

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

December 2020 | Volume 9, Issue 12

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4

American Government and Politics 7

Comparative Politics 29

International Relations 55

Methodology 88

Non-Academic 95

Open 97

Other 114

Political Theory 133

Public Administration 145

Public Law 150

Public Policy 154

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

December 2020 | Volume 9, Issue 12

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (3 listings)
American Government and Politics 7 (41 listings)
Comparative Politics 29 (47 listings)
International Relations 55 (62 listings)
Methodology 88 (13 listings)
Non-Academic 95 (3 listings)
Open 97 (31 listings)
Other 114 (31 listings)
Political Theory 133 (20 listings)
Public Administration 145 (6 listings)
Public Law 150 (8 listings)
Public Policy 154 (33 listings)
Total listings this issue 298

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for December

ADMINISTRATION

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Dean of Social Science

Subfield(s): Administration, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Middle East, Social Movements, Economic Policy

Dean of Social Science

New York University Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) is an extraordinary achievement and unparalleled opportunity in higher education. In the decade since its founding it has become one of the most selective undergraduate institutions in the world. It is both transformational for the region, and critical to New York University's vision to be at the forefront of international higher education in the 21st century.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion and belonging. It enrolls what is perhaps the most diverse student body in higher education, with students from more than 115 countries with no one nationality exceeding 15 percent. It is also one of the most selective, with an average admit rate of 4%. There are currently more than 1,450 undergraduate students enrolled under a need-blind admission policy with remarkable financial aid, with the plan for the number to grow to 2,200 undergraduates and 400 graduate students in the coming years. Across its four divisions NYUAD is home to more than 320 faculty and 400 research staff, also drawn from all over the world.

NYUAD offers degrees built upon an inspiring, highly globalized core curriculum and currently offers doctoral students research areas in five disciplines, with additional graduate programs and executive education being proposed each year. NYUAD's faculty and students alike benefit from being part of NYU's incomparable network, which provides them with opportunities to study and research across the world.

NYUAD is now seeking its next Dean for the Division of Social Science. Situated at one of the world's cultural cross-roads, social science at NYUAD has access to some of the most ancient and rapidly developing communities and is in a remarkable position to analyse humanity in all its diversity and complexity. Its faculty are working on fieldwork projects throughout the region on topics ranging from religious mobilization in Turkey to economic development in sub-Saharan Africa.

The Dean of Social Science of NYU Abu Dhabi has a unique opportunity to play a formative role in helping NYUAD achieve its ambitious agenda, advancing diversity and inclusion and growing research, scholarship, and educational programming, whilst providing leadership and oversight of a highly-accomplished faculty and unique curricula, research and teaching in a dynamic, diverse and developing environment.

For more information and to apply please contact Benjamin Crase on Benjamin.Crase@perrettlaver.com. To apply, please visit https://candidates.perrettlaver.com/vacancies/2001/dean_of_social_science/

Electronic submission is strongly encouraged. NYUAD is committed to equality and is an equal opportunity employer. We encourage inquiries from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8328

University of Oslo

Rank: PhD Research Fellowship in Political Science (peace and conflict research)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Administration

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces two vacant positions for PhD Research Fellowships (SKO 1017). The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. In the Department, teaching is organized into five sections: public policy and administration, comparative politics, political theory, international politics, and research methods. The successful applicants will work as PhD Fellows on the project "ResilienceBuilding: Social Resilience, Gendered Dynamics, and Local Peace in Protracted Conflicts", funded by the European Research Council. Candidates will be part of the Faculty's PhD programme, and the work performed will be expected to lead to a PhD in Political Science.

The ResilienceBuilding project investigates the causes and consequences of social resilience in protracted armed conflicts, with a focus on Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan and Kenya. It asks how civilians and communities develop social resilience and adapt to conflict dynamics in ways that prevent or mitigate violence, how they maintain resilience and prevent renewed vulnerability to conflict re-escalation, and how social resilience impacts peacebuilding and development. The project further focuses on interlinking national and local dynamics of communal conflict and civil war to study the potential and limitations of international and local peacebuilding efforts and barriers to sustainable peace. The research into social resilience and multi-level conflict dynamics integrates a gender perspective. This means that research examines gendered coping mechanisms, variation in gender relations across areas differently affected by conflict, and women's movements and peacebuilding agency on the national and local level.

The project is headed by Associate Professor Jana Krause and funded by an ERC Starting Grant, running from 2020-2025. We encourage applicants to read about the project in the project proposal.

Qualification requirements

Essential

A Master's degree in political science or closely related discipline. To be appointed to the position, the prior education must be equivalent of five years at the university level in Norway in a relevant field, with two years (120 credits) at the master's level. In case of completion of a shorter MA degree, extra course work on the graduate level and other research training and experience may be taken into consideration. Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of high quality.

Excellent oral and written English language skills. The PhD thesis will be written in English.

Ability to work independently as well as in a team, and willingness to contribute to administrative and organizational project tasks, such as the organization of workshops, conferences, and other research and outreach collaborations.

Applicants must submit a doctoral research plan of up to 3000 words outlining one or more of the topics studied in ResilienceBuilding in relation to one or more of the country case studies (Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan, Kenya). The research plan should specify the problems to be studied, motivation and relevance, the research methods to be used, and - if relevant - prior related research experience. Successful applicants should expect to further develop their research plan with inputs from the project leader and the research team. For more information please see Guidelines for application and admission

Desired

In addition, candidates with some of the following qualifications will be at an advantage: (1) Knowledge of politics or research experience in one of the project's country cases and willingness to conduct fieldwork in at least one of them; (2) language skills relevant for conducting research in one of the four countries (e.g. French for the Central African Republic) (3) methodological competencies and training in qualitative and quantitative research methods (particularly interviewing, survey research, statistics), and (4) personal suitability and motivation for working within the project.

In evaluating applications, academic and personal qualifications and the PhD research outline will be given more weight than other disciplinary and general qualifications. The intention is to recruit the candidate who has the best prospects for developing into an excellent researcher and for contributing to the project's research agenda and outputs over the coming 4-year period.

We offer

Salary NOK 482 200 – 526 000 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research Fellow (position code 1017)

A pleasant, stimulating and international working environment
Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

A travel and research budget for field research and participation in conferences and workshops

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

PhD Fellows may acquire pedagogical competency

How to apply

The application must include

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests, explaining why the candidate is well prepared for pursuing this PhD project
A PhD research plan (max.3000 words)

A CV (summarizing education, previous positions, academic and other relevant work)

A Copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

An official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university translated into ECTS-credits

Names and contact details for two reference persons (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system. Please follow the link "apply for this job"(<https://> www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/195580/phd-research-fellowship-in-political-science-peace-and-conflict-research). Please note that all documents should be in English.

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the research project plan and the applicants academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The deadline for applications is 5 January 2021. Online interviews will take place between 8 and 12 February 2021. The position will start on 1 August 2021 (or a mutually agreed-upon date).

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Please direct all questions about the research project and research plan to the Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Jana Krause, via email jana.krause@stv.uio.no

Head of Department Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch (<https://www.sv.uio.no/isv/english/people/aca/berasch/index.html>)

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsonn; helle.fritzsonn@sv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 1/5/2021

Date Posted: 11/9/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8265

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

Specializations: Leadership Studies, International Security, Research Methods

Job Announcement: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, PA

The U.S. Army War College seeks a civilian or military Chair for the Department of National Security and Strategy within the School of Strategic Landpower. The Department is comprised of a rich mix of military and civilian educators, senior military strategists, and inter-agency partners. The School educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. Student and faculty research routinely provides policy relevant scholarship and advances professional expertise in landpower and other aspects of national security. The mission of the USAWC is to enhance national and global security by developing ideas and educating U.S. and international leaders to serve and lead at the strategic-enterprise level.

The Department Chair should be a leader who can translate vision into innovative and highly effective educational programs while building strong working relationships with students, faculty, staff, and administration. Important attributes for this position are the ability to identify talent, manage the operations of an academic department responsible for graduate level education, provide skillful leadership to a diverse group of faculty, and oversee a wide range of academic programs. The successful candidate must have a record of program innovation, experience in building high-functioning teams, and possess exceptional leadership skills.

Date of availability is 1 April, however latest start date is 15 June 2021. For civilians this is a term employment appointment of up to three years, the first year of which may be probationary. Salary range is $125,720 to $147,312 per year.

Duties: Lead the Department of National Security and Strategy consisting of 14 senior military officers, 13 Title 10 civilians, 5 US Government agency representatives, 1 Visiting Professor, and 4 administrative staff members. Develop and supervise the execution of a graduate-level core curricula focusing on theories of war and strategy and US national security policy and strategy in a Joint, Interagency, Intergovernmental and Multinational environment; the Regional Studies Program; the National Security Policy Program; and the Eisenhower Series College Program. Supervise the design and implementation of the Washington, DC, national security staff ride, and the National Security Seminar--both annual events. Oversee and direct a relevant, highly valued electives program including the Advanced Regional Studies Program. Promote department interests in support of USAWC educational objectives. Recruit and develop a talented and diverse faculty and staff. Develop and manage an annual budget. Actively participate in college-wide administrative requirements as determined by USAWC leadership.

Conditions of Employment

Appointment may be subject to a suitability or fitness determination, as determined by a completed background investigation.

Must have or be able to obtain and maintain a Top Secret security clearance.

Must comply with the Drug Test Program requirements (pre-employment and randomly after appointment).

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs):

Applicants will be rated based on the criteria listed below by a panel of subject matter experts appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Strong leadership skills, especially proven leadership in academic organizations.
2. Graduate degree in political science, international security studies, government, history, economics, regional studies, law or other fields related to national security. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with an earned doctorate.
3. Demonstrated expertise and experience in national security affairs and military strategy. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with superb academic credentials and high-level practitioner experience.
4. Active involvement in relevant professional organizations.
5. A record of superlative teaching national security and strategy courses at the graduate (or senior service college) level, including: designing and executing curricula, supervising graduate-level research and success in obtaining research grants.
6. Strong written and verbal communication skills, as demonstrated by publication of books and articles, conference presentations, lectures, interpersonal relations, etc.

How to apply:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below.

Applications must be received no later than 2359hrs on 6 November 2020.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

Your application should include the following:

1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are required with your application submission. You must provide official college transcripts upon request.
6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).
7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

This position may be filled by either a civilian or a military officer in the grade of Colonel/Captain (O-6). Officers from all Services will be considered. Reserve component officers may be considered if there is no funding requirement.

For details on a civilian appointment please refer to the official job announcement found at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/579475300>. Who May Apply: U.S. Citizens

Email applications for a civilian appointment to usarmy.carlisle.awc.mbx.g1-civilian-personel-division@mail.mil.

Email applications for a military appointment to Dr. David Dworak at david.d.dworak.civ@mail.mil.

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8186

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

Columbia University & Harvard University
China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2021-2022, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2021-2022 year, beginning September 1, 2021, ending August 31, 2022. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications:

? Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2018 and August 31, 2021.

? Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.

? Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

? 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project

? Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)

? Project description

? Two scholarly writing samples

? One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates

? Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)

? Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees

? Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video or phone. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2021; a public announcement will be made by April 2021.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Additionally:

- As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change.
- The Weatherhead fellowship for 2021-2022 is subject to final approval from the University and is tentative at this time. This tentative approval is only applicable to one of the two fellowship slots. Meaning that there will be at least 1 fellow for next year and hopefully 2. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/20/2020

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8250

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: Postdoctoral Research Associate positions available to persons with degrees and research interests within Political Science, with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions in the University of Alabama's College of Arts & Sciences.

The College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Alabama and the Department of Political Science seeks applications for the Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions. Area of specialization is open. Successful candidates will hold terminal degrees and demonstrate a record of academic achievement in a research area or areas covered in Political Science. The department will establish a series of structured merit-based evaluations with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions. The Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions have been established through a major College initiative begun in 2019 to promote an inclusive scholarly environment in which outstanding scholars support the advancement of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the College.

Required Minimum Qualifications: Applications are encouraged from excellent candidates with research interests in Political Science. Joint appointments across departments are possible. The minimum requirement at the time of the appointment is a Ph.D. or other terminal degree in a field of research represented within the College of Arts & Sciences. Initial appointments are for one year, with renewal contingent upon demonstration of research productivity. The Department of Political Science will develop mentoring plans detailing benchmarks for possible transition of Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professorship positions. Standard university hiring practices will govern any process of transitioning Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professor positions. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2021.

Apply at: <https://staffjobs.ua.edu/en-us/job/511934/postdocvisiting-scientist-political-science-psc-511934>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8314

Columbia University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The American Political Economy Project invites applications from recent PhD graduates or PhD students who will receive their PhD by spring 2021 for a postdoctoral fellowship position. The fellowship is for a beginning period of one year, with the possibility of renewal for up to two years. The yearly renewal of the position is contingent upon funding and performance. Fellows would need to begin no later than June 1, 2021 (though an earlier start date—as early as January 2021—is negotiable).

Under the direction of the American Political Economy Project organizers—Jacob Hacker (Yale), Alexander Hertel-Fernandez (Columbia), Paul Pierson (Berkeley), and Kathleen Thelen (MIT)—the postdoctoral fellow will have the opportunity to work on their own research while also supporting the American Political Economy Project. Supported by the Hewlett Foundation, the American Political Economy

Project is a multi-year effort to cultivate a research community around the study of markets and governments in the United States in comparative perspective.

Postdoctoral fellowship support for the project will include, but is not limited to, supporting an annual summer school, annual research conference, grants competition, website, and other programming and outreach. Fellows may also work on creating public resources for the American Political Economy community, including publicly-available datasets and reports. We envision that the fellow would spend approximately half of their time supporting the American Political Economy Project and the remaining time on their own research related to American Political Economy.

The postdoctoral fellow will be formally affiliated with the Interdisciplinary Center for Innovative Theory and Empirics and the Labor Lab at Columbia University. Pending COVID restrictions, the postdoctoral fellow may work remotely but will otherwise be based in New York at Columbia University. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary ($70,000), applicable Columbia University benefits (including child care), and a computing allowance. Fellows would be covered by the Columbia Postdoctoral Workers-UAW Local 4100 union and its contract.

Candidates should have research interests and demonstrated research experience in American Political Economy and ideally will also have experience in facilitating academic projects and collaborations.

Interested applicants should prepare the following materials and submit it to Emily Kerman at ek2772@columbia.edu no later than 12/15/20. All materials should be put in a single PDF in the order listed below. We anticipate notifying applicants no later than January 31, 2021.

A PhD in political science is required. The degree must have been awarded after January 2018 and no later than June 2021.

Required Application Materials:

1. Cover Letter: Briefly describe your interest and experience relevant to the project.
2. Curriculum Vitae.
3. A statement of research interest/research proposal related to the project the applicant intends to pursue during the fellowship.
4. Writing Sample: One sample equivalent to a single journal article, book chapter, or dissertation chapter. The writing sample may be published or unpublished. It must be in English.
5. Names and contact details for two to three referees familiar with your work.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2020

Date Posted: 11/18/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8300

Sam Houston State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

The Department of Political Science at Sam Houston State University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will possess a doctoral degree in political science with specialization in U.S. Congress and legislative politics. Secondary research interest in policy areas relevant to political science are preferred but not required.

ABD candidates will be considered but they must have a PhD by the start date (August 2021). The successful candidate will be expected to teach face-to-face and online courses in the department's political science undergraduate and graduate programs. The teaching load for the position is three courses in both the fall and spring semesters. Summer courses are not included in the teaching load.

Degree Requirements:

Applicants must have a PhD in political science from an accredited university or institution of higher learning.

Application Requirements:

- Cover Letter
- Current CV that includes, if applicable, a summary of previous teaching experience and the format of each course taught (i.e., face-to-face, online, hybrid).
- All graduate transcripts – Unofficial transcripts will be accepted during the application process. However, the successful candidate must submit official transcripts documenting all post-secondary degrees and coursework.
- Two letters of recommendation from individuals who are familiar with the applicant's teaching and research abilities and who have worked with the applicant in the past two years
- Recent student teaching evaluations covering the last two semesters of teaching, if available (Those without teaching evaluations, will need to upload a placeholder document in lieu of evaluations).
- Teaching statement, including a discussion of online pedagogy.
- Diversity statement discussing how the applicant would engage a diverse student population such as Sam Houston State University that meets the College of Humanities and Social Sciences core goals: "The College of Humanities and Social Sciences at Sam Houston State University is strongly committed to a diverse and inclusive workplace that empowers all employees to reach their full potential. All members of the academic community share a responsibility for developing and maintaining an environment in which differences are valued and inclusiveness is practiced. The college welcomes applications from those who will contribute to the diversity of our community."

Link to apply: <http://shsu.peopleadmin.com/postings/25424>

Review of complete applications will commence January 4, 2021.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8304

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2021. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests focus on American political institutions and/or public policymaking. We are also interested in those who will be able to contribute to graduate-level teaching in quantitative methods.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. As part of the cover letter we invite you to describe how your work and other experience has contributed to the success of underrepresented students. The University of Utah values candidates who have experience working in settings with students from diverse backgrounds and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education for historically underrepresented students.

It is part of the department's strategic plan to enhance the diversity of our faculty to better represent diversity within the field of political science, as well as our diverse body of political science majors and students.

Applications should be filed using the online system at:

<http://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/109182>

All applicants must have documents uploaded into the University system by December 18th at which time the department will start its review process.

If you have any questions you may reach out to James Curry, james.curry@poli-sci.utah.edu

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/18/2020

Date Posted: 11/18/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8301

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko at David.Sacko@usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8298

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Post-Doc in Public Policy

Specializations: Social Welfare, Environmental Policy, Urban Politics

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a postdoctoral fellowship in American politics with a specialization in public policy to begin August 2021. The position is for one year, renewable for a second. The Department is also hiring for a postdoctoral position in political theory, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching. The teaching load is reduced to three courses per year, with a focus on pedagogical mentoring and development. New faculty members have opportunity for teaching mentoring through the Center for Teaching and designing community engagement curricula through collaboration with the Carnegie-recognized Office of Community Engagement. In addition to the ability to teach introductory courses in public policy, we are particularly interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in their area of specialization (e.g., social welfare, criminal justice, environmental justice, public health, education, or urban policy) and connect them to our existing major concentrations.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau.

The University of the South stands firmly for the principle that its employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have a right to be free from discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, veteran status, pregnancy and childbirth, and genetic information. As required by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and the ADA Amendments Act of 2008, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the University does not discriminate on the basis of sex or other protected categories in the educational programs or activities which it operates. This requirement of non-discrimination extends to admission to and employment in those programs or activities. The University is committed to sustaining a community in which the dignity of every individual is respected. Key to this value are efforts to nurture an environment of civility and mutual respect and to foster a culture of reporting concerns so that the University can respond promptly and equitably whenever an incident occurs. All employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have the right to be free from harassment and retaliation.

For preliminary review, applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement demonstrating how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular area of study, training, or other experience. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu/postings/4424>. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. For full consideration, please submit materials by December 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8276

University of Virginia

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. The position is offered for one year starting in July 2021, with an expected salary of $62,000 plus benefits. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Batten faculty member, Craig Volden, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking.

A PhD degree in Political Science or related disciplines is required. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are also required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred.

Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center.

The selected applicant will be required to complete a background check prior to their first day of employment per University policy.

TO APPLY:

PROCESS FOR INTERNAL UVA APPLICANTS: Please apply through your Workday Home page, search "Find Jobs", and search for "R00XXXX". Complete an application online and see below for documents to attach.

PROCESS FOR EXTERNAL APPLICANTS: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R00XXXX" complete the application and see below for documents to attach. Please note that multiple documents can be uploaded in the box or you can combine them into one PDF.

Complete an application online and attach:

- CV/Resume
- Cover Letter
- Two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking during the postdoc.
- Contact information for 3 references

 Please note that you MUST upload ALL documents into the CV/Resume box.

Applications that do not contain all of the required documents will not receive full consideration. **

For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Senior Academic Recruiter, rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For immediate consideration, please apply by December 15th, 2020. The position will remain open until filled.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/10/2020
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 8267

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4260/jd_polpprf2021.pdf

The deadline for applications is Monday 7 December 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/7/2020
Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 8254

Colorado Mesa University

Rank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March-to mid-April 2022; teach a one-credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 12, 2021 to Dr. Justin Gollob, Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to jjgollob@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1279.

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: 2/12/2021
Date Posted: 11/2/2020
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 8243

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Africana Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Africa, Race & Ethnic Politics

Southern Illinois University - Carbondale is accepting applications for two positions (see below). These positions will be joint appointments with Africana Studies and another department in the College of Liberal Arts. Political Scientists are encouraged to apply for this joint position.

The Department of Africana Studies is accepting applications for two positions at the rank of Assistant Professor and one position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. These positions are 9-month, continuing, tenure track appointments.

Tenure will be housed in the Department of Africana Studies with a joint appointment (49%) in either Anthropology, Art and Design, Communication Studies, English, History, Languages, Cultures & International Trade, Linguistics, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, or Theater.

The Department of Africana Studies is interested in building its strengths in the Africana intellectual and cultural philosophy and/or history and intersectional theory focusing on race, sexuality, and nation. The College of Liberal Arts' broad goal in this search is to impact multiple scholarly domains as outlined here.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Teach undergraduate and graduate courses; mentor undergraduate and graduate students; maintain an active program of peer-reviewed research/scholarship; contribute to curriculum development and other forms of service in the Department of Africana Studies and in the affiliated academic department.

The selected individuals will contribute to the curriculum in Africana Studies as well as that of the affiliated department(s), recruit and mentor students interested in Africana Studies, and develop a strong program of individual scholarship.

Minimum Qualifications:

Doctoral degree in Africana Studies or a related discipline is required. Specialization will be broadly considered and includes but is not limited to: African and/or African American history, culture, politics and society, linguistics and languages; black feminism/womanist theory/philosophy; black aesthetics; digital humanities; multicultural competency; the African diaspora, and other areas.

ABD applicants may be considered if all doctoral degree requirements will be completed by August 15, 2021. If not completed by that date, a non-tenure track appointment may be offered (<https://policies.siu.edu/personnelpolicies/chapter2/ch2-faps/conting.php>).

In addition to the PhD, applicants must demonstrate the following:

A potential to develop a strong program of individual scholarship
Evidence of an active research agenda
Teaching experience in Africana Studies or a related discipline

Commitment to working with students from diverse backgrounds such as racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify as LGBTQ+, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and/or first generation or otherwise underserved college students.

For consideration at the rank of Associate Professor, applicants must meet the minimal qualifications as listed and provide evidence of excellence in teaching, peer-reviewed scholarly productivity, and professional service.

Preferred qualifications

Preferred qualifications for all positions include a proficiency in an African language, a heritage language of the African diaspora, French, or Portuguese; evidence of securing external research/grant funding. For the Assistant/Associate Professor position, a scholarly alignment with History and/or Philosophy is preferred.

Required Documents: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Transcripts

Contact: Michael Molino

Contact Phone #: 618-453-5797

Contact Email: mmolino@siu.edu

Ad: <https://jobs.siu.edu/job-details?jobid=11212>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/2/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8246

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Social Movements, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor whose research and teaching focuses on Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests are related to intersectionalities of race/ethnicity, gender, social class, and representation, voter attitudes, and political behavior. Other areas of research can include protest, social movements, inequality, immigration, notions of citizenship, structural racism or identity in the U.S. We welcome applicants from any theoretical and methodological tradition.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MA/PhD), including the department's Introduction to American Politics course. The normal teaching load is 2/2. This position is part of a College of Liberal Arts-wide cluster of searches designed to increase research and teaching in critical areas related to diversity, equity and inclusion, and support interdisciplinary approaches and collaborations. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics in the United States.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Research interests related to intersectionalities of race/ethnicity, gender, social class, and representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, protest, social movements, inequality, structural racism, or identity in the United States.

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political science, public policy, and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, including the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College of Liberal Arts emphasizes inquiry, discovery, diversity, and openness to new ideas and perspectives. It supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. The College offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life. The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university also has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment. The University of Nevada, Reno and the College strongly value diversity, equity and inclusion.

The University has dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of more than 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com.

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair – Jeremy Gelman igelman@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator – Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator – Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Race--Ethnicity--and-Politics-in-the-US_R0122870

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8233

APSA

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association <https://www.apsanet.org/cfpCongressional> Fellowship Program & is currently accepting <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homeonline> applications for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on Congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;

- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2021. Office placements run until August 13, 2022. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to support up to two months of a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2021.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields with a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process.

Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homesubmitted> online & include:

- CV;
- 750-word personal statement;
- three letters of recommendation
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2021-2022 fellowship year by Wednesday, December 16, 2020. Please send questions about the program to cfp@apsanet.org.

Start Date: November 2021

Salary: $54,000 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8224

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in American political institutions for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment is open with respect to empirical approach. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department, and across other units at Vanderbilt University. We are especially interested in receiving applications from scholars of American political development and/or public policy, to help facilitate bridges between the Department of the Political Science and the Department of History, and/or the Public Policy Studies Program at Vanderbilt, respectively. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies.

Qualifications

The appointment will begin Fall 2021. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as November 9, 2020. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by November 23, 2020, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 15, 2021.

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/80426>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8227

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Instructor or Assistant Professor, Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness

Specializations: United States, Criminal Justice, International Security

The VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Program invites applications for up to two, pending funding availability, non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience. Applicants with a Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field are preferred. Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

The Wilder School's mission is to:

- Engage, teach and inspire students and leaders to understand and solve challenges in our world.
- Advance research that informs public policy and decision making to improve our communities.
- Collaborate with communities through innovative partnerships to enhance quality of life.

The Wilder School's vision is to be the premiere resource for public policy expertise and social equity in public safety, governance and economic and community development. Ranked 39th among the nation's public affairs schools, the Wilder School has over 1,500 students and more than 11,000 alumni, with an established environment where diverse perspectives thrive and where a common interest in public service and the betterment of society unites these perspectives together. Our academic excellence attracts the highest quality faculty, staff and students, and our graduates are leaders in their professions.

Our location in Richmond, the capital of the Commonwealth of Virginia, combined with our proximity to Washington, DC, provides numerous opportunities for engaged scholarship, teaching and community engagement activities. A creative, interdisciplinary School with both academic programs and training/research centers in the social sciences and professional arenas, we reflect the diversity of the communities we serve providing students and faculty with the knowledge, skills, opportunities and experience necessary for success.

For additional information about the Wilder School, please visit our website at wilder.vcu.edu.

This position is non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience in the Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness program to begin in August 2021.

The Wilder School is seeking to continue its growth and commitment to its large and successful Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Bachelor's, Master's and Certificate programs. The faculty will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Successful candidates will join a dedicated group of colleagues with diverse interests and a demonstrated ability to teach effectively. We are interested in faculty who will demonstrate through teaching, creative expression, and/or public engagement, the richness of diversity in the learning experience through integrated intersectional approaches and perspectives.

Position Responsibilities:

1. Teaching

Successful candidates will teach within the core requirements of the graduate and undergraduate programs in Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness and may contribute to the Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration. The faculty member will be expected to carry a teaching load equivalent to eight 3 credit courses a year (4/4), involving both in-class and on-line delivery, and demonstrate leadership in developing techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles and intellectual interests.

2. Service

Faculty member may serve on program, School, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field.

For additional information, please visit <https://wilder.vcu.edu/programs/homeland-security-and-emergency-preparedness/>.

Required Qualifications:

Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

Our interest is in instructors who demonstrate a profound commitment to high-quality effective instruction who can contribute to the strength and diversity of our faculty. Successful candidates will have particular expertise in social justice and vulnerable populations in emergency preparedness, response and recovery, legal or constitutional issues, cybersecurity, and similar topics. The faculty member will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Preferred Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field.

Application Process/Additional Information:

Applications should be submitted to <http://www.vcujobs.com/postings/101225>, and include a cover-letter, a detailed CV with the names and contact information of three references, one example of scholarship or writing, and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

As a preeminent national, urban, public research university and academic health center, Virginia Commonwealth University is committed to organizational diversity, equity and inclusion - an environment where all can thrive in their pursuit of excellence.

Applicants are requested to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (typically between 150-300 words) providing your career aspirations and contributions toward promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. Through this statement, you can share how your lived experiences; and past, present, and future academic and professional activities have or will contribute to VCU's mission of promoting equity and inclusion.

Note: Examples include working with others to further the goals of equity and inclusion; leading in any capacity that tangibly promotes an environment where diversity is welcomed, fostered, and celebrated; creative activity, research and scholarship that promotes equity and parity; teaching and mentoring students, and/or engaging with faculty and/or staff from traditionally underrepresented groups to create a positive and successful organizational experience.

“Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action university providing access to education and employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, political affiliation, veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or disability”.

VCU demonstrates its commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion through a number of initiatives, including an NSF ADVANCE-IT grant to increase the recruitment and retention of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty in STEM disciplines, and iCubed, a multi-faceted program designed to recruit URM faculty to collaborate with community partners in transdisciplinary cores to develop promising solutions that enhance the vitality of urban communities. Wilder School faculty are actively engaged in both initiatives.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, with priority review beginning November 15, 2020.

Contact: Maureen Moslow-Benway, Search Chair (mmoslowbenwa@vcu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8221

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years (not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.
4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8216

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence. The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281"; complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)

- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVa

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

Yale University

Rank: Research Postdoctoral Associate

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2021. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Please apply online at this link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79728>.

The review process will begin on February 1, 2021. Please submit your completed application by that date for full consideration, although applications received after 2/1/21 will be reviewed if there is still a vacancy.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8205

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelors, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors.

The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field

- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Science. The anticipated start date is August 2021. A completed PhD is preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests in and a demonstrated capacity to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics. We welcome applications from candidates with a specialization in political institutions and/or race and ethnicity. A willingness to teach online courses is also required. The position offers a teaching load of three courses per semester and a nine-month contract with the possibility to teach in the summer, contingent upon resources. Our new colleague will be expected to build a record of excellence in teaching, research, and service as required for tenure and promotion.

All application materials should be submitted online: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/11833>

We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2020. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and will be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries can be directed to Dr. Carson Holloway, Search Committee Chair

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8188

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Assistant Professor

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Political Science. The anticipated start date is August 2021. A completed PhD is preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests in and a demonstrated capacity to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics. We particularly welcome applications from candidates with a specialization in political institutions and/or race and ethnicity. A willingness to teach online courses is also required. The position offers a teaching load of three courses per semester and a nine-month contract with the possibility to teach in the summer, contingent upon resources. Our new colleague will be expected to build a record of excellence in teaching, research, and service as required for tenure and promotion.

All application materials should be submitted online: <https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/11833>

We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2020. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and will be accepted until the position is filled. Inquiries can be directed to Dr. Carson Holloway, Search Committee Chair

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8189

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate and Lecturer

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate and lecture position. PCD's mission is to promote scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. For more information about the program, please consult our website at <http://pcd.virginia.edu>.

Postdoctoral Research Associates will conduct their own research, participate in PCD programming, and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). These courses require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development. The opportunity to teach an advanced seminar on a specialized topic may also be available.

Applicants must complete all requirements for their PhD, including a successful defense, prior to start date.

The initial appointment is for 1 year; however, the appointment may be renewed for an additional year contingent upon available funding and satisfactory performance. The position is available starting from January 2021 or August 2021.

Pay is competitive, and benefits are included.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by December 1, 2020 receiving priority attention. The University will perform background checks on all new hires prior to employment.

TO APPLY:

Apply online at <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>: search for posting #R0018923 (or through Workday for internal applicants). Full URL: <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Postdoctoral-Research-Associate-and-Lecturer--Program-on-Constitutionalism-and-Democracy-R0018923-1>. Complete the application, and attach the following:

Please note that all required documents MUST be uploaded in the "resume" box.

Applications that do not contain all the required documents will not receive full consideration.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Cover letter - addressing why you are interested in this position, how your experience has prepared you and demonstrated experience working with underrepresented groups.

Curriculum vitae

Brief statement of research interest

Writing sample (no more than 25 pages)

Contact information for three references.

For questions about the position, please contact Rita Koganzon, at rk7fp@virginia.edu. For questions about the application process, please contact Nicole Robinson, Faculty Search Advisor, at nr7f@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8187

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

Specializations: Leadership Studies, International Security, Research Methods

Job Announcement: Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy

U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, PA

The U.S. Army War College seeks a civilian or military Chair for the Department of National Security and Strategy within the School of Strategic Landpower. The Department is comprised of a rich mix of military and civilian educators, senior military strategists, and inter-agency partners. The School educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. Student and faculty research routinely provides policy relevant scholarship and advances professional expertise in landpower and other aspects of national security. The mission of the USAWC is to enhance national and global security by developing ideas and educating U.S. and international leaders to serve and lead at the strategic-enterprise level.

The Department Chair should be a leader who can translate vision into innovative and highly effective educational programs while building strong working relationships with students, faculty, staff, and administration. Important attributes for this position are the ability to identify talent, manage the operations of an academic department responsible for graduate level education, provide skillful leadership to a diverse group of faculty, and oversee a wide range of academic programs. The successful candidate must have a record of program innovation, experience in building high-functioning teams, and possess exceptional leadership skills.

Date of availability is 1 April, however latest start date is 15 June 2021. For civilians this is a term employment appointment of up to three years, the first year of which may be probationary. Salary range is $125,720 to $147,312 per year.

Duties: Lead the Department of National Security and Strategy consisting of 14 senior military officers, 13 Title 10 civilians, 5 US Government agency representatives, 1 Visiting Professor, and 4 administrative staff members. Develop and supervise the execution of a graduate-level core curricula focusing on theories of war and strategy and US national security policy and strategy in a Joint, Interagency, Intergovernmental and Multinational environment; the Regional Studies Program; the National Security Policy Program; and the Eisenhower Series College Program. Supervise the design and implementation of the Washington, DC, national security staff ride, and the National Security Seminar--both annual events. Oversee and direct a relevant, highly valued electives program including the Advanced Regional Studies Program. Promote department interests in support of USAWC educational objectives. Recruit and develop a talented and diverse faculty and staff. Develop and manage an annual budget. Actively participate in college-wide administrative requirements as determined by USAWC leadership.

Conditions of Employment

Appointment may be subject to a suitability or fitness determination, as determined by a completed background investigation.

Must have or be able to obtain and maintain a Top Secret security clearance.

Must comply with the Drug Test Program requirements (pre-employment and randomly after appointment).

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs):

Applicants will be rated based on the criteria listed below by a panel of subject matter experts appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Strong leadership skills, especially proven leadership in academic organizations.
2. Graduate degree in political science, international security studies, government, history, economics, regional studies, law or other fields related to national security. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with an earned doctorate.

3. Demonstrated expertise and experience in national security affairs and military strategy. Substantial preference will be given to candidates with superb academic credentials and high-level practitioner experience.

4. Active involvement in relevant professional organizations.

5. A record of superlative teaching national security and strategy courses at the graduate (or senior service college) level, including: designing and executing curricula, supervising graduate-level research and success in obtaining research grants.

6. Strong written and verbal communication skills, as demonstrated by publication of books and articles, conference presentations, lectures, interpersonal relations, etc.

How to apply:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below.

Applications must be received no later than 2359hrs on 6 November 2020.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

Your application should include the following:

1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are required with your application submission. You must provide official college transcripts upon request.
6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).
7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

This position may be filled by either a civilian or a military officer in the grade of Colonel/Captain (O-6). Officers from all Services will be considered. Reserve component officers may be considered if there is no funding requirement.

For details on a civilian appointment please refer to the official job announcement found at <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/579475300>. Who May Apply: U.S. Citizens

Email applications for a civilian appointment to usarmy.carlisle.awc.mbx.g1-civilian-personel-division@mail.mil.

Email applications for a military appointment to Dr. David Dworak at david.d.dworak.civ@mail.mil.

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/6/2020

Date Posted: 10/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8186

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.
- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8181

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University

Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science

Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8178

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referrees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8167

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Development, Environmental Policy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American politics. The position is wide open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics — including, for example, American Political Development, race and racism, elections, inequality, environment, social movements, Congress, and education policy. Applicants who engage public policy or policy analysis in their research and teaching may be particularly welcome. The anticipated start date is 1 July 2021. The successful candidate will hold a PhD at the start of the appointment. The holder of this position will teach undergraduates and graduate students. Please submit a letter of interest to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17094>. The application must also include: a curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, a statement about your capacity to promote diversity, and three references. Completed applications are due on 10 November 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/10/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8162

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;

6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and

7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

Mercyhurst University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor – Political Science

The Political Science Department invites applications for an assistant professor position beginning Fall 2021. A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching at a liberal arts university is essential. The department is seeking a generalist who is committed to developing courses in constitutional law and civil liberties as well as contributing to our department needs in institutions, behavior, methods, gender, or racial and ethnic politics. The candidate will also serve as advisor to our pre-law society. Energy, collegiality, and a commitment to liberal arts education are highly prized attributes in our department. Preference will be given to candidates who have completed the Ph.D. or will complete it before the Fall 2021 semester.

Application Process

Screening of applications will begin immediately, and the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, current vitae, transcripts (initial submissions may be unofficial copies), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching excellence, and a one-page statement summarizing their philosophy of teaching to:

Jennifer Verga, Administrative Assistant
jverga@mercyhurst.edu

Mercyhurst is a mid-sized, Catholic, liberal arts, primarily residential university, founded by the Sisters of Mercy, with an enrollment of approximately 2,500 students. Class sizes are small, and the normal teaching load is 8 courses per year.

For information about the political science program see the departmental website: <http://polisci.mercyhurst.edu>.

Mercyhurst does not unlawfully discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, sex, citizenship status, ancestry, national or ethnic origin, age, familial status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, physical or mental disability, military or veteran status or any other legally protected characteristic or because of any individual's legally protected activities.

Mercyhurst complies with federal, state and local legislation and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. This policy applies to faculty, administration and staff, applicants for employment, students and applicants for educational programs and activities.

Candidates must be currently eligible to work in the United States.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8139

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellowship

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, American Politics

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, please see our Five-Year Retrospective.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

Details

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting August 1 until July 31. Visiting Fellows will be expected to participate in a weekly community seminar series and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Harvard Kennedy School more broadly. The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space. If required, dedicated office space can be arranged that carries an additional fee.

How to Apply

Apply online here: https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_51JkxGWLaj3LpD7 for the AY 2021-2022 competition. The deadline for applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 PM ET.

The Ash Center is a vibrant and values-driven community. We are committed to diversity and welcome people of varied backgrounds, cultures, experiences, and disciplines. We actively seek applications from people of color, women, the LGBTQIA+ community, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented backgrounds.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you have questions, please contact Democratic Governance Coordinator James Rasaiah.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 10/1/2020
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 8131

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (American Politics)

Specializations: Congress, Legislative Studies, Quantitative Methods

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose--to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour “the Yard” to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor in American Politics to begin as early as August 2021. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. American Politics scholars with expertise in Congress, legislative behavior, congressional elections and other sub-fields related to Congress are encouraged to apply. A strong methodological background and commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust interest to teach Introduction to U.S. Government, undergraduate research methods, and upper-level electives in their fields of concentration. The teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 course preparations per year. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable).

Preferred:

A teaching interest in the following areas: congress and undergraduate research methods.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, teaching and research statements, diversity statement, curriculum vitae, and arrange for three references that address both teaching and research abilities to the American Government Search Committee at usna_polisci_amgov_2020-group@usna.edu.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:

U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position.

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8118

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a specialization in race and ethnic politics beginning in the fall semester of 2021. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in American politics, a course in race and ethnic politics, a course in quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other American politics courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. We welcome candidates who demonstrate excellence in reflective multicultural and inclusive teaching practices and who display a strong commitment to collaboration and interdisciplinarity. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in American politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations if available, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. Applications received by October 20, 2020 will receive full consideration.

About Bucknell

Bucknell University is a private, highly ranked, primarily undergraduate, national liberal arts institution that also offers strong professional programs in engineering, management, education, and music.

Bucknell University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The university believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. Applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education are encouraged.

Bucknell is committed to creating a climate that fosters inclusion, growth, and development for a diverse student body, and seeks candidates who are also committed these goals.

Bucknell is committed to supporting the teacher-scholar model of faculty development. With a student-faculty ratio of about 9:1, small class sizes are a hallmark of the Bucknell educational experience. The university sponsors a range of activities to support the development of its faculty, including a Teaching-Learning Center and generous research support and leave policies.

Bucknell is located in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, on the banks of the Susquehanna River. The Lewisburg area offers a combination of outdoor recreation opportunities and small-town amenities. In addition to the cultural and athletic events offered at the University and in town, the region offers strong schools and medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is about three hours from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8070

Tufts University

Rank: Part Time Lecturer in American Politics Position for Spring 2021

Part-Time Lecturer in American Politics Position Request for Spring 2021

The Department of Political Science at Tufts University invites applications for a part-time lecturer position in American politics for spring 2021 semester. The course load is two courses. Teaching may require in-person, hybrid or remote assignments. One course should cover the U.S. Congress; the other course can be determined by the candidate in conjunction with the Department Chair. Particular areas of interest include racial and ethnic politics, gender, judicial politics, and state and local politics, though we welcome applications across the subfield.

Ph.D. or A.B.D. in Political Science or related field required. College/university teaching experience strongly preferred.

Please submit a dossier including curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests and/or experience, draft syllabi of at least one proposed course, and two letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78900>

The search committee will begin screening applications immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact James Pavlick, Administrative Coordinator, at James.Pavlick@tufts.edu with any questions.

Tufts University, founded in 1852, prioritizes quality teaching, highly competitive basic and applied research, and a commitment to active citizenship locally, regionally, and globally. Tufts University also prides itself on creating a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community. Current and prospective employees of the university are expected to have and continuously develop skill in, and disposition for, positively engaging with a diverse population of faculty, staff, and students.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8065

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8046

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8018

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

UPDATE FOR 2021-2022 APPLICATIONS: In light of the ongoing pandemic, we are not currently reviewing applications for the 2021-2022 academic year. Please check the listings again (<https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>) in January for updated opportunities.

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
Associate Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8019

Amherst College

Rank: Assistant Professor Race and U.S. Politics

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Race & Ethnic Politics, United States

The Department of Political Science at Amherst College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of race and U.S. politics, with a particular focus on the Black political experience, beginning July 1, 2021. Amherst College is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff. Within the last decade, Amherst College has profoundly transformed with respect to its student body. Today, nearly one-quarter of Amherst's students are Pell grant recipients; 45 percent of our students identify as domestic students of color; and 9 percent of our students are international students. We expect the successful candidate to excel at teaching and mentoring students who are diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Candidates' scholarship should examine racial politics in the U.S. Possible topics include but are not limited to reparations, civil rights, voter suppression, movements for racial justice, the legacies of slavery for contemporary politics, the racial policies and constituencies of political parties, the relationship between racial and ethnic identity, white privilege, police violence, and racial stratification in urban and local politics.

Faculty teach two courses each semester and benefit from ample support for research, including a pre-tenure year-long sabbatical at full pay. We seek a colleague with a record that demonstrates the potential for high-quality teaching and research, and who is committed to excellence in education at the undergraduate level of the aforementioned student body. Candidates should be comfortable teaching courses both within and outside their specialties and in directing undergraduate research projects. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in hand or have fulfilled all requirements for the degree by the start of the appointment.

Candidates are asked to submit electronically <https://apply.interfolio.com/77688> a letter of application, a CV, three confidential letters of recommendation, and a single-authored writing sample (e.g., article or dissertation/book chapter). The letter of application should describe the main contributions of the candidate's research and the candidate's approach to and experience with teaching. Finalists will be asked to offer a presentation of their research, and possibly, a brief teaching demonstration, both via Zoom. Review of applications will begin on September 14, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by this date will be assured full consideration.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7952

Salisbury University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Salisbury University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. This is a full time, 10-month position.

Primary Job Duties: The Department seeks candidates whose expertise is in one or more of the following fields: racial and ethnic politics, political theory, and law and judicial politics. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level courses in political theory and/or American politics (political institutions and behavior and courses in the Law, Justice and Advocacy minor). The candidate will also be able to teach a research methods course. Academic advising and student mentoring are also expected as well as ongoing scholarly activities. The teaching load is 3-3 of 4 credit hour courses.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science. If ABD, applicant would be hired at the rank of Instructor and must complete doctoral degree by: May 2022. Demonstrated evidence of a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching.

Preferred Qualifications: Evidence of a commitment to political engagement, an active research agenda, curriculum development, and undergraduate research mentorship.

Applications received by October 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. The position will remain open until filled. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be contingent upon verification of eligibility to work in the U.S. and is expected to begin August 2021. Please visit our website <http://www.salisbury.edu/HR/careers/> to apply online. See the FAQs of the Online Employment Application System for more information and instructions.

To be considered an applicant, you must apply online and submit the following: 1) A letter of interest; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statements of research and teaching interests; 4) unofficial transcripts; 5) the names and contact information of at least three professional references. All documents must be submitted with your application in the online employment application system. Questions about the position should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Sarah Surak at smsurak@salisbury.edu.

This position is based in Salisbury, MD, an area with a culturally diverse population with rich cultural experiences. Salisbury University, a member of the University System of Maryland is a regionally accredited four-year comprehensive institution offering 60 distinct graduate and undergraduate programs. Founded in 1925, Salisbury University features a beautiful campus close to ocean beaches and the Chesapeake Bay and 2-3 hours from the metropolitan areas of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. SU is consistently ranked among the nation's top colleges and 'best values' by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and other publications. SU has 440 full-time faculty members serving a student population of approximately 8700.

Diversity and inclusion are core values of Salisbury University. We strive to create a truly diverse and inclusive environment where the richness of ideas, backgrounds, and perspectives of our community is harnessed to create value for our University community to include students, faculty, and staff, today and in the future. To this end, the University recruits exceptional and diverse faculty, staff, and students from across Maryland, the United States, and around the world, supporting all members of the University community as they work together to achieve institutional goals and vision. To learn more about the University's commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus, please visit <http://www.salisbury.edu/equity/>.

Applications will be accepted via Salisbury University's online employment application system.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7950

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

Florida International University

Rank: Judicial Politics Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

Florida International University is Miami's public research university, focused on student success. According to U.S. News and World Report, FIU has 42 top-50 rankings in the nation among public universities. FIU is a top U.S. research university (R1), with more than $200 million in annual expenditures. FIU ranks 15th in the nation among public universities for patent production, which drives innovation, and is one of the institutions that helps make Florida the top state for higher education. The Next Horizon fundraising campaign is furthering FIU's commitment to providing students Worlds Ahead opportunities. Today, FIU has two campuses and multiple centers, and supports artistic and cultural engagement through its three museums: Patricia & Phillip Frost Art Museum, the Wolfsonian-FIU, and the Jewish Museum of Florida-FIU. FIU is a member of Conference USA, with more than 400 student-athletes participating in 18 sports. The university has awarded more than 330,000 degrees to many leaders in South Florida and beyond. For more information about FIU, visit www.fiu.edu.

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Florida International University in Miami, Florida invites applications to fill a full-time Instructor position in Judicial Politics. The teaching assignment is eight courses per academic year, and the successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach Constitutional Law, Judicial Process, and the Supreme Court, in addition to other courses in judicial politics. The anticipated starting date is August 12, 2021. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science and/or a J.D. with relevant teaching experience.

Qualified candidates are encouraged to apply to Job Opening ID 521003 at facultycareers.fiu.edu and include the following as part of their application: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) statement of teaching philosophy and teaching interests, including a description of your experiences in sustaining a commitment to diversity and inclusion, (4) two sample syllabi, (5) teaching evaluations, and (6) the names, titles, and email addresses of three persons sending letters of recommendation. Candidates should upload all application materials as a single pdf file. To receive full consideration, applications and required materials should be received by December 1, 2020. Review will continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Politics and International Relations at pir@fiu.edu.

The Department is home to more than 1,600 undergraduate majors, almost 100 graduate students, and 38 faculty (see pir.fiu.edu). Situated in the School of International and Public Affairs (see sipa.fiu.edu), faculty enjoy opportunities to work with colleagues in seven other departments (Criminal Justice, Economics, Global & Sociocultural Studies, History, Modern Languages, Public Administration and Religious Studies) as well as SIPA's centers and institutes (i.e., the African and African Diaspora Studies program, the Center for the Administration of Justice, the Cuban Research Institute, the Jack D. Gordon Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship Studies, the Global Energy Security Forum, the Jewish Studies Program, the Latin American and Caribbean Center, Miami-Florida Jean Monnet European Studies Program, and Middle East Studies).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 3/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7794

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics)

2020-21 Search in the College of Arts and Sciences

Department of Political Science

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics)

Background: The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at Loyola University Chicago (LUC) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, for academic year 2021-22.

As part of a University-wide, multiyear hiring initiative designed to diversify the faculty, the department seeks applicants with expertise in Comparative Politics. Our highest priorities as to functional specialization are democratization, ethnic and racial policies, political economy, and social movements; our highest regional priorities are Asia and Latin America. As an urban-based Department of Political Science dedicated to mentoring a diverse student body, many of whom come from under-represented and under-served populations, we especially encourage applications from candidates from under-represented groups. We also encourage applications from scholars committed to interdisciplinarity (i.e., working with colleagues across different subfields and disciplines) and the successful pursuit of external grants. The successful candidate will be joining a department with more than 20 full-time faculty members, over 600 majors and 100 minors, and four graduate programs (BA/MA, MA/JD, MA, and PhD). For more information about the department, please visit its website at <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>

Duties and Responsibilities: Successful candidates will be expected to teach an introductory course in Comparative Politics, and, according to their expertise, upper division undergraduate and graduate comparative politics courses, as well as one of the department's regional politics courses. They may also develop special topics courses in conversation with the Department Chair and according to departmental needs. Additionally, they will be expected to support the department's student-related programming and academic advising according to the practices of the department and to serve on departmental and university committees as designated by the Department Chair. The successful candidate is expected to pursue a strong research program, including the pursuit of external grants.

Minimum Qualifications: The candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment. Candidates for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Experience working or conducting research in the specialty area of Comparative Politics is desirable. The candidate should be willing to support the mission of LUC and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic Education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Candidates should submit to www.careers.luc.edu (1) a brief letter of interest; (2) a current Curriculum Vitae; (3) a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda; (4) a statement on teaching experience; and (5) a statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to mentoring a diverse student body through research, teaching and other channels and engaging a diverse community through scholarship and service. Applicants should also arrange for three recommendations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, especially in terms of scholarship, teaching and mentorship, to be submitted electronically to the above website (letter writers will receive an electronic prompt from LUC). Candidates may forward additional materials related to teaching excellence and samples of scholarly publications to:

Patrick Boyle, Ph.D., Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.

LUC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity – including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment – is critical to achieving the University’s mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual’s record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a transformative education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC’s mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission. For information about the university’s focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 11/30/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8340

University of Toronto Rank: Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2021, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching.

More specifically, we are looking for a scholar of comparative political economy focused on large-scale changes in capitalist economies, including shifts in labour markets and systems of production. This could include, but is not limited to the causes, implications and consequences of rising income inequality; the political economy of migration; the political economy of gender, race and other categories of political identity; automation, digitalization and growing dependence on artificial intelligence and big data. We are searching for candidates whose work concentrates on the political economy of advanced industrialized countries.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University’s downtown (St George) campus. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page Department of Political Science (<https://politics.utoronto.ca>) to learn more about us.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive and externally funded research program. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier to include a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must arrange to have three letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and scanned) sent directly by the referee to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Antoinette Handley, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, Monday, January 18, 2021. PLEASE NOTE: this search is not using the University’s automatic solicitation and collection functionality for reference letters.

Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by Monday, January 18, 2021.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 1/18/2021

Date Posted: 11/26/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8337

University of Toronto

Rank: Comparative Russian/East European Politics

Assistant Professor – Comparative Russian/East European Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of comparative Russian and Eastern European Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2021, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Applicants are expected to have research and teaching expertise in the politics of Russia.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St George) campus. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page Department of Political Science (<http://politics.utoronto.ca>) to learn more about us.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference. Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier to include a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups. Applicants must arrange to have three letters of reference (on letterhead, dated, signed and scanned) sent directly by the referee to the Chair of the search committee in the Department of Political Science, Professor Robert Vipond, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca by the closing date, Thursday, January 7, 2021. PLEASE NOTE: this search is not using the University's automatic solicitation and collection functionality for reference letters.

Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>.

If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by Thursday, January 7, 2021.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: 1/7/2021
Date Posted: 11/26/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8336

Macalester CollegeRank: Comparative Politics

Macalester College
 Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor
 Political Science (Comparative Politics)

The Macalester College Department of Political Science invites applications for a visiting position at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor (PhD) or Visiting Instructor (ABD), for the 2021-2022 academic year. Candidates should have, or be close to completing, a PhD in Political Science with a focus on comparative politics, open to any regional specialty except Latin America (to avoid duplicating current course offerings). We are especially interested in candidates who would further diversify our faculty and curriculum. The position is in Macalester's Political Science department but may also contribute to other interdisciplinary programs at Macalester.

The teaching load is five courses per year, and should include Foundations of Comparative Politics and other comparative politics courses. The candidate would likely teach the introductory course both Fall and Spring semesters, to reduce their number of course preparations.

Inquiries and applications can be directed to Professor Paul Dosh, Chair of Political Science, dosh@macalester.edu. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, up to 3 letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. The cover letter should indicate which courses the applicant is prepared to teach. Applications are due no later than February 1, 2021.

Salary and benefits are competitive, and the Political Science department is committed to mentoring visiting faculty; past visitors have found their time at Macalester to be a strong launching pad from which to secure tenure-track positions at other institutions. Macalester College and the Political Science department are committed to student and faculty diversity, equity, and inclusion. As an Equal Opportunity employer supportive of affirmative efforts to achieve diversity among its faculty, Macalester strongly encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented minority groups.

Macalester College is a highly selective, private liberal arts college in the vibrant Minneapolis-Saint Paul metropolitan area, with a population of approximately three million people and home to numerous colleges and universities, including the University of Minnesota. Macalester's diverse student body comprises over 2,000 undergraduates from all 50 states and the District of Columbia and 95 nations. The College maintains a longstanding commitment to academic excellence with a special emphasis on internationalism, multiculturalism, and service to society.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 2/1/2021
Date Posted: 11/25/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8333

Christopher Newport UniversityRank: Political Science Faculty Position (Rank Open) and Director of the Reiff Center

Christopher Newport University invites applications for the position of Political Science Faculty and Director of the Reiff Center, effective August 2021. The successful candidate will have an appointment in the Department of Political Science with teaching and research responsibilities in the areas of international human rights, conflict resolution, ethnic conflict, and genocide studies. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the University. The duties of this position will also include administrative leadership of the Reiff Center. The Reiff Center's mission is to pursue the study of ethnic conflict, conflict resolution, human rights violations, and genocide through research, campus visits by those with expertise and/or experience in these areas, classes investigating these subjects, and study abroad experiences for students interested in these topics. The Reiff Center currently has an endowment of more than one million dollars. Named in honor of Dr. Theodore R. Reiff, a retired physician, medical educator, and researcher, the Center applies historical, political, social, and international perspectives to its initiatives. For more information visit <https://cnu.edu/reiffcenter/>.

The nominal teaching load is 2-2. An earned Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. Exceptionally well-qualified candidates will be considered for appointment at a higher rank with tenure. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 11 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized, and many attend prestigious law and graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, as well as local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <https://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; The Fall 2020 freshman class of 1,155 students was selected from 7,300 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1184, respectively. The University has a new and technologically advanced campus, located between Colonial Williamsburg and the Virginia coast. The campus integrates the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. Facilities include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world. Opening in 2021 and adjoining the Ferguson Center, the $57 million Fine Arts Center will house over 7,500 sq. ft of gallery exhibition space, state-of-the-art teaching and museum learning spaces, studios and classrooms. It will serve the university community and the entire Peninsula region.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. The University is among the highest ranked in the nation for its quality of life and innovative spirit. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the workplace. For further information, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please visit <https://jobs.cnu.edu/postings/> to upload a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy, a one-page statement articulating how your teaching, scholarship and service would contribute toward fostering an inclusive learning environment on campus, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. (Letters should be uploaded with application materials or emailed to facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu). Letters of reference will be the only documents accepted via email.

Review of applications will begin on January 3, 2021.

Applications received after January 3, 2021 will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/3/2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8325

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher, International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: History & Politics, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

Postdoctoral Researcher - International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Nuffield College intends to appoint a Postdoctoral Researcher to support the work of the 'International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future' research programme. Directed by Andrew Thompson (Professor of Imperial and Global History, Nuffield College) and Sir Mike Aaronson (Honorary Fellow, Nuffield College), the programme explores contemporary challenges facing the aid and the International aid sector, with a focus in the domains of geopolitical change; international relations; institutional leadership, development and ambition; political economy and market factors; and state behaviors and relationships to the state. We seek a researcher whose interests and experience fit into these broad domains.

The Postdoctoral Researcher will conduct independent original research in areas relevant to the overarching research programme, taking the lead in the design, conduct, and interpretation of research; and identifying additional research areas of interest to the programme. She or he will disseminate research results through publications in working papers and academic journals, and presentations at workshops and conferences, as well as producing pieces aimed at non-academic audiences. The postdoctoral researcher will organise workshops, conferences, and other events associated with the research programme. She or he will contribute to a commissioned report on 'The Future of International NGOs' targeted at academic, policy and practitioner communities, and will assist with external funding applications. The Postdoctoral Researcher may also undertake ad hoc paid teaching or supervision within the collegiate University in Oxford.

Applicants should hold, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant social science discipline such as history, political science, sociology, or international relations. They should possess research experience and expertise appropriate for the research programme agenda, including archival research skills, familiarity with archives of non-state actors and NGOs, and experience of fieldwork, including structured interviews and gathering oral history records. Applicants should demonstrate high-quality academic research abilities in their scholarly writing and publications in peer-reviewed journals, commensurate with their career stage. The ability to translate and distil complex research results for non-academic readers, to work collaboratively with non-academic partners, and to undertake cross-disciplinary work are essential. Applicants should possess excellent oral and written communication skills, and organisational skills, together with exemplary interpersonal skills and the ability to work effectively within a small research team and under their own initiative. Experience of authoring successful funding bids, or of collaborative working with NGOs would be an advantage.

The post is full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 March 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Applications from candidates who wish to take up the post on a part-time basis will also be considered. The salary will be GBP 34,804 p.a. (pro-rated as appropriate). The post will be based at Nuffield College.

Further particulars and application instructions are available on the College website at <https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4329/jd-ingos-pr.pdf>

The closing date for applications is Monday 21 December 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8323

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3-year Lecturer (Assistant Professor) International Politics & History

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a 3-year University Lectureship (equivalent to Assistant Professor) in International Politics & History starting 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidate will have a record of research publications commensurate with the international reputation and top-rank research rating of the University of Cambridge. Primary teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery and supervision of undergraduate teaching in the History & Politics Tripos, and graduate teaching the MPhil in Politics and International Studies, but the candidate will also be expected to contribute across the Department's teaching responsibilities in providing at least 40 hours of lectures and seminars annually plus individual supervisions. Candidates should demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance of the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to publish research on International Politics in the leading international scholarly outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach in the MPhil in Politics and International Studies as well History & Politics degrees;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Department;

Further information about the Department can be found at www.polis.cam.ac.uk

Please see further information and apply via the link <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/26176/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

We particularly welcome applications from women and/or candidates from a BME background for this vacancy as they are currently under-represented at this level in the Department.

Enquiries can be made to the head of department Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UE23367 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

The University actively supports equality, diversity and inclusion and encourages applications from all sections of society.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/1/2021

Date Posted: 11/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8319

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

Columbia University & Harvard University

China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2021-2022, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2021-2022 year, beginning September 1, 2021, ending August 31, 2022. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications:

? Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2018 and August 31, 2021.

? Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.

? Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

? 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project

? Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)

? Project description

? Two scholarly writing samples

? One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates

? Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)

? Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees

? Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video or phone. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2021; a public announcement will be made by April 2021.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Additionally:

- As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change.
- The Weatherhead fellowship for 2021-2022 is subject to final approval from the University and is tentative at this time. This tentative approval is only applicable to one of the two fellowship slots. Meaning that there will be at least 1 fellow for next year and hopefully 2. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/20/2020

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8250

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: Postdoctoral Research Associate positions available to persons with degrees and research interests within Political Science, with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions in the University of Alabama's College of Arts & Sciences.

The College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Alabama and the Department of Political Science seeks applications for the Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions. Area of specialization is open. Successful candidates will hold terminal degrees and demonstrate a record of academic achievement in a research area or areas covered in Political Science. The department will establish a series of structured merit-based evaluations with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions. The Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions have been established through a major College initiative begun in 2019 to promote an inclusive scholarly environment in which outstanding scholars support the advancement of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the College.

Required Minimum Qualifications: Applications are encouraged from excellent candidates with research interests in Political Science. Joint appointments across departments are possible. The minimum requirement at the time of the appointment is a Ph.D. or other terminal degree in a field of research represented within the College of Arts & Sciences. Initial appointments are for one year, with renewal contingent upon demonstration of research productivity. The Department of Political Science will develop mentoring plans detailing benchmarks for possible transition of Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professorship positions. Standard university hiring practices will govern any process of transitioning Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professor positions. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2021.

Apply at: <https://staffjobs.ua.edu/en-us/job/511934/postdocvisiting-scientist-political-science-psc-511934>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8314

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko at David.Sacko@usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8298

St. Joseph's College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Developing Nations, Foreign Policy, Latino Politics

St. Joseph's College, a mission-driven liberal arts college with campuses in Patchogue, Long Island and the Clinton Hill area of Brooklyn, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires teaching on both campuses. Start date is September 2021. Preference will be given to candidates with expertise in comparative government and international relations. The teaching load is 4 classes per semester. Applicants must show promise in scholarship along with excellence in teaching. Candidates are asked to submit their material as one PDF document.

Ph.D. in Political Science required by date of hire.

Send cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, and student evaluations before December 7 to:

politicalscience@sjcny.edu

Professor Raymond D'Angelo, Chair

Department of Social Sciences

St. Joseph's College

245 Clinton Avenue

Brooklyn, NY 11205

718.940.5747

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8288

University of Gothenburg

Rank: One or several Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Political Science, with a focus on political behavior and political sociology

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Social Welfare, Gender Politics & Policy

The University of Gothenburg tackles society's challenges with diverse knowledge. 49 000 students and 6 400 employees make the university a large and inspiring place to work and study. Strong research and attractive study programmes attract scientists and students from around the world. With new knowledge and new perspectives, the University contributes to a better future.

The Gothenburg Research Program on Pregnancy and Politics (PregDem) is a research collaboration between political scientists, midwives and obstetricians. The aim is to create a profound understanding of how pregnancy, childbirth and early parenthood affect the pregnant woman's and her partner's views of society. Central outcome variables include policy opinions and ideological priorities, institutional trust, political interest and awareness, political participation, parental identities and gender roles. Central independent variables include health, intake of information, contact with the welfare state, couple dynamics, socio-economic background and the corona-pandemic. We use longitudinal survey data (most importantly The Swedish Pregnancy Panel, The Swedish Citizen Panel, The Swedish Level of Living Survey and the Irish Mammi survey), register data on medical records (from the so-called Graviditetsregistret) and cross-sectional survey data from the Society, Media and Opinion Institute and the Swedish National Election Studies.

The project website (under development) is found here: <https://www.gu.se/en/research/gothenburg-research-program-on-pregnancy-and-politics-pregdem>

PregDem is led by Elin Naurin (Director) and is financed by the Swedish Research Council, Knut & Alice Wallenberg Foundation and University of Gothenburg. You can read an interview with the research director here: <https://kaw.wallenberg.org/en/research/pregnancy-and-perceptions-politics>

Job assignments

The Postdoctoral research fellow will conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program, in collaboration with the research director and with other scholars in the team. More specifically, (s)he will analyze and publish original research using the data that is collected within the project, especially the data from the Swedish Pregnancy Panel and the Swedish Citizen panel.

One of PregDem's strengths is the flexibility and collaborative spirit of everyone in the research group, focusing on reaching the goals of the data collection and research program. This includes a willingness to contribute to coding of data, quality control, data management, respondent contact and/or teaching during peak periods. For this position, the service component will include tasks connected to the supervision of online survey data coming in in the final two waves of a panel survey. It will also include participating in the writing of research funding applications. The Postdoctoral Research Fellow may be asked to perform service to the PregDem program up to one-third of FTE.

Eligibility

The postdoctoral research fellow position is open to candidates who have received a PhD in political science or related field latest by the first day of employment.

Assessment

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in research on political opinion and behavior and/or political sociology with a particular view towards areas of relevance to the PregDem project. One or more of the following scientific skills are also meritorious;

1. A well-developed proposal of high scientific quality, for a research project that falls within and preferably further develops PregDem, based on the above-mentioned outcome and independent variables.
3. Advanced knowledge in longitudinal/panel data techniques.
3. Demonstrated research expertise on: political socialisation, parenthood, partner dynamics, health and politics, political participation, political interest and knowledge, political opinion, political trust, welfare state, gender and politics.

We will make an overall assessment of the applicants' qualifications and select one judged to complement the rest of the team in the best way possible for the needs of the program. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

Employment

Fixed-term employment, two years, full time in residence, start date as soon as possible. Location: Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg

For more details on appointment procedures, please visit: https://web103.reachmee.com/ext/1005/1035/job?site=7&lang=UK&validator=9b89bead79bb7258ad55c8d75228e5b7&job_id=17746

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8284

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Borders & Boundaries - post doc

BORDERS & BOUNDARIES IN WORLD POLITICS, AY 2021-2022

The Project on Borders and Boundaries in World Politics is looking to fill two postdoctoral fellow positions. Both are one-year and renewable. Partially supported by the National Science Foundation, the Project is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Border regions and activities speak to national and local encounters with neighbors and the rest of the world. This project is concerned with how humans demarcate the space between "us" and "them." It contextualizes border architecture, infrastructure and institutions as expressions of various social, political and economic anxieties associated with globalization. This research team will concern itself with a broad range of questions relating to "bordering" in world politics. The project team is run by Professor Beth Simmons, Andrea Mitchell University Professor in Law, Political Science, and Business Ethics, as well as Assistant Professor Michael Kenwick (Rutgers University).

Research Postdoctoral Fellowship: The postdoctoral fellow will split their time between their own research and Borders & Boundaries project research. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to work 25% of their time on project research. Applicants with an interest in territorial politics; migration and movement across borders; development in and across border regions; border crossing regimes, architectures and institutions; transnational migration; transnational crime, human trafficking and law enforcement across borders; and related issues are welcome to apply. Skills in empirical spatial analysis, GIS technologies, mapping technologies, experimental analyses, computerized textual and imaging analyses, and similar technologies are highly desirable, as are computer programming skills and experience using large computer databases and statistical software.

Research and Program Management Postdoctoral Fellowship: The post-doctoral fellow will work with and help manage the Borders & Boundaries research team. Since the successful candidate will have primary responsibility for managing team effort and output, strong data management and organizational skills are essential. Skills in computational methods, GIS and spatial data analytics, textual and imaging analysis, network analysis, and/or experimental methods are particularly valued, as is experience working within a research lab. We welcome candidates pursuing research careers inside or outside academia. Substantive interest in territorial politics; migration; development in and across border regions; border crossing regimes; transnational crime, law enforcement across borders and related issues is valued. The fellow is expected to actively work on lab projects and coordinate efforts among team members.

Requirements and Application Information

There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, engage with Perry World House's Undergraduate Student Fellows, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. Perry World House will also introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/80777>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students), and contact information for a letter writer, who will be asked to submit a confidential letter of recommendation through Interfolio.

Other Information

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the Ph.D. degree, Borders & Boundaries postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

If you have questions, please email worldhouse@pwh.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8273

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Global Innovation Program - Post Doc

GLOBAL INNOVATION PROGRAM

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship program during the 2021-2022 academic year. The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century. We hope to bring several postdoctoral fellows to campus for the 2021-2022 academic year. We are seeking excellent scholars who study global affairs and have interests in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants in the following areas:

- The Future of the Global Order: Power, Technology, and Governance

• Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography
The Future of the Global Order

Changes in global economic, military, and technological circumstances are evident in growing concerns around the world about the future of arms control, multilateral economic institutions, technological decoupling, the future of the Islamic State, and more. The post-Cold War global order may be at a tipping point. In addition, systemic trends, such as globalization and climate change, mean that the challenges of today and tomorrow will be global – and require global responses. The role of automated trading algorithms in the 2010 “Flash Crash” in the United States, combined with the specter of drone warfare around the world due and the proliferation of military robotics, highlight how the intersection of technologies, such as cyber and robotics, presents enormous challenges for global business and diplomatic norms. In a time of change, academic research has the potential to shed significant light on these issues and highlight new and important approaches for the global policy community. In this theme area, Perry World House will focus in part, but not exclusively, on four areas: the impacts of emerging technologies for global politics, shifting global power balances and how they influence both state and non-state actors, the evolution of international legal regimes, and the ability of the international community to sustain effective governing institutions in times of change. We particularly hope to have a postdoctoral fellow as part of our new project on emerging technologies and global politics.

Global Shifts

Crises such as the COVID-19 pandemic and climate change-induced extreme weather events, as well as growing urbanization, migration, and demographic changes, are radically transforming the human environment and creating new risks to well-being. New and changing migration patterns, whether propelled by armed conflicts, instability due to environmental changes, or economic hardships have profound consequences for people on the move and for those left behind. Similarly, the true risks of climate change are a function not just of hazards such as rising sea levels, fires, and tropical cyclones, but the physical location of people and the level of community and government support in place.

Explaining these complex societal changes, and the policy responses necessary to address them, requires a multi-disciplinary and interdisciplinary approach. Perry World House’s Global Shifts program aims to develop an analytical understanding of these problems and suggest new policy approaches to them. It draws on the University’s expertise in urban studies, sociology, demography, law, philosophy, health sciences, environmental sciences, and political science to do so. We invite postdoctoral fellows working within any of these sub-thematic areas, and especially encourage scholars working at the intersection or across multiple of them—such as climate change’s effects on migration patterns or the impact of city policymaking on migration and refugees.

Requirements and Application Information

There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Postdoctoral fellows in the Global Innovation Program will pursue their own research as well as participate in the intellectual life of Perry World House. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, publish policy relevant scholarship related to Perry World House themes, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. They will also be expected to spend up to 10% of their time contributing to the intellectual environment at Perry World House, including working with Perry World House’s Undergraduate Student Fellows, as well as designing and planning engagements in relevant theme areas. Perry World House will provide mentorship, professional guidance, and introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D. in the case of applicants focused on international legal regimes) since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the Ph.D. degree, all postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80778>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation.

If you have questions, please email worldhouse@pwh.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8272

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Identity & Conflict Lab - post doc

PENN IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB

The Penn Identity & Conflict (PIC) Lab, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis at the Department of Political Science of the University of Pennsylvania, seeks exceptional candidates for a one-year, full-time, renewable, residential appointment as a postdoctoral research fellow. The Lab is dedicated to addressing a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict. The Lab prioritizes research in three key areas: how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and what interventions are effective in reducing inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are considered, ranging from bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war. The Lab’s recent work has focused on appeals to shared norms and normative change as strategies for conflict reduction; and on the cultivation of shared civic and national identities as instruments of peace-building. The Lab seeks to integrate knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to better understand these topics.

Fellows will split their time between their own research and work with Professor Nicholas Sambanis on different projects developed in the PIC Lab. Fellows will be expected to work on one or more ongoing projects in three broad areas: conflict and cooperation between native and immigrant populations; normative change and conflict behavior; and nation-building and state-building in conflict-affected countries. Innovative new project proposals by fellows can also be considered and funded by the Lab.

Requirements and Application Information

Job responsibilities will vary depending on the strengths and interests of the successful applicant but will include some combination of conducting research and co-authoring papers and reports with the PIC Lab Director and affiliated faculty; assisting with grant proposals; providing support with data collection, management, and analysis for ongoing projects; and managing the Lab website and seminar series. Successful applicants will have excellent training in quantitative methods with an emphasis on statistical analysis, survey methods and experimental methods. Programming skills are highly desirable. Applicants should have outstanding organizational and communication skills and prior experience using large databases and different statistical software (including Stata, R, and Qualtrics). Applicants should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; they should be able to work independently, but also as part of a team; and be open to travel for fieldwork if conditions allow. Training in behavioral economics and/or social psychology is a plus.

There is no formal teaching requirement. Fellows will be expected to help organize the PIC Lab workshop, which will meet bi-weekly; they will give at least one presentation on their research at the workshop and/or as part of the Perry World House Seminar Series; and will be expected to help organize the Lab's annual conference.

Compensation and Other Information

All postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80726>. Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of a letter writer who can submit a letter of recommendation.

If you have questions, please email pic-lab@sas.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8274

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: LIGHTNING SCHOLARS SABBATICAL RESIDENCY

LIGHTNING SCHOLARS SABBATICAL RESIDENCY, AY 2021-2022

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its 2021-2022 Lightning Scholars Program. This program brings untenured, but tenure-track, faculty at either the assistant or associate level from around the world to Philadelphia for a semester or year of writing, fellowship, and bridging the gap between academia and the policy world.

The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century.

This fellowship program allows untenured faculty members at leading research universities around the world to join Perry World House and the Penn community for a semester or full academic year in residence in Philadelphia to produce a major research project or book. While the fellowship program is for faculty working on global affairs topics, preference will be given to faculty working on subjects broadly related to our two research themes, The Future of the Global Order: Technology, Power and Governance and Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography. More information on our research themes can be found here: <https://global.upenn.edu/perryworldhouse/research>.

The ideal candidates for this new program will be looking for an in-residence fellowship away from their home institution that will provide the space and support to write, but also the opportunity to collaborate with an interdisciplinary and vibrant community of global affairs scholars and practitioners. Perry World House is especially interested in faculty whose work connects to important global policy conversations and who will want to engage in dialogue with some of the many policymakers from around the world who visit Perry World House.

The program's compensation is significant and negotiated on a case-by-case basis. The program is intended to allow the selected Lightning Scholar to take a comfortable leave from their home institution often by supporting the difference between a one semester sabbatical provided by the home institution and a full year leave. Although final compensation will depend on the circumstances of each applicant, the program will provide at least $50,000 as well as relevant fees and health insurance, if needed. The fellowship will also include $5,000 in research support, as well as the opportunity to help shape workshops and colloquia at Perry World House.

Applications, which should be submitted via Interfolio, are welcome from scholars who have either a Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D.), are standing faculty members at a college or university, and are on the tenure track but still untenured. Applications for the 2021-2024 academic years will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting January 4, 2021. Applicants must include a cover-letter, three-page proposal, CV, a letter of support from their home department/institution, and a confidential letter of recommendation. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of support should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80840>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8275

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America: Digital Scholarship

The University of Texas at San Antonio is an urban-serving, Hispanic thriving discovery enterprise deeply committed to student success and academic excellence. The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) has embarked on a focused cluster hiring plan to recruit top-tier researchers in interdisciplinary areas of knowledge that will advance the study of Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America. Home to some of the largest biospheres in the world and some of world's most important biodiversity hotspots, Latin America's environments are undergoing rapid transformation due to climate change, environmental degradation, and politicosocio-economic transformations across the region. These forces are coupled in complex ways, and understanding the coupled dynamics of society, climate, and environment in Latin America presents a grand challenge that is fertile ground for transdisciplinary research. To address this challenge, UTSA is recruiting a cohort of researchers from different disciplines whose research centers on environmental degradation, climate change, and the associated socioeconomic and political challenges and transformations in Latin America and the US-Mexico borderlands. The goal is to foster collaborative and transdisciplinary research to understand and confront the emerging social and environmental challenges facing the region. This targeted cluster hire will build on and leverage our established research portfolio, propelling our ability to tackle and solve previously unsolvable problems. Hires are expected to build their own unique programs of research, as well as to collaborate with other hires in this cluster and with colleagues in their home department, college, and other colleges.

As part of this initiative, the College of Liberal and Fine Arts (COLFA) seeks two faculty members who will expand the digital scholarship footprint within the Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America cluster. We define digital scholarship broadly, including digital humanities, new media studies, digital design, multimedia mapping, digital visualization, and/or new journalism, among other areas. Preference will be given to applicants who can contribute to both the scholarly domains of digital scholarship and the technical domains of digital production. One position is for an assistant professor, the other for an assistant or associate professor. The cluster hired in Anthropology last year; these new hires will extend the cluster into other disciplines. The hires will be housed in one or more of COLFA's departments (www.colfa.utsa.edu), as appropriate. Research active faculty in COLFA typically teach a 2/2 course load.

Responsibilities

Teaching introductory, upper division, and graduate courses; research and service in a program that offers B.A. and M.A. degrees; maintaining an active research agenda; leadership in developing new lines of research and teaching; contributing to the university and community through service and outreach.

Posting End Date

Review of applications begins December 4, 2020. For full consideration, applicants should submit their materials by that date. Inquiries may be directed to the Cluster Search Committee Chair, Dr. Nathan Richardson (nathan.richardson@utsa.edu).

Required Application Materials

To apply, please create a single file in PDF format containing in the following order:

- a letter of application describing research, teaching, and service accomplishments and goals that includes a discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment; please indicate the rank for which you wish to be considered
- a CV
- up to three examples of successful research, which could include publications, dissertation chapters, or a portfolio of screening links or images in a PDF document
- teaching evaluations if available
- names, addresses, email addresses, and phone numbers of three references

Materials must be submitted on-line via <https://www.utsa.edu/hr/employment/>.

Required Qualifications

Successful applicants will have 1) a strong record of teaching, research, and service appropriate to rank; 2) an active research agenda with demonstrated interest and experience in collaborative and/or transdisciplinary research; 3) a research focus on Latin America and/or the Caribbean; and 4) a terminal degree (Ph.D./M.F.A) in their field at time of interview.

For consideration as Associate Professor, candidates must have a strong record of publication, evidence of effective teaching, and substantial experience in department, university, and professional service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications

Preferred candidates will be able to successfully teach and mentor diverse, underserved students, including first-generation students, students of color and non-traditional students, and have the ability to contribute to the university's commitment to inclusive excellence as a Hispanic Serving Institution.

Additional Information

-Successful candidates will demonstrate (1) a record of high quality research and scholarship (2) excellence in undergraduate and graduate education or intellectual contributions in diversity, inclusion, and the demonstrated ability to teach students from diverse backgrounds and (3) a demonstrated commitment to diversity and inclusion.

-Applicants selected for interviews must show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by the time of hire.

-At the discretion of the hiring department, this position posting may be closed once a sufficient number of qualified applications has been received.

-UTSA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

-UTSA is a tobacco-free campus.

-This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/10/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8269

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly

construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4260/jd_polpprf2021.pdf

The deadline for applications is Monday 7 December 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/7/2020
Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 8254

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in August 2021 and ending in May 2022. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of seven courses during the academic year.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Research Methods. While the department has additional need for courses covering Comparative Politics of Europe and Human Rights Policy to fill specific programmatic requirements, we especially seek candidates who have passion for teaching and mentoring undergraduates and can diversify our offerings. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff, and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply. We also seek candidates with interests in mentoring under-represented students, diversifying curricular offerings, or sponsoring diverse community engagement. Applicants are asked to address their potential contributions in support of a diverse community in their cover letters.

Applicants should submit their cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation to: Ms. Judith Pinckney, Department of Public Affairs, 119 West Hall, Roanoke College, Salem, VA 24153. Inquiries may be sent to: pinckney@roanoke.edu. Please visit our Departmental website at: https://www.roanoke.edu/inside/a-z_index/public_affairs for more information.

Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8257

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3 x 3-year Lecturers (Assistant Professors) Development Studies

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint three 3-year University Lecturers (i.e. Assistant Professors) in Development Studies, based in the Centre of Development Studies, from 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidates will have a record of world-class research and publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery, supervision and assessment of courses in the interdisciplinary MPhil in Development Studies, as well as supplementary teaching at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates should also demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance and administration of the Centre and the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in the Political Economy of Development, with publications in the leading outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach Development Studies;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Centre and the Department. Please see the Further Particulars online for additional specifics on the position at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27283/>.

Further information about the Centre and the Department can be found at <https://www.devstudies.cam.ac.uk/> and www.polis.cam.ac.uk. Applications should be made online at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27283/>. References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UC24373 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 11/3/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8248

University of Cambridge

Rank: Lecturer (Assistant Professor) Political Economy of Development

Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, Political Development

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a permanent University Lecturer (i.e. Assistant Professor) in the Political Economy of Development, based in the Centre of Development Studies, from 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidates will have a record of world-class research and publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery, supervision and assessment of courses in Political Economy (broadly conceived) in the MPhil in Development Studies, as well as supplementary teaching at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates should also demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance and administration of the Centre and the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in the Political Economy of Development, with publications in the leading outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach the Political Economy of Development;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Centre and the Department.

Please see the Further Particulars online for additional specifics on the position at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27072/>

Further information about the Centre and the Department can be found at <https://www.devstudies.cam.ac.uk/> and www.polis.cam.ac.uk. Applications should be made online at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27072/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021. Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UC24186 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/1/2021
Date Posted: 11/3/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8247

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Africana Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: African American Politics, Africa, Race & Ethnic Politics

Southern Illinois University - Carbondale is accepting applications for two positions (see below). These positions will be joint appointments with Africana Studies and another department in the College of Liberal Arts. Political Scientists are encouraged to apply for this joint position.

The Department of Africana Studies is accepting applications for two positions at the rank of Assistant Professor and one position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. These positions are 9-month, continuing, tenure track appointments.

Tenure will be housed in the Department of Africana Studies with a joint appointment (49%) in either Anthropology, Art and Design, Communication Studies, English, History, Languages, Cultures & International Trade, Linguistics, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, or Theater.

The Department of Africana Studies is interested in building its strengths in the Africana intellectual and cultural philosophy and/or history and intersectional theory focusing on race, sexuality, and nation. The College of Liberal Arts' broad goal in this search is to impact multiple scholarly domains as outlined here.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Teach undergraduate and graduate courses; mentor undergraduate and graduate students; maintain an active program of peer-reviewed research/scholarship; contribute to curriculum development and other forms of service in the Department of Africana Studies and in the affiliated academic department.

The selected individuals will contribute to the curriculum in Africana Studies as well as that of the affiliated department(s), recruit and mentor students interested in Africana Studies, and develop a strong program of individual scholarship.

Minimum Qualifications:

Doctoral degree in Africana Studies or a related discipline is required. Specialization will be broadly considered and includes but is not limited to: African and/or African American history, culture, politics and society, linguistics and languages; black feminism/womanist theory/philosophy; black aesthetics; digital humanities; multicultural competency; the African diaspora, and other areas.

ABD applicants may be considered if all doctoral degree requirements will be completed by August 15, 2021. If not completed by that date, a non-tenure track appointment may be offered (<https://policies.siu.edu/personnelpolicies/chapter2/ch2-faps/conting.php>).

In addition to the PhD, applicants must demonstrate the following:

A potential to develop a strong program of individual scholarship
Evidence of an active research agenda
Teaching experience in Africana Studies or a related discipline

Commitment to working with students from diverse backgrounds such as racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify as LGBTQ+, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and/or first generation or otherwise underserved college students.

For consideration at the rank of Associate Professor, applicants must meet the minimal qualifications as listed and provide evidence of excellence in teaching, peer-reviewed scholarly productivity, and professional service.

Preferred qualifications

Preferred qualifications for all positions include a proficiency in an African language, a heritage language of the African diaspora, French, or Portuguese; evidence of securing external research/grant funding. For the Assistant/Associate Professor position, a scholarly alignment with History and/or Philosophy is preferred.

Required Documents: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Transcripts

Contact: Michael Molino

Contact Phone #: 618-453-5797

Contact Email: mmolino@siu.edu

Ad: <https://jobs.siu.edu/job-details?jobid=11212>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/2/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8246

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

Reed College

Rank: Visiting Search for Comparative Politics

Applications are invited for a visiting appointment in Political Science with a specialization in Comparative Politics for Spring 2021, with a preference for candidates who can teach upper-level courses in Latin American Politics. Visitors are usually appointed at the assistant professor level, but more advanced candidates are encouraged to apply. The salary is competitive.

We seek candidates to teach two courses during the spring semester. We have a strong preference for a candidate who has experience and/or can teach a course about Social Movements/Contentious Politics and a course about Latin American Politics (previous courses focused on Human Rights, Political Violence, and Gender and Politics). We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand, or near completion, by the start of the appointment. Above all, we seek candidates with a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level. Due to COVID, both courses may be taught online. Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli_sci/.

Reed College is a community that believes cultural diversity is essential to the excellence of our academic program. In your application materials, please include a description of how you would engage and sustain the commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity statement (<http://www.reed.edu/diversity/>). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

Please send an application letter, CV, demonstration of teaching excellence, statement of diversity, and one letter of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/80369>. Sample syllabi are welcome but not required. Review of applications will begin immediately and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8220

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8217

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years (not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.
4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8216

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, <https://www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/>, and <https://csdc-cecd.ca/>.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, beginning in the fall of 2021. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2021. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment.

An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Experience working in and an ability to contribute to a multicultural setting is essential.

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. Applicants should submit a separate diversity statement addressing commitment to inclusivity and support for diverse populations in their past efforts and plans for future inclusiveness in teaching and research.

External applicant link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0221-WC-Stubbs-Hall/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00050523

In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Additional Position Information:

Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities; employee discounts; and more!

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8177

NYU Shanghai

Rank: Political Science, Tenured/Tenure-track

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a mid-career or senior scholar in Comparative Politics with a focus on East Asia. We seek candidates who have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related discipline. We are particularly interested in candidates able to teach a range of introductory and advanced courses in comparative politics, especially Chinese politics.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

Applications may be received until 12/15/20. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the third degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline.

Application Instructions:

Applications are received via Interfolio at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79653>. Applicants will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching interests, and up to five writing samples.

Additionally, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8172

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8167

University of Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Croft Institute for International Studies (www.croft.olemiss.edu) and the Department of Political Science (www.olemiss.edu/depts/political_science) invite applications for the position of Croft Assistant Professor of Political Science in the Comparative Politics of the Middle East. This is a tenure-track position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will have their research and teaching focus on the Middle East and be able to teach introductory and thematic courses in comparative politics. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. or advanced ABD, field experience and appropriate foreign language proficiency in Arabic, strong methods skills, and demonstrated excellence in teaching. Tenure and promotion reside in the Department of Political Science. Teaching and service responsibilities will be divided equally between the Croft Institute for International Studies and the Department of Political Science. The Croft Institute, a signature program on campus, administers the major in International Studies within the College of Liberal Arts. Interested candidates should apply online at <https://careers.olemiss.edu> by uploading a letter of application, curriculum vita, and a statement of current and projected research interests. Evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and letters of recommendation should be sent to jbruce@olemiss.edu.

This position will be open until filled or an adequate applicant pool is reached. Salary is competitive.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8159

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8155

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Randolph-Macon College seeks an adjunct professor to teach one course, "Chinese Politics" online for our January term, January 6-February 4, 2021. The course may be taught synchronously (preferred) MTWRF 11:10 a.m.-1:10 p.m. or asynchronously. Pay is $3,250-$3,500, depending on degree earned.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8145

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellowship

Specializations: United States, Political Theory, American Politics

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, please see our Five-Year Retrospective.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

Details

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting August 1 until July 31. Visiting Fellows will be expected to participate in a weekly community seminar series and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Harvard Kennedy School more broadly. The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space. If required, dedicated office space can be arranged that carries an additional fee.

How to Apply

Apply online here: https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_51JkxGWLaj3LpD7 for the AY 2021-2022 competition. The deadline for applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 PM ET.

The Ash Center is a vibrant and values-driven community. We are committed to diversity and welcome people of varied backgrounds, cultures, experiences, and disciplines. We actively seek applications from people of color, women, the LGBTQIA+ community, persons with disabilities, and underrepresented backgrounds.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you have questions, please contact Democratic Governance Coordinator James Rasaiah.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/1/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8131

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (International Relations/Comparative Politics)

Specializations: Russia, Central Asia, South Asia

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose--to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour "the Yard" to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Scholars with expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply. Candidates should be methodologically trained, and should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three courses per semester with small section sizes (no more than 20 students) and 2-3 preparations per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring and to service to the institution.

Candidates at the Assistant Professor level are preferred; however, well-qualified applicants may be considered at the Associate Professor level.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable for an August 2021 employment start date).

Preferred:

Expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, a research statement, a statement on teaching which addresses teaching in a diverse environment, writing samples, transcripts and a curriculum vitae to the search committee. Evidence of teaching effectiveness (teaching evaluations and syllabi of courses taught) may accompany the application.

Please arrange for three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and research abilities to be sent to the below email address.

Send all application materials to the International Relations/Comparative Politics Search Committee at usna_polisci_ircp_2020-group@usna.edu and use "USNA IR Comparative" in the subject line.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:

U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here: <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position.

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8120

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The International Studies and Languages Division of Pepperdine University's Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor of International Studies (with a specialization in African Studies) beginning August 1, 2021. The ability to teach courses in at least two of the following areas is preferred: African politics, African culture and society, ethnicity in Africa, comparative politics, or comparative political economy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology is required. Candidates should demonstrate exceptional interest and effectiveness in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Candidates should also have the ability to establish a productive research program. The ability to engage students in their scholarly work would be a plus.

Pepperdine University is a private Christian university overlooking the Pacific Ocean in Malibu, California. Faculty, staff and students partner to support Pepperdine's Christian Mission. Pepperdine is committed to valuing diversity and inclusion among our students and faculty. Applicants of color are particularly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all application materials at apply.interfolio.com/78908. Review of candidates' application materials will begin on November 9th, 2020, and will continue until the search is closed.

Contact:

Dr. George Carlsen (george.carlsen@pepperdine.edu)
Divisional Dean of International Studies and Languages
Pepperdine University
24255 Pacific Coast Highway
Malibu, CA 90263

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 8105

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8076

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter,

CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8046

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)

Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8018

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7983

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click "Apply Now" at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/10/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7971

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2021. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in Public Law. Candidates with a secondary specialization in Comparative Politics are encouraged to apply.

Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates with an interest in teaching in the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program are desired. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement, and a serious commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Additional duties include advising and mentoring students, as well as service to the department and institution.

Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae along with submitting a teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, a single-authored writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation, and graduate transcript using the link below. <https://lycomingcollege.applytojob.com/apply/CqDmzXdfUU/Assistant-Professor-Of-Political-Science-Public-Law>

Letters of recommendations can be mailed to:

Attention: Missy Cashner, HR Generalist
 Lycoming College
 One College Place, Campus Box 861
 Williamsport, PA 17701

To guarantee full consideration applications should be submitted by October 1, 2020. A pre-employment drug screening will be conducted.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 10/1/2020
Date Posted: 8/3/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7954

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. All applications should be submitted to jobs.carleton.edu. Inquiries can be directed to pteiken@carleton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 9/4/2020
Date Posted: 7/7/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7917

Providence College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics of Africa

Specializations: Africa, Developing Nations, Western Europe

The Political Science Department at Providence College invites applications for a one-year position as visiting assistant professor in Comparative Politics with a focus on African Politics. The Department welcomes applicants with a range of research foci, such as post-colonial institutions, democratization, social movements, parties and party systems, civil society, militarization and insurgencies, political economy, and statebuilding.

The teaching load is four courses per semester (two or three preparations); class size varies from about 12 to 25 students. The successful applicant will teach Comparative Politics, African Politics, and Politics 101, the introductory course for the major. There is a possibility the position may be extended for a second year.

The position includes competitive salary and benefits, as well as research support including travel funds, library resources, and grant writing assistance. The Political Science Department has thirteen faculty members dedicated to effective teaching and scholarship.

The City of Providence is vibrant and diverse city with a long history of welcoming immigrant populations, most recently from West Africa, Latin America, and Southeast Asia.

Applicants should possess a Ph.D. in political science or be close to completion, and demonstrate evidence of teaching excellence, strong research skills, and potential for research productivity.

Applicants should apply online at <https://careers.providence.edu> and submit a cover letter, curriculum vita, and contact information for three professional references. For additional information, please contact Dr. Joe Cammarano, Chair of the Political Science Department, at jpcammar@providence.edu with questions.

Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7899

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFU is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFU. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFU or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufu@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Macalester College

Rank: International Relations

Macalester College
Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor
Political Science (International Relations)

The Macalester College Department of Political Science invites applications for a visiting position at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor (PhD) or Visiting Instructor (ABD), for the 2021-2022 academic year. Candidates should have, or be close to completing, a PhD in Political Science with a focus on international relations. We are especially interested in candidates who would further diversify our faculty and curriculum. The position is in Macalester's Political Science department but may also contribute to other interdisciplinary programs at Macalester.

The teaching load is five courses per year, and should include Foundations of International Politics, Global Political Economy, and other international relations courses. The candidate would likely teach the introductory course both Fall and Spring semesters, to reduce their number of course preparations.

Inquiries and applications can be directed to Professor Paul Dosh, Chair of Political Science, dosh@macalester.edu. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, up to 3 letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. The cover letter should indicate which courses the applicant is prepared to teach. Applications are due no later than February 1, 2021.

Salary and benefits are competitive, and the Political Science department is committed to mentoring visiting faculty; past visitors have found their time at Macalester to be a strong launching pad from which to secure tenure-track positions at other institutions. Macalester College and the Political Science department are committed to student and faculty diversity, equity, and inclusion. As an Equal Opportunity employer supportive of affirmative efforts to achieve diversity among its faculty, Macalester strongly encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented minority groups.

Macalester College is a highly selective, private liberal arts college in the vibrant Minneapolis-Saint Paul metropolitan area, with a population of approximately three million people and home to numerous colleges and universities, including the University of Minnesota. Macalester's diverse student body comprises over 2,000 undergraduates from all 50 states and the District of Columbia and 95 nations. The College maintains a longstanding commitment to academic excellence with a special emphasis on internationalism, multiculturalism, and service to society.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 2/1/2021

Date Posted: 11/25/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8332

Vienna School of International Studies

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows in International Studies – History, Law or Political Science

The Vienna School of International Studies (Diplomatische Akademie Wien) is proposing the appointment of two Postdoctoral Fellows in International Studies for two years, from 23 September 2021. Geared towards promoting the professional development of the appointee, he/she will focus on his/her own research and do a limited amount of graduate teaching.

The successful candidates must hold – or have evidence of the imminent completion of – a doctorate in History, Law or Political Science. One successful candidate will have expertise in European Studies, preferably with a background in Political Science. Our School interprets International Studies broadly. Applications from all disciplines mentioned above are welcome.

A record of research achievement at the international level, a strong agenda for future research and previous teaching experience – preferably at graduate level – are essential.

The Vienna School of International Studies is a professional school, specialised in the interdisciplinary training of graduate students, and an associate member of APSIA. The presence of international organizations in Vienna makes for excellent research opportunities, in particular for research dealing with diplomacy, governance and multilateralism broadly defined.

The closing date for applications is Monday, 31 January 2021, midnight.

Please apply online at <https://application.da-vienna.ac.at/postdoc/Application>. Your curriculum vitae, your research agenda (5-10 pages), and teaching documentation (e.g. syllabi of courses taught, student evaluations, statement on teaching philosophy, etc) may be sent to us by e-mail (postdoc@da-vienna.ac.at) or mail (Genny Chiarandon, Vienna School of International Studies, Favoritenstrasse 15a, 1040 Vienna, Austria). Please also make sure that we receive three letters of recommendation (e-mailed directly by your referees/dossier service, or mailed in a sealed envelope).

For further details, please contact Genny Chiarandon (see above address).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/31/2021

Date Posted: 11/25/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8334

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations/Political Science

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland invites applications for a tenure track full-time position at the rank of starting on 1 September 2021 or a mutually agreed-upon date.

Assistant Professor of

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS/POLITICAL SCIENCE

The successful candidate will be affiliated to the Department of International Relations/Political Science. We have a particular interest in research on the functioning of, and challenges to, (global, national) democracy and democratic processes broadly conceived. This includes democratic consolidations and transitions, (transnational) activism, participatory political processes, political fragmentation, populism, electoral and movement politics as well as ethical and applied concerns in democratic justifications. A focus on the Global South and/or Global South/Global North interactions is particularly welcome.

The successful candidate will teach postgraduate courses and supervise master's dissertations and PhD theses in the Department of International Relations/Political Science. They may also be called upon to teach classes and supervise master's dissertations in interdisciplinary programmes as well as contribute to executive education programmes. The candidate should be interested in interdisciplinary dialogue. An ability to conduct policy-relevant research is also welcome.

Prior to the start of the position, candidates must have been awarded a PhD or equivalent degree, preferably in Political Science, International Relations, or a related discipline.

The teaching language is either English or French. Prior knowledge of French is not required, but the successful candidate is expected to acquire a passive knowledge of it within two years of being hired.

Application deadline: 31 January 2021.

To apply: <https://erecruit.graduateinstitute.ch/professeurs/>

For more information, candidates are encouraged to consult the Institute's website: graduateinstitute.ch

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/31/2021

Date Posted: 11/24/2020

Salary: $130,000 - $139,999

eJobs ID: 8329

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Political Science Faculty Position (Rank Open) and Director of the Reiff Center

Christopher Newport University invites applications for the position of Political Science Faculty and Director of the Reiff Center, effective August 2021. The successful candidate will have an appointment in the Department of Political Science with teaching and research responsibilities in the areas of international human rights, conflict resolution, ethnic conflict, and genocide studies. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the University. The duties of this position will also include administrative leadership of the Reiff Center. The Reiff Center's mission is to pursue the study of ethnic conflict, conflict resolution, human rights violations, and genocide through research, campus visits by those with expertise and/or experience in these areas, classes investigating these subjects, and study abroad experiences for students interested in these topics. The Reiff Center currently has an endowment of more than one million dollars. Named in honor of Dr. Theodore R. Reiff, a retired physician, medical educator, and researcher, the Center applies historical, political, social, and international perspectives to its initiatives. For more information visit <https://cnu.edu/reiffcenter/>.

The nominal teaching load is 2-2. An earned Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. Exceptionally well-qualified candidates will be considered for appointment at a higher rank with tenure. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The Department of Political Science at Christopher Newport University is composed of 11 dedicated faculty members whose research represents the core areas of the discipline including American politics, comparative politics and international relations, and political theory. Our 300 majors have produced research that has been nationally recognized, and many attend prestigious law and graduate schools and go on to successful careers in law, higher education, as well as local, state, and federal government. The Department offers a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, as well as three minors in Political Science, Human Rights and Conflict Resolution, and U.S. National Security Studies. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit <https://cnu.edu/academics/departments/politicalscience/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; The Fall 2020 freshman class of 1,155 students was selected from 7,300 admission applications, and presented average high school GPA and SAT scores of 3.8 and 1184, respectively. The University has a new and technologically advanced campus, located between Colonial Williamsburg and the Virginia coast. The campus integrates the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. Facilities include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world. Opening in 2021 and adjoining the Ferguson Center, the $57 million Fine Arts Center will house over 7,500 sq. ft of gallery exhibition space, state-of-the-art teaching and museum learning spaces, studios and classrooms. It will serve the university community and the entire Peninsula region.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. The University is among the highest ranked in the nation for its quality of life and innovative spirit. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the workplace. For further information, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please visit <https://jobs.cnu.edu/postings/> to upload a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy, a one-page statement articulating how your teaching, scholarship and service would contribute toward fostering an inclusive learning environment on campus, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. (Letters should be uploaded with application materials or emailed to facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu). Letters of reference will be the only documents accepted via email.

Review of applications will begin on January 3, 2021.

Applications received after January 3, 2021 will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/3/2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8325

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Grand Strategy, Security, and Statecraft Fellow

Grand Strategy, Security, and Statecraft Fellows Program

With the support of the Charles Koch Foundation, the MIT Security Studies Program and the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs are now accepting applications for joint two-year, pre- and post-doctoral fellowships in "the Project on Grand Strategy, Security and Statecraft." (<https://ssp.mit.edu/about/fellowships/statecraft-fellows-program> Link to detailed description and application process & application process). Applications for 2021-2022 fellowships are being accepted until January 22, 2021.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/22/2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8302

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Dean of Social Science

Subfield(s): Administration, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Middle East, Social Movements, Economic Policy

Dean of Social Science

New York University Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) is an extraordinary achievement and unparalleled opportunity in higher education. In the decade since its founding it has become one of the most selective undergraduate institutions in the world. It is both transformational for the region, and critical to New York University's vision to be at the forefront of international higher education in the 21st century.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion and belonging. It enrolls what is perhaps the most diverse student body in higher education, with students from more than 115 countries with no one nationality exceeding 15 percent. It is also one of the most selective, with an average admit rate of 4%. There are currently more than 1,450 undergraduate students enrolled under a need-blind admission policy with remarkable financial aid, with the plan for the number to grow to 2,200 undergraduates and 400 graduate students in the coming years. Across its four divisions NYUAD is home to more than 320 faculty and 400 research staff, also drawn from all over the world.

NYUAD offers degrees built upon an inspiring, highly globalized core curriculum and currently offers doctoral students research areas in five disciplines, with additional graduate programs and executive education being proposed each year. NYUAD's faculty and students alike benefit from being part of NYU's incomparable network, which provides them with opportunities to study and research across the world.

NYUAD is now seeking its next Dean for the Division of Social Science. Situated at one of the world's cultural cross-roads, social science at NYUAD has access to some of the most ancient and rapidly developing communities and is in a remarkable position to analyse humanity in all its diversity and complexity. Its faculty are working on fieldwork projects throughout the region on topics ranging from religious mobilization in Turkey to economic development in sub-Saharan Africa.

The Dean of Social Science of NYU Abu Dhabi has a unique opportunity to play a formative role in helping NYUAD achieve its ambitious agenda, advancing diversity and inclusion and growing research, scholarship, and educational programming, whilst providing leadership and oversight of a highly-accomplished faculty and unique curricula, research and teaching in a dynamic, diverse and developing environment.

For more information and to apply please contact Benjamin Crase on Benjamin.Crase@perrettlaver.com. To apply, please visit https://candidates.perrettlaver.com/vacancies/2001/dean_of_social_science/

Electronic submission is strongly encouraged. NYUAD is committed to equality and is an equal opportunity employer. We encourage inquiries from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8328

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher, International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: History & Politics, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

Postdoctoral Researcher - International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Nuffield College intends to appoint a Postdoctoral Researcher to support the work of the 'International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future' research programme. Directed by Andrew Thompson (Professor of Imperial and Global History, Nuffield College) and Sir Mike Aaronson (Honorary Fellow, Nuffield College), the programme explores contemporary challenges facing the aid and the International aid sector, with a focus in the domains of geopolitical change; international relations; institutional leadership, development and ambition; political economy and market factors; and state behaviors and relationships to the state. We seek a researcher whose interests and experience fit into these broad domains.

The Postdoctoral Researcher will conduct independent original research in areas relevant to the overarching research programme, taking the lead in the design, conduct, and interpretation of research; and identifying additional research areas of interest to the programme. She or he will disseminate research results through publications in working papers and academic journals, and presentations at workshops and conferences, as well as producing pieces aimed at non-academic audiences. The postdoctoral researcher will organise workshops, conferences, and other events associated with the research programme. She or he will contribute to a commissioned report on 'The Future of International NGOs' targeted at academic, policy and practitioner communities, and will assist with external funding applications. The Postdoctoral Researcher may also undertake ad hoc paid teaching or supervision within the collegiate University in Oxford.

Applicants should hold, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant social science discipline such as history, political science, sociology, or international relations. They should possess research experience and expertise appropriate for the research programme agenda, including archival research skills, familiarity with archives of non-state actors and NGOs, and experience of fieldwork, including structured interviews and gathering oral history records. Applicants should demonstrate high-quality academic research abilities in their scholarly writing and publications in peer-reviewed journals, commensurate with their career stage. The ability to translate and distil complex research results for non-academic readers, to work collaboratively with non-academic partners, and to undertake cross-disciplinary work are essential. Applicants should possess excellent oral and written communication skills, and organisational skills, together with exemplary interpersonal skills and the ability to work effectively within a small research team and under their own initiative. Experience of authoring successful funding bids, or of collaborative working with NGOs would be an advantage.

The post is full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 March 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Applications from candidates who wish to take up the post on a part-time basis will also be considered. The salary will be GBP 34,804 p.a. (pro-rated as appropriate). The post will be based at Nuffield College.

Further particulars and application instructions are available on the College website at <https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4329/jd-ingos-pr.pdf>

The closing date for applications is Monday 21 December 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8323

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3-year Lecturer (Assistant Professor) International Politics & History

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a 3-year University Lectureship (equivalent to Assistant Professor) in International Politics & History starting 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidate will have a record of research publications commensurate with the international reputation and top-rank research rating of the University of Cambridge. Primary teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery and supervision of undergraduate teaching in the History & Politics Tripos, and graduate teaching the MPhil in Politics and International Studies, but the candidate will also be expected to contribute across the Department's teaching responsibilities in providing at least 40 hours of lectures and seminars annually plus individual supervisions. Candidates should demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance of the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to publish research on International Politics in the leading international scholarly outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach in the MPhil in Politics and International Studies as well History & Politics degrees;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Department;

Further information about the Department can be found at www.polis.cam.ac.uk

Please see further information and apply via the link <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/26176/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

We particularly welcome applications from women and/or candidates from a BME background for this vacancy as they are currently under-represented at this level in the Department.

Enquiries can be made to the head of department Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UE23367 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

The University actively supports equality, diversity and inclusion and encourages applications from all sections of society.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/1/2021

Date Posted: 11/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8319

University of Cambridge

Rank: Lecturer (Assistant Professor) International Relations

University Lectureship in International Relations, ref: UE24379

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a permanent University Lecturer (i.e. Assistant Professor) in International Relations (any sub-field) from 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidates will have a record of world-class research and publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery, supervision and assessment of courses in International Relations at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels in providing at least 40 hours of lectures and seminars annually plus individual supervisions. Candidates should demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance of the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in International Relations, with publications in the leading outlets in the field;
- Evidence of ability to teach broadly across International Relations;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Department.

Further information about the Department can be found at www.polis.cam.ac.uk

Please see further information and apply via the link <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27288/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

We particularly welcome applications from women and /or candidates from a BME background for this vacancy as they are currently under-represented at this level in the Department. Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date.

Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UE24379 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy. The University actively supports equality, diversity and inclusion and encourages applications from all sections of society.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/1/2021

Date Posted: 11/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8317

Columbia University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

Columbia University & Harvard University
China and the World Program (C&WP)
Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2021-2022, C&WP will collaborate with the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University (WEAI) to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University (one funded by WEAI and one funded by CWP), and will teach one course in the spring semester. When not attending to program-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP and WEAI. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2021-2022 year, beginning September 1, 2021, ending August 31, 2022. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications:

? Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2018 and August 31, 2021.

? Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.

? Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp@columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

- ? 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
- ? Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
- ? Project description
- ? Two scholarly writing samples
- ? One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
- ? Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
- ? Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
- ? Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp@columbia.edu.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video or phone. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2021; a public announcement will be made by April 2021.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, or the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, and www.weai.columbia.edu respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Additionally:

- As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change.
- The Weatherhead fellowship for 2021-2022 is subject to final approval from the University and is tentative at this time. This tentative approval is only applicable to one of the two fellowship slots. Meaning that there will be at least 1 fellow for next year and hopefully 2. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/20/2020

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8250

Dartmouth College

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellows Program in U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security

The John Sloan Dickey Center for International Understanding at Dartmouth College invites applications for the 2021-22 (September - June) Dartmouth Fellows Program in U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security. Historically, most Fellows have been political scientists and historians, but we welcome applications from any scholar whose research bears directly on foreign policy, international security, or international history. While scholars at all stages of their careers will be considered, applicants who are recent recipients of the Ph.D, or equivalent degree, are especially welcomed. Fellows must be in residence during their Fellowship to participate in Dickey Center seminars and events throughout the academic year.

Fellows receive competitive stipends, research support and benefits, comparable to those offered by other fellowship programs. Faculty on leave from their home institutions will receive half of their annual salary, up to $50,000.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the quality and significance of the proposed research, its relevance to foreign policy, and the ability of the applicant to benefit from interaction with and mentoring from Dartmouth faculty.

Dartmouth is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

How to Apply:

Applicants must submit all of the following by Thursday, December 31, 2020 to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/81000>

- Dissertation abstract (1 paragraph)
- A statement of up to 1,500 words describing the proposed research project during the year at Dartmouth.
- A writing sample (50 pp. max)
- Two confidential letters of reference
- Graduate school transcript (Unofficial transcripts are acceptable. Junior faculty and professionals may include a transcript, but are not required to do so.)
- A confidential financial statement on a separate page indicating the applicant's other sources of support available during the fellowship period and – for current faculty only – current salary.

Questions? Please contact Thomas Candon (Thomas.K.Candon@dartmouth.edu or 603-646-4079).

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8305

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Job Summary: Postdoctoral Research Associate positions available to persons with degrees and research interests within Political Science, with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions in the University of Alabama's College of Arts & Sciences.

The College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Alabama and the Department of Political Science seeks applications for the Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions. Area of specialization is open. Successful candidates will hold terminal degrees and demonstrate a record of academic achievement in a research area or areas covered in Political Science. The department will establish a series of structured merit-based evaluations with the goal of transitioning successful candidates into tenure-track positions. The Dean's Postdoctoral Research Associate positions have been established through a major College initiative begun in 2019 to promote an inclusive scholarly environment in which outstanding scholars support the advancement of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the College.

Required Minimum Qualifications: Applications are encouraged from excellent candidates with research interests in Political Science. Joint appointments across departments are possible. The minimum requirement at the time of the appointment is a Ph.D. or other terminal degree in a field of research represented within the College of Arts & Sciences. Initial appointments are for one year, with renewal contingent upon demonstration of research productivity. The Department of Political Science will develop mentoring plans detailing benchmarks for possible transition of Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professorship positions. Standard university hiring practices will govern any process of transitioning Postdoctoral Research Associates into tenure-track professor positions. Review of applications will begin January 1, 2021.

Apply at: <https://staffjobs.ua.edu/en-us/job/511934/postdocvisiting-scientist-political-science-psc-511934>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8314

University of British Columbia, Okanagan

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

The Department of Economics, Philosophy and Political Science (EPP), Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at the University of British Columbia, Okanagan Campus, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. We are seeking a candidate who does outstanding research in the area of Canadian Law and Politics and/or International Law and Politics. Candidates who focus on either field or can straddle both are invited to apply.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science by the start of the appointment. Candidates must have a demonstrated record of research productivity and proven ability to obtain external funding in support of a successful program of research. They must also show evidence of, or capacity for, excellence in undergraduate and/or graduate teaching and learning; interest in graduate teaching and supervision; and dedication to student mentoring. The ideal candidate will also have a strong commitment to Indigenous engagement. As part of the University's response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action, UBC Okanagan has committed to supporting and implementing five key commitments, which can be found at <https://ok.ubc.ca/about/indigenous-engagement/>. The successful candidates will become members of the Economics, Philosophy and Political Science Department (<http://epp.ok.ubc.ca/welcome.html>) with the appointment expected to start on July 1, 2021.

The Department of Economics, Philosophy & Political Science is housed in the vibrant Irving K. Barber School of Arts and Social Sciences. The Faculty offers both discipline-based and interdisciplinary programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The collegial learning environment in the Faculty focuses on effective teaching, critical and creative scholarship, and the integration of scholarship and teaching. We are committed to an ethos of local involvement, global engagement, and intercultural awareness, and we provide a positive, inclusive, and mutually supportive working and learning environment for all our students, faculty, and staff. To learn about the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, go to: <https://fass.ok.ubc.ca/>. UBC is one of the world's leading universities, and is consistently ranked in the top 40. The university has two distinct campuses, one in Vancouver and one in Kelowna. UBC's Okanagan campus, located in the city of Kelowna, has over 10,000 students in seven faculties, with strong undergraduate and graduate programs. Situated in the heart of the Okanagan Valley, one of the most scenic regions in Canada, it offers an intimate learning environment and excellent opportunities for regional, national, and international scholarly activities. For more information about UBC resources and opportunities, please visit <http://www.hr.ubc.ca/faculty-staff-resources/>. Information about the surrounding community can be found at: <http://www.hr.ubc.ca/worklife-relocation/>.

As part of the University's response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action, UBC Okanagan has committed to supporting and implementing five key commitments, which can be found at <https://ok.ubc.ca/about/indigenous-engagement/>. Candidates are expected to support UBC Okanagan's commitments to Indigenous engagement.

The Irving K. Barber Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at UBC Okanagan is deeply committed to increasing the diversity of our community. We ask that all applicants complete a voluntary survey (link to survey) that will help us to assess the effectiveness of our efforts to reach a broad group of potential applicants.

How to Apply: Applications are submitted online at https://ubc.wd10.myworkdayjobs.com/ubcfacultyjobs/job/UBC-Okanagan-Campus-Assistant-Professor-Tenure-Track_JR149 and should include:

- a cover letter clearly indicating position to which the candidate is applying
- a curriculum vitae
- a statement of research interests
- a statement of teaching philosophy
- evidence of teaching effectiveness (i.e., teaching/course evaluations)
- the names of three referees who have been asked to submit letters of reference.

Applicants should arrange to have their referees submit the letters of reference directly to Tiffany Clark, by the deadline at: epp.okanagan@ubc.ca.

Please direct any inquiries regarding the posting to: Professor Helen Yanacopulos (helen.yanacopulos@ubc.ca).

The deadline for applications is December 15, 2020. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2020

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8311

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar Employee Appointment, Technology and International Security

Postdoctoral Scholar Employee Appointment, Technology and International Security

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at the University of California, San Diego, announces a new collaborative initiative between the systemwide Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation (IGCC)

and the UC-managed National Laboratories: the Center for Global Security Research at the Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) and the National Security and International Studies Office at the Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL).

As a part of the joint-initiative, the institutions invite applications for up to six (6) one-year postdoctoral scholar employee positions in Technology and International Security. Technology has always played a central role in international security. Technology shapes the ways states fight during wartime and compete during peacetime. Today, significant advancements in nuclear technology, autonomous weapons, artificial intelligence, remote sensing, cyber technology, hypersonic vehicles, additive manufacturing, stealth, precision guidance, and other areas have contributed to a widespread sense that the world is again on the precipice of a new technological era. We seek applicants whose research generates new theoretical and empirical insights into the relationship between technology, national security, and the global security environment.

The program will be based in Washington D.C for a 12-month term in line with the 2021-2022 academic year. Eligible applicants should expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by August 1, 2021. All postdoctoral scholars are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Postdocs are expected to dedicate the majority of their time to research and complete a book, monograph, or other significant publication during their period of residence. Postdocs are also expected to plan and regularly participate in all weekly seminars and research colloquia, including the:

1. Bi-weekly internal meetings to workshop research;
2. Monthly National Lab speaker series with researchers from LLNL and LANL;
3. Monthly Foreign Policy speaker series with policymakers in Washington D.C.;
4. Quarterly visits to LLNL and LANL to engage with LLNL/LANL researchers;
5. Annual Conference near the culmination of the postdoctoral scholar appointment year;

Salary: $55,000 annually plus benefits and a modest research/travel budget.

To apply: submit a cover letter (1-2 pages); CV with list of publications; Research statement (3-5 pages); Graduate school transcripts (unofficial accepted); writing sample (under 100 pages); at least two letters of recommendation; Optional: contributions to diversity statement (1-page).

Submit application materials at: <https://apptrkr.com/2078124>

The deadline for applications is Mon., February 1, 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021.

The joint program is directed by Prof. Neil Narang, Research Director at the Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation and Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of California – Santa Barbara. If you have questions, please direct them to Marie Thiveos (mthiveos@ucsd.edu). The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8308

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellow

The Security Studies Program at MIT invites applications for fellows in the field of nuclear security. Fellowships are available for pre-doctoral and post-doctoral scholars and for junior faculty. Fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant research, including book manuscripts, draft articles, dissertations, chapters in edited volumes, or reports. Nuclear security as a subject of study is an umbrella term that includes nuclear war, nuclear terrorism, nuclear proliferation, nuclear weapons, nuclear force posture, and, as it relates to nuclear security, nuclear energy. The deadline for applications is 15 January 2021. Application forms (and further information about eligibility requirements) are available at <https://ssp.mit.edu/about/fellowships/nuclear-security-fellows-program><https://ssp.mit.edu/about/fellowships/nuclear-security-fellows-program>. Applications, along with any further questions, should be submitted by email to: ssp-fellowships@mit.edu. MIT is an AA/EO employer and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/15/2021

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8294

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an 11-month Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 29, 2021. The appointment will be for the entire academic year, ending in May of 2022 (though semester appointments will be considered). The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time “career employee” at a US institution of higher education. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following the VP year at the Air Force Academy. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP’s home academic institution for the visiting professor’s salary (11 months of pay) and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6L-154, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to Dr. David Sacko at David.Sacko@ usafa.edu. The deadline for applications is November 23, 2020. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship is required. USAFA's Department of Political Science homepage can be found at: <https://www.usafa.edu/academic/political-science/>.

Start Date: Summer 2022

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8298

University of Notre Dame

Rank: 2021 Emerging Scholars Conference Participant

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) seeks nominations of outstanding candidates (advanced ABD students or pre/post doctoral fellows) to present their work at the fifth annual Emerging Scholars in Grand Strategy Conference. The three-day conference will consist of 6 workshops, one for each successful nominee. Each workshop will include a research presentation by the Emerging Scholar, a response by a senior scholar in the field, and a general discussion. NDISC will make all arrangements and cover all expenses related to the conference, which will be held May 26-28 at the Oakwood Resort in Syracuse, IN.

By grand strategy, we mean some aspect of where, when, and how states (as well as armed groups) consider using military force among other instruments of statecraft to achieve foreign policy goals, broadly defined. We seek nominees whose work applies the very best scholarship to the most pressing issues facing the United States in the 21st Century and does so in a way that broadens the intellectual and practical discussion of these issues in innovative ways. In addition to having first-rate scholarly credentials, the ideal nominee will also have an interest in applying their scholarly work to some aspect of the formulation and implementation of foreign policy goals.

Nominee(s) should upload a CV, a brief bio, and a 250-word abstract that describes their project to <https://apply.interfolio.com/81186>. The automated system will subsequently ask nominators for a letter of recommendation; letters that have already been written for other purposes (e.g. fellowships, academic jobs) are sufficient.

The deadline for receipt of all materials is January 22, 2021.

Please direct any further questions about this position to Sebastian Rosato at srosato@nd.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/22/2021

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8295

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Hans J. Morgenthau Fellow

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) invites applications for its second cohort of Hans J. Morgenthau fellows. In the spirit of Morgenthau, a deep thinker about international relations and an engaged participant in debates about American foreign policy, NDISC seeks to help the next generation of scholars think more about grand strategy in its larger conceptual and historical context.

Over the course of the fellowship year, fellows will discuss their own research in the context of the burgeoning literature on U.S grand strategy, become part of the broader network of junior and senior scholars engaged with these topics, and hone their teaching skills. Successful applicants need not have any particular view of the optimal grand strategy – just a willingness to engage in the discussion of the topic seriously and debate the alternatives civilly.

The fellowship will be directed by professors Eugene Gholz and Joseph Parent and will involve faculty from Notre Dame and other universities. Fellows will convene three times over the course of their fellowship year. They will begin with an intensive week-long seminar, reading foundational texts and discussing critical issues in contemporary grand strategy at the University of Notre Dame (early August 2021). Fellows will then embark on a week-long study trip to an important international battlefield, where we will combine seminar discussions of strategy with walking the terrain and learning how history, geography, tactics, and strategy intersect (early June 2022). Their fellowship will conclude with a three-day undergraduate teaching workshop on grand strategy in Washington, DC (late July 2022). In addition to the three in-person seminars and workshops, the fellows will also convene roughly once a month for virtual speaker events and discussions over the year of the fellowship. We will, of course, adapt the plans for in-person events as required to keep all participants safe during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The fellowship includes a stipend of $10,000 plus travel expenses and accommodations during fellowship activities. Ideally, Applicants will be ABD doctoral candidates in political science, international relations, global affairs, public policy, history, and allied fields, but we will consider applications from exceptional candidates at other levels. We particularly welcome applications from individuals of backgrounds not widely represented in foreign policy discussions. Applicants should submit a short cover letter explaining their interest in the program, a CV, and a letter of recommendation at <https://apply.interfolio.com/81188> by February 12, 2021.

For more information, please email egholz@nd.edu or jparent@nd.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 2/12/2021

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 8296

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellowship in Innovative Approaches to Grand Strategy

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) and the Department of Political Science invite applications for a post-doctoral fellowship in "Innovative Approaches to Grand Strategy." By grand strategy, we mean some aspect of where, when, and how states (as well as armed groups) consider using military force among other instruments of statecraft to achieve foreign policy goals, broadly defined. We seek candidates whose work applies the very best scholarship to the most pressing issues facing the United States in the 21st century and does so in a way that broadens the intellectual and practical discussion of the issues in innovative ways. In addition to having first-rate scholarly credentials, the ideal candidate will also have an interest in applying their scholarly work to some aspect of the formulation and implementation of grand strategy.

The position offers a competitive salary, benefits, and modest professional support. The initial appointment is for one year, but may be renewed for a second year.

All applicants should submit a CV, letter of interest, a brief (10,000 words) writing sample, and have three reference letters. Applications received by January 15, 2021 will receive full consideration. Please direct any further questions about this position to Michael Desch at mdesch@nd.edu.

Apply at <https://apply.interfolio.com/81187>

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/17/2020
Date Posted: 11/17/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8297

CUNY-City College of New York

Rank: Postdoctoral fellow

Post-Doctoral Fellow of Politics & International Affairs

The Hamilton Initiative at The City College of New York-CUNY invites applications for the Jerome Levy Postdoctoral Fellowship in Politics and International Affairs, beginning in the Fall of 2021. Housed in the Department of Political Science, the Hamilton Initiative exists to encourage serious and open engagement with the Western political and philosophic tradition. While the position is open with respect to research areas, we are particularly interested in candidates able to teach courses in the Western canon of political thought and/or International Relations. The teaching load will be three courses per academic year, on topics to be agreed with the Department Chair based on the Fellow's expertise and the Department's needs. The Postdoctoral Fellow will also be expected to participate actively in the Hamilton Initiative's activities and contribute to its administration as needed.

The position is for a duration of one academic year, renewable for one more year. Salaries are competitive and commensurate to living costs in New York City. A PhD degree (in hand or expected by the beginning of the 2021-22 academic year) is a required qualification.

We will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2021 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, sample course syllabi and teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a cover letter describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values.

Please submit application materials to Jenifer Roman, jroman@ccny.cuny.edu

For any questions please contact the Department Chairman, Daniel DiSalvo, at ddisalvo@ccny.cuny.edu, or the program Co-Director, Carlo Invernizzi Accetti at: caccetti@ccny.cuny.edu

Located in the Hamilton Heights section of Harlem in Manhattan, City College is one of the most diverse institutions of higher education in the nation with some 90 languages spoken on campus. Access and excellence are its core values.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8289

St. Joseph's College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Developing Nations, Foreign Policy, Latino Politics

St. Joseph's College, a mission-driven liberal arts college with campuses in Patchogue, Long Island and the Clinton Hill area of Brooklyn, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires teaching on both campuses. Start date is September 2021. Preference will be given to candidates with expertise in comparative government and international relations. The teaching load is 4 classes per semester. Applicants must show promise in scholarship along with excellence in teaching. Candidates are asked to submit their material as one PDF document.

Ph.D. in Political Science required by date of hire.

Send cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, and student evaluations before December 7 to:

politicalscience@sjcny.edu
 Professor Raymond D'Angelo, Chair
 Department of Social Sciences
 St. Joseph's College
 245 Clinton Avenue
 Brooklyn, NY 11205
 718.940.5747

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8288

The American University in Cairo

Rank: POLS International Relations

Company Description:

The American University in Cairo (AUC) has a rich legacy that dates back 100 years. Founded in 1919 as an English-language university based on high standards of conduct and scholarship, AUC remains a vibrant institution that contributes to the intellectual growth, discipline, and character of the future leaders of Egypt and the region. AUC emphasizes a liberal arts education, with all undergraduate students studying a common set of courses in the humanities and the natural and social sciences as part of the University's Core Curriculum. The AUC Libraries contain the largest English-language research collection in the region and are an active and integral part of the University's pursuit of excellence in all academic and scholarly programs. AUC is chartered and accredited in the United States and Egypt. It has a diverse body of students and faculty. Faculty salary and rank are based on qualifications and professional experience. According to AUC policies and procedures, faculty are entitled to generous benefits.

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science invites applications for two positions in International Relations starting Fall 2021. The position is on a fixed-term contract (four years) and open to candidates at the Assistant or Associate Professor levels. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in the fields of theories of international relations, foreign-policy analysis, international organizations and global security. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA levels within the Department of Political Science. Candidates with a focus on critical international relation theories, the Global South (Asia, Africa, and/or Latin America), and/or history and historical approaches to international relation are particularly encouraged to apply. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East.

Requirements:

A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing research and publication program and teaching experience. In addition to research and teaching, responsibilities include service to the Department and the University.

Additional Information:

Priority will be given to applications received by December 15, 2020. The position is open until filled.

Application Instructions:

All applicants must submit the following documents online:

- a) A current CV
- b) A letter of interest (specifying the rank - assistant or associate professor - for which the candidate wishes to be considered)
- c) A statement of teaching philosophy
- d) A completed AUC Personnel Information Form (PIF) submitted online with your application
- e) A copy of a recently published or accepted article or chapter
- f) Three letters of reference

Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; with the name of the candidate/Faculty position/ Department.

All applications should be uploaded online:

<http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please take note of your account login details.

For more information, e-mail Dr. Rabab El Mahdi, Chair, relmahdi@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, gehanwm@aucegypt.edu; or visit the department's website at:

<http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Apply Here: <https://www.click2apply.net/aQAa4pu8paRWhgbl18K2X>

PI125937784

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8286

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream - International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, International Relations, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for a full-time teaching stream position in the area of International Relations. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream and will begin on July 1, 2021, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, and have a demonstrated record of excellence in teaching. We seek candidates whose teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. We seek candidates with a demonstrated ability to teach a wide variety of international relations courses at the undergraduate level. The ability to teach introductory quantitative research method courses is an asset. In addition to excellence in teaching, the successful candidate will also be expected to engage in undergraduate mentorship and help foster a vibrant intellectual environment for our undergraduate programs.

We seek enthusiastic and innovative individuals pursuing a long-term academic career in pedagogy. Candidates must have teaching expertise in a degree granting program at the undergraduate program level, including lecture preparation and delivery, curriculum development and/or development of online material/lectures. Additionally, candidates must possess a demonstrated commitment to excellent pedagogical practices and a demonstrated interest in teaching-related scholarly activities.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and pedagogical inquiry can be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, awards and accolades, presentations at significant conferences, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a strong teaching statement, sample syllabi, course materials and teaching evaluations, as well as strong letters of reference regarding teaching from referees of high standing.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At the University of Toronto, the expectation of faculty members in the teaching stream is that they bring a dimension of teaching excellence and educational innovation that enhances undergraduate or graduate education and adds significantly to the quality of the student experience.

To be considered for this position, all qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link (or button) below. All application materials must be submitted online and must include the following:

- a cover letter (1 page),
- a current curriculum vitae,
- a statement of teaching philosophy (1 page),
- sample syllabi and course materials (max 10 pages),
- teaching evaluations (max 10 pages),
- a diversity statement.

Equity and diversity are among UTM's core values and are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must arrange to have three letters of reference sent directly by the referee to the hiring unit via email at jobs.politicalscienceutm@utoronto.ca by the closing date (on letterhead, dated and signed). At least one reference must primarily address the candidate's teaching. PLEASE NOTE: this search is not using the University's automatic solicitation and collection functionality for reference letters.

Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact the Search Committee Chair at chair.pol.utm@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters must be received by January 18, 2021.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 1/18/2021

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8287

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a two-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will have a primary interest in international relations and be able to offer courses that fit within the thematic areas around which the political science major at Muhlenberg is structured (<https://www.muhlenberg.edu/academics/polisci/thematicareasofstudy/details> about our program are available on our website). Classes may include, for example, international relations theory, American foreign policy, national security policy, international law and policy, and introduction to international relations and comparative politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries. We are open when it comes to regional expertise and welcome a variety of methodological and theoretical approaches.

Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester. Faculty teaching hybrid and online courses benefit from the resources of our nationally-recognized Center for Digital Learning, which fosters inclusive learning and supports faculty and students in all aspects of online teaching, learning, and scholarship. Additionally, the Muhlenberg Center for Teaching and Learning offers a range of programs in support of faculty, including pedagogical workshops, support for meaningful classroom experimentation, and facilitated interdisciplinary collaboration. Visiting faculty enjoy access to all professional development resources provided by the College.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science or Public Policy by August 2021. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and working with students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ+, etc.).

To receive full consideration, applications must be received by January 31, 2021. Interested candidates should upload their completed applications to https://muhlenberg.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/MuhlenbergCareers/job/Ettinger-Building/Visiting-Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0000419-1 Muhlenberg's Career Portal. Please include a cover letter describing your teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy, and summaries of teaching evaluations if available), unofficial graduate transcripts, contact information for three professional references, and a separate statement describing how you will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community. For questions about this position, please email Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, department chair, at mathews@muhlenberg.edu or mathews@muhlenberg.edu.

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in Allentown, the third largest city in PA. As part of eastern Pennsylvania's scenic Lehigh Valley, Allentown is a diverse city of 122,000, located just 60 miles north of Philadelphia and 75 miles west of New York City. Along with Bethlehem and Easton, the region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. Please visit our https://www.muhlenberg.edu/diversityatmuhlenberg/Diversity & Inclusion page&a' for additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to inclusive excellence and the College's Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/31/2021
Date Posted: 11/12/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8279

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Borders & Boundaries - post doc

BORDERS & BOUNDARIES IN WORLD POLITICS, AY 2021-2022

The Project on Borders and Boundaries in World Politics is looking to fill two postdoctoral fellow positions. Both are one-year and renewable. Partially supported by the National Science Foundation, the Project is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Border regions and activities speak to national and local encounters with neighbors and the rest of the world. This project is concerned with how humans demarcate the space between "us" and "them." It contextualizes border architecture, infrastructure and institutions as expressions of various social, political and economic anxieties associated with globalization. This research team will concern itself with a broad range of questions relating to "bordering" in world politics. The project team is run by Professor Beth Simmons, Andrea Mitchell University Professor in Law, Political Science, and Business Ethics, as well as Assistant Professor Michael Kenwick (Rutgers University).

Research Postdoctoral Fellowship: The postdoctoral fellow will split their time between their own research and Borders & Boundaries project research. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to work 25% of their time on project research. Applicants with an interest in territorial politics; migration and movement across borders; development in and across border regions; border crossing regimes, architectures and institutions; transnational migration; transnational crime, human trafficking and law enforcement across borders; and related issues are welcome to apply. Skills in empirical spatial analysis, GIS technologies, mapping technologies, experimental analyses, computerized textual and imaging analyses, and similar technologies are highly desirable, as are computer programming skills and experience using large computer databases and statistical software.

Research and Program Management Postdoctoral Fellowship: The post-doctoral fellow will work with and help manage the Borders & Boundaries research team. Since the successful candidate will have primary responsibility for managing team effort and output, strong data management and organizational skills are essential. Skills in computational methods, GIS and spatial data analytics, textual and imaging analysis, network analysis, and/or experimental methods are particularly valued, as is experience working within a research lab. We welcome candidates pursuing research careers inside or outside academia. Substantive interest in territorial politics; migration; development in and across border regions; border crossing regimes; transnational crime, law enforcement across borders and related issues is valued.

The fellow is expected to actively work on lab projects and coordinate efforts among team members.

Requirements and Application Information

There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, engage with Perry World House's Undergraduate Student Fellows, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. Perry World House will also introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/80777>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students), and contact information for a letter writer, who will be asked to submit a confidential letter of recommendation through Interfolio.

Other Information

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the Ph.D. degree, Borders & Boundaries postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

If you have questions, please email worldhouse@pwh.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/4/2021
Date Posted: 11/11/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8273

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Global Innovation Program - Post Doc

GLOBAL INNOVATION PROGRAM

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship program during the 2021-2022 academic year. The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century. We hope to bring several postdoctoral fellows to campus for the 2021-2022 academic year. We are seeking excellent scholars who study global affairs and have interests in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants in the following areas:

- The Future of the Global Order: Power, Technology, and Governance
- Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography

The Future of the Global Order

Changes in global economic, military, and technological circumstances are evident in growing concerns around the world about the future of arms control, multilateral economic institutions, technological decoupling, the future of the Islamic State, and more. The post-Cold War global order may be at a tipping point. In addition, systemic trends, such as globalization and climate change, mean that the challenges of today and tomorrow will be global – and require global responses. The role of automated trading algorithms in the 2010 “Flash Crash” in the United States, combined with the specter of drone warfare around the world due and the proliferation of military robotics, highlight how the intersection of technologies, such as cyber and robotics, presents enormous challenges for global business and diplomatic norms. In a time of change, academic research has the potential to shed significant light on these issues and highlight new and important approaches for the global policy community.

In this theme area, Perry World House will focus in part, but not exclusively, on four areas: the impacts of emerging technologies for global politics, shifting global power balances and how they influence both state and non-state actors, the evolution of international legal regimes, and the ability of the international community to sustain effective governing institutions in times of change. We particularly hope to have a postdoctoral fellow as part of our new project on emerging technologies and global politics.

Global Shifts

Crises such as the COVID-19 pandemic and climate change-induced extreme weather events, as well as growing urbanization, migration, and demographic changes, are radically transforming the human environment and creating new risks to well-being. New and changing migration patterns, whether propelled by armed conflicts, instability due to environmental changes, or economic hardships have profound consequences for people on the move and for those left behind. Similarly, the true risks of climate change are a function not just of hazards such as rising sea levels, fires, and tropical cyclones, but the physical location of people and the level of community and government support in place.

Explaining these complex societal changes, and the policy responses necessary to address them, requires a multi-disciplinary and interdisciplinary approach. Perry World House’s Global Shifts program aims to develop an analytical understanding of these problems and suggest new policy approaches to them. It draws on the University’s expertise in urban studies, sociology, demography, law, philosophy, health sciences, environmental sciences, and political science to do so. We invite postdoctoral fellows working within any of these sub-thematic areas, and especially encourage scholars working at the intersection or across multiple of them—such as climate change’s effects on migration patterns or the impact of city policymaking on migration and refugees.

Requirements and Application Information

There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Postdoctoral fellows in the Global Innovation Program will pursue their own research as well as participate in the intellectual life of Perry World House. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, publish policy relevant scholarship related to Perry World House themes, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. They will also be expected to spend up to 10% of their time contributing to the intellectual environment at Perry World House, including working with Perry World House’s Undergraduate Student Fellows, as well as designing and planning engagements in relevant theme areas. Perry World House will provide mentorship, professional guidance, and introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D. in the case of applicants focused on international legal regimes) since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting Monday, January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Upon provision of and contingent upon proof of conferral of the Ph.D. degree, all postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80778>. Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation.

If you have questions, please email worldhouse@pwh.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8272

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Identity & Conflict Lab - post doc

PENN IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB

The Penn Identity & Conflict (PIC) Lab, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis at the Department of Political Science of the University of Pennsylvania, seeks exceptional candidates for a one-year, full-time, renewable, residential appointment as a postdoctoral research fellow. The Lab is dedicated to addressing a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict. The Lab prioritizes research in three key areas: how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and what interventions are effective in reducing inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are considered, ranging from bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war. The Lab’s recent work has focused on appeals to shared norms and normative change as strategies for conflict reduction; and on the cultivation of shared civic and national identities as instruments of peace-building. The Lab seeks to integrate knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to better understand these topics.

Fellows will split their time between their own research and work with Professor Nicholas Sambanis on different projects developed in the PIC Lab. Fellows will be expected to work on one or more ongoing projects in three broad areas: conflict and cooperation between native and immigrant populations; normative change and conflict behavior; and nation-building and state-building in conflict-affected countries. Innovative new project proposals by fellows can also be considered and funded by the Lab.

Requirements and Application Information

Job responsibilities will vary depending on the strengths and interests of the successful applicant but will include some combination of conducting research and co-authoring papers and reports with the PIC Lab Director and affiliated faculty; assisting with grant proposals; providing support with data collection, management, and analysis for ongoing projects; and managing the Lab website and seminar series. Successful applicants will have excellent training in quantitative methods with an emphasis on statistical analysis, survey methods and experimental methods. Programming skills are highly desirable. Applicants should have outstanding organizational and communication skills and prior experience using large databases and different statistical software (including Stata, R, and Qualtrics). Applicants should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; they should be able to work independently, but also as part of a team; and be open to travel for fieldwork if conditions allow. Training in behavioral economics and/or social psychology is a plus.

There is no formal teaching requirement. Fellows will be expected to help organize the PIC Lab workshop, which will meet bi-weekly; they will give at least one presentation on their research at the workshop and/or as part of the Perry World House Seminar Series; and will be expected to help organize the Lab's annual conference.

Compensation and Other Information

All postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $54,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2019, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2021. Applications will be reviewed starting January 4, 2021. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80726>. Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial Ph.D. transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of a letter writer who can submit a letter of recommendation.

If you have questions, please email pic-lab@sas.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8274

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: LIGHTNING SCHOLARS SABBATICAL RESIDENCY

LIGHTNING SCHOLARS SABBATICAL RESIDENCY, AY 2021-2022

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its 2021-2022 Lightning Scholars Program. This program brings untenured, but tenure-track, faculty at either the assistant or associate level from around the world to Philadelphia for a semester or year of writing, fellowship, and bridging the gap between academia and the policy world.

The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century.

This fellowship program allows untenured faculty members at leading research universities around the world to join Perry World House and the Penn community for a semester or full academic year in residence in Philadelphia to produce a major research project or book. While the fellowship program is for faculty working on global affairs topics, preference will be given to faculty working on subjects broadly related to our two research themes, The Future of the Global Order: Technology, Power and Governance and Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography. More information on our research themes can be found here: <https://global.upenn.edu/perryworldhouse/research>.

The ideal candidates for this new program will be looking for an in-residence fellowship away from their home institution that will provide the space and support to write, but also the opportunity to collaborate with an interdisciplinary and vibrant community of global affairs scholars and practitioners. Perry World House is especially interested in faculty whose work connects to important global policy conversations and who will want to engage in dialogue with some of the many policymakers from around the world who visit Perry World House.

The program's compensation is significant and negotiated on a case-by-case basis. The program is intended to allow the selected Lightning Scholar to take a comfortable leave from their home institution often by supporting the difference between a one semester sabbatical provided by the home institution and a full year leave. Although final compensation will depend on the circumstances of each applicant, the program will provide at least $50,000 as well as relevant fees and health insurance, if needed. The fellowship will also include $5,000 in research support, as well as the opportunity to help shape workshops and colloquia at Perry World House.

Applications, which should be submitted via Interfolio, are welcome from scholars who have either a Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D.), are standing faculty members at a college or university, and are on the tenure track but still untenured. Applications for the 2021-2024 academic years will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting January 4, 2021. Applicants must include a cover-letter, three-page proposal, CV, a letter of support from their home department/institution, and a confidential letter of recommendation. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of support should be received by that date.

To apply, please go to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80840>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/11/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8275

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America: Digital Scholarship

The University of Texas at San Antonio is an urban-serving, Hispanic thriving discovery enterprise deeply committed to student success and academic excellence. The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) has embarked on a focused cluster hiring plan to recruit top-tier researchers in interdisciplinary areas of knowledge that will advance the study of Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America. Home to some of the largest biospheres in the world and some of world's most important biodiversity hotspots, Latin America's environments are undergoing rapid transformation due to climate change, environmental degradation, and politico-socio-economic transformations across the region. These forces are coupled in complex ways, and understanding the coupled dynamics of society, climate, and environment in Latin America presents a grand challenge that is fertile ground for transdisciplinary research. To address this challenge, UTSA is recruiting a cohort of researchers from different disciplines whose research centers on environmental degradation, climate change, and the associated socioeconomic and political challenges and transformations in Latin America and the US-Mexico borderlands. The goal is to foster collaborative and transdisciplinary research to understand and confront the emerging social and environmental challenges facing the region. This targeted cluster hire will build on and leverage our established research portfolio, propelling our ability to tackle and solve previously unsolvable problems. Hires are expected to build their own unique programs of research, as well as to collaborate with other hires in this cluster and with colleagues in their home department, college, and other colleges.

As part of this initiative, the College of Liberal and Fine Arts (COLFA) seeks two faculty members who will expand the digital scholarship footprint within the Social and Environmental Challenges in Latin America cluster. We define digital scholarship broadly, including digital humanities, new media studies, digital design, multimedia mapping, digital visualization, and/or new journalism, among other areas. Preference will be given to applicants who can contribute to both the scholarly domains of digital scholarship and the technical domains of digital production. One position is for an assistant professor, the other for an assistant or associate professor. The cluster hired in Anthropology last year; these new hires will extend the cluster into other disciplines. The hires will be housed in one or more of COLFA's departments (www.colfa.utsa.edu), as appropriate. Research active faculty in COLFA typically teach a 2/2 course load.

Responsibilities

Teaching introductory, upper division, and graduate courses; research and service in a program that offers B.A. and M.A. degrees; maintaining an active research agenda; leadership in developing new lines of research and teaching; contributing to the university and community through service and outreach.

Posting End Date

Review of applications begins December 4, 2020. For full consideration, applicants should submit their materials by that date. Inquiries may be directed to the Cluster Search Committee Chair, Dr. Nathan Richardson (nathan.richardson@utsa.edu).

Required Application Materials

To apply, please create a single file in PDF format containing in the following order:

- a letter of application describing research, teaching, and service accomplishments and goals that includes a discussion of the role that diversity and inclusion play in an academic environment; please indicate the rank for which you wish to be considered
- a CV
- up to three examples of successful research, which could include publications, dissertation chapters, or a portfolio of screening links or images in a PDF document
- teaching evaluations if available
- names, addresses, email addresses, and phone numbers of three references

Materials must be submitted on-line via <https://www.utsa.edu/hr/employment/>.

Required Qualifications

Successful applicants will have 1) a strong record of teaching, research, and service appropriate to rank; 2) an active research agenda with demonstrated interest and experience in collaborative and/or transdisciplinary research; 3) a research focus on Latin America and/or the Caribbean; and 4) a terminal degree (Ph.D./M.F.A) in their field at time of interview.

For consideration as Associate Professor, candidates must have a strong record of publication, evidence of effective teaching, and substantial experience in department, university, and professional service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications

Preferred candidates will be able to successfully teach and mentor diverse, underserved students, including first-generation students, students of color and non-traditional students, and have the ability to contribute to the university's commitment to inclusive excellence as a Hispanic Serving Institution.

Additional Information

-Successful candidates will demonstrate (1) a record of high quality research and scholarship (2) excellence in undergraduate and graduate education or intellectual contributions in diversity, inclusion, and the demonstrated ability to teach students from diverse backgrounds and (3) a demonstrated commitment to diversity and inclusion.

-Applicants selected for interviews must show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by the time of hire.

-At the discretion of the hiring department, this position posting may be closed once a sufficient number of qualified applications has been received.

-UTSA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

-UTSA is a tobacco-free campus.

-This is a security sensitive position. Employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/10/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8269

Leiden University

Rank: Professor of International Relations

Key responsibilities

The Institute of Political Science of Leiden University invites applications for appointment as Professor of International Relations with specialisation in International Conflict and Conflict Resolution. The position is fulltime, starting in August 2021. This new professorship is linked to the significant expansion of the institute's teaching programme in international relations, and to the recruitment in recent years of many outstanding young scholars researching and teaching on issues of international conflict and cooperation.

The new professor's research and teaching will address a range of questions on international conflict and conflict resolution, including the evolving sources of conflict, the links between intra-state and inter-state conflict, the relationship between conflict and collective identities, and the dynamics of conflict management and resolution at local, national and international levels.

The new professor will be expected to conduct and publish advanced research on international conflict and conflict resolution, to mentor junior colleagues, to teach BSc and MSc students and supervise PhDs in this and related areas of political science, and to play a leading role in applying for external research funding and in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute.

Selection criteria

Candidates for this position must possess a PhD in political science, a strong record of publications in leading journals and/or scholarly presses, a clear agenda for future research, and a proven track record of winning research grants, leading research projects, supervising PhDs to completion, and mentoring junior colleagues. They must be experienced in designing and delivering high-quality education at undergraduate and graduate levels, including lectures, seminars and thesis supervision. They must have the maturity and experience to provide organizational leadership within the Institute of Political Science. They must be fluent in English and ideally have a working knowledge of Dutch; if not, the readiness to learn Dutch within several years is required. Experience in linking research to public debates and societal needs is a plus.

Our organisation

Leiden University was the first university in the world to appoint a Professor of Politics (Daniel Hensius in 1612) and its Institute of Political Science is today a broad disciplinary unit with approximately 80 lecturers, assistant professors, associate professors and full professors, plus PhDs and post-doc researchers based in Leiden and in The Hague, where a large part of the teaching is done. The institute's academic staff and its student body are each approximately half Dutch and half international.

The Institute is well known for pioneering research on parliamentary governance, political parties, electoral behavior, and Dutch politics, and is increasingly recognized for its significant expertise in international relations and European politics. The institute's research staff publish regularly in top journals and academic presses and are consistently successful in attracting national and European research grants. The Institute houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals and book series.

The institute's research programme 'Institutions, Decisions and Collective Behaviour' encompasses six clusters with overlapping membership: Conflict, Conflict Resolution and Crisis Management; Globalisation and the State; Identity, Ethnicity and Political Community; International Organisation and European Integration; Politics in The Netherlands; Representation, Public Opinion and Communication. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multi-disciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, and Political Philosophy.

The Institute's offers a range of taught programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programme includes general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The one-year MSc programme includes five specialisations in Leiden and one in The Hague and is taught mostly in English. The introduction of the IRO specialisation in 2017 led to a substantial increase in the total number of BSc students, including many from other countries. This in turn led to a significant expansion of our teaching staff in the area of international relations. PhD students are typically supported by the staff's research grants.

The Institute of Political Science belongs to Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences, which also includes the Institute of Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology, the Institute of Education and Child Studies, the Institute of Psychology, and the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. In total, the Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff based in Leiden and The Hague. Members of the institute also work closely with colleagues in the Faculty of Governance and Global Affairs, the Faculty of Humanities, and the Faculty of Law, among others. For more information on the faculty's teaching and research programmes, see the website.

Terms and conditions

The Chair will have an appointment in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities for an initial duration of five years leading to tenure on condition of good performance. The salary will range from a minimum of 5,749.- to a maximum of 8,371.- gross per month for a full-time appointment. The exact salary will depend on experience (payscale HL2).

Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with additional holiday (8%) and end-of-year bonuses (8.3 %), training and career development and sabbatical leave. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. For international spouses we have set up a dual career programme. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. For more information, see the website.

Leiden University attaches great importance to the quality of its teaching. It therefore requires all academic staff with teaching duties to possess the University Teaching Qualification or be prepared to earn this within two years.

Diversity

Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from members of under-represented groups.

Information

If you have any additional questions, please contact Prof. Daniel Thomas, email d.c.thomas@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Applications

To apply for this vacancy, please submit online your application no later than 7 January 2021 via the blue button of our application system. Include the following documents in PDF format:

- Statement of interest (cover letter) outlining how the candidate envisages to fulfil the outlined tasks;
 - Full CV, including education, appointments, publications, grant-acquisition record, and contact details for three referees;
 - Research statement outlining past and ongoing research activities as well as planned research and how it would fit the task;
 - Teaching statement outlining preferred methods and teaching experience;
 - List of courses taught plus student evaluations from the last 2-3 years.
- Interviews with shortlisted candidates will be conducted in February 2021. You are kindly requested to be available for a potential interview in this period. Starting date for this position is envisaged to be August 2021.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 1/7/2021

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8258

Nuffield College, University of Oxford

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should have completed, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for and commensurate with their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills. Teaching experience in any area of Comparative Government, Political Theory, or International Relations would be desirable.

The posts are full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 September 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Shorter-term appointments are unlikely to be considered. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 32,150 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may opt to rent single accommodation in College. Further benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4260/jd_polpprf2021.pdf

The deadline for applications is Monday 7 December 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/7/2020

Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 8254

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in August 2021 and ending in May 2022. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of seven courses during the academic year.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Research Methods. While the department has additional need for courses covering Comparative Politics of Europe and Human Rights Policy to fill specific programmatic requirements, we especially seek candidates who have passion for teaching and mentoring undergraduates and can diversify our offerings. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff, and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply. We also seek candidates with interests in mentoring under-represented students, diversifying curricular offerings, or sponsoring diverse community engagement. Applicants are asked to address their potential contributions in support of a diverse community in their cover letters.

Applicants should submit their cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation to: Ms. Judith Pinckney, Department of Public Affairs, 119 West Hall, Roanoke College, Salem, VA 24153. Inquiries may be sent to: pinckney@roanoke.edu. Please visit our Departmental website at: https://www.roanoke.edu/inside/a-z_index/public_affairs for more information.

Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8257

University of Cambridge

Rank: Lecturer (Assistant Professor) Political Economy of Development

Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, Political Development

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a permanent University Lecturer (i.e. Assistant Professor) in the Political Economy of Development, based in the Centre of Development Studies, from 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidates will have a record of world-class research and publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery, supervision and assessment of courses in Political Economy (broadly conceived) in the MPhil in Development Studies, as well as supplementary teaching at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates should also demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance and administration of the Centre and the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in the Political Economy of Development, with publications in the leading outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach the Political Economy of Development;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Centre and the Department.

Please see the Further Particulars online for additional specifics on the position at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27072/>

Further information about the Centre and the Department can be found at <https://www.devstudies.cam.ac.uk/> and www.polis.cam.ac.uk. Applications should be made online at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27072/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021. Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UC24186 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/1/2021
Date Posted: 11/3/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8247

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a letter of application, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than January 21, 2021. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2021, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/29/2021
Date Posted: 10/30/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8242

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellow

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants pursuing a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component of any era, from ancient to modern. This fellowship is designed to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one year (or in exceptional cases two years) of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year.

Applicants should submit a current c.v., a personal statement, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. Applications are due no later than January 29, 2021. Please direct any questions to Alex Foggett, the Clements Center's Programs Manager, at alex.foggett@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/29/2021
Date Posted: 10/30/2020
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 8241

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of North Carolina at Charlotte
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
International Relations Tenure Track Faculty Position #7115

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in international relations. Required qualifications include: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field, with a primary focus on peace and conflict with areas of interest including but not limited to migration and citizenship, human rights, race/ethnicity, and peace and conflict, gender and peace and conflict, or security and intelligence; evidence of strong potential for professional development as a scholar, including the ability to secure external funding; teaching experience at the college level; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment. The ability to teach courses in the Security and Intelligence Studies minor is also valuable. The nine-month tenure track position begins Fall 2021.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers an M.P.A., B.A., and two minors. It has 24 full-time faculty members. Many participate in one or more interdisciplinary programs, including the Public Policy Ph.D. program, Latin American Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Africana Studies.

The department seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their work.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007115) and attach the following:

- Cover letter of application outlining your scholarly interests and agenda, including experience with securing external funding and with teaching, related to the outlined qualifications
- Curriculum vitae

- Copy of graduate transcript
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample of professional writing
- Name and contact information for three references

Applicants should have references send the letters of recommendation directly to Dr. James Walsh, chair of the search committee, at jwalsh@uncc.edu.

Review of applications begins November 15, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. James Igoe Walsh, chair of the search committee, at jwalsh@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8239

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu

Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

Virginia Military Institute

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science-Tenure-track

Assistant Professor of International Studies and Political Science – Tenure-track

The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in the subfield of international relations, beginning 01 August 2021. To be considered for this position, candidates must have completed the requirements for their PhD by Spring 2021.

The successful candidate will demonstrate a capacity to teach undergraduate-level courses in one or more of the following areas: International Politics; US Foreign Policy; or US National Security Policy. In addition, the ideal candidate will possess a substantive and/or geographic specialization that augments the existing strengths of the department's faculty. Preference will be given to those candidates who provide evidence of their potential to develop and maintain a vibrant research agenda and to apply their research in the undergraduate classroom. These endeavors are highly valued and well supported at VMI. Information on the IS department and curriculum can be found at <https://www.vmi.edu/academics/departments/international-studies-and-political-science/>.

Once hired, the successful candidate would be expected to teach courses on campus and in-person, as permitted by the public health situation.

Salary commensurate with experience.

This position includes a very competitive benefits package.

Minimum Qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science or International Relations at the time of application is preferred, but ABD applicants expecting to complete their dissertation prior to appointment will be considered.
- Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is required.

Candidates please apply online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/201897>

In addition to completing an online application, please submit a cover letter summarizing your interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and graduate transcripts

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to the VMI International Studies Department Head, Dennis Foster, at fosterdm@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by 15 January 2021. Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the position is filled. Finalist interviews will be conducted on campus and in-person, as permitted by the public health situation.

Virginia Military Institute is a state-supported four-year undergraduate military college of liberal arts, engineering, and the sciences. It is located in the southern Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. Lexington, population 7,000, is also home to Washington and Lee University and offers a stimulating cultural atmosphere in a pleasant, rural setting. In a continuing effort to enrich its academic environment and provide equal education and employment opportunities, VMI encourages women, minorities, disabled individuals, and veterans to apply. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are also encouraged to apply. VMI will provide reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with documented disabilities to ensure equal access and equal opportunities with regard to employment, educational opportunities, programs and services.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/15/2021

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8230

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8217

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defense-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelor's, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors.

The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian

Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field
- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf>. You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/, and https://csdc-cecd.ca/.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.
- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8181

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Newman Post-Doctoral Fellow

We seek to hire a Newman Post-Doctoral Fellow with an abiding interest in multi-disciplinary work focused on China's growing influence around the world and the role of American multinational corporations in U.S.-China relations. The individual will assist with the research initiatives of the Institute for U.S.-China Issues, support the Institute's biannual symposia, help to organize and participate in the Institute's events, teach one interdisciplinary course on China in a comparative or global context in the Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) per year, and deliver a research presentation per semester.

Fields of specialization might include (but are not limited to) political science, international relations, China Studies, economics, political economy, security studies, public policy, history, sociology, and geography. Chinese language and quantitative research skills are strongly preferred.

We will accept applications from those who have earned a Ph.D. (or those who expect to earn their doctorate before September 2021). Applicants must submit a cover letter, vita, 500-word description of a proposed course, a single-authored writing sample, 1,000-word description of a research project, three recommendation letters, and a statement on diversity, equity and inclusion by November 15, 2020 for full consideration. The Newman Post-Doc Fellowship will commence on August 1, 2021 and end on July 31, 2023. The salary will be $40,000 per year and the Institute will provide fringe benefits.

The Institute for US-China Issues at the University of Oklahoma College of International Studies was established in 2006 with the generous financial support of Harold J. & Ruth Newman. It seeks to establish national distinctiveness and preeminence in enhancing the understanding and management of U.S.-China relations by simultaneously addressing two sets of interrelated issue clusters—the security, technology, economic, environmental, political, and public health (STEEPP) issues, and the instrumental role culture plays in shaping how the two nations perceive and engage each other. Additional information about the Institute's activities may be found at https://www.ou.edu/cis/sponsored_programs/institute-for-us-china-issues.

Those seeking a fellowship should submit applications to: uschina@ou.edu.

For inquiries, please contact Bo Kong (bo.kong@ou.edu).

The University of Oklahoma is an equal opportunity institution (www.ou.edu/eoo).

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8138

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (International Relations/Comparative Politics)

Specializations: Russia, Central Asia, South Asia

LOCATION:

United States Naval Academy, Political Science Department

APPLICATION TIMELINE:

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

ABOUT THE U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY:

The United States Naval Academy is a unique institution of higher learning located in desirable Annapolis, Maryland. As an historic officer accession program and premier undergraduate college, the United States Naval Academy has its own distinctive niche amongst American educational institutions. Our talented faculty and staff are united by one common purpose—to develop the next generation of leaders for naval service. In order to deliver on this promise to our nation, we recruit from all segments of society to find faculty, instructors, and support staff who model the highest professional standards.

The United States Naval Academy serves a diverse student body. We believe that faculty members from diverse backgrounds strengthen our programs and positively impact student success. The United States Naval Academy is committed to building a diverse workforce and encourages qualified applicants from all backgrounds to apply for consideration.

Every year more than one million people tour “the Yard” to experience what our employees already know — the United States Naval Academy is a special place, with a special purpose. Those selected for employment will find challenging and rewarding work; state-of-the-art facilities which inspire academic and athletic excellence; the benefits of Federal employment; and exceptional quality-of-life.

POSITION DESCRIPTION:

The Political Science Department at the U.S. Naval Academy invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Scholars with expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply. Candidates should be methodologically trained, and should demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three courses per semester with small section sizes (no more than 20 students) and 2-3 preparations per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring and to service to the institution.

Candidates at the Assistant Professor level are preferred; however, well-qualified applicants may be considered at the Associate Professor level.

This is a 10-month federal excepted service position with a three year initial academic appointment. Salary for this position will be commensurate with experience and qualifications.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:Minimum:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than June 2021 is acceptable for an August 2021 employment start date).

Preferred:

Expertise in Russia and Eastern Europe/Central Asia are preferred, but scholars with a focus on South Asia, Southeast Asia, and international political economy are encouraged to apply.

HOW TO APPLY FOR POSITION:

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, a research statement, a statement on teaching which addresses teaching in a diverse environment, writing samples, transcripts and a curriculum vitae to the search committee. Evidence of teaching effectiveness (teaching evaluations and syllabi of courses taught) may accompany the application.

Please arrange for three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and research abilities to be sent to the below email address.

Send all application materials to the International Relations/Comparative Politics Search Committee at usna_polisci_ircp_2020-group@usna.edu and use "USNA IR Comparative" in the subject line.

Please note: Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT:U.S. Citizenship Required

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation leading to successful completion of a background investigation with a favorable adjudication. The selectee's failure to meet this requirement will be grounds for termination. Background investigations for non-US Citizens often require up to two years to complete, and for non-US Citizens the background check must be complete before employment can begin. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here: <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

The Department of the Navy provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities. Applicants with disabilities who believe they require reasonable accommodation should contact our Human Resource Office to ensure that the Department of the Navy can consider such requests. The decision to grant an accommodation will be made on a case by case basis.

Submit a Demographic Information on Applicants Form to rsharps@usna.edu. Your responses will not be shared with the panel rating the applications or to the official making the selection for this position

All Civilian Faculty Positions at USNA are subject to a background investigation. These investigations are conducted to ensure that individuals hired are trustworthy, of good conduct, and reliable. More information about the background investigation process can be found at the Academic Dean and Provost's website here <http://www.usna.edu/Academics/Faculty-Information/Background-Investigation-Info.php>.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8120

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor and Deputy Director of the Johnson Grand Strategy Program

Specializations: International Security, Defense, Foreign Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR AND DEPUTY DIRECTOR FOR THE JOHNSON GRAND STRATEGY PROGRAM at West Point. Position beginning in July 2021. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Advanced degree (Ph.D.) in political science with a strong background in security studies. (ii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate political science courses. (iii) Strong research agenda and the demonstrated ability to present results in a variety of media. (iv) Ability to lead an interdisciplinary Grand Strategy Program, to include: coordinating across academic departments to develop and assess curriculum; managing a high-impact guest speaker series; facilitating cadet and faculty research on grand strategy; providing subject matter expertise and guiding outreach; and communicating grand strategy lessons learned to communities of study and practice.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2021, with all requirements for a doctoral degree completed. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail a hard copy of all material to: Department of Social Sciences, Grand Strategy Program Search Committee, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. Inquiries about this position can be directed to Prof. Scott A. Silverstone at scott.silverstone@westpoint.edu. For administrative questions concerning application submission, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@westpoint.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 16 November 2020. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 11/16/2020

Date Posted: 9/24/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8099

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareershelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8076

Yale University

Rank: Assistant, Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations.

The appointment will begin on July 1, 2021. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, 3 letters of recommendation, and 2 writing samples should be uploaded to Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/78527>

Review of applications will begin September 25, 2020, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at poliscijobs@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8046

Princeton University

Rank: NIEHAUS POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM IN REGIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY (2021-2022)

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2021-2022 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 7, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17363>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);

- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 10, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8032

Princeton University

Rank: NIEHAUS VISITING FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM (2021 – 2022)

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2021-2022 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Friday, November 27, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17381>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day (5 p.m. EST) on Wednesday, December 2, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8031

Princeton University

Rank: Professional Specialist/Data and Statistical Analyst

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate position from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 for the 2021-2022 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance. Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Application Deadline - Applicants should apply by Friday, November 27, 2020 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17341>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2021 in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Wednesday, December 2, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2021. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8030

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7983

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Government invites applications from scholars with international, global, or transnational interests for a tenure-track position in international relations at the rank of assistant professor in the fall semester 2021. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2021.

We are especially interested in candidates who share the department's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in the research and teaching of international relations, broadly defined. All applicants must submit a statement of their approach and contributions to these objectives.

Applicants should apply online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16734>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, statement of diversity, equity, and inclusion, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations. We will begin to review applications starting October 1, 2020, and will continue until the search is complete.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/1/2020

Date Posted: 8/25/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 7998

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click "Apply Now" at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7971

Wellesley College

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the assistant professor level in international relations beginning in the academic year 2021-22.

We seek candidates with expertise in international/global political economy or global governance. We are open to all areas of specialization in these subfields, but are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns issues such as trade, finance, global development, international economic organizations (global and regional), inequality, or race. The search is open as to regional expertise. In addition to teaching courses in international political economy, the successful candidate will also regularly teach a broad introduction to international relations. We would additionally be interested in candidates who could offer a research methods course.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members at Wellesley teach two courses per semester.

Applications should include the following:

- A cover letter of no more than two pages;
- a one-page teaching statement;
- additional teaching materials (e.g., evaluations and sample syllabi);
- writing samples of research;
- a curriculum vitae; and
- three (3) letters of recommendation.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community through teaching, research, and service. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification. Where applicable, candidates should include (as relevant) how diversity, inclusion, and equity connect to their teaching, scholarship, and service.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2020, and will continue accepting applications after that date. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

We recognize that these are uncertain times with changing health and safety restrictions during the COVID-19 pandemic. This search will follow all state and college policies, and we anticipate collaborating with candidates to best navigate health and safety during the recruitment process.

Specific inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the department, at tburke@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7964

Wellesley College

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the assistant professor level in international relations beginning in the academic year 2021-22.

We seek candidates with expertise in international/global political economy or global governance. We are open to all areas of specialization in these subfields, but are particularly interested in scholars whose research concerns issues such as trade, finance, global development, international economic organizations (global and regional), inequality, or race. The search is open as to regional expertise. In addition to teaching courses in international political economy, the successful candidate will also regularly teach a broad introduction to international relations. We would additionally be interested in candidates who could offer a research methods course.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members at Wellesley teach two courses per semester.

Applications should include the following:

- A cover letter of no more than two pages;
- a one-page teaching statement;
- additional teaching materials (e.g., evaluations and sample syllabi);
- writing samples of research;
- a curriculum vitae; and
- three (3) letters of recommendation.

Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community through teaching, research, and service. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification. Where applicable, candidates should include (as relevant) how diversity, inclusion, and equity connect to their teaching, scholarship, and service.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at <https://career.wellesley.edu>. We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2020, and will continue accepting applications after that date. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu. Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

We recognize that these are uncertain times with changing health and safety restrictions during the COVID-19 pandemic. This search will follow all state and college policies, and we anticipate collaborating with candidates to best navigate health and safety during the recruitment process.

Specific inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the department, at tburke@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7965

Texas A&M University

Rank: Instructional Assistant Professor (non-tenure track)

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a non-tenure track, instructional assistant professor in the area of international political economy, to work in the School's teaching site in Washington, D.C. The position will be for a period of two-years, with the possibility of renewal. The start date for this position will be January 1, 2021. The successful candidate will teach five courses per academic year in a professional master's degree program in international policy – two sections of the required course on the global economy and three other elective courses to be determined in consultation with the department head. A reasonable amount of department and professional service will also be expected.

The Department of International Affairs is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and departments is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, politics or government with a specialization in the sub-field of international political economy to be considered.

Applicants with additional expertise in the intersection of international political economy and international security issues, and/or expertise in the politics and political economy of a particular world region, are particularly encouraged to apply.

Applicants must submit: 1) Letter of Interest, 2) CV, and 3) three letters of recommendation. The application materials must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/76363>.

Point of Contact: Ms. Peg Hosea plhosea@tamu.edu

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7900

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: 2021-2022 International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, History & Politics

The Fellowship:

The International Affairs Fellowship for Tenured International Relations Scholars (IAF-TIRS) offers professors from a variety of academic backgrounds practical experience in the foreign policymaking field, providing them with an opportunity to spend their sabbatical year working at a U.S. government agency, in Congress, or with an international organization.

The IAF-TIRS program helps close the gap between research and practice, enriching both teaching and scholarship by enabling fellows to become practitioners. The program also benefits policymakers by exposing them to critical scholarly research relevant to the foreign policy and national security issues facing the United States and the world.

The fellowship is for twelve months. The program will match 50 percent of the fellow's base salary for the academic year (up to a maximum of $80,000 for the year) as well as provide modest assistance for moving expenses for those who need to relocate for the fellowship.

Eligibility:

Applicants should be U.S. citizens

Applicants must be full-time tenured professors at a U.S. college or university

Applicants must have arranged a paid sabbatical with their home university

Applicants must hold a PhD

Applicants must propose to spend a year working on peace and security issues in the U.S. government, in Congress, or at an international organization.

Preference is given to candidates with no previous experience in the U.S. government or with an international organization.

*Note: fellows are considered independent contractors rather than employees of CFR and are not eligible for employment benefits, including health insurance. No indirect costs can be deducted from the stipend award.

How to Apply:

Interested candidates who meet the program eligibility requirements can apply online now through October 31 at cfr.org/fellowships/international-affairs-fellowship-tenured-international-relations-scholars.

If you have additional questions, please contact tirs.fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 10/31/2020

Date Posted: 5/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7853

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on "CyberEscalation in Power Projection." This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the "Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection" project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor (Teaching)

Full-Time, Teaching-Track Faculty Position in Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California seeks to hire a full-time teaching-track faculty position (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Master Lecturer, Assistant Professor (Teaching), Associate Professor (Teaching), Professor (Teaching), Assistant Professor of the Practice, Associate Professor of the Practice, and Professor of the Practice) to teach classes in one or more of the following areas: Gender and International Relations, Diplomacy and Security, Human Rights, and Public Law. A Ph.D., and strong teaching record are required. The rank of the position will be commensurate with experience.

Applicants should provide a CV, letter with a statement of teaching experience and interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of 3 references. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser:

<https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/full-time-teaching-track-faculty-position-in-political-science-and-international-relations/1209/15573524> .

For more information, please contact

POIR Instructor (Teaching) Search Committee
USC Department of Political Science and International Relations
3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

Review of applications will begin immediately, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7821

DePaul University

Rank: Endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy

DePaul University invites applications for an endowed Chair in Applied Diplomacy. Successful candidates will demonstrate a record of academic accomplishment commensurate with the appointment to the rank of Full Professor with tenure. We are seeking an intellectual leader who is well-prepared to advance an innovative, transprofessional approach to the study and practice of diplomacy that is the hallmark of DePaul's Grace School of Applied Diplomacy. The successful candidate will be a dynamic scholar with a notable record of publication, an established history of interdisciplinary approaches to the field, expertise in non-state actor and grassroots diplomatic practices, and a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching.

The Grace School is housed in the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences and offers both BA and MA programs in Applied Diplomacy. It places a premium on promoting collaboration among practitioners of diplomacy in multiple contexts, and as such, its curriculum is designed to prepare students to practice diplomacy not only as foreign service officers, but also as businesspeople, scientists, NGO representatives, religious leaders, international civil servants, community organizers, artists, educators, and grass roots activists. The faculty of the Grace School represent twenty-two different departments and programs from across the University. The School is privileged to be located in Chicago, a globally-engaged city that is home to a rich array of consuls and international initiatives.

Candidates will find an enriching and innovative climate at DePaul, with institutional support for cross-disciplinary, inter-departmental, and community-engaged collaboration. Faculty draw on resources and cultivate partnerships across DePaul's centers, institutes, departments, schools and programs. Our students benefit from robust study abroad and global learning exchange programs.

DePaul is deeply sensitive to the educational goals of a culturally diverse student population and committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. We seek candidates who will reflect and engage the diversity of the university and its urban community. We strongly encourage applications from people of color, women, and individuals from other historically underrepresented groups.

Review of applications will begin on February 14th. Applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants are requested to provide a cover letter with a personal statement, a CV and a list of references. The start date for this position is September 1, 2020.

In order to apply, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/72500>

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/13/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7627

METHODOLOGY

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Health)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Health) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and collaborate on and develop projects related to immigration policy and health. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results. This fellow will join a team of researchers from IPL, the Stanford School of Medicine, Oregon Health & Science University, and the Duke School of Medicine to evaluate the effects of immigration and health policy on the intergenerational health of immigrant families.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, as well as work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to develop related independent health research. Examples of previous studies produced by the lab include projects on the intergenerational impact of DACA on the mental health of children (Science), public health insurance and immigrant families' location decisions (JAMA Pediatrics), and the impact of prenatal care for children of undocumented women (Obstetrics and Gynecology).

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second and third year). Start date is flexible, but no later than July 2021 and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for political science, economics, sociology, statistics, or computer science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of causal inference methods, data management, and data analysis. Knowledge of immigration and health policy will also be valued.

In addition, having experience working with medical claims data and executing and managing data analysis in a server-based environment is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17290> (ID17290). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Post-doc – Health).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8315

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Data Science)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Data Science) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow with extensive experience and training in data science to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of digital tools related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the data scientist postdoc will be to lead data analysis for research projects and develop innovative digital tools related to immigration policy, programs, and services under the guidance of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on data science, causal inference, machine learning, statistical analysis, and programming. For instance, the postdoc will help drive a global effort to support refugee integration by developing matching tools for various countries using machine learning. The post doc will also work on data analysis for projects examining the impacts of immigration related policies and programs. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects and tools related to immigration policy evaluation.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible (no later than August 2021) and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science, statistics, computer science, or related program, with a preference for candidates who have demonstrated training and skills in both data analysis and programming. Previous experience conducting research on immigration issues is valued but not required.

She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, statistical inference and modeling, and machine learning. Experience or skills in data visualization and optimization methods are also highly valued.

In addition, she or he should also have significant programming experience. Proficiency in R is required. Experience working with a general-purpose programming language (e.g. Python, Java, C++) and/or with SQL is also a plus. Demonstrated ability to develop user-friendly digital tools, apps, or programs that leverage data and statistical methods in novel ways is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17288> (ID17288). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Data Science).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8312

University of Gothenburg

Rank: One or several Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Political Science, with a focus on political behavior and political sociology

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Social Welfare, Gender Politics & Policy

The University of Gothenburg tackles society's challenges with diverse knowledge. 49 000 students and 6 400 employees make the university a large and inspiring place to work and study. Strong research and attractive study programmes attract scientists and students from around the world. With new knowledge and new perspectives, the University contributes to a better future.

The Gothenburg Research Program on Pregnancy and Politics (PregDem) is a research collaboration between political scientists, midwives and obstetricians. The aim is to create a profound understanding of how pregnancy, childbirth and early parenthood affect the pregnant woman's and her partner's views of society. Central outcome variables include policy opinions and ideological priorities, institutional trust, political interest and awareness, political participation, parental identities and gender roles. Central independent variables include health, intake of information, contact with the welfare state, couple dynamics, socio-economic background and the corona-pandemic. We use longitudinal survey data (most importantly The Swedish Pregnancy Panel, The Swedish Citizen Panel, The Swedish Level of Living Survey and the Irish Mammi survey), register data on medical records (from the so-called Graviditetsregistret) and cross-sectional survey data from the Society, Media and Opinion Institute and the Swedish National Election Studies.

The project website (under development) is found here: <https://www.gu.se/en/research/gothenburg-research-program-on-pregnancy-and-politics-pregdem>

PregDem is led by Elin Naurin (Director) and is financed by the Swedish Research Council, Knut & Alice Wallenberg Foundation and University of Gothenburg. You can read an interview with the research director here: <https://kaw.wallenberg.org/en/research/pregnancy-and-perceptions-politics>

Job assignments

The Postdoctoral research fellow will conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program, in collaboration with the research director and with other scholars in the team. More specifically, (s)he will analyze and publish original research using the data that is collected within the project, especially the data from the Swedish Pregnancy Panel and the Swedish Citizen panel.

One of PregDem's strengths is the flexibility and collaborative spirit of everyone in the research group, focusing on reaching the goals of the data collection and research program. This includes a willingness to contribute to coding of data, quality control, data management, respondent contact and/or teaching during peak periods. For this position, the service component will include tasks connected to the supervision of online survey data coming in in the final two waves of a panel survey. It will also include participating in the writing of research funding applications. The Postdoctoral Research Fellow may be asked to perform service to the PregDem program up to one-third of FTE.

Eligibility

The postdoctoral research fellow position is open to candidates who have received a PhD in political science or related field latest by the first day of employment.

Assessment

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in research on political opinion and behavior and/or political sociology with a particular view towards areas of relevance to the PregDem project. One or more of the following scientific skills are also meritorious;

1. A well-developed proposal of high scientific quality, for a research project that falls within and preferably further develops PregDem, based on the above-mentioned outcome and independent variables.
3. Advanced knowledge in longitudinal/panel data techniques.
3. Demonstrated research expertise on: political socialisation, parenthood, partner dynamics, health and politics, political participation, political interest and knowledge, political opinion, political trust, welfare state, gender and politics.

We will make an overall assessment of the applicants' qualifications and select one judged to complement the rest of the team in the best way possible for the needs of the program. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

Employment

Fixed-term employment, two years, full time in residence, start date as soon as possible. Location: Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg

For more details on appointment procedures, please visit: https://web103.reachmee.com/ext/1005/1035/job?site=7&lang=UK&validator=9b89bead79bb7258ad55c8d75228e5b7&job_id=17746

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8284

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defense-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

Yale University

Rank: Research Postdoctoral Associate

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2021. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Please apply online at this link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79728>.

The review process will begin on February 1, 2021. Please submit your completed application by that date for full consideration, although applications received after 2/1/21 will be reviewed if there is still a vacancy.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8205

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Senior Researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, Methodology

Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.Ds. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2021-22

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2021. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79312>.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8116

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs (UCCS) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of international relations beginning August 2021. Successful candidates will have research and teaching interests in one or more of the following areas: international security, international conflict, and foreign policy. Additional consideration will be given to candidates with teaching and research interests in comparative politics, international organizations, civil-military relations, East Asian politics, or research methods. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate courses in political science (five courses per year), keeping up an active research agenda, and service at the departmental, university, or professional level. Candidates must have a PhD in political science or a closely related field.

Applications submitted on the CU Careers website by November 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. Applications submitted through email or surface mail will not be considered. Please apply at www.cu.edu/cu-careers (job #: 19206). Upon request, please be prepared to provide five professional references, including their email contact information. Official transcripts will be required upon hire. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and samples of research may be required. If you have technical difficulties with your application, please contact the CU Careers help desk at 303-860-4200 #5 or cucareshelp@cu.edu. Job related inquiries should be directed to the posting contact, Dr. Steven Pittz.

To apply, please submit the following application materials on the CU Careers website: a current CV, a cover letter that specifically addresses the job requirements and outlines qualifications, unofficial transcripts, teaching statement, and research statement. In order for an application to be considered, applicants must label each required attachment with the relevant title, attach the required documents for this position announcement to the submission, and check the Job Specific Attachments box next to each document in the submission.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8076

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8027

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. All applications should be submitted to jobs.carleton.edu. Inquiries can be directed to pteiiken@carleton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 9/4/2020

Date Posted: 7/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7917

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on "CyberEscalation in Power Projection." This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the "Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection" project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

NON-ACADEMIC

Springer Nature

Rank: Associate or Senior Editor (Environmental Social Science)

Specializations: Great Britain, Germany, Science & Technology

Job Title: Associate or Senior Editor (Environmental Social Science)

Organisation: Nature Communications

Location: London, Berlin, or New York

Closing date: 8th December 2020

Nature Research is the world's leader in publishing high-quality research from across the natural sciences. Its journals include Nature, the Nature Research journals, the Nature Reviews journals and Nature Communications.

Nature Communications is the leading multidisciplinary Open Access journal, publishing high-quality scientific research. To help us to build on the success of this journal, we're seeking a quantitative environmental social scientist specialising in climate change/energy/sustainability economics, policy or mitigation who has a critical eye, a deep understanding of their subject and interests beyond, and who can think on their feet.

The Associate/Senior Editor role at Nature Communications is ideal for researchers who love science but feel that a career at the bench isn't enough to sate your desire to learn more about the natural world and for those who enjoy reading papers outside their chosen area of research.

The responsibilities include:

- Handling original research papers, and working closely with other editors on all aspects of the editorial process, including manuscript selection and overseeing peer review.
- Making well-reasoned editorial decisions on submitted manuscripts in the light of expert advice.
- Determining the representation of their subject in the journal.
- Liaising extensively with editors at other journals in the Nature family and with experts in the international scientific community.
- Attending conferences and visiting research institutions.

To be considered for the position, you will have:

- A PhD (or equivalent) in quantitative environmental social science. This could include, but is not limited to, climate and energy policy, economics, climate change mitigation, sustainability and climate change risk and impacts.
- Some postdoctoral research experience is preferred but not essential. A thorough understanding of the fundamentals of the subject is essential.
- A passion for science and a thirst to learn more. You must be able to demonstrate the breadth of your interest in scientific research, both within and beyond your speciality and across the wider field of environmental social science.
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills and be fluent in English (written and spoken).
- The ability to read and assess the novelty, context and implications of research submitted to the journal from different areas of this discipline.
- Be eager to travel and meet scientists worldwide, learn more about them and their research, and help them learn more about us and what we are looking for in the papers we seek to publish.

This role can be located in either our London, Berlin, New York offices. The position is offered on a full-time, permanent basis. Editorial experience is not required, although applicants with significant editorial experience are encouraged to apply and will potentially be considered for Senior Editor positions.

Applicants should include a CV, a cover letter explaining their interest in the post and their preferred office of employment, and a separate concise (300-400 words) discussion of recent scientific developments in any area of environmental social science that you found particularly exciting, stating why.

To apply, please visit: <https://career5.successfactors.eu/sfcareer/jobreqcareer?jobId=32861&company=C0001215517P>

Candidates will be considered as they apply.

Start Date: Winter 2020

Application Deadline: 12/8/2020

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 8281

University of Chicago

Rank: Senior Instructional Professor

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for a position on the Senior Instructional Professor track (Senior Assistant Instructional Professor, Senior Associate Instructional Professor, or Senior Instructional Professor, depending on the candidate's experience and qualifications), for appointment in the Master of Arts Computational Social Science (MACSS) and the College. This is a full-time, career-track teaching position beginning July 1, 2021. The initial five-year appointment is renewable with opportunity for promotion. The appointee will teach four courses per year that contribute to the MACSS curriculum, plus one non-credit workshop in computational social science. This is a leadership position and the appointee will also hold the title of Associate Director in MACSS. In addition to teaching, the appointee will, in consultation with the Faculty Director of MACSS: provide leadership in vision, planning, and promotion of MACSS within and beyond the University; develop, implement, and oversee curricular and co-curricular programs including developing new curricular offerings and co-curricular programs to advance student learning; directly supervise and evaluate other teaching personnel, including Instructional Professors, Teaching Fellows, and preceptors in MACSS; and develop, oversee, and mentor research opportunities for graduate students. During the term of appointment, the Senior Lecturer will also have the opportunity to teach one or two courses as part of the Summer Institute in Social Research Methods (Computing for the Social Sciences, Data Mining and Data Visualization, or equivalent courses).

Qualifications

Candidates must have the PhD in hand prior to the start date, a demonstrated record as a degreed professional designing and teaching courses to undergraduate and graduate students at a selective research university, demonstrated experience in research and practice related to Computational Social Science, and proven experience successfully managing a program and supervising academic personnel.

Application Instructions

Applicants are required to apply online through the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/79999. Applicants are required to upload the following materials: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae (3) syllabi for two proposed courses; (4) a writing sample/publication; and (5) the names and contact information for three references. References will only be contacted for shortlisted candidates. Review of applications will begin December 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8212

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Senior Researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, Methodology

Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.Ds. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

OPEN

Bard College

Rank: Full-Time, Tenure-Track, Open-Rank Professor in Political Theory

The Political Studies program at Bard College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track, open-rank position in Political Theory to begin Fall 2021. The search is open to all areas of specialization within Political Theory. Applications from candidates who are able to speak across the subfields of Political Science and to the wider social science and humanities communities at the College are especially welcome. Our program's concern with issues of social justice leads us to invest in recruiting colleagues who in their scholarship, teaching and service demonstrate experience with, knowledge of and sensitivity to the needs of culturally diverse populations and who are committed to working with students holding a range of worldviews.

Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2021. To apply please submit via Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/81472> a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of written work, a teaching portfolio (including sample syllabi and student evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. Letters of recommendation are not required for tenured candidates. Candidates will be expected to have completed all of the requirements for the doctoral degree by August 2021. Bard College is a highly selective co-educational liberal arts college located in the Hudson Valley, 90 miles north of New York City. For more information on Bard, visit www.bard.edu. Bard College is an equal opportunity employer and is especially interested in candidates who contribute to the diversity goals of the institution. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, mental, or physical disability, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, familial status, veteran status, or genetic information. Bard is committed to providing access, equal opportunity, and reasonable accommodation for all individuals in employment practices, services, programs, and activities. Please email the search committee chair, Michelle Murray (mkmurray@bard.edu), with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/5/2021

Date Posted: 11/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8338

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Dean of Social Science

Subfield(s): Administration, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Middle East, Social Movements, Economic Policy

Dean of Social Science

New York University Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) is an extraordinary achievement and unparalleled opportunity in higher education. In the decade since its founding it has become one of the most selective undergraduate institutions in the world. It is both transformational for the region, and critical to New York University's vision to be at the forefront of international higher education in the 21st century.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion and belonging. It enrolls what is perhaps the most diverse student body in higher education, with students from more than 115 countries with no one nationality exceeding 15 percent. It is also one of the most selective, with an average admit rate of 4%. There are currently more than 1,450 undergraduate students enrolled under a need-blind admission policy with remarkable financial aid, with the plan for the number to grow to 2,200 undergraduates and 400 graduate students in the coming years. Across its four divisions NYUAD is home to more than 320 faculty and 400 research staff, also drawn from all over the world.

NYUAD offers degrees built upon an inspiring, highly globalized core curriculum and currently offers doctoral students research areas in five disciplines, with additional graduate programs and executive education being proposed each year. NYUAD's faculty and students alike benefit from being part of NYU's incomparable network, which provides them with opportunities to study and research across the world.

NYUAD is now seeking its next Dean for the Division of Social Science. Situated at one of the world's cultural cross-roads, social science at NYUAD has access to some of the most ancient and rapidly developing communities and is in a remarkable position to analyse humanity in all its diversity and complexity. Its faculty are working on fieldwork projects throughout the region on topics ranging from religious mobilization in Turkey to economic development in sub-Saharan Africa.

The Dean of Social Science of NYU Abu Dhabi has a unique opportunity to play a formative role in helping NYUAD achieve its ambitious agenda, advancing diversity and inclusion and growing research, scholarship, and educational programming, whilst providing leadership and oversight of a highly-accomplished faculty and unique curricula, research and teaching in a dynamic, diverse and developing environment.

For more information and to apply please contact Benjamin Crase on Benjamin.Crase@perrettlaver.com. To apply, please visit https://candidates.perrettlaver.com/vacancies/2001/dean_of_social_science/

Electronic submission is strongly encouraged. NYUAD is committed to equality and is an equal opportunity employer. We encourage inquiries from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8328

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: Lecturer (Full-Time)

The Department of Political Science at The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for multiple 3-Year Full-Time Lecturers to begin September 1, 2021. The successful candidates will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization.

Thanks to a steadfast commitment to safety and success, UTRGV achieved record-breaking student enrollment in the Fall 2020 semester. For additional information, please visit our website, see, <https://www.utrgv.edu/newsroom/2020/09/17-utrgv-marks-record-high-enrollment-student-success-outcomes-amid-pandemics-challenges.htm#:~:st=UTRGV%20announced%20Thursday%20that%20its,from%20the%20previous%20fall%20semester>

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8327

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Health)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Health) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and collaborate on and develop projects related to immigration policy and health. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results. This fellow will join a team of researchers from IPL, the Stanford School of Medicine, Oregon Health & Science University, and the Duke School of Medicine to evaluate the effects of immigration and health policy on the intergenerational health of immigrant families.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, as well as work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to develop related independent health research. Examples of previous studies produced by the lab include projects on the intergenerational impact of DACA on the mental health of children (Science), public health insurance and immigrant families' location decisions (JAMA Pediatrics), and the impact of prenatal care for children of undocumented women (Obstetrics and Gynecology).

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second and third year). Start date is flexible, but no later than July 2021 and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for political science, economics, sociology, statistics, or computer science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of causal inference methods, data management, and data analysis. Knowledge of immigration and health policy will also be valued.

In addition, having experience working with medical claims data and executing and managing data analysis in a server-based environment is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17290> (ID17290). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Health).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8315

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Early Career Fellow in Race and Ethnic Politics

The Department of Government at the University of Texas at Austin seeks to appoint in Fall 2021 two early career fellows whose research and teaching interests engage with race and ethnic politics in any of the traditional subfields.

At UT Austin, we are committed to building a vibrant interdisciplinary community of scholars. If you are an early career academic, postdoctoral fellow or graduating PhD student interested in pursuing an independent academic career, the UT Austin Provost's Early Career program could be ideal for you.

This training program is designed to allow you to develop and pursue writing and teaching skills upon which you can build a future academic career, here at UT Austin or elsewhere. Join a broad community committed to fostering your independent career growth in writing, teaching, and scholarship. The program will enable you to build a network of emerging scholars like yourself and benefit from the mentorship of top faculty in your field.

As a Provost's Early Career Fellow, you will join an energetic community of other incoming fellows training in different departments across the university. In Government, we have designed a 3-year program where you will be mentored in all the different dimensions that make an assistant tenure-track professor successful. You will be expected to participate in and be a member of the Race and Ethnic Politics (REP) Lab.

Fellows selected for this program will receive a competitive stipend, fringe benefits, and relocation funds. Fellows will also have access to additional funds for research support, visiting speakers, and conference travel. The Fellows will also be assigned research assistants through the Departments' Undergraduate Research Internship Program and a teaching assistant for each semester they are teaching. The teaching load is 1-0, designed to afford the fellow time to write for publication while keeping them engaged with the department. Throughout the duration of the program, you will also participate in university-wide training provided by the Provost's Office to further develop the skills to build a unique writing and teaching portfolio. This cross-departmental cohort experience will be complemented by a departmental mentoring program including participation in communities of practice for both writing and teaching. The fellowship includes the possibility of transition into a tenure-track assistant professor position in the Department of Government at University of Texas at Austin.

Qualifications

The qualified fellow must hold a PhD in Government or related field. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work and teaching focuses on a political phenomenon through a racial or ethnic lens. Successful applicants will demonstrate a commitment to expanding practices of diversity, equity, and inclusion in the profession.

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should upload to interfolio a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, two writing samples, a research statement, and a diversity statement: <https://apply.interfolio.com/81253>

For more details, please contact Dr. Amy Liu (amy.liu@austin.utexas.edu) and/or Dr. Lydia Contreras (Provost Office). To be guaranteed fullest consideration, applications should be received by January 8, 2021.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/8/2021

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8316

Appalachian State University

Rank: Senior Visiting Professorship

Appalachian State University invites applicants to apply for a Senior Visiting Professorship in the Department of Government and Justice Studies. Applications are open for the academic years 2021-22, 2022-23, and 2023-24. The length and semester of the appointment are negotiable. The salary is competitive and includes a generous budget to support the activities of the professorship. We are especially interested in individuals who, through their research, teaching, service, or professional experiences have established records of supporting underrepresented groups and promoting diversity and inclusiveness.

Areas of expertise are open to all subfields, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political theory, and policy. Areas of particular interest include African American/Racial Politics; Latinx politics; North Carolina politics; Indigenous politics; Environmental politics/climate change; LGBTQ Politics and Policy; Political Communications/media and politics; Human Rights; and, Social Movements and Contentious Politics.

The goals of the visiting professorship are to provide faculty and students with innovative research, education, and engagement opportunities. While the position is flexible, all visiting scholars will be expected to teach 1-2 classes per-semester and support activities promoting engagement with faculty and/or students. Applications must include a letter of interest noting possible courses, activities, and/or projects you would like to engage in during your tenure in the Department of Government and Justice Studies.

Applicants must submit an electronic application (<http://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/26900>) consisting of (1) a letter of interest discussing possible courses, activities, and/or projects you would like to engage with students and faculty during your tenure in the Department of Government and Justice Studies; (2) applicant's available and preferred start dates and length of appointment; (3) current vitae, and (4) a Diversity Statement, which may include your interpretation of diversity, equity, and inclusion, and must include specific examples of how your background, experiences and/or professional work has supported underrepresented groups and promoted diversity and inclusiveness. Any additional questions can be directed to the search chair, Dr. Renee Scherlen, at psfaculty@appstate.edu.

The review of applications will begin on January 25, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Appalachian State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8310

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Data Science)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Data Science) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow with extensive experience and training in data science to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of digital tools related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the data scientist postdoc will be to lead data analysis for research projects and develop innovative digital tools related to immigration policy, programs, and services under the guidance of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on data science, causal inference, machine learning, statistical analysis, and programming. For instance, the postdoc will help drive a global effort to support refugee integration by developing matching tools for various countries using machine learning. The post doc will also work on data analysis for projects examining the impacts of immigration related policies and programs. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects and tools related to immigration policy evaluation.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible (no later than August 2021) and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science, statistics, computer science, or related program, with a preference for candidates who have demonstrated training and skills in both data analysis and programming. Previous experience conducting research on immigration issues is valued but not required.

She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, statistical inference and modeling, and machine learning. Experience or skills in data visualization and optimization methods are also highly valued.

In addition, she or he should also have significant programming experience. Proficiency in R is required. Experience working with a general-purpose programming language (e.g. Python, Java, C++) and/or with SQL is also a plus. Demonstrated ability to develop user-friendly digital tools, apps, or programs that leverage data and statistical methods in novel ways is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17288> (ID17288). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Data Science).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8312

York University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in Black Politics

The Department of Politics, Faculty of Liberal Arts & Professional Studies, York University invites highly qualified candidates to apply for a professorial stream tenure-track appointment in Black Politics at the Assistant/Associate Professor level, to commence July 1, 2021. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

This opportunity is open to qualified individuals who self-identify as Black peoples of African Descent (for example Africans and African heritage people from the Caribbean, Americas, Europe). Recognizing the underrepresentation of Black faculty, this opportunity is to support the University's Affirmative Action program and has been developed based on the special program provisions of the Ontario Human Rights Code. The position is part of a cohort hire of fourteen new colleagues at York University, including hires across a number of faculties and a wide range of areas and fields. The successful candidate will be joining a vibrant scholarly community at York, where we aspire to achieve equity and diversity in all areas, including race equity.

The Department of Politics is internationally recognized as one of the world's leading sites of political scholarship informed by a diverse range of critical intellectual approaches and is seeking a dynamic intellectual leader to help advance that reputation and the scholarly excellence on which it is based. The successful candidate will be establishing, or already have established, an international reputation for the excellence of their contribution to the critical study of Black Politics, broadly defined and grounded in critical race theoretical or equity seeking approaches. Applicants should have an independent record of research that fits within at least one (or bridges two or more) of the Department's five fields: Canadian Politics, Comparative Politics, Gender/Women and Politics, International Politics, and Political Theory. Their research should complement the present scholarly profile of the Department and develop it in new and innovative ways. Theoretical or empirical contributions are welcomed, as are any geographical foci or transnational orientations, including global perspectives on Canada.

A PhD or near completion in Political Science or a related area is required, with a demonstrated record of excellence or promise of excellence in teaching, scholarly research and publication and service. Applicants should have a clearly articulated program of research in Black Politics.

The successful candidate will be expected to engage in outstanding, innovative, and, as appropriate, externally funded research.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence or promise of research excellence of a recognized international calibre as demonstrated in: a research statement; a record of publications (or forthcoming publications) as appropriate to their stage of career; presentations at major conferences or public fora; awards and accolades; related community-engaged activities; and strong recommendations from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence or promise of excellence in teaching will be provided through a teaching philosophy and pedagogy statement, teaching accomplishments and pedagogical innovations, including in high priority areas such as experiential education and technology enhanced learning, teaching evaluations, and strong letters of reference.

The position will involve graduate teaching and supervision, as well as undergraduate teaching and the successful candidate must be suitable for prompt appointment to the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

York University champions new ways of thinking that drive teaching and research excellence. Through cross-disciplinary programming, innovative course design, diverse experiential learning and a supportive community environment, our students receive the education they need to create big ideas that make an impact on the world. Located in Toronto, York is the third largest university in Canada, with a strong community of 53,000 students, 7,000 faculty and administrative staff, and more than 300,000 alumni.

York University has a policy on Accommodation in Employment for Persons with Disabilities and is committed to working towards a barrier-free workplace and to expanding the accessibility of the workplace to persons with disabilities. Candidates who require accommodation during the selection process are invited to contact Professor Karen Murray, Chair of the Recruitment Committee, at polsjobs@yorku.ca.

This selection will be limited to individuals who self-identify as Black. York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. York University encourages Black peoples to self-identify as a member of one or more of the four designated groups: women, members of visible minorities (racialized groups), Aboriginal (Indigenous) people and persons with disabilities. The Affirmative Action program can be found at www.yorku.ca/acadjobs/ or by calling the AA line at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify as part of York University's Affirmative Action program can do so as part of the application process (<https://apply.laps.yorku.ca>). The form can also be found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/self-identification-form>. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous peoples in Canada will be given priority. No application will be considered without a completed mandatory Work Status Declaration form which is available through the application process and can also be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/work-authorization-form>.

Application, including cover letter, an up-to-date curriculum vitae; research statement; teaching philosophy and pedagogy statement; scholarly writing sample (maximum 50 pages); sample course outline or reading list (optional); three confidential letters of recommendation; Work Status Declaration Form; and, York University Affirmative Action Program Confidential Self-identification Form may be uploaded to <https://apply.laps.yorku.ca> beginning on October 15, 2020.

The deadline for receipt of completed applications has been extended to December 15, 2020.

Questions may be directed to Professor Karen Murray, Chair, Department of Politics, Faculty of Liberal Arts and Professional Studies. Email: polschr@yorku.ca.

Posting End Date: December 15, 2020.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8306

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Faculty Director of Teresa Lozano Long Institute of Latin American Studies

Subject to budget availability, The University of Texas at Austin has opened a national and international search for Director of the Teresa Lozano Long Institute of Latin American Studies (LLILAS). The Director will also serve as a key member of the leadership team of the LLILAS Benson Latin American Studies and Collections, an innovative partnership established nearly a decade ago that pairs the abundant scholarly resources of the Nettie Lee Benson Latin American Collection with the teaching and research focus of LLILAS. The Institute is a Title VI National Resource Center encompassing 160 faculty associates, eight joint faculty members, a dynamic student program, and a vibrant intellectual community. The unparalleled Benson Collection is one of the largest and finest library and archival collections in the world dedicated to the history, culture, arts and sciences of Latin American, Latina/o and Black diaspora communities. The LLILAS Benson partnership engages in collaborative programs of research and teaching, digital scholarship, and public engagement that make Latin American studies and collections at The University of Texas a high University priority and world-renowned. The Director of LLILAS will provide intellectual leadership and vision for our academic programs, will assume principal responsibility for LLILAS administration and will represent LLILAS to its diverse local, national and international publics. For more information on LLILAS, Benson and The University of Texas, please visit:

<http://www.utexas.edu/cola/llilas/>

<http://www.lib.utexas.edu/benson/>

Candidates should have a documented record of excellence in scholarly activity, commensurate with Full Professor status in a leading department; demonstrated leadership abilities and strong administrative experience in an academic, library, or comparable setting; and experience or interest in donor cultivation and stewardship. The successful candidate will be appointed as a tenured faculty member in the College of Liberal Arts. Field of expertise will determine the faculty member's home department. A demonstrated ability to teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels is required. The holder of this position will be expected to teach at least one course each semester. Expected start date is Fall 2021. Applications are submitted via Interfolio (<http://apply.interfolio.com/80765>) and should include a cover letter, current vitae, a teaching statement, a research statement, and names and contact information for a minimum of three references. Applicants are also encouraged to discuss in their cover letter or a separate statement their past or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion through their research, teaching and/or service. Review of applications will begin on Jan. 15, 2021 and will continue until the position is filled. For questions about the position, please contact Raúl Madrid, Search Committee Chair and Harold C. and Alice T. Nowlin Regents Professor in Liberal Arts (rmadrid@austin.utexas.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8299

Springer Nature

Rank: Associate or Senior Editor (Environmental Social Science)

Specializations: Great Britain, Germany, Science & Technology

Job Title: Associate or Senior Editor (Environmental Social Science)

Organisation: Nature Communications

Location: London, Berlin, or New York

Closing date: 8th December 2020

Nature Research is the world's leader in publishing high-quality research from across the natural sciences. Its journals include Nature, the Nature Research journals, the Nature Reviews journals and Nature Communications.

Nature Communications is the leading multidisciplinary Open Access journal, publishing high-quality scientific research. To help us to build on the success of this journal, we're seeking a quantitative environmental social scientist specialising in climate change/energy/sustainability economics, policy or mitigation who has a critical eye, a deep understanding of their subject and interests beyond, and who can think on their feet.

The Associate/Senior Editor role at Nature Communications is ideal for researchers who love science but feel that a career at the bench isn't enough to sate your desire to learn more about the natural world and for those who enjoy reading papers outside their chosen area of research.

The responsibilities include:

- Handling original research papers, and working closely with other editors on all aspects of the editorial process, including manuscript selection and overseeing peer review.
- Making well-reasoned editorial decisions on submitted manuscripts in the light of expert advice.
- Determining the representation of their subject in the journal.
- Liaising extensively with editors at other journals in the Nature family and with experts in the international scientific community.
- Attending conferences and visiting research institutions.

To be considered for the position, you will have:

- A PhD (or equivalent) in quantitative environmental social science. This could include, but is not limited to, climate and energy policy, economics, climate change mitigation, sustainability and climate change risk and impacts.
- Some postdoctoral research experience is preferred but not essential. A thorough understanding of the fundamentals of the subject is essential.
- A passion for science and a thirst to learn more. You must be able to demonstrate the breadth of your interest in scientific research, both within and beyond your speciality and across the wider field of environmental social science.
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills and be fluent in English (written and spoken).
- The ability to read and assess the novelty, context and implications of research submitted to the journal from different areas of this discipline.
- Be eager to travel and meet scientists worldwide, learn more about them and their research, and help them learn more about us and what we are looking for in the papers we seek to publish.

This role can be located in either our London, Berlin, New York offices. The position is offered on a full-time, permanent basis. Editorial experience is not required, although applicants with significant editorial experience are encouraged to apply and will potentially be considered for Senior Editor positions.

Applicants should include a CV, a cover letter explaining their interest in the post and their preferred office of employment, and a separate concise (300-400 words) discussion of recent scientific developments in any area of environmental social science that you found particularly exciting, stating why.

To apply, please visit: <https://career5.successfactors.eu/sfcareer/jobreqcareer?jobId=32861&company=C0001215517P>

Candidates will be considered as they apply.

Start Date: Winter 2020
Application Deadline: 12/8/2020
Date Posted: 11/13/2020
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 8281

The Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in Global Black Studies

Specializations: Africa, Civil Rights & Liberties, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Global Black Studies with an anticipated start date of August 16, 2021. The successful candidates will be scholars trained in the humanities or social sciences whose scholarship approaches Africana and Black Studies from international or global perspective. ?

We are especially interested in scholars working in areas such as Black radical thought and critical race theory in international, transnational, diasporic or global perspective; African migration and refugee studies including the politics of citizenship, xenophobia, and anti-Black racism around the world; African philosophy, Caribbean theory, and the global production of knowledge about sub-Saharan African cultures, resources, histories and peoples; comparative studies of blackness, institutional racism, state sanctioned anti-Black violence, environmental racism, plantation cultures and global carceral geographies; transnational and global projects of social justice, political organization, solidarity and coalition building, including through the use of new and old media; the global circulation and consumption of Black, African, and African diasporic culture and cultural artifacts whether in museums, popular culture, or performance culture; Black space, architecture, urban design, global cities, and Blackcosmopolitanism; pan-African mobilities, hemispheric Black studies, Black indigeneity and blackness and/in the Global South; African humanitarianism, public health, international debt, and global economic justice. Scholars may focus on Anglophone or non-Anglophone contexts, and their research may cover the lived experiences of people of African descent in any part of the world. Applicants must have a doctoral degree in an appropriate field of study.

Application dossiers should include: 1) a cover letter that addresses the candidates qualifications for the position, research agenda, and teaching interests; 2) a current curriculum vitae; 3) two publications or works-in-progress indicative of the strength and breadth of the candidate's scholarship relevant to this position; 4) the names of three individuals who may be contacted to provide letters of reference after an initial dossier screening.

Materials received by Friday December 4 2020 will receive full consideration. Inquiries may be directed to Prof. Edwin Hill, chair of the search committee, at edwinhil@usc.edu.

Full details and application links can be found at the link below -

https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-global-black-studies/1209/17813338?fbclid=IwAR3IS_fDAU3Ui7V8hb d X B q D t W 1 N q F b E K 0 _ - RTQroui6C17pIpA7zjFK8vEo

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/4/2020
Date Posted: 11/13/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8292

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in any subfield within political science for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. This position is part of a broader multi-year faculty hiring initiative in the data sciences. Candidates will be core members of Vanderbilt's recently established Data Science Institute, and will be expected to contribute to the research and teaching mission of the institute, and ideally to foster research collaborations with existing faculty across academic departments working on data science-related topics. The political science department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. The appointment will begin Fall 2021. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as November 16, 2020. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by November 30, 2020, but we welcome earlier applications and we may schedule formal interviews at any time. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by August 15, 2021.

Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), a diversity statement, and three letters of reference electronically at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/80897>.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/11/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8270

Hertie School

Rank: Assistant Professor of Sustainability
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Other, Open

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School, Berlin
 A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting an

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School is recruiting an assistant professor working on key sustainability topics such as climate, energy, or mobility and transport. We particularly welcome scholars whose research covers regions beyond Germany and Europe. This person should combine state-of-the-art empirical, policy-relevant research with a teaching profile that matches the needs of a public policy school.

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. We are looking for a candidate with a strong background in economics. The successful candidate will be appointed as tenure-track Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts). The expected start date is September 2021.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research at the highest levels in their discipline through an established record of publication in top outlets. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a strong commitment to high-quality teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers. The Hertie School strongly encourages applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes. This position will be based in the School's new Centre for Sustainability, and the successful candidate will actively contribute to its research, outreach and teaching activities. Collaboration with other new Centres of Competence of the Hertie School is encouraged. Those are the Jacques Delors Centre, the Centre for International Security, the Centre for Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Digital Governance, and the Data Science Lab.

As a private non-profit university, endowed and supported by the Hertie Foundation, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters. We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Berlin's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously. Under German law, there is standard paid leave for parents after the birth of a child. For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 6 December 2020. To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here:

<https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/20369/assistant-professor-of-sustainability-fmdiv>

For questions about the position, please contact Christian Flachslund, Professor of Sustainability (flachslund@hertie-school.org). Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Please upload the documents in the following order:

Motivation letter
CV including publication list and the names of two references
A diversity statement of no more than one page
One or more writing samples.

Optional additional documents include teaching evaluations and a research and/or teaching statement. Please have two references submitted separately via Email to researchandfaculty@hertie-school.org.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8253

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Economics at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a tenure track opening, joint with the Department of Political Science, at the Assistant Professor level in the area of formal political economy theory. Economics would be the home department. Vanderbilt stresses excellence in research and teaching in its doctoral, masters, and undergraduate programs. Preliminary interviews will begin on January 6, 2021.

Qualifications

Appointment at the Assistant Professor level at full salary requires a Ph.D. as of August 16, 2021. Faculty duties include the development of a distinguished and visible program of research with broad appeal to both economists and political scientists, as well as teaching in both departments.

Application Instructions

Submissions should include CV, job market paper, a diversity statement, statement of teaching interests and evidence of teaching effectiveness; you will also need to designate three references at the time of your application. Interested applicants should submit their applications via Interfolio at this link <http://apply.interfolio.com/80551>.

We will commence reviewing submissions on December 2, 2020, and will schedule interviews on Zoom in the weeks thereafter.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/5/2020

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8256

Wake Forest University

Rank: Teacher-Scholar Postdoctoral Fellow in Leadership and Character and Department of Politics and International Affairs

The Program for Leadership and Character and Department of Politics and International Affairs at Wake Forest University seek a thoughtful, engaged, and creative scholar to become a Teacher-Scholar Postdoctoral Fellow for one year. The Postdoctoral Fellow will join an innovative cohort of emerging scholars from the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences to develop and teach leadership and character-related courses in their respective disciplines. The Postdoctoral Fellow will teach 3 courses per year (a 1:2) and contribute to the co-curricular programming of the Program for Leadership and Character and the Department of Politics and International Affairs. The Postdoctoral Fellow will benefit from course development workshops and mentoring from faculty in the Program and the Department. The Postdoctoral Fellow will also have an opportunity to work with a senior research scholar to assess the impact of their courses and potentially publish relevant research.

The one-year fellowship is funded by a grant from the Lilly Endowment. We welcome recent PhDs in political science and closely related fields and remain open as to subfields (political theory, political ethics, comparative politics, political psychology, American politics or international politics) and methodological perspectives, so long the scholar's research and teaching relate to leadership and character broadly understood and demonstrate a capacity for working across disciplines to pursue ethics-related teaching and research. Compelling applicants will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students from diverse backgrounds, including international students, first-generation students, and those who identify as members of historically marginalized communities.

Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and inclusivity and seeks applicants with demonstrated success in working with diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Wake Forest University is a private, coeducational institution dedicated to academic excellence in liberal arts, graduate and professional education. Located in Winston-Salem, NC ("The City of Arts and Innovation"), the University is ranked among the top thirty national universities by U.S. News and World Report. The University has a deep institutional commitment to public service and engagement with the world, as indicated by the motto Pro Humanitate (for humanity), which encourages students to develop the qualities of human character needed to serve humanity. With the aim to educate the whole person, the University has established an innovative Program for Leadership and Character that plans creative, liberal arts-based programming to help students develop the virtues of character needed to lead in an increasingly complex world. The Program is based on cutting-edge academic research on leadership and character, including research conducted by Wake Forest faculty in philosophy and psychology who are leading experts on the study of character. The Program has established a partnership with the Oxford Character Project and has been profiled as a model for how universities can educate character. The Program recently received a major grant from the Lilly Endowment to develop leaders of character at Wake Forest and support other colleges and universities who seek to infuse leadership and character at their campuses. The Department of Politics and International Affairs is one of the largest majors on campus and home to creative and collegial faculty who seek to develop students as critical thinkers, effective writers, and persons committed to public service and engagement with the world. The Department of Politics and International Affairs welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the department's research, teaching, and community engagement.

For quick facts about the University, see <http://www.wfu.edu/visitors/quickfacts.html>. For more on the Program for Leadership and Character, see <https://leadershipandcharacter.wfu.edu/>. For more on the Department of Politics and International Affairs, see <https://politics.wfu.edu/>.

Please provide a cover letter addressed to the members of the search committee, a curriculum vita, a teaching statement, copies of course evaluations, and a writing sample. At least three confidential letters of recommendation must be sent via email to leadershipandcharacter@wfu.edu.

The position may begin as early as June 1, 2021. Applications arriving by January 15, 2021 will be given priority consideration.

For additional information, please contact Dr. Michael Lamb at lambkm@wfu.edu.

Essential Functions:

- Teaches 3 courses depending on program needs.
- Develops syllabi and teaching resources related to leadership and character.
- Assists with designing and delivering curricular and co-curricular programming.
- Contributes to ongoing research on leadership and character within the university context.
- Participates in course development workshops and ongoing professional development.
- Works collaboratively with faculty, staff, and postdoctoral fellows in the Program for Leadership and Character and Department of Politics and International Affairs to advance the work of the programs.
- Attends regular meetings of the Program for Leadership and Character and Department of Politics and International Affairs.
- Presents research findings and represents the program at relevant academic conferences and educational convenings.
- Works with the senior research scholar to develop assessment plans for their courses and potentially publishes relevant scholarly research.
- Assists with other programming and research of the Program for Leadership and Character and Department of Politics and International Affairs as needed.

Required Education, Knowledge, Skills, Abilities:

- Ph.D. in politics or political science or closely related fields.
- Commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and research.
- Record of excellent teaching and commitment to developing creative pedagogy.
- Excellent writing, research, and communication skills.
- Excellent organizational and interpersonal skills.
- Commitment to supporting the intellectual and ethical development of students.
- Experience with, and sensitivity to, diverse populations and the ability to build inclusive and equitable communities where differences are appreciated and engaged.
- Sound character, wise judgment, and a strong work ethic.

Demonstrated ability to:

- Work independently with minimal supervision.
- Set priorities and effectively manage time and resources.
- Be a constructive and cooperative member of a team.
- Positively influence colleagues and develop collaborative relationships with a wide range of people.
- Willingness to learn more about leadership and character development and apply that knowledge to inform curricular design, implementation, and assessment.
- Knowledge and understanding of academic cultures, rules, and regulations.
- Openness to feedback and a commitment to personal and professional growth.
- Ability to represent the programs and the university in a professional manner.
- Ability to work occasional weekend or evening hours as needed.

Preferred Education, Knowledge, Skills, Abilities:

-Teaching experience or research related to leadership, character, virtue, and/or ethics.

-Knowledge of leadership development and/or character education.

Note: This position profile identifies the key responsibilities and expectations for performance. It cannot encompass all specific job tasks that an employee may be required to perform. Employees are required to follow any other job-related instructions and perform job-related duties as may be reasonably assigned by his/her supervisor.

In order to provide a safe and productive learning and living community, Wake Forest University conducts background investigations and drug screens for all final staff candidates being considered for employment.

Time Type Requirement: Full time

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8255

NYU Shanghai

Rank: Urban Studies, Tenured/Tenure-track

NYU Shanghai invites applications for a position at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor in Urban Studies. We seek candidates who have received training in a social science discipline and can conduct cutting-edging interdisciplinary research on a variety of urban issues, with a special interest in those whose research incorporates spatial analysis and/or urban data analytics. Preference will be given to those interested in conducting research relevant to the China/Asia context. The successful candidate will contribute to the curriculum development and join a growing interdisciplinary group of faculty and researchers in Urban Studies from the Social Sciences, Humanities, the Arts, Data Science, and Engineering at NYU Shanghai.

Terms of employment at NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions with respect to research start-up funds and compensation, and they include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the NYU Global Network, engaging in both research and teaching.

NYU Shanghai is the third degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity, and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from under-represented individuals in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research, statement of teaching interests, and electronic copies of up to three relevant publications or writing samples via Interfolio. Additionally, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload a reference letter through Interfolio. Applications are received via Interfolio at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/80489>.

Applications will be received until 12/1/20. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please email the NYU Shanghai NY Office of Faculty Recruitment at shanghai.faculty.recruitment@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 11/2/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8245

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Political Science

The University of Connecticut's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences invites applications for six faculty positions (four at the level of Assistant Professor and two at the level of Associate or Full Professor) as part of a cluster hire in the Environment and Human Interactions. This initiative also includes two appointments at the Associate or Full Professor level. We seek a range of scholars on subjects including (but not limited to) pollution, water supply, climate change, policy, and society's response.

The Department of Political Science is interested in candidates for this cluster who can enhance departmental offerings in political behavior or policy analysis related to climate change, environmental sustainability, and environmental justice. Desirable candidates will additionally provide evidence of the ability to collaborate with environmental scientists across disciplines and to develop research programs that can attract external funding.

For more details and to apply, visit:

Associate or Full Professor (494839) <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17339>

Assistant Professor (494836) <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17334>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8244

Tulane University: Inter-American Policy and Research Fellowship

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, Latin American

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2021-2022, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $48,450 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2021. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/80202 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2020.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/31/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8217

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence.

The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281" complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae
- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)
- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVa

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

Boston University

Rank: Director of the Boston University Initiative on Cities

The College of Arts and Sciences at Boston University invites applications for Faculty Director of the Boston University Initiative on Cities (IoC) to begin July 1, 2021. We seek a senior scholar of cities with an established record of cutting-edge research, academic leadership and public engagement to lead the IoC (<https://www.bu.edu/ioc/>), a campus-wide research initiative that engages faculty and students to support and promote interdisciplinary research on cities and connect urban research, teaching and practice. We are looking for academic leaders from all relevant disciplinary backgrounds who share our commitment to ensuring that BU is inclusive, equitable, diverse, and a place where all constituents can thrive. We encourage applications from those with a record of fostering productive academic partnerships with diverse urban communities and municipal partners, and a strong vision of community building and bridging between faculty, students and a wide array of internal and external stakeholders from academia, government, nonprofits and the private sector.

To apply, please submit 1) a letter describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, including your accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity and inclusion; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) names and contact information for three references. Submit to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17133>. Applications will be reviewed starting November 15, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8203

Merton College, University of Oxford

Rank: PETER J. BRAAM JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP IN GLOBAL WELLBEING

Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Salary £23,754 p.a plus a housing allowance of £10,000 p.a. or free accommodation.

Please note that the College is reviewing the stipend for this post and may also need to adjust the balance of salary and housing allowance to be paid, but the new combined total will be no less than the total advertised.

Merton College proposes to elect a Peter J. Braam Research Fellow in Global Wellbeing for three years commencing on 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. This is a prestigious career-development post, which will provide a promising academic with opportunities to develop as researcher.

The main duty of the post will be to undertake independent research in a topic contributing to the solution of the global welfare problems. These problems might be humanitarian, natural or political, and can be broadly interpreted. The College will consider applications from a broad range of fields of study, including but not limited to international politics and development, economics, history, philosophy, law, medicine (e.g., epidemiology, virology, mental health), artificial intelligence and machine learning, etc., as long as a genuine case is made as to how the proposed research contributes specifically to the advancement of Global Wellbeing.

The successful applicant will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and/or have published or forthcoming books or articles in refereed journals as appropriate to the candidate's field, and must demonstrate achievement (commensurate with the candidate's career) in research at a standard that will contribute to and enhance the national and international profile of the subject at Oxford.

The postholder will be eligible for election as a Fellow of the College, and will need to demonstrate willingness to contribute to Merton College in that capacity and as a member of the College's Governing Body.

The duties and skills required are described in more detail in the Further Particulars, which also contain the details on eligibility criteria and how to apply. These are available at <https://www.merton.ox.ac.uk/vacancies> or from the Sub-Warden's Secretary, Mrs Lesley Walsh, Merton College, Oxford, OX1 4JD (e-mail: lesley.walsh@merton.ox.ac.uk).

The deadline for receipt of applications is 12 noon on Friday 4 December 2020.

The Fellow will be entitled to free meals, medical insurance, research allowance (£3,800 p.a.) and other benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/4/2020

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 8194

University of Memphis

Rank: Director PhD Program in Urban Affairs

Director of the PhD Program in Urban Affairs (Associate or Full Professor)

The School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Memphis invites applications for the position of Director of the PhD Program in Urban Affairs beginning in the 2021-2022 Academic Year. This is a full-time, nine-month, tenure track academic appointment at the rank of Associate or Full Professor.

The PhD in Urban Affairs is a new interdisciplinary program that will begin enrolling students in the fall of 2021. The distinctiveness of the program will be a focus on urban problem solving through interdisciplinary, collaborative engaged scholarship.

The Director will be the administrative leader of the Urban Affairs PhD program. This position is an opportunity for an established scholar with the desire to build something new and unique that can become a national model. We are seeking an established scholar with interdisciplinary experience, a research agenda that addresses urban issues, and a demonstrated understanding and appreciation for community-engaged learning and research.

Candidates can come from a wide range of social science disciplines, but must be eligible for the rank of Associate or Full Professor in one of the seven departments associated with the PhD in Urban Affairs (City and Regional Planning, Social Work, Public and Nonprofit Administration, Criminology and Criminal Justice, Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology).

We are especially interested in applicants who have experience with:

- community-university partnerships
- Interdisciplinary learning and research
- academic program administration
- mentoring PhD students

The School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy (SUAPP) will provide infrastructure and administrative support to the PhD Program Director. As home to 4 academic units, 8 degree programs, more than 95 fulltime and part-time faculty and staff, and 4 research centers, SUAPP serves as a hub for collaboration and flagship for community-engaged scholarship.

About the PhD in Urban Affairs

The PhD in Urban Affairs focuses on urban problem-solving with a community-engaged approach and an interdisciplinary framework. It is designed to prepare graduates with the necessary skills in research, evaluation, and policy design to address the kinds of socioeconomic challenges that face Memphis and other cities like it. The combination of training in theory development and application will prepare graduates for careers in public, nonprofit, private, and educational sector positions as advanced policy analysts, researchers, administrators, and academics.

The PhD in Urban Affairs supported by the four departments in the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy (City and Regional Planning, Social Work, Public and Nonprofit Administration, and Criminology and Criminal Justice) and three other social science in the College of Arts and Sciences (Political Science, Anthropology, and Sociology). An interdisciplinary PhD Committee with faculty from these seven departments will support the work of the Director. Likewise, there is tremendous enthusiasm and support for the new program among the local public sector, nonprofit, and philanthropic community.

This position offers a competitive salary commensurate with experience and full University benefits described at the University of Memphis Business and Finance Office's website at: <http://www.memphis.edu/benefits/info/prospective.php>

Applicants must submit a cover letter describing their qualifications and interest in the position, a current CV, and a list of at least three references. Application material must be submitted electronically at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. Screening of applicants will begin after the search closes on December 1, 2020. The position will begin in August 2021 and is contingent on funding.

To apply, please visit the University of Memphis' WorkforUM page: <https://workforum.memphis.edu/postings/26056>

For additional information, contact:

Katherine Lambert-Pennington, PhD, Director
School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy
K.Lambert-Pennington@memphis.edu

Charles Santo, PhD, Associate Director
School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy
casanto@memphis.edu

visit <https://www.memphis.edu/suapp/>

The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. We urge all qualified applicants to apply for this position. Appointment will be based on qualifications as they relate to position requirements without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, disability or veteran status."

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8193

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/2021-2022 CSDP Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for ten-month positions anticipated to start on September 1, 2021. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2021 - July 1, 2022).

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2021-2022 postdoctoral research associate position must apply <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17882>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Tuesday, December 1, 2020 at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Friday, December 4, 2020. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 10/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8167

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and non-profit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity (e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)
- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaclyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory. Advanced degree required.

Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. You will be required to submit contact information for one reference, but your reference will not be contacted at this time.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Interested applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17422>

Requisition No: D-21-POL-00006

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8073

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position that involves a year of research at Princeton. Scholars in all subfields of political science will be considered. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars, and there is a particular interest in attracting applications from groups that have been historically underrepresented in the field of political science at Princeton University. Ph.D. is required.

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/17521> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members. Initial appointment is for one year with the possibility of renewal subject to satisfactory performance and available funding.

Requisition No: D-21-POL-00007

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/21/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8074

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement” should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL’s Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc’s time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university’s research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The “Contributions to Diversity Statement” should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8027

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/Program in Latin American Studies

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Postdoctoral Fellowship, 2021-2022

Job Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition Number: D-21-LAS-00001

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly research on topics related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil, to fill one to two Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2021, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding.

A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 3, 2020, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/16701>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (1,000 – 1,500 words)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent)
- 5) Three letters of recommendation

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree (earned within three years of the start date). Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/3/2020

Date Posted: 8/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7923

Fudan University

Rank: Post-doctoral fellows

Specializations: China, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

Job Summary: Fudan Institute for Advanced Study in Social Sciences (Fudan IAS) is seeking applicants for the full-time "Post-doc fellows" at Fudan University, Shanghai. The position is open till filled, and the employment starts at any time. The disciplines are open for political Science, economics, and sociology. Applicants should demonstrate strong potentials to publish their research on highly reputable international journals (SSCI, AHCI, SCI, and CSSCI). They should employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to address important theoretical questions in the field. Applicants must have the ability to communicate fluently both in English and in Mandarin Chinese.

Institution background: Fudan University is an internationally recognized influential academic institution, one of China's top universities, ranking 3rd in the country and 43rd in QS World University Ranking. Fudan IAS is a comprehensive and cross-disciplinary research institute, with 10 full time research fellows at different academic ranks from junior to distinguished professorship. The institute is an important platform for interdisciplinary integration in the social sciences, recruiting outstanding research fellows, hosting visits of world-renowned scholars, and engaging in international scholarly exchange. The Contemporary China Research Center at Fudan University is created by and housed at the Fudan IAS. The two international journals, Fudan Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences and Chinese Political Science Review's editorial offices are housed at the Fudan IAS and published by the prestigious Springer-Nature Press. The journals are both included in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new index in the Web of Science Core Collection of Clarivate Analytics (formerly Thomson Reuter).

Application documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae; including a publication list and information of three references.
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. 1-2 published articles/writing samples;

We will arrange on-site interviews at Fudan IAS or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Zoom.

Contact: Please put the intended position in the subject line of email, and send your application documents to the hiring committee at ias_fudan@126.com

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7920

Fudan University

Rank: University Distinguished Professors

Specializations: China, Political Economy, Quantitative Methods

Job Summary: Fudan Institute for Advanced Study in Social Sciences (Fudan IAS) is seeking applicants for the full-time positions at the top rank of "University Distinguished Professor" at Fudan University, Shanghai. The position is open till filled, and the employment starts at any time. The disciplines are open for political Science, economics, and sociology. Applicants should demonstrate strong publication records and their potentials to continue their scholarship during their tenure, and employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to address important theoretical questions in the fields, and well recognized as leading scholars in the fields of their research. Applicants are expected to continue publishing research on highly reputable international journals (SSCI, AHCI, SCI, and CSSCI), and contribute to the annual research projects at Fudan IAS and to the disciplinary development at Fudan University. Applicants must have the ability to communicate fluently both in English and in Mandarin Chinese.

Institution background: Fudan University is an internationally recognized influential academic institution, one of China's top universities, ranking 3rd in the country and 43rd in QS World University Ranking. Fudan IAS is a comprehensive and cross-disciplinary research institute, with 10 full time research fellows at different academic ranks from junior to distinguished professorship. The institute is an important platform for interdisciplinary integration in the social sciences, recruiting outstanding research fellows, hosting visits of world-renowned scholars, and engaging in international scholarly exchange. The Contemporary China Research Center at Fudan University is created by and housed at the Fudan IAS. The two international journals, Fudan Journal of the Humanities and Social Sciences and Chinese Political Science Review's editorial offices are housed at the Fudan IAS and published by the prestigious Springer-Nature Press. The journals are included in the Emerging Sources Citation Index (ESCI), a new index in the Web of Science Core Collection of Clarivate Analytics (formerly Thomson Reuter).

Application documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
3. A brief statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Two published journal articles in PDF;
2. An extensive/detailed curriculum vitae; including honors and awards in disciplines, list of publications, information of three references. Letters of recommendation may be requested.

We will arrange on-site interviews at Fudan IAS or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Zoom.

Contact: Please put the intended rank/position in the subject line of email, and send your application documents to the hiring committee at ias_fudan@126.com

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/8/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7919

OTHER

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Security

Assistant Professor, International Security

Location: Norman, OK

Position Type: Faculty

Position URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/81250>

Position Description

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a multidisciplinary academic department in the College of International Studies, invites applications for an Assistant Professor position focused on international security beginning August 2021. We are particularly interested in international security scholars working on the intersection of technology and security, national security policy, and/or US foreign policy.

The person hired for this position will teach thematic undergraduate and MA-level courses in international security and their areas of expertise, as well as participate in OU's recent research initiative in Aerospace, Defense, and Global Security, which is part of the university's new strategic plan (<https://ou.edu/leadon>). We hope to welcome a new colleague with a demonstrated commitment to fostering inclusivity and mentoring members of underrepresented groups. Salary is competitive, with the appointment beginning on August 16, 2021. The teaching load will be two courses per semester (2-2).

The Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) has approximately 350 majors and minors, an MA in International Studies with 30 students, and an online Global Affairs MA with over 100 students. The Department has 23 full-time faculty with collective research strengths in the areas of development, security, national identity, and critical area studies. For more information, please visit the IAS website at <https://www.ou.edu/content/cis/ias.html>. The University of Oklahoma (OU) is a comprehensive public research university, with a Carnegie classification of very high research activity, known for excellence in teaching and research. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant town located just outside Oklahoma City. For more information, visit <http://www.ou.edu/content/dam/provost/documents/facultyflipbook.pdf> and <https://www.ou.edu/irr/fact-books>. Review of applications will begin January 18, 2021 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Oklahoma is committed to achieving a diverse, equitable, and inclusive university community by embracing each person's unique contributions, background and perspectives. The University of Oklahoma recognizes that fostering an inclusive environment for all, with particular attention to the needs of historically marginalized populations, is vital to the pursuit of excellence in all aspects of our institutional mission. This enhances the OU experience for all students, faculty and staff and for the communities we engage.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment and knowledge in international relations and/or international security is required.

Application Instructions: Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching and research interests, list of at least 3 references, complete teaching evaluations for at least one course, a writing sample, and a statement on diversity, equity and inclusion.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement: The University of Oklahoma, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes, but is not limited to: admissions, employment, financial aid, housing, services in educational programs or activities, or health care services that the University operates or provides.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/25/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8331

Harvard University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

WCFIA PROGRAM ON US-JAPAN RELATIONS POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

During the 2021-22 academic year, the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs (WCFIA) Program on U.S.-Japan Relations at Harvard University will offer postdoctoral fellowships for outstanding scholars in the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, (modern) history, law, political science, public health, and sociology. The fellowship recipient must hold a PhD by August 1, 2021.

Deadline: January 7, 2021 (Thursday)

Appointment Term: 10 months, commencing September 1, 2021.

Grant Amount: $60,000 stipend (10 months); research funds up to $5,000;

health insurance coverage for grantee.

For application details and forms, visit our website:

<https://programs.wcfia.harvard.edu/us-japan/apply-become-postdoctoral-fellow>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 1/7/2021

Date Posted: 11/18/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8303

Indiana University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship, Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society

The Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society (CRRES) at Indiana University, Bloomington, invites applications for up to two CRRES Postdoctoral Fellowships. These fellowships provide support to scholars studying race and ethnicity from a broad range of fields in the social sciences and humanities, especially in the areas of education, public and environmental affairs, art and design, public health, business, law, and media. CRRES fellowships are designed to advance the careers of new scholars by providing opportunities to research, teach, and connect with mentors and other faculty in host departments or schools across campus. CRRES postdocs will be placed in one of IU's sixteen degree-granting schools. Strong applicants will demonstrate evidence of scholarly potential that will make them competitive for tenure-track appointments at Indiana University and other research universities.

Terms of Agreement Fellows are expected to pursue research, teach one course during each year of residency, and participate in CRRES as well as host department activities and seminars. This two-year position begins on August 1, 2021 and ends on May 31, 2023, at a 10-month annual salary of $51,500. Postdoctoral fellows will also receive Indiana University health benefits and $3,000 each year in research support.

Application Process We invite applications from qualified candidates at the beginning of their academic careers who do not yet hold tenure-track academic positions. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand or a letter from the chair of their dissertation committee confirming the timeline for completion and filing by June 30, 2021. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement (3,000 words describing dissertation project, work in progress, professional goals, and plans for publication), writing sample, a brief statement (500 words) highlighting contributions to diversity by way of scholarship, pedagogy, and/or community engagement, and three letters of reference. Applicants may also submit a teaching statement and other materials demonstrating their aptitude as teachers. Applications should be submitted online at: <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/10134>. Applications received by December 15, 2020 at 5:00 pm EST will receive full consideration. The cover letter should be addressed to: Prof. Dina Okamoto, Search Committee Chair, Center for Research on Race and Ethnicity in Society, Indiana University, Schuessler Institute for Social Research, 1022 E. Third Street, Bloomington, IN 47405. Queries should be sent to Jessica Smith at crres@indiana.edu and information about the Center can be found at: <http://crres.indiana.edu>.

Indiana University is an equal employment and Affirmative Action Employer and a provider of ADA services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital status, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status. Indiana University does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its educational programs and activities, including employment and admission, as required by Title IX. Questions or complaints regarding Title IX may be referred to the U.S. Department of Education Office for Civil Rights or the university Title IX Coordinator. See Indiana University's Notice of Non-Discrimination here which includes contact information.

The Annual Security and Fire Safety Report, containing policy statements, crime and fire statistics for all Indiana University campuses, is available online. You may also request a physical copy by emailing IU Public Safety at iups@iu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 11/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8291

University of Gothenburg

Rank: One or several Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Political Science, with a focus on political behavior and political sociology

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Social Welfare, Gender Politics & Policy

The University of Gothenburg tackles society's challenges with diverse knowledge. 49 000 students and 6 400 employees make the university a large and inspiring place to work and study. Strong research and attractive study programmes attract scientists and students from around the world. With new knowledge and new perspectives, the University contributes to a better future.

Current eJobs listings at www.apsanet.org/jobs

115

The Gothenburg Research Program on Pregnancy and Politics (PregDem) is a research collaboration between political scientists, midwives and obstetricians. The aim is to create a profound understanding of how pregnancy, childbirth and early parenthood affect the pregnant woman's and her partner's views of society. Central outcome variables include policy opinions and ideological priorities, institutional trust, political interest and awareness, political participation, parental identities and gender roles. Central independent variables include health, intake of information, contact with the welfare state, couple dynamics, socio-economic background and the corona-pandemic. We use longitudinal survey data (most importantly The Swedish Pregnancy Panel, The Swedish Citizen Panel, The Swedish Level of Living Survey and the Irish Mammi survey), register data on medical records (from the so-called Graviditetsregistret) and cross-sectional survey data from the Society, Media and Opinion Institute and the Swedish National Election Studies.

The project website (under development) is found here: <https://www.gu.se/en/research/gothenburg-research-program-on-pregnancy-and-politics-pregdem>

PregDem is led by Elin Naurin (Director) and is financed by the Swedish Research Council, Knut & Alice Wallenberg Foundation and University of Gothenburg. You can read an interview with the research director here: <https://kaw.wallenberg.org/en/research/pregnancy-and-perceptions-politics>

Job assignments

The Postdoctoral research fellow will conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program, in collaboration with the research director and with other scholars in the team. More specifically, (s)he will analyze and publish original research using the data that is collected within the project, especially the data from the Swedish Pregnancy Panel and the Swedish Citizen panel.

One of PregDem's strengths is the flexibility and collaborative spirit of everyone in the research group, focusing on reaching the goals of the data collection and research program. This includes a willingness to contribute to coding of data, quality control, data management, respondent contact and/or teaching during peak periods. For this position, the service component will include tasks connected to the supervision of online survey data coming in in the final two waves of a panel survey. It will also include participating in the writing of research funding applications. The Postdoctoral Research Fellow may be asked to perform service to the PregDem program up to one-third of FTE.

Eligibility

The postdoctoral research fellow position is open to candidates who have received a PhD in political science or related field latest by the first day of employment.

Assessment

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in research on political opinion and behavior and/or political sociology with a particular view towards areas of relevance to the PregDem project. One or more of the following scientific skills are also meritorious;

1. A well-developed proposal of high scientific quality, for a research project that falls within and preferably further develops PregDem, based on the above-mentioned outcome and independent variables.

3. Advanced knowledge in longitudinal/panel data techniques.

3. Demonstrated research expertise on: political socialisation, parenthood, partner dynamics, health and politics, political participation, political interest and knowledge, political opinion, political trust, welfare state, gender and politics.

We will make an overall assessment of the applicants' qualifications and select one judged to complement the rest of the team in the best way possible for the needs of the program. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

Employment

Fixed-term employment, two years, full time in residence, start date as soon as possible. Location: Department of Political Science, University of Gothenburg

For more details on appointment procedures, please visit: https://web103.reachmee.com/ext/I005/I035/job?site=7&lang=UK&validator=9b89bead79bb7258ad55c8d75228e5b7&job_id=17746

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 1/4/2021

Date Posted: 11/13/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8284

University of Nottingham

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

Assistant Professor in Political Science

Politics and International Relations

Location: University Park

Salary: £36,914 to £49,553 per annum, depending on skills and experience. Salary progression beyond this scale is subject to performance.

Reference: SOC298020

Applications are invited for the post of Assistant Professor (Research and Teaching) in the field of Political Science and Quantitative Methods within the School of Politics and International Relations at the University of Nottingham. The substantive area of expertise is open to all subfields of the discipline, but we particularly welcome applications from scholars with expertise in the areas of contemporary British politics or international relations.

The University of Nottingham has 43,000 students and over 8,000 staff and is described by The Times Good University Guide 2016 as 'the nearest Britain has to a truly global university, with campuses in China and Malaysia modelled on a headquarters that is among the most attractive in Britain'.

A founding member of the Russell Group and placed in the top 100 universities worldwide, The University of Nottingham has consistently gained recognition for world-class research across a wide range of academic disciplines, and has a proud history of influencing social development on a global scale. Our commitment to research and discovery is further demonstrated by our two Nobel Prize winners. The School of Politics and International Relations provides a dynamic and research active setting. It is one of the largest and most diverse schools in the UK in respect to its coverage of the discipline.

The successful candidate would be expected to develop high quality modules for undergraduates and postgraduates; conduct assessments of student work at all levels; undertake research and publish in internationally recognised journals; to develop Impact work for the Research Excellence Framework; to seek grant income and to contribute to administrative tasks in the School.

Candidates must have a completed or be nearing completion of a PhD (or equivalent) in the field of Politics/Political Science or International Relations.

The School of Politics and International Relations values equality, diversity and inclusion. As a holder of an Athena Swan Award, we are committed to offering equal treatment and opportunities to our workforce and student body. As such, we welcome applications from all, regardless of personal characteristics or background.

This full-time (36.25 hours per week) post is available from 1 September 2021 and will be offered on a permanent contract.

Informal enquiries may be addressed to Caitlin Milazzo, Head of School, email: caitlin.milazzo@nottingham.ac.uk. However, applications sent to this email address will not be accepted.

For more information and to apply for this post please click on the following link: <https://jobs.nottingham.ac.uk/SOC298020>

Closing Date: 27/11/2020

Our University has always been a supportive, inclusive, caring and positive community. We warmly welcome those of different cultures, ethnicities and beliefs – indeed this very diversity is vital to our success, it is fundamental to our values and enriches life on campus. We welcome applications from UK, Europe and from across the globe. For more information on the support we offer our international colleagues, visit; <https://www.nottingham.ac.uk/jobs/applyingfromoverseas/index2.aspx>

For all successful international applicants, including EU/EEA applicants from January 2021, we offer an interest-free loan to help cover the cost of immigration-related expenses to the UK, including visas and the NHS surcharge. For more information follow this link <https://www.nottingham.ac.uk/hr/guidesandsupport/workingintheuk/documents/support-with-immigration-expenses-policy-application-form.pdf>

Start Date: Winter 2020

Application Deadline: 11/27/2020

Date Posted: 11/10/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8268

KDI School of Public Policy and Management

Rank: Tenure-track Professor

KDI School of Public Policy and Management is a graduate school of policy studies founded in 1997 with the support of the Korean government and is the educational arm of the KDI, the nation's most respected economic think tank. KDI has consistently contributed to the government's policy making and implementation, and based on KDI's four decade long research and development consulting experience, our school has been educating public officials and private sector managers from around the globe by providing strategic tools to deal with the growing complexities of the modern world.

KDI School is committed to establishing a dynamic framework for knowledge-sharing, where outstanding teaching and research can directly support balanced, sustainable growth in the developing world. To this aim we provide a work environment conducive to academic creativity, offering financial support for research and subsidizing trips to overseas conferences. The school provides relocation assistance and faculty housings on a request and availability basis. All Courses are taught in English.

Description

KDI School of Public Policy and Management invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position with expertise in the following areas.

- Social and Welfare Policy
- Environmental Policy
- Public Management
- Data Science for Public Policy
- Organizational Design & Studies (Governance Design, Network Analysis)
- Diversity Studies (Gender, Human Rights, Minority, Immigration Issues)

Number of Openings: Maximum 5

Qualifications

An applicant must have a Ph.D. or should be expecting to receive one by August 31, 2021 in one of the above-mentioned academic fields. Successful candidates will demonstrate strong performance and/or potential for research and teaching along with the abilities to contribute to and benefit from an interdisciplinary environment and interact productively with colleagues from other social sciences at our school.

Application Deadline

All application materials, including three letters of recommendation, must reach us no later than Dec.9, 2020 (Eastern Standard Time, U.S)

Application Requirements

Submit application materials electronically at <https://apply.interfolio.com/80444>

Please include;

1. Curriculum vitae
2. Cover letter
3. Research papers (one or two recent working papers or publications)
4. Three letters of recommendation should be sent directly to the interfolio by the referees.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/9/2020

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 8263

University of Oslo

Rank: PhD Research Fellow - Right-Wing Violence and Terrorism

Specializations: Science & Technology, Social Movements, Political Behavior

Job description

Center for Research on Extremism (C-REX) at the University of Oslo seeks to recruit one excellent PhD candidate in the Social Sciences or related disciplines (e.g., Criminology, Psychology or Media and Communication) doing high quality research on right-wing violence and terrorism. The successful applicants will work full time as a PhD candidate. The appointment is for a fixed, non-tenured term of 3 years. The appointee will have no teaching requirements. The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines.

C-REX is the largest research center exclusively dedicated to do innovative, updated, and high-quality research on right-wing terrorism and violence. The center was established in 2016 as a response to the July 22 attacks in 2011 and is led by professor Tore Bjørgo and researcher Anders Ravik Jupskås. It has rapidly gained a reputation for being the world-leading interdisciplinary research institution on this topic. It is a joint collaboration with six of the leading Norwegian institutions and three of the leading international universities on extremism research.

C-REX is the host institution for the RTV dataset, which documents right-wing terrorism and violence in Western Europe since 1990. Each event has been coded on a range of variables, including time and location, perpetrator and victim characteristics, organizational affiliations, weapon types, and number of casualties. The dataset is currently being expanded to cover other countries and regions, including Eastern Europe, Russia, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Qualification requirements

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Master's degree (120 ECTS) in Social Sciences or related disciplines (e.g., Criminology, Psychology, Media Studies and Contemporary History) before taking up the post. For applicants who have yet to receive their Master's degree, the Master's thesis must have been submitted for evaluation before the application deadline (February 1, 2021). Such applicants should note the date of submission of their Master's degree in the cover letter. Appointment is dependent on the Master thesis being approved.

Applicants must submit a project description of up to 3000 words outlining the research topic, the specific problems to be studied, the sources of data to be used, the choice of scientific theory and method, and a realistic schedule that details how the project will be completed within the fellowship period. This project should be addressing the topic of right-wing violence and terrorism. It should also make use of the RTV dataset developed by C-REX. We encourage applicants to include countries beyond Western Europe as part of the project.

In the cover letter (maximum 2 pages), the candidate should also briefly explain how his/her research profile and agenda would contribute to improving C-REX' research on right-wing violence and terrorism.

Candidates with strong methodological skills and/or prior research experience (as part of the master thesis) on right-wing violence or related topics will have an advantage. Other desired qualifications and experiences include experiences with previous systematic data collection efforts, good organizational skills, as well as very good command of English. Finally, personal suitability for the position will be taken into consideration.

We offer

A salary of NOK 482 200 - 526 000 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research fellow (position code 1017)

A budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 30 000 per year)

An academically stimulating and international working environment

A friendly and inclusive workplace

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

PhD Fellows may acquire pedagogical competency

How to apply

The application must include

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests

A project description, including progress plan (max. 3000 words)

CV (summarizing education, positions and academic work)

A digital copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree Diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

An official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university, translated into ECTS-credits.

A complete list of publications and academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered by the evaluation committee.

A list of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system, please follow the link "apply for this job" (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/194820/phd-research-fellow-right-wing-violence-and-terrorism>). Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the applicant's academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project. Applicants may be called in for an interview.

The position will start in April 2021 (or a mutually agreed-upon date).

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Director Tore Bjørgo (<https://www.sv.uio.no/c-rex/english/people/aca/torebjo/index.html>)

Deputy director Anders Ravik Jupskås (<https://www.sv.uio.no/c-rex/english/people/aca/andersju/index.html>)

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 3/1/2021

Date Posted: 11/9/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8264

University of Oslo

Rank: PhD Research Fellowship in Political Science (peace and conflict research)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Administration

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces two vacant positions for PhD Research Fellowships (SKO 1017). The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. In the Department, teaching is organized into five sections: public policy and administration, comparative politics, political theory, international politics, and research methods. The successful applicants will work as PhD Fellows on the project "ResilienceBuilding: Social Resilience, Gendered Dynamics, and Local Peace in Protracted Conflicts", funded by the European Research Council. Candidates will be part of the Faculty's PhD programme, and the work performed will be expected to lead to a PhD in Political Science.

The ResilienceBuilding project investigates the causes and consequences of social resilience in protracted armed conflicts, with a focus on Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan and Kenya. It asks how civilians and communities develop social resilience and adapt to conflict dynamics in ways that prevent or mitigate violence, how they maintain resilience and prevent renewed vulnerability to conflict re-escalation, and how social resilience impacts peacebuilding and development. The project further focuses on interlinking national and local dynamics of communal conflict and civil war to study the potential and limitations of international and local peacebuilding efforts and barriers to sustainable peace. The research into social resilience and multi-level conflict dynamics integrates a gender perspective. This means that research examines gendered coping mechanisms, variation in gender relations across areas differently affected by conflict, and women's movements and peacebuilding agency on the national and local level.

The project is headed by Associate Professor Jana Krause and funded by an ERC Starting Grant, running from 2020-2025. We encourage applicants to read about the project in the project proposal.

Qualification requirements

Essential

A Master's degree in political science or closely related discipline. To be appointed to the position, the prior education must be equivalent of five years at the university level in Norway in a relevant field, with two years (120 credits) at the master's level. In case of completion of a shorter MA degree, extra course work on the graduate level and other research training and experience may be taken into consideration. Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of high quality.

Excellent oral and written English language skills. The PhD thesis will be written in English.

Ability to work independently as well as in a team, and willingness to contribute to administrative and organizational project tasks, such as the organization of workshops, conferences, and other research and outreach collaborations.

Applicants must submit a doctoral research plan of up to 3000 words outlining one or more of the topics studied in ResilienceBuilding in relation to one or more of the country case studies (Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan, Kenya). The research plan should specify the problems to be studied, motivation and relevance, the research methods to be used, and - if relevant - prior related research experience. Successful applicants should expect to further develop their research plan with inputs from the project leader and the research team. For more information please see Guidelines for application and admission

Desired

In addition, candidates with some of the following qualifications will be at an advantage: (1) Knowledge of politics or research experience in one of the project's country cases and willingness to conduct fieldwork in at least one of them; (2) language skills relevant for conducting research in one of the four countries (e.g. French for the Central African Republic) (3) methodological competencies and training in qualitative and quantitative research methods (particularly interviewing, survey research, statistics), and (4) personal suitability and motivation for working within the project.

In evaluating applications, academic and personal qualifications and the PhD research outline will be given more weight than other disciplinary and general qualifications. The intention is to recruit the candidate who has the best prospects for developing into an excellent researcher and for contributing to the project's research agenda and outputs over the coming 4-year period.

We offer

Salary NOK 482 200 – 526 000 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research Fellow (position code 1017)

A pleasant, stimulating and international working environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

A travel and research budget for field research and participation in conferences and workshops

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

PhD Fellows may acquire pedagogical competency

How to apply

The application must include

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests, explaining why the candidate is well prepared for pursuing this PhD project

A PhD research plan (max.3000 words)

A CV (summarizing education, previous positions, academic and other relevant work)

A Copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

An official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university translated into ECTS-credits

Names and contact details for two reference persons (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system. Please follow the link "apply for this job" (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/195580/phd-research-fellowship-in-political-science-peace-and-conflict-research>). Please note that all documents should be in English.

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the research project plan and the applicants academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The deadline for applications is 5 January 2021. Online interviews will take place between 8 and 12 February 2021. The position will start on 1 August 2021 (or a mutually agreed-upon date).

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Please direct all questions about the research project and research plan to the Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Jana Krause, via email jana.krause@stv.uio.no

Head of Department Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch (<https://www.sv.uio.no/isv/english/people/aca/berasch/index.html>)

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsonn; helle.fritzsonn@sv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 1/5/2021

Date Posted: 11/9/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8265

University of Oslo

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Science (peace and conflict research)

Specializations: Political Behavior, Science & Technology, Conflict Processes

Job description

The Department of Political Science wants to recruit one excellent social scientist with a background from Political Science or a closely related field. The successful applicant will work fulltime as a Postdoctoral Fellow in the ERC project 'ResilienceBuilding: Social Resilience, Gendered Dynamics, and Local Peace in Protracted Conflicts', funded by the European Research Council. The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. This means that 75% of the working time over four years is devoted to research.

The ResilienceBuilding project investigates the causes and consequences of social resilience in protracted armed conflicts, with a focus on Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan and Kenya. It asks how civilians and communities develop social resilience and adapt to conflict dynamics in ways that prevent or mitigate violence, how they maintain resilience and prevent renewed vulnerability to conflict re-escalation, and how social resilience impacts peacebuilding and development. The project further focuses on interlinking national and local dynamics of communal conflict and civil war to study the potential and limitations of international and local peacebuilding efforts and barriers to sustainable peace. The research into social resilience and multi-level conflict dynamics integrates a gender perspective. This means that research examines gendered coping mechanisms and women's movements and peacebuilding agency on the national and local level.

The project is headed by Associate Professor Jana Krause and funded by an ERC Starting Grant, running from 2020-2025. We encourage applicants to read about the project in the project proposal: ResilienceBuilding proposal.

The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines. Successful candidates will make important contributions to the research environment of the project and the implementation of its objectives. This includes (co)- organization of research activities and collaborations, such as seminars, workshops, or co-editing project publications.

Qualification requirements

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree (Ph.D) in Political Science or a closely related discipline before taking up the post. For applicants who have yet to receive their PhD degree, the Doctoral dissertation must have been submitted for evaluation before the application deadline (January 5, 2021). Such applicants should note the date of submission of their PhD in the cover letter. Appointment is dependent on successful completion of the public defense of the doctoral thesis.

The candidate should, in the cover letter (maximum 2 pages), briefly explain how their research profile and agenda will contribute to the overall goals of the ResilienceBuilding project. The applicant should further detail additional suggested contributions in the form of one or two research ideas in an accompanying research proposal (maximum 2 pages). The research proposal should outline a promising research project that can be fulfilled in the course of four years.

Candidates with a high-quality publication, especially in a leading peer-reviewed international journal, will have an advantage. Other desired qualifications include research experience on the topics covered in ResilienceBuilding and/or the countries (Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan, Kenya), fieldwork and survey research experience, general experience with previous systematic data collection efforts, strong administrative and organizational skills, relevant academic and non-academic networks, very good command of English, and programming and statistical software skills. Finally, the applicant's teaching experiences and qualifications and personal suitability for the position will be taken into consideration.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the teaching duty component of 25%.

We offer

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 526 000 –608 200 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro)
Budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 45 000 per year). Staff can apply for additional research support from the department and faculty.

An academically stimulating and international working environment
A friendly and inclusive workplace

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Fund
A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

Postdocs can acquire pedagogical competency

Female postdocs can take part in the UiO Mentorprogram for female postdocs

How to apply

The online application must include the following items:

A cover letter (max 2 pages, including statement of motivation, summarizing research interests, and how the applicant will contribute to ResilienceBuilding)

A project description (max 2 pages; if cover letter and project description are merged, the maximum is 4 pages)

A CV summarizing education, positions, research and pedagogical experience, administrative experience, and other qualifying activities

A complete list of publications (if not included in the CV)

Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only)

Up to 3 academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered due to their quality or relevance of the projects. The 3 works should include at least one single-authored piece

Names and contact details for two to three reference persons (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be submitted in our electronic recruiting system. Please follow the link "apply for this job" (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/194836/postdoctoral-fellow-in-political-science-peace-and-conflict-research>). Please note that all documents should be in English, except for publications that may also be in French. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system.

The application deadline is 5 January 2021. The screening and evaluation of the candidates will begin immediately. Interviews will be held in February. The position will be awarded from 1 August (or a mutually-agreed upon date).

We aim to increase the diversity of backgrounds in our staff. We especially encourage female researchers to apply.

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Postdoctoral fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one Postdoctoral Fellow period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

The University of Oslo aims to achieve a balanced gender composition in the workforce and to recruit people with ethnic minority backgrounds.

Contact information

Please direct all questions about the research project and research plan to the Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Jana Krause, via email jana.krause@stv.uio.no

Head of Department Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch (<https://www.sv.uio.no/isv/english/people/aca/berasch/index.html>)

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsonn; helle.fritzsonn@sv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring
Application Deadline: 1/5/2021
Date Posted: 11/9/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8266

Hertie School

Rank: Assistant Professor of Sustainability
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Other, Open

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School, Berlin
 A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting an

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School is recruiting an assistant professor working on key sustainability topics such as climate, energy, or mobility and transport. We particularly welcome scholars whose research covers regions beyond Germany and Europe. This person should combine state-of-the-art empirical, policy-relevant research with a teaching profile that matches the needs of a public policy school.

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. We are looking for a candidate with a strong background in economics. The successful candidate will be appointed as tenure-track Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts). The expected start date is September 2021.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research at the highest levels in their discipline through an established record of publication in top outlets. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a strong commitment to high-quality teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers. The Hertie School strongly encourages applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes. This position will be based in the School's new Centre for Sustainability, and the successful candidate will actively contribute to its research, outreach and teaching activities. Collaboration with other new Centres of Competence of the Hertie School is encouraged. Those are the Jacques Delors Centre, the Centre for International Security, the Centre for Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Digital Governance, and the Data Science Lab.

As a private non-profit university, endowed and supported by the Hertie Foundation, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters.

We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Berlin's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously. Under German law, there is standard paid leave for parents after the birth of a child. For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 6 December 2020. To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here:

<https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/20369/assistant-professor-of-sustainability-fmdiv>

For questions about the position, please contact Christian Flachslund, Professor of Sustainability (flachslund@hertie-school.org). Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Please upload the documents in the following order:

Motivation letter
 CV including publication list and the names of two references
 A diversity statement of no more than one page
 One or more writing samples.

Optional additional documents include teaching evaluations and a research and/or teaching statement. Please have two references submitted separately via Email to researchandfaculty@hertie-school.org.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 11/5/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8253

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3 x 3-year Lecturers (Assistant Professors) Development Studies

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint three 3-year University Lecturers (i.e. Assistant Professors) in Development Studies, based in the Centre of Development Studies, from 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidates will have a record of world-class research and publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery, supervision and assessment of courses in the interdisciplinary MPhil in Development Studies, as well as supplementary teaching at the postgraduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates should also demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance and administration of the Centre and the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:
 - Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);

- Evidence of ability to engage in internationally recognised high-level research in the Political Economy of Development, with publications in the leading outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach Development Studies;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Centre and the Department. Please see the Further Particulars online for additional specifics on the position at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27283/>.

Further information about the Centre and the Department can be found at <https://www.devstudies.cam.ac.uk/> and www.polis.cam.ac.uk. Applications should be made online at <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27283/>. References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Jason Sharman (jcs207@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UC24373 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 11/3/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8248

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Africana Studies
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: African American Politics, Africa, Race & Ethnic Politics

Southern Illinois University - Carbondale is accepting applications for two positions (see below). These positions will be joint appointments with Africana Studies and another department in the College of Liberal Arts. Political Scientists are encouraged to apply for this joint position.

The Department of Africana Studies is accepting applications for two positions at the rank of Assistant Professor and one position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. These positions are 9-month, continuing, tenure track appointments.

Tenure will be housed in the Department of Africana Studies with a joint appointment (49%) in either Anthropology, Art and Design, Communication Studies, English, History, Languages, Cultures & International Trade, Linguistics, Music, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, or Theater.

The Department of Africana Studies is interested in building its strengths in the Africana intellectual and cultural philosophy and/or history and intersectional theory focusing on race, sexuality, and nation. The College of Liberal Arts' broad goal in this search is to impact multiple scholarly domains as outlined here.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Teach undergraduate and graduate courses; mentor undergraduate and graduate students; maintain an active program of peer-reviewed research/scholarship; contribute to curriculum development and other forms of service in the Department of Africana Studies and in the affiliated academic department.

The selected individuals will contribute to the curriculum in Africana Studies as well as that of the affiliated department(s), recruit and mentor students interested in Africana Studies, and develop a strong program of individual scholarship.

Minimum Qualifications:

Doctoral degree in Africana Studies or a related discipline is required. Specialization will be broadly considered and includes but is not limited to: African and/or African American history, culture, politics and society, linguistics and languages; black feminism/womanist theory/philosophy; black aesthetics; digital humanities; multicultural competency; the African diaspora, and other areas.

ABD applicants may be considered if all doctoral degree requirements will be completed by August 15, 2021. If not completed by that date, a non-tenure track appointment may be offered (<https://policies.siu.edu/personnelpolicies/chapter2/ch2-faps/conting.php>).

In addition to the PhD, applicants must demonstrate the following:

A potential to develop a strong program of individual scholarship
 Evidence of an active research agenda
 Teaching experience in Africana Studies or a related discipline

Commitment to working with students from diverse backgrounds such as racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify as LGBTQ+, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and/or first generation or otherwise underserved college students.

For consideration at the rank of Associate Professor, applicants must meet the minimal qualifications as listed and provide evidence of excellence in teaching, peer-reviewed scholarly productivity, and professional service.

Preferred qualifications

Preferred qualifications for all positions include a proficiency in an African language, a heritage language of the African diaspora, French, or Portuguese; evidence of securing external research/grant funding. For the Assistant/Associate Professor position, a scholarly alignment with History and/or Philosophy is preferred.

Required Documents: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Transcripts

Contact: Michael Molino

Contact Phone #: 618-453-5797

Contact Email: mmolino@siu.edu

Ad: <https://jobs.siu.edu/job-details?jobid=11212>

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/2/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8246

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship - Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (Penn)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences (with a possible renewal for a second year).

CSERI is a center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences. In addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, CSERI hosts visiting scholars and graduate students, organizes workshops initiated by the Center's Faculty Advisory Council and affiliates, and supports graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2021-2022 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops, aid in the evaluation of the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants, and collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects. However, the Fellow will largely have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities, but the post-doc is expected to be in residence.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $53,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,500 in research support, with the opportunity to apply for additional funding.

Qualifications

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the social sciences in the last two years (not earlier than 2019), or who expect to complete their degree by July 2021.

Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are desirable, but not necessary.

Application Instructions

Please submit all required materials through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/79743>

Documents to be uploaded:

1. Cover Letter
2. Title and Description of Proposed Research – No more than 1,500 words.
3. CV – Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.). List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications.
4. Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (25-page limit).
5. Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) – Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received through Interfolio by December 21, 2020.

Review of applications will begin immediately after the submission deadline, and final notifications are expected to go out by February 26, 2021. The starting date for this one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment is negotiable but should be effective no later than August 15, 2021.

<https://web.sas.upenn.edu/cseri/opportunities/post-doctoral-fellowship/>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/21/2020

Date Posted: 10/26/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8216

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics, Religion & Politics

Michigan State University actively promotes a dynamic research and learning environment in which qualified individuals of differing perspectives, and cultural backgrounds pursue academic goals with mutual respect and shared inquiry.

The Department of Political Science at Michigan State University seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure system Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor in Minority Politics. The position has a target start date of August 16, 2021. Special consideration will be given to those with research and teaching (graduate and undergraduate) interests in race and ethnicity, religion, gender, class and inequality, or immigration in the U.S. context. The hire is part of an ongoing initiative in Minority Politics in the College of Social Science.

A successful candidate will have evidence of high-quality research, a documented commitment to teaching, and a record of efforts to secure external research funding. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or have completed the Ph.D. by the date of hire.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, citizenship, disability or protected veteran status.

Please contact Eric Juenke (juenke@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Min. Qualifications: Candidates must have completed a PhD by the date of hire. A successful candidate will be expected to have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

Required Materials: Interested applicants must apply for this position via Michigan State University Careers Page. Please access the system at <https://careers.msu.edu>. Applicants must submit a CV, cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, two samples of written work, and a diversity and inclusion statement (a statement addressing how past/and or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance MSU's commitment to inclusive excellence). Applicants must provide contact information for three references. If applicants are currently Assistant Professors or ABD applicants, please provide three letters of recommendation. Letters may be sent to Rhonda Burns at burnsr@msu.edu

To apply for this position please visit https://careers.msu.edu/ job posting 677807.

Michigan State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Michigan State University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

MSU is located in East Lansing, MI, with easy access to the state capital, Lake Michigan, great school districts, and two large metropolitan areas (Grand Rapids, Detroit). The University is pro-active in exploring opportunities for employment for dual career couples, both inside and outside the University. Information about MSU's dual career support can be found at <http://miwin.msu.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8204

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows – QSS

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for a postdoctoral fellow for the 2020-21 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Fellows should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science. We are especially interested in candidates whose research agendas are closely related to those of QSS-affiliated faculty and/or other scholars on campus (for more, see e.g. <https://qss.dartmouth.edu/people>).

During the 2020-21 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus. Postdoctoral fellows are guaranteed one year of funding with opportunities to extend funding for an additional year.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. Each fellow also receives a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. Fellows teach one course per year in Dartmouth's quarter system on a subject to be determined in consultation with the QSS chair. Fellows may also have the opportunity to teach further courses and would be compensated for any additional courses they choose to teach (to be determined in consultation with the Associate Dean).

Dartmouth is highly committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive population of students, faculty, and staff. QSS is especially interested in applicants who are able to work effectively with students, faculty, and staff from all backgrounds, including but not limited to: racial and ethnic minorities, women, individuals who identify with LGBTQ+ communities, individuals with disabilities, individuals from lower income backgrounds, and /or first generation college graduates. Applicants should state in their cover letter how their teaching, research, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth's commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Requirements:

1. Ph.D. in any social science or related discipline, expected or granted by September 2021.
2. Substantive interest in any social science field, with preference given to candidates who demonstrate substantial overlap and interest working with QSS faculty and affiliates or other Dartmouth faculty.
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Materials:

- 1) A cover letter that is no longer than two pages
- 2) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 3) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 4) Names of specific Dartmouth faculty inside and outside QSS who are of interest to the applicant
- 5) Three letters of reference
- 6) A published or unpublished journal-length manuscript written in English

Applications will be reviewed starting on December 1, 2020. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80180>

Contact for questions: Brendan Nyhan, nyhan@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/21/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8202

University of Chicago

Rank: Instructional Professor in Computational Social Science

Description

The Division of Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applicants for a position as Instructional Professor (IP) in the MA program in Computational Social Science (MACSS, macss.uchicago.edu) capable of teaching introductory courses in computer science with applications in social scientific research.

This is a full-time, career-track teaching position. The start date is flexible, and will fall between July 1 and September 1, 2021. The initial two-year appointment is renewable with opportunity for promotion. Appointments at the Assistant, Associate, and Full Instructional Professor rank will be considered.

The IP will annually teach five courses, including some combination of machine learning, modeling, simulation, data visualization, high performance computing, cloud computing, application development, or introductions to important programming languages (including R or Python). Other courses may cover applied research across some field or research problem in the social sciences.

In addition, the IP will advise MA students; advise a limited number of MA theses as the primary supervisor; hire and manage teaching assistants; help lead the MACSS Computation Workshop; contribute to program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment; help train our doctoral student preceptors; and contribute to the intellectual life and administrative needs of the program.

The position includes support for professional development. The IP will join a dynamic community of social science researchers.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a PhD in computer science, data science, sociology, economics, political science, psychology, or a related discipline. Industry experience is valued, but not required. The IP must have the PhD must be in hand prior to the start date. Teaching experience is required.

Application Instructions

Applicants must apply online at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/79998. The following materials must be submitted: 1) a cover letter, outlining the applicant's prior computational training, prior teaching or mentoring experience, and suggested course offerings in our MA program; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) an article-length writing sample applying a computational research design; 4) at least one course syllabus from prior teaching or with an eye to future offerings; 5) course evaluations or other evidence of past excellence in teaching or mentoring; and 6) three letters of reference.

Review of applications will begin on December 1 and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

This position will be part of the Service Employees International Union.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8190

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Positions in the Future of Work

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs <https://keough.nd.edu> is seeking applications for two faculty positions specializing in one or more dimensions of the complex and inter-related ethical, economic, social and policy questions at the intersection of artificial intelligence, data science, automation and the future of work.

The search is open rank, and extends to those whose professional and/or academic background would qualify them as professors of the practice, or as tenured/tenure-track scholars. In either case, the successful candidate(s) will draw on and conduct research that has direct application to questions of policy. The appointed candidate's specific responsibilities will depend on the nature and rank of the appointment, but will include research, teaching, and public practice components. Applicants for these positions may come from any relevant field in economics, sociology, business, and/or public policy. Experts in labor economics, the sociology of labor and related fields are particularly encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate(s) will contribute to research and teaching programs in the McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business <https://keough.nd.edu/mckenna-center/>. These two positions are being posted as part of a wider cluster hiring process that will include other faculty positions in technology ethics, data analytics and other related fields related to the university's commitment to an integrated approach to the social and ethical dimensions of technology and to advanced uses of data analytics. In that regard, the successful candidate(s) will be affiliated with one or both of Notre Dame's related new initiatives: the Technology Ethics Center <https://techethics.nd.edu> and the Lucy Family Institute for Data and Society <https://news.nd.edu/news/notre-dame-launches-new-lucy-family-institute-for-data-society/>.

This faculty search is inspired by the rapidly accelerating introduction of digital and data-driven transformation that is driving major structural and social change. While offering many positive social benefits, this digital revolution is radically disrupting labor markets, and creating growing anxiety among working men and women about their livelihood security and that of their children. In the face of such dramatic change, how should society respond? How can this digital revolution bring meaningful changes to society? What ethical questions must be posed and what policies put forward to mitigate any social and economic fallout? Do we really appreciate the deeper existential meaning of work for individuals and families? Will the promise of this new world of work enhance human dignity, reward and sense of self or diminish it? Will the new opportunities for decent and meaningful work in this new digital age keep pace with the demand for good jobs? Is the gig economy and all the leisure it promises really the basis for a decent livelihood and quality of life or will it only increase stress and ensure a permanent condition of economic fragility and economic insecurity? What new skills will be required to succeed in this new labor force of the future? What role will governments and companies need to play in ethically and responsibly managing the transition to this post-industrial economy? These are but a sampling of the kinds of questions scholars at the University of Notre Dame will seek to answer through interdisciplinary research initiatives in the coming years.

The successful candidate[s] will have outstanding records of achievement in research, teaching and/or public service and leadership in program development. We seek complementary competencies in these two positions, taken together, albeit within the context of the future of work. The range includes quantitative and qualitative research methods, data science and artificial intelligence, a demonstrated track record of inter-disciplinary collaboration, and experience in translating critical research into actionable policy propositions.

The balance of research, teaching and service/practice responsibilities in the McKenna Center and the Keough School will reflect the candidate's specific qualifications and experience. Research in our multi-disciplinary context will explore the future of work across sectors and drive the formulation of appropriate public and private sector strategies and policies for mitigating the most socially and economically deleterious effects of widespread digitization and automation. Teaching in the Keough School curriculum will focus on topics relevant to managing the transition to the digital future. These courses will familiarize graduate and undergraduate students with the research methods and data analytics central to understanding critical aspects of this digital transition; engage students on its ethical, social, and economic implications; and challenge students to delve into likely social and economic challenges and consequences that may require action by either state or private sector actors in the form of structural or organizational change or policy remedies.

All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/79722>). In addition to a cover letter and Curriculum Vitae, applicants should submit the names of three references. The search committee will only request letters of recommendation for finalists. Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Raymond Offenheiser, Search Committee Chair
Director, Pulte Institute for Global Development
Acting Director, McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business
Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
roffenhe@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled. The position will close to new applications on November 30, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8175

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor – Latinx Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in Latinx Politics, pending budgetary approval. We are especially interested in candidates whose research focuses on understanding Latinx perspectives and experiences related to issues of migration, representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, and identity. We seek candidates who would complement our current faculty's research and teaching strengths and will help strengthen the department's research program by broadening the perspectives, questions, theories, methods, or sources of evidence used to study political behavior and institutions, including those whose research employs civically engaged or participatory scholarship within the Latinx community.

This search is part of the first stage of a three to five year-long university-wide cluster hiring initiative in Latinx Studies. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in that initiative, intended to create a critical mass of scholars with expertise in Latinx studies at the University. More detailed information about the Provost's Latinx cluster hiring initiative can be found here: <https://www.provost.pitt.edu/latinx-cluster-hire-initiative>.

The starting date for the position is September 1, 2021. Successful candidates are expected to engage in research, teaching, and service that contributes to the department's mission. Required qualifications: applicants have or expect to have a Ph.D. in hand before the appointment begins, research interests related to Latinx politics, and demonstrated ability or potential to publish high-quality scholarship. Preferred qualifications: research interests related to migration, representation, voter attitudes, political behavior, and identity; demonstrated commitment or potential to contribute to equity and inclusion.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), a brief description of how your research, teaching or service demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion, and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters.

Please apply online at: <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/Mjk3>.

DEADLINE EXTENDED TO NOVEMBER 20, 2020. In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by the extended date. The review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/8/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8156

Stanford University

Rank: HAI Junior Fellow/Assistant Faculty (Research)

The Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI) at Stanford University invites applications for a fixed-term Assistant Professor (Research) faculty position. The appointment is for a non-renewable term of five years, beginning in September 2021. The selected candidate will be appointed in an appropriate disciplinary department (e.g., Communications, Computer Science, History, Philosophy, Psychology, Sociology), and will be a Junior Fellow of the Stanford Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence.

We are seeking applicants from all areas of research related to artificial intelligence, spanning theoretical foundations, systems, software, applications, and human or societal impact. We are particularly interested in researchers working at the frontiers of artificial intelligence and other disciplines, including but not limited to the humanities, business, education, law, medicine, and physical and social sciences. Applicants must have received a PhD prior to the start of the appointment, must show outstanding promise in research, and must have a strong commitment to teaching. A successful candidate will be expected to teach one course per year at the graduate and/or undergraduate levels and will be provided generous research support.

Further information about the HAI Institute can be found at <https://hai.stanford.edu>.

Application Requirements:

? All applications should include a curriculum vita, a list of publications, and brief (3 page total) statements of research and teaching interests.

? Applicants should submit the names and contact information of at least four references.

Please apply online Academic Jobs Online. You will need to create an AJO account if you do not already have one. Questions should be directed to the Search Committee Chair via electronic mail to HAI-Search@stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8151

New York University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate - NYU Center for Social Media and Politics

The NYU Center for Social Media and Politics studies the influence of social media on politics, and develops new and innovative ways to measure such influence. Postdocs work on projects that could include: analyzing the behavior of bots in elections, working with survey data merged with respondents' social media behavior, analyzing Facebook data made available through the Social Science One program, identifying which users are most influential in online networks, examining the impact of YouTube and other sites on news consumption of individuals, the spread of disinformation through social media platforms, and studying how and what individuals learn from social media during the 2020 U.S. election campaign.

We are looking for a postdoc with a strong research background and advanced technical skills. Experience with research in one or more of the following areas is desirable: active learning, deep learning, or machine learning. A Ph.D. degree in Computer Science, Data Science, Statistics, or a social science field with a background in machine learning and data science is required.

The directors of the Center for Social Media and Politics are actively seeking a diverse group of students, engineers, postdocs, faculty collaborators, and staff, and encourage applicants from all backgrounds to apply. We believe in the importance of diversity as a key to the long range, health, and vibrancy of the field, as well as its ability to create a more stimulating intellectual environment.

This is initially a one year position, with the potential for renewal up to three years.

CSMaP consists of three core faculty directors covering fields of Political Science, Computer Science, and Computational Biology, as well as software engineers, data scientists, PhD students in both Political Science and Data Science, affiliated faculty at NYU and other institutions, and undergraduates. The lab maintains a broad research agenda with many projects moving forward simultaneously. Recent publications and/or working papers have centered on the consumption of fake news, the distribution of media consumption by individuals, the links shared by IRA Troll accounts in the 2016 US election, how (competitive) authoritarian regimes respond to online opposition, and the prevalence of hate speech on Twitter.

The Postdocs will work with the faculty directors and others to conduct cutting edge research: analyzing data using tools of modern machine learning, designing data collection schemes, developing and testing new algorithms, and producing code and writing up results. Postdocs are expected to participate in co-authoring multiple lab papers.

Feel free to contact any of the faculty directors for more information: Rich Bonneau (rb133[at]nyu.edu), Jonathan Nagler (jonathan.nagler[at]nyu.edu), or Joshua Tucker (joshua.tucker[at]nyu.edu).

Application URL: <http://apply.interfolio.com/78575>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8127

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2021-22

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson Institute for Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong economics training and quantitative methods. The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by professors Frances Rosenbluth and Ian Shapiro in analyzing regulation, employment practices, and market outcomes, principally for OECD countries.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2021. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79312>.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see <https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda>.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2020 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8116

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The International Studies and Languages Division of Pepperdine University's Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track appointment as an Assistant Professor of International Studies (with a specialization in African Studies) beginning August 1, 2021. The ability to teach courses in at least two of the following areas is preferred: African politics, African culture and society, ethnicity in Africa, comparative politics, or comparative political economy. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Anthropology, or Sociology is required. Candidates should demonstrate exceptional interest and effectiveness in teaching and mentoring undergraduate students. Candidates should also have the ability to establish a productive research program. The ability to engage students in their scholarly work would be a plus.

Pepperdine University is a private Christian university overlooking the Pacific Ocean in Malibu, California. Faculty, staff and students partner to support Pepperdine's Christian Mission. Pepperdine is committed to valuing diversity and inclusion among our students and faculty. Applicants of color are particularly encouraged to apply.

Please submit all application materials at apply.interfolio.com/78908. Review of candidates' application materials will begin on November 9th, 2020, and will continue until the search is closed.

Contact:

Dr. George Carlsen (george.carlsen@pepperdine.edu)

Divisional Dean of International Studies and Languages
Pepperdine University
24255 Pacific Coast Highway
Malibu, CA 90263

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/25/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8105

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor-Tenure System

Assistant Professor-Tenure System

The Education Policy program within the Department of Educational Administration seeks one 9-month, tenure-track assistant professor who specializes in policy implementation. We are looking for a new colleague who shares our program's commitment to contributing rigorous empirical research to local, state, national, and international policy conversations. In particular, we seek a colleague who will diversify our current faculty's strengths and areas of research.

We seek applicants who utilize qualitative or mixed methodological approaches to address policy implementation questions. Applicants must have a strong record of scholarship and teaching that focuses on the policy process, policy implementation, and educational equity and who specialize in K-12 or higher education policy. Priority will be placed on applicants whose scholarship (1) address issues of equity and adequacy in implementation, (2) engages a range of policy stakeholders including policy makers, district/school/institutional leaders, and local, state, and national organizations focused on improving education, and (3) examines policies and practices that are critical to current and ongoing policy conversations.

This position will support our program's goal to increase our focus on implementation. Beginning in the 2021-2022 school year we will be offering a new concentration in education science with a key component rooted in policy implementation. The new faculty member will participate in the development of a new IES-funded interdisciplinary doctoral training program in education policy implementation and efficacy and will mentor students from across the university who participate in the program.

The department is particularly interested in candidates who have experience working with diversity, equity, and inclusion in education and demonstrated commitment to improving educational outcomes for all students.

Our nationally ranked program is home to 7 faculty members and approximately 30 doctoral students pursuing a wide range of questions related to education policy. The Education Policy faculty includes a number of prominent national and international leaders who are excited to support an early career colleague to be a highly successful policy scholar and teacher. The Education Policy program is housed in MSU's acclaimed Department of Educational Administration, alongside programs in in K12 Educational Administration and Higher, Adult, and Lifelong Education. Situated in an institution committed to access and outreach, Education Policy faculty and students are deeply committed to addressing local, state, national, and international educational policy. Building on our collective strengths, we seek to add a new and unique voice to our program.

Required Degree:

Doctorate

Minimum Requirements:

- Earned doctoral degree prior to start date and a record of accomplishments consistent with appointment as an assistant professor at a research-intensive institution.
- Doctorate in education policy, public policy, public administration, political science, sociology, implementation sciences, or other related field.
- Record of or potential for an outstanding scholarly publication record.
- Ability to mentor doctoral students in the area of implementation research, specifically in collaboration with external stakeholders.
- Strong methodological training in and ability to teach graduate level qualitative methods including at least one or more of: case studies, interviewing, or process tracing.
- Ability to teach graduate level courses in education policy, policy implementation, and policy evaluation.
- A research agenda that promotes equitable educational opportunities for all students, especially those historically marginalized by institutions of education and by policy.
- Collaboration skills and willingness to work on a new IES grant-funded doctoral training program in education science.

Desired Qualifications

- Experience working with a range of education stakeholders on policy related issues.
- Strong methodological training in and ability to teach mixed methods including, but not limited to, survey development and analysis and mediation analyses.
- Record of or potential for grant supported research.
- Experience working with research-policy or research-practice partnerships.

Required Application Materials:

Online application via careers.msu.edu is required, see posting #673144. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, an empirical writing sample that is relevant to the position as outlined in the call, and names and contact information of three references.

Special Instructions:

We invite inquiries from potentially interested candidates to any of the search committee members:

Rebecca Jacobsen, Co-chair (Associate Professor of Education Policy), rjacobs@msu.edu

Katharine Strunk, Co-chair (Clifford E. Erickson Distinguished Professor of Education Policy and, by courtesy, Economics), kstrunk@msu.edu

Terah Venzant Chambers (Professor of Educational Administration and Associate Dean for Equity and Inclusion), terah@msu.edu

Scott Imberman (Professor of Economics and Education Policy), imberman@msu.edu Sarah Reckhow (Associate Professor of Political Science), reckhow@msu.edu

Kris Renn (Professor of Higher, Adult, and Lifelong Learning and Associate Dean of Undergraduate Studies for Student Success Research), renn@msu.edu

Sandy Frost Waldron (PhD Student in Education Policy), waldro41@msu.edu John Yun (Associate Professor of Educational Administration), jyun@msu.edu

Michigan State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Michigan State University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall
Date Posted: 9/23/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8088

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8039

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. <http://apply.interfolio.com/76709>

Start Date: Summer 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8040

Hamilton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government or Philosophy

The Government and Philosophy Departments at Hamilton College invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Instructor or Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2021. We seek candidates in philosophy or political theory with particular expertise in the normative, ontological, social, and/or political implications of digital technology. Priority will be given to candidates who can demonstrate successful collaboration and interdisciplinary thinking. We are open to candidates who can engage in any of the following areas of research: the ethical and ontological implications of artificial intelligence; the implications of artificial intelligence and Big Data for justice, privacy, and issues of inclusion, bias, and marginalization; the impact of digital technology on democratic values and discourses; transhumanism as a technological, normative, and political perspective; what digital technology and human-computer interactions mean for human identity and for individual rights and liberty; how digital technology centralizes or disperses political power; or how digital technology impacts our relationship with the natural world and our conception of environmental responsibility. Candidates are also expected to add pedagogically-appropriate digital technologies and applications in the classroom.

We seek candidates committed to fostering an inclusive, diverse community. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, although candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred. The teaching load for this position is four courses during the first year and five courses thereafter.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching portfolio, and writing sample via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78354>. Applications should include evidence of commitment to or experience in teaching and working with diverse student populations, either in a cover letter or in a separate statement. We will solicit letters of reference from candidates who are selected to move on to the second stage of the search.

Questions regarding the search may be directed to Prof. Sharon Rivera (Government) or Prof. Russell Marcus (Philosophy), Search Committee Co-Chairs, at srivera@hamilton.edu or rmarcus1@hamilton.edu. Our review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings, as well as additional information, at <https://www.hamilton.edu/dof/faculty-development/resources-for-prospective-or-new-faculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). The position comes with a competitive salary and research and travel support.

Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community. Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from underrepresented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8022

New York University - Abu Dhabi

Rank: Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science - Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint a Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science starting September 2021. Later start dates are also possible. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Here is the link to apply:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/77968>

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7989

Texas A&M University

Rank: Instructional Assistant Professor (non-tenure track)

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a non-tenure track, instructional assistant professor in the area of international political economy, to work in the School's teaching site in Washington, D.C. The position will be for a period of two-years, with the possibility of renewal. The start date for this position will be January 1, 2021. The successful candidate will teach five courses per academic year in a professional master's degree program in international policy – two sections of the required course on the global economy and three other elective courses to be determined in consultation with the department head. A reasonable amount of department and professional service will also be expected.

The Department of International Affairs is one of two departments in the Bush School of Government and Public Service. Additional information about the Bush School and departments is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science, politics or government with a specialization in the sub-field of international political economy to be considered.

Applicants with additional expertise in the intersection of international political economy and international security issues, and/or expertise in the politics and political economy of a particular world region, are particularly encouraged to apply.

Applicants must submit: 1) Letter of Interest, 2) CV, and 3) three letters of recommendation. The application materials must be submitted online at <http://apply.interfolio.com/76363>.

Point of Contact: Ms. Peg Hosea plhosea@tamu.edu

Texas A&M University is committed to enriching the learning and working environment for all visitors, students, faculty, and staff by promoting a culture that embraces inclusion, diversity, equity, and accountability. Diverse perspectives, talents, and identities are vital to accomplishing our mission and living our core values.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/19/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7900

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

Postdoctoral positions are available with Dr. Erik Gartzke in the Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) in the Political Science Department at the University of California, San Diego.

cPASS conducts rigorous, data-driven research on international affairs and U.S. foreign policy. Its mission is to apply cutting-edge social science to improve our collective understanding of how humans can best cooperate in an increasingly globalized and connected world with rapidly advancing technologies. cPASS is committed to promoting research excellence and diversity within cPASS and our academic field.

The postdoctoral fellows will assist in a Hewlett Foundation funded project on "CyberEscalation in Power Projection." This project focuses on understanding how humans and their institutions interact with technology to better assess how the introduction of a new kind of connectedness through cyberspace shapes decisions concerning power projection. This project hopes to overcome the challenges for young scholars interested in cyber escalation by investing in building expertise and creating quality data to test theories.

As part of their duties, the postdoctoral fellows will collaborate with the Machine-learning for Social Science Lab (<https://cpass.ucsd.edu/mssl>) to create a foundational dataset of cyber events focused on basic scientific standards that is transparent, replicable, and reproducible. The postdoctoral fellows will also work with cPASS staff to develop the Cyber Escalation Lab and build a community dedicated to cyber escalation topics. Additional duties may arise in line with the goals of the "Cyber-Escalation in Power Projection" project. Authorship/co-authorship of scholarly research will be strongly encouraged.

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, Social Science, Computer Science, Information Science or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Applicants with appropriate skills are encouraged from a wide range of disciplines related to international relations and computer science. The appointment may be delayed for applicants expected to complete their PhD within the next six months.

Candidates must have extensive knowledge and experience in the cyber domain and a strong working knowledge of international relations theory.

Ideal candidates will also have experience with data science and machine learning. Candidates with demonstrated leadership or commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting are preferred.

Applicants must apply for this position at this link: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/JPF02537>

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, or status as a protected veteran.

This position will be 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible. Some flexibility exists as to the starting date of the position with fall 2020 as the earliest. Candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego by the start of the postdoc.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7823

Florida International University

Rank: Judicial Politics Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

Florida International University is Miami's public research university, focused on student success. According to U.S. News and World Report, FIU has 42 top-50 rankings in the nation among public universities. FIU is a top U.S. research university (R1), with more than $200 million in annual expenditures. FIU ranks 15th in the nation among public universities for patent production, which drives innovation, and is one of the institutions that helps make Florida the top state for higher education. The Next Horizon fundraising campaign is furthering FIU's commitment to providing students Worlds Ahead opportunities. Today, FIU has two campuses and multiple centers, and supports artistic and cultural engagement through its three museums: Patricia & Phillip Frost Art Museum, the Wolfsonian-FIU, and the Jewish Museum of Florida-FIU. FIU is a member of Conference USA, with more than 400 student-athletes participating in 18 sports. The university has awarded more than 330,000 degrees to many leaders in South Florida and beyond. For more information about FIU, visit www.fiu.edu.

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Florida International University in Miami, Florida invites applications to fill a full-time Instructor position in Judicial Politics. The teaching assignment is eight courses per academic year, and the successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach Constitutional Law, Judicial Process, and the Supreme Court, in addition to other courses in judicial politics. The anticipated starting date is August 12, 2021. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science and/or a J.D. with relevant teaching experience.

Qualified candidates are encouraged to apply to Job Opening ID 521003 at facultycareers.fiu.edu and include the following as part of their application: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) statement of teaching philosophy and teaching interests, including a description of your experiences in sustaining a commitment to diversity and inclusion, (4) two sample syllabi, (5) teaching evaluations, and (6)

the names, titles, and email addresses of three persons sending letters of recommendation. Candidates should upload all application materials as a single pdf file. To receive full consideration, applications and required materials should be received by December 1, 2020. Review will continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Politics and International Relations at pir@fiu.edu.

The Department is home to more than 1,600 undergraduate majors, almost 100 graduate students, and 38 faculty (see pir.fiu.edu). Situated in the School of International and Public Affairs (see sipa.fiu.edu), faculty enjoy opportunities to work with colleagues in seven other departments (Criminal Justice, Economics, Global & Sociocultural Studies, History, Modern Languages, Public Administration and Religious Studies) as well as SIPA's centers and institutes (i.e., the African and African Diaspora Studies program, the Center for the Administration of Justice, the Cuban Research Institute, the Jack D. Gordon Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship Studies, the Global Energy Security Forum, the Jewish Studies Program, the Latin American and Caribbean Center, Miami-Florida Jean Monnet European Studies Program, and Middle East Studies).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 3/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7794

POLITICAL THEORY

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

2020-21 Search in the College of Arts and Sciences
Department of Political Science
Tenure-Track Assistant Professor, Political Theory

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

Background: The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at Loyola University Chicago (LUC) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, for academic year 2021-22.

As part of a University-wide, multiyear hiring initiative designed to diversify the faculty, the department seeks applicants with expertise in Political Theory. We are searching for diverse and qualified applicants whose research contributes to the development of Democratic Theory or explores normative and historical questions regarding Political Justice. Of particular interest is work in areas including, but not limited to, political economy, health or the environment, inequality and distribution, punishment and violence, or identity politics. Innovative research in comparative political theory or the history of political thought will also be prioritized. As an urban-based Department of Political Science dedicated to mentoring a diverse student body, many of whom come from under-represented and under-served populations, we especially encourage applications from candidates from under-represented groups. We also encourage applications from scholars committed to interdisciplinarity (i.e., working with colleagues across different subfields and disciplines) and the successful pursuit of external grants. The successful candidate will be joining a department with more than 20 full-time faculty members, over 600 majors and 100 minors, and four graduate programs (BA/MA, MA/JD, MA, and PhD). For more information about the department, please visit its website at <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>

Duties and Responsibilities: The successful applicant can expect to teach an introductory course on Political Theory on a regular basis; upper-level undergraduate courses on topics such as Democratic Theory, Contemporary Political Thought, and Political Justice on a rotating basis; and the occasional graduate seminar. Successful candidates may also develop special topics courses in conversation with the Department Chair and according to departmental needs. Additionally, they will be expected to support the department's student-related programming and academic advising according to the practices of the department and to serve on departmental and university committees as designated by the Department Chair. The successful candidate is expected to pursue a strong research program, including the pursuit of external grants.

Minimum Qualifications: The candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment. Candidates for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Experience working or conducting research in the specialty area of Political Theory is desirable. The candidate should be willing to support the mission of LUC and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic Education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Candidates should submit to www.careers.luc.edu (1) a brief letter of interest; (2) a current Curriculum Vitae; (3) a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda; (4) a statement on teaching experience; and (5) a statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to mentoring a diverse student body through research, teaching and other channels and engaging a diverse community through scholarship and service. Applicants should also arrange for three recommendations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, especially in terms of scholarship, teaching and mentorship, to be submitted electronically to the above website (letter writers will receive an electronic prompt from LUC). Candidates may forward additional materials related to teaching excellence and samples of scholarly publications to:

Robert Mayer, Ph.D., Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.

LUC is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity – including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment – is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically accessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a transformative education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 11/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8339

University of Cambridge

Rank: 3-year Lecturer (Assistant Professor) Political Theory

The Department of Politics and International Studies is seeking to appoint a 3-year University Lectureship (i.e. Assistant Professor) in Political Theory starting 1st September 2021. The salary range is £41,526-£52,559.

The successful candidate will have a record of research publications commensurate with the international reputation of the University of Cambridge. Primary teaching responsibilities will include contributing to the development, delivery and supervision of graduate teaching the MPhil in Politics and International Studies and undergraduate Political Theory, but the candidate will also be expected to contribute across the Department's teaching responsibilities in providing at least 40 hours of lectures and seminars annually plus small-group supervisions. Candidates should demonstrate a willingness and ability to contribute to the self-governance of the Department.

Candidates will need to show evidence of the following qualifications, skills and experience:

- Doctorate in a relevant subject area (or clear evidence that completion of such a doctorate is imminent);
- Evidence of ability to publish research on Political Theory in the leading international scholarly outlets;
- Evidence of ability to teach in the MPhil in Politics and International Studies as well as undergraduate Political Theory papers;
- Ability to play an effective and collegial role in the life and work of the Department;

Further information about the Department can be found at www.polis.cam.ac.uk

Please see further information and apply via the link <http://www.jobs.cam.ac.uk/job/27282/>

References will be requested from short-listed candidates. The closing date for this post is 1 January 2021.

We particularly welcome applications from women and /or candidates from a BME background for this vacancy as they are currently under-represented at this level in the Department.

Enquiries can be made to the chair of the committee Prof. Duncan Bell (dsab2@cam.ac.uk). Interviews for shortlisted applicants will be scheduled after the application close date. Enquiries about applications should be addressed to Ms Louisa Bailey (lkb44@cam.ac.uk). Please quote reference UE24372 on your application and in any correspondence about this vacancy. The University actively supports equality, diversity and inclusion and encourages applications from all sections of society.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/1/2021
Date Posted: 11/21/2020
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 8318

CUNY-City College of New York

Rank: Postdoctoral fellow

Post-Doctoral Fellow of Politics & International Affairs

The Hamilton Initiative at The City College of New York-CUNY invites applications for the Jerome Levy Postdoctoral Fellowship in Politics and International Affairs, beginning in the Fall of 2021. Housed in the Department of Political Science, the Hamilton Initiative exists to encourage serious and open engagement with the Western political and philosophic tradition. While the position is open with respect to research areas, we are particularly interested in candidates able to teach courses in the Western canon of political thought and/or International Relations. The teaching load will be three courses per academic year, on topics to be agreed with the Department Chair based on the Fellow's expertise and the Department's needs. The Postdoctoral Fellow will also be expected to participate actively in the Hamilton Initiative's activities and contribute to its administration as needed.

The position is for a duration of one academic year, renewable for one more year. Salaries are competitive and commensurate to living costs in New York City. A PhD degree (in hand or expected by the beginning of the 2021-22 academic year) is a required qualification.

We will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2021 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, CV, sample course syllabi and teaching evaluations, copy of graduate transcript(s), and a sample(s) of professional writing (published work preferred). Candidates should also include a cover letter describing how their teaching, scholarship, mentoring and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values.

Please submit application materials to Jenifer Roman, jroman@ccny.cuny.edu

For any questions please contact the Department Chairman, Daniel DiSalvo, at ddisalvo@ccny.cuny.edu, or the program Co-Director, Carlo Invernizzi Accetti at: caccetti@ccny.cuny.edu

Located in the Hamilton Heights section of Harlem in Manhattan, City College is one of the most diverse institutions of higher education in the nation with some 90 languages spoken on campus. Access and excellence are its core values.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8289

St. Joseph's College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

Specializations: Developing Nations, Foreign Policy, Latino Politics

St. Joseph's College, a mission-driven liberal arts college with campuses in Patchogue, Long Island and the Clinton Hill area of Brooklyn, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires teaching on both campuses. Start date is September 2021. Preference will be given to candidates with expertise in comparative government and international relations. The teaching load is 4 classes per semester. Applicants must show promise in scholarship along with excellence in teaching. Candidates are asked to submit their material as one PDF document.

Ph.D. in Political Science required by date of hire.

Send cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, and student evaluations before December 7 to:

politicalscience@sjcny.edu
 Professor Raymond D'Angelo, Chair
 Department of Social Sciences
 St. Joseph's College
 245 Clinton Avenue
 Brooklyn, NY 11205
 718.940.5747

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8288

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Post-Doc in Political Theory

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a postdoctoral fellowship in political theory to begin August 2021. The position is for one year, renewable for a second. The Department is also hiring for a postdoctoral position in public policy, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and research productivity appropriate to the rank of appointment. The teaching load is reduced to three courses per year. New faculty members have opportunity for teaching mentoring through the Center for Teaching and designing community engagement curricula through collaboration with the Carnegie-recognized Office of Community Engagement. In addition to the ability to teach introductory courses in political theory, we are particularly interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in their area of specialization and connect them to our existing major concentrations.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau.

The University of the South stands firmly for the principle that its employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have a right to be free from discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, veteran status, pregnancy and childbirth, and genetic information. As required by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and the ADA Amendments Act of 2008, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the University does not discriminate on the basis of sex or other protected categories in the educational programs or activities which it operates. This requirement of non-discrimination extends to admission to and employment in those programs or activities. The University is committed to sustaining a community in which the dignity of every individual is respected. Key to this value are efforts to nurture an environment of civility and mutual respect and to foster a culture of reporting concerns so that the University can respond promptly and equitably whenever an incident occurs. All employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have the right to be free from harassment and retaliation.

For preliminary review, applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement demonstrating how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular area of study, training, or other experience. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewane.edu/postings/4430>. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. For full consideration, please submit materials by December 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8277

University of Oslo

Rank: PhD Research Fellowship in Political Science (peace and conflict research)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Administration

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces two vacant positions for PhD Research Fellowships (SKO 1017). The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. In the Department, teaching is organized into five sections: public policy and administration, comparative politics, political theory, international politics, and research methods. The successful applicants will work as PhD Fellows on the project "ResilienceBuilding: Social Resilience, Gendered Dynamics, and Local Peace in Protracted Conflicts", funded by the European Research Council. Candidates will be part of the Faculty's PhD programme, and the work performed will be expected to lead to a PhD in Political Science.

The ResilienceBuilding project investigates the causes and consequences of social resilience in protracted armed conflicts, with a focus on Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan and Kenya. It asks how civilians and communities develop social resilience and adapt to conflict dynamics in ways that prevent or mitigate violence, how they maintain resilience and prevent renewed vulnerability to conflict re-escalation, and how social resilience impacts peacebuilding and development. The project further focuses on interlinking national and local dynamics of communal conflict and civil war to study the potential and limitations of international and local peacebuilding efforts and barriers to sustainable peace. The research into social resilience and multi-level conflict dynamics integrates a gender perspective. This means that research examines gendered coping mechanisms, variation in gender relations across areas differently affected by conflict, and women's movements and peacebuilding agency on the national and local level.

The project is headed by Associate Professor Jana Krause and funded by an ERC Starting Grant, running from 2020-2025. We encourage applicants to read about the project in the project proposal.

Qualification requirements

Essential

A Master's degree in political science or closely related discipline. To be appointed to the position, the prior education must be equivalent of five years at the university level in Norway in a relevant field, with two years (120 credits) at the master's level. In case of completion of a shorter MA degree, extra course work on the graduate level and other research training and experience may be taken into consideration. Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of high quality.

Excellent oral and written English language skills. The PhD thesis will be written in English.

Ability to work independently as well as in a team, and willingness to contribute to administrative and organizational project tasks, such as the organization of workshops, conferences, and other research and outreach collaborations.

Applicants must submit a doctoral research plan of up to 3000 words outlining one or more of the topics studied in ResilienceBuilding in relation to one or more of the country case studies (Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan, Kenya). The research plan should specify the problems to be studied, motivation and relevance, the research methods to be used, and - if relevant - prior related research experience. Successful applicants should expect to further develop their research plan with inputs from the project leader and the research team. For more information please see Guidelines for application and admission

Desired

In addition, candidates with some of the following qualifications will be at an advantage: (1) Knowledge of politics or research experience in one of the project's country cases and willingness to conduct fieldwork in at least one of them; (2) language skills relevant for conducting research in one of the four countries (e.g. French for the Central African Republic) (3) methodological competencies and training in qualitative and quantitative research methods (particularly interviewing, survey research, statistics), and (4) personal suitability and motivation for working within the project.

In evaluating applications, academic and personal qualifications and the PhD research outline will be given more weight than other disciplinary and general qualifications. The intention is to recruit the candidate who has the best prospects for developing into an excellent researcher and for contributing to the project's research agenda and outputs over the coming 4-year period.

We offer

Salary NOK 482 200 – 526 000 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research Fellow (position code 1017)

A pleasant, stimulating and international working environment

Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities

A travel and research budget for field research and participation in conferences and workshops

A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare

PhD Fellows may acquire pedagogical competency

How to apply

The application must include

A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests, explaining why the candidate is well prepared for pursuing this PhD project
A PhD research plan (max.3000 words)

A CV (summarizing education, previous positions, academic and other relevant work)

A Copy of the Master's dissertation

Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master's thesis.

An official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university translated into ECTS-credits

Names and contact details for two reference persons (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system. Please follow the link "apply for this job" (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/195580/phd-research-fellowship-in-political-science-peace-and-conflict-research>). Please note that all documents should be in English.

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the research project plan and the applicants academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project.

The deadline for applications is 5 January 2021. Online interviews will take place between 8 and 12 February 2021. The position will start on 1 August 2021 (or a mutually agreed-upon date).

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Please direct all questions about the research project and research plan to the Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Jana Krause, via email jana.krause@stv.uio.no

Head of Department Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch (<https://www.stv.uio.no/isv/english/people/aca/berasch/index.html>)

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsonn; helle.fritzsonn@stv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 1/5/2021

Date Posted: 11/9/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8265

University of Oslo

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Science (peace and conflict research)

Specializations: Political Behavior, Science & Technology, Conflict Processes

Job description

The Department of Political Science wants to recruit one excellent social scientist with a background from Political Science or a closely related field. The successful applicant will work fulltime as a Postdoctoral Fellow in the ERC project 'ResilienceBuilding: Social Resilience, Gendered Dynamics, and Local Peace in Protracted Conflicts', funded by the European Research Council. The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. This means that 75% of the working time over four years is devoted to research.

The ResilienceBuilding project investigates the causes and consequences of social resilience in protracted armed conflicts, with a focus on Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan and Kenya. It asks how civilians and communities develop social resilience and adapt to conflict dynamics in ways that prevent or mitigate violence, how they maintain resilience and prevent renewed vulnerability to conflict re-escalation, and how social resilience impacts peacebuilding and development. The project further focuses on interlinking national and local dynamics of communal conflict and civil war to study the potential and limitations of international and local peacebuilding efforts and barriers to sustainable peace. The research into social resilience and multi-level conflict dynamics integrates a gender perspective. This means that research examines gendered coping mechanisms and women's movements and peacebuilding agency on the national and local level.

The project is headed by Associate Professor Jana Krause and funded by an ERC Starting Grant, running from 2020-2025. We encourage applicants to read about the project in the project proposal: ResilienceBuilding proposal.

The main purpose of the fellowship is to qualify researchers for work in higher academic positions within their disciplines. Successful candidates will make important contributions to the research environment of the project and the implementation of its objectives. This includes (co)- organization of research activities and collaborations, such as seminars, workshops, or co-editing project publications.

Qualification requirements

A comprehensive assessment of the applicant's scientific qualifications forms the basis of appointment.

Applicants must hold a degree equivalent to a Norwegian doctoral degree (Ph.D) in Political Science or a closely related discipline before taking up the post. For applicants who have yet to receive their PhD degree, the Doctoral dissertation must have been submitted for evaluation before the application deadline (January 5, 2021). Such applicants should note the date of submission of their PhD in the cover letter. Appointment is dependent on successful completion of the public defense of the doctoral thesis.

The candidate should, in the cover letter (maximum 2 pages), briefly explain how their research profile and agenda will contribute to the overall goals of the ResilienceBuilding project. The applicant should further detail additional suggested contributions in the form of one or two research ideas in an accompanying research proposal (maximum 2 pages). The research proposal should outline a promising research project that can be fulfilled in the course of four years.

Candidates with a high-quality publication, especially in a leading peer-reviewed international journal, will have an advantage. Other desired qualifications include research experience on the topics covered in ResilienceBuilding and/or the countries (Nigeria, Central African Republic, South Sudan, Kenya), fieldwork and survey research experience, general experience with previous systematic data collection efforts, strong administrative and organizational skills, relevant academic and non-academic networks, very good command of English, and programming and statistical software skills. Finally, the applicant's teaching experiences and qualifications and personal suitability for the position will be taken into consideration.

Postdoctoral fellows who are appointed for a period of four years are expected to acquire "basic pedagogical competency" in the course of their fellowship period within the teaching duty component of 25%.

We offer

Salary according to "SKO 1352 postdoktor", pay grade 59-67, NOK 526 000 –608 200 per year (approx. 52 000 – 61 000 Euro)
Budget for travel and research assistance (currently NOK 45 000 per year). Staff can apply for additional research support from the department and faculty.

An academically stimulating and international working environment
A friendly and inclusive workplace

A good pension scheme through the Norwegian Public Service Fund
A good work-life balance and access to Norway's excellent public services and welfare schemes, including generous parental leave provisions and affordable and accessible childcare
Postdocs can acquire pedagogical competency

Female postdocs can take part in the UiO Mentorprogram for female postdocs

How to apply

The online application must include the following items:

A cover letter (max 2 pages, including statement of motivation, summarizing research interests, and how the applicant will contribute to ResilienceBuilding)

A project description (max 2 pages; if cover letter and project description are merged, the maximum is 4 pages)

A CV summarizing education, positions, research and pedagogical experience, administrative experience, and other qualifying activities

A complete list of publications (if not included in the CV)

Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only)

Up to 3 academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered due to their quality or relevance of the projects. The 3 works should include at least one single-authored piece

Names and contact details for two to three reference persons (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be submitted in our electronic recruiting system. Please follow the link "apply for this job" (<https://www.jobbnorge.no/en/available-jobs/job/194836/postdoctoral-fellow-in-political-science-peace-and-conflict-research>). Please note that all documents should be in English, except for publications that may also be in French. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system.

The application deadline is 5 January 2021. The screening and evaluation of the candidates will begin immediately. Interviews will be held in February. The position will be awarded from 1 August (or a mutually-agreed upon date).

We aim to increase the diversity of backgrounds in our staff. We especially encourage female researchers to apply.

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Postdoctoral fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one Postdoctoral Fellow period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

The University of Oslo aims to achieve a balanced gender composition in the workforce and to recruit people with ethnic minority backgrounds.

Contact information

Please direct all questions about the research project and research plan to the Principal Investigator, Associate Professor Jana Krause, via email jana.krause@stv.uio.no

Head of Department Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch (<https://www.sv.uio.no/isv/english/people/aca/berasch/index.html>)

Questions regarding the electronic application should be directed to HR Officer Helle Fritzsønn; helle.fritzsønn@sv.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor's, Master's and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor's degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master's degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Start Date: Spring

Application Deadline: 1/5/2021

Date Posted: 11/9/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8266

McMaster University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor Tenure Track

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor Tenure Track

AOS: Philosophy of Law. The department will also consider social or political philosophers whose research forefronts law and legal institutions.

AOC: Open

McMaster University is located on the traditional territories of the Haudenosaunee and Mississauga Nations and, within the lands protected by the Dish with One Spoon wampum agreement.

The Department of Philosophy at McMaster University seeks to hire a philosopher of law at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, Tenure Track. The department will also consider social or political philosophers whose research forefronts law and legal institutions. We understand philosophy of law broadly to include not only general jurisprudence but also philosophical work focused on particular areas of law, including, but not limited to: constitutional law, criminal law, contract law, discrimination law, human rights law, international law, labor law, property law, and tort law. We are especially interested in scholars with expertise in feminist jurisprudence, Indigenous law, or the law as it relates to race. The normal teaching load in the Philosophy Department is 2 courses per term (4 per academic year), plus graduate supervision.

The successful applicant must demonstrate a record of excellence in teaching and research and a willingness and ability to: (1) contribute actively to the Department's undergraduate program in Justice, Political Philosophy and Law; (2) supervise MA and PhD graduate students; (3) help build and sustain McMaster's existing institutional connections through the Ontario Legal Philosophy Partnership, as well as its already strong working relationships with nearby law schools, and; (4) support the collegial atmosphere and intellectual life of the department. The successful applicant must have or be very near completion of a doctorate in philosophy or subject matter directly related to the position (e.g., law with a specialization in philosophy or political science with a specialization in political theory) by the time of the appointment.

For information about the Department of Philosophy, see <https://philos.humanities.mcmaster.ca>.

The diversity of our workforce is at the core of McMaster's innovation and creativity and strengthens our research, teaching and service excellence. Our department believes that diversity is essential to achieving academic and scholarly excellence and engaging our diverse student body and intellectual community.

In keeping with its Statement on Building an Inclusive Community with a Shared Purpose, McMaster University strives to embody the values of respect, collaboration and diversity, and has a strong commitment to employment equity. The University seeks qualified candidates who share our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusive excellence, and we welcome applications from women, persons with disabilities, First Nations, Métis and Inuit peoples, members of racialized communities ("visible minorities"), and LGBTQ+ persons.

How to Apply:

- Submit a letter of application together with a curriculum vitae, writing sample, research statement, statement of teaching interests and philosophy (including evidence of teaching effectiveness).
- Submit a brief statement describing any contributions made or planned in relation to advancing equity, diversity and inclusive excellence in teaching, research or service within higher education, community-based or other profession settings (2-page maximum)
- Applicants should submit contact information for three potential referees from whom confidential letters of assessment can be obtained.
- Application materials must be submitted through the University's electronic portal: workingatmcmaster.ca/careers/ (Job Opening # 34484).
- Complete applications received by November 29, 2020 are assured of full consideration. However, the position will remain open until it is filled.

Direct queries about the position to philjob@mcmaster.ca.

Job applicants requiring accommodation to participate in the hiring process should contact the Office of the Dean of Humanities at [905-525-9140 ext. 26546] to communicate accommodation needs.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority for the position. To comply with the Government of Canada's reporting requirements, the University gathers information about applicants' status as either a permanent resident of Canada or Canadian citizen. Applicants need not identify country of origin or current citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements:

Yes, I am a citizen or permanent resident of Canada

No, I am not a citizen or permanent resident of Canada

We invite all applicants to complete a brief Diversity Survey.

The survey takes approximately two minutes to complete. All questions are voluntary, with an option to decline to answer. All information collected is confidential and will be used to support efforts to broaden the diversity of the applicant pool and to promote a fair, equitable and inclusive talent acquisition process.

Inquiries about the Diversity Survey may be directed to hr.empequity@mcmaster.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8147

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate and Lecturer

The Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD) in the Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate and lecture position. PCD's mission is to promote scholarship and undergraduate teaching that is informed by political theory and that focuses on the American political tradition. PCD is directed by Professors James W. Ceaser and Rita Koganzon. For more information about the program, please consult our website at <http://pcd.virginia.edu>.

Postdoctoral Research Associates will conduct their own research, participate in PCD programming, and teach one undergraduate course per semester, either "The American Political Tradition" (PLAP 2250) or "American Political Economy" (PLAP 3500). These courses require as background a concentration in political theory and/or an approach to American politics focusing on American political thought and American political development. The opportunity to teach an advanced seminar on a specialized topic may also be available.

Applicants must complete all requirements for their PhD, including a successful defense, prior to start date.

The initial appointment is for 1 year; however, the appointment may be renewed for an additional year contingent upon available funding and satisfactory performance. The position is available starting from January 2021 or August 2021.

Pay is competitive, and benefits are included.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with those arriving by December 1, 2020 receiving priority attention. The University will perform background checks on all new hires prior to employment.

TO APPLY:

Apply online at <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>: search for posting #R0018923 (or through Workday for internal applicants). Full URL: <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UVAJobs/job/Charlottesville-VA/Postdoctoral-Research-Associate-and-Lecturer--Program-on-Constitutionalism-and-Democracy-R0018923-1>. Complete the application, and attach the following:

Please note that all required documents MUST be uploaded in the "resume" box.

Applications that do not contain all the required documents will not receive full consideration.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS:

Cover letter - addressing why you are interested in this position, how your experience has prepared you and demonstrated experience working with underrepresented groups.

Curriculum vitae

Brief statement of research interest

Writing sample (no more than 25 pages)

Contact information for three references.

For questions about the position, please contact Rita Koganzon, at rk7fp@virginia.edu. For questions about the application process, please contact Nicole Robinson, Faculty Search Advisor, at nr7f@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8187

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2021-22, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to four postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as General Ethics Fellows, Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows, or Embedded EthICS Fellows. While the three types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, they all form a common community and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. All applicants will be considered for each type of fellowship that is relevant to their research interests and do not need to tailor their application for one of the three fellowship opportunities.

Applicants for all of the positions below must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law.

General Ethics Fellowship

Our longstanding postdoctoral program is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2021-22, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, global justice, democratic theory, and environmental ethics. But we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

This program is rooted in the Center's commitment to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these problems in normative work involves knowledge of the social sciences, law, engineering, and the life sciences. To that end, fellows in this program are matched with an interdisciplinary research center on campus through which they can engage with empirically-oriented scholars. We are especially interested in candidates with research interests in artificial intelligence for our partnership with the Stanford Institute for Human-Centered Artificial Intelligence (HAI). We are also interested in candidates with research interests in biomedical ethics or bioengineering for partnerships with other centers. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society and of the partner center (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, teach one class per year, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus. Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work. Applicants do not need to tailor their application for a particular partner center.

Embedded Ethics Fellowship

Stanford Embedded EthICS, entering its second year, is a collaborative program that embeds the teaching of ethics into Stanford's core undergraduate computer science curriculum. Working in collaboration with CS faculty and graduate students, the fellows will have responsibility for (a) working with CS faculty and students to develop course materials, (b) teaching the modules across three to six courses, (c) providing pedagogical training for Course Assistants in CS, and (d) participating in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics and HAI. We seek applicants with a Ph.D. in philosophy, political science, or law who have substantive normative training, and who are enthusiastic to work with computer scientists to develop ethics modules. Ideal candidates need not have a computer science background but should have significant teaching experience, some mathematical training, and experience with cross-disciplinary research or teaching.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For all three types of fellowships, the appointment term is Sept. 1, 2021 to Aug. 31, 2022. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2021. Candidates must also be no more than three years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2018).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for all three types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as an Interdisciplinary Ethics, General Ethics, or Embedded EthICS fellow.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 2, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Date Posted: 10/16/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8184

Political Theory Project Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Political Theory Project (PTP) at Brown University will be appointing up to two Postdoctoral Fellows. Post-doctorates must have received their PhD's within the past three years. Salary is competitive.

Appointments are for one year, renewable for a second year based on satisfactory performance and the availability of funds. Postdoctoral fellows will pursue their own research, participate in PTP working groups, and teach one seminar course per year. In addition to a CV, three confidential letters of reference, and writing sample, applications should include a cover letter describing how their research fits within the mission of the PTP. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant.

Details about the Project's research and pedagogical missions can be found at <https://ptp.brown.edu/>. Applications received by November 30, 2020 will be assured of full consideration.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/79054>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Date Posted: 10/14/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8174

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8155

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8039

Brown University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department invites applications for one position, tenured or tenure track, effective July 2021. AOS: Political philosophy, philosophy of social science, philosophy of economics, philosophical political economy, philosophy of rational choice theory, or related areas. AOC: Open. Graduate and undergraduate teaching, with the usual advising and administrative responsibilities. The successful candidate will also be a member of Brown's Political Theory Project, which is committed to diverse approaches to conceptual problems, including both normative and empirical interests, concerning policies and practices, ideas and institutions that make societies free, prosperous, and fair. Interests in political economy and interdisciplinary research are therefore desiderata for this position. We seek candidates who contribute to diversity and/or have demonstrated support for diversity and inclusion through their teaching and research. Candidates are asked to include in their teaching dossier a statement of how their teaching is designed with an eye to contributing to an inclusive educational environment. A similar contribution from one's research can also be cited if relevant. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020. <http://apply.interfolio.com/76709>

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8040

Hamilton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government or Philosophy

The Government and Philosophy Departments at Hamilton College invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Instructor or Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2021. We seek candidates in philosophy or political theory with particular expertise in the normative, ontological, social, and/or political implications of digital technology. Priority will be given to candidates who can demonstrate successful collaboration and interdisciplinary thinking. We are open to candidates who can engage in any of the following areas of research: the ethical and ontological implications of artificial intelligence; the implications of artificial intelligence and Big Data for justice, privacy, and issues of inclusion, bias, and marginalization; the impact of digital technology on democratic values and discourses; transhumanism as a technological, normative, and political perspective; what digital technology and human-computer interactions mean for human identity and for individual rights and liberty; how digital technology centralizes or disperses political power; or how digital technology impacts our relationship with the natural world and our conception of environmental responsibility. Candidates are also expected to add pedagogically-appropriate digital technologies and applications in the classroom.

We seek candidates committed to fostering an inclusive, diverse community. Candidates who are ABD will be considered, although candidates with a Ph.D. are preferred. The teaching load for this position is four courses during the first year and five courses thereafter.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching portfolio, and writing sample via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/78354>. Applications should include evidence of commitment to or experience in teaching and working with diverse student populations, either in a cover letter or in a separate statement. We will solicit letters of reference from candidates who are selected to move on to the second stage of the search.

Questions regarding the search may be directed to Prof. Sharon Rivera (Government) or Prof. Russell Marcus (Philosophy), Search Committee Co-Chairs, at srivera@hamilton.edu or rmarcus1@hamilton.edu. Our review of applications will begin on November 1, 2020.

Hamilton (www.hamilton.edu) is a residential liberal arts college located in upstate New York. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings, as well as additional information, at <https://www.hamilton.edu/dof/faculty-development/resources-for-prospective-or-new-faculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners> (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). The position comes with a competitive salary and research and travel support.

Hamilton College is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and is committed to diversity in all areas of the campus community.

Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits. Candidates from under-represented groups in higher education are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 11/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8022

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior researchers for the year from September 1, 2021 to September 1, 2022, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on funding and outstanding performance. Appointments will be through the department of Politics. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17241> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;

* contact information for two references.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
 Matthew Franck, Ph.D.
 Associate Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail)
 Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 8018

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law
Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

UPDATE FOR 2021-2022 APPLICATIONS: In light of the ongoing pandemic, we are not currently reviewing applications for the 2021-2022 academic year. Please check the listings again (<https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>) in January for updated opportunities.

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8019

Salisbury University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Salisbury University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. This is a full time, 10-month position.

Primary Job Duties: The Department seeks candidates whose expertise is in one or more of the following fields: racial and ethnic politics, political theory, and law and judicial politics. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level courses in political theory and/or American politics (political institutions and behavior and courses in the Law, Justice and Advocacy minor). The candidate will also be able to teach a research methods course. Academic advising and student mentoring are also expected as well as ongoing scholarly activities. The teaching load is 3-3 of 4 credit hour courses.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science. If ABD, applicant would be hired at the rank of Instructor and must complete doctoral degree by: May 2022. Demonstrated evidence of a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching.

Preferred Qualifications: Evidence of a commitment to political engagement, an active research agenda, curriculum development, and undergraduate research mentorship.

Applications received by October 15, 2020 will receive full consideration. The position will remain open until filled. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be contingent upon verification of eligibility to work in the U.S. and is expected to begin August 2021. Please visit our website <http://www.salisbury.edu/HR/careers/> to apply online. See the FAQs of the Online Employment Application System for more information and instructions.

To be considered an applicant, you must apply online and submit the following: 1) A letter of interest; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) statements of research and teaching interests; 4) unofficial transcripts; 5) the names and contact information of at least three professional references. All documents must be submitted with your application in the online employment application system. Questions about the position should be directed to the search chair, Dr. Sarah Surak at smsurak@salisbury.edu.

This position is based in Salisbury, MD, an area with a culturally diverse population with rich cultural experiences. Salisbury University, a member of the University System of Maryland is a regionally accredited four-year comprehensive institution offering 60 distinct graduate and undergraduate programs. Founded in 1925, Salisbury University features a beautiful campus close to ocean beaches and the Chesapeake Bay and 2-3 hours from the metropolitan areas of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. SU is consistently ranked among the nation's top colleges and 'best values' by U.S. News and World Report, The Princeton Review and other publications. SU has 440 full-time faculty members serving a student population of approximately 8700.

Diversity and inclusion are core values of Salisbury University. We strive to create a truly diverse and inclusive environment where the richness of ideas, backgrounds, and perspectives of our community is harnessed to create value for our University community to include students, faculty, and staff, today and in the future. To this end, the University recruits exceptional and diverse faculty, staff, and students from across Maryland, the United States, and around the world, supporting all members of the University community as they work together to achieve institutional goals and vision. To learn more about the University's commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus, please visit <http://www.salisbury.edu/equity/>.

Applications will be accepted via Salisbury University's online employment application system.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7950

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer - Ethics and Public Policy

The Department of Politics and the University Center for Human Values at Princeton University seeks qualified candidates to teach precepts (discussion sections) for a lecture course on Ethics and Public Policy, beginning in late August. Teaching will be performed via remote technology. Precepting responsibilities include attending lectures, preparing materials, grading, and working closely with course instructors to provide pedagogical support.

An advanced degree, and some advanced coursework, or ideally a specialization, in ethics or political theory/political philosophy, and/or normative aspects of public policy, required.

Interested applicants must submit a CV, and a letter detailing their qualifications, their teaching experience, and the names and contact information of two or three professors who can testify to their teaching qualifications. Letters of recommendation will be requested for any shortlisted candidates.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until any available positions are filled.

These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

Applications must be submitted online at <https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/apply/application.xhtml?listingId=16482>.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7903

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics
Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
 Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFU) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/14/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 7872

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Eastern Michigan University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Eastern Michigan University invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2021.

Qualified candidates will be able to contribute to our NAASPA-accredited MPA program and to at least one of the undergraduate majors housed within the Department of Political Science. Area of specialization is open, but our leading needs are in public policy and state and local government.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree or be ABD in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or other relevant field and demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching, research, and service. ABD candidates must be nearing completion and should have an expected graduation date before the time of appointment. Expertise should be demonstrated through doctoral transcripts and/or professional experience, and candidates should show a commitment to teaching and working with individuals from diverse backgrounds and to furthering the diversity and inclusion missions of the department, college, and university.

Applications received by December 15 are guaranteed full consideration, however the position will remain open until filled. Applications must be made at <http://agency.governmentjobs.com/emichedu/default.cfm>. A complete application should include a cover letter discussing your teaching and research interests/experience, curriculum vitae, sample(s) of scholarship, course syllabi, student evaluations (if available), and graduate transcripts. Items can be combined in files for uploading. At least three current letters of recommendation should be sent separately to the search committee at political.science@emich.edu.

EMU is located in Ypsilanti, Michigan. Its close proximity to Detroit, Ann Arbor and Lansing provides rich cultural, social and recreational opportunities. EMU was founded in 1849 and is a comprehensive university with an enrollment of over 17,000 students. EMU is an equal opportunity employer and is recognized by U.S. News and World Report for its diverse campus environment.

For additional information, please contact the search committee chair, Tucker Staley, at tstaley2@emich.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8260

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Master of Public Administration Program

Department Summary

The Master of Public Administration program at San José State University seeks qualified candidates for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with a specialization in non-profit management.

The Master of Public Administration (MPA) program is housed in the Political Science Department and is an accredited member of the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration (NASPAA). The program includes core courses, advanced seminars, and elective courses from within the program and also from related fields such as communication studies, political science, and urban planning. MPA graduates become the leaders, managers and analysts in public and non-profit agencies that serve the Silicon Valley's diverse community. Learn more about SJSU's MPA program at our website.

This position is an excellent opportunity for scholars interested in a developing career at a teaching-centered institution that is a national leader in graduating historically underserved students. SJSU has achieved both HIS (Hispanic Serving Institution) and AANAPISI (Asian American and Native-American and Pacific Islander-Serving Institution).

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Policy, or Public Affairs at the time of appointment. Applicants with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field—but with teaching and research primarily focused on public administration and/or non-profit management—may also apply.

Demonstrated teaching experience in public administration and publications, or strong potential for publications, appropriate to the public administration discipline and specialty in non-profit management. Demonstrated awareness of and sensitivity to the educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching and other comparable experience.

Preferred Qualifications:

Knowledge of complex social issues, such as homelessness, immigration, criminal justice, environmental impacts and/or health disparities addressed through non-profit organizations and other non-governmental organizations (NGOs).

Experience working in a public or non-profit agency.

Teaching and research experience in government and non-profit financial management.

Experience working with Black, Latinx, Indigenous, and other racially minoritized students in the classroom, and an understanding of how historical patterns of exclusion of these groups within higher education and the field of public administration shape patterns of participation and outcomes.

Willingness to examine and re-mediate one's instructional, relational, and classroom practices to more effectively engage and support historically underserved students.

Responsibilities:

Teach advanced graduate public administration courses, including non-profit management, and other undergraduate political science courses commensurate with the successful applicant's area of expertise and department needs.

Develop and sustain an ongoing record of research, scholarship, and/or creative activities, as well as other professional engagement.

Participate in shared governance, typically in department, college, university, and other committee assignments.

Supervise graduate research projects and provide graduate student mentoring

Display a willingness and ability to work collaboratively with faculty members in related fields such as Urban Planning, Global Studies, Justice Studies, or Environmental Studies on interdisciplinary projects and curricula.

Demonstrate awareness of and experience responding to the strengths and needs of a student population of great diversity—in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language and academic preparation—through inclusive course materials, teaching strategies, and advisement.

Compensation: Commensurate with qualifications and experience. See Benefits Summary for details.

Starting Date: August 2021

Eligibility: Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application Procedure Click Apply Now to complete the SJSU Online Employment Application and attach the following documents by December 5, 2020:

Letter of interest

Curriculum Vitae

Statement of teaching interests/philosophy that describes what role faculty play in student success

Statement of research. This statement should include a discussion of the applicant's research activities and relationship to the classroom and teaching

Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Three letters of reference with contact information

Inquiries may be directed to the Department Chair, Dr. Garrick Percival (Garrick.percival@sjsu.edu).

The University

San José State University enrolls over 35,700 students, a significant percentage of whom are members of minority groups. As such, this position is for scholars interested in a career at a national leader in graduating under-represented minority (URM) students. SJSU is a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander (AANAPISI) Serving Institution; 40% of our students are first-generation, and 38% are Pell-qualified. The university is currently ranked third nationally in increasing student upward mobility. The University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty so our disciplines, students, and the community can benefit from multiple ethnic and gender perspectives.

San José State University is California's oldest public institution of higher learning. Located in downtown San José (Pop. 1,000,000, America's tenth largest city) in the heart of Silicon Valley, SJSU is part of one of the most innovative regions in the world. As Silicon Valley's public university, SJSU combines dynamic teaching, research, and university-industry experiences to prepare students to address the biggest problems facing society. SJSU is a member of the 23-campus California State University (CSU) system. The Master of Public Administration program is accredited by NASPAA, and ranked in the top third of MPA programs nationally by US News and World Report. Its extensive alumni network includes city managers, department heads in public and non-profit agencies, and staff supporting elected officials.

Equal Employment Statement

San José State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. This policy applies to all San José State University students, faculty, and staff as well as University programs and activities. Reasonable accommodations are made for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose. Note that all San José State University employees are considered mandated reporters under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and are required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Additional Information

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/4/2020

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 8249

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Finance & Budgeting, Health Care

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in the area of Public Administration. We seek candidates with broad competence in Public Administration. We are especially interested in candidates whose research examines the intersections between inequality and stratification with other important issues, including but not limited to urbanization, rural community development, and public health. We are particularly interested in candidates who examine the role of race, gender, and other dimensions of marginalization in public administration and policy development, implementation, and outcomes, including those using critical and/or intersectional approaches.

The Department has a Masters of Public Administration program, which includes a Public Policy component. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the program, and to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA and PhD), including specific courses required for degree programs. Normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Public Administration or Public Policy, topic open.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Ability to teach budgeting, public personnel administration and research methods for public administrators.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Ability to teach intergovernmental relations and urban politics

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. The PhD includes an emphasis in Public Policy. The Department offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College of Liberal Arts and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position
Search Chair—William Eubank bille@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator—Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator—Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled
Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.
The search committee will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Public-Administration_R0122868

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8232

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University
Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science
Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship
Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8178

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and nonprofit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLIS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity (e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)
- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaclyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;
- 6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and
- 7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

PUBLIC LAW

University of British Columbia, Okanagan

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)

The Department of Economics, Philosophy and Political Science (EPP), Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at the University of British Columbia, Okanagan Campus, invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. We are seeking a candidate who does outstanding research in the area of Canadian Law and Politics and/or International Law and Politics. Candidates who focus on either field or can straddle both are invited to apply.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science by the start of the appointment. Candidates must have a demonstrated record of research productivity and proven ability to obtain external funding in support of a successful program of research. They must also show evidence of, or capacity for, excellence in undergraduate and/or graduate teaching and learning; interest in graduate teaching and supervision; and dedication to student mentoring. The ideal candidate will also have a strong commitment to Indigenous engagement. As part of the University's response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action, UBC Okanagan has committed to supporting and implementing five key commitments, which can be found at <https://ok.ubc.ca/about/indigenous-engagement/>. The successful candidates will become members of the Economics, Philosophy and Political Science Department (<http://epp.ok.ubc.ca/welcome.html>) with the appointment expected to start on July 1, 2021.

The Department of Economics, Philosophy & Political Science is housed in the vibrant Irving K. Barber School of Arts and Social Sciences. The Faculty offers both discipline-based and interdisciplinary programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The collegial learning environment in the Faculty focuses on effective teaching, critical and creative scholarship, and the integration of scholarship and teaching. We are committed to an ethos of local involvement, global engagement, and intercultural awareness, and we provide a positive, inclusive, and mutually supportive working and learning environment for all our students, faculty, and staff. To learn about the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, go to: <https://fass.ok.ubc.ca/>. UBC is one of the world's leading universities, and is consistently ranked in the top 40. The university has two distinct campuses, one in Vancouver and one in Kelowna. UBC's Okanagan campus, located in the city of Kelowna, has over 10,000 students in seven faculties, with strong undergraduate and graduate programs. Situated in the heart of the Okanagan Valley, one of the most scenic regions in Canada, it offers an intimate learning environment and excellent opportunities for regional, national, and international scholarly activities. For more information about UBC resources and opportunities, please visit <http://www.hr.ubc.ca/faculty-staff-resources/>. Information about the surrounding community can be found at: <http://www.hr.ubc.ca/worklife-relocation/>.

As part of the University's response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action, UBC Okanagan has committed to supporting and implementing five key commitments, which can be found at <https://ok.ubc.ca/about/indigenous-engagement/>. Candidates are expected to support UBC Okanagan's commitments to Indigenous engagement.

The Irving K. Barber Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at UBC Okanagan is deeply committed to increasing the diversity of our community. We ask that all applicants complete a voluntary survey (link to survey) that will help us to assess the effectiveness of our efforts to reach a broad group of potential applicants.

How to Apply: Applications are submitted online at https://ubc.wd10.myworkdayjobs.com/ubcfacultyjobs/job/UBC-Okanagan-Campus/Assistant-Professor-Tenure-Track_JR149 and should include:

- a cover letter clearly indicating position to which the candidate is applying
- a curriculum vitae
- a statement of research interests
- a statement of teaching philosophy
- evidence of teaching effectiveness (i.e., teaching/course evaluations)
- the names of three referees who have been asked to submit letters of reference.

Applicants should arrange to have their referees submit the letters of reference directly to Tiffany Clark, by the deadline at: epp.okanagan@ubc.ca.

Please direct any inquiries regarding the posting to: Professor Helen Yanacopulos (helen.yanacopulos@ucb.ca).

The deadline for applications is December 15, 2020. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2020

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8311

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar Employee Appointment, Technology and International Security

Postdoctoral Scholar Employee Appointment, Technology and International Security

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at the University of California, San Diego, announces a new collaborative initiative between the systemwide Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation (IGCC) and the UC-managed National Laboratories: the Center for Global Security Research at the Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) and the National Security and International Studies Office at the Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL).

As a part of the joint-initiative, the institutions invite applications for up to six (6) one-year postdoctoral scholar employee positions in Technology and International Security. Technology has always played a central role in international security. Technology shapes the ways states fight during wartime and compete during peacetime. Today, significant advancements in nuclear technology, autonomous weapons, artificial intelligence, remote sensing, cyber technology, hypersonic vehicles, additive manufacturing, stealth, precision guidance, and other areas have contributed to a widespread sense that the world is again on the precipice of a new technological era. We seek applicants whose research generates new theoretical and empirical insights into the relationship between technology, national security, and the global security environment.

The program will be based in Washington D.C for a 12-month term in line with the 2021-2022 academic year. Eligible applicants should expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by August 1, 2021. All postdoctoral scholars are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Postdocs are expected to dedicate the majority of their time to research and complete a book, monograph, or other significant publication during their period of residence. Postdocs are also expected to plan and regularly participate in all weekly seminars and research colloquia, including the:

1. Bi-weekly internal meetings to workshop research;
2. Monthly National Lab speaker series with researchers from LLNL and LANL;
3. Monthly Foreign Policy speaker series with policymakers in Washington D.C.;
4. Quarterly visits to LLNL and LANL to engage with LLNL/LANL researchers;
5. Annual Conference near the culmination of the postdoctoral scholar appointment year;

Salary: $55,000 annually plus benefits and a modest research/travel budget.

To apply: submit a cover letter (1-2 pages); CV with list of publications; Research statement (3-5 pages); Graduate school transcripts (unofficial accepted); writing sample (under 100 pages); at least two letters of recommendation; Optional: contributions to diversity statement (1-page).

Submit application materials at: <https://apptrkr.com/2078124>

The deadline for applications is Mon., February 1, 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021.

The joint program is directed by Prof. Neil Narang, Research Director at the Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation and Associate Professor of Political Science at the University of California – Santa Barbara. If you have questions, please direct them to Marie Thiveos (mthiveos@ucsd.edu). The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8308

Francis Marion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at Francis Marion University invites applications for a tenure track appointment, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Political Science, who can teach courses in public law, judicial politics, and criminal justice (the latter a program shared with the Department of Sociology.) Ph.D. in political science is preferred, ABD considered. The successful applicant will teach courses related to the candidate's area of expertise, Intro to U.S. Government, and Intro to Criminal Justice. The teaching load is 3-4. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and university service.

Generous professional development and summer research stipends are available on a competitive basis for tenure and tenure track faculty.

Francis Marion University is a state-supported regional university with a strong emphasis on the liberal arts. Located in Florence, SC, a growing city with a vibrant arts culture, FMU is within easy driving distance of the state capital, Columbia, the resorts of Myrtle Beach, and other areas of interest, including Charleston, Savannah, and Charlotte.

Required Materials:

- 1) Cover letter (referencing position number 21-03) describing teaching and research interests and experience;
- 2) Curriculum vitae;
- 3) Copies of transcripts for all degrees. (Successful candidate will need official transcripts);
- 4) Three recent letters of recommendation;
- 5) An article-length research sample;
- 6) Copies of course evaluations for which the applicant was the instructor of record, and one course syllabus relevant to this position; and

7) Completed FMU faculty application, which is located at https://www.fmarion.edu/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/FacandOtherSpecApplication7_22_2014ef.pdf

Send Application Packet to: Dr. David R. White, Chair, Department of Political Science and Geography, Francis Marion University, at dwhite@fmarion.edu or P.O. Box 100547, Florence, South Carolina 29502-0547.

Review of complete applications will begin October 28, 2020, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8140

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate must be able to teach Constitutional Law, Rights and Powers, as well as Introductory American Government. The ability to teach courses in other areas of the law, American government, and Western Culture is desirable; expertise in research methods is a plus. Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Effective teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, willingness to engage in community service, and a dedication to student success, including advising of pre-law students, are all qualities required of a successful candidate. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment.

All applicants must submit via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/78898>) a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference. Application materials may be addressed to GVFA Search Committee, c/o Dr. Celia Carroll. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it has been in continuous operation for 243 years, making it the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States. Our beautiful 1300-acre campus includes hiking/biking trails, a Frisbee golf course and an adventure high ropes and zip line course. The campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, which includes a historic walkable downtown with a local brewery, art and craft galleries, restaurants, and a rails-to-trail state park that extends over 15 miles in each direction from town. Five additional state parks are located within 30 miles and offer camping, fishing, hiking, boating, swimming, and horseback riding. Farmville is also home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the US Civil Rights Trail. Farmville is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant opportunities for cultural and artistic resources, field trips, and employment opportunities for partners.

Hampden-Sydney is one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate “good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning.” As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8055

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Specializations: American Politics, Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

UPDATE FOR 2021-2022 APPLICATIONS: In light of the ongoing pandemic, we are not currently reviewing applications for the 2021-2022 academic year. Please check the listings again (<https://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>) in January for updated opportunities.

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2021 to June 1, 2022. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University or the local vicinity, or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: Applicants are required to submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/17282> (link is external).

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references

Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2020 - July 1, 2021) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2020 for appointments beginning in September 2021. Awards will be announced in March 2021 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:

Matthew Franck, Ph.D.

Associate Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: mfranck@princeton.edu (link sends e-mail) / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 12/1/2020

Date Posted: 9/1/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8019

Lycoming College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Lycoming College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2021. The successful candidate will be broadly trained to teach both introductory and advanced courses in Public Law. Candidates with a secondary specialization in Comparative Politics are encouraged to apply.

Lycoming's small, liberal arts environment allows faculty members, as part of their 3-3 teaching load, to create new courses in line with their area of specialization. Candidates with an interest in teaching in the College's interdisciplinary first year seminar program are desired. Candidates should demonstrate a strong promise of teaching effectiveness and scholarly achievement, and a serious commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts environment is essential. Additional duties include advising and mentoring students, as well as service to the department and institution.

Ph.D. in political science is preferred, but ABDs in their final stages of completion will be considered.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae along with submitting a teaching portfolio, 250-word statement on why they are interested in a liberal arts academic environment, a single-authored writing sample, 3 letters of recommendation, and graduate transcript using the link below. <https://lycomingcollege.applytojob.com/apply/CqDmzXdfUU/Assistant-Professor-Of-Political-Science-Public-Law>

Letters of recommendations can be mailed to:

Attention: Missy Cashner, HR Generalist
Lycoming College
One College Place, Campus Box 861
Williamsport, PA 17701

To guarantee full consideration applications should be submitted by October 1, 2020. A pre-employment drug screening will be conducted.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 10/1/2020

Date Posted: 8/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 7954

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor (Teaching)

Full-Time, Teaching-Track Faculty Position in Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California seeks to hire a full-time teaching-track faculty position (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Master Lecturer, Assistant Professor (Teaching), Associate Professor (Teaching), Professor (Teaching), Assistant Professor of the Practice, Associate Professor of the Practice, and Professor of the Practice) to teach classes in one or more of the following areas: Gender and International Relations, Diplomacy and Security, Human Rights, and Public Law. A Ph.D., and strong teaching record are required. The rank of the position will be commensurate with experience.

Applicants should provide a CV, letter with a statement of teaching experience and interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of 3 references. In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser:

<https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/full-time-teaching-track-faculty-position-in-political-science-and-international-relations/1209/15573524> .

For more information, please contact

POIR Instructor (Teaching) Search Committee
USC Department of Political Science and International Relations
3518 Trousdale Parkway, VKC 330
Los Angeles, CA 90089-0043

Review of applications will begin immediately, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/19/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7821

Florida International University

Rank: Judicial Politics Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Other

Florida International University is Miami's public research university, focused on student success. According to U.S. News and World Report, FIU has 42 top-50 rankings in the nation among public universities. FIU is a top U.S. research university (R1), with more than $200 million in annual expenditures. FIU ranks 15th in the nation among public universities for patent production, which drives innovation, and is one of the institutions that helps make Florida the top state for higher education. The Next Horizon fundraising campaign is furthering FIU's commitment to providing students Worlds Ahead opportunities. Today, FIU has two campuses and multiple centers, and supports artistic and cultural engagement through its three museums: Patricia & Phillip Frost Art Museum, the Wolfsonian-FIU, and the Jewish Museum of Florida-FIU. FIU is a member of Conference USA, with more than 400 student-athletes participating in 18 sports. The university has awarded more than 330,000 degrees to many leaders in South Florida and beyond. For more information about FIU, visit www.fiu.edu.

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Florida International University in Miami, Florida invites applications to fill a full-time Instructor position in Judicial Politics. The teaching assignment is eight courses per academic year, and the successful candidate will be expected to regularly teach Constitutional Law, Judicial Process, and the Supreme Court, in addition to other courses in judicial politics. The anticipated starting date is August 12, 2021. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science and/or a J.D. with relevant teaching experience.

Qualified candidates are encouraged to apply to Job Opening ID 521003 at facultycareers.fiu.edu and include the following as part of their application: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) statement of teaching philosophy and teaching interests, including a description of your experiences in sustaining a commitment to diversity and inclusion, (4) two sample syllabi, (5) teaching evaluations, and (6) the names, titles, and email addresses of three persons sending letters of recommendation. Candidates should upload all application materials as a single pdf file. To receive full consideration, applications and required materials should be received by December 1, 2020. Review will continue until the position is filled. If you have any questions, please contact the Department of Politics and International Relations at pir@fiu.edu.

The Department is home to more than 1,600 undergraduate majors, almost 100 graduate students, and 38 faculty (see pir.fiu.edu). Situated in the School of International and Public Affairs (see sipa.fiu.edu), faculty enjoy opportunities to work with colleagues in seven other departments (Criminal Justice, Economics, Global & Sociocultural Studies, History, Modern Languages, Public Administration and Religious Studies) as well as SIPA's centers and institutes (i.e., the African and African Diaspora Studies program, the Center for the Administration of Justice, the Cuban Research Institute, the Jack D. Gordon Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship Studies, the Global Energy Security Forum, the Jewish Studies Program, the Latin American and Caribbean Center, Miami-Florida Jean Monnet European Studies Program, and Middle East Studies).

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 3/6/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7794

PUBLIC POLICY

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher, International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: History & Politics, International Political Economy, International Law & Organizations

Postdoctoral Researcher - International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future

Nuffield College intends to appoint a Postdoctoral Researcher to support the work of the 'International NGOs in the Long Humanitarian Century: Legacy, Legitimacy and Leading into the Future' research programme. Directed by Andrew Thompson (Professor of Imperial and Global History, Nuffield College) and Sir Mike Aaronson (Honorary Fellow, Nuffield College), the programme explores contemporary challenges facing the aid and the International aid sector, with a focus in the domains of geopolitical change; international relations; institutional leadership, development and ambition; political economy and market factors; and state behaviors and relationships to the state. We seek a researcher whose interests and experience fit into these broad domains.

The Postdoctoral Researcher will conduct independent original research in areas relevant to the overarching research programme, taking the lead in the design, conduct, and interpretation of research; and identifying additional research areas of interest to the programme. She or he will disseminate research results through publications in working papers and academic journals, and presentations at workshops and conferences, as well as producing pieces aimed at non-academic audiences. The postdoctoral researcher will organise workshops, conferences, and other events associated with the research programme. She or he will contribute to a commissioned report on 'The Future of International NGOs' targeted at academic, policy and practitioner communities, and will assist with external funding applications. The Postdoctoral Researcher may also undertake ad hoc paid teaching or supervision within the collegiate University in Oxford.

Applicants should hold, or be close to completing, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant social science discipline such as history, political science, sociology, or international relations. They should possess research experience and expertise appropriate for the research programme agenda, including archival research skills, familiarity with archives of non-state actors and NGOs, and experience of fieldwork, including structured interviews and gathering oral history records. Applicants should demonstrate high-quality academic research abilities in their scholarly writing and publications in peer-reviewed journals, commensurate with their career stage. The ability to translate and distil complex research results for non-academic readers, to work collaboratively with non-academic partners, and to undertake cross-disciplinary work are essential. Applicants should possess excellent oral and written communication skills, and organisational skills, together with exemplary interpersonal skills and the ability to work effectively within a small research team and under their own initiative. Experience of authoring successful funding bids, or of collaborative working with NGOs would be an advantage.

The post is full-time and fixed-term for three years, starting on 1 March 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter. Applications from candidates who wish to take up the post on a part-time basis will also be considered. The salary will be GBP 34,804 p.a. (pro-rated as appropriate). The post will be based at Nuffield College.

Further particulars and application instructions are available on the College website at <https://www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/4329/jd-ingos-pr.pdf>

The closing date for applications is Monday 21 December 2020.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 8323

The Brookings Institution

Rank: Senior Fellow & Co-Director, Center on Children and Families (Job ID: 2020-2466)

Overview

Join one of the most influential, most quoted and most trusted think tanks!

The Brookings Institution is a nonprofit public policy organization based in Washington, DC. Our mission is to conduct in-depth research that leads to new ideas for solving problems facing society at the local, national and global level.

We bring together leading experts in government and academia from all over the world, rooted in open-minded inquiry and representing diverse points of view, who provide the highest quality research, policy recommendations, and analysis. Research topics cover a full range of public policy issues in economics, foreign policy, development, governance and metropolitan policy.

With fair and transparent business practices, clear communication, mutual respect, and a collaborative atmosphere that offers both professional and personal development opportunities, Brookings offers an inclusive and welcoming workplace that values the efforts of all contributors.

About the Center on Children and Families: CCF studies policies that affect the well-being of America's children and their parents, especially children in less advantaged families. The Center addresses the issues of poverty, inequality, and lack of opportunity in the United States and seeks to find more effective means of addressing these problems. CCF also houses the Future of the Middle Class Initiative (FMCi) which seeks to improve the quality of life of America's middle class and to increase the number of people rising to join its ranks.

About Economic Studies: The Economic Studies program analyzes current and emerging economic issues facing the United States and the world and, based on that research, provides innovative, practical policy recommendations. ES's work covers a broad array of economic issues, including the labor market, regulation, health policy, the environment, and fiscal and monetary policy. Economic Studies scholars influence key economic policies by conducting rigorous and relevant research and then disseminating and communicating their findings to the policy community and to the broader public.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, and first generation college goers. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Please note: This position is based in Brookings' Washington, DC office. In response to COVID-19, Brookings staff are temporarily teleworking. The person hired for this position must be willing to move to or currently reside in Washington DC, Maryland, or Northern Virginia.

Responsibilities

Ready to contribute to Brookings success?

Brookings is seeking a senior fellow to co-direct the Center on Children and Families (CCF) in the Economic Studies Program, leading and conducting in-depth, high quality public policy research. The Center works at the intersection of social policy and economics, with a focus on inequality and economic mobility. The co-director will have considerable latitude to determine the research agenda of the Center, alongside their fellow co-director, but current priority areas include the Future of the Middle Class Initiative; economic mobility for workers; intragenerational mobility; race equity; and gender. The Center is in the process of re-evaluating its focus areas and structure for the coming years, which the co-director will be instrumental in shaping.

In addition to conducting their own independent research, the Co-Director will collaborate with other CCF scholars and other scholars across the Institution. In concert with their fellow Co-Director, they will develop the Center's research and policy agenda, oversee research and administrative staff, and cultivate and manage relationships with external research partners, current and prospective donors, and key economic policy stakeholders. Scholars partner with Development staff to build and steward funding for their work, and with Communications staff to effectively promote and disseminate it.

Research

*Conducts in-depth, high-quality public policy research in area of expertise, independently and in collaboration with other scholars

*Develops research concepts, policy questions, and work plans for papers and reports

*Authors or co-authors policy and research reports, blogs, op-eds, and other commentary

*Develops and delivers presentations for research projects and policy priorities

*Meets with and briefs relevant external contacts on research

*In collaboration with ES Communications team, creates dissemination and promotion strategy for research products; liaises with media

*Presents research and gives talks at select outside meetings or conferences

*Convenes private roundtables, author conferences and public events to inform research and disseminate work

Research Direction

*Develops research and policy agenda for CCF, in collaboration with other director, steering committee, and scholars in the field

*Provides research leadership within CCF, including mentoring junior staff, coordinating research and findings with other project teams, and liaising with ES Management Team as needed

*Engages with academics, policymakers, and industry experts to identify authors, speakers, and discussants for CCF publications and events

*Collaborates with external authors and assists with the writing and direction of their papers

*Oversees the work of research assistants and analysts or outside partners on selected projects

Fundraising

*Designs, develops, and stewards funding proposals and works with ES development team and other director on development priorities as needed

*Helps conceive new funding proposals and identifies potential funders (philanthropic, corporate, and individual, as needed)

*In consultation with the ES development team, stewards relationships with current Brookings funders

Qualifications

Ready to make an impact? In this role, you will support Brookings values of collegiality, respect, inclusion, diversity and community, and bring the following qualifications:

Education/Experience Requirements:

A Ph.D. or equivalent in economics or a related field is required. At least ten years of relevant experience is required. The successful candidate will be an established, recognized leader in their field of expertise. They will have a record of distinguished experience and/or leadership in government, academia, the non-profit sector or the private sector. Must have a demonstrated ability to understand and write knowledgeably about public policy research of the economic caliber necessary for publication in a top academic journal. Must be authorized to work for any employer in the U.S.

Knowledge/Skills Requirements:

Must be able to lead independent research and competently lead issue-focused meetings, initiatives, high-level conferences, and other events without supervision. Must be comfortable working with high-ranking decision makers, senior government officials, current and potential funders, and Brookings senior management. Ability to work collegially with staff at all levels and in all job profiles. Commitment to contributing to a supportive and productive workplace with a diverse workforce. Must have an interest in or experience with mentoring junior staff and an ability to work collegially with staff at all levels and in all job profiles.

Additional Information:

What can we offer you? Brookings provides a generous benefit package that is comprehensive and includes both traditional benefits and unique offerings.

Brookings requires that all applicants submit a cover letter and resume. Please attach your cover letter and resume as one document when you apply.

Successful completion of a background investigation is required for employment at Brookings.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, first generation college goers, and other factors protected by law. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Apply Here: <https://www.click2apply.net/g2X75gId7NMpTkMoCNpKM>

PI126311417

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/23/2020

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: $150,000 - $159,999

eJobs ID: 8324

The Brookings Institution

Rank: Senior Fellow and Director, USC-Brookings Schaeffer Initiative for Health Policy (Job ID: 2020-2433)

Overview

Join one of the most influential, most quoted and most trusted think tanks!

The Brookings Institution is a nonprofit public policy organization based in Washington, DC. Our mission is to conduct in-depth research that leads to new ideas for solving problems facing society at the local, national and global level.

We bring together leading experts in government and academia from all over the world, rooted in open-minded inquiry and representing diverse points of view, who provide the highest quality research, policy recommendations, and analysis. Research topics cover a full range of public policy issues in economics, foreign policy, development, governance and metropolitan policy.

With fair and transparent business practices, clear communication, mutual respect, and a collaborative atmosphere that offers both professional and personal development opportunities, Brookings offers an inclusive and welcoming workplace that values the efforts of all contributors.

About the USC-Brookings Schaeffer Initiative for Health Policy: The USC-Brookings Schaeffer Initiative for Health Policy is committed to developing innovative policy solutions to our nation's most pressing health care challenges. Health care ranks as one of the top issues on today's policy agenda as leaders grapple with approaches to provide quality health care across all population segments while reining in escalating costs to the nation and to the individual. Since its launch in 2016, the USC-Brookings Schaeffer Initiative for Health Policy has established itself as a leader in rigorous and insightful health policy research and analysis, informing policymakers and private sector leaders. Overarching themes pursued by the Initiative at present include assessing the Affordable Care Act and future health reform, maximizing the value of innovation in drugs and devices, and charting the course for Medicare and payment policy.

About Economic Studies: The Economic Studies program analyzes current and emerging economic issues facing the United States and the world and, based on that research, provides innovative, practical policy recommendations. ES's work covers a broad array of economic issues, including the labor market, regulation, health policy, and fiscal and monetary policy. Economic Studies scholars influence key economic policies by conducting rigorous and relevant research and then disseminating and communicating their findings to the policy community and to the broader public.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, and first generation college goers. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Please note: This position is based in Brookings' Washington, DC office. In response to COVID-19, Brookings staff are temporarily teleworking. The person hired for this position must be willing to move to or currently reside in Washington DC, Maryland, or Northern Virginia.

Responsibilities

Ready to contribute to Brookings success?

Brookings is seeking a Senior Fellow to lead the USC-Brookings Schaeffer Initiative for Health Policy (SIHP) in Economic Studies, and to conduct in-depth, high quality policy analysis and development as well as policy-oriented research. The director will have considerable latitude to determine the research agenda of the Center, but a background in the current priority areas of the Initiative—health care coverage, Medicare payment and delivery system reform and policies to address prescription drug prices—is an asset.

The Director will lead the Initiative's research and policy agenda, oversee staff, and cultivate and manage relationships with other external research partners, current and prospective donors, and key economic policy stakeholders. Like all ES scholars, they will partner with Development staff to build and steward funding for their work, and with Communications staff to effectively promote and disseminate it. In addition to conducting independent policy research and overseeing the Initiative, an important part of the Director's responsibility is effectively managing the relationship with our partners at the USC Schaeffer Center for Health Policy and Economics. It is important that the Director help facilitate collaboration between scholars at Brookings and USC Schaeffer but at the same time protect Brookings independence. The Director will collaborate with scholars affiliated with SIHP and across ES.

Research

- Conducts in-depth high quality public policy research in area of expertise, independently and in collaboration with other scholars at SIHP, the USC Schaeffer Center and across Brookings
- Authors or co-authors policy and research reports, blogs, op-eds, and other commentary
- Develops research concepts, policy questions, and work plans for papers and reports
- Develops and delivers presentations for research projects and policy priorities
- Meets with and briefs relevant external contacts on research
- In collaboration with ES and USC Communications teams, creates dissemination and promotion strategy for research products; liaises with media
- Presents research and gives talks at select outside meetings or conferences
- Convenes private roundtables and/or public events to inform research and disseminate work

Research Management and Direction

- Develops research and policy agenda for SIHP collaborating with scholars from the USC Schaeffer Center and with others in the field

- Engages in frequent dialogue with the Director and Associate Director of the USC Schaeffer Center
- Manages and mentors SIHP junior staff and liaises with ES Management Team as needed
- Collaborates with Nonresident fellows and assists with the writing and direction of their papers
- Oversees the work of research assistants and analysts or outside partners on selected projects

Fundraising

- Designs, develops, and stewards funding proposals and works with ES and USC development teams on development priorities as needed
- Helps conceive of new funding proposals and identifies potential funders (philanthropic, corporate, and individual, as needed)
- In consultation with the ES and USC development teams, stewards relationships with current Brookings and SIHP funders

Qualifications

Ready to make an impact? In this role, you will support Brookings values of collegiality, respect, inclusion, diversity and community, and bring the following qualifications:

Education/Experience Requirements:

Ph.D. or equivalent in economics, health policy, or equivalent, or an M.D. required. At least ten years of relevant experience is required. The successful candidate will be an established, recognized leader in their field of expertise, and must have a record of distinguished experience and/or leadership in government, academia, the non-profit sector or the private sector. Must have a demonstrated ability to understand and write knowledgeably about public policy research of the economic caliber necessary for publication in a top academic journal. Must be authorized to work for any employer in the U.S.

Knowledge/Skills Requirements:

Must be able to lead independent research and competently lead issue-focused meetings, initiatives, high-level conferences, and other events without supervision. Must be comfortable working with high-ranking decision makers, senior government officials, current and potential funders, and Brookings senior management. Ability to work collegially with staff at all levels and in all job profiles. Commitment to contributing to a supportive and productive workplace with a diverse workforce. Interest in or experience with mentoring junior staff preferred.

Additional Information:

What can we offer you? Brookings provides a generous benefit package that is comprehensive and includes both traditional benefits and unique offerings.

Brookings requires that all applicants submit a cover letter and resume. Please attach your cover letter and resume as one document when you apply.

Successful completion of a background investigation is required for employment at Brookings.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, first generation college goers, and other factors protected by law. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Apply Here: <https://www.click2apply.net/4eG2XgiQ4DzpiLWkIVX6m>

PI126311392

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/23/2020

Salary: Above $159,999

eJobs ID: 8321

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Health)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Health) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and collaborate on and develop projects related to immigration policy and health. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results. This fellow will join a team of researchers from IPL, the Stanford School of Medicine, Oregon Health & Science University, and the Duke School of Medicine to evaluate the effects of immigration and health policy on the intergenerational health of immigrant families.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, as well as work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to develop related independent health research. Examples of previous studies produced by the lab include projects on the intergenerational impact of DACA on the mental health of children (Science), public health insurance and immigrant families' location decisions (JAMA Pediatrics), and the impact of prenatal care for children of undocumented women (Obstetrics and Gynecology).

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second and third year). Start date is flexible, but no later than July 2021 and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for political science, economics, sociology, statistics, or computer science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of causal inference methods, data management, and data analysis. Knowledge of immigration and health policy will also be valued.

In addition, having experience working with medical claims data and executing and managing data analysis in a server-based environment is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17290> (ID17290). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Health).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8315

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Data Science)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow (Data Science) to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research can generate solutions and ultimately improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow with extensive experience and training in data science to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of digital tools related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the data scientist postdoc will be to lead data analysis for research projects and develop innovative digital tools related to immigration policy, programs, and services under the guidance of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on data science, causal inference, machine learning, statistical analysis, and programming. For instance, the postdoc will help drive a global effort to support refugee integration by developing matching tools for various countries using machine learning. The post doc will also work on data analysis for projects examining the impacts of immigration related policies and programs. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects and tools related to immigration policy evaluation.

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible (no later than August 2021) and the position is currently remote (subject to university, county, and state COVID-related policies). Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science, statistics, computer science, or related program, with a preference for candidates who have demonstrated training and skills in both data analysis and programming. Previous experience conducting research on immigration issues is valued but not required.

She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, statistical inference and modeling, and machine learning. Experience or skills in data visualization and optimization methods are also highly valued.

In addition, she or he should also have significant programming experience. Proficiency in R is required. Experience working with a general-purpose programming language (e.g. Python, Java, C++) and/or with SQL is also a plus. Demonstrated ability to develop user-friendly digital tools, apps, or programs that leverage data and statistical methods in novel ways is highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17288> (ID17288). We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Data Science).

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8312

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2021. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests focus on American political institutions and/or public policymaking. We are also interested in those who will be able to contribute to graduate-level teaching in quantitative methods.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. As part of the cover letter we invite you to describe how your work and other experience has contributed to the success of underrepresented students. The University of Utah values candidates who have experience working in settings with students from diverse backgrounds and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education for historically underrepresented students.

It is part of the department's strategic plan to enhance the diversity of our faculty to better represent diversity within the field of political science, as well as our diverse body of political science majors and students.

Applications should be filed using the online system at:

<http://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/109182>

All applicants must have documents uploaded into the University system by December 18th at which time the department will start its review process.

If you have any questions you may reach out to James Curry, james.curry@poli-sci.utah.edu

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: 12/18/2020

Date Posted: 11/18/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8301

Lingnan University

Rank: Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Lingnan University, a distinctive liberal arts institution in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, is committed to the provision of quality whole-person education by combining the best of Chinese and Western liberal arts traditions. It strives to pursue excellence in teaching, learning, scholarship and community engagement. With three academic Faculties, it offers a wide range of undergraduate degree programmes in arts, business and social sciences. Lingnan's liberal arts education is characterised by a broad-based interdisciplinary curriculum with specialised disciplinary studies; close student-staff relationship; a vibrant residential campus; ample global learning opportunities; active community engagement and multifarious workplace experience. The School of Graduate Studies also offers postgraduate programmes up to doctoral level in various disciplines and provides professional education for the wider society. Applications are now invited for the following post:

Associate Professor/Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science
(Post Ref.: 20/288/APSA)

The Department of Political Science (<http://www.LN.edu.hk/polsci/>) is committed to preparing students for a competitive and globalized working environment. The Department combines teaching and research in the governance and public policy of Hong Kong and China, international politics, and Asian international relations. It contributes with the Department of Applied Psychology, Department of Economics and Department of Sociology and Social Policy to the integrated Social Sciences Programme in the University, having embarked on a 4-year curriculum with a disciplinary major in political science. Applicants are recommended to visit the Departmental web site and Programme web site (<http://www.LN.edu.hk/progs/ssprog/>) for more information.

The Department is seeking to appoint a full-time Associate Professor/Assistant Professor. The successful candidate must have research publications and teaching competence in Hong Kong politics and political economy covering at least three core areas: Hong Kong political system, institutions and structure; nature of political practice and governance; politics at the grassroots, in particular, political advocacy and social movements; and political economy with reference to domestic public policies and Mainland and global linkages.

Applicants should provide evidence of their substantial promise for research and publications and a statement of their current and future research as well as evidence of teaching effectiveness. The appointee will be expected to teach introductory courses in Political Science through advanced undergraduate and graduate-level courses in their fields, and courses on Hong Kong politics.

General Requirements

Applicants should have a PhD degree in Political Science, with relevant teaching experience and a good research record. Applicants should have excellent communication and presentation skills. Administrative experience will be an advantage. The appointee is expected to have a strong commitment to teaching excellence and services to the Department and the University community, and to engage actively in quality research and publication.

Appointment

The conditions of appointment will be competitive. Remuneration will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Fringe benefits include annual leave, medical and dental benefits, mandatory provident fund, gratuity and incoming passage and baggage allowance for the eligible appointee.

Appointments will normally be made on an initial contract of three years, which, subject to review and mutual agreement, may lead to longer-term appointments with possibility of consideration for substantiation.

Application Procedure (online application only)

Applicants are invited to submit their applications and resumes at our online system <https://lingnan.csod.com/ux/ats/careersite/4/home/requisition/35?c=lingnan>. Applicants shall provide names and contact information of at least three referees to whom applicants' consent has been given for their providing references. Personal data collected will be used for recruitment purposes only.

We are an equal opportunities employer. Review of applications will start on 20 December 2020 and will continue until the post is filled. Qualified candidates are advised to submit their applications early for consideration.

The University reserves the right not to make an appointment for the post advertised, or to fill the post by invitation or by search. We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8293

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a two-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2021. The successful candidate will have a primary interest in international relations and be able to offer courses that fit within the thematic areas around which the political science major at Muhlenberg is structured (<https://www.muhlenberg.edu/academics/polisci/thematicareasofstudy/details> about our program are available on our website  Classes may include, for example, international relations theory, American foreign policy, national security policy, international law and policy, and introduction to international relations and comparative politics. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries. We are open when it comes to regional expertise and welcome a variety of methodological and theoretical approaches.

Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester. Faculty teaching hybrid and online courses benefit from the resources of our nationally-recognized Center for Digital Learning, which fosters inclusive learning and supports faculty and students in all aspects of online teaching, learning, and scholarship. Additionally, the Muhlenberg Center for Teaching and Learning offers a range of programs in support of faculty, including pedagogical workshops, support for meaningful classroom experimentation, and facilitated interdisciplinary collaboration. Visiting faculty enjoy access to all professional development resources provided by the College.

Ideal candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science or Public Policy by August 2021. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and working with students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ+, etc.).

To receive full consideration, applications must be received by January 31, 2021. Interested candidates should upload their completed applications to <https://muhlenberg.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/>

MuhlenbergCareers/job/Ettinger-Building/Visiting-Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0000419-1Muhlenberg's Career Portal. Please include a cover letter describing your teaching and research interests, a curriculum vitae, sample teaching materials (e.g. sample syllabi, a statement describing potential courses, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy, and summaries of teaching evaluations if available), unofficial graduate transcripts, contact information for three professional references, and a separate statement describing how you will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in our department as well as contribute to the College's efforts to become a more diverse and inclusive community. For questions about this position, please email Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, department chair, at <mailto:mathews@muhlenberg.edu> and mathews@muhlenberg.edu

Founded in 1848, Muhlenberg College is an independent, coeducational residential college of liberal arts and sciences located in Allentown, the third largest city in PA. As part of eastern Pennsylvania's scenic Lehigh Valley, Allentown is a diverse city of 122,000, located just 60 miles north of Philadelphia and 75 miles west of New York City. Along with Bethlehem and Easton, the region is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and diverse restaurants.

An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. Please visit our https://www.muhlenberg.edu/diversityatmuhlenberg/Diversity & Inclusion page for additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to inclusive excellence and the College's Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 1/31/2021
Date Posted: 11/12/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8279

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior IT policy researcher

The postdoctoral track of the Center for Information Technology Policy Fellows Program is for people that have recently received a Ph.D. in fields such as computer science, sociology, economics, political science, psychology, public policy, information science, communication, philosophy, and other related technology policy disciplines.

In this application cycle, we especially welcome applicants with interests in: Artificial Intelligence (AI), Data Science, Blockchain, and Cryptocurrencies. Selected candidates will be appointed at the postdoctoral or more senior research rank.

These are typically 12-month appointments, commencing on or about September 1, 2021 and can be renewed for a second-year contingent on performance and continued funding. Fellows in the postdoctoral track are not required or expected to teach, but if they wish, they may have the option of teaching. Teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient course enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

For more information and to apply for this opportunity, please see our Fellows Page at <https://cftp.princeton.edu/programs/fellows/>. CITP will begin reviewing applications in mid-December, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: 12/14/2020
Date Posted: 11/12/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8280

Sewanee: The University of the South

Rank: Post-Doc in Public Policy

Specializations: Social Welfare, Environmental Policy, Urban Politics

The Department of Politics at The University of the South seeks applications for a postdoctoral fellowship in American politics with a specialization in public policy to begin August 2021. The position is for one year, renewable for a second. The Department is also hiring for a postdoctoral position in political theory, so academic couples are welcome to apply.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in teaching. The teaching load is reduced to three courses per year, with a focus on pedagogical mentoring and development. New faculty members have opportunity for teaching mentoring through the Center for Teaching and designing community engagement curricula through collaboration with the Carnegie-recognized Office of Community Engagement. In addition to the ability to teach introductory courses in public policy, we are particularly interested in candidates who can teach upper-level courses in their area of specialization (e.g., social welfare, criminal justice, environmental justice, public health, education, or urban policy) and connect them to our existing major concentrations.

The University of the South comprises a well-regarded College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a distinguished School of Theology. It is an institution of the Episcopal Church that welcomes individuals of all backgrounds. The University is located on a striking, 13,000-acre campus on Tennessee's Cumberland Plateau.

The University of the South stands firmly for the principle that its employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have a right to be free from discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, veteran status, pregnancy and childbirth, and genetic information. As required by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and the ADA Amendments Act of 2008, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the University does not discriminate on the basis of sex or other protected categories in the educational programs or activities which it operates. This requirement of non-discrimination extends to admission to and employment in those programs or activities. The University is committed to sustaining a community in which the dignity of every individual is respected. Key to this value are efforts to nurture an environment of civility and mutual respect and to foster a culture of reporting concerns so that the University can respond promptly and equitably whenever an incident occurs. All employees, students, and participants of university-sponsored programs and activities have the right to be free from harassment and retaliation.

For preliminary review, applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and statement demonstrating how they can contribute to faculty diversity, such as through membership in a group that is historically underrepresented in a particular area of study, training, or other experience. These materials should be submitted through the application portal at <https://jobs.sewanee.edu/postings/4424>. Eligibility for employment is contingent upon successful prescreening. For full consideration, please submit materials by December 15, 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/12/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8276

The Brookings Institution

Rank: Rubenstein Fellow, Economic Studies

The Brookings Institution

Equal-Opportunity Employer: It is Brookings policy to provide equal employment opportunity for all of its employees and applicants without regard to their actual or perceived race, color, religion, sex, age, disability, national origin, ancestry, sexual orientation, marital status, personal appearance, citizenship status, family responsibilities, gender identity or expression, genetic information, matriculation, political affiliation, veteran status, or any other prohibited basis of discrimination as required by law.

Rubenstein Fellow, Economic Studies (Job ID: 2020-2415)

US-DC-Washington

Job ID: 2020-2415

Type: Regular (Scholar, Term)

of Openings: 2

Category: Research

1. Resident Employee

Overview

David M. Rubenstein Fellowship

Join one of the most influential, most quoted and most trusted think tanks!

The Brookings Institution is a nonprofit public policy organization based in Washington, DC. Our mission is to conduct in-depth research that leads to new ideas for solving problems facing society at the local, national and global level.

We bring together leading experts in government and academia from all over the world, rooted in open-minded inquiry and representing diverse points of view, who provide the highest quality research, policy recommendations, and analysis. Research topics cover a full range of public policy issues in economics, foreign policy, development, governance and metropolitan policy.

With fair and transparent business practices, clear communication, mutual respect, and a collaborative atmosphere that offers both professional and personal development opportunities, Brookings offers an inclusive and welcoming workplace that values the efforts of all contributors.

Rubenstein Fellowship

Brookings is pleased to announce the third round of the David M. Rubenstein Fellowship Program. The challenges facing the United States and the world require rigorous, innovative, evidence-based research that generates fresh thinking and innovative policy solutions. Through this program, Brookings seeks to increase diversity in our scholarly community by recruiting the next generation of rising stars and creative thinkers to help achieve our mission of improving governance in the United States and across the world.

For the 2021 class, the Institution is again looking for outstanding early- to mid-career scholars and policy experts with a diverse array of backgrounds, experience, and scholarship expertise.

In addition to the research priorities set by each of our five programs, the Institution's Presidential Research Priorities are the Global Middle Class; Artificial Intelligence and Emerging Technology; American Leadership in the 21st Century; and Race, Justice, and Equity.

Rubenstein Fellows will have the opportunity to enhance the policy impact of their ideas and academic achievements by working with Brookings's network of scholars and experts, relying on the Institution's abilities to develop and promote research to the policy community and the wider public. Rubenstein Fellows will diversify, augment, and complement the core policy research expertise of the more than 100 resident scholars at Brookings.

Program Overview

The Economic Studies program analyzes current and emerging economic issues facing the United States and the world and, based on that research, provides innovative, practical policy recommendations. ES's work covers a broad array of economic issues, including the labor market, regulation, health policy, and fiscal and monetary policy. Economic Studies scholars influence key economic policies by conducting rigorous and relevant research and then disseminating and communicating their findings to the policy community and to the broader public.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, and first generation college goers. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Responsibilities

Ready to contribute to Brookings success?

Rubenstein Fellows will publish in-depth, peer-reviewed monographs and research papers, as well as short opinion pieces, blog posts, and other products for promoting their ideas in the public policy debate. Rubenstein Fellows will also participate in public and private events and contribute to the overall intellectual life of the Institution.

Qualifications

Ready to make an impact? In this role, you will support Brookings values of collegiality, respect, inclusion, diversity and community, and bring the following qualifications:

Eligibility

The Rubenstein Fellowships are open to individuals, generally with 5-15 years of experience in a broad range of professional, academic, international, and personal backgrounds, who have demonstrated a commitment to improving governance and advancing public policy. Applicants should have a PhD or equivalent in economics or a related field, a record of relevant work experience and a firm grounding in public policy. The program does not fund pre- or postdoctoral research, work toward a degree, or the completion of projects for which substantial progress has been made prior to the fellowship period. No newly-minted PhDs, please.

Application Process and Selection Timeline

Interested candidates who meet the program's eligibility requirements should apply online and submit:

- A curriculum vitae with a cover letter describing their relevant experience as well as research interests and priorities, and
- A piece of written work that highlights the candidate's capabilities.

Please attach your cover letter and resume as one document when you apply. Upload your writing sample as an attachment.

For full consideration, please apply by January 4, 2021.

This is a two-year termed appointment. We expect fellowships to begin in September 2021.

Selection is based on a combination of the following criteria: depth and breadth of professional experience, quality and rigor of scholarly research, and a commitment to upholding Brookings's core values of quality, independence, and impact in policy research that seeks to promote the public good.

Additional Information:

What can we offer you? Brookings provides a generous benefit package that is comprehensive and includes both traditional benefits and unique offerings.

Successful completion of a background investigation is required for employment at Brookings.

Brookings welcomes and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We welcome applications that reflect a variety of backgrounds based on ideology, race, ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, first generation college goers, and other factors protected by law. Brookings is proud to be an equal-opportunity employer that is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive workplace.

Apply Here: <https://www.click2apply.net/JBWoYqclenV8UaLWu2bxo>

PI125787864

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/7/2020

Date Posted: 11/6/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8261

Hertie School

Rank: Assistant Professor of Sustainability

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Other, Open

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School, Berlin

A European Professional School for Public Policy is recruiting an

Assistant Professor of Sustainability (f/m/div)

The Hertie School is recruiting an assistant professor working on key sustainability topics such as climate, energy, or mobility and transport. We particularly welcome scholars whose research covers regions beyond Germany and Europe. This person should combine state-of-the-art empirical, policy-relevant research with a teaching profile that matches the needs of a public policy school.

Applicants for this position must have a doctoral degree relevant for the position, or expect to have this degree by the start of employment. We are looking for a candidate with a strong background in economics.

The successful candidate will be appointed as tenure-track Assistant Professor with a six-year clock (two three-year contracts). The expected start date is September 2021.

The Hertie School seeks faculty with demonstrated capacity for research at the highest levels in their discipline through an established record of publication in top outlets. We recruit faculty who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity with a strong commitment to high-quality teaching and innovative research of interest to the international scholarly community and policy-makers. The Hertie School strongly encourages applications from women and underrepresented minorities.

Candidates are expected to work well in an interdisciplinary, international environment with English as the language of instruction and operation. The successful candidate will teach courses in the School's Master, Executive, and PhD programmes. This position will be based in the School's new Centre for Sustainability, and the successful candidate will actively contribute to its research, outreach and teaching activities. Collaboration with other new Centres of Competence of the Hertie School is encouraged. Those are the Jacques Delors Centre, the Centre for International Security, the Centre for Fundamental Rights, the Centre for Digital Governance, and the Data Science Lab.

As a private non-profit university, endowed and supported by the Hertie Foundation, the Hertie School offers an internationally competitive salary as well as a paid sabbatical after every five semesters. We provide excellent working conditions with outstanding financial and administrative support for research. The Hertie School is fully embedded in Berlin's vibrant research landscape and has close ties to the top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community.

The Hertie School is a diverse, international and lively community located in the heart of Berlin. It takes a family friendly workplace seriously. Under German law, there is standard paid leave for parents after the birth of a child. For information about the Hertie School visit www.hertie-school.org.

The deadline for the submission of applications is 6 December 2020. To submit your application, please upload the requested documents here:

<https://hertie-school.dvinci-easy.com/en/p/en/jobs/20369/assistant-professor-of-sustainability-fmdiv>

For questions about the position, please contact Christian Flachslan, Professor of Sustainability (flachslan@hertie-school.org).

Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer.

Please upload the documents in the following order:

Motivation letter

CV including publication list and the names of two references

A diversity statement of no more than one page

One or more writing samples.

Optional additional documents include teaching evaluations and a research and/or teaching statement. Please have two references submitted separately via Email to researchandfaculty@hertie-school.org.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 11/5/2020

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8253

Berry College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Department of Political Science and International Affairs at Berry College, a small, collegial department of scholars committed to excellence in teaching and mentoring students, offers courses in American government, comparative politics, international relations, and political theory. We seek a scholar-teacher-mentor who will engage our students in courses focusing on campaigns and elections, interest groups, public opinion, or policy (with an American or a regional focus) and is competent to teach social science research methods. We hope to be joined by an innovative teacher who will create new courses that add diversity to our curriculum and that invite students from all disciplines into the study of political science and international affairs. This Assistant/Associate Professor position begins in August 2021. The successful candidate will typically teach a 3-3 load, with an upper-level course for majors and 2 sections of a course in our Foundations Program (American National Government, Comparative Politics, or Contemporary World Issues). We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship will add diversity to the college curriculum and promote our values of equity, inclusion, diversity, and respect for and service to others. The department's active and engaged teacher-scholars emphasize the development of strong writing and critical thinking skills that prepare students for entry into the workforce or for advanced study. Mentoring our students as they develop personally and professionally is a high priority. Candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply for this position.

Minimum Qualifications: PhD required by August 2021. An active research agenda, an interest in mentoring and guiding undergraduate research, and a demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from a range of disciplines, cultures, and academic backgrounds is essential.

Berry is a selective independent college of 2,100 located adjacent to Rome, GA, midway between Atlanta, GA, and Chattanooga, TN. Berry's educational approach deliberately unites challenging academic programs with practical work experience in a residential campus community that encourages faith and emphasizes caring for the needs of others above self. This commitment to an "education of the head, heart and hands" remains as relevant today as when our founder instilled this ethic more than a century ago.

Nationally recognized for quality of learning and quality of life, Berry offers first-rate undergraduate degree programs in the sciences, humanities, arts and human sciences, as well as undergraduate and master's level opportunities in business and teacher education. The College's stunning 27,000-acre campus affords opportunities that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Berry's ongoing commitment is to provide exceptional educational experiences to talented students from a wide range of social and economic backgrounds.

The college provides benefit options with no employee costs for medical, dental, disability, and life insurance, including spouse and dependents at a reduced rate. An Equal Opportunity Institution, Berry complies with all applicable laws and provisions prohibiting discrimination in its educational and employment policies. Berry respects the essential dignity of all individuals and accordingly hires and promotes employees without regard to matters of personal identity such as ethnicity, religion, gender, sexual orientation, and political affiliation.

Berry College is committed to ensuring facilities, programs, services, and activities are accessible to everyone, including those seeking employment at Berry College. Inquiries about interview or workplace accommodations are welcomed and can be directed to Wayne Phipps, Director of Human Resources, at 706.290.2698.

Applicants should visit our employment website <https://berry.interviewexchange.com/static/clients/563BCM1/index.jsp> and submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter containing a summary of research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-mentor-scholar model, a transcript, three letters of reference, a teaching statement that should articulate the candidate's teaching approach and experience and goals, and a statement showing the candidate's commitment to the goals of equity, inclusion, and diversity in a comprehensive college with a liberal arts core.

Review of applications will begin December 7, 2020 and materials must be received by that date to ensure full consideration.

Persons applying for employment with Berry College are required to submit a full national background check. Berry College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8240

Duke University

Rank: Post-doctoral Associate

POST-DOCTORAL ASSOCIATE

The American Grand Strategy (AGS) Program is Duke's lead interdisciplinary initiative that creates and disseminates new knowledge in the grand strategy field. The mission of the program is to prepare the next generation of strategists by studying past generations and interacting with current strategic leaders.

In 2018, AGS partnered with a team of scholar-practitioners from Johns Hopkins University, and University of Texas-Austin to launch a consortium to better prepare the next generation to confront geopolitical challenges and better understand American national interests abroad. This position would support AGS in the consortium's efforts by advancing the body of rigorous scholarship investigating these questions and exposing Duke students to cutting edge work in this area.

Job Description

AGS seeks an America in the World Consortium Post-Doctoral Associate to begin in July 2021. Applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on American grand strategy, broadly defined, are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in political science whose research has a strong connection to policy.

The America in the World Associate will be expected to conduct independent research activities in preparation for a full time academic or research career and will teach one seminar suitable for cross-listing in the Department of Political Science and the Sanford School of Public Policy. The Associate will also contribute to the life of the AGS program by attending and, where appropriate and by mutual agreement, serving as a senior leader on co-curricular activities.

The Associate is expected to be in residence and may not undertake any other sustained teaching or employment during his/her tenure at Duke. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at Duke University.

Stipend Information

The Associate accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of Duke facilities, and office space at the Sanford School of Public Policy or the Department of Political Science as appropriate.

The position will provide funding for a minimum of 12 months.

Requirements:

- A terminal degree in a related field such as political science, public policy or history.
- Established work in a related area.

How to Apply:

Please submit the following items to begin your application on Academic Jobs Online, job #17388, at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17388>:

- Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vitae
- Teaching Statement
- A sample syllabus that is representative of a suggested course
- Article or writing sample representing an existing contribution to the field of American grand strategy, broadly defined.

Contact Name:

Melanie Benson

Contact Email:

Melanie.benson@duke.edu

Deadline to Apply:

Sunday, January 10, 2021

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Duke aspires to create a community built on collaboration, innovation, creativity, and belonging. Our collective success depends on the robust exchange of ideas—an exchange that is best when the rich diversity of our perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences flourishes. To achieve this exchange, it is essential that all members of the community feel secure and welcome, that the contributions of all individuals are respected, and that all voices are heard. All members of our community have a responsibility to uphold these values.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2021

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8229

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Environmental Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in Public Policy, with a focus on global, comparative, or international Environmental Policy. Substantive areas of research and teaching may include, but are not limited to, energy and climate change. The Political Science Department at UNR has growing emphases in a variety of related areas, such as U.S. environmental policy and human security, and supports a shared Renewable Energy minor and the Renewable Energy graduate certificate. We welcome applicants from any theoretical or methodological tradition.

Our College and Department are committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty; preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to fostering research and teaching environments that engage students from diverse backgrounds.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop their own courses and research agenda and be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA, MA, PhD, graduate student supervision). This could at times include specific courses required for degree programs. The normal teaching load is 2/2. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in environmental policy, with a global, comparative, or international focus.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity.

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service.

Compensation Rank

Assistant Professor, II

Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy/administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. It offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Ozmen Institute for Global Studies and the Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. Its world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. A number of faculty have affiliations and collaborations with the Desert Research Institute. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. For more information, please visit: Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a negotiable competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair-Dr. Elizabeth Koebele ekoebele@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator- Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
 Search co-Coordinator-Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on November 30, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Environmental-Policy_R0122869

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8231

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Public Finance & Budgeting, Health Care

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) invites applications for a full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor in the area of Public Administration. We seek candidates with broad competence in Public Administration. We are especially interested in candidates whose research examines the intersections between inequality and stratification with other important issues, including but not limited to urbanization, rural community development, and public health. We are particularly interested in candidates who examine the role of race, gender, and other dimensions of marginalization in public administration and policy development, implementation, and outcomes, including those using critical and/or intersectional approaches.

The Department has a Masters of Public Administration program, which includes a Public Policy component. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the program, and to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower and upper division undergraduate, MPA and PhD), including specific courses required for degree programs. Normal teaching load is 2/2. We welcome applicants from any empirical research methodological tradition, but expect a high-level of sophistication and rigor. The start-up package is competitive.

Required Qualifications

Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science or a related field.

A developing or established research agenda in Public Administration or Public Policy, topic open.

A record of, or potential for, publishing in top-tier journals and presses in relevant fields.

A rigorous, empirical research methodology.

Ability to teach budgeting, public personnel administration and research methods for public administrators.

Demonstrated excellence, or clear evidence of potential for excellence, in teaching.

Preferred Qualifications

Ability to teach intergovernmental relations and urban politics

Evidence of or potential for strong external grant activity

Evidence of attention to diversity, equity and inclusion in research, teaching and/or service

Compensation Rank
Assistant Professor, II
Associate Professor, III

Department Information

The UNR Department of Political Science is an energetic, collegial and exciting community of political scientists and public policy and public administration scholars with a deep commitment to excellence in research and teaching as well as to leadership in the Department, the University, and the diverse northern Nevada community. The Department is home to three graduate programs that confer MA, MPA and PhD degrees. The PhD includes an emphasis in Public Policy. The Department offers a BA in Political Science and coordinates the International Affairs major and minors in Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and Renewable Energy. Faculty are linked with a variety of College and University-wide initiatives, such as the Cybersecurity Center and the Gender, Race and Identity Program. Additional information about the Department can be found at: <https://www.unr.edu/political-science>.

College of Liberal Arts and University Information

The College emphasizes inquiry, discovery and openness to new ideas and perspectives and supports major scholarly research, teaching and creative activity in the humanities, social sciences and arts. It offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degrees. Along with the interdisciplinary Department of Gender, Race and Identity Studies, the College has a Latino Research Center and is actively addressing racism, bias and inequities; for examples, see the Diversity, Research and Engagement website. The world-class Lilley Museum of Art opened in 2019; the many departments of the College have an active intellectual and public events life.

The University of Nevada, Reno is a public land-grant institution with Carnegie Research 1 status. With a student population of approximately 22,000, including over 3,000 graduate students, UNR students and faculty have won numerous national research awards and competitive fellowships. The university has been designated as a Carnegie Community Engagement university. Nearly half of UNR students are students of color; the university is an Emerging Hispanic Serving Institution. In accordance with the University's mission, our faculty are expected to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service in a pluralistic environment.

The University has a dynamic intellectual, artistic and sports life and a close relationship to the city of Reno, an emerging tech and innovation hub with a diverse population and a rich cultural history that hosts an active art, music and festival scene along the Truckee River. Known for its proximity to Lake Tahoe and the Sierra Nevada mountains, Reno is a vibrant, diverse and growing city of 300,000 located on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, about 200 miles east of San Francisco, about 100 miles east of Sacramento and 30 miles north of the state capital, Carson City. Combined with the neighboring city of Sparks, the Reno-Sparks metropolitan area has a population of 450,000. Reno is only 30-45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and major ski resorts and is rated one of the top locations in the United States for living and for outdoor recreation. It has an international airport with direct flights to many transportation hubs. For more information about the city and the surrounding area, please visit www.cityofreno.com and www.visitrenotahoe.com

Faculty Dual Career Assistance Program

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes the importance of addressing dual-career couples' professional needs. We offer a dual career assistance program to newly hired faculty spouses/partners that provides resources and assists them to identify career opportunities in Northern Nevada. Dual Career Program

Total Compensation

The total compensation package includes a competitive salary, moving allowance (if applicable), a rich retirement plan, health insurance options that include dental and vision, life insurance, long-term disability, along with many other benefits. Additionally, there is a grant-in-aid educational benefit for faculty and dependents. For more information, please visit: UNR Benefits

Contact Information for this position

Search Chair—William Eubank bille@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator—Karen Braun kbraun@unr.edu
Search co-Coordinator—Tamela Gorden tgorden@unr.edu

This posting is open until filled

Qualified individuals are encouraged to apply immediately. This search will close without notice when a sufficient number of applications are received or a hiring decision has been made.

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on December 1, 2020.

To apply, please go to:

https://nshe.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UNR-external/job/University-of-Nevada-Reno---Main-Campus/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor--Political-Science---Public-Administration_R0122868

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8232

APSA

Rank: Congressional Fellowships for Political Scientists

The American Political Science Association <https://www.apsanet.org/cfp> Congressional Fellowship Program & is currently accepting <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homeonline> applications & for congressional fellowships for political scientists. The nine-month program in Washington, D.C., gives scholars a hands-on understanding of Congress through placements in congressional offices.

Fellows begin their fellowship year with a comprehensive one-month orientation with congressional experts and policy leaders. Fellows then work in full-time placements of their choosing in a personal office or committee in the House of Representatives or Senate.

The fellowship year also features:

- winter and spring seminar series on Congress;
- visit to the district or state of a Member of Congress;
- optional study programs in Annapolis, Maryland, and Ottawa, Canada; and
- ongoing guidance and mentoring from program staff and alumni.

Orientation begins November 2021. Office placements run until August 13, 2022. Two optional programs directly precede the main fellowship program: a two-month course on Congress and Foreign Policy, taught at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, and a fellowship through the William A. Steiger fund to support up to two months of a project in legislative studies.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must have completed a PhD in the last 15 years or will have defended a dissertation by November 2021.

Applications are welcome from political scientists in all subfields with a scholarly interest in Congress and the policymaking process. Preference is given to those without extensive Capitol Hill experience.

Application Procedure: Applications must be <https://apsa.secure-platform.com/a/organizations/main/homesubmitted> online and include:

- CV;
- 750-word personal statement;
- three letters of recommendation
- one sole-authored writing sample.

Applicants may apply through the same online form for the two optional pre-fellowship programs.

Submit your application for the 2021-2022 fellowship year by Wednesday, December 16, 2020. Please send questions about the program to cfp@apsanet.org.

Start Date: November 2021

Salary: $54,000 for the 9.5-month fellowship period, plus travel allowance. Fellows who are also selected for a fellowship through the Steiger Fund will receive a stipend for the duration of the Steiger Fellowship.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Date Posted: 10/28/2020

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 8224

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Instructor or Assistant Professor, Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness

Specializations: United States, Criminal Justice, International Security

The VCU L. Douglas Wilder School of Government and Public Affairs Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Program invites applications for up to two, pending funding availability, non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience. Applicants with a Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field are preferred. Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

The Wilder School's mission is to:

- Engage, teach and inspire students and leaders to understand and solve challenges in our world.
- Advance research that informs public policy and decision making to improve our communities.
- Collaborate with communities through innovative partnerships to enhance quality of life.

The Wilder School's vision is to be the premiere resource for public policy expertise and social equity in public safety, governance and economic and community development. Ranked 39th among the nation's public affairs schools, the Wilder School has over 1,500 students and more than 11,000 alumni, with an established environment where diverse perspectives thrive and where a common interest in public service and the betterment of society unites these perspectives together. Our academic excellence attracts the highest quality faculty, staff and students, and our graduates are leaders in their professions.

Our location in Richmond, the capital of the Commonwealth of Virginia, combined with our proximity to Washington, DC, provides numerous opportunities for engaged scholarship, teaching and community engagement activities. A creative, interdisciplinary School with both academic programs and training/research centers in the social sciences and professional arenas, we reflect the diversity of the communities we serve providing students and faculty with the knowledge, skills, opportunities and experience necessary for success.

For additional information about the Wilder School, please visit our website at wilder.vcu.edu.

This position is non-tenure eligible faculty at the rank of instructor or assistant professor, depending on qualifications and experience in the Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness program to begin in August 2021.

The Wilder School is seeking to continue its growth and commitment to its large and successful Homeland Security & Emergency Preparedness Bachelor's, Master's and Certificate programs. The faculty will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Successful candidates will join a dedicated group of colleagues with diverse interests and a demonstrated ability to teach effectively. We are interested in faculty who will demonstrate through teaching, creative expression, and/or public engagement, the richness of diversity in the learning experience through integrated intersectional approaches and perspectives.

Position Responsibilities:

1. Teaching

Successful candidates will teach within the core requirements of the graduate and undergraduate programs in Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness and may contribute to the Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration. The faculty member will be expected to carry a teaching load equivalent to eight 3 credit courses a year (4/4), involving both in-class and on-line delivery, and demonstrate leadership in developing techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles and intellectual interests.

2. Service

Faculty member may serve on program, School, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field.

For additional information, please visit <https://wilder.vcu.edu/programs/homeland-security-and-emergency-preparedness/>.

Required Qualifications:

Candidates with a Master's Degree and significant teaching and professional work experience will be considered.

Our interest is in instructors who demonstrate a profound commitment to high-quality effective instruction who can contribute to the strength and diversity of our faculty. Successful candidates will have particular expertise in social justice and vulnerable populations in emergency preparedness, response and recovery, legal or constitutional issues, cybersecurity, and similar topics. The faculty member will complement and expand our existing expertise in the field of Homeland Security and Emergency Preparedness.

Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Preferred Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in the social sciences, information security, computer science, public policy or a related field.

Application Process/Additional Information:

Applications should be submitted to <http://www.vcujobs.com/postings/101225>, and include a cover-letter, a detailed CV with the names and contact information of three references, one example of scholarship or writing, and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

As a preeminent national, urban, public research university and academic health center, Virginia Commonwealth University is committed to organizational diversity, equity and inclusion - an environment where all can thrive in their pursuit of excellence.

Applicants are requested to submit a Statement of Contributions to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (typically between 150-300 words) providing your career aspirations and contributions toward promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. Through this statement, you can share how your lived experiences; and past, present, and future academic and professional activities have or will contribute to VCU's mission of promoting equity and inclusion.

Note: Examples include working with others to further the goals of equity and inclusion; leading in any capacity that tangibly promotes an environment where diversity is welcomed, fostered, and celebrated; creative activity, research and scholarship that promotes equity and parity; teaching and mentoring students, and/or engaging with faculty and/or staff from traditionally underrepresented groups to create a positive and successful organizational experience.

“Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action university providing access to education and employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, political affiliation, veteran status, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or disability”.

VCU demonstrates its commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion through a number of initiatives, including an NSF ADVANCE-IT grant to increase the recruitment and retention of underrepresented minority (URM) faculty in STEM disciplines, and iCubed, a multi-faceted program designed to recruit URM faculty to collaborate with community partners in transdisciplinary cores to develop promising solutions that enhance the vitality of urban communities. Wilder School faculty are actively engaged in both initiatives.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled, with priority review beginning November 15, 2020.

Contact: Maureen Moslow-Benway, Search Chair (mmoslowbenwa@vcu.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/27/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8221

University of Virginia

Rank: Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Post-Doctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Open, American Government and Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applicants for a position of Dean's diversity, equity, and inclusion post-doctoral research associate. We believe that diversity is a critical component of academic excellence. The goal of these positions is to provide opportunities to scholars who will contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Virginia. Opportunities include mentorship, sponsorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and the network of policy schools.

The postdoctoral appointment is renewed annually with a target length of two years and will begin August 2021. They involve independent research and/or opportunities for research collaboration with faculty, have additional research funds, and involve teaching one class per academic year at the Batten School.

We seek candidates from a range of disciplines including political science, economics, psychology, public policy or public administration. A Ph.D. (conferred no later than July 2021) in one of these disciplines is required. In addition, because diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values at Batten, a demonstrated commitment to advancing equity and inclusion is also required.

Successful candidates' research may focus on a range of topics in one of the aforementioned disciplines. We welcome candidates that conduct research that have synergies with areas of current strength such as stereotyping, prejudice, conflict management, development, education, environment, health, national security, social entrepreneurship, humanitarian relief, voting, and American institutions. However, we also welcome applicants working on other topics in line with the mission of the Batten school, which involves: generating knowledge to solve the world's most pressing policy challenges and educating ethical and effective leaders prepared to lead in a diverse and divided world.

Successful candidates will participate in the intellectual life of Batten and other UVa units and work on a scholarly book/article/publication. A criterion for selection is evidence of scholarly potential that could lead to a tenure track appointment at a research university.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy combines rigorous training in public policy with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership.

TO APPLY: Please visit UVA job board <https://uva.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UVAJobs>, "R0019281" complete the application and see below for documents to attach.

- 1-page cover letter identifying 2-3 potential UVA faculty mentors
- A curriculum vitae

- Contact information for three references, (references will only be contacted for those that are short listed)
- A research statement (max 3 pages), including a broad introduction of your research, both past successes and future plans, as well as how your research agenda could integrate with current areas of study at the Batten School
- A diversity statement (max 2 pages). The diversity statement should discuss: the candidate's track record advancing equity and inclusion in previous positions and their plan for advancing equity and inclusion at UVa

Applicants should submit their materials by January 15, 2021 and the position is open until filled. For questions about the application process please contact Rhiannon O'Coin, Academic Recruiter at rmo2r@virginia.edu.

For more information about UVA and the surrounding area, please visit <http://uvacharge.virginia.edu/guide.html>.

The selected candidate will be required to complete a background check at time of offer per University Policy.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8210

University of Calgary

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar in National Defence and Data Analytics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Public Policy

Area: International Policy and Trade (IPT)

Duration: 1-year full-time appointment with possibility of 1-year renewal

Start date: January 2021, negotiable

Salary: $60,000 (plus Plan C Health Insurance benefits and a Research Allowance)

The School of Public Policy at the University of Calgary is accepting applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the areas of national defence and data analytics. The position will support the International Policy and Trade program, one of four research divisions within The School of Public Policy.

Please email your application to Dr. Jean-Christophe Boucher at jc.boucher@ucalgary.ca by October 31, 2020. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2020, but the position will remain open until filled.

<https://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/5621665-post-doctoral-scholar-in-national-defense-and-data-analytics-international-policy-and-trade-school-of-public-policy>.

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/22/2020

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 8208

Arizona State University

Rank: Director

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, American Politics, Economic Policy

Arizona State University invites applications for Director of its School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). The successful candidate will join and lead a multidisciplinary community of scholars and students who pursue collaborative and innovative approaches to understanding politics and governance at local, national and global levels. This is an opportunity for an accomplished and creative social scientist, who is a demonstrated leader, to develop and implement a strategic vision for a large, nationally-ranked academic unit at a Research 1 University whose charter and goals prioritize student success, public engagement, and use-inspired research to advance justice, equity, diversity and inclusion.

Reporting to the Dean of Social Sciences at The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Director will foster growth and innovation in the School's research mission, working to attract, develop, and retain exceptional faculty members. Key goals also include promoting excellence in the undergraduate and graduate programs; developing interdisciplinary research and teaching initiatives; advancing entrepreneurial opportunities; enhancing relations with partners and publics within and beyond the university community; and contributing to the newly-launched university-wide Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (JEDI) initiative. These goals reflect the design aspirations of the "New American University" that infuse decision-making across ASU's in-person and online operations, currently serving over 110,000 students.

SPGS is an academic unit in the Social Sciences in ASU's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with an annual operating budget of $5-7 million. With 32 tenured/tenure-track faculty, 13 professors of practice, 7 lecturers, as well as 14 staff members, the School offers bachelor's, masters, and doctoral programs in Political Science; bachelor's degrees in Global Studies and in Politics and the Economy; and master's degrees in Global Security and Political Psychology. SPGS is currently launching a master's degree in International Affairs and Leadership (more information on our degree programs is available at: <https://spgs.asu.edu/degree-programs>). Current enrollments include 40 MA and PhD students in political science, over 160 online students in the MA in Global Security, over 40 online students in the MA in Political Psychology, as well as 1,600 undergraduate majors.

The Social Sciences at ASU are ranked fourth nationally in recent National Science Foundation HERD rankings. The School hosts several vibrant research centers and facilities, including the Center for Latinas/os and American Politics Research, the Center on the Future of War, and an Experimental Lab. The School also has partnerships with the McCain Institute, New America, and The Melikian Center for Russian, Eurasian and East European Studies. In addition, SPGS faculty have formed five research working groups: Conflict and Human Rights, Nationalist and Ethno-religious Dynamics, Political Economy, Political Psychology, and Women and Politics.

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Minimum Qualifications

- Earned doctorate in political science, economics, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related social science field

- Distinguished scholarly record appropriate to appointment at rank of full professor with tenure
- Demonstrated excellence in administrative leadership, placing emphasis on having prior experience managing staff and budgets

Desired Qualifications

- A proven record of promoting inclusive excellence and success among faculty and students, consistent with the principles of ASU's Charter
- Exceptional communication and organizational skills
- Experience in obtaining external funding and/or building relationships with potential donors, alumni, and broader community
- A commitment to engaging faculty across a range of disciplines

The position is available beginning July 1, 2021. Salary and start-up funding will be competitive and commensurate with qualifications. Review of applications will begin on December 7, 2020. If not filled, applications will be evaluated every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. Applicants should submit electronically (in MS Word or PDF format) a cover letter addressing the qualifications listed above; a current curriculum vitae; contacts (email and phone) for four references; and a brief statement (1-2 pages) addressing how past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence to: <http://apply.interfolio.com/80084>. Inquiries and nominations should be directed to: Elizabeth.Langland@asu.edu.

The search committee proposes to conduct preliminary interviewees remotely with long-listed candidates in December. All applications will be treated confidentially until shortlisted candidates are invited to virtual campus visits early in 2021.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf>. You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8192

McGill University

Rank: Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Full-time tenured position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies

Max Bell School of Public Policy and the Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts

McGill University

The Department of Political Science and the Max Bell School of Public Policy at McGill University invite applications for the new

Diamond-Brown Chair in Democratic Studies. The Chairholder will be jointly appointed, teaching in both units and with the aim of strengthening the links between them and with the Centre for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC).

We seek an institution-builder with a global perspective who brings internationally recognized empirical research on democracy to bear on contemporary challenges and debates that inform public policy. The recent worldwide strains faced by democratic institutions and practices highlight the urgent need for theoretically informed, empirically rich research and this position will provide a highly visible forum for a scholar engaged in such an endeavor.

An applicant's record must provide evidence of outstanding research, leadership experience or potential, and success in teaching and supervision, including a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in curriculum, pedagogy, and the recruiting and training of graduate and postdoctoral supervisees. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Full or Associate Professor with tenure. Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant discipline. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but proficiency in spoken and written French is an asset.

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2021.

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021, and continue until the position is filled. Please apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17306>

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. The new Max Bell School of Public Policy is committed to the research, teaching, outreach, and advocacy of sound public policy. The CSDC, founded in 2008, brings together scholars who work on research related to democratic citizenship across six Quebec universities. For more information about the Department of Political Science, the Max Bell School, and the CSDC, please visit our websites at: www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/, www.mcgill.ca/maxbellschool/, and https://csdc-cecd.ca/.

Inquiries may be sent to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Commitment to Equity and Diversity

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8191

Arizona State University

Rank: Lecturer in Global Security (MAGS) program

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, History & Politics, Science & Technology

The School of Politics of Global Studies (SPGS) is pleased to invite applications for a full-time position, benefits eligible, non-tenure track faculty appointment at the rank of Lecturer. The anticipated start date is January 2021. This is a fiscal-year appointment within the SPGS faculty on the Tempe campus. Subsequent annual renewal is desired, contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university.

SPGS seeks an applicant with a commitment to excellence in online education to join its innovative, rapidly growing Master of Arts in Global Security (MAGS) program. The primary responsibilities of the Lecturer will be to develop and teach online graduate courses on topics such as national security, cyber security, terrorism and insurgency, grand strategy, foreign policy and other courses related to security broadly understood. Course instruction may include co-teaching with other MAGS faculty, including nationally recognized scholars and experienced national security professionals. A typical course load will consist of 6 classes per year. Additional responsibilities include assisting in curriculum development, supervising capstone projects, student advising, and recruitment. Lecturers will also be expected to maintain an active research agenda, which should include peer-reviewed articles or books, published policy reports, articles in policy-focused magazines and journals, and/or external grant activity.

The Lecturer will be a part of the interdisciplinary SPGS faculty as well as the Center on the Future of War, a joint initiative of ASU and New America, a DC-based think tank, and will have substantial opportunities to participate in the school's vibrant intellectual life. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in a relevant field (Political Science, Geography, Sociology, Economics, Anthropology, Peace Studies, History, International Law, Homeland Security, etc.) by the time of appointment.

- Relevant teaching experience.
- Demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary approaches to international affairs and global politics.

Desired qualifications:

- Prior experience designing and teaching online courses and a strong theoretical grounding and knowledge of ideas and literature related to international affairs, security, and global politics.
- A demonstrated ability to produce policy-relevant research is strongly desired.
- The ideal candidate would also have practical experience in the field of security and international affairs, such as work in humanitarian assistance, international human rights, international development, cybersecurity, or military service.
- The candidate would have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The College values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

To apply, candidates must submit application materials online at Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/79724>; until November 30, 2020 if not filled, complete applications will be reviewed every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. This is a paperless search; only electronic materials will be accepted. Submit the following: 1) a letter of application stating qualifications and experience, 2) a complete curriculum vita, 3) two writing samples, and 4) three letters of reference with reference contact information.

Questions about this position should be directed to Daniel Rothenberg, Search Committee Chair at daniel.rothenberg@asu.edu.

A background check is required for employment.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASU-Clery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 11/30/2020

Date Posted: 10/16/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8181

Harvard University

Rank: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Harvard Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Organization: Harvard University

Unit: Faculty of Arts & Sciences | Division of Social Science

Contact: Jennifer Shephard, jmsheph@fas.harvard.edu, 1.617.495.7906

Position: Inequality in America Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: 20 November 2020

The Inequality in America Initiative seeks applications from recent doctoral degree recipients interested in joining a multidisciplinary network of Harvard researchers working to address the manifold challenges of inequality. This program is intended to seed new research directions, facilitate collaboration across disciplines, and develop new leaders in the study of inequality who can publish at the highest level, reach the widest audience, and impact policy.

The fellowship is a two-year postdoctoral training program. The award includes $68,000/year plus fringe; office space; a $17,500 research account; up to $3,000 (incl. taxes) for relocation; and up to $3,000 for a manuscript workshop in year two.

The program director will pair each fellow with two Harvard faculty mentors (one from outside the fellow's primary discipline), participating in one or more of five research clusters:

- Mobility and Migration
- Science, Technology, Education, and Health
- Work, Family, and Opportunity
- Governance, Citizenship, and Social Justice
- America Inequality, Globally

Applicants to the fall 2021 program must have received a doctorate or equivalent terminal degree in April 2018 or later; applicants without a terminal degree must demonstrate that they will receive one by August 2021.

See more at <https://inequalityinamerica.fas.harvard.edu/postdoctoral-program>

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/20/2020

Date Posted: 10/15/2020

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 8178

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Development, Environmental Policy

The Department of Political Science at Boston University seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American politics. The position is wide open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics — including, for example, American Political Development, race and racism, elections, inequality, environment, social movements, Congress, and education policy. Applicants who engage public policy or policy analysis in their research and teaching may be particularly welcome. The anticipated start date is 1 July 2021. The successful candidate will hold a PhD at the start of the appointment. The holder of this position will teach undergraduates and graduate students. Please submit a letter of interest to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/17094>. The application must also include: a curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, a statement about your capacity to promote diversity, and three references. Completed applications are due on 10 November 2020.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/10/2020

Date Posted: 10/9/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8162

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy - Impact of Race in America

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Stanford seeks to hire as many as 10 strong researchers and scholars--campus-wide--who study the impact of race in American society, including the nature and persistence of racial inequality and its consequences. We seek to support, deepen, and enhance the important research and teaching in these areas long underway on our campus.

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for faculty positions in our seven academic areas: Accounting; Economics; Finance; Marketing; Operations, Information & Technology; Organizational Behavior; and Political Economy under the Impact of Race in America topic. We welcome applications from scholars with all disciplinary backgrounds that bear on race in America and racial justice to apply to the seven areas. Rank is open, although there is the expectation that a majority of the appointments will be made at the assistant professor level. Although all areas of research will be considered, we are particularly interested in candidates with outstanding records of achievement in developing or using innovative approaches in the broad areas of their discipline. The successful candidates should possess a strong research background within their discipline and the ability to teach effectively in both the MBA and PhD programs in the school. The successful candidates should have or must expect to have their PhD degree by the start date of their faculty appointment at Stanford University.

Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2020 and will continue until all of the positions are filled. Candidates are invited to apply online via <https://www.gsb.stanford.edu/jobs/faculty-recruiting>, with the following materials: a statement describing the candidate's academic background and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a research statement of no more than three pages, and the names of three recommenders. Please direct questions to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: 11/15/2020

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8155

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

Assistant Professor in Public Management or Urban Policy (#007144)

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level specializing in public management or urban management and policy to teach in the NASPAA-accredited and nationally ranked Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program. The standard teaching load for an assistant professor is two courses each Fall and Spring semester. We seek an exceptional colleague and scholar with a research focus on diversity, equity, and social justice in government, nonprofits, or in urban communities, like Charlotte. We welcome scholars employing a variety of methodological approaches including but not limited to the analysis of experiments, large N data analyses, interpretive and critical research methods, and surveys. This nine-month position begins Fall 2021.

Qualified candidates must have a PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field at the time of appointment; an active research agenda and demonstrated excellence in research that will contribute to and enhance the department's and program's national reputation; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment.

The Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program ranks in the top 20% nationwide by US News and World Report and 2nd best MPA Value in the US. The MPA program offers concentrations in: Urban Management and Policy, Nonprofit Management, Arts Administration, Emergency Management, and Public Budgeting and Finance (Ranked #23). The MPA Program operates in an urban environment where it has strong ties to local government and nonprofit organizations, alumni, and the local chapters of the American Society for Public Administration, the North Carolina City and County Management Association, and the National Forum for Black Public Administrators. The program offers courses both on the main campus and at UNCC's Center City Building in downtown Charlotte. Additional information may be found at: <http://www.mpa.uncc.edu>.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration has award-winning faculty, houses the Gerald G. Fox Master of Public Administration Program, operates an experimental lab offering research opportunities to faculty and graduate students (POLS-Lab), and is a core department in the interdisciplinary Public Policy PhD Program.

As the largest and most diverse college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 21 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and military sciences, as well as 28 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. With its 35 graduate degrees and 78 undergraduate degree options, the College is connected to the world and its concerns, and is particularly supportive of the greater Charlotte region.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is a doctoral, research-intensive urban university, located on an expanding modern campus. The second largest of the 16 UNC System campuses, UNC Charlotte offers more than 30,000 culturally and ethnically diverse students a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus and an APLU Innovation and Economic Prosperity University. It supports faculty with excellent family and medical leave policies, junior faculty development awards, internal faculty research grant opportunities, and other research opportunities. Charlotte offers a dynamic space to live, work and connect for faculty, students, alumni, and staff, with its outstanding cultural, recreational, and business amenities. As the 15th largest U.S. city, Charlotte is consistently ranked one of the best cities to live (#20 by U.S. News & World Report).

Applicants must apply electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number #007144) and attach the following:

- Cover letter describing your research accomplishments and agenda, teaching experience and philosophy, and a commitment to diversity

(e.g., how have multicultural issues influenced and/or been a part of your teaching, research, and outreach/service)

- Curriculum vitae
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available)
- One writing sample (single or lead author preferred)
- Contact information for three professional references

Review of applications begins November 2, 2020 and continues until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Jaclyn Piatak, chair of the search committee, at jpiatak@uncc.edu with any questions about the position.

As an affirmative action, equal opportunity and an ADVANCE Institution, UNC Charlotte is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The university actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The candidate chosen for this position will be required to provide an official transcript of their highest earned degree and submit to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2021

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8150

W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research

Rank: Senior Researcher

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Non-Academic, Methodology

Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, United States

The W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research is seeking to diversify its senior research staff in terms of discipline and methodology. We invite Ph.D. researchers with at least 5 years of experience in sociology, public policy, social policy, political science or a related field to apply for a senior researcher position.

The Institute is searching for candidates who have demonstrated experience in using qualitative, mixed, and/or survey methods to research labor and employment issues. Candidates should have a solid publication record, excellent oral and written communication skills for both academic and lay audiences, and a strong interest in addressing policy-relevant issues. The Institute is seeking to hire a researcher on a full-time basis or on a part-time basis that, for example, might be combined with an academic appointment and is open to remote work arrangements.

About the Institute

The Upjohn Institute is an endowed, nonprofit research organization that conducts independent, nonpartisan research on employment-related issues. The Institute offers a thriving and collaborative research environment. Our staff includes eleven Ph.Ds. who share common research interests and are excellent colleagues. The Institute's endowment allows researchers considerable freedom in developing their agenda within the Institute's mission. Research staff also seek funding from foundations or government agencies as a way of augmenting their research or becoming more involved in finding practical solutions to employment problems. Researchers receive excellent support from in-house staff, including research assistants, technology specialists, information and database specialists, and administrative staff.

Start Date: Fall 2020

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2020

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 8141

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor – Political Economy of Development

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the Assistant Professor level in the political economy of development. Applicants are expected to complete a Ph.D. by the beginning of the appointment and demonstrate strong promise for a scholarly career.

To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic job board at: apply.interfolio.com/79006. Applicants are required to submit: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) two letters of recommendation, and 3) one writing sample. Review of applicants will begin on October 21, 2020. No applications will be accepted after May 1, 2021.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 9/22/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8083

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8026

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow (Migration and Development)

Subfield(s): Open, Methodology, Public Policy

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Quantitative Methods, Developing Nations

About the Lab

Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (IPL). In the face of the challenging social, political, economic, and ethical issues raised by the substantial increase in foreign-born populations, IPL conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to examine the impact of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and modern analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. Through collaborations with the people who set public policy, as well as those who serve immigrant communities, our research generates solutions with the potential to improve lives. IPL reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

Position

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team, collaborating on and developing projects broadly related to migration and development. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, David Laitin, and Jeremy Weinstein. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on research design, survey design and implementation, data acquisition, data analysis, and interpretation of results for projects associated with IPL's Migration and Development Initiative (generously supported by the Stanford King Center on Global Development).

IPL is a highly collaborative environment, and postdocs will have the opportunity to develop new lab projects with other team members as well as join existing ongoing projects. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies and work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions. While the majority of the postdoc's time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there is also an opportunity to work on independent research.

The initial appointment will be for one year (with potential to renew for a second year). Start date is flexible, but January 2021 or earlier is preferred. Salary is standardized based on Stanford University guidelines. Benefits are provided.

Qualifications

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D., with a preference for Political Science, Economics, Sociology, Statistics, or Computer Science. She or he should have a range of statistical and data skills including graduate-level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and managing field experiments and/or household surveys in developing countries is preferred. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy will also be valued, with the ability to operate professionally in French highly preferred.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Application Requirements

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, contributions to diversity statement, and at least two letters of recommendation. The "Contributions to Diversity Statement" should describe any past efforts, as well as future plans, to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion as a postdoc at Stanford and IPL community member. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process.

Applications will only be accepted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/16649> (ID16649). We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2020. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the executive director of the Immigration Policy Lab at Stanford University, Duncan Lawrence, directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc – Migration and Development).

Start Date: Winter 2021

Application Deadline: 9/15/2020

Date Posted: 9/3/2020

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 8027

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Stanford King Center on Global Development's Postdoctoral Fellows Program offers fellowships to outstanding, new PhDs who have a demonstrated ability to generate high-quality, policy-relevant research on critical issues related to global development.

We invite applications for multidisciplinary postdoctoral fellowships to start summer/fall 2021 for a one- or two-year appointment. The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program is intended for promising new PhD recipients—coming from fields such as computer science, earth systems science, economics, engineering, health policy, political science, and sociology—to pursue policy-relevant research on topics related to international development and poverty alleviation. The King Center's postdoctoral fellows should expect to be active members of the community of development researchers at Stanford University.

The King Center's Postdoctoral Fellows Program particularly encourages applications from women and minority PhD recipients, and from scholars from low- and middle-income countries, as well as from others whose backgrounds and experience would contribute to the diversity (broadly defined) of the program.

The King Center provides a competitive fellowship stipend, plus support for travel and research expenses.

For full consideration, candidates should submit all materials by December 1, 2020 via the application form linked from the King Center's website.

For more details and the application, please visit: <https://kingcenter.stanford.edu/research/postdoctoral-fellows-program>

Start Date: Fall 2020
Application Deadline: 12/1/2020
Date Posted: 9/1/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7983

New York University - Abu Dhabi

Rank: Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science - Division of Social Science

The Division of Social Science at New York University Abu Dhabi seeks to appoint a Post-Doctoral Researcher in Political Science starting September 2021. Later start dates are also possible. Appointments will be for two academic years, renewable for one additional academic year, conditional on a satisfactory evaluation of performance.

The Social Science Division is keen on increasing diversity among faculty and postdoctoral fellows and especially encourages women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Here is the link to apply:

<http://apply.interfolio.com/77968>

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2021
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2020
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 7989