Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: Director of Washington, D.C. Semester Program & Lecturer

Director of Washington, D.C. Semester Program & Lecturer

About College of the Holy Cross:

Founded in 1843 in Worcester, Massachusetts, the College of the Holy Cross is among the nation's leading liberal arts institutions. A highly selective, four-year, exclusively undergraduate college of 3,100 students, Holy Cross is renowned for offering a rigorous, personalized education in the Jesuit, Catholic tradition.

Holy Cross highly values the unique skills, perspective, talents and passion that each employee contributes to its learning community. To work at The College is to accept an invitation to participate in the growth and development of all campus members, students, faculty and staff. The College's commitment to diversity is an important feature of the Holy Cross education. Informed by the presence of diverse interpretations of the human experience, Holy Cross is building a community marked by freedom, mutual respect, and civility. We seek others who support our values of diversity and inclusiveness. Job candidates of all diverse backgrounds who embrace the open and inclusive culture of Holy Cross are welcome and encouraged to apply.

Job Description:

The Director of the Washington Semester Program is a full-time, eleven-month or twelve-month (negotiable) administrative faculty position responsible for overseeing all aspects (including residential, academic, internships, financial, risk management, alumni networking, and student support) of the program for 38-40 Holy Cross student participants annually. This interdisciplinary program housed in the J.D. Power Center for Liberal Arts in the World currently consists of three primary components for student participants: a 32 hour a week internship experience, one public policy course, and an independent research project. In addition to administrative responsibilities, the Washington, D.C. based Director will teach one in-person course per semester to students participating in the program.

Major Areas of Responsibility

Provide leadership and vision for the Washington Semester Program that aims for an excellent, inclusive educational experience for student participants. Work collaboratively with J.D. Power Center and other Holy Cross colleagues to develop goals and strategies to implement this vision.

Continuously remain updated on ideas, thinking, and trends in Washington Semester Programs to ensure the program is remaining aligned with best practices.

Teach an in-person, weekly public policy course (or another closely related, relevant topic) that provides an intellectual framework to support student learning in the Washington, D.C. internship experiences.

Oversee the recruitment, application, and selection process of students in collaboration with the Coordinator of Semester Programs. Strive for inclusive excellence in seeking to recruit participants that are representative of the student body as a whole.

Travel to Holy Cross at least three times a year to recruit/select prospective students, provide support to future participants, and meet with faculty advisors.

Identify potential internship sites and meet with existing internship sites at least once each semester to ensure that the internships are appropriate to the goals of our program. Communicate regularly with internship sites to outline program expectations. Work with the Coordinator of Semester Programs and the Center for Career Development to develop and maintain records on Handshake of DC internship opportunities.

Advise accepted students about internship opportunities. Work collaboratively with the Center for Career Development and the J.D. Power Center staff to design and co-facilitate a multi-session workshop for students before they go to D.C. to ensure they are supported in the internship search process and are prepared to get the most from their time in D.C. Include representatives from areas such as residence life, student development, and the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion to prepare students for the independent living aspect of this experience.

Select a housing vendor for the DC Semester Program with consideration of convenience to internship sites, student safety, and costs. Work with the Coordinator of Semester Programs to finalize contracts and payments.

Oversee the process by which students select roommates in the DC semester program.

Offer an orientation to students once they arrive in D.C. Develop and implement a plan to check-in with students individually to ensure they are adjusting well to this independent living and learning experience. Work with Student Development to put systems in place to resolve roommate conflicts and provide overall student support as needed.

Oversee the process through which students are matched with a research advisor. Serve as a research advisor to political science majors when the number of majors exceeds 12 and/or when a student is unable to find an available advisor within their major. In most cases the non-political science majors will secure a thesis adviser from their major department in order to get credit toward their major. Communicate thesis expectations clearly to students and advisors.

Work collaboratively with the Chair of the Political Science department to determine staffing of the remote D.C. research seminar.

Check-in with research advisors and students regularly to provide guidance and support with the independent research project. Oversee semester-end research/internship presentation session for all program participants. Collaborate with research advisors on determining presentation grade.

Work collaboratively with the J.D. Power Center Assistant Director and Coordinator of Semester Programs to gather mid-semester and semester-end feedback on student internship performance via Qualtrics. Work with the Coordinator to ensure this feedback is communicated to students.

Work collaboratively with the J.D. Power Center Assistant Director to collect and analyze student assessment data each semester.

Organize an alumni speaker series and connect students to alumni mentors for networking.

Work collaboratively with the Departments of Public Safety and Risk Management to develop and maintain risk management plans that can adapt to circumstances as they arise.

Oversee the program budget and allocation of financial support to students. Send communications to students in advance of their departure for D.C. about what level of financial support they can anticipate during their semester away. Work with the Coordinator of Semester Programs to ensure checks are distributed and the Office of Financial Aid is notified of awards.

Engage with the J.D. Power Center by regularly attending staff meetings and communicating with others in the Center about upcoming dates, deadlines, and events associated with the D.C. Semester Program.

Organize 1-2 events for Holy Cross students who may be doing independent internships in D.C. during the summer months. Help connect Holy Cross students to alumni/internship supervisors in D.C. as requested.

As needed, respond to the following tasks over the summer: distribution of financial aid; assistance with internship advising; and responding to student/family questions about the program.

Requirements:

- PhD or graduate degree with relevant college-level teaching experience.
- Experience with higher education administration.

Core Competencies

- Dependability
- Flexibility
- Responsiveness
- Service-Oriented
- Excellent Written & Verbal Communication
- Proficient Problem Solving
- Understanding of Risk Management
- Excellent Innovation/Creativity

- Strong Teamwork & Team Facilitation

University of South Carolina

Rank: Director of the Masters in Public Administration Program

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for Director of the Master of Public Administration program, to begin August 16, 2023. The appointment will be at the Associate or Full Professor level. Applicants from all areas of public administration and public policy are invited to apply. The successful candidate will show evidence of excellence in teaching and an active research agenda. Demonstrated administrative experience is also desirable. The position requires a Ph.D. in political science, plus years of academic experience consistent with academic policy for faculty rank, by the start date of appointment.

The successful candidate is expected to lead program building efforts, manage the program's NASPAA accreditation and assessment process; support faculty research and teaching, oversee the delivery of the program, and maintain strong relationships with the program's external stakeholders.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster, and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

At the University of South Carolina, we strive to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming, and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. The University is committed to eliminating barriers created by institutional discrimination through accountability and continuous process improvement. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, sex, gender, gender identity, transgender status, age, color, religion, national origin, disability, sexual orientation, genetics, protected veteran status, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions.

How to Apply

Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement of research and teaching interests; contact information (including telephone number and email address) for three references; and a diversity statement that articulates the candidate's commitment and capacity to contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion through research, teaching, mentoring, outreach, and engagement. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation (which must be submitted on appropriate letterhead). Responsibilities:

- Design and deliver hands-on workshops on research methods, tools, and applications, including the collection or use of datasets, according to affiliates' needs

- Research and statistical consulting to CSDP affiliates and make recommendations and oversee the selection of research-relevant software
- Assist with the review, selection, recruiting, and mentoring of CSDP's fellows and research staff

- Assist with reading and selecting grant applications submitted for CSDP funding and also with the development and writing of CSDP directors' applications and proposals for funding

- Develop and oversee a new MPA fellows' program and supervise its fellows including their research activities and their policy-oriented writing

- Write reports and other content translating CSDP research for public and policymaker audiences, with the assistance of the MPA fellows

Essential requirements:

- PhD in political science

- Training in and experience using political science research methods including a strong quantitative background

- Strong programming skills, including in R

- At least one publication in an academic political science journal on topics in CSDP's core mission (the study of democratic politics)

- Minimum one-year post-PhD work experience in an academic setting

- Experience teaching research methods, data science, or related programming skills, or advising student activities in these areas

- Meticulous attention to detail and ability to proof one's own work and others'

- Demonstrated ability for creative problem-solving, active listening and interpersonal skills, empathy for others, proactive approach to work issues, openness to feedback on one's work performance, and taking initiative to address, anticipate and head off problems

- Experience with managing research projects from initiation through completion

- Eagerness to collaborate on projects and to cooperate with others in the work environment

- Motivated to produce at a high level of productivity and excellence

Preferred:

- Experience with data use agreements and how to develop partnerships and collaborations to obtain data

- working with or merging large or administrative datasets

- Specialized technical skills for the social sciences

- Experience communicating about political science or policy for broad audience

The RD will have a research budget for their use in attending conferences and similar activities facilitating their ongoing professional development as a researcher.

The position is for a three-year term, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance. This position is subject to a background check.

Applicants must submit a CV, a cover letter describing their areas of expertise and research interests, and contact information for three references. References may be contacted for the candidates who make the shortlist for this position.

The submission must be online via AHIRE link.: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/29741>

Salary - $70,625 - $162,785 per year

Pay scale & grade - AD 2 - 4

This job is open to the public - All U.S. Citizens

Summary

National Defense University (NDU) supports the joint warfighter by providing rigorous Joint Professional Military Education to members of the U.S. Armed Forces and select others in order to develop leaders who have the ability to operate and creatively think in an unpredictable and complex world.

This is a Title 10 Excepted Service Appointment. Appointment is not to exceed 3 years with the possibility for extension.

Duties

The incumbent of this position serves as a faculty member at the Dwight D. Eisenhower School for National Security and Resource Strategy (ES), National Defense University (NDU). The position entails multiple activities related to supporting the mission and academic programs of NDU and ES. These activities are aligned with the Teaching, Research, Engagement, Service, and Accountability (TRESA) performance evaluation model. Primary activities are described below.

Serving as a strategic leadership subject matter expert, provides expertise as a member of a collaborative team of peers to develop and conduct graduate-level seminar instruction within the interdisciplinary ES core curriculum in areas related specifically to the Strategic Leadership (SL) curriculum such as leading organizational change; influencing culture; scanning and interpreting the national security environment; critical, creative, and strategic thinking; interpersonal skills; and case studies related to governmental organizations, private industry, and the military.

Participates in the planning and development of the ES curriculum and serves as the principal proponent for overall outcomes, content, and methods for the Strategic Leader core course, leadership-related electives, and other portions of the ES curriculum. Recommends lecture topics, course content, educational methods, and other curriculum requirements. Plays a leadership role in the planning and development of curriculum material on strategic leadership, to include senior-level decision-making processes; negotiations in complex environments; enhancing the profession of arms; understanding civil-military relations; and exhibiting ethical behavior. Based on needs of the Eisenhower School, conducts research in support of program outcomes and school mission.

Maintains and enhances professional relationships with existing ES stakeholders in support of the ES mission, such as: maintains and enhances professional relationships and standing, domestically or internationally, with senior educators, business leaders, industrialists or public officials; enlists stakeholder services in reinforcing the quality of instruction in the ES curriculum; stays abreast of new developments in the fields relevant to the ES curriculum; or, maintains/increases standing in professional organizations/associations in the fields of strategic leadership, national security strategy, or resourcing. Mentors, counsels, and advises graduate students in role of primary faculty advisor to several students, supporting advisees' orientation to the school, providing feedback on their initial writing assignment, and serving as their liaison/advocate with school administration. Serves as research adviser to individual students and student groups performing research on topics of academic interest relevant to strategic leadership, national security decision making, acquisition, and other aspects of national security and resourcing strategy. In this role, assists students in consultations with highest level officials of the Department of Defense (DOD) and other government departments, senior executives of business firms, and leaders of the civilian academic community. Mentoring may include completing end-of-year student evaluations in accordance with DoD, NDU, and ES policy.

In addition to the Strategic Leadership course, prepares and conducts graduate-level seminar instruction in ES multidisciplinary courses related to national security and resource strategy. This could include participation or leadership of an Eisenhower School elective. This could also include participation or leadership of an Industry Study (examining one of 20 industries and their relationships to U.S. national security), leadership of an NDU-wide elective, and mentorship of students in multidisciplinary capstone strategy or resourcing exercises. Some courses require extensive planning and execution of domestic and international field study experiences involving budgetary, logistic and administrative program management and leadership skills. Additionally, service could entail participation on ES and NDU task-specific working groups as directed.

School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership

Rank: Associate or Full Professor/CPTL Director

Associate or Full Professor/CPTL Director
School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership
Arizona State University
Director, Center for Political Thought and Leadership

Arizona State University invites applications for the position of Director of the Center for Political Thought and Leadership (CPTL), a senior faculty position within the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL) as a tenured full or associate professor. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University (ASU) as the most innovative university in the country for the past eight years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking is the new School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to develop a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation by blending liberal arts education and civic education. As one of the School's two centers, The Center for Political Thought and Leadership (CPTL) focuses on civic education, especially American political and constitutional thought; for higher education and the broader public, and particularly for K-12 schools.

DESCRIPTION:

The Center for Political Thought and Leadership is a research and outreach center within the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL) at ASU. The Center aims to foster research in American political and constitutional thought and to support civic education at the K-12 and postsecondary levels, and for the broader public. The CPTL supports scholars, teachers, students, and community members in their efforts to understand and improve American political society and civil society, and to become citizen leaders in the public and private sectors. SCETL and the CPTL were co-leaders of the national study on K-12 civics and history education released in 2021, Educating for American Democracy, and the Center staff with support from SCETL faculty undertake teacher professional development workshops to implement the civics reforms proposed in that study, and other efforts to improve civics curricula. The Center also organizes a summer civics institute for high school students and their teachers, the Civic Leadership Institute; the Arizona Constitution

Project; the Race and the American Story Project; the Veterans Inspiring Patriotism program; and an online Civic Literacy Curriculum.

The Director of the Center for Political Thought and Leadership will be a tenured faculty member in the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL), which supervises and supports the Center. The Director will coordinate with the CPTL staff and the SCETL faculty who support the Center, and with both the Director and Associate Director of SCETL, on strategy, planning, and administration of the Center and its programs. The Director also will be responsible for obtaining and administering grants, and donor funds, to support existing and planned Center activities.

DUTIES:

In addition to the specific strategic and administrative duties noted above, the CPTL Director as tenured faculty member will be expected to meet the normal requirements of a regular faculty member at ASU: to have an active, productive, and nationally recognized research agenda in accordance with ASU's status as an R1 research institution, and to engage in regular teaching (with a reduced course load given administrative duties). The Director also will take a leading role in coordinating with the Board of Counselors for SCETL and the CPTL, a distinguished group of political and civic leaders.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science, History, American Studies, or a related field, or a J.D. Possess a record of research activity sufficient for tenure at an R1 research university, with some focus on American political thought, leadership, and civic education; Demonstrated experience as a director of or leader in an academic center, program, or institute beyond departmental leadership roles. Demonstrated commitment to working with diverse student, faculty, and staff populations and communities.

DESIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Ongoing, nationally recognized research agenda focusing on American political thought, leadership, and civic education and supported by a record of successful publications both in academic and popular outlets; Experience in research or teaching focus on civic education and on leadership;

Demonstrated experience in building and leading academic programs and managing support staff

Demonstrated ability to acquire external funding from donors, and experience writing successful grant applications

Evidence leading a speakers or public events programs.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences within ASU values our demographic, cultural, and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community. Learn more about what The College has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Application Deadline and Procedure: The application deadline is May 5, 2023; if not filled, every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, submit application materials to <http://apply.interfolio.com/122547>. 1) curriculum vitae; 2) cover letter addressing your interest and qualifications (addressed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. Adam Seagrave); 3) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 4) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to demographic, cultural, and intellectual diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence.

For further information, contact the committee Chair: Adam Seagrave, Adam.Seagrave@asu.edu.

A background check is required prior to employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination policy (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>.

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ## Rice University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

The Local Elections in America Project (LEAP) at Rice University in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a one or two-year postdoctoral research associate, beginning July 1, 2023. The Postdoctoral Research Associate is expected to divide time between their own research agenda and work on a project focused on increasing voter participation in "Voting Deserts," communities with historically low levels of civic engagement. The project takes a human-centered design approach to develop and implement a set of evidence-based prototypes and interventions that will address the underlying causes of low voter turnout in neighborhoods across the nine-county area of Greater Houston.

The salary is $60,000 for 12 months. In addition, this position has a $10,000 research budget attached to it.

Successful candidates will have strong analytical and empirical skills, experience conducting field experiments, and research interests in GOTV, political behavior and race and ethnic politics. Applicants should have completed all requirements for the doctoral degree by July 1, 2023. The application deadline is May 15, 2023, but applications will be accepted until the search is closed.

University of New Mexico

Rank: Open Rank Lecturer

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Criminal Justice

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Mexico invites applications for a full time, 9-month appointment for an Open Rank Lecturer to begin August 1, 2023. The department seeks to hire a generalist in Law, Politics, and Society. Specifically, the department seeks a Lecturer with knowledge and experience teaching in at least two of the department's undergraduate degree concentrations: law (such as constitutional law, criminal justice system, civil rights and liberties, judicial politics) and public policy. When needed, the Lecturer may also teach other introductory core courses at the undergraduate level such as American National Government and The Political World. Graduate teaching is not expected of this position.

In addition, the successful candidate will support the political science undergraduate program with service that could program assessment, programming for pre-law students, and support of our internship programs. All Lecturers are reviewed annually. Workload is determined by the department Chair, the department workload policy and University policies.

Minimum Qualifications:

1. A JD or a MA in Political Science or a related field by August 1, 2023

Preferred Qualifications:

1. JD or PhD in Political Science or related field by August 1, 2023
2. Demonstrated ability to teach courses at the undergraduate level in law, politics, and society
3. Demonstrated expertise in law, politics, and society through scholarship or practice
4. Ability to mentor diverse students at the undergraduate level
5. A demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, inclusion, and student success, as well as working with broadly diverse communities

To apply, please access the University of New Mexico's online application system at <https://www.unmedu/jobs> and apply for posting requisition #24933. Only applications submitted through this website can be considered. Applicants should pay extra attention to the "Special Instructions to Applicants," which detail all of the required elements that must accompany the application. A complete application consists of a cover letter describing the applicant's qualifications as they relate to the minimum and preferred criteria (e.g., research agenda, teaching ability, commitment to success of diverse students, etc.); a current curriculum vita (please include email address and telephone number); a diversity statement, and a one-page teaching statement. Applicants who are appointed to a UNM faculty position are required to provide an official certification of successful completion of all degree requirements prior to their initial employment with UNM.

For best consideration, all required application materials must be received by April 7, 2023. We will only consider complete applications. The position will remain open until filled. Inquiries about the position should be directed to the search committee chair (Jessica Feezell, jfeezell@unm.edu) and department chair Jami Nuñez, at jaminunez@unm.edu.

University of Oxford

Rank: John G Winant Visiting Professor of American Government

John G Winant Visiting Professor of American Government at the Rothermere American Institute, University of Oxford.

The John G Winant Visiting Professorship is an exciting opportunity for highly distinguished researchers working in the field of American government (broadly defined). Applications are now invited for the academic years 2024-25, 2025-26 and 2026-27. The tenure of each professorship is up to one academic year (1 October to 30 June).

The Winant professorship was established in 2000 and is named after Mr John G Winant, a distinguished American public servant and former US Ambassador to the Court of St James during the Second World War. It is based in the Rothermere American Institute (RAI), Oxford's centre for the study of America and its place in the world, whose mission is to support research in Oxford and beyond, to act as a catalyst for interdisciplinary work and research collaboration, and to engage non-university audiences, all with the aim of improving the scholarly and public understanding of America. The RAI's role as a forum for intellectual exchange is of particular importance for the Winant Professor. Along with the holders of three other established professorships in American History and Politics, you will have the opportunity to give lectures and to hold classes and seminars for advanced undergraduate and graduate students, to participate in conferences and workshops, and to play a full part in the Institute's intellectual life. The Winant Professor will also be a Visiting Fellow of Balliol College during their tenure.

You will be expected to deliver one major public lecture (the Winant Lecture), and to lecture and give instruction in American Government. You will be encouraged to offer informal guidance to graduate research students working in relevant fields. Winant Professors sometimes contribute to the teaching of the Masters level seminar on the government and politics of the U.S.

You will be paid a stipend of £40,000 for the academic year (at current rates). Most previous holders' tenure have coincided with sabbatical leave from their home institution. The stipend is therefore intended to supplement rather than replace normal salary, and will be sufficient to cover living costs in Oxford during the period of tenure. Funds are also available to pay for return air travel and visa fees (if applicable), and to convene a small conference, usually held in the spring. Funds are not available, however, to cover accommodation costs. ## Democracy Fund

Rank: Research Associate

ABOUT US

Democracy Fund is a foundation working to defend American democracy and challenge it to be more open and just. Created by eBay founder and philanthropist Pierre Omidyar, Democracy Fund has made more than $200 million in grants to support free and fair elections, a vibrant and diverse public square, effective and accountable government, and a just and inclusive society. In addition to grantmaking, Democracy Fund advocates for better solutions and works with partners to grow philanthropic support for our democracy. To learn more, visit www.democracyfund.org and www.democracyfundvoice.org.

POSITION SUMMARY

Democracy Fund champions leaders and organizations who defend democracy and challenge our political system to be more open, just, resilient, and trustworthy. We believe that experimentation, learning, and adaptation are key to the health and resilience of any system, whether it is our organization or the American political system. As grantmakers, we focus on listening and being of service to our grantees, who are visionaries and our collaborators, and on ways we can more deeply embed diversity, equity, and inclusion as values central to the success of our work.

The Research team, a key strategic partner for program teams across Democracy Fund, is one of the more public-facing parts of the organization. Through original data collection, analysis, and synthesis, we improve the organization's strategic and tactical decisions, as well as guide and inspire other funders in the democracy space. In addition to communicating findings internally, we partner with outside experts and academics to disseminate that work publicly, increasing its potential impact.

The Research team is seeking a highly motivated and skilled research associate to support the work of the associate research director. This new position is a unique opportunity to help launch a new research and funder-influence effort, which includes original data collection, analysis, and the creation of high-profile, public-facing work on the health and well-being of American democracy. Our team is highly collaborative and passionate about helping our organization and others working in the democracy space make sense of the current, tumultuous political environment.

We are looking for someone who loves working in a mission-driven, entrepreneurial environment and brings a keen attention to detail. Ideal candidates will have strong analytical and research skills, proven writing ability, and the ability to manage multiple tasks. They will also have a strong interest and knowledge of American politics, including political beliefs and behaviors of Americans, political institutions, and other topics related to the study of our democracy.

This position will report directly to and work closely with the associate research director and support the team by taking on a variety of scholarly, analytical, and administrative tasks.

SALARY

Salary range begins at $76,486.50 per year.

RESEARCH

- Help design, manage, and administer research projects, including those conducted in partnership with outside experts and academics.
- Assist with quantitative data collection and cleaning from a wide variety of sources, including but not limited to survey data, administrative data, census products, and other scholarly data collection efforts.
- Conduct analysis and synthesis to identify trends within and between different topic areas.
- Propose ideas for blog posts, briefs, and reports.
- Author and co-author reports, blog posts, and briefs.
- Prepare datasets, topline, cross-tabulations, tables, charts, presentations, and other data summaries for internal use and public dissemination.
- Respond to research inquiries from staff and external stakeholders.

SYSTEMS AND OPERATIONS

- Perform project management and some administrative tasks for work with internal and external partners.
- Liaise with other teams internally and externally.
- Complete other administrative tasks as assigned.

TEAM MEMBER

- Build strong relationships and work collaboratively across the organization.
- Contribute to a team culture that values collaboration, positivity, transparency, high performance, and continuous learning.
- Work effectively across functions to creatively solve problems.
- Actively work to support the success of the entire Democracy Fund team through the development of shared goals and priorities.

EDUCATION, EXPERIENCE, AND SKILLS REQUIREMENTS

- Passion for strengthening American democracy.
- Deep commitment to racial equity and justice; ability to bring a racial equity lens to research is a must.
- A high level of integrity that embodies and reflects Democracy Fund values.

Bachelor's degree required; advanced degree (or equivalent experience) in political science or other fields relevant to the study of American democracy preferred.

- Three to five years of experience conducting research in some capacity.
- Experience with statistical programs, particularly those skills related to organizing and analyzing datasets (e.g., R, STATA).
- Strong analytical skills, including proven experience with quantitative and statistical analysis.
- Ability to dive into new topic areas and quickly absorb new information.
- Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in verbal and written forms; previous experience writing and presenting for a public audience a plus.
- An outstanding work ethic, strong initiative, dependable, and responsible, with a creative and entrepreneurial mindset.
- Ability to adapt quickly, work calmly, and maintain good judgment without being stymied by ambiguity.
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy of all work products.
- Strong proficiency in proactively handling multiple assignments, communicating with manager to prioritize tasks, and meeting deadlines to deliver high-quality results.
- Ability to work well both independently and as part of a team.
- Proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, etc.) or equivalent.

This role is based in Washington, D.C. Democracy Fund follows a hybrid-remote and in-the-office model, which enables flexibility and meets collaboration needs. New staff are expected to reside in the DMV, though exceptions will be granted on a case-by-case basis by the Personnel Committee. All employees, regardless of location, will be expected in the office several days a month.

HOW TO APPLY

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter and resume to our Jobs page: <https://democracyfund.applytojob.com/apply/J8HB3V46kF/Research-Associate>

Applications submitted without a cover letter or lacking the desired years of experience will not be considered. We are unable to include internships as part of the required years of experience needed to qualify for this role. Take this opportunity to tell us about yourself and why you're interested in joining our team. No calls, please.

Democracy Fund is committed to a diverse workplace, seeking voices and expertise from people from across the political spectrum. Our board, staff, advisors, and grantees include Republicans, Democrats, and Independents. Democracy Fund is an Equal Opportunity Employer, where we encourage candidates of all ages, color, ethnic background, country of origin, religion, disability status, gender, sexual orientation, and gender identity to apply.

About St. Norbert College

St. Norbert College, located on the ancestral home of the Menominee Nation, is a thriving, nationally ranked Catholic liberal arts college known for its academic excellence, global focus, and leadership and service opportunities. We acknowledge the living history and contributions of the Indigenous communities that inhabited this land prior to the establishment of St. Norbert College, as well as the sovereign Native American Nations who continue to contribute to the flourishing of our communities.

Situated on an attractive, riverside campus in De Pere, Wisconsin -- a community contiguous with the city of Green Bay--St. Norbert is the only college in the world sponsored by the Norbertines, a Catholic order devoted to community, education, and serving the needs of others.

The division of Academic Affairs provides safe, inclusive, and anti-racist educational and work experiences for our faculty, staff, and students of color, congruent with our Catholic, Norbertine, and liberal arts values. Therefore, we invite candidates who have research interests, pedagogical experience or lived experience that demonstrates a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion and belonging to join our community of teaching and learning.

As one of the nation's top Catholic liberal arts colleges, St. Norbert builds on the beliefs and practices of an ancient religious order while responding to the current needs of its students and communities. Today at St. Norbert College, the spirit of Norbert of Xanten, who founded the Norbertine order of priests in the twelfth century, lives through this modern, bustling community dedicated to transforming and empowering its students. The college has seen remarkable development in the past decade, particularly the construction and renovation of more than $150 million in campus facilities and infrastructure. St. Norbert is characterized by recent strong enrollments, as evidenced over the past ten years by the largest, most diverse, and most talented first-year classes in the college's history.

At St. Norbert College, a holistic approach to students characterizes the curriculum and classroom; faculty use their award-winning research to challenge and encourage students to greater curiosity, and students learn and collaborate both in and outside the classroom in an integrated experience. St. Norbert College is organized into four academic divisions – Humanities, Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, and Visual & Performing Arts – and the Donald J. Schneider School of Business & Economics.

University of Puget Sound

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor, University of Puget Sound

Appointment: One-year visiting assistant professor in US politics for the 2023-2024 academic year.
Responsibilities/Description: We are seeking a scholar of US politics to teach six courses for the year. Courses will include Constitutional Law, Introduction to US Politics, and courses that match the interest and expertise of the successful applicant. While not required, applications are encouraged from scholars who could offer courses appealing to student interests in critical approaches or in areas such as indigenous rights or immigration law. There are also opportunities to connect with scholars and students in a range of interdisciplinary programs including a new Crime, Law, and Justice program; African American Studies; and Latinx Studies.

Qualifications: A doctoral degree (ABD considered) in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education are required. Candidates must demonstrate a willingness and ability to address the needs of historically underrepresented students. Successful applicants will have expertise in the US courts or the law. We are interested in candidates with a range of secondary interests including but not limited to parties, political behavior, or US institutions.

Application Deadline: Review of applications will begin March 1 and continue until position is filled.

Required Documents:

- Curriculum vitae
- Letter of interest
- Teaching statement
- Diversity statement (see prompt below)
- Sample syllabi of courses you would be prepared to teach
- A research sample (e.g. article, dissertation chapter, conference presentation)
- Contact information for three (3) references. You will be prompted to enter the contact information for three (3) reference providers. The system will automatically email these reference providers to request a letter.

Applicant's Diversity Statement. As a department and university, we are strongly committed to creating an inclusive and effective teaching, learning, and working environment for all. In the applicant's diversity statement, applicants should comment on their ability to contribute meaningfully to our on-going commitment to be informed and competent with regard to issues of diversity, equity, and individual differences. We encourage applicants to reference the University of Puget Sound's current Diversity Strategic Plan (DSP) at <https://www.pugetsound.edu/equity-diversity-puget-sound/threshold-2022-cultivating-culture-inclusive-excellence> prior to writing this statement. While not an exhaustive list, the following are some ways applicants can express their qualifications:

- Demonstration of your awareness of inequities for underrepresented student populations in education, research experience, and other opportunities;
- Brief insights on why diversity is important at institutions like the University of Puget Sound;
- Your lived experiences and/or identities that speak to the department and university's commitment to inclusion and diversity; Infusion of diversity and diversity-related issues into your research, pedagogy, and/or service;
- Previous and/or current activities involving mentoring underrepresented student populations;
- Brief insights on how cultural competency increases one's effectiveness as an educator and department/university colleague.

The American Academy of Arts and Sciences

Rank: Government Relations Officer

The Government Relations Officer – Washington, DC will be responsible for coordinating and overseeing outreach and engagement with policymakers in the Washington, DC area, including Congress and the administration and federal agencies, as well as state and local government where relevant to Academy work.

The Government Relations Officer – Washington, DC will support and advance the Academy's efforts to increase visibility and impact with policymakers, including outreach on behalf of projects and commissions from the Academy's five program areas: American Institutions, Society, and the Public Good; Education; Global Security and International Affairs; The Humanities, Arts, and Culture; and Science, Engineering, and Technology.

A principal focus, and the majority of time, over the next few years will be to support the American Institutions, Society, and the Public Good program area to advance the recommendations in the Academy report, Our Common Purpose: Reinventing American Democracy for the 21st Century. The recommendations cut across political institutions, civil society, and civic culture with the goal of strengthening our constitutional democracy. The Academy is committed to making significant progress on all 31 of the report's recommendations by 2026, the 250th anniversary of the nation's birth.

The Government Relations Officer – Washington, DC will report to the Director of Strategic Implementation and will work closely with the Chief Program Officer, Program Directors, and other Program staff.

This position will be hybrid and based at the Academy's Washington, DC office. Occasional travel (typically less than 10%) and some nights and weekends are required to support project activities.

Responsibilities:

- Work closely with the Director of Strategic Implementation to plan for outreach and impact with Washington, DC area policymakers as well as state and local government, when relevant to Academy projects
- Advise Academy staff and project leaders on outreach opportunities with key Washington, DC stakeholders, including Congress, the administration, federal agencies, and potential partner organizations.
- Develop strategies to educate key audiences and advance Academy recommendations in keeping with the Academy's status as an independent, nonpartisan, nonprofit organization.
- Develop and lead Academy events in the Washington, DC area to engage policymakers and other leaders with our work and increase the Academy's visibility and influence.
- Build relationships with congressional offices, administration officials, federal agency staff, state and local policymakers, and partner organizations.
- Track events, hearings, committee meetings, and national and state legislative activity related to Academy projects and recommendations and provide updates to colleagues and project leaders.
- Coordinate meetings and follow up opportunities for Academy project contributors, fellows, and staff with congressional offices, the administration, federal agencies, state and local policymakers, and potential partner organizations in the Washington, DC area.
- Develop talking points for Academy colleagues and project contributors participating in meetings, briefings, and committee testimony with policymakers.
- Create content summarizing the key messages, findings, and recommendations of Academy work for policymakers.
- Track and provide reports on engagement activities with policymakers to Academy colleagues, stakeholders, and governance.

Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree required; advanced degree in a related field preferred (e.g. public policy; law)

- At least five years of relevant professional work experience.
- Experience working in government as congressional or executive branch staff or in government relations for a nonpartisan policy center, think tank, or other non-profit organization required.
- Interest in and passion for democracy reform issues a must; related experience or expertise in this area preferred.
- Commitment to the Academy's mission to remain independent and nonpartisan, and to provide content and expertise of value to policymakers with a diversity of views. Experience and comfort collaborating with policymakers from both major political parties.
- Strong track record of collaboration, contributing to a team environment, and working across multiple teams within an organization.
- Entrepreneurial mindset and ability to take initiative and manage ambiguity.
- Experience organizing in-person and virtual events to engage policymakers.
- Excellent written and oral communications skills, including an ability to synthesize, summarize, and present research findings and recommendations for a policymaker audience.
- Demonstrated ability to effectively engage with a wide variety of internal and external groups including policymakers, scholars, and civil society leaders.
- Demonstrated ability to work with diverse constituencies and stakeholders and a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in the workplace.
- Ability to prioritize opportunities and balance the needs of various internal stakeholders.

Start Date:

SUNY, Geneseo

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science & International Relations at the State University of New York at Geneseo seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics, with a focus on Public Policy and Public Administration, to begin August, 2023. Possible areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, Environmental Policy, Health Care Policy, Income Inequality, or Social Welfare Policy. We are a highly collegial department of six full-time faculty members who are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and liberal arts education. We offer two majors (Political Science and International Relations), contribute to several interdisciplinary minors, and have access to substantial resources to support research. More information about our department is available at https://www.geneseo.edu/political\_science.

Duties of the position include:

- Teaching courses 3 courses per semester in American Politics, including an introductory American politics course every semester, courses on public policy and public administration, and other courses in the candidate's area of expertise.

- Coordinating a Public Administration minor, and administering Geneseo's joint 5-year BA/MPA program with the University of Albany.
- Pursuing a program of scholarly research, leading to publication in peer-reviewed outlets.
- Providing academic advising to students.
- Mentoring and supervising undergraduate research and other projects.
- Contributing to governance and engaging in service to the department, the college, and the discipline.
- There may also be opportunities to contribute to other interdisciplinary programs, including the Sustainability Studies, Sociomedical Sciences, and American Studies majors, and the Legal Studies, Urban Studies, Conflict Studies, and Environmental Studies minors.

Our priority is teaching excellence. We seek someone with a strong commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting and who is prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced courses in their area of expertise. A commitment to working effectively with students from diverse backgrounds is essential. We also highly value collegiality, experience with integrative learning, and a willingness to contribute to a holistic and broadly-conceived education in political science as a part of a broader liberal arts curriculum.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the time of appointment.
- Expertise in American Politics and ability to teach courses in Public Policy and Public Administration.
- Prior experience or demonstrated potential in teaching courses in American Politics at the undergraduate level.
- Potential to establish a program of research leading to publication.
- Demonstrated commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive working/teaching environment.

Applicants should upload a cover letter addressing research and teaching interests, current CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a brief writing sample. Cover letters should address how candidates view themselves as contributing to Geneseo's commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging (DEIB) and its aspiration to become a public equity-centered honors college. Applicants should also supply contact information for three references, who will be contacted to upload letters at the time of application. Please submit materials at <https://jobs.geneseo.edu/postings/4241>. Review of completed applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. ## Connecticut College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of American Environmental Politics and Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of American Environmental Politics and Policy

The Environmental Studies Program and the Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a joint position (one year with renewal for a second year upon review) as a visiting assistant professor in Environmental Studies and the U.S. politics subfield, whose focus is on U.S. environmental politics and policy, and who can teach a range of courses on U.S. environmental politics, policy, law and institutions. In addition to an introductory environmental studies course, the successful candidate must be able to teach intermediate courses in some aspect of U.S. environmental politics and policy, an introductory course in US politics, a First Year Seminar, and a senior seminar in the field of environmental politics and policy (for a total of five courses). These politics and policy courses could, for example, focus on environmental institutions, law and courts, public policy, environmental justice, or environmental policy history.

A PhD or ABD in political science, government, environmental studies, or a closely related field is required. The projected start date is July 1, 2023.

As a joint appointment between the Environmental Studies Program and the Department of Government and International Relations, the successful candidate will have the opportunity to participate in the collegial work of both academic disciplines. This joint appointment arrangement is currently working very well for coverage of international environmental politics, and our hopes are to replicate this success in the U.S. politics realm. There are also opportunities to become involved in the College's interdisciplinary environmental sustainability certificate program or the work of the Office of Sustainability.

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/120815>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Jane Dawson, Director of the Environmental Studies Program at jjdaw@conncoll.edu. Applications should be submitted by Feb. 26 for full consideration.

The teaching load for a full-time visitor is five courses per academic year. We value the contributions visitors bring to our community and encourage their active engagement with their departments and all aspects of campus life during the course of their appointment. Visiting faculty are initially participating members of the faculty and voting members in their second and subsequent years; their presence is welcome at all faculty meetings.

Connecticut College is a private, highly selective institution with a demonstrated commitment to outstanding faculty teaching and research. We recognize that intellectual vitality and diversity are inseparable. The College seeks creative scholars excited about working in a liberal arts setting, with its strong focus on engaged teaching, participation in shared governance, and active involvement in an institution-wide advancement of diversity, equity, and inclusion. AA/EOE

Connecticut College requires employees to be fully vaccinated and have received a booster for COVID-19 and new employees must present their COVID-19 vaccination record to Human Resources prior to the first day of employment. Individuals who have a medical condition or sincerely held religious beliefs that prevent them from getting the vaccine may confidentially request an exemption through the office of Human Resources. Additional COVID-19 safety protocols such as participation in weekly testing will be required of faculty, staff and students who have approved vaccine exemptions. Currently, the College is not sponsoring visas for this position.

Specializations: Intelligence, Defense, International Security

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Location:

Washington, DC or Online (Remote)

Open Date:

Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:

Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

INSTITUTION:

Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities,

Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence

This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis

Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis

Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics

This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence

This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar

This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence

In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:

- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.
- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:

- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions

The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses
- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

Position Details:

Position Summary:

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs (PPPA) at Washington State University invites applications for a permanent, full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Pullman, WA, with a specialty in Native American/Indigenous Law and Policy. We seek applicants who conduct research related to tribal sovereignty broadly, using the lens of the law and public policy. Research might address how attitudes about Indigenous Peoples inform and influence law and policies that affect Indigenous and Native American nations, the social and political consequences of tensions between Native legal institutions and state and federal courts, or how an understanding of the law might help address the inequities that exist in Native American and other Indigenous communities.

WSU is committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive university community. The university recognizes that fostering an inclusive environment for all, with particular attention to the needs of historically marginalized populations, is vital to the pursuit of excellence in all aspects of our institutional mission. Towards continually strengthening this commitment, we seek candidates whose research, teaching, and/or service has prepared them to be an integral contributor to the continued advancement of inclusion, diversity, equity, and access here at WSU.

This position is part of a faculty cluster hire initiative in the scholarship and teaching about racism and social inequality in the Americas, with a particular focus this year on Native American/Indigenous communities. The university is particularly interested in hiring scholars who are deeply connected to and integrated into the communities that they study, as a means to build on our strong tradition of engaged and applied scholarship at WSU.

It is anticipated that the successful candidate will begin the appointment on August 16, 2023.

Summary of Duties:

Developing and maintaining a productive program of scholarship (which may be multi-disciplinary, appear in non-traditional or specialized venues, share authorship with non-academic or community partners, or speak to teaching), seeking appropriate grant funding, mentoring graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate courses on topics in the law, policy and Native American/Indigenous studies, collaborating with members of other departments and programs (e.g., WSU's Center for Native American Research and Collaboration (CNRC); <https://native.wsu.edu/cnrc/>), and participating in meaningful community engagement.

Required Qualifications:

Earned doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Law, Legal Studies or a related field or a Juris Doctor (J.D.) by August 15, 2023

Demonstrated record of or potential for scholarship that addresses Native American/Indigenous law and policy

Proven or potential for successful teaching and instruction

Demonstrated commitment to campus diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts

Significant engagement with the communities involved in their research

Preferred Qualifications:

Ability to teach courses such as Judicial Process, Civil Liberties and U.S. Constitution

Demonstrated ability to work collegially and collaboratively with internal and external constituencies that represent diverse cultures, backgrounds, and ideologies.

About WSU, Pullman, CAS, and PPPA:

Washington State University is a land-grant, multiple-campus Research 1 institution. This position will be on the Pullman campus, which has an enrollment of around 20,000 students and is located in Southeastern Washington on the homelands of the Nimípuu (Nez Perce) Tribe and Palus people. Located 80 miles south of metropolitan Spokane, Pullman is also a quick drive away from the scenic Idaho panhandle and Moscow Mountain. The rolling hills of the Palouse offer a wide range of activities and a true four-season climate. The area provides ample opportunity to enjoy the cultural and academic hub of both Washington State University and the University of Idaho, in the neighboring town of Moscow, Idaho. For more information about the region, please see <https://pullmanchamber.com>

Encompassing more than 30 departments, schools, and research institutes on five campuses statewide, the College of Arts & Sciences is the heart of WSU. Together our 730+ faculty and staff deliver more than 50% of WSU's total undergraduate and graduate instruction, including the vast majority of WSU's core curriculum. We also drive annual research expenditures of more than $26 million, with wide interdisciplinary strengths in public and community health, environmental change, equity and social justice, and data and technology at the boundaries. As Arts & Sciences begins its 10th anniversary as a unified college, we seek to lead a reimagining of WSU's land-grant mission for the 21st century, expanding the boundaries of creativity and discovery while simultaneously recognizing more completely our obligations to Native and Indigenous peoples. For more about the College of Arts & Sciences at WSU, please see <https://cas.wsu.edu>

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs has approximately 300 undergraduate majors and approximately 30 graduate students in Political Science. Detailed information about faculty and programs in the School appears at <https://pppa.wsu.edu>. For more information on the College of Arts and Sciences at Washington State University, see <https://cas.wsu.edu/>.

WSU acknowledges that its locations statewide are on the homelands of Native American peoples, who have lived in this region and have been caretakers of the land from time immemorial. The Morrill Act of 1862 established our land-grant institution by providing public and federal lands that are traced back to the disposition of Indigenous lands, often taken by coercive and violent acts, and the disregard of treaties. For that, we extend our deepest apologies. We owe our deepest gratitude to the Native peoples of this region and maintain our commitment towards reconciliation. And as a land-grant institution, WSU is deeply committed to the land-grant mission, its Memorandums of Understanding with Native tribes in the region, and a tradition of service to society. To read the full WSU land acknowledgement, please see <https://wsu.edu/about/wsua-land-acknowledgement/>

Washington State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Educator and Employer. Members of ethnic minorities, women, special disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam-era, recently separated veterans, and other protected veteran, persons of disability and/or persons age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.

WSU is committed to excellence through diversity and faculty-friendly policy action, including partner accommodation and NSF ADVANCE Institutional Transformation programs (<http://www.advance.wsu.edu/>). WSU employs only U.S. citizens and lawfully authorized non-U.S. citizens. All new employees must show employment eligibility verification as required by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

WSU is committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in its services, programs, activities, education and employment for individuals with disabilities. To request disability accommodation in the application process, contact Human Resource Services: 509-335-4521 (v), Washington State TDD Relay Service: Voice Callers: 1-800-833-6384; TDD Callers: 1-800-833-6388, 509-335-1259(f), or hrs@wsu.edu.

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics - Institutions

Institutions

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. We welcome candidates whose research focuses on political attitudes, behavior, participation, activism, and/or parties. This search is part of a thematic hiring initiative in the Department seeking to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's long tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism. For this thematic initiative, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with our recent cluster hire theme of race, ethnicity, gender, and identity with a focus on representation. Candidates who address this theme through the lens of American Political Behavior in their research are especially encouraged to apply.

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. Applicants will have a Ph.D. in Political Science or complete the Ph.D. by August 15, 2023. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. Applicants will have a Ph.D. in Political Science or complete the Ph.D. by August 15, 2023. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/523737/assistant-professor-in-american-politics> and must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of research interests/plans
- d) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- e) Statement of commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- f) A writing sample (a dissertation chapter or one article reprint or pre-print)
- g) The names and email addresses of three references must be provided.

An email will be sent to your references, requesting them to upload their confidential letter to the submission packet.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2022, and continue until all the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Economics invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science beginning in Fall 2023. The position is open to candidates specializing broadly in American politics with an emphasis on public policy, public administration, or a related field. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include courses within Rowan University's new Master of Public Policy program as well as undergraduate courses in American politics, public policy, and methodology. A 2/2 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, a Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, and nineteen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional research, teaching, and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

A top 100 national public research institution, Rowan University offers bachelor's through doctoral and professional programs in person and online to 23,000 students through its main campus in Glassboro, N.J., its medical school campuses in Camden and Stratford, and five others. Home to Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; Ric Edelman College of Communication & Creative Arts; William G. Rohrer College of Business; Virtua Health College of Medicine & Health Sciences; Cooper Medical School of Rowan University and the School of Osteopathic Medicine, it also comprises the colleges of Education, Humanities & Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science & Mathematics; Virtua Health School of Nursing & Health Professions; the schools of Earth & Environment; Innovation & Entrepreneurship; Translational Biomedical Engineering & Sciences; Veterinary Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; and a multidisciplinary honors college. Rowan focuses on practical research at the intersection of engineering, medicine, science and business while ensuring excellence in undergraduate education. The University has earned national recognition for innovation; commitment to high-quality, affordable education; and developing public-private partnerships. A Carnegie-classified (R2/high research activity) institution, Rowan has been recognized as the fourth fastest-growing public research university for three consecutive years as reported by The Chronicle of Higher Education.

Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system: <https://jobs.rowan.edu/en-us/listing/>

Submit a curriculum vitae, writing sample, a cover letter explaining your research, and a statement of your teaching philosophy. Applications should also include graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation. The review process will begin on October 20, 2022, and it will continue until the position is filled. An EOE/AA employer, Rowan University especially encourages applications from women, minorities, and persons with disabilities.

Constitutional Theory
3. Courses to be taught:
The successful candidate will teach “Comparative Constitutional Law” for the Political Science Course in the Graduate School of Political Science (Master and Doctoral Program), other constitutional law related courses including “Japanese Constitutional Law” in the School of Political Science and Economics (Undergraduate Program), and teach seminars for the graduate programs and related topics in FPSE.
4. Qualifications:
(1) Applicants must have research achievement in the field of Japanese Constitutional Law and Comparative Constitutional Law.
(2) Applicants must be able to teach the courses stated in “3. Courses to be taught” in both Japanese and English.

(3) Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree or expect to obtain it by the time of appointment.

(4) Ability to teach the methodology course “Research Methods in Political Science (Normative Studies)” which is a required course in the Graduate School of Political Science is desirable.

(5) Teaching experience in relevant courses at university level is desirable.

5. Number of positions available:

One

6. Position rank and title:

Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (Tenure-track), or Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

The position rank is determined by such factors as the applicant’s academic and research record, as well as evaluation during the screening process, will be made known to the applicant at the final interview with the FPSE’s dean and other executive committee members.

General Idea of Tenure-Track Positions at FPSE: (Detailed information will be provided after the second round of selection.)

A tenure-track position at FPSE shall be appointed either as Assistant Professor (tenure-track) or Associate Professor (tenure-track), for three years in the first term, followed by two years of reappointment and an additional two years of reappointment, for a total of up to seven years. As a general rule, the interim review shall be carried out in the second semester of the third year (sixth semester) following the appointment and completed within the first three-year term on the tenure track. When a tenure-track faculty member passes the interim review, the first reappointment of two years shall be confirmed before the end of the initial appointment (three years).

By default, the final review shall be carried out in the second semester of the fifth year (tenth semester) and completed by the end of the fifth year on the tenure track. When the tenure-track faculty member passes the final review, the faculty member will become a tenured faculty member from the following semester. The second reappointment of two years may be granted to a tenure-track faculty member who fails the final review. The tenure-track faculty member may request an interim review or a final review at any time in or after the second semester of the second year (fourth semester) following appointment.

If you have had an employment contract with Waseda University (regardless of job title) since April 1, 2013, and there is no period of at least six months without an employment contract with Waseda University at the scheduled start of this position, in principle, there is a limit to the duration of the employment contract. Therefore, the above may not be applied.

7. Working conditions:

·Salary, allowances, and commuting expenses are commensurate with qualifications and are based on Waseda University pay scales.

·The workplace will, in principle, be on a Waseda University campus.

·Scheduled working days and working hours (starting/finishing times and rest periods) are based on university regulations. The discretionary labor system for professional work will be applied to research work. Considering the nature of research work, working hours are at the discretion of each faculty member.

·Holidays

Holidays are Saturdays, Sundays, New Year’s holidays, legally recognized public holidays, and compensatory holidays appointed by the University for holding classes on public holidays and the anniversary of the University’s founding. Holidays prescribed as working days determined by the University in advance will be excluded. There may be cases where classes and other types of FPSE work will be scheduled on holidays. Employees may take compensatory holiday(s) for those occasions. For the academic calendar of the university, please see the URL below.

<https://www.waseda.jp/top/en/about/work/organizations/academic-affairs-division/academic-calendar>

·Leave

Leave is determined by the Labor Standards Act and other related laws, including days that are designated by the University as leave days.

·Social insurance

Pension, health insurance, labor insurance, and employment insurance are provided based on university regulations.

·Research Funding

Individual research allowance: 210,000 yen (per year)

Academic conference traveling subsidies: 90,000 yen (per year)

International academic conference traveling subsidies: 110,000 yen (per year)

Other competitive research funds are available at Waseda University.

·Retirement benefits

Tenured Professors and tenured Associate Professors are paid in accordance with university regulations.

No retirement benefits will be provided to Associate Professors (tenure-track) and Assistant Professors (tenure-track). However, if they continue to serve as tenured faculty members after the term as tenure-track faculty members, retirement benefits will be provided in accordance with university regulations. The period of service for calculating the retirement benefits of a tenured faculty member is counted from the date of appointment as an Associate Professor (tenure-track) or Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

Job Description:

The College of Saint Rose invites applications and nominations for an Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics in the School of Arts and Humanities, beginning August 2023. This is a full time, tenure track position.

Drawing from a long, robust learning tradition, the School of Arts & Humanities is a dynamic community of experienced and creative artists, musicians, writers, teachers, and researchers who prepare graduates to think critically, communicate effectively, and address the needs of our increasingly complex society.

Responsibilities will include teaching 12 credits (3 courses) per semester of courses from among the following:

POS 171: International Relations

POS 173: Comparative Politics

Upper-level courses in the candidate's area of expertise

Additionally, responsibilities include contributing to the continuing development and refinement of the program, engaging in scholarship, attending internal and external events applicable to the College and the candidate's academic discipline, academic advising, program assessment, curriculum development, and participation in Department, School, and College committees.

Desired Skills and Experience Requirements:

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in Political Science, Government, or a closely related academic field, at the time of appointment on August 14, 2023.

An ABD from an accredited institution in Political Science, Government, or a closely related academic field, will be considered if the degree will be completed within 1 year from date of appointment.

Additional requirements include: a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching, a record of scholarly work or professional impact in the field of International Relations or Comparative Politics, demonstrated experience working with a diverse student population, superior written and oral communication skills and, if selected to advance, a successful demonstration of teaching ability and scholarship during the on campus interview.

Review of applicant credentials will begin immediately. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Post-Doctoral Research Fellow, V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg

Specializations: Conflict Processes, International Security, Political Development

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale, international data collection and research-program. The V-Dem Institute, Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg, is the headquarters but also hosts several additional research programs. For more information: <https://v-dem.net>

This postdoc is mainly for fulfilling the V-Dem Institute's part (Work Package 6) in the collaboration with Professor Håvard Hegre (Uppsala University) in the research program on "Communities at risk: The impact of armed conflict on Human Development" funded by Riksbankens Jubileumsfond. The postdoc will also be able to be part of other research projects at the Institute.

The postdoc will study the impact of armed conflict on various aspects of political institutions. Using indicators from the Varieties of Democracy project, seek to distinguish between the effects on elections, on institutions ensuring legislative or judicial constraints, and on civil society and freedom of speech and association. The postdoc will also explore how these institutions work to help preventing armed conflict in the first place partly by establishing a sound counterfactual for the impact of armed conflict, partly to feed in to the conflict forecasting in another part of the overall research program. Finally, the postdoc will work with how to model how political institutions affect communities' vulnerability to the impact of armed conflict.

Coding of data, quality control and/or data management during peak periods may be part of the work. Outreach and collaboration with institutions in society may also be part of the job.

You must have a doctoral degree in preferably political science or related discipline. We are looking for a candidate with previous experience of research relating to the research areas described above.

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in comparative politics with a focus on areas of relevance to one of the projects listed above.

Candidates must have a strong record in one or more of the following areas:

- Explicit interest in conducting research laid out in the agenda of the in the research program on "Communities at risk: The impact of armed conflict on Human Development", and solving the scientific problems identified, with demonstrated abilities to provide original, state-of-the-art, and creative solutions to such research problems.

- Advanced statistical competences in areas such as regression techniques, and/or related approaches.

Advantageous criteria include:

- Prior use of V-Dem and UCDDP data in applied research or similar evidence of familiarity with the project.

- Experience of machine learning, predictive modelling, and/or related approaches.

- Demonstrated resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to do teamwork in different configurations.

- Experience working collaboratively on a large-scale research project.

Applicants must have excellent written and oral proficiency in English.

To be successful in this position, you must have an eye for detail, good organizational skills and be able to solve problems. You need to have very high communication and collaboration skills.

Great emphasis is placed on personal suitability for the position. We will make an overall assessment and the applicant who is considered to be best qualified to carry out and develop the tasks described above will be appointed to the position.

How to apply:

Applications are submitted online at: https://web103.reachmee.com/ext/I005/1035/job?site=7&lang=UK&validator=9b89bead79bb7258ad55c8d75228e5b7&job\_id=29916

The application should include the following:

- Applicants are expected to visit <https://www.pcr.uu.se/research/sar> and read in particular about Work Package 6.

- The letter of application should include a self-evaluation of how the applicant's qualifications and how s/he can contribute to the research in Work Package 6, and how the applicant otherwise meets the requirements above.

- A CV

- Research project proposal (max 3 pages) outlining how the applicant would suggest to work on Work Package 6 if hired.

- One writing sample.

- The application should also include a list of at least three references from whom letters of recommendation can be solicited.

Colgate University

Rank: International Relations/Comparative Politics Visiting Assistant Professor

Combined International Relations/Comparative Politics VAP Search

The Department of Political Science at Colgate University seeks to fill two one-year positions, one in International Relations and one Comparative Politics, both at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Both appointments will begin in the fall of 2023. There may be a possibility of renewal for a second year, contingent on successful teaching and institutional need. For each position, the teaching load is five courses over two semesters.

Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in either International Relations or Comparative Politics, as well as more advanced courses in the candidates' areas of interest. Specialization is open.

When applying, candidates should indicate which position they are applying for. Evidence or promise of teaching excellence is essential, preferably in the form of recent teaching evaluations. Completion of the Ph.D. is required prior to, or shortly after, the date of hire. Please submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and arrange for submission of three letters of recommendation. All materials must be submitted online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/24664>

Colgate strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. All applications should speak directly to the candidate's ability to work effectively with students across a wide range of identities and backgrounds, either in the cover letter or a separate teaching statement. Review of applications will begin on April 17 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find postings of other employment opportunities at Colgate and other institutions of higher education in upstate New York at <https://upstate-ny.hercjobs.org/>.

Faculty Fellow in Asian/Pacific/American Studies
Department of Social and Cultural Analysis
New York University Faculty of Arts and Science

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis invites applications for a Faculty Fellow in Asian/Pacific/American Studies, with the initial appointment to be for one year beginning September 1, 2023, and the expectation of annual renewal for two additional years, subject to pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Scholars whose work is focused on humanities or social science-related field research in Asian American and/or Pacific Worlds studies are especially encouraged to apply. The successful candidate should hold a PhD in any field or discipline related to Asian/Pacific/American Studies. The candidate must have a demonstrated record of an intellectually exciting research agenda and teaching that engages interdisciplinary themes attractive to undergraduates.

Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. no earlier than five years before the date of appointment and have a strong commitment to teaching. The teaching load will be three courses per annum. Review of applications will begin on April 1, 2023 and continue until the search is complete.

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis houses undergraduate and graduate degree programs in Social and Cultural Analysis, Africana Studies, American Studies, Asian/Pacific/American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latino Studies, and Metropolitan Studies.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Applications received by March 31, 2023 will receive the fullest consideration. To apply, submit a cover letter that reflects on relevant experience, a CV, a writing sample, a sample syllabus, and three contacts that NYU can solicit for letters of recommendation.

Please apply to the position using the following link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/122067>

As diversity is an important part of the NYU mission, in the statement of teaching philosophy, we ask you to provide a brief paragraph telling us how diversity figures into your past and present teaching, research, community engagement, and/or life experience, as well as how you would bring issues of diversity to bear on the leadership, teaching, and programming of the program. If you have additional questions, please contact Marty Correia at mc2828@nyu.edu.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender, and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. ## Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Intelligence Analysis

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other

Location:

Washington, DC or Online (Remote)

Open Date:

Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:

Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

INSTITUTION:

Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence

This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis

Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis

Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics

This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence

This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar

This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence

In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:

- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.
- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:

- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions

The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses

- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

Rank: Lecturer

The International Studies Program at the University of Florida (UF), College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track appointment at the rank of Lecturer. Applicants should focus regionally on the Middle East and/or North Africa, and topically in the areas of global health, governance, civil society, data and public policy, sustainable development, or related subjects.

The International Studies program is a dynamic interdisciplinary major at UF that prepares students for careers in global affairs, international business, research organizations, and other careers by providing foreign language skills, regional cultural awareness, and informed knowledge of critical international issues in global and local context. The International Studies Program is housed in UF's Bob Graham Center for Public Service. The Graham Center prepares students to engage in their communities, to influence policy, and to interact with lawmakers through the Center's public programs, special projects, academic coursework, and research initiatives. The successful candidate will join a collaborative and inclusive team dedicated to promoting the ideals of civic engagement, public leadership, and public service at the local, national, and global levels.

The Lecturer will teach two courses per semester and provide substantial service. Of those courses, it is expected that two will be regularly offered core courses for the International Studies Program: 1) an introductory course in International Studies (INS3004: International Studies Perspectives); and 2) a senior capstone course for majors (INS4930: Senior Research Seminar in International Studies). The remainder of courses taught will correspond to the Lecturer's specialization. Outside of teaching, the Lecturer will serve as the Experiential Learning Coordinator for the International Studies Program, partnering with other programs at UF to identify and develop opportunities for internships, study abroad experiences, and student research. The exact balance between service and teaching duties will depend on the needs of the program and will be determined on an annual basis.

Lecturers are highly valued by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the University of Florida. To encourage and facilitate the professional development of lecturers, the university provides opportunities for promotion from the ranks of Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Master Lecturer. Lecturer appointments are typically for nine months per year and are annually renewable.

The International Studies Program and the Bob Graham Center are committed to fostering an environment that affirms diversity across a variety of dimensions including ethnicity/race, gender identity and expression. We particularly welcome applicants who can contribute to developing such an environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of International Relations: International Organization

Department of International Relations

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22687>

The Department of International Relations at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the assistant professor rank in International Organization (IO) starting in August 2023. We are open to IO scholars with broadly defined regional foci, methodological orientations, and specializations including but not limited to international law, sustainable human development, non-government organizations, environment, human rights, and global governance. The successful candidate should have an earned Ph.D. in political science by the date of employment. Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, CV, writing samples/publications, statement of teaching philosophy, and, if available, evidence of teaching effectiveness to the IR search committee. Please also arrange to have three letters of recommendation sent to Academic Jobs Online. Only submissions via Academic Jobs Online will be considered. Applications received by October 1, 2022 will be given fullest consideration, and will continue to be reviewed until the post is filled.

Lehigh is among the few higher educational institutions in the US that has long had a separate department of IR. This means that students with a particular interest in international affairs will benefit from a concentrated program of study that few other schools offer. The standard teaching load is 2-2, and the successful candidate will have a strong commitment to excellence in both research and undergraduate teaching.

Founded in 1865, Lehigh University has combined outstanding academic and learning opportunities with leadership in fostering innovative research. Recognized among the nation's highly ranked research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University has some 5,000 undergraduates, 2,000 graduate students, and about 550 full-time faculty members. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia.

Lehigh University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital or familial status, national or ethnic origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. We are committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community. Lehigh University is committed to a culturally and intellectually diverse academic community and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and/or service, to this mission. Lehigh University is the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE Institutional Transformation award for promoting the careers of women in academic sciences and engineering (<http://www.lehigh.edu/luadvance/>) and is among institutions of higher education recognized for excellence in diversity with the INSIGHT into Diversity HEED Award. ## University of Gothenburg

Specializations: Conflict Processes, International Security, Political Development

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale, international data collection and research-program. The V-Dem Institute, Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg, is the headquarters but also hosts several additional research programs. For more information: <https://v-dem.net>

This postdoc is mainly for fulfilling the V-Dem Institute's part (Work Package 6) in the collaboration with Professor Håvard Hegre (Uppsala University) in the research program on "Communities at risk: The impact of armed conflict on Human Development" funded by Riksbankens Jubileumsfond. The postdoc will also be able to be part of other research projects at the Institute.

The postdoc will study the impact of armed conflict on various aspects of political institutions. Using indicators from the Varieties of Democracy project, seek to distinguish between the effects on elections, on institutions ensuring legislative or judicial constraints, and on civil society and freedom of speech and association. The postdoc will also explore how these institutions work to help preventing armed conflict in the first place partly by establishing a sound counterfactual for the impact of armed conflict, partly to feed in to the conflict forecasting in another part of the overall research program. Finally, the postdoc will work with how to model how political institutions affect communities' vulnerability to the impact of armed conflict.

Coding of data, quality control and/or data management during peak periods may be part of the work. Outreach and collaboration with institutions in society may also be part of the job.

You must have a doctoral degree in preferably political science or related discipline. We are looking for a candidate with previous experience of research relating to the research areas described above.

Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in comparative politics with a focus on areas of relevance to one of the projects listed above.

Candidates must have a strong record in one or more of the following areas:

- Explicit interest in conducting research laid out in the agenda of the in the research program on "Communities at risk: The impact of armed conflict on Human Development", and solving the scientific problems identified, with demonstrated abilities to provide original, state-of-the-art, and creative solutions to such research problems.
- Advanced statistical competences in areas such as regression techniques, and/or related approaches.

Advantageous criteria include:

- Prior use of V-Dem and UCDP data in applied research or similar evidence of familiarity with the project.
- Experience of machine learning, predictive modelling, and/or related approaches.

- Demonstrated resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to do teamwork in different configurations.
- Experience working collaboratively on a large-scale research project.

Applicants must have excellent written and oral proficiency in English.

To be successful in this position, you must have an eye for detail, good organizational skills and be able to solve problems. You need to have very high communication and collaboration skills.

Great emphasis is placed on personal suitability for the position. We will make an overall assessment and the applicant who is considered to be best qualified to carry out and develop the tasks described above will be appointed to the position.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Data Analytics and Policy

Description

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach one of several courses within the Master of Science in Data Analytics and Policy program. Specifically, we are seeking instructors qualified to teach Probability and Statistics (470.681), Programming and Data Management (470.768), Quantitative Methods (470.709), or Data Visualization (470.673). The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in the spring 2023 semester. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

These four courses are part of the core curriculum in the Data Analytics and Policy program. The courses introduce learners to statistical analysis and programming using R. Topics include probability theory, descriptive statistics, data visualization, research design for causal inference, and linear regression analysis. Full course descriptions and an overview of our full curriculum are available on the program website.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Adjunct Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Public Administration

Specializations: Economic Policy, Research Methods, Public Finance & Budgeting

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, Maryland. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MA in Public Management program (see below). The courses will be taught online and/or onsite in Washington, DC in Fall 2022 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

• 470.854 Fundamentals of Quantitative Methods

This course trains students to be informed consumers of quantitative studies, in addition to teaching the tools of basic statistical work. The course material covers basic descriptive statistics, inferential statistics, and data collection. The key learning objective is for students to develop a better understanding of the statistical and econometric results they may encounter in their careers.

• 470.631 Economics for Public Decision-making

This course aims to offer students an understanding of economics and its importance in public policymaking. The first half of the course will offer students an understanding of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, including a discussion of when markets can work to achieve policy goals and when "market failures" call for government intervention. The second half of the class will use these economic tools and theories to survey several specific policy areas, including health policy, tax policy, and the national debt.

• 470.608 Public Policy Evaluation and the Policy Process

This course introduces students to the public policymaking process, the basics of policy analysis, and the substance of some of today's major policy debates. The first half of the course focuses on establishing a framework in which to analyze public policy formulation within the United States. The class also reviews the tools for developing and implementing policy. The second half of the course turns to policy analysis of some critical contemporary issues.

• 470.605 Global Political Economy

In this course, students investigate core topics in international political economy, analyzing the security implications of each. Topics include trade relations, international finance, monetary relations, poverty, and development.

NON-ACADEMIC

Democracy Fund

ABOUT US

Democracy Fund is a foundation working to defend American democracy and challenge it to be more open and just. Created by eBay founder and philanthropist Pierre Omidyar, Democracy Fund has made more than $200 million in grants to support free and fair elections, a vibrant and diverse public square, effective and accountable government, and a just and inclusive society. In addition to grantmaking, Democracy Fund advocates for better solutions and works with partners to grow philanthropic support for our democracy. To learn more, visit www.democracyfund.org and www.democracyfundvoice.org.

POSITION SUMMARY

Democracy Fund champions leaders and organizations who defend democracy and challenge our political system to be more open, just, resilient, and trustworthy. We believe that experimentation, learning, and adaptation are key to the health and resilience of any system, whether it is our organization or the American political system. As grantmakers, we focus on listening and being of service to our grantees, who are visionaries and our collaborators, and on ways we can more deeply embed diversity, equity, and inclusion as values central to the success of our work.

The Research team, a key strategic partner for program teams across Democracy Fund, is one of the more public-facing parts of the organization. Through original data collection, analysis, and synthesis, we improve the organization’s strategic and tactical decisions, as well as guide and inspire other funders in the democracy space. In addition to communicating findings internally, we partner with outside experts and academics to disseminate that work publicly, increasing its potential impact.

The Research team is seeking a highly motivated and skilled research associate to support the work of the associate research director. This new position is a unique opportunity to help launch a new research and funder-influence effort, which includes original data collection, analysis, and the creation of high-profile, public-facing work on the health and well-being of American democracy. Our team is highly collaborative and passionate about helping our organization and others working in the democracy space make sense of the current, tumultuous political environment.

We are looking for someone who loves working in a mission-driven, entrepreneurial environment and brings a keen attention to detail. Ideal candidates will have strong analytical and research skills, proven writing ability, and the ability to manage multiple tasks. They will also have a strong interest and knowledge of American politics, including political beliefs and behaviors of Americans, political institutions, and other topics related to the study of our democracy.

This position will report directly to and work closely with the associate research director and support the team by taking on a variety of scholarly, analytical, and administrative tasks.

SALARY

Salary range begins at $76,486.50 per year.

RESEARCH

- Help design, manage, and administer research projects, including those conducted in partnership with outside experts and academics.
- Assist with quantitative data collection and cleaning from a wide variety of sources, including but not limited to survey data, administrative data, census products, and other scholarly data collection efforts.
- Conduct analysis and synthesis to identify trends within and between different topic areas.
- Propose ideas for blog posts, briefs, and reports.
- Author and co-author reports, blog posts, and briefs.
- Prepare datasets, topline, cross-tabulations, tables, charts, presentations, and other data summaries for internal use and public dissemination.
- Respond to research inquiries from staff and external stakeholders.

SYSTEMS AND OPERATIONS

- Perform project management and some administrative tasks for work with internal and external partners.
- Liaise with other teams internally and externally.
- Complete other administrative tasks as assigned.

TEAM MEMBER

- Build strong relationships and work collaboratively across the organization.
- Contribute to a team culture that values collaboration, positivity, transparency, high performance, and continuous learning.
- Work effectively across functions to creatively solve problems.
- Actively work to support the success of the entire Democracy Fund team through the development of shared goals and priorities.

EDUCATION, EXPERIENCE, AND SKILLS REQUIREMENTS

- Passion for strengthening American democracy.
  - Deep commitment to racial equity and justice; ability to bring a racial equity lens to research is a must.
  - A high level of integrity that embodies and reflects Democracy Fund values.
- Bachelor's degree required; advanced degree (or equivalent experience) in political science or other fields relevant to the study of American democracy preferred.
- Three to five years of experience conducting research in some capacity.
  - Experience with statistical programs, particularly those skills related to organizing and analyzing datasets (e.g., R, STATA).
  - Strong analytical skills, including proven experience with quantitative and statistical analysis.
  - Ability to dive into new topic areas and quickly absorb new information.
  - Ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in verbal and written forms; previous experience writing and presenting for a public audience a plus.
  - An outstanding work ethic, strong initiative, dependable, and responsible, with a creative and entrepreneurial mindset.
  - Ability to adapt quickly, work calmly, and maintain good judgment without being stymied by ambiguity.
  - Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy of all work products.
  - Strong proficiency in proactively handling multiple assignments, communicating with manager to prioritize tasks, and meeting deadlines to deliver high-quality results.
  - Ability to work well both independently and as part of a team.
  - Proficiency in Microsoft Office Suite (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, etc.) or equivalent.

This role is based in Washington, D.C. Democracy Fund follows a hybrid-remote and in-the-office model, which enables flexibility and meets collaboration needs. New staff are expected to reside in the DMV, though exceptions will be granted on a case-by-case basis by the Personnel Committee. All employees, regardless of location, will be expected in the office several days a month.

HOW TO APPLY

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter and resume to our Jobs page: <https://democracyfund.applytojob.com/apply/J8HB3V46kF/Research-Associate>

Applications submitted without a cover letter or lacking the desired years of experience will not be considered. We are unable to include internships as part of the required years of experience needed to qualify for this role. Take this opportunity to tell us about yourself and why you're interested in joining our team. No calls, please.

Democracy Fund is committed to a diverse workplace, seeking voices and expertise from people from across the political spectrum. Our board, staff, advisors, and grantees include Republicans, Democrats, and Independents. Democracy Fund is an Equal Opportunity Employer, where we encourage candidates of all ages, color, ethnic background, country of origin, religion, disability status, gender, sexual orientation, and gender identity to apply.

When a tenure-track faculty member passes the interim review, the first reappointment of two years shall be confirmed before the end of the initial appointment (three years).

By default, the final review shall be carried out in the second semester of the fifth year (tenth semester) and completed by the end of the fifth year on the tenure track. When the tenure-track faculty member passes the final review, the faculty member will become a tenured faculty member from the following semester. The second reappointment of two years may be granted to a tenure-track faculty member who fails the final review. The tenure-track faculty member may request an interim review or a final review at any time in or after the second semester of the second year (fourth semester) following appointment.

If you have had an employment contract with Waseda University (regardless of job title) since April 1, 2013, and there is no period of at least six months without an employment contract with Waseda University at the scheduled start of this position, in principle, there is a limit to the duration of the employment contract. Therefore, the above may not be applied.

7. Working conditions:

·Salary, allowances, and commuting expenses are commensurate with qualifications and are based on Waseda University pay scales.

·The workplace will, in principle, be on a Waseda University campus.

·Scheduled working days and working hours (starting/finishing times and rest periods) are based on university regulations. The discretionary labor system for professional work will be applied to research work. Considering the nature of research work, working hours are at the discretion of each faculty member.

·Holidays

Holidays are Saturdays, Sundays, New Year's holidays, legally recognized public holidays, and compensatory holidays appointed by the University for holding classes on public holidays and the anniversary of the University's founding. Holidays prescribed as working days determined by the University in advance will be excluded. There may be cases where classes and other types of FPSE work will be scheduled on holidays. Employees may take compensatory holiday(s) for those occasions. For the academic calendar of the university, please see the URL below.

<https://www.waseda.jp/top/en/about/work/organizations/academic-affairs-division/academic-calendar>

·Leave

Leave is determined by the Labor Standards Act and other related laws, including days that are designated by the University as leave days.

·Social insurance

Pension, health insurance, labor insurance, and employment insurance are provided based on university regulations.

·Research Funding

Individual research allowance: 210,000 yen (per year)

Academic conference traveling subsidies: 90,000 yen (per year)

International academic conference traveling subsidies: 110,000 yen (per year)

Other competitive research funds are available at Waseda University.

·Retirement benefits

Tenured Professors and tenured Associate Professors are paid in accordance with university regulations.

No retirement benefits will be provided to Associate Professors (tenure-track) and Assistant Professors (tenure-track). However, if they continue to serve as tenured faculty members after the term as tenure-track faculty members, retirement benefits will be provided in accordance with university regulations. The period of service for calculating the retirement benefits of a tenured faculty member is counted from the date of appointment as an Associate Professor (tenure-track) or Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

University of Arizona

Rank: Associate Research Social Scientist

The School of Government and Public Policy (SGPP) at the University of Arizona invites applications for an assistant research social scientist position in the Arizona Policy Lab, beginning in Summer or Fall 2023. The Arizona Policy Lab (<https://policyclab.arizona.edu>) is devoted to producing evidence-based policy research (including through use of surveys, experiments, other human subjects research, and big data analytics) with relevance for scholars, elected leaders, public officials, industry, and citizens. Our activities are grounded in cutting-edge scientific practices, cross-disciplinary collaborations, and the mentoring and training of undergraduate and graduate students. The Research Social Scientist position will be responsible for the oversight of research and training in the Lab. The position involves teaching 1 undergraduate course per year and allows for opportunities to collaborate on research and carry out independent research activities in the Lab.

The School of Government and Public Policy is a growing and vibrant academic community housing scholars of Political Science, Public Policy, Administration, and Management, and law and criminal justice. The school is home to in person and online Bachelor's and Master's degrees, as well as an in-residence PhD. Additional information on the SGPP is available at <http://sgpp.arizona.edu/>. SGPP is situated within the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS).

Outstanding UA benefits include health, dental, and vision insurance plans; life insurance and disability programs; UA/ASU/NAU tuition reduction for the employee and qualified family members; state and optional retirement plans; access to UA recreation and cultural activities; and more.

The University of Arizona has been recognized as a Hispanic Serving Institution and, together with the SBS, has a strong commitment to diversity. The successful candidate must be able to work with students, faculty, and staff from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds; individuals from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Duties & Responsibilities

- Oversee operation and daily management of the Lab;
- Coordinate and run research studies in the Lab;
- Co-author or author publications and co-present research results at workshops and conferences;
- Train and mentor graduate and undergraduate research assistants;
- Actively participate in acquiring research funding, including initiating and writing grant proposals;
- Contribute to ensuring regulatory compliance of Lab activities, including by coordinating with IRB and granting agencies;
- Teach one class per year on data and politics and policy at the undergraduate level;
- Support Lab in pursuit of external funding, including in collaboration with UArizona's Research, Innovation, and Impact (RII)
- Participate in outreach and contribute to departmental, college, and university service
- Assist with data visualization activities.

Minimum Qualifications: A PhD in public policy, political science, or a related social science field, is required by the time of appointment. A minimum of 6 years of relevant experience (which includes the duration of graduate studies) is typically required. The candidate will be expected to have a demonstrated ability to conduct and publish significant empirical research.

Preferred Qualifications: Background/experience in computational social science

Contact Information for Candidates: General questions can be directed to the School of Government & Public Policy Assistant Director, Angela Hackett at ahackett@email.arizona.edu.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, statement of research and teaching interests (title of document slot within the application is "Statement of Research Interests"), current Curriculum Vitae, names and contact information for three references, and a writing sample via the UArizona Talent website. ## Aarhus University

Rank: Postdoc

Postdoc position at the Centre for the Experimental-Philosophical Study of Discrimination (CEPDISC)

Centre for the Experimental-Philosophical Study of Discrimination (CEPDISC) at the Department of Political Science, Aarhus BSS, Aarhus University, Denmark invites applications for a postdoctoral position. The call is open for general applications in the research areas of the Centre, i.e., experimental-philosophical studies of discrimination, but special preference is given to applicants that can contribute to the subproject of WP7.

Deadline for application is 15 May 2023.

The expected starting date is August 1, 2023 or as agreed upon. The duration for the position is 2 years.

You can read more about the position and apply here: <https://international.au.dk/about/profile/vacant-positions/job/postdoc-position-at-the-centre-for-the-experimental-philosophical-study-of-discrimination-cepdisc>

Job description

The position as postdoctoral researcher is a fixed-term academic research position. As part of a small, interdisciplinary subproject (work package 7) within the centre, the postdoc position will cover a variety of tasks including research design, data collection, analysis and dissemination. The selected candidate will also be expected to contribute substantially to publications, both as first and secondary author and to take part in the research activities at the centre on a daily basis. The latter includes some organizational tasks, e.g., in relation to organizing workshops, seminars etc. The position includes relatively modest teaching obligations.

The postdoc will be located at CEPDISC, Department of Political Science, Aarhus University and daily presence (roughly) is expected except in connection with research visits abroad.

Postdoctoral researcher under the “Experimental studies of the sources of prejudice and discrimination – WP7” project

The position under the “WP7” subproject is led by Professor Lotte Thomsen (PI).

This work package uses experimental and survey methods to investigate the relational and psychological sources of discriminatory and prejudiced attitudes and behaviors. We seek to understand the nature of discriminatory behavior by examining it in light of our evolved psychology and as expressions of particular social concerns that arise with the challenges of living in large and diverse societies.

We will examine the origin of individual differences in views on how individuals and groups should be treated in terms of the different relational and moral frames with which people approach society (e.g. unity, loyalty, hierarchy, equality, proportionality), and will explore how they develop and are expressed differently depending on societal positioning (e.g. SES, gender) and experiences (e.g. in childhood).

The successful applicant will closely collaborate with the PI and the other members at CEPDISC. In particular, the successful applicant is expected to have an interest in social, personality, and/or evolutionary psychology, and a good understanding of social issues as the product of the interaction between psychological and societal influences and prior and current life outcomes. Advanced statistical proficiency is a strong advantage, ideally including areas such as longitudinal, multi-level and/or behavioral genetic modelling.

You can read more about the center and our projects here: <https://ps.au.dk/en/cepdisc/about-cepdisc>

Your qualifications

We seek highly motivated candidates with a documented background within the areas of political and social psychology, sociology, philosophy, experimental philosophy, political science or related fields, preferably with a track record of experimental research projects on discrimination. Applicants are required to possess a PhD-degree in one of the above-mentioned areas.

We expect the candidate to have excellent communication skills in spoken and written English, and an ability to produce state-of-the-art experimental research and work in an interdisciplinary research environment where you interact and work together across sub-projects and research streams.

In addition to a CV and proof of PhD degree (or the near completion of a PhD degree), interested applicants should provide a 1-2 page application letter motivating why they are interested in the position and how they can contribute to specific research project(s) and CEPDISC's research activities in general. Applicants should also specify whether they are specifically interested in the position in WP7 or whether they are applying for a postdoc project on experimental-philosophical studies of discrimination that falls outside the project listed above. In the latter case, the application letter must specify an idea for a project.

Who are we

CEPDISC is a centre of excellence devoted the experimental-philosophical study of discrimination and funded for a six-year period by the Danish National Research Foundation.

At CEPDISC we study discrimination from an experimental-philosophical perspective. CEPDISC's research is grounded in the combination of philosophical analysis, political and social psychology, and experimental (or other relevant quantitative) methods.

We ask three main research questions: 1) What is discrimination and what forms of discrimination exist? 2) What are the moral objections to discrimination? 3) What are the psychological mechanisms behind discrimination and what can and should be done, given these mechanisms, to mitigate discrimination?

Kasper Lippert-Rasmussen is the center leader of CEPDISC. CEPDISC's core members are in alphabetical order: Andreas Albertsen, Kim Mannemar Sønderskov, Lasse Laustsen, Lotte Thomsen, Marion Godman, Michael Bang Petersen, and Søren Flinch Midtgaard. Together the core members cover relevant fields in political theory/philosophy and social and political psychology.

For examples of current research and activities, please consult our website here.

CEPDISC is part of the Department of Political Science at Aarhus University. The Department of Political Science is among Europe's highest-ranking political science departments. It is large, in part because it includes a large Public Administration section. With around 100 academic staff members and 45 PhD students, we offer a lively and ambitious research and teaching environment. The Department of Political Science emphasises a dynamic and flexible research and teaching profile characterised by pluralism and openness. We expect active participation in the department's activities and the relevant research field section. This includes being present at the department at least three working days per week.

The research conducted at the department covers all political science disciplines and represents a variety of methodological approaches. This enables us to focus on new problem areas as they appear in the national and international political arena, and it allows us to contribute actively to the development of the discipline. We also emphasise communicating our research results to the political administrative system and to the public in general.

The department is one of six departments at Aarhus BSS (School of Business and Social Science), one of five faculties at Aarhus University. Aarhus BSS unites the business and social science-related research fields and brings them closer together to reflect the close relationship between society and the business community. As part of a top-100 university, Aarhus BSS has achieved the distinguished AACSB, AMBA and EQUIS accreditations.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please see here.

Yale University

Rank: Lecturer, Ethics, Politics, and Economics

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. It is designed to foster informed debate about public policy in the light of disciplined reflection on the fundamentals of human association. The Program was created in the belief that, for all the value of specialized fields and subdisciplines, these should not displace attempts to integrate empirical, analytical, and normative concerns that range over different disciplines in the modern university. The undergraduate major in Ethics, Politics, and Economics joins the analytic rigor of the social sciences and the enduring normative questions of philosophy to promote an integrative and critical understanding of the institutions, practices, and policies that shape the contemporary world.

EP&E is now offering a single year lecturer position. We welcome applications from PhDs from political science, economics, philosophy, and business with excellent teaching evaluations, and experience teaching courses that integrate Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines. We encourage PhDs with an interest in teaching the Classics of Ethics, Politics & Economics to apply for this position.

In addition to teaching four courses per year, lecturers are expected to be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

The position is for one year, with the possibility of extending the contract conditional upon performance and available resources. Starting salary is $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and teaching experience. In addition to salary, instructor will receive a $1,500 research account. Starting date is August 1, 2023 or negotiable.

Applicants should have completed PhD (or equivalent degree) requirements by August 2023.

Applications should include the following:

- A cover letter indicating your interest in the position
- CV
- Job Market Paper or at least one scholarly writing sample (in English)
- PhD program transcript
- A preliminary syllabus for an interdisciplinary undergraduate course that integrates Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines.
- Teaching evaluations
- Three letters of recommendation

Please submit application materials electronically here: <http://apply.interfolio.com/123777>. The review process will begin on May 14, 2023. We will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Ana De La O, Director of Ethics, Politics, and Economics, ana.delao@yale.edu

Saint Louis University

Rank: One year position in Political Science

Subfield(s): Open, American Government and Politics, Open

One year Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Saint Louis University seeks applicants for a one-year non tenure track position in Political Science for academic year 2023-24. The field of specialization is open, with a preference for someone who can offer courses in American Politics. Applicants should be able to teach undergraduate research methods classes plus other classes in their area of interest. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will receive serious consideration. The appointment will be at the level of Instructor or, if the PhD is in hand, Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is 3/3. Service to the department is also expected.

To apply, please visit SLU's Workday portal at <https://slu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers>. When prompted to upload your Resume/CV on the "My Experience" page, we ask that applicants upload the following materials: (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter that includes research and teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; (3) a statement of teaching philosophy; (4) a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); (5) syllabi of classes taught, and (6) a single-authored writing sample. If needed, we will request letters of recommendation. For questions about the position, please contact Dr. J.D. Bowen at james.bowen@slu.edu, or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Lastly, SLU Workday applications must be completed in one sitting; you will not be able to revise it once it is submitted. Applications received by April 24 will receive full consideration and we will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). ## University of British Columbia

Rank: Merilees Chair for the Study of Democracy (Professor)

The Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia (UBC), Vancouver Campus, invites applications for the Harold and Dorrie Merilees Chair for the Study of Democracy (the "Merilees Chair"), which is made possible through the generous support of Stephen and Gail Jarislowsky. The Holder of the Merilees Chair will have a reduced teaching load and annual research funding for an initial five-year term, which may be renewed, in accordance with the University's Honorifics Policy and the terms of the Endowment that supports the Chair. The anticipated start date for the position is 1 July 2024.

The successful candidate will be appointed as a full-time tenured faculty member in the Department of Political Science, at the rank of Professor (or, consideration may be given to appointment at the Associate Professor rank in the case of an outstanding candidate who is expected to be promoted to the Professor rank within one or two years of the position start date). While this faculty position is open to any field of political science, the successful candidate will have a Ph.D. and will be an established scholar and leader who has attained eminence in their field and who holds a distinguished international reputation in the study of democratic politics, institutions, or theory, broadly defined. The successful candidate will be expected to carry out a robust research agenda, teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels in Political Science, supervise graduate students, and contribute to service at the departmental level and beyond.

Applicants should submit:

- cover letter
- curriculum vitae
- statement of major research contributions and current and future research programs
- statement (1-2 pages) addressing experience working with a diverse student body and past and potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion
- names and contact information (incl. institutional affiliation, address, e-mail address) of four referees
- a recent writing sample.

Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide a statement of teaching philosophy, interests, and accomplishments, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, sample syllabi) prior to the interview.

Applications should be submitted online at <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/merilees-chair-for-the-study-of-democracy-professor-application-form-2023/> Job ID: JR12315. Review of applications will begin on 30 June 2023 and will continue until the position is filled. This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University is committed to creating and maintaining an inclusive and equitable work environment for all members of its workforce, and in particular, for its employees with disabilities. An inclusive work environment for employees with disabilities presumes an environment where differences are accepted, recognized, and integrated into current structures, planning and decision-making modes. ## University of British Columbia

Rank: Political Science Lecturer

The Department of Political Science at The University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications from scholars with expertise in any field of Political Science. We seek to fill, at the rank of Lecturer, up to two full-time positions, depending on the successful candidate(s)' alignment with teaching needs of the Department and subject to availability of funding.

The Lecturer will be expected to teach courses at the undergraduate level, including Introduction to Politics, other lower-level survey courses, and courses in their field of specialization, based on the teaching needs of the Department. The anticipated start date is September 1, 2023, with appointment for a term of up to three years, which entails a probationary first year. Lecturer positions are non-tenure-track appointments, renewable for successive terms, subject to availability of funds and demonstration of excellence in teaching, in accordance with the Collective Agreement between UBC and the UBC Faculty Association. In the Faculty of Arts, the workload for a full-time Lecturer position includes teaching eight (3-credit) courses per year plus service responsibilities. In cases where extraordinary additional service responsibilities are assigned by the Head, a 3-credit teaching reduction may be granted. Positions are subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required by the start date of the appointment. The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong record of effective teaching with success across a variety of courses, and the ability to engage a range of students through innovative teaching techniques that take into account the diversity of student interests and experiences.

To apply, applicants must submit the following:

- a cover letter;
- a curriculum vitae;
- a teaching portfolio that includes:
  - o a statement (maximum 2 pages) of teaching philosophy, interests and accomplishments;
  - o sample teaching materials (e.g. course syllabi, examples of innovative pedagogy or assessment design, etc.);
  - o a statement (maximum 1 page) about the applicant's experience working with a diverse student body and contributions or potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion;
  - o a statement (maximum 1 page) reflecting on what the applicant has done and/or would seek to do in order to incorporate Indigenous scholarship and perspectives and/or use of Indigenous content and materials in their teaching (for context, applicants can find UBC's Indigenous Strategic Plan here: <https://isp.ubc.ca>);

o evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., official summaries of teaching evaluations, peer reviews of teaching). Applicants are asked to include teaching evaluations from the most recent 3 years (for all courses taught and/or where the candidate held Teaching Assistant roles).

Applications should be submitted online at <https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/ubc-political-science-dept-lecturer-position-application-form-2023/> Job ID: JR12281.

In addition, applicants should arrange for three confidential signed letters of recommendation to be sent separately to the Department of Political Science care of Jeff Yupiter, Assistant to the Department Head, at poli.recruitment@ubc.ca, with the word "Lecturer" in the subject line. Applicants should ensure that referees are aware that their letters must reach the Department in a timely fashion, that this is an undergraduate teaching position, and that they should focus on undergraduate teaching qualifications. Review of applications begins on May 15, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to creating and maintaining an inclusive and equitable work environment for all members of its workforce, and in particular, for its employees with disabilities. Confidential accommodations are available on request for applicants who are short-listed. An inclusive work environment for employees with disabilities presumes an environment where differences are accepted, recognized, and integrated into current structures, planning and decision-making modes. ## National University of Singapore

Rank: Professor (Head of Department) in Political Science

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF SINGAPORE
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Head of Department position (Full Professor level with tenure)

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for the position of Head of Department at the rank of full professor or higher (endowed chair professor). Research and teaching specialisation is open, although candidates should contribute to one or more of the Department's four subfields: comparative politics, governance and public policy, international relations, and political theory.

The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a strong commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership in co-creating with department faculty to implement a strategic vision, consistent with NUS' research and teaching mission, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Interested candidates should submit a CV, cover letter that addresses the qualifications outlined above, research statement (approx. two pages), teaching statement (approx. two pages), and names and addresses of at least four references.

Review of applications will begin in late May 2023 and campus visits for selected candidates will be arranged for early to mid-August 2023. The position is expected to commence in January or July 2025. Questions about the position should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Henry Yeung (henryyeung@nus.edu.sg), and/or Professor William Bain (wbain@nus.edu.sg).

Exceptional candidates at the rank of senior associate professor are welcome to apply, subject to being promoted to full professor upon appointment at NUS.

The Department of Political Science is a vibrant multidisciplinary community comprised of over 25 tenure- and educator-track faculty members. The Department offers degrees in Political Science and Global Studies at the undergraduate level and in Political Science at the Masters and Doctoral levels. It also partners with the International Political Science Association (IPSA) to host the IPSA-NUS Summer School in Social Science Research Methods annually. It is one of 16 departments in a large Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences that offers a comprehensive range of programmes in Asian Studies, Humanities, Social Science, and Language Studies. The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Asia Research Institute, the Asia-Europe Foundation, the East Asian Institute, the ISEAS–Yusof Ishak Institute, among other research units inside and outside NUS, provide additional opportunities for research interaction and collaboration.

NUS offers an internationally competitive remuneration package that includes a period of subsidised housing (for non-Singaporean applicants), annual performance bonus, medical benefits, and relocation expenses (where applicable). Outstanding applicants might also be considered for endowed/chair professorship that comes with annual research support and business class travel eligibility. NUS provides significant research support, including generous start-up grants for new faculty members.

Please submit your application through the <https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job-invite/19238/>.

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor - Sustainability

The College of Humanities & Social Sciences invites applications for an open-rank, tenure-track position to begin September 1, 2023. Strong candidates include, but are not limited to, those whose research seeks to understand and address environmental challenges, such as climate change, biodiversity loss, natural resource use and management, water and land access and governance, food security and food sovereignty, or public health. Possible topics of interest include one or more of the following areas in either institutions or behavior: environmental policy and administration, legal and social regulations, economic and social impact, environmental racism and racial justice, ecofeminism and environmental feminism, human rights, the politics of natural disasters/weather/agriculture/land use, environmental area studies, or international cooperation. Regional focuses can be within the United States, comparative in nature, or international area studies.

This position is part of Rowan University's newly launched Catalysts for Sustainability program, which seeks to hire ten new faculty to develop, advance, and communicate solutions to humanity's most pressing existential environmental threats (e.g., problems of climate change, biodiversity loss, pollution, threats to natural habitats, and resource conflicts, among others). The university-wide cohort will lead and collaborate across colleges, disciplines, and communities, catalyzing new initiatives in sustainability research, advocacy, and education while leveraging existing strengths. This project builds upon Rowan University's strategic pillars (access, affordability, quality, and serving as an economic engine) and furthers our commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in a field relevant to the humanities or social sciences at the time of appointment and will be housed in the Department of Political Science & Economics. Candidates are also expected to have a strong record of research and be able to compete for external funding. Evidence of excellence in teaching and prior experience teaching at the university level is desired. The successful candidate will teach a mix of introductory and upper-level courses in Political Science, Economics, and/or Public Policy with more specialized courses on the environment.

The successful candidate must also be able to work with various stakeholders. Within the University the candidate will work with their department, college, as well as the Catalysts for Sustainability newly hired faculty members from the various colleges.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and fifteen majors. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

A top 100 national public research institution, Rowan University offers bachelor's through doctoral and professional programs in person and online to 23,000 students through its main campus in Glassboro, N.J., its medical school campuses in Camden and Stratford, and five others. Home to Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; Ric Edelman College of Communication & Creative Arts; William G. Rohrer College of Business; Virtua Health College of Medicine & Health Sciences; Cooper Medical School of Rowan University and the School of Osteopathic Medicine, it also comprises the colleges of Education, Humanities & Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science & Mathematics; Virtua Health School of Nursing & Health Professions; the schools of Earth & Environment; Innovation & Entrepreneurship; Translational Biomedical Engineering & Sciences; Veterinary Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; and a multidisciplinary honors college. Rowan focuses on practical research at the intersection of engineering, medicine, science and business while ensuring excellence in undergraduate education. The University has earned national recognition for innovation; commitment to high-quality, affordable education; and developing public-private partnerships. A Carnegie-classified (R2/high research activity) institution, Rowan has been recognized as the fourth fastest-growing public research university for three consecutive years as reported by The Chronicle of Higher Education.

Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system online: <https://jobs.rowan.edu/en-us/job/496834/tenuretrack-faculty-position-open-rank-sustainability-college-of-humanities-social-sciences>

Submit a curriculum vitae, writing sample, a cover letter explaining your research, teaching philosophy, and why your profile matches the Catalysts for Sustainability program. Applications should also include graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation. The review process will begin on October 28, 2022, and it will continue until the position is filled. An EOE/AA employer, Rowan University especially encourages applications from women, minorities, and persons with disabilities.

Yale University

Rank: Multi-year Lecturer, Program of Ethics, Politics, and Economics

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. It is designed to foster informed debate about public policy in the light of disciplined reflection on the fundamentals of human association. The Program was created in the belief that, for all the value of specialized fields and subdisciplines, these should not displace attempts to integrate empirical, analytical, and normative concerns that range over different disciplines in the modern university. The undergraduate major in Ethics, Politics, and Economics joins the analytic rigor of the social sciences and the enduring normative questions of philosophy to promote an integrative and critical understanding of the institutions, practices, and policies that shape the contemporary world.

EP&E is now offering a multi-year lecturer position. We welcome applications from PhDs from political science, economics, philosophy, and business with excellent teaching evaluations, and experience teaching courses that integrate Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines. In particular, we encourage PhDs with an interest and experience in teaching the Classics of Ethics, Politics & Economics to apply for this position.

In addition to teaching three courses per year, lecturers are expected to be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

The position is for two years, with the possibility of extending the contract conditional upon performance and available resources. Starting salary is $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and teaching experience. In addition to salary, multi-year instructors will receive a $3,000 research account. Starting date is August 1, 2023 or negotiable.

Please submit application materials electronically to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/111113.

Start Date: Fall 2023

George Washington University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

The George Washington University Political Science Department is seeking an exceptional candidate for a full-time, academic research position at the rank of postdoctoral associate. The term of this position is one year beginning in July 2023. The researcher will work on topics broadly related to online hate and extremism, using computational and statistical methods. Substantive interest in social media research is particularly welcomed. Candidates with experience using machine learning and natural-language processing tools are especially encouraged to apply.

The postdoctoral associate will work closely with Professor Yonatan Lupu, while also engaging with other participating researchers in the GW Dynamic Online Networks Lab. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to all parts of the research process, including design, implementation, manuscript preparation, and presentation of results.

Minimum Qualifications: Qualified candidates will hold a Doctoral degree. Degree must be conferred by the start date of the position.

Preferred Qualifications:

* PhD in fields including political science, computational social science, computer science, social psychology, complex systems, judgment and decision-making, social network analysis, or other related fields

* Completion of upper level (undergraduate) and/or graduate level coursework involving computer programming.

* Fluency in one or more of the following requested: R, Python, and similar languages.

* A successful candidate will have familiarity with both social science and computational science, though not necessarily mastery of both.

* Strong communication skills

*The ability to work in a highly collaborative and interdisciplinary environment

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online application at <https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/95138> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interest, samples of written work, and names and contact information of three professional references. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2022, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Please direct all questions to Prof. Yonatan Lupu at ylupu@gwu.edu.

OTHER

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor, Social Sciences and Digital Technologies

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Social Sciences and Digital Technologies. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of September 1, 2023.

The successful candidate may also hold an Endowed Professorship for a five-year term, renewable following a favourable review.

Candidates must have earned a PhD degree in any relevant Social Science field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, with a clearly demonstrated record of research and teaching excellence in the area of information controls, data sciences, and digital accountability research. The position is open to a range of disciplines including but not limited to information studies, communications, sociology, political science, area studies, and law. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths.

The successful candidate will be expected to be a part of the Citizen Lab, an interdisciplinary laboratory based at the Munk School focusing on advanced research and development at the intersection of digital media, global security, and human rights. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research integrates with the Citizen Lab's resources, existing areas of research, and global network. Candidates with a demonstrated track record of working in cross disciplinary teams, and a strong research portfolio that intersects with human rights, online repression, information controls, and digital security are preferred.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level, and to establish an outstanding research program, competitive, and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, outstanding research papers, forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School's professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Candidates must provide evidence of excellence in teaching which will be provided through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, or other evidence of superior performance in teaching-related activities submitted as part of the application, and through strong endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference. Other teaching-related activities can include performance as a teaching assistant or course instructor, experience leading successful workshops or seminars, student mentorship, or excellent conference presentations or posters.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at <https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample; and a teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations, or evidence of superior performance in other teaching-related activities as listed above). We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three referees. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. Further detail on the automatic reference letter collection, including timeline, can be found on the candidate FAQ page.

Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine any additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by June 12, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

National University of Singapore, Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

Rank: Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Public Policy/ Public Management/ Public Administration/ International Affairs

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy is a leading public policy school in Asia, located within the National University of Singapore. Its mission is to improve governance in Asia, and improve lives for a sustainable world. Its faculty is comprised of accomplished scholars, educators as well as experienced policy practitioners. The school offers several master's degree programs, a small PhD program, as well as executive education programs for policymakers in Asia and beyond.

The School and the University places a strong emphasis on teaching and learning. To serve the educational mission of the School and the University, the Educator Track has been designed to bring together and support the career pathway of outstanding educators. Faculty on the Educator Track will be expected to teach as well contribute to the educational mission of the School. At more senior levels, they are expected to lead on pedagogical innovations and in teaching and learning matters. A research background in a primary disciplinary domain is encouraged. Scholarly research on pedagogy and teaching is a bonus, but not mandated. Although the NUS Educator Track is not a tenurable line, it presents a route to progress towards an Associate Professorship on an open contract, along with prospects for research funding such as overseas research and conference travel.

The LKY School invites applications for the following full-time position on the Educator Track.

1. Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Public Policy/Public Management/ Public Administration/International Affairs

Applicants for Senior Lecturer positions must possess a PhD degree or equivalent, as well as at least five years of teaching experience and demonstrated impact in higher education settings. Candidates for Lecturer positions should have a PhD degree, and prior teaching experience in higher education settings would be advantageous. For Instructor positions, applicants should hold a Master's degree and have at least two years of teaching experience.

The appointments of Senior Lecturer and Lecturer will be for an initial period of 3-5 years and 2-3 years respectively, ideally beginning

August 2023, and with the possibility of contract renewal based on good performance and the School's teaching requirements.

To apply, please provide a detailed resume and a cover letter describing your background and preparation for the position, your teaching interests and your potential contributions to the school. Applications should be sent to lkysppjoinus@nus.edu.sg by 26 May 2023.

Only shortlisted candidates will be notified. Interested candidates are encouraged to find out more about the National University of Singapore and the LKY School at www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Required Documents:

- Detailed curriculum vitae, including details on education, employment history, past experience of teaching and supervision, research activities (including publications) and achievements, honours and awards, and service accomplishments.
- Cover Letter
- Teaching statement and Teaching evaluations
- A teaching portfolio with sample classroom exercises and recent student or peer teaching evaluations
- Four letters of reference (one of whom must be the applicant's PhD supervisor). Referees may submit their letters to lkysppjoinus@nus.edu.sg.

Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Deadline: Applications received by May 31, 2023, will receive full consideration. Expected to begin Fall 2023, preferably by September 1, with some flexibility on start date. For more information on the Collective or the positions, please contact Kim Marion Suiseeya: <mailto:Kimberly.suiseeya@northwestern.edu>

Kim Marion Suiseeya (Political Science, Northwestern University) and Josiah Hester (Computer Engineering, Georgia Tech) co-direct the <https://www.manoom.in/> Collective supports Indigenous-led, data-driven resilience strategies through sovereignty-affirming and culturally empowering collaborative research. We currently have two funded projects, (1) "Strengthening Resilience of Ojibwe Nations across Generations" and (2) the Coastlines and Peoples Hub's "Research for Indigenous-led, Collaborative Environmental Governance (RICE-Gov)" each seeking a Postdoctoral Scholar in the field of Indigenous environmental governance (1 position/project). These are two-year positions with the possibility of renewal. More details about each position below.

We are seeking researchers with a PhD in Political Science, Sociology, Human Geography, Anthropology, or related social science disciplines. The search is open to ABD candidates close to degree and PhDs who received their degrees no later than 2020. The Postdoctoral Scholars will be part of a large, multi- and transdisciplinary research collective that co-produces tribally driven research to support long-term resilience to climate change. Successful candidates for the positions will conduct field-based, empirical research in the Western Great Lakes region of the United States.

Excellent candidates for these positions will demonstrate a strong commitment to Indigenous and/or decolonizing methodologies; experience co-producing and/or collaborating with Native Nations and Indigenous communities; subject area expertise in Indigenous sovereignty, self-determination, environmental governance, and/or resilience; and experience with a variety of qualitative and/or participatory methodologies, including empirical environmental justice analysis, ethnography, interviewing, surveys, focus groups, and/or institutional analysis. Applicants should demonstrate interdisciplinary literacy and be familiar with or willing to learn approaches to integrate Indigenous Environmental Governance frameworks, cyberinfrastructure, and advanced data science.

In addition to relationship building, collaborative data collection and analysis, and mentoring, the postdoctoral researchers will be expected to:

- Contribute to research papers for publication
- Conduct literature reviews
- Present research for multiple audiences, including Indigenous communities, academic conferences, policy audiences, and the general public
- Contribute to project management, including supporting project reporting, coordination, and communication

Finally, successful applicants are expected to uphold the Collective's commitment to respect the rights of Native Nations and Indigenous communities in making decisions related to why, how, and by whom knowledge, information, and data are collected, used, or shared.

Applicants should indicate which position they are applying for (either one or both). Details provided below. Both positions are open to ABD candidates close to degree and PhDs who received their degrees since 2020. Expected to begin Fall 2023 with flexibility on start date.

Review will begin immediately and continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by May 31, 2023, will receive full consideration. To apply, please submit your cover letter, CV, writing sample, and three contacts for references through https://app.smartsheet.com/b/form/01c4c33f00dd49248cfe87cd2e62b16e&rel=noopener&target=\_blank online application

Postdoctoral Researcher: Strengthening Sovereignty for Resilience

Strengthening Resilience of Ojibwe Nations across Generations project (STRONG; PI: Suisseea) is a tribally driven effort whose vision is to enhance disaster anticipation, preparation, mitigation, and response in Indigenous communities by building and deploying cyberinfrastructure that integrates Indigenous knowledge, advanced sensing technologies and data systems in ways that support and strengthen Ojibwe Nations' sovereignty and resilience to climate change. During STRONG's planning efforts, Ojibwe Nation leaders made clear that their ability to effectively implement resilience strategies requires recognition of their sovereignty and respect for their authority, legitimacy, and credibility to govern and to exercise treaty rights by the US and state governmental agencies. To strengthen resilience, these leaders identified the need to collect and integrate new environmental data within a culturally appropriate resilience framework. The STRONG project aims to understand the relationships between Indigenous sovereignty and resilience to climate change and support co-development of governance frameworks and tools to strengthen resilience.

The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to conduct field-based research to understand the empirical relationship between sovereignty and resilience. The research will involve working with partner Native Nations and communities to analyze how multi-level governance systems shape sovereignty and resilience practices, experiences, and outcomes; and exploring how multi-modal data can inform and strengthen sovereignty. The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to use multiple, mixed methods including archival research, interviews, focus groups, empirical environmental justice analysis, and institutional analysis to assess sovereignty and wellbeing, and inform development and measurement of sovereignty-affirming resilience indicators. Ideally, the candidate will also contribute to development of STRONG's decision-support cyberinfrastructure, Noon-dawind, a dynamic online community that supports Ojibwe analysis and interpretation of socio-ecological data for asserting sovereignty.

Postdoctoral Researcher: RICE-Gov

Research for Indigenous-led, Collaborative Environmental Governance (RICE-Gov) is part of the NSF-funded Coastlines and Peoples (CoPe, https://www.nsf.gov/awardsearch/showAward?AWD\_ID=2209226), PI: Hester) Research Hub examining manoomin (wild rice) resilience in the Western Great Lakes region of the United States. Central to Ojibwe lifeways and resilience, manoomin is also a keystone sentinel species for understanding and conserving Great Lakes coastal wetlands. As part of a broader tribally driven research initiative at Northwestern University, the Hub seeks to support Indigenous-led, data-driven resilience strategies for manoomin and increase participation of Great Lakes Indigenous Peoples in science through culturally empowering and sovereignty-affirming collaborative research.

Currently, hundreds of Tribal, governmental, private, and community agencies and organizations govern the manoomin range using a complicated, sometimes overlapping and often competing set of public and private treaties, laws, regulations, policies, and norms, all of which operate at different governance levels. As part of the Hub, RICE-Gov aims to understand how such fragmented governance presents challenges and opportunities for advancing manoomin resilience.

The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to conduct field-based research to understand the governance dynamics around manoomin. The research will involve analyzing the institutional landscapes for manoomin governance, identifying opportunities for integrating sovereignty-affirming knowledge practices into policy-making, and develop strategies and capacity-building plans for translating real-time data into real-time governance for manoomin resilience. The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to work with tribal partners to convene iterative workshops focused on strengthening reciprocal relationships through understanding the human and social dimensions of manoomin environments (2) support development of virtual interfaces and opportunities for collaboratively analyzing scientific knowledge and Indigenous knowledge to inform multiple evidence base (MEB) policy-making; and, (3) proactively and responsively analyze governance architectures and policy options to contribute to development and realization of an Indigenous Environmental Governance framework that convenes relatives and responsibilities for advancing manoomin resilience across the region.

Mentorship and Training Opportunities

Successful candidates will join a university with a broad, interdisciplinary community of scholars affiliated with programs such as the Center for Diversity and Democracy (CSDD), the Institute for Sustainability and Energy at Northwestern (ISEN), the Institute for Policy Research (IPR), the Global Poverty Research Lab, the Center for Native American and Indigenous Research (CNAIR), the Environmental Humanities workshop, and the newly established graduate Environment Cluster whose research and pedagogy engages themes related to environmental justice and policy. Additionally, successful applicants will work with PIs to co-create mentoring plans and individual development plans (IDP) to support each Postdoctoral Scholar in advancing their career goals. In addition to diverse opportunities to publish interdisciplinary work with diverse teams, team member will have the opportunity to present their work to broad networks in academia, national labs, and with funding agencies. Trainees will also have opportunities to mentor graduate and undergraduate students, participate in professional development programming through NU's Graduate School and the Searle Center for Advanced Learning and Teaching.

6. Position rank and title:

Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (Tenure-track), or Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

The position rank is determined by such factors as the applicant's academic and research record, as well as evaluation during the screening process, will be made known to the applicant at the final interview with the FPSE's dean and other executive committee members.

General Idea of Tenure-Track Positions at FPSE: (Detailed information will be provided after the second round of selection.)

A tenure-track position at FPSE shall be appointed either as Assistant Professor (tenure-track) or Associate Professor (tenure-track), for three years in the first term, followed by two years of reappointment and an additional two years of reappointment, for a total of up to seven years. As a general rule, the interim review shall be carried out in the second semester of the third year (sixth semester) following the appointment and completed within the first three-year term on the tenure track. When a tenure-track faculty member passes the interim review, the first reappointment of two years shall be confirmed before the end of the initial appointment (three years).

By default, the final review shall be carried out in the second semester of the fifth year (tenth semester) and completed by the end of the fifth year on the tenure track. When the tenure-track faculty member passes the final review, the faculty member will become a tenured faculty member from the following semester. The second reappointment of two years may be granted to a tenure-track faculty member who fails the final review. The tenure-track faculty member may request an interim review or a final review at any time in or after the second semester of the second year (fourth semester) following appointment.

If you have had an employment contract with Waseda University (regardless of job title) since April 1, 2013, and there is no period of at least six months without an employment contract with Waseda University at the scheduled start of this position, in principle, there is a limit to the duration of the employment contract. Therefore, the above may not be applied.

7. Working conditions:

·Salary, allowances, and commuting expenses are commensurate with qualifications and are based on Waseda University pay scales.

·The workplace will, in principle, be on a Waseda University campus.

·Scheduled working days and working hours (starting/finishing times and rest periods) are based on university regulations. The discretionary labor system for professional work will be applied to research work. Considering the nature of research work, working hours are at the discretion of each faculty member.

·Holidays

Holidays are Saturdays, Sundays, New Year's holidays, legally recognized public holidays, and compensatory holidays appointed by the University for holding classes on public holidays and the anniversary of the University's founding. Holidays prescribed as working days determined by the University in advance will be excluded. There may be cases where classes and other types of FPSE work will be scheduled on holidays. Employees may take compensatory holiday(s) for those occasions. For the academic calendar of the university, please see the URL below.

<https://www.waseda.jp/top/en/about/work/organizations/academic-affairs-division/academic-calendar>

·Leave

Leave is determined by the Labor Standards Act and other related laws, including days that are designated by the University as leave days.

·Social insurance

Pension, health insurance, labor insurance, and employment insurance are provided based on university regulations.

·Research Funding

Individual research allowance: 210,000 yen (per year)

Academic conference traveling subsidies: 90,000 yen (per year)

International academic conference traveling subsidies: 110,000 yen (per year)

Other competitive research funds are available at Waseda University.

·Retirement benefits

Tenured Professors and tenured Associate Professors are paid in accordance with university regulations.

No retirement benefits will be provided to Associate Professors (tenure-track) and Assistant Professors (tenure-track). However, if they continue to serve as tenured faculty members after the term as tenure-track faculty members, retirement benefits will be provided in accordance with university regulations. The period of service for calculating the retirement benefits of a tenured faculty member is counted from the date of appointment as an Associate Professor (tenure-track) or Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

Central European University

Rank: Lead researcher for the Inequalities, Development and Democracy working group of the Democracy Institute, CEU

Starting date: December 2023 (negotiable)

Application deadline: Open until filled, review of applications will start May 20, 2023

Full- or Part-Time: Full-time (40 hours/week)

Location: Budapest

The Democracy Institute at the Central European University (CEU) invites applications for a lead researcher of its Inequalities, Development and Democracy working group. The successful candidate will be appointed as a Research Fellow or Senior Research Fellow at the CEU Democracy Institute in Budapest and will also teach at one of CEU's departments in Vienna.

The CEU Democracy Institute is a multi-disciplinary research institute, established in 2020. It strives to enable the renewal and strengthening of democratic and open societies through world-class research, collaboration across academic and professional disciplines, teaching and learning via the free exchange of ideas, and public engagement on a local, regional, and global scale.

The new lead researcher is expected to expand the research agenda of our Inequalities working group to encompass the developmental challenges to democracy and to make this research agenda an integral part of democracy research within the Democracy Institute. S/he is expected to advance and lead an innovative, global multi-disciplinary research program that consolidates existing knowledge across disciplines and charts avenues for innovative, collaborative research for the 21st century.

Duties and responsibilities:

- Design, develop and run an internationally recognized research program, enhance, and integrate the thematic priorities of the current research group on inequalities and facilitate the creation of new linkages to inequalities, development, and democracy research agendas beyond Europe.
- Collaborate with the members of the other working groups at the CEU Democracy Institute and of CEU, as well as with partners of the Open Society University Network (OSUN) (<https://www.ceu.edu/osun>) and CIVICA-The European University of Social Sciences (<https://www.civica.eu/>) networks, create robust linkages between existing research agendas and inspire new collaboration.
- Develop and implement a research funding strategy; secure external research funding as a PI or co-PI; support and mentor others in securing external research funding for relevant projects.
- Participate in institution and network-building, outreach, and fundraising initiatives of the CEU Democracy Institute.
- Regularly publish, and mentor other researchers in the group to publish, in leading academic outlets.

Qualifications:

Candidates must have a PhD in a relevant discipline, an outstanding research agenda, and a record of publications in leading, peer-reviewed academic journals. The ideal candidate is mid- or late-career (more than 5 years after PhD) and has proven experience in leading academic research groups or units, and has a track record of securing competitive research funding. Women and/or persons from backgrounds underrepresented in European academia are expressly encouraged to apply.

Compensation

We offer a competitive salary that is commensurate with experience as well as a dynamic and international academic environment. In the case of appointment at the Research Fellow rank the initial contract is for 2-4 years; continued employment depends on the outcome of re-appointment review. In the case of Senior Research Fellow appointment, the contract as a rule is for an indefinite term.

How to apply

Applications should include:

- a CV, including a list of selected publications (5 pages);
- a program statement describing a vision for the research program of a multi-disciplinary working group on Inequalities, Development and Democracy (2 pages);

- two recent English language publications that best represent their current research;
- the names of three scholars who could supply recommendation letters.

Informal questions can be addressed to the Chair of the Search Committee: Laszlo Bruszt (bruszt@ceu.edu).

The process of reviewing the applications will begin on May 20, 2023. The positions will remain open until filled.

Please send your complete application package to: advert027@ceu.edu - including the job code in the subject line: ?2023_027.

CEU is an equal opportunity employer and values geographical and gender diversity, thus encouraging applications from women and/or other underrepresented groups. Since CEU strives to increase the share of women in professorial positions, given equal qualifications, preference will be given to female applicants.

Previous training, work experience and/or engagement with matters of equality, diversity and inclusion at the organizational level will be an asset.

CEU recognises that personal and family circumstances shape the trajectory of one's career and working patterns. We encourage applicants to detail periods of leave, part-time work or other such situations in their applications so that the Search Committee can assess an applicant's academic record fairly in the context of their circumstances. Any declaration of personal and family circumstances is voluntary and will be handled confidentially and only considered in so far as it impacts on the academic career of an applicant.

National Defense University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Professor of Strategic Leadership

Apply online at <https://www.usajobs.gov/job/719541800>

Salary - $70,625 - $162,785 per year

Pay scale & grade - AD 2 - 4

Summary

National Defense University (NDU) supports the joint warfighter by providing rigorous Joint Professional Military Education to members of the U.S. Armed Forces and select others in order to develop leaders who have the ability to operate and creatively think in an unpredictable and complex world.

This is a Title 10 Excepted Service Appointment. Appointment is not to exceed 3 years with the possibility for extension.

Duties

The incumbent of this position serves as a faculty member at the Dwight D. Eisenhower School for National Security and Resource Strategy (ES), National Defense University (NDU). The position entails multiple activities related to supporting the mission and academic programs of NDU and ES. These activities are aligned with the Teaching, Research, Engagement, Service, and Accountability (TRESA) performance evaluation model. Primary activities are described below.

Serving as a strategic leadership subject matter expert, provides expertise as a member of a collaborative team of peers to develop and conduct graduate-level seminar instruction within the interdisciplinary ES core curriculum in areas related specifically to the Strategic Leadership (SL) curriculum such as leading organizational change; influencing culture; scanning and interpreting the national security environment; critical, creative, and strategic thinking; interpersonal skills; and case studies related to governmental organizations, private industry, and the military.

Participates in the planning and development of the ES curriculum and serves as the principal proponent for overall outcomes, content, and methods for the Strategic Leader core course, leadership-related electives, and other portions of the ES curriculum. Recommends lecture topics, course content, educational methods, and other curriculum requirements. Plays a leadership role in the planning and development of curriculum material on strategic leadership, to include senior-level decision-making processes; negotiations in complex environments; enhancing the profession of arms; understanding civil-military relations; and exhibiting ethical behavior. Based on needs of the Eisenhower School, conducts research in support of program outcomes and school mission.

Maintains and enhances professional relationships with existing ES stakeholders in support of the ES mission, such as: maintains and enhances professional relationships and standing, domestically or internationally, with senior educators, business leaders, industrialists or public officials; enlists stakeholder services in reinforcing the quality of instruction in the ES curriculum; stays abreast of new developments in the fields relevant to the ES curriculum; or, maintains/increases standing in professional organizations/associations in the fields of strategic leadership, national security strategy, or resourcing.

Mentors, counsels, and advises graduate students in role of primary faculty advisor to several students, supporting advisees' orientation to the school, providing feedback on their initial writing assignment, and serving as their liaison/advocate with school administration. Serves as research adviser to individual students and student groups performing research on topics of academic interest relevant to strategic leadership, national security decision making, acquisition, and other aspects of national security and resourcing strategy. In this role, assists students in consultations with highest level officials of the Department of Defense (DOD) and other government departments, senior executives of business firms, and leaders of the civilian academic community. Mentoring may include completing end-of-year student evaluations in accordance with DoD, NDU, and ES policy.

In addition to the Strategic Leadership course, prepares and conducts graduate-level seminar instruction in ES multidisciplinary courses related to national security and resource strategy. This could include participation or leadership of an Eisenhower School elective. This could also include participation or leadership of an Industry Study (examining one of 20 industries and their relationships to U.S. national security), leadership of an NDU-wide elective, and mentorship of students in multidisciplinary capstone strategy or resourcing exercises. Some courses require extensive planning and execution of domestic and international field study experiences involving budgetary, logistic and administrative program management and leadership skills. Additionally, service could entail participation on ES and NDU task-specific working groups as directed.

The Library of Congress

Rank: Research Manager, Executive Branch

Subfield(s): Other, Other, Other

Research Manager, Executive Branch

Closing date: 05/04/2023

Salary: $155,700 - $183,500 per year

The Congressional Research Service (CRS) is seeking a Section Research Manager (SRM) for the Executive Branch Section within the Government and Finance Division. The Research Manager leads the Section's public policy research and analysis of issues related to congressional oversight of the federal government. This includes the policies, procedures, management, and organization of the executive branch in both government-wide and agency-specific contexts.

The ideal candidate will possess an intellectual curiosity about the processes and procedures of the federal government; a familiarity with the role of OMB, OPM, and other agencies in organization and management of the federal government; and a deeper subject knowledge of one of the areas covered by the section. Candidates with research and research management experience in issues covered by the section and who have strong interpersonal skills and are capable of leading a highly motivated and talented research staff committed to providing Congress the highest level of nonpartisan, authoritative, objective policy analysis are encouraged to apply. Previous experience in writing, research, and analysis, and knowledge of congressional decision making and legislative process is desired.

Duties include:

- Managing and supervising policy analysts, including communicating performance standards and expectations to staff, observing staff performance, giving feedback, and assessing performance;
- Ensuring that the work results in objective, authoritative analysis with which the Congress can assess the consequences of legislative/policy options;
- Proactively establishing relationships with committees of jurisdiction, building long-term relationships with clients, and taking initiative to seek out new congressional contacts for CRS;
- Managing congressional requests, concerns, and needs in policy areas within the research management responsibility of the section;
- Collaborating with other managers to ensure an integrative approach to the work by fully identifying significant policy problems facing the Congress, developing analytical approaches to address these problems, and applying appropriate resources; and
- Performing special assignments as directed by the Assistant/Deputy Assistant Director.

CRS is fully committed to workforce diversity. For more information about this career opportunity please visit USAJOBS to view the vacancy announcement. Interested applicants must apply online at USAJOBS <https://www.usajobs.gov/job/717053400>.

The New School

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow - Global China and India in a Post-Liberal World

The India China Institute (ICI) of The New School seeks applications for a one-year position in 2023-24 as Postdoctoral Fellow in our "Global China and India in a Post-Liberal World" research cluster. The fellow will be in residence at ICI for the 2023-24 academic year.

This theme of the 2023-24 postdoctoral fellowship is motivated by global challenges to the Western-led liberal order and the influence that India and China have in bringing changes to existing regimes or in creating alternatives to the liberal world order. ICI welcomes applications from those whose research focuses on emerging alternative orders in geopolitics; authoritarian governance domestically and regionally; climate change and energy security; digital governance; science, technology and infrastructure; populism and ethno-nationalism; migration and citizenship; public health and social policy; higher education and knowledge production; and South-South cooperation. The empirical scope of the research should focus on China or India, or engage with China-India comparisons and connections, or global flows that India or China are prominently part of. Applications are welcome from all social science and humanities disciplines, including interdisciplinary PhD programs.

ICI serves as a hub for research and public engagement on India, China and beyond. Its mission is to address issues of global concern through collaborative research and the formation of transnational networks of scholars and practitioners based in India, China, and elsewhere around the world. We believe that studying and thinking with the pasts and presents of India, China, and other countries in the global South can provide new frameworks that provide alternative perspectives to dominant understandings of global politics, culture, and design.

The New School is committed to actively recruiting from a diverse pool of applicants. We encourage international candidates and candidates from groups underrepresented in US higher education to apply. The New School does not discriminate on the basis of age, race, color, creed, sex or gender (including gender identity and expression), pregnancy, sexual orientation, religion, religious practices, mental or physical disability, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, veteran status, marital or partnership status, or any other legally protected status.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Publication and research plans on an existing or new project

Organize public programming related to themes of the research cluster

Deliver a talk on research in progress

Attend meetings with ICI leadership to build initiatives related to the research cluster

QUALIFICATIONS

Doctoral degree received after July 2018 and before July 2023

Evidence of strong research, writing, and communication skills

Ability to adhere to University COVID-19 Policy

Fellowship Period

September 1, 2023 – June 30, 2024

WORK MODE

The Postdoctoral Research Fellow is expected to work on-campus due to the nature of the work and in accordance with university policies.

SALARY & BENEFITS

Fellows will receive a salary of $55,000 and a research allowance of $3,000. The University also provides a benefits package, including medical and dental coverage. For information on the University benefits package, please visit <http://www.newschool.edu/human-resources/benefits/>

Arizona State University Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University is inviting applications for a post-doctoral researcher for the Security and Defense PLuS initiative (S&D+), with research focused on weaponized information and strategic influence in the Indo-Pacific. This is a full-time position, funded by the Office of the University President, that is expected to last for two academic years, renewable for a third. Salary is $65,000 [estimate] a year and some support for travel to conferences is available.

Security & Defense PLuS is part of the PLuS Alliance, a coordinated multi-country academic endeavor from Arizona State University, King's College London, and the University of New South Wales. S&D+ aims to help facilitate the coordination of security and defense research and education across the three universities, with a special focus on the implications of the AUKUS agreement signed by the US, Australia, and the UK in September of 2021.

Job description: the post-doctoral researcher will work under the supervision of Deputy Academic Lead for S&D+ Professor Thorin Wright (in collaboration with the Center on Narrative, Disinformation and Strategic Influence and other S&D+ affiliated scholars) to help conduct and publish research in both peer-reviewed and public-facing outlets. Primary activities will include data evaluation, collection, and analysis related to information operations, disinformation and strategic influence in the Indo-Pacific region. The postdoctoral researcher will also help coordinate work with other researchers from S&D+ across all three universities and will meet regularly with them and project leaders.

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in political science, international relations, security studies, communications, critical data studies, media studies, anthropology, history or a related field conferred by the time of appointment, but no earlier than Spring of 2021.
- Relevant experience in data collection and analysis experience in one or more of the following:
  - o Textual analysis
  - o Qualitative Text Analysis
  - o Quantitative text analysis and machine learning
- Demonstrated commitment working with diverse student, faculty, and staff populations and communities

Desired qualifications:

- Research experience in one or more of the following areas:
  - o Indo-Pacific region
  - o International conflict
  - o Narrative theory
  - o Disinformation
  - o Strategic communication
  - o Weaponized social media
- Demonstrated experience of excellent organizational and communication skills.
- Relevant programming understanding and experience with STATA, R, Python, MaxQDA, or similar.

This is an in-person, academic year, benefits-eligible appointment. The anticipated start date is August 16, 2023.

The application deadline is April 13, 2023; if not filled, then every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. A complete application must include the following (1) a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research skills and interests; (2) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence; (3) a complete curriculum vita; (4) a writing sample; and (5) contact information for three references.

All application materials must be received by the deadline and submitted electronically through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/122698>. (We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search.)

The College values our cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Intelligence Analysis

Location:

Open Date:

Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:

Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences

INSTITUTION:

Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence

This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis

Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis

Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics

This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence

This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar

This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence

In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:

- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.
- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:

- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions

The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses
- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

Position Details:

Position Summary:

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs (PPPA) at Washington State University invites applications for a permanent, full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Pullman, WA, with a specialty in Native American/Indigenous Law and Policy. We seek applicants who conduct research related to tribal sovereignty broadly, using the lens of the law and public policy. Research might address how attitudes about Indigenous Peoples inform and influence law and policies that affect Indigenous and Native American nations, the social and political consequences of tensions between Native legal institutions and state and federal courts, or how an understanding of the law might help address the inequities that exist in Native American and other Indigenous communities.

WSU is committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive university community. The university recognizes that fostering an inclusive environment for all, with particular attention to the needs of historically marginalized populations, is vital to the pursuit of excellence in all aspects of our institutional mission. Towards continually strengthening this commitment, we seek candidates whose research, teaching, and/or service has prepared them to be an integral contributor to the continued advancement of inclusion, diversity, equity, and access here at WSU.

This position is part of a faculty cluster hire initiative in the scholarship and teaching about racism and social inequality in the Americas, with a particular focus this year on Native American/Indigenous communities. The university is particularly interested in hiring scholars who are deeply connected to and integrated into the communities that they study, as a means to build on our strong tradition of engaged and applied scholarship at WSU.

It is anticipated that the successful candidate will begin the appointment on August 16, 2023.

Summary of Duties:

Developing and maintaining a productive program of scholarship (which may be multi-disciplinary, appear in non-traditional or specialized venues, share authorship with non-academic or community partners, or speak to teaching), seeking appropriate grant funding, mentoring graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate courses on topics in the law, policy and Native American/Indigenous studies, collaborating with members of other departments and programs (e.g., WSU's Center for Native American Research and Collaboration (CNRC); <https://native.wsu.edu/cnrc/>), and participating in meaningful community engagement.

Required Qualifications:

Earned doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Law, Legal Studies or a related field or a Juris Doctor (J.D.) by August 15, 2023

Demonstrated record of or potential for scholarship that addresses Native American/Indigenous law and policy

Proven or potential for successful teaching and instruction

Demonstrated commitment to campus diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts

Significant engagement with the communities involved in their research

Preferred Qualifications:

Ability to teach courses such as Judicial Process, Civil Liberties and U.S. Constitution

Demonstrated ability to work collegially and collaboratively with internal and external constituencies that represent diverse cultures, backgrounds, and ideologies.

About WSU, Pullman, CAS, and PPPA:

Washington State University is a land-grant, multiple-campus Research 1 institution. This position will be on the Pullman campus, which has an enrollment of around 20,000 students and is located in Southeastern Washington on the homelands of the Nimípuu (Nez Perce) Tribe and Palus people. Located 80 miles south of metropolitan Spokane, Pullman is also a quick drive away from the scenic Idaho panhandle and Moscow Mountain. The rolling hills of the Palouse offer a wide range of activities and a true four-season climate. The area provides ample opportunity to enjoy the cultural and academic hub of both Washington State University and the University of Idaho, in the neighboring town of Moscow, Idaho. For more information about the region, please see <https://pullmanchamber.com>

Encompassing more than 30 departments, schools, and research institutes on five campuses statewide, the College of Arts & Sciences is the heart of WSU. Together our 730+ faculty and staff deliver more than 50% of WSU's total undergraduate and graduate instruction, including the vast majority of WSU's core curriculum. We also drive annual research expenditures of more than $26 million, with wide interdisciplinary strengths in public and community health, environmental change, equity and social justice, and data and technology at the boundaries. As Arts & Sciences begins its 10th anniversary as a unified college, we seek to lead a reimagining of WSU's land-grant mission for the 21st century, expanding the boundaries of creativity and discovery while simultaneously recognizing more completely our obligations to Native and Indigenous peoples. For more about the College of Arts & Sciences at WSU, please see <https://cas.wsu.edu>

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs has approximately 300 undergraduate majors and approximately 30 graduate students in Political Science. Detailed information about faculty and programs in the School appears at <https://pppa.wsu.edu>. For more information on the College of Arts and Sciences at Washington State University, see <https://cas.wsu.edu/>.

WSU acknowledges that its locations statewide are on the homelands of Native American peoples, who have lived in this region and have been caretakers of the land from time immemorial. The Morrill Act of 1862 established our land-grant institution by providing public and federal lands that are traced back to the disposition of Indigenous lands, often taken by coercive and violent acts, and the disregard of treaties. For that, we extend our deepest apologies. We owe our deepest gratitude to the Native peoples of this region and maintain our commitment towards reconciliation. And as a land-grant institution, WSU is deeply committed to the land-grant mission, its Memorandums of Understanding with Native tribes in the region, and a tradition of service to society. To read the full WSU land acknowledgement, please see <https://wsu.edu/about/wsu-land-acknowledgement/>

Washington State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Educator and Employer. Members of ethnic minorities, women, special disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam-era, recently separated veterans, and other protected veteran, persons of disability and/or persons age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.

WSU is committed to excellence through diversity and faculty-friendly policy action, including partner accommodation and NSF ADVANCE Institutional Transformation programs (<http://www.advance.wsu.edu/>). WSU employs only U.S. citizens and lawfully authorized non-U.S. citizens. All new employees must show employment eligibility verification as required by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

WSU is committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in its services, programs, activities, education and employment for individuals with disabilities. To request disability accommodation in the application process, contact Human Resource Services: 509-335-4521 (v), Washington State TDD Relay Service: Voice Callers: 1-800-833-6384; TDD Callers: 1-800-833-6388, 509-335-1259(f), or hrrs@wsu.edu.

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: P3 Lab Postdoctoral Fellow

P3 Lab Postdoctoral Fellow

The P3 Lab at Johns Hopkins University is seeking to hire a qualified a Postdoctoral Fellow to work with Faculty Director, Professor Hahrie Han, and Lab Director, Jane Booth-Tobin, on a range of studies focused on social movements and community organizing, particularly within race-class subjugated communities. The Postdoctoral Fellow will be hired for a yearlong term beginning no earlier than September 2022.

The position requires someone with a strong background in social science research grounded in the study of collective action and social movements. Post-docs must be excellent writers, capable with quantitative data analysis, and have experience with qualitative fieldwork. Applicants should have a PhD in a relevant social science field from an accredited institution and a record of being an outstanding scholar. Postdoctoral Fellows will be exempt from teaching and service duties and will devote their full-time effort to working on research. The expectation is that the fellow's time will be divided between working on a P3 research project and building out their own research.

Lab Description

At P3, we envision a world where people's participation in public life is possible, probable, and powerful: people across race and class have to be able to participate, they have to want to participate, and their participation has to matter. Realizing this vision necessitates designing a new civic architecture that enables people to engage in public life in ways that are grounded in their own experience, connected to one another, and organized through vehicles of collective action that give people ownership over the ongoing process of systemic struggle and change.

We are a multi-disciplinary research lab based at the SNF Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University committed to learning and shared inquiry that meets the twin goals of relevance and rigor while helping to realize our vision. Our work simultaneously pushes the frontiers of strategic thinking in organizing and knowledge-building in academic scholarship.

Responsibilities

The Postdoctoral Fellow will be responsible for:

- Leading a to-be-determined project that is likely to include the following:
  - o Coordinating communities and researchers to develop a study that bridges practitioner and scholarly goals
  - o Developing a research team that supports cross-generational learning in the lab
  - o Conducting a literature review
  - o Conducting data collection and analysis
  - o Writing up results in both academic and practitioner-friendly formats
- Actively engaging in the P3 scholarly community by attending regular lab meetings and collaborating with fellow lab members on their projects.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is for 12 months, beginning no sooner than September 2022. Applicants will receive a small research budget that they can use at their discretion. Applicants can work remotely from anywhere in the United States, but must be willing to travel regularly to meet the P3 team. John Hopkins University offers a competitive salary and employee benefits.

Qualifications:

- Ph.D. degree in political science, sociology, or related areas by the start of the appointment
- Outstanding mixed-methods research and writing skills
- Experience working with constituency-based organizations either as a researcher or as a community organizer
- An understanding of or a desire to learn about the field of constituency-based organizations and social movements in the United States, as well as the ecosystems of funders, political parties, etc. they operate within
- Strong organizational skills and ability to simultaneously manage multiple large-scale projects
- Experience and interest in convening and managing events for diverse stakeholders (e.g., conferences, symposia, workshops)
- Commitment to the P3 Lab Mission
- Excellent communication skills
- Ability to work independently and in teams

In addition to the qualifications above, theoretical and empirical familiarity with the field of civic data, movement building, and aspects of computational social science; experience in statistical and spatial data analysis and data visualization; and/or advanced programming in R, STATA, or another statistical package would be valued.

Clemson University

Rank: Assistant / Associate Director of Lyceum Program

The Clemson Institute for the Study of Capitalism (CISC) at Clemson University invites applications for an Assistant/Associate Director of the Lyceum Scholars Program to begin August 2023. The position will begin with a three-year renewable contract.

The Clemson Institute is a teaching and research center dedicated to exploring the moral and political foundations of a free society (<https://capitalism.sites.clemson.edu/index.html>). The Lyceum Program is an undergraduate academic program (connected to the Political Science Department) that studies the classic texts of the Western (ancient and modern) and American political and philosophic traditions. The Lyceum Program is committed to pursuing five cardinal values: Truth, Freedom, Virtue, Merit, and Beauty. We encourage applicants whose teaching philosophy and research agenda fit with this mission (see here: <https://www.clemson.edu/centers-institutes/capitalism/lyceum/scholars.html>).

The CISC is particularly interested in candidates with an academic background in moral and political philosophy or intellectual history. Candidates should have an interest and expertise in at least one of the following areas: classical Greek and Roman moral/political thought, the classical-liberal tradition, and American political thought.

Responsibilities and Duties

The position has three major components: 1) teaching; 2) academic program building and administration; and 3) research, writing, and editing. The Assistant/Associate Director will teach two courses p/semester and will also be expected to participate in the Lyceum Program's Socratic Tutoring program by serving as a faculty mentor to a small number of Lyceum Scholars each semester. Administrative responsibilities include program and course design, evaluation of Lyceum applicants, and recruitment.

We seek a candidate who is serious about ideas, teaching, and writing, and who is also able and willing to be an academic entrepreneur engaged in institution building. Finally, we seek a candidate who is able and willing to help students think seriously and deeply about questions of moral character.

Qualifications:

The Ph.D. degree is required.

Applicants should submit:

1. Curriculum Vitae
2. Cover Letter
3. Three Letters of Recommendation
4. A writing sample and teaching evaluation could be asked for after the initial screening.
5. For more information, please contact Prof. C. Bradley Thompson, Director of the Clemson Institute for the Study of Capitalism, at tthomp2@clemson.edu

New School for Social Research

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship: Political Theory

The Department of Politics at The New School seeks applicants for a Postdoctoral Fellow in Political Theory. While the research focus can address any theme, the candidate will be expected to offer one seminar per semester that connects political theory to themes such as race, feminism, capitalism, environment, political economy, and social movements. The position has a start date of August 21, 2023 and the possibility of a second year renewal.

The Department of Politics specializes in critical, historical, and interdisciplinary approaches to the study of politics. Faculty and students bring the leading edge of scholarly debate and analysis into conversation with pressing issues of our time. We engage in political and intellectual life at the university, in New York City, and as a part of extensive global research networks. The Department offers Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and PhD degrees.

The New School is strongly committed to diversity and inclusion in the workplace and particularly seeks applications from members of underrepresented groups, as well as candidates who share this commitment.

Responsibilities

We are seeking a recent PhD graduate who has training in political theory and whose research interests connect with other fields in the discipline. The postdoctoral fellow will be expected to offer one graduate seminar in fall 2023 and one undergraduate seminar in spring 2024.

Minimum Qualifications

The selection among eligible candidates will be based on:

- A PhD in Political Science or cognate program by August 1, 2023
- Evidence of progress toward research publications
- Evidence of instructional experience (teaching assistant, instructor)
- Ability to adhere to University COVID-19 Policy

Work Modality

The Postdoctoral Fellow is expected to be in residence in the New York City region, to offer in-person classes and attend department events.

Salary Range

$50,000-$55,000 annually

To Apply

Review of applications will begin on April 24, 2023 and may continue until the position is filled.

Interested candidates should submit:

- ? Cover letter outlining research and teaching interests and relevant experience.
- ? Curriculum Vitae.
- ? A writing sample from a current research project.
- ? Names and contact information of three references (references will only be requested for short-listed candidates).

Applicants may be contacted at the discretion of the department faculty for additional materials.

School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership

Rank: Associate or Full Professor/CPTL Director

Associate or Full Professor/CPTL Director

School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership

Arizona State University

Director, Center for Political Thought and Leadership

of the Center for Political Thought and Leadership (CPTL), a senior faculty position within the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL) as a tenured full or associate professor. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University (ASU) as the most innovative university in the country for the past eight years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking is the new School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to develop a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation by blending liberal arts education and civic education. As one of the School's two centers, The Center for Political Thought and Leadership (CPTL) focuses on civic education, especially American political and constitutional thought; for higher education and the broader public, and particularly for K-12 schools.

DESCRIPTION:

The Center for Political Thought and Leadership is a research and outreach center within the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL) at ASU. The Center aims to foster research in American political and constitutional thought and to support civic education at the K-12 and postsecondary levels, and for the broader public. The CPTL supports scholars, teachers, students, and community members in their efforts to understand and improve American political society and civil society, and to become citizen leaders in the public and private sectors. SCETL and the CPTL were co-leaders of the national study on K-12 civics and history education released in 2021, Educating for American Democracy, and the Center staff with support from SCETL faculty undertake teacher professional development workshops to implement the civics reforms proposed in that study, and other efforts to improve civics curricula. The Center also organizes a summer civics institute for high school students and their teachers, the Civic Leadership Institute; the Arizona Constitution Project; the Race and the American Story Project; the Veterans Inspiring Patriotism program; and an online Civic Literacy Curriculum. The Director of the Center for Political Thought and Leadership will be a tenured faculty member in the School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership (SCETL), which supervises and supports the Center. The Director will coordinate with the CPTL staff and the SCETL faculty who support the Center, and with both the Director and Associate Director of SCETL, on strategy, planning, and administration of the Center and its programs. The Director also will be responsible for obtaining and administering grants, and donor funds, to support existing and planned Center activities.

DUTIES:

In addition to the specific strategic and administrative duties noted above, the CPTL Director as tenured faculty member will be expected to meet the normal requirements of a regular faculty member at ASU: to have an active, productive, and nationally recognized research agenda in accordance with ASU's status as an R1 research institution, and to engage in regular teaching (with a reduced course load given administrative duties). The Director also will take a leading role in coordinating with the Board of Counselors for SCETL and the CPTL, a distinguished group of political and civic leaders.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science, History, American Studies, or a related field, or a J.D. Possess a record of research activity sufficient for tenure at an R1 research university, with some focus on American political thought, leadership, and civic education; Demonstrated experience as a director of or leader in an academic center, program, or institute beyond departmental leadership roles. Demonstrated commitment to working with diverse student, faculty, and staff populations and communities.

DESIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Ongoing, nationally recognized research agenda focusing on American political thought, leadership, and civic education and supported by a record of successful publications both in academic and popular outlets; Experience in research or teaching focus on civic education and on leadership;

Demonstrated experience in building and leading academic programs and managing support staff

Demonstrated ability to acquire external funding from donors, and experience writing successful grant applications

Evidence leading a speakers or public events programs.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences within ASU values our demographic, cultural, and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community. Learn more about what The College has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>.

Application Deadline and Procedure: The application deadline is May 5, 2023; if not filled, every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, submit application materials to <http://apply.interfolio.com/122547>. 1) curriculum vitae; 2) cover letter addressing your interest and qualifications (addressed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. Adam Seagrave); 3) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 4) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to demographic, cultural, and intellectual diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence.

For further information, contact the committee Chair: Adam Seagrave, Adam.Seagrave@asu.edu.

A background check is required prior to employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ## University of Alaska, Fairbanks

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics. This is a nine-month appointment beginning August 13th 2023. The Department is looking for candidates with a strong commitment to undergraduate education, an active research agenda, and interest in contributing to interdisciplinary graduate programs.

Duties:

Teaching – Teaching five political science classes per year for the department.
Research - Researching and publishing peer-reviewed articles and/or books in relevant research fields.
Service – Engaging in departmental, university, community/public, and disciplinary service, including community outreach.

Applicants should have a demonstrated ability to offer classes and conduct research in the subfield of American politics, with preference given to those whose teaching and research contribute to one or more areas including: the media, identity politics (broadly defined), Indigenous studies, research methods, and/or political theory.

The successful applicant will be responsible for teaching multiple cohorted sections of Introduction to American Politics per academic year for North Star College (NSC). NSC is a middle college partnership between UAF and the Fairbanks North Star Borough School District, which enables high school seniors and juniors to enroll in UAF courses. Introduction to American Politics is a core course in NSC. More information on NSC can be found at: <https://www.k12northstar.org/domain/5708>.

Overall, applicants should have a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching, an active research agenda, and a willingness to contribute to departmental, university, professional, and community service including community outreach.

UAF is the flagship campus of the University of Alaska system and America's Arctic university, with a diverse student body and favorable student-faculty ratio. The Department of Political Science is a campus leader in undergraduate and graduate teaching. Our programs prepare students for graduate and professional school, as well as careers in government and civil society organizations. For information on UAF faculty, programs, and life in Alaska visit www.uaf.edu.

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS, ABILITIES:

Knowledge of and experience with teaching traditionally underrepresented and/or under-resourced student populations such as: first-generation college students, students with limited financial resources, students experiencing a documented disability, etc. Demonstrated ability to offer classes and conduct research in the subfield of American politics
Ability to teach and develop interactive online courses; mentor traditional and non-traditional students, including those who may be new to university campus and online learning environments; openness to being a contributing member of the Political Science Department and working with colleagues in other disciplines; commitment to integrating multi-cultural perspectives and content into every course.

TYPICAL EXPERIENCE:

Candidates should have experience teaching at the university level and a demonstrated capacity for excellence in research. Teaching face-to-face as well as online; developing and teaching face-to-face courses; mentoring undergraduate students; interest and/or experience in working with diverse populations; using instructional technologies in instruction.

REQUIRED EDUCATION OR TRAINING:

Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related discipline at the time of appointment.

SALARY INFORMATION:

This is a full-time, 9-month, faculty staff position complete with both a competitive salary and full employee benefits package.

Indiana University Purdue University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Teaching Fellow

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University Fort Wayne (PFW) welcomes qualified applications for a post-doctoral teaching fellowship in political philosophy. The Department of Political Science is housed in the College of Liberal Arts. The fellowship is a two-year appointment, with reappointment for the second year contingent on positive evaluations from students and faculty through the first year, as well as the curricular needs of the program. The fellow will teach a 3/3 course load, mentor undergraduate political science majors, and contribute to programming and faculty-related duties. The fellow will receive office space, a travel stipend, and faculty privileges to university services like institutional technology, the Center for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, and the library system, among others. The fellowship is a full-time position with teaching, research, and service expectations and a competitive salary and benefits package.

Qualifications

Applicants will be expected to have consequential teaching experience, solid teaching evaluations, and strong recommendations from their direct teaching mentors. Candidates must have earned their Ph.D. in political science after May 1, 2019, or will have earned their Ph.D. no later than August 15, 2023; completion of the doctoral degree is a requirement for the fellowship appointment. Candidates should be able to teach across different eras and approaches of the political philosophy subfield, as well as to teach another area of political science associated with their academic training and introductory courses common in the discipline.

The Department of Political Science at PFW is a dynamic department with award-winning faculty and students who have earned numerous nationally prestigious awards. Our graduates have attended elite graduate, professional, and law programs and thrive in nearly every private and public sector field. We have averaged around 75 majors in recent years and have multiple degree programs, certificates, and minors. The department's ability to provide our students with a broad curriculum across the discipline despite our marginally sized faculty has been of particular note, as have our extensive experiential learning opportunities, overseas study, and internships. We are proud of our dedication to student mentoring. The fellow is expected to contribute to these existing strengths and provide consistency as the department faculty transitions in its makeup. The fellow will have the opportunity to work with faculty mentors and serve as mentor to students as well as they strengthen their experience for subsequent faculty positions. The University

Purdue University Fort Wayne (PFW) is the largest university in northeast Indiana, offering 25 graduate and over 100 prestigious Purdue University undergraduate degrees and certificates. More than 10,000 students of diverse ages, races and nationalities belong to the PFW family. The 594-acre campus in Fort Wayne is home to over 7,000 degree-seeking undergraduate and graduate students. Through PFW's partnerships with area high schools, almost 3,000 high school students take dual-credit courses, simultaneously earning both high school and college credits. PFW is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Learn more about us at PFW.edu.

Application Process

For full consideration, applicants should provide a letter of interest, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, and evidence of teaching effectiveness, including sample syllabi and/or descriptions for courses they would be interested in teaching. The expectation is that the fellow will teach a range of courses, including introductory-level ones that contribute to PFW's general education curriculum, the interdisciplinary courses that attract College of Liberal Arts students, and upper-level political science courses that we already teach or that the candidate would develop. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and an interest in taking an active role in the student-centered culture of the department. All candidates who are interviewed will prepare a faculty and staff presentation as well as an instructional student-centered presentation.

The Department is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including research, teaching and service/engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

PFW is an EEO/AA employer fully committed to achieving a diverse workforce. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and protected veterans are encouraged to apply. Purdue will not provide visa sponsorship for this position.

Occidental College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Occidental College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics, in the subfield of public law, during the 2023-2024 academic year, starting in August 2023. This is a full-time instructional position where the visitor will teach 6 classes per year (3 each semester) or 5 classes per year (2 one semester and 3 the other) plus lead a community-based or experience-based undergraduate program (e.g. Mock Trial, Moot Court or other public-law oriented program of the visitor's design). The choice depends on candidates' interests, strengths, and expertise.

The Politics Department welcomes applications from candidates specializing in different subfields of public law, including law and society and judicial politics. Candidates may specialize in the United States or take a comparative or international approach to the study of public law. Faculty members whose specializations touch upon questions of social justice, diversity, and equality are especially welcome to apply. Applicants may be Ph.D. candidates in political science who expect to have their Ph.D. in hand by August 1, 2023 or hold a terminal degree in the field (a JD or a PhD in political science).

The specific teaching duties include: (1) a first-year writing seminar on public law, on a topic of the visitor's choosing; (2) special topics classes at the 200 (intermediate) and 300 (advanced) undergraduate levels, also on topics of the visitor's choosing; and (3) the introductory class Law and Society (POLS 140).

Interested candidates should submit the following materials to Romelia Corona (rcorona@oxy.edu) by 5 pm on April 24:

- (1) a CV;
- (2) a cover letter describing (i) teaching and research specializations, including possible courses that could be offered and/or undergraduate legal programs that could be developed and (ii) strategies for teaching a diverse undergraduate population, including members of historically underrepresented groups;
- (3) evidence of teaching effectiveness (may include syllabi, teaching evaluations and/or peer evaluations); and
- (4) a list of three academic references who may be contacted, one of whom can comment on teaching.

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Associate Professor and Chair of Politics, Jennifer Piscopo, at piscopo@oxy.edu.

2. Field:

Constitutional Theory

3. Courses to be taught:

The successful candidate will teach "Comparative Constitutional Law" for the Political Science Course in the Graduate School of Political Science (Master and Doctoral Program), other constitutional law related courses including "Japanese Constitutional Law" in the School of Political Science and Economics (Undergraduate Program), and teach seminars for the graduate programs and related topics in FPSE.

4. Qualifications:

(1) Applicants must have research achievement in the field of Japanese Constitutional Law and Comparative Constitutional Law.

(2) Applicants must be able to teach the courses stated in "3. Courses to be taught" in both Japanese and English.

(3) Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree or expect to obtain it by the time of appointment.

(4) Ability to teach the methodology course "Research Methods in Political Science (Normative Studies)" which is a required course in the Graduate School of Political Science is desirable.

(5) Teaching experience in relevant courses at university level is desirable.

5. Number of positions available:

One

6. Position rank and title:

Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (tenured), Associate Professor (Tenure-track), or Assistant Professor (Tenure-track)

The position rank is determined by such factors as the applicant's academic and research record, as well as evaluation during the screening process, will be made known to the applicant at the final interview with the FPSE's dean and other executive committee members.

General Idea of Tenure-Track Positions at FPSE: (Detailed information will be provided after the second round of selection.)

A tenure-track position at FPSE shall be appointed either as Assistant Professor (tenure-track) or Associate Professor (tenure-track), for three years in the first term, followed by two years of reappointment and an additional two years of reappointment, for a total of up to seven years. As a general rule, the interim review shall be carried out in the second semester of the third year (sixth semester) following the appointment and completed within the first three-year term on the tenure track. When a tenure-track faculty member passes the interim review, the first reappointment of two years shall be confirmed before the end of the initial appointment (three years).

By default, the final review shall be carried out in the second semester of the fifth year (tenth semester) and completed by the end of the fifth year on the tenure track. When the tenure-track faculty member passes the final review, the faculty member will become a tenured faculty member from the following semester. The second reappointment of two years may be granted to a tenure-track faculty member who fails the final review. The tenure-track faculty member may request an interim review or a final review at any time in or after the second semester of the second year (fourth semester) following appointment.

If you have had an employment contract with Waseda University (regardless of job title) since April 1, 2013, and there is no period of at least six months without an employment contract with Waseda University at the scheduled start of this position, in principle, there is a limit to the duration of the employment contract. Therefore, the above may not be applied.

7. Working conditions:

·Salary, allowances, and commuting expenses are commensurate with qualifications and are based on Waseda University pay scales.

·The workplace will, in principle, be on a Waseda University campus.

·Scheduled working days and working hours (starting/finishing times and rest periods) are based on university regulations. The discretionary labor system for professional work will be applied to research work. Considering the nature of research work, working hours are at the discretion of each faculty member.

·Holidays

Holidays are Saturdays, Sundays, New Year's holidays, legally recognized public holidays, and compensatory holidays appointed by the University for holding classes on public holidays and the anniversary of the University's founding. Holidays prescribed as working days determined by the University in advance will be excluded. There may be cases where classes and other types of FPSE work will be scheduled on holidays. Employees may take compensatory holiday(s) for those occasions. For the academic calendar of the university, please see the URL below.

<https://www.waseda.jp/top/en/about/work/organizations/academic-affairs-division/academic-calendar>

·Leave

Leave is determined by the Labor Standards Act and other related laws, including days that are designated by the University as leave days.

·Social insurance

Pension, health insurance, labor insurance, and employment insurance are provided based on university regulations.

·Research Funding

Individual research allowance: 210,000 yen (per year)

Academic conference traveling subsidies: 90,000 yen (per year)

International academic conference traveling subsidies: 110,000 yen (per year)

Other competitive research funds are available at Waseda University.

·Retirement benefits

Tenured Professors and tenured Associate Professors are paid in accordance with university regulations.

No retirement benefits will be provided to Associate Professors (tenure-track) and Assistant Professors (tenure-track). However, if they continue to serve as tenured faculty members after the term as tenure-track faculty members, retirement benefits will be provided in accordance with university regulations. The period of service for calculating the retirement benefits of a tenured faculty member is counted from the date of appointment as an Associate Professor (tenure-track) or Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

University of South Carolina

Rank: Full-Time Instructor in Public Law or American Political Institutions

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a full-time instructor position in Public Law or American Political Institutions to begin August 16, 2023. We seek candidates who have experience teaching a wide range of classes including Constitutional Law, Civil Liberties, Judicial Process, American National Government, and other courses focused on the Founding Documents of the United States. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the start date of appointment.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster, and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor’s degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

At the University of South Carolina, we strive to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming, and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. The University is committed to eliminating barriers created by institutional discrimination through accountability and continuous process improvement. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, sex, gender, gender identity, transgender status, age, color, religion, national origin, disability, sexual orientation, genetics, protected veteran status, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions.

How to Apply

Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; two writing samples that demonstrate a significant ongoing research agenda; statements of research and teaching interests; graduate transcript; contact information (including telephone number and email address) for three references; and a diversity statement that articulates the candidate’s commitment and capacity to contribute to diversity, equity, and inclusion through research, teaching, mentoring, outreach, and engagement. References will be contacted directly for letters of recommendation (which must be submitted on appropriate letterhead). Position Summary:

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs (PPPA) at Washington State University invites applications for a permanent, full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Pullman, WA, with a specialty in Native American/Indigenous Law and Policy. We seek applicants who conduct research related to tribal sovereignty broadly, using the lens of the law and public policy. Research might address how attitudes about Indigenous Peoples inform and influence law and policies that affect Indigenous and Native American nations, the social and political consequences of tensions between Native legal institutions and state and federal courts, or how an understanding of the law might help address the inequities that exist in Native American and other Indigenous communities.

WSU is committed to building a diverse, equitable, and inclusive university community. The university recognizes that fostering an inclusive environment for all, with particular attention to the needs of historically marginalized populations, is vital to the pursuit of excellence in all aspects of our institutional mission. Towards continually strengthening this commitment, we seek candidates whose research, teaching, and/or service has prepared them to be an integral contributor to the continued advancement of inclusion, diversity, equity, and access here at WSU.

This position is part of a faculty cluster hire initiative in the scholarship and teaching about racism and social inequality in the Americas, with a particular focus this year on Native American/Indigenous communities. The university is particularly interested in hiring scholars who are deeply connected to and integrated into the communities that they study, as a means to build on our strong tradition of engaged and applied scholarship at WSU.

It is anticipated that the successful candidate will begin the appointment on August 16, 2023.

Summary of Duties:

Developing and maintaining a productive program of scholarship (which may be multi-disciplinary, appear in non-traditional or specialized venues, share authorship with non-academic or community partners, or speak to teaching), seeking appropriate grant funding, mentoring graduate student research, teaching graduate and undergraduate courses on topics in the law, policy and Native American/Indigenous studies, collaborating with members of other departments and programs (e.g., WSU's Center for Native American Research and Collaboration (CNRC); <https://native.wsu.edu/cnrc/>), and participating in meaningful community engagement.

Required Qualifications:

Earned doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Law, Legal Studies or a related field or a Juris Doctor (J.D.) by August 15, 2023

Demonstrated record of or potential for scholarship that addresses Native American/Indigenous law and policy

Proven or potential for successful teaching and instruction

Demonstrated commitment to campus diversity, equity, and inclusion efforts

Preferred Qualifications:

Ability to teach courses such as Judicial Process, Civil Liberties and U.S. Constitution

Demonstrated ability to work collegially and collaboratively with internal and external constituencies that represent diverse cultures, backgrounds, and ideologies.

About WSU, Pullman, CAS, and PPPA:

Washington State University is a land-grant, multiple-campus Research 1 institution. This position will be on the Pullman campus, which has an enrollment of around 20,000 students and is located in Southeastern Washington on the homelands of the Nimíipuu (Nez Perce) Tribe and Palus people. Located 80 miles south of metropolitan Spokane, Pullman is also a quick drive away from the scenic Idaho panhandle and Moscow Mountain. The rolling hills of the Palouse offer a wide range of activities and a true four-season climate. The area provides ample opportunity to enjoy the cultural and academic hub of both Washington State University and the University of Idaho, in the neighboring town of Moscow, Idaho. For more information about the region, please see <https://pullmanchamber.com>

Encompassing more than 30 departments, schools, and research institutes on five campuses statewide, the College of Arts & Sciences is the heart of WSU. Together our 730+ faculty and staff deliver more than 50% of WSU's total undergraduate and graduate instruction, including the vast majority of WSU's core curriculum. We also drive annual research expenditures of more than $26 million, with wide interdisciplinary strengths in public and community health, environmental change, equity and social justice, and data and technology at the boundaries. As Arts & Sciences begins its 10th anniversary as a unified college, we seek to lead a reimagining of WSU's land-grant mission for the 21st century, expanding the boundaries of creativity and discovery while simultaneously recognizing more completely our obligations to Native and Indigenous peoples. For more about the College of Arts & Sciences at WSU, please see <https://cas.wsu.edu>

The School of Politics, Philosophy and Public Affairs has approximately 300 undergraduate majors and approximately 30 graduate students in Political Science. Detailed information about faculty and programs in the School appears at <https://pppa.wsu.edu>. For more information on the College of Arts and Sciences at Washington State University, see <https://cas.wsu.edu/>.

WSU acknowledges that its locations statewide are on the homelands of Native American peoples, who have lived in this region and have been caretakers of the land from time immemorial. The Morrill Act of 1862 established our land-grant institution by providing public and federal lands that are traced back to the disposition of Indigenous lands, often taken by coercive and violent acts, and the disregard of treaties. For that, we extend our deepest apologies. We owe our deepest gratitude to the Native peoples of this region and maintain our commitment towards reconciliation. And as a land-grant institution, WSU is deeply committed to the land-grant mission, its Memorandums of Understanding with Native tribes in the region, and a tradition of service to society. To read the full WSU land acknowledgement, please see <https://wsu.edu/about/wsu-land-acknowledgement/>

Washington State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Educator and Employer. Members of ethnic minorities, women, special disabled veterans, veterans of the Vietnam-era, recently separated veterans, and other protected veteran, persons of disability and/or persons age 40 and over are encouraged to apply.

WSU is committed to excellence through diversity and faculty-friendly policy action, including partner accommodation and NSF ADVANCE Institutional Transformation programs (<http://www.advance.wsu.edu/>). WSU employs only U.S. citizens and lawfully authorized non-U.S. citizens. All new employees must show employment eligibility verification as required by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

WSU is committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in its services, programs, activities, education and employment for individuals with disabilities. To request disability accommodation in the application process, contact Human Resource Services: 509-335-4521 (v), Washington State TDD Relay Service: Voice Callers: 1-800-833-6384; TDD Callers: 1-800-833-6388, 509-335-1259(f), or hrs@wsu.edu.

*Research and statistical consulting to CSDP affiliates and make recommendations and oversee the selection of research-relevant software

*Assist with the review, selection, recruiting, and mentoring of CSDP's fellows and research staff

*Assist with reading and selecting grant applications submitted for CSDP funding and also with the development and writing of CSDP directors' applications and proposals for funding

*Develop and oversee a new MPA fellows' program and supervise its fellows including their research activities and their policy-oriented writing

*Write reports and other content translating CSDP research for public and policymaker audiences, with the assistance of the MPA fellows

Essential requirements:

-PhD in political science

-Training in and experience using political science research methods including a strong quantitative background

-Strong programming skills, including in R

-At least one publication in an academic political science journal on topics in CSDP's core mission (the study of democratic politics)

-Minimum one year post-PhD work experience in an academic setting

-Experience teaching research methods, data science, or related programming skills, or advising student activities in these areas

-Meticulous attention to detail and ability to proof one's own work and others'

-Demonstrated ability for creative problem-solving, active listening and interpersonal skills, empathy for others, proactive approach to work issues, openness to feedback on one's work performance, and taking initiative to address, anticipate and head off problems

-Experience with managing research projects from initiation through completion

-Eagerness to collaborate on projects and to cooperate with others in the work environment -Motivated to produce at a high level of productivity and excellence

Preferred:

-Experience with data use agreements and how to develop partnerships and collaborations to obtain data -working with or merging large or administrative datasets

-Specialized technical skills for the social sciences

-Experience communicating about political science or policy for broad audience

The RD will have a research budget for their use in attending conferences and similar activities facilitating their ongoing professional development as a researcher.

The position is for a three-year term, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance. This position is subject to a background check.

Applicants must submit a CV, a cover letter describing their areas of expertise and research interests, and contact information for three references. MSSP 6290: Research & Evaluation Design

Research & Evaluation Design introduces social research methods in the context of social policy and program evaluation. The course provides a conceptual and practical understanding in the design of experimental, quasi-experimental, and non-experimental research and in the application of quantitative and qualitative methods. Students learn about the application of the research process and skills in all phases of assessing a social policy and developing a social program, including needs assessment, implementation analysis, and evaluation of policy or program effectiveness. Students learn to be critical and informed consumers of research and to apply guidelines of research ethics in social policy settings.

Additional information on the MSSP program can be found at: <https://www.sp2.upenn.edu/program/master-of-science-in-social-policy/>

Required experience:

- Experience with/understanding of program evaluation and policy evaluation.
- 5-7yrs experience directing/leading program evaluations for social service programs.
- Proficient in conducting needs assessments, creating logic models, facility with designing research proposals.
- Experience with qualitative and quantitative research design.
- Prior teaching experience preferred.
- An advanced degree is required, preferably in social science, social policy, macro social work, or a closely related field.

Instructors should be available to teach the course in-person for morning, afternoon, and/or evening sections. Pay is competitive.

To apply: Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations for two to three courses from prior teaching, and the names and contact information for three references. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. Please e-mail application materials in one PDF file titled with your name to: <mailto:msspprogram@sp2.upenn.edu> and put "MSSP Instructor Application" in the e-mail subject. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis.

SUNY, Geneseo

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science & International Relations at the State University of New York at Geneseo seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics, with a focus on Public Policy and Public Administration, to begin August, 2023. Possible areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, Environmental Policy, Health Care Policy, Income Inequality, or Social Welfare Policy. We are a highly collegial department of six full-time faculty members who are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and liberal arts education. We offer two majors (Political Science and International Relations), contribute to several interdisciplinary minors, and have access to substantial resources to support research. More information about our department is available at https://www.geneseo.edu/political\_science.

Duties of the position include:

- Teaching courses 3 courses per semester in American Politics, including an introductory American politics course every semester, courses on public policy and public administration, and other courses in the candidate's area of expertise.
- Coordinating a Public Administration minor, and administering Geneseo's joint 5-year BA/MPA program with the University of Albany.
- Pursuing a program of scholarly research, leading to publication in peer-reviewed outlets.

- Providing academic advising to students.
- Mentoring and supervising undergraduate research and other projects.
- Contributing to governance and engaging in service to the department, the college, and the discipline.
- There may also be opportunities to contribute to other interdisciplinary programs, including the Sustainability Studies, Sociomedical Sciences, and American Studies majors, and the Legal Studies, Urban Studies, Conflict Studies, and Environmental Studies minors.

Our priority is teaching excellence. We seek someone with a strong commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting and who is prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced courses in their area of expertise. A commitment to working effectively with students from diverse backgrounds is essential. We also highly value collegiality, experience with integrative learning, and a willingness to contribute to a holistic and broadly-conceived education in political science as a part of a broader liberal arts curriculum.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the time of appointment.
- Expertise in American Politics and ability to teach courses in Public Policy and Public Administration.
- Prior experience or demonstrated potential in teaching courses in American Politics at the undergraduate level.
- Potential to establish a program of research leading to publication.
- Demonstrated commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive working/teaching environment.

Applicants should upload a cover letter addressing research and teaching interests, current CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a brief writing sample. Cover letters should address how candidates view themselves as contributing to Geneseo's commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging (DEIB) and its aspiration to become a public equity-centered honors college. Applicants should also supply contact information for three references, who will be contacted to upload letters at the time of application. Please submit materials at <https://jobs.geneseo.edu/postings/4241>. Review of completed applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by March 10 are guaranteed full consideration.

Connecticut College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of American Environmental Politics and Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of American Environmental Politics and Policy

The Environmental Studies Program and the Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a joint position (one year with renewal for a second year upon review) as a visiting assistant professor in Environmental Studies and the U.S. politics subfield, whose focus is on U.S. environmental politics and policy, and who can teach a range of courses on U.S. environmental politics, policy, law and institutions. In addition to an introductory environmental studies course, the successful candidate must be able to teach intermediate courses in some aspect of U.S. environmental politics and policy, an introductory course in US politics, a First Year Seminar, and a senior seminar in the field of environmental politics and policy (for a total of five courses). These politics and policy courses could, for example, focus on environmental institutions, law and courts, public policy, environmental justice, or environmental policy history.

A PhD or ABD in political science, government, environmental studies, or a closely related field is required. The projected start date is July 1, 2023.

As a joint appointment between the Environmental Studies Program and the Department of Government and International Relations, the successful candidate will have the opportunity to participate in the collegial work of both academic disciplines. This joint appointment arrangement is currently working very well for coverage of international environmental politics, and our hopes are to replicate this success in the U.S. politics realm. There are also opportunities to become involved in the College’s interdisciplinary environmental sustainability certificate program or the work of the Office of Sustainability.

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/120815>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Jane Dawson, Director of the Environmental Studies Program at jdaw@conncoll.edu. Applications should be submitted by Feb. 26 for full consideration.

The teaching load for a full-time visitor is five courses per academic year. We value the contributions visitors bring to our community and encourage their active engagement with their departments and all aspects of campus life during the course of their appointment. Visiting faculty are initially participating members of the faculty and voting members in their second and subsequent years; their presence is welcome at all faculty meetings.

Connecticut College is a private, highly selective institution with a demonstrated commitment to outstanding faculty teaching and research. We recognize that intellectual vitality and diversity are inseparable. The College seeks creative scholars excited about working in a liberal arts setting, with its strong focus on engaged teaching, participation in shared governance, and active involvement in an institution-wide advancement of diversity, equity, and inclusion. AA/EOE

Connecticut College requires employees to be fully vaccinated and have received a booster for COVID-19 and new employees must present their COVID-19 vaccination record to Human Resources prior to the first day of employment. Individuals who have a medical condition or sincerely held religious beliefs that prevent them from getting the vaccine may confidentially request an exemption through the office of Human Resources. Additional COVID-19 safety protocols such as participation in weekly testing will be required of faculty, staff and students who have approved vaccine exemptions. Currently, the College is not sponsoring visas for this position.

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics - Public Policy

Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. We welcome candidates whose research focuses on policy areas such as criminal justice, health care, environmental welfare, education policy, or on the policy process or outcomes. This search is part of a thematic hiring initiative in the Department seeking to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's long tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism. For this thematic initiative, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with our recent cluster hire theme of race, ethnicity, gender, and identity with a focus on representation. Candidates who address this theme through the lens of American Public Policy in their research are especially encouraged to apply..

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. Applicants will have a Ph.D. in Political Science or complete the Ph.D. by August 15, 2023. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/523737/assistant-professor-in-american-politics> and must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of research interests/plans
- d) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- e) Statement of commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- f) A writing sample (a dissertation chapter or one article reprint or pre-print)
- g) The names and email addresses of three references must be provided. An email will be sent to your references, requesting them to upload their confidential letter to the submission packet.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2022, and continue until all the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics - Behavior

Behavior

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. We welcome candidates whose research focuses on policy areas such as criminal justice, health care, environmental welfare, education policy, or on the policy process or outcomes. This search is part of a thematic hiring initiative in the Department seeking to hire faculty broadly engaged in research that is field-bridging, adding to our Department's long tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism. For this thematic initiative, we are particularly interested in candidates who combine rigorous and original scholarship in keeping with our recent cluster hire theme of race, ethnicity, gender, and identity with a focus on representation. Candidates who address this theme through the lens of American Public Policy in their research are especially encouraged to apply..

Successful applicants are expected to teach two courses per fall and two courses per spring semester, with a mix of introductory and advanced undergraduate courses and graduate seminars. The ability to develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors and Junior Fellows programs is a plus. Applicants will have a Ph.D. in Political Science or complete the Ph.D. by August 15, 2023. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. More information about the Department of Political Science can be found at: <http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/523737/assistant-professor-in-american-politics> and must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of research interests/plans
- d) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- e) Statement of commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- f) A writing sample (a dissertation chapter or one article reprint or pre-print)
- g) The names and email addresses of three references must be provided.

An email will be sent to your references, requesting them to upload their confidential letter to the submission packet.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2022, and continue until all the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

The selected candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

As articulated in the goals of the university, the college values faculty who embrace diversity and inclusion in research, teaching, and service. The University of Florida is an Equal Opportunity Institution dedicated to building a broadly diverse and inclusive faculty and staff. Minorities, women, and individuals from other under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. The selection process will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of Florida's Government in the Sunshine and Public Records Laws. If an accommodation due to disability is needed to apply for this position, please call (352) 392-2477 or the Florida Relay System at (800) 955-8771 (TDD).

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Data Analytics and Policy

Description

Institution Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach one of several courses within the Master of Science in Data Analytics and Policy program. Specifically, we are seeking instructors qualified to teach Probability and Statistics (470.681), Programming and Data Management (470.768), Quantitative Methods (470.709), or Data Visualization (470.673). The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in the spring 2023 semester. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

These four courses are part of the core curriculum in the Data Analytics and Policy program. The courses introduce learners to statistical analysis and programming using R. Topics include probability theory, descriptive statistics, data visualization, research design for causal inference, and linear regression analysis. Full course descriptions and an overview of our full curriculum are available on the program website. The program has course templates for each course from which the candidate will teach. Faculty duties include supporting student learning, evaluating student work, and working with the Program Director to revise and update course materials as needed.

These courses are taught on a regular basis with semester-length contracts. Adjunct faculty may be included in future course development projects.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:

- Master's degree with training in quantitative statistical methods (e.g., political science, sociology, business analytics, economics, geography, public policy, psychology, or similar)

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MA in Public Management program (see below). The courses will be taught online and/or onsite in Washington, DC in Fall 2022 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

- 470.854 Fundamentals of Quantitative Methods

This course trains students to be informed consumers of quantitative studies, in addition to teaching the tools of basic statistical work. The course material covers basic descriptive statistics, inferential statistics, and data collection. The key learning objective is for students to develop a better understanding of the statistical and econometric results they may encounter in their careers.

- 470.631 Economics for Public Decision-making

This course aims to offer students an understanding of economics and its importance in public policymaking. The first half of the course will offer students an understanding of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory, including a discussion of when markets can work to achieve policy goals and when "market failures" call for government intervention. The second half of the class will use these economic tools and theories to survey several specific policy areas, including health policy, tax policy, and the national debt.

- 470.608 Public Policy Evaluation and the Policy Process

This course introduces students to the public policymaking process, the basics of policy analysis, and the substance of some of today's major policy debates. The first half of the course focuses on establishing a framework in which to analyze public policy formulation within the United States. The class also reviews the tools for developing and implementing policy. The second half of the course turns to policy analysis of some critical contemporary issues.

- 470.605 Global Political Economy

In this course, students investigate core topics in international political economy, analyzing the security implications of each. Topics include trade relations, international finance, monetary relations, poverty, and development.

Qualifications*Minimum Qualifications:

- An advanced degree in public policy/public administration or in a relevant field, such as public finance, economics, or political economy, with a master's degree at minimum
- Two years of professional work experience within the relevant fields
