Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

ADMINISTRATION

University of Akron

Rank: Director, Ray C. Bliss Institute of Applied Politics at The University of Akron

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Administration, Other

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Research Methods

The University of Akron's Ray C. Bliss Institute of Applied Politics, in cooperation with the Department of Political Science, is seeking applicants for the position of Director. This 12-month position, starting as early as January 2022 but no later than July 1, 2022, includes an appointment as a tenured Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science.

The successful candidate will oversee the activities of the Bliss Institute, including managing its budget, supervising its full-time and part-time staff, coordinating research projects (including polling activities), administering its extensive internship program, and hosting conferences. The Director will be a faculty member of the Department of Political Science with teaching responsibilities and will be responsible for administering the Institute's academic programs, including the Master of Applied Politics [MAP] degree program and the Undergraduate and Graduate Certificate in Applied Politics. Further responsibilities include liaising with university, local, state, and national officials, engaging with the media, and promoting the overall mission of the Institute.

The successful candidate must be a highly experienced scholar with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, with a record of publications in peer-reviewed journals and/or academic presses; have a record of teaching at the university level; and have a strong record of administrative experience. It is desirable for the candidate to have a competency in research methods with a demonstrable interest in applied politics at the state and/or national levels; experience in public policy, especially at the state and local levels; and previous experience in hosting conferences in an academic and/or governmental setting.

To apply for this position (University of Akron Job ID# 12850), you must complete the on-line application (available at: <https://www.uakron.edu/hr/jobs.dot>) and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a list of three (3) professional references to your profile. Please include contact information, including email addresses, for your professional references. After submission of your application, return to the "My Activities" link and upload the required documents under the "My Cover Letters and Attachments" section.

Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with reference to the minimum and preferred qualifications. This is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based. A resume will not be accepted in place of any information requested on the application. Inquiries about the position can be sent to Dr. James T. McHugh at: mchugh@uakron.edu. For assistance with your application or attachments please call Hannah Kemp-Severence in Human Resources at 330-972-8399. Open until filled, however, initial review of applications will begin on September 1, 2021.

The University of Akron is committed to providing a safe environment for all students and employees. The University endeavors to protect the health, welfare and safety of all students, employees and visitors on our campus. As such, the University will require a pre-employment background check for all applicants selected for employment.

University of Florida

Rank: Associate Dean for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

The University of Florida, a top-ten ranked public university, welcomes applications and nominations for the inaugural role of Associate Dean for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (CLAS). The Associate Dean will join the institution at a transformative time as UF strengthens its commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as a top institutional priority. Under the leadership of Dean David E. Richardson, the successful candidate will be an unwavering diversity advocate and inspiring partner who values a liberal arts and sciences education and has demonstrated experience as a skilled administrator, advisor, and strategic leader. The Associate Dean will lead and inform the strategic discussion advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion throughout the college and will build, guide, and assess policies and practices that encourage diversity, equity, and inclusion as a means of improving the college's cultural climate and support its underrepresented populations.

Reporting to the Dean, the Associate Dean will focus on the development of a comprehensive and strategic framework to support diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts in the college; engage in continuous, systematic, and focused recruitment and retention activities to support a diverse student, faculty, and staff population. As a public institution, it is important that the campus reflect demographics that mirror the state of Florida.

Serving as a key partner and advisor to the campus community with the support of the other Associate Deans of the college, this Associate Dean will develop and implement a full range of initiatives that enhance ongoing efforts to ensure college-wide understanding, adoption, and adherence to diversity, equity, and inclusion while fostering a collaborative and nurturing culture that recognizes UF's particular history and combats racism and its impacts. The Associate Dean will serve as a thought leader with in-depth knowledge of diversity, equity, and inclusion; improve the college climate; and intentionally engage faculty, students, and staff in dialogue around critical issues to support the academic, career, and personal development of underrepresented groups.

These unprecedented times overshadowed by a global pandemic and inspired by a revitalized movement for racial justice and equity allow for innovative change in new areas. As a member of the Dean's leadership team, the Associate Dean will partner with other Associate Deans and college stakeholders and champion transparency and accountability of diversity initiatives as a shared priority at CLAS in support of UF's vision by developing significant collaborative partnerships with senior administration, faculty, staff, students, and community members to strengthen the anti-racist fabric of UF. This is a tremendous opportunity for a scholar, administrator, and strategic project manager to build a framework, presence, and advocacy for practices that foster and infuse the values of diversity, equity, and inclusion throughout the college.

All inquiries, nominations/referrals, and resumes with cover letters should be sent electronically and in confidence to Keight Tucker Kennedy or Tiffany Weber at Isaacson, Miller.

West Virginia University

Rank: Director of Institute for Policy Research and Public Affairs
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Policy, Public Administration

Job No. 16108

West Virginia University (WVU) seeks a visionary and enterprising leader to serve as the inaugural Director of the Institute for Policy Research and Public Affairs affiliated with Eberly College of Arts and Sciences and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr. School of Policy and Politics. This is a tenured faculty position at the rank of Professor or Associate Professor in the Eberly College. The Director will lead a new initiative to advance public policy and public affairs research and translational activities. This initiative is one of three divisions planned to be established within the Rockefeller School. The other two deal with academic programs and engaged learning and service. In addition to the duties outlined below, the Director would work closely with WVU leadership to help fully establish the Rockefeller School.

As Director, the successful applicant will support faculty and researchers across complementary disciplines to collaboratively build research capacity in public policy. They will strengthen related resources, build on expertise and research capabilities that currently exist across campus, increase externally sponsored research in social and public policy, as well as create partnerships with foundations, industry, government agencies and other universities. As part of this effort, the Director will be expected to recruit Research Fellows to work within the school. In addition to Departments affiliated with the Rockefeller School, Research Fellows may be recruited from within other WVU programs and external institutions and agencies. The Director will connect policy research to the teaching and outreach mission of the Rockefeller School and will report to the office of the Dean of the Eberly College. The Director will have a dedicated administrative assistant as well as support for graduate research students.

Qualifications include a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in Public Policy, Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field; a sustained record of externally funded research in the area of public policy; a record of multidisciplinary scholarship; ability to translate academic research into information for public dissemination and engagement; a record of successful administrative leadership; ability to work collaboratively in a diverse environment with a range of faculty, students, administrators, and external constituents to reach a common goal; ability to develop partnerships with foundations and industry in support of the Institute's programs; understanding of WVU's mission as a land-grant institution; ability to manage budgets and establish fiscal priorities; strong written and oral communication skills; and an established record of research and teaching that will merit appointment at, or promotion to, the rank of Professor or Associate Professor with a grant of tenure at WVU.

WVU is a comprehensive land grant university with approximately 30,000 students and is classified by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education as a very high research (R1) Institution. The Rockefeller School of Policy and Politics currently consists of 21 tenured and tenure-track faculty and is affiliated with the Eberly College of Arts and Sciences.

To apply for this position, please visit <http://hr.research.wvu.edu> and click on the "View Jobs" link. Qualified applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a description of the applicant's potential to further our progress in building a diverse and inclusive academic community (which will be evaluated without regard to the applicant's personal demographics), and contact information for three references. The cover letter should address the applicant's qualifications for each aspect of the responsibilities listed above. For questions or additional information, contact Prof. Duncan Lorimer via e-mail: duncan.lorimer@mail.wvu.edu. The screening process will begin on March 1, 2021 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University community of Morgantown offers plentiful educational opportunities as well as recreational outlets, is within easy driving distance of Pittsburgh, PA, and is about 200 miles northwest of Washington, D.C. WVU is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE award for gender equity. The university is committed to diversity and welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, including minorities, females, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - 2 positions

Visiting Assistant Professor, Political Science (2 positions)

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs seeks two Visiting Assistant Professors in the fields of Public Law and American Politics. The appointment is in the Department of Political Science for academic year 2021-2022, with the possibility of renewal. The course load is four courses a year.

American Politics

The department's priority is a scholar who will teach in the areas of the American presidency/executive politics, and/or campaigns and elections. Ability to teach other subjects in American Politics, such as Political Parties, American Political Development, and/or Racial and Ethnic Politics, will be considered a plus. The department also expects that the successful applicant will teach the introductory course in American Politics. Contributing to the diversity of the Department will also be considered a plus.

Public Law

One of the four courses taught during the year may be a topics course of the visitor's design, and another will be the introductory course in American Politics. The Department prefers candidates with an interest in American Political Development (APD). Ability to teach racial and ethnic politics and/or contributing to the diversity of the Department will also be considered a plus.

Applicants should at least have finished or be close to submitting their dissertation by the beginning of the fall 2021 semester. Candidates should have demonstrated the ability to work with and instruct culturally diverse groups of people. Their home university should be accredited by a USDOE or an internationally accrediting organization.

Please apply online via:

<https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=130245>

All candidates should submit a statement of interest, a curriculum vita, a writing sample or publication, and available evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., syllabi, student evaluations, and/or teaching statement) through Interview Exchange. Candidates should also arrange to have a graduate transcript and at least three letters of reference submitted through Interview Exchange.

Salary: $50,000 and benefits. Starting date is August 23, 2021.

U.S. Army War College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

United States Army War College

Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies

Salary range: $80,153 – $117,284

Objective:

The United States Army War College seeks to fill the position of Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies in the Department of National Security and Strategy in the School of Strategic Landpower.

Context:

This is a fulltime, long-term, civilian faculty position at the United States Army's most senior institution for professional military education. Initial appointment may be for up to 4 years; the first two years are probationary; the academic rank of initial appointment will be commensurate with the applicant's level of experience. Appointments may be renewed. The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, US government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curriculum of theoretical and professional subjects, leading to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education.

Expectations:

The person selected for this position will have a leading role in planning, administering, and teaching the core course, "War, Policy, and National Security," as well as other core and elective courses of the resident education program and associated programs. They will serve as a faculty instructor for one seminar, advise students and serve as project advisor for student research projects. They will also engage in cutting-edge scholarship that advances knowledge in fields relevant to the curriculum; engage in service in support of USAWC missions. Other duties may include teaching regional studies courses and/or supporting the development and execution of the National Security Policy Program. The position comes with a generous compensation package as well as with the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.

Finally, the applicant must be able to obtain and maintain a security clearance from the US government.

Rewards and Compensation:

The person selected would find employment at the Army War College enjoyable, satisfying, and rewarding. They would have the benefit of working at an institution dedicated to his or her scholarly focus. Additionally, the person selected would sense the urgency of the mission, collegiality of the faculty, security of the military environment, quality and diversity of the student body, and climate of cooperation and teamwork. These defining features have long appealed to civilian faculty members who have worked at the Army War College for any length of time.

Compensation is dependent on the applicant's qualifications and professional experience. We are prepared to offer a salary-and-benefits package designed to attract highly talented applicants.

Qualifications:

In order to qualify, you must meet the education and/or experience requirements described below. Your curriculum vitae or résumé must clearly describe your relevant experience. Applicants will be rated based on the placement factors and Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs) listed below by a search committee appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Must have master's degree (required) in national security studies, international relations, government, political science, history, environmental security, regional studies, or related field. A PhD or other terminal degree is strongly preferred. Doctoral students within six months of completing the degree are eligible (and encouraged) to apply.
2. Must have an established record of superlative teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, or Senior Service College level. Experience at the graduate level is preferred.
3. Ability to prepare, teach, and lecture on subjects related to national security policy and strategy formulation, theories of war and strategy, and other subjects to include political economy, diplomacy, environmental security, or regional studies.
4. Record of scholarly research and publication—or evidence of great potential for such research and publication—in areas relevant to the curriculum, to include national security policy and strategy, international relations, political science, history, political economy, environmental security, regional studies, and the strategic use of military force (assurance, deterrence, coercion, and compellence).

Application:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below. Applications must be postmarked or e-dated by the closing date of this job announcement. Please include the job announcement number on the application.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

1. Letter of application addressing the required Knowledge, Skills and Abilities, as listed in the Qualifications section above.
2. Résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship (i.e., birth certificate, passport)
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages (Electronic format is preferred, as hard copies will not be returned without a self-addressed and metered envelope.)
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are permissible for initial submission of the application, but you must provide official college transcripts upon request.

6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection)
7. Documentation supporting any request for Veteran's Preference (such as a DD Form 214 or VA statement of disability)
8. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

Both paper and electronic submissions are acceptable, but the latter is strongly encouraged. The preferred method of submission is by e-mail with .pdf attachments. Please note that documents submitted as part of the application may be shared beyond the Human Resources Office. ### University of Akron

Specializations: American Politics, State Politics, Research Methods

The University of Akron's Ray C. Bliss Institute of Applied Politics, in cooperation with the Department of Political Science, is seeking applicants for the position of Director. This 12-month position, starting as early as January 2022 but no later than July 1, 2022, includes an appointment as a tenured Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science.

The successful candidate will oversee the activities of the Bliss Institute, including managing its budget, supervising its full-time and part-time staff, coordinating research projects (including polling activities), administering its extensive internship program, and hosting conferences. The Director will be a faculty member of the Department of Political Science with teaching responsibilities and will be responsible for administering the Institute's academic programs, including the Master of Applied Politics [MAP] degree program and the Undergraduate and Graduate Certificate in Applied Politics. Further responsibilities include liaising with university, local, state, and national officials, engaging with the media, and promoting the overall mission of the Institute.

The successful candidate must be a highly experienced scholar with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, with a record of publications in peer-reviewed journals and/or academic presses; have a record of teaching at the university level; and have a strong record of administrative experience. It is desirable for the candidate to have a competency in research methods with a demonstrable interest in applied politics at the state and/or national levels; experience in public policy, especially at the state and local levels; and previous experience in hosting conferences in an academic and/or governmental setting.

To apply for this position (University of Akron Job ID# 12850), you must complete the on-line application (available at: <https://www.uakron.edu/hr/jobs.dot>) and attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a list of three (3) professional references to your profile. Please include contact information, including email addresses, for your professional references. After submission of your application, return to the “My Activities” link and upload the required documents under the “My Cover Letters and Attachments” section.

Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience with reference to the minimum and preferred qualifications. This is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based. A resume will not be accepted in place of any information requested on the application. Inquiries about the position can be sent to Dr. James T. McHugh at: mchugh@uakron.edu. For assistance with your application or attachments please call Hannah Kemp-Severence in Human Resources at 330-972-8399. Open until filled, however, initial review of applications will begin on September 1, 2021.

The University of Akron is committed to providing a safe environment for all students and employees. The University endeavors to protect the health, welfare and safety of all students, employees and visitors on our campus. As such, the University will require a pre-employment background check for all applicants selected for employment.

Rank: Postdoctoral/Postgraduate Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Research- and Policy-Related Opportunity at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS)

Professors Alan Gerber and Jacob S. Hacker seek a postdoctoral or postgraduate associate for a one-year, full-time appointment starting in July 2021 (depending on availability). The position is for a researcher with interests in domestic policy-related domains with a desire to help develop new collaborative educational and research opportunities for Yale undergraduate and graduate students at ISPS, housed at the Institution’s “Policy Lab.” In addition to pursuing his or her own individual research agenda, the successful candidate’s responsibilities will include assisting Professors Gerber and Hacker in the development of a new collaborative research-policy initiative, mentoring undergraduate and graduate researchers and undergraduate interns, helping to organize guest speaker and policy skills training workshops, and working with city-, state- and occasionally national-level policy makers. The postdoc may also have an opportunity to teach a course.

Technical skills—such as statistical and computer skills and understanding of social science methods—are highly desirable. Excellent organizational and project management skills are a must. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or equivalent professional degree at the time of hire. Outstanding candidates with a Master’s Degree in Public Policy and/or Administration will be considered as well. Salary is negotiable and will be commensurate with experience.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Review of applications will commence on May 15, 2021 and will continue until a successful candidate is identified. Application materials include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references (who would be contacted during the final stage of consideration). The Army War College is the U.S. Army's most senior institution for professional military education. It educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a variety of rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. The senior-level curriculum is delivered two ways -- through a ten-month resident program (about 385 students) and a two-year distance education program (about 750 students); both lead to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education. In addition to the Master's degree, the USAWC administers numerous professional development programs focused on strategic thinking and leadership. These programs range from a fourteen-week course for junior officers qualifying as Army strategists to shorter courses for general officers, senior colonels, and command sergeants major.

The principal organizations of the USAWC are the School of Strategic Landpower, Center for Strategic Leadership, Strategic Studies Institute, the Advanced Strategic Education Program, and the Army Heritage and Education Center. They work collectively to accomplish the institution's mission: "Educate and develop leaders for service at the strategic level while advancing knowledge in the global application of land power.&quot;

Equal Employment Opportunity Policy

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy And gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

- Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) for federal employees & job applicants

(https://www.eeoc.gov/federal/fed\_employees/index.cfm)

Reasonable Accommodation Policy

Federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities where appropriate. Applicants requiring reasonable accommodation for any part of the application process should follow the instructions in the job opportunity announcement. For any part of the remaining hiring process, applicants should contact the hiring agency directly. Determinations on requests for reasonable accommodation will be made on a case-by-case basis.

A reasonable accommodation is any change to a job, the work environment, or the way things are usually done that enables an individual with a disability to apply for a job, perform job duties or receive equal access to job benefits.

Under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, federal agencies must provide reasonable accommodations when:

- An applicant with a disability needs an accommodation to have an equal opportunity to apply for a job.
- An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to perform the essential job duties or to gain access to the workplace.

- An employee with a disability needs an accommodation to receive equal access to benefits, such as details, training, and office-sponsored events.

You can request a reasonable accommodation at any time during the application or hiring process or while on the job. Requests are considered on a case-by-case basis.

University of South Carolina

Rank: Postdoc Position in the Founding Documents

Two Year (renewable) Post-Doc Fellowships in the Founding Documents (2)

University of South Carolina, Columbia

July 1, 2021 - June 30, 2023/4

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina is pleased to invite applications for two new two-year (renewable for a third year) Post-Doctoral Political Science Teaching Fellowships focused on teaching and interpreting the documents on which the United States was founded (including the Declaration of Independence, Constitution, Federalist Papers, Emancipation Proclamation, other freedom papers, and more). Two Founding Documents Post-Docs are available, both beginning on July 1, 2021. These twelve-month positions include a five-course teaching load (two in the Fall; two in the Spring, and one in Summer session).

Candidates with interests in the fields of American Politics, Public Law, or American Political Theory are encouraged to apply.

This opportunity is the result of new legislation in South Carolina (the REACH Act) that requires college students in the state to complete a three-credit course that includes the American founding documents. We seek candidates who are committed to teaching students how to place these documents into the intellectual history of democracy within and beyond the United States. Teaching will be limited to courses that satisfy the State's Founding Documents requirement (including POLI 201: American National Government; POLI 304: Contemporary Political Theory; POLI 450: Constitutional Law; POLI 451: Civil Liberties; POLI 452: The Judicial Process).

Requirements:

1. Completion of a Political Science PhD by May 2021 (ABDs are NOT eligible for consideration)
2. Demonstrable experience teaching or researching the history of democracy and/or the founding documents of the United States

Applications should include a cover letter, a statement of commitment to teaching Founding Documents, two letters of reference, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a transcript that states degree completion

no later than May 2021 should be submitted through <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/95653>

For best consideration, a complete application should be submitted by April 16, 2021. Applications will be reviewed until the positions are filled.

For questions concerning this position, please contact, Dr. Robert Oldendick, Chair of the Search Committee, at oldendick-bob@sc.edu.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics.

The Political Science department offers a baccalaureate degree (B.A.) in political science and a Master's in Public Administration. The B. A. in political science provides students with a broad understanding of government, politics, and public and international affairs. It strengthens writing, speaking, and critical thinking skills that are essential for most careers. Many of our majors pursue advanced degrees in Law, Public Administration, Business, and Political Science. In addition, because nonprofit organizations play a vital role in the well-being and development of our society, the department also offers a minor in nonprofit administration. Courses in the minor are taught with an emphasis on experiential learning, combining theory and applied skills to prepare students to become future leaders within the nonprofit sector. The Department seeks to increase the diversity of its faculty in order to better serve students and the community.

University of Illinois, Springfield

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, International Security, Research Methods

The Political Science Department at the University of Illinois Springfield (UIS) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2021. The department seeks candidates with expertise in race, ethnicity, and politics (broadly construed) in American Politics along with teaching interests in at least one of the following subfields: Comparative Politics or International Relations. A successful candidate will be able to chair MA theses and comprehensive exams in the subfield of American Politics, and also in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The successful candidate is expected to teach online and on-campus courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels on the politics of race and ethnicity. Additional courses may include any combination of the following: Introduction to International Relations, U.S. Foreign Policy, Politics of Immigration, Ethnic Conflict, or Research Methods, as well as any other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. In addition to teaching, the candidate is expected to pursue an active research agenda and engage in service activities.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science by August 16, 2021. Candidates must demonstrate potential for excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service. Prior teaching experience at the college or university level is required. The regular teaching load for tenure-track appointments is 3-3. The successful candidate will have opportunities to receive course relief for curriculum development or scholarship.

The UIS Department of Political Science offers excellent academic preparation and opportunities to become engaged in real world politics for both undergraduate and graduate students. We offer undergraduate and graduate degrees in political science, majors in Public Policy and Global Studies, as well as a graduate degree in Public Affairs Reporting. Students also have the opportunity to receive a minor in political science and global studies. Several of these programs are fully online or on campus.

One of the largest departments in the College of Public Affairs and Administration, the UIS Political Science Department offers an opportunity for our students to live politics in the classroom, on the campus and in the community. Engaged political science makes the connections between the classroom and the world explicit as we challenge our students to both grasp the course material and explore how it has an impact outside of the classroom. The UIS Political Science Department bridges the worlds of the "academic" and "practical" by providing concrete opportunities for the practice of theory and the theory of practice. Since our Department seeks to grow a culture of inclusion and diversity, we encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented groups.

Campus: Located in the state capital, the University of Illinois Springfield is one of three campuses of the University of Illinois. The UIS campus serves approximately 5,100 students in 21 graduate and 24 undergraduate programs. The academic curriculum of the campus emphasizes a strong liberal arts core, an array of professional programs, extensive opportunities in experiential education, and a broad engagement in public affairs issues of the day. The campus offers many small classes, substantial student-faculty interaction, and a rapidly evolving technology enhanced learning environment. Its diverse student body includes traditional, non-traditional, and international students. Twenty-five percent of majors are in 17 undergraduate and graduate online degree programs and the campus has received several national awards for its implementation of online learning. UIS faculty are committed teachers, active scholars, and professionals in service to society. You are encouraged to visit the university web page at <http://www.uis.edu>, the department web page at: <http://www.uis.edu/politicalscience/>.

Application: Candidates should submit the following to be considered: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) unofficial graduate transcripts, (4) a teaching portfolio that includes the candidate's teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and sample syllabi, (5) sample of scholarship, (6) email addresses for three professional letters of reference. All documents must be submitted with your application by April 9th, 2021 in the online employment application system: <https://jobs.uis.edu/job-board/job-details?jobID=142926&job=assistant-professor-political-science>. To maintain the integrity and confidentiality of the search process, applicants are asked to upload their own materials through the UIS jobs board URL. References will receive a separate invitation to upload their recommendations directly to the online system. The committee will begin reviewing applications immediately after this deadline. The search will continue until the position is filled, but applications received by this date will receive full consideration.

Concordia College

Rank: Teaching Fellow

The Department of Political Science at Concordia College in Moorhead, MN invites applications for a one-year teaching fellow beginning August 15, 2021 with the possibility of renewal for a second year. The fellowship aims to support the development of early career teachers; diversify faculty who teach at Concordia, and support the College's initiatives related to diversity, equity, and inclusion. Candidates should have earned a PhD or have advanced to PhD candidacy in political science. The successful candidate will possess the ability to teach introductory and upper-level courses in American Politics and one course in Public Policy.

The department is especially interested in applicants who will contribute to the development of a diverse campus community and who have experience working effectively with diversified populations. Successful candidates will aspire to be part of a community that affirms an abundance of identities, experiences, and perspectives. (See Concordia's current strategic plan <https://www.concordiacollege.edu/about/president/concordia-leads/excellence-through-diversity/>) The fellow will be expected to contribute in significant ways to diversity goals in the department and the college, such as through community outreach, campus service, and/or providing new perspectives to the department. The department is also particularly interested in applicants with teaching experience and who are able to integrate diversity-related issues into their courses.

Teaching responsibilities: The fellow will teach four courses each academic year. Two of these will be our introductory course in American politics, required of all majors. The two other courses will be upper-level courses, one of which will be in the area of public policy, broadly conceived. Early in the fellowship year, the successful candidate will work with colleagues to develop a strategy to achieve their developmental goals as an undergraduate teacher.

Research responsibilities: The fellowship is designed to give the successful candidate both time and a supportive environment in which to achieve their research goals for the one-year fellowship period. The College values highly research programs related to diversity issues or diverse populations. Involving students in research is also encouraged.

Applications may be submitted online at <https://hr.cord.edu>. All applicants should provide a CV; contact information for three references; teaching evaluations, if available; and a cover letter addressing how the candidate will contribute to the diversity goals of the College through their teaching and research. A criminal background check will be required for the successful candidate. Review of applications will begin March 15 and continue until the position is filled. Please note that Work Visa sponsorship is not available for this position.

Butler University

Rank: Lecturer/Instructor

Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Gender Politics & Policy, Native American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Butler University invites applications for a full-time non-tenure-track lecturer for a two-year appointment with possibility of renewal. Applicants should have a strong commitment to excellent, inclusive undergraduate teaching. We are particularly interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship engages intersectional, abolitionist, or critical historical institutional perspectives on race/ethnicity/indigeneity, gender/sexuality, and politics in the United States and potentially beyond it. The successful candidate will teach lower-level and upper-level undergraduate political science courses (including an introductory American politics survey), will contribute to the Core Curriculum, and will help build an inclusive learning environment for our increasingly diverse student population. This faculty member could choose to affiliate with the International Studies; Peace and Conflict Studies; Race, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; and/or Science, Technology, and Environmental Studies interdisciplinary programs. This lecturer will teach four courses per semester, typically with no more than six distinct course preparations per year.

Review of applications will begin January 11, but the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should have earned a doctorate in political science or a related field at the time of appointment before August 1, 2021. Applicants should submit the following to plsearch@butler.edu: a cover letter that highlights the applicant's teaching interests, experience, and commitment to inclusive, excellent teaching and summarizes their research interests; a curriculum vitae; a statement of teaching philosophy, a sample syllabus, and a list of 3-5 references including name, title and contact information. Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide additional evidence of inclusive teaching excellence including one or more additional syllabi, descriptions of course activities or assignments, and student evaluations or teaching observations; 3 letters of recommendation, and unofficial transcripts. Final round candidates will need to provide official transcripts and will be asked to consent to background checks. The successful candidate will start August 2021, subject to final budget-approval.

The Butler Political Science Program, distinctively grounded in a firm commitment to social justice, democracy, and human rights, engages students in the study and practice of politics to promote the collective good at the local, national, and global level. The program defines politics broadly as the formal and informal ways societies govern themselves. The program offers an innovative curriculum that crosses traditional disciplinary boundaries to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to pursue positive social change. Political science alumni have pursued careers in electoral politics, teaching, law, government, journalism, business, and non-profit organizations, and have earned graduate and professional degrees in several fields.

Wheaton College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American politics to begin Fall 2021. The ideal candidate will possess the ability to teach introductory and upper-level courses in American politics and public law, including courses focused on the American legal system, Constitutional law/interpretation, civil liberties, civil rights, judicial politics and other courses in the candidate's areas of specialization. Teaching responsibilities include introductory sections of U.S. government & politics, and research methods. We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching specializations at the intersection of race, class, gender, and/or sexuality.

Classroom experience is highly desirable. The promise of excellence in teaching and scholarship is required. We are committed to providing our students with excellent educational and co-curricular opportunities, and our faculty has significant mentoring experience with new teachers in postdoctoral and junior faculty appointments. For example, we offer regular programming in professional development and all tenure-track faculty are entitled to a fully paid pre-tenure sabbatical and research funds to support scholarship. A Ph.D. in Political Science (with an emphasis in judicial politics) is preferred. ABDs will be considered. If the candidate does not have the Ph.D. in hand, they will be hired as an instructor until the degree is obtained. Inquiries about the faculty position or department should be directed to Gerry Huiskamp, Chair and Professor, Political Science, huiskamp_gerard@wheatoncollege.edu. Inquiries about the application process and document submission may be addressed to careers@wheatoncollege.edu.

To apply please visit our website <https://jobs.wheatoncollege.edu>. Instructions to applicants will be listed on our website, with the following materials required: letter of application describing your areas of specialty and a statement about your interest in teaching in a liberal arts environment; curriculum vitae; three letters of reference; a graduate transcript; at least one scholarly writing sample; materials on your teaching history, including sample syllabi, course evaluations, and any other materials you wish to provide. Wheaton strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. Candidates should describe in their cover letter how their teaching and scholarship might support the college's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Applications will be reviewed beginning February 15, 2021 and will be accepted until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, complete applications must be received by February 15, 2021.

Samford University

Rank: Teaching Postdoctoral Instructor

Teaching Postdoctoral Instructor Position, Department of Political Science (9-month, Non-Tenure)

Samford University's Howard College of Arts and Sciences invites individuals interested in serving in a Christian university environment to apply for a teaching postdoctoral instructor position in the Political Science Department, beginning August 2021. This non-tenure position is a full-time, one-year appointment and may be renewable one time for a maximum of two years.

Qualified candidates will have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science within the past three years from an institutionally accredited university and be able to teach upper-level courses in American political institutions (e.g., Courts, Congress, Presidency) as well as two courses per semester in the university's interdisciplinary core curriculum, which includes a freshman writing seminar on humanities or social science topics. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

The successful candidate should have a strong commitment to classroom teaching, student development and mentorship, and collegial collaboration. The candidate also should be familiar with online teaching technology and have an active research agenda. Departmental funds may be available for research support and other research funds can be earned on a competitive basis.

Samford University (www.samford.edu) is the largest privately supported and fully accredited institution for higher learning in Alabama. Located in suburban Birmingham, the University was founded in 1841 and has 425 full time faculty and more than 5,700 students representing 44 states and 30 countries. Samford has been nationally recognized for academics, affordability and value by a number of prestigious publications and rankings. The Wall Street Journal ranks Samford 2nd nationally for student engagement and Kiplinger's Personal Finance ranks Samford 34th among private universities in the U.S. for value and affordability. The University is dedicated to the promotion of rigorous academic inquiry in a Christian setting. The University offers competitive salaries with a generous benefits package.

Applications will be accepted beginning January 6th, 2021. Review of applications will begin April 1, 2021 and applications will not be accepted beyond that date. Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae with names and contact information of three references, description of teaching experience, description of research interests and activities, along with an application for faculty position and the faculty applicant Christian mission statement, both accessible at the links below. The successful candidate must pass a background check. Applicants must be authorized to work in the United States, as Samford will not sponsor any employment visas for this position. Samford University and Howard College of Arts and Sciences embrace diversity in their faculty, students, and staff and encourage applications from those who would add to the diversity of our academic community.

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Professor of Legal Studies – Tenure track (Open Rank)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi invites applications for a tenure-track/open-rank faculty appointment in Legal Studies, Social Science Division with appointment starting in August 2021 for the 2021-22 academic year.

We will consider applicants from legal scholars with an active research agenda in all areas of law, but we are especially interested in those whose research and teaching include international and comparative dimensions. We particularly welcome applications from female scholars as well as from members of traditionally underrepresented groups.

The undergraduate major in Legal Studies at NYU Abu Dhabi poses the broad philosophical, cultural, social, economic, political, religious, and ethical questions that prove indispensable both to a deep understanding of law and to liberal arts education. What is justice? What is Law? How is it organized? Who and what constitutes the arbiter of justice? What are the effects of historical, cultural, religious, and national settings on law and justice? Is the developing global society on the path to a just and moral order, and what role can the law play? What are the legal issues raised by global concerns such as those about the environment, technology, and trade?

The Legal Studies curriculum design responds, in part, to the increasing globalization of law through a consideration of issues such as climate change, the rule of law, international business, global governance, law and media, human rights, migration, technology and security, and law and ethics. At the same time, recognizing that law maintains a local focus, the curriculum treats the broad questions raised by globalization through the study of particular examples drawn from common law, continental law and other legal systems. The major in Legal Studies is intended as an approach to the study of law rooted in the liberal arts tradition. The integration of Legal Studies with liberal arts education enhances the opportunity for cross-disciplinary study. The Program in Legal Studies is situated within both the Social Sciences and the Arts and Humanities, and it thus aims to serve as a bridge between these divisions. The curriculum aspires to foster in students the readiness and ability to act in a truly human manner which entails qualities such as serving as an advocate for individual rights and as an artisan of the common good.

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a pioneer of higher education in a global world, dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, while advancing cooperation and progress on humanity's shared challenges. Part of the NYU global network, NYU Abu Dhabi offers an outstanding liberal arts and science education to students from the United Arab Emirates, United States, and around the world, focusing on intercultural understanding and leadership. It supports innovative research that pushes the frontiers of knowledge forward and responds in powerful and interdisciplinary ways to vital global and local questions. NYU Abu Dhabi advances NYU as a model university for the 21st century and contributes in multiple ways to the development of a sustainable, knowledge-based economy in Abu Dhabi.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion, belonging, and equity; such principles are fundamental to the university's commitment to excellence. Our faculty are the engines that sustain our inclusive environment; NYUAD students come from more than 115 countries, with no single one nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our faculty are highly diverse and community-minded: our modern campus is home to over 320 faculty who represent more than 45 different nationalities, all of whom bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. Research is advanced by over 400 highly qualified research staff, who are likewise drawn from all over the world.

As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students, and providing an intellectually rich environment. Students are drawn from around the globe, surpassing all traditional academic benchmarks. The NYU Abu Dhabi undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school appointments, and many other honors.

Working for NYUAD

A world-class institution deserves world-class benefits. ## University of Gothenburg

Rank: Associate Senior Lecturer (Assistant Professor, tenure track) in Political Science

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale, international data collection and research-program. The V-Dem Institute, Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg, has received several large-scale grants from among others the European Commission, several ministries of foreign affairs, the World Bank, European Research Council, Riksbankens Jubileumsfond, the Swedish Research Council, and Knut and Alice Wallenberg Foundation.

For more information: <https://v-dem.net>

Job assignments:

The term for this position in Swedish is "biträdande lektor". The university's official translation (in British English) is Associate Senior Lecture, which is the equivalent to Assistant Professor on tenure-track. The Assistant Professor/Associate Senior Lecturer (tenure-track, 4 years) is primarily expected to conduct research in collaboration with the Director as well as other scholars at the V-Dem Institute. The research will focus on some of the main questions of the research programs at the V-Dem Institute: Endangered Democracies: Sequences of Autocratization (EDSA); "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization" (FASDEM); Varieties of Autocratization (V-Aut); "Democratic Resilience" and/or the continuous methodological developments related to measurement and analysis conducted at the institute. Applicants can read about these projects and download various documentation from <https://v-dem.net> under "Our Work/Research Projects".

In extension of this, the successful candidate is expected to be active in grants writing to support these and related initiatives. The successful candidate will also join the leadership of the institute and is expected to support the Director with taking on responsibilities with regards to one or more issues such as the long-term strategic planning, financial viability, data collection and curation, outreach, international collaborations (non-/academic), the annual Democracy Report.

In addition, the successful applicant is expected to teach and be an active member of the Department of Political Science, and to contribute to the daily activities of the V-Dem Institute as needed. Research is, however, guaranteed at a minimum of 50 percent of full time employment (FTE).

Eligibility (Minimum Requirements):

Eligibility for this position is stated in Chapter 4, subsec. 12 a, and 12 b of the Higher Education Ordinance and in the University of Gothenburg's Appointments Procedure for Teachers. Applicants with a doctorate in a subject area relevant to the position, or with equivalent competence, not older than five years at the conclusion of the application period, will be given primary consideration. Applicants who have obtained a doctorate earlier may also be considered if there are special reasons. Special reasons include leave of absence due to illness, service in the armed forces or other part of the national defense organization, commissions of trust within professional, union and student organizations, parental leave or other similar circumstances.

Assessment (Desired Qualifications):

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in comparative politics with a particular view towards areas of relevance to the research programs at the institute, and secondary on merits with regard to teaching.

Advanced comparative and quantitative research at high international level relevant for the study of democratic backsliding/autocratization or resilience, authoritarian regimes, democratization, political development and/or methodological developments related to research done at the institute (such as sequencing) or Bayesian IRT, is prioritized in the evaluation of applications.

Scientific skills as expressed in a well-developed proposal of high scientific quality, for a research project that falls within and preferably further develops on one of the existing research programs at the institute, is also highly meritorious.

One or more of the following skills are also meritorious:

- Leadership/working in a larger research and/or data team;
- Documented in-depth understanding of the V-Dem data and its curation, and;
- Outreach and policy advice based on research to non-academic organization.

Documented experience with teaching at under-/graduate level, including lectures, seminars, and advising on papers, is required. Candidates may be requested to demonstrate their teaching abilities.

The applicant should demonstrate resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to work together in different configurations. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement. We will make an overall assessment of the applicants' qualifications and potential with regards to the varying tasks, and select one judged to complement the rest of the team in the best way possible. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

Additional Information (Requirements for Tenure and Promotion):

An Assistant Professor/Associate Senior Lecturer is entitled to apply for promotion to Associate Professor/Senior Lecturer with tenure (in Swedish: "universitetslektor"), before the end of the fixed-term four-year employment. For promotion after the four years on tenure-track, the requirements for promotion in the subject area and the criteria of University of Gothenburg must be fulfilled. For this position, the following are additional requirements for promotion and tenure after the first four years:

- Significant advancement of high-quality research equivalent to at least another doctorate as published research findings addressing questions of the one or more of the research programs at the institute, in some combination of articles in leading international peer review journals, a book and/or a number of book chapters published by leading international press.
- University teacher's training (15 points worth in the Swedish system) or otherwise acquired equivalents including a demonstrated continuous development in teaching abilities, is a requirement for promotion.
- Service to the wider society is expected to be directed towards democracy-promoting actors in particular.
- Finally, the candidate must be able to demonstrate ability to teach political science courses in the Swedish language (as evidenced by actual teaching, or by Swedish advanced course certificate). For information, the university provides courses in Swedish and the department normally offers additional support for the acquisition of language.

The application for tenure and promotion must be submitted six months before the end of the employment time (i.e. latest 3.5 years after starting the position).

University of Copenhagen

Rank: Professorship in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Copenhagen (UCPH), invites excellent candidates for one or more full professorships in Comparative Politics.

The position is available from 1 October 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

Introduction

The Department is a top-ranked European Political Science department, which offers a vibrant, collegial and pluralist working environment for ambitious scholars.

The pluralism of Political Science in Copenhagen is evidenced in the various epistemological and methodological approaches as well as sub-fields adopted by faculty, as reflected in a wide range of core subjects in the MSc programme. The Department is located on an attractive, historic campus in central Copenhagen – a city continuously voted as one of the most liveable European capitals. Located in a capital the Department has a strong tradition for engagement in policy development and impact, and in national and international public debates.

The Department has some 2,200 students across its study programmes and welcomes annually approximately 200 exchange and guest students from abroad. See more on the Department's study programmes here: <https://politicalscience.ku.dk/study/>

The Department consists of some 70 faculty, 35 PhD students as well as administrative and support staff.

The successful candidates should represent the multifaceted and broad field of Comparative Politics. Applications are sought from eminent candidates who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact covering one or more of the following areas within the broader field of Comparative Politics: State-Building, Nation-Building, Democratization Political Institutions, Public Opinion, Political Behavior, Legislative Studies or Policy Analysis. Particular areas of interest include, but are not limited to, the analysis of democratic and/or non-democratic systems, climate change and environmental politics, and European Politics. Our ideal candidates combine qualifications to teach research methods (quantitative and/or qualitative) and political science with a research profile in one or more of the sub-fields mentioned above.

Research and teaching in the Department are methodologically and theoretically diverse. We expect candidates to be able and willing to engage in intellectual exchanges across various theories and topics within the discipline.

All successful candidates are expected to teach and supervise within the Department's educational programmes (see below) within Comparative Political Science or related fields, and to take actively part in the Danish and Comparative Politics Research Group. For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching. A professor also has administrative responsibilities and is expected to develop the field in synergy with other fields as well as to exercise academic leadership.

General duties attached to the position as Full Professor are:

Outstanding research within the area of Comparative Politics in one or more of the areas described above

High Quality teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate, graduate and PhD students

Administrative tasks related to the position of Full Professor

Knowledge exchange with broader society (societal impact)

Research and teaching management

Active contribution to the social and intellectual life of the Department

Project acquisition of external funding

Your Competencies and Opportunities

In order to be assessed qualified for a professor position at the University of Copenhagen, the candidate must meet the University's criteria of academic merit.

We expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching. In addition, we expect successful candidates at Full Professor level to engage in inter-faculty cooperation and initiatives (e.g. continuing and professional education) within the Faculty of Social Sciences.

Applicants for a Full Professorship must be able to document a very high degree of original scholarly production at international level and have a highly recognised international reputation.

You must meet these academic criteria in order to be assessed as qualified as professor at the University of Copenhagen.

You can read more about the criteria for recognising merit for professors jobportal.ku.dk/videnskabelige-stillinger/kriterier-for-videnskabelige-stillinger/dokumenter-til-meritering/5c\_Criteria\_for\_recognising\_merit\_-\_professors.pdf

The criteria apply for professor appointments at the University of Copenhagen. The assessment is based on these criteria guided by the specific requirements stated in the job advertisement and the material submitted by the applicant.

The assessment committee's assessments will be given in text form as an overall assessment within six main criteria areas. The criteria will be viewed as a framework for an overall assessment of whether the candidate is qualified for the position in relation to the job advertisement rather than as absolute criteria, which the applicant must meet in each case.

Research

Professors are internationally recognised researchers in their fields of expertise. Their research is influential and contributes to the development of their own subject area as well as more broadly:

An excellent research profile with leading international expertise in the subject area

An articulated vision and strategy for their subject area, also covering ties to adjacent areas

Significant influence on the subject area via many peer-reviewed publications across recognised journals and/or books or anthologies

Significant research impact through high research quality and/or many citations in recognised journals and/or books or anthologies

Participation in national and international scientific networks and conferences, including invitations to present research

Teaching

Professors provide research-based teaching of the highest quality in one or more disciplines and contribute to developing, organising and evaluating courses on all levels:

Extensive teaching experience, including examination work and acting as opponent of PhD theses or doctoral theses

Experience of supervising bachelor students, master's degree students, PhD students and/or postdocs

A teaching portfolio that documents teaching experience and reflections on teaching skills

Ongoing development of pedagogical and didactic skills, including own and others' practice in relation to teaching and supervision

Interest in including feedback from colleagues, students and others in the development of own teaching as well as mentoring of colleagues with the aim of developing their teaching practice

Societal impact

Professors interact with external partners and seek out new collaborations, communicate and generate knowledge that greatly benefits societal developments, e.g. by influencing the public debate within their field of research:

Considerable experience of communicating research to relevant stakeholders, including students

Frequent contributions to popular science communication

Strategic collaboration with private and/or public organisations and a significant network of external stakeholders

Organisational contribution

Professors take responsibility for developing an active academic environment, sit on assessment committees, councils, boards and committees at UCPH and contribute to enhancing the University's brand:

Membership of the department's formal forums, working groups and assessment committees and interest in joining councils, boards and committees at UCPH

A collegiate spirit and commitment to collaboration as well as strong relationship and conflict resolution skills

Development and management of interdisciplinary collaborations

External funding

Professors initiate grant application activities regarding research funds and obtain and manage funds:

Experience of applying for, obtaining and managing research funds

Leadership

Professors develop the subject area in synergy with other subject areas and exercise academic leadership, including the development of and delegation of responsibilities to junior researchers:

Experience of developing own academic leadership skills

Experience of academic leadership tasks, e.g. research, course or programme management

Responsibility for and contribution to well-being, collaboration, equal treatment, diversity and a good working environment

Strategy of the Faculty of the Social Sciences

The Department of Political Science is part of the Faculty of Social Sciences. The Faculty is a successful academic community that strives to put knowledge into action by:

Engaging partners in the co-creation of knowledge, learning and social change

Empowering our students to become reflective and responsible citizens who have the vision, the knowledge and the competences to change society for the better

Energising global, European and Danish communities of knowledge by innovating research methodologies and by research findings with impact

For more on the Faculty strategy, see: <https://socialsciences.ku.dk/faculty/strategy/>

You can read the Department's strategy here: <http://polsci.ku.dk/bilag/StrategiFinalVersion.pdf>

Terms of Employment

Employment with the Faculty of Social Sciences and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit. We do this by applying academic criteria of the University of Copenhagen which are related to the duties and conditions of each particular post and the needs of the Department concerned

The position is permanent, and therefore we strongly encourage the appointed professor to acquire the proficiency in Danish required to teach and interact with colleagues in that language in 3-6 years. The Department will provide and pay for the necessary language training. Further information on qualification requirements as professor can be found in the Memorandum on Job Structure for Academic Staff at Danish Universities 2019 here: https://employment.ku.dk/faculty/criteria-for-recognising-merit/dokumenter/Ministerial\_Order\_no.\_1443\_of\_11\_December\_2019\_on\_Job\_Structure\_for\_Academic\_Staff\_at\_Universities.pdf

Terms of appointment and salary is in accordance with the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations () (Akademikerne)

The salary is DKK 52,500 per month + a 17.1 % contribution to the pension scheme. It is possible to negotiate salary supplements on an annual basis

The recruitment process

Further information on the recruitment process at the University of Copenhagen can be found here: <https://employment.ku.dk/faculty/recruitment-process/>

An Equal Opportunity Workplace

The University of Copenhagen is committed in its pursuit of academic excellence to equality of opportunity and to creating an inclusive working environment and therefore encourages all qualified candidates to apply, regardless of personal background, gender, sexual orientation, age, disability, ethnicity etc. For more on the diverse working place environment at the University and the University's participation in the HRS4R HR Excellence in Research, see <https://employment.ku.dk/working-at-ucph/eu-charter-for-researchers/>

Introduction

The Department is a top-ranked European Political Science department, which offers a vibrant, collegial and pluralist working environment for ambitious scholars.

The pluralism of Political Science in Copenhagen is evidenced in the various epistemological and methodological approaches as well as sub-fields adopted by faculty, as reflected in a wide range of core subjects in the MSc programme. The Department is located on an attractive, historic campus in central Copenhagen – a city continuously voted as one of the most liveable European capitals. Located in a capital the Department has a strong tradition for engagement in policy development and impact, and in national and international public debates.

The Department has some 2,200 students across its study programmes and welcomes annually approximately 200 exchange and guest students from abroad. See more on the Department's study programmes here: <https://politicalscience.ku.dk/education/>.

The Department consists of some 70 faculty, 35 PhD students as well as administrative and support staff.

The successful candidates should represent the multifaceted and broad field of Comparative Politics. Applications are sought from eminent candidates who can enhance the Department's research, education and societal impact covering one or more of the following areas within the broader field of Comparative Politics: State-Building, Nation-Building, Democratization Political Institutions, Public Opinion, Political Behavior, Legislative Studies or Policy Analysis. Particular areas of interest include, but are not limited to, the analysis of democratic and/or non-democratic systems, climate change and environmental politics, and European Politics. Our ideal candidates combine qualifications to teach research methods (quantitative and/or qualitative) and political science with a research profile in one or more of the sub-fields mentioned above.

Research and teaching in the Department are methodologically and theoretically diverse. We expect candidates to be able and willing to engage in intellectual exchanges across various theories and topics within the discipline.

All successful candidates are expected to teach and supervise within the Department's educational programmes (see below) within Comparative Political Science or related fields, and to take actively part in the Danish and Comparative Politics Research Group. For more on the Department and its pluralistic academic environment, please consult our webpage: <http://politicalscience.ku.dk/about/>

Duties and Responsibilities

Duties and responsibilities of the post include contributing to the scholarship and intellectual life of the University by conducting world-class research and teaching.

General duties attached to the position as tenure-track assistant professor are:

Research within the area of Comparative Politics in one or more of the fields described above

Teaching, supervision and examination of undergraduate and graduate students

Administrative tasks

Knowledge exchange with wider society (societal impact)

Contribution to the social and intellectual life of the Department

Contribution to acquisition of external funding, or plans thereof

An assistant professor is also expected to develop competences and experience within research, teaching and dissemination. In time, the candidate should develop competences to attract funding within his/her specialist area. Finally, an assistant professor has administrative responsibilities.

Your Competencies and Opportunities

In order to be assessed qualified for a tenure-track assistant professor position at the University of Copenhagen, the candidate must meet the University's criteria of academic merit.

We expect candidates to present a clear, well-developed and viable strategy for future outstanding research that will result in further world-leading publications, external research funding as well as a commitment to innovate teaching.

You can read more about the criteria for recognising merit for assistant professors here:

https://jobportal.ku.dk/videnskabelige-stillinger/kriterier-for-videnskabelige-stillinger/dokumenter-til-meritering/5a\_Criteria\_for\_recognising\_merit\_-\_Assistant\_professors.pdf

Essential Qualifications

You must have a PhD in Political Science or equivalent academic qualifications, as well as:

An aspiration to increase our understanding of the world and its problems based on a proven record of outstanding research, as evidenced in a growing and ambitious publication profile that complements the existing research strengths of the Department and evidence of, or clear plans for attracting external research funding.

A commitment to contribute to delivering an excellent student experience based on a sizable track record of excellence in teaching in one or more of the main areas covered by the Department. The Department prefers candidates who can cover more than one of the main courses taught at BSc level.

An engagement in knowledge exchange and policy-impact in an international context and in Denmark. We encourage proactive engagement with government, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students.

Robust interpersonal skills which enables the candidate to be a constructive and empathic colleague in a diverse and vibrant working environment as well as an aptitude for working collaboratively with colleagues in planning and delivering teaching, in research projects and in the discharge of administrative duties.

Furthermore, the candidate must demonstrate a commitment to student learning, supporting student welfare and enhancing the student experience.

Strategy of the Faculty of the Social Sciences

The Department of Political Science is part of the Faculty of the Social Sciences. The Faculty is a successful academic community that strives to put knowledge into action by:

Engaging partners in the co-creation of knowledge, learning and social change

Empowering our students to become reflective and responsible citizens who have the vision, the knowledge and the competences to change society for the better

Energising global, European and Danish communities of knowledge by innovating research methodologies and by research findings with impact

For more on the Faculty strategy, see: <https://socialsciences.ku.dk/faculty/strategy/>. You can read the Department's strategy here <http://polsci.ku.dk/bilag/StrategiFinalVersion.pdf>.

Terms of Employment

Employment with the Faculty of Social Sciences and progression within employment will be determined only by personal merit. We do this by applying academic criteria of the University of Copenhagen which are related to the duties and conditions of each particular post and the needs of the Department concerned

As this is a tenure track position, and therefore we strongly encourage the appointed assistant professor to acquire the proficiency in Danish required to teach and interact with colleagues in that language in 3-6 years. The Department will provide and pay for the necessary language training

The successful candidate will have opportunities to receive course relief for curriculum development or scholarship.

The UIS Department of Political Science offers excellent academic preparation and opportunities to become engaged in real world politics for both undergraduate and graduate students. We offer undergraduate and graduate degrees in political science, majors in Public Policy and Global Studies, as well as a graduate degree in Public Affairs Reporting. Students also have the opportunity to receive a minor in political science and global studies. Several of these programs are fully online or on campus.

One of the largest departments in the College of Public Affairs and Administration, the UIS Political Science Department offers an opportunity for our students to live politics in the classroom, on the campus and in the community. Engaged political science makes the connections between the classroom and the world explicit as we challenge our students to both grasp the course material and explore how it has an impact outside of the classroom. The UIS Political Science Department bridges the worlds of the "academic" and "practical" by providing concrete opportunities for the practice of theory and the theory of practice. Since our Department seeks to grow a culture of inclusion and diversity, we encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented groups.

Campus: Located in the state capital, the University of Illinois Springfield is one of three campuses of the University of Illinois. The UIS campus serves approximately 5,100 students in 21 graduate and 24 undergraduate programs. The academic curriculum of the campus emphasizes a strong liberal arts core, an array of professional programs, extensive opportunities in experiential education, and a broad engagement in public affairs issues of the day. The campus offers many small classes, substantial student-faculty interaction, and a rapidly evolving technology enhanced learning environment. Its diverse student body includes traditional, non-traditional, and international students. Twenty-five percent of majors are in 17 undergraduate and graduate online degree programs and the campus has received several national awards for its implementation of online learning. UIS faculty are committed teachers, active scholars, and professionals in service to society. You are encouraged to visit the university web page at <http://www.uis.edu>, the department web page at <http://www.uis.edu/politicalscience/>.

Application: Candidates should submit the following to be considered: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) unofficial graduate transcripts, (4) a teaching portfolio that includes the candidate's teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and sample syllabi, (5) sample of scholarship, (6) email addresses for three professional letters of reference. ## University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click "Apply Now" at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Carleton College

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. All applications should be submitted to jobs.carleton.edu. Inquiries can be directed to pteiken@carleton.edu.

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

Job Title: Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science - Tenure Track

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

University of Chicago

Rank: Instructional Professor in the Committee on International Relations

Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Conflict Processes

Position Description

The Division of the Social Sciences at the University of Chicago invites applications for one or more positions as Instructional Professor (IP) in the Committee on International Relations (CIR). This is a full-time, career track teaching position. The initial two-year appointment will begin in Academic Year 2021-22 and is renewable with opportunity for promotion. Appointments at the Assistant, Associate, and full Instructional Professor rank will be considered.

CIR's Master of Arts program is organized around a hybrid academic/professional core curriculum that trains masters' students for a variety of research careers.

The IP will teach four to five courses per year. This may include multiple sections of a core seminar on International Security and Order. Priority will be given to candidates who are qualified to teach international security in innovative dialogue with scholarship on international law, the global environment, or political economy. Other courses must cover topics in any of our five field specializations: (1) International Security, Conflict Studies, and Contentious Politics; (2) International Political Economy and Development; (3) Comparative Studies in Institutions and Identity; (4) Human Rights, the Environment, and International Law; and (5) Research Methods in the Social Sciences.

Additional responsibilities may include advising MA theses; supporting the professional development of students; contributing to the design and delivery of the program's curricular and extra-curricular offerings; assisting with program admissions, staff hiring, and student recruitment.

The position includes support for professional development.

Qualifications

By September 1, 2021, applicants must have in hand a PhD in Political Science, Sociology, Public Policy, or a related discipline with research focus on International Relations. A demonstrated record of classroom experience is required. Experience teaching graduate students and advising undergraduate or graduate research projects is highly valued.

Application Instructions

Applicants must apply online at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at apply.interfolio.com/86908. The following materials must be submitted: 1) a cover letter, outlining the applicant's prior training in international relations, prior teaching and mentoring experience, and suggested course offerings in our MA program; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a teaching statement; 4) one syllabus from prior teaching and one draft core seminar syllabus; 5) course evaluations or other evidence of past excellence in teaching or mentoring; and 6) three letters of reference.

Review of applications will begin May 29, 2021, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed.

The position will be part of the Service Employees International Union.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

We seek a diverse pool of applicants who wish to join an academic community that places the highest value on rigorous inquiry and encourages diverse perspectives, experiences, groups of individuals, and ideas to inform and stimulate intellectual challenge, engagement, and exchange. The University's Statements on Diversity are at <https://provost.uchicago.edu/statements-diversity>.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-1032 or email equalopportunity@uchicago.edu with their request.

Lafayette College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Law invites applications for a one-year visiting position in Comparative Politics/International Relations. The position runs for academic year 2021-2022 and will be at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor if Ph.D. is in hand by the start date, or, for ABD, at the rank of Visiting Instructor. Teaching requirements include three courses each semester, and candidates should be prepared to teach Introduction to Comparative Politics, as well as intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise. Ability to teach Introduction to International Politics would be a plus. Though we welcome applications from across the comparative politics and international relations subfields, we are particularly interested in candidates with regional expertise in Africa, Latin America, or South Asia, and topical specialization in one or more of the following: migration and immigration; post-colonial studies and state formation; ethnic conflict and post-conflict processes; the politics of development.

Applications should include a letter of intent that contains a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. In the letter of intent, applicants should address the ways in which their teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will support Lafayette College's commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in the college's diversity statement (<https://diversity.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/>).

New York University Arts and Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi invites applications for a tenure-track/open-rank faculty appointment in Legal Studies, Social Science Division with appointment starting in August 2021 for the 2021-22 academic year.

We will consider applicants from legal scholars with an active research agenda in all areas of law, but we are especially interested in those whose research and teaching include international and comparative dimensions. We particularly welcome applications from female scholars as well as from members of traditionally underrepresented groups.

The undergraduate major in Legal Studies at NYU Abu Dhabi poses the broad philosophical, cultural, social, economic, political, religious, and ethical questions that prove indispensable both to a deep understanding of law and to liberal arts education. What is justice? What is Law? How is it organized? Who and what constitutes the arbiter of justice? What are the effects of historical, cultural, religious, and national settings on law and justice? Is the developing global society on the path to a just and moral order, and what role can the law play? What are the legal issues raised by global concerns such as those about the environment, technology, and trade?

The Legal Studies curriculum design responds, in part, to the increasing globalization of law through a consideration of issues such as climate change, the rule of law, international business, global governance, law and media, human rights, migration, technology and security, and law and ethics. At the same time, recognizing that law maintains a local focus, the curriculum treats the broad questions raised by globalization through the study of particular examples drawn from common law, continental law and other legal systems. The major in Legal Studies is intended as an approach to the study of law rooted in the liberal arts tradition. The integration of Legal Studies with liberal arts education enhances the opportunity for cross-disciplinary study. The Program in Legal Studies is situated within both the Social Sciences and the Arts and Humanities, and it thus aims to serve as a bridge between these divisions. The curriculum aspires to foster in students the readiness and ability to act in a truly human manner which entails qualities such as serving as an advocate for individual rights and as an artisan of the common good.

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a pioneer of higher education in a global world, dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, while advancing cooperation and progress on humanity's shared challenges. Part of the NYU global network, NYU Abu Dhabi offers an outstanding liberal arts and science education to students from the United Arab Emirates, United States, and around the world, focusing on intercultural understanding and leadership. It supports innovative research that pushes the frontiers of knowledge forward and responds in powerful and interdisciplinary ways to vital global and local questions. NYU Abu Dhabi advances NYU as a model university for the 21st century and contributes in multiple ways to the development of a sustainable, knowledge-based economy in Abu Dhabi.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion, belonging, and equity; such principles are fundamental to the university's commitment to excellence. Our faculty are the engines that sustain our inclusive environment; NYUAD students come from more than 115 countries, with no single one nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our faculty are highly diverse and community-minded: our modern campus is home to over 320 faculty who represent more than 45 different nationalities, all of whom bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. Research is advanced by over 400 highly qualified research staff, who are likewise drawn from all over the world.

As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students, and providing an intellectually rich environment. Students are drawn from around the globe, surpassing all traditional academic benchmarks. The NYU Abu Dhabi undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school appointments, and many other honors.

Working for NYUAD

A world-class institution deserves world-class benefits. ## U.S. Army War College

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

United States Army War College

Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies

Salary range: $80,153 – $117,284

Objective:

The United States Army War College seeks to fill the position of Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies in the Department of National Security and Strategy in the School of Strategic Landpower.

Context:

This is a fulltime, long-term, civilian faculty position at the United States Army's most senior institution for professional military education. Initial appointment may be for up to 4 years; the first two years are probationary; the academic rank of initial appointment will be commensurate with the applicant's level of experience. Appointments may be renewed. The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, US government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curriculum of theoretical and professional subjects, leading to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education.

Expectations:

The person selected for this position will have a leading role in planning, administering, and teaching the core course, "War, Policy, and National Security," as well as other core and elective courses of the resident education program and associated programs. They will serve as a faculty instructor for one seminar, advise students and serve as project advisor for student research projects. They will also engage in cutting-edge scholarship that advances knowledge in fields relevant to the curriculum; engage in service in support of USAWC missions. Other duties may include teaching regional studies courses and/or supporting the development and execution of the National Security Policy Program. The position comes with a generous compensation package as well as with the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.

Finally, the applicant must be able to obtain and maintain a security clearance from the US government.

Rewards and Compensation:

The person selected would find employment at the Army War College enjoyable, satisfying, and rewarding. They would have the benefit of working at an institution dedicated to his or her scholarly focus. Additionally, the person selected would sense the urgency of the mission, collegiality of the faculty, security of the military environment, quality and diversity of the student body, and climate of cooperation and teamwork. These defining features have long appealed to civilian faculty members who have worked at the Army War College for any length of time.

Compensation is dependent on the applicant's qualifications and professional experience. We are prepared to offer a salary-and-benefits package designed to attract highly talented applicants.

Qualifications:

In order to qualify, you must meet the education and/or experience requirements described below. Your curriculum vitae or résumé must clearly describe your relevant experience. Applicants will be rated based on the placement factors and Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs) listed below by a search committee appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Must have master's degree (required) in national security studies, international relations, government, political science, history, environmental security, regional studies, or related field. A PhD or other terminal degree is strongly preferred. Doctoral students within six months of completing the degree are eligible (and encouraged) to apply.

2. Must have an established record of superlative teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, or Senior Service College level. Experience at the graduate level is preferred.

3. Ability to prepare, teach, and lecture on subjects related to national security policy and strategy formulation, theories of war and strategy, and other subjects to include political economy, diplomacy, environmental security, or regional studies.

4. Record of scholarly research and publication—or evidence of great potential for such research and publication—in areas relevant to the curriculum, to include national security policy and strategy, international relations, political science, history, political economy, environmental security, regional studies, and the strategic use of military force (assurance, deterrence, coercion, and compellence).

Application:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below. Applications must be postmarked or e-dated by the closing date of this job announcement. Please include the job announcement number on the application.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

1. Letter of application addressing the required Knowledge, Skills and Abilities, as listed in the Qualifications section above.
2. Résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship (i.e., birth certificate, passport)
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages (Electronic format is preferred, as hard copies will not be returned without a self-addressed and metered envelope.)
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are permissible for initial submission of the application, but you must provide official college transcripts upon request.
6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection)
7. Documentation supporting any request for Veteran's Preference (such as a DD Form 214 or VA statement of disability)
8. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

Both paper and electronic submissions are acceptable, but the latter is strongly encouraged. The preferred method of submission is by e-mail with .pdf attachments. Please note that documents submitted as part of the application may be shared beyond the Human Resources Office. ### Dakota State University

Rank: Assistant Professor or Assistant Professor of Practice of International Relations and Intelligence

Dakota State University is seeking candidates for Assistant Professor of International Relations and Intelligence or Assistant Professor of Practice. This position can be either a one-year visiting, term, or a tenure-track appointment, depending on the candidate's interests and qualifications. This position will serve Dakota State University's interdisciplinary degree program in Cyber Leadership and Intelligence (CLI) that integrates digital security, the social sciences, and the humanities to give students a fuller appreciation of the knowledge and skills needed to be leaders in the rapidly expanding cyber and intelligence-related professions.

The position requires a Ph.D. or relevant experience in Political Science, International Relations, or related field, with a focus and research agenda on international relations and cyber-related affairs. We seek an expert grounded in the study of international policy-making, comparative politics, or the international breadth of cyber influence.

Primary duties include:

- Teaching undergraduate general education political science courses on campus and online
- Teaching International Relations and related courses on campus and online
- Advising CLI majors
- Coordinating and working with other CLI faculty members
- Recruiting and promoting the major to potential students
- Researching and publishing relevant scholarship
- Networking with scholars and professionals to secure internships and post-graduate opportunities for CLI students

DSU is nationally known for its computer science, cyber operations, and network security programs, and is recognized by the National Security Agency and the Department of Homeland Security as a Center of Academic Excellence in cyber education, cyber research, and cyber operations, and is a CAE Regional Resource Center. The CLI program complements those degrees and enables its graduates to become leaders in their professions. Housed in the College of Arts and Sciences, CLI includes the disciplines of political science, sociology, history, geography, economics, communications, philosophy, digital forensics, business, and cyber operations. The university's Madison Cyber Labs, or MadLabs, is a center for a wide variety of student and faculty research, and is building partnerships with a wide variety of public and private agencies. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to collaborate with other scholars on relevant cyber security and intelligence-related projects.

For full consideration, please submit all materials by April 30, 2021. The search will remain open until the position is filled.

DSU accepts applications through an on-line employment site. To apply, visit <https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu>. The employment site will require the attachment of a cover letter, curriculum vita, unofficial copy of the most recent degree transcript, and supporting references, including addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of at least three references.

DSU is located in Madison, South Dakota in the southern lakes region of the state. The region boasts a wealth of outdoor sports and a life-style possible only in smaller towns and rural communities. Madison is just a 50-minute drive from Sioux Falls, the largest city in South Dakota.

Dakota State employees receive a comprehensive and flexible benefits package including paid time off, health and retirement benefits, and life and disability insurance options. Other benefits include reduced tuition, longevity pay and training opportunities. DSU also provides professional liability coverage.

University of Macau

Rank: Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations)

Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science

(Ref. No.: FSS/DGPA/IR/AAP/03/2021)

The University of Macau (UM) is the only public comprehensive university in Macao. Leveraging this unique advantage, UM aims to establish itself as a world-class university with regional characteristics. English is its working language. In recent years, UM has seen a significant development in and a rising international recognition for its teaching, research, and community service. It has implemented a unique '4-in-1' education model that integrates discipline-specific education, general education, research and internship education, and community and peer education. Combining this model with the largest residential college system in Asia, UM provides all-round education to students. In addition, it recruits outstanding scholars from around the world to create a multilingual and multicultural learning environment for students. With the development of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area, and the new initiatives of the university to boost cutting-edge research and interdisciplinary programmes, UM embraces unprecedented opportunities for development, and offers bright career prospect to professionals in different areas.

The Department of Government and Public Administration of the Faculty of Social Sciences is inviting applications for academic positions at the rank of Associate/Assistant Professor in the discipline of international relations. The Department offers programmes leading to Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees. More information about the Department is available at the UM website: <http://www.um.edu.mo/fss/pa/>.

Qualifications

The required area of specialization is international relations. The applicants must have solid training in international relations theories and research methods in international relations. Research interest in Europe, the Global South, Sino-European relations, and/or China's relations with Portuguese speaking countries is a plus. Appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, and in a rare case the rank of

Associate Professor could be considered, depending on qualifications. Applicants must have a PhD in a relevant field and a proven record of publication in high calibre international journals and presses. Applicants should document excellence in high quality research and scholarship. They should also demonstrate strong commitment to teaching courses in international relations theories, research methods in international relations, international security, international development, international political economy, etc. at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in English. They are also required to provide quality supervision of student research projects and theses at the UG, Master, and PhD levels.

The selected candidate is expected to assume duty in August 2021.

Remuneration

A taxable annual remuneration starting from MOP828,100 (approximately USD102,230) will be commensurate with the successful applicants' academic qualification and relevant professional experience. The current local maximum income tax rate is 12% but is effectively around 5% - 7% after various discretionary exemptions. Apart from competitive remuneration, UM offers a wide range of benefits, such as medical insurance, provident fund, on campus accommodation/housing allowance and other subsidies. Further details on our package are available at: <https://career.admo.um.edu.mo/learn-more/>.

Application Procedure

Applicants should visit <https://career.admo.um.edu.mo/> for more details, and apply ONLINE. Review of applications will commence immediately and continue until the position is filled. The successful candidate will have opportunities to receive course relief for curriculum development or scholarship.

The UIS Department of Political Science offers excellent academic preparation and opportunities to become engaged in real world politics for both undergraduate and graduate students. We offer undergraduate and graduate degrees in political science, majors in Public Policy and Global Studies, as well as a graduate degree in Public Affairs Reporting. Students also have the opportunity to receive a minor in political science and global studies. Several of these programs are fully online or on campus.

One of the largest departments in the College of Public Affairs and Administration, the UIS Political Science Department offers an opportunity for our students to live politics in the classroom, on the campus and in the community. Engaged political science makes the connections between the classroom and the world explicit as we challenge our students to both grasp the course material and explore how it has an impact outside of the classroom. The UIS Political Science Department bridges the worlds of the “academic” and “practical” by providing concrete opportunities for the practice of theory and the theory of practice. Since our Department seeks to grow a culture of inclusion and diversity, we encourage applications from members of historically underrepresented groups.

Campus: Located in the state capital, the University of Illinois Springfield is one of three campuses of the University of Illinois. The UIS campus serves approximately 5,100 students in 21 graduate and 24 undergraduate programs. The academic curriculum of the campus emphasizes a strong liberal arts core, an array of professional programs, extensive opportunities in experiential education, and a broad engagement in public affairs issues of the day. The campus offers many small classes, substantial student-faculty interaction, and a rapidly evolving technology enhanced learning environment. Its diverse student body includes traditional, non-traditional, and international students. Twenty-five percent of majors are in 17 undergraduate and graduate online degree programs and the campus has received several national awards for its implementation of online learning. UIS faculty are committed teachers, active scholars, and professionals in service to society. You are encouraged to visit the university web page at <http://www.uis.edu>, the department web page at <http://www.uis.edu/politicalscience/>.

Application: Candidates should submit the following to be considered: (1) curriculum vitae, (2) cover letter, (3) unofficial graduate transcripts, (4) a teaching portfolio that includes the candidate’s teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and sample syllabi, (5) sample of scholarship, (6) email addresses for three professional letters of reference. ## University of Southern California

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar - Research Associate

The Center for International Studies in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (USC; Los Angeles, California) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship in the 2021–22 academic year. The fall semester starts in the third week of August 2021.

We seek applicants with (a) a strong research profile in comparative and/or international political economy, with a preference for security or climate change expertise; and (b) a demonstrated commitment to conducting cutting-edge research targeted at the top journals and university presses in political science and/or international relations.

The Center has a preference for selecting candidates who have an interest in engaging affiliated faculty in USC’s Department of Political Science and International Relations (POIR), including scholars specializing in:

- The international political economy of security, broadly defined
- Environment, inequality, and redistributive conflicts in global comparative perspective; climate change policy preferences; political economy of state capacity with relation to climate issues

Postdoctoral fellows will also have an option to affiliate with one of two labs within POIR. USC’s Security and Political (SPEC) Lab, which conducts interdisciplinary, policy-relevant research on issues at the intersection of climate change, security, and economic development. This lab applies the Stewardship Model of Mentoring to providing experiential research education to undergraduate students and works particularly hard to recruit first-generation college students, minority students, and other members of other underrepresented groups. Alternatively or additionally, the fellow will also have the option to affiliate with a newly forming Inequality Lab with Professor Allison Hartnett.

If a postdoctoral fellow is interested in affiliating with the SPEC Lab and engaging in mentorship, the Lab is prepared to fund a team of undergraduate research assistants supporting the fellow’s research.

During their year at USC, the postdoctoral fellow will pursue their own research agenda, but we are seeking to recruit an emerging scholar whose research interests are such that mutually beneficial collaboration with POIR faculty and/or doctoral students will yield the following benefits:

- One or more co-authored papers with POIR faculty and/or doctoral students
- Broad intellectual engagement and knowledge transfer between the postdoctoral fellow and the CIS/POIR research community
- Strong research productivity and professional growth for the postdoctoral fellow

Applicants must be junior scholars who have received a PhD within the last three years (and no later than August 1, 2021).

Applications should be complete by March 15, 2021, to receive fullest consideration. Applicants are required to complete the online application process (with few exceptions—such as published books—materials submitted by regular post will not be accepted).

Bucknell University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor (International Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position in international relations beginning in the fall semester of 2021. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach sections of a core course in international politics and sections of a course in introductory quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential for teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in political science with a subfield specialization in international relations.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations if available, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. Applications received by March 19, 2021 will receive full consideration.

About Bucknell

Bucknell University is a private, highly ranked, primarily undergraduate, national liberal arts institution that also offers strong professional programs in engineering, management, education, and music.

Bucknell University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The university believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. Applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education are encouraged.

Bucknell is committed to creating a climate that fosters inclusion, growth, and development for a diverse student body, and seeks candidates who are also committed these goals.

Bucknell is committed to supporting the teacher-scholar model of faculty development. With a student-faculty ratio of about 9:1, small class sizes are a hallmark of the Bucknell educational experience. The university sponsors a range of activities to support the development of its faculty, including a Teaching-Learning Center and generous research support and leave policies.

Bucknell is located in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, on the banks of the Susquehanna River. The Lewisburg area offers a combination of outdoor recreation opportunities and small-town amenities. In addition to the cultural and athletic events offered at the University and in town, the region offers strong schools and medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is about three hours from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Bentley University

Rank: Lecturer, International Relations

The Global Studies Department at Bentley University invites applications for a full-time Lecturer with expertise in International Relations and International Organizations to begin July 2021. The successful candidate will also have the ability to teach undergraduate introductory courses in globalization, comparative politics or US politics. We are seeking a colleague with a strong commitment to excellence in teaching, and who employs innovative, active and experiential pedagogies. This non-tenure track position carries an eight-course teaching load (undergraduate level) during the contract year.

While not required, we particularly welcome applications from candidates with knowledge of issues of race, ethnicity, migration, and/or social inequalities. We also seek applicants whose teaching, service or research has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and inclusion in higher education, and who are interested in working with students outside the classroom.

The successful candidate will be asked to contribute to enhancing our two departmental majors - International Affairs and Public Policy - and to complement the department's existing strengths, which are grounded in political science, geography and cultural studies.

Founded in 1917, Bentley University is a private, business-focused university with a strong commitment to the arts and sciences. An AACSB and EQUIS accredited institution, Bentley enrolls approximately 5,500 students at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. Bloomberg ranks Bentley in the top 10 undergraduate business programs in the United States, and in the top 100 places to obtain an MBA. U.S. News & World Report ranked Bentley as 1st in the Best Regional Universities-North category. Located in Waltham, Massachusetts, Bentley is on the doorstep of one of the nation's leading cities. With over 35 colleges and universities, the greater Boston area is a vibrant place to work and live.

Minimum Qualifications

Candidates must demonstrate dedication to excellence in teaching, and we prefer candidates with classroom experience.

Ph.D. required. Requirements for the doctoral degree must be confirmed prior to the start of the fall 2021 semester.

Instructions to Applicants

Applicants submit all application materials through Bentley's on-line employment site at <https://bentley.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/faculty>.

Applications should include a letter of interest, CV, and a teaching statement that includes the applicant's approach to diversity and inclusion in the classroom. Names and contact information for three references are required upon application. Bentley will contact these confidential references for those candidates moving forward in the process.

Questions about the position can be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Prof. Jeff Gulati, jgulati@bentley.edu.

Position will remain open until filled. However, priority consideration will be given to applications received by February 1, 2021.

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with expertise in the politics of development, broadly defined. The department has a strong preference for an area concentration in either Africa or the Middle East, which will complement its existing strengths in the politics of Asia, Europe, and Latin America. The position, to begin in 2021-2022 academic year, is intended to meet and expand curricular goals within the major; to broaden the department's research expertise; and to contribute to interdisciplinary initiatives in the School of Arts and Sciences and to the University of Richmond's mission of "preparing students for responsible leadership in a diverse world." More specifically, the position carries a 3-2 teaching load consisting of a regular offering of a survey course on the politics of development. Other courses would relate to the faculty's regional specialization, with particular preference for courses on the politics of Africa and/or the Middle East. The new hire would also share responsibility for teaching the department's ongoing offerings of Introduction to Comparative Politics and/or Introduction to International Relations and, as schedule permits, contribute to departmental First Year Seminar (FYS) offerings.

Applicants must either hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation by August 1, 2021. Applicants should apply online at <https://richmond.csod.com/ats/careersite/JobDetails.aspx?site=1&cid=2062>.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the department and its programs, please see <https://polisci.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should click &quot;Apply Now&quot; at the top of the page and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter containing a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and indicating commitment to the teacher-scholar model, and separate research and teaching statements. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, experience and goals. It should also address commitment to inclusive pedagogy and to fostering thriving and inclusive intercultural community, as outlined in the President's Making Excellence Inclusive report (<https://president.richmond.edu/inclusive-excellence/report-pdfs/making-excellence-inclusive-final-report-2019.pdf>). In addition, please include copies of academic transcripts. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on October 1, 2020 and continue until the position is filled.

Please address any questions about the application to Dr. Jennifer Erkulwater (jerkulwa@richmond.edu), Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Richmond, Richmond, VA 23173.

Catholic University of Chile

Rank: Full-Time Tenure-Track Position in Political Science (Research Methods)

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in Political Science (Research Methods). The ICP values diversity and consequently welcomes applications from colleagues of any gender, nationality, ethnicity, and religion.

The ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in Latin America. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A. and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, hosting a large number of exchange students as well as a steady stream of visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area and a short drive from Chile's renowned Pacific coast and spectacular Andean mountain range.

ICP seeks applicants who work in one or more of the following areas: surveys, experiments, causal inference, and/or statistical modelling. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high quality research, publication and teaching. The teaching load, limited to three courses per year, will include methods courses at the undergraduate, M.A., and Ph.D. levels. Candidates will also be expected to contribute to the supervision of undergraduate and doctoral theses.

Fluency in Spanish is valued, but candidates who express a willingness to perfect intermediate proficiency are encouraged to apply. The ICP offers financial support for language classes and courses may initially be taught in English. Salary is competitive and complemented by research grants, travel stipends, and support for international exchanges. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science (or its equivalent). ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date.

Applications should include a personal letter, curriculum vitae and a writing sample (journal article, book or dissertation chapter) that provides evidence of research performance. Research and teaching statements are desirable. High impact publications that apply knowledge of quantitative methods to substantive political science topics will be valued and applicants are expected to be advanced users of statistical software. Applicants should also include teaching evaluations and course syllabi to assess teaching potential, graduate transcripts, an official copy of their B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to Francisco Urdinez (searchicp@uc.cl), Chair of the Search Committee until May 31st, 2021.

The position begins March 2022.

New York University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate (CTL)

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Economic Policy

Postdoctoral Associate To Work on Causal Inference Modeling for the Cash Transfer Lab (CTL) at New York University.

The postdoctoral associate will be a part of the Cash Transfer Lab at NYU. The lab's initial focus will be on a cash transfer that has been made annually to every Alaskan resident since 1982, the Permanent Fund Dividend. The amount of the transfer varies year-to-year and is arguably exogenous. The generic way to conceptualize this is as a continually treated population whose dosage varies independently from year to year. More generally, the lab seeks to better understand how to rigorously estimate causal effects of UBI programs worldwide.

CTL will adopt a hub and spoke model. The hub is an intellectual infrastructure that can support and lower the barrier to entry for research on substantive areas (the spokes). The primary job of the postdoctoral associate is to build this causal inference modeling infrastructure.

You will report to Dr. Sarah K. Cowan, CTL Founder and Executive Director and Assistant Professor of Sociology at NYU and Dr. Jennifer Hill, Professor of Applied Statistics and Data Science at NYU.

Responsibilities may include, but are not limited to:

Writing a peer reviewed journal article on approaches to this case

Developing new approaches to identifying causal effects

Writing code/packages to implement developed approaches

Advising applied research teams on their approaches

This position will begin as early as May 15, 2021. It will be remote at least until September 1, 2021. After that point, we will be flexible with regard to whether the position is remote, in-person or hybrid based on the state of the pandemic as well as individual needs.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in any one of the following fields: Statistics, Applied Statistics, Biostatistics, Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Demography, Public Health or a closely related discipline. Ph.D. must be completed by September 2021.

Application Instructions

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/85237> to apply. To apply for this position, please submit a CV, two writing samples that are either sole-authored or you took the lead on analysis and associated code. Please also provide the names and contact information for three references to whom we will reach out for finalists. We are not asking for a cover letter or research statement. Finalists will also be given a short assignment and be invited to interview. Review of applications will begin on March 29th.

Texas Christian University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a one-year lecturer position in Research Methods for the 2021-22 academic year. Preference will be given to candidates who will have completed the Ph.D. in Political Science and have demonstrated the capacity for excellence in the classroom and success as a teacher-scholar. The successful candidate will have a 4/4 teaching load, and the salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, CV, transcript, a portfolio of teaching materials (including a teaching philosophy statement and a sample syllabus in an upper-level methods course), and a one-page diversity statement. All materials are to be submitted online at <https://jobs.tcu.edu/en-us/listing/>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent by recommenders or dossier service to hralentacquisition@tcu.edu. The finalists for the position will be asked either to submit a video of a teaching demonstration in front of students (approximately 45 minutes in length) or will be asked to give a teaching demonstration during an interview.

We will review applications on receipt and will continue until the position is filled. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the Department of Political Science may be directed to search committee chair, Dr. Grant Ferguson, grant.ferguson@tcu.edu

A selective teaching and research university with 10,000 students, TCU is a private, secular institution committed to academic freedom located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth, the 13th largest city in the United States and part of the nation's fourth-largest metropolitan area, is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities, and has easy access to a major international airport. TCU has been recognized for nine consecutive years as one of the "Great Colleges to Work For" by The Chronicle of Higher Education. The TCU Political Science Department has sixteen full-time faculty with nearly 400 majors.

Carleton College

Specializations: Asian American Politics, China, East Asia

The Carleton College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin September 1, 2021. We are specifically interested in candidates who have regional expertise in Chinese politics and prefer candidates who can speak both to domestic dynamics as well as China's role in a broader Asian and/or global context. Successful candidates should be able to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics (including the introductory course) as well as offer instruction in research methods (qualitative and/or quantitative). The standard teaching load is five courses spread across three trimesters. The ideal candidate will also be interested in contributing to a vibrant college-wide culture of undergraduate research and have a commitment to attracting and retaining students from underserved groups. A PhD in hand or its imminent completion is required.

Carleton is a highly selective liberal arts college with a student body of approximately 2,000, located in the historic and thriving town of Northfield, Minnesota. We are in commuting distance of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, whose greater metro area has a diverse population of three million people and a rich variety of cultural resources. The Political Science Department strives to introduce students—majors and non-majors alike—to a broad array of theoretical and philosophical perspectives while equipping them with the necessary analytic skills to engage with an increasingly diverse world and contribute constructively to one's community. For further information about the department, please consult the department website at carleton.edu/political-science.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, and a statement about teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment and how you would contribute to a college community that embraces a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. We also require a statement about research interests, one scholarly writing sample and contact information for three letters of reference. ## Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA)
 Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE)

Job Type: Full-Time

Job Summary: The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant or associate (non-tenured) professor. The employment starts in Fall semester of 2021. The openings are in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, and political theory. Candidates who have a research focus on issues of public policy are strongly encouraged to apply for the positions. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods, either quantitative or qualitative, to answer important theoretical questions in the field. Although the working environment in SUFE is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is highly preferred.

The position is a full-time appointment for a period of six years. A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years of employment. The tenure-track faculty are expected to publish research on highly reputable international journals, offer high-quality teaching to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to the development of political science at SUFE. The rules of evaluation and promotion are standardized at the university and similar to those for tenure positions in a regular American university.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The starting salary is 380,000 RMB for entry-level appointment, pending university approval. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (240K RMB housing subsidy, medical insurance, moving expenses, startup fund, and travel grants) per university regulation.

Institution background: Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 200 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has 20 faculty members who own overseas Ph.D. degrees. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars trained overseas. The university has decided to establish and develop a strong political science program in the Thirteenth Five-Year Plan. The newly established Institute of Political Science has eight members who hold a Ph.D. degree from overseas.

Application documents: Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list;
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. And names and contact information of three references.

The deadline for accepting applications is September 31, 2020, for this round of recruitment. We will arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews such as Skype and Wechat during November and December 2020.

Contact: Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

NON-ACADEMIC

Krea University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

Specializations: Economic Policy, India, Political Economy

Who We Are:

Inclusion Economics India at Krea University (formerly EPoD India at IFMR) works in close collaboration with Yale's Economic Growth Center and MacMillan Center. Drawing upon economics, political science, and related fields, we conduct cutting-edge research to understand how policy can promote inclusive, accountable economies and societies. Our core research focuses on gender as it relates to labor economics and broader economic empowerment; political economy and governance; and environmental economics. We also aim to build a culture of evidence and increase data literacy in the public sector, strengthening leaders' ability to identify and implement evidence-informed policies. Throughout the research life cycle, we engage closely with policy counterparts to ensure we address questions of immediate relevance, and we regularly communicate data-driven insights with policy counterparts and the general public.

The Role:

We are currently recruiting one or more Post-Doctoral Research Fellows to support our research in India. Final portfolio allocations will depend on candidates' interest, experience, and skillset; ideal candidates have experience and research in one of our core focus areas listed above. The position will provide the selected candidate(s) an opportunity to gain first-hand experience conducting policy-relevant economics research while contributing to an agreed upon project portfolio.

Responsibilities within the project portfolio include supporting research design and implementation, overseeing data collection and analysis, interacting with stakeholders, and managing research activities and staff. This position requires a self-starting candidate with proven expertise in applied economics research who can effectively navigate India's institutional landscape and appropriately represent our work to outside stakeholders. The position will provide a talented early career researcher the opportunity to work directly with top academics and begin building their own research portfolio.

Responsibilities:

- Manage and supervise technical aspects of assigned research studies in collaboration with the research team.
- Oversee field-based team to manage research study activities, including intervention implementation, and contribute to field-based scoping, survey design, survey testing, data quality monitoring, and more.
- Clean and process incoming or secondary data and conduct econometric analysis under the direction of senior researchers.
- Manage relationships with collaborating institutions, including policy counterparts and funding organizations; work with partner institutions and governments to set priorities and coordinate project administration and logistics.

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Professor of Legal Studies – Tenure track (Open Rank)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi invites applications for a tenure-track/open-rank faculty appointment in Legal Studies, Social Science Division with appointment starting in August 2021 for the 2021-22 academic year.

We will consider applicants from legal scholars with an active research agenda in all areas of law, but we are especially interested in those whose research and teaching include international and comparative dimensions. We particularly welcome applications from female scholars as well as from members of traditionally underrepresented groups.

The undergraduate major in Legal Studies at NYU Abu Dhabi poses the broad philosophical, cultural, social, economic, political, religious, and ethical questions that prove indispensable both to a deep understanding of law and to liberal arts education. What is justice? What is Law? How is it organized? Who and what constitutes the arbiter of justice? What are the effects of historical, cultural, religious, and national settings on law and justice? Is the developing global society on the path to a just and moral order, and what role can the law play? What are the legal issues raised by global concerns such as those about the environment, technology, and trade?

The Legal Studies curriculum design responds, in part, to the increasing globalization of law through a consideration of issues such as climate change, the rule of law, international business, global governance, law and media, human rights, migration, technology and security, and law and ethics. At the same time, recognizing that law maintains a local focus, the curriculum treats the broad questions raised by globalization through the study of particular examples drawn from common law, continental law and other legal systems. The major in Legal Studies is intended as an approach to the study of law rooted in the liberal arts tradition. The integration of Legal Studies with liberal arts education enhances the opportunity for cross-disciplinary study. The Program in Legal Studies is situated within both the Social Sciences and the Arts and Humanities, and it thus aims to serve as a bridge between these divisions. The curriculum aspires to foster in students the readiness and ability to act in a truly human manner which entails qualities such as serving as an advocate for individual rights and as an artisan of the common good.

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a pioneer of higher education in a global world, dedicated to excellence in teaching and research, while advancing cooperation and progress on humanity's shared challenges. Part of the NYU global network, NYU Abu Dhabi offers an outstanding liberal arts and science education to students from the United Arab Emirates, United States, and around the world, focusing on intercultural understanding and leadership. It supports innovative research that pushes the frontiers of knowledge forward and responds in powerful and interdisciplinary ways to vital global and local questions. NYU Abu Dhabi advances NYU as a model university for the 21st century and contributes in multiple ways to the development of a sustainable, knowledge-based economy in Abu Dhabi.

NYUAD values diversity, inclusion, belonging, and equity; such principles are fundamental to the university's commitment to excellence. Our faculty are the engines that sustain our inclusive environment; NYUAD students come from more than 115 countries, with no single one nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our faculty are highly diverse and community-minded: our modern campus is home to over 320 faculty who represent more than 45 different nationalities, all of whom bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. Research is advanced by over 400 highly qualified research staff, who are likewise drawn from all over the world.

As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students, and providing an intellectually rich environment. Students are drawn from around the globe, surpassing all traditional academic benchmarks. The NYU Abu Dhabi undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school appointments, and many other honors.

University of Toronto

Rank: Director, Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy

Director, Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy, Toronto, Ontario

The University of Toronto is now accepting nominations and applications for the position of Director, Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy. Since its establishment in 2010, the Munk School has emerged as a vibrant and internationally renowned leader in research, teaching, dialogue, and debate on matters of global affairs and public policy.

A professional, degree-granting, interdisciplinary school within the Faculty of Arts and Science, the Munk School is home to world-renowned researchers and more than 50 academic centres, labs, and programs. Over 1,200 students are enrolled in 20 undergraduate and graduate teaching programs, 40 faculty are appointed at the Munk School, and more than 200 cross-appointed and affiliated faculty are engaged in teaching and research. The School has strengths in areas of focus relating to the digital world, the political economy of innovation, the changing world order, and the future of democratic societies, as well as strengths in the study of world regions and countries, including Asia, Europe, Eurasia, and the United States.

The Director of the Munk School will be an aspirational leader who shares the School's commitment to advancing practical and scholarly insights of social, economic, and political significance. A recognized scholar or public intellectual in a pertinent field, the Director will champion disciplinary excellence, interdisciplinary exchange, and the co-production of knowledge and co-design of research with both academic and non-academic partners. The Director will prioritize diversity, understand its value, and foster inclusive excellence.

The Director will lead the Munk School in advancing its intellectual and public agendas, further integrating its constituent elements, and building upon its domestic and international partnerships. Possessing a broad worldview, a global network, and compelling communication skills, the Director will identify and realize opportunities that sustain and support the development of programs, faculty, research, students, staff, and impact. The Director will reach out within and beyond the School to promote an engaged, interconnected culture of experimentation, in which the Munk School's many disciplines and constituents realize opportunities for collaboration that further enhance its international stature and reputation. Public-spirited and values-driven, the Director will deepen the Munk School's engagement with the world.

Fully committed to teaching, research, and student wellbeing as complementary facets of scholastic achievement, U of T is consistently ranked among the top 20 universities in the world for research, teaching, and innovation, and among the world's top 10 public institutions. The University encompasses 18 Faculties and Schools, more than 100 departments, and 170 research centres and institutes. Its teaching programs are delivered on the historic St. George campus in the heart of Toronto, on campuses in Mississauga and Scarborough, and in nine fully affiliated teaching hospitals. With approximately 22,000 faculty and staff, some 93,000 students, and an annual operating budget approaching $3 billion, the University contributes $15.7 billion to the Canadian economy each year. Alumni include many thousands of distinguished researchers, teachers, creative artists, prominent federal, provincial, and municipal politicians, global business leaders, and eminent philanthropists. The University has identified enhancing undergraduate education, deepening international collaboration, and leveraging the University's position in the Greater Toronto Area – one of the world's most diverse urban regions – as the University's top three strategic priorities.

Regularly named one of Canada's Top 100 Employers and one of Canada's Best Diversity Employers, the University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ2S+ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission. The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities. If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact acadhr.artsci@utoronto.ca.

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Pre- or Post-doctoral Fellowship: Structural Racism, Oppression, or the Black Political Experience

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a 1-year (renewable) pre- or post-doctoral fellowship. Sub-field specialization is open, and we welcome and encourage applications from scholars whose work addresses structural racism, oppression, or the Black political experience conceived comparatively, domestically, or transnationally. We are interested in scholars researching topics including racial oppression and racialized inequalities and hierarchies in political economy, in international and transnational politics, in political behavior, in global or domestic institutions (of the US or other countries) – as well as any other topic related to our theme (including inequalities in cities, health, education, and technology).

This position complements a proposed multi-year cluster hiring initiative within the Department, to begin this fall (pending final budgetary approval), in coordination with a larger cluster hiring initiative on Race, Representation, and Anti-Black and Systemic Racism within the Dietrich School of Arts and Sciences, supported by a University-wide hiring and retention effort.

Post-doctoral fellows will be asked to teach 1 course each semester related to their research and expertise (the same course may be offered in both semesters). Pre-doctoral fellows will teach in the spring semester only. Fellows are expected to be in residence, to conduct their own research, and to contribute to the intellectual life of the department. The Department will provide mentoring, professional development, and research support, along with a competitive salary and benefits.

Required qualifications for a post-doctoral appointment: applicants have or expect to have a Ph.D. in Political Science (or a cognate discipline) in hand before the appointment begins, research interests related to race and racism, as defined above, and demonstrated ability or potential to publish high-quality scholarship. For a pre-doctoral appointment: applicants must be ABD in Political Science (or a cognate discipline), have research interests related to race and racism, potential to publish high-quality scholarship, and should expect to defend their dissertations by August 31, 2022.

Applications should include a cover letter explaining how the candidate's research relates to the area of focus, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and a teaching statement that explains the candidate's teaching philosophy and describes course the candidate proposes to teach (proposed courses need not be limited to already existing courses within the Department), teaching evaluations (if available), and two letters of reference; letters of reference should be emailed to Wynn Maloney (wynn2@pitt.edu).

Please apply online at: https://cfopitt.taleo.net/careersection/pitt\_faculty\_external\_pd/jobsearch.ftl?lang=en&portal=24100023232. Search "Keyword" 21002528.

In order to ensure full consideration, applications must be received by May 10 2021, and the review of applications will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu.

The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EOE, including disability/vets.

University of Copenhagen

Rank: PhD scholarships at the Department of Political Science

Applications are invited for PhD scholarships at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen. Enrolment will be at the Faculty of Social Sciences under Copenhagen Graduate School of Social Sciences.

The position starting date is 1 September 2021.

Introduction

At the Department of Political Science, we strive to explore the present and shape the future by educating PhD students at the highest academic level. This we do by creating a pluralistic and engaging research environment that brings together PhD students, researchers and the surrounding society in innovative ways. Daily life at the Department reflects the easy-going nature of life in Copenhagen. Faculties interact with students and each other in a relaxed atmosphere that invites deliberation. Here researchers can share experience and insights, and experiment with combining approaches and bridging gaps on an interdisciplinary level.

In line with this, the 2019 international evaluation panel concluded that the Political Science Department offers outstanding resources as well as a collegial work and research environment to its PhD fellows. PhDs highlighted that they feel accepted and respected as staff, that they have resources to fund research trips as well as opportunities to invite scholars to offer additional PhD training and that they are part of a research environment in which critical feedback is offered in a supportive way. The PhD scholars are comparatively well paid as a PhD student is regarded as a member of faculty holding a full time job.

The PhD programme provides PhD students with strong research training, which opens up a window of opportunity to a variety of careers within the private and public sectors. The programme includes the drafting of a PhD thesis, active participation in research networks, PhD courses, teaching, and other forms of knowledge dissemination.

The PhD programme can be undertaken as a three year full-time study within the framework of the 5+3 study programme, or as a four year full-time study programme within the framework of the 4+4 study programme.

Duties and Responsibilities

Further information about the PhD study programme is available on the website of Copenhagen Graduate School of Social Sciences:

<https://samf.ku.dk/phd-skolen/english/>

<https://samf.ku.dk/phd-skolen/>

Under “Legal basis” on the website you will find information about the rules and guidelines for the PhD programme and the Danish Ministerial Order on the PhD programme at the Universities.

Information about the PhD study programme is also available on the PhD website of the Department of Political Science.

Applications

The University of Copenhagen wishes to reflect the surrounding society, and invites all qualified applicants, regardless of personal background, to apply for the positions

In order to be awarded a PhD scholarship the applicant has to enroll as a PhD student at the Faculty of Social Sciences, cf. the rules of the Danish Ministerial order No 1039 of 27 August 2013

Please note that normally there is strong competition for these scholarships, and only a few can be awarded each term

Scholarship in the 5+3 or in the 4+4 PhD study programme

The 5+3 PhD study programme

In order to be eligible for a scholarship in the 5+3 PhD study programme the applicant must have completed a two year MSc degree programme, or have earned 120 ECTS credits at an equivalent academic level before starting his or her employment. Applicants should check the study programmes for more detailed descriptions of the entry requirements. PhD students are paid a salary in accordance with the agreement between the Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). The PhD student has a work obligation of up to 840 hours over the 3 year period of time without additional pay. The work obligation can include for instance teaching.

The 4+4 PhD study programme

Students who have completed a BSc plus 60 ECTS of an MSc degree programme would enrol as PhD students simultaneously with their enrolment in the MSc degree programme. Applicants should check the study programmes for more detailed descriptions of the entry requirements. Until an MSc degree is obtained, the grant is paid partly in the form of up to 48 state education grant portions (in Danish: SU-klip). More specifically the PhD student will be paid two grant portions per month plus salary for work (teaching, presentations etc.) which totals a workload of at least 280 hours. Payment and conditions of employment are carried out in accordance with the agreement between the Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). Upon completion of the MSc degree the student is transferred to the salary-earning part of the PhD studies. The Phd fellow is expected to seek funding for fieldwork as this is not included in the scholarship.

Texas Christian University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a one-year lecturer position in Research Methods for the 2021-22 academic year. Preference will be given to candidates who will have completed the Ph.D. in Political Science and have demonstrated the capacity for excellence in the classroom and success as a teacher-scholar. The successful candidate will have a 4/4 teaching load, and the salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, CV, transcript, a portfolio of teaching materials (including a teaching philosophy statement and a sample syllabus in an upper-level methods course), and a one-page diversity statement. All materials are to be submitted online at <https://jobs.tcu.edu/en-us/listing/>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent by recommenders or dossier service to hralentacquisition@tcu.edu. The finalists for the position will be asked either to submit a video of a teaching demonstration in front of students (approximately 45 minutes in length) or will be asked to give a teaching demonstration during an interview.

We will review applications on receipt and will continue until the position is filled. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the Department of Political Science may be directed to search committee chair, Dr. Grant Ferguson, grant.ferguson@tcu.edu

A selective teaching and research university with 10,000 students, TCU is a private, secular institution committed to academic freedom located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth, the 13th largest city in the United States and part of the nation's fourth-largest metropolitan area, is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities, and has easy access to a major international airport. TCU has been recognized for nine consecutive years as one of the "Great Colleges to Work For" by The Chronicle of Higher Education. The TCU Political Science Department has sixteen full-time faculty with nearly 400 majors.

TCU is dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status or any other basis protected by law.

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty

Social Sciences Open Rank Cluster Hire, College of Arts and Sciences, Oklahoma State University

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly altered our communities, our institutions, and our world. Globally, health care infrastructure, scientific research communities, arts and culture organizations, policy-making bodies, local and national economies, K-12 schools and higher education, as well as social service agencies have had to respond to unprecedented challenges. Existing inequities have been magnified and exacerbated. Research that addresses infectious diseases has risen dramatically in importance over the last year and endemic- and pandemic-related studies promise to be an impactful area of research and creative activity for the foreseeable future.

The College of Arts and Sciences (CAS) at Oklahoma State University is recruiting up to five open-rank faculty members to specialize in endemic- and pandemic-related research. This is a cluster-hire that will lead to the hiring of at least one open-rank faculty member in each of CAS's three pillars: Arts and Humanities, Sciences, and Social Sciences. Information on individual departments may be found here: https://cas.okstate.edu/departments\_and\_programs. The goal is to cultivate an interdisciplinary research community dedicated to critical questions related to infectious disease and endemic/pandemic studies. This new area of research emphasis will be facilitated by the Oklahoma Pandemic Center for Innovation and Excellence (<https://oklahoma.gov/opcie>), currently under development in Stillwater, OK, the location of Oklahoma State University's main campus. In addition to a robust trajectory in research and creative activities, these faculty will be expected to make meaningful contributions to teaching and service, and to help CAS and their home departments move forward in the areas of diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI).

Critical research topics related to the Social Sciences include but are not limited to: public health access, distribution, and inequities; influences on attitudes, health behavior, and/or public health outcomes; intersections of inequality; health/science communication; human-environment interactions and spatio-temporal analyses; risk assessment and perceptions; vulnerabilities and resilience; and associated public policy.

Applicants are asked to submit the following items via Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/84982> cover letter; curriculum vita; statement of research interests related to endemics/pandemics and infectious diseases; teaching statement that addresses their pedagogical philosophy; DEI statement that discusses past, present, and future contributions to inclusive excellence in the areas of research, teaching, and/or service; and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin April 5, 2021, and will continue until the positions are filled. Employment will start August 2021 or as negotiated. For questions/inquiries: osusocialsciences21@okstate.edu

General Information

Oklahoma State University is a comprehensive flagship, land-grant, Carnegie Tier 1 research institution with more than 24,000 students on its combined Stillwater and Tulsa campuses. Students come from all 50 states and around 120 nations. With 24 departments and approximately 6,000 students, CAS is the largest and most diverse college at OSU. CAS interdisciplinary programs and centers include Africana Studies, American Indian Studies, American Studies, Gender and Women's Studies, and Religious Studies. Since 2010, OSU has been first in the nation among public land-grant colleges and universities for graduating Native American students. OSU's main campus is located in Stillwater, which is about a 1-hour drive from both Oklahoma City and Tulsa. Stillwater has a historic downtown, a regional airport with direct flights to/from Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW), highly rated public schools, and the newly opened McKnight Center for the Performing Arts.

OSU's Commitment to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

At Oklahoma State University, diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) matter. ## Drexel University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Humanities or Social Sciences and Africana Studies

About Drexel

Drexel is a comprehensive global research university ranked among the top 100 in the nation. With over 24,000 students, Drexel is one of America's 15 largest private universities. Drexel is one of Philadelphia's top 10 private employers, and a major engine for economic development in the region. Drexel has committed to being the nation's most civically engaged university, with community partnerships integrated into every aspect of service and academics. The College of Arts and Sciences (CoAS) consists of 13 departments and several research centers. CoAS and Drexel University are working to repair institutional legacies of anti-Black racism in the university and its community, and through this cluster hire are actively committed to supporting African and diasporic knowledge, practices, histories, and people.

The College of Arts and Sciences is home to several ongoing initiatives that reflect commitment to these goals, from community-based learning initiatives to a new Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion advisory council and Associate Dean. At the University level, new and ongoing initiatives include the Center for Black Culture, a university-wide unit focused on Black community at Drexel; the soon to be launched Center on Racism and Health, located in the Dornsife School of Public Health; and, in the School of Education, an active research group dedicated to Black student success. The University's Lindy Center for Civic Engagement, the Dornsife Center for Neighborhood Partnerships, and the Global Classroom program also support colleagues building engaged teaching and scholarship in Africana Studies. This cluster hire joins two concurrent searches for two tenure-track faculty in the Center on Racism and Health, and one faculty search in the Westphal College of Media, Art and Design for a joint position between the Music Industry Program and Music Program to create modern music courses with a focus on the African diaspora.

Job Summary

The College of Arts and Science of Drexel University, a Carnegie R1-classified research institution located in Philadelphia, announces a cluster hire of 3 tenure-track faculty (two at the Assistant Professor level, one at open rank) in the area of Africana Studies, with an expected start date of September 1, 2021. Two of the appointments will have tenure homes in the Department of History, this position will potentially be located in any Humanities and/or Social Science discipline within the College of Arts and Science. Joint appointments will be considered.

The Africana Studies Program

The Africana Studies Program is housed in the Department of History which has particular strengths in the History of Science, Technology and the Environment, and in Global History. The minor in Africana Studies allows students across the University to gain an understanding of, and background in, the history and cultures of peoples of African descent in North and South America, the Caribbean, Africa, and elsewhere. It includes courses in anthropology, history, literature, music, political science and sociology, and provides an opportunity for directed study in areas of special interest.

The current cluster will comprise 2 tenure track historians of Africana Studies (including an open rank hire who will serve as Director of the Africana Studies Program) and 1 additional tenure track faculty with a disciplinary location in any of the College's Humanities and/or Social Sciences departments: Communication, Criminology & Justice Studies, English & Philosophy, Global Studies & Modern Languages, Politics, Psychology, and Sociology. Tenure home will be departmental with teaching responsibilities in the Africana Studies Program. Candidates are expected to teach Introductory courses in Africana Studies, including an Introduction to Africana Studies course and a Cross-Currents in Africana Studies course centered on the Black Atlantic.

Essential Functions: Teaching; Research; Service; Other related duties.

Required Qualifications:

PhD in Humanities or Social Sciences, with an interdisciplinary specialty in Africana/African Diaspora/Black/African American/Afro-American or Race and Ethnic Studies, broadly conceptualized. (Must have PhD by September 1, 2021). 2 years of demonstrated graduate or post-graduate teaching, research or related experience.

Preferred Qualifications:

Exceptional promise of research potential commensurate with rank; Commitment to excellence in teaching, service, community outreach and engagement; Ability to teach introductory courses in Africana

Studies, including methods and its intellectual traditions, in addition to courses in home department; Ability to mentor graduate students across the university and enhance the research profile of undergraduates

Required Application materials:

- Cover letter (with a description of the candidate's research program and philosophy of teaching)
- Curriculum Vitae
- One writing sample (e.g., article, book chapter, book)

Candidates who move forward in the process will be notified to submit sample syllabi for an Introduction to Africana Studies course and another syllabus for a special topics course in Africana Studies, and a brief research statement and teaching statement. Three letters of reference will also be requested at this later stage.

All candidates must apply through the Drexel University's Human Resources Careers Website. Please contact Amy Slaton, Interim Department Head of History at aslaton@drexel.edu for more information.

Butler University

The Department of Political Science at Butler University invites applications for a full-time non-tenure-track lecturer for a two-year appointment with possibility of renewal. Applicants should have a strong commitment to excellent, inclusive undergraduate teaching. We are particularly interested in candidates whose teaching and scholarship engages intersectional, abolitionist, or critical historical institutional perspectives on race/ethnicity/indigeneity, gender/sexuality, and politics in the United States and potentially beyond it. The successful candidate will teach lower-level and upper-level undergraduate political science courses (including an introductory American politics survey), will contribute to the Core Curriculum, and will help build an inclusive learning environment for our increasingly diverse student population. This faculty member could choose to affiliate with the International Studies; Peace and Conflict Studies; Race, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; and/or Science, Technology, and Environmental Studies interdisciplinary programs. This lecturer will teach four courses per semester, typically with no more than six distinct course preparations per year.

Review of applications will begin January 11, but the position will remain open until filled. Applicants should have earned a doctorate in political science or a related field at the time of appointment before August 1, 2021. Applicants should submit the following to plsearch@butler.edu: a cover letter that highlights the applicant's teaching interests, experience, and commitment to inclusive, excellent teaching and summarizes their research interests; a curriculum vitae; a statement of teaching philosophy, a sample syllabus, and a list of 3-5 references including name, title and contact information. Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide additional evidence of inclusive teaching excellence including one or more additional syllabi, descriptions of course activities or assignments, and student evaluations or teaching observations; 3 letters of recommendation, and unofficial transcripts. Final round candidates will need to provide official transcripts and will be asked to consent to background checks. The successful candidate will start August 2021, subject to final budgetary approval.

The Butler Political Science Program, distinctively grounded in a firm commitment to social justice, democracy, and human rights, engages students in the study and practice of politics to promote the collective good at the local, national, and global level. The program defines politics broadly as the formal and informal ways societies govern themselves. The program offers an innovative curriculum that crosses traditional disciplinary boundaries to provide students with the knowledge and skills necessary to pursue positive social change. Political science alumni have pursued careers in electoral politics, teaching, law, government, journalism, business, and non-profit organizations, and have earned graduate and professional degrees in several fields.

Specializations: Life Sciences & Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, American Politics

3/23/2021: Finalist Interview Stage

Tufts University (Tufts) seeks an entrepreneurial, collaborative leader with a demonstrated passion and commitment to civic engagement to serve as the Pierre and Pamela Omidyar Dean of the Jonathan M. Tisch College of Civic Life (Tisch College). The next dean will have the opportunity to build on Tisch College's intellectual and programmatic leadership, continuing to move Tufts to the forefront of academic and co-curricular civic engagement programs. Tisch College is the only American institution focused on civic life that is constituted as a college and led by a dean who serves alongside other deans, thereby influencing the direction of an entire University.

Today, Tisch College is a national leader in civic education and engagement, setting the standard for higher education's role in advancing the greater good. With a broad and vital mission to prepare students for a lifetime of engagement in civic life, to study civic life and its intersections with public and private institutions, and to promote practices that strengthen civic life, Tisch College has the opportunity to continue to deeply engage Tufts in cross-cutting, interdisciplinary initiatives and programs. The next dean will be a creative and entrepreneurial leader, who will seize the opportunity to advance and shape the future of the College's civic impact, world-class research, student programming, and interdisciplinary activities. The Dean will be responsive to local, national, and global challenges, and will work to strengthen Tisch College's commitment to ensuring that the work and offerings are rooted in the values and practices of diversity, equity, inclusion, anti-racism, and social justice, which are essential to effective civic practice.

Tisch College has an annual operating budget of nearly $8.5 million and is supported by an annual endowment income of nearly $2.5 million. The College is non-degree-granting, though it does co-lead an undergraduate major in Civic Studies and is mostly supported by philanthropy. The programs and the six research centers at Tisch College are supported by a team of more than 50 dedicated staff. The Dean will report to Provost Nadine Aubry, and their direct reports will include an Associate Dean for Programs and Administration, an Associate Dean of Academic Affairs, and a Director of Communications, Strategy, and Planning. The Dean also works closely with a 35-member Board of Advisors. Newly renovated Barnum Hall, on the main quad of the Tufts Medford campus, is home to the offices of Tisch College.

Tufts University has retained Isaacson, Miller, a national search firm, to assist in the recruitment of the Dean of the Jonathan M. Tisch College of Civic Life.

APSA

Rank: Director, Teaching and Learning

The American Political Science Association (APSA) is a 501(c)3 non-profit scholarly association that serves a membership base of 12,000 in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments and institutions, APSA is committed to transparency, open enquiry, scholarly pluralism, high standards of ethics and integrity, and a global perspective. To learn more about APSA, please visit www.apsanet.org.

APSA offers a comprehensive compensation and benefits package and has a Metro-accessible location in DuPont Circle in Washington, DC, with a full-time staff of over 30. In compliance with the CDC and DC guidelines regarding the Covid-19 pandemic, the APSA staff is working remotely until further notice.

APSA is seeking candidates for the position of Director, Teaching and Learning. The Director leads and manages the Association's work in (1) teaching and learning and (2) in professional development workshops, symposia and events with a particular focus on early career scholars. The position is a unique opportunity to expand APSA's programming in these vital areas for the benefit of the APSA membership, the political science discipline, and more broadly, the higher education community.

This is a Full-time exempt position with supervisory responsibilities.

ESSENTIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

- Lead the creation, expansion, and implementation of programming to address issues in political science research, teaching, and service. Specifically:
  - o Lead and expand teaching and learning programming and resources, including the APSA Teaching and Learning Conferences, teaching symposia at the APSA Centennial Center, APSA on-line resources, and workshops at regional meetings.
  - o Lead and expand professional development programming and resources especially for graduate students in political science and early career scholars. These efforts could include career development workshops, research symposia, and roundtables at the Annual Meeting, regional or international meetings and/or at APSA headquarters, and/or webinars and online resources to support professional development at diverse career stages.
  - o Regularly assess the fit of these and other programs to meet the needs of APSA members and members of the discipline.
- Collaborate with and support APSA committees, such as the Council Policy Committee on Teaching and Learning, select Status Committees, and the Teaching and Learning Conference Program Committees.
- Supervise the Program Assistant/Associate for Teaching and Learning, including assigning work duties and setting employee goals and objectives.
- Additional responsibilities as assigned.

ESSENTIAL SKILLS & EXPERIENCE

- Ph.D. in political science or related other social science discipline.
- Familiarity with current events and issues facing higher education, the social sciences, and the discipline of political science.
- 5+ years' related experience; experience in higher education strongly preferred, including experience in teaching.
- Strong analytical and public speaking skills and ability to write clearly and concisely.
- Excellent organizational skills with high attention to detail and adherence to deadlines.
- Adaptability and ability to work in a fast-paced team environment.
- Interest in program innovation for faculty, students and administrators in political science.
- Superb collaboration skills to work with colleagues across departments at APSA to meet shared goals.
- Sound judgment and initiative related to appropriate and independent action and problem-solving.
- Ability to maintain confidentiality while working on sensitive tasks.
- Fluency in various software and database applications such as Microsoft Office Suite and experience with administrative responsibilities.

HOW TO APPLY

To be considered, submit your (1) resume with (2) cover letter indicating how your experience and skills align with the description of this position and the essential skills required of the position. Send all documents as PDF attachments to hr@apsanet.org. Please include “Director, Teaching and Learning” in the email subject line. Consideration will begin as soon as resumes are received, and the position will remain open until filled.

Naval War College

“ANTICIPATED VACANCY”

U.S. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE

COLLEGE OF DISTANCE EDUCATION

NAVAL WAR COLLEGE AT NAVAL POSTGRADUATE

SEEKS

PROFESSOR OF STRATEGY & POLICY

ASSISTANT/ASSOCIATE/FULL PROFESSOR (AD-1701-03/05/07)

The United States Naval War College, Newport, Rhode Island, invites applications for one anticipated position of Professor of Strategy & Policy in its College of Distance Education

(CDE) Naval War College at Naval Postgraduate School (NWC-at-NPS) Program in Monterey,

CA. The position is full-time with rank, salary, and career track determination commensurate with experience and credentials.

The Naval War College is a Professional Military Education (PME) institution serving the nation, the Department of Defense, and the U.S. Navy. U.S. and selected international graduates earn Master of Arts degrees in National Security & Strategic Studies or Defense & Strategic Studies accredited by the New England Commission of Higher Education. The College educates and develops future leaders through the development of strategic perspective, critical thinking, and cultural awareness, as well as enhancing the capability to advise senior leaders and policy makers. The College also helps to define the future Navy and its roles and missions; supports combat readiness; strengthens global maritime partnerships; and promotes ethics and leadership throughout the force. We are actively seeking candidates with diverse academic, demographic, and professional backgrounds. More information on the college and the NWCat-NPS Program can be found at www.usnwc.edu.

Responsibilities: Incumbents teach the graduate level “Strategy and War” (S&W) course in an Intermediate Service College program with duties including: conducting classroom instruction; conducting online and remote instruction; reviewing and evaluating student essays, examinations, and other written and verbal assessments; developing curricula; performing various types of service to the College; traveling to, and lecturing at, nonresident seminars around the country as required; and performing educational administrative functions as required.

The S&W Course adopts an interdisciplinary approach to strategy, drawing on the disciplines of history, political science, international relations, and economics. It integrates, with those academic perspectives, critical military factors from the profession of arms such as doctrine, weaponry, training, technology, and logistics. The result is a coherent frame of reference to analyze complex strategic problems and formulate strategies to address them.

Qualifications: Required qualifications include an advanced degree in one or more of the following areas: History, International Affairs, International Relations, Political Science, or a related field; and teaching experience at the graduate level

Preferred qualifications that will make candidates especially competitive include: an earned

Ph.D in one of the academic fields noted above; academic program management experience;

familiarity with the national security and defense environments; graduation from a U.S. military intermediate- or senior- level Service College and Joint Professional Military Education (JPME I and/or II certification); Naval War College or other military Service College teaching experience at the graduate level; experience and competence in internet-based instruction; and distance learning experience at the graduate level.

This position requires that candidates be U.S. citizens capable of obtaining and maintaining a Department of Defense SECRET security clearance.

Salary Considerations: Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal civil service package that includes health insurance, pension and retirement savings plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process: Applications will be accepted through 11:59 pm (EDT) 19 May 2021 and must reference VA#NWC-21-04. Applications must include: 1) a detailed cover letter of introduction that addresses the qualifications listed above; 2) a comprehensive Curriculum Vitae/Resume; and 3) contact information for three professional references. Applications must be submitted by email to nwc-21-04@usnwc.edu.

NOTICE OF VETERANS PREFERENCE: There is no formal rating system for applying veterans’ preference to the excepted service; however, the Department of Defense considers veterans’ preference eligibility a positive factor for hiring. Applicants eligible for veterans’ preference must include that information in their cover letter or resume and attached supporting documentation (e.g., DD Form 214, &quot;Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty&quot;) to their submissions. Although the point-preference system is not used, applicants eligible to claim 10-Point preference must submit a Standard Form (SF) 15, &quot;Application for 10-Point Veteran Preference,&quot; and supporting documents required for specific type of preference claimed. (SF 15, which lists the types of 10-Point Preference and the required supporting documents, is available from the Office of Personnel Management website at www.opm.gov.) Within the Department of Defense (DoD), the appointment of retired military members within 180 days immediately following retirement date to a civilian position is subject to the provisions of 5 United States Code 3326. Questions about this position should be directed via email to Professor Fred Drake at drakef@usnwc.edu . The Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity Employer

The Army War College is the U.S. Army's most senior institution for professional military education. It educates the top echelon of U.S. military officers of all services, U.S. government civilians, and military officers from up to 80 foreign countries yearly. It develops strategic leaders by providing a variety of rigorous curricula of theoretical and professional subjects. The senior-level curriculum is delivered two ways -- through a ten-month resident program (about 385 students) and a two-year distance education program (about 750 students); both lead to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education. In addition to the Master's degree, the USAWC administers numerous professional development programs focused on strategic thinking and leadership. These programs range from a fourteen-week course for junior officers qualifying as Army strategists to shorter courses for general officers, senior colonels, and command sergeants major.

The principal organizations of the USAWC are the School of Strategic Landpower, Center for Strategic Leadership, Strategic Studies Institute, the Advanced Strategic Education Program, and the Army Heritage and Education Center. They work collectively to accomplish the institution's mission: "Educate and develop leaders for service at the strategic level while advancing knowledge in the global application of land power."

Next steps

Your application package (résumé, supporting documents, etc.) will be reviewed by a specially appointed selection committee to determine your eligibility, qualifications, and quality ranking for this position. Please follow all instructions carefully. Errors or omissions may affect your rating or consideration for employment.

Fair & Transparent

Equal Employment Opportunity Policy

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy And gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.

University of Exeter

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellows

These three full-time posts are available on a fixed-term basis until 31 August 2022. One post is immediately available and the other two posts are available from 2 August 2021.

The posts

The College wishes to recruit 3 Research Fellows to work with Prof Jason Reifler on a project examining misperceptions, especially in Europe. These ERC funded posts are available until August 31, 2022 (contingent on availability of grant funds). The successful applicants will assist with all facets of the project, including (but not limited to): the design and fielding of national surveys and experiments; analysing data; and writing both academic and public facing articles and reports. Teaching is not a primary responsibility of this position, though opportunities may exist for those wishing to further their professional development in this area. The ideal candidate will have an academic background in political science, communication, or psychology.

About you

The successful applicant will be able to develop research objectives, projects and proposals; identify sources of research funding and contribute to the process of securing funds and make presentations at conferences and other events.

Applicants will possess a relevant PhD (or be nearing completion) or equivalent qualification/experience in a related field of study. The successful applicant will be a nationally recognised authority in political science or closely related discipline (psychology, communication) and possess sufficient specialist knowledge in the discipline to develop research programmes and methodologies. The successful applicant will also be able to work collaboratively, supervise the work of others and act as team leader as required. Applicants will be able to develop survey questionnaires, design experiments, analyse data, prepare ethics/IRB applications and study preregistration documents, help turn results into publishable papers, and present at conferences or public events. Fluency in one or more European languages other than English is advantageous, but not essential.

Please ensure you read the Job Description and Person Specification available on our website.

What we can offer you

- Freedom (and the support) to pursue your intellectual interests and to work creatively across disciplines to produce internationally exciting research;
- Support teams that understand the University wide research and teaching goals and partner with our academics accordingly
- An Innovation, Impact and Business directorate that works closely with our academics providing specialist support for external engagement and development
- Our Exeter Academic initiative supporting high performing academics to achieve their potential and develop their career
- A multitude of staff benefits including sector leading benefits around maternity, adoption and shared parental leave (up to 26 weeks full pay), Paternity leave (up to 6 weeks full pay), and a new Fertility Treatment Policy
- A beautiful campus set in the heart of stunning Devon.

The University of Exeter

We are a member of the prestigious Russell Group of research-intensive universities and in the top 150 universities in the world (Times Higher Education World University Rankings 2019). We combine world-class teaching with world-class research, achieving a Gold rating in the Teaching Excellence Framework Award 2017.

Our research income in recent years means we're fastest growing UK Research University and we seek to answer some of the most fundamental issues facing humankind today through this. 98% of our research is international quality (2014 Research Excellence Framework) and we encourage proactive engagement with industry, business and community partners to enhance the impact of research and education and improve the employability of our students. Exeter is one of only a few UK cities to have been designated as a UNESCO Creative City.

Hertie School – the University of Governance in Berlin

Rank: President (f/m/div)

The Hertie School is recruiting a

President (f/m/div)

The Hertie School is looking for a President. Since its establishment in 2003, the Hertie School has grown into one of the leading graduate schools of public policy worldwide. The Hertie School educates the next generation of leaders in government, business and civil society. It strives for excellence in research, teaching and outreach, promoting active engagement for the common good. The Hertie School is a renowned institution of higher learning and acknowledged as a centre of excellence in research on governance and policy issues that invites interdisciplinary, cross-sectoral approaches informed by comparative, international perspectives. The Hertie School acts as a recognised platform for vibrant public debate and engaged intellectual discourse among academic experts and policy-makers.

The ideal candidate is a distinguished academic, appointable as full professor and President, and has a strong professional network as well as extensive leadership experience and a strong track record in academia, business, or public administration. In line with the mission of the Hertie School, the President is expected to further develop the School's strategy. The candidate should be able to expand fundraising for the School and combine a strong professional network with the ability to address the needs of various stakeholders – academics, students, alumni, administrators, donors, media or policy-makers. The President is responsible for all academic matters and represents the School internally as well as externally, fostering relationships to national as well as international universities and academic institutions. The President acts as Chairperson and Academic Managing Director of the legal entity Hertie School gemeinnützige GmbH, a German non-profit limited liability company. In this capacity, the President holds the overall responsibility for the development of the Hertie School. The President chairs the meetings of the Hertie School Leadership, consisting of the Administrative Managing Director, the Dean of Research and Faculty, the Dean of Graduate Programmes as well as the Dean of Executive Education.

The President will be appointed by the Supervisory Board upon approval by the Academic Senate of the Hertie School for a term of four years. Reappointment is possible under the same conditions. The expected start date is August 1, 2022.

The Hertie School is a highly selective private graduate school based in Berlin with an in-terdisciplinary focus on issues of governance. A renowned international and interdisciplinary faculty of nearly 40 professors is conducting state-of-the-art research, some of them located at the School's 5 research centres and the Data Science Lab. The language of instruction is English. With more than 700 students and 250 employees, it has dual degree programmes and close ties to top institutions of the European and international teaching and research community as well as to the policy world. The Hertie School is a full member of the Global Public Policy Network (GPPN), the Association of Professional School for In-ternational Affairs (APSIA) and CIVICA – the European University of Social Sciences. The Hertie School, state-recognised and accredited by the Science Council, prepares exceptional students for leadership positions in government, business and civil society by offering three full-time master programmes, an Executive master and a PhD programme.

The Hertie School was founded by the Hertie Foundation, a well-endowed foundation in Germany, which remains its major funder.

The deadline for applications is 7 June 2021. To submit your application, please upload your documents (CV and motivation letter) on our website or submit it via e-mail to Frank Mattern (mattern@hertie-school.org), Chairman of the Search Committee.

For information about the Hertie School, please visit <https://www.hertie-school.org>

For questions about the position, please contact Frank Mattern (mattern@hertie-school.org), Chairman of the Search Committee or Holger Endrös, Secretary to the Search Committee (endroes@hertie-school.org).

Strict confidentiality in the application process is assured. The Hertie School is an equal opportunity employer. In order to maintain equal opportunities between women and men, applications from women with the respective qualifications are expressly desired. Severely disabled persons will be given preferential consideration in case of equal suitability. The Hertie School values the diversity of its members and pursues the goal of equal opportunity.

New York University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate (CTL)

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Economic Policy

Postdoctoral Associate To Work on Causal Inference Modeling for the Cash Transfer Lab (CTL) at New York University.

The postdoctoral associate will be a part of the Cash Transfer Lab at NYU. The lab's initial focus will be on a cash transfer that has been made annually to every Alaskan resident since 1982, the Permanent Fund Dividend. The amount of the transfer varies year-to-year and is arguably exogenous. The generic way to conceptualize this is as a continually treated population whose dosage varies independently from year to year. More generally, the lab seeks to better understand how to rigorously estimate causal effects of UBI programs worldwide.

CTL will adopt a hub and spoke model. The hub is an intellectual infrastructure that can support and lower the barrier to entry for research on substantive areas (the spokes). The primary job of the postdoctoral associate is to build this causal inference modeling infrastructure.

You will report to Dr. Sarah K. Cowan, CTL Founder and Executive Director and Assistant Professor of Sociology at NYU and Dr. Jennifer Hill, Professor of Applied Statistics and Data Science at NYU.

Responsibilities may include, but are not limited to:

Writing a peer reviewed journal article on approaches to this case

Developing new approaches to identifying causal effects

Writing code/packages to implement developed approaches

Advising applied research teams on their approaches

This position will begin as early as May 15, 2021. It will be remote at least until September 1, 2021. After that point, we will be flexible with regard to whether the position is remote, in-person or hybrid based on the state of the pandemic as well as individual needs.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in any one of the following fields: Statistics, Applied Statistics, Biostatistics, Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Demography, Public Health or a closely related discipline. Ph.D. must be completed by September 2021.

Application Instructions

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/85237> to apply. To apply for this position, please submit a CV, two writing samples that are either sole-authored or you took the lead on analysis and associated code. Please also provide the names and contact information for three references to whom we will reach out for finalists. We are not asking for a cover letter or research statement. Finalists will also be given a short assignment and be invited to interview. Review of applications will begin on March 29th.

University of Oxford

Rank: Montague Burton Professor of International Relations

Montague Burton Professor of International Relations
Department of Politics & International Relations, Manor Road Building, Oxford, OX1 3UQ in association with Balliol College, Oxford

The Department of Politics and International Relations (DPIR) and Balliol College intend to appoint an outstanding scholar and teacher to the Montague Burton Professorship of International Relations with effect from January 2022 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The post will be held in conjunction with a Governing Body Fellowship at Balliol College and the Montague Burton Professor will have an office in DPIR, Manor Road Building.

This post offers an exceptional opportunity to take on a strategic leadership role as a researcher, educator and institution builder in International Relations, exercising an internationally discipline-shaping influence in the field. DPIR is a globally-leading department, one of the largest departments in Politics and International Relations worldwide, ranked top in the world in H-INDEXTM citations by QS, and first for research overall in the most recent THES global university rankings for Politics and International Studies.

The Montague Burton Professorship of International Relations was created in 1930 with an endowment by Sir Montague Burton and is the longest-established chair in International Relations at the University of Oxford. This post is a Statutory Professorship, which is the most senior academic grade at Oxford.

You will be a scholar of international excellence with a world-leading and impactful record of research and publications in the field of International Relations as well as substantial success in securing external research funding and a proven ability to provide research leadership with a commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. You will also demonstrate excellence in teaching, supervising and examining students and an ability to provide leadership in teaching provision, including curriculum reform.

If you would like to discuss this post and find out more about joining the academic community at Oxford, please contact Professor Petra Schleiter, Joint Head of the DPIR (petra.schleiter@politics.ox.ac.uk), or Dr Nicola Trott, Senior Tutor, Balliol College (nicola.trott@balliol.ox.ac.uk) All enquiries will be treated as confidential and will not form part of the selection process.

The closing date for applications is 12.00 noon on Monday 26 April 2021. Interviews are expected to be held remotely in June 2021. Shortlisted candidates will be invited for an informal visit to Oxford, if possible.

To apply for this role and for further details, including the Further Particulars and selection criteria, please see https://my.corehr.com/pls/uoxrecruit/erq\_jobspec\_details\_form.jobspec?p\_id=149886

Applications are strongly encouraged from women and black and minority ethnic candidates, who are underrepresented in academic posts in Oxford.

Krea University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow

Who We Are:

Inclusion Economics India at Krea University (formerly EPoD India at IFMR) works in close collaboration with Yale's Economic Growth Center and MacMillan Center. Drawing upon economics, political science, and related fields, we conduct cutting-edge research to understand how policy can promote inclusive, accountable economies and societies. Our core research focuses on gender as it relates to labor economics and broader economic empowerment; political economy and governance; and environmental economics. We also aim to build a culture of evidence and increase data literacy in the public sector, strengthening leaders' ability to identify and implement evidence-informed policies. Throughout the research life cycle, we engage closely with policy counterparts to ensure we address questions of immediate relevance, and we regularly communicate data-driven insights with policy counterparts and the general public.

The Role:

We are currently recruiting one or more Post-Doctoral Research Fellows to support our research in India. Final portfolio allocations will depend on candidates' interest, experience, and skillset; ideal candidates have experience and research in one of our core focus areas listed above. The position will provide the selected candidate(s) an opportunity to gain first-hand experience conducting policy-relevant economics research while contributing to an agreed upon project portfolio.

Responsibilities within the project portfolio include supporting research design and implementation, overseeing data collection and analysis, interacting with stakeholders, and managing research activities and staff. This position requires a self-starting candidate with proven expertise in applied economics research who can effectively navigate India's institutional landscape and appropriately represent our work to outside stakeholders. The position will provide a talented early career researcher the opportunity to work directly with top academics and begin building their own research portfolio.

Responsibilities:

- Manage and supervise technical aspects of assigned research studies in collaboration with the research team.
- Oversee field-based team to manage research study activities, including intervention implementation, and contribute to field-based scoping, survey design, survey testing, data quality monitoring, and more.
- Clean and process incoming or secondary data and conduct econometric analysis under the direction of senior researchers.
- Manage relationships with collaborating institutions, including policy counterparts and funding organizations; work with partner institutions and governments to set priorities and coordinate project administration and logistics.
- Compile, assess and synthesize research into policy briefs, white papers, memos and academic articles with guidance and oversight of Yale-affiliated research faculty.
- Provide appropriate inputs and support for administrative requirements of the project portfolio, upon request, which may include financial management, budgeting, procurement, contract set-up and compliance, grant reporting, deliverable tracking, etc.
- Contribute to our team's overall management and strategic vision by identifying new research projects and partners and applying for additional sources of funding in partnership with research team.

Basic Qualifications:

- PhD in economics, public policy, political science, statistics, econometrics or related field by mid-2021
- Advanced coursework in empirical methods, including econometrics and economics, with strong demonstrated academic performance
- Solid understanding of research design and experience with data collection and field work
- Proven analytical skills and proficiency in Stata and/or R; experience in Python a plus
- Proven ability to manage multiple tasks and propose timely solutions with minimal supervision
- Excellent attention to detail
- Capacity to maintain an organized and structured work style in a fast-paced environment
- Ability to adapt to quickly to changing environments
- Strong interpersonal skills, and willingness to interact with a wide range of individuals ranging from Research Associates to academics, donors, research institutions, etc.
- Excellent oral and written communication skills in English and Hindi
- Ability to work in a multicultural environment
- Willingness to travel frequently and spend significant time at research project sites, as needed

Preferred Qualifications:

- Ability to independently drive research projects and produce independent, high-quality original empirical research in mutually agreed upon areas
- 3 to 5 years of field research or field research management experience in international development or related field
- Experience with research grant management and project management

- Proven success in fundraising for research studies with clear policy relevance
- Demonstrated interest in public policy and South Asia

This position will be based in Delhi, India, with frequent travel throughout the country when Covid-19 restrictions are lifted. Fellowships are one-year positions with the possibility of extension upon mutual agreement.

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in sociology - Assistant/Associate/ Full Professor levels

Call for Application.

Professor in Sociology – Teaching and Research

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University is hiring a Professor in Sociology for the next academic year, starting September 2021.

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is a recently established non-profit university that has the ambition to promote high-quality education and research in respect of international academic standards. Furthermore, it aims to contribute to the development of the African countries.

African Center for Behavioral Sociology (ACBS):

The African Center for Behavioral Sociology is a research center founded in 2019, in the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences at the Mohammed VI Polytechnic University of Benguerir. The center aims to address issues of social, economic, political, cultural, and environmental importance for public policy in Morocco and in Africa more broadly. See <https://www.fgses-um6p.ma/acbs>

Job Description and Duties: The activity of the professor is divided between teaching and research. Teaching is provided at different levels of higher education, from bachelor to Ph D. The professor will be responsible for regularly publishing in high-ranking academic journals. Resources will be allocated to him or her to carry out his or her research, which falls under the themes of the African Center for Behavioral Sociology. However, the recruited person must be able to attract external resources to develop the research within the Center. He or she is also expected to be involved in the administrative activities of the faculty. The status of the position - assistant professor, associate professor or full professor - will depend on the experience of the candidate.

Qualifications: The candidate must have a PhD/Doctorat in Sociology, with solid skills in data collection and analysis, qualitative or quantitative. He or she must have solid scientific publications in indexed journals, research experience and teaching experience in higher education. This call for applications is also open to professors or research fellows who wish to spend sabbatical time at the Mohammed VI Polytechnic University Selection procedure: The candidate must send to the contact below: 1) a full CV, 2) an exhaustive list of publications, 3) a summary of his or her PhD with table of contents, 4) proof of his research and teaching experience in higher education, and 5) A research proposal of 2-3 pages drawing a research program the candidate could lead at the ACBS. A scientific selection committee will meet to examine the application files. The preselected candidates will have an oral interview, which can be carried out, if necessary, by videoconference. The candidates selected at the end of these interviews will be invited, during a final phase, to present their research and to make a course simulation.

Salary and Benefits: salary scales and allowances are competitive, meet international standards, and commensurate with experience. Subject to certain conditions, the University provides practical assistance in relocating and accommodation. Job location: Rabat, Morocco.

Applications must be submitted to: ACBS@um6p.ma, by March 31, 2021. Please attach to your email a single electronic zipped folder containing all above, with the mention "Professor Sociology" in the subject.

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Associate or Full Professor / Department Chair

POSITION DESCRIPTION

This is a full-time, tenure-track, academic year appointment to commence in Fall 2021, with the tenure home in the Department of Africana Studies.

The College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Rhode Island seeks an associate or full professor to chair the newly created Department of Africana Studies. Its predecessor, the Africana Studies program, established in the mid-1990s, has a long history of advocacy for peoples of the African diaspora. The department is home to an interdisciplinary undergraduate major and minor devoted to the study of the histories, politics, and cultures of peoples of the African diaspora. The department includes faculty with tenure homes in History, English, Political Science, Music, Art, and Art History who maintain affiliations with Africana Studies.

URI is Rhode Island's flagship public university, serving undergraduate and graduate populations from the state, New England, the greater northeast, and beyond. Rhode Island is home to vibrant communities of the African diaspora, with significant populations of people from Cabo Verde, Liberia, and the Caribbean. New research increasingly reveals the deep and rich history of the African diaspora in Rhode Island, as a site of critical freedom struggles borne of the state's involvement in the transatlantic slave trade and subsequent nineteenth and twentieth century civil rights movements.

We are especially interested in social science scholars trained in Africana Studies, with vision for the new department's academic profile and whose work bridges various disciplines, geographies, and cultures. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to establish innovative curricula, to develop future scholars, and to participate in an energetic community. We seek candidates who have a demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership, a distinguished scholarly record, and a deep investment in community engagement and interdisciplinary collaboration.

This is a tenure-track academic appointment to commence in Fall 2021, with the tenure home in the Department of Africana Studies. For consideration at the rank of full professor with tenure, candidates for this position must meet the requirements at URI. If hired at the associate professor level, URI requires that the individual be employed by university for at least two years before being eligible for tenure. Salary is commensurate with experience. Please see Articles 15 through 20 of AAUP collective bargaining agreement for information on promotion and tenure processes at the University of Rhode Island.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

1. Ph.D. in Africana Studies, African American Studies, Black Studies or a related discipline in the URI College of Arts and Sciences.
2. Multiple refereed publications in academic journals and presses.
3. Demonstrated potential or experience in a leadership role at the institutional level.
4. Experience as an associate or full professor. Exceptional candidates at the advanced assistant professor level will be considered.
5. Active academic record that meets URI research and teaching standards for tenure and rank of associate or full professor.
6. Demonstrated commitment to working with students from diverse backgrounds and BIPOC populations.
7. Demonstrated potential for community engagement.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

1. Success as chair, program director, or other academic leadership position.
2. Successful engagement with the broader academic and non-academic community.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: This is an open until filled search. First consideration will be given to applications received by February 15, 2021. The Department of Political Science and International Relations (POIR) in the Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Race and Ethnic Politics anticipated to begin in the fall of 2021. Scholars of Black politics or Indigenous politics whose work is in one or more of the following subfields of political science are particularly encouraged to apply: comparative politics, international relations, U.S. politics, or research methods. The scholar will help build the department's strengths in race, ethnicity, and politics. We welcome all methodological and interpretative approaches to the study of political science and international relations.

Strong commitments to research as well as to undergraduate and graduate pedagogy are expected. The candidate should have completed a Ph.D. by the appointment date. Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2021 and continue until the position is filled.

In order to be considered for this position, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-race-and-ethnic-politics/1209/18148180>. Required materials for upload include a CV, cover letter, sample research paper(s) or article(s), statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, names and contact information for three references and their letters of recommendation. Send inquiries to poirrequests@usc.edu. Materials must be submitted electronically, as those submitted by regular mail will not be accepted.

USC is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or any other characteristic protected by law or USC policy. USC will consider for employment all qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of the Los Angeles Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring ordinance.

U.S. Army War College

Specializations: Defense, Foreign Policy, International Security

Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies

Salary range: $80,153 – $117,284

Objective:

The United States Army War College seeks to fill the position of Assistant/Associate Professor of National Security Studies in the Department of National Security and Strategy in the School of Strategic Landpower.

Context:

This is a fulltime, long-term, civilian faculty position at the United States Army's most senior institution for professional military education. Initial appointment may be for up to 4 years; the first two years are probationary; the academic rank of initial appointment will be commensurate with the applicant's level of experience. Appointments may be renewed. The Army War College educates the top echelon of US military officers of all services, US government civilians, and military officers from scores of foreign countries. It develops strategic leaders by providing a rigorous curriculum of theoretical and professional subjects, leading to a Master's of Strategic Studies accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education.

Expectations:

The person selected for this position will have a leading role in planning, administering, and teaching the core course, "War, Policy, and National Security,” as well as other core and elective courses of the resident education program and associated programs. They will serve as a faculty instructor for one seminar, advise students and serve as project advisor for student research projects. They will also engage in cutting-edge scholarship that advances knowledge in fields relevant to the curriculum; engage in service in support of USAWC missions. Other duties may include teaching regional studies courses and/or supporting the development and execution of the National Security Policy Program. The position comes with a generous compensation package as well as with the many benefits of working at an innovative, vibrant, and collegial military educational institution.

Finally, the applicant must be able to obtain and maintain a security clearance from the US government.

Rewards and Compensation:

The person selected would find employment at the Army War College enjoyable, satisfying, and rewarding. They would have the benefit of working at an institution dedicated to his or her scholarly focus. Additionally, the person selected would sense the urgency of the mission, collegiality of the faculty, security of the military environment, quality and diversity of the student body, and climate of cooperation and teamwork. These defining features have long appealed to civilian faculty members who have worked at the Army War College for any length of time.

Compensation is dependent on the applicant’s qualifications and professional experience. We are prepared to offer a salary-and-benefits package designed to attract highly talented applicants.

Qualifications:

In order to qualify, you must meet the education and/or experience requirements described below. Your curriculum vitae or résumé must clearly describe your relevant experience. Applicants will be rated based on the placement factors and Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs) listed below by a search committee appointed for the purpose of identifying the best-qualified candidates.

1. Must have master’s degree (required) in national security studies, international relations, government, political science, history, environmental security, regional studies, or related field. A PhD or other terminal degree is strongly preferred. Doctoral students within six months of completing the degree are eligible (and encouraged) to apply.
2. Must have an established record of superlative teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, or Senior Service College level. Experience at the graduate level is preferred.
3. Ability to prepare, teach, and lecture on subjects related to national security policy and strategy formulation, theories of war and strategy, and other subjects to include political economy, diplomacy, environmental security, or regional studies.
4. Record of scholarly research and publication—or evidence of great potential for such research and publication—in areas relevant to the curriculum, to include national security policy and strategy, international relations, political science, history, political economy, environmental security, regional studies, and the strategic use of military force (assurance, deterrence, coercion, and compellence).

Application:

To apply for this position, you must provide a complete application package which includes the items listed below. Applications must be postmarked or e-dated by the closing date of this job announcement. Please include the job announcement number on the application.

Army network servers have an overall limit of 10 MB per email. To ensure delivery of your application, we recommend that applicants limit overall email size to no more than 5-8 MB. You may send documents in several emails to reduce overall size.

1. Letter of application addressing the required Knowledge, Skills and Abilities, as listed in the Qualifications section above.
2. Résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Proof of U.S. citizenship (i.e., birth certificate, passport)
4. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages (Electronic format is preferred, as hard copies will not be returned without a self-addressed and metered envelope.)
5. Academic transcripts (undergraduate and graduate level). Unofficial transcripts are permissible for initial submission of the application, but you must provide official college transcripts upon request.
6. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate’s qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection)
7. Documentation supporting any request for Veteran’s Preference (such as a DD Form 214 or VA statement of disability)
8. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

Both paper and electronic submissions are acceptable, but the latter is strongly encouraged. The preferred method of submission is by e-mail with .pdf attachments. Please note that documents submitted as part of the application may be shared beyond the Human Resources Office. For additional information, visit the USAJobs website <https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/598586700>

The closing date for applications is 17 May 2021.

Queen's University

Rank: Tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with specialization in the Black Political Thought

Black Political Thought
Faculty of Arts and Science
Queen's University, Canada

The Departments of Political Studies and Philosophy in the Faculty of Arts and Science at Queen's University invites applications for a Tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with specialization in the Black Political Thought. The preferred starting date is July 1, 2021.

This position is one of seven positions created in support of the interdisciplinary field of Black Studies at Queen's and the planned BA Minor/General in Black Studies.

Applicants must self-identify as Black persons including those from Africa or of the African diaspora (e.g. African and Africa descended people from the Caribbean, North America, Europe, or Latin America).

The successful candidate will have demonstrated knowledge and experience in Black Political Thought. BPT is an inherently global and diverse field, which includes perspectives from Africa, the Caribbean, Latin America, Europe, Canada and the United States, covers significant questions of political theory, including power, human nature, and just societies, while critically interrogating the meaning of race and practices of racist oppression such as colonialism and slavery, in all of its diversity, including, but not limited to perspectives from North American, European, Latin America, Caribbean, and/or African traditions and approaches. This scholar will assist the department in developing the breadth of analytical insight that Black political theory offers and in working toward the decentring of Western theoretical frameworks within our disciplines. By Western political theoretical frameworks, we refer not to geographical location, but to the canon of political thought that has arisen out of exclusionary disciplinary practices in Europe/North America and that centres whiteness.

Recognizing the underrepresentation of Black faculty at Queen's, this candidate is expected to play a central role in the development of the Black Studies Minor degree at Queen's, through advancing research and teaching in the analysis of race and racism, through providing a global scope of analysis, and through addressing such fundamental concerns as human freedom, historic injustice, and the impact of colonialism. Queen's University and the Departments of Philosophy and Political Studies have vigorous commitments to anti-racism, equity, diversity and inclusion, and this exciting new position will enhance our aspirations and efforts.

The successful candidate must have a PhD or equivalent degree in Philosophy, Political Studies, or a related discipline completed by the appointment start date. ABDs will be considered only with scheduled defense dates. They are expected to play a major role in delivery of graduate and undergraduate programs in the Department of Philosophy or the Department of Political Studies (department to be chosen by the selected candidate) and the Black Studies undergraduate program at Queen's and will be expected also to undertake a significant research program in this important field. Collaboration with scholars and students in both units and beyond would be welcome and would build on a longstanding successful record of cooperation.

The main criteria for selection are academic and teaching excellence. The successful candidate will provide evidence of high-quality scholarly output that demonstrates a record for independent research leading to peer-assessed publications. A commitment to seek to secure external research funding, as well as strong potential for outstanding teaching contributions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, dedication to academic and pedagogical excellence, and an ongoing commitment to fostering equity and diversity are requirements for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to make contributions through service to the Department, Faculty, University, and/or broader community. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Queen's University is one of Canada's leading research-intensive universities with a global reputation and is a recognized leader in Canadian higher education. The Departments of Philosophy and Political Studies are both mid-sized units with strong undergraduate, Master's and Doctoral programs and outstanding global reputations. Queen's historic campus is located in the heart of the vibrant Kingston community in the Thousand Islands region of South Eastern Ontario. Queen's is positioned centrally with respect to three major metropolitan areas: Toronto, Montreal, and Ottawa. Additional information about Queen's University can be found at <http://www.queensu.ca/facultyrecruitment>. The University is situated on the traditional territories of the Haudenosaunee and Anishinaabe, in historic Kingston on the shores of Lake Ontario. Kingston's residents enjoy an outstanding quality of life with a wide range of cultural, recreational, and creative opportunities. Visit Inclusive Queen's for information on equity, diversity and inclusion resources and initiatives.

People from across Canada and around the world come to learn, teach and carry out research at Queen's University. Faculty and their dependents are eligible for an extensive benefits package including prescription drug coverage, vision care, dental care, long term disability insurance, life insurance and access to the Employee and Family Assistance Program. You will also participate in a pension plan. Tuition assistance is available for qualifying employees, their spouses and dependent children. Queen's values families and is pleased to provide a 'top up' to government parental leave benefits for eligible employees on maternity/parental leave. In addition, Queen's provides partial reimbursement for eligible daycare expenses for employees with dependent children in daycare. Details are set out in the Queen's-QUFA Collective Agreement. For more information on employee benefits, see Queen's Human Resources.

Queen's University has developed a special program, as described by the Ontario Human Rights Commission, in connection with the search to fill this position.

This opportunity is open only to qualified individuals who self-identify as Black persons including those from Africa or of the African diaspora (e.g. African and Africa descended people from the Caribbean, North America, Europe, or Latin America). Recognizing the intersectionality of identities within Black communities, applications from Black candidates who also, for example, identify as women, persons with disabilities, and 2SLGBTQ+ persons are welcome. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadian citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

To comply with federal laws, the University is obliged to gather statistical information as to how many applicants for each job vacancy are Canadian citizens / permanent residents of Canada. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: "I am a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada"; OR, "I am not a Canadian citizen / permanent resident of Canada". Applications that do not include this information will be deemed incomplete.

In addition, the impact of certain circumstances that may legitimately affect a nominee's record of research achievement will be given careful consideration when assessing the nominee's research productivity. Candidates are encouraged to provide any relevant information about their experience and/or career interruptions.

A complete application consists of:

- a cover letter (including one of the two statements regarding Canadian citizenship / permanent resident status specified in the previous paragraph);
- a current Curriculum Vitae (including a list of publications);
- a statement of research interests;
- a statement of teaching interests and experience (including teaching outlines and evaluations if available);
- a statement of experience in and commitment to facilitation and promotion of equity, diversity, and inclusion;
- a writing sample; and,
- three letters of reference.

The application deadline is May 15, 2021. However, the selection process will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should send all documents, in their application packages by email as a single PDF to Michelle Knapp-Hermer at knappm@queensu.ca although hard copy applications may be submitted to:

Department Manager
Michelle Knapp-Hermer
Department of Political Studies
Queen's University
Mackintosh-Corry Hall, Room C321
68 University Ave
Kingston, ON, K7L 3N6

Applicants should arrange for three letters of reference to be sent by the closing date of May 15, 2021. Letters should be dated, and include the referee's name, position, department, institution, email address and telephone number, the name of the nominee, and the period of time and the capacity in which the referee has known the nominee.

The University will provide support in its recruitment processes to applicants with disabilities, including accommodation that takes into account an applicant's accessibility needs. If you require accommodation during the interview process, please contact Michelle Knapp-Hermer at knappm@queensu.ca.

Academic staff at Queen's University are governed by a Collective Agreement between the University and the Queen's University Faculty Association (QUFA), posted at <http://www.qufa.ca> and at <http://queensu.ca/facultyrelations/faculty-librarians-and-archivists/collective-agreement>.

Only candidates selected for interviews will be contacted.

University of South Carolina

Rank: Postdoc Position in the Founding Documents

Two Year (renewable) Post-Doc Fellowships in the Founding Documents (2)
University of South Carolina, Columbia

July 1, 2021 - June 30, 2023/4

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina is pleased to invite applications for two new two-year (renewable for a third year) Post-Doctoral Political Science Teaching Fellowships focused on teaching and interpreting the documents on which the United States was founded (including the Declaration of Independence, Constitution, Federalist Papers, Emancipation Proclamation, other freedom papers, and more). Two Founding Documents Post-Docs are available, both beginning on July 1, 2021. These twelve-month positions include a five-course teaching load (two in the Fall; two in the Spring, and one in Summer session).

Candidates with interests in the fields of American Politics, Public Law, or American Political Theory are encouraged to apply.

This opportunity is the result of new legislation in South Carolina (the REACH Act) that requires college students in the state to complete a three-credit course that includes the American founding documents. We seek candidates who are committed to teaching students how to place these documents into the intellectual history of democracy within and beyond the United States. Teaching will be limited to courses that satisfy the State's Founding Documents requirement (including POLI 201: American National Government; POLI 304: Contemporary Political Theory; POLI 450: Constitutional Law; POLI 451: Civil Liberties; POLI 452: The Judicial Process).

Requirements:

1. Completion of a Political Science PhD by May 2021 (ABDs are NOT eligible for consideration)
2. Demonstrable experience teaching or researching the history of democracy and/or the founding documents of the United States

Applications should include a cover letter, a statement of commitment to teaching Founding Documents, two letters of reference, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a transcript that states degree completion no later than May 2021 should be submitted through <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/95653>

For best consideration, a complete application should be submitted by April 16, 2021. Applications will be reviewed until the positions are filled.

For questions concerning this position, please contact, Dr. Robert Oldendick, Chair of the Search Committee, at oldendick-bob@sc.edu.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics.

Clemson University

Rank: Lecturer

The Department of Political Science at Clemson University invites applications for three non-tenure track positions as a lecturer to begin in August 2021. Specialization within American politics is open. The successful candidate will be expected to teach multiple sections of Introduction to American Government or Introduction to Political Theory, and will share the Department's commitment to quality undergraduate teaching. Responsibilities include teaching seven combined sections across the Fall and Spring semesters. The successful candidate may have the opportunity to teach upper-level courses within their area of specialization.

Each of these positions are eligible for renewal, subject to annual reappointment review and continued funding and the needs of the department. Lecturers with sustained teaching excellence over multiple years may be eligible for promotion to the rank of Senior Lecturer. A Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of employment is preferred, though ABDs will be considered. Salary is competitive.

The Department of Political Science at Clemson University offers the BA and BS in Political Science, the Master of Public Administration, and the Ph.D. in Policy Studies. At present, we have roughly 350 undergraduate majors, 130 MPA students, and 15 Ph.D. students. The department has 16 full time faculty and 3 full-time staff.

Clemson University is a land-grant institution located along the shores of Lake Hartwell in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The area is valued by many for its wonderful outdoor recreation opportunities, great weather, low cost of living, and friendly people.

University of Copenhagen

Rank: PhD scholarship on "Political Representation in a Digital Age" in the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

Specializations: Political Theory, Quantitative Methods, Political Communication

The Department of Political Science at the University of Copenhagen invites applications for one 3-year PhD scholarship on "Political Representation in a Digital Age". It will be linked to the research project "Advocacy in Digital Democracy: Usage, Impact and Consequences". The research project is funded by the European Research Council and the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen.

The successful candidate will start September 1, 2021 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The project

ADVODID will implement the first large-scale quantitative project designed to provide rich correlational and causal evidence on the effects of advocacy on citizens and policymakers, in both online and offline settings. It sets out to address – theoretically and empirically – the potentials and challenges for modern democracies that arise from digital advocacy tools. Its novelty lies in analyzing the use, impact and democratic consequences of digital advocacy strategies by assessing interactions of advocacy groups with both citizens and political representatives in a diverse set of eight political systems. ADVODID will collect data on the advocacy agenda and strategy use of carefully sampled advocates in these countries, and will assess agenda congruence with political and public agendas, and their dynamic development over time. Correlational analyses of different measures of advocacy success will be complemented by field experiments in cooperation with advocates in two countries, to supply causal evidence on how advocacy affects the positions and actions of policymakers and citizens. The project's rich datasets will be used to assess and refine theories of democratic representation and the role of digital advocacy across different types of policy issues.

The PhD scholarship

The suggested project should speak to the broader theme of "Political Representation in a Digital Age" and be linked to the overall project. At the same time, there is room to design the project so that it makes an individual contribution. The PhD candidate is offered full membership of the project team. S/he will participate in team meetings of the ADVODID project, attend research events in Denmark and abroad and be involved in disseminating findings from the project to the wider public. S/he will write both single and co-authored publications and is also likely to contribute to the data collection of the wider project. In addition, the PhD candidate is expected to participate actively in the vibrant academic community and social life at the department of political science e.g. by attending seminars, lectures, and reading groups.

Are you the right candidate?

Preferred applicants must have a background in political science, social data science, sociology, psychology, economics, anthropology or a related field. They should have an interest in questions related to political representation, interest groups, public opinion and/or public policy. We are looking for a candidate with strong analytical skills and proven methodological qualifications in the collection, processing and analysis of large n data (possibly also social media data). We value candidates that demonstrate an ability to contribute to and enrich the core components of the existing research project as well as intellectual independence. The successful candidate must have strong English language skills but does not need to know Danish. In the assessment, emphasis will be put on academic track-record, experience with social science research and the project proposal.

We accept applications under the 5+3 and the 4+4 PhD program (see information below). Please note that students who are expecting to graduate this term and are awaiting the evaluation of their dissertation/master thesis may apply under the 5+3 program.

Scholarship in the 5+3 or in the 4+4 PhD study programme

The 5+3 PhD study programme

In order to be eligible for a scholarship in the 5+3 PhD study programme the applicant must have completed a two year MSc degree programme, or have earned 120 ECTS credits at an equivalent academic level before starting his or her employment. Applicants should check the study programmes for more detailed descriptions of the entry requirements. PhD students are paid a salary in accordance with the agreement between the Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). The PhD student has a work obligation of up to 840 hours over the 3 year period of time without additional pay. The work obligation includes teaching.

The 4+4 PhD study programme

Students who have completed a BSc plus 60 ECTS of an MSc degree programme would enroll as PhD students simultaneously with their enrolment in the MSc degree programme. Applicants should check the study programmes for more detailed descriptions of the entry requirements. Until an MSc degree is obtained, the grant is paid partly in the form of up to 48 state education grant portions (in Danish: SU-klip). More specifically the PhD student will be paid two grant portions per month plus salary for work (teaching, presentations etc.) which totals a workload of at least 280 hours. Payment and conditions of employment are carried out in accordance with the agreement between the Ministry of Finance and the Danish Confederation of Professional Associations (AC). Upon completion of the MSc degree the student is transferred to the salary-earning part of the PhD studies.

The PhD fellow is expected to seek funding for fieldwork as this is not included in the scholarship.

Application process

On the website of Copenhagen Graduate School of Social Sciences you will find information about the application process, and enclosures to include with your electronic application:

After the expiry of the deadline for applications, the authorized recruitment manager selects applicants for assessment on the advice of the Appointments Committee. All applicants are then immediately notified whether their application has been passed for assessment by an expert assessment committee.

The following criteria apply when we shortlist candidates for assessment:

1. Research qualifications as reflected in the project proposal
2. Quality and feasibility of the project
3. Qualifications and knowledge in relevant disciplines
4. Performance (grades obtained) in graduate and post-graduate studies

5. Department of Political Science can offer adequate supervision for the research topic in question

Selected applicants are notified of the composition of the assessment committee, and each applicant has the opportunity to comment on the part of the assessment that relates to the applicant him/herself. You can read about the recruitment process here.

Texas Tech University

Rank: Instructor in Public Administration

The Master of Public Administration Program in the Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University invites applications for an Instructor position in Public Administration. The position will be teaching-focused, with a 2-2 course load per semester that may include both undergraduate and graduate courses in public administration, Public management, public policy, and political science. The instructor for this position will teach face to face, synchronous classes at Texas Tech University's regional campuses in Collin and Rockwall Counties in the Dallas area. This position will also require some travel between TTU's regional campuses in DFW, Hill country, and Waco and the main campus in Lubbock. Underwriting the costs of these campus trips will be part of the compensation package for this position.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in one or more of the following areas: public management, nonprofit management, human resource management, ethics in the public sector, public policy, research methods, or related topics. Applicants must have substantive knowledge about public and/or nonprofit organizations and possess the ability to teach core and elective courses in the MPA curriculum and have expertise in a specialized area in public or nonprofit management. Applicants will also teach face-to-face undergraduate political science courses on Public Administration, Public Policy, introductory courses in American politics, and other areas of expertise. The specific teaching assignment will be determined based on the abilities and interests of the candidate and the needs of the Department and might include teaching graduate or undergraduate classes in multiple modalities including face-to-face, online, hybrid and remotely. A Ph.D. in Public Administration (or a closely related discipline) is required by the time of the appointment. Responsibilities of the position include delivering outstanding instruction to graduate and undergraduate students, including the ability to teach practitioner-oriented courses to master's students, mentoring MPA students and participating in services. Experience working with diverse student populations and first-generation students is highly desirable. Service duties include program-building, as well as commitment to extra-curricular activities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.

The Department of Political Science has 24 faculty members, offers the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in addition to the MPA. And the Department is home to one of the four campuses with USGS-funded South Central Climate Science Center and works closely with other research institutes on campus such as the National Wind Institute and the Department of Public Health in the TTU Health Sciences Center. The MPA program at Texas Tech University is NASPAA accredited, and the faculty in the Department receive substantial financial resources for research support and conference travel. Texas Tech University is Tier One Carnegie Research Institution and has over 35,000 students in undergraduate and graduate programs that include Arts, Sciences, Medicine, Law, Engineering, Media and Communications, and Agricultural Sciences. Lubbock is a growing city of nearly 250,000 and is the commercial, medical, financial and cultural hub of the South Plains.

Review of applications will begin on May 7, 2021 and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's qualifications, a current CV, and a list of contact information for three references. Please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Nathaniel Wright, at nathaniel.wright@ttu.edu with any questions.

Texas Tech is a Hispanic Serving Institution. As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. ## University of Macau

Rank: Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science (Public Administration)

Associate/Assistant Professor of Political Science

Public Administration

(Ref. No.: FSS/DGPA/PA/AAP/03/2021)

The University of Macau (UM) is the only public comprehensive university in Macao. Leveraging this unique advantage, UM aims to establish itself as a world-class university with regional characteristics. English is its working language. In recent years, UM has seen a significant development in and a rising international recognition for its teaching, research, and community service. It has implemented a unique '4-in-1' education model that integrates discipline-specific education, general education, research and internship education, and community and peer education. Combining this model with the largest residential college system in Asia, UM provides all-round education to students. In addition, it recruits outstanding scholars from around the world to create a multilingual and multicultural learning environment for students. With the development of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area, and the new initiatives of the university to boost cutting-edge research and interdisciplinary programmes, UM embraces unprecedented opportunities for development, and offers bright career prospect to professionals in different areas.

The Department of Government and Public Administration of the Faculty of Social Sciences is inviting applications for academic positions at the rank of Associate/Assistant Professor in the discipline of public administration and public policy. The Department offers programmes leading to Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees. Faculty members actively engage in research with particular focus on comparative politics, public administration and policy, international relations, and studies of the greater China regions. More information about the Department is available at the UM website: <http://www.um.edu.mo/fss/pa/>.

Qualifications

The required area of specialization is public administration, broadly defined to include sub-areas of new/collaborative governance, public policy analysis, smart city management, E-government/governance, government-society interactions, big data and new technological innovation, governance in the Greater China region, and other subjects related to governance and policy-making of public affairs. Appointment may be at the rank of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor. Applicants must have a PhD in a relevant field and a proven record of publication in high calibre international journals and presses. Applicants should document excellence in high quality research and scholarship. They should also demonstrate strong commitment to teaching courses in new governance, public policy analysis, new technologies and innovations in governance, research methods in governance, etc. at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in English and preferably also in Chinese. The Department runs two Chinese-taught postgraduate programmes - the Master of Social Sciences in Public Administration (MPA) and the Doctoral of Public Administration (DPA).

The selected candidate is expected to assume duty in August 2021.

Remuneration

A taxable annual remuneration starting from MOP828,100 (approximately USD102,230) will be commensurate with the successful applicants' academic qualification and relevant professional experience. The current local maximum income tax rate is 12% but is effectively around 5% - 7% after various discretionary exemptions. Apart from competitive remuneration, UM offers a wide range of benefits, such as medical insurance, provident fund, on campus accommodation/housing allowance and other subsidies. Further details on our package are available at: <https://career.admo.um.edu.mo/learn-more/>.

Application Procedure

Applicants should visit <https://career.admo.um.edu.mo/> for more details, and apply ONLINE. Review of applications will commence immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applicants may consider their applications not successful if they are not invited for an interview within 3 months of application.

Miami University

Rank: Heanon Wilkins Faculty Fellows/Visiting Assistant Professor or Instructor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Wilkins Fellows program is named after Professor Emeritus Heanon Wilkins, Miami University's first full-time African-American faculty member. A distinguished professor of Spanish, Portuguese, and Black World Studies, Professor Wilkins received Miami's highest honors in teaching, research, and service, and we honor him with the Wilkins Fellows program. The Wilkins Fellows program is designed to provide those with a strong interest in pursuing a career as a faculty member with dedicated mentoring and intentional preparation for a career in higher education as a faculty member. Our hope is that a significant number of Fellows will choose to apply for positions at Miami and join our ranks of exceptional and dedicated faculty.

Each academic year, we attempt to call for Fellows that align with expected areas of need in the future. The opportunities for Heanon Wilkins Fellows will vary based on the needs of the academic departments. We encourage applications from all areas with particular interest in faculty with expertise in the following areas:

African American History
 Public Law or Race & Politics/Policy
 Global and Intercultural Studies: International Studies; Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies
 French Second-Language Acquisition
 Sociology & Social Justice
 Engineering (all disciplines welcome)
 Computer Science (all sub-disciplines welcome)
 Farmer School of Business (all disciplines welcome)
 Nursing
 Physician Assistant
 Public administration

The Fellowship is for one full academic year (9-month faculty appointment) with the possibility of reappointment to support longer-term research initiatives and projects. Heanon Wilkins Fellows have reduced teaching responsibilities in order to foster a vibrant research program, receive mentoring and career development support, and the opportunity to engage with highly accomplished teacher-scholar faculty colleagues and exceptionally strong students. The Fellows program is designed to prepare individuals to be highly competitive in future faculty searches, especially those we anticipate at Miami University. Thus, there is a strong potential for Fellows to be competitive for both tenure track and/or teaching/clinical professor or lecturer (TCPL) positions, although this is not guaranteed.

Minimum Qualifications:

Miami University welcomes early-career candidates who have completed (or anticipate completing) their doctorate or terminal degree not more than four years prior to the August 2021 appointment date.

This position is available to persons who are currently authorized to work in the United States on a full-time and indefinite basis. (Persons authorized to work on such a basis include US citizens, lawful permanent residents (&quot;green card&quot; holders), asylees, refugees, and temporary residents under IRCA.)

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of proposed research (one to five pages) indicating area or discipline, statement of teaching philosophy, and sample scholarship. Letters of recommendation will be requested from the references listed in the application; the dissertation advisor should be one of those references. Inquiries about the position can be directed to Dana Cox at coxdc4@miamioh.edu.

West Virginia University

Rank: Director of Institute for Policy Research and Public Affairs
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Policy, Public Administration

Job No. 16108

West Virginia University (WVU) seeks a visionary and enterprising leader to serve as the inaugural Director of the Institute for Policy Research and Public Affairs affiliated with Eberly College of Arts and Sciences and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr. School of Policy and Politics. This is a tenured faculty position at the rank of Professor or Associate Professor in the Eberly College. The Director will lead a new initiative to advance public policy and public affairs research and translational activities. This initiative is one of three divisions planned to be established within the Rockefeller School. The other two deal with academic programs and engaged learning and service. In addition to the duties outlined below, the Director would work closely with WVU leadership to help fully establish the Rockefeller School.

As Director, the successful applicant will support faculty and researchers across complementary disciplines to collaboratively build research capacity in public policy. They will strengthen related resources, build on expertise and research capabilities that currently exist across campus, increase externally sponsored research in social and public policy, as well as create partnerships with foundations, industry, government agencies and other universities. As part of this effort, the Director will be expected to recruit Research Fellows to work within the school. In addition to Departments affiliated with the Rockefeller School, Research Fellows may be recruited from within other WVU programs and external institutions and agencies. The Director will connect policy research to the teaching and outreach mission of the Rockefeller School and will report to the office of the Dean of the Eberly College. The Director will have a dedicated administrative assistant as well as support for graduate research students.

Qualifications include a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in Public Policy, Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field; a sustained record of externally funded research in the area of public policy; a record of multidisciplinary scholarship; ability to translate academic research into information for public dissemination and engagement; a record of successful administrative leadership; ability to work collaboratively in a diverse environment with a range of faculty, students, administrators, and external constituents to reach a common goal; ability to develop partnerships with foundations and industry in support of the Institute's programs; understanding of WVU's mission as a land-grant institution; ability to manage budgets and establish fiscal priorities; strong written and oral communication skills; and an established record of research and teaching that will merit appointment at, or promotion to, the rank of Professor or Associate Professor with a grant of tenure at WVU.

WVU is a comprehensive land grant university with approximately 30,000 students and is classified by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education as a very high research (R1) Institution. The Rockefeller School of Policy and Politics currently consists of 21 tenured and tenure-track faculty and is affiliated with the Eberly College of Arts and Sciences.

To apply for this position, please visit <http://hr.research.wvu.edu> and click on the "View Jobs" link. Qualified applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a description of the applicant's potential to further our progress in building a diverse and inclusive academic community (which will be evaluated without regard to the applicant's personal demographics), and contact information for three references. The cover letter should address the applicant's qualifications for each aspect of the responsibilities listed above. For questions or additional information, contact Prof. Duncan Lorimer via e-mail: duncan.lorimer@mail.wvu.edu. The screening process will begin on March 1, 2021 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University community of Morgantown offers plentiful educational opportunities as well as recreational outlets, is within easy driving distance of Pittsburgh, PA, and is about 200 miles northwest of Washington, D.C. WVU is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE award for gender equity. The university is committed to diversity and welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, including minorities, females, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

University of South Carolina

Two Year (renewable) Post-Doc Fellowships in the Founding Documents (2)

University of South Carolina, Columbia

July 1, 2021 - June 30, 2023/4

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina is pleased to invite applications for two new two-year (renewable for a third year) Post-Doctoral Political Science Teaching Fellowships focused on teaching and interpreting the documents on which the United States was founded (including the Declaration of Independence, Constitution, Federalist Papers, Emancipation Proclamation, other freedom papers, and more). Two Founding Documents Post-Docs are available, both beginning on July 1, 2021. These twelve-month positions include a five-course teaching load (two in the Fall; two in the Spring, and one in Summer session).

Candidates with interests in the fields of American Politics, Public Law, or American Political Theory are encouraged to apply.

This opportunity is the result of new legislation in South Carolina (the REACH Act) that requires college students in the state to complete a three-credit course that includes the American founding documents. We seek candidates who are committed to teaching students how to place these documents into the intellectual history of democracy within and beyond the United States. Teaching will be limited to courses that satisfy the State's Founding Documents requirement (including POLI 201: American National Government; POLI 304: Contemporary Political Theory; POLI 450: Constitutional Law; POLI 451: Civil Liberties; POLI 452: The Judicial Process).

Requirements:

1. Completion of a Political Science PhD by May 2021 (ABDs are NOT eligible for consideration)
2. Demonstrable experience teaching or researching the history of democracy and/or the founding documents of the United States

Applications should include a cover letter, a statement of commitment to teaching Founding Documents, two letters of reference, a statement of teaching philosophy, and a transcript that states degree completion no later than May 2021 should be submitted through <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/95653>

For best consideration, a complete application should be submitted by April 16, 2021. Applications will be reviewed until the positions are filled.

For questions concerning this position, please contact, Dr. Robert Oldendick, Chair of the Search Committee, at oldendick-bob@sc.edu.

The University of South Carolina System (www.sc.edu) is comprised of the state's flagship university in Columbia (founded in 1801 and currently one of the top 50 "Best Colleges" according to U.S. News and World Report), three regional comprehensive universities (USC Aiken, USC Beaufort and USC Upstate), and Palmetto College consisting of four two-year campuses (USC Lancaster, USC Salkehatchie, USC Sumter, USC Union and Fort Jackson/Extended University). Together, the USC System institutions offer more than 450 degree programs on campus and online and are uniquely positioned to meet the state's educational, cultural, health and research needs. The System employs nearly 14,000 people who work daily to improve the lives of students, fellow South Carolinians and the world. Our diverse engaged faculty and staff enjoy a dynamic and intellectually stimulating work environment.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics.

Texas Christian University

Rank: Visiting Lecturer in American Judicial Politics

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a one-year lecturer position in American Judicial Politics for the 2021-22 academic year. We seek candidates who are able to teach courses in Constitutional Law (including powers, rights, and liberties), the judicial process, and other courses related to American judicial politics. Preference will be given to candidates who will have completed the Ph.D. in Political Science and have demonstrated the capacity for excellence in the classroom and success as a teacher-scholar. The successful candidate will have a 4/4 teaching load, and the salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, transcript, a portfolio of teaching materials (including a teaching philosophy statement and sample syllabus in an upper level course in the field of American Judicial Politics), and a one-page diversity statement. All materials are to be submitted online at <https://jobs.tcu.edu/en-us/listing/>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent by recommenders or dossier service to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. The finalists for the position will be asked either to submit a video of a teaching demonstration in front of students (approximately 45 minutes in length) or will be asked to give a teaching demonstration during an interview.

We will review applications on receipt and will continue until the position is filled. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the Department of Political Science may be directed to the search committee chair Dr. Ralph Carter at r.carter@tcu.edu

A selective teaching and research university with 11,000 students, TCU is a private, secular institution committed to academic freedom located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth, the 13th largest city in the United States and part of the nation's fourth-largest metropolitan area, is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities, and has easy access to a major international airport. TCU has been recognized for eight consecutive years as one of the "Great Colleges to Work For" by The Chronicle of Higher Education. The TCU Political Science Department has sixteen full-time faculty with nearly 400 majors.

TCU is dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status or any other basis protected by law.

Miami University

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Wilkins Fellows program is named after Professor Emeritus Heanon Wilkins, Miami University's first full-time African-American faculty member. A distinguished professor of Spanish, Portuguese, and Black World Studies, Professor Wilkins received Miami's highest honors in teaching, research, and service, and we honor him with the Wilkins Fellows program. The Wilkins Fellows program is designed to provide those with a strong interest in pursuing a career as a faculty member with dedicated mentoring and intentional preparation for a career in higher education as a faculty member. Our hope is that a significant number of Fellows will choose to apply for positions at Miami and join our ranks of exceptional and dedicated faculty.

Each academic year, we attempt to call for Fellows that align with expected areas of need in the future. The opportunities for Heanon Wilkins Fellows will vary based on the needs of the academic departments. We encourage applications from all areas with particular interest in faculty with expertise in the following areas:

African American History

Public Law or Race & Politics/Policy

French Second-Language Acquisition

Sociology & Social Justice

Engineering (all disciplines welcome)

Computer Science (all sub-disciplines welcome)

Farmer School of Business (all disciplines welcome)

Nursing

Physician Assistant

Public administration

The Fellowship is for one full academic year (9-month faculty appointment) with the possibility of reappointment to support longer-term research initiatives and projects. Heanon Wilkins Fellows have reduced teaching responsibilities in order to foster a vibrant research program, receive mentoring and career development support, and the opportunity to engage with highly accomplished teacher-scholar faculty colleagues and exceptionally strong students. The Fellows program is designed to prepare individuals to be highly competitive in future faculty searches, especially those we anticipate at Miami University. Thus, there is a strong potential for Fellows to be competitive for both tenure track and/or teaching/clinical professor or lecturer (TCPL) positions, although this is not guaranteed.

Minimum Qualifications:

Miami University welcomes early-career candidates who have completed (or anticipate completing) their doctorate or terminal degree not more than four years prior to the August 2021 appointment date.

This position is available to persons who are currently authorized to work in the United States on a full-time and indefinite basis. (Persons authorized to work on such a basis include US citizens, lawful permanent residents (“green card” holders), asylees, refugees, and temporary residents under IRCA.)

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of proposed research (one to five pages) indicating area or discipline, statement of teaching philosophy, and sample scholarship. Letters of recommendation will be requested from the references listed in the application; the dissertation advisor should be one of those references. Inquiries about the position can be directed to Dana Cox at coxdc4@miamioh.edu.

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral/Postgraduate Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Research- and Policy-Related Opportunity at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS)

Professors Alan Gerber and Jacob S. Hacker seek a postdoctoral or postgraduate associate for a one-year, full-time appointment starting in July 2021 (depending on availability). The position is for a researcher with interests in domestic policy-related domains with a desire to help develop new collaborative educational and research opportunities for Yale undergraduate and graduate students at ISPS, housed at the Institution's "Policy Lab." In addition to pursuing his or her own individual research agenda, the successful candidate's responsibilities will include assisting Professors Gerber and Hacker in the development of a new collaborative research-policy initiative, mentoring undergraduate and graduate researchers and undergraduate interns, helping to organize guest speaker and policy skills training workshops, and working with city-, state- and occasionally national-level policy makers. The postdoc may also have an opportunity to teach a course.

Technical skills—such as statistical and computer skills and understanding of social science methods—are highly desirable. Excellent organizational and project management skills are a must. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or equivalent professional degree at the time of hire. Outstanding candidates with a Master's Degree in Public Policy and/or Administration will be considered as well. Salary is negotiable and will be commensurate with experience.

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Review of applications will commence on May 15, 2021 and will continue until a successful candidate is identified. Application materials include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references (who would be contacted during the final stage of consideration). Please apply online at Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/86755>.

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH FLORIDA: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at the University of North Florida seeks candidates for a one-year appointment as a Visiting Assistant Professor. We are seeking experts to teach courses specifically within the department's Master of Public Administration program. These would include some combination of Management of Nonprofit Organizations, Nonprofit Finance, Administration Behavior/ Organization Theory, Human Resources. We are also interested in candidates who can teach Public Administration, Research Methods, Politics and Policy in Local Government, and Ethics. There may be opportunities for elective classes of the candidate's choice at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

The department welcomes the use of innovative teaching technologies including distance learning and hybrid classes. Candidates should demonstrate teaching excellence. The teaching load is four courses per semester. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, Public Administration, or related field is preferred but will consider highly qualified ABD candidates. UNF faculty are expected to maintain the highest standards of academic excellence in all phases of instruction.

UNF is a Carnegie Community Engaged institution. This designation celebrates the University's collaboration with community partners from the local to the global level. It reflects UNF's mission to contribute to the public good and prepare educated, engaged citizens. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through their teaching. The successful candidate will be able to excel at teaching courses throughout the curriculum and be committed to increasing the participation of the members of underrepresented groups.

Applicants must complete an online application and upload supplemental documents at www.unfjobs.org to be considered for this position. Applicants who do not apply online and/or upload all the required documents will not be considered for this position. Once you submit both your completed application and uploaded documents, you will receive a confirmation number. Keep the confirmation number for your records.

Applicants must attach the following required documents to be considered for this position.

- (1) a letter of interest stating teaching interests
- (2) a complete curriculum vitae
- (3) unofficial transcripts
- (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness
- (5) three current professional letters of recommendation (uploaded as one document)

Review of applications will begin April 19, 2021. Open until filled.

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition No: D-21-SPI-00019

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics, a program in the School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University, invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position. Applications are welcome from recent PhDs and PhD students who will earn their degree soon after starting the position.

The researcher will be asked to participate in a project on "time in politics" that focuses on psychological processes related to time (such as impatience and present bias) and their causes and political consequences. The individual will work on aspects of the project that may include compilation and analysis of existing survey questions, development of original surveys, and experimental design. The project will combine a variety of different research approaches. This position will start on or about September 1, 2021.

The position is offered for one year, with the possibility of renewal, contingent upon funding and satisfactory performance. Please submit online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/19761>, a cover letter, a CV, contact information for three recommendations, and a statement of research skills and experience. The statement of research skills should be a separate document not included in the cover letter. Because the project will combine a variety of different approaches, a clear statement of research skills (including descriptions of not only technical/technological expertise but also experience with particular research designs) is an important part of the application. For questions about the position, contact Prof. Markus Prior at mprior@princeton.edu.

The successful candidate will have research experience in political psychology, behavioral economics, or cognitive/social psychology, and a strong background in quantitative research and statistical methods. Experience with questionnaire development and survey design software (e.g., Qualtrics, oTree) is highly desirable, as are data management and programming skills, preferably in STATA. (STATA will be used for this project, but proficiency in equivalent programming languages is acceptable as long as the candidate is willing to learn some STATA.) The candidate should be well organized, attend to detail, and respond to deadlines in a timely fashion.

We at the School of Public and International Affairs believe that it is vital to cultivate an environment that embraces and promotes diversity, equity and inclusion - fundamental to the success of our education and research mission. This commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment and hiring as we actively seek colleagues of exceptional ability who represent a broad range of viewpoints, experiences and value systems, and who share Princeton University's dedication to excellence.

Purdue University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Environmental Policy

Job Summary

Purdue's Political Science Department is seeking two visiting assistant professors for the 2021-2022 academic year in the areas of environmental politics and policy and/or international relations. Each will teach four classes per semester on campus in West Lafayette. We seek scholars prepared to teach introductory courses in public and environmental policy and/or international relations, along with one or more of the following upper level courses: Global Green Politics, International Environmental Policy, Comparative Environmental Policy, International Organizations, Foreign Policy, or Model UN. Ability to teach undergraduate quantitative methods is preferred. We seek candidates who will engage students with broad interests in and beyond political science, and who are committed to creating a diverse, equitable, and inclusive environment in the classroom and department.

Qualifications

Must have completed all requirements for the PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, Environmental Studies or a closely related field prior to August 1, 2021. Postsecondary teaching experience in political science, public policy, or closely related field is required.

The College and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. Political Science faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers on campus, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, the Human Rights Program, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. In addition to the major, the Department is home to graduate and undergraduate certificates and minors in environmental politics and policy, public policy, and human rights.

Applications

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, at least three letters of reference, graduate transcripts, a statement on diversity, equity, and inclusiveness in the classroom, and a teaching portfolio. Application materials must be submitted electronically via <https://careers.purdue.edu/> with job id 13349.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in a separate Diversity and Inclusion Statement indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin April 12th and continue until the positions are filled. Questions should be addressed to Department Head Cherie Maestas at cmaestas@purdue.edu.

The anticipated salary range is $52,000 – $55,000 for the academic year. This position is contingent on final budget approval.

A background check is required for employment in this position.

Ability to work in the US without immigration sponsorship from Purdue University.

Equal Opportunity

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Duke Kunshan University

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Policy

Duke Kunshan University (DKU) invites applications to a faculty position in public policy, beginning in the academic year 2022-23. We will consider applications from a wide range of areas, including but not limited to, environmental policy, health policy, regulation and governance, and comparative public policy.

DKU's diverse international faculty is committed to preparing policy-makers who can solve policy problems in diverse contexts. We do this by encouraging an explicitly comparative approach in our diverse and multinational classrooms, an approach that aims to facilitate a deep understanding of the mechanisms, values, and processes underlying public policy. We are thus building a cohort of public policy faculty across the university who will expand scholarly analysis in public policy while working alongside fellow researchers and students in the diverse DKU majors in which public policy appears—including Global Health, Environmental Science, Institutions and Governance, Political Economy, U.S. Studies, and Ethics and Leadership. We seek a colleague excited by this project to advance international and comparative research in public policy.

Successful candidates will articulate how they might contribute to DKU's Interdisciplinary Curriculum. These positions are open with regard to rank including tenured, tenure track and non-tenure track. Mid-career and senior faculty are especially encouraged to apply.

As an international intellectual community that encourages diversity, openness and creative learning, DKU welcomes outstanding faculty from around the world who contribute diverse perspectives and experiences to a global learning and research environment. DKU particularly welcomes applications from underrepresented groups and minorities.

Duke Kunshan University (DKU) is a collaborative partnership of Duke University, Wuhan University and the Municipality of Kunshan, China (<https://dukekunshan.edu.cn>). Faculty teach and conduct research in interdisciplinary clusters without traditional departmental silos. Students are active participants in a distinctive and integrated liberal arts and sciences experience.

A highly selective institution with an acceptance rate of <math>8\%</math>, the current student body represents over 50 countries. Students receive a DKU and a Duke degree. The undergraduate student body will number 2000 students. DKU values research excellence and a commitment to pedagogical innovation in the context of an interdisciplinary research-oriented undergraduate curriculum. The current faculty to student ratio is 7:1.

The DKU campus is 37 miles west of Shanghai in Kunshan, and is connected to Shanghai via an 18-minute high-speed train. Phase 2 of the LEED certified campus is already under construction, and will provide expanded access to superior research facilities. DKU provides internationally competitive compensation, housing allowance, child education benefits (for applicable faculty positions), and a discretionary fund or start-up package.

In order to meet Chinese visa requirements, prior to the position start date international (non-Chinese) candidates must 1) have worked full-time (work experience obtained while studying full-time is not considered as full-time work experience) for at least two years in a relevant area (including post-doctoral work) after receiving their Bachelor's degree, or 2) begin their appointment at DKU within 12 months of obtaining their Ph.D. and without having full-time work experience between graduation date on their Ph.D. diploma and position start date.

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. degree or equivalent in an appropriate field. Applicants should provide a cover letter including a clear statement of the candidate's specific interest in DKU, a curriculum vitae, a research statement, and a teaching statement, as well as three reference letters. All materials should be submitted through Academic Jobs Online: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/18355>. The search committee also invites and encourages letters of nomination for potential candidates. Nominations and questions about the positions may be sent to social-science-search@dukekunshan.edu.cn using "Public Policy" as the subject line. Priority will be given to applications received by May 1, 2021; we will accept applications until the positions are filled.

University of Rhode Island

DEPARTMENT BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The University of Rhode Island invites applications for a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow in land use policy. Funded by a grant from the USDA, we seek a scholar to collaborate on research at the intersection of behavioral economics, democratic institutions, and land use policy. The project consists of designing, conducting, and analyzing a series of public opinion surveys of American voters and elected officials. The project builds on a long-term project of the Principal Investigators (PIs), Dr. Shanna Pearson-Merkowitz and Dr. Corey Lang, studying public opinion about land use decisions. There are no formal teaching responsibilities for this position but will include working with and managing undergraduate students for data collection. The selected candidate will work under the joint supervision of PIs in the Department of Environmental and Natural Resource Economics and the Department of Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in economics, political science, public policy, or closely related disciplines will be considered.

Position is full-time calendar year, limited to 07/31/2022, with anticipated renewal.

APPLICATION DEADLINE

The search will remain open until the position has been filled. First consideration will be given to applications received by April 8, 2021. Second consideration may be given to applications received by May 6, 2021. Applications received subsequent to second consideration date (May 6, 2021) may not be given full consideration.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Work closely with Principal Investigators, Shanna Pearson-Merkowitz and Corey Lang, to conduct proposed research to fulfill grant objectives.

Design, program, and conduct surveys.

Write manuscripts for publication.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) PhD in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy, or related field at time of appointment.
- 2) Demonstrated research experience in behavioral economics, American politics, or non-market valuation.
- 3) Demonstrated research experience as part of a research team.
- 4) Demonstrated data management and quantitative analysis skills.
- 5) Demonstrated strong written communication skills.
- 6) Demonstrated strong oral communication skills.
- 7) Demonstrated ability to work with diverse groups/populations.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

- 1) Experience working on interdisciplinary projects.
- 2) Experience in designing, programming, conducting, or analyzing surveys.
- 3) Must be creative, able to think critically, and hard-working.

New York University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate (CTL)

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Economic Policy

Postdoctoral Associate To Work on Causal Inference Modeling for the Cash Transfer Lab (CTL) at New York University.

The postdoctoral associate will be a part of the Cash Transfer Lab at NYU. The lab's initial focus will be on a cash transfer that has been made annually to every Alaskan resident since 1982, the Permanent Fund Dividend. The amount of the transfer varies year-to-year and is arguably exogenous. The generic way to conceptualize this is as a continually treated population whose dosage varies independently from year to year. More generally, the lab seeks to better understand how to rigorously estimate causal effects of UBI programs worldwide.

CTL will adopt a hub and spoke model. The hub is an intellectual infrastructure that can support and lower the barrier to entry for research on substantive areas (the spokes). The primary job of the postdoctoral associate is to build this causal inference modeling infrastructure.

You will report to Dr. Sarah K. Cowan, CTL Founder and Executive Director and Assistant Professor of Sociology at NYU and Dr. Jennifer Hill, Professor of Applied Statistics and Data Science at NYU.

Responsibilities may include, but are not limited to:

Writing a peer reviewed journal article on approaches to this case

Developing new approaches to identifying causal effects

Writing code/packages to implement developed approaches

Advising applied research teams on their approaches

This position will begin as early as May 15, 2021. It will be remote at least until September 1, 2021. After that point, we will be flexible with regard to whether the position is remote, in-person or hybrid based on the state of the pandemic as well as individual needs.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in any one of the following fields: Statistics, Applied Statistics, Biostatistics, Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Demography, Public Health or a closely related discipline. Ph.D. must be completed by September 2021.

Application Instructions

Please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/85237> to apply. To apply for this position, please submit a CV, two writing samples that are either sole-authored or you took the lead on analysis and associated code. Please also provide the names and contact information for three references to whom we will reach out for finalists. We are not asking for a cover letter or research statement. Finalists will also be given a short assignment and be invited to interview. Review of applications will begin on March 29th.

Oklahoma State University

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly altered our communities, our institutions, and our world. Globally, health care infrastructure, scientific research communities, arts and culture organizations, policy-making bodies, local and national economies, K-12 schools and higher education, as well as social service agencies have had to respond to unprecedented challenges. Existing inequities have been magnified and exacerbated. Research that addresses infectious diseases has risen dramatically in importance over the last year and endemic- and pandemic-related studies promise to be an impactful area of research and creative activity for the foreseeable future.

The College of Arts and Sciences (CAS) at Oklahoma State University is recruiting up to five open-rank faculty members to specialize in endemic- and pandemic-related research. This is a cluster-hire that will lead to the hiring of at least one open-rank faculty member in each of CAS's three pillars: Arts and Humanities, Sciences, and Social Sciences. Information on individual departments may be found here: https://cas.okstate.edu/departments\_and\_programs. The goal is to cultivate an interdisciplinary research community dedicated to critical questions related to infectious disease and endemic/pandemic studies. This new area of research emphasis will be facilitated by the Oklahoma Pandemic Center for Innovation and Excellence (<https://oklahoma.gov/opcie>), currently under development in Stillwater, OK, the location of Oklahoma State University's main campus. In addition to a robust trajectory in research and creative activities, these faculty will be expected to make meaningful contributions to teaching and service, and to help CAS and their home departments move forward in the areas of diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI).

Critical research topics related to the Social Sciences include but are not limited to: public health access, distribution, and inequities; influences on attitudes, health behavior, and/or public health outcomes; intersections of inequality; health/science communication; human-environment interactions and spatio-temporal analyses; risk assessment and perceptions; vulnerabilities and resilience; and associated public policy.

Applicants are asked to submit the following items via Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/84982> cover letter; curriculum vita; statement of research interests related to endemics/pandemics and infectious diseases; teaching statement that addresses their pedagogical philosophy; DEI statement that discusses past, present, and future contributions to inclusive excellence in the areas of research, teaching, and/or service; and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin April 5, 2021, and will continue until the positions are filled. Employment will start August 2021 or as negotiated. General Information

Oklahoma State University is a comprehensive flagship, land-grant, Carnegie Tier 1 research institution with more than 24,000 students on its combined Stillwater and Tulsa campuses. Students come from all 50 states and around 120 nations. With 24 departments and approximately 6,000 students, CAS is the largest and most diverse college at OSU. CAS interdisciplinary programs and centers include Africana Studies, American Indian Studies, American Studies, Gender and Women's Studies, and Religious Studies. Since 2010, OSU has been first in the nation among public land-grant colleges and universities for graduating Native American students. OSU's main campus is located in Stillwater, which is about a 1-hour drive from both Oklahoma City and Tulsa. Stillwater has a historic downtown, a regional airport with direct flights to/from Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW), highly rated public schools, and the newly opened McKnight Center for the Performing Arts.

OSU's Commitment to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

At Oklahoma State University, diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) matter. Providing a wide range of ways to understand and engage with the world, identifying opportunities and creating solutions are core to our mission as a land-grant university. We fulfill our mission and enrich our campus community by maintaining a welcoming and inclusive environment that appreciates, values and fosters a sense of belonging for all. ## University of Rhode Island

Rank: Lecturer in Public Policy/Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island anticipates an opening for a lecturer position. This is a full-time academic year appointment at the rank of lecturer for the 2021-2022 academic year but with anticipated renewal to commence in the Fall of 2022. Lecturers may be eligible for the promotional process to Senior Lecturer or Teaching Professor dependent on time in rank.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's mission is to "inspire an enlightened community that is characterized by vibrant cultural diversity; that embraces difference; that is built upon a learning environment that fosters respect, understanding, and social justice; and that rejects prejudice and intolerance." Our department seeks candidates whose principles align with that mission.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Applicants will be expected to teach graduate-level political science courses in the areas of Public Policy and Public Administration that serve as requirements for an online Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree with online graduate certificates in Policy Analysis and Public Management. Applicants will also teach face-to-face undergraduate political science courses on Public Administration, Public Policy, introductory courses in American politics, and other areas of expertise.

University of Chicago

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher – International Development and International Policy

The Harris School of Public Policy seeks postdoctoral researchers in international development and international policy. Postdoctoral researchers work on independent research under a senior faculty member's guidance, teach 2 quarter-length courses per year, and participate in the academic life of the school (including attending workshops and seminars). The position of postdoctoral researcher at the rank of instructor, is initially for a one-year, renewable term.

Candidates should have a demonstrated record of research achievement. Candidates are expected to complete their PhD by the appointment start date. To apply for this position, candidates must submit their application through the University of Chicago's Interfolio academic jobs board at: <https://apply.interfolio.com/84055>. Applicants must upload a: 1) cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) one writing sample; and 4) two letters of recommendation. Applicants may also submit optional documents such as a third letter of reference and/or an additional writing sample. Review of applications will begin on March 11, 2021. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2021.

Start Date:*Application Deadline: 6/30/2021Date Posted: 2/10/2021Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 8584Miami University*Rank: Heanon Wilkins Faculty Fellows/Visiting Assistant Professor or InstructorSubfield(s): Public Law, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Wilkins Fellows program is named after Professor Emeritus Heanon Wilkins, Miami University's first full-time African-American faculty member. A distinguished professor of Spanish, Portuguese, and Black World Studies, Professor Wilkins received Miami's highest honors in teaching, research, and service, and we honor him with the Wilkins Fellows program. The Wilkins Fellows program is designed to provide those with a strong interest in pursuing a career as a faculty member with dedicated mentoring and intentional preparation for a career in higher education as a faculty member. Our hope is that a significant number of Fellows will choose to apply for positions at Miami and join our ranks of exceptional and dedicated faculty.

Each academic year, we attempt to call for Fellows that align with expected areas of need in the future. The opportunities for Heanon Wilkins Fellows will vary based on the needs of the academic departments. We encourage applications from all areas with particular interest in faculty with expertise in the following areas:

African American History
 Public Law or Race & Politics/Policy
 Global and Intercultural Studies: International Studies; Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies
 French Second-Language Acquisition
 Sociology & Social Justice
 Engineering (all disciplines welcome)
 Computer Science (all sub-disciplines welcome)
 Farmer School of Business (all disciplines welcome)
 Nursing
 Physician Assistant
 Public administration

The Fellowship is for one full academic year (9-month faculty appointment) with the possibility of reappointment to support longer-term research initiatives and projects. Heanon Wilkins Fellows have reduced teaching responsibilities in order to foster a vibrant research program, receive mentoring and career development support, and the opportunity to engage with highly accomplished teacher-scholar faculty colleagues and exceptionally strong students. The Fellows program is designed to prepare individuals to be highly competitive in future faculty searches, especially those we anticipate at Miami University. Thus, there is a strong potential for Fellows to be competitive for both tenure track and/or teaching/clinical professor or lecturer (TCPL) positions, although this is not guaranteed.

Minimum Qualifications:

Miami University welcomes early-career candidates who have completed (or anticipate completing) their doctorate or terminal degree

not more than four years prior to the August 2021 appointment date.

This position is available to persons who are currently authorized to work in the United States on a full-time and indefinite basis. (Persons authorized to work on such a basis include US citizens, lawful permanent residents (&quot;green card&quot; holders), asylees, refugees, and temporary residents under IRCA.)

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of proposed research (one to five pages) indicating area or discipline, statement of teaching philosophy, and sample scholarship. Letters of recommendation will be requested from the references listed in the application; the dissertation advisor should be one of those references. Inquiries about the position can be directed to Dana Cox at coxdc4@miamioh.edu.

West Virginia University (WVU) seeks a visionary and enterprising leader to serve as the inaugural Director of the Institute for Policy Research and Public Affairs affiliated with Eberly College of Arts and Sciences and the John D. Rockefeller, Jr. School of Policy and Politics. This is a tenured faculty position at the rank of Professor or Associate Professor in the Eberly College. The Director will lead a new initiative to advance public policy and public affairs research and translational activities. This initiative is one of three divisions planned to be established within the Rockefeller School. The other two deal with academic programs and engaged learning and service. In addition to the duties outlined below, the Director would work closely with WVU leadership to help fully establish the Rockefeller School.

As Director, the successful applicant will support faculty and researchers across complementary disciplines to collaboratively build research capacity in public policy. They will strengthen related resources, build on expertise and research capabilities that currently exist across campus, increase externally sponsored research in social and public policy, as well as create partnerships with foundations, industry, government agencies and other universities. As part of this effort, the Director will be expected to recruit Research Fellows to work within the school. In addition to Departments affiliated with the Rockefeller School, Research Fellows may be recruited from within other WVU programs and external institutions and agencies. The Director will connect policy research to the teaching and outreach mission of the Rockefeller School and will report to the office of the Dean of the Eberly College. The Director will have a dedicated administrative assistant as well as support for graduate research students.

Qualifications include a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in Public Policy, Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field; a sustained record of externally funded research in the area of public policy; a record of multidisciplinary scholarship; ability to translate academic research into information for public dissemination and engagement; a record of successful administrative leadership; ability to work collaboratively in a diverse environment with a range of faculty, students, administrators, and external constituents to reach a common goal; ability to develop partnerships with foundations and industry in support of the Institute's programs; understanding of WVU's mission as a land-grant institution; ability to manage budgets and establish fiscal priorities; strong written and oral communication skills; and an established record of research and teaching that will merit appointment at, or promotion to, the rank of Professor or Associate Professor with a grant of tenure at WVU.

WVU is a comprehensive land grant university with approximately 30,000 students and is classified by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education as a very high research (R1) Institution. The Rockefeller School of Policy and Politics currently consists of 21 tenured and tenure-track faculty and is affiliated with the Eberly College of Arts and Sciences.

To apply for this position, please visit <http://hr.research.wvu.edu> and click on the "View Jobs" link. Qualified applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a description of the applicant's potential to further our progress in building a diverse and inclusive academic community (which will be evaluated without regard to the applicant's personal demographics), and contact information for three references. The cover letter should address the applicant's qualifications for each aspect of the responsibilities listed above. For questions or additional information, contact Prof. Duncan Lorimer via e-mail: duncan.lorimer@mail.wvu.edu. The screening process will begin on March 1, 2021 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University community of Morgantown offers plentiful educational opportunities as well as recreational outlets, is within easy driving distance of Pittsburgh, PA, and is about 200 miles northwest of Washington, D.C. WVU is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE award for gender equity. The university is committed to diversity and welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, including minorities, females, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.
