attract and retain a diverse student body. The Assistant Professor is expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of IPS and become involved in Carnegie Mellon's rich interdisciplinary community.

Carnegie Mellon University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its community on a range of intellectual and cultural dimensions. Carnegie Mellon welcomes faculty applicants who will contribute to this diversity through their research, teaching and service, including women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, individuals with disabilities, and others who would contribute in different ways. Carnegie Mellon University seeks to meet the needs of dual-career couples and is a member of the Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC) that assists with dual-career searches.

The anticipated start date is August 1, 2021. A Ph.D. or evidence that the degree will be complete by the time of the appointment start date is required. Applications including a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach), diversity statement (that speaks to the candidate's experience and vision regarding the teaching and mentorship of students from diverse backgrounds), two letters of recommendation, and two writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio:
<http://apply.interfolio.com/80262>.

Applications must be received by November 15, 2020, to guarantee full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8213

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites applications for a teaching-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level in international relations. The Assistant Teaching Professor will be expected to teach two undergraduate/graduate courses per semester, work with undergraduate and graduate students on theses and independent study projects, complete independent research, and attend IPS-sponsored seminars and other events. This position also requires the Assistant Teaching Professor to have an active research agenda and have scholarly writings published in leading academic outlets.

We seek faculty members who share IPS's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion, and who have a commitment to teaching and mentoring that will enhance the work of IPS and attract and retain a diverse student body. The Assistant Professor is expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of IPS and become involved in Carnegie Mellon's rich interdisciplinary community.

Carnegie Mellon University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its community on a range of intellectual and cultural dimensions. Carnegie Mellon welcomes faculty applicants who will contribute to this diversity through their research, teaching and service, including women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, individuals with disabilities, and others who would contribute in different ways. Carnegie Mellon University seeks to meet the needs of dual-career couples and is a member of the Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC) that assists with dual-career searches.

The anticipated start date is August 1, 2021. A Ph.D. or evidence that the degree will be complete by the time of the appointment start date is required. Applications including a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach), diversity statement (that speaks to the candidate's experience and vision regarding the teaching and mentorship of students from diverse backgrounds), two letters of recommendation, and two writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80264>.

Applications must be received by November 15, 2020, to guarantee full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8214

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8217

Sungkyunkwan University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Position in International Relations or Comparative Politics (Sungkyunkwan University)

The Department of Political Science and Diplomacy at Sungkyunkwan University is building a cluster for education and research to nurture globally competitive students. The department is opening a tenure-track faculty position with academic competence and potential. Appointment is scheduled for March 1st, 2021. Recruitment major is open to the field of international relations and comparative politics.

*About Sungkyunkwan University (SKKU)

SKKU established in 1398 is highly innovative and comprehensive private university with 622 years of tradition in Korea. SKKU is based in two different locations – one in Seoul for humanities and social sciences and the other one in Suwon City for STEM fields. SKKU has been striving to reach top global university representing Korea with the financial and managerial support/ commitment of SAM-SUNG since 1996. SKKU is considered one of the leading higher education institutions in the nation according to various ranking authorities - SKKU 89th worldwide by Times Higher Education (THE), and 95th worldwide by Quacquarelli Symonds (QS) in 2019.

*Qualifications for application

- PhD with excellent research performance over the past five years. At least 4 main-authored papers in SSCI-listed journals are expected.
- Applicants who can provide excellence and advanced teaching techniques in undergraduate/ graduate student education.

*Teaching Load

9-15 credits per year (1 SKKU credit is equivalent to 1 teaching hour per week / 15 hours per semester) – duty credits for each faculty may vary depending on their research performance

Application

- Applicants must send the following documents by e-mail to the department chairman, Dr. CHA Taesuh (tcha1@skku.edu)

- (1) Curriculum Vitae
- (2) List of research works
- (3) Two representative research articles

Timeline

- Application due date: November 3, 2020 at 6pm (Seoul time)
 - Expected interview date: Second Week of November (in-person or Skype)

Contact Information

- E-mail: tcha1@skku.edu
 - Homepage: https://ssscience.skku.edu/eng_sscience/index.do
 - Address: Department of Political Science and Diplomacy, College of Social Science, Sungkyunkwan University, Sungkyunkwan-ro 25-2, Jongro-gu, Seoul 03063, Korea.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/3/2020

Date Posted: 10/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8211

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defense-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://sps.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors.

The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field

- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, <https://www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/>, and <https://csdc-cecd.ca/>.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.

- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8181

Regis University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Politics

Job Summary: The Department of History, Politics and Political Economy at Regis College, Regis University, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to start in August 2021, pending final budgetary approval. The department is seeking a teacher-scholar of International Relations and Comparative Politics whose expertise is consistent with the department's mission to help students develop the empirical and analytical skills necessary to recognize and discern injustice and work for equality and dignity, particularly for historically marginalized communities.

Working at Regis University

As Regis employees, we each have a responsibility to perform our work in alignment with the mission of the University, especially with its Catholic and Jesuit values. All employees are expected to both contribute to and strengthen the university's culture of respect, inclusion and equity for all members of our community.

Major Duties and Responsibilities:

The department invites applications from and is committed to hiring qualified candidates from groups that are underrepresented in the field of Politics and among our faculty. We welcome candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic, and religious perspectives to their teaching and scholarship. The search is open to all specializations within Comparative Politics or International Relations but we would particularly welcome a candidate who could offer courses on topics such as inequality, human rights, power, conflict resolution, sustainable development, global environmental justice, representation, race and ethnicity, gender and sexuality, refugees and migration.

The position requires teaching Introduction to Comparative Politics and Introduction to International Relations. In addition, the successful applicant will have the flexibility to teach a variety of courses within both subfields, including both normative and empirical approaches. Integrative and experiential learning methods are also encouraged. While Regis values research (and a record of sustained scholarship is required for tenure), a commitment to inclusive teaching is essential; the candidate must demonstrate the skills to work effectively with racially, socioeconomically, and religiously diverse student populations. Experience or interest in supporting student scholarship and collaborative research would also be welcome. The standard teaching load is typically 3:3.

In Regis College, service - including academic advising, participating in the academic governance of the department, college, and university, contributing to the university's equity and inclusion goals, and professional development - is also an important aspect of a faculty member's workload. This position will help contribute to the department by participating in program meetings, working with other faculty teaching in the program, and advising our increasingly diverse student body.

About the Department: The Regis University Department of History, Politics and Political Economy is housed in Regis College, a Jesuit Catholic liberal-arts college in Denver, Colorado, which serves primarily traditional-age undergraduates and where care for the whole person (cura personalis) - students, faculty and staff - is a key element of our academic community. The History, Politics, and Political Economy department offers majors and minors in history, politics and political economy, as well as a minor in pre-law. Interdisciplinary collaboration is strongly valued in our department. Faculty in Politics also frequently cross-list courses with the other majors in the department, and contribute to Peace and Justice Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Environmental Studies. Applicants are also encouraged to contribute to our university's diversity and inclusion initiatives.

Position Requirements: Minimum qualifications include: a PhD in political science or a related field by 1 August 2021; a demonstrated commitment to high quality undergraduate teaching; and proven dedication to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, service, and professional activities.

Application: Electronically submit (1) a letter of application (cover letter) summarizing your interest and qualifications, (2) a curriculum vitae with the names and contact information for three references,

(3) an annotated sample syllabus that demonstrates your teaching philosophy and priorities, and 4) a statement indicating how you can contribute in tangible ways to Regis University's commitment to cultivating an inclusive and diverse community and culture in the classrooms to rucareers.regis.edu. Letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations and academic transcripts will be requested of semifinalists and should not be submitted with the initial application.

The position will remain open until filled. Applications submitted by October 23 will receive full consideration. First round interviews will begin the week of November 30.

Questions can be addressed to Dr. Ian Zuckerman, Assistant Professor and Chair of the Politics Search Committee, at izuckerman@regis.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8173

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Appointment as Researcher is a three-year position.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from Researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Researcher also has administrative responsibilities.

As Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement
- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A limited amount of teaching is also to be expected even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152556&DepartmentId=18992&MediaId=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8164

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Senior Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is a permanent, full-time position and is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Senior Researcher also has administrative responsibilities and is expected to develop the field in synergy with other fields as well as to exercise academic leadership.

As Senior Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement
- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Research management, including administrative tasks related to the position
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A certain amount of teaching is also to be expected, even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152555&DepartmentId=18992&Mediald=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8163

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor (Indigenous Studies)

The Department of Global and International Studies at the University of California, Irvine (UCI) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position. We are looking for outstanding scholars involved in critical, interdisciplinary and innovative approaches to global Indigenous issues. Applicants should address explicitly how global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The candidate will be participating in an innovative, transdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, non-western epistemologies, and pressing regional and transnational issues manifesting in the lives and experiences of people. See department website at: www.globalstudies.uci.edu

Completed applications must include: a cover letter highlighting qualifications, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching, statement of research, up to three publications, and three letters of reference by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials.

Interested candidates should apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/JPF06367>

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled. If you have questions, please feel free to contact Department Chair, Eve Darian-Smith via email to edarian@uci.edu

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8153

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor (Racial Studies)

The Department of Global and International Studies at the University of California, Irvine (UCI) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position. We are looking for outstanding scholars involved in critical, interdisciplinary and innovative approaches to structural racism as a pressing global issue. We are especially interested in candidates engaging in critical approaches to racial capitalism, Black Internationalism and Black geographies. Applicants should address explicitly how global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The candidate will be participating in an innovative, transdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, non-western epistemologies, and pressing regional and transnational issues manifesting in the lives and experiences of people. See department website at: www.globalstudies.uci.edu

Completed applications must include: a cover letter highlighting qualifications, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching, statement of research, up to three publications, and three letters of reference by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials.

Interested candidates should apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/JPF05186>

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled. If you have questions, please feel free to contact Department Chair, Eve Darian-Smith via email to edarian@uci.edu

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/7/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 8152

Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse

Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but preference may be given to candidates whose research interests are complementary to those of existing IAST researchers. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

To apply online please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/15/2020
Date Posted: 10/5/2020
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 8135

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Newman Post-Doctoral Fellow

We seek to hire a Newman Post-Doctoral Fellow with an abiding interest in multi-disciplinary work focused on China's growing influence around the world and the role of American multinational corporations in U.S.-China relations. The individual will assist with the research initiatives of the Institute for U.S.-China Issues, support the Institute's biannual symposia, help to organize and participate in the Institute's events, teach one interdisciplinary course on China in a comparative or global context in the Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) per year, and deliver a research presentation per semester.

Fields of specialization might include (but are not limited to) political science, international relations, China Studies, economics, political economy, security studies, public policy, history, sociology, and geography. Chinese language and quantitative research skills are strongly preferred.

We will accept applications from those who have earned a Ph.D. (or those who expect to earn their doctorate before September 2021). Applicants must submit a cover letter, vita, 500-word description of a proposed course, a single-authored writing sample, 1,000-word description of a research project, three recommendation letters, and a statement on diversity, equity and inclusion by November 15, 2020 for full consideration. The Newman Post-Doc Fellowship will commence on August 1, 2021 and end on July 31, 2023. The salary will be $40,000 per year and the Institute will provide fringe benefits.

The Institute for US-China Issues at the University of Oklahoma College of International Studies was established in 2006 with the generous financial support of Harold J. & Ruth Newman. It seeks to establish national distinctiveness and preeminence in enhancing the understanding and management of U.S.-China relations by simultaneously addressing two sets of interrelated issue clusters—the security, technology, economic, environmental, political, and public health (STEEPP) issues, and the instrumental role culture plays in shaping how the two nations perceive and engage each other. Additional information about the Institute's activities may be found at https://www.ou.edu/cis/sponsored_programs/institute-for-us-china-issues.

Those seeking a fellowship should submit applications to: uschina@ou.edu.

For inquiries, please contact Bo Kong (bo.kong@ou.edu).

The University of Oklahoma is an equal opportunity institution (www.ou.edu/eoo).

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 10/5/2020Salary: $40,000 - $49,999eJobs ID: 8138William & Mary*Rank: Research Scientist or Senior Research Scientist*Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, OtherSpecializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Research Methods

AidData is currently recruiting for a Research Scientist (U13) OR Senior Research Scientist (U15), depending on the applicant's qualifications. These positions are based in Williamsburg, VA. As such, applicants will be expected to relocate to the Williamsburg area in 2021.

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

The Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and work closely with the Director of Policy Analysis to provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. The Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a Co-Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will also contribute to the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and Policy Analysis Unit, represent the program and unit externally in presenting research results to academic and policy audiences, and broker financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program and unit's research agenda.

The Senior Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. This is a senior leadership position within AidData. The Senior Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a lead Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will lead the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program, and represent the program externally to academic and policy audiences. The individual will also be responsible for brokering financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program's research agenda, while ensuring the long-term health and sustainability of the program area.

Either position may include oversight of staff conducting data collection and analysis related to the nature, scope, distribution, and effects of Chinese, Russian, and Middle Eastern financing. Either role will be responsible for the successful delivery of analysis, datasets and tools related to sponsored research projects, including:

- Financial oversight (managing budgets for active grants and contracts, developing proposals for new grants);
- External client management (ensuring on-time, high-quality deliverables for external funders);
- Personnel oversight (supervision of staff/research assistants);
- Project/portfolio management (responsible for direct implementation of projects to produce data and derivative products); and quality assurance.

This position is located at the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. This is a full-time position, and salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications in the U13-U15 range (see Salary Structure for University Employees).

Required Qualifications

Research Scientist:

- A Master's degree in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance, or comparable education and experience;
- Several years of relevant professional experience;
- Demonstrated experience leading the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects;
- Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;
- Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress reports in a timely manner to external research sponsors;
- Track record of leading research collaborations;
- Established subject matter expert in at least one domain relevant to the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.);
- Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
- Experience leading technical teams and projects and training/mentoring team members;
- Experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;
- Strong and effective communication skills;
- Ability to work both independently and collaboratively in a demanding and complex work environment; to carry out assignments in a timely manner, and to adapt to changing situations and priorities;
- Experience managing small to mid-size project teams and delivery schedules

Senior Research Scientist:

- A terminal degree in a relevant discipline with several years' experience as a principal investigator or co-principal investigator;
- Demonstrated academic rigor to lead the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects as a Principal Investigator;
- Established track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
- Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;
- Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress to external research sponsors;
- Track record of publishing research in peer-reviewed journals or policy research that meets equivalent standards of scrutiny;

Experience with personnel management and fiscal responsibilities associated with externally-sponsored research projects;
 Established track record of leading research collaborations (with and without external collaborators) that result in high-quality and high-profile research outputs;
 Established subject matter expert in at least two domains relevant to the program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.);
 Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
 Extensive professional network and presence in relevant professional communities, including researchers across multiple domains;
 Substantial experience leading large, interdisciplinary teams and technically demanding projects;
 Demonstrated experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;
 Strong and effective communication and presentation skills

Preferred Qualifications

Research Scientist:

A Master's degree or Doctorate in a relevant discipline;
 Extensive relevant professional experience;
 Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research projects in developing country contexts;
 Knowledge/experience with qualitative data collection and research methods (FGDs, interviews, Nvivo);
 Advanced experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);
 Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;
 Experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;
 Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;
 Detailed knowledge of aid classification schemes and experience in collecting, standardizing, and publishing data from multiple actors;
 Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;
 Knowledge of the standards, best practices, and systems related to public service and/or international aid program delivery in developing countries

Senior Research Scientist:

Doctorate in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance or comparable advanced level experience;
 Track record of obtaining research funding from a variety of funders;
 Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research in developing country contexts;
 Advanced proficiency/experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);
 Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;
 Demonstrated experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;

Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;
 Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;
 Extensive knowledge of traditional and non-traditional donor classification schemes (with a particular emphasis on Non-DAC donors like China, Russia and the Gulf Cooperation Council countries)

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 10/29/2020

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8136

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program 2021-2023

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Founded in 1764, Brown is a leading research university distinct for its student-centered learning and deep sense of purpose. Brown University students, faculty, and staff are driven by the idea that their work will have an impact on the world. Brown is a place where rigorous scholarship, complex problem-solving, and service to the public good are defined by collaboration, intellectual discovery, and working in ways that transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 23, 2020 to the application portal:

A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits. Please also include a statement about teaching in a diverse and inclusive classroom.

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample.

Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 24; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2021.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website watson.brown.edu or contact:

Professor Rose McDermott, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. Rose_McDermott@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8128

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko@usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: 11/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8132

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (International Relations/Comparative Politics)

Specializations: Russia, Central Asia, South Asia

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose--to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour "the Yard" to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Scholars with expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply. Candidates should be methodologically trained, and should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three courses per semester with small section sizes (no more than 20 students) and 2-3 preparations per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring and to service to the institution.

Candidates at the Assistant Professor level are preferred; however, well-qualified applicants may be considered at the Associate Professor level.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable for an August 2021 employment start date).

Preferred:

Expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, a research statement, a statement on teaching which addresses teaching in a diverse environment, writing samples, transcripts and a curriculum vitae to the search committee. Evidence of teaching effectiveness (teaching evaluations and syllabi of courses taught) may accompany the application.

Please arrange for three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and research abilities to be sent to the below email address.

Send all application materials to the International Relations/Comparative Politics Search Committee at usna_polisci_ircp_2020-group@usna.edu and use "USNA IR Comparative" in the subject line.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:

U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here: <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8120

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor and Deputy Director of the Johnson Grand Strategy Program

Specializations: International Security, Defense, Foreign Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR AND DEPUTY DIRECTOR FOR THE JOHNSON GRAND STRATEGY PROGRAM at West Point. Position beginning in July 2021. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Advanced degree (Ph.D.) in political science with a strong background in security studies. (ii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate political science courses. (iii) Strong research agenda and the demonstrated ability to present results in a variety of media. (iv) Ability to lead an interdisciplinary Grand Strategy Program, to include: coordinating across academic departments to develop and assess curriculum; managing a high-impact guest speaker series; facilitating cadet and faculty research on grand strategy; providing subject matter expertise and guiding outreach; and communicating grand strategy lessons learned to communities of study and practice.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2021, with all requirements for a doctoral degree completed. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail a hard copy of all material to: Department of Social Sciences, Grand Strategy Program Search Committee, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. Inquiries about this position can be directed to Prof. Scott A. Silverstone at scott.silverstone@westpoint.edu. For administrative questions concerning application submission, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@westpoint.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 16 November 2020. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 11/16/2020

Date Posted: 9/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8099

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Director, Ford Program in Human Development Studies and Solidarity

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a senior faculty position in development studies or a social science discipline directly relevant to the study of international development, who will serve as the Faculty Director of the Ford Program in Human Development Studies and Solidarity.

For over 10 years, the Ford Family Program (<https://kellogg.nd.edu/about/outreach-initiatives/ford-program-human-development-studies-and-solidarity>) has been dedicated to research, teaching, and service that promotes integral human development, a holistic model of flourishing emerging from the tradition of Catholic social thought and rooted in each person's human dignity and full potential. With the goal of understanding the challenges and aspirations of people living in extreme poverty around the developing world, the Program conducts and supports research that grows out of engagement with local communities. Ford Program research initiatives, which are conducted both with a variety of University of Notre Dame faculty and with local partners, have been centered primarily in East Africa, but more recently its research has extended into other parts of Africa, the Mediterranean basin, and Latin America.

The Ford Program is situated within the Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>), which has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development. The Kellogg Institute is one of the principal constitutive units of the University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs (<http://keough.nd.edu/>). Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a professional master's degree and undergraduate degrees, and supports doctoral programs.

The successful hire will hold a faculty appointment, and have teaching responsibilities, in the Keough School. The appointment may be at the level of either Associate or Full professor, as would be commensurate to the candidate's prior experience and trajectory.

The Director will be expected to provide overall intellectual leadership for the Ford Program, both by designing and conducting his or her own research initiatives within the context of Ford Program, as well as by identifying, encouraging, and supporting opportunities for other Notre Dame faculty members to undertake research that advances the mission of the Ford Program. The Director will be assisted by other Ford Program staff members, and will be able to draw on the annual endowment revenues of the Ford Program.

Applicants from a variety of disciplines who are engaged in the study of international development will be considered. Applicants should have a strong record of conducting and supervising field-based research, and should have experience securing and managing substantial grants in support of their own research and/or in support of broader programmatic initiatives. Applicants should also have an interest in designing and supporting research that explores the values of integral human development, as well as a more general interest in contributing to a multi-disciplinary and policy-oriented school.

Applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. All application materials must be submitted through the Interfolio online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/79007>.

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Paolo Carozza

Chair, Ford Program Director Search

Keough School of Global Affairs

University of Notre Dame

pcarozza@nd.edu

Applications should be received by October 31, 2020, and review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8080

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Latin American, Russia, East Asia

The Social Science Division of the Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences at Pepperdine University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Political Science to begin Fall 2021. We seek candidates who are broadly trained and able to teach undergraduate courses in international relations and, potentially, the regional politics of Latin America, Russia and Eastern Europe, or South Asia. Specific subfields are open, but candidates whose work engages issues of race and/or gender are especially encouraged to apply. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations, an active scholarly agenda, and a commitment to excellent teaching in a Christian liberal arts environment. Applications from candidates who will enrich the diversity of our faculty and who are committed to supporting an inclusive educational environment are encouraged.

Applicants should apply on Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78855>. Review of applicants will begin October 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled. A background check will be required as a condition of employment.

Please address any inquiries regarding the position to:

Dr. Chris Soper (chris.soper@pepperdine.edu)

Chair of the Political Science Search Committee

Social Science Division, Pepperdine University

24255 Pacific Coast Highway

Malibu, CA. 90263

Application instructions:

Applications should include the following documents:

- A cover letter.
- A curriculum vitae, indicating educational record, employment record, achievements, awards, publications, and other relevant information. Please also describe any civic, religious, or charitable interests and activities, and list all current organizational memberships.
- Three confidential letters of reference. (Email addresses will be requested.)
- Official transcripts of all graduate work. (Copies are acceptable during the application process; however, official transcripts will be required for selected applicants.)
- A statement of teaching philosophy, which may focus on your motivation to teach at the university level and your thoughts about what constitutes effective pedagogy.
- A statement of scholarly agenda, which may focus on your current area of research and plans for professional development.
- A statement in support of the University's Christian mission. The University mission states that Pepperdine University is a Christian university committed to the highest standards of academic excellence and Christian values, where students are strengthened for lives of purpose, service, and leadership. In your statement, please comment on your willingness to support the mission of Seaver College and Christian values of the University including your involvement in a local community of faith and how your faith relates to your teaching, professional, and/or intellectual life.
- Student Evaluations – Please provide evidence of teaching effectiveness at the collegiate level. (This is not required to apply, but may be requested at a later stage.)

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8077

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Japan

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan>

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8067

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

About the Center:

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8062

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8076

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Security and Emerging Technology

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University invites applications for the position of tenure-track Assistant Professor of security studies with a focus on the intersection of emerging technologies (and specifically artificial intelligence) and international security. This will be the inaugural hire for the Gracias Family Chair in Security and Emerging Technology. Candidates from all relevant disciplines are invited to apply, but must have a demonstrated track record of scholarly research focused on the implications of artificial intelligence for international security. The ideal candidate would have enough relevant technical skills in the area of artificial intelligence to teach courses in the subfield of international security affairs; apply the relevant technical knowledge in his or her research and publications; and have the scholarly trajectory to make a major contribution to this emerging field. The search committee welcomes applications from a diverse representation of scholars who at a minimum expect to complete their Ph.D. by the time of appointment for the 2021 fall semester.

The position will be based in the interdisciplinary SFS Security Studies Program (SSP) with the potential for affiliations with the Science, Technology and International Affairs Program (STIA) and the Center for Security and Emerging Technology (CSET).

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample, three letters of recommendation, and if possible, evidence of teaching record (syllabi, course evaluations, etc.). SFS is committed to student and faculty diversity, equity, and inclusion. Applicants should also submit a one-page diversity statement that discusses how they would contribute to inclusive excellence in the areas of research, teaching, and service in the SFS and reflects on their teaching and mentorship of students from diverse backgrounds.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78871>. Faxed, emailed, or mailed applications will not be accepted. Applications should be submitted no later than November 1, 2020. Invited interviews will occur shortly thereafter.

Questions about the online application should be directed to Sarah Krauss, Director of Faculty Affairs at srk50@georgetown.edu. Questions about the position should be directed to Dr. Michael Green, search committee chair, at mjg73@georgetown.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8059

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Comparative Politics or Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, Developing Nations, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or Political Economy, starting September 2021. Tenure track faculty engage in teaching, research and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). A strong research record is expected. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, though applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter, current CV, writing sample, research statement, teaching statement, diversity statement and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, if applicant has prior teaching experience. As a public institution, the University of Washington seeks candidates committed to working with diverse student and community populations. Therefore, applicants should describe how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities.

Candidate materials should be electronically submitted to <https://apply.interfolio.com/78296>. Review of applications will begin on October 17, 2020. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 9/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8054

University of California, Davis

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of California, Davis invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in International Relations with a specialization in the area of conflict broadly defined. Areas of focus could include interstate or intrastate conflict, or the interaction between them. We are seeking candidates with strong theoretical and methodological skills.

Applications will be accepted on-line at <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/JPF03749>. Candidates should upload a curriculum vitae, cover letter, a statement describing their research interests, sample publications or an article-length writing sample, a statement of Contributions to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, and a statement of teaching accomplishments and philosophy. Applicants will also be asked to provide three to five letters of reference through the online recruitment system. A Ph.D. or evidence that the degree would be complete by the time of the appointment start date is required. The anticipated starting date is July 1, 2021. Applications must be received by October 9, 2020 to guarantee initial full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled.

This recruitment is conducted at the assistant rank. The resulting hire will be at the assistant rank, regardless of the proposed appointee's qualifications. If you experience technical problems in uploading your application material please contact our Academic Personnel Coordinator, Angus Chang, at aychang@ucdavis.edu.

The University of California, Davis and the Department of Political Science are interested in candidates committed to the highest standards of scholarship and professional activities, and to the development of a campus climate that supports diversity, equity, and inclusion that are embedded within our Principles of Community. The University of California is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer, and we particularly encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented racial/ethnic groups, women, individuals with disabilities, veterans, LGBTQ community members, and others who demonstrate the ability to help us achieve our vision of a diverse and inclusive community.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: 6/30/2021
Date Posted: 9/11/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8047

University of Maine

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science/International Affairs (Climate Change Policy)

Statement of the Job:

The School of Policy and International Affairs (SPIA) and Department of Political Science at the University of Maine are seeking qualified candidates to fill a full-time, tenure-track academic-year faculty position in International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor, anticipated to start September 1, 2021. This is a 60/40 joint appointment in SPIA and Political Science with a tenure home in Political Science.

This position has teaching, research, and service duties. The typical teaching assignment is five courses per year: two introductory or upper-level undergraduate courses and three courses at the master's level. Other responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Supervise internships and undergraduate and master's theses.
- Advise students on their course of study and aid them in the registration process, which includes maintaining regular office hours.
- Maintain an active research program in international relations with a focus on climate change policy.
- Perform appropriate service, which may include, but is not limited to, active participation in the internal governance of the School of Policy and International Affairs and Department of Political Science, and service to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and University communities.

We are a faculty that values work-life balance and particularly on maintaining a productively collegial workplace.

About the University:

The University of Maine is a community of more than 11,200 undergraduate and graduate students, and 2,500 employees located on the Orono campus and throughout the state. UMaine is the state land and sea grant university and maintains a leadership role as the System's flagship university. As a result, it is dedicated to providing excellent teaching, research, and service at the university, state, and national levels.

Further information about UMaine can be found at <https://umaine.edu/>

The University of Maine offers a wide range of benefits for employees including, but not limited to, tuition benefits (employee and dependent), comprehensive insurance coverage including medical, dental, vision, life insurance, and short and long term disability as well as retirement plan options. As a former NSF ADVANCE institution, the University of Maine is committed to diversity in our workforce and to dual-career couples.

UMaine is located in beautiful Central Maine. Many employees report that a primary reason for choosing to come to UMaine is quality of life. Numerous cultural activities, excellent public schools, safe neighborhoods, high quality medical care, little traffic, and a reasonable cost of living make the greater Bangor area a wonderful place to live.

Learn more about what the Bangor region has to offer here.

Qualifications:

Required:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field by date of hire
- Specialization in international relations with a focus closely related to climate change policy
- Evidence of ability to develop and teach courses in a variety of areas including introductory international relations, a graduate field seminar in international relations, and advanced topics related to climate change and the candidate's other specialties.
- Record of or demonstrated potential for success in university-level teaching
- Record of or demonstrated potential for an active research program
- Appropriate methodological training and analytical skills.

Preferred:

- Evidence of effective commitment to the values of diversity, equity, and inclusion
- A proven record of international fieldwork, preferably in language(s) other than English is desired, but not required.
- Area of specialization is open, although due to existing programmatic strengths, we do not have significant needs for area expertise in East or South Asia.

How to Apply:

Materials must be submitted via the University of Maine system at <https://umaine.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=64568&job=assistant-professor-of-political-science-assistant-professor-of-international-affairs>. You will need to create a profile and application; upload:

- 1.) a cover letter which describes your experience, interests, and suitability for the position
- 2.) a resume/curriculum vitae
- 3.) letters from three professional references. To maintain confidentiality, these should be emailed to Peter Fandel at peter.fandel@maine.edu rather than uploaded.
- 4.) an unofficial copy of graduate transcripts(s)

Additional materials, including samples of research, and available teaching evaluations and course syllabi will be requested at the second round of interviews. Review of applications will begin October 15 and continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by October 15 will receive full consideration.

You will also need to submit the affirmative action survey, the self-identification of disability form, and the self-identification of veteran status forms. Incomplete application materials cannot be considered. Materials received after the initial review date will be reviewed at the discretion of the University.

Search Timeline is as follows:

Review of applications to begin: October 15, 2020

Screening interviews to begin no earlier than: October 21, 2020

Second round interviews to begin no earlier than: November 2, 2020

Tentative start date: September 1, 2021

Specific questions may be addressed to James Settele, Director, School of Policy and International Affairs, james.settele@maine.edu, 207-581-1835.

Applicants must be prepared to conduct interviews remotely if circumstances require, and understand that a successful applicant may be asked to consider an offer with a deadline without having been able to make an in-person visit to campus should travel or other restrictions apply.

Appropriate background checks are required.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8042

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8046

IE School of Global and Public Affairs

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science- focus on International Relations

IE University's School of Global and Public Affairs (IEGPA) seeks applicants for a position at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in political science, with a focus on International Relations starting September 1st, 2021.

We are especially interested in scholars who apply quantitative and/or formal methodologies to answer substantive questions of broad disciplinary relevance. We would especially welcome applications from scholars studying either conflict processes or global governance and international organizations.

The successful candidate should demonstrate capacity to produce publications in top peer-reviewed outlets, both generalist and field journals in the coming years and have good teaching skills.

We seek academics with the capacity to engage in policy relevant work, and with a commitment to institution-building: applying for research grants, participating in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expanding the IEGPA's current network and partnerships.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

The IEGPA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA).

We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

Applications should include a cover letter and vitae, a job market paper, and three academic references with their contact details.

Candidates must have a PhD from a recognized Department of Political Science, International Relations, or Economics, or demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2021.

Candidates may apply on Interfolio by October 23rd, 2020, using the following link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/77730>

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three academic references with their contact details. Please contact Sara Flores at Sara.Flores@ie.edu for general queries about the position.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/23/2020

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8035

Princeton University

Rank: NIEHAUS POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM IN REGIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY (2021-2022)

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2021-2022 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 7, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17363>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 10, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8032

Princeton University

Rank: NIEHAUS VISITING FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM (2021 – 2022)

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2021-2022 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 27, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17381>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day (5 p.m. EST) on Wednesday, December 2, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8031

Princeton University

Rank: NIEHAUS VISITING FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM IN REGIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY (2021-2022)

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2021-2022 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 7, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17361>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;

- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day (5 p.m. EST) on Thursday, December 10, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8033

Princeton University

Rank: Professional Specialist/Data and Statistical Analyst

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 for the 2021-2022 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance. Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline - Applicants should apply by Friday, November 27, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17341>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 2, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8030

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7983

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Government invites applications from scholars with international, global, or transnational interests for a tenure-track position in international relations at the rank of assistant professor in the fall semester 2021. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2021.

We are especially interested in candidates who share the department's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in the research and teaching of international relations, broadly defined. All applicants must submit a statement of their approach and contributions to these objectives.

Applicants should apply online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16734>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, statement of diversity, equity, and inclusion, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations. We will begin to review applications starting October 1, 2020, and will continue until the search is complete.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: 10/1/2020
Date Posted: 8/25/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7998

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click "Apply Now" at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/10/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7971

Wellesley College

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the assistant professor level in international relations beginning in the academic year 2021-22.

We seek candidates with expertise in international/global political economy or global governance. We are open to all areas of specialization in these subfields, but are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns issues such as trade, finance, global development, international economic organizations (global and regional), inequality, or race. The search is open as to regional expertise. In addition to teaching courses in international political economy, the successful candidate will also regularly teach a broad introduction to international relations. We would additionally be interested in candidates who could offer a research methods course.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members at Wellesley teach two courses per semester.

Applications should include the following:

- A cover letter of no more than two pages;
- a one-page teaching statement;
- additional teaching materials (e.g., evaluations and sample syllabi);
- writing samples of research;
- a curriculum vitae; and
- three (3) letters of recommendation.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community through teaching, research, and service. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification. Where applicable, candidates should include (as relevant) how diversity, inclusion, and equity connect to their teaching, scholarship, and service.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2020, and will continue accepting applications after that date. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

We recognize that these are uncertain times with changing health and safety restrictions during the COVID-19 pandemic. This search will follow all state and college policies, and we anticipate collaborating with candidates to best navigate health and safety during the recruitment process.

Specific inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the department, at tburke@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7964

Wellesley College

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the assistant professor level in international relations beginning in the academic year 2021-22.

We seek candidates with expertise in international/global political economy or global governance. We are open to all areas of specialization in these subfields, but are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns issues such as trade, finance, global development, international economic organizations (global and regional), inequality, or race. The search is open as to regional expertise. In addition to teaching courses in international political economy, the successful candidate will also regularly teach a broad introduction to international relations. We would additionally be interested in candidates who could offer a research methods course.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members at Wellesley teach two courses per semester.

Applications should include the following:

- A cover letter of no more than two pages;
- a one-page teaching statement;
- additional teaching materials (e.g., evaluations and sample syllabi);
- writing samples of research;
- a curriculum vitae; and
- three (3) letters of recommendation.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community through teaching, research, and service. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification. Where applicable, candidates should include (as relevant) how diversity, inclusion, and equity connect to their teaching, scholarship, and service.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2020, and will continue accepting applications after that date. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

We recognize that these are uncertain times with changing health and safety restrictions during the COVID-19 pandemic. This search will follow all state and college policies, and we anticipate collaborating with candidates to best navigate health and safety during the recruitment process.

Specific inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the department, at tburke@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7965

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowships

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2021–2022 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and overseas, for accomplished mid and senior career professionals. Selected fellows broaden their foreign policy experience by spending their fellowships in public service or research environments.

Applications are due by October 31, 2020.

The International Affairs Fellowship (IAF) is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It provides individuals the opportunity to spend one year in policymaking or research oriented environments. The program awards a stipend of $105,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada sponsored by Power Corporation of Canada, provides selected fellows the opportunity to spend six to twelve months at a Canadian institution working on U.S.-Canada relations. It awards a stipend of $95,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan brings a cadre of American professionals to Japan for three to twelve months to study and work on U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended for those without substantial prior experience in Japan. The program awards a competitive stipend in yen.

The International Affairs Fellowship in India affords fellows with the opportunity to spend three to twelve months conducting research on India and U.S. relations. It is aimed at professionals who have had little prior experience in India. It awards a stipend of $90,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics offers economists hands-on experience in the U.S. government and the opportunity to apply a range of research tools to international economic policy issues. It lasts six and nine months with a stipend starting at $150,000.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 8/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7961

Colorado College

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

Specializations: Health Care, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at Colorado College is hiring for a tenure track Assistant Professor in International Relations. We are open to areas of expertise, but particularly welcome expertise in issues of global health, human rights, the global south, and/or development, or work which considers global and transnational issues through the lenses of class, gender, and/or race. Crucial to the position is the potential for excellence in scholarship as well as a commitment to providing students with a liberal education.

Colorado College is committed to becoming an anti-racist institution. Through our anti-racism initiative, we are working to foster an intellectually rigorous and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work.

Candidates should identify the ways in which they can contribute to these goals.

Colorado College has a distinctive academic program, the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, with an academic year of eight and a half blocks. The average teaching load is five blocks per year, with an addition block overseeing senior research. Faculty can apply for a limited number of release blocks, as well as various sources of funding, to pursue research.

All requirements for the Ph.D. should be complete by the starting date of August 24, 2021.

Applicants should submit the following by October 15th, 2020: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research goals; 4) a statement of pedagogical principles; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations); 6) graduate transcripts; 7) a dissertation abstract; 8) a sample of scholarly publications, and 9) three letters of recommendation to (CC employment posting URL).

Given the current pandemic, we are happy to entertain alternative interviewing arrangements.

Please apply at the following link:

<http://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/4453>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 8/4/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7960

Colorado College

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations - US Foreign Policy

The Department of Political Science at Colorado College is hiring for a tenure track Assistant Professor in International Relations. We are open as to areas of expertise, but particularly welcome expertise in United States foreign policy, and from a variety of critical perspectives. Crucial to the position is the potential for excellence in scholarship as well as a commitment to providing students with a liberal education.

Colorado College is committed to becoming an anti-racist institution. Through our anti-racism initiative, we are working to foster an intellectually rigorous and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work.

Candidates should identify the ways in which they can contribute to these goals.

Colorado College has a distinctive academic program, the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, with an academic year of eight and a half blocks. The average teaching load is six blocks a year.

Faculty can apply for a limited number of release blocks, as well as various sources of funding, to pursue research.

All requirements for the Ph.D. should be complete by the starting date of August 24, 2021.

Applicants should submit the following by October 15th, 2020: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research goals; 4) a statement of pedagogical principles; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations); 6) graduate transcripts; 7) a dissertation abstract; 8) a sample of scholarly publications, and 9) three letters of recommendation to (CC employment posting URL).

Given the current pandemic, we are happy to entertain alternative interviewing arrangements.

Please apply at the following link:

<http://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/4451>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 8/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7955

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at The University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations. The area of specialization is open.

The successful candidate will have a completed Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field), or be able to demonstrate all Ph.D. requirements are sufficiently close to completion. The successful candidate is expected to have a Ph.D. for the start of the appointment. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2021.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop and maintain an active program of research leading to peer-reviewed publications and the securing of external research funding, and to contribute to the education and training of undergraduate as well as graduate students.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Given uncertainty caused by the global COVID-19 pandemic, applicants must be prepared to conduct interviews remotely if circumstances require. A successful applicant may be asked to consider an offer with a deadline without having been able to make an in-person visit to campus should travel or other restrictions apply. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To apply, applicants must upload online the following to: <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/job-application-assistant-professor-in-international-relations/>

Job ID: 37878.

? an application letter;

? a curriculum vitae;

? a statement (maximum 2 pages) of teaching philosophy, interests and accomplishments;

? a description of current and future research interests (maximum 2 pages);

? evidence of teaching effectiveness, e.g., summaries of teaching evaluations (official preferred), peer reviews of teaching, sample course material; and

? a 1-page statement about the applicant's experience working with a diverse student body and contributions or potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion.

? one electronic sample of research or publication similar in length to a journal article.

In addition, applicants should arrange for three confidential signed letters of recommendation to be sent separately to the Department of Political Science care of Jeff Yupiter, Assistant to the Department Head, at poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications begins on October 1, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled.

UBC-Vancouver's Point Grey Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral, and unceded territories of the Musqueam people, with whom UBC shares a framework Memorandum of Affiliation. For information relating to Aboriginal initiatives that are available at UBC, visit the UBC Vancouver Aboriginal portal at: <http://aboriginal.ubc.ca/>.

The Department of Political Science at UBC is committed to increasing Indigenous engagement within its curriculum.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7938

Texas A&M University

Rank: Instructional Assistant Professor (non-tenure track)

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a non-tenure track, instructional assistant professor in the area of international political economy, to work in the School's teaching site in Washington, D.C. The position will be for a period of two-years, with the possibility of renewal. The start date for this position will be January 1, 2021. The successful candidate will teach five courses per academic year in a professional master's degree program in international policy – two sections of the required course on the global economy and three other elective courses to be determined in consultation with the department head. A reasonable amount of department and professional service will also be expected.

The Department of International Affairs is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and departments is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, politics or government with a specialization in the sub-field of international political economy to be considered.

Applicants with additional expertise in the intersection of international political economy and international security issues, and/or expertise in the politics and political economy of a particular world region, are particularly encouraged to apply.

Applicants must submit: 1) Letter of Interest, 2) CV, and 3) three letters of recommendation. The application materials must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/76363>.

Point of Contact: Ms. Peg Hosea plhosea@tamu.edu

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7900

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on "CyberEscalation in Power Projection." This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the "Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection" project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor (Teaching)

Full-Time, Teaching-Track Faculty Position in Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California seeks to hire a full-time teaching-track faculty position (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Master Lecturer, Assistant Professor (Teaching), Associate Professor (Teaching), Professor (Teaching), Assistant Professor of the Practice, Associate Professor of the Practice, and Professor of the Practice) to teach classes in one or more of the following areas: Gender and International Relations, Diplomacy and Security, Human Rights, and Public Law. A Ph.D., and strong teaching record are required. The rank of the position will be commensurate with experience.

Applicants should provide a CV, letter with a statement of teaching experience and interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of 3 references. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser:

<https://usc Careers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/full-time-teaching-track-faculty-position-in-political-science-and-international-relations/1209/15573524> .

For more information, please contact

POIR Instructor (Teaching) Search Committee
USC Department of Political Science and International Relations
3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

Review of applications will begin immediately, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7821

DePaul University

Rank: Endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy

DePaul University invites applications for an endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy. Successful candidates will demonstrate a record of academic accomplishment commensurate with the appointment to the rank of Full Professor with tenure. We are seeking an intellectual leader who is well-prepared to advance an innovative, transprofessional approach to the study and practice of diplomacy that is the hallmark of DePaul's Grace School of Applied Diplomacy. The successful candidate will be a dynamic scholar with a notable record of publication, an established history of interdisciplinary approaches to the field, expertise in non-state actor and grassroots diplomatic practices, and a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching.

The Grace School is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and offers both BA and MA programs in Applied Diplomacy. It places a premium on promoting collaboration among practitioners of diplomacy in multiple contexts, and as such, its curriculum is designed to prepare students to practice diplomacy not only as foreign service officers, but also as businesspeople, scientists, NGO representatives, religious leaders, international civil servants, community organizers, artists, educators, and grass roots activists. The faculty of the Grace School represent twenty-two different departments and programs from across the University. The School is privileged to be located in Chicago, a globally-engaged city that is home to a rich array of consuls and international initiatives.

Candidates will find an enriching and innovative climate at DePaul, with institutional support for cross-disciplinary, inter-departmental, and community-engaged collaboration. Faculty draw on resources and cultivate partnerships across DePaul's centers, institutes, departments, schools and programs. Our students benefit from robust study abroad and global learning exchange programs.

DePaul is deeply sensitive to the educational goals of a culturally diverse student population and committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. We seek candidates who will reflect and engage the diversity of the university and its urban community. We strongly encourage applications from people of color, women, and individuals from other historically underrepresented groups.

Review of applications will begin on February 14th. Applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants are requested to provide a cover letter with a personal statement, a CV and a list of references. The start date for this position is September 1, 2020.

In order to apply, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/72500>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/13/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7627

METHODOLOGY

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defense-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Political Methodology - Assistant Professor

Apply Here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79959>

The Government Department at The University of Texas at Austin invites applications for a tenure-track position in political methodology at the rank of Assistant Professor. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of political science research methods, broadly defined, including statistical, formal, or other approaches to the study of government and politics.

Duties will include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, the College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidate will have a strong record of research and teaching.

The Department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their experience, teaching, research, and service. Applications must include a diversity statement addressing past or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion through their research, teaching and/or service. In particular, the statement may highlight any experiences working with diverse populations – mentoring activities, research interests, committee service, courses taught, recruitment and retention activities – and describe how their professional skills, experience and/or willingness to engage in related activities would enhance campus diversity and equity efforts.

UT Austin is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual-career couples and single parents.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. for appointment as Assistant Professor or expect to obtain it within a year of joining the faculty as Instructor. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Application Instructions

Applicants should upload a vitae, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, examples of scholarly work, teaching materials, and diversity statement.

The department will begin reviewing applications October 31, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Position funding is subject to budget availability.

Apply Here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79959>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8179

Yale University

Rank: Research Postdoctoral Associate

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2021. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Please apply online at this link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79728>.

The review process will begin on February 1, 2021. Please submit your completed application by that date for full consideration, although applications received after 2/1/21 will be reviewed if there is still a vacancy.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8205

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

Subfield(s): Methodology, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Economy, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor - Political Methodology - Department of Political Science

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science in the College of Letters and Science at the University of California, Berkeley (<http://polisci.berkeley.edu>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in the field of political methodology. The position will have an expected start date of July 1, 2021. Basic qualifications include a PhD (or equivalent international degree), or enrollment in a PhD or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application.

The Department invites applications from methodologists with an interest in any substantive field of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political economy, public policy & law, and race & ethnic politics, and whose research focuses on design-based causal inference, computational methods, big data, mixed-method research, statistics, historical analysis, network analysis, and other topics. Successful candidates will be competent to teach graduate-level courses in quantitative methods.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at UC Berkeley and Political Science. Our excellence can only be fully realized by faculty, students, and staff who share our commitment to these values. Successful candidates for our faculty positions will demonstrate evidence of a commitment to advancing equity and inclusion.

To apply, please go to the following link: <https://apptkr.com/2021267>.

It is preferred that letters of reference be uploaded by referees no later than the final date to apply (November 15, 2020). All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality found at: <http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html> prior to submitting their letters.

Completed applications must be received by Sunday, November 15, 2020 to be eligible for consideration. Please direct questions to Kristine Nera, Academic HR Analyst, at knera@berkeley.edu.

The Charles and Louise Travers Department of Political Science is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. For information about potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Copyright ©2017 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<https://www.jobelephant.com/jeid-b23af086e7a3ab46aeb7203d48a4551f>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8176

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Appointment as Researcher is a three-year position.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from Researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Researcher also has administrative responsibilities.

As Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement
- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A limited amount of teaching is also to be expected even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152556&DepartmentId=18992&MediaId=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8164

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Senior Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is a permanent, full-time position and is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Senior Researcher also has administrative responsibilities and is expected to develop the field in synergy with other fields as well as to exercise academic leadership.

As Senior Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement
- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Research management, including administrative tasks related to the position
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A certain amount of teaching is also to be expected, even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152555&DepartmentId=18992&MediaId=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8163

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Senior Researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, Methodology

Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.D.s. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse

Rank: Interdisciplinary Research Fellowship

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

We welcome applications from researchers within a large range of disciplines in the social, behavioral and life sciences: anthropology, evolutionary biology, economics, genetics, history, law, mathematics, neuroscience, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology; however, motivated applications from outside these disciplines will be given full consideration. Successful applicants will have to demonstrate an interest in, and a commitment to, at least one of the other disciplines of IAST.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their own discipline, but willing and able to develop research projects drawing on IAST's substantial interdisciplinary resources, including particularly the proximity of strong groups in economics (Toulouse School of Economics, TSE).

We are open to a variety of research methods, including theory, field and laboratory experiments, observational field work, and the analysis of large secondary data sets.

All research interests relevant to the broad study of human behavior are welcome, but preference may be given to candidates whose research interests are complementary to those of existing IAST researchers. These include, to cite only a few:

In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economic or social history; emergence and dynamics of institutions and networks.

In evolutionary biology: theoretical models of evolution (applied to family structure, strategic interactions, plasticity, cognition, learning, cultural evolution); related empirical work.

In anthropology: human biology, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, host-parasite co-evolution, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine and genetics.

In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

In law: law and economics, corporate governance, criminology.

In psychology: cognition, beliefs, identity, memory, the emotions, culture, social trust, gender, group decision-making.

In sociology: network formation, the impact of networks on social outcomes, sociology of religion.

In genetics and neuroscience: mental state representation, personality, intelligence.

To apply online please visit: <http://www.iast.fr/research-fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8135

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2021-22

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2021. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79312>.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8116

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8076

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8027

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. All applications should be submitted to jobs.carleton.edu. Inquiries can be directed to pteiken@carleton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 9/4/2020

Date Posted: 7/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7917

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on “CyberEscalation in Power Projection.” This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the “Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection” project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

NON-ACADEMIC

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Instructional Professor

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for a position on the Senior Instructional Professor track (Senior Assistant Instructional Professor, Senior Associate Instructional Professor, or Senior Instructional Professor, depending on the candidate’s experience and qualifications), for appointment in the Master of Arts Computational Social Science (MACSS) and the College. This is a full-time, career-track teaching position beginning July 1, 2021. The initial five-year appointment is renewable with opportunity for promotion. The appointee will teach four courses per year that contribute to the MACSS curriculum, plus one non-credit workshop in computational social science. This is a leadership position and the appointee will also hold the title of Associate Director in MACSS. In addition to teaching, the appointee will, in consultation with the Faculty Director of MACSS: provide leadership in vision, planning, and promotion of MACSS within and beyond the University; develop, implement, and oversee curricular and co-curricular programs including developing new curricular offerings and co-curricular programs to advance student learning; directly supervise and evaluate other teaching personnel, including Instructional Professors, Teaching Fellows, and preceptors in MACSS; and develop, oversee, and mentor research opportunities for graduate students. During the term of appointment, the Senior Lecturer will also have the opportunity to teach one or two courses as part of the Summer Institute in Social Research Methods (Computing for the Social Sciences, Data Mining and Data Visualization, or equivalent courses).

Qualifications

Candidates must have the PhD in hand prior to the start date, a demonstrated record as a degreed professional designing and teaching courses to undergraduate and graduate students at a selective research university, demonstrated experience in research and practice related to Computational Social Science, and proven experience successfully managing a program and supervising academic personnel.

Application Instructions

Applicants are required to apply online through the University of Chicago’s Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/79999. Applicants are required to upload the following materials: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae (3) syllabi for two proposed courses; (4) a writing sample/publication; and (5) the names and contact information for three references. References will only be contacted for shortlisted candidates. Review of applications will begin December 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University’s Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University’s Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/26/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8212

The Brookings Institution

Rank: Rubenstein Fellow, Governance Studies

The Brookings Institution is an Equal-Opportunity Employer: It is Brookings policy to provide equal employment opportunity for all of its employees and applicants without regard to their actual or perceived race, color, religion, sex, age, disability, national origin, ancestry, sexual orientation, marital status, personal appearance, citizenship status, family responsibilities, gender identity or expression, genetic information, matriculation, political affiliation, veteran status, or any other prohibited basis of discrimination as required by law. Rubenstein Fellow, Governance Studies (Job ID: 2020-2416) US-DC-Washington Job ID: 2020-2416 Type: Regular (Scholar, Term) # of Openings: 2 Category: Research 1. Resident Employee Overview David M. Rubenstein Fellowship Join one of the most influential, most quoted and most trusted think tanks! The Brookings Institution is a nonprofit public policy organization based in Washington, DC. Our mission is to conduct in-depth research that leads to new ideas for solving problems facing society at the local, national and global level. With fair and transparent business practices, clear communication, mutual respect, and a collaborative atmosphere that offers both professional and personal development opportunities, Brookings offers an inclusive and welcoming workplace that values the efforts of all contributors. Research topics cover a full range of public policy issues in economics, foreign policy, development, governance and metropolitan policy. Responsibilities Rubenstein Fellowship Ready to contribute to Brookings success? Brookings is pleased to announce the third round of the David M. Rubenstein Fellowship Program. The challenges facing the United States and the world require rigorous, innovative, evidence-based research that generates fresh thinking and innovative policy solutions. Through this program, Brookings seeks to increase diversity in our scholarly community by recruiting the next generation of rising stars and creative thinkers to help achieve our mission of improving governance in the United States and across the world. In addition to the research priorities set by each of our five programs, the Institution's Presidential Research Priorities are: Artificial Intelligence and Emerging Technology; American Leadership in the 21st Century; and Race, Justice, and Equity. Rubenstein Fellows will have the opportunity to enhance the policy impact of their ideas and academic achievements by working with Brookings's network of scholars and experts, relying on the Institution's abilities to develop and promote research to the policy community and the wider public. Rubenstein Fellows will diversify, augment, and complement the core policy research expertise of the more than 100 resident scholars at Brookings. The Governance Studies (GS) program at Brookings aims to be the leading, independent voice in the domestic policymaking sphere. Though analyzing public policy, contemporary governance challenges, and political institutions and processes, Governance Studies aims to inform debate and provide policymakers with tools and ideas to improve institutional governance at the national level. Responsibilities Ready to contribute to Brookings success? Under the supervision of the Vice President for Governance Studies, the Rubenstein

Fellows in Governance Studies will conduct research, writing, and outreach tasks related to the publication of in-depth, peer-reviewed monographs and research papers as well as short opinion pieces, blog posts, and other products to promote their ideas in the public policy debate. Rubenstein Fellows will also participate in public and private events, raise money for research projects, interact with the media, and contribute to the overall intellectual life of the Institution.

Qualifications:

Ready to make an impact? In this role, you will support Brookings values of collegiality, respect, inclusion, diversity and community, and bring the following qualifications:

Eligibility:

Successful candidates will hold a Ph.D. or equivalent graduate degree plus experience in political science, sociology, public policy, or a related discipline and have a record of, or demonstrated potential for, distinguished work through blending academic excellence with experience in the public sector. The individual must have the ability and competence to conduct cutting-edge research and outreach to impact public policy. The program does not fund pre-doctoral research or work toward a graduate degree.

Application Process and Selection Timeline:

Interested candidates who meet the program's eligibility requirements should apply online and submit:

- A piece of written work that highlights the candidate's capabilities.
- A curriculum vitae with a cover letter describing their relevant experience as well as research interests and priorities.

Please attach your cover letter and resume as one document when you apply. Upload your writing sample as an attachment.

For full consideration, please apply by December 13, 2020.

Selection is based on a combination of the following criteria: depth and breadth of professional experience, quality and rigor of scholarly research, and a commitment to upholding Brookings's core values of quality, independent, and impactful policy research that seeks to promote the public good.

This is a two-year termed appointment. We expect fellowships to begin in September 2021.

Additional Information:

Brookings provides a generous benefit package that is comprehensive and includes both traditional benefits and unique offerings.

Successful completion of a background investigation is required for employment at Brookings.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, first generation college goers, and other factors protected by law. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

https://www.click2apply.net/p7kADpUrL1VncjqdiNKYoApply Here&ta&br/PI124954259

Start Date:

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8185

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment ResearchRank: Senior ResearcherSubfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, MethodologySpecializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.D.s. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

OPEN

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Rank: Faculty Positions

Specializations: International Political Economy, China, Research Methods

Faculty Position (Global China Studies) – Job ID: 5433

Faculty Position (Quantitative Social Science) – Job ID: 5434

The Division of Social Science at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology seeks to fill several positions in Global China Studies (GCS) and Quantitative Social Science (QSS). The positions are open in rank (Assistant Professor/Associate Professor/Professor), but preference will be given to candidates at the level of Assistant Professor with an active research agenda related to contemporary China and demonstrated excellence in scholarship and in research methodology for GCS and active research agenda in social science, and with skills in cutting edge technologies and methodologies for QSS.

Subfields are open but we are particularly interested in candidates in political science, sociology, psychology, media and communication studies, economics, among others.

Applicants should have a PhD degree in hand by the time of employment. Teaching will be at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. The University is an English-speaking research university with international faculty. The Division of Social Science is highly ranked internationally.

Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Fringe benefits including annual leave, and medical and dental benefits. Housing benefits will also be provided where applicable. Initial appointment at Associate/Assistant Professor rank will normally be on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. A gratuity will be payable upon successful completion of contract.

Application Procedure

Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a sample publication, and three letters of reference to the attention of Search and Appointments Committee Chair for Global China Studies (GCS) by email to sogcs@ust.hk or to the attention of Search and Appointments Committee Chair for Quantitative Social Science (QSS) by email to sogqs@ust.hk.

For more details, please visit: <https://sosc.ust.hk/general/jobs/>

Review of applications will start on 1 December 2020 and the search will continue until the positions are filled. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and has a range of family-friendly policies in place.

(Information provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.)

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8222

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020
Date Posted: 10/26/2020
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 8217

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence. The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281"; complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae

- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)
- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVa

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Racial and Ethnic Politics - Open Rank

Apply Here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79960>

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin invites applications for an open-rank position in Racial and Ethnic Politics. The search is open with respect to sub-field and methodological approach.

Duties will include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, the College of Liberal Arts, and the University. Depending on rank, the successful candidate will show evident promise, or a highly distinguished scholarly record, of excellence in scholarly research and publication, teaching, and intellectual and institutional leadership.

The Department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their experience, teaching, research, and service. Applications must include a diversity statement addressing past or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion through their research, teaching and/or service. In particular, the statement may highlight any experiences working with diverse populations – mentoring activities, research interests, committee service, courses taught, recruitment and retention activities – and describe how their professional skills, experience and/or willingness to engage in related activities would enhance campus diversity and equity efforts.

UT Austin is committed to addressing the family needs of faculty, including dual-career couples and single parents.

Applications from candidates with strong methodological skills are especially welcome.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. for appointment as Assistant Professor or expect to obtain it within a year of joining the faculty as Instructor.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Application Instructions

Applicants should upload a vitae, three letters of recommendation (applicants at the rank of associate professor or above need only provide three references), examples of scholarly work, teaching materials, and diversity statement. The Department will begin reviewing applications October 31, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Position funding is subject to budget availability.

Apply Here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79960>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8180

Boston University

Rank: Director of the Boston University Initiative on Cities

The College of Arts and Sciences at Boston University invites applications for Faculty Director of the Boston University Initiative on Cities (IoC) to begin July 1, 2021. We seek a senior scholar of cities with an established record of cutting-edge research, academic leadership and public engagement to lead the IoC (<https://www.bu.edu/ioc/>), a campus-wide research initiative that engages faculty and students to support and promote interdisciplinary research on cities and connect urban research, teaching and practice. We are looking for academic leaders from all relevant disciplinary backgrounds who share our commitment to ensuring that BU is inclusive, equitable, diverse, and a place where all constituents can thrive. We encourage applications from those with a record of fostering productive academic partnerships with diverse urban communities and municipal partners, and a strong vision of community building and bridging between faculty, students and a wide array of internal and external stakeholders from academia, government, nonprofits and the private sector.

To apply, please submit 1) a letter describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, including your accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity and inclusion; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) names and contact information for three references Submit to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17133>. Applications will be reviewed starting November 15, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8203

Lake Forest College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Latin American and Latinx Studies

Lake Forest College invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in Latin American and Latinx Studies. The qualified candidate will hold a PhD in History, Political Science, Latin American Studies, or related field. Preferred geographic specializations include Mexico and/or Spanish-speaking Latin America, including the Caribbean, and preferred thematic specializations include indigenous history, empire and colonialism, immigration/migration and diaspora, borderlands, social movements, social justice, education, art, social and racial issues, public policy, and/or political economy. Evidence of interdisciplinary scholarship and interest in future interdisciplinary collaboration are strongly desired. Teaching load is 3-3 and will consist of a mix of existing introductory courses in our Latin American and Latinx Studies program and new or existing upper-level courses in the scholar's area of specialization, with offerings that may also support the general education curriculum's cultural diversity requirement and/or First-Year Studies program. Experience teaching in both English and Spanish is preferred. The candidate may also contribute to our interdisciplinary programs of Gender, Sexuality, and Women Studies, Legal Studies, American Studies, and/or Urban Studies. Throughout your application materials, we encourage you to highlight your background in fostering an inclusive campus culture and supporting the success of students who are historically underrepresented in higher education.??

?

A highly selective liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Shore, Lake Forest College enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 40 states and more than 70 countries. Lake Forest is one of the most diverse small colleges in the Midwest, with nearly 40% of our student body considered a domestic minority or international student. The majority of our STEM pool is female and also includes a significant number of first generation and traditionally underrepresented students. At Lake Forest College, the quality of a faculty member's teaching is the most important criterion for evaluation. Lake Forest College embraces diversity and encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.?

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and three references no later than November 25, 2020 to lamlxstudiessearch@mx.lakeforest.edu for priority consideration. Selected candidates will be asked to provide additional materials. Review of candidates will continue until positions are filled. We will be interviewing via Zoom.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8197

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

University of Memphis

Rank: Director PhD Program in Urban Affairs

Director of the PhD Program in Urban Affairs (Associate or Full Professor)

The School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Memphis invites applications for the position of Director of the PhD Program in Urban Affairs beginning in the 2021-2022 Academic Year. This is a full-time, nine-month, tenure track academic appointment at the rank of Associate or Full Professor.

The PhD in Urban Affairs is a new interdisciplinary program that will begin enrolling students in the fall of 2021. The distinctiveness of the program will be a focus on urban problem solving through interdisciplinary, collaborative engaged scholarship.

The Director will be the administrative leader of the Urban Affairs PhD program. This position is an opportunity for an established scholar with the desire to build something new and unique that can become a national model. We are seeking an established scholar with interdisciplinary experience, a research agenda that addresses urban issues, and a demonstrated understanding and appreciation for community-engaged learning and research.

Candidates can come from a wide range of social science disciplines, but must be eligible for the rank of Associate or Full Professor in one of the seven departments associated with the PhD in Urban Affairs (City and Regional Planning, Social Work, Public and Nonprofit Administration, Criminology and Criminal Justice, Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology).

We are especially interested in applicants who have experience with:

- community-university partnerships
- Interdisciplinary learning and research
- academic program administration
- mentoring PhD students

The School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy (SUAPP) will provide infrastructure and administrative support to the PhD Program Director. As home to 4 academic units, 8 degree programs, more than 95 fulltime and part-time faculty and staff, and 4 research centers, SUAPP serves as a hub for collaboration and flagship for community-engaged scholarship.

About the PhD in Urban Affairs

The PhD in Urban Affairs focuses on urban problem-solving with a community-engaged approach and an interdisciplinary framework. It is designed to prepare graduates with the necessary skills in research, evaluation, and policy design to address the kinds of socioeconomic challenges that face Memphis and other cities like it. The combination of training in theory development and application will prepare graduates for careers in public, nonprofit, private, and educational sector positions as advanced policy analysts, researchers, administrators, and academics.

The PhD in Urban Affairs supported by the four departments in the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy (City and Regional Planning, Social Work, Public and Nonprofit Administration, and Criminology and Criminal Justice) and three other social science in the College of Arts and Sciences (Political Science, Anthropology, and Sociology). An interdisciplinary PhD Committee with faculty from these seven departments will support the work of the Director. Likewise, there is tremendous enthusiasm and support for the new program among the local public sector, nonprofit, and philanthropic community.

This position offers a competitive salary commensurate with experience and full University benefits described at the University of Memphis Business and Finance Office's website at: <http://www.memphis.edu/benefits/info/prospective.php>

Applicants must submit a cover letter describing their qualifications and interest in the position, a current CV, and a list of at least three references. Application material must be submitted electronically at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. Screening of applicants will begin after the search closes on December 1, 2020. The position will begin in August 2021 and is contingent on funding.

To apply, please visit the University of Memphis' WorkforUM page: <https://workforum.memphis.edu/postings/26056>

For additional information, contact:

Katherine Lambert-Pennington, PhD, Director
School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy
K.Lambert-Pennington@memphis.edu

Charles Santo, PhD, Associate Director
School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy
casanto@memphis.edu

visit <https://www.memphis.edu/suapp/>

The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. We urge all qualified applicants to apply for this position. Appointment will be based on qualifications as they relate to position requirements without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, disability or veteran status."

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/20/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8193

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/12/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8167

American University

Rank: Executive Director, Antiracist Research and Policy Center
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Open
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Summary/Objective

The Antiracist Research and Policy Center (ARPC) at American University (AU) invites applications and nominations for a full-time Executive Director. The successful candidate will join a vibrant and collegial community of scholars, professionals, authors, advocates, activists, organizers, and creators at the University. The Executive Director will continue building a new vision for the Center, and help cohere and amplify the work of other scholars on AU's campus, while advancing their own scholarly agenda related to antiracist, research, praxis, and/or policy. Research should include an active antiracist agenda, including the study of racial inequalities and racial disparities. The director must be committed to working collaboratively with the Center faculty, fellows, and other partners on campus and in the Washington, D.C. region. Qualified candidates may be eligible for a tenured appointment in an appropriate academic unit with teaching obligations subject to negotiation. The appointment begins July 1, 2021.

About American University

American University (AU) is a highly selective student-centered research private institution within Washington, DC and is defined by its global outlook, practical idealism, and passion for public engagement. AU's nationally and internationally acclaimed faculty are renowned for their commitment to excellence in scholarship and teaching and for sponsoring programs that draw upon the extraordinary cultural, scientific, public affairs, legal, business, international, and communication resources in the greater metropolitan area of Washington, DC. Our student body is cosmopolitan and globally diverse, with over 12,000 undergraduate and graduate students represented by all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and over 150 countries. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. Learn more about the Center at <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/> and the university's strategic plan here: <https://www.american.edu/about/strategic-plan/>.

Qualifications

Our ideal candidate will be an emerging or established thought leader in the field(s) of race, racism, racial inequality, colonialism, and related fields, as well as a thought leader in antiracism and related frameworks with a track record and established trajectory of high-impact scholarly, professional, and/or creative work that focuses on antiracism and equity. A focus on the specific experiences of historically marginalized racial groups in the U.S., particularly Black, Indigenous, and Latinx groups, and/or a comparative focus on racial oppression and liberatory movements within and beyond the U.S. is welcome, as are interdisciplinary approaches. Our ideal candidate will shape the Center's strategic vision and goals while contributing to fundraising efforts for research, outreach, and events. In these and other activities, the Executive Director will be supported by a full-time Managing Director and the university's Development Office. ARPC's Executive Director should have a significant record related to antiracism which they will continue to pursue while leading the Center, while also working collaboratively with the AU faculty, students and staff to help define and deepen innovative, pathbreaking, and intersectional approaches to antiracism-related research and praxis, policy analysis and advocacy, and creative projects on and beyond AU's campus. To browse the eight thematic areas in which faculty affiliates conduct antiracism work across academic disciplines, please see: <https://www.american.edu/centers/antiracism/faculty-affiliates.cfm>.

Application Instructions

Salary and benefits are competitive (for an overview of AU's benefits for full-time faculty and staff, visit: <https://www.american.edu/hr/benefits/>). Please include a cover letter with your application which addresses: 1) the candidate's leadership style, 2) the candidate's understanding of and approach to antiracist research, praxis, and policy and 3) how the candidate's style and approach will complement and grow the existing focal areas and activities of the Center. In addition to the cover letter, all applications must include a curriculum vitae with an appended list of three references and copies of three recent publications or equivalent antiracist projects. Letters of recommendation will be requested at a later stage. Reviews of applications will begin October 30.

To apply, visit: <https://careers.american.edu/Staff/job/Washington-Executive-Director%2C-Anti-Racist-Research-and-Policy-Center-DC-20016/676834100/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8146

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and non-profit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity (e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)
- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaclyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Post-Doctoral Position - Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Open, Public Policy

The University of Missouri's Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program is designed to develop scholars for tenure-track faculty positions at the University of Missouri and elsewhere. Applicants should demonstrate how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular discipline or through other experience. Postdoctoral positions are for two years and provide research, teaching, and professional development opportunities. The stipend is a minimum of $56,000 per year plus University benefits and professional development funds. In order to be eligible for this program, applicants must have completed their doctoral degree, or expect to complete their degree no later than July 1, 2021, at a regionally accredited university.

The University of Missouri ("Mizzou"), located in the culturally vibrant small city of Columbia, is approximately 125 miles from both St. Louis and Kansas City. The campus enrolls more than 30,000 students; it is Missouri's largest public research university and the heart of the four-campus University of Missouri System. As a member of the Association of American Universities since 1908, Mizzou is one of the nation's top institutions of higher learning.

We are currently accepting applications in the following research areas:

Political Science/Public Affairs – Scholar with research and teaching interests in race/ethnicity/diversity in politics, public administration, or public policy. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Affairs, or related field.

The deadline for applications is 11:59 PM (Central time), November 2, 2020. Finalists will be interviewed in January - February 2021.

To apply, please go here: <https://applygrad.missouri.edu/apply/?sr=959b0871-cafd-44d0-b2e6-9ce11e2ac854>

Please create an account in the Graduate School's application system. After you create an account, select the 2021 Preparing Future Faculty postdoctoral application. A completed application includes:

- Cover letter expressing interest in the position
- CV
- Statement of goals for postdoctoral position
- Diversity statement
- One-page abstract of doctoral dissertation
- Writing sample
- 3 letters of reference

Click here to read more about the University of Missouri's PFFFD program. Questions about the program and application process may be directed to Dr. Lissa Behm-Morawitz (Associate Dean of the Graduate School) at postdoc@missouri.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/2/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8133

Bilkent University

Rank: Open Rank Positions in International Relations

Bilkent University's Department of International Relations invites applicants for multiple tenure-track, open rank positions in international relations commencing September 2021. The search is open with respect to subfield (e.g. foreign policy, international political economy, international security, conflict processes).

Candidates are expected to have rigorous methods training and promising research potential. A strong publication record for senior appointments is required. Successful applicants will have a teaching load of two courses per semester, beginning with a reduced load in their first four years, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate students. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty; female scholars are especially encouraged to apply.

Candidates must submit 1) CV, 2) cover letter, 3) research statement, 4) teaching statement, 5) three letters of recommendation, and 6) a writing sample to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by December 1st 2020. Applicants are expected to have completed a PhD in Political Science, International Relations or a related area by the beginning of the appointment.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is globally renowned as a research and teaching institution. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 460 undergraduate students and 60 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education and high-impact research.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8121

University of Arizona

Rank: Assistant Research Social Scientist

The School of Government and Public Policy (SGPP) at the University of Arizona invites applications for an assistant research social scientist position in the Arizona Policy Lab, beginning in Spring 2020. The Arizona Policy Lab (<https://policylab.arizona.edu>) is devoted to producing evidence-based policy research (including surveys, experiments, and other human subjects research) with relevance for scholars, elected leaders, public officials, industry, and citizens. Our activities are grounded in cutting-edge scientific practices, cross-disciplinary collaborations, and the mentoring and training of undergraduate and graduate students. The Research Social Scientist position will be responsible for the oversight of research and training in the Lab. The position involves teaching 1 undergraduate course per year and allows for opportunities to collaborate on research and carry out independent research activities in the Lab.

The School of Government and Public Policy is a growing and vibrant academic community housing scholars of Political Science, Public Policy, and Administration and Management, and offers in person and online Bachelor's and Master's degrees, as well as an in-residence Ph.D. Additional information on the SGPP is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>. SGPP is situated within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS).

Outstanding UA benefits include health, dental, and vision insurance plans; life insurance and disability programs; UA/ASU/NAU tuition reduction for the employee and qualified family members; state and optional retirement plans; access to UA recreation and cultural activities; and more. The University of Arizona has been recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution and, together with the SBS, has a strong commitment to diversity. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds; individuals from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Duties & Responsibilities

- Oversee operation and daily management of the Lab;
- Coordinate and run research studies in the lab;
- Co-author or author publications and co-present research results at workshops and conferences;
- Train and mentor graduate and undergraduate research assistants;
- Actively participate in acquiring research funding, including initiating and writing grant proposals;
- Contribute to ensuring regulatory compliance of Lab activities, including by coordinating with IRB and granting agencies;
- Teach one class per year at the undergraduate level;
- Participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service.

Knowledge, Skills, & Abilities

Minimum Qualifications: A PhD in public policy, political science, or a related social science field, is required by the time of appointment. A minimum of 8 years of relevant experience (which includes the duration of graduate studies) is typically required. The candidate will be expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant empirical research.

Contact Information for Candidates

General questions can be directed to the School of Government & Public Policy, Manager of Administration, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, statement of research and teaching interests (title of document slot within the application is "Statement of Research Interests"), current Curriculum Vitae, and a writing sample via the UArizona Talent website: <https://arizona.csod.com/ux/ats/careersite/4/home/requisition/2604?c=arizona>. Application review will begin on October 19, 2020. Desired employment start date January, 2021.

Letters of Reference: Applicants will need to provide three letters of references. Please submit these letters of reference via email to the School of Government & Public Policy, Manager of Administration, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 10/19/2020

Date Posted: 9/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8100

University of Chicago

Rank: Instructor in Human Rights

Description

The Social Sciences Collegiate Division at the University of Chicago invites applications for a one-year, renewable post-doctoral instructor in Human Rights, beginning September 1, 2021. Responsibilities include the design and teaching of three courses over three quarters, participation in the activities of the Pozen Center for Human Rights, and advising a small number of BA or MA theses. The salary is competitive, and the instructor will receive applicable University benefits, a professional development fund, and a relocation allowance.

Qualifications

We seek to attract an outstanding scholar whose work in the humanities or social sciences demonstrates excellence and addresses questions of lasting importance for the study of human rights. All applications are welcome and we especially encourage topics and approaches which include decolonizing methodologies and literatures, gender and sexuality, Third World approaches to international law, or a regional focus on the global south. Prior experience teaching undergraduates is preferred. The position requires a Ph.D. in a social science or humanities discipline and is open to applicants who will have completed all requirements for their doctoral degree no later than August 31, 2021.

Application Instructions

To be considered for the position you must submit your application through the University of Chicago Academic Job Opportunities site apply.interfolio.com/79055 and upload the following: 1) a curriculum vitae; 2) cover letter discussing your interest and qualifications for the position; 3) a research statement addressing current and future research plans; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) a sample syllabus for an undergraduate human rights course; 6) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 7) the names and contact information of three references whose recommendation letters will be solicited automatically by the application system. Only complete applications will be considered.

Review of applications will begin on December 14, 2020, and continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/14/2020

Date Posted: 9/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8093

Anderson UniversityRank: Executive Director

The Center for Security Studies and Cyber Defense (CSSCD) was established through a $1 million dollar Lilly Endowment Grant to support both the mission of Anderson University's Security Studies Program and the surrounding community.

The CSSCD supports the mission of Anderson University's Security Studies Program to develop a pipeline of graduates with excellent technical skills, strong Christian ethics, and a desire to serve on the front lines in defending the nation, our communities, and institutions from threats, foreign and domestic, in both the physical and cyber realms. The program consists of interdisciplinary majors in Cybersecurity and National Security designed to help our students develop an understanding of security policy (national, homeland, and cyber), technical skills through experiential learning, and a set of professional ethics from a Christian-faith perspective.

The CSSCD supports the surrounding community by providing a number of low-cost or no-cost security services to local and regional constituents. These services include: 1) Cybersecurity assessment services, network traffic monitoring through a Security Operations Center (SOC), and digital or physical penetration testing. 2) Table-top exercises for testing organizational responses to security threats such as ransomware attacks, data breaches, or catastrophic events. 3) Training and certification for the local workforce through workshops and seminars taught by security studies faculty, CSSCD staff, and field experts. 4) Conferences and publications to keep our constituents informed about current security threats and the tools and practices designed to address them.

As a Christian, liberal arts institution, the mission of AU is to educate for a life of faith and service in the church and society. The CSSCD challenges our students and staff to use their expertise in ethical and constructive ways, while equipping students with the knowledge and skills that can be used to preserve and promote security in every sector of American society. Students will utilize their critical thinking skills to discover solutions to complex problems through creative and ethical innovation and apply their technical skills through the various services offered by the center.

The Executive Director of the Center for Security Studies and Cyber Defense will coordinate the Center's activities, utilizing his or her professional network to engage partner organizations, potential clients, and both governmental and industry leaders in order to contribute to the success and dynamic growth of the CSSCD as well as the cybersecurity and national security majors at Anderson University.

Duties and responsibilities

- Provide leadership towards accomplishing the mission of the center, working with a team composed of an Assistant Director, Executive Assistant, the teaching faculty of the security studies program, and students in the national security and cybersecurity majors.
- Establish and develop a broadly diverse CSSCD Advisory Board to support the center's mission.
- Promote the security studies program at AU, raising awareness of the cybersecurity and national security majors and thereby contribute to an increased enrollment in these programs.
- Develop connections with corporate, governmental, civic and social service organizations to generate business for the CSSCD and provide educational, internship, and networking opportunities for students.
- Oversee the CSSCD budget, coordinating expenses and income sources, meeting the necessary income goals to support the Center prior to the end of the grant period.
- Report to the Provost through the established academic structure.

Qualifications

Successful candidate will be a recognized leader in the fields of cybersecurity or national security who demonstrates a professional and personal commitment to the vision, mission, and values of Anderson University. The candidate will demonstrate support for Christian liberal arts education and the specific ability to integrate faith and the disciplines of cybersecurity and national security in a distinctive way. Preference will be given to candidates who possess publications in the field of cybersecurity or national security.

This position is full-time and eligible for full-time benefits.

Qualifications include:

- An entrepreneurial mindset to enthusiastically promote the Center's growth.
- Significant experience in the cybersecurity or national security fields, and a vision for the future in these areas.
- Superior communication skills.
- Ability to manage multiple projects simultaneously.
- Experience managing a team.
- Ability to develop new and leverage existing networks to advance the mission and funding of the Center.

- Willingness to travel, attend national conferences, and meet with potential partners and clients, primarily within the Midwest region.

- Bachelor's degree required. Master's degree preferred.

Direct reports include an Assistant Director and an Executive Assistant

Qualified and interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, resume and employment application to staffjobs@anderson.edu. Persons with an application on file or current university employees should send an email to staffjobs@anderson.edu to express interest in this position.

Anderson University is on a mission to educate students for lives of faith and service, offering more than 60 undergraduate majors, 30 three-year degrees, 20 NCAA Division III intercollegiate sports, alongside adult and graduate programs. The private, liberal arts institution is fully accredited and recognized among top colleges for its business, computer science, cybersecurity, national security, dance, engineering, nursing, and teacher education programs. Anderson University was established in 1917 in Anderson, Indiana, by the Church of God.

AU is an equal opportunity employer. Persons who bring diversity are encouraged to apply. Anderson University complies with federal and state requirements for non-discrimination in employment with regard to sex, age, race, color, disability, and national and ethnic origin.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8078

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory. Advanced degree required.

Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. You will be required to submit contact information for one reference, but your reference will not be contacted at this time.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Interested applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17422>

Requisition No: D-21-POL-00006

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8073

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position that involves a year of research at Princeton. Scholars in all subfields of political science will be considered. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars, and there is a particular interest in attracting applications from groups that have been historically underrepresented in the field of political science at Princeton University. Ph.D. is required.

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/17521> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members. Initial appointment is for one year with the possibility of renewal subject to satisfactory performance and available funding.

Requisition No: D-21-POL-00007

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8074

Dartmouth College

Rank: Endowed Chair in Globalization

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College invites applications and nominations for appointment to an endowed chair in globalization at the level of full professor. The Globalization Chair is one of three positions in a cluster hire in the study of globalization. The other two positions are in the Tuck School of Business and the Department of Economics. We are particularly interested in scholars who bring innovative approaches to the study of human rights and the rule of law, democracy, and/or capitalism, and who will help lead, initiate, and participate in collaborative research projects within the Department of Government, the Department of Economics, the Tuck School of Business, and beyond, including Dartmouth researchers from other Arts & Sciences departments and centers on campus.

Dartmouth is highly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive population of students, faculty, and staff. We are especially interested in applicants who are able to work effectively with students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds, including but not limited to: racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify with LGBTQ+ communities, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and/or first generation college graduates. Applicants should state in their cover letter how their teaching, research, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth's commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field. Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV. The review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions may be sent to Lisa.Baldez@Dartmouth.edu. Application materials should be submitted electronically to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/78601>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8045

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8027

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Open Rank SNF Agora Institute Professor (Challenges of Multi-Ethnic Democracy, Race, Inequality)

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at any rank (Assistant, Associate, or Full Professors) who focus on the dynamics of race and ethnicity, class and inequality, migration, group identities (including gender and sexuality), community and urban dynamics, and forms of structural inequality in shaping, interacting with, making possible, and challenging the realization of democracy in global contexts and the U.S. We define these terms broadly and seek scholars from a range of disciplines.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute. Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Applicants should apply online and submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Junior applicants without well-established publication records should also submit three letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2020 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2021.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 8/20/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7991

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Open Rank SNF Agora Institute Professor (Institutions of Democracy Under Stress)

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at any rank (Assistant, Associate, or Full Professors) who focus on the institutional and organizational dimensions of democracy under stress, particularly as related to questions of civic engagement and inclusive discourse. We define these terms broadly and seek scholars from a range of disciplines, including but not limited to scholars who study the dynamics of states; state contexts; political, civic, social, and economic organizations and institutions; social movements; and social networks, as well as their role in shaping, interacting with, constraining, making possible, and challenging the realization of democracy in global contexts or the U.S.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute. Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

Applicants should apply online and submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Junior applicants without well-established publication records should also submit three letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2020 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2021.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: 11/6/2020
Date Posted: 8/20/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7992

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Open Rank SNF Agora Institute Professor (Social Cognition/Political Psychology)

The Stavros Niarchos Foundation (SNF) Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University seeks faculty (or nominations of faculty) for endowed professorships at any rank (Assistant, Associate, or Full Professors) who focus on social cognition or political psychology. We seek scholars from a range of disciplines examining the cognitive and psychological foundations of social and collective behavior, especially as it relates to questions about civic engagement and inclusive discourse across the globe or in the U.S.

This search is part of a broader initiative at Johns Hopkins University to expand expertise in social cognition within the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences and in other departments. Faculty hired to the SNF Agora Institute, however, can sit in any department in the university.

All SNF Agora faculty will be full members in a department at Johns Hopkins University and at the SNF Agora Institute. Successful candidates should be established scholars with a substantial record of research and publication, or may be rising scholars of exceptional quality. All candidates should demonstrate an interest in the mission of the SNF Agora Institute.

The SNF Agora Institute is a new, $150M multi-disciplinary initiative that integrates research, teaching, and practice to strengthen global democracy by improving and expanding civic engagement and inclusive dialogue, and by supporting inquiry that leads to real-world change. Housed in the university's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the SNF Agora Institute at JHU will serve as a leading forum bringing together experts from a range of fields—including but not limited to political science, sociology, history, neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, and ethics.

Applicants should apply online and submit a cover letter specifying an appropriate department for their appointment, a research statement, curriculum vitae, and two to three representative publications. Junior applicants without well-established publication records should also submit three letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2020 and continue until the positions are filled. Appointments will commence on July 1, 2021.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: 11/6/2020
Date Posted: 8/20/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 7990

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/Program in Latin American Studies

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Postdoctoral Fellowship, 2021-2022

Job Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition Number: D-21-LAS-00001

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly research on topics related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil, to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2021, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 3, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/16701>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent)
- 5) Three letters of recommendation

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (earned within three years of the start date). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/3/2020
Date Posted: 8/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7923

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select postdoctoral scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pools. The postdoctoral appointment will be for one academic year for scholars who have received a Ph.D. at an institution outside the United States and, who at the time of application, do not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. The candidates must also demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and have exhibited unusual intellectual promise.

During the academic year 2021-22, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be “Sustainable Futures.” The Fung Global Fellows Program welcomes applicants from all disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields - humanities, social science, natural science, engineering, technology, law, architecture - to examine varied notions and workable practices of sustainability. We define sustainability expansively. What does economics teach us about inclusive growth and equality of opportunity? How can countries leverage ecological sciences and engineering to scale energy sources that are sustainable and practical, encourage environmentally sound consumption patterns, promote resource renewal and protect biodiversity? What would sustainable global integration look like? How is understanding the behavior of complex systems crucial to sustainability? How can architecture and engineering build smarter and more sustainable cities? What can countries learn from sociology about supporting family structures and community institutions? How might information science and technology render virtual public spheres civil while keeping them open? How can societies use political science to improve governance, raise political participation, and manage a wide diversity of views that healthy societies must have? Above all, how can countries create and propagate consensus narratives of sustainability that balance interests?

Applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/16742>. Applications are due by November 16, 2020 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, post-doctoral applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements before 9/1/2021 but cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, 9/1/2021. If a candidate has turned in a final draft of their dissertation but not yet completed their Ph.D. before the start date, they may be temporarily appointed as a Senior Research Assistant with 10% reduction in salary. Upon providing verification of their Ph.D. degree, they would be promoted in rank and salary. The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' proposed research projects, the relationship of their projects to the program theme, the candidates' scholarly records and their ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the Fung Global Fellows Program see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggf/call-applications>. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 16, 2020:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)
- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (To be submitted by your referees by the November 16, 2020 deadline.)

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/16/2020
Date Posted: 7/21/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7935

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select early-career scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired at this rank will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pools. The fellowships will be awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who have a faculty appointment, a professional research appointment, or are an established independent scholar. They will also be expected to return to their positions at the conclusion of the fellowship. Lastly, they must have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and unusual intellectual promise. Early-career scholars will be appointed at the rank of Visiting Research Scholar.

During the academic year 2021-22, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be “Sustainable Futures.” The Fung Global Fellows Program welcomes applicants from all disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields - humanities, social science, natural science, engineering, technology, law, architecture - to examine varied notions and workable practices of sustainability. We define sustainability expansively. What does economics teach us about inclusive growth and equality of opportunity? How can countries leverage ecological sciences and engineering to scale energy sources that are sustainable and practical, encourage environmentally sound consumption patterns, promote resource renewal and protect biodiversity? What would sustainable global integration look like? How is understanding the behavior of complex systems crucial to sustainability? How can architecture and engineering build smarter and more sustainable cities? What can countries learn from sociology about supporting family structures and community institutions? How might information science and technology render virtual public spheres civil while keeping them open? How can societies use political science to improve governance, raise political participation, and manage a wide diversity of views that healthy societies must have? Above all, how can countries create and propagate consensus narratives of sustainability that balance interests?

Applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/16822>. Applications due by November 16, 2020 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2011. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record and ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information see: <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggfp/call-applications>.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 16, 2020:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)
- For those applicants with a current faculty appointment or a professional research appointment, an official letter from the applicant's current employer affirming that, should an offer be made, the applicant would be permitted to accept it and to spend the academic year at Princeton University. If applicant is an established independent scholar, please upload a PDF stating this as applicant's current status.
- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (Please note: all letters of reference should be submitted by your referees before the November 16, 2020 deadline.)

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/16/2020

Date Posted: 7/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7936

Fudan University

Rank: Post-doctoral fellows

Specializations: China, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

Job Summary: Fudan Institute for Advanced Study in Social Sciences (Fudan IAS) is seeking applicants for the full-time "Post-doc fellows" at Fudan University, Shanghai. The position is open till filled, and the employment starts at any time. The disciplines are open for political Science, economics, and sociology. Applicants should demonstrate strong potentials to publish their research on highly reputable international journals (SSCI, AHCI, SCI, and CSSCI). They should employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to address important theoretical questions in the field. Applicants must have the ability to communicate fluently both in English and in Mandarin Chinese.

Institution background: Fudan University is an internationally recognized influential academic institution, one of China's top universities, ranking 3rd in the country and 43rd in QS World University Ranking. Fudan IAS is a comprehensive and cross-disciplinary research institute, with 10 full time research fellows at different academic ranks from junior to distinguished professorship. The institute is an important platform for interdisciplinary integration in the social sciences, recruiting outstanding research fellows, hosting visits of world-renowned scholars, and engaging in international scholarly exchange. The Contemporary China Research Center at Fudan University is created by and housed at the Fudan IAS. The two international journals, Fudan Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences and Chinese Political Science Review's editorial offices are housed at the Fudan IAS and published by the prestigious Springer-Nature Press. The journals are both included in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new index in the Web of Science Core Collection of Clarivate Analytics (formerly Thomson Reuter).

Application documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae; including a publication list and information of three references.
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. 1-2 published articles/writing samples;

We will arrange on-site interviews at Fudan IAS or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Zoom.

Contact: Please put the intended position in the subject line of email, and send your application documents to the hiring committee at ias_fudan@126.com

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7920

Fudan University

Rank: University Distinguished Professors

Specializations: China, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

Job Summary: Fudan Institute for Advanced Study in Social Sciences (Fudan IAS) is seeking applicants for the full-time positions at the top rank of "University Distinguished Professor" at Fudan University, Shanghai. The position is open till filled, and the employment starts at any time. The disciplines are open for political Science, economics, and sociology. Applicants should demonstrate strong publication records and their potentials to continue their scholarship during their tenure, and employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to address important theoretical questions in the fields, and well recognized as leading scholars in the fields of their research. Applicants are expected to continue publishing research on highly reputable international journals (SSCI, AHCI, SCI, and CSSCI), and contribute to the annual research projects at Fudan IAS and to the disciplinary development at Fudan University. Applicants must have the ability to communicate fluently both in English and in Mandarin Chinese.

Institution background: Fudan University is an internationally recognized influential academic institution, one of China's top universities, ranking 3rd in the country and 43rd in QS World University Ranking.

Fudan IAS is a comprehensive and cross-disciplinary research institute, with 10 full time research fellows at different academic ranks from junior to distinguished professorship. The institute is an important platform for interdisciplinary integration in the social sciences, recruiting outstanding research fellows, hosting visits of world-renowned scholars, and engaging in international scholarly exchange. The Contemporary China Research Center at Fudan University is created by and housed at the Fudan IAS. The two international journals, Fudan Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences and Chinese Political Science Review's editorial offices are housed at the Fudan IAS and published by the prestigious Springer-Nature Press. The journals are included in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new index in the Web of Science Core Collection of Clarivate Analytics (formerly Thomson Reuter).

Application documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
3. A brief statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Two published journal articles in PDF;
2. An extensive/detailed curriculum vitae; including honors and awards in disciplines, list of publications, information of three references. Letters of recommendation may be requested.

We will arrange on-site interviews at Fudan IAS or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Zoom.

Contact: Please put the intended rank/position in the subject line of email, and send your application documents to the hiring committee at ias_fudan@126.com

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7919

OTHER

as mediendesign Inh. Andrea Sindermann e. K.

Rank: two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Civil Rights & Liberties, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 100% of the regular working hours (currently 39 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on “transformations in democracy”—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy).

Tasks

The two postdoc researchers will conduct independent research and provide research support to the research department and work collaboratively with the research team on two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right (see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department and to play a leading role in developing the unit's workshops and research projects.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a Ph.D. in political science or a related social science discipline
- a vibrant and creative research agenda
- knowledge of, and excellent skills in quantitative research and quantitative methods
- excellent writing and communication skills in English
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

Salary for the positions: EG 14 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline a research agenda for the period of application.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with “postdoctoral fellow application” in the subject line.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8234

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

WZB Berlin Social Science Center

Rank: two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 65% of the regular working hours (currently 25.35 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on "transformations in democracy"—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/).

Tasks

The two junior researchers will conduct research and provide research support to the research department within two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right (see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

Both will review relevant literature from different disciplines, collect and analyse data, and co-author publications on the conceptual framework and the results of the studies. The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a master's degree (or a related degree) in political science or a related social science discipline

- knowledge of and experience with quantitative research and quantitative methods
- competence in handling of statistical data analyses (using syntax-based software)
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

The positions are ideal for candidates with a master in hand who want to acquire research exposure and develop a research design and analysis skills to embark on a PhD.

Salary for the positions: EG 13 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline statistical skills and experience supporting social scientific research.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with "predoctoral fellow application" in the subject line

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8235

University of Oslo

Rank: Researcher in Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces a vacant position for a researcher (SKO 1108 or 1109). The position is associated with the project "Energy Transition in Oil-Exporting Countries: Discourses on the Green Shift and Climate Change in Norway and the Gulf (Oil in Transition)" based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages and Department of Political Science. The position is funded by UiO:Energy, which focuses on advancing new ways of using energy to tackle global climate change and environmental challenges.

The project is looking for a quantitative political scientist to study changing attitudes and discourses relating to environmental politics, climate change, and renewable sources of energy, in one or more oil-producing Gulf state, e.g. Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates. We are particularly interested in hearing from candidates who can use quantitative text analysis to examine trends and topics in Arabic-language media reporting and/or candidates with experience in analyzing survey data from the MENA region. This research will result in a project report, as well as one or more article-length manuscripts to be submitted to international peer reviewed journals.

The position is available for a period of 18 months and does not involve teaching. The successful candidate will work with Dr. Neil Ketchley in the Department of Political Science. They will also coordinate with the other project members (PI: Professor Brynjar Lia; Co-I Albrecht Hofheinz; both based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages) working on comparisons between Norway and the Gulf.

Qualification requirements

Completed MA degree in political science or related social science discipline (SKO1108), or PhD degree in political Science (SKO 1109) Familiarity with Arabic text analysis and web scrapping packages available in R or cognate software and/or competence in survey data analysis and knowledge of relevant surveys fielded in the MENA region, e.g. the Arab Barometer.

Background in environmental politics and/or climate change research is an advantage, but not a necessary requirement; Fluent oral and written communication skills in English; research proficiency in Arabic.

We offer

Salary NOK 458 900 - 555 800 (position code 1108) or NOK 555 800 - 670 100 (position code 1109) per annum depending on qualifications

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include

Cover letter statement of motivation and research interests

A project description (max. 3000 words). The project description must present a research question, identify possible empirical sources, and outline a feasible progress plan. It is expected that the applicant will be able to complete the project during the period of appointment. Applicants are welcome to contact Neil Ketchley to discuss the Oil in Transition project.

CV (summarizing education, positions and academic work)

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree Diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

Foreign applicants are advised to attach an official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university, translated into ECTS-credits.

A complete list of publications and academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered by the evaluation committee

List of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system; please follow the link "Apply for this job".. Please note that all documents must be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

About the evaluation process

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the project description and the applicant's academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The most promising candidates will then be called for interviews.

Formal regulations

According to the Norwegian Freedom and Information Act (Offenleglova), information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, even in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Neil Ketchley: neil.ketchley@stv.uio.no, +47 22844351

Head of Administration Dagfinn Hagen: dagfinn.hagen@stv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 11/24/2020

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8223

Cengage Learning

Rank: WFH Opportunities with Cengage Learning

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other

Specializations: Latino Politics, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Cengage Learning Political Science Team is looking for Subject Matter Experts in the following areas:

- American Government (including Public Policy and Administration)
- Texas Politics
- Latino Politics
- Racial and Ethnic Politics

All available opportunities are for a flat-fee and include narrative and assessment creation, work on Instructor Manuals and PowerPoints, and review work. Please send your CV and subject area of interest to Lauren Gerrish, lauren.gerrish@cengage.com, for more information.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8219

William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor in Environmental Justice

The Institute for Integrative Conservation (IIC) at William & Mary seeks applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Environmental Justice. We are interested in individuals with research and teaching expertise and interests in aspects of environmental and social justice that intersect with the conservation of global biodiversity, particularly in locations with indigenous human communities. Candidates should clearly articulate how their work complements other conservation-related activities at William & Mary. The tenure home for this position could be in any Arts & Sciences department at W&M, including but not limited to Anthropology, Government, Kinesiology & Health Sciences, Sociology, and Psychological Sciences.

The successful candidate is expected to establish and maintain a research program that incorporates mentorship of undergraduate research students. As the IIC intends to perform research in collaboration with external agencies, NGOs, and other partners, the successful candidate will clearly articulate their research agenda in the context of either current or potential new external partnerships that make improvements in real-world conservation outcomes. Teaching is valued equally with research and will include a course in environmental justice and in environmental ethics. The expected teaching load is two courses per semester. Previous experience teaching undergraduate courses and mentoring research students will be viewed favorably.

Candidates must apply online <http://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39786>. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. with a focus in environmental justice or a related field at the time of the appointment (10 August 2021). To apply, please submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statements of research and teaching interests, a statement of contributions to aspects of justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion (JEDI), and a one-paragraph description of a potential undergraduate course in environmental justice. Candidates will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, 30 November 2020. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the IIC is available at <https://www.wm.edu/offices/iic/>. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC. Located within the Chesapeake Bay watershed, the William & Mary campus includes an 800-acre forest reserve surrounding Lake Matoaka. Research and instructional support for related environmental programs is also provided by William & Mary's Keck Lab, the interdisciplinary program in Environmental Science & Policy, and William & Mary's School of Marine Science which is located at the nearby Virginia Institute of Marine Science. As an all-university initiative, W&M has recently formed a Center for Racial and Social Justice. For questions, please contact the search committee chair: John Swaddle (phone 757-221-2231, email: jpswad@wm.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8218

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years (not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.

4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8216

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, Religion & Politics

Michigan State University actively promotes a dynamic research and learning environment in which qualified individuals of differing perspectives, and cultural backgrounds pursue academic goals with mutual respect and shared inquiry.

The Department of Political Science at Michigan State University seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure system Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor in Minority Politics. The position has a target start date of August 16, 2021. Special consideration will be given to those with research and teaching (graduate and undergraduate) interests in race and ethnicity, religion, gender, class and inequality, or immigration in the U.S. context. The hire is part of an ongoing initiative in Minority Politics in the College of Social Science.

A successful candidate will have evidence of high-quality research, a documented commitment to teaching, and a record of efforts to secure external research funding. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or have completed the Ph.D. by the date of hire.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, citizenship, disability or protected veteran status.

Please contact Eric Juenke (juenke@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Min. Qualifications: Candidates must have completed a PhD by the date of hire. A successful candidate will be expected to have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

Required Materials: Interested applicants must apply for this position via Michigan State University Careers Page. Please access the system at <https://careers.msu.edu>. Applicants must submit a CV, cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, two samples of written work, and a diversity and inclusion statement (a statement addressing how past/and or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance MSU's commitment to inclusive excellence). Applicants must provide contact information for three references. If applicants are currently Assistant Professors or ABD applicants, please provide three letters of recommendation. Letters may be sent to Rhonda Burns at burnsr@msu.edu

To apply for this position please visit <https://careers.msu.edu/> job posting 677807.

Michigan State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Michigan State University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

MSU is located in East Lansing, MI, with easy access to the state capital, Lake Michigan, great school districts, and two large metropolitan areas (Grand Rapids, Detroit). The University is pro-active in exploring opportunities for employment for dual career couples, both inside and outside the University. Information about MSU's dual career support can be found at <http://miwin.msu.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8204

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows – QSS

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for a postdoctoral fellow for the 2020-21 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Fellows should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science. We are especially interested in candidates whose research agendas are closely related to those of QSS-affiliated faculty and/or other scholars on campus (for more, see e.g. <https://qss.dartmouth.edu/people>).

During the 2020-21 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus. Postdoctoral fellows are guaranteed one year of funding with opportunities to extend funding for an additional year.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. Each fellow also receives a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. Fellows teach one course per year in Dartmouth's quarter system on a subject to be determined in consultation with the QSS chair. Fellows may also have the opportunity to teach further courses and would be compensated for any additional courses they choose to teach (to be determined in consultation with the Associate Dean).

Dartmouth is highly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive population of students, faculty, and staff. QSS is especially interested in applicants who are able to work effectively with students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds, including but not limited to: racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify with LGBTQ + communities, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and /or first generation college graduates. Applicants should state in their cover letter how their teaching, research, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth's commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Requirements:

1. Ph.D. in any social science or related discipline, expected or granted by September 2021.
2. Substantive interest in any social science field, with preference given to candidates who demonstrate substantial overlap and interest working with QSS faculty and affiliates or other Dartmouth faculty.
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Materials:

- 1) A cover letter that is no longer than two pages
- 2) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 3) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 4) Names of specific Dartmouth faculty inside and outside QSS who are of interest to the applicant
- 5) Three letters of reference
- 6) A published or unpublished journal-length manuscript written in English

Applications will be reviewed starting on December 1, 2020. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80180>

Contact for questions: Brendan Nyhan, nyhan@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8202

Trinity College

Rank: Liberal Arts Action Lab Director and Lecturer in Urban Studies

The Liberal Arts Action Lab Director and Lecturer in Urban Studies leads the Liberal Arts Action Lab (LAAL) at Trinity's downtown campus in Hartford, CT. The Lab applies liberal arts skills to addressing community-defined projects, while offering students a unique, two-course experiential learning opportunity. The successful candidate will serve as the Lab's lead instructor, recruit community projects and student/faculty teams, and shape the Lab's broader approach and vision. The LAAL Director reports to the Director of the Center for Hartford Engagement and Research and serves as a lecturer in the Urban Studies Program.

Since 2018, the Lab has completed 22 projects with community partners, typically conducting four projects per semester. Community partners propose projects, which are prioritized by a Hartford Resident Advisory Board. The Lab then engages teams of faculty and students from Trinity and Capital Community College to spend a semester working on a project and delivering a product to a community partner. Students take a research methods course, which introduces participatory action research methods, including modules on collecting and analyzing qualitative and quantitative data, and the ethics of community-based engagement. Students immediately apply these skills by working on a project team.

Trinity College is a highly selective, independent, nonsectarian liberal arts institution located in Connecticut's capital, Hartford. With over 2100 full-time undergraduate students and 91 graduate students, the College maintains a rigorous academic profile complemented by a vibrant and diverse co-curricular program. The College enjoys the benefit of being situated in an urban center and has strong academic, social, and philanthropic connections to our home city of Hartford. Our student body is diverse, representing 41 states and 70 countries with 21% students of color and 50% women. Just over 90% of students live in campus residences. As a preeminent liberal arts college in an urban setting, Trinity College prepares students to be bold, independent thinkers who lead transformative lives.

Responsibilities:

1. Directs the Liberal Arts Action Lab's operations, and guides its development.
2. Solicits community partner projects for the Lab and works with partners to refine proposals.
3. Engages a Hartford Resident Advisory Board to prioritize selected Lab projects and ensure the involvement of Hartford's diverse communities in the Lab's operation.
4. Coordinates the Action Lab's core course and four project teams each semester, recruiting students and faculty project leaders and fellows.
5. Teaches one methods course and two project teams each semester (spring and fall).
6. Collaborates with designated faculty from Capital Community College to ensure full participation and inclusion of Capital students and faculty.
7. With staff support, organizes communications efforts to publicize Lab news on and off campus.
8. With staff support, contributes to data collection on programming and evaluates impacts.
9. Assists in grant writing and fundraising for the Lab.
10. Participates actively in the Center for Hartford Engagement and Research and the Urban Studies program, attending meetings and contributing to programmatic decision-making.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline (urban studies, sociology, public policy, anthropology, geography, or other social science discipline) in hand or expected by August 2021. The candidate will have knowledge of and enthusiasm for quantitative and qualitative research methods and data analysis from across liberal arts disciplines; expertise in urban research; and experience with some combination of quantitative and qualitative methodology including, but not limited to, ethnographic research, interviews, focus groups, Geographical Information Systems, data visualization, and action research. The candidate will exhibit a passion for learning and working in higher education; a commitment to civic engagement; a proven record of teaching; an ability to facilitate team-building and inclusion in diverse groups; strong writing and communication skills; as well as a capacity to use relevant technology, manage complex change, and assess outcomes. Project management experience and knowledge of Hartford would be ideal.

To ensure full consideration please submit a letter of application (including discussion of teaching, community engaged research experience, and commitment to diversity), CV, course syllabi and evaluations (if available), as well as at least three letters of reference to <https://trincoll.peopleadmin.com> by November 6, 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8195

University of Chicago

Rank: Instructional Professor in Computational Social Science

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for a position as Instructional Professor (IP) in the MA program in Computational Social Science (MACSS, macss.uchicago.edu) capable of teaching introductory courses in computer science with applications in social scientific research.

This is a full-time, career-track teaching position. The start date is flexible, and will fall between July 1 and September 1, 2021. The initial two-year appointment is renewable with opportunity for promotion. Appointments at the Assistant, Associate, and Full Instructional Professor rank will be considered.

The IP will annually teach five courses, including some combination of machine learning, modeling, simulation, data visualization, high performance computing, cloud computing, application development, or introductions to important programming languages (including R or Python). Other courses may cover applied research across some field or research problem in the social sciences.

In addition, the IP will advise MA students; advise a limited number of MA theses as the primary supervisor; hire and manage teaching assistants; help lead the MACSS Computation Workshop; contribute to program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train our doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the program.

The position includes support for professional development. The IP will join a dynamic community of social science researchers.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a PhD in computer science, data science, sociology, economics, political science, psychology, or a related discipline. Industry experience is valued, but not required. The IP must have the PhD must be in hand prior to the start date. Teaching experience is required.

Application Instructions

Applicants must apply online at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/79998. The following materials must be submitted: 1) a cover letter, outlining the applicant's prior computational training, prior teaching or mentoring experience, and suggested course offerings in our MA program; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) an article-length writing sample applying a computational research design; 4) at least one course syllabus from prior teaching or with an eye to future offerings; 5) course evaluations or other evidence of past excellence in teaching or mentoring; and 6) three letters of reference.

Review of applications will begin on December 1 and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

This position will be part of the Service Employees International Union.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8190

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Positions in the Future of Work

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs <https://keough.nd.edu> is seeking applications for two faculty positions specializing in one or more dimensions of the complex and inter-related ethical, economic, social and policy questions at the intersection of artificial intelligence, data science, automation and the future of work.

The search is open rank, and extends to those whose professional and/or academic background would qualify them as professors of the practice, or as tenured/tenure-track scholars. In either case, the successful candidate(s) will draw on and conduct research that has direct application to questions of policy. The appointed candidate's specific responsibilities will depend on the nature and rank of the appointment, but will include research, teaching, and public practice components. Applicants for these positions may come from any relevant field in economics, sociology, business, and/or public policy. Experts in labor economics, the sociology of labor and related fields are particularly encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate(s) will contribute to research and teaching programs in the McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business <https://keough.nd.edu/mckenna-center/>. These two positions are being posted as part of a wider cluster hiring process that will include other faculty positions in technology ethics, data analytics and other related fields related to the university's commitment to an integrated approach to the social and ethical dimensions of technology and to advanced uses of data analytics. In that regard, the successful candidate(s) will be affiliated with one or both of Notre Dame's related new initiatives: the Technology Ethics Center <https://techethics.nd.edu> and the Lucy Family Institute for Data and Society <https://news.nd.edu/news/notre-dame-launches-new-lucy-family-institute-for-data-society/>.

This faculty search is inspired by the rapidly accelerating introduction of digital and data-driven transformation that is driving major structural and social change. While offering many positive social benefits, this digital revolution is radically disrupting labor markets, and creating growing anxiety among working men and women about their livelihood security and that of their children. In the face of such dramatic change, how should society respond? How can this digital revolution bring meaningful changes to society? What ethical questions must be posed and what policies put forward to mitigate any social and economic fallout? Do we really appreciate the deeper existential meaning of work for individuals and families? Will the promise of this new world of work enhance human dignity, reward and sense of self or diminish it? Will the new opportunities for decent and meaningful work in this new digital age keep pace with the demand for good jobs? Is the gig economy and all the leisure it promises really the basis for a decent livelihood and quality of life or will it only increase stress and ensure a permanent condition of economic fragility and economic insecurity? What new skills will be required to succeed in this new labor force of the future? What role will governments and companies need to play in ethically and responsibly managing the transition to this post-industrial economy? These are but a sampling of the kinds of questions scholars at the University of Notre Dame will seek to answer through interdisciplinary research initiatives in the coming years.

The successful candidate[s] will have outstanding records of achievement in research, teaching and/or public service and leadership in program development. We seek complementary competencies in these two positions, taken together, albeit within the context of the future of work. The range includes quantitative and qualitative research methods, data science and artificial intelligence, a demonstrated track record of inter-disciplinary collaboration, and experience in translating critical research into actionable policy propositions.

The balance of research, teaching and service/practice responsibilities in the McKenna Center and the Keough School will reflect the candidate's specific qualifications and experience. Research in our multi-disciplinary context will explore the future of work across sectors and drive the formulation of appropriate public and private sector strategies and policies for mitigating the most socially and economically deleterious effects of widespread digitization and automation.

Teaching in the Keough School curriculum will focus on topics relevant to managing the transition to the digital future. These courses will familiarize graduate and undergraduate students with the research methods and data analytics central to understanding critical aspects of this digital transition; engage students on its ethical, social, and economic implications; and challenge students to delve into likely social and economic challenges and consequences that may require action by either state or private sector actors in the form of structural or organizational change or policy remedies.

All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/79722>). In addition to a cover letter and Curriculum Vitae, applicants should submit the names of three references. The search committee will only request letters of recommendation for finalists. Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Raymond Offenheiser, Search Committee Chair
Director, Pulte Institute for Global Development
Acting Director, McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
roffenhe@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. The position will close to new applications on November 30, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8175

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor – Latinx Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in Latinx Politics, pending budgetary approval. We are especially interested in candidates whose research focuses on understanding Latinx perspectives and experiences related to issues of migration, representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, and identity. We seek candidates who would complement our current faculty's research and teaching strengths and will help strengthen the department's research program by broadening the perspectives, questions, theories, methods, or sources of evidence used to study political behavior and institutions, including those whose research employs civically engaged or participatory scholarship within the Latinx community.

This search is part of the first stage of a three to five year-long university-wide cluster hiring initiative in Latinx Studies. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in that initiative, intended to create a critical mass of scholars with expertise in Latinx studies at the University. More detailed information about the Provost's Latinx cluster hiring initiative can be found here: <https://www.provost.pitt.edu/latinx-cluster-hire-initiative>.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2021. Successful candidates are expected to engage in research, teaching, and service that contributes to the department's mission. Required qualifications:

applicants have or expect to have a Ph.D. in hand before the appointment begins, research interests related to Latinx politics, and demonstrated ability or potential to publish high-quality scholarship. Preferred qualifications: research interests related to migration, representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, and identity; demonstrated commitment or potential to contribute to equity and inclusion.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters.

Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjk3>.

In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by November 6, 2020, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/8/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8156

Stanford University

Rank: HAI Junior Fellow/Assistant Faculty (Research)

The Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI) at Stanford University invites applications for a fixed-term Assistant Professor (Research) faculty position. The appointment is for a non-renewable term of five years, beginning in September 2021. The selected candidate will be appointed in an appropriate disciplinary department (e.g., Communications, Computer Science, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Sociology), and will be a Junior Fellow of the Stanford Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence.

We are seeking applicants from all areas of research related to artificial intelligence, spanning theoretical foundations, systems, software, applications, and human or societal impact. We are particularly interested in researchers working at the frontiers of artificial intelligence and other disciplines, including but not limited to the humanities, business, education, law, medicine, and physical and social sciences. Applicants must have received a PhD prior to the start of the appointment, must show outstanding promise in research, and must have a strong commitment to teaching. A successful candidate will be expected to teach one course per year at the graduate and/or undergraduate levels and will be provided generous research support.

Further information about the HAI Institute can be found at <https://hai.stanford.edu>.

Application Requirements:

? All applications should include a curriculum vita, a list of publications, and brief (3 page total) statements of research and teaching interests.

? Applicants should submit the names and contact information of at least four references.

Please apply online Academic Jobs Online. You will need to create an AJO account if you do not already have one. Questions should be directed to the Search Committee Chair via electronic mail to HAI-Search@stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8151

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor (Indigenous Studies)

The Department of Global and International Studies at the University of California, Irvine (UCI) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position. We are looking for outstanding scholars involved in critical, interdisciplinary and innovative approaches to global Indigenous issues. Applicants should address explicitly how global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The candidate will be participating in an innovative, transdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, non-western epistemologies, and pressing regional and transnational issues manifesting in the lives and experiences of people. See department website at: www.globalstudies.uci.edu

Completed applications must include: a cover letter highlighting qualifications, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching, statement of research, up to three publications, and three letters of reference by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials.

Interested candidates should apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/JPF06367>

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled. If you have questions, please feel free to contact Department Chair, Eve Darian-Smith via email to edarian@uci.edu

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8153

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor (Racial Studies)

The Department of Global and International Studies at the University of California, Irvine (UCI) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position. We are looking for outstanding scholars involved in critical, interdisciplinary and innovative approaches to structural racism as a pressing global issue. We are especially interested in candidates engaging in critical approaches to racial capitalism, Black Internationalism and Black geographies. Applicants should address explicitly how global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The candidate will be participating in an innovative, transdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, non-western epistemologies, and pressing regional and transnational issues manifesting in the lives and experiences of people. See department website at: www.globalstudies.uci.edu

Completed applications must include: a cover letter highlighting qualifications, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching, statement of research, up to three publications, and three letters of reference by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials.

Interested candidates should apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/JPF05186>

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled. If you have questions, please feel free to contact Department Chair, Eve Darian-Smith via email to edarian@uci.edu

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8152

University of Oslo

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow on the Extreme Right, Hate Crime and Political Violence

Job description

Center for Research on Extremism (C-REX) seeks to recruit two excellent candidates in the Social Sciences, Humanities or Law doing high quality research on far right politics and right-wing violence. The successful applicants will work full time as a Postdoctoral Fellow (Assistant Professor). The appointment is for a fixed, non-tenured term of 3 years, with a possibility to extend the position to four years with teaching obligations. The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines.

C-REX studies both ideological and behavioral aspects right-wing extremism. C-REX three main objectives are: (1) developing cutting edge empirical and theoretical knowledge on right-wing extremism, violence and hate crime in Norway, Europe and beyond; (2) serving as an international hub on multi-disciplinary research on right-wing extremism and (3) disseminating research-based knowledge to stakeholders, policy makers, the public, civil society organization, schools, and media

More specifically, the center concentrates on the following areas of research: (1) ideology and identity, (2) violence and hate crimes, (3) gender in extremism, (4) parties and movements, and (5) analyses of prevention and intervention. While the center concentrates on Europe, it also carries out research on right-wing extremism beyond Europe. C-REX has developed a unique database on right-wing violence and terrorism and the center is currently also developing other databases related to protest events, so-called (extremist) 'formers' and primary sources.

The Center for Research on Extremism (C-REX) is a cross-disciplinary center for the study of the extreme right, hate crime and political violence. The center was established in 2016 and is a joint collaboration with six of the leading Norwegian institutions and three of the leading international universities on extremism research. It is led by C-REX is led by professor Tore Bjørgo and researcher Anders Ravik Jupskås.

Qualification requirements

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree (PhD) in Social Sciences, Humanities, Law or related disciplines before taking up the post. For applicants who have yet to receive their PhD degree, the Doctoral dissertation must have been submitted for evaluation before the application deadline (December 1, 2020). Such applicants should note the date of submission of their PhD in the cover letter. Appointment is dependent on the public defense of the doctoral thesis being approved.

Candidates with a record of high-quality publication, especially in leading peer-reviewed international journal and/or leading publisher, will be prioritized. However, the length of the applicant's research career (discounted for parental leave, etc.) will be taken into account when considering the number of such publications: The intention is to recruit the person that has the best prospects for contributing to the project's research outputs by publishing research of the highest quality over the coming 3-year period.

The candidate should, in the cover letter (maximum 2 pages), briefly explain how his/her research profile and agenda will contribute to the overall goals of C-REX. Applicants are free to formulate a project within the field of far-right politics and/or right-wing violence, but they must relate their project to one or several of the center's research profile presented above (see also the center's website for more information). Applicants must formulate a project description that lays out a promising research project that can be fulfilled in the course of three years.

Candidates with prior research experience on one or more of the topics covered by C-REX will have an advantage.

Other desired qualifications and experiences include experiences with previous systematic data collection efforts, extensive academic and non-academic networks, strong administrative and organizational skills, very good command of English, and dissemination skills. Finally, personal suitability for the position will be taken into consideration.

See also the regulations regarding the terms of employment for Post-doctoral Fellow positions and Guidelines concerning appointment to postdoctoral and research posts at the University of Oslo.

We offer

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 523 200-605 500 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro) budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 45 000 per year).

an academically stimulating and international working environment
a friendly and inclusive workplace

a good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

Postdocs with teaching obligations at the Department of Political Science are expected to acquire formal pedagogical competency during the first half of the four years period

Female postdocs can take part in the UiO Mentorprogram for female postdocs

Applications

Applications should be submitted electronically with the following:

Letter of application

CV

A complete list of publications

A research proposal. The proposal should clarify the research theme, main research questions, how the research contributes to the existing literature, theoretical approach, methodology, and a publication plan (maximum 3.000 words (!) everything included).

Note! Publications should not be submitted with the application; the most promising candidates will be invited to submit their publications, as well as their educational certificates and diplomas, later in the process.

Short-listed candidates for the job will be invited to an interview and may be asked to do a trial lecture.

(Questions regarding the electronic application form should be sent to personnel officer Sylvi Anita Varsi Øien, saeien@sv.uio.no, telephone +47 22856907)

Please note

Applicants, who at the time of appointment cannot provide documentary evidence of basic formal teaching competence, must acquire such competence within two years by completing a mandatory pedagogical course provided by UiO.

The University of Oslo has an Acquisition of Rights Agreement for all employees for the purpose of securing intellectual property rights to research results, etc.

Pursuant to section 25, of the Freedom of Information Act, information concerning the applicant may be disclosed to the public, even if the applicant has requested not to appear on the list of applicants.

As a state institution, we have a personnel policy goal of a balanced age and gender composition of our staff and to recruit persons with an ethnic minority background.

Contact information

Director Tore Bjørgo, tore.bjorgo@c-rex.uio.no, telephone: +47 22 84 58 50

Deputy director Anders Ravik Jupskås, a.r.jupskas@c-rex.uio.no, telephone: +47 22 85 76 42

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Center for Research on Extremism (C-REX) is a cross-disciplinary center for the study of the extreme right, hate crime and political violence. The center was established in early 2016 and is a joint collaboration with five of the leading Norwegian institutions and three of the leading international universities on extremism research. The research focuses on both ideological and behavioral aspects right-wing extremism. In particular, C-REX concentrates on the following areas of research: (1) ideology and identity, (2) violence and hate crimes, (3) gender in extremism, (4) parties and movements, and (5) analyses of prevention and intervention. Geographically, the center concentrates on Europe.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8149

William & Mary

Rank: Research Scientist or Senior Research Scientist

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Research Methods

AidData is currently recruiting for a Research Scientist (U13) OR Senior Research Scientist (U15), depending on the applicant's qualifications. These positions are based in Williamsburg, VA. As such, applicants will be expected to relocate to the Williamsburg area in 2021.

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

The Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and work closely with the Director of Policy Analysis to provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. The Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a Co-Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will also contribute to the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and Policy Analysis Unit, represent the program and unit externally in presenting research results to academic and policy audiences, and broker financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program and unit's research agenda.

The Senior Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. This is a senior leadership position within AidData. The Senior Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a lead Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will lead the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program, and represent the program externally to academic and policy audiences. The individual will also be responsible for brokering financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program's research agenda, while ensuring the long-term health and sustainability of the program area.

Either position may include oversight of staff conducting data collection and analysis related to the nature, scope, distribution, and effects of Chinese, Russian, and Middle Eastern financing. Either role will be responsible for the successful delivery of analysis, datasets and tools related to sponsored research projects, including:

- Financial oversight (managing budgets for active grants and contracts, developing proposals for new grants);
- External client management (ensuring on-time, high-quality deliverables for external funders);
- Personnel oversight (supervision of staff/research assistants);
- Project/portfolio management (responsible for direct implementation of projects to produce data and derivative products); and quality assurance.

This position is located at the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. This is a full-time position, and salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications in the U13-U15 range (see Salary Structure for University Employees).

Required Qualifications

Research Scientist:

- A Master's degree in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance, or comparable education and experience;
- Several years of relevant professional experience;
- Demonstrated experience leading the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects;
- Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;
- Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress reports in a timely manner to external research sponsors;
- Track record of leading research collaborations;

Established subject matter expert in at least one domain relevant to the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.); Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;

Experience leading technical teams and projects and training/mentoring team members;

Experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;

Strong and effective communication skills;

Ability to work both independently and collaboratively in a demanding and complex work environment; to carry out assignments in a timely manner, and to adapt to changing situations and priorities;

Experience managing small to mid-size project teams and delivery schedules

Senior Research Scientist:

A terminal degree in a relevant discipline with several years' experience as a principal investigator or co-principal investigator;

Demonstrated academic rigor to lead the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects as a Principal Investigator; Established track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;

Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;

Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress to external research sponsors;

Track record of publishing research in peer-reviewed journals or policy research that meets equivalent standards of scrutiny;

Experience with personnel management and fiscal responsibilities associated with externally-sponsored research projects;

Established track record of leading research collaborations (with and without external collaborators) that result in high-quality and high-profile research outputs;

Established subject matter expert in at least two domains relevant to the program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.);

Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;

Extensive professional network and presence in relevant professional communities, including researchers across multiple domains;

Substantial experience leading large, interdisciplinary teams and technically demanding projects;

Demonstrated experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;

Strong and effective communication and presentation skills

Preferred Qualifications

Research Scientist:

A Master's degree or Doctorate in a relevant discipline;

Extensive relevant professional experience;

Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research projects in developing country contexts;

Knowledge/experience with qualitative data collection and research methods (FGDs, interviews, Nvivo);

Advanced experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);

Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;

Experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;

Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;

Detailed knowledge of aid classification schemes and experience in collecting, standardizing, and publishing data from multiple actors;

Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;

Knowledge of the standards, best practices, and systems related to public service and/or international aid program delivery in developing countries

Senior Research Scientist:

Doctorate in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance or comparable advanced level experience;

Track record of obtaining research funding from a variety of funders; Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research in developing country contexts;

Advanced proficiency/experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);

Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;

Demonstrated experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;

Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;

Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;

Extensive knowledge of traditional and non-traditional donor classification schemes (with a particular emphasis on Non-DAC donors like China, Russia and the Gulf Cooperation Council countries)

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 10/29/2020

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8136

New York University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate - NYU Center for Social Media and Politics

The NYU Center for Social Media and Politics studies the influence of social media on politics, and develops new and innovative ways to measure such influence. Postdocs work on projects that could include: analyzing the behavior of bots in elections, working with survey data merged with respondents' social media behavior, analyzing Facebook data made available through the Social Science One program, identifying which users are most influential in online networks, examining the impact of YouTube and other sites on news consumption of individuals, the spread of disinformation through social media platforms, and studying how and what individuals learn from social media during the 2020 U.S. election campaign.

We are looking for a postdoc with a strong research background and advanced technical skills. Experience with research in one or more of the following areas is desirable: active learning, deep learning, or machine learning. A Ph.D. degree in Computer Science, Data Science, Statistics, or a social science field with a background in machine learning and data science is required.

The directors of the Center for Social Media and Politics are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, faculty collaborators, and staff, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to apply. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range, health, and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

This is initially a one year position, with the potential for renewal up to three years.

CSMaP consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Postdocs will work with the faculty directors and others to conduct cutting edge research: analyzing data using tools of modern machine learning, designing data collection schemes, developing and testing new algorithms, and producing code and writing up results. Postdocs are expected to participate in co-authoring multiple lab papers.

Feel free to contact any of the faculty directors for more information: Rich Bonneau (rb133[at]nyu.edu), Jonathan Nagler (jonathan.nagler[at]nyu.edu), or Joshua Tucker (joshua.tucker[at]nyu.edu).

Application URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/78575>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8127

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2021-22

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2021. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79312>.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8116

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The International Studies and Languages Division of Pepperdine University's Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor of International Studies (with a specialization in African Studies) beginning August 1, 2021. The ability to teach courses in at least two of the following areas is preferred: African politics, African culture and society, ethnicity in Africa, comparative politics, or comparative political economy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology is required. Candidates should demonstrate exceptional interest and effectiveness in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Candidates should also have the ability to establish a productive research program. The ability to engage students in their scholarly work would be a plus.

Pepperdine University is a private Christian university overlooking the Pacific Ocean in Malibu, California. Faculty, staff and students partner to support Pepperdine's Christian Mission. Pepperdine is committed to valuing diversity and inclusion among our students and faculty. Applicants of color are particularly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all application materials at apply.interfolio.com/78908. Review of candidates' application materials will begin on November 9th, 2020, and will continue until the search is closed.

Contact:

Dr. George Carlsen (george.carlsen@pepperdine.edu)
 Divisional Dean of International Studies and Languages
 Pepperdine University
 24255 Pacific Coast Highway
 Malibu, CA 90263

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8105

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor-Tenure System

Assistant Professor-Tenure System

The Education Policy program within the Department of Educational Administration seeks one 9-month, tenure-track assistant professor who specializes in policy implementation. We are looking for a new colleague who shares our program's commitment to contributing rigorous empirical research to local, state, national, and international policy conversations. In particular, we seek a colleague who will diversify our current faculty's strengths and areas of research.

We seek applicants who utilize qualitative or mixed methodological approaches to address policy implementation questions. Applicants must have a strong record of scholarship and teaching that focuses on the policy process, policy implementation, and educational equity and who specialize in K-12 or higher education policy. Priority will be placed on applicants whose scholarship (1) address issues of equity and adequacy in implementation, (2) engages a range of policy stakeholders including policy makers, district/school/institutional leaders, and local, state, and national organizations focused on improving education, and (3) examines policies and practices that are critical to current and ongoing policy conversations.

This position will support our program's goal to increase our focus on implementation. Beginning in the 2021-2022 school year we will be offering a new concentration in education science with a key component rooted in policy implementation. The new faculty member will participate in the development of a new IES-funded interdisciplinary doctoral training program in education policy implementation and efficacy and will mentor students from across the university who participate in the program.

The department is particularly interested in candidates who have experience working with diversity, equity, and inclusion in education and demonstrated commitment to improving educational outcomes for all students.

Our nationally ranked program is home to 7 faculty members and approximately 30 doctoral students pursuing a wide range of questions related to education policy. The Education Policy faculty includes a number of prominent national and international leaders who are excited to support an early career colleague to be a highly successful policy scholar and teacher. The Education Policy program is housed in MSU's acclaimed Department of Educational Administration, alongside programs in K12 Educational Administration and Higher, Adult, and Lifelong Education. Situated in an institution committed to access and outreach, Education Policy faculty and students are deeply committed to addressing local, state, national, and international educational policy. Building on our collective strengths, we seek to add a new and unique voice to our program.

Required Degree:

Doctorate

Minimum Requirements:

- Earned doctoral degree prior to start date and a record of accomplishments consistent with appointment as an assistant professor at a research-intensive institution.
- Doctorate in education policy, public policy, public administration, political science, sociology, implementation sciences, or other related field.
- Record of or potential for an outstanding scholarly publication record.
- Ability to mentor doctoral students in the area of implementation research, specifically in collaboration with external stakeholders.
- Strong methodological training in and ability to teach graduate level qualitative methods including at least one or more of: case studies, interviewing, or process tracing.
- Ability to teach graduate level courses in education policy, policy implementation, and policy evaluation.
- A research agenda that promotes equitable educational opportunities for all students, especially those historically marginalized by institutions of education and by policy.
- Collaboration skills and willingness to work on a new IES grant-funded doctoral training program in education science.

Desired Qualifications

- Experience working with a range of education stakeholders on policy related issues.
- Strong methodological training in and ability to teach mixed methods including, but not limited to, survey development and analysis and mediation analyses.
- Record of or potential for grant supported research.
- Experience working with research-policy or research-practice partnerships.

Required Application Materials:

Online application via careers.msu.edu is required, see posting #673144. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, an empirical writing sample that is relevant to the position as outlined in the call, and names and contact information of three references.

Special Instructions:

We invite inquiries from potentially interested candidates to any of the search committee members:

Rebecca Jacobsen, Co-chair (Associate Professor of Education Policy), rjacobs@msu.edu

Katharine Strunk, Co-chair (Clifford E. Erickson Distinguished Professor of Education Policy and, by courtesy, Economics), kstrunk@msu.edu

Terah Venzant Chambers (Professor of Educational Administration and Associate Dean for Equity and Inclusion), terah@msu.edu

Scott Imberman (Professor of Economics and Education Policy), imberman@msu.edu Sarah Reckhow (Associate Professor of Political Science), reckhow@msu.edu

Kris Renn (Professor of Higher, Adult, and Lifelong Learning and Associate Dean of Undergraduate Studies for Student Success Research), renn@msu.edu

Sandy Frost Waldron (PhD Student in Education Policy), waldro41@msu.edu
 John Yun (Associate Professor of Educational Administration), jyun@msu.edu

Michigan State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Michigan State University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall

Date Posted: 9/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8088

Harvard University

Rank: Fellow-in-Residence

The Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply.

For the 2021-22 academic year, the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics will focus on the theme of "A New Social Compact?" The COVID-19 pandemic has delivered a shock to the nations of the world. Variations in national responses and experiments with economic and health policies have implicitly revealed different conceptions of the social compact (a phrase we use loosely to refer to shared understandings of what members of societies believe they owe to each other). In the United States, the experience of the pandemic has been defined by failures of governance, leadership, and technocratic expertise. These failures have led to the stark exposure of underlying health inequities, along with the broad social vulnerability for individuals, and the polity generally, that flows from inequality. The centrality of care provision to our economy and social well-being has also been brought to the fore, made visible by the sudden disappearance of structures like schools that have come to provide so much of the care and services of the social safety net in the United States. Restrictions on international travel, the fracturing of global supply chains, rationing of medical supplies, and attempts to develop a vaccine all call into question the social compact at a global level. While much innovation in political philosophy, political economy, and public policy has been in development for the last decade, since the global financial crisis, the pandemic presents an occasion for harvesting the fruits of that work with the goal of articulating the foundations of a new social compact. We invite applications connected to any dimension of this broad field of inquiry. We see the nature of the failures to be addressed as so multifaceted as to make this theme not very restrictive; however, in our usual fashion, we will also consider applications that fall outside the parameters of this thematic description.

All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply. Priority will be given to early career scholars and practitioners.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is intended to be residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term. The coronavirus pandemic has resulted in a waiver of this requirement for the 2020-21 academic year. If the public health crisis continues, we will consider a waiver for the 2021-22 academic year, but our hope is to return to in-person, residential programming by September 2021.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with the following Centers; we continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

- Carr Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
- Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
- Center for Research on Computation and Society at the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences
- Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
- Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics and our partnering Center.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

STIPEND

Faculty: We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary, up to $75,000, and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs: The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $60,000 for 2021-22. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioners: Practitioner stipends will be determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

To apply, you will need to complete an online application form, found at ethics.harvard.edu/fellows-in-residence, which includes submission of the following in .pdf, .doc, or .docx form:

- Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program (suggested length 1-2 pages or 850 words)
- CV
- Research proposal (suggested length 3-5 pages or 2,500 words)
- Recent writing sample (suggested length under 30 pages or 7,000 words)

- Names and contact information of three professional references (letters are not accepted until a candidate reaches a later stage of the process)

The deadline for submitting this application is November 16, 2020. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Should you have any questions regarding this application process, please send an email to EJSafraFellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/16/2020

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8081

Harvard University

Rank: Fellow-in-Residence

The Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply.

For the 2021-22 academic year, the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics will focus on the theme of "A New Social Compact?" The COVID-19 pandemic has delivered a shock to the nations of the world. Variations in national responses and experiments with economic and health policies have implicitly revealed different conceptions of the social compact (a phrase we use loosely to refer to shared understandings of what members of societies believe they owe to each other). In the United States, the experience of the pandemic has been defined by failures of governance, leadership, and technocratic expertise. These failures have led to the stark exposure of underlying health inequities, along with the broad social vulnerability for individuals, and the polity generally, that flows from inequality. The centrality of care provision to our economy and social well-being has also been brought to the fore, made visible by the sudden disappearance of structures like schools that have come to provide so much of the care and services of the social safety net in the United States. Restrictions on international travel, the fracturing of global supply chains, rationing of medical supplies, and attempts to develop a vaccine all call into question the social compact at a global level. While much innovation in political philosophy, political economy, and public policy has been in development for the last decade, since the global financial crisis, the pandemic presents an occasion for harvesting the fruits of that work with the goal of articulating the foundations of a new social compact. We invite applications connected to any dimension of this broad field of inquiry. We see the nature of the failures to be addressed as so multifaceted as to make this theme not very restrictive; however, in our usual fashion, we will also consider applications that fall outside the parameters of this thematic description.

All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply. Priority will be given to early career scholars and practitioners.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is intended to be residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term. The coronavirus pandemic has resulted in a waiver of this requirement for the 2020-21 academic year. If the public health crisis continues, we will consider a waiver for the 2021-22 academic year, but our hope is to return to in-person, residential programming by September 2021.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with the following Centers; we continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

- Carr Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
- Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
- Center for Research on Computation and Society at the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences
- Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
- Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics and our partnering Center.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

STIPEND

Faculty: We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary, up to $75,000, and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs: The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $60,000 for 2021-22. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioners: Practitioner stipends will be determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

To apply, you will need to complete an online application form, found at ethics.harvard.edu/fellows-in-residence, which includes submission of the following in .pdf, .doc, or .docx form:

- Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program (suggested length 1-2 pages or 850 words)
- CV

- Research proposal (suggested length 3-5 pages or 2,500 words)
- Recent writing sample (suggested length under 30 pages or 7,000 words)
- Names and contact information of three professional references (letters are not accepted until a candidate reaches a later stage of the process)

The deadline for submitting this application is November 16, 2020. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Should you have any questions regarding this application process, please send an email to EJSafraFellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2022
Date Posted: 9/22/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8082

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in Human Rights

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs is searching for an outstanding scholar of human rights. The Keough School is a multidisciplinary, policy-oriented school of global affairs whose efforts in research, teaching, and service are dedicated to the advancement of integral human development. <https://keough.nd.edu>. As the Keough School expands its curricular programs, teaching and scholarship grounded in research that addresses normative approaches to human rights as well as policies for their protection is paramount. The successful applicant will have an interest and strong record in teaching undergraduate students.

Depending on the qualifications of the applicant, the position may be tenure track, rank open, or non-tenure track regular faculty, rank open. Applicants may come from a variety of professional backgrounds and disciplines, including the social sciences (e.g., sociology, political science, anthropology) or humanities (e.g., history, theology). Applicants whose work is truly global in scope, considering both the United States and the international sphere, are particularly encouraged to apply. Applicants should have an interest in interdisciplinary collaboration as well as policy-related fieldwork or experience. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required at the time of appointment. The successful candidate will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs and closely affiliated with its Klau Center for Civil and Human Rights <https://klau.nd.edu/the-center/>. Joint or concurrent appointments in the appropriate University departments are possible.

Candidates for this position are asked to submit a letter of interest and a CV. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors) should also submit a teaching statement, which includes available teaching evaluations. Application materials should be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/78788>.

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Jennifer Mason McAward
 Chair, Human Rights Search Committee
 Keough School of Global Affairs
 University of Notre Dame
mason.1@nd.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020
Date Posted: 9/17/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8060

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8039

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. <http://apply.interfolio.com/76709>

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8040

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Position (scholars who study race in American society)

Specializations: African American Politics, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stanford invites applications for an open rank, tenure line, position for scholars who study race in American society. This search is part of a university-wide initiative in which Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars who study the significance of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. Stanford seeks to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus. Appointments may be made in the following schools and departments: Stanford Law School, Stanford Graduate School of Business, Stanford Graduate School of Education, and the following departments within the School of Humanities and Sciences: Economics, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Philosophy, History, and Religious Studies. Rank is open, although a majority of the appointments are expected to be made at the assistant professor level. At the senior level, we are particularly interested in candidates with an active program of research in progress and for established scholars to have outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. A strong commitment to excellent teaching is essential.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 but the department may consider applications after this date. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16835> with a cover letter describing academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, samples of recent scholarship and a research statement of no more than three pages. Applicants for a non-tenured position should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted directly online by October 15, 2020.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 9/9/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8038

Stanford University

Rank: Professor of Political Science & MLK Institute Director

Specializations: African American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

FACULTY POSITION AVAILABLE

The Department of Political Science at Stanford University seeks an outstanding senior scholar for a tenured professorship (associate or full) with expertise in race and racial justice in the U.S., civil rights, social movements, and/or African American politics. This scholar also will serve as the Faculty Director of The Martin Luther King, Jr. Research and Education Institute for a renewable five-year term.

The successful applicant will be expected to play a meaningful role in a department committed to dynamic teaching and to maintain a vibrant and productive scholarly research agenda. This scholar will provide intellectual, strategic and visionary leadership for the Institute. We welcome applications from scholars who are pursuing a wide range of projects that represent the broad diversity of the field of modern African American politics and racial justice. The position will be entirely located in the Political Science Department. The scholar will split time between teaching and research (50%) and directing the Institute (50%). If the directorship is not renewed after five years, the scholar's teaching and research obligations will be to the Political Science Department at 100%.

The university views filling this position as an important opportunity to raise the profile of studies relating to race and racial justice on Stanford's campus. The successful candidate should bring a dynamic vision and leadership ability to Stanford.

Recognizing the crucial benefits that diversity contributes to our intellectual vitality, the university has embarked on significant initiatives to diversify its faculty, student body, and curriculum. We encourage applications from dedicated scholars eager to contribute to this mission.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 but applications may be considered after that date. Application materials must be submitted on-line via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16829>.

Please submit a statement of interest that includes a description of academic background and teaching experience, curriculum vitae, and research statement of no more than three pages.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8036

Hamilton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government or Philosophy

The Government and Philosophy Departments at Hamilton College invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Instructor or Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2021. We seek candidates in philosophy or political theory with particular expertise in the normative, ontological, social, and/or political implications of digital technology. Priority will be given to candidates who can demonstrate successful collaboration and interdisciplinary thinking. We are open to candidates who can engage in any of the following areas of research: the ethical and ontological implications of artificial intelligence; the implications of artificial intelligence and Big Data for justice, privacy, and issues of inclusion, bias, and marginalization; the impact of digital technology on democratic values and discourses; transhumanism as a technological, normative, and political perspective; what digital technology and human-computer interactions mean for human identity and for individual rights and liberty; how digital technology centralizes or disperses political power; or how digital technology impacts our relationship with the natural world and our conception of environmental responsibility. Candidates are also expected to add pedagogically-appropriate digital technologies and applications in the classroom.

We seek candidates committed to fostering an inclusive, diverse community. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, although candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred. The teaching load for this position is four courses during the first year and five courses thereafter.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching portfolio, and writing sample via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78354>. Applications should include evidence of commitment to or experience in teaching and working with diverse student populations, either in a cover letter or in a separate statement. We will solicit letters of reference from candidates who are selected to move on to the second stage of the search.

Questions regarding the search may be directed to Prof. Sharon Rivera (Government) or Prof. Russell Marcus (Philosophy), Search Committee Co-Chairs, at svivera@hamilton.edu or rmarcus1@hamilton.edu. Our review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings, as well as additional information, at <https://www.hamilton.edu/dof/faculty-development/resources-for-prospective-or-new-faculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). The position comes with a competitive salary and research and travel support.

Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from under-represented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8022

New York University - Abu Dhabi

Rank: Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science - Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint a Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science starting September 2021. Later start dates are also possible. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Here is the link to apply:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/77968>

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7989

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

The Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab seeks postdoctoral scholars in LGBT Policy Studies (broadly defined). The ideal candidate is an empirical social scientist who has an interest in studying the causes and consequences of LGBT-related public policies (e.g., same-sex marriage, non-discrimination, 'bathroom bills', religious freedom exemptions, and others) on a range of social, economic, political, health, education, and demographic outcomes. Experience with programming in STATA and handling large datasets is required. A PhD in demography, economics, education, health services research, law/jurisprudence, LGBT studies, political science, public health, health policy, public policy, sociology, or a related field is required.

Please note that while the administrative home of these postdoctoral appointments will be in the Department of Economics, we invite applications from and plan to hire researchers in multiple disciplines.

Responsibilities include:

1. Carrying out an active research program focusing on LGBT policies and populations, including solo publications and joint papers with Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab faculty.
2. Co-developing and co-teaching a course on LGBT policies and advocacy to be co-taught with a Vanderbilt faculty member over the course of the fellowship.
3. Attending a monthly colloquium series on LGBT policies and populations.
4. Attending and helping to coordinate and facilitate an academic conference on LGBT policies and populations to be held at Vanderbilt in Spring 2022
5. Serving as a liaison to campus and community leaders on LGBT policy topics.

With generous funding from a Vanderbilt Trans-Institutional Programs Reinvestment Award (<http://vanderbilt.edu/strategicplan/trans-institutional-programs/tipshome.php>), the Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab brings together Vanderbilt experts from multiple units including: economics; education; divinity; health policy; law; medicine; MHS; political science; religious studies; gender and sexuality studies; and sociology. Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab Faculty have secured over $3 million in external funding to support research on LGBT policies and populations. Our faculty's research has been published in journals such as the Harvard Law Review, Industrial and Labor Relations Review, and The New England Journal of Medicine; covered by NBC, the New York Post, and the Washington Post; and cited in Supreme Court decisions on marriage equality and LGBT employment nondiscrimination. Our goal is to compete for NIH LGBT-focused population center funding in 5-7 years.

All postdoctoral scholars will be supervised by Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab Director Kitt Carpenter and one or more faculty mentors depending on discipline. For example, while candidates with economics PhDs will work closely with PI Kitt Carpenter, candidates with education PhDs may work more closely with Co-Investigators Luis Leyva or Matthew Shaw; candidates with sociology PhDs may work more closely with Co-Investigators Tara McKay or Rachel Donnelly; and candidates with public health or health policy PhDs may work more closely with Co-Investigator Gilbert Gonzales.

The one-year fellowships will begin 7/1/2021 (or possibly earlier if mutually agreeable), with an initial end date of 6/30/2022, and carry the possibility of a one-year renewal. [Our strong preference is for candidates to be able to spend both AY 21-22 and 22-23 at Vanderbilt.] Each position carries a twelve-month salary of $65,000, office space, health insurance, and eligibility for other benefits (<https://gradschool.vanderbilt.edu/postdoctoral/postdoctoral-scholars/benefits.php>). These in-residence positions require a physical presence in Nashville for the term of the fellowship.

Applicants should provide a cover letter describing interesting in the position and future research plans, CV, a research paper, and three references at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/77119>. Applications will be reviewed immediately and until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 7956

Texas A&M University

Rank: Instructional Assistant Professor (non-tenure track)

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a non-tenure track, instructional assistant professor in the area of international political economy, to work in the School's teaching site in Washington, D.C. The position will be for a period of two-years, with the possibility of renewal. The start date for this position will be January 1, 2021. The successful candidate will teach five courses per academic year in a professional master's degree program in international policy – two sections of the required course on the global economy and three other elective courses to be determined in consultation with the department head. A reasonable amount of department and professional service will also be expected.

The Department of International Affairs is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and departments is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, politics or government with a specialization in the sub-field of international political economy to be considered.

Applicants with additional expertise in the intersection of international political economy and international security issues, and/or expertise in the politics and political economy of a particular world region, are particularly encouraged to apply.

Applicants must submit: 1) Letter of Interest, 2) CV, and 3) three letters of recommendation. The application materials must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/76363>.

Point of Contact: Ms. Peg Hosea plhosea@tamu.edu

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7900

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on "CyberEscalation in Power Projection." This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the "Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection" project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

Florida International University

Rank: Judicial Politics Instructor

Florida International University is Miami's public research university, focused on student success. According to U.S. News and World Report, FIU has 42 top-50 rankings in the nation among public universities. FIU is a top U.S. research university (R1), with more than $200 million in annual expenditures. FIU ranks 15th in the nation among public universities for patent production, which drives innovation, and is one of the institutions that helps make Florida the top state for higher education. The Next Horizon fundraising campaign is furthering FIU's commitment to providing students Worlds Ahead opportunities. Today, FIU has two campuses and multiple centers, and supports artistic and cultural engagement through its three museums: Patricia & Phillip Frost Art Museum, the Wolfsonian-FIU, and the Jewish Museum of Florida-FIU. FIU is a member of Conference USA, with more than 400 student-athletes participating in 18 sports. The university has awarded more than 330,000 degrees to many leaders in South Florida and beyond. For more information about FIU, visit www.fiu.edu.

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Florida International University in Miami, Florida invites applications to fill a full-time Instructor position in Judicial Politics. The teaching assignment is eight courses per academic year, and the successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach Constitutional Law, Judicial Process, and the Supreme Court, in addition to other courses in judicial politics. The anticipated starting date is August 12, 2021. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science and/or a J.D. with relevant teaching experience.

Qualified candidates are encouraged to apply to Job Opening ID 521003 at facultycareers.fiu.edu and include the following as part of their application: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) statement of teaching philosophy and teaching interests, including a description of your experiences in sustaining a commitment to diversity and inclusion, (4) two sample syllabi, (5) teaching evaluations, and (6) the names, titles, and email addresses of three persons sending letters of recommendation. Candidates should upload all application materials as a single pdf file. To receive full consideration, applications and required materials should be received by December 1, 2020. Review will continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Politics and International Relations at pir@fiu.edu.

The Department is home to more than 1,600 undergraduate majors, almost 100 graduate students, and 38 faculty (see pir.fiu.edu). Situated in the School of International and Public Affairs (see sipa.fiu.edu), faculty enjoy opportunities to work with colleagues in seven other departments (Criminal Justice, Economics, Global & Sociocultural Studies, History, Modern Languages, Public Administration and Religious Studies) as well as SIPA's centers and institutes (i.e., the African and African Diaspora Studies program, the Center for the Administration of Justice, the Cuban Research Institute, the Jack D. Gordon Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship Studies, the Global Energy Security Forum, the Jewish Studies Program, the Latin American and Caribbean Center, Miami-Florida Jean Monnet European Studies Program, and Middle East Studies).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 3/6/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7794

POLITICAL THEORY

as mediendesign Inh. Andrea Sindermann e. K.

Rank: two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Civil Rights & Liberties, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Postdoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 100% of the regular working hours (currently 39 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on "transformations in democracy"—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy).

Tasks

The two postdoc researchers will conduct independent research and provide research support to the research department and work collaboratively with the research team on two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right (see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department and to play a leading role in developing the unit's workshops and research projects.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a Ph.D. in political science or a related social science discipline

- a vibrant and creative research agenda
- knowledge of, and excellent skills in quantitative research and quantitative methods
- excellent writing and communication skills in English
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

Salary for the positions: EG 14 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline a research agenda for the period of application.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with "postdoctoral fellow application" in the subject line.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8234

WZB Berlin Social Science Center

Rank: two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Germany, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Development

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung gGmbH (WZB Berlin Social Science Center), research department Transformations of Democracy (TD) (Director: Professor Daniel Ziblatt), seeks to hire

two Predoctoral Research Fellows (f/m/x)

for an appointment starting as soon as possible (date negotiable) for a duration of up to three years (shorter duration is possible). The appointment is made at 65% of the regular working hours (currently 25.35 hours/week).

The WZB is a publicly financed international social science institution that conducts basic research that is theory-based and problem-oriented (see www.wzb.eu/en). The new research department TD focuses on "transformations in democracy"—forward movements of democratization, backward trends of de-democratization, and innovations in democratic institutions and practice to cope with the new pressures on democracy around the world (www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy).

Tasks

The two junior researchers will conduct research and provide research support to the research department within two different projects:

Project A: Inequality, Identity, and Mobilization of Resentment

Project B: Localism and the Political Geography of the Radical Right (see: www.wzb.eu/en/research/dynamics-of-political-systems/transformations-of-democracy/projects).

Both will review relevant literature from different disciplines, collect and analyse data, and co-author publications on the conceptual framework and the results of the studies. The Research Fellows are expected to closely cooperate within their project as well as with the other members of the department.

Requirements

Applicants are expected to have:

- completed a master's degree (or a related degree) in political science or a related social science discipline
- knowledge of and experience with quantitative research and quantitative methods
- competence in handling of statistical data analyses (using syntax-based software)
- knowledge of German language is useful though not required
- good organizational skills as well as willingness and capacity for teamwork

The positions are ideal for candidates with a master in hand who want to acquire research exposure and develop a research design and analysis skills to embark on a PhD.

Salary for the positions: EG 13 TVöD Bund

Process

Candidates are requested to submit a CV, writing sample, cover letter (in English), relevant certificates, one letter of reference and contact information for two additional references by November 30, 2020. The cover letter should outline statistical skills and experience supporting social scientific research.

Equally well qualified disabled persons will be given preference. We value diversity and welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic or social origin, religion, disability, age or sexual orientation. The WZB explicitly encourages women and people with an immigrant background to apply.

Please, send your application by email (one pdf-file) to Roxanne Bibra, Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB), Application-dps@wzb.eu with "predoctoral fellow application" in the subject line

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8235

University of Oslo

Rank: Researcher in Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces a vacant position for a researcher (SKO 1108 or 1109). The position is associated with the project "Energy Transition in Oil-Exporting Countries: Discourses on the Green Shift and Climate Change in Norway and the Gulf (Oil in Transition)" based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages and Department of Political Science. The position is funded by UiO:Energy, which focuses on advancing new ways of using energy to tackle global climate change and environmental challenges.

The project is looking for a quantitative political scientist to study changing attitudes and discourses relating to environmental politics, climate change, and renewable sources of energy, in one or more oil-producing Gulf state, e.g. Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates. We are particularly interested in hearing from candidates who can use quantitative text analysis to examine trends and topics in Arabic-language media reporting and/or candidates with experience in analyzing survey data from the MENA region. This research will result in a project report, as well as one or more article-length manuscripts to be submitted to international peer reviewed journals.

The position is available for a period of 18 months and does not involve teaching. The successful candidate will work with Dr. Neil Ketchley in the Department of Political Science. They will also coordinate with the other project members (PI: Professor Brynjar Lia; Co-I Albrecht Hofheinz; both based in the Department of Culture Studies and Oriental Languages) working on comparisons between Norway and the Gulf.

Qualification requirements

Completed MA degree in political science or related social science discipline (SKO1108), or PhD degree in political Science (SKO 1109) Familiarity with Arabic text analysis and web scrapping packages available in R or cognate software and/or competence in survey data analysis and knowledge of relevant surveys fielded in the MENA region, e.g. the Arab Barometer.

Background in environmental politics and/or climate change research is an advantage, but not a necessary requirement; Fluent oral and written communication skills in English; research proficiency in Arabic.

We offer

Salary NOK 458 900 - 555 800 (position code 1108) or NOK 555 800 - 670 100 (position code 1109) per annum depending on qualifications

A pleasant and stimulating working environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include

Cover letter statement of motivation and research interests

A project description (max. 3000 words). The project description must present a research question, identify possible empirical sources, and outline a feasible progress plan. It is expected that the applicant will be able to complete the project during the period of appointment. Applicants are welcome to contact Neil Ketchley to discuss the Oil in Transition project.

CV (summarizing education, positions and academic work)

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree Diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

Foreign applicants are advised to attach an official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university, translated into ECTS-credits.

A complete list of publications and academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered by the evaluation committee

List of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system; please follow the link "Apply for this job".. Please note that all documents must be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

About the evaluation process

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the project description and the applicant's academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The most promising candidates will then be called for interviews.

Formal regulations

According to the Norwegian Freedom and Information Act (Offentleglova), information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, even in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Neil Ketchley: neil.ketchley@stv.uio.no, +47 22844351

Head of Administration Dagfinn Hagen: dagfinn.hagen@stv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 11/24/2020

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8223

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate and Lecturer

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate and lecture position. PCD's mission is to promote scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. For more information about the program, please consult our website at <http://pcd.virginia.edu>.

Postdoctoral Research Associates will conduct their own research, participate in PCD programming, and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). These courses require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development. The opportunity to teach an advanced seminar on a specialized topic may also be available.

Applicants must complete all requirements for their PhD, including a successful defense, prior to start date.

The initial appointment is for 1 year; however, the appointment may be renewed for an additional year contingent upon available funding and satisfactory performance. The position is available starting from January 2021 or August 2021.

Pay is competitive, and benefits are included.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by December 1, 2020 receiving priority attention. The University will perform background checks on all new hires prior to employment.

TO APPLY:

Apply online at <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>: search for posting #R0018923 (or through Workday for internal applicants). Full URL: https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Postdoctoral-Research-Associate-and-Lecturer--Program-on-Constitutionalism-and-Democracy_R0018923-1. Complete the application, and attach the following:

Please note that all required documents MUST be uploaded in the "resume" box.

Applications that do not contain all the required documents will not receive full consideration.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Cover letter - addressing why you are interested in this position, how your experience has prepared you and demonstrated experience working with underrepresented groups.

Curriculum vitae

Brief statement of research interest

Writing sample (no more than 25 pages)

Contact information for three references.

For questions about the position, please contact Rita Koganzon, at rk7fp@virginia.edu. For questions about the application process, please contact Nicole Robinson, Faculty Search Advisor, at nr7f@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8187

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2021-22, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to four postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as General Ethics Fellows, Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows, or Embedded EthCS Fellows. While the three types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, they all form a common community and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. All applicants will be considered for each type of fellowship that is relevant to their research interests and do not need to tailor their application for one of the three fellowship opportunities.

Applicants for all of the positions below must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law.

General Ethics Fellowship

Our longstanding postdoctoral program is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2021-22, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, global justice, democratic theory, and environmental ethics. But we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

This program is rooted in the Center's commitment to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these problems in normative work involves knowledge of the social sciences, law, engineering, and the life sciences. To that end, fellows in this program are matched with an interdisciplinary research center on campus through which they can engage with empirically-oriented scholars. We are especially interested in candidates with research interests in artificial intelligence for our partnership with the Stanford Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI). We are also interested in candidates with research interests in biomedical ethics or bioengineering for partnerships with other centers. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society and of the partner center (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, teach one class per year, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus. Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work. Applicants do not need to tailor their application for a particular partner center.

Embedded Ethics Fellowship

Stanford Embedded EthiCS, entering its second year, is a collaborative program that embeds the teaching of ethics into Stanford's core undergraduate computer science curriculum. Working in collaboration with CS faculty and graduate students, the fellows will have responsibility for (a) working with CS faculty and students to develop course materials, (b) teaching the modules across three to six courses, (c) providing pedagogical training for Course Assistants in CS, and (d) participating in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics and HAI. We seek applicants with a Ph.D. in philosophy, political science, or law who have substantive normative training, and who are enthusiastic to work with computer scientists to develop ethics modules. Ideal candidates need not have a computer science background but should have significant teaching experience, some mathematical training, and experience with cross-disciplinary research or teaching.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For all three types of fellowships, the appointment term is Sept. 1, 2021 to Aug. 31, 2022. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2021. Candidates must also be no more than three years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2018).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for all three types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as an Interdisciplinary Ethics, General Ethics, or Embedded EthiCS fellow.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 2, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 10/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8184

Political Theory Project Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Political Theory Project (PTP) at Brown University will be appointing up to two Postdoctoral Fellows. Post-doctorates must have received their PhD's within the past three years. Salary is competitive.

Appointments are for one year, renewable for a second year based on satisfactory performance and the availability of funds. Postdoctoral fellows will pursue their own research, participate in PTP working groups, and teach one seminar course per year. In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant.

Details about the Project's research and pedagogical missions can be found at <https://ptp.brown.edu/>. Applications received by November 30, 2020 will be assured of full consideration.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/79054>

Start Date: Summer 2021
Date Posted: 10/14/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8174

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/15/2020
Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8155

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8039

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. <http://apply.interfolio.com/76709>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8040

Hamilton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government or Philosophy

The Government and Philosophy Departments at Hamilton College invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Instructor or Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2021. We seek candidates in philosophy or political theory with particular expertise in the normative, ontological, social, and/or political implications of digital technology. Priority will be given to candidates who can demonstrate successful collaboration and interdisciplinary thinking. We are open to candidates who can engage in any of the following areas of research: the ethical and ontological implications of artificial intelligence; the implications of artificial intelligence and Big Data for justice, privacy, and issues of inclusion, bias, and marginalization; the impact of digital technology on democratic values and discourses; transhumanism as a technological, normative, and political perspective; what digital technology and human-computer interactions mean for human identity and for individual rights and liberty; how digital technology centralizes or disperses political power; or how digital technology impacts our relationship with the natural world and our conception of environmental responsibility. Candidates are also expected to add pedagogically-appropriate digital technologies and applications in the classroom.

We seek candidates committed to fostering an inclusive, diverse community. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, although candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred. The teaching load for this position is four courses during the first year and five courses thereafter.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching portfolio, and writing sample via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78354>. Applications should include evidence of commitment to or experience in teaching and working with diverse student populations, either in a cover letter or in a separate statement. We will solicit letters of reference from candidates who are selected to move on to the second stage of the search.

Questions regarding the search may be directed to Prof. Sharon Rivera (Government) or Prof. Russell Marcus (Philosophy), Search Committee Co-Chairs, at srivera@hamilton.edu or rmarcus1@hamilton.edu. Our review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings, as well as additional information, at <https://www.hamilton.edu/dof/faculty-development/resources-for-prospective-or-new-faculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). The position comes with a competitive salary and research and travel support.

Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from underrepresented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8022

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8018

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu(link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8019

Dartmouth College

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellowship in Political Economy

The Political Economy Project (PEP) at Dartmouth College seeks applications for a one-year renewable postdoctoral fellowship from those working on social/political philosophy, ethics, and/or history of political thought, all broadly construed. PEP is an interdisciplinary initiative focused on normative questions at the intersection of politics, economics, and philosophy. The majority of the fellow's time will be devoted to independent research. The fellow will teach two courses per year in either the Government or Philosophy Departments, at least one of which will be an introductory-level course related to political economy. The fellow is expected to attend and actively assist in planning PEP events and otherwise participate in PEP's intellectual life and the Government Department or Philosophy Department during the Fall, Winter, and Spring quarters. The selected candidate will hold an appointment as a Lecturer in either the Government Department or Philosophy Department and as a Postdoctoral Fellow in PEP. The initial appointment will be for one academic year, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. The fellow will also join the broader community of postdoctoral research fellows that includes the Dartmouth Society of Fellows, the John Sloan Dickey Fellows, the Neukom Institute Fellows, the Rockefeller Center Fellows, the Quantitative and Social Sciences Fellows, and the Mellon Postdoctoral Fellows in the Humanities and Humanistic Social Sciences. The salary is competitive and includes benefits.

Dartmouth is highly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive population of students, faculty, and staff. We are especially interested in diverse applicants who can work effectively with an inclusive and diverse student body, faculty, and staff. Dartmouth is made up of individuals who identify as Black, Indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC), women, individuals who identify as LGBTQIA+, individuals with disabilities, veterans, individuals from lower-income backgrounds, and first-generation college students and graduates.

Applicants should state in their cover letter, or a separate statement, how their teaching, research, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth's commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Qualifications

Candidates should have a Ph.D. prior to September 15, 2021.

Application Instructions

Candidates should submit via Interfolio a cover letter, current CV, writing sample (approximately 20-25 pages), statement of research (no more than 3 pages), three confidential letters of recommendation, and teaching portfolio. A successful candidate will show evidence of outstanding scholarship, effective teaching, and the ability to contribute to the interdisciplinary initiative of the Political Economy Project.

Application Process

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. To ensure the fullest consideration, applications should be complete and received by November 15, 2020.

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/77936%20>

For administrative questions about the application, please email Political.Economy.Project@Dartmouth.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 8/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7988

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Description:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one full-time tenure stream appointment in the field of Political Theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2021, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, and have a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and deepen our existing departmental strengths. This search is open to scholars working in any intellectual tradition in political theory. We especially welcome candidates whose research includes Black political thought, critical race theory, decolonial theory, disability studies, feminist political thought, Indigenous political thought, queer theory, or trans theory. The successful candidate will be able to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in political theory at the undergraduate level, as well as advanced courses in their area of research at the graduate level.

Candidates must provide strong evidence of research excellence of an internationally competitive caliber, as evidenced by a record of publications in leading outlets in the field or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, the submitted research statement, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing. The successful candidate will be expected to mount an innovative, competitive, independent, and externally funded research program and to pursue outstanding research at the highest international level.

Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a teaching dossier that includes a teaching statement, teaching accomplishments, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations, as well as strong endorsements from referees.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <https://www.utm.utoronto.ca/political-science/department-political-science> and <https://politics.utoronto.ca/>

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To be considered for this position, all qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link (or button) below. All application materials must be submitted online and must include the following:

a cover letter (1 page) and curriculum vitae together as a single PDF, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint), a teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample syllabi, and student evaluations as well as any other relevant assessments, a research statement outlining current and future research interests (2 pages max), a diversity statement.

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each once an application is submitted. Applicants, however, remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply> We recommend combining attaching documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have questions about this position, please contact the Search Committee Chair at chair.pol.utm@utoronto.ca

All application materials, including reference letters must be received by October 14, 2020.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/14/2020

Date Posted: 8/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7982

Salisbury University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Salisbury University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. This is a full time, 10-month position.

Primary Job Duties: The Department seeks candidates whose expertise is in one or more of the following fields: racial and ethnic politics, political theory, and law and judicial politics. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level courses in political theory and/or American politics (political institutions and behavior and courses in the Law, Justice and Advocacy minor). The candidate will also be able to teach a research methods course. Academic advising and student mentoring are also expected as well as ongoing scholarly activities. The teaching load is 3-3 of 4 credit hour courses.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science. If ABD, applicant would be hired at the rank of Instructor and must complete doctoral degree by: May 2022. Demonstrated evidence of a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching.

Preferred Qualifications: Evidence of a commitment to political engagement, an active research agenda, curriculum development, and undergraduate research mentorship.

Applications received by October 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. The position will remain open until filled. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be contingent upon verification of eligibility to work in the U.S. and is expected to begin August 2021. Please visit our website <http://> www.salisbury.edu/HR/careers/ to apply online. See the FAQs of the Online Employment Application System for more information and instructions.

To be considered an applicant, you must apply online and submit the following: 1) A letter of interest; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statements of research and teaching interests; 4) unofficial transcripts; 5) the names and contact information of at least three professional references. All documents must be submitted with your application in the online employment application system. Questions about the position should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Sarah Surak at smsurak@salisbury.edu.

This position is based in Salisbury, MD, an area with a culturally diverse population with rich cultural experiences. Salisbury University, a member of the University System of Maryland is a regionally accredited four-year comprehensive institution offering 60 distinct graduate and undergraduate programs. Founded in 1925, Salisbury University features a beautiful campus close to ocean beaches and the Chesapeake Bay and 2-3 hours from the metropolitan areas of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. SU is consistently ranked among the nation's top colleges and 'best values' by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and other publications. SU has 440 full-time faculty members serving a student population of approximately 8700.

Diversity and inclusion are core values of Salisbury University. We strive to create a truly diverse and inclusive environment where the richness of ideas, backgrounds, and perspectives of our community is harnessed to create value for our University community to include students, faculty, and staff, today and in the future. To this end, the University recruits exceptional and diverse faculty, staff, and students from across Maryland, the United States, and around the world, supporting all members of the University community as they work together to achieve institutional goals and vision. To learn more about the University's commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus, please visit <http://www.salisbury.edu/equity/>.

Applications will be accepted via Salisbury University's online employment application system.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7950

University of British Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at The University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory. The area of specialization is open.

The successful candidate will have a completed Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field), or be able to adequately demonstrate all Ph.D. requirements are sufficiently close to completion. The successful candidate is expected to have a Ph.D. for the start of the appointment. The anticipated start date is July 1, 2021.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop and maintain an active program of research leading to peer-reviewed publications and the securing of external research funding, and to contribute to the education and training of undergraduate as well as graduate students.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Applicants must be prepared to conduct interviews remotely if circumstances require, and understand that a successful applicant may be asked to consider an offer with a deadline without having been able to make an in-person visit to campus should travel or other restrictions apply. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To apply, applicants must upload online the following to: <https://politics.ubc.ca/assistant-professor-in-political-theory/>

Job ID: 37879.

? an application letter;

? a curriculum vitae;

? a statement of teaching philosophy, interests and accomplishments (maximum 2 pages);

? a description of current and future research interests (maximum 2 pages);

? evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., summaries of teaching evaluations (official preferred), peer reviews of teaching, sample course material); and

? a 1 page statement about the applicant's experience working with a diverse student body and contributions or potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion.

? one electronic sample of research or publication.

In addition, applicants should arrange for three confidential signed letters of recommendation to be sent separately to the Department of Political Science care of Jeff Yupiter, Assistant to the Department Head, at poli.recruitment@ubc.ca. Review of applications begins on October 1, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled.

UBC-Vancouver's Point Grey Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral, and unceded territories of the Musqueam people, with whom UBC shares a framework Memorandum of Affiliation. For information relating to Aboriginal initiatives that are available at UBC, visit the UBC Vancouver Aboriginal portal at: <http://aboriginal.ubc.ca/>.

The Department of Political Science at UBC is committed to increasing Indigenous engagement within its curriculum.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged.

We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 7939

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer - Ethics and Public Policy

The Department of Politics and the University Center for Human Values at Princeton University seeks qualified candidates to teach precepts (discussion sections) for a lecture course on Ethics and Public Policy, beginning in late August. Teaching will be performed via remote technology. Precepting responsibilities include attending lectures, preparing materials, grading, and working closely with course instructors to provide pedagogical support.

An advanced degree, and some advanced coursework, or ideally a specialization, in ethics or political theory/political philosophy, and/or normative aspects of public policy, required.

Interested applicants must submit a CV, and a letter detailing their qualifications, their teaching experience, and the names and contact information of two or three professors who can testify to their teaching qualifications. Letters of recommendation will be requested for any shortlisted candidates.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until any available positions are filled.

These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

Applications must be submitted online at <https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/apply/application.xhtml?listingId=16482>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7903

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Finance & Budgeting, Health Care

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in the area of Public Administration. We seek candidates with broad competence in Public Administration. We are especially interested in candidates whose research examines the intersections between inequality and stratification with other important issues, including but not limited to urbanization, rural community development, and public health. We are particularly interested in candidates who examine the role of race, gender, and other dimensions of marginalization in public administration and policy development, implementation, and outcomes, including those using critical and/or intersectional approaches.

The Department has a Masters of Public Administration program, which includes a Public Policy component. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the program, and to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA and PhD), including specific courses required for degree programs. Normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Public Administration or Public Policy, topic open.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Ability to teach budgeting, public personnel administration and research methods for public administrators.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Ability to teach intergovernmental relations and urban politics

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. The PhD includes an emphasis in Public Policy. The Department offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College of Liberal Arts and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair—William Eubank bille@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator—Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator—Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Public-Administration_R0122868

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/29/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8232

Cengage Learning

Rank: WFH Opportunities with Cengage Learning
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Other
Specializations: Latino Politics, American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

Cengage Learning Political Science Team is looking for Subject Matter Experts in the following areas:

- American Government (including Public Policy and Administration)
- Texas Politics
- Latino Politics
- Racial and Ethnic Politics

All available opportunities are for a flat-fee and include narrative and assessment creation, work on Instructor Manuals and PowerPoints, and review work. Please send your CV and subject area of interest to Lauren Gerrish, lauren.gerrish@cengage.com, for more information.

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/27/2020
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 8219

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University
 Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science
 Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906
 Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship
 Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/20/2020
Date Posted: 10/15/2020
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 8178

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and non-profit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity (e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)
- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaelyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

University of Oslo

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Science (public administration)

Job description

The Department of Political Science is recruiting a Postdoctoral Fellow (Assistant Professor) (SKO 1352) with a specialization in public administration. The successful applicant will be part of the project 'Public leadership, organizational performance, and trust in government' (PART) funded by the Norwegian Research Council. The appointment is for a fixed period of 4 years, with a 25% teaching requirement.

The PART project assesses the impact of administrative leadership on organizational performance and on citizens' trust in government. PART studies how the professional background of administrative leaders affects (1) organizational performance; (2) employee motivation and task prioritization; and (3) citizens' trust in bureaucracy. The focus will be on the heads of agencies (regulatory, executive) and state-owned enterprises, comparing leadership backgrounds in politics and business to public sector backgrounds. PART will collect and analyse multiple types of data, including biographical data, survey data, and survey experiments with bureaucrats and citizens. The project primarily focuses on Norway, but also includes cross-country analyses. The Postdoctoral Fellow is expected to actively contribute to the research agenda and the research environment of the PART project.

The project is headed by Professor Tobias Bach and funded under the 'Young Researcher Talents' scheme of the Norwegian Research Council. PART runs for four years from 2020-2024. The project will be part of the department's research group on Policy, Bureaucracy, and Organization (PBO). We encourage all applicants to read about PART on the project website: <https://www.sv.uio.no/isy/english/research/projects/part/index.html>

The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions. Successful applicants must therefore be prepared to teach Bachelor's and Master's level courses within the Department's course portfolio as well as tutor Master's students.

Qualification requirements

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment. Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree in Political Science or a closely related discipline before taking up the post. The Doctoral dissertation must be submitted for evaluation by the application date. Appointment is dependent on the public defense of the doctoral thesis being approved.

In assessing the applications, special emphasis will be placed on the candidates' scientific qualifications, including their publication record in high-quality outlets; their familiarity with one or more of the topics covered by PART; the quality and relevance of the research proposal to the project; teamwork and organizational skills; and personal suitability for the position. For this position, experience with the design and/or analysis of survey experiments or related methods is an advantage. The applicants' teaching experiences and qualifications will also be taken into consideration.

For this position, applicants must have a very good command of English (written and orally). A good command of Norwegian or another Scandinavian language is an advantage.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the duty component of 25 %.

We offer

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 523 200-605 500 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro) budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 45 000 per year). Staff can apply for additional research support from the department and faculty.

an academically stimulating and international working environment
a friendly and inclusive workplace

a good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

We expect that postdocs acquire formal pedagogical competency during the first half of the four years period

Female postdocs can take part in the UiO Mentorprogram for female postdocs

How to apply

The application must include all of the following items:

A cover letter (statement of motivation, summarizing scientific work and research interests) (max. 2 pages)

A research proposal related to the project's research agenda, including progress plan (max. 3000 words)

CV (summarising education, positions, pedagogical experience, administrative experience, and other qualifying activities)

Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only)

A complete list of publications

A copy of (what you consider to be) your best publication to date (one publication only), preferably a single-authored article published in an international peer-reviewed journal. If a co-authored work is uploaded instead, the applicant's individual contribution must be clarified and confirmed by co-authors.

List of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application deadline is 1 November 2020. The screening and evaluation of the candidates will begin immediately, and the aim is to fill the position as soon as possible.

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

The best qualified candidates will be interviewed.

The expected start of the project is late 2020. It is expected that the successful candidate will be able to complete his/her postdoctoral project in the course of the period of employment.

We aim to increase the diversity of backgrounds in our staff in terms of gender and ethnicity. We especially encourage female researchers to apply.

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Postdoctoral fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one Postdoctoral Fellow period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

The University of Oslo aims to achieve a balanced gender composition in the workforce and to recruit people with ethnic minority backgrounds.

Contact information

Principal Investigator of PART Professor Tobias Bach: tobias.bach@stv.uio.no Tel. +47 22 85 47 62

Head of Department Bjørn Erik Rasch: b.e.rasch@stv.uio.no Tel. +47 22 85 51 83

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsønn; helle.fritzsønn@sv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8148

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;
- 6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and
- 7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

Eastern Illinois University

Rank: Instructor, Comparative Politics/Public Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University invites applicants for a non-tenure track instructor with a 3-year contract beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will teach online graduate and face-to-face undergraduate courses in Comparative Politics, Public Policy, and Public Administration.

Successful candidates must have a doctorate or Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, or ABD status with evidence of substantial progress toward degree completion. Candidates must demonstrate commitment to teaching excellence, along with dedication to mentoring, applied learning, diversity, and promoting inclusive excellence.

The teaching load will be 3-4 classes per semester, including 2 face-to-face undergraduate courses in non-western Comparative Politics (with the potential for curriculum development), an online graduate course in Public Policy Analysis (taught each semester), an online graduate course in Public Administration Ethics, and two additional courses. The position may include student research mentoring.

Applicants should upload the following to Interfolio, <http://apply.interfolio.com/79049>:

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references
- Graduate school transcripts

Application review begins October 14 and continues until the position is filled.

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, an International Studies option, and a Civic and Nonprofit Leadership option. The department offers an M.A. in Political Science and an online M.A. in Political Science with a Public Administration and Public Policy option. Questions about the search may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Kevin Anderson (kranderson@eiu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8089

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor with an emphasis in Public Policy, Public Administration, and/or State and Local Politics. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research and teaching responsibilities will be in state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration.

Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level introductory courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Public Policy Making, Intro to American Government, State and Local Politics) as well as upper-level electives and graduate courses in our MPA program (e.g., Public Policy, State and Local Government). The successful candidate would also likely provide new offerings in a specific area of public policy or public administration. Secondary research and teaching interests may include urban politics; municipal government; environmental politics; public management; budgeting; economic development; representative bureaucracy; ethics; diversity, equity, and inclusion in public and non-profit management; anti-essentialism; or other research areas consistent with the needs of the department. Specific assignments are dependent on departmental needs and the background of the individual.

Our Students: California State University, Fresno is committed to serving our students with a focus on inclusion. Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement

Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Qualifications:

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in political science, public administration, public policy, or related discipline from an accredited institution is required. Applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered; for continued employment in the tenure-track position, however, the doctorate must be completed by August 1, 2021. Evidence of completion will be required. Failure to complete the terminal degree prior to this date will invalidate the appointment.

Required Experience: Applicants must demonstrate:

- a specialization in (American) state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration
- teaching experience at the undergraduate level
- experience giving presentations at professional conferences
- evidence of graduate-level coursework in American public policy and/or public administration on their transcripts
- a commitment to work effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds

Preferred Experience: Applicants must demonstrate evidence of:

- peer-reviewed publication(s)
- a strong research agenda
- teaching experience at the graduate level
- ability to teach Introduction to American Government and Institutions

Application Procedures: Preference will be given to those received by October 20, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. This position automatically closes May 1, 2021.

Apply online at: <http://jobs.csufresno.edu> and attach the following:

- a cover letter specifically addressing required experience, teaching philosophy, and research agenda,
- diversity statement,
- curriculum vitae,
- unofficial transcripts, and
- a list of three professional references

All finalists will receive a request to send official transcripts from all relevant educational programs. In addition, your three professional references will be asked to submit current letters of recommendation.

For questions about this search, please contact the search chair:

Dr. Lisa Bryant
 Department of Political Science
 College of Social Sciences
 Email: lbryant@csufresno.edu

About Fresno State:

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students' intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>. The campus is ranked 24th in the nation by Washington Monthly; ranked 3rd by U.S. News & World Report in graduation rate performance for public institutions; and, ranked 41st in the nation in MONEY Magazines 50 Best Public Colleges.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science at Fresno State is one of the strongest in the California State University system. We are a dynamic and diverse department, actively engaged in research and in our surrounding community. Our department serves approximately 230 majors in the undergraduate program and 40 graduate students seeking master's degrees in the NASPAA accredited public administration program. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within the department and the faculty is well-known for its balanced commitment to teaching, research, and public service. For more information, see: <https://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Tenure-Track Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process. For additional information, please visit: www.fresnostate.edu/academics/facultyaffairs/procedures/facultytrtp/. We value our commitment to the success of our faculty by providing services from the Center for Faculty Excellence to Research and Sponsored Programs.

Other Campus Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees online at www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml. Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position is considered a "limited reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following website: <http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is a smoke-free campus. For more information, please click <http://fresnostate.edu/adminserv/smokefree/index.html>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8068

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor with an emphasis in Public Policy, Public Administration, and/or State and Local Politics. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research and teaching responsibilities will be in state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration.

Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level introductory courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Public Policy Making, Intro to American Government, State and Local Politics) as well as upper-level electives and graduate courses in our MPA program (e.g., Public Policy, State and Local Government). The successful candidate would also likely provide new offerings in a specific area of public policy or public administration. Secondary research and teaching interests may include urban politics; municipal government; environmental politics; public management; budgeting; economic development; representative bureaucracy; ethics; diversity, equity, and inclusion in public and non-profit management; anti-essentialism; and other research areas consistent with the needs of the department. Specific assignments are dependent on departmental needs and the background of the individual.

Our Students: California State University, Fresno is committed to serving our students with a focus on inclusion. Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Qualifications:

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in political science, public administration, public policy, or related discipline from an accredited institution is required. Applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered; for continued employment in the tenure-track position, however, the doctorate must be completed by August 1, 2021. Evidence of completion will be required. Failure to complete the terminal degree prior to this date will invalidate the appointment.

Required Experience: Applicants must demonstrate:

- a specialization in (American) state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration
- teaching experience at the undergraduate level
- experience giving presentations at professional conferences
- evidence of graduate-level coursework in American public policy and/or public administration on their transcripts
- a commitment to work effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds

Preferred Experience: Applicants must demonstrate evidence of:

- peer-reviewed publication(s)
- a strong research agenda
- teaching experience at the graduate level

-ability to teach Introduction to American Government and Institutions

Application Procedures: Preference will be given to those received by October 20, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. This position automatically closes May 1, 2021.

Apply online at: <http://jobs.csufresno.edu> and attach the following:

- a cover letter specifically addressing required experience, teaching philosophy, and research agenda,
- diversity statement,
- curriculum vitae,
- unofficial transcripts, and
- a list of three professional references

All finalists will receive a request to send official transcripts from all relevant educational programs. In addition, your three professional references will be asked to submit current letters of recommendation.

For questions about this search, please contact the search chair:

Dr. Lisa Bryant

Department of Political Science

College of Social Sciences

Email: lbryant@csufresno.edu

About Fresno State:

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students' intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>. The campus is ranked 24th in the nation by Washington Monthly; ranked 3rd by U.S. News & World Report in graduation rate performance for public institutions; and, ranked 41st in the nation in MONEY Magazines 50 Best Public Colleges.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science at Fresno State is one of the strongest in the California State University system. We are a dynamic and diverse department, actively engaged in research and in our surrounding community. Our department serves approximately 230 majors in the undergraduate program and 40 graduate students seeking master's degrees in the NASPAA accredited public administration program. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within the department and the faculty is well-known for its balanced commitment to teaching, research, and public service. For more information, see: <https://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Tenure-Track Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process. For additional information, please visit: www.fresnostate.edu/academics/facultyaffairs/procedures/facultyrtpp/

We value our commitment to the success of our faculty by providing services from the Center for Faculty Excellence to Research and Sponsored Programs.

Other Campus Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees online at: www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml.

Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position is considered a "limited reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following website: <http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is a smoke-free campus. For more information, please click: <http://fresnostate.edu/adminserv/smokefree/index.html>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 5/1/2021

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8069

PUBLIC LAW

Claremont Graduate University

Rank: Tenured-Track Position in American Politics, focusing on State and Local Politics, American Institutions, and/or Law and Politics

Claremont Graduate University's School of Social Science, Policy and Evaluation invites applications for a tenured/tenure-track position in American Politics, focusing on State and Local Politics, American Institutions, and/or Law and Politics, beginning July 1, 2021. The position rank is open. CGU's Department of Politics and Government offers only graduate-level degrees: the PhD in Political Science; and several MA degrees including the MA in Politics, the MA in Religion and Politics, and the MA in Public Policy.

As a graduate-only research university, CGU values scholarly production, teaching, and mentoring. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in hand and maintain an active research agenda in their field of expertise, with a demonstrably strong record of publications commensurate with rank. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester, and the successful candidate should be prepared to teach graduate-level core American courses such as the US Congress; The Presidency and the Constitution; Political Parties in the United States; State and Local Politics; American Political Development, etc. We expect that the successful candidate will be expert in the use of appropriate research methods such as applied econometrics, survey research, legal research, experimental research, etc. CGU is a small university with a focus on transdisciplinarity, and therefore applicants with interests beyond one field are appreciated.

CGU is a member of The Claremont Colleges, which is composed of five undergraduate liberal arts colleges, and two graduate institutions. Joint research opportunities and teaching with the Claremont colleges may be possible.

Applicants should submit a letter discussing their interest in the position and how they could contribute to Political Science at CGU, a CV, a diversity statement (see below), and references to dpe-search@cgu.edu

Claremont Graduate University is committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to highlight their strengths and experiences in this area via their diversity statement. Applicants who have a demonstrated commitment to issues of diversity and inclusion are particularly encouraged to apply, as are individuals who have membership in one or more of the following groups whose underrepresentation in the American professoriate has been severe and longstanding: Alaska Natives/Native American Indians, African Americans/Blacks, Mexican Americans/Hispanics/Latinx, Native Pacific Islanders (Hawaiian/ Polynesian/Micronesian), and Puerto Ricans.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8144

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;

6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and

7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate must be able to teach Constitutional Law, Rights and Powers, as well as Introductory American Government. The ability to teach courses in other areas of the law, American government, and Western Culture is desirable; expertise in research methods is a plus. Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Effective teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, willingness to engage in community service, and a dedication to student success, including advising of pre-law students, are all qualities required of a successful candidate. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment.

All applicants must submit via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/78898>) a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference. Application materials may be addressed to GVFA Search Committee, c/o Dr. Celia Carroll. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it has been in continuous operation for 243 years, making it the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States. Our beautiful 1300-acre campus includes hiking/biking trails, a Frisbee golf course and an adventure high ropes and zip line course. The campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, which includes a historic walkable downtown with a local brewery, art and craft galleries, restaurants, and a rails-to-trail state park that extends over 15 miles in each direction from town. Five additional state parks are located within 30 miles and offer camping, fishing, hiking, boating, swimming, and horseback riding. Farmville is also home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the US Civil Rights Trail. Farmville is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant opportunities for cultural and artistic resources, field trips, and employment opportunities for partners.

Hampden-Sydney is one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate “good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning.” As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8055

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton’s Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program’s satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows’ home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu(link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8019

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2021. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in Public Law. Candidates with a secondary specialization in Comparative Politics are encouraged to apply.

Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates with an interest in teaching in the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program are desired. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement, and a serious commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Additional duties include advising and mentoring students, as well as service to the department and institution.

Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae along with submitting a teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, a single-authored writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation, and graduate transcript using the link below. <https://lycomingcollege.applytojob.com/apply/CqDmzXdfUU/Assistant-Professor-Of-Political-Science-Public-Law>

Letters of recommendations can be mailed to:

Attention: Missy Cashner, HR Generalist

Lycoming College

One College Place, Campus Box 861

Williamsport, PA 17701

To guarantee full consideration applications should be submitted by October 1, 2020. A pre-employment drug screening will be conducted.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/1/2020

Date Posted: 8/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7954

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor (Teaching)

Full-Time, Teaching-Track Faculty Position in Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California seeks to hire a full-time teaching-track faculty position (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Master Lecturer, Assistant Professor (Teaching), Associate Professor (Teaching), Professor (Teaching), Assistant Professor of the Practice, Associate Professor of the Practice, and Professor of the Practice) to teach classes in one or more of the following areas: Gender and International Relations, Diplomacy and Security, Human Rights, and Public Law. A Ph.D., and strong teaching record are required. The rank of the position will be commensurate with experience.

Applicants should provide a CV, letter with a statement of teaching experience and interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of 3 references. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser:

<https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/full-time-teaching-track-faculty-position-in-political-science-and-international-relations/1209/15573524> .

For more information, please contact

POIR Instructor (Teaching) Search Committee

USC Department of Political Science and International Relations

3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330

Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

Review of applications will begin immediately, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/19/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7821

PUBLIC POLICY

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Associate Professorship in Business and Government

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) invites applications for a vacant associate professorship in Business and Government.

The core research areas of the department unite the study of states, markets, and international firms in the context of societal challenges faced by emerging and advanced economies. We are creating a vibrant international hub for research and research-based teaching exploring international business, economics and politics, as well as the intersection between them. EGB's research combines disciplines and is of direct relevance to business, policy-makers and scholars. We deliver research-based teaching into undergraduate and graduate teaching in programs such as International Business, International Business and Politics, and International Business in Asia. To learn more about the research and education of the department, please visit the departmental homepage here

The Associate Professorship is a permanent position with research and teaching obligations.

We are looking for a candidate with a research profile at the intersection of business and government and/or economics and government.

The candidate should have excellent skills in quantitative methods and ability to teach quantitative methods at both undergraduate and graduate levels. The associate professor is expected to contribute to the development of the department's research and teaching and to maintain and strengthen CBS's international research position.

These are non-exhaustive examples of research and teaching areas that the associate professor may cover:

Government-business relations

States and markets

Political economy

Comparative politics and public policy

To fulfill the research requirements of the position, the applicant chosen is expected to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the department.

Responsibilities

Research meeting high international standards, including responsibility for the academic development of the relevant discipline

Regular participation in research activities, such as research seminars, workshops and conferences

Research dissemination to the public in general and to CBS stakeholders in particular, including participation in public debate

Teaching and examination in CBS programs, including Executive Education

PhD supervision and participation in assessment committees

Promoting and developing the teaching and research capabilities of CBS and other relevant assignments at CBS

Initiating external fund raising and coordinating research projects

Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the department and to CBS-wide tasks

Qualifications

Advanced degree in political science or a related discipline

Excellent skills in methods

Documented teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of his/her pedagogical level. Please see guidelines for teaching portfolios.

Documented research production at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and books

Professional proficiency in English (written and spoken)

Copenhagen Business School has a broad commitment to the excellence, distinctiveness and relevance of its teaching and research programmes. Candidates who wish to join us should demonstrate enthusiasm for working in an organisation of this type (highlighting, for example, relevant business, educational and dissemination activities).

For further information please contact: Head of Department Jens Gammelgaard, tel.: +45 3815 2512, e-mail jg.egb@cbs.dk. Information about the department may be found here

Appointment and salary will be in accordance with the Ministry of Finance's agreement with the Central Academic Organisation.

Application

Application must be sent via the electronic recruitment system, using the link below.

Application must include:

- 1) A statement of application.
- 2) Proof of qualifications and a full CV.
- 3) Documentation of relevant, significant, original research at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and citations in the Social Science Citation Index and/or Google Scholar.
- 4) Documentation of teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of pedagogical level.
- 5) Information indicating experience in research management, industry co-operation and international co-operation.
- 6) A complete, numbered list of publications (indicating titles, co-authors, page numbers and year) with an * marking of the academic productions to be considered during the review. A maximum of 10 publications for review are allowed. Applicants are requested to prioritise their publications in relation to the field of this job advertisement.
- 7) Copies of the publications marked with an *. Only publications written in English (or another specified principal language, according to research tradition) or in one of the Scandinavian languages will be taken into consideration).
- 8) A research statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on a future research agenda
- 9) A teaching statement of max 5 pages, elaborating on pedagogical principles and a suggested future teaching agenda

Recruitment procedure

The Recruitment Committee will shortlist minimum two applicants; when possible five or more applicants will be shortlisted. The short-listed applicants will be assessed by the Assessment Committee. All applicants will be notified of their status in the recruitment process shortly after the application deadline.

The applicants selected for assessment will be notified about the composition of the Assessment Committee and later in the process about the result of the assessment.

Once the recruitment process is completed each applicant will be notified of the outcome of their application

Copenhagen Business School must receive all application material, including all appendices (see items above), by the application deadline.

Details about Copenhagen Business School and the department are available at www.cbs.dk

Closing date: 5 December 2020.

Apply online

<https://www.cbs.dk/en/about-cbs/jobs-cbs/vacant-positions/associate-professorship-in-business-and-government-copenhagen-business-school>

With some 20.422 full and part-time students, 644 full-time faculty members, 192 PhD and 724 administrative staff CBS is a unique business-oriented university with a full portfolio of Bachelor, Masters, MBA/EMBA, PhD and Executive programmes delivered in English and Danish. Our academic staff includes internationally-recognised experts in classical business disciplines as well as in philosophy, history, psychology, sociology, law, political science, information systems and culture.

The University welcomes applications from suitably qualified candidates regardless of age, gender, race, religion or ethnic background.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 12/5/2020

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8236

Duke University

Rank: Post-doctoral Associate

POST-DOCTORAL ASSOCIATE

The American Grand Strategy (AGS) Program is Duke's lead interdisciplinary initiative that creates and disseminates new knowledge in the grand strategy field. The mission of the program is to prepare the next generation of strategists by studying past generations and interacting with current strategic leaders.

In 2018, AGS partnered with a team of scholar-practitioners from Johns Hopkins University, and University of Texas-Austin to launch a consortium to better prepare the next generation to confront geopolitical challenges and better understand American national interests abroad. This position would support AGS in the consortium's efforts by advancing the body of rigorous scholarship investigating these questions and exposing Duke students to cutting edge work in this area.

Job Description

AGS seeks an America in the World Consortium Post-Doctoral Associate to begin in July 2021. Applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on American grand strategy, broadly defined, are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in political science whose research has a strong connection to policy.

The America in the World Associate will be expected to conduct independent research activities in preparation for a full time academic or research career and will teach one seminar suitable for cross-listing in the Department of Political Science and the Sanford School of Public Policy. The Associate will also contribute to the life of the AGS program by attending and, where appropriate and by mutual agreement, serving as a senior leader on co-curricular activities.

The Associate is expected to be in residence and may not undertake any other sustained teaching or employment during his/her tenure at Duke. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at Duke University.

Stipend Information

The Associate accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of Duke facilities, and office space at the Sanford School of Public Policy or the Department of Political Science as appropriate.

The position will provide funding for a minimum of 12 months.

Requirements:

- A terminal degree in a related field such as political science, public policy or history.
- Established work in a related area.

How to Apply:

Please submit the following items to begin your application on Academic Jobs Online, job #17388, at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/17388>:

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Teaching Statement
- A sample syllabus that is representative of a suggested course
- Article or writing sample representing an existing contribution to the field of American grand strategy, broadly defined.

Contact Name:

Melanie Benson

Contact Email:

Melanie.benson@duke.edu

Deadline to Apply:

Sunday, January 10, 2021

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Duke aspires to create a community built on collaboration, innovation, creativity, and belonging. Our collective success depends on the robust exchange of ideas—an exchange that is best when the rich diversity of our perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences flourishes. To achieve this exchange, it is essential that all members of the community feel secure and welcome, that the contributions of all individuals are respected, and that all voices are heard. All members of our community have a responsibility to uphold these values.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2021

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8229

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Finance & Budgeting, Health Care

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in the area of Public Administration. We seek candidates with broad competence in Public Administration. We are especially interested in candidates whose research examines the intersections between inequality and stratification with other important issues, including but not limited to urbanization, rural community development, and public health. We are particularly interested in candidates who examine the role of race, gender, and other dimensions of marginalization in public administration and policy development, implementation, and outcomes, including those using critical and/or intersectional approaches.

The Department has a Masters of Public Administration program, which includes a Public Policy component. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the program, and to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA and PhD), including specific courses required for degree programs. Normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Public Administration or Public Policy, topic open.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Ability to teach budgeting, public personnel administration and research methods for public administrators.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Ability to teach intergovernmental relations and urban politics

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. The PhD includes an emphasis in Public Policy. The Department offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College of Liberal Arts and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair—William Eubank wille@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator—Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator—Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Public-Administration_R0122868

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8232

APSA

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association <https://www.apsanet.org/cfp> Congressional Fellowship Program & is currently accepting <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homeonline> applications for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on Congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2021. Office placements run until August 13, 2022. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to support up to two months of a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2021.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields with a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process. Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homesubmitted> online & include:

- CV;
- 750-word personal statement;
- three letters of recommendation
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2021-2022 fellowship year by Wednesday, December 16, 2020. Please send questions about the program to cfp@apsanet.org.

Start Date: November 2021

Salary: $54,000 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8224

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Instructor or Assistant Professor, Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness

Specializations: United States, Criminal Justice, International Security

The VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Program invites applications for up to two, pending funding availability, non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience. Applicants with a Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field are preferred. Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

The Wilder School's mission is to:

- Engage, teach and inspire students and leaders to understand and solve challenges in our world.
- Advance research that informs public policy and decision making to improve our communities.
- Collaborate with communities through innovative partnerships to enhance quality of life.

The Wilder School's vision is to be the premiere resource for public policy expertise and social equity in public safety, governance and economic and community development. Ranked 39th among the nation's public affairs schools, the Wilder School has over 1,500 students and more than 11,000 alumni, with an established environment where diverse perspectives thrive and where a common interest in public service and the betterment of society unites these perspectives together. Our academic excellence attracts the highest quality faculty, staff and students, and our graduates are leaders in their professions.

Our location in Richmond, the capital of the Commonwealth of Virginia, combined with our proximity to Washington, DC, provides numerous opportunities for engaged scholarship, teaching and community engagement activities. A creative, interdisciplinary School with both academic programs and training/research centers in the social sciences and professional arenas, we reflect the diversity of the communities we serve providing students and faculty with the knowledge, skills, opportunities and experience necessary for success.

For additional information about the Wilder School, please visit our website at wilder.vcu.edu.

This position is non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience in the Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness program to begin in August 2021.

The Wilder School is seeking to continue its growth and commitment to its large and successful Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Bachelor's, Master's and Certificate programs. The faculty will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Successful candidates will join a dedicated group of colleagues with diverse interests and a demonstrated ability to teach effectively. We are interested in faculty who will demonstrate through teaching, creative expression, and/or public engagement, the richness of diversity in the learning experience through integrated intersectional approaches and perspectives.

Position Responsibilities:

1. Teaching

Successful candidates will teach within the core requirements of the graduate and undergraduate programs in Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness and may contribute to the Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration. The faculty member will be expected to carry a teaching load equivalent to eight 3 credit courses a year (4/4), involving both in-class and on-line delivery, and demonstrate leadership in developing techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles and intellectual interests.

2. Service

Faculty member may serve on program, School, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field.

For additional information, please visit <https://wilder.vcu.edu/programs/homeland-security-and-emergency-preparedness/>.

Required Qualifications:

Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

Our interest is in instructors who demonstrate a profound commitment to high-quality effective instruction who can contribute to the strength and diversity of our faculty. Successful candidates will have particular expertise in social justice and vulnerable populations in emergency preparedness, response and recovery, legal or constitutional issues, cybersecurity, and similar topics. The faculty member will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Preferred Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field.

Application Process/Additional Information:

Applications should be submitted to <http://www.vcujobs.com/postings/101225>, and include a cover-letter, a detailed CV with the names and contact information of three references, one example of scholarship or writing, and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

As a preeminent national, urban, public research university and academic health center, Virginia Commonwealth University is committed to organizational diversity, equity and inclusion - an environment where all can thrive in their pursuit of excellence.

Applicants are requested to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (typically between 150-300 words) providing your career aspirations and contributions toward promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. Through this statement, you can share how your lived experiences; and past, present, and future academic and professional activities have or will contribute to VCU's mission of promoting equity and inclusion.

Note: Examples include working with others to further the goals of equity and inclusion; leading in any capacity that tangibly promotes an environment where diversity is welcomed, fostered, and celebrated; creative activity, research and scholarship that promotes equity and parity; teaching and mentoring students, and/or engaging with faculty and/or staff from traditionally underrepresented groups to create a positive and successful organizational experience.

“Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action university providing access to education and employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, political affiliation, veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or disability”.

VCU demonstrates its commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion through a number of initiatives, including an NSF ADVANCE-IT grant to increase the recruitment and retention of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty in STEM disciplines, and iCubed, a multi-faceted program designed to recruit URM faculty to collaborate with community partners in transdisciplinary cores to develop promising solutions that enhance the vitality of urban communities. Wilder School faculty are actively engaged in both initiatives.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, with priority review beginning November 15, 2020.

Contact: Maureen Moslow-Benway, Search Chair (mmoslowbenwa@vcu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8221

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence. The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281"; complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)
- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVA

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defence-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors. The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics. The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field
- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, <https://www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/>, and <https://csdc-cecd.ca/>.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.
- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8181

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University

Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science

Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8178

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Fellow, Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a special faculty position as a teaching Fellow in the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

The CMU/WSP fellow will teach the Policy Forum as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC. The Policy Forum is a core course in the CMU/WSP curriculum.

The Policy Forum course takes a critical look at decision making in domestic politics and US foreign policy. It does so through weekly roundtable discussions with a diverse set of thought leaders invited by the CMU/WSP fellow. Based on intellectually significant essays that students are expected to read in advance of each class, these discussions give students an opportunity to ask probing questions about the three branches of the US government, media, embassies, advocacy groups, international organizations, and nongovernmental organizations. This course seeks to help students understand the responsibilities and activities that leaders and decision makers carry out on behalf of their organizations. Students are instructed in how to confidently and respectfully ask critical questions of those shaping policy. The term "roundtable" is used to describe submitting an issue for critical discussion among relevant stakeholders. Knowing how to direct a roundtable is a significant element in the professional development of anyone interested in taking part in the policy arena, and this course helps students hone this important skill. In requiring students to read important essays related to each class session and then step back from discussions with leaders to write analytical essays, this course teaches students how to develop strong arguments based on solid logic and credible evidence, an essential component in making democracy work.

All classes are seminar-style and discussion based and meet once per week for 2.5 hours.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, intern, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three or four days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

This course will be taught as a mini semester course during the spring 2021 semester and will run from March 22 through May 7, 2021. The instructor will be paid $7,500 for teaching the mini semester course. This is a part-time position.

Qualifications: Ph.D., JD, (or another terminal degree), or unique combination of experience and expertise in the subject area. Robust network in the Washington, DC, from which to invite Policy Forum guest speakers.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

<http://apply.interfolio.com/79804>

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/13/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8169

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Development, Environmental Policy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American politics. The position is wide open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics — including, for example, American Political Development, race and racism, elections, inequality, environment, social movements, Congress, and education policy. Applicants who engage public policy or policy analysis in their research and teaching may be particularly welcome. The anticipated start date is 1 July 2021. The successful candidate will hold a PhD at the start of the appointment. The holder of this position will teach undergraduates and graduate students. Please submit a letter of interest to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/17094>. The application must also include: a curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, a statement about your capacity to promote diversity, and three references. Completed applications are due on 10 November 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/10/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8162

Demos

Rank: Senior Policy Analyst: Economic Democracy

Demos is a policy and advocacy organization working for an America where all have an equal say in our democracy and an equal chance in our economy. Founded in 2000, the organization is headquartered in New York City and has an office in Washington, D.C.. Demos moves ideas powerful enough to improve the lives of everyday Americans through the full cycle of change. We champion over-the-horizon policy solutions, shift the narrative to clear the way for their acceptance, and advocate until they take effect. We use the right strategy for the right moment, whether it's research, communications, supporting organizers, or litigation. This commitment to the full cycle of change has resulted in real victories, from landmark credit card reforms to over 3 million new voter registration applications from low-income citizens. Throughout all of our work, Demos is advocating not just for people, but for the very idea of the people—of one nation, united by a shared fate.

The Senior Policy Analyst will help to develop an emerging body of work at Demos focused on economic democracy.

Today, our economy and democracy are failing Black and brown people. While these failures are not new, they have been exposed and exacerbated by the colliding damage caused by COVID-19, state violence and killing of Black people and the economic recession. The frame of economic democracy says that in order to address these failures we need to think beyond immediate economic relief and market-based solutions. We need to go beyond simply changing economic policies, to fundamentally shift how Black and brown people, workers and jobless people relate to the corporations and to the government institutions that govern economic policy.

In coordination with grassroots and movement building organizations, the Senior Policy Analyst will provide research and policy analysis of the economy that is centered on building power and increasing democratic participation of Black and brown communities. This work is based on the premise that those most impacted by injustice and inequality should have a voice in the solution. This work is evolving and could include (but is not limited to) strategies to: dismantle concentrations of corporate power; build the power of essential workers and jobless people; democratize and make public the provision of essential goods and public services and increase participation of those most impacted by the economic crisis within government institutions and policymaking bodies.

The position is housed within the Policy and Research team at Demos and will report to the Director of Policy and Research.

Responsibilities include but are not limited to:

- Develop, maintain and build research and policy collaborations with grassroots and movement organizations that are building economic power of Black and brown communities and other important stakeholders on economic policy;
- Develop narrative-changing research on a range of issues related to economic democracy;
- Write long and short-form publications based on the research including research reports, issue briefs, fact sheets and opinion articles;
- Work in collaboration across Demos teams such as legal, movement building and communications to develop research and policy that advances Demos' strategic priorities;
- Conduct presentations and represent Demos externally on relevant research and policy issues.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following skills and experience:

- Developed Racial Equity Analysis & Practice. You have a well-developed racial equity analysis and consistently integrate this analysis into your work projects and personal interactions by addressing structural implications and disproportionate impacts of policies, activities, and decisions on race, class and other group identities within the context of your job responsibilities and projects.

- Excellent Writing and Analytical Skills. You have experience executing research and writing projects, from initial concept stage to final drafting of research reports, issue briefs, fact sheets and other materials.
- Strategic and Creative Thinking. You understand that ideas matter and view research and policy as a critical component for creating the public and political will for change. You are curious by nature, and eager to uncover new analyses that can advance the public debate.
- Experience working on progressive policy issues. You have a proven track record working to advance progressive policies. You have experience translating ideas into concrete policy proposals.

The most competitive candidates will also demonstrate several of the following skills and experience:

- External Outreach and Collaboration. You are skilled at identifying and cultivating productive relationships with key individuals in movement building, academia, government, and policy and advocacy organizations.
- Research Design and Narrative. You have experience designing and conducting primary research including surveys, interviews, focus groups and other research methods. You know how to incorporate the voices and center the lived-experience of those most impacted by injustice and inequality into research and policy design and analysis.
- Data proficiency. You have familiarity working with data and you are interested in using data strategically to advance policy change.
- Legislation and Rulemaking. You have familiarity with legislative drafting and the statutory and regulatory aspects of policy making.

Candidates need to bring a strong commitment to excellence and an ability to work in a fast-paced environment. The position is full-time and based in New York City or Washington, D.C. Strong candidates outside the New York City or Washington, D.C. area will be considered.

Salary and Benefits:

The salary range for this position is $75,000 - $95,000 and commensurate with experience. We have a generous benefits package which includes health insurance, dental and vision insurance, 10 paid holidays, 18 vacation days per year, 5 floating holidays per year, paid time off Dec. 25- Jan. 1, 12 sick days per year, and the opportunity to contribute to a 403b plan.

How to Apply:

Upload a thoughtful cover letter, résumé and two writing samples, one that shows your research and policy skills for a policy audience and one for a broader audience, such as a blog or op-ed through the following link: <http://demos.hiringthing.com>.

We are looking for an immediate hire so applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. No phone calls or emails please.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8166

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Appointment as Researcher is a three-year position.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from Researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Researcher also has administrative responsibilities.

As Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement
- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A limited amount of teaching is also to be expected even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152556&DepartmentId=18992&MediaId=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/9/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8164

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Senior Researcher(s) to the Centre for Military Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Methodology
Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH) seeks excellent candidates for one or more positions as Senior Researcher in defence, security, and strategic studies at the Centre for Military Studies.

The position(s) is a permanent, full-time position and is available from 1st May 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Applications are sought from eminent candidates, who have experience with research and teaching within the field of defence, security, strategic and military studies. We define national security and strategy in broad terms and welcome applications from researchers with backgrounds in political science and other relevant disciplines. Applicants with experience in applied research in foreign, security, or defence policy are especially welcome. The successful candidate(s) will have a strong commitment to both excellence and relevance.

Introduction

Based in the Department of Political Science, the Centre for Military Studies is a university research centre focusing on research in defence, security, and strategic studies. In order to provide new knowledge and to identify relevant strategic options for Denmark in particular, we conduct both curiosity-driven and problem-driven independent research. The Centre works closely with the Danish Ministry of Defence, the Danish Armed Forces and other national and international stakeholders when investigating issues and developing ideas and options. As a fully integrated part of the Department of Political Science, the Centre takes part in teaching and research activities at the Department. For more information, please consult our webpage: <https://cms.polsci.ku.dk/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A Senior Researcher also has administrative responsibilities and is expected to develop the field in synergy with other fields as well as to exercise academic leadership.

As Senior Researcher at the Centre for Military Studies the general duties are:

- Research within the field of defence, security, and strategic studies
- Applied research and commissioned analytical tasks for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement

- Knowledge sharing with society, including media appearances and public lectures
- Research management, including administrative tasks related to the position
- Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and post-graduate students at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

The weighting of the different duties may vary periodically, but the successful candidate can expect to spend most of his/her time doing research and specific studies including applied research for the Danish Ministry of Defence and the political parties to the Defence Agreement. A certain amount of teaching is also to be expected, even if this is not primarily a teaching position.

Read more about this position and apply here: <https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationInit.aspx?cid=1307&ProjectId=152555&DepartmentId=18992&MediaId=4636>

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/9/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8163

University of Denver

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job no: 493207
 Work type: Faculty Full-Time
 Location: Denver, CO
 Categories: Faculty

The University of Denver is pleased to announce a search for a tenure-line Assistant Professor in the Douglas and Mary Scrivner Institute of Public Policy at the Josef Korbel School of International Studies. The position offers an extraordinary opportunity for a faculty member with training in one or more disciplines with a policy emphasis to contribute to a robust research program and help build the Institute's engagement, impact, and visibility locally, nationally, and internationally.

The University of Denver is the oldest independent university in the Rocky Mountain region, with approximately 11,700 students in undergraduate and graduate programs. DU is classified as a Doctoral/Research University with high research activity.

The Scrivner Institute of Public Policy at the University of Denver was made possible by a generous gift from Douglas and Mary Scrivner in 2018. The Institute is housed within the existing Josef Korbel School of International Studies, a top-ranked international affairs program with a range of both graduate and undergraduate degrees and a dynamic research profile that prepares students for careers in the public, private, academic and nonprofit sectors. Its programs provide students with the knowledge, skills, and networks to design policies, implement programs, and realize outcomes that enhance human capabilities around the world. By relaunching the University's public policy program that has existed since the mid-1980's, the Scrivner Institute and the Korbel School together are creating an innovative, local-to-global public policy enterprise that trains students to meet 21st-century challenges in both domestic and international spheres. Supporting path-breaking, multidisciplinary research and local, national, and international policy engagement are critical components of the Institute's vision.

The Scrivner Institute of Public Policy is strongly aligned with the University of Denver's strategic plan, DU Impact 2025: <http://impact.du.edu>, and is committed to the student experience, experiential learning, and serving the public good. It offers an undergraduate major in public policy and a Master of Public Policy degree, both of which have great potential to grow in innovative programming and enrollment. The Scrivner Institutes multidisciplinary design attracts public policy research and teaching from faculty members across the University's colleges and schools and beyond.

We seek candidates with broad competence in public policy, and teaching and research interests in economic and social inequality and stratification. The search is multidisciplinary and encourages applications from candidates examining the intersections between inequality and stratification with other important issues, including but not limited to urbanization and community development, public health, regulation, the future of work, environmental policy, artificial intelligence, and automation. We are particularly interested in candidates who examine the role of race, gender, and other dimensions of marginalization on public policy development, implementation, and outcomes, including those using critical and/or intersectional approaches. We welcome candidates trained in the fields of public policy, economics, law, history, political science, sociology, anthropology, urban studies, geography, and adjacent fields. Candidates with a record of peer-reviewed publishing and grant success are particularly encouraged to apply. We also welcome applications from those at the advanced assistant professor level. The Scrivner Institute is strongly committed to building a diverse and inclusive educational environment, which is in full accord with the value that DU places on its commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to integrate content and issues relating to, and to work effectively with, ethnically/racially diverse populations. The position will begin on September 1, 2021.

Required Qualifications

PhD in a social science discipline or an equivalent terminal degree by the date the position begins (absent serious mitigating circumstances). Experience in teaching, or the ability to teach, core public policy courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Demonstrated experience and versatility in inclusive pedagogy. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion through their teaching, research, and service.

Preferred Qualifications

Successful teaching experience is highly desirable, as is a track record in research and publication.

Application Deadline:

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by November 1, 2020. Applications will continue to be reviewed until the position is filled.

On-campus interviews will begin January 15, 2021.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.jobs.du.edu to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted.

Salary Range

Salary will be determined by the qualifications of the selected candidate balanced with departmental budget availability, internal salary equity considerations, and available market information.

Please include the following documents with your application:

CV

Cover Letter

Writing Sample

Sample Course Syllabi

Teaching Evaluation(s)

One-page statement of how they can contribute to DU's Inclusive Excellence and values and practices regarding diversity, equity, and inclusivity.

Names and contact information of three referees that can provide letters of recommendation.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8161

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8155

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and non-profit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus.

The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity (e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)
- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaclyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Senior Researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, Methodology

Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.D.s. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

William & Mary

Rank: Research Scientist or Senior Research Scientist

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Research Methods

AidData is currently recruiting for a Research Scientist (U13) OR Senior Research Scientist (U15), depending on the applicant's qualifications. These positions are based in Williamsburg, VA. As such, applicants will be expected to relocate to the Williamsburg area in 2021.

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

The Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and work closely with the Director of Policy Analysis to provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. The Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a Co-Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will also contribute to the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and Policy Analysis Unit, represent the program and unit externally in presenting research results to academic and policy audiences, and broker financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program and unit's research agenda.

The Senior Research Scientist will provide intellectual leadership for AidData's Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program and provide technical and management oversight of the grants and contracts that support this program. This is a senior leadership position within AidData. The Senior Research Scientist will assume the management, fiscal, and research integrity responsibilities of a lead Principal Investigator on relevant, externally-sponsored research projects. The individual will lead the conceptual development and preparation of grant and contract proposals in line with the mandate of the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program, and represent the program externally to academic and policy audiences. The individual will also be responsible for brokering financial and partnership arrangements to advance the program's research agenda, while ensuring the long-term health and sustainability of the program area.

Either position may include oversight of staff conducting data collection and analysis related to the nature, scope, distribution, and effects of Chinese, Russian, and Middle Eastern financing. Either role will be responsible for the successful delivery of analysis, datasets and tools related to sponsored research projects, including:

- Financial oversight (managing budgets for active grants and contracts, developing proposals for new grants);
- External client management (ensuring on-time, high-quality deliverables for external funders);
- Personnel oversight (supervision of staff/research assistants);
- Project/portfolio management (responsible for direct implementation of projects to produce data and derivative products); and quality assurance.

This position is located at the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia. This is a full-time position, and salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications in the U13-U15 range (see Salary Structure for University Employees).

Required Qualifications

Research Scientist:

- A Master's degree in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance, or comparable education and experience;
- Several years of relevant professional experience;
- Demonstrated experience leading the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects;
- Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;
- Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress reports in a timely manner to external research sponsors;
- Track record of leading research collaborations;
- Established subject matter expert in at least one domain relevant to the Tracking Underreported Financial Flows program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.);
- Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
- Experience leading technical teams and projects and training/mentoring team members;
- Experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;
- Strong and effective communication skills;
- Ability to work both independently and collaboratively in a demanding and complex work environment; to carry out assignments in a timely manner, and to adapt to changing situations and priorities;

Experience managing small to mid-size project teams and delivery schedules

Senior Research Scientist:

A terminal degree in a relevant discipline with several years' experience as a principal investigator or co-principal investigator;
 Demonstrated academic rigor to lead the design and implementation of externally sponsored research projects as a Principal Investigator;
 Established track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
 Experience writing compelling grant proposals and securing external funds for policy research projects;
 Track record of submitting high-quality deliverables and progress to external research sponsors;
 Track record of publishing research in peer-reviewed journals or policy research that meets equivalent standards of scrutiny;
 Experience with personnel management and fiscal responsibilities associated with externally-sponsored research projects;
 Established track record of leading research collaborations (with and without external collaborators) that result in high-quality and high-profile research outputs;
 Established subject matter expert in at least two domains relevant to the program (e.g., China, Russia, Gulf Cooperation Council, development finance, foreign direct investment, blended finance, South-South cooperation, etc.);
 Track record of designing and implementing innovative research methods;
 Extensive professional network and presence in relevant professional communities, including researchers across multiple domains;
 Substantial experience leading large, interdisciplinary teams and technically demanding projects;
 Demonstrated experience working with large, complex datasets using one or more of the following: Stata, R, Python, SAS, SPSS;
 Strong and effective communication and presentation skills

Preferred Qualifications

Research Scientist:

A Master's degree or Doctorate in a relevant discipline;
 Extensive relevant professional experience;
 Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research projects in developing country contexts;
 Knowledge/experience with qualitative data collection and research methods (FGDs, interviews, Nvivo);
 Advanced experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);
 Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;
 Experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;
 Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;
 Detailed knowledge of aid classification schemes and experience in collecting, standardizing, and publishing data from multiple actors;
 Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;
 Knowledge of the standards, best practices, and systems related to public service and/or international aid program delivery in developing countries

Senior Research Scientist:

Doctorate in a relevant discipline such as economics, political science, public policy, public affairs, international relations, international development, or development finance or comparable advanced level experience;
 Track record of obtaining research funding from a variety of funders;
 Experience designing and/or managing large-scale data collection and/or research in developing country contexts;
 Advanced proficiency/experience with data science methods (machine learning, web scraping, and text mining);
 Demonstrated ability to implement rigorous analysis using experimental methods or quasi-experimental methods, including regression discontinuity, matching, difference-in-differences, instrumental variables estimation, social network analysis, and spatial analysis;
 Demonstrated experience preparing statistical code for reproduction of results by a third party;
 Extensive knowledge and experience working with development finance or foreign direct investment data;
 Experience delivering datasets and actionable research for policy and academic audiences;
 Extensive knowledge of traditional and non-traditional donor classification schemes (with a particular emphasis on Non-DAC donors like China, Russia and the Gulf Cooperation Council countries)

Application Instructions

For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal (<https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/39689>). There, click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a peer-reviewed publication that highlights your ability to design and execute policy-relevant, empirical research with rigorous methods. This position closes at 11:59pm on October 29th, 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2020

Application Deadline: 10/29/2020

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8136

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellows Program 2021-2023

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Founded in 1764, Brown is a leading research university distinct for its student-centered learning and deep sense of purpose. Brown University students, faculty, and staff are driven by the idea that their work will have an impact on the world. Brown is a place where rigorous scholarship, complex problem-solving, and service to the public good are defined by collaboration, intellectual discovery, and working in ways that transcend traditional disciplinary boundaries.

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 23, 2020 to the application portal:

A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits. Please also include a statement about teaching in a diverse and inclusive classroom.

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample.

Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 24; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2021.

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website watson.brown.edu or contact:

Professor Rose McDermott, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. Rose_McDermott@brown.edu

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/23/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8128

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Post-Doctoral Position - Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Open, Public Policy

The University of Missouri's Preparing Future Faculty – Faculty Diversity (PFFFD) Postdoctoral Program is designed to develop scholars for tenure-track faculty positions at the University of Missouri and elsewhere. Applicants should demonstrate how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular discipline or through other experience. Postdoctoral positions are for two years and provide research, teaching, and professional development opportunities. The stipend is a minimum of $56,000 per year plus University benefits and professional development funds. In order to be eligible for this program, applicants must have completed their doctoral degree, or expect to complete their degree no later than July 1, 2021, at a regionally accredited university.

The University of Missouri ("Mizzou"), located in the culturally vibrant small city of Columbia, is approximately 125 miles from both

St. Louis and Kansas City. The campus enrolls more than 30,000 students; it is Missouri's largest public research university and the heart of the four-campus University of Missouri System. As a member of the Association of American Universities since 1908, Mizzou is one of the nation's top institutions of higher learning.

We are currently accepting applications in the following research areas:

Political Science/Public Affairs – Scholar with research and teaching interests in race/ethnicity/diversity in politics, public administration, or public policy. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Affairs, or related field.

The deadline for applications is 11:59 PM (Central time), November 2, 2020. Finalists will be interviewed in January - February 2021.

To apply, please go here: <https://applygrad.missouri.edu/apply/?sr=959b0871-eafd-44d0-b2e6-9ce11e2ac854>

Please create an account in the Graduate School's application system. After you create an account, select the 2021 Preparing Future Faculty postdoctoral application. A completed application includes:

- Cover letter expressing interest in the position
- CV
- Statement of goals for postdoctoral position
- Diversity statement
- One-page abstract of doctoral dissertation
- Writing sample
- 3 letters of reference

Click here to read more about the University of Missouri's PFFFD program. Questions about the program and application process may be directed to Dr. Lissa Behm-Morawitz (Associate Dean of the Graduate School) at postdoc@missouri.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/2/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8133

Eastern Illinois University

Rank: Instructor, Comparative Politics/Public Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University invites applicants for a non-tenure track instructor with a 3-year contract beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will teach online graduate and face-to-face undergraduate courses in Comparative Politics, Public Policy, and Public Administration.

Successful candidates must have a doctorate or Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, or ABD status with evidence of substantial progress toward degree completion. Candidates must demonstrate commitment to teaching excellence, along with dedication to mentoring, applied learning, diversity, and promoting inclusive excellence.

The teaching load will be 3-4 classes per semester, including 2 face-to-face undergraduate courses in non-western Comparative Politics (with the potential for curriculum development), an online graduate course in Public Policy Analysis (taught each semester), an online graduate course in Public Administration Ethics, and two additional courses. The position may include student research mentoring.

Applicants should upload the following to Interfolio, <http://apply.interfolio.com/79049>:

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references
- Graduate school transcripts

Application review begins October 14 and continues until the position is filled.

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Illinois University offers three undergraduate majors: Political Science, an International Studies option, and a Civic and Nonprofit Leadership option. The department offers an M.A. in Political Science and an online M.A. in Political Science with a Public Administration and Public Policy option. Questions about the search may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Kevin Anderson (kranderson@eiu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8089

Harvard University

Rank: Fellow-in-Residence

The Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply.

For the 2021-22 academic year, the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics will focus on the theme of "A New Social Compact?" The COVID-19 pandemic has delivered a shock to the nations of the world. Variations in national responses and experiments with economic and health policies have implicitly revealed different conceptions of the social compact (a phrase we use loosely to refer to shared understandings of what members of societies believe they owe to each other). In the United States, the experience of the pandemic has been defined by failures of governance, leadership, and technocratic expertise. These failures have led to the stark exposure of underlying health inequities, along with the broad social vulnerability for individuals, and the polity generally, that flows from inequality. The centrality of care provision to our economy and social well-being has also been brought to the fore, made visible by the sudden disappearance of structures like schools that have come to provide so much of the care and services of the social safety net in the United States. Restrictions on international travel, the fracturing of global supply chains, rationing of medical supplies, and attempts to develop a vaccine all call into question the social compact at a global level. While much innovation in political philosophy, political economy, and public policy has been in development for the last decade, since the global financial crisis, the pandemic presents an occasion for harvesting the fruits of that work with the goal of articulating the foundations of a new social compact. We invite applications connected to any dimension of this broad field of inquiry. We see the nature of the failures to be addressed as so multifaceted as to make this theme not very restrictive; however, in our usual fashion, we will also consider applications that fall outside the parameters of this thematic description.

All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply. Priority will be given to early career scholars and practitioners.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is intended to be residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term. The coronavirus pandemic has resulted in a waiver of this requirement for the 2020-21 academic year. If the public health crisis continues, we will consider a waiver for the 2021-22 academic year, but our hope is to return to in-person, residential programming by September 2021.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with the following Centers; we continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

- Carr Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
- Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
- Center for Research on Computation and Society at the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences
- Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
- Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics and our partnering Center.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

STIPEND

Faculty: We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary, up to $75,000, and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs: The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $60,000 for 2021-22. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioners: Practitioner stipends will be determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

To apply, you will need to complete an online application form, found at ethics.harvard.edu/fellows-in-residence, which includes submission of the following in .pdf, .doc, or .docx form:

- Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program (suggested length 1-2 pages or 850 words)
- CV
- Research proposal (suggested length 3-5 pages or 2,500 words)
- Recent writing sample (suggested length under 30 pages or 7,000 words)
- Names and contact information of three professional references (letters are not accepted until a candidate reaches a later stage of the process)

The deadline for submitting this application is November 16, 2020. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Should you have any questions regarding this application process, please send an email to EJSafraFellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/16/2020

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8081

Harvard University

Rank: Fellow-in-Residence

The Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply.

For the 2021-22 academic year, the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics will focus on the theme of "A New Social Compact." The COVID-19 pandemic has delivered a shock to the nations of the world. Variations in national responses and experiments with economic and health policies have implicitly revealed different conceptions of the social compact (a phrase we use loosely to refer to shared understandings of what members of societies believe they owe to each other). In the United States, the experience of the pandemic has been defined by failures of governance, leadership, and technocratic expertise. These failures have led to the stark exposure of underlying health inequities, along with the broad social vulnerability for individuals, and the polity generally, that flows from inequality. The centrality of care provision to our economy and social well-being has also been brought to the fore, made visible by the sudden disappearance of structures like schools that have come to provide so much of the care and services of the social safety net in the United States. Restrictions on international travel, the fracturing of global supply chains, rationing of medical supplies, and attempts to develop a vaccine all call into question the social compact at a global level. While much innovation in political philosophy, political economy, and public policy has been in development for the last decade, since the global financial crisis, the pandemic presents an occasion for harvesting the fruits of that work with the goal of articulating the foundations of a new social compact. We invite applications connected to any dimension of this broad field of inquiry. We see the nature of the failures to be addressed as so multifaceted as to make this theme not very restrictive; however, in our usual fashion, we will also consider applications that fall outside the parameters of this thematic description.

All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply. Priority will be given to early career scholars and practitioners.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is intended to be residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term. The coronavirus pandemic has resulted in a waiver of this requirement for the 2020-21 academic year. If the public health crisis continues, we will consider a waiver for the 2021-22 academic year, but our hope is to return to in-person, residential programming by September 2021.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with the following Centers; we continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

- Carr Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
- Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
- Center for Research on Computation and Society at the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences
- Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
- Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics and our partnering Center.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

STIPEND

Faculty: We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary, up to $75,000, and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs: The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $60,000 for 2021-22. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioners: Practitioner stipends will be determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

To apply, you will need to complete an online application form, found at ethics.harvard.edu/fellows-in-residence, which includes submission of the following in .pdf, .doc, or .docx form:

- Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program (suggested length 1-2 pages or 850 words)
- CV
- Research proposal (suggested length 3-5 pages or 2,500 words)
- Recent writing sample (suggested length under 30 pages or 7,000 words)
- Names and contact information of three professional references (letters are not accepted until a candidate reaches a later stage of the process)

The deadline for submitting this application is November 16, 2020. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Should you have any questions regarding this application process, please send an email to EJSafraFellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2022

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8082

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor – Political Economy of Development

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the Assistant Professor level in the political economy of development. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by the beginning of the appointment and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/79006. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) two letters of recommendation, and 3) one writing sample. Review of applicants will begin on October 21, 2020. No applications will be accepted after May 1, 2021.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8083

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Japan

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2021-2022 Postdoctoral Fellow on Contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan>

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8067

Stanford University

Rank: 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2021–2022 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2021-2022 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2021) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with Stanford policy (based on an annual 12-month rate of $66,000), plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2021-2022 academic year.

Applications will be accepted starting September 21, 2020, until January 4, 2021.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship>

About the Center:

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8062

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor with an emphasis in Public Policy, Public Administration, and/or State and Local Politics. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research and teaching responsibilities will be in state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration.

Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level introductory courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Public Policy Making, Intro to American Government, State and Local Politics) as well as upper-level electives and graduate courses in our MPA program (e.g., Public Policy, State and Local Government). The successful candidate would also likely provide new offerings in a specific area of public policy or public administration. Secondary research and teaching interests may include urban politics; municipal government; environmental politics; public management; budgeting; economic development; representative bureaucracy; ethics; diversity, equity, and inclusion in public and non-profit management; anti-essentialism; or other research areas consistent with the needs of the department. Specific assignments are dependent on departmental needs and the background of the individual.

Our Students: California State University, Fresno is committed to serving our students with a focus on inclusion. Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/ Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Qualifications:

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in political science, public administration, public policy, or related discipline from an accredited institution is required. Applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered; for continued employment in the tenure-track position, however, the doctorate must be completed by August 1, 2021. Evidence of completion will be required. Failure to complete the terminal degree prior to this date will invalidate the appointment.

Required Experience: Applicants must demonstrate:

- a specialization in (American) state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration
- teaching experience at the undergraduate level
- experience giving presentations at professional conferences
- evidence of graduate-level coursework in American public policy and/or public administration on their transcripts
- a commitment to work effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds

Preferred Experience: Applicants must demonstrate evidence of:

- peer-reviewed publication(s)
- a strong research agenda
- teaching experience at the graduate level
- ability to teach Introduction to American Government and Institutions

Application Procedures: Preference will be given to those received by October 20, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. This position automatically closes May 1, 2021.

Apply online at: <http://jobs.csufresno.edu> and attach the following:

- a cover letter specifically addressing required experience, teaching philosophy, and research agenda,
- diversity statement,
- curriculum vitae,
- unofficial transcripts, and
- a list of three professional references

All finalists will receive a request to send official transcripts from all relevant educational programs. In addition, your three professional references will be asked to submit current letters of recommendation.

For questions about this search, please contact the search chair:

Dr. Lisa Bryant
Department of Political Science
College of Social Sciences
Email: lbryant@csufresno.edu

About Fresno State:

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students' intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>. The campus is ranked 24th in the nation by Washington Monthly; ranked 3rd by U.S. News & World Report in graduation rate performance for public institutions; and, ranked 41st in the nation in MONEY Magazines 50 Best Public Colleges.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science at Fresno State is one of the strongest in the California State University system. We are a dynamic and diverse department, actively engaged in research and in our surrounding community. Our department serves approximately 230 majors in the undergraduate program and 40 graduate students seeking master's degrees in the NASPAA accredited public administration program. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within the department and the faculty is well-known for its balanced commitment to teaching, research, and public service. For more information, see: <https://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Tenure-Track Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process. For additional information, please visit: www.fresnostate.edu/academics/facultyaffairs/procedures/facultytrtp/. We value our commitment to the success of our faculty by providing services from the Center for Faculty Excellence to Research and Sponsored Programs.

Other Campus Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees online at www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml. Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position is considered a "limited reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following website: <http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is a smoke-free campus. For more information, please click <http://fresnostate.edu/adminserv/smokefree/index.html>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8068

California State University, Fresno

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences at California State University, Fresno seeks applicants for a tenure-track, academic year position as an Assistant Professor with an emphasis in Public Policy, Public Administration, and/or State and Local Politics. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate students, conduct scholarly research, and engage in service. Primary research and teaching responsibilities will be in state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration.

Teaching responsibilities will include lower and upper-level introductory courses in our Political Science curriculum (e.g. Public Policy Making, Intro to American Government, State and Local Politics) as well as upper-level electives and graduate courses in our MPA program (e.g., Public Policy, State and Local Government). The successful candidate would also likely provide new offerings in a specific area of public policy or public administration. Secondary research and teaching interests may include urban politics; municipal government; environmental politics; public management; budgeting; economic development; representative bureaucracy; ethics; diversity, equity, and inclusion in public and non-profit management; anti-essentialism; or other research areas consistent with the needs of the department. Specific assignments are dependent on departmental needs and the background of the individual.

Our Students: California State University, Fresno is committed to serving our students with a focus on inclusion. Fresno State has been recognized as a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI); an Asian American/Native American/Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI); and has been designated to the Community Engagement Classification by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Qualifications:

Required Education: An earned doctorate (Ph.D.) in political science, public administration, public policy, or related discipline from an accredited institution is required. Applicants nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered; for continued employment in the tenure-track position, however, the doctorate must be completed by August 1, 2021. Evidence of completion will be required. Failure to complete the terminal degree prior to this date will invalidate the appointment.

Required Experience: Applicants must demonstrate:

- a specialization in (American) state and local politics, public policy, and/or public administration
- teaching experience at the undergraduate level
- experience giving presentations at professional conferences
- evidence of graduate-level coursework in American public policy and/or public administration on their transcripts
- a commitment to work effectively with faculty, staff, and students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socioeconomic backgrounds

Preferred Experience: Applicants must demonstrate evidence of:

- peer-reviewed publication(s)
- a strong research agenda
- teaching experience at the graduate level

-ability to teach Introduction to American Government and Institutions

Application Procedures: Preference will be given to those received by October 20, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. This position automatically closes May 1, 2021.

Apply online at: <http://jobs.csufresno.edu> and attach the following:

- a cover letter specifically addressing required experience, teaching philosophy, and research agenda,
- diversity statement,
- curriculum vitae,
- unofficial transcripts, and
- a list of three professional references

All finalists will receive a request to send official transcripts from all relevant educational programs. In addition, your three professional references will be asked to submit current letters of recommendation.

For questions about this search, please contact the search chair:

Dr. Lisa Bryant
 Department of Political Science
 College of Social Sciences
 Email: lbryant@csufresno.edu

About Fresno State:

California State University, Fresno is an engaged University. We focus on broadening students' intellectual horizons, fostering lifelong learning skills, developing the leaders of tomorrow, promoting community involvement, and instilling an appreciation of world cultures. We nurture cultural competence by celebrating the rich diversity of the campus community and welcoming the participation of all. Members of the University community are expected to work effectively with faculty, staff and students from diverse ethnic, cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds. For information on the University's commitment and dedication to creating a university known for its integrity, civility, equity, respect and ethical behavior, please visit: <http://www.fresnostate.edu/academics/diversity>. The campus is ranked 24th in the nation by Washington Monthly; ranked 3rd by U.S. News & World Report in graduation rate performance for public institutions; and, ranked 41st in the nation in MONEY Magazines 50 Best Public Colleges.

About the Department:

The Department of Political Science at Fresno State is one of the strongest in the California State University system. We are a dynamic and diverse department, actively engaged in research and in our surrounding community. Our department serves approximately 230 majors in the undergraduate program and 40 graduate students seeking master's degrees in the NASPAA accredited public administration program. All of the major sub-disciplines of political science are represented within the department and the faculty is well-known for its balanced commitment to teaching, research, and public service. For more information, see: <https://www.fresnostate.edu/socialsciences/polisci/>

Tenure-Track Faculty members gain a clear path to tenure through the University's Probationary Plan Process. For additional information, please visit: www.fresnostate.edu/academics/facultyaffairs/procedures/facultytrp/

We value our commitment to the success of our faculty by providing services from the Center for Faculty Excellence to Research and Sponsored Programs.

Other Campus Information:

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Fresno has made crime-reporting statistics available to applicants, students, and employees online at: www.fresnostate.edu/police/clery/index.shtml.

Print copies are available by request from the Campus Police Department.

A background check (including criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily for this position. An offer of employment may be withdrawn or employment may be terminated based upon the results of the background investigation.

The person holding this position is considered a "limited reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment. You can obtain a copy of this Executive order by accessing the following website:

<http://www.calstate.edu/eo/EO-1083.html>.

California State University, Fresno is a smoke-free campus. For more information, please click:

<http://fresnostate.edu/adminserv/smokefree/index.html>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 5/1/2021

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8069

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021
Application Deadline: 9/15/2020
Date Posted: 9/3/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8027

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7983

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor – Political Science/Political Economy

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applicants for tenure-track faculty positions in Political Science or Political Economy at the Assistant Professor level. The search is open with respect to subfield. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by July 31, 2021 and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/78291. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) two letters of recommendation, 3) one writing sample, and 4) no more than one-page abstract from their job market paper or dissertation. Applicants may also submit additional optional documents such as: a cover letter, research statement, additional writing sample, and/or a third letter of reference. Review of applicants will begin on September 26, 2020. No applications will be accepted after May 1, 2021.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/27/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8008

New York University - Abu Dhabi

Rank: Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science - Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint a Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science starting September 2021. Later start dates are also possible. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Here is the link to apply:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/77968>

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7989

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowships

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2021–2022 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and overseas, for accomplished mid and senior career professionals. Selected fellows broaden their foreign policy experience by spending their fellowships in public service or research environments.

Applications are due by October 31, 2020.

The International Affairs Fellowship (IAF) is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It provides individuals the opportunity to spend one year in policymaking or research oriented environments. The program awards a stipend of $105,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Canada sponsored by Power Corporation of Canada, provides selected fellows the opportunity to spend six to twelve months at a Canadian institution working on U.S.-Canada relations. It awards a stipend of $95,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in Japan brings a cadre of American professionals to Japan for three to twelve months to study and work on U.S.-Japan relations. The program is intended for those without substantial prior experience in Japan. The program awards a competitive stipend in yen.

The International Affairs Fellowship in India affords fellows with the opportunity to spend three to twelve months conducting research on India and U.S. relations. It is aimed at professionals who have had little prior experience in India. It awards a stipend of $90,000.

The International Affairs Fellowship in International Economics offers economists hands-on experience in the U.S. government and the opportunity to apply a range of research tools to international economic policy issues. It lasts six and nine months with a stipend starting at $150,000.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 8/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7961