POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

In this Issue

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

In this Issue

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring : Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary
1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities
1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
   - departmental and institutional committee work,
   - professional or disciplinary activities, and
   - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support
1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - access to research materials and equipment,
   - the employment of research assistants,
   - research expenses on/off campus, and
   - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support
1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - the development of teaching expertise,
   - innovations in teaching, and
   - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
   - the average course load,
   - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
   - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review
1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives
1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
   - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
   - family needs of faculty and staff, and
   - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance
1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement
1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program
For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for August

ADMINISTRATION

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

Associate Program Director Lecturer/Sr. Lecturer, Nonprofit Management
Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Location
Washington, DC or Remote

Open Date
Jul 27, 2023

Description

POSITION:
Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Krieger School of Arts & Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

REPORT TO:
Program Director, Public Management

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Position Description:
The Johns Hopkins University invites applications for Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management in the Advanced Academic Programs' (AAP) Center for Data Analytics, Policy, and Government, a division of the Krieger School of Arts & Sciences. The Associate Program Director will report to the Director of the Public Management Program. The Johns Hopkins University is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

The Center seeks to hire an innovative and forward-thinking individual to manage the online MA in Nonprofit Management program. This faculty member will also work collaboratively with other Center faculty to set goals and direction in its pursuit of teaching excellence. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track, 12-month renewable faculty position with the academic title of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer.

Advanced Academic Programs:
AAP offers rigorous and high-quality master's degrees and certificates in three locations: the Washington, DC Center, the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD, and online. AAP enrolls almost 6,000 students each academic year in over 45 programs and distinguishes itself through its intensive instructional assistance, selective admissions, and over 60 dedicated full-time faculty. Tenured Krieger School faculty members serve as Program Chairs and oversee the academic rigor of AAP programs and courses. AAP's website, http://advanced.jhu.edu/, provides additional information.

Academic Responsibilities:

- Teach 4 graduate courses per year, including preparation and time spent in the classroom (online), using best practices for teaching, engaging, and mentoring students from diverse backgrounds in the learning process, and responding to student questions

- Advise students, including both program and research/capstone advising
- Provide innovative leadership for curriculum design and new course development to ensure the delivery and growth of a quality program
- Other academic duties normally performed by full-time faculty, such as participating on committees, attending academic events, or contributing to other academic service

Administrative Responsibilities:

- Work with the Program Director and Center Director to hire, mentor, and evaluate adjunct faculty
- Oversee the program's admissions process, including reviewing and approving prospective students' admissions materials
- Provide overall supervision for the Nonprofit Management program
- Schedule courses and set teaching assignments throughout the year
- Host events for current and prospective students

Qualifications:
The Associate Program Director's role is critical to maintaining the overall high quality of this program. The Associate Program Director must have a passion for education and its power to change lives, especially for part-time and non-residential students. A track record of building and managing successful onsite and online education programs, and skills in instructional design, content development, and instructional technologies, are important. Candidates who have experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

Minimum Qualifications:
- PhD in Nonprofit Management, Management, Administration, or a related field
- One to three years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- One to three years of experience at the Assistant Director level, or equivalent administrative experience
- Ability to teach a variety of courses in the nonprofit management field
Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Strong organizational

Preferred Qualifications:
- Four or more years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- Professional work experience in the nonprofit management field
- Demonstrated track record of excellence in teaching and innovation in curriculum design
- The ability to work independently in a fast-paced environment with competing demands and multiple deadlines
- Experience managing a degree or certificate program

Application Instructions:
The position will remain open until it is filled. Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for the two most recent semesters taught

The selected candidate will undergo a background check, provide three references, and official transcripts for each credential.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12179

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Georgetown University in Qatar
Rank: Faculty Position in American Politics – Associate Professor / Professor

Georgetown University in Qatar invites applications for one (1) senior core associate or professor position in American Politics. Core faculty positions are full-time positions designed to replicate the institutional commitment to academic freedom and professional opportunities associated with tenure-track and tenured appointments, in compliance with Georgetown University's academic governance guidelines.

The successful candidate will have demonstrated excellence in teaching and research. They will be able to teach undergraduate courses on the US political system and US foreign policy. This position may also include teaching at the graduate level. We welcome a range of substantive research specialties, including but not limited to, American political institutions, American political processes, American foreign policy, American political thought, race and politics, and gender politics. The ability to teach an undergraduate course on Scope and Methods in Political Science will be an advantage, as will the ability to teach, and mentor, quantitative research in politics and international relations.

Successful candidates are expected to contribute to a climate that embraces excellence and diversity, with a commitment to teaching and mentoring that will enhance the work of GU-Q and attract and retain a diverse student body. The successful applicant will take their place at a top-ranking research institution, and will have as colleagues a team of internationally-recognized scholars.

GU-Q provides generous research support and support for conference travel. Faculty at Georgetown University in Qatar are eligible to apply for GU-Q Faculty Research Funds and the Qatar National Research Fund's Qatar Academic Research Grant (https://connect.qrdi.org.qa/scientific-research/p/opportunities/p/19) and National Research Program (https://connect.qrdi.org.qa/scientific-research/p/opportunities/p/22). Colleagues with senior core faculty status are eligible to apply for periodic research sabbaticals.

The teaching load is 2-2. GU-Q boasts best-in-class teaching facilities including a Global Classroom for classes connecting students in Washington, D.C. and Doha.

Compensation is very competitive in relation to the US academic market. It includes an annual summer research stipend for active scholars, amounting to an additional 2/9 of the base salary. The expatriate benefits package (https://www.qatar.georgetown.edu/about/careers/human-resources/benefits-and-allowances/) includes: fully-furnished high-quality housing, transportation allowance, annual family home leave allowance, health insurance (worldwide coverage), generous private school tuition support for accompanying children, etc.

GU-Q was established in 2005 alongside other elite international universities in Education City (https://www.qf.org.qa/education/education-city), in partnership with Qatar Foundation. GU-Q is an integral part of Georgetown University, delivering the renowned School of Foreign Service's Bachelor of Science in Foreign Service (https://www.qatar.georgetown.edu/academics/programs/bachelor-science-foreign-service-bsfs-degree-program/) degree: a liberal arts program (https://www.qatar.georgetown.edu/academics/programs/bsfs-core-curriculum-first-two-years-degree/) offering majors in International Politics, International History, Culture and Politics, and International Economics. Several MA programs are in development. Degrees are issued by Georgetown University. GU-Q is a research-focused, student-oriented institution with a globally competitive research and publications record and it houses the Center for International and Regional Studies (CIRS https://cirs.georgetown.edu/). GU-Q values interdisciplinarity, and its faculty and students benefit from the opportunities offered by the wider academic eco-system of Education City. For more information on GU-Q, see https://www.qatar.georgetown.edu.

Qatar offers a diverse, safe and family-friendly living environment. Ranked the safest country in the world in 2020 (https://www.middleeastmonitor.com/20200714-qatar-ranked-safest-country-in-the-world-for-sixth-time/), it is connected by direct flights to over 160 destinations in 90 countries. The iconic National Library, adjacent to GU-Q in Education City and designed by Rem Koolhaas, provides free membership to all faculty and students. Public parks, beaches, sports facilities (including Education City's extensive sports venues), museums (https://www.qm.org.qa/en), cafes and restaurants abound, and a state-of-the-art metro system connects all parts of Doha and nearby locations (see https://www.visitqatar.qa/en/home). For a glimpse of what it is like to teach and live in Qatar, see: https://youtu.be/HNoERrWln4k.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should provide a cover letter detailing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, and the names of three scholarly references.

All application materials must be submitted via Georgetown's online application management system at https://apply.interfolio.com/128997. Faxed or emailed applications will not be accepted. Questions about the online application system should be directed to Ms. Carina Lawson at cl978@georgetown.edu.

Queries about the position should be directed to Professor Gerd Nonneman, Search Committee Chair, at gn72@georgetown.edu. Please reference "American Politics Search" in the subject line.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/30/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12178

SUNY, University at Buffalo
Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science, University at Buffalo, The State University of New York seeks an Associate or Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in American or Comparative Politics focusing on democratic processes and electoral phenomena.

We welcome applicants whose specialties are related to the study of democratic processes, democratic transition, consolidation, and regression, and specifically to the study of phenomena associated with elections. Issues of election reform, electoral integrity, and violence are central to the functioning of democracy both in the US and abroad. While elections are a central pillar of democratic legitimacy and consolidation, they can also serve as targets for instability incited by groups intent on bringing about democratic backsliding. All applicants studying democratic processes in these, and related research areas are invited to apply.

This hire will continue our recent faculty growth in the study the topics noted above in the American or foreign/comparative contexts. Candidates that match the Department's strength in quantitative methods of analysis and formal modeling are especially welcome. Teaching will include political science courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Normal departmental, university and disciplinary service duties are expected. We encourage applications from Associate Professors, Assistant Professors, and graduate students who will complete their degree prior to the position start date. Salary and start-up will be competitive and commensurate with rank.

The faculty in the Department of Political Science understand the value and importance of diversity. We are committed to providing an open, supportive, and inclusive environment for all of our students, faculty, and staff members, consistent with the University's commitment to inclusive excellence.

A letter of application, a vita, and three letters of recommendation must be submitted electronically at https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/43767 Applicants applying at the Assistant Professor rank (including those who are ABD) should provide research and teaching statements. All applicants are encouraged to apply by October 1, 2023, to receive full consideration, although application review will begin immediately. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Rachael Hinkle by email at rkhinkle@buffalo.edu .

The Department of Political Science at UB is nationally recognized for its research in international relations, public law, and comparative and American politics. The department's strengths lie in its national and international reputation for high quality research. In addition to its strong PhD program, the department offers BA and MA degrees in both Political Science and Global Affairs.
University at Buffalo is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and, in keeping with our commitment, welcomes all to apply including veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12162

University of Massachusetts, Boston
Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Political Development, Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Boston invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning September 1, 2024. We are particularly interested in candidates whose area of specialization is in race, ethnicity, and politics. Preferred but not required secondary areas of interest include political behavior, inequality, or American political development. A typical teaching load is two courses per semester, and candidates are expected to be productive scholars with active research agendas and pedagogical commitments. UMass Boston aspires to be an anti-racist health promoting institution and encourages applications from scholars with a commitment to community engagement in Boston and beyond.

Requirements:

All candidates should hold a PhD in a relevant field or should have a reasonable expectation of earning the PhD by no later than August 31, 2024.

Application Instructions:

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) relevant transcripts, (4) a statement of research and teaching interests, (5) a writing sample, (6) a statement on diversity and inclusion, and (7) three letters of recommendation. Please submit application materials online.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12169

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics and Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning August 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer classes in the undergraduate subfield of American Politics, graduate classes in the Public Administration core, and either Research Methods or Public Law.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load, shared between the undergraduate Political Science program, and the graduate Public Administration program, and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in undergraduate and graduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Applicants must apply through eJobs at https://jobs.etsu.edu.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach in the undergraduate political science program and MPA program.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related discipline, with the ability to teach in both the undergraduate political science program and the MPA program. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching in American politics, Public Administration, and Research Methods or Public Law.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12156

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - Public Administration and American Politics

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning August 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer both graduate classes in the Public Administration core and classes in the undergraduate subfield of American Politics and Research Methods/Policy Analysis. We welcome any subfield, but City Management, Regional Planning, or Non-Profit Management are especially desired.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load, shared between the graduate Public Administration program and the undergraduate Political Science program, and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in graduate and undergraduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Applicants must apply through eJobs at https://jobs.etsu.edu.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach in MPA Program and undergraduate political science program.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related discipline, with the ability to teach in both the MPA Program and the undergraduate political science program. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching Public Administration, American Politics, and research methods.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 11/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12157

New York University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks outstanding and innovative scholars for a position in US politics at the assistant professor level. The position is to commence September 1, 2024, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

Please apply online at: https://apply.interfolio.com/128720. Candidates seeking the fullest consideration should submit their applications by September 15, 2023. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching statement, writing sample, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply links to their professional websites; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12146

Baylor University
Rank: Full-Time Lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Social Movements, Race & Ethnic Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for Full-time Lecturer, non-tenure track, in comparative politics and/or American politics. This position emphasizes excellent teaching. We are looking for a candidate whose teaching emphasis includes race and ethnic relations and related topics in the US context or from a comparative international perspective. The department is open to candidates with any regional focus and methodological approach. Applicants may also contribute to the flourishing MA and PhD programs and to the direction of the undergraduate public service internship program and other engaged learning initiatives in the College of Arts and Sciences. Review of applications will begin as they are received. To assure full consideration applications should arrive by September 15, 2023.
About Baylor University: Located in Waco, Texas, Baylor University is the oldest college in Texas. With a population of 21,000 diverse students, Baylor is one of the top universities in the nation, having been named an R1 institution by the Carnegie Classification in January 2022. Baylor is also on the honor roll of the "Great Colleges to Work For" from The Chronicle of Higher Education; Baylor offers competitive salaries and benefits while allowing faculty and staff to live in one of the fastest-growing parts of the state. Our strategic plan, Illuminate, guides the University as we continue to live up to Baylor's mission of educating men and women for worldwide leadership and service by integrating academic excellence and Christian commitment within a caring community.

Qualifications
Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of Comparative politics or American politics.

Application Instructions

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Please submit in Interfolio a letter of application, a current CV, official transcripts showing the highest degree conferred, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Inquiries about this position can be directed to the co-chairs of the search committee, Pat Flavin (Patrick_J_Flavin@baylor.edu) or Ivy Hamerly (Ivy_Hamerly@baylor.edu).

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12135

Rice University
Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for an associate or full professor to begin July 1, 2024. Associate and full professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, mentor students, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to department and university service and leadership. Therefore, successful candidates will have an active research program, a record of publication and external funding commensurate with the proposed rank, and a record of excellence in teaching, mentoring, and service/leadership. Candidates must have a Ph.D in political science or a related field.

The position is open with regard to research specialty, but we are particularly interested in candidates who connect to our areas of departmental strength in democratic political representation (U.S. or comparative), international security, and/or quantitative methods.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is October 1, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, DEI, and leadership/service statements; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and contact information for three references. References will be contacted for a subset of candidates. All applications should be submitted electronically at apply.interfolio.com/128783.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12132

Wake Forest University
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor Position in American Politics

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY's Department of Politics and International Affairs is seeking applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in the sub-field of American politics to start July 1, 2024. We invite applications from American politics scholars with expertise in any of the following areas: constitutional law, civil rights and liberties, judicial politics, the presidency, American political Development, social movements, political communication, urban and local politics. We seek candidates pursuing an active research agenda and committed to excellence in teaching who are prepared to teach introductory courses in American politics and/or undergraduate research methods and develop and teach courses that connect with their research and complement subjects already represented among American politics scholars in the department. More information about the department is available at http://politics.wfu.edu/.

We have a particular interest in scholars who make connections between subfields and leverage intersectional and interdisciplinary perspectives. Faculty in the Politics and International Affairs Department engage formally and informally with interdisciplinary academic programs focusing on Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies; American Ethnic Studies; Environmental and Sustainability Studies; African Studies, Latin American and Latino Studies; Middle East and South Asia Studies; East Asian Studies; and Political Economy. Successful applicants will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching, mentoring, and advising undergraduate students from diverse backgrounds, including international students, first generation students, and those who identify as members of historically marginalized communities. A Ph.D. or ABD status in Political Science or a closely related field is required.

Wake Forest University is a private, coeducational institution dedicated to academic excellence in liberal arts, graduate and professional education. Founded in 1834, the University is ranked in the top 30 among national universities. With 5,400 undergraduates and 3,500 graduate and professional students, the student-faculty ratio is 11:1. Wake Forest is a collegiate university offering a vibrant intellectual community with a rich cultural life, an impressive array of facilities and an active athletics community. The University has a deep institutional commitment to public service and engagement with the world, encapsulated in its motto "pro humanitate." The Office of Civic and Community Engagement works to realize that ideal by serving as a hub for connecting students, staff, and faculty with community partners to create meaningful social change. To learn more about the University, please visit https://about.wfu.edu/

Interested applicants should apply via the University's career website at:
https://hr.wfu.edu/careers/. The application should be submitted as ONE PDF file, which includes all of the following:

? Cover letter addressing the motivation to join our teacher-scholar community;
? Curriculum vitae including contact information for three professional references;
? Research statement describing candidate's current research and future trajectory;
? Scholarly writing sample (e.g. journal article, dissertation chapter, or draft);
? Teaching statement including plan to establish an inclusive learning environment;
? Sample undergraduate course syllabi;
? Teaching evaluations or other evidence of effective student engagement;
? Copy of graduate transcript(s) (official copies only required upon employment).

In addition to the above, we ask that candidates have three letters of recommendation either mailed or emailed directly to the address listed below. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled, but to guarantee full consideration they should be received by September 15, 2023. If access to the internet is an issue, a hard copy of the application can be submitted to John Dinan, Chair, Wake Forest University, Department of Politics and International Affairs, P.O. Box 7568, Winston-Salem, NC 27109.
Inquiries about the application process and document submission may be addressed to AskHR@wfu.edu. Inquiries about the faculty position or department should be directed to John Dinan, Chair and Professor, Politics and International Affairs, dinanjj@wfu.edu.

Wake Forest University welcomes and encourages diversity and inclusivity and seeks applicants with demonstrated success in working with diverse populations. Wake Forest University is an AA/EO employer and values an inclusive and diverse learning community and campus climate. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Wake Forest University and the Department of Politics and International Affairs welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching, and community engagement. In order to provide a safe and productive learning and living community, Wake Forest University conducts background investigations for final candidates upon their acceptance of an offer of employment.

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12131

CUNY-Baruch College
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Security
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Austin W. Marxe School of Public and International Affairs at Baruch College invites applications for an Assistant Professor (Marxe School), tenure track, with a specialization in international security and technology. Areas of policy research could address cyber conflict, disinformation, military uses of AI, hybrid warfare, weapons proliferation, and other national security and global security challenges of the 21st century. Teaching responsibilities will include electives in a new Global Security concentration and core courses in the Master of International Affairs (MIA) program.

This position is part of an interdisciplinary cluster of new faculty across the College studying data science. Faculty in this cluster will prepare students to understand the threats and opportunities of the digital world. They will form an interdisciplinary data analytics group that will conduct high level research while simultaneously suffusing data science across all areas of the Baruch curriculum to improve student employment prospects.

Compensation and Benefits:
90,134 - 99,532; Commensurate with qualifications and experience. CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

How to apply:
Go to the CUNY website cuny.jobs to see the complete position description and job requirements in CUNYFirst under Job Opening ID #27080. You can view and apply for this job in CUNYFirst via the following direct link to the posting https://cuny.jobs/new-york-ny/assistant-professor-of-policy-cyber-security/85CF44B277D7485D89E11ED06ABE4027/job/

Candidate should provide:
• Cover letter explaining your interest in the position
• Curriculum vitae
• One recent scholarly publication or paper
• Statement of scholarship interest (1 page maximum)
• A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of students who are among the first-generation of their family to attend a college or university. (1 page maximum)
• Reference list with contact information

Closing Date:
This position will be open until filled and review of applications will start on October 1, 2023.

EEO Statement:
CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 12119

Rice University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2024. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to university service. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on race and ethnic politics in the U.S., including the intersection of race and ethnicity with political behavior, political representation, public policy, and the law. Successful candidates will be prepared to teach in the area of race and ethnic politics and have skills in quantitative research methods. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2024.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, and DEI statements; graduate school transcripts; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at http://apply.interfolio.com/128602.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12125

Saint Louis University
Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics
Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The Department of Political Science at Saint Louis University seeks applicants for a tenure track position in American politics starting in August 2024. The ideal candidate will have primary teaching and research interests in American Politics, with an emphasis on law and courts.
Previous teaching experience and a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department, a Ph.D. in Public and Social Policy. Members of underrepresented groups in the Political Science discipline are particularly encouraged to apply.

To apply, we ask that applicants upload the following materials combined into a single pdf (see upload instructions below): (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter that includes research and teaching interests; (3) a statement of teaching philosophy; (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., recent teaching evaluations, officially produced if possible, and sample syllabi); (5) a research statement; and (6) a single-authored writing sample. Please have unofficial graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Claire Bruce at claire.bruce@slu.edu. Letters of recommendation are not required at this stage but will be accepted. We will request three letters of recommendation from shortlisted candidates after our initial review of applications. For questions about the position, please contact Dr. Morgan Hazelton, morgan.hazelton@slu.edu, chair of the search committee, or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin on Sep. 1, 2023, and continue until the position is filled.

Application Upload Instructions: Please visit SLU's Workday portal at https://slu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers. When prompted to upload your Resume/CV on the "My Experience" page, please upload a single PDF of the documents requested above. SLU Workday applications must be completed in one sitting. You will not be able to revise your application once submitted.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12121

Saint Louis University
Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Saint Louis University seeks applicants for a tenure track position in American politics starting in August 2024. Research and teaching interests within the field of American Politics are open. Previous teaching experience and a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department, a Ph.D. in Public and Social Policy. Members of underrepresented groups in the Political Science discipline are particularly encouraged to apply.

To apply, we ask that applicants upload the following materials combined into a single pdf (see upload instructions below): (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter that includes research and teaching interests; (3) a statement of teaching philosophy; (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., recent teaching evaluations, officially produced if possible, and sample syllabi); (5) a research statement; and (6) a single-authored writing sample. Please have unofficial graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Claire Bruce at claire.bruce@slu.edu. Letters of recommendation are not required at this stage but will be accepted. We will request three letters of recommendation from shortlisted candidates after our initial review of applications. For questions about the position, please contact Dr. Steven Rogers, steven.rogers@slu.edu, chair of the search committee, or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin on Sep. 22, 2023, and continue until the position is filled.

Application Upload Instructions: Please visit SLU's Workday portal at https://slu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers. When prompted to upload your Resume/CV on the "My Experience" page, please upload a single PDF of the documents requested above. SLU Workday applications must be completed in one sitting. You will not be able to revise your application once submitted.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/22/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12122

Portland State University
Rank: Teaching Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Comparative Politics

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

The University Honors College and the Department of Political Science at Portland State University seek a Teaching Assistant Professor with a focus in Law and Courts with a strong commitment to undergraduate education. This is a non-tenure track faculty (NTTF) appointment for an individual whose responsibilities are primarily devoted to teaching. Expectations of the position will also include mentoring, advising, and service. Appointment may include responsibility for undergraduate curriculum development, participation in assessment, professional development, training graduate teaching assistants and adjuncts, and/or community-based work. We are interested in candidates who engage with key contemporary urban issues such as the environment, immigration, violence and/or policing, fascism and racism, poverty and inequality, among others. Ability to work with, mentor, and advise students and graduate assistants/ tutors/ graders of diverse populations, and participation in departmental, college/ school, or university service are required.

Minimum Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field).
- Expertise in law and courts in either comparative or American politics.
- Ability to teach academic writing to undergraduates and support undergraduate senior thesis writing.
- Interest in pedagogy and pedagogical professional development.
- Ability to teach introductory qualitative research methods for undergraduates.
- Interest in/ record of mentoring underrepresented and first generation students in US higher education.
- Documented excellence in teaching large and small undergraduate courses in the candidate's field of study.
- Successful completion of a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:
For Honors College: the candidate will be qualified to teach the HON 100 Global City sequence and HON 260 & HON 360 transfer courses, which require a strong foundation in teaching undergraduate writing.

Key Cultural Competencies:
- Create an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates differences.
- Function and communicate effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities, and cultural backgrounds.
- Seek opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement.
- Adhere to all of PSU's policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

Total Compensation Range & Benefits:
The starting annual salary for this position will be $68,751. An excellent benefits package includes 95% premium paid healthcare; a generous retirement and vacation package; and reduced tuition rates for employee, spouse or dependent at any of the Oregon University System schools. Please visit our total compensation calculator to see the full value of our benefits package.

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12112

Princeton University
Rank: Research Director

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks a dynamic Research Director (RD). CSDP serves as Princeton's primary center for studying democratic political processes, behavior, and institutions. The Center brings together a large, vibrant and interdisciplinary community of scholars interested in democratic politics, supports their empirical research, and communicates those findings to inform public policy debates inside and outside the academy.

In concert with the faculty Director(s), the RD directs, oversees, guides, and implements CSDP's academic and policy research programs. The RD envisions, develops, and manages CSDP's research missions and strategy. They monitor and address Affiliates' research needs, including affiliated faculty, researchers (fellows, scholars, and so on), and students. They keep up with and bring to bear research resources and knowledge from across and outside Princeton. The RD will also help CSDP implement SPIA's strategic priorities, especially data science, policy relevance, and DEI.

Responsibilities:
-Design and deliver hands-on workshops on research methods, tools, and applications, including the collection or use of datasets, according to affiliates' needs
-Research and statistical consulting to CSDP affiliates and make recommendations and oversee the selection of reserach-relevant software
-Assist with the review, selection, recruiting, and mentoring of CSDP's fellows and research staff
-Assist with reading and selecting grant applications submitted for CSDP funding and also with the development and writing of CSDP directors' applications and proposals for funding
-Develop and oversee a new MPA fellows' program and supervise its fellows including their research activities and their policy-oriented writing
-Write reports and other content translating CSDP research for public and policymaker audiences, with the assistance of the MPA fellows

Essential requirements:
-PhD in political science
-Training in and experience using political science research methods including a strong quantitative background
-Strong programming skills, including in R
-At least one publication in an academic political science journal on topics in CSDP's core mission (the study of democratic politics)
-Minimum one-year post-PhD work experience in an academic setting
-Experience teaching research methods, data science, or related programming skills, or advising student activities in these areas
-Meticulous attention to detail and ability to proof one's own work and others'
-Demonstrated ability for creative problem-solving, active listening and interpersonal skills, empathy for others, proactive approach to work issues, openness to feedback on one's work performance, and taking initiative to address, anticipate and head off problems
-Experience with managing research projects from initiation through completion
-Eagerness to collaborate on projects and to cooperate with others in the work environment
-Motivated to produce at a high level of productivity and excellence

Preferred:
-Experience with data use agreements and how to develop partnerships and collaborations to obtain data
-working with or merging large or administrative datasets
-Specialized technical skills for the social sciences
-Experience communicating about political science or policy for broad audience

The RD will have a research budget for their use in attending conferences and similar activities facilitating their ongoing professional development as a researcher.

The position is for a three-year term, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance. This position is subject to a background check.

Applicants must submit a CV, a cover letter describing their areas of expertise and research interests, and contact information for three references. References may be contacted for the candidates who make the shortlist for this position.

The submission must be online via AHIRE link.: https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/29741

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12108

Syracuse University
Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics
Specializations: Congress, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Race & Ethnic Politics

Syracuse University
American Politics

The Department of Political Science seeks a tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics. The search is open to candidates whose teaching and research focus on political institutions broadly. We are particularly interested in candidates who study public policy, Congress, the bureaucracy, interest groups, and/or race.

The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests. Successful candidates may be invited to affiliate with the Campbell Public Affairs Institute or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/). The successful candidate will teach at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The typical course load is 2 classes a semester.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field or a credible expectation of completing all requirements for the Ph.D. by August 2024. The Maxwell School is interested in candidates who can contribute to the inclusiveness and diversity of the academic community through their research, teaching, and/or service.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:
For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at http://www.sujobopps.com/) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a research statement, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1, 2023. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled. We encourage dual career academic couples to apply as well.

Syracuse University is an equal-opportunity, affirmative-action institution. The University prohibits discrimination and harassment based on race, color, creed, religion, sex, gender, national origin, citizenship, ethnicity, marital status, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expression, veteran status, or any other status protected by applicable law to the extent prohibited by law. This nondiscrimination policy covers admissions, employment, and access to and treatment in university programs, services, and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12104

University of Iowa
Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor in American Politics and Computational Social Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Iowa invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with a focus in American Politics and Computational Social Science (e.g. Machine learning, text/audio/video as data, networks, big data). The Department welcomes applications from candidates in any subfield in American politics who are doing research using computational social science approaches. Candidates must be able to teach courses in American politics as well as introductory and advanced graduate quantitative methods courses, including computational social science courses. Candidates should clearly describe their research and teaching interests in their letter of application and include a CV, research statement, teaching statement, writing sample, teaching evaluations, and letters of recommendation.

The position will begin on August 21, 2024, and the appointment requires a Ph.D. in Political Science or Government by start date. The review of applicants will begin September 12, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

For information on how to apply, please visit http://jobs.uiowa.edu/ and reference Requisition #74875. Electronic attachments to the online application include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, writing sample, teaching evaluations and information for 3 letters of reference. Question can be directed to polisci@uiowa.edu.

The University of Iowa is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment free from discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, pregnancy (including childbirth and related conditions), disability, genetic information, status as a U.S. veteran, service in the U.S. military, sexual orientation, gender identity, or associational preferences.

Required Qualifications
• PhD in Political Science, Government, or related field by start date.
• Has a primary research and teaching specialty in American Politics
• Has conducted research using Computational Social Science methods
• Ability to teach American Politics and Computational Social Science classes at the graduate level.

Desirable Qualifications
- Ability to publish in general field refereed journals or books
- Demonstrated strong computational social science data modeling skills
- Ability to be an effective instructor

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12109

Reed College
Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American Politics

Applications are invited for a tenure-track appointment in American Politics at Reed College, located in Portland, Oregon, beginning Fall 2024. We anticipate making an appointment at the assistant professor level. Salary is competitive and based on experience. Reed provides generous travel and research support, and the Political Science Department has access to some additional professional development funds. We expect the Ph.D. to be in hand by the start of the appointment.

A successful candidate will teach five courses over two semesters which will include two sections of Introduction to American Politics and Policy, a quantitative research methods course, and additional upper division courses in the candidate's areas of expertise. Our pedagogy emphasizes the conceptual and theoretical foundations of the discipline and includes supervision of several students engaged in their required senior theses.

Reed College is a community that values cultural and intellectual pluralism as essential to the excellence of our academic program. We expect your cover letter to address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or community service would support the commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion articulated in Reed College's diversity and anti-racism statements (http://www.reed.edu/diversity). An Equal Opportunity Employer, Reed College values diversity and encourages applications from underrepresented groups.

We welcome applications from all specialties of American politics, with an interest in candidates who use quantitative methods in their research. Enrollment for all of our courses is capped at 24 students, and most of our courses are conducted as seminars. Above all, we seek candidates who demonstrate in their cover letter a strong commitment to teaching excellence at the undergraduate level, a lively and serious program of scholarship, and an interest in treating their specialties explicitly in the light of broader issues in the social sciences.

Please send an application letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation to http://apply.interfolio.com/128345.

Application deadline is September 15, 2023.

Information on the department is available at http://academic.reed.edu/poli_sci/. Search inquiries may be addressed to political.search@reed.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12107

American University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track positions beginning in Academic Year 2024-25. The positions will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. The Department is seeking American Politics scholars and Political Methodologists with substantive expertise in American politics. Applications from candidates who would enhance the diversity of the department are especially welcome.

Applicants should hold a PhD. Candidates should be effective teachers and must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research. The search is open regarding areas of substantive specialty, but the Department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests include American political institutions. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research and providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applications are particularly welcome from scholars who can contribute to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University, such as the Women and Politics Institute, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, Center for Data Science, and Center for Environmental Policy. In addition to scholarship and teaching, all faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Review of applications will begin on September 1, 2023, and will continue until the positions are filled, subject to on-going budgetary approvals. The positions begin August 1, 2024. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion date by August 2024.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Please submit applications via: http://apply.interfolio.com/128065 . Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three confidential letters of recommendation, research and teaching narratives, and a writing sample. Please contact Rachel Whelan, Faculty Coordinator, 202-885-6201 or spa_academicaffairs@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News &World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/13/2023

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12091

Suffolk University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics, African American Politics

The Political Science and Legal Studies (PSLS) Department at Suffolk University invites applicants for a full time, tenure-track position in American Politics and Public Policy. The Department is interested in recruiting a teacher scholar with a focus on civil rights and liberties, race and ethnic politics, the role of identity in politics, or the impact of economic, social, or political inequality on marginalized groups.

Candidates should provide evidence of commitment to excellent teaching and scholarly potential including a research agenda and plans for peer-reviewed publication. The successful candidate will teach at the undergraduate and graduate level; previous teaching experience is preferred. The PSLS department offers three undergraduate majors (political science, international relations, and law) and two graduate programs (Master's in Applied Politics and a Master's in Global Public Policy). We are looking for candidates who are excited about developing and teaching courses in American Politics, American Institutions and/or public policy. Research methods is also a need in the department.

The successful candidate will contribute to a rich tradition of community-engaged teaching and experiential education that prepares our diverse, substantially first-generation college students—40% of whom are Pell eligible—for careers and civic engagement. The successful candidate will have a commitment to inclusive pedagogy and curricular diversity, mentoring and advising students—especially first-generation college students—as well as conducting impactful research.

Not sure this is you? Contact us to find out! Research indicates that women and members of under-represented groups tend not to apply to jobs when they think they do not meet every qualification, when, in fact, they often do. Suffolk University is dedicated to a diverse and inclusive academic community. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, socio-economic, and ability groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification.

Faculty in the PSLS department are award-winning teachers recognized for innovative pedagogical practices, community leaders civically engaged in advancing social justice, internationally recognized policy and political consultants and active researchers and scholars. Department faculty take advantage of our location in the heart of Boston to design exciting real-world learning opportunities.

Diversity, equity and inclusion are woven into Suffolk University's very fabric. We have been providing access and expanding opportunities for under-represented groups for more than a century. This mission is lived through our decisions at every level. U.S. News ranked Suffolk University among the top 100 universities in the country for social mobility. Suffolk was also listed 14th nationally in percentage of international students. Through student, faculty and staff recruitment and support, community engagement, curriculum development, and research, the University community works to advance equity for every student, every day. Learn more about how we manifest the core values of our mission at Suffolk DEI.

Candidates must hold a PhD by the commencement of the 2024/2025 academic year; ABD candidates in the final stages of completing their degrees will be considered.

Application should be made through the Suffolk University Human Resources' Careers at Suffolk site. A complete submission will include: cover letter (including research agenda); CV; graduate transcripts; research writing sample; statement of teaching philosophy; student course evaluations; and contact information for three professional references. For full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30. Initial interviews will be via Zoom followed by on-campus interviews. The department will also hold an information session at the 2023 APSA conference in August.

Suffolk University is a private, comprehensive, urban university located in downtown Boston, and is an equal opportunity employer committed to faculty diversity. Candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. You can learn more about Suffolk University from our website. To learn more about the Political Science & Legal Studies department, go to our department website.

Inquiries about the position and the APSA information session should be addressed to Dr. Rachael Cobb, Chair of the PSLS Department at rcobb@suffolk.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12094

University of Maryland, Baltimore County
Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics with Focus on Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in American politics, beginning August 2024. We seek candidates with a teaching and research concentration in race and ethnic politics.

UMBC is a Carnegie Research 1, minority-serving institution focused on inclusive excellence. Preference will be given to candidates who already hold a Ph.D. in political science or related field, or who will have completed the Ph.D. by August 2024. Candidates must provide evidence of a focused research agenda and a commitment to high quality undergraduate teaching experience. Candidates must also describe the ways in which their research, teaching, and/or life experience contributes to "inclusive excellence," such as their ability to work with underserved and diverse populations or their capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the competence, aspirations and needs of students from diverse backgrounds.

The annual teaching load is five courses. Candidates will teach two introductory sections of American Government and Politics (counting as two courses) and be prepared to offer upper division undergraduate courses in race and ethnic politics.

Applicants should submit their applications by October 1, 2023, for best consideration. Please provide a cover letter, a statement of research agenda, a statement of teaching philosophy, a statement of commitment to diversity and inclusiveness; CV; up to two sample publications; two sample course syllabi; and three reference letters by October 1, 2023.

Please address questions to Dr. Tom Schaller, Search Chair, Department of Political Science, schaller@umbc.edu, with the subject line, "POLI Search." Required application materials and submission instructions are available at https://apply.interfolio.com/127870.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/12/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12089

Bethel University
Rank: Full-time faculty position in the Department of History, Philosophy, and Political Science

Position Title: Full-time faculty position in the Department of History, Philosophy, and Political Science

Job Summary: One-year term position teaching undergraduate Political Science courses with a focus on American politics

Responsibilities:
-Teach seven courses; ideal course load will include teaching at least three sections of the introductory course in American Government and Politics, as well as courses in American Political Ideologies, American Public Policy and Classical Political Thought
-Participate in departmental and institutional activities as appropriate
-Contribute to an academic environment that seeks to advance inclusive excellence in the department and the discipline

Skills:
-Strong teaching skills
-Demonstrated ability to teach courses in American Government and Politics
-Prefer ability to teach courses in Political Theory
-Understanding of and ability to promote Bethel's mission as a Christian liberal arts university
-Commitment to Bethel's efforts to develop as an inclusive university community

Experience: College level teaching strongly preferred

Education: Master's in Political Science or related field required; PhD preferred

Compensation: Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications and experience

Position open: August 2023; Candidate must be legally permitted to work in US

Questions?
Academic Affairs
College of Arts & Sciences
Bethel University
3900 Bethel Drive
St. Paul, MN 55112
651.638.6804
cas-academic-affairs@bethel.edu

Bethel seeks to recruit, retain, support, and develop a diverse workforce that contributes to our educational and Christ-centered mission. Bethel encourages candidates to apply who can assist the University to develop a faculty that reflects the diversity of people in God's kingdom through a variety of ethnicities, cultures, and lived experiences.

Bethel University is a leader in Christ-centered higher education with approximately 5,000 students from 48 states and 32 countries enrolled in undergraduate, graduate, seminary, and adult education programs. Based in St. Paul, Minnesota, Bethel offers bachelor's and advanced degrees in nearly 100 fields. Educationally excellent classroom-based and online programs equip graduates to make exceptional contributions in life-long service to God and the world.

Bethel employs qualified individuals regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, age, marital status, genetic information, veteran status, familial status, and status with regard to public assistance. Individuals must be able to perform the essential functions of the position with or without reasonable accommodations.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12082

Stanford University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - American Politics

Assistant Professor of Political Science - American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stanford University is seeking applications for a tenure line position at the rank of assistant professor in American Politics.

Candidates must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor. Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching evaluations, Ph.D. program transcripts, and a writing sample along with at least three professional letters of recommendation.

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities and Sciences and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an inclusive academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds, identities, and outlooks. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these ideals. Additional information about Stanford's IDEAL initiative may be found here: https://ideal.stanford.edu/about-ideal/diversity-statement.

Review of applications will begin on September 8, 2023, but applications may be considered after that date. Application materials must be submitted on-line via https://facultypositions.stanford.edu.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodation to any employee with a disability who requires accommodation to perform the essential functions of his or her job.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching, and clinical missions.

The salary range for this position is $135,620 - $144,577 for 2023-24.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: $130,000 - $139,999
eJobs ID: 12083

University of Rhode Island
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science
Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island anticipates an opening for a faculty position in American politics specializing in U.S. political institutions, particularly Congress and the Presidency, and quantitative research methods. This is a tenure-track, academic year appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor to commence in the Fall of 2024.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's mission is to "inspire an enlightened community that is characterized by vibrant cultural diversity; that embraces difference; that is built upon a learning environment that fosters respect, understanding, and social justice; and that rejects prejudice and intolerance." Our department seeks candidates whose principles align with that mission.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
The successful applicant will be expected to teach undergraduate political science courses in the areas of American politics and quantitative research methods that serve as requirements for the Political Science program. Some of these undergraduate classes may have up to 250 students.

Expected to publish original research in their respective field of study and advise undergraduate and graduate students.

Provide service to the department, the university and the profession.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2024, in Political Science.

2) Primary or secondary specialization in the following areas: American politics, Congress, and/or the Presidency.

3) Demonstrated ability to excel in teaching large, broad-based introductory political science courses in the area of American politics.

4) Demonstrated ability to teach upper-level political science courses on U.S. political institutions, especially Congress and/or the Presidency.

5) Evidence of research in the field of American politics with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.

6) Ability to teach large introductory research methods courses.

7) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ability to develop an externally grant-funded research program relevant to the field.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/11940

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS

Required Documents: Please attach 5 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Profile Application:

1) A letter of application that describes your interest in this position

2) A Curriculum Vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document),

3) A brief research and teaching statement

4) A statement on diversity, equity, and inclusion reflecting on URI's mission to "inspire an enlightened community that is characterized by vibrant cultural diversity; that embraces difference; that is built upon a learning environment that fosters respect, understanding, and social justice; and that rejects prejudice and intolerance."

5) If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12081

Pomona College
Rank: Assistant Professor in the Politics of the United States

The Department of Politics at Pomona College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the politics of the United States, with a focus on race, ethnicity and/or identity politics. Qualified candidates should have a PhD in political science or related field. Candidates prepared to teach institutions and/or public policy a plus. Our department has a broad understanding of political science and encourages applications from a variety of approaches, methodologies and perspectives within the discipline. We seek to attract, develop, and retain faculty that contribute to the cultural, linguistic, experiential, and ideological diversity of our campus community.
Pomona is a top-ten liberal arts college that offers a need-blind, no-loan admissions policy and values equal access to higher education. This achievement is reflected in our diverse and outstanding student body of approximately 1,700 students, over 55% of whom identify as a person of color. The College maintains a student-to-faculty ratio of eight to one and is strongly committed to small-scale residential education. Accordingly, the department values excellent teaching and encourages applications from women, minorities, and individuals committed to mentoring our diverse and engaged student body. Faculty at Pomona teach two courses a semester, including introductory courses - in this case at least one section of Introduction to American Politics annually. College faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarship and service profile. The College offers many forms of support for scholarship, including a full-year, pre-tenure research leave. Founded in 1887, Pomona College is the founding member of the Claremont Colleges, a unique constellation of five small undergraduate colleges and two graduate institutions located in southern California near the foothills of the San Gabriel mountains, about 35 miles east of Los Angeles. Students of the Claremont Colleges can cross-register for courses at any of the colleges, and faculty and staff across the colleges often collaborate.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted by September 17, 2023. To apply, please submit for Assistant Professor of Politics on AcademicJobsOnline: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) graduate school transcripts; 4) a statement of teaching philosophy; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness; 6) three sample syllabi; 7) a research statement; 8) written samples of your research; 9) a statement addressing your demonstrated knowledge of inclusive pedagogy and demonstrated ability to teach and mentor a diverse student body (more details here), and 10) three letters of recommendation. Alternatively, hard copies of the same materials may be sent to: Amanda Hollis-Brusky, Chair, Pomona College Politics Department, 425 North College Avenue, Claremont, CA. 91711. For more information, contact amanda.hollis-brusky@pomona.edu.

Pomona College is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/17/2023
Date Posted: 7/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12072

New Mexico State University
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Political Science & American Government Job No# 498239 and Position No# 197401

The Department of Government at New Mexico State University invites applications for the position of Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Political Science with a focus on American government. Employment will start August 19, 2024. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or have ABD status in Political Science or a related field. Preferred qualifications are teaching experience in Political Science and American government.

The Department of Government offers a BA in Government, a Supplementary Major in Law and Society, an MA in Government, and a nationally accredited Masters of Public Administration (MPA). It is also one of the lead departments for the new Interdisciplinary Ph.D. Program in Transborder and Global Human Dynamics. The department has a proud tradition of enhancing student success and social mobility, outstanding research and valuable work in service and outreach. The Tenure Track Assistant Professor will teach a mix of undergraduate and graduate classes in the areas of political science and American government, totaling three classes per semester, as well as serve on the MA committee within the Department of Government.

For inquiries, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Seong Kang, at sckang@nmsu.edu. To be considered, applications must be submitted online by September 28, 2023 at: https://careers.nmsu. edu/jobs/assistant-professor-las-cruces-new-mexico-united-states

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/28/2023
Date Posted: 7/5/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12066

Sam Houston State University
Rank: AY2023-2024 Lecturer–Pool Faculty (Political Science)– up to 3 positions to be filled

Usual Duties:
The Department of Political Science seeks a qualified instructor to teach "American Politics" and "The U.S. Congress" in our online MA in Political Science program during the 2023-2024 academic year. We could have additional opportunities in American Government, Texas Government, Quantitative Methods, and other upper-division undergraduate courses in American politics. Undergraduate courses could be taught online or face-to-face at the main Sam Houston State University campus in Huntsville, TX.

Degree Requirements:
Ph.D. in political science preferred; will consider candidates that are ABD in a relevant Ph.D. program and/or candidates that have a master's degree in political science.

Experience Requirements:
Teaching experience, especially online-teaching experience, is preferred.

Required Documents:
1. Cover Letter
2. CV (with references)
3. Transcripts

Optional Documents:
1. Letter of recommendation 1
2. Letter of recommendation 2
3. Letter of recommendation 3

Link to Apply:
https://shsu.peopleadmin.com/postings/35401

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/3/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12064

Bucknell University
Rank: Tenure-Track position in Political Science (American Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics beginning in Fall, 2024. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. We seek candidates whose scholarly and teaching interests include race and ethnic politics in the U.S. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in American politics, a course in race and ethnic politics, a course in quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other American politics courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We welcome candidates who demonstrate excellence in reflective multicultural and inclusive teaching practices and who display a strong commitment to collaboration and interdisciplinarity. Evidence of teaching excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in American politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Applicants with questions about this position are encouraged to contact Professor Doug Hecock at douglas.hecock@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2023 and will continue until filled.

About Bucknell

Bucknell University is a private, highly ranked, primarily undergraduate, national liberal arts institution that also offers strong professional programs in engineering, management, education, and music.

Bucknell University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. The university believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. Applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education are encouraged.

Bucknell is committed to creating a climate that fosters inclusion, growth, and development for a diverse student body, and seeks candidates who are also committed to these goals.

Bucknell is committed to supporting the teacher-scholar model of faculty development. With a student-faculty ratio of about 9:1, small class sizes are a hallmark of the Bucknell educational experience. The university sponsors a range of activities to support the development of its faculty, including a Teaching-Learning Center and generous research support and leave policies.

Bucknell is located in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, on the banks of the Susquehanna River. The Lewisburg area offers a combination of outdoor recreation opportunities and small-town amenities. In addition to the cultural and athletic events offered at the University and in town, the region offers strong schools and medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. Bucknell is about three hours from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/23/2023
Date Posted: 6/29/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12059

University of Cincinnati
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Founded in 1819, the University of Cincinnati ranks among the nation's best urban public research universities. Home to nearly 48,000 students, about 11,000 faculty and staff and 332,000 alumni, UC combines a Top 35 public research university with a physical setting The New York Times calls "the most ambitious campus design program in the country."

With the launch of Next Lives Here, the Cincinnati Innovation District, a $100 million JobsOhio investment, eight straight years of record enrollment, worldwide leadership in cooperative education, a dynamic academic health center and entry into the Big 12 athletic conference, UC's momentum has never been stronger. UC's annual budget tops $1.65 billion and its endowment totals $1.8 billion.

Job Overview
The School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) at the University of Cincinnati invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor with a primary workload focus in support of our Law and Society-related curriculum. The position would begin August 15, 2023 and, thus, will need to cover three currently scheduled in-person courses for the Fall semester. Current syllabi and course material will be shared with the selected candidate given the short timing window of this appointment. There will be some flexibility in courses for the Spring, both in terms of time and subject as specified below.

SPIA offers three undergraduate BAs (Political Science, International Affairs, and Law and Society). SPIA also houses three research centers—the Center for Truth, Racial Healing and Transformation (CTRHT) and the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy (CCSP) and our new Portman Center for Policy Solutions The successful candidate will have the opportunity to affiliate with these centers, if they wish.
Essential Functions
The successful candidate will be expected to teach three (3) courses this 2023 fall semester and three (3) courses spring 2024 semester: Specifically,

Fall 2023 courses will be:
• Introduction to Law, Politics, and Society
• Politics of Law and Religion in the U.S.
• Freshman Seminar: Democratic Citizenship

Spring 2024 courses will be:
• Introduction to Law, Politics, and Society (repeated course from Fall)
• 2 Additional American Politics, Public Law, or Political Theory undergraduate courses that the candidate is prepared to teach. Examples include: American Presidency, Legal Advocacy, American Courts, American Public Thought, etc.

Service activities will include advising Law and Society majors and Legal Studies Certificate students.

Minimum Requirements
Prior to the effective date of the appointment, candidates must have:
• Passed comprehensive exams and Minimally have achieved advanced ABD status in their doctoral program
OR
• Have obtained a completed PhD in Political Science or a related field

The appointment will begin August 15, 2023.

Application Process

Interested and qualified applicants must complete our on-line application at https://jobs.uc.edu/job-invite/93435/. In addition to the basic online application, please provide:

• Cover letter indicating fit with the job description and SPIA programs outlined above
• Full and current CV
• List of three references (letters of reference will be requested for short-list finalists)

Review of Applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled with a goal of a mid-to late July 2023 conclusion of the search to allow for the candidate to on-board in time for the Fall semester.

Questions should be directed to Dr. Richard J. Harknett, Director and Search Committee Chair at: Richard.harknett@uc.edu.
Compensation and Benefits
UC offers a wide array of complementary and affordable benefit options, to meet the financial, educational, health, and wellness needs of you and your family. Eligibility varies by position and FTE.

• Competitive salary range dependent on the candidate's experience.
• Comprehensive insurance plans including medical, dental, vision, and prescription coverage.
• Flexible spending accounts and an award-winning employee wellness program, plus an employee assistance program.
• Financial security via our life and long-term disability insurance, accident and illness insurance, and retirement savings plans.
• Generous paid time off work options including vacation, sick leave, annual holidays, and winter season days in addition to paid parental leave.
• Tuition remission is available for employees and their eligible dependents.
• Enjoy discounts for on and off-campus activities and services.

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

The University of Cincinnati, as a multi-national and culturally diverse university, is committed to providing an inclusive, equitable and diverse place of learning and employment. As part of a complete job application you will be asked to include a Contribution to Diversity and Inclusion statement.

As a UC employee, and an employee of an Ohio public institution, if hired you will not contribute to the federal Social Security system, other than contributions to Medicare. Instead, UC employees have the option to contribute to a state retirement plan (OPERS, STRS) or an alternative retirement plan (ARP).

The University of Cincinnati is an Affirmative Action / Equal Opportunity Employer / Minority / Female / Disability / Veteran.

REQ: 93435

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/29/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12058

Rollins College
Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Assistant Professor, American Politics

Rollins is the best college in Florida, but don't just take our word for it. See what the experts are saying. Explore all of the ways Rollins is top ranked—from our academic excellence and expert faculty to our unparalleled campus and one-of-a-kind study abroad opportunities.

For the 14th consecutive year, Rollins College has been named a "Great College to Work For"! Be a part of the Rollins experience and find a place where you belong. Ready to join us?

Position Summary:

The https://www.rollins.edu/political-science/ at Rollins College invites applications for the position of tenure-track Assistant Professor of American politics, beginning August 2024. We seek a broadly trained Americanist with interests in quantitative methodology. Applicants able to contribute to Rollins' interdisciplinary programs in American Studies, Data Analytics and/or Public Policy and Political Economy, are especially welcome. Ph.D. at time of appointment is preferred, but ABDs will be considered. Application deadline Oct. 15, 2023.

The successful candidate will also have a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts institution. Our department is committed to diversity and inclusion - and faculty regularly engage in student/faculty collaborative summer research, international field studies, and honors thesis supervision. The regular teaching load is three courses per semester, including introduction to American government and one course yearly for our general education program.

Department representatives will also interview candidates at the 2023 APSA in Los Angeles. To schedule an introductory interview at APSA, contact chair via email at mailto:mgunter@rollins.edu.

Rollins College is a comprehensive liberal arts college located just north of Orlando, FL, a diverse metropolitan community with a thriving economic and cultural scene. Nearby Orlando International Airport provides easy access to U.S. and international destinations. The college emphasizes innovative and quality teaching in small classes and ranks number one among 121 Southern master's-level universities in the annual rankings of "America's Best Colleges," released by U.S. News & World Report. Please visit the college website at http://www.rollins.edu/.

Minimum Qualifications and Education:

• Ph.D. (or ABD) in Political Science with a specialization in American politics and interests in quantitative methodology.
• Demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts institution.
• Shows potential to effectively educate and mentor a diverse student population.
• Record of scholarly activity showing strong potential for future publication.

Instructions to Applicants:

Interested applicants must apply online via the College's employment website and upload the following materials as follows:

• Letter of interest outlining teaching philosophy

• Curriculum vitae
• Sample of scholarly writing
• Teaching evaluations (if available)
• Provide three reference names and email addresses on application
Inquiries can be directed to:
Mike Gunter
Chair, Department of Political Science
mailto:mgunter@rollins.edu

Diversity & Inclusion at Rollins:

Rollins is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus community, and the College celebrates the open exchange of ideas within a climate of civility and mutual respect. We view differences—from race and ethnicity to sexual orientation and political perspectives—as rich opportunities for understanding, learning, and growth. To learn more, please click https://www.rollins.edu/about-rollins/diversity-inclusion/index.html.

Through its mission, Rollins College is firmly committed to creating a just community that embraces multiculturalism; persons from historically under-represented minority groups are therefore encouraged to apply. Rollins does not discriminate on the basis of sex, disability, race, age, religion, color, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, physical characteristics, or any other category protected by federal, state, or local law, in its educational programs and activities.

Benefits &
Perks:

• Paid Holidays and College Closure Days
• Eligible for Medical, Prescription, Dental & Vision Insurances (within 30 days of hire)
• 100% Employer-Funded Health Reimbursement Account ($125+/month)
• 100% Employer-Paid Short & Long Term Disability Insurance
• Domestic Partner Benefits
• 11.5% Employer Retirement Contributions
• Discounted On-Campus Dining Meal Plans
• FREE On-Campus Parking
• FREE Access to Campus Amenities (gyms, pools, library, sporting events and more)
• FREE Full Tuition for Employees and their Families
• Pet Insurance
• 100% Employer-Funded Employee Assistance Program
• Flexible Spending Accounts
• Award-Winning Wellbeing Programs: Blue Rewards, Rally Dollars, Hinge Health Musculoskeletal Coaching
• Plus More!

Additional Perks:

• Local & National Discount Programs, including Winter Park Locations (i.e. shops, restaurants, gift cards and more)
• FREE E-Training Courses & Professional Development Opportunities
• IT Software & Laptop Discounts (Apple, Lenovo, and more)
• College Bookstore Discounts
• Annual Service Awards & Recognition Programs
• Discover what it's like to live in Orlando: https://life.orlando.org/l/live/
• Plus More!

https://www.rollins.edu/human-resources/working-at-rollins/why-rollins/benefits.html.

FLSA Status:

Exempt

Service Months:

9

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/4294766

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12044

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

American Politics

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Department of Political Science in Cambridge MA invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor effective July 1st, 2024, or as soon thereafter as possible. Responsibilities include research, graduate and undergraduate teaching, and student research supervision. Applicants should have a PhD degree in Political Science or a related field at start of employment. MIT is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, ancestry, or national or ethnic origin. Applications should include a cover letter which addresses your research agenda and teaching interests, and how your past efforts and future plans will advance diversity, equity, and inclusion in your scholarship, teaching, and service. Also include a CV, writing sample(s), and three letters of recommendation. Please submit online applications to https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/MIT/Political%20Science Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Political Science (academicjobsonline.org). Completed applications must be submitted by September 15, 2023.
Employment is contingent upon the completion of a satisfactory background check.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12031

Framingham State University
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Faculty of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science, Law, and Global Studies at Framingham State University invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time faculty position in the areas of American Government and Public Administration/Public Policy, beginning in the academic year 2024-2025.

We are seeking candidates deeply committed to teaching in a liberal arts environment. Full-time faculty members at Framingham State teach three 4-credit courses per semester.

Duties include undergraduate teaching, research and scholarship, and service to the department and Framingham State University. The successful candidate will regularly teach Introduction to American Politics and advanced courses in American government and public administration/policy including Legislative Politics, Bureaucratic Politics and Public policy analysis, and other related courses in these fields.

Requirements:
MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field
ABDs will also be considered (Ph.D. must be completed by August 31, 2024)
A strong record of teaching in American Politics and Public Administration/Policy is required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Experience with or a demonstrated willingness to participate in teaching, mentoring, research, or service activities that promote the growth of an equitable, diverse, and inclusive academic environment.

The successful candidate may also teach courses in research methods and support undergraduate civic engagement opportunities.

This is a full-time, exempt, benefits-eligible position in the Massachusetts State College Association (MSCA) bargaining unit at a faculty rank commensurate with credentials and experience. Salary commensurate with experience in accordance with Appendix O of the MSCA contract (http://mscaunion.org/day-and-dgce-contracts/)

Framingham State University conducts criminal history and sexual offender record checks on recommended finalists prior to final employment for all positions.

Framingham State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Members of underrepresented groups, minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and all persons committed to diversity and inclusive excellence are strongly encouraged to apply.

Candidates must apply online by submitting:

Cover Letter addressing teaching philosophy and any areas of specialization/expertise,
CV/Resume,
Equity and Inclusion Statement, and the names and contact information for three professional references (references are not automatically contacted at the time of application).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12015

Texas State University, San Marcos
Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Congress, American Politics

Posting 20243TTL
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level to teach required and elective graduate and undergraduate courses. The department awards the bachelor's degree and the master of arts degree. All positions are subject to availability of funds.
Required Qualifications:
1. Earned Ph.D. in political science prior to start date;
2. Potential for research and publication in at least one of the following areas: constitutional law, the judiciary, Congress, or American political development.
3. Ability to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in constitutional law;
4. Potential for exceptional teaching; and
5. Effective interpersonal skills.
Preferred Qualifications:
1. Willingness to assist with advising and coordinating events for pre-law students; and
2. Potential for research across the institutions of American government.
Application Procedures:
Online submission of all application materials is required through the university's application portal, https://jobs.hr.txstate.edu/postings/39682.

To assure full consideration, please submit the following by October 16, 2023: 1) a letter of intent addressing required and preferred qualifications, 2) current curriculum vitae, 3) unofficial transcript(s), 4) samples of scholarly work (presentations and/or publications), 5) syllabi (if available), and 6) three letters of recommendation.

Note that as part of our application process, we are requesting three letters of reference. Please provide the names and email addresses for your references in the Reference Letter section of the employment application. Upon submission of your application, an automated email will be generated and sent to your references with instructions on how to attach the reference letter to your application though a confidential online portal.

Candidates selected for interviews will be required to provide official transcripts from all degree granting universities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12018

DePauw University
Rank: Political Science Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at DePauw University invites applications for a 2023-24 Term position (Rank of Assistant Professor) beginning August 2023 (that may have the possibility for renewal). Ph.D. (completed by 2023) in Political Science or a closely related field preferred (candidates with master's degrees, or who are ABD, will be considered at the rank of Instructor). A commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal arts setting and evidence of effective and inclusive teaching are essential. The department specifically seeks candidates to teach multiple introductory American Politics courses, and upper-level courses in any area of American Politics of the candidate's choosing after consultation with the department. Teaching assignment is three courses per semester and funding is available for professional development.

DePauw University is a leading, nationally-recognized liberal arts university dedicated to educating just over 1,700 highly talented, motivated, and diverse students from across the country and around the globe. Connected to the liberal arts college is one of the nation's first Schools of Music, to be renamed The Institute of Music at DePauw in July 2024. For 185 years, DePauw has created an atmosphere of intellectual challenge and social engagement that prepares students for lifelong success. Located in Greencastle, Indiana, about a 45-minute drive west of Indianapolis, DePauw is a member of the Great Lakes Colleges Association. DePauw has an ongoing commitment to diversity and seeks to strengthen our institution through equitable and inclusive practices.

Candidates should submit through Interfolio [http://apply.interfolio.com/126552] a cover letter summarizing qualifications, teaching philosophy, and research interests; CV; evidence of effective teaching (such as sample syllabi or course evaluations); three confidential letters of recommendation; and graduate transcripts. Application materials should provide evidence of a commitment to successfully fostering and engaging with a diversity of ideas and experiences to create an inclusive environment in the classroom and at the University. Review of applications begins June 20, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled. Please contact Deepa Prakash, Political Science Department Chair at deepaprakash@depauw.edu with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/8/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12011

Wellesley College
Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Wellesley College invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured appointment at the assistant or associate professor level in American politics, beginning in the academic year 2024-2025.

We are seeking candidates with expertise in a wide range of fields, though we are particularly interested in candidates whose research involves American political institutions and organizations, either at the national or subnational level. We are also interested in candidates who can teach an introductory methods course, whether qualitative, quantitative, or some combination. The person hired will be expected to teach our introductory course in American politics.

Candidates should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in a liberal arts environment. Faculty members at Wellesley teach two courses per semester.

Applications should include the following:

• A cover letter of no more than two pages;
• A one-page teaching statement;
• Teaching evaluations and syllabi (or a draft syllabus if you have one);

• Writing samples of research;
• A curriculum vitae; and
• Three (3) letters of recommendation.

ABD applicants should also include a graduate school transcript.

Not sure you meet all qualifications? Let us decide! Research shows that women and members of other under-represented groups tend to not apply to jobs when they think they may not meet every qualification, when in fact, they often do. Wellesley is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community through teaching, research, and service. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, and socio-economic groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification. Where applicable, candidates should include (as relevant) how diversity, inclusion, and equity connect to their teaching, scholarship, and service.

All materials should be submitted online by visiting our application website at https://shorturl.at/hDE13 . We will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2023, and will continue accepting applications after that date. If circumstances do not allow you to submit materials through our on-line application system, please email us at working@wellesley.edu . Wellesley College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Specific inquiries should be addressed to Prof. Tom Burke, chair of the search committee, at tburke@wellesley.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/2/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12002

California State University, Bakersfield
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Bakersfield invites candidates to apply for a Tenure-Track faculty position in American Politics with a focus on Environmental Politics, Sustainability and Justice. Among the topics of interest that should be focused on are: climate change, global warming, and energy politics, agricultural and industrial environmental pollution, water politics and policy, homelessness, migration – locally and across various regions of the country and world, and America's global environmental footprint – with special attention to people from marginalized communities.

The Political Science Department is small but thriving – it is home to a robust Pre-Law Program, and a Model United Nations Program among others. The Department's student demographics are 70% women, and a substantial percentage of First-Generation students, and recently Forbes Magazine ranked CSUB 18th as Top Performer on social mobility. Furthermore, CSUB is a great location for anyone who is interested in studying what politics and policy looks like at the intersection of ethnorace, class, and an ongoing climate crisis. CSUB is located in Kern County which is over 60% Latinx and considered both an agricultural and oil and gas hub. The Central Valley is also the second- most pumped aquifer system in the U.S. We are located one hour and thirty minutes north of the Hollywood Bowl. One hour and 20 minutes from the Central California Coastal Wine Country, and one hour and 40 minutes to the state's central coast. Kern County is where more than 250 different crops are grown and where approximately 75% of California's irrigated land is located. A scholar professor would not only be able to conduct vital research for and about the region on the topics of water and agriculture but Kern county is also known for its involvement with oil and gas making CSUB a fruitful location to also study energy policy.

As a department, we are looking for a qualified and committed candidate with a PhD (ABDs may be also considered) in American Politics with an emphasis in Environmental Politics, Sustainability and Justice (Public Policy, Political Economy, Policy and Politics are encouraged to apply) who can develop and teach courses that are reflective of our community, issues, the state of California, and the US public policy making process. Additionally, candidates for the position would be expected to teach the department's Core Courses, Research Methods, and Introduction to American Government among others.

Required Qualifications:
• Earned a Ph.D. (ABD with degree completed before start date) in Political Science, from an accredited doctoral-granting institution.
• Demonstrated commitment to teaching undergraduates from diverse socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds, including first-generation students.
• Teaching experience using a variety of teaching modalities (in person, synchronous, asynchronous).
• Possess a commitment to promote equity and inclusion through teaching, research, and service at CSUB.
• Evidence of Scholarship/Research

Minimum Qualifications:
• Evidence of effective teaching.
• Possible Course Proposals
• Evidence of potential to conduct independent research in the area of expertise as well as mentor undergraduate students in research.

Preferred Qualifications:
• Experience with academic advising and student mentorship (if applicable).

To be considered, complete application materials must include:
• Cover Letter
• Current Curriculum Vitae
• Statement of Teaching Philosophy
• Research Statement
• Statement of contribution to diversity, equity and inclusion. Please include information on how you currently or will potentially promote diversity, equity and inclusion through teaching, research and service at CSU Bakersfield.
• Copy of university transcripts verifying academic record and award of doctorate (or anticipated date of award)
• List of three (3) references with contact information

Interviews will be conducted at the annual APSA meeting in Los Angeles, CA. Contact Dr. Ivy AM Cargile if you would like to schedule an appointment.

All applications materials should be sent electronically as one PDF in the order listed above to Ms. Christina Ochoa, department Administrative Assistant: cochoa@csub.edu.

Background Check: A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

For any questions please contact: Dr. Ivy AM Cargile (icargile@csub.edu) or Dr. Jeanine Kraybill (jkraybill@csub.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 5/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11984

Occidental College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Poltiics

Occidental College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics, in the subfield of American Politics, during the 2023-2024 academic year, starting in August 2023. This is a full-time instructional position where the visitor will teach 6 classes per year (3 each semester). The Politics Department welcomes applications from candidates specializing in any area of American Politics. Faculty members whose specializations touch upon questions of social justice, diversity, and equality are especially welcome to apply.

Summary of Duties, Responsibilities and Goals

The specific teaching duties include: (1) three sections of Introduction to American Politics (POLS 101); (2) one First Year Writing Seminar (FYS) on a topic of the visitor's choosing; (3) one American Politics class at the 200 (intermediate) undergraduate level and (4) one American Politics class at the 300 (advanced) undergraduate level. The 200 and 300-level classes may be on topics that reflect the visitor's expertise.

Qualifications & Application Instructions

A Ph.D in political science preferred. Applicants may be Ph.D. candidates in political science who expect to have their Ph.D. in hand by August 1, 2023. Interested candidates should submit the following materials to Romelia Corona (rcorona@oxy.edu), review will begin May 30 and continue until position is filled:

(1) a CV;
(2) a cover letter describing (i) teaching and research specializations, approach to the POLS 101 class, and possible FYS and 200- and 300-level courses that could be offered in American Politics and (ii) strategies for teaching a diverse undergraduate population, including members of historically underrepresented groups;
(3) evidence of teaching effectiveness (may include syllabi, teaching evaluations and/or peer evaluations);
(4) a list of three academic references who may be contacted, one of whom can comment on teaching.

Inquiries about the position may be directed to Associate Professor and Chair of Politics, Jennifer Piscopo, at piscopo@oxy.edu EXPECTED SALARY: $57,500 per year including benefits. Length of appointment is for the academic year 2023-2024.

Start Date: Fall 2023

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/17/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 11972

American University
Rank: Professorial Lecturer

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for one term faculty appointment for 2023-24 academic year. The appointment is at the rank of Professorial Lecturer and will commence on August 28, 2023 through May 31, 2024.

Applicants should hold a PhD or other terminal degree. Highly qualified applicants with a master's degree related to political science will be considered at the rank of instructor. The position will require the incumbent to teach three undergraduate or M.A. courses per semester in political science with a primary focus on American Politics and Public Policy. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach GOVT 443/643 (Applied Political Writing), GOVT 210 (Political Power and American Public Policy), and GOVT 620 (Applied Politics and American Public Policy). All faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Salary is competitive. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled, subject to on-going budgetary approval. Please submit applications via http://apply.interfolio.com/125384. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, contact information for three professional recommendations, recent teaching evaluations (when possible), and copies of recent published papers or working papers. Please contact Rachel Whelan, Faculty Coordinator, 202-885-6201 or spa_academicaffairs@american.edu if you have any questions.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs offers both undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Learn more about SPA at https://www.american.edu/spa/ and about the department at https://www.american.edu/spa/gov/.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus. Hiring offers for this position are contingent on the successful completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/16/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11967

College of Charleston
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (2 positions available)
Specializations: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston is seeking candidates for two visiting assistant professor positions in American politics beginning August 2023. We are looking for candidates who can teach multiple sections of introduction to American politics. Opportunities to teach courses in candidate's area of expertise are possible. The successful candidate will teach a 4-4 load. A PhD in Political Science, or a closely related field, is required.

Although this is an open search in the American politics subfield, we are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching focus broadly in the areas of political theory, race & politics, public policy, and the law. We seek candidates who have experience advising students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for students who represent historically oppressed and marginalized identities.

The Political Science Department has 21 full-time faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (http://polisci.cofc.edu/), and a Geography Minor (http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/). The department also supports the NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration with an enrollment of approximately 60 students (http://puba.cofc.edu/) and Master of Science in Environmental and Sustainability Studies (http://mes.cofc.edu/) program and contributes to a concurrent MES/MPA degree. The Department is committed to the rigorous study of politics, power, and place, expanding opportunities for learning and service, career preparation, and civic participation locally and globally.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 800,000. The College is a public, liberal arts, and sciences institution with a student body of approximately 1,100 graduate students, 10,000 undergraduate students, 20% of whom identify as minority, and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available at: https://www.cofc.edu/.

Applicants should apply online at https://jobs.cofc.edu/ and submit a cover letter that specifically describes how the candidate will contribute to department goals related to equity, inclusion, and co-creation, a curriculum vita, a teaching portfolio (with a teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for two reference providers. Graduate transcripts and other information may be requested of finalists.

Questions about the search can be directed to the department chair Dr. Hollis France (franceh@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin May 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/5/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11952

College of Charleston
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (2 positions available)
Specializations: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston is seeking candidates for two visiting assistant professor positions in American politics beginning August 2023. We are looking for candidates who can teach multiple sections of introduction to American politics. Opportunities to teach courses in candidate's area of expertise are possible. The successful candidate will teach a 4-4 load. A PhD in Political Science, or a closely related field, is required.

Although this is an open search in the American politics subfield, we are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching focus broadly in the areas of political theory, race & politics, public policy, and the law. We seek candidates who have experience advising students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for students who represent historically oppressed and marginalized identities.

The Political Science Department has 21 full-time faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (http://polisci.cofc.edu/), and a Geography Minor (http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/). The department also supports the NASPAA Accredited Master of Public Administration with an enrollment of approximately 60 students (http://puba.cofc.edu/) and Master of Science in Environmental and Sustainability Studies (http://mes.cofc.edu/) program and contributes to a concurrent MES/MPA degree. The Department is committed to the rigorous study of politics, power, and place, expanding opportunities for learning and service, career preparation, and civic participation locally and globally.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 800,000. The College is a public, liberal arts, and sciences institution with a student body of approximately 1,100 graduate students, 10,000 undergraduate students, 20% of whom identify as minority, and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available at: https://www.cofc.edu/.
Applicants should apply online at https://jobs.cofc.edu/ and submit a cover letter that specifically describes how the candidate will contribute to department goals related to equity, inclusion, and co-creation, a curriculum vita, a teaching portfolio (with a teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for two reference providers. Graduate transcripts and other information may be requested of finalists.

Questions about the search can be directed to the department chair Dr. Hollis France (franceh@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin May 23rd and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/5/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11953

University of Texas, Arlington
Rank: Lecturer

Position ID: F00418P
The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Arlington is seeking a non-tenure-stream, full time lecturer, which will begin in August 2023. This position will operate with a three-year contract. We encourage applications from people qualified to teach courses in the following areas: US Government; Texas/State and Local Government. We also welcome applications from those who also are qualified to teach upper division (sophomore-seniors) and graduate MA courses in political science. We are especially interested in applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to students' success and an interest in supporting student recruitment and retention efforts.

Essential duties and responsibilities:
The ability to teach face-to-face, hybrid, and/or online courses in the following areas: US Government; Texas/State and Local Government and other high-enrollment upper-division courses.

Required qualifications:
For lecturer positions, we require at minimum a Master's degree in political science or a very closely related field and prefer applicants who are PhD holding or pursuing a doctorate, or who are ABD.

The University of Texas at Arlington is located in the heart of the Dallas-Fort Worth-Arlington metroplex, a vibrant and diverse metropolitan area that is home to over 7 million people, one of the fastest-growing tech economies in the United States, and a wide array of arts, entertainment, and cultural activities. UTA is a comprehensive teaching, research, and public service institution dedicated to the advancement of knowledge through scholarship and creative work. The University is committed to providing access and ensuring student success, and to a culture of innovation, entrepreneurship, and commercialization of discoveries by our community of scholars. With an enrollment of approximately 46,000 students, UTA is the largest institution in North Texas and the second-largest in the UT System. As a result of its combination of rigorous academics and innovative research, UTA is designated as a Carnegie R-1 "Very High Research Activity" institution and as a Texas Tier One institution. In 2021, UTA received the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award for its deep commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education.

UTA ranks No. 4 nationally in Military Times' annual "Best for Vets: Colleges" list and No. 1 in Texas for the number of degrees awarded to African American students (Diverse: Issues in Higher Education, 2021). UTA is designated by the U.S. Department of Education as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI), and it has the fifth-most ethnically diverse undergraduate population in the United States (U.S. News & World Report, 2023). UTA is among the top 50 performers nationwide for promoting social mobility of its graduates (U.S. News & World Report, 2023), and its approximately 250,000 alumni, including some who occupy leadership positions at many of the 23 Fortune 500 companies headquartered in North Texas, contribute to the UTA's $22.2 billion annual economic impact on Texas.

The Department of Political Science (http://www.uta.edu/pols/ and https://www.facebook.com/POLSatUTArlington) offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over two hundred and forty undergraduate majors and minors and ten to twenty graduate students.

Successful candidates are expected to demonstrate a commitment to diversity and equity in education through their scholarship, teaching, and/or service as well as a strong commitment to teaching, advising, and mentoring undergraduate and graduate students from diverse backgrounds.

To apply applicants should go to http://uta.peopleadmin.com/ and submit the following materials: Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two sample syllabi, a statement of interest, and contact information for three references. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is August 15, 2023.

Questions may be addressed to: Dr. Brent Boyea (boyea@uta.edu). For more information about UTA, please visit: http://www.uta.edu/uta.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/4/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11950

Princeton University
Rank: Research Director

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks a dynamic Research Director (RD). CSDP serves as Princeton's primary center for studying democratic political processes, behavior, and institutions. The Center brings together a large, vibrant and interdisciplinary community of scholars interested in democratic politics, supports their empirical research, and communicates those findings to inform public policy debates inside and outside the academy.

In concert with the faculty Director(s), the RD directs, oversees, guides, and implements CSDP's academic and policy research programs. The RD envisions, develops, and manages CSDP's research missions and strategy. They monitor and address Affiliates' research needs, including affiliated faculty, researchers (fellows, scholars, and so on), and students. They keep up with and bring to bear research resources and knowledge from across and outside Princeton. The RD will also help CSDP implement SPIA's strategic priorities, especially data science, policy relevance, and DEI.

Responsibilities:
-Design and deliver hands-on workshops on research methods, tools, and applications, including the collection or use of datasets, according to affiliates' needs
-Research and statistical consulting to CSDP affiliates and make recommendations and oversee the selection of reserach-relevant software
-Assist with the review, selection, recruiting, and mentoring of CSDP's fellows and research staff
-Assist with reading and selecting grant applications submitted for CSDP funding and also with the development and writing of CSDP directors' applications and proposals for funding
-Develop and oversee a new MPA fellows' program and supervise its fellows including their research activities and their policy-oriented writing
-Write reports and other content translating CSDP research for public and policymaker audiences, with the assistance of the MPA fellows

Essential requirements:
-PhD in political science
-Training in and experience using political science research methods including a strong quantitative background
-Strong programming skills, including in R
-At least one publication in an academic political science journal on topics in CSDP's core mission (the study of democratic politics)
-Minimum one-year post-PhD work experience in an academic setting
-Experience teaching research methods, data science, or related programming skills, or advising student activities in these areas
-Meticulous attention to detail and ability to proof one's own work and others'
-Demonstrated ability for creative problem-solving, active listening and interpersonal skills, empathy for others, proactive approach to work issues, openness to feedback on one's work performance, and taking initiative to address, anticipate and head off problems
-Experience with managing research projects from initiation through completion
-Eagerness to collaborate on projects and to cooperate with others in the work environment
-Motivated to produce at a high level of productivity and excellence

Preferred:
-Experience with data use agreements and how to develop partnerships and collaborations to obtain data
-working with or merging large or administrative datasets
-Specialized technical skills for the social sciences
-Experience communicating about political science or policy for broad audience

The RD will have a research budget for their use in attending conferences and similar activities facilitating their ongoing professional development as a researcher.

The position is for a three-year term, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance. This position is subject to a background check.

Applicants must submit a CV, a cover letter describing their areas of expertise and research interests, and contact information for three references. References may be contacted for the candidates who make the shortlist for this position.

The submission must be online via AHIRE link.: https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/29741

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/19/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11918

University of Florida
Rank: Visiting Lecturer in American Politics & Public Law/Judicial Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, time-limited, nine-month, non-tenure-accruing Visiting Lecturer position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. We are particularly interested in applicants whose teaching and research focus on the judicial system in the U.S. Applicants able to teach courses on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating undergraduate policy-related internships, develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors & Junior Fellows programs. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester but may be reduced for significant service to the department. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (http://www.polisci.ufl.edu) to learn more about the Department of Political Science.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11901

George Washington University
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year position as a visiting professor with a specialization in American Politics and Theory. The candidate hired will teach a 3-3 load of undergraduate classes during the 2023-2024 academic year.

Minimum Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field by the date of appointment, with specialization in American Politics and Theory. Applicants must have experience teaching undergraduate courses.

Application Procedure: To apply, please complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/100915; upload a cover latter: curriculum vitae;
statement of teaching experience; evidence of teaching effectiveness, preferably student evaluations; and include the names of three references (letters of recommendation are not required). Review of applications will begin on April 24, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered. Please note the University has an ongoing mandate for all personnel to be fully vaccinated with a booster against COVID-19.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

The university and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply.

Successful completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 4/24/2023
Date Posted: 3/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11834

University of Puget Sound
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor, University of Puget Sound

Appointment: One-year visiting assistant professor in US politics for the 2023-2024 academic year.Responsibilities/Description: We are seeking a scholar of US politics to teach six courses for the year. Courses will include Constitutional Law, Introduction to US Politics, and courses that match the interest and expertise of the successful applicant. While not required, applications are encouraged from scholars who could offer courses appealing to student interests in critical approaches or in areas such as indigenous rights or immigration law. There are also opportunities to connect with scholars and students in a range of interdisciplinary programs including a new Crime, Law, and Justice program; African American Studies; and Latinx Studies.

Qualifications: A doctoral degree (ABD considered) in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education are required. Candidates must demonstrate a willingness and ability to address the needs of historically underrepresented students. Successful applicants will have expertise in the US courts or the law. We are interested in candidates with a range of secondary interests including but not limited to parties, political behavior, or US institutions.

Application Deadline: Review of applications will begin March 1 and continue until position is filled.

Required Documents:
• Curriculum vitae
• Letter of interest
• Teaching statement
• Diversity statement (see prompt below)
• Sample syllabi of courses you would be prepared to teach
• A research sample (e.g. article, dissertation chapter, conference presentation)
• Contact information for three (3) references. You will be prompted to enter the contact information for three (3) reference providers. The system will automatically email these reference providers to request a letter.

Applicant's Diversity Statement. As a department and university, we are strongly committed to creating an inclusive and effective teaching, learning, and working environment for all. In the applicant's diversity statement, applicants should comment on their ability to contribute meaningfully to our on-going commitment to be informed and competent with regard to issues of diversity, equity, and individual differences. We encourage applicants to reference the University of Puget Sound's current Diversity Strategic Plan (DSP) at https://www.pugetsound.edu/equity-diversity-puget-sound/threshold-2022-cultivating-culture-inclusive-excellence prior to writing this statement. While not an exhaustive list, the following are some ways applicants can express their qualifications:
• Demonstration of your awareness of inequities for underrepresented student populations in education, research experience, and other opportunities;
• Brief insights on why diversity is important at institutions like the University of Puget Sound;
• Your lived experiences and/or identities that speak to the department and university's commitment to inclusion and diversity;Infusion of diversity and diversity-related issues into your research, pedagogy, and/or service;
• Previous and/or current activities involving mentoring underrepresented student populations;
• Brief insights on how cultural competency increases one's effectiveness as an educator and department/university colleague.

Compensation and Benefits:
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor
Salary is commensurate with education and experience. Faculty salaries at the University of Puget Sound are based on a common salary scale based on experience. Assistant Professor salaries in 2022-2023 begin at $69,074 for an assistant professor level 1 in their first year of full-time post-doctorate teaching through $77,297 for an assistant professor level 6 in their sixth year of full-time post-doctorate teaching. Puget Sound offers a generous benefits package. For more information, visit: https://www.pugetsound.edu/human-resources/benefits

About the department of Politics and Government Department: The department of Politics and Government offers a rich educational experience centered on disciplined thinking about political processes, policy, and political values to prepare students for citizenship and leadership in challenging times. We offer minors and majors with emphases in US Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Law and Society.

About the University: The University of Puget Sound is a liberal arts college dedicated to preparing graduates for the highest tests of democratic citizenship. To learn more about our mission, please visit: https://www.pugetsound.edu/about-puget-sound-0/mission-core-valuesPuget Sound is a member of the Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC), Greater Washington State https://www.hercjobs.org/regions/higher-ed-careers-washington/.

About Tacoma: The University of Puget Sound is located in Tacoma, Washington, a vibrant, diverse mid-sized urban port city. Within and near Tacoma there is ready access to urban, rural, and natural areas as well as opportunities to participate in a wide variety of cultural activities.

University Diversity Statement
• We acknowledge the richness of commonalities and differences we share as a university community; the intrinsic worth of all who work and study here; that education is enhanced by investigation of and reflection upon multiple perspectives.
• We aspire to create respect for and appreciation of all persons as a key characteristic of our campus community; to increase the diversity of all parts of our University community through commitment to diversity in our recruitment and retention efforts; to foster a spirit of openness to active engagement among all members of our campus community.

• We act to achieve an environment that welcomes and supports diversity; to ensure full educational opportunity for all who teach and learn here; to prepare effectively citizen-leaders for a pluralistic world.

Puget Sound is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. We seek diversity of identity, thought, perspective, and background in our students, faculty, and staff. To learn more please visit: http://www.pugetsound.edu/about/diversity-at-puget-sound/

All offers of employment are contingent on successful completion of all required background checks. All new hires will be required to submit proof of current COVID-19 vaccination (including booster) or receive an approved medical or religious exemption from the university.

The University of Puget Sound is an equal opportunity employer.

To apply, go to: https://www2.pugetsound.jobs/psp/HR92PRD/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_FL.HRS_CG_SEARCH_FL.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST_FL&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=3&JobOpeningId=6988&PostingSeq=1

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/8/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 11790

SUNY, Geneseo
Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science & International Relations at the State University of New York at Geneseo seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics, with a focus on Public Policy and Public Administration, to begin August, 2023. Possible areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, Environmental Policy, Health Care Policy, Income Inequality, or Social Welfare Policy. We are a highly collegial department of six full-time faculty members who are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and liberal arts education. We offer two majors (Political Science and International Relations), contribute to several interdisciplinary minors, and have access to substantial resources to support research. More information about our department is available at https://www.geneseo.edu/political_science.

Duties of the position include:
• Teaching courses 3 courses per semester in American Politics, including an introductory American politics course every semester, courses on public policy and public administration, and other courses in the candidate's area of expertise.
• Coordinating a Public Administration minor, and administering Geneseo's joint 5-year BA/MPA program with the University of Albany.
• Pursuing a program of scholarly research, leading to publication in peer-reviewed outlets.
• Providing academic advising to students.
• Mentoring and supervising undergraduate research and other projects.
• Contributing to governance and engaging in service to the department, the college, and the discipline.

• There may also be opportunities to contribute to other interdisciplinary programs, including the Sustainability Studies, Sociomedical Sciences, and American Studies majors, and the Legal Studies, Urban Studies, Conflict Studies, and Environmental Studies minors.

Our priority is teaching excellence. We seek someone with a strong commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting and who is prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced courses in their area of expertise. A commitment to working effectively with students from diverse backgrounds is essential. We also highly value collegiality, experience with integrative learning, and a willingness to contribute to a holistic and broadly-conceived education in political science as a part of a broader liberal arts curriculum.

Required Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the time of appointment.
• Expertise in American Politics and ability to teach courses in Public Policy and Public Administration.
• Prior experience or demonstrated potential in teaching courses in American Politics at the undergraduate level.
• Potential to establish a program of research leading to publication.
• Demonstrated commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive working/teaching environment.

Applicants should upload a cover letter addressing research and teaching interests, current CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a brief writing sample. Cover letters should address how candidates view themselves as contributing to Geneseo's commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging (DEIB) and its aspiration to become a public equity-centered honors college. Applicants should also supply contact information for three references, who will be contacted to upload letters at the time of application. Please submit materials at https://jobs.geneseo.edu/postings/4241. Review of completed applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by March 10 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 3/10/2023
Date Posted: 2/22/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11742

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Intelligence Analysis
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Intelligence, Defense, International Security

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Location:
Washington, DC or Online (Remote)

Open Date:
Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:
Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences

Advanced Academic Programs

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence
This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis
Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis
Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics
This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence
This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar
This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence
In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:
- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.
- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions"
The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses
- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

APPLY HERE: https://apply.interfolio.com/120762

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 2/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11649

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson School of Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong training in political economy and quantitative methods. We are interested in candidates who study the effects of regime type, electoral systems, and the rule of law on the economy with particular attention to economic growth, regulation, social protection, and the performance of financial markets." The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by Professor Ian Shapiro.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2023. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/118479.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda .

Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/8/2022
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 11487

Ramapo College of New Jersey
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science & Public Policy - 10 month - Tenure Track

Job Details

Title:
Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science & Public Policy - 10 month - Tenure Track Position Number:
641050
Position Type:
Faculty Tenure Track - 10 Month
Department:
SHGS
Posted Date:
10/06/2022
Position Type and Expected Hours of Work:

Full-time tenure-track - Starting August 30, 2023

Job Summary/Description:

RAMAPO COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY:

Mission: Ramapo College of New Jersey is New Jersey's Public Liberal Arts College, dedicated to providing students with a strong foundation for a lifetime of achievement. The College is committed to academic excellence through interdisciplinary and experiential learning and international and intercultural understanding. Ramapo College emphasizes teaching and individual attention to all students. We promote diversity, inclusiveness, sustainability, student engagement, and community involvement.

Established in 1969, Ramapo College offers bachelor's degrees in the arts, business, humanities, social sciences, and the sciences, as well as in professional studies, which include business, elementary education, nursing, and social work. The College also offers articulated programs, including dental, optometry, chiropractic, and health professions, as well as visual arts therapy and law, with colleges and institutions in New Jersey and New York.

Undergraduate students may choose to concentrate their studies in one of five schools with over 500 course offerings and more than 40 academic programs. Ramapo College boasts an average student/faculty ratio of 15:1 and an average class size of 21, which allows students to develop close ties to the College's exceptional faculty

The School of Humanities and Global Studies aims to create a holistic educational experience that enables our students to become literate, intentional, and empowered global citizens who are prepared, not only in specific recognized fields but also in interdisciplinary dialogue. Through our varied offerings (in Anthropology, American Studies, Foreign Languages, History, International Studies, Literature, Political Science, Liberal Studies, and Philosophy), we seek to enhance students' understanding and appreciation of the complex cultural, political, and imaginative dimensions of human existence.

Our teaching, service, and scholarly or creative achievement combine to help our students develop their powers of reasoning, speaking, writing, and creativity, thus equipping them for the challenges of contemporary life. The School's faculty members are dedicated to teaching and scholarship, have traveled extensively and studied abroad, and have backgrounds in foreign languages, humanities, and social sciences.

EEO STATEMENT:

Ramapo College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Ramapo has a long history of advocating, advising, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. Examples can be found in its mission statement, strategic plans, degree and course offerings, community outreach programs, and diversity programs. Ramapo's commitment to diversity and inclusion is infused across all facets of the College; where the environment is welcoming, dedicated to social justice, respectful of freedom of expression, focused on educating and having an ongoing conversation regarding cultural competence and the benefits and importance of diversity.

JOB SUMMARY:

Ramapo College of New Jersey invites applications for one assistant Professor or Associate Professor (tenure-track) position in Political Science and Public Policy. Primary teaching responsibilities include public policy courses in the Political Science program and in the Public Policy minor. Areas of policy research and methodology are open. Rank will depend on experience. The appointment will begin on August 30, 2023, subject to administrative and budgetary approval. Successful applicants must show commitment to teaching, the potential for success in scholarly achievement and productivity, commitment to service to the institution and community, and the ability to develop a public policy curriculum. The candidate must have a strong background in their discipline, as evidenced by publications, presentations, professional experience, external funding record, and/or their work as a Ph.D. candidate. Applicants whose work demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply.
Duties/Responsibilities:

Duties/Responsibilities:

Primary teaching responsibilities include six (6) courses per academic year within the Political Science major and Public Policy minor.
Develop courses and curriculum in public policy.
Develop policy-related student internships and co-curricular activities.
Demonstrate excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the institution and community.
Perform other duties as assigned.

Education/Experience:

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Policy by August 30, 2023, and must demonstrate the potential to be an excellent teacher, mentor, curriculum developer, and researcher in Political Science and Public Policy.

Application Process:

Applications will begin to be reviewed starting October 24, 2022. Apply through https://www.ramapojobs.com/. Inquiries may be directed to Professor Michael Unger, Search Committee Chair, School of Humanities & Global Studies (unger@ramapo.edu). To request accommodations, call (201) 684 - 7732. For more information about the Political Science program(major and minor) and the Public Policy minor at Ramapo College, please visit our webpage: https://www. ramapo.edu/majors - minors/majors/political - science/ and https:// www.ramapo.edu/majors - minors/majors/public - policy.

Application Materials :

Cover letter
CV
Statement of teaching philosophy
Experience with curriculum development
One sample of research/scholarship
List of three references

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11128

Yale University
Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire several faculty at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with an appointment in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations, beginning July 1, 2023. We are interested in candidates who study all areas of the world, but we particularly encourage those with strong subject matter expertise in Japanese Politics or the politics of the Middle East to apply. Suitable candidates may also be hired jointly with the Statistics and Data Sciences Department, in which case faculty will be expected to share their teaching and service obligations between the departments. If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the program(s).

http://apply.interfolio.com/110488

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023
Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10595

Bloomsburg University
Rank: Political Science Temporary Pool-Intro to and U.S. Government

Position Description
The Department of Political Science at Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania seeks qualified candidates for temporary teaching positions (full-time one semester, part-time one semester or part-time academic year) as needs arise. A successful applicant must be able to teach POLISCI 101:
Elements of Political Science and POLISCI 120: U.S. Government. A description of these courses can be found in the most current Academic Catalog at Bloomsburg University https://archive.bloomu.edu/catalog- .

Qualifying Education/Experience
Applicants must possess a Master's Degree in Political Science or related field (Public Administration, Public Policy) from a regionally accredited institution. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is preferred as is specialization in the disciplinary subfield of American Politics. Applicants should also possess a demonstrated ability to work with diverse populations.
Previous college teaching experience is preferred.

Supplemental Information
A complete application includes a cover letter addressing requirements and preferences for the position, a current CV, teaching evaluations (if available), a statement of philosophy of education, and 3 letters of recommendation. Submit application materials online at www.bloomu.edu/jobs Applications to this temporary pool will be accepted through April 30, 2024
(to reflect three-year life cycle of pool). Questions may be directed to Search & Screen Committee
Chair, Dr. Neil Strine, hstrin2@bloomu.edu

Finalist(s) for these positions must communicate well and successfully complete an interview process and/or teaching demonstration as judged by the department faculty. Recommendation for hiring is needed from a majority of the regular, full-time department faculty.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, Pennsylvania Child Abuse History Clearance and criminal background.

Completing this search is contingent upon enrollment and available funding.

The University prohibits any form of discrimination or harassment on the basis of sex, race, color, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, pregnancy, marital or family status, medical condition, genetic information, veteran status, or disability in any decision regarding admissions, employment, or participation in a University program or activity in accordance with the letter and spirit of federal, state, and local non-discrimination and equal opportunity laws, such as Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the Age Discrimination in Employment
Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act and ADA Amendments Act, the Equal Pay Act, and the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act.
The University also complies with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus
Crimes Statistics Act, as amended by the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). Title IX prohibits retaliation for asserting or otherwise participating in claims of sex discrimination. VAWA imposes additional duties on universities and colleges to investigate and respond to reports of sexual assault, stalking, and dating or domestic violence, and to publish policies and procedures related to the way these reports are handled. The University has designated the Title IX Coordinator (Jennifer Raup, Elwell Hall,

ORL, 570-389-4808, jraup@bloomu.edu or titleixcoord@ bloomu.edu), to coordinate the University's compliance with Title IX and VAWA and to respond to reports of violations. The University has directed the Bloomsburg University Police Department to coordinate the University's compliance with the VAWA- related Clery reporting requirements. Additionally, inquiries concerning Title IX and its implementing regulation can be made to the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, Region III, The Wanamaker Building, 100 Penn Square East
- Suite 505, Philadelphia, PA 19107; Phone: (215) 656-6010; Fax: (215) 656-6020.

Start Date: Spring 2021
Application Deadline: 4/30/2024
Date Posted: 4/30/2021
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8844

COMPARATIVE POLITICS
Providence College
Rank: African Politics - Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department at Providence College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level, in the field of African Politics, grounded in perspectives from either International Relations or Comparative Politics. The field of "African Politics" is understood broadly by our Department, and we welcome applicants across a range of methodologies and substantive interests, such as, for example, contemporary Africa in geopolitical context; ancient, colonial, and modern political systems; colonial and post-colonial conflict, institutions, and practices; state-building, democratization, partisan mobilization, and social movements; internal migration, immigration, and emigration; security challenges and conflict resolution; natural resource and environmental politics; national and regional political economy; gender, health, education, labor, and social policy; or other Africa-centered topics. Geographically, we welcome candidates who focus on any of the continent's nations or regions, or those who work within a pan-African framework.

Teaching Responsibilities: The normal teaching load will be three courses per semester, with class sizes of 12 to 25 students. Core assignments each year will include African Politics and one or more of the following: Introduction to International Relations, Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to Politics, or Research Methods. We keep our curriculum fresh by giving colleagues the opportunity to design new lecture, seminar, and research courses in areas which reflect their particular interests and expertise. In all cases, faculty enjoy substantial autonomy in the design and content of courses.

Research Expectations and Support: Our political science faculty are respected scholars with active research agendas who provide generous professional advice and mentoring for junior colleagues. Other support for research includes College-sponsored research grants, grant writing assistance, conference and research travel funds, individual discretionary funds, access to research librarians and other library resources, undergraduate research assistants, and opportunities for collaboration with faculty at other Rhode Island universities including, for example, Brown University, the University of Rhode Island, and Roger Williams University.

Our Political Science Department has fourteen full-time faculty members who are known for effective teaching, grounded in cutting-edge scholarship. They research and teach about politics in the U.S. and other regions, with particular strengths in East Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. We offer a wide portfolio of courses, including many which are cross-listed in other Arts and Sciences departments and programs including Black Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, Global Studies, Latin American and Latina/o Studies, Asian and Asian American Studies, American Studies, Public and Community Service Studies, Public Administration, Communication, and the College's newest interdisciplinary program—Middle East Studies. Political science faculty frequently direct interdisciplinary programs like these, and teach in the Liberal Arts Honors and Development of Western Civilization programs. Within the political science profession our colleagues are well-known participants and leaders in the American, Western, New England, Midwest, and Northeastern political science associations, as well as the Latin American Studies Association, National Conference of Black Political Scientists, International Studies Association, and International Political Science Association. We author scholarly books and research articles at premier journals and academic presses, publish op-eds in local and regional newspapers, and frequently appear as expert analysts for New England's print, broadcast, and online news media.

Providence College is located in the City of Providence—the capital of the State of Rhode Island ("The Ocean State"), and the third-largest city in New England. Founded in 1636, Providence is one of North America's oldest European settler cities. Nearby Pawtucket, RI, was the birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution in 1793, and Providence has long welcomed immigrant populations, most recently from West Africa, Latin America, and Southeast Asia. Providence is a majority-minority city, and more than 30% of its 2020 population was foreign-born. At present, the state's largest foreign-born African-descent populations come from Cape Verde, Nigeria, and Liberia. The Providence metropolitan area's population of 1.7 million is served by many retail, restaurant, and professional enterprises, as well as churches and social service organizations, established within these African immigrant communities. The city's annual calendar is filled with diverse ethnic and cultural festivals, while a vibrant arts scene is anchored by world-class galleries, museums, live theater, performances across music genres and traditions, and film festivals. Located on the main highway and rail corridors serving the northeastern United States—I-95 and Amtrak's Northeast Corridor—Providence is also connected to Boston via MBTA commuter rail, to New York via frequent rail and air service, and to the rest of the world via T.F. Green International Airport, with more than 100 daily nonstop flights to and from Atlanta, Baltimore, Charleston, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, Ft. Lauderdale, Jacksonville, Los Angeles, Miami, Minneapolis St. Paul, Nashville, New York City, Newark,

Norfolk, Orlando, Philadelphia, Richmond, Tampa, Washington, D.C.—and Santo Domingo, DR.

Salary, Benefits, and Resources: The position offers very competitive salary and benefits, generous annual and step salary increases, and campus amenities including fitness center, swimming pool and athletic facilities, free on-campus parking, chapels and meditation spaces, and information technology resources including MacOS and Windows desktop systems on secure campus networks. NOTE: If appropriate, Providence College will file a petition for an Employment-Based Immigrant Visa, in Category H-1B, once a final job offer is tendered and accepted.

How to Apply: Applicants should possess a PhD in political science (or be very close to completion), and will be asked to demonstrate evidence of the potential for teaching excellence, strong research skills, and potential for continued research productivity. Apply online at https://careers.providence.edu where you will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, teaching materials, and one or more samples of scholarly writing, either published or unpublished.

For additional information, please contact Dr. Tony Affigne, chair of the search committee, at affigne@providence.edu or Dr. Matt Guardino, department chair, at mguardin@providence.edu. NOTE: search committee members will be hosting optional informational interviews at APSA in Los Angeles, and prospective applicants who wish to schedule an informational interview during the conference are encouraged to contact us no later than August 15. Those unable to attend the conference may contact Dr. Affigne to schedule a remote informational interview.

Deadline: For full consideration, your completed application should be submitted no later than October 1, 2023. Review of applications will commence as they are received, and will continue until the position is filled. We anticipate completing on-campus interviews by December 8, and making a final decision by early January 2024.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12170

SUNY, University at Buffalo
Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science, University at Buffalo, The State University of New York seeks an Associate or Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in American or Comparative Politics focusing on democratic processes and electoral phenomena.

We welcome applicants whose specialties are related to the study of democratic processes, democratic transition, consolidation, and regression, and specifically to the study of phenomena associated with elections. Issues of election reform, electoral integrity, and violence are central to the functioning of democracy both in the US and abroad. While elections are a central pillar of democratic legitimacy and consolidation, they can also serve as targets for instability incited by groups intent on bringing about democratic backsliding. All applicants studying democratic processes in these, and related research areas are invited to apply.

This hire will continue our recent faculty growth in the study the topics noted above in the American or foreign/comparative contexts. Candidates that match the Department's strength in quantitative methods of analysis and formal modeling are especially welcome. Teaching will include political science courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Normal departmental, university and disciplinary service duties are expected. We encourage applications from Associate Professors, Assistant Professors, and graduate students who will complete their degree prior to the position start date. Salary and start-up will be competitive and commensurate with rank.

The faculty in the Department of Political Science understand the value and importance of diversity. We are committed to providing an open, supportive, and inclusive environment for all of our students, faculty, and staff members, consistent with the University's commitment to inclusive excellence.

A letter of application, a vita, and three letters of recommendation must be submitted electronically at https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/43767 Applicants applying at the Assistant Professor rank (including those who are ABD) should provide research and teaching statements. All applicants are encouraged to apply by October 1, 2023, to receive full consideration, although application review will begin immediately. Questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Rachael Hinkle by email at rkhinkle@buffalo.edu .

The Department of Political Science at UB is nationally recognized for its research in international relations, public law, and comparative and American politics. The department's strengths lie in its national and international reputation for high quality research. In addition to its strong PhD program, the department offers BA and MA degrees in both Political Science and Global Affairs.
University at Buffalo is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and, in keeping with our commitment, welcomes all to apply including veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12162

University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a multi-year project on "Collective Shocks and Social Preferences" led by Professors James Walsh and Alexander Kustov at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

The project examines how people's social preferences, such as altruism and trust, are affected by negative collective shocks such as wars, natural disasters, or economic disruptions. Some studies find that these shocks make people more prosocial, but others find that they reduce cooperation. Since most of this research focuses on just one region or outcome, it is hard to know whether the results are generalizable. To address this question, the project aims to create a comprehensive cross-national time-series dataset on various shocks and preferences at the subnational level.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of the dataset for the project. The role includes:
* Leading the data collection and management efforts needed to construct the original dataset, including cross-national surveys on social preferences and administrative data on collective shocks.
* Conducting and publishing high-quality research in close collaboration and under the guidance of project leaders.
* Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position (approximately 40%).
* Participating in the broader intellectual life of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration, and the interdisciplinary Public Policy and Data Science programs.

The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate. Strong training and skills in quantitative data analysis in R is required. Preference will be given to applicants with demonstrated skills in one or more of the following areas: data management, survey methodology, multilevel regression, causal inference, machine learning, cross-national research. Preference is also given to applicants with research interests in one or more of the following areas related to the project: conflict and cooperation, political economy, political psychology, state capacity, social preferences, migration.

Postdoc appointments are characterized by all of the following conditions:
* the appointee was recently (within the last eight years) awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.);
* the appointment is temporary;
* the appointment involves substantially full-time research or scholarship;
* the appointment is viewed as preparatory for a full-time academic and/or research career;
* the appointee works under the supervision of a faculty member; and
* the appointee has the freedom and is expected to publish the results of his or her research or scholarship during the period of appointment.

Screening of applicants will begin on August 15, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The position is renewable based on performance. For further information, please contact James Walsh (jwalsh@charlotte.edu) and Alexander Kustov (akustov@charlotte.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12171

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Affairs and Comparative Politics
Specializations: Latin American, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning January 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations. Applicants with specialization in Latin American Politics, African Politics, Asian Politics, and/or Middle East Politics are preferred. Must also be able to offer Introduction to Political Science, Introduction to Comparative Politics, and Introduction to World Politics. The ability to teach Research Methods is a bonus.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in undergraduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach courses in undergraduate political science programs and international affairs majors.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related discipline. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching in International Affairs and Comparative Politics.

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12155

Tulane University
Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in Comparative Politics of Advanced Industrial Democracies

Position description: We are seeking to hire an Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in the Comparative Politics of Advanced Industrial Democracies. Applications with a regional focus on Europe and specializations in political economy; parties and elections; climate/resource politics; distributional conflicts; and race and ethnicity are especially welcome. The teaching load is 2-2. The prospective candidate will contribute to the Political Science program at the undergraduate and graduate curricular levels. The expected start date for this position is July 1, 2024. For further questions about the position, contact Prof. Eduardo Silva, gesilva@tulane.edu

Qualifications
PhD in Political Science preferred. ABD candidates will be considered.

We value diversity and inclusion. Members of minorities and traditionally underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions
Please send in a cover letter, a CV, a statement of research, a teaching statement, a diversity statement, a writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation by September 12, 2023. All materials should be uploaded directly in Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/128118.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12153

University of British Columbia
Rank: Comparative Politics of the Global South Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in the Comparative Politics of the Global South at the level of Assistant Professor, effective July 1, 2024.

We seek applicants with strong research records and research potential and a demonstrated ability to undertake high-quality teaching. Within the Comparative Politics of the Global South, the area of research and teaching specialization and the geographic focus are open. The Department has a particular interest in scholars who will enhance its diversity.

The successful candidate will have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field) or be able to adequately demonstrate that all Ph.D. requirements are sufficiently close to completion. The successful candidate will be expected to develop and maintain an active program of research leading to peer-reviewed publications and the securing of external research funding, and to contribute to the education and training of undergraduate and graduate students.

The programs, faculty research interests, and general activities of the UBC Department of Political Science can be found at www.politics.ubc.ca.

This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. While at this time we expect in-person campus interviews to take place, applicants must be prepared to conduct interviews remotely if circumstances require.

To apply, applicants must upload online the following materials at https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/comparative-politics-of-the-global-south-assistant-professor-application-form-2023/

- a cover letter;
- a curriculum vitae;
- a description of current and future research interests (maximum 2 pages);
- a statement of teaching philosophy, interests and accomplishments (maximum 2 pages);
- evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., summaries of teaching evaluations (official preferred), peer reviews of teaching, sample course materials);
- a 1-page statement about the applicant's experience working with a diverse student body and about contributions or potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion;
- one writing sample, either published or unpublished.

Candidates invited for an on-campus interview will be asked to provide a written paper associated with their research presentation if the presentation is not based on the originally submitted writing sample.

In addition, applicants should arrange for three confidential signed letters of recommendation to be sent separately to the Department of Political Science, in care of Jeff Yupitun, Assistant to the Department Head, at poli.recruitment@ubc.ca.?Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled.

UBC-Vancouver's Point Grey Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral, and unceded territories of the Musqueam people, with whom UBC shares a framework Memorandum of Affiliation. For information relating to Indigenous initiatives that are available at UBC, visit the UBC Vancouver Indigenous portal at https://indigenous.ubc.ca. The Department of Political Science at UBC is committed to increasing Indigenous engagement within its curriculum.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents of Canada?will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12149

University of Wisconsin, Eau Claire
Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Government

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 19, 2024. We seek candidates with expertise in comparative government (any region) who are committed to excellence in undergraduate instruction, will engage undergraduate students in research, and embrace the department and university commitments to equity, diversity, and inclusion. The successful candidate will contribute to a vibrant global politics curriculum by teaching both introductory and upper-level courses.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: Earned Ph.D. by August 19, 2024 (ABD applicants may be considered but must complete the terminal degree by March 15, 2025.) and ability to teach thematic and regional comparative government courses.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Evidence of successful university teaching, productive scholarship, and a demonstrated commitment to involving undergraduate students in research.

DUTIES: Teach courses in the Department of Political Science based on program needs and in accordance with specialization; participate in research and scholarly activities; engage in service to the department, University and profession; and provide academic advising to students as assigned.

DEPARTMENT: The Department of Political Science consists of 13 full-time faculty in the fields of political science and criminal justice. With approximately 400 majors and 100 minors, the department is one of the largest in the College of Arts and Sciences. Our award-winning program faculty work collaboratively with students on research, oversee Service-learning and internship projects, lead international and domestic immersion experiences, and have opportunities to teach abroad.

UNIVERSITY and EAU CLAIRE COMMUNITY: UW-Eau Claire, an institution of approximately 10,000 students and 1,100 faculty and staff, is consistently recognized as a top comprehensive university in the Midwest and is widely known as a leader in faculty-undergraduate research and study abroad. We strive for excellence in liberal education and select graduate and professional programs through commitment to teaching and learning and dedication to our core values of diversity, sustainability, leadership, and innovation. To learn more about UWEC, visit https://www.uwec.edu/human-resources/employment-opportunities/.

The City of Eau Claire, situated at the confluence of the Chippewa and Eau Claire rivers, is at the center of a metropolitan area of approximately 100,000 people located 90 miles east of Minneapolis/St. Paul. The area features beautiful parks and trails, strong public schools, a vibrant arts scene and local food culture, and abundant recreational opportunities.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Applications are submitted electronically. Please follow instructions found at https://www.uwec.edu/job-postings/. You must create an account and login before you can apply. If you have not yet registered, click on the "Click here to Register" link to begin the registration process. If you are already a registered user, input your "User Name" and "Password" and select "Login." Click the link to the Political Science: Assistant Professor position (Job ID #19924) and then click the "Apply Now" button to submit your application electronically. Your application will not be considered complete until all required documents are attached and all required fields are completed. Please be sure you have included the following in PDF format:

• Letter of application
• Curiculum vita
• Statement of teaching philosophy
• Names and contact information for three references.

Please direct requests for additional information to: Rodd Freitag, Interim Department Chair, freitard@uwec.edu.

To ensure consideration, completed applications must be received by October 6, 2023. However, screening may continue until the position is filled.

UW-Eau Claire is an AA/EEO/Veterans/Disability employer dedicated to enhancing equity, diversity, and inclusion.

The University reserves the right to contact additional references with notice given to the candidates at an appropriate time in the process. Employment will require a background check. Employment will also require you and your references to answer questions regarding past conduct related to sexual violence and sexual harassment.

The University of Wisconsin System will not reveal the identities of applicants who request confidentiality in writing, except that the identity of the successful candidate will be released. See Wis. Stat. §. 19.36(7).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/6/2023
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12148

Baylor University
Rank: Full-Time Lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Social Movements, Race & Ethnic Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for Full-time Lecturer, non-tenure track, in comparative politics and/or American politics. This position emphasizes excellent teaching. We are looking for a candidate whose teaching emphasis includes race and ethnic relations and related topics in the US context or from a comparative international perspective. The department is open to candidates with any regional focus and methodological approach. Applicants may also contribute to the flourishing MA and PhD programs and to the direction of the undergraduate public service internship program and other engaged learning initiatives in the College of Arts and Sciences. Review of applications will begin as they are received. To assure full consideration applications should arrive by September 15, 2023.

About Baylor University: Located in Waco, Texas, Baylor University is the oldest college in Texas. With a population of 21,000 diverse students, Baylor is one of the top universities in the nation, having been named an R1 institution by the Carnegie Classification in January 2022. Baylor is also on the honor roll of the "Great Colleges to Work For" from The Chronicle of Higher Education; Baylor offers competitive salaries and benefits while allowing faculty and staff to live in one of the fastest-growing parts of the state. Our strategic plan, Illuminate, guides the University as we continue to live up to Baylor's mission of educating men and women for worldwide leadership and service by integrating academic excellence and Christian commitment within a caring community.

Qualifications
Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of Comparative politics or American politics.

Application Instructions

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Please submit in Interfolio a letter of application, a current CV, official transcripts showing the highest degree conferred, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Inquiries about this position can be directed to the co-chairs of the search committee, Pat Flavin (Patrick_J_Flavin@baylor.edu) or Ivy Hamerly (Ivy_Hamerly@baylor.edu).

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12135

San Diego State University
Rank: Politics of East Asia
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Political Science Department at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin Fall 2024. Applicants should demonstrate a well-developed research agenda, a promise of sustained scholarship, and a record of effective teaching.

Qualifications
The department seeks a scholar with research and teaching expertise in the politics of East Asia, broadly understood to encompass Northeast and Southeast Asia. We are open to applications from scholars in both comparative politics and international relations whose research is focused on one or more countries in the region. The successful candidate's research may focus on any of a range of substantive topics – including but not limited to, democratization, political economy, state-society relations, and foreign policy – and should demonstrate a capacity to engage with normative issues underlying critical debates in the field. The candidate would be expected to work closely with the program on International Security and Conflict Resolution and the Center for Asian & Pacific Studies. The department is open to a diversity of theoretical and methodological approaches.

The Political Science Department at San Diego State is dedicated to the ideal of the engaged teacher-scholar. It has over 600 undergraduate majors and provides course offerings for students with a wide variety of backgrounds and interests. At the graduate level, the department maintains an M.A. program of high quality. The members of the faculty share a strong commitment to collegiality, active participation in the governing of the department, innovative scholarship, methodological pluralism, rigorous teaching, and robust intellectual and normative engagement. Candidates are encouraged to consult the department website: http://politicalscience.sdsu.edu.

We are seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups. Candidates must satisfy two or more of the eight Building on Inclusive Excellence (BIE) criteria. Candidates that meet BIE criteria: (a) are committed to engaging in service with underrepresented populations within the discipline, (b) have demonstrated knowledge of barriers for underrepresented students and faculty within the discipline, (c) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to teaching and mentoring underrepresented students, (d) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to integrating understanding of underrepresented populations and communities into research, (e) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to extending knowledge of opportunities and challenges in achieving artistic/scholarly success to members of an underrepresented group, (f) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to research that engages underrepresented communities, (g) have expertise or demonstrated commitment to developing expertise in cross-cultural communication and collaboration, and/or (h) have research interests that contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. Please indicate in a separate diversity statement how you meet at least two (2) of these criteria. Additional guidance on our BIE program for applicants is here.

SDSU is the oldest institution of higher education in the San Diego region, with a campus in San Diego serving 36,000 undergraduate and graduate students and additional locations in Southern California's Imperial Valley and Tbilisi in the Republic of Georgia. SDSU is included in the Carnegie Foundation's Doctoral Universities: High Research Activity category. Established in 1897, SDSU offers bachelor degrees in 97 areas, masters in 84 and doctorates in 23. See http://www.sdsu.edu for more information. SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university, an Asian-Native American-Pacific Islander -Serving Institution and a Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all.

Application Instructions
Applicants must apply via Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/127871. A completed file includes a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, complete teaching evaluations (quantitative evaluations and complete sets of qualitative evaluations of recent courses), sample syllabi, academic writing samples, diversity statement, and three letters of recommendation. To ensure full consideration, submit all materials by September 21st, 2023. Screening of applications will begin then. Applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. by the start of the term of appointment will be given priority. Those without a Ph.D. in-hand should include in their letter of interest a statement of progress on the dissertation and reasons to expect completion in a timely fashion.

Further inquiries should be addressed to Farid Abdel-Nour, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at abdelnou@sdsu.edu.

The minimum salary for this position is based on the current CSU salary schedule for Assistant Professors and may be revised based on contract collective bargaining. The anticipated salary range is from $79,000 to $83,000. Salary placement will be based on the selected candidate's qualifications and experience, and salaries higher than the published maximums may be offered in limited circumstances. San Diego State University offers a rich benefits package that constitutes a major portion of total compensation. For benefits information, click here.

As part of its commitment to a safe and equitable "OneSDSU" community, SDSU requires that individuals seeking faculty employment provide at the time of application authorization to conduct background checks if they become a finalist for the position; applications without this authorization will be considered incomplete and not considered.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
SDSU is a Title IX, equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and expression, marital status, age, disability, pregnancy, medical condition, or covered veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/21/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12136

Dickinson College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Latin American Politics)

The Political Science Department at Dickinson College seeks applications for a tenure-track position in comparative politics at the rank of Assistant Professor. The position is broadly defined, but a successful applicant will have research and teaching interests in Latin American politics. This position has a five-course teaching load. The department expects the successful candidate to be a committed, collaborative, and imaginative scholar with a Ph.D. in hand by September 2024.

Dickinson College values interdisciplinary teaching and learning, and many in the Department teach and research outside traditional disciplinary boundaries. The successful candidate will be expected to support the College's interdisciplinary program in Latin American, Latinx & Caribbean Studies. Spanish fluency is highly desirable.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City.
The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials.

Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu

Please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2023. Any job offer will be contingent on available funding. Please address questions to the department chair, David O'Connell, at oconneld@dickinson.edu.

Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12127

Rice University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2024. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to university service. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the cross-national study of democratic representation. Regional specialization is open, and we are interested in candidates focusing on mass political behavior and/or elite behavior and political institutions. Successful candidates will have advanced skills in quantitative research methods. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2024.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, and DEI statements; graduate school transcripts; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at http://apply.interfolio.com/128600.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12126

Rice University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for an associate or full professor to begin July 1, 2024. Associate and full professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, mentor students, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to department and university service and leadership. Therefore, successful candidates will have an active research program, a record of publication and external funding commensurate with the proposed rank, and a record of excellence in teaching, mentoring, and service/leadership. Candidates must have a Ph.D in political science or a related field.

The position is open with regard to research specialty, but we are particularly interested in candidates who connect to our areas of departmental strength in democratic political representation (U.S. or comparative), international security, and/or quantitative methods.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is October 1, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, DEI, and leadership/service statements; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and contact information for three references. References will be contacted for a subset of candidates. All applications should be submitted electronically at apply.interfolio.com/128783.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12132

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Assistant Professor Positions
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in political science and international relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and or international organizations. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability in conducting theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertations chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2024 to start in August 2024.
Compensation is competitive and it includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format to karenaguayo@tec.mx
- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.
- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double spaced pages. If co-authored the candidate should be the first author.
- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating defense date.

For informal inquiries please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx
Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Queretaro, and Guadalajara. For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/ciencias-sociales-y-gobierno.

For more information on the Graduate School of Government, Escuela de Gobierno y Transformación Pública, visit http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/ The graduate school has campuses in Mexico City and Monterrey.

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12124

U.S. Army War College
Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Asian Affairs
Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

United States Army War College
Assistant/Associate Professor of Asian Studies
Salary range: $86,206 – $139,302

Summary:

The United States Army War College is accepting applications for an Assistant/Associate Professor of Asian Studies in the Department of National Security and Strategy to begin in the summer of 2024.

Position Description:

The person selected for this position will have a leading role in planning, administering, and teaching core courses on Asian regional studies as well as other core and elective courses of the resident education program and associated programs. They will serve as a faculty instructor for one seminar, advise students, and serve as project advisor for student research projects. They will also engage in cutting-edge scholarship that advances knowledge in fields relevant to the curriculum, and engage in service in support of USAWC missions. Other duties may include teaching courses on war, strategy, and national security policy, and/or supporting the development and execution of specialized programs in policy, strategy, and outreach. Finally, the applicant must be able to obtain and maintain a SECRET security clearance from the US government.

The Army War College seeks applicants who would find fulfillment teaching and researching in an environment that intentionally blends scholarly achievement with policy application. It relies on a collaborative and inter-disciplinary teaching environment that emphasizes student engagement. As one of the nation's premiere institutions for military education, it is a dynamic workplace that mixes academic excellence with practitioner experience to prepare senior level officers and civilians for roles in strategy- and policy-making over the rest of their careers. This importance of the mission, and direct impact that faculty instruction has on national security processes, fosters a culture of mutual respect and collegiality across the department and school. Faculty who are interested in translating their academic expertise into policy debates are encouraged to do so.

This is a full-time, long-term, civilian faculty position. Initial appointment may be for up to 4 years; the first year may be probationary.

Appointments may be renewed subject to job performance and availability of funds; reappointments at USAWC are the norm and the position should be considered equivalent to tenure-track. Academic rank and compensation of initial appointment will be offered commensurate with the applicant's level of experience and qualifications. We are prepared to offer a salary-and-benefits package designed to attract highly talented applicants.

For additional questions about the position, Department of National Security and Strategy, and/or the Army War College, please contact:

Carrie A. Lee
Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy
US Army War College
carrie.lee@armywarcollege.edu
(717) 245-3294

Qualifications:

In order to qualify, you must meet the education and/or experience requirements described below, also known as Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs). Your curriculum vitae or résumé must clearly describe your relevant experience, and cover letters are encouraged to directly address the required KSAs, as they will be used by the search committee appointed to identify the best-qualified candidates.

1. Must have master's degree (required) in political science, history, national security studies, international relations, government, or related field. PhD or terminal degree strongly preferred. Doctoral students who expect to complete their Ph.D. prior to July 2024 are eligible and encouraged to apply. Expertise in Asian politics preferred.

2. Ability to prepare, teach, and lecture on subjects related to Asian studies, regional politics in East, Southeast, or South Asia, American foreign policy, grand strategy, and national security decision-making. An established record of superlative teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, and/or Senior Service College level, and experience in seminar-style instruction, is preferred.

3. Record of scholarly research and publication—or evidence of great potential for such research and publication—in areas relevant to the curriculum, to include national security policy and strategy, international relations, political science, history, political economy, regional studies, and the strategic use of military force (e.g., assurance, deterrence, coercion, and compellence). Expertise in regional Asian studies is preferred.

4. A record of successful service to the profession and/or engagement with policy debates, including membership in and service to professional (regional, historical, political) scholarly societies, public history initiatives, or military and defense organizations. A record of successful non-governmental work of a similar nature and scope, such as with a think tank, development organization, media organization, or international organization may also be considered service.

Application:

Your application must contain each of the following:
1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications, as listed in the QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED section above.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.

3. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages (Electronic format is preferred, as hard copies will not be returned without a self-addressed and metered envelope.)
4. Unofficial academic transcripts of the highest degree attained. You must provide official transcripts upon request.
5. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).
6. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

To apply for this position, you must apply using the USAJOBS platform via the following link: https://www.usajobs.gov/job/737609900. The complete application package must be submitted by 11:59 PM (EST) on 18 September 2023 to receive consideration.

- To begin, click Apply to access the online application. You will need to be logged into your USAJOBS account to apply. If you do not have a USAJOBS account, you will need to create one before beginning the application.
- Follow the prompts to select your résumé and/or other supporting documents to be included with your application package. You will have the opportunity to upload additional documents to include in your application before it is submitted. Your uploaded documents may take several hours to clear the virus scan process.
- After acknowledging you have reviewed your application package, complete the Include Personal Information section as you deem appropriate and click to continue with the application process.
- You will be taken to the online application which you must complete in order to apply for the position. Complete the online application, verify the required documentation is included with your application package, and submit the application. You must re-select your resume and/or other documents from your USAJOBS account or your application will be incomplete.
- It is your responsibility to verify that your application package (resume, supporting documents, and responses to the questionnaire) is complete, accurate, and submitted by the closing date. Uploaded documents may take up to one hour to clear the virus scan.
- Additional information on how to complete the online application process and submit your online application may be found on the USA Staffing Applicant Resource Center.

To verify the status of your application, log into your USAJOBS account (https://my.usajobs.gov/Account/Login), all of your applications will appear on the Welcome screen. The Application Status will appear along with the date your application was last updated. For information on what each Application Status means, visit: https://www.usajobs.gov/Help/how-to/application/status/.

The deadline to apply for this position is September 18, 2023.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/18/2023
Date Posted: 7/19/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12115

Colorado College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Colorado College is hiring an Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics, with a focus on China. We particularly welcome candidates who situate China in comparative perspective. Crucial to the position is potential for excellence in scholarship as well as commitment to providing students with a liberal education. All requirements for the Ph.D. should be complete by the starting date of August 24, 2024.

Colorado College is committed to becoming an anti-racist institution. Through our anti-racism initiative, we are working to foster an intellectually rigorous and inclusive environment in which students and employees of diverse backgrounds, cultures, and perspectives can learn and work. Candidates should identify the ways in which they can contribute to these goals. Details about Colorado College's antiracism plan can be found at https://www.coloradocollege.edu/other/antiracism-commitment/

Colorado College has a distinctive academic program, the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, with an academic year of eight and a half blocks. The average teaching load is five blocks per year, with an additional block overseeing senior research. Faculty can apply for a limited number of release blocks, as well as various sources of funding, to pursue research.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER: Colorado College is an equal opportunity employer committed to increasing the diversity of its community. We do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, age, religion, gender identity or expression, disability, or sexual orientation in our educational programs and activities or our employment practices.

Applicants should submit the following to https://employment.coloradocollege.edu/postings/7192:
(1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of research goals, (4) a statement of pedagogical principles, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations), (6) graduate transcripts, (7) a dissertation abstract, (8) a sample of scholarly publications, and (9) three letters of recommendation.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12110

Portland State University
Rank: Teaching Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Comparative Politics

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

The University Honors College and the Department of Political Science at Portland State University seek a Teaching Assistant Professor with a focus in Law and Courts with a strong commitment to undergraduate education. This is a non-tenure track faculty (NTTF) appointment for an individual whose responsibilities are primarily devoted to teaching. Expectations of the position will also include mentoring, advising, and service. Appointment may include responsibility for undergraduate curriculum development, participation in assessment, professional development, training graduate teaching assistants and adjuncts, and/or community-based work. We are interested in candidates who engage with key contemporary urban issues such as the environment, immigration, violence and/or policing, fascism and racism, poverty and inequality, among others. Ability to work with, mentor, and advise students and graduate assistants/ tutors/ graders of diverse populations, and participation in departmental, college/ school, or university service are required.

Minimum Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field).
- Expertise in law and courts in either comparative or American politics.
- Ability to teach academic writing to undergraduates and support undergraduate senior thesis writing.
- Interest in pedagogy and pedagogical professional development.
- Ability to teach introductory qualitative research methods for undergraduates.
- Interest in/ record of mentoring underrepresented and first generation students in US higher education.
- Documented excellence in teaching large and small undergraduate courses in the candidate's field of study.
- Successful completion of a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:
For Honors College: the candidate will be qualified to teach the HON 100 Global City sequence and HON 260 & HON 360 transfer courses, which require a strong foundation in teaching undergraduate writing.

Key Cultural Competencies:
- Create an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates differences.
- Function and communicate effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities, and cultural backgrounds.
- Seek opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement.
- Adhere to all of PSU's policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

Total Compensation Range & Benefits:
The starting annual salary for this position will be $68,751. An excellent benefits package includes 95% premium paid healthcare; a generous retirement and vacation package; and reduced tuition rates for employee, spouse or dependent at any of the Oregon University System schools. Please visit our total compensation calculator to see the full value of our benefits package.

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12112

American University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government at the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a tenure-line position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics beginning in Academic Year 2024-25.

Applicants should have a PhD or anticipate PhD completion by August 2024. Successful candidates will have strong methodological skills. The search is open with regard to research specialty, although the Department of Government is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests include comparative political institutions. Applications from candidates who would enhance the diversity of the department are especially welcome. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research, providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching, and contributing to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University. Review of applications will begin on September 1, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled, subject to on-going budgetary approvals. The position begins August 1, 2024. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2024.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Please submit applications via: http://apply.interfolio.com/128076. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three confidential letters of recommendation, research and teaching narratives, and a writing sample. Please contact Rachel Whelan, Faculty Coordinator, 202-885-6201 or spa_academicaffairs@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News &World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12092

European University Institute
Rank: Peter Mair Assistant Professorship in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political and Social Sciences at the European University Institute seeks to make an appointment for the Peter Mair Assistant Professorship in Comparative Politics. The position is advertised at the rank of Assistant Professor to commence in the academic year 2024/25. Applications are invited from candidates engaged in advanced comparative political science research, across the globe, with preference given to a focus outside Europe.

Please find more information about the position here: https://www.eui.eu/About/JobOpportunities/Open-competitions-for-academic-posts (Peter Mair Assistant Professorship in Comparative Politics).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/14/2023
Date Posted: 7/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12069

University of Mississippi
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Mississippi invites applications for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor. This is a one-year position with the possibility of renewal for the 2024-25 academic year. We seek a teacher-scholar with a Ph.D. degree in political science. Candidates nearing completion of their degree requirements, with a defense date in Fall 2023, will be considered in the search. Successful candidates for the position will teach eight courses, distributed across two semesters, including introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations, and an upper-level course on international conflict. Spring courses will include the introductory courses plus an additional upper-level course.

Apply online at https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, teaching statement, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the contact information of three references. The review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1848, the University of Mississippi (UM), affectionately known to alumni, students and friends as Ole Miss, is Mississippi's flagship university. Included in the elite group of R-1: Doctoral Universities - Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification, it has a long history of producing leaders in public service, academics and business. The University of Mississippi, consistently named by The Chronicle of Higher Education as a "Great College to Work For," is located in Oxford, MS, which is ranked one of the "Top 10 Best College Towns." With more than 24,000 students, UM is the state's largest university and is ranked among the nation's fastest-growing institutions. The University of Mississippi, which has aggressively implemented many health and wellness initiatives for its more than 2,900 employees, has consistently been named one of Mississippi's Healthiest Workplaces.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12073

Harvard University
Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Science)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Russia, Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes

The John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in international and global affairs. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in political science (with a specialty either in international relations or comparative politics), a strong commitment to producing rigorous social scientific research, excellent teaching skills, and a demonstrable interest in engagement with the world of practice. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in the Harvard Kennedy School's core curriculum for students in its Master of Public Policy program.

The search is open in terms of subject matter, but we particularly welcome applications from empirically-sophisticated political scientists whose work advances clear and compelling perspectives on inter-state conflict, human rights, migration and refugee policy, environmental politics, and the politics of nuclear weapons. We are especially interested in scholars of these issues whose regional focus is Europe or Russia and the former Soviet Union.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, C.V., research statement, a description of past or planned teaching (along with teaching evaluations, if available), one or two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/12482.

Applications should be submitted by September 5, 2023 in order to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12067

Bocconi University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bocconi University, Department of Social and Political Sciences
Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science, specifically within the subfield of comparative politics (with an emphasis on either mass behavior, political economy, or political institutions). The appointment begins on September 1, 2024.

To complement the existing strengths and profile of the department, candidates engaged in research employing rigorous quantitative analysis are highly preferred. Candidates should show evidence of a promising research agenda, and should be doing work that engages with multiple fields of study in the department—political science, applied economics, public administration and health, sociology and demography, and economic history. Candidates should also be able to teach courses in comparative politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels, specifically in the university's undergraduate program in International Politics and Government, its master's program in Politics and Policy Analysis, and its PhD program in Social and Political Sciences.

Bocconi University is a leading European research and teaching institution in economics, social sciences, management and related disciplines. In the 2022 QS World University Ranking of Social Sciences and Management programs, Bocconi ranked 4th in Europe and 10th worldwide. The Department of Social and Political Sciences provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. It comprises approximately 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members who share an interest in policy-relevant research, addressing questions on numerous world challenges, such as inequality, government responsiveness and accountability, corruption and organized crime, environmental sustainability, global health, and international cooperation. Bocconi is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historic, cosmopolitan and international city in a metropolitan area of 3 million that is well connected to the rest of Europe and the world. Knowledge of Italian is not required. Terms of employment are competitive.

Applications should be received by October 1, 2023. Applicants must submit (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a job market paper (and up to four other published papers), (3) a cover letter, and (4) teaching and research statements via the on-line form using PDF attachments at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Additionally, at least three academic letters of reference must also be submitted by referees via www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Applicants must successfully defend their PhD thesis by no later than October 1, 2023 to receive a final offer of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12023

Bocconi University
Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science

Bocconi University, Department of Social and Political Sciences Comparative Politics, Associate or Full Professor

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a tenured Associate or Full Professor position in Political Science, specifically within the subfield of comparative politics (with an emphasis on either mass behavior, political economy, or political institutions). The appointment begins on September 1, 2024.

To complement the existing strengths and profile of the department, candidates engaged in research employing rigorous quantitative analysis are highly preferred. Candidates should show evidence of a strong record of research, and international visibility in the social sciences community, and should be doing work that engages with multiple fields of study in the department—political science, applied economics, public administration and health, sociology and demography, and economic history. Candidates should be able to teach courses in comparative politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels, specifically in the university's undergraduate program in International Politics and Government, its master's program in Politics and Policy Analysis, and its PhD program in Social and Political Sciences. Candidates should also have a demonstrated commitment to university and/or disciplinary service.

Bocconi University is a leading European research and teaching institution in economics, social sciences, management and related disciplines. In the 2022 QS World University Ranking of Social Sciences and Management programs, Bocconi ranked 4th in Europe and 10th worldwide. The Department of Social and Political Sciences provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. It comprises approximately 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members who share an interest in policy-relevant research, addressing questions on numerous world challenges, such as inequality, government responsiveness and accountability, corruption and organized crime, environmental sustainability, global health, and international cooperation. Bocconi is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historic, cosmopolitan and international city in a metropolitan area of 3 million that is well connected to the rest of Europe and the world. Knowledge of Italian is not required. Terms of employment are competitive.

Applications should be received by October 1, 2023. Applicants must submit (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a job market paper (and up to four other published papers), (3) a cover letter, and (4) teaching and research statements via the on-line form using PDF attachments at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Additionally, the names of at least three academic references should be listed in the application package.

Bocconi University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Applications are particularly welcome from women and members of groups who are under-represented in academic posts.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12024

Tel Aviv University
Rank: Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for two open rank tenure-track positions. We welcome applications from all subfields in political science. Preference will be given to researchers specializing in comparative politics or international relations, as well as scholars studying the interaction between politics and technology. The term of appointment will begin on October 1, 2024.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and endorsements from referees of high standing. The successful candidate is expected to pursue an innovative research program. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates must be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, two writing samples, and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Interested individuals must submit their application materials using this link to the submission portal:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdsqhyrJ-DMjorvs1XEYKET9HMUW1Q7bJyiPm7_Je_jWKlUHg/viewform

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed) that should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il by October 10, 2023.

The committee will begin reading applications on October 10, 2023, but may consider files received after this date. The school reserves the right to make (or not make) an appointment according to its exclusive consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 10/10/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12029

Leiden University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Institute of Political Science of Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences invites applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics (1.0 FTE)

Vacancy number 13866

Key responsibilities
We are looking to hire an Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics for a temporary position of three years. The appointment includes teaching introductory and advanced courses on comparative politics, conducting scholarly research in the area of comparative analysis of political systems, institutions and processes, and participating in the intellectual and administrative life of the Institute.
Selection criteria
• Applicants must hold a PhD in Political Science.
• Applicants must have teaching experience (including big lectures) and good teaching evaluations, a promising research agenda and scholarly publications.
• Applicants must be able to teach in English; the ability to teach in Dutch is a plus.

Research at our Faculty/Institute
Leiden University's Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences comprises five institutes: Political Science, Psychology, Education and Child Studies, Cultural Anthropology & Development Sociology and the Centre for Science and Technology Studies. The Faculty is home to 5,000 students and 600 members of staff. Its teaching and research programmes cover diverse topics varying from adoption to political behaviour. For more information, see http://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/social-behavioural-sciences.
The Institute of Political Science has a strong research tradition in various areas of comparative, Dutch and international politics, as well as political theory. The Institute has around 85 academic staff, including many non-Dutch scholars, and houses a number of editorships of international refereed journals and book series. Members of the institute are also involved in a number of the university's multidisciplinary research centres, including Central and East European Studies, International Relations, Parties and Representation, Political Philosophy, Centrum voor Nederlandse Politiek en Bestuur and ReCNTR. The Institute is based in Leiden and in The Hague, where a large part of the teaching is done.
The Institute offers a range of programmes at the Bachelor and Master levels and also trains PhD students in political science. The BSc programmes include general Political Science (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), International Politics (in Dutch & English, in Leiden), and International Relations and Organisations (in English, in The Hague). The one-year MSc programme (taught mostly in English) includes five specialisations in Leiden and one in The Hague.

Terms and conditions
The position starts on 1 November 2023. We offer a full-time position for three years. The salary range is from € 3,974.- to € 5,439.- gross per month, depending on experience (pay scale 11, in accordance with the Collective Labour Agreement for Dutch Universities).
Leiden University offers an attractive benefits package with an additional holiday bonus (8% of annual salary) and end-of-year bonus (8.3% of annual salary), training and career development. Our individual choices model gives you some freedom to assemble your own set of terms and conditions. Candidates from outside the Netherlands may be eligible for a substantial tax break. More at https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/working-at/job-application-procedure-and-employment-conditions.

Diversity
Leiden University is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from women and members of underrepresented groups.

Information
Further enquiries can be directed to prof. dr. Petr Kopecký, email: kopecky@fsw.leidenuniv.nl.

Applications
Please submit online your application no later than 23:59 CET on 18 August 2023 via the blue button of our application system by visiting our website via the attached link https://www.universiteitleiden.nl/en/vacancies/2023/q2-english/23-44713866assistant-professor-of-comparative-politics
Applicants should submit online a letter of interest, a CV (with a list of publications), a statement of teaching interests and experience including sample syllabi and teaching evaluations, a research statement covering their current and future research agenda, and a sample paper or article. Applicants should also include the names and contact details of two people who can be contacted directly to submit recommendation letters, commenting on the candidate's professional qualifications and suitability for the position.

The selection procedure will take place in August and September 2023. You are kindly requested to be available in this period.

Enquiries from agencies are not appreciated.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 8/18/2023
Date Posted: 6/22/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12045

Williams College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Political Science Department at Williams College is seeking an Assistant Professor of Political Science with scholarly expertise in African or South Asian politics. We seek a colleague who has a record of excellence in research and is committed to inclusive undergraduate education in the classroom. This tenure track appointment will begin in the 2024-2025 academic year. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by June 2024.

Application items should include: a cover letter detailing scholarly interests as well as teaching experience; a curriculum vitae; a writing sample of only one article or chapter; and three letters of recommendation. We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Candidates invited to the first round of (zoom) interviews will be asked at that time to provide sample syllabi and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

The deadline for the submission of applications is September 15th. All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio [http://apply.interfolio.com/127266]. Fax and email applications will not be not accepted. Inquiries may be sent to Sarah Campbell-Copp at sjc2@williams.edu. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: https://faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/

Williams College is a liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (http://www.williams.edu) to learn more about the College and in particular its professional development resources for faculty. Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12043

Williams College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Williams College is seeking an Assistant Professor of Political Science with scholarly expertise in African or South Asian politics. We seek a colleague who has a record of excellence in research and is committed to inclusive undergraduate education in the classroom. This tenure track appointment will begin in the 2024-2025 academic year. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by June 2024.

Application items should include: a cover letter detailing scholarly interests as well as teaching experience; a curriculum vitae; a writing sample of only one article or chapter; and three letters of recommendation. We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Candidates invited to the first round of (zoom) interviews will be asked at that time to provide sample syllabi and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

The deadline for the submission of applications is September 15th. All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio [http://apply.interfolio.com/127266]. Fax and email applications will not be not accepted. Inquiries may be sent to Sarah Campbell-Copp at sjc2@williams.edu. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: https://faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/

Williams College is a liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (http://www.williams.edu) to learn more about the College and in particular its professional development resources for faculty. Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12042

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should be broadly trained in the foundations of political thought and have teaching interests in comparative politics and institutions. An ability to teach in at least one regional area--Middle East, East Asia, Latin America, etc.--is expected. The willingness to offer courses on global or regional policymaking in a specialized area is also welcomed. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a comparable degree by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122859. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11861

University of Zurich
Rank: Head of Research Area "Governance of Global Inequalities"
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, International Political Economy, Trade

The successful candidate will be responsible for research and teaching in the area of the political governance of global inequalities. Applicants can have a background in international/comparative political economy, international relations, or in political philosophy, and their research and/or teaching should relate to PPE ('Politics, Philosophy and Economics'). Within the broader substantive area, specialized attention might be given to issues such as the governance of global climate change agreements and policies, the regulation of migration flows, trade imbalances, developing economies and emerging markets, or changing geopolitical hierarchies. Irrespective of the substantive orientation, the successful candidate's research should have a focus on the political governance of transnational economic, political, or social inequalities, and show an interest in empirical and normative questions and implications.

The University of Zurich offers a dynamic and collaborative work environment with an international orientation, as well as generous support for research and teaching activities. The position is permanent. It comes with a research budget of 3000 CHF/year. In addition, the holder of the position is eligible to apply for Swiss National Science Foundation funding, as well as many other grant programs in Switzerland and abroad. The teaching load is 5 hours per semester plus advising (at 100% employment). A substantial part of the teaching will be in the MA-level program "PPE Politics, Philosophy and Economics". The salary is approximately 110.000CHF/year at 100% employment (80-100% are negotiable). The start date of the position is 1st of February 2024 or upon agreement.

Applicants should hold a PhD degree in political science, international relations, political philosophy, political economy or in a related field at the time of application and have a strong record of academic achievements in the relevant areas. Teaching may be carried out in English, but knowledge of German is an asset. The University of Zurich is an equal opportunities employer and strives to increase the percentage of women in leading positions. Therefore, qualified female researchers are encouraged to apply.

Please send your application electronically as one pdf-file comprising your motivation letter, CV, publication list, transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), a 1-page statement on the research agenda for the coming 3 years and its link to PPE, as well as the names of at least two references to the personnel office of the Department of Political Science (personal@ipz.uzh.ch) by July 31st. Interviews will be held in fall 2023.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr. Silja Häusermann (silja.haeusermann@ipz.uzh.ch).

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: 7/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/8/2023
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 12010

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Sceince
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Michigan is conducting an Assistant Professor search.
The full job posting can be found below and at: https://careers.umich.edu/job_detail/235272/asst-professor

How to Apply
All applications must be submitted electronically to https://apply.interfolio.com/126053

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation.

Summary

The University of Michigan's Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure track position for a scholar who combines advanced skills in Methods of Causal Inference, Big Data, Computational Social Science, Data Science, and/or Field Experiments, open with respect to substantive interest; the department has specific interests in international political economy, comparative developing countries, and political behavior in race and ethnic politics.

This position is at the assistant professor rank and is a university year appointment. It is anticipated to begin August 26, 2024. Promise of excellence in research and teaching is required.

Application Instructions

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation. Information on our research initiatives and scholarly interests of current faculty can be found on the Department's website: https://lsa.umich.edu/polisci.

For full consideration, complete applications should be submitted by August 31, 2023.

The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates and may use a third-party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act and offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening.

The University of Michigan is committed to fostering and maintaining a diverse work culture that respects the rights of each individual, without regard to race, color, national original, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, gender expression, height, weight, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, or veteran status. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12007

New York University Abu Dhabi
Rank: Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Theory, Political Development

Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank
New York University Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University (NYU) Abu Dhabi is looking to hire an instructor in the field of political science to provide support to faculty with grading and administrative duties for undergraduate courses in political science, and elsewhere in the division of social sciences. The instructor may also be asked to lead small-group discussions with undergraduate students.

About NYU Abu Dhabi
Established in partnership between New York University (NYU) and the emirate of Abu Dhabi, over the last decade, NYUAD has assembled a remarkable community of scholars, students, researchers, artists, inventors, and others who have contributed to the growth of the UAE's capital as a global hub of knowledge and culture while establishing a new model of higher education for today's complex world.

NYUAD is animated by inspiring and diverse faculty, students, and staff working together in an exciting and dynamic city. As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students and provide an intellectually rich environment.

NYUAD students come from more than 126 countries, with no single nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our over 320 faculty members represent more than 45 nationalities and bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. NYUAD is committed to building and strengthening a university-wide culture of inclusion, diversity, belonging and equity (IDBE), which is fundamental to the University's commitment to excellence. Visit our website for more information on NYUAD's commitment to IDBE and how these values are fundamental to our mission.

Students are drawn from among the world's best. They are bright, intellectually passionate, and committed to building a campus environment anchored in mutual respect, understanding, and care. The NYUAD undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school admissions, and other global honors. Graduate education is an area of growth for the University; the current graduate student population of over 100 students is expected to expand in the next decade as we develop new graduate programs.

Working for NYUAD
To help Academic Staff thrive, we offer a comprehensive benefits package. This starts with a relocation allowance to ensure a smooth transition to Abu Dhabi. It includes a competitive salary; furnished accommodation provided; educational assistance for your dependents attending school in the UAE; and access to health and wellness services. Click here for more information on benefits for you and your family.

Qualifications
The candidate will have broad familiarity with several subfields in political science, including international relations, quantitative methodology/data analysis, and comparative politics. They will have a proven track-record of English-language academic writing for their coursework and at least some experience leading small-group discussions. Candidates must have at least a master's degree in political science or a related discipline and, ideally, some experience providing teaching support. Fluency in spoken and written English is essential, and familiarity with the US or British higher educational systems is preferable.

Application Instructions
To apply for this position, please submit the following items to:

https://apply.interfolio.com/126011

.Curriculum Vitae (CV)
.Cover Letter
.List of three references that may be contacted at a later date.

We will begin reviewing applications immediately and will continue on a rolling basis until the position is filled. We anticipate that successful candidates can start the appointment and relocate to Abu Dhabi before the start of the 2023 fall semester.

NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We encourage applications from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University, including women, underrepresented minorities, and UAE nationals.

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply. #nyuadinstructorcareers

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/5/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12005

Purdue University

Rank: Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy

Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Job Summary

Purdue Political Science Department seeks applicants for a Lecturer position, field open, who can teach courses in environmental politics and policy. Applicants should be prepared to teach the following core courses on campus in West Lafayette: POL 223 Introduction to Environmental Politics and Policy and POL 327 Global Green Politics. In addition, candidates may also teach Comparative or International Environmental Policy, or other introductory or upper-level courses in their area of specialty.

This position is a renewable academic year appointment starting in August 2023, with a teaching load of four courses a semester. A typical semester includes 2 sections of either POL 223 or 327 and two additional courses. There is a possibility for a 3-4 load in conjunction with taking on administrative responsibilities such as managing the Model UN program or other significant student engagement or experiential learning initiatives. Lecturers are reviewed for merit annually and reviewed comprehensively for promotion to Senior Lecturer at least every five years of employment.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or a closely related field is preferred. ABDs with a master's degree will be considered. All requirements for the master's degree must be completed prior to the start date of the appointment. Candidates should have a record of quality independent instruction at the postsecondary level and evidence of efforts to develop skills associated with excellence in teaching and learning outcomes.

The Department, College, and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive public land-grant university and member of the AAU. Purdue has a strong commitment to creating an innovative and high-quality learning experience for students. Political Science faculty members are actively involved with interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, Purdue Policy Research Institute, and the Institute for Sustainable Futures. The Department offers certificates in environmental policy at the graduate and undergraduate level, as well as a concentration in the major in environmental politics and policy, and a minor in environmental policy.

Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are committed to advancing diversity including in discovery, instruction, and engagement. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values diversity and inclusion. Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are also committed to free and open inquiry in all matters. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values free inquiry and academic freedom.

Applications

We will begin reviewing applications immediately. Candidates should submit, electronically, the following: 1) a cover letter the explains the interest in the position, qualifications, and a summary of the areas of teaching interest, 2) a CV that includes the names of at least 3 references, and 3) a teaching portfolio. Applicants who advance in the process may be asked to provide additional information such as transcripts and letters of recommendation. Application materials must be submitted electronically via https://careers.purdue.edu/.

Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to Department Head Cherie Maestas cmaestas@purdue.edu.

A background check is required for employment in this position.

Must have the ability to work in the US without immigration sponsorship from Purdue University.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/1/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11997

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor/International Organization & European Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Western Europe, Post Communist Europe

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the development of international organization as well as research and teaching interests in European politics. The ability to offer courses on global and regional policymaking is a plus. The successful applicant will participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11995

Dickinson College
Rank: Adjunct Professor of Political Science

The Political Science Department at Dickinson College seeks applications for an adjunct position in Comparative Politics. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one course in Latin American Politics during fall 2023 and two sections of Introduction to Latin American, Latinx & Caribbean Studies in spring 2024.
Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.
The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate.
Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application and a curriculum vitae. Review of applications will begin June 1, 2023. and will continue until the position is filled. The College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 5/23/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11979

New School for Social Research
Rank: Professor, Comparative Politics (one semester, fixed-term)

The Department of Politics at The New School seeks applicants for a one-semester professorship in comparative politics. The Professor will offer one graduate and one undergraduate seminar during the spring 2024 semester (January 22-May 17, 2024). While research and teaching can cover any themes or regions, the department prefers applicants with a demonstrated record of university teaching experience.

The Department of Politics specializes in critical, historical, grounded, and interdisciplinary approaches to the study of politics. Faculty and students bring the leading edge of scholarly debate and analysis into conversation with pressing issues of our time. We engage in political and intellectual life at the university, in New York City, and as a part of extensive global research networks. The Department offers Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts, and PhD degrees.

The New School is strongly committed to diversity and inclusion in the workplace and particularly seeks applications from members of underrepresented groups, as well as candidates who share this commitment.

RESPONSIBILITIES
The term Professor will be expected to offer one graduate seminar and one undergraduate seminar in spring 2024. In addition to holding regular office hours, the Faculty will be expected to take part in the curricular and intellectual life of the department, by giving one research presentation, sitting on a field examination committee, and attending department events.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS
The selection among eligible candidates will be based on:

A PhD in Political Science or cognate discipline or program

Evidence of progress toward research publications

Evidence of instructional experience (teaching assistant, instructor)

Ability to adhere to University COVID-19 Policy

WORK MODALITY
On-Campus Position: Faculty are expected to work on-campus due to the nature of the work in accordance with the University policies as set forth in the Full-Time Faculty Handbook..

SALARY RANGE
$50,000 - $55,000

TO APPLY
Review of applications will begin on May 1, 2023 and may continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should submit:

Cover letter outlining research and teaching interests and relevant experience

Curriculum Vitae

Names and contact information of three references

Applicants may be contacted at the discretion of the department faculty for additional materials.

For information on the University benefits package including health and retirement plans, please visit http://www.newschool.edu/human-resources/benefits/.

To apply please visit: https://newschool.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/External/job/D---6-East-16th-Street/Professor--Comparative-Politics--one-semester--fixed-term-_JR103245

We look forward to receiving your application!

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/19/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11917

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, Latin American, International Security

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College is seeking applicants for a Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor position beginning August 2023. This full-time contract position is for Fall 2023 and Spring 2024 semesters. Successful applicants will teach a total of seven undergraduate courses over two semesters including Introduction to World Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and Politics of Latin America.

Applicants should have demonstrated effectiveness as classroom instructors and an active research agenda in their field of study. Ph.D. candidates are preferred; ABD candidates will also be considered. Rank will be determined based on education and experience.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122858. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, Hampden-Sydney is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment. Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/5/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11860

University of Kentucky
Rank: Teaching Post-Doctoral Scholar

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY, invites applications for a teaching post-doc position in International Relations or Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusion mission of the department. The position will begin August 1, 2023. Applicants are expected to teach a 3/3 load. Applicants should show strong potential to provide effective undergraduate teaching and have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 2023.

Interested applicants should apply online at: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/457530. Applicants should submit the following: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) letter stating the candidate's research and teaching interests (uploaded as Cover Letter), 3) copy of transcript for highest degree earned, and 4) evidence of teaching experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (uploaded as specific request 1). Provide the names and contact information for three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information may be used to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Questions about this position should be addressed to Dr. Emily Bacchus, Associate Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (emily.beaulieu@uky.edu).

The University of Kentucky is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from veterans, individuals with disabilities, women, African Americans, and all minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/27/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11837

University of Kansas
Rank: Assistant Professor Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations
Specializations: Russia, Foreign Policy, Political Economy

Assistant Professor Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations

Department of Political Science, University of Kansas

The University of Kansas (KU) Department of Political Science of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in collaboration with the university's Center for Russian, East European & Eurasian Studies (CREES) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship in Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations beginning August 18, 2023. Successful candidates will be able to demonstrate methodological training that is appropriate with their theoretical approaches as well as provide evidence of the capacity to publish in major journals or presses in political science. Preference will be given to applicants with research and/or teaching specialty in Russian and Eurasian international relations including foreign policy, security, political economy, and the opportunity to develop courses in the candidate's own areas of expertise.

Candidates are expected to contribute to the political science department as well as CREES' interdisciplinary intellectual community and mentor undergraduate and graduate students in Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies. The Political Science Department and CREES are committed to fostering an inclusive and supportive educational environment for students, faculty and staff. The successful candidates will have experience with diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education.

Required Qualifications: 1) A doctorate in Political Science. If ABD, the dissertation must be successfully defended by the position start date; 2) Demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate level; 3) Demonstrated ability or plans to develop an innovative body of research and scholarship as evidenced by scholarly publications, presentations, and/or other scholarly activities; 4) Expertise on Russia and/or Eurasia, demonstrated by dissertation chapters, working papers, or publications of relevance to the region

At the University of Kansas, diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging are an important part of our culture and university strategic plan. Applications from members of underrepresented groups are encouraged, noting the value that differences bring to our organization, students, staff, faculty, and community. The successful candidate must be eligible to work in the U.S. by the effective date of the appointment.

For further details and a full position description, go to: https://employment.ku.edu/academic/23401BR. A complete application package includes: (1) a cover letter summarizing research goals and teaching experiences and interests; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) teaching statement showing evidence of teaching ability; (4) a research statement with goals and research potential (samples of published work or conference papers); and (5) the names, email addresses, and contact information for 3 professional references. ABD candidates need to include advisor contact information

In addition to the materials above, learning about each applicant's contribution and engagement in areas of diversity is an important part of KU's mission. As a result, applicants will be presented the following question at the time of application. The response must be within 4,000 characters or less: Describe your experiences working with people from diverse backgrounds and explain how those experiences reflect your commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Application review will begin October 15, 2022, and will remain open until the position is filled. For more information, please contact Clayton Webb, Search Committee Chair at webb767@ku.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 10/15/2022
Date Posted: 9/12/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 10917

Yale University
Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire several faculty at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with an appointment in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations, beginning July 1, 2023. We are interested in candidates who study all areas of the world, but we particularly encourage those with strong subject matter expertise in Japanese Politics or the politics of the Middle East to apply. Suitable candidates may also be hired jointly with the Statistics and Data Sciences Department, in which case faculty will be expected to share their teaching and service obligations between the departments. If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the program(s).

http://apply.interfolio.com/110488

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023

Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10595

Yale University
Rank: Associate/Full Professor, International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science and the Jackson School of Global Affairs at Yale University are looking to hire several faculty at the rank of Associate or Full Professor with tenure, with an appointment in International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, and Comparative Politics, beginning July 1, 2023. Faculty are expected to share their teaching and service obligations between both the Political Science Department and the Jackson School of Global Affairs. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the programs.

http://apply.interfolio.com/110491

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023
Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10594

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Department of Defense
Rank: Operations Research Analyst
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Non-Academic
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Conflict Processes

Are you interested in international relations, comparative politics, political economy or foreign policy? Do you want to use cutting-edge quantitative methods to apply research to real world problems? The Joint Warfare Analysis Center is the place for you!
Join a team of smart, motivated individuals with access to cutting-edge technology while enjoying work-life balance and generous benefits. Join us in doing research that makes a difference.
The Joint Warfare Analysis Center (JWAC) is currently recruiting motivated individuals who are excited about the opportunity to research projects and develop advanced methods for defense analysis.

JWAC's mission is to provide the U.S. military with effects-based analysis to support U.S. national security and military strategies during peace, crisis, and war. Learn more about JWAC and its mission at https://www.jwac.mil/ .

Ideal candidates will have both a strong quantitative methods background, including the ability to use R or Python, and either professional experience or substantive research in the areas of military affairs, foreign policy, international relations, comparative politics, or political economy.

We offer a range of benefits, including: medical, dental and life insurance, paid time to exercise, generous time off, and competitive pay with contribution-based bonuses. U.S. citizenship and the ability to obtain and maintain a security clearance are required for all positions.

If you are interested in more information please email: stratcom.south-potomac.jwac.list.recruiting-sociopoli@mail.mil

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12012

Hitotsubashi University
Rank: Assistant Professor

Job title and affiliation:
Assistant Professor (Full-time "teaching staff" as defined in Article 3(2) of the Hitotsubashi University Staff Employment Regulations. "Sennin Koshi" in Japanese.)

Work Location:
Graduate School of Law, Hitotsubashi University
2-1 Naka, Kunitachi-shi, Tokyo
(Ten minutes'walk from Kunitachi Station South Exit on the JR Chuo Line) [Kunitachi Campus Transportation Guide]
https://www.hit-u.ac.jp/guide/campus/campus/index.html

Number of positions: 2

Employment period:
April 1, 2024 - March 31, 2027 (can be extended for up to two years, depending on performance during this period)

Specialization:
International Relations, especially International Political Economy and Global Governance

Job description:
1) Conducting individual research projects and publishing results in international journals
2) Teaching classes on IR in English at undergraduate and graduate level (e.g., "GLP Core Seminar" and "International Relations in the Asia Pacific" at undergraduate level; "Special Issues in Theories of World Politics"and "Special Issues in Research Methods in International Relations" at graduate level)
* Each course consists of 13 classes, and each class is 105 minutes long.
3) Providing support to students enrolled in the Global Leadership Program (academic advice and counseling regarding their studies abroad)
4) Other duties related to education and research at the Faculty and Graduate School of Law

Qualifications required (competencies, experience, skills, etc.):
Applicants must fulfill all of the following requirements:
1) Be able to research and write papers in English on International Relations (especially on the international political economy, global issues, and Asia-Pacific region)
2) Hold a doctoral degree in a relevant field or an equivalent qualification
3) Be able to plan and manage international research projects
4) Be able to collaborate with administrative staff and faculty members of the Graduate School of Law, especially those affiliated with the Global Governance Research Center
5) Be able to communicate with students in a friendly manner
6) Preferably be proficient in Japanese (but this is not essential)

Salary:
To be determined according to the scale laid down in the Hitotsubashi University regulations, taking into account the candidate's qualifications and experience

Work hours:
38 hours 45 minutes per week, with the ability to work flexible hours (equivalent to 7 hours 45 minutes per day, 5 days a week)

Non-work days:
Saturdays, Sundays, national holidays, December 29-January 3, and any other days designated by the President of the University

Leave:
Annual paid leave of 20 days per calendar year (January 1 to December 31), but 15 days in 2024 (April 1 to December 31)
Sick leave
Special leave (bereavement, maternity leave, child care leave, nursing care leave, etc.)

Social insurance, etc.:
Employment insurance, industrial accident insurance, health cover (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology Mutual Aid), Employees' Pension Insurance

Selection:
By application document screening and interview. Interviews will be held either in person or online with those shortlisted at the document screening stage.

How to apply:
Applicants may send the following application documents either by registered mail or other reliable means to the Graduate School of Law, Hitotsubashi University, or by e-mail addressed to law-so.g@ad.hit-u.ac.jp. If you choose to send the documents by e-mail, please prepare PDF files of the following documents and put "Application for Assistant Professor Position at Graduate School of Law" in the subject line. When sending documents by e-mail, you are welcome to use a password to protect the confidentiality of your files.
When sending documents by post, please write the above subject on the front of the envelope.

Application documents, etc.:
1) Covering letter
2) Curriculum vitae including your education and work experience (with your signature and a portrait photo attached)
3) List of publications and research (approximately 2 A4-sized pages). You should indicate which publications were peer-reviewed and which were not. Conference papers and other publications may be included.
4) Copies of two major publications
5) Research plan (maximum of 3 A4-sized pages) and a syllabus for one of the above classes that the applicant is expected to teach
6) Photocopy of doctoral degree certificate or documentation certifying equivalent education and ability
7) Two letters of recommendation

Application deadline:
The application must arrive no later than 17:00 on Thursday, August 31, 2023.

Document screening, notification of result, etc.:
Applicants who are shortlisted by document screening will be invited for an interview. The result of the document screening will be notified by e-mail or phone by mid-September.

Interview date:
Scheduled for Early October (in person or online and including a demonstration lecture)

Return of application documents, etc.:
Application materials will not be returned.
Application materials of unsuccessful applicants will be disposed of in an appropriate manner as soon as the selection process is completed.

Contact information (Postal address):
(Ms.) YAMADA Chinatsu
Hitotsubashi University, Office of the Graduate School of Law
2-1 Naka, Kunitachi-shi, Tokyo 186-8601, Japan
Tel.: 042-580-8206 / E-mail:law-so.g@ad.hit-u.ac.jp · Inquiries should be made only by e-mail.

Remarks:
• Personal information obtained from application documents is used solely for the purpose of conducting statistical surveys and operations related to recruitment and post-employment personnel / salary / welfare, health management and will not be used nor provided to a third party for any purpose other than these purposes.
However, if it is necessary to achieve these purposes, we may outsource the handling of the information to an external organization that has concluded a confidentiality agreement with the university.
• Applicants will be responsible for transportation costs to the interview site and online expenses.
• Smoking is prohibited on the campus except for designated smoking areas.

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12160

Knox College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science & International Relations

The Department of Political Science & International Relations at Knox College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor of Political Science & International Relations, to begin September 1, 2024. We seek applications from international relations scholars and are open to specialization within the IR field.

Knox College, established in 1837, is an independent, selective liberal arts institution with a mission of access, a diverse student body, and a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. We are particularly interested in creative, energetic teachers of undergraduate students who can contribute to Knox College's considerable diversity and reflect that diversity in their teaching, mentoring, and research. With over 35% of the student body identifying as U.S. students of color and more than 15% international students, the College seeks courses appealing and welcoming to all of Knox's students.

The position involves a six-course teaching load (two courses in each of three 10-week terms) that includes introductory, intermediate, and advanced courses in international relations, as well as other courses that are within the candidate's area of expertise and that contribute to the general liberal arts curriculum.

Our department covers diverse areas in our teaching and research methods and interests, to which an ideal candidate will contribute. The candidate we hire will have substantial autonomy to revise our long-standing and popular International Relations major around their own set of specializations and priorities.

Knox College provides a competitive salary and a strong benefit package including health, dental, vision and life insurance, and access to a retirement plan; a tuition remission benefit is available after a two-year waiting period. Additional information can be found on our Human Resources webpage at https://www.knox.edu/offices/human-resources/employee-benefits-and-forms.

Qualifications: Ph.D. is expected at the time of appointment, but exceptional ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates should submit:
-A cover letter that addresses the qualifications listed above, including the candidate's research interests, teaching interests, and approach to teaching a diverse community of undergraduate students
-Curriculum vitae
-Unofficial graduate transcript
-Three letters of recommendation

Additional materials may be requested at a later date.

Submission via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/128895

Review of applications will begin on September 12, 2023 and continue until the position is filled.

Questions may be addressed to: klstewart@knox.edu

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12161

Providence College
Rank: African Politics - Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department at Providence College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level, in the field of African Politics, grounded in perspectives from either International Relations or Comparative Politics. The field of "African Politics" is understood broadly by our Department, and we welcome applicants across a range of methodologies and substantive interests, such as, for example, contemporary Africa in geopolitical context; ancient, colonial, and modern political systems; colonial and post-colonial conflict, institutions, and practices; state-building, democratization, partisan mobilization, and social movements; internal migration, immigration, and emigration; security challenges and conflict resolution; natural resource and environmental politics; national and regional political economy; gender, health, education, labor, and social policy; or other Africa-centered topics. Geographically, we welcome candidates who focus on any of the continent's nations or regions, or those who work within a pan-African framework.

Teaching Responsibilities: The normal teaching load will be three courses per semester, with class sizes of 12 to 25 students. Core assignments each year will include African Politics and one or more of the following: Introduction to International Relations, Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to Politics, or Research Methods. We keep our curriculum fresh by giving colleagues the opportunity to design new lecture, seminar, and research courses in areas which reflect their particular interests and expertise. In all cases, faculty enjoy substantial autonomy in the design and content of courses.

Research Expectations and Support: Our political science faculty are respected scholars with active research agendas who provide generous professional advice and mentoring for junior colleagues. Other support for research includes College-sponsored research grants, grant writing assistance, conference and research travel funds, individual discretionary funds, access to research librarians and other library resources, undergraduate research assistants, and opportunities for collaboration with faculty at other Rhode Island universities including, for example, Brown University, the University of Rhode Island, and Roger Williams University.

Our Political Science Department has fourteen full-time faculty members who are known for effective teaching, grounded in cutting-edge scholarship. They research and teach about politics in the U.S. and other regions, with particular strengths in East Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. We offer a wide portfolio of courses, including many which are cross-listed in other Arts and Sciences departments and programs including Black Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, Global Studies, Latin American and Latina/o Studies, Asian and Asian American Studies, American Studies, Public and Community Service Studies, Public Administration, Communication, and the College's newest interdisciplinary program—Middle East Studies. Political science faculty frequently direct interdisciplinary programs like these, and teach in the Liberal Arts Honors and Development of Western Civilization programs. Within the political science profession our colleagues are well-known participants and leaders in the American, Western, New England, Midwest, and Northeastern political science associations, as well as the Latin American Studies Association, National Conference of Black Political Scientists, International Studies Association, and International Political Science Association. We author scholarly books and research articles at premier journals and academic presses, publish op-eds in local and regional newspapers, and frequently appear as expert analysts for New England's print, broadcast, and online news media.

Providence College is located in the City of Providence—the capital of the State of Rhode Island ("The Ocean State"), and the third-largest city in New England. Founded in 1636, Providence is one of North America's oldest European settler cities. Nearby Pawtucket, RI, was the birthplace of the American Industrial Revolution in 1793, and Providence has long welcomed immigrant populations, most recently from West Africa, Latin America, and Southeast Asia. Providence is a majority-minority city, and more than 30% of its 2020 population was foreign-born. At present, the state's largest foreign-born African-descent populations come from Cape Verde, Nigeria, and Liberia. The Providence metropolitan area's population of 1.7 million is served by many retail, restaurant, and professional enterprises, as well as churches and social service organizations, established within these African immigrant communities. The city's annual calendar is filled with diverse ethnic and cultural festivals, while a vibrant arts scene is anchored by world-class galleries, museums, live theater, performances across music genres and traditions, and film festivals. Located on the main highway and rail corridors serving the northeastern United States—I-95 and Amtrak's Northeast Corridor—Providence is also connected to Boston via MBTA commuter rail, to New York via frequent rail and air service, and to the rest of the world via T.F. Green International Airport, with more than 100 daily nonstop flights to and from Atlanta, Baltimore, Charleston, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Detroit, Ft. Lauderdale, Jacksonville, Los Angeles, Miami, Minneapolis St. Paul, Nashville, New York City, Newark, Norfolk, Orlando, Philadelphia, Richmond, Tampa, Washington, D.C.—and Santo Domingo, DR.

Salary, Benefits, and Resources: The position offers very competitive salary and benefits, generous annual and step salary increases, and campus amenities including fitness center, swimming pool and athletic facilities, free on-campus parking, chapels and meditation spaces, and information technology resources including MacOS and Windows desktop systems on secure campus networks. NOTE: If appropriate, Providence College will file a petition for an Employment-Based Immigrant Visa, in Category H-1B, once a final job offer is tendered and accepted.

How to Apply: Applicants should possess a PhD in political science (or be very close to completion), and will be asked to demonstrate evidence of the potential for teaching excellence, strong research skills, and potential for continued research productivity. Apply online at https://careers.providence.edu where you will submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, teaching materials, and one or more samples of scholarly writing, either published or unpublished.

For additional information, please contact Dr. Tony Affigne, chair of the search committee, at affigne@providence.edu or Dr. Matt Guardino, department chair, at mguardin@providence.edu. NOTE: search committee members will be hosting optional informational interviews at APSA in Los Angeles, and prospective applicants who wish to schedule an informational interview during the conference are encouraged to contact us no later than August 15. Those unable to attend the conference may contact Dr. Affigne to schedule a remote informational interview.

Deadline: For full consideration, your completed application should be submitted no later than October 1, 2023. Review of applications will commence as they are received, and will continue until the position is filled. We anticipate completing on-campus interviews by December 8, and making a final decision by early January 2024.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12170

University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a multi-year project on "Collective Shocks and Social Preferences" led by Professors James Walsh and Alexander Kustov at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

The project examines how people's social preferences, such as altruism and trust, are affected by negative collective shocks such as wars, natural disasters, or economic disruptions. Some studies find that these shocks make people more prosocial, but others find that they reduce cooperation. Since most of this research focuses on just one region or outcome, it is hard to know whether the results are generalizable. To address this question, the project aims to create a comprehensive cross-national time-series dataset on various shocks and preferences at the subnational level.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of the dataset for the project. The role includes:
* Leading the data collection and management efforts needed to construct the original dataset, including cross-national surveys on social preferences and administrative data on collective shocks.
* Conducting and publishing high-quality research in close collaboration and under the guidance of project leaders.
* Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position (approximately 40%).
* Participating in the broader intellectual life of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration, and the interdisciplinary Public Policy and Data Science programs.

The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate. Strong training and skills in quantitative data analysis in R is required. Preference will be given to applicants with demonstrated skills in one or more of the following areas: data management, survey methodology, multilevel regression, causal inference, machine learning, cross-national research. Preference is also given to applicants with research interests in one or more of the following areas related to the project: conflict and cooperation, political economy, political psychology, state capacity, social preferences, migration.

Postdoc appointments are characterized by all of the following conditions:
* the appointee was recently (within the last eight years) awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.);
* the appointment is temporary;
* the appointment involves substantially full-time research or scholarship;
* the appointment is viewed as preparatory for a full-time academic and/or research career;
* the appointee works under the supervision of a faculty member; and
* the appointee has the freedom and is expected to publish the results of his or her research or scholarship during the period of appointment.

Screening of applicants will begin on August 15, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The position is renewable based on performance. For further information, please contact James Walsh (jwalsh@charlotte.edu) and Alexander Kustov (akustov@charlotte.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12171

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations and International Security

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of International Relations and International Security. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in any relevant Social Science field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, with a clearly demonstrated record of research and teaching excellence in the area of International Relations and International Security. The position is open to a range of disciplines including but not limited to information studies, communications, sociology, political science, area studies, and law. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy is home to the Citizen Lab, an interdisciplinary laboratory based at the Munk School focusing on advanced research and development at the intersection of digital media, global security, and human rights. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research integrates with the Citizen Lab's resources, existing areas of research, and global network.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the field, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level, and to establish an outstanding research program, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School's professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Candidates must provide evidence of excellence in teaching which will be provided through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, or other evidence of superior performance in teaching-related activities submitted as part of the application, and through strong endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference. Other teaching-related activities can include performance as a teaching assistant or course instructor, experience leading successful workshops or seminars, student mentorship, or excellent conference presentations or posters.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.
Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; writing sample; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 7, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.
If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

To apply please go to https://jobs.utoronto.ca/job/Toronto-Assistant-Professor-International-Relations-and-International-Security-ON/572612617/.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/7/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12158

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Affairs and Comparative Politics
Specializations: Latin American, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning January 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations. Applicants with specialization in Latin American Politics, African Politics, Asian Politics, and/or Middle East Politics are preferred. Must also be able to offer Introduction to Political Science, Introduction to Comparative Politics, and Introduction to World Politics. The ability to teach Research Methods is a bonus.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in undergraduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach courses in undergraduate political science programs and international affairs majors.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related discipline. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching in International Affairs and Comparative Politics.

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12155

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): International Relations, Open, Other

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies (2 positions) and Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations (1 position). Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars. We are open regarding specific areas of research and teaching specialisation. As the School has previously recruited experts in international relations of China and South Asia, it does not require experts in these areas at the moment.

The successful candidates will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisations; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in either Strategic Studies or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative work of the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per year, including one core course for either the MSc in Strategic Studies (Analysis of Defence and Security Policies or Evolution of Strategic Thought) or MSc in International Relations (Study of International Relations) programme depending on their specialisation.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system, click on this link to access - https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-Strategic-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS--_R00013946

All applicants should submit the following:
1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 15 November 2023.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12143

San Diego State University
Rank: Politics of East Asia
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Political Science Department at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin Fall 2024. Applicants should demonstrate a well-developed research agenda, a promise of sustained scholarship, and a record of effective teaching.

Qualifications
The department seeks a scholar with research and teaching expertise in the politics of East Asia, broadly understood to encompass Northeast and Southeast Asia. We are open to applications from scholars in both comparative politics and international relations whose research is focused on one or more countries in the region. The successful candidate's research may focus on any of a range of substantive topics – including but not limited to, democratization, political economy, state-society relations, and foreign policy – and should demonstrate a capacity to engage with normative issues underlying critical debates in the field. The candidate would be expected to work closely with the program on International Security and Conflict Resolution and the Center for Asian & Pacific Studies. The department is open to a diversity of theoretical and methodological approaches.

The Political Science Department at San Diego State is dedicated to the ideal of the engaged teacher-scholar. It has over 600 undergraduate majors and provides course offerings for students with a wide variety of backgrounds and interests. At the graduate level, the department maintains an M.A. program of high quality. The members of the faculty share a strong commitment to collegiality, active participation in the governing of the department, innovative scholarship, methodological pluralism, rigorous teaching, and robust intellectual and normative engagement. Candidates are encouraged to consult the department website: http://politicalscience.sdsu.edu.

We are seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups. Candidates must satisfy two or more of the eight Building on Inclusive Excellence (BIE) criteria. Candidates that meet BIE criteria: (a) are committed to engaging in service with underrepresented populations within the discipline, (b) have demonstrated knowledge of barriers for underrepresented students and faculty within the discipline, (c) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to teaching and mentoring underrepresented students, (d) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to integrating understanding of underrepresented populations and communities into research, (e) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to extending knowledge of opportunities and challenges in achieving artistic/scholarly success to members of an underrepresented group, (f) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to research that engages underrepresented communities, (g) have expertise or demonstrated commitment to developing expertise in cross-cultural communication and collaboration, and/or (h) have research interests that contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. Please indicate in a separate diversity statement how you meet at least two (2) of these criteria. Additional guidance on our BIE program for applicants is here.

SDSU is the oldest institution of higher education in the San Diego region, with a campus in San Diego serving 36,000 undergraduate and graduate students and additional locations in Southern California's Imperial Valley and Tbilisi in the Republic of Georgia. SDSU is included in the Carnegie Foundation's Doctoral Universities: High Research Activity category. Established in 1897, SDSU offers bachelor degrees in 97 areas, masters in 84 and doctorates in 23. See http://www.sdsu.edu for more information. SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university, an Asian-Native American-Pacific Islander -Serving Institution and a Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all.

Application Instructions
Applicants must apply via Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/127871. A completed file includes a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, complete teaching evaluations (quantitative evaluations and complete sets of qualitative evaluations of recent courses), sample syllabi, academic writing samples, diversity statement, and three letters of recommendation. To ensure full consideration, submit all materials by September 21st, 2023. Screening of applications will begin then. Applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. by the start of the term of appointment will be given priority. Those without a Ph.D. in-hand should include in their letter of interest a statement of progress on the dissertation and reasons to expect completion in a timely fashion.

Further inquiries should be addressed to Farid Abdel-Nour, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at abdelnou@sdsu.edu.

The minimum salary for this position is based on the current CSU salary schedule for Assistant Professors and may be revised based on contract collective bargaining. The anticipated salary range is from $79,000 to $83,000. Salary placement will be based on the selected candidate's qualifications and experience, and salaries higher than the published maximums may be offered in limited circumstances. San Diego State University offers a rich benefits package that constitutes a major portion of total compensation. For benefits information, click here.

As part of its commitment to a safe and equitable "OneSDSU" community, SDSU requires that individuals seeking faculty employment provide at the time of application authorization to conduct background checks if they become a finalist for the position; applications without this authorization will be considered incomplete and not considered.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
SDSU is a Title IX, equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and expression, marital status, age, disability, pregnancy, medical condition, or covered veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/21/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12136

Hebrew University of Jerusalem
Rank: Tenure Track Position(s)
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Research Methods

The Department of International Relations at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks to fill one or more tenure-track positions beginning fall 2024.

We seek excellent candidates who can complement the strengths of our department in all areas and subfields of International Relations, broadly defined.

Candidates should have a promising research agenda in international relations and be able to teach undergraduate and graduate level classes as well as to mentor students.

Junior and senior scholars are encouraged to apply. Advanced doctoral candidates are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2024.

The language of teaching at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years following their arrival.

The deadline for applications is September 23, 2023. Candidates selected by the Dept. of International Relations require the approval of the Faculty of Social Sciences.

The Department of International Relations and the Hebrew University are committed to diversity and equal opportunity. We are also aware of the lasting impact that the Covid-19 pandemic has had on the academic trajectories of applicants. These issues are considered in hiring deliberations. We welcome the submission of a statement explaining the pandemic's impact, if relevant.

Please submit all application materials electronically here: http://ttp.huji.ac.il/

The applicants will be asked to upload:

- A cover letter stating your willingness to begin teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem in the fall of 2024;
- A list of required and elective courses that can be taught at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem;
- A scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years;
- A Curriculum Vitae, including teaching experience;
- Three writing samples
- Covid-19 statement (optional) – Brief (up to 400 words), specific statement explaining how the pandemic affected the candidate's academic trajectory
- Teaching evaluations, if available

Three letters of recommendations should be sent directly using a personal e-mail address generated during the application process.

Questions about the search can be addressed to Dr. Devorah Manekin (dmanekin@mail.huji.ac.il).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/23/2023
Date Posted: 7/23/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12100

Rice University
Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for an associate or full professor to begin July 1, 2024. Associate and full professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, mentor students, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to department and university service and leadership. Therefore, successful candidates will have an active research program, a record of publication and external funding commensurate with the proposed rank, and a record of excellence in teaching, mentoring, and service/leadership. Candidates must have a Ph.D in political science or a related field.

The position is open with regard to research specialty, but we are particularly interested in candidates who connect to our areas of departmental strength in democratic political representation (U.S. or comparative), international security, and/or quantitative methods.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is October 1, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, DEI, and leadership/service statements; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and contact information for three references. References will be contacted for a subset of candidates. All applications should be submitted electronically at apply.interfolio.com/128783.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12132

University of Washington
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of International Relations, to begin September 2024. The search is open with respect to subfield (e.g., security studies, international political economy, international organization) and methodological approach. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses with the capacity for large enrollments as well as graduate seminars. The teaching load is a total of four courses per academic year. Along with pursuing a high-quality research agenda, the successful candidate will be expected to support department and university service activities, including advising both undergraduate and graduate students. Tenure-track faculty engage in research, teaching, and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). Washington State Law requires that this ad list a binding salary range. The base salary range for this position will be $9,650-$13,500 per month ($86,850-$121,500 annually), commensurate with experience and qualifications, or as mandated by a U.S. Department of labor prevailing wage determination.

Qualifications
Applicants should demonstrate a record of teaching and research related to International Relations. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, although applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Application Instructions
Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two article-or chapter-length writing samples, research statement, teaching statement, diversity statement, a graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. The research statement should describe the applicant's substantive research interests and research agenda. The teaching statement should describe the applicant's teaching philosophy, list undergraduate and graduate level teaching interests, and provide evidence of teaching effectiveness. The diversity statement should describe the applicant's record of engagement with issues around diversity, equity, and inclusion, and how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities. All application materials must be submitted online at: http://apply.interfolio.com/127876

Applications received by September 15, 2023 are guaranteed full consideration. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Benefits Information
A summary of benefits associated with this title/rank can be found at https://hr.uw.edu/benefits/benefits-orientation/benefit-summary-pdfs/. Appointees solely employed and paid directly by a non-UW entity are not UW employees and are not eligible for UW or Washington State employee benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12130

CUNY-Baruch College
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Security
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Austin W. Marxe School of Public and International Affairs at Baruch College invites applications for an Assistant Professor (Marxe School), tenure track, with a specialization in international security and technology. Areas of policy research could address cyber conflict, disinformation, military uses of AI, hybrid warfare, weapons proliferation, and other national security and global security challenges of the 21st century. Teaching responsibilities will include electives in a new Global Security concentration and core courses in the Master of International Affairs (MIA) program.

This position is part of an interdisciplinary cluster of new faculty across the College studying data science. Faculty in this cluster will prepare students to understand the threats and opportunities of the digital world. They will form an interdisciplinary data analytics group that will conduct high level research while simultaneously suffusing data science across all areas of the Baruch curriculum to improve student employment prospects.

Compensation and Benefits:
90,134 - 99,532; Commensurate with qualifications and experience. CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

How to apply:
Go to the CUNY website cuny.jobs to see the complete position description and job requirements in CUNYFirst under Job Opening ID #27080. You can view and apply for this job in CUNYFirst via the following direct link to the posting https://cuny.jobs/new-york-ny/assistant-professor-of-policy-cyber-security/85CF44B277D7485D89E11ED06ABE4027/job/

Candidate should provide:
• Cover letter explaining your interest in the position
• Curriculum vitae
• One recent scholarly publication or paper
• Statement of scholarship interest (1 page maximum)
• A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of students who are among the first-generation of their family to attend a college or university. (1 page maximum)
• Reference list with contact information

Closing Date:
This position will be open until filled and review of applications will start on October 1, 2023.

EEO Statement:
CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 12119

Tecnologico de Monterrey
Rank: Assistant Professor Positions
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in political science and international relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and or international organizations. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability in conducting theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertations chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2024 to start in August 2024.
Compensation is competitive and it includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format to karenaguayo@tec.mx
- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.
- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double spaced pages. If co-authored the candidate should be the first author.
- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating defense date.

For informal inquiries please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx
Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Queretaro, and Guadalajara. For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/ciencias-sociales-y-gobierno.

For more information on the Graduate School of Government, Escuela de Gobierno y Transformación Pública, visit http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/ The graduate school has campuses in Mexico City and Monterrey.

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12124

U.S. Army War College
Rank: Asst/Assoc Professor of Asian Affairs
Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

United States Army War College
Assistant/Associate Professor of Asian Studies
Salary range: $86,206 – $139,302

Summary:

The United States Army War College is accepting applications for an Assistant/Associate Professor of Asian Studies in the Department of National Security and Strategy to begin in the summer of 2024.

Position Description:

The person selected for this position will have a leading role in planning, administering, and teaching core courses on Asian regional studies as well as other core and elective courses of the resident education program and associated programs. They will serve as a faculty instructor for one seminar, advise students, and serve as project advisor for student research projects. They will also engage in cutting-edge scholarship that advances knowledge in fields relevant to the curriculum, and engage in service in support of USAWC missions. Other duties may include teaching courses on war, strategy, and national security policy, and/or supporting the development and execution of specialized programs in policy, strategy, and outreach. Finally, the applicant must be able to obtain and maintain a SECRET security clearance from the US government.

The Army War College seeks applicants who would find fulfillment teaching and researching in an environment that intentionally blends scholarly achievement with policy application. It relies on a collaborative and inter-disciplinary teaching environment that emphasizes student engagement. As one of the nation's premiere institutions for military education, it is a dynamic workplace that mixes academic excellence with practitioner experience to prepare senior level officers and civilians for roles in strategy- and policy-making over the rest of their careers. This importance of the mission, and direct impact that faculty instruction has on national security processes, fosters a culture of mutual respect and collegiality across the department and school. Faculty who are interested in translating their academic expertise into policy debates are encouraged to do so.

This is a full-time, long-term, civilian faculty position. Initial appointment may be for up to 4 years; the first year may be probationary.

Appointments may be renewed subject to job performance and availability of funds; reappointments at USAWC are the norm and the position should be considered equivalent to tenure-track. Academic rank and compensation of initial appointment will be offered commensurate with the applicant's level of experience and qualifications. We are prepared to offer a salary-and-benefits package designed to attract highly talented applicants.

For additional questions about the position, Department of National Security and Strategy, and/or the Army War College, please contact:

Carrie A. Lee
Chair, Department of National Security and Strategy
US Army War College
carrie.lee@armywarcollege.edu
(717) 245-3294

Qualifications:

In order to qualify, you must meet the education and/or experience requirements described below, also known as Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities (KSAs). Your curriculum vitae or résumé must clearly describe your relevant experience, and cover letters are encouraged to directly address the required KSAs, as they will be used by the search committee appointed to identify the best-qualified candidates.

1. Must have master's degree (required) in political science, history, national security studies, international relations, government, or related field. PhD or terminal degree strongly preferred. Doctoral students who expect to complete their Ph.D. prior to July 2024 are eligible and encouraged to apply. Expertise in Asian politics preferred.

2. Ability to prepare, teach, and lecture on subjects related to Asian studies, regional politics in East, Southeast, or South Asia, American foreign policy, grand strategy, and national security decision-making. An established record of superlative teaching at the undergraduate, graduate, and/or Senior Service College level, and experience in seminar-style instruction, is preferred.

3. Record of scholarly research and publication—or evidence of great potential for such research and publication—in areas relevant to the curriculum, to include national security policy and strategy, international relations, political science, history, political economy, regional studies, and the strategic use of military force (e.g., assurance, deterrence, coercion, and compellence). Expertise in regional Asian studies is preferred.

4. A record of successful service to the profession and/or engagement with policy debates, including membership in and service to professional (regional, historical, political) scholarly societies, public history initiatives, or military and defense organizations. A record of successful non-governmental work of a similar nature and scope, such as with a think tank, development organization, media organization, or international organization may also be considered service.

Application:

Your application must contain each of the following:
1. Letter of application addressing the required KSAs and other qualifications, as listed in the QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED section above.
2. Curriculum vitae or résumé.

3. One sample of written scholarship not to exceed 50 pages (Electronic format is preferred, as hard copies will not be returned without a self-addressed and metered envelope.)
4. Unofficial academic transcripts of the highest degree attained. You must provide official transcripts upon request.
5. List of four disinterested professional references (i.e., persons who can affirm the candidate's qualifications but have no stake in the outcome of the selection).
6. Proof of U.S. citizenship.
7. A short narrative of one page or less that describes how you would contribute to an atmosphere of diversity at the U.S. Army War College through teaching, scholarship, and/or service.

To apply for this position, you must apply using the USAJOBS platform via the following link: https://www.usajobs.gov/job/737609900. The complete application package must be submitted by 11:59 PM (EST) on 18 September 2023 to receive consideration.

- To begin, click Apply to access the online application. You will need to be logged into your USAJOBS account to apply. If you do not have a USAJOBS account, you will need to create one before beginning the application.
- Follow the prompts to select your résumé and/or other supporting documents to be included with your application package. You will have the opportunity to upload additional documents to include in your application before it is submitted. Your uploaded documents may take several hours to clear the virus scan process.
- After acknowledging you have reviewed your application package, complete the Include Personal Information section as you deem appropriate and click to continue with the application process.
- You will be taken to the online application which you must complete in order to apply for the position. Complete the online application, verify the required documentation is included with your application package, and submit the application. You must re-select your resume and/or other documents from your USAJOBS account or your application will be incomplete.
- It is your responsibility to verify that your application package (resume, supporting documents, and responses to the questionnaire) is complete, accurate, and submitted by the closing date. Uploaded documents may take up to one hour to clear the virus scan.
- Additional information on how to complete the online application process and submit your online application may be found on the USA Staffing Applicant Resource Center.

To verify the status of your application, log into your USAJOBS account (https://my.usajobs.gov/Account/Login), all of your applications will appear on the Welcome screen. The Application Status will appear along with the date your application was last updated. For information on what each Application Status means, visit: https://www.usajobs.gov/Help/how-to/application/status/.

The deadline to apply for this position is September 18, 2023.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/18/2023
Date Posted: 7/19/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12115

University College Dublin
Rank: Lecturer/Assistant Professor, UCD School of Politics and International Relations, Temporary 3-years fixed term

Applications are invited for a fixed term appointment as Assistant Professor / Lecturer in the School of Politics and International Relations. The person appointed will be expected to contribute to teaching and research in any of the subject areas of the school. Additional ability to be able to teach modules in research design and qualitative research methodology will be a requirement.

School of Politics and International Relations
UCD is a dynamic research-intensive university that is at the forefront of research and teaching activities across a wide range of disciplines. The School of Politics and International Relations is a globally top-ranked, research-active school with teaching and research interests across the fields of politics, international relations, political theory, international political economy, international development, computational social science and other. It is committed to the highest standards in undergraduate and graduate teaching and research supervision.
As part of its graduate taught programme offering, all students take a research design course to prepare them for their final thesis. PhD students take a seminar-based module providing an overview of qualitative research methods. The successful candidate will be expected to teach these modules in addition to modules of choice in the area of specialisation.

Application Procedure
Applications will consist of a cover letter, in which the applicant will describe how their academic and research profile strategically complements or strengthens the profile of the school, a complete CV listing all research publications and research grants to date together with any publications submitted for publication but not yet published, and the names and the contact details of three potential referees.

95 Lecturer/Asst Professor Above The Bar (7943) Salary Scale: €59,370 - €94,015 Per Annum
Appointment will be made on scale and in accordance with the Department of Finance guidelines.

Principal Duties and Responsibilities:
The duties of the successful candidate will include but not necessarily be limited to the following:
o Engage actively in research and scholarly activity and disseminate the results of research through publication in international peer-reviewed academic journals and by other appropriate means
o Contributing actively to the graduate and undergraduate teaching programmes as directed by the Head of School. This will involve module design and delivery, examination and assessment, quality assurance and enhancement, and associated administration.
o Design and implement a range of appropriate methods of teaching and assessment.
o Contributing to thesis supervision at undergraduate, graduate taught and graduate research levels.
o Actively seeking external research funding.
o Contribute to the life of the school, including undertaking administrative and other duties as required.
o Provide academic counselling and advice to students.

Selection Criteria:
Selection criteria outline the qualifications, skills, knowledge and/or experience that the successful candidate would need to demonstrate for successful discharge of the responsibilities of the post. Applications will be assessed on the basis of how well candidates satisfy these criteria.

Mandatory:
• A PhD in political science, development studies, or related discipline – either awarded, or due to be completed prior to 1 Sept. 2023.
• A strong, demonstrable commitment to research, with a record of publication in high quality peer-reviewed journals and/or with high quality scholarly book publishers.
• A proven record of high-quality university-level teaching.
• Strong interpersonal and communication skills and demonstrated enthusiasm to contribute to the social environment of the school and its students.
• Research in an area that strengthens or strategically complements the existing research profile of the School.
• Demonstrated expertise in research design and qualitative research methodology
• Candidates must demonstrate how they can positively contribute to fostering an inclusive environment and a level of awareness of equality, diversity and inclusion.

Desirable:
• Evidence of a commitment to developing innovative approaches to teaching and learning.
• Good international research network and international academic experience.
• Evidence of potential to generate external research funding.
• A profile in, or commitment to, engagement with the wider policy community and media.
• Evidence of administrative and/or management experience relevant to the academic environment.

For a full job description and details on how to apply, please go to the following link: https://my.corehr.com/pls/coreportal_ucdp/apply?id=016179

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 8/11/2023
Date Posted: 7/19/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12114

Laval University
Rank: Professor of Global Value Chains
Specializations: Trade, Political Economy, Foreign Policy

Université Laval's Graduate School of International Studies is seeking applications for a position of Professor of Global Value Chains. The successful candidate will serve as Co-Chair of the Chaire de recherche Couche-Tard sur les chaînes de valeur globales. Once a candidate from outside Université Laval has been recruited, an internal competition will be launched to select a Co-Chair with a complementary research record and expertise.

A research advisor will support the Co-Chairs in the development, planning and submission of grant applications, and will oversee the full deployment of the Chair's outreach activities. A budget will be available for doctoral scholarships associated with the Chair.

The candidate hired for this position will join the Graduate School of International Studies as a regular professor as of January 1st, 2024, or no later than June 1st, 2024. Hiring may be at any academic rank in accordance with the Convention collective entre l'Université Laval et le Syndicat des professeurs et des professeures de l'Université Laval (SPUL) (collective agreement between Université Laval and its faculty union (SPUL) – available in French only).

Duties include:
- teaching at the graduate level;
- supervising master's essays, dissertations and doctoral theses;
- conducting research and publishing in the field of global value chains;
- participating in GSIS-related pedagogical and administrative activities;
- being involved in any other activity provided for in the Université Laval-SPUL collective agreement.

Selection Criteria:

- hold a Ph.D. in International Studies or in a field of study relevant to the position;
- demonstrate a strong commitment to multi/interdisciplinarity, whether through training, a research program, teaching experience or collaborations;
- have an excellent research record with publications in peer-reviewed journals considered among the best in the field, or the potential to develop an excellent research record for early career applicants;
- have teaching experience at the university level, ideally confirmed by evaluations;
- have received research grants from granting agencies in their field or demonstrate the potential to obtain such grants in the near future;
- demonstrate the ability to teach a graduate-level methodology course;
- demonstrate proven involvement in international research networks (considered an asset);
- show a high interest in collaborative work;
- have the ability to teach in French within 3 years of taking up the position (Université Laval provides support for newly-recruited faculty to attain proficiency in French).

Applications from doctoral students who are about to defend their doctoral thesis will be considered, provided that a letter from the department head confirming the expected date of thesis submission or defense is provided.

Application deadline: September 29th, 2023

The application file must include:
A. a cover letter demonstrating, among other things, a commitment to multi/interdisciplinarity and international issues;
B. a resume;
C. a document (2 pages maximum) describing a research program for the next 5 years that covers the theoretical, methodological and dissemination aspects of research;
D. a sample of publications.

Candidates on the short list of successful applicants will be required to provide three letters of recommendation from respondents outside Université Laval. Letters are to be sent to the Graduate School of International Studies management.

All applications will be processed confidentially.

Applications and letters of recommendations must be sent to:

Philippe Bourbeau
Director
Graduate School of International Studies
Université Laval

directeur@eti.ulaval.ca

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12077

University of Maryland, Baltimore County
Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations with Focus on China, East Asian International Relations, and International Political Economy
Specializations: China, East Asia, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in international relations with a specialization in China, East Asian international relations, and international political economy, beginning in August 2024. UMBC is a Carnegie Research 1, community-engaged, minority-serving institution focused on inclusive excellence.

This job is one of four positions in a cluster hire in Asian Studies. UMBC is searching in 2023-2024 for Asian Studies specialists, in Ancient Studies, History, Philosophy, and Political Science. Faculty hired as part of the cluster will have opportunities to collaborate across disciplines and develop alongside a cohort of new faculty members with an interest in Asian Studies. Though the new faculty members will be housed in their respective academic departments, they will also be affiliate faculty in, and contribute to the success, of, the interdisciplinary Asian Studies Program at UMBC through their course offerings, participation in research seminars, and engagement with Asia-related programming on campus.

Preference will be given to candidates who have a Ph.D. in political science/international relations, or will have a Ph.D. in hand by August 2024. Applicants must provide evidence of a focused, ambitious research agenda and a commitment to excellent undergraduate teaching. Candidates must also describe how their research, teaching, and/or life experiences contribute to "inclusive excellence," such as their ability to work with underserved and diverse populations and their capacity to respond in pedagogically productive ways to the competence, aspirations, and needs of students from diverse backgrounds. The successful candidate will teach two introductory sections of International Relations (counting as two courses) and upper-level undergraduate courses in Chinese politics and foreign policy, East Asian international relations, and international political economy The annual teaching load is five courses.

For best consideration, applicants should submit their applications by October 15, 2023, using Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/127984
Please provide a cover letter, a CV, a statement of your research agenda; a statement of your teaching philosophy; a statement of your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion; up to two publications of other writing samples; two sample course syllabi; and three letters of reference. Questions should be addressed to either of the search co-chairs, Dr. Cynthia Hody (hody@umbc.edu) and Dr. Devin T. Hagerty (dhagerty@umbc.edu), using the subject line "POLI Search".

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/15/2023

Date Posted: 7/12/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12088

Stanford University
Rank: International Relations, Open Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

International Relations, Open Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Stanford University is seeking applications for an open rank, tenure line position in international relations.

Candidates for an untenured position at the rank of assistant professor must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor. Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Untenured applicants should send a cover letter, CV, research statement, teaching evaluations, Ph.D. program transcripts, and a writing sample along with at least three professional letters of recommendation.

Candidates for a tenured position at the rank of associate or full professor must have a conferred PhD or equivalent international degree. Candidates should demonstrate substantial evidence of a creative research career, impact on his or her field of study, and a commitment to excellence in teaching and advising students at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Tenured applicants should send a letter of interest, CV, research statement, and teaching evaluations.

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities and Sciences and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an inclusive academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds, identities, and outlooks. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these ideals. Additional information about Stanford's IDEAL initiative may be found here: https://ideal.stanford.edu/about-ideal/diversity-statement.

Review of applications will begin on September 5, 2023 but applications may be considered after that date. Application materials must be submitted on-line via https://facultypositions.stanford.edu.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodation to any employee with a disability who requires accommodation to perform the essential functions of his or her job.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching, and clinical missions.

The salary range for this position is $135,620-$361,647 for 2023-24.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12084

Amherst College
Rank: Visiting Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Political Science

Amherst College's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, two-year visiting appointment in Middle Eastern politics at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor, beginning on July 1, 2024. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual identity, and religion. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester and supervision of senior honors projects. We are particularly interested in candidates who are specialists in a particular Middle Eastern country or who study the region as a whole, or the role of the Middle East in international affairs. We are seeking candidates with a broad range of interests, including resource conflicts; natural resource economy; comparative or international political economy of the area; human rights; religion, and politics; refugees and displacement; civil-military relations; political uprisings and social movements; and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The position requires a Ph.D. Applicants are asked to submit electronically to https://apply.interfolio.com/127839 a cover letter, addressed to Professor Austin Sarat; curriculum vitae; sample of their scholarship; and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled.

Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12074

University of Mississippi
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Mississippi invites applications for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor. This is a one-year position with the possibility of renewal for the 2024-25 academic year. We seek a teacher-scholar with a Ph.D. degree in political science. Candidates nearing completion of their degree requirements, with a defense date in Fall 2023, will be considered in the search. Successful candidates for the position will teach eight courses, distributed across two semesters, including introductory courses in comparative politics and international relations, and an upper-level course on international conflict. Spring courses will include the introductory courses plus an additional upper-level course.

Apply online at https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, teaching statement, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the contact information of three references. The review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1848, the University of Mississippi (UM), affectionately known to alumni, students and friends as Ole Miss, is Mississippi's flagship university. Included in the elite group of R-1: Doctoral Universities - Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification, it has a long history of producing leaders in public service, academics and business. The University of Mississippi, consistently named by The Chronicle of Higher Education as a "Great College to Work For," is located in Oxford, MS, which is ranked one of the "Top 10 Best College Towns." With more than 24,000 students, UM is the state's largest university and is ranked among the nation's fastest-growing institutions. The University of Mississippi, which has aggressively implemented many health and wellness initiatives for its more than 2,900 employees, has consistently been named one of Mississippi's Healthiest Workplaces.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12073

Harvard University
Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Science)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Russia, Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes

The John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in international and global affairs. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in political science (with a specialty either in international relations or comparative politics), a strong commitment to producing rigorous social scientific research, excellent teaching skills, and a demonstrable interest in engagement with the world of practice. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in the Harvard Kennedy School's core curriculum for students in its Master of Public Policy program.

The search is open in terms of subject matter, but we particularly welcome applications from empirically-sophisticated political scientists whose work advances clear and compelling perspectives on interstate conflict, human rights, migration and refugee policy, environmental politics, and the politics of nuclear weapons. We are especially interested in scholars of these issues whose regional focus is Europe or Russia and the former Soviet Union.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, C.V., research statement, a description of past or planned teaching (along with teaching evaluations, if available), one or two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/12482.

Applications should be submitted by September 5, 2023 in order to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12067

Tel Aviv University
Rank: Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for two open rank tenure-track positions. We welcome applications from all subfields in political science. Preference will be given to researchers specializing in comparative politics or international relations, as well as scholars studying the interaction between politics and technology. The term of appointment will begin on October 1, 2024.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and endorsements from referees of high standing. The successful candidate is expected to pursue an innovative research program. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates must be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, two writing samples, and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Interested individuals must submit their application materials using this link to the submission portal:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdsqhyrJ-DMjorvs1XEYKET9HMUW1Q7bJyiPm7_Je_jWKlUHg/viewform

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed) that should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il by October 10, 2023.

The committee will begin reading applications on October 10, 2023, but may consider files received after this date. The school reserves the right to make (or not make) an appointment according to its exclusive consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 10/10/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12029

Trinity College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science in International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year renewable Visiting Assistant Professor position in International Relations, starting Fall 2023. Candidates must have research expertise in the International Relations subfield and the ability to teach several undergraduate courses in this area. The teaching load is 2/3 each year.

The Department seeks applicants who share our commitment to diversity and inclusion in the broadest terms, and we especially welcome applications from women, candidates of color, and other underrepresented groups.

Evidence of scholarly promise is required. Evidence of teaching effectiveness is desired, if available. A Ph.D. in Political Science should be completed or expected by August, 2023. To ensure full consideration, please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes your approach to teaching diverse students, a scholarly writing sample, a graduate transcript, course syllabi and evaluations (if available), and at least three letters of reference to https://trincoll.peopleadmin.comhttps://trincoll.peopleadmin.com by July 20, 2023.

Candidates must be legally authorized to work in the United States. In particular, applicants who require the H-1B visa cannot be considered, and applicants who require sponsorship for visas other than the H-1B visa will be required to pay all costs associated with visa applications.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/27/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12057

Williams College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Political Science Department at Williams College is seeking an Assistant Professor of Political Science with scholarly expertise in African or South Asian politics. We seek a colleague who has a record of excellence in research and is committed to inclusive undergraduate education in the classroom. This tenure track appointment will begin in the 2024-2025 academic year. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by June 2024.

Application items should include: a cover letter detailing scholarly interests as well as teaching experience; a curriculum vitae; a writing sample of only one article or chapter; and three letters of recommendation. We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Candidates invited to the first round of (zoom) interviews will be asked at that time to provide sample syllabi and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

The deadline for the submission of applications is September 15th. All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio [http://apply.interfolio.com/127266]. Fax and email applications will not be not accepted. Inquiries may be sent to Sarah Campbell-Copp at sjc2@williams.edu. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: https://faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/

Williams College is a liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (http://www.williams.edu) to learn more about the College and in particular its professional development resources for faculty. Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12043

Williams College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Williams College is seeking an Assistant Professor of Political Science with scholarly expertise in African or South Asian politics. We seek a colleague who has a record of excellence in research and is committed to inclusive undergraduate education in the classroom. This tenure track appointment will begin in the 2024-2025 academic year. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field. Candidates should have the Ph.D. completed by June 2024.

Application items should include: a cover letter detailing scholarly interests as well as teaching experience; a curriculum vitae; a writing sample of only one article or chapter; and three letters of recommendation. We ask you to write in your cover letter about your ability to work effectively with a student population that is broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion. Candidates invited to the first round of (zoom) interviews will be asked at that time to provide sample syllabi and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

The deadline for the submission of applications is September 15th. All application materials should be submitted through Interfolio [http://apply.interfolio.com/127266]. Fax and email applications will not be not accepted. Inquiries may be sent to Sarah Campbell-Copp at sjc2@williams.edu. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: https://faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/

Williams College is a liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (http://www.williams.edu) to learn more about the College and in particular its professional development resources for faculty. Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12042

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should be broadly trained in the foundations of political thought and have teaching interests in comparative politics and institutions. An ability to teach in at least one regional area--Middle East, East Asia, Latin America, etc.--is expected. The willingness to offer courses on global or regional policymaking in a specialized area is also welcomed. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a comparable degree by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122859. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11861

Macalester College
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a full-time, tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2024. We invite applications from International Relations scholars with a primary teaching and research emphasis in the subfield of global political economy. The successful candidate will contribute to the undergraduate curriculum by teaching Foundations of International Relations, an intermediate-level course on global political economy and electives in at least one of the following additional areas: postcolonial studies; critical international theory; Indigenous international relations; the international politics of migration; race and international relations; Global IR; or non-Western European approaches to international relations.

The teaching load is five courses per year. We welcome candidates whose teaching and scholarly interests can build bridges to other disciplines or Macalester's interdisciplinary departments and concentrations, such as International Studies, Asian Studies, Middle Eastern Studies and Islamic Civilization, Community and Global Health, Environmental Studies, Urban Studies and Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies.

Applicants should submit a cover letter that includes a statement of interest in Macalester and discusses demonstrated activity and contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives in their teaching, advising, mentorship, curriculum, scholarship, service or community and professional engagement. Strong candidates will have experience and vision regarding teaching and mentorship of students of multiple and diverse backgrounds with attention to structural barriers that limit access to educational opportunities.

Applications should also include a curriculum vitae; a statement of teaching interests and philosophy, a research statement, an example of recent scholarship, evidence of effective teaching (e.g. sample syllabi, course evaluations, comments in reference letters), and three reference letters.

Teaching Statements should include:

-Teaching philosophy and statement of effective strategies for teaching and learning; -Experience teaching, advising, or mentoring undergraduate students; -Applied knowledge of supporting students of diverse backgrounds, interests, or prior experience with international relations coursework

Research Statements should include:

-Research specialization in international relations; -Commitment to and interest in maintaining an active research agenda; -Understanding of scholarly research in a liberal arts college and support of undergraduate student research;

All materials (cover letter, CV, teaching statement, research statement, research sample, evidence of effective teaching, and three reference letters) must be submitted to Academic Jobs Online. Inquiries can be directed to Professor Lesley Lavery, Chair of Political Science, llavery@macalester.edu. Applications received by October 1, 2023 will be granted full review.

Macalester is a highly selective, private liberal arts college in the vibrant Minneapolis-Saint Paul metropolitan area, with a population of approximately three million people and home to numerous colleges and universities, including the University of Minnesota. Macalester's diverse student body comprises over 2000 undergraduates from all 50 states and the District of Columbia and 99 countries. The College maintains a longstanding commitment to academic excellence with a special emphasis on internationalism, multiculturalism, and service to society. As an Equal Opportunity employer supportive of affirmative efforts to achieve diversity among its faculty, Macalester College strongly encourages applications from women and members of underrepresented minority groups. International scholars will receive H-1B visa assistance if selected for this position.

Please note that candidates who are invited for a campus interview will be required to complete faculty screening questions, and offers of employment are contingent upon a successful criminal background check at the time of offer. Additionally, finalist candidates will be asked for additional references.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12028

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Notre Dame invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor in the field of international relations, with a specialty in international political economy. Candidates should have a promising research agenda focusing on some aspect of international political economy and be capable of excellent teaching in graduate and undergraduate courses in international political economy and other aspects of international relations and political science.

The University of Notre Dame, a Catholic research university, is an equal opportunity employer with strong academic commitments to racial, cultural, and gender diversity. Women, members of racial and ethnic minority groups, individuals who identify as LGBTQ , members of other historically underrepresented groups, and those attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are particularly encouraged to apply. Information about Notre Dame, including our mission statement, is available at www.nd.edu.

The University of Notre Dame supports the needs of dual career couples and has a Dual Career Assistance Program in place to assist relocating spouses and partners with their job search.

All applicants should include a CV, letter of interest, one writing sample, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation. Please go here to apply: http://apply.interfolio.com/126966

All files should be received by September 1, 2023 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/1/2023
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12027

University of Melbourne
Rank: Professor in International Relations

The School of Social and Political Sciences at the University of Melbourne invites applications for a continuing faculty position as a Professor in International Relations. For detailed information about this position, please refer to the following link: https://jobs.unimelb.edu.au/en/job/912495/professor-in-international-relations

The Professor in International Relations will be expected to make significant contributions across all areas of research, teaching, academic leadership and professional development, and will have the opportunity to lead a dynamic group of young scholars with a lot of momentum. You will throw your energy into building the research profile of the discipline, strengthen student engagement, and enhance the quality and teaching profile in the Master of International Relations and the Undergraduate Program. A principal duty of the successful appointee will be to enhance the profile of the Political Science Discipline nationally and internationally, in research and engagement.

As a committed team player and mentor, you can demonstrate the ability to work independently, as well as collegially and collaboratively, including the mentoring of staff in the discipline and University.You will possess:
A completed PhD in International Relations, Political Science, or related discipline.
Demonstrated excellence in leadership, including the capacity for strategic planning that will advance the discipline.
An internationally recognised publication record of distinction and innovation and recognised excellence in your research field.
A demonstrated track record of success in gaining nationally and/or internationally competitive research grants.

The University of Melbourne is consistently ranked amongst the leading universities in the world. We're tightly connected with the community, both at home and abroad. We take pride in our people, who all contribute to our mission to benefit society through the transformative impact of education and research.

The appointee will join the School of Social and Political Sciences (SSPS), which is at the forefront of teaching and research in the social sciences in Australia and internationally. The School's aim is to redefine the world and change what matters, and our work is underpinned by the values of intellectual freedom, integrity, diversity, environmental sustainability and social justice. We value collegiality and active citizenship and are committed to contributing strongly to public and institutional life, and to providing an engaged and distinctive social science and arts education for our students.

SSPS is located within the Faculty of Arts, which brings together leading scholars across 40 disciplines of study in the Humanities and Social Sciences. Our academic staff are of international standing and committed to excellence in teaching and research. The Faculty is made up of a community that includes over 450 academic and professional staff, 10,000 students across undergraduate, graduate coursework and research higher degree programs, and a strong and active alumni population of over 70,000 worldwide.

As an employer, The University of Melbourne offers generous employee benefits to help maximise your work life. These include flexible and family-friendly working conditions, salary packaging, internal School and Faculty grant schemes, including a dedicated scheme for women and generous leave provisions.

Further relevant experience, responsibilities, selection criteria and information about how to apply for this position are outlined in the Position Description which can be accessed via the following link: https://jobs.unimelb.edu.au/en/job/912495/professor-in-international-relations

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 7/18/2023
Date Posted: 6/14/2023
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 12022

National University of Singapore
Rank: Post-doctoral/Research Fellow/Senior Research Fellow, International Relations of Southeast Asia (3 year-contract, renewable)

Post-doctoral/Research Fellow/Senior Research Fellow, International Relations of Southeast Asia (3 year-contract, renewable)

The Centre on Asia and Globalisation (CAG), at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, National University of Singapore, invites applications for Research Fellowships in the field of International Relations, with a focus on Southeast Asia.

The Lee Kuan Yew School is a leading school of public policy with an international faculty and student body. CAG was established in 2006 to provide accurate, independent, and high-quality analysis on issues of regional and global significance for academia, decision-makers, commentators, and the general public. Its current research agenda focuses on the prospects of regional and global order; the future of economic globalisation/de-globalisation and their impact on Asia; the alignment postures of Southeast Asia in an era of superpower competition; and the impact of technology and artificial intelligence on international politics (https://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/cag).

Job Description
The candidate will conduct independent, in-depth, and publishable research on issues in his/her expertise and contribute to the Centre's agenda on international relations of Southeast Asia.

S/he is expected to initiate and organize research projects, workshops, conferences, and other research events. S/he should be able to reach out to publishers and actively engage with academia, policy practitioners, and media and business leaders, as well as apply for external grants. In addition, s/he is expected to play a role in coordinating with other researchers and contribute to the broader intellectual life of the centre.

Job Requirements
• A Ph.D. degree in the social sciences with preference for Political Science/International Relations
• Expertise in the International Relations of Southeast Asia. We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in the interface between domestic politics and foreign/security/military policy
• An ability to engage with policy and research communities in Singapore, Asia, and around the world
• A strong and demonstrated sense of academic independence and collegiality
• A willingness to engage in interdisciplinary interactions at the School

Benefits Include
• Internationally competitive salary, 3-year renewable contract
• Housing benefit, travel assistance, and transit accommodation, subject to NUS eligibility criteria
• Highly collegial working environment with an internationally diverse group of scholars
• Excellent research support provided by CAG, the LKY School, and the University

Application Procedure
Applicants should submit the following in electronic form (MS Word or PDF file):
• Cover letter, with a brief statement of research expertise and its relevance to CAG's existing research interests
• Detailed curriculum vitae

• Copies of academic certificates and transcripts
• Two samples of academic publications
• Three letters of reference (mail to cag@nus.edu.sg)
• Joining date: 1 December 2023 (preferred, but negotiable)
• Application deadline: Open until filled

Please send electronic submissions to Ms. Serene Teang (cag@nus.edu.sg)

Start Date: Winter 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12016

University of Zurich
Rank: Head of Research Area "Governance of Global Inequalities"
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, International Political Economy, Trade

The successful candidate will be responsible for research and teaching in the area of the political governance of global inequalities. Applicants can have a background in international/comparative political economy, international relations, or in political philosophy, and their research and/or teaching should relate to PPE ('Politics, Philosophy and Economics'). Within the broader substantive area, specialized attention might be given to issues such as the governance of global climate change agreements and policies, the regulation of migration flows, trade imbalances, developing economies and emerging markets, or changing geopolitical hierarchies. Irrespective of the substantive orientation, the successful candidate's research should have a focus on the political governance of transnational economic, political, or social inequalities, and show an interest in empirical and normative questions and implications.

The University of Zurich offers a dynamic and collaborative work environment with an international orientation, as well as generous support for research and teaching activities. The position is permanent. It comes with a research budget of 3000 CHF/year. In addition, the holder of the position is eligible to apply for Swiss National Science Foundation funding, as well as many other grant programs in Switzerland and abroad. The teaching load is 5 hours per semester plus advising (at 100% employment). A substantial part of the teaching will be in the MA-level program "PPE Politics, Philosophy and Economics". The salary is approximately 110.000CHF/year at 100% employment (80-100% are negotiable). The start date of the position is 1st of February 2024 or upon agreement.

Applicants should hold a PhD degree in political science, international relations, political philosophy, political economy or in a related field at the time of application and have a strong record of academic achievements in the relevant areas. Teaching may be carried out in English, but knowledge of German is an asset. The University of Zurich is an equal opportunities employer and strives to increase the percentage of women in leading positions. Therefore, qualified female researchers are encouraged to apply.

Please send your application electronically as one pdf-file comprising your motivation letter, CV, publication list, transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), a 1-page statement on the research agenda for the coming 3 years and its link to PPE, as well as the names of at least two references to the personnel office of the Department of Political Science (personal@ipz.uzh.ch) by July 31st. Interviews will be held in fall 2023.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr. Silja Häusermann (silja.haeusermann@ipz.uzh.ch).

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: 7/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/8/2023
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 12010

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Sceince
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Michigan is conducting an Assistant Professor search.
The full job posting can be found below and at: https://careers.umich.edu/job_detail/235272/asst-professor

How to Apply
All applications must be submitted electronically to https://apply.interfolio.com/126053

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation.

Summary

The University of Michigan's Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure track position for a scholar who combines advanced skills in Methods of Causal Inference, Big Data, Computational Social Science, Data Science, and/or Field Experiments, open with respect to substantive interest; the department has specific interests in international political economy, comparative developing countries, and political behavior in race and ethnic politics.

This position is at the assistant professor rank and is a university year appointment. It is anticipated to begin August 26, 2024. Promise of excellence in research and teaching is required.

Application Instructions

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation. Information on our research initiatives and scholarly interests of current faculty can be found on the Department's website: https://lsa.umich.edu/polisci.

For full consideration, complete applications should be submitted by August 31, 2023.

The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates and may use a third-party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act and offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening.

The University of Michigan is committed to fostering and maintaining a diverse work culture that respects the rights of each individual, without regard to race, color, national original, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, gender expression, height, weight, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, or veteran status. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12007

New York University Abu Dhabi
Rank: Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Theory, Political Development

Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank
New York University Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University (NYU) Abu Dhabi is looking to hire an instructor in the field of political science to provide support to faculty with grading and administrative duties for undergraduate courses in political science, and elsewhere in the division of social sciences. The instructor may also be asked to lead small-group discussions with undergraduate students.

About NYU Abu Dhabi
Established in partnership between New York University (NYU) and the emirate of Abu Dhabi, over the last decade, NYUAD has assembled a remarkable community of scholars, students, researchers, artists, inventors, and others who have contributed to the growth of the UAE's capital as a global hub of knowledge and culture while establishing a new model of higher education for today's complex world.

NYUAD is animated by inspiring and diverse faculty, students, and staff working together in an exciting and dynamic city. As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students and provide an intellectually rich environment.

NYUAD students come from more than 126 countries, with no single nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our over 320 faculty members represent more than 45 nationalities and bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. NYUAD is committed to building and strengthening a university-wide culture of inclusion, diversity, belonging and equity (IDBE), which is fundamental to the University's commitment to excellence. Visit our website for more information on NYUAD's commitment to IDBE and how these values are fundamental to our mission.

Students are drawn from among the world's best. They are bright, intellectually passionate, and committed to building a campus environment anchored in mutual respect, understanding, and care. The NYUAD undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school admissions, and other global honors. Graduate education is an area of growth for the University; the current graduate student population of over 100 students is expected to expand in the next decade as we develop new graduate programs.

Working for NYUAD
To help Academic Staff thrive, we offer a comprehensive benefits package. This starts with a relocation allowance to ensure a smooth transition to Abu Dhabi. It includes a competitive salary; furnished accommodation provided; educational assistance for your dependents attending school in the UAE; and access to health and wellness services. Click here for more information on benefits for you and your family.

Qualifications
The candidate will have broad familiarity with several subfields in political science, including international relations, quantitative methodology/data analysis, and comparative politics. They will have a proven track-record of English-language academic writing for their coursework and at least some experience leading small-group discussions. Candidates must have at least a master's degree in political science or a related discipline and, ideally, some experience providing teaching support. Fluency in spoken and written English is essential, and familiarity with the US or British higher educational systems is preferable.

Application Instructions
To apply for this position, please submit the following items to:

https://apply.interfolio.com/126011

.Curriculum Vitae (CV)
.Cover Letter
.List of three references that may be contacted at a later date.

We will begin reviewing applications immediately and will continue on a rolling basis until the position is filled. We anticipate that successful candidates can start the appointment and relocate to Abu Dhabi before the start of the 2023 fall semester.

NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We encourage applications from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University, including women, underrepresented minorities, and UAE nationals.

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply. #nyuadinstructorcareers

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/5/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12005

Purdue University

Rank: Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy

Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Job Summary

Purdue Political Science Department seeks applicants for a Lecturer position, field open, who can teach courses in environmental politics and policy. Applicants should be prepared to teach the following core courses on campus in West Lafayette: POL 223 Introduction to Environmental Politics and Policy and POL 327 Global Green Politics. In addition, candidates may also teach Comparative or International Environmental Policy, or other introductory or upper-level courses in their area of specialty.

This position is a renewable academic year appointment starting in August 2023, with a teaching load of four courses a semester. A typical semester includes 2 sections of either POL 223 or 327 and two additional courses. There is a possibility for a 3-4 load in conjunction with taking on administrative responsibilities such as managing the Model UN program or other significant student engagement or experiential learning initiatives. Lecturers are reviewed for merit annually and reviewed comprehensively for promotion to Senior Lecturer at least every five years of employment.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or a closely related field is preferred. ABDs with a master's degree will be considered. All requirements for the master's degree must be completed prior to the start date of the appointment. Candidates should have a record of quality independent instruction at the postsecondary level and evidence of efforts to develop skills associated with excellence in teaching and learning outcomes.

The Department, College, and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive public land-grant university and member of the AAU. Purdue has a strong commitment to creating an innovative and high-quality learning experience for students. Political Science faculty members are actively involved with interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, Purdue Policy Research Institute, and the Institute for Sustainable Futures. The Department offers certificates in environmental policy at the graduate and undergraduate level, as well as a concentration in the major in environmental politics and policy, and a minor in environmental policy.

Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are committed to advancing diversity including in discovery, instruction, and engagement. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values diversity and inclusion. Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are also committed to free and open inquiry in all matters. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values free inquiry and academic freedom.

Applications

We will begin reviewing applications immediately. Candidates should submit, electronically, the following: 1) a cover letter the explains the interest in the position, qualifications, and a summary of the areas of teaching interest, 2) a CV that includes the names of at least 3 references, and 3) a teaching portfolio. Applicants who advance in the process may be asked to provide additional information such as transcripts and letters of recommendation. Application materials must be submitted electronically via https://careers.purdue.edu/.

Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to Department Head Cherie Maestas cmaestas@purdue.edu.

A background check is required for employment in this position.

Must have the ability to work in the US without immigration sponsorship from Purdue University.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/1/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11997

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor/International Law & IR
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Normative Political Theory

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the history and development of international law, theories of international relations, and the role of the U.S. Constitution in foreign affairs. The ability to teach courses in regional or global policymaking is also welcome. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or comparable degree by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11994

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/International Organization & European Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Western Europe, Post Communist Europe

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the development of international organization as well as research and teaching interests in European politics. The ability to offer courses on global and regional policymaking is a plus. The successful applicant will participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11995

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Public Policy

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The search is open with respect to the substantive subfields of International Political Economy. A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Experience in policy-relevant research and publication is not necessary but would be useful. Candidates are expected to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda and strong promise for teaching in graduate programs.

The successful candidate will join the school's Centre for Multilateralism Studies and International Political Economy Programme. He/she is expected to contribute to and play an active role in teaching, research, and think-tank workstream. The teaching load is up to three courses per academic year.

The initial appointment will be for four (4) years, with further contracts to be considered by the relevant School Reappointment Committee. RSIS offers a competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience. Funding support for research and conference travels is also available.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online career portal:https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-International-Political-Economy--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS-_R00013667

All applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798

Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will be accepted until 31 August 2023

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 5/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11980

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, Latin American, International Security

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College is seeking applicants for a Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor position beginning August 2023. This full-time contract position is for Fall 2023 and Spring 2024 semesters. Successful applicants will teach a total of seven undergraduate courses over two semesters including Introduction to World Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and Politics of Latin America.

Applicants should have demonstrated effectiveness as classroom instructors and an active research agenda in their field of study. Ph.D. candidates are preferred; ABD candidates will also be considered. Rank will be determined based on education and experience.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122858. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, Hampden-Sydney is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment. Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/5/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11860

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: Director of Research and Principal Research Scientist

DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH / PRINCIPAL RESEARCH SCIENTIST, MIT Center for International Studies, will be responsible for overseeing research activities, data administration, visiting scholar engagement and fellowships. Research activities will include grant- and visitor-related research activities and engagements hosted by the Center, including the review and oversight of various awards. The individual will also maintain an active research agenda related to the mission of the Center. The Director of Research will report directly to the Center Director to develop a strategic approach to research initiatives and in consultation with other Center leadership to disseminate key findings to the MIT and broader communities.

Minimum Required Education And Experience:
Ph.D. in a social science field related to international affairs and a strong record of scholarly publication appropriate for number of years since receipt of the degree. At least two years of experience studying, working, and/or conducting research overseas. Minimum of 2 years of experience as a researcher at research universities or other research organizations (external to the candidate's PhD-granting institution).

The individual may need to travel up to 6 weeks / year for research, conferences, and exchanges. The individual may need to work up to 15 additional days and/ or nights/year for special events, workshops, etc.

Deals with confidential information and/or issues using discretion and judgment.

Preferred Education And Experience:
Fluency in at least one foreign language. Advanced quantitative analysis and/or GIS analysis skills. Experience developing databases.

To be considered for this position, application material must be submitted by September 30, 2023

Please apply here: https://bit.ly/22478-DoR-PRShttps://bit.ly/22478-DoR-PRS;

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/30/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11839

University of Kentucky
Rank: Teaching Post-Doctoral Scholar

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY, invites applications for a teaching post-doc position in International Relations or Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and inclusion mission of the department. The position will begin August 1, 2023. Applicants are expected to teach a 3/3 load. Applicants should show strong potential to provide effective undergraduate teaching and have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 2023.

Interested applicants should apply online at: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/457530. Applicants should submit the following: 1) curriculum vitae, 2) letter stating the candidate's research and teaching interests (uploaded as Cover Letter), 3) copy of transcript for highest degree earned, and 4) evidence of teaching experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (uploaded as specific request 1). Provide the names and contact information for three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information may be used to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Questions about this position should be addressed to Dr. Emily Bacchus, Associate Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (emily.beaulieu@uky.edu).

The University of Kentucky is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from veterans, individuals with disabilities, women, African Americans, and all minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/27/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11837

Yale University
Rank: International Relations Lecturer

Position Description
The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a 1-year visiting lecturer in the area of international relations. Responsibilities will be to teach 3 or 4 courses in AY 23-24, of which at least one course is an entry- or mid-level lecture. One course may be a graduate course depending on departmental need.

Evidence of teaching effectiveness is appreciated, including, for example, course evaluations, syllabi, and as communicated in the requested letters of recommendation.

Qualifications
Candidates must have PhD degree in hand or evidence that they have completed all requirements to be awarded the degree by September 1, 2023.

Application Instructions
Applications will be considered beginning March 22, 2023. Complete applications should include a cover letter, teaching statement, CV, graduate transcript, 2 letters of recommendation, and one piece of scholarly writing related to the general area in which you will teach.

Application may be submitted via: apply.interfolio.com/121544

Questions may be directed to xaria.callender@yale.edu, Chair's Assistant.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 2/22/2024
Date Posted: 2/22/2023

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11745

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Intelligence Analysis
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Intelligence, Defense, International Security

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Location:
Washington, DC or Online (Remote)

Open Date:
Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:
Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence
This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis
Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis

Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics

This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence

This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar

This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence

In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:
- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.

- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions"
The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:
- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses
- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

APPLY HERE: https://apply.interfolio.com/120762

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 2/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11649

University of Florida
Rank: Lecturer

The International Studies Program at the University of Florida (UF), College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track appointment at the rank of Lecturer. Applicants should focus regionally on the Middle East and/or North Africa, and topically in the areas of global health, governance, civil society, data and public policy, sustainable development, or related subjects.

The International Studies program is a dynamic interdisciplinary major at UF that prepares students for careers in global affairs, international business, research organizations, and other careers by providing foreign language skills, regional cultural awareness, and informed knowledge of critical international issues in global and local context. The International Studies Program is housed in UF's Bob Graham Center for Public Service. The Graham Center prepares students to engage in their communities, to influence policy, and to interact with lawmakers through the Center's public programs, special projects, academic coursework, and research initiatives. The successful candidate will join a collaborative and inclusive team dedicated to promoting the ideals of civic engagement, public leadership, and public service at the local, national, and global levels.

The Lecturer will teach two courses per semester and provide substantial service. Of those courses, it is expected that two will be regularly offered core courses for the International Studies Program: 1) an introductory course in International Studies (INS3004: International Studies Perspectives); and 2) a senior capstone course for majors (INS4930: Senior Research Seminar in International Studies). The remainder of courses taught will correspond to the Lecturer's specialization. Outside of teaching, the Lecturer will serve as the Experiential Learning Coordinator for the International Studies Program, partnering with other programs at UF to identify and develop opportunities for internships, study abroad experiences, and student research. The exact balance between service and teaching duties will depend on the needs of the program and will be determined on an annual basis.

Lecturers are highly valued by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and by the University of Florida. To encourage and facilitate the professional development of lecturers, the university provides opportunities for promotion from the ranks of Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Master Lecturer. Lecturer appointments are typically for nine months per year and are annually renewable.

The International Studies Program and the Bob Graham Center are committed to fostering an environment that affirms diversity across a variety of dimensions including ethnicity/race, gender identity and expression. We particularly welcome applicants who can contribute to developing such an environment through their scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and professional service.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/3/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11562

Lehigh University
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Lehigh University
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor International Relations

The International Relations Department at Lehigh University invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor position to teach two courses in International Relations (including IR 236 – Causes of War) and for the Spring 2023 semester (from late-January through mid-May). The position carries a competitive salary and medical benefits. A Ph.D. is preferred, although current Ph.D. students (ABD) will also be considered. College/university teaching experience is strongly preferred. The department is committed to intellectual excellence and diversity. To apply, please submit a dossier including curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a cover letter explaining teaching interests and experience. Application materials should be submitted to the department coordinator, Edann Brady, at ininr@lehigh.edu. The search committee will begin screening applications immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Salary range: Competitive
Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

APPLY ONLINE HERE: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/23948

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/7/2022

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11472

University of Kansas
Rank: Assistant Professor Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations
Specializations: Russia, Foreign Policy, Political Economy

Assistant Professor Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations

Department of Political Science, University of Kansas

The University of Kansas (KU) Department of Political Science of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in collaboration with the university's Center for Russian, East European & Eurasian Studies (CREES) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professorship in Russian and/or Eurasian International Relations beginning August 18, 2023. Successful candidates will be able to demonstrate methodological training that is appropriate with their theoretical approaches as well as provide evidence of the capacity to publish in major journals or presses in political science. Preference will be given to applicants with research and/or teaching specialty in Russian and Eurasian international relations including foreign policy, security, political economy, and the opportunity to develop courses in the candidate's own areas of expertise.

Candidates are expected to contribute to the political science department as well as CREES' interdisciplinary intellectual community and mentor undergraduate and graduate students in Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies. The Political Science Department and CREES are committed to fostering an inclusive and supportive educational environment for students, faculty and staff. The successful candidates will have experience with diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education.

Required Qualifications: 1) A doctorate in Political Science. If ABD, the dissertation must be successfully defended by the position start date; 2) Demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate level; 3) Demonstrated ability or plans to develop an innovative body of research and scholarship as evidenced by scholarly publications, presentations, and/or other scholarly activities; 4) Expertise on Russia and/or Eurasia, demonstrated by dissertation chapters, working papers, or publications of relevance to the region

At the University of Kansas, diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging are an important part of our culture and university strategic plan. Applications from members of underrepresented groups are encouraged, noting the value that differences bring to our organization, students, staff, faculty, and community. The successful candidate must be eligible to work in the U.S. by the effective date of the appointment.

For further details and a full position description, go to: https://employment.ku.edu/academic/23401BR. A complete application package includes: (1) a cover letter summarizing research goals and teaching experiences and interests; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) teaching statement showing evidence of teaching ability; (4) a research statement with goals and research potential (samples of published work or conference papers); and (5) the names, email addresses, and contact information for 3 professional references. ABD candidates need to include advisor contact information

In addition to the materials above, learning about each applicant's contribution and engagement in areas of diversity is an important part of KU's mission. As a result, applicants will be presented the following question at the time of application. The response must be within 4,000 characters or less: Describe your experiences working with people from diverse backgrounds and explain how those experiences reflect your commitments to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Application review will begin October 15, 2022, and will remain open until the position is filled. For more information, please contact Clayton Webb, Search Committee Chair at webb767@ku.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 10/15/2022
Date Posted: 9/12/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 10917

Lehigh University
Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of International Relations: International Organization Department of International Relations
https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/22687

The Department of International Relations at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure track faculty position at the assistant professor rank in International Organization (IO) starting in August 2023. We are open to IO scholars with broadly defined regional foci, methodological orientations, and specializations including but not limited to international law, sustainable human development, non-government organizations, environment, human rights, and global governance. The successful candidate should have an earned Ph.D. in political science by the date of employment. Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, CV, writing samples/publications, statement of teaching philosophy, and, if available, evidence of teaching effectiveness to the IR search committee. Please also arrange to have three letters of recommendation sent to Academic Jobs Online. Only submissions via Academic Jobs Online will be considered. Applications received by October 1, 2022 will be given fullest consideration, and will continue to be reviewed until the post is filled.

Lehigh is among the few higher educational institutions in the US that has long had a separate department of IR. This means that students with a particular interest in international affairs will benefit from a concentrated program of study that few other schools offer. The standard teaching load is 2-2, and the successful candidate will have a strong commitment to excellence in both research and undergraduate teaching.

Founded in 1865, Lehigh University has combined outstanding academic and learning opportunities with leadership in fostering innovative research. Recognized among the nation's highly ranked research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University has some 5,000 undergraduates, 2,000 graduate students, and about 550 full-time faculty members. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia.

Lehigh University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, marital or familial status, national or ethnic origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. We are committed to increasing the diversity of the campus community. Lehigh University is committed to a culturally and intellectually diverse academic community and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and/or service, to this mission. Lehigh University is the recipient of an NSF ADVANCE Institutional Transformation award for promoting the careers of women in academic sciences and engineering (http://www.lehigh.edu/luadvance/) and is among institutions of higher education recognized for excellence in diversity with the INSIGHT into Diversity HEED Award. Additional information about Lehigh's commitment to diversity and inclusion is available at https://diversityandinclusion.lehigh.edu/. Lehigh University provides competitive salaries and comprehensive benefits, including domestic partner benefits. More information about Work/Life Balance for Faculty can be found at https://provost.lehigh.edu/work-life-balance. Lehigh University supports dual career efforts for following spouses/partners of newly hired faculty https://dualcareer.lehigh.edu/dual-career

All inquiries regarding the search should be directed to Ms. Edann Brady at emb703@lehigh.edu or 610-758-3390.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 10873

Yale University
Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire several faculty at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with an appointment in the fields of American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, and/or International Relations, beginning July 1, 2023. We are interested in candidates who study all areas of the world, but we particularly encourage those with strong subject matter expertise in Japanese Politics or the politics of the Middle East to apply. Suitable candidates may also be hired jointly with the Statistics and Data Sciences Department, in which case faculty will be expected to share their teaching and service obligations between the departments. If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the program(s).

http://apply.interfolio.com/110488

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023
Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10595

Yale University
Rank: Associate/Full Professor, International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science and the Jackson School of Global Affairs at Yale University are looking to hire several faculty at the rank of Associate or Full Professor with tenure, with an appointment in International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, and Comparative Politics, beginning July 1, 2023. Faculty are expected to share their teaching and service obligations between both the Political Science Department and the Jackson School of Global Affairs. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the programs.

http://apply.interfolio.com/110491

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023
Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10594

METHODOLOGY

Department of Defense
Rank: Operations Research Analyst
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Non-Academic
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Conflict Processes

Are you interested in international relations, comparative politics, political economy or foreign policy? Do you want to use cutting-edge quantitative methods to apply research to real world problems? The Joint Warfare Analysis Center is the place for you!
Join a team of smart, motivated individuals with access to cutting-edge technology while enjoying work-life balance and generous benefits. Join us in doing research that makes a difference.
The Joint Warfare Analysis Center (JWAC) is currently recruiting motivated individuals who are excited about the opportunity to research projects and develop advanced methods for defense analysis.

JWAC's mission is to provide the U.S. military with effects-based analysis to support U.S. national security and military strategies during peace, crisis, and war. Learn more about JWAC and its mission at https://www.jwac.mil/ .

Ideal candidates will have both a strong quantitative methods background, including the ability to use R or Python, and either professional experience or substantive research in the areas of military affairs, foreign policy, international relations, comparative politics, or political economy.

We offer a range of benefits, including: medical, dental and life insurance, paid time to exercise, generous time off, and competitive pay with contribution-based bonuses. U.S. citizenship and the ability to obtain and maintain a security clearance are required for all positions.

If you are interested in more information please email: stratcom.south-potomac.jwac.list.recruiting-sociopoli@mail.mil

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12012

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge MA, together with the MIT Schwarzman College of Computing (SCC), seeks applicants for a position in the area of "Computation and Political Science" at the level of tenure-track Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2024 (for the 2024–25 academic year), or as soon thereafter as possible. A PhD degree in political science, computer science, statistics, or another relevant field is required by the start of employment. We seek candidates whose research involves development and/or intensive use of computational and/or statistical methodologies, aimed at addressing substantive questions in political science. Areas of interest include methods for causal inference; AI/machine learning as applied to political questions; analysis and political implications of AI, big data, and computation; and other topics at the intersection of politics and computing. The successful candidate will have a shared appointment in both the Department of Political Science and SCC in either the Institute for Data, Systems, and Society or the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, depending on best fit. Faculty duties include conducting original research, and teaching and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students. The normal teaching load is three subjects per year (2+1 or 1+2). Candidates are expected to teach in both the Department of Political Science and educational programs of SCC.

MIT is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, ancestry, or national or ethnic origin. Applications should include a cover letter which addresses your research agenda and teaching interests, and how your past efforts and future plans will advance diversity, equity, and inclusion in your scholarship, teaching, and service. Also include a CV, writing sample(s), and three recommendations. Please submit online applications to https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/25219. Completed applications must be submitted by September 15, 2023. Employment is contingent upon the completion of a satisfactory background check, including verifying any finding of misconduct (or pending investigation) from prior employers.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12163

University of Mississippi
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi invites applications for a tenure track assistant professorship to begin in August 2024. The position has a 3/2 teaching load, and the successful candidate will advance an active research agenda. Teaching responsibilities include the department's required courses in Public Policy Research Methods (PPL 210) and Policy Design and Analysis (PPL 310), Advanced Quantitative Methods (PPL 399), and courses in the candidate's area of specialization. A Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration, Political Science or a closely related field is required at the time of employment, as is a record of excellence in teaching and research. A strong background in quantitative methods and policy analysis is required.
The Department provides a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The interdisciplinary curriculum for the major incorporates economics, geography, philosophy, political science, public administration, and public policy. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making; the ethical imperatives of leadership; critical thinking and communication skills; and the conceptual and methodological skills necessary for careful policy analysis. Visit our website at http://leadership.olemiss.edu. Apply online: https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a teaching portfolio (including syllabi and evaluations, if available). The review of applications will begin on September 25, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The University of Mississippi is classified by Carnegie Foundation as a R1 research university and has been rated a "best college to work for" by the Chronicle of Higher Education. It is an EEO/AA/TitleIX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12164

University of Mississippi
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi invites applications for a tenure track assistant professorship to begin in August 2024. The position has a 3/2 teaching load, and the successful candidate will advance an active research agenda. Teaching responsibilities include the department's required courses in Public Policy Research Methods (PPL 210) and Policy Design and Analysis (PPL 310), Advanced Quantitative Methods (PPL 399), and courses in the candidate's area of specialization. A Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration, Political Science or a closely related field is required at the time of employment, as is a record of excellence in teaching and research. A strong background in quantitative methods and policy analysis is required.

The Department provides a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The interdisciplinary curriculum for the major incorporates economics, geography, philosophy, political science, public administration, and public policy. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making; the ethical imperatives of leadership; critical thinking and communication skills; and the conceptual and methodological skills necessary for careful policy analysis. Visit our website at http://leadership.olemiss.edu. Apply online: https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a teaching portfolio (including syllabi and evaluations, if available). The review of applications will begin on September 25, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The University of Mississippi is classified by Carnegie Foundation as a R1 research university and has been rated a "best college to work for" by the Chronicle of Higher Education. It is an EEO/AA/TitleIX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12165

University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a multi-year project on "Collective Shocks and Social Preferences" led by Professors James Walsh and Alexander Kustov at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

The project examines how people's social preferences, such as altruism and trust, are affected by negative collective shocks such as wars, natural disasters, or economic disruptions. Some studies find that these shocks make people more prosocial, but others find that they reduce cooperation. Since most of this research focuses on just one region or outcome, it is hard to know whether the results are generalizable. To address this question, the project aims to create a comprehensive cross-national time-series dataset on various shocks and preferences at the subnational level.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of the dataset for the project. The role includes:
* Leading the data collection and management efforts needed to construct the original dataset, including cross-national surveys on social preferences and administrative data on collective shocks.
* Conducting and publishing high-quality research in close collaboration and under the guidance of project leaders.
* Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position (approximately 40%).
* Participating in the broader intellectual life of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration, and the interdisciplinary Public Policy and Data Science programs.

The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate. Strong training and skills in quantitative data analysis in R is required. Preference will be given to applicants with demonstrated skills in one or more of the following areas: data management, survey methodology, multilevel regression, causal inference, machine learning, cross-national research. Preference is also given to applicants with research interests in one or more of the following areas related to the project: conflict and cooperation, political economy, political psychology, state capacity, social preferences, migration.

Postdoc appointments are characterized by all of the following conditions:
* the appointee was recently (within the last eight years) awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.);
* the appointment is temporary;
* the appointment involves substantially full-time research or scholarship;
* the appointment is viewed as preparatory for a full-time academic and/or research career;
* the appointee works under the supervision of a faculty member; and
* the appointee has the freedom and is expected to publish the results of his or her research or scholarship during the period of appointment.

Screening of applicants will begin on August 15, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The position is renewable based on performance. For further information, please contact James Walsh (jwalsh@charlotte.edu) and Alexander Kustov (akustov@charlotte.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12171

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of International Relations. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science, International Relations, or a related area by the time of the appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. The area of specialization within International Relations is open; theoretical and methodological approaches are also open.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and strengthen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University of Toronto's downtown (St. George) campus. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science https://politics.utoronto.ca) to learn more about us.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by the submitted research statement, a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample of no more than 30 pages; and a teaching dossier to include a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations. Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by October 11, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/11/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12123

University College Dublin
Rank: Lecturer/Assistant Professor, UCD School of Politics and International Relations, Temporary 3-years fixed term

Applications are invited for a fixed term appointment as Assistant Professor / Lecturer in the School of Politics and International Relations. The person appointed will be expected to contribute to teaching and research in any of the subject areas of the school. Additional ability to be able to teach modules in research design and qualitative research methodology will be a requirement.

School of Politics and International Relations
UCD is a dynamic research-intensive university that is at the forefront of research and teaching activities across a wide range of disciplines. The School of Politics and International Relations is a globally top-ranked, research-active school with teaching and research interests across the fields of politics, international relations, political theory, international political economy, international development, computational social science and other. It is committed to the highest standards in undergraduate and graduate teaching and research supervision.
As part of its graduate taught programme offering, all students take a research design course to prepare them for their final thesis. PhD students take a seminar-based module providing an overview of qualitative research methods. The successful candidate will be expected to teach these modules in addition to modules of choice in the area of specialisation.

Application Procedure
Applications will consist of a cover letter, in which the applicant will describe how their academic and research profile strategically complements or strengthens the profile of the school, a complete CV listing all research publications and research grants to date together with any publications submitted for publication but not yet published, and the names and the contact details of three potential referees.

95 Lecturer/Asst Professor Above The Bar (7943) Salary Scale: €59,370 - €94,015 Per Annum
Appointment will be made on scale and in accordance with the Department of Finance guidelines.

Principal Duties and Responsibilities:
The duties of the successful candidate will include but not necessarily be limited to the following:
o Engage actively in research and scholarly activity and disseminate the results of research through publication in international peer-reviewed academic journals and by other appropriate means
o Contributing actively to the graduate and undergraduate teaching programmes as directed by the Head of School. This will involve module design and delivery, examination and assessment, quality assurance and enhancement, and associated administration.
o Design and implement a range of appropriate methods of teaching and assessment.
o Contributing to thesis supervision at undergraduate, graduate taught and graduate research levels.
o Actively seeking external research funding.
o Contribute to the life of the school, including undertaking administrative and other duties as required.
o Provide academic counselling and advice to students.

Selection Criteria:
Selection criteria outline the qualifications, skills, knowledge and/or experience that the successful candidate would need to demonstrate for successful discharge of the responsibilities of the post. Applications will be assessed on the basis of how well candidates satisfy these criteria.

Mandatory:
• A PhD in political science, development studies, or related discipline – either awarded, or due to be completed prior to 1 Sept. 2023.
• A strong, demonstrable commitment to research, with a record of publication in high quality peer-reviewed journals and/or with high quality scholarly book publishers.
• A proven record of high-quality university-level teaching.
• Strong interpersonal and communication skills and demonstrated enthusiasm to contribute to the social environment of the school and its students.
• Research in an area that strengthens or strategically complements the existing research profile of the School.
• Demonstrated expertise in research design and qualitative research methodology
• Candidates must demonstrate how they can positively contribute to fostering an inclusive environment and a level of awareness of equality, diversity and inclusion.

Desirable:
• Evidence of a commitment to developing innovative approaches to teaching and learning.
• Good international research network and international academic experience.
• Evidence of potential to generate external research funding.
• A profile in, or commitment to, engagement with the wider policy community and media.
• Evidence of administrative and/or management experience relevant to the academic environment.

For a full job description and details on how to apply, please go to the following link: https://my.corehr.com/pls/coreportal_ucdp/apply?id=016179

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 8/11/2023
Date Posted: 7/19/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12114

University of Iowa
Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor in American Politics and Computational Social Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Iowa invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with a focus in American Politics and Computational Social Science (e.g. Machine learning, text/audio/video as data, networks, big data). The Department welcomes applications from candidates in any subfield in American politics who are doing research using computational social science approaches. Candidates must be able to teach courses in American politics as well as introductory and advanced graduate quantitative methods courses, including computational social science courses. Candidates should clearly describe their research and teaching interests in their letter of application and include a CV, research statement, teaching statement, writing sample, teaching evaluations, and letters of recommendation.

The position will begin on August 21, 2024, and the appointment requires a Ph.D. in Political Science or Government by start date.

The review of applicants will begin September 12, 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

For information on how to apply, please visit http://jobs.uiowa.edu/ and reference Requisition #74875. Electronic attachments to the online application include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, writing sample, teaching evaluations and information for 3 letters of reference. Question can be directed to polisci@uiowa.edu.

The University of Iowa is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment free from discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, pregnancy (including childbirth and related conditions), disability, genetic information, status as a U.S. veteran, service in the U.S. military, sexual orientation, gender identity, or associational preferences.

Required Qualifications
• PhD in Political Science, Government, or related field by start date.
• Has a primary research and teaching specialty in American Politics
• Has conducted research using Computational Social Science methods
• Ability to teach American Politics and Computational Social Science classes at the graduate level.

Desirable Qualifications
• Ability to publish in general field refereed journals or books
• Demonstrated strong computational social science data modeling skills
• Ability to be an effective instructor

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12109

Public Agenda
Rank: Senior Research Associate
Specializations: Public Opinion, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

Job Title: Senior Research Associate

Date Posted: June 30, 2023

Send Cover Letter and Resume to: careers@publicagenda.org

About Public Agenda

Public Agenda is a mission-focused research and public engagement organization. We seek to strengthen democracy by expanding voice and participation opportunities for all Americans. We focus on improving democracy itself and the systems and institutions that determine whether the promise of American democracy will be realized in the lives of everyday people—systems such as health care and education. We discover pathways and tools for change, and we connect what we are learning to individuals and organizations who can put it to use.

About the Position

The Senior Research Associate (SRA) will contribute to Public Agenda's efforts through work on research projects that use qualitative and quantitative methodologies—surveys, focus groups, in-depth interviews, diary studies—to develop deeper understandings of the views of Americans on key issues, their experiences with important institutions, their values, and their aspirations. The SRA may also participate in research that analyzes media coverage and other forms of public discourse. We are particularly interested in (1) candidates whose skills enable them to identify causal relationships in analyses of attitudes and opinions, as well as the impact of policies and practices, and (2) candidates who are well prepared to conduct research on policies and practices aimed at strengthening democracy in the United States.

Based on the successful candidate's skills and research interests, the SRA will participate in developing ideas for new research projects consistent with Public Agenda's mission. In keeping with Public Agenda's commitment to connecting research to action, the SRA will also contribute to projects that link our research and public engagement capacities and that bring knowledge and knowhow to people who can use it.

The successful candidate will also contribute to the Democracy Renewal Project, a new Public Agenda initiative that will involve translating and synthesizing academic research on policies and practices intended to strengthen democracy—and bringing what we learn to people who can use the information to take action.

Because we are a small team engaged in a broad range of research and engagement activities, we seek a candidate with varied interests and a strong desire to learn about new policy areas and develop new research skills. We are particularly interested in a candidate who can complement our existing strengths by (1) adding to our capacity to conduct research on strengthening our nation's democracy and (2) adding to our methodological toolkit.

The SRA's most frequent tasks will include:

Participating in the development of research instruments, including survey questions, focus group guides, and interview questions
Analyzing quantitative and qualitative data
Writing formal public-facing research reports and more accessible pieces such as blog posts on research findings
Presenting findings in settings such as conferences and meetings with funders and partners
Translating research findings into accessible language and formats for use by non-researchers
Facilitating discussions about research findings with interested constituencies, including advocates, journalists, policymakers, and members of the philanthropic community
Collaborating with colleagues on logistics to ensure smooth completion of projects
Collaborating with Public Agenda's communications team on the production and dissemination of reports and presentations
Collaborating with colleagues across the organization to identify and find support for new projects
Desired qualifications, skills, and abilities:

Advanced skills in statistical analysis, including experience with descriptive and inferential statistics, correlational analyses, regressions, and statistical tests
Experience with survey research
Knowledge of and research experience with key questions in United States politics

Excellent written and oral communication skills and an ability to communicate research findings to non-researchers

Experience making progress on several projects at once

Experience with or willingness and aptitude to learn focus group facilitation

Experience working with large volumes of unstructured data to create datasets is a plus

Experience pulling and cleaning large quantities of data from public databases is a plus

Collaborative spirit

Commitment to Public Agenda's mission

Comfort working in a non-partisan environment committed to ideological diversity

Commitment to a respectful and equitable workplace

Public Agenda's staff is geographically distributed, and this is a work-from-anywhere position within the United States. Staff members must be available to work during standard Eastern Time business hours.

The SRA must be available to travel for quarterly organization-wide meetings and occasional additional conferences and meetings.

The annual salary range for this position is $70,000-$80,000.

Interested candidates should submit (1) a resume or CV, (2) a cover letter describing your interest in and qualifications for the position, and (3) a research-related writing sample (of any length) to careers@publicagenda.org.

*Public Agenda is a qualifying employer under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program (PSLF).

The above statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work being performed by the individual(s) assigned to this position. They are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all duties, responsibilities, and skills required. Management reserves the right to modify, add, or remove duties and to assign other duties as necessary. In addition, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of this position.

Our organization is committed to equal employment opportunity and diversity in the workplace. We will not discriminate against employees or applicants for employment on any legally-recognized basis ["protected class"] including, but not limited to: veteran status, uniform service member status, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, or any other protected class under federal, state, or local law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/14/2023
Date Posted: 7/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12098

American University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track positions beginning in Academic Year 2024-25. The positions will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. The Department is seeking American Politics scholars and Political Methodologists with substantive expertise in American politics. Applications from candidates who would enhance the diversity of the department are especially welcome.

Applicants should hold a PhD. Candidates should be effective teachers and must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research. The search is open regarding areas of substantive specialty, but the Department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests include American political institutions. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research and providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applications are particularly welcome from scholars who can contribute to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University, such as the Women and Politics Institute, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, Center for Data Science, and Center for Environmental Policy. In addition to scholarship and teaching, all faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Review of applications will begin on September 1, 2023, and will continue until the positions are filled, subject to on-going budgetary approvals. The positions begin August 1, 2024. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion date by August 2024.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Please submit applications via: http://apply.interfolio.com/128065 . Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three confidential letters of recommendation, research and teaching narratives, and a writing sample. Please contact Rachel Whelan, Faculty Coordinator, 202-885-6201 or spa_academicaffairs@american.edu if you have any questions.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News &World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12091

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Political Theory
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Science & Technology, Political Economy

The Center for the Study of Complex Systems (CSCS) at the University of Michigan seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in complex systems science. The Center is a broad, interdisciplinary unit whose faculty use and develop tools from applied mathematics, computation, physics, statistics, engineering, and network theory to understand questions in the social, biological, and physical sciences. This is a University-year appointment at the Assistant Professor level. The expected start date is August 26, 2024.

Required Qualifications: We seek applicants with a research agenda focused on the development and/or application of complex systems models and/or methods. This may involve theoretical or applied research in areas of complex systems including (but not limited to) mathematical and computational work in network science, computational approaches in complex systems and related topics in computer science, social science, emergence and robustness, or scientific applications where complex systems theory lies at the core of the approach such as: quantitative modeling of biological and social systems, complex systems approaches to systemic racism and health disparities, biological and social evolution, artificial life, and cognition. We are particularly interested in candidates with a record of working across disciplines.

How to Apply: All applications must be uploaded here: https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1700

This faculty position will be in the Center for the Study of Complex Systems or joint between Complex Systems and another academic department or school at the University of Michigan. If a joint appointment is preferred, candidates should suggest possible partner departments or schools. Complex Systems has a tradition of jointly appointed faculty across a wide range of schools and colleges at the University of Michigan, however both joint and 100% Complex Systems appointments will be considered. Applicants must submit a CV, a statement of current and future research plans, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, and evidence of teaching excellence, if any. At least three letters of recommendation are required and must be uploaded by the letter writers to the same website. Finally, please include a diversity statement that demonstrates your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion through scholarship/research, and/or teaching/mentoring, and/or service/engagement. There may be some overlap with your research proposal and teaching statements (1-3 pages).

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2023 and continue until the position is filled.

Offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women and minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/12/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12090

European University Institute
Rank: Assistant Professor in Computational Social Science

The Department of Political and Social Sciences at the European University Institute seeks to appoint an Assistant Professor in Computational Social Science, broadly understood. The position is advertised at the rank of Assistant Professor to commence in the academic year 2024/25. We welcome applicants from candidates with a substantive research agenda either in political science or in sociology, and who integrate research ethics into their methods teaching and research. Please find more information about the position here: https://www.eui.eu/About/JobOpportunities/Open-competitions-for-academic-posts (Assistant Professor in Computational Social Science).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/14/2023
Date Posted: 7/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12070

Michigan State University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Michigan State University is seeking to hire a 9-month academic year, tenure system professor at the rank of Assistant Professor, with experience in applying data analytics to political science questions. MSU actively promotes a dynamic research and learning environment in which qualified individuals of differing perspectives and cultural backgrounds pursue academic goals with mutual respect and shared inquiry. We are particularly interested in candidates who employ innovative computational technologies and large-scale data to expand knowledge about the political world. Skills in Bayesian methodologies, temporal or geospatial prediction, network analysis, text analytics, statistical learning, or causal inference are highly valued. The specific subfield for this position is flexible; however, candidates with a history of receiving research funding, or those who have plans to apply for funding, will be highly favored. The candidate would be expected to teach political and computational methods courses at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills, a strategy for external funding, as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or have completed the Ph.D. by the date of hire.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, citizenship, disability or protected veteran status.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2023.

Please contact Shahryar Minhas (minhassh@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Min. Qualifications:

Candidates must have completed a PhD by the date of hire. A successful candidate will be expected to have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills, a strategy for external funding, as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

Required Materials:

Interested applicants must apply for this position via Michigan State University Applicant Page (MAP). Please access the MAP system at https://careers.msu.edu, posting number 867163. Applicants must submit a CV, cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, two samples of written work, and a diversity and inclusion statement (a statement addressing how past/and or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance MSU's commitment to inclusive excellence). Applicants must complete contact information for three references.

Michigan State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Michigan State University is committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

MSU is located in East Lansing, MI, with easy access to the state capital, Lake Michigan, great school districts, and two large metropolitan areas (Grand Rapids, Detroit). The University is pro-active in exploring opportunities for employment for dual career couples, both inside and outside the University. Information about MSU's dual career support can be found at http://miwin.msu.edu/.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12039

Rollins College
Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Assistant Professor, American Politics

Rollins is the best college in Florida, but don't just take our word for it. See what the experts are saying. Explore all of the ways Rollins is top ranked—from our academic excellence and expert faculty to our unparalleled campus and one-of-a-kind study abroad opportunities.

For the 14th consecutive year, Rollins College has been named a "Great College to Work For"! Be a part of the Rollins experience and find a place where you belong. Ready to join us?

Position Summary:

The https://www.rollins.edu/political-science/ at Rollins College invites applications for the position of tenure-track Assistant Professor of American politics, beginning August 2024. We seek a broadly trained Americanist with interests in quantitative methodology. Applicants able to contribute to Rollins' interdisciplinary programs in American Studies, Data Analytics and/or Public Policy and Political Economy, are especially welcome. Ph.D. at time of appointment is preferred, but ABDs will be considered. Application deadline Oct. 15, 2023.

The successful candidate will also have a demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts institution. Our department is committed to diversity and inclusion - and faculty regularly engage in student/faculty collaborative summer research, international field studies, and honors thesis supervision. The regular teaching load is three courses per semester, including introduction to American government and one course yearly for our general education program.

Department representatives will also interview candidates at the 2023 APSA in Los Angeles. To schedule an introductory interview at APSA, contact chair via email at mailto:mgunter@rollins.edu.

Rollins College is a comprehensive liberal arts college located just north of Orlando, FL, a diverse metropolitan community with a thriving economic and cultural scene. Nearby Orlando International Airport provides easy access to U.S. and international destinations. The college emphasizes innovative and quality teaching in small classes and ranks number one among 121 Southern master's-level universities in the annual rankings of "America's Best Colleges," released by U.S. News & World Report. Please visit the college website at http://www.rollins.edu/.

Minimum Qualifications and Education:

• Ph.D. (or ABD) in Political Science with a specialization in American politics and interests in quantitative methodology.
• Demonstrated commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts institution.
• Shows potential to effectively educate and mentor a diverse student population.
• Record of scholarly activity showing strong potential for future publication.

Instructions to Applicants:

Interested applicants must apply online via the College's employment website and upload the following materials as follows:

• Letter of interest outlining teaching philosophy
• Curriculum vitae
• Sample of scholarly writing
• Teaching evaluations (if available)
• Provide three reference names and email addresses on application
Inquiries can be directed to:
Mike Gunter
Chair, Department of Political Science
mailto:mgunter@rollins.edu

Diversity & Inclusion at Rollins:

Rollins is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive campus community, and the College celebrates the open exchange of ideas within a climate of civility and mutual respect. We view differences—from race and ethnicity to sexual orientation and political perspectives—as rich opportunities for understanding, learning, and growth. To learn more, please click https://www.rollins.edu/about-rollins/diversity-inclusion/index.html.

Through its mission, Rollins College is firmly committed to creating a just community that embraces multiculturalism; persons from historically under-represented minority groups are therefore encouraged to apply. Rollins does not discriminate on the basis of sex, disability, race, age, religion, color, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, marital status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, physical characteristics, or any other category protected by federal, state, or local law, in its educational programs and activities.

Benefits &
Perks:

• Paid Holidays and College Closure Days
• Eligible for Medical, Prescription, Dental & Vision Insurances (within 30 days of hire)
• 100% Employer-Funded Health Reimbursement Account ($125+/month)
• 100% Employer-Paid Short & Long Term Disability Insurance
• Domestic Partner Benefits

• 11.5% Employer Retirement Contributions
• Discounted On-Campus Dining Meal Plans
• FREE On-Campus Parking
• FREE Access to Campus Amenities (gyms, pools, library, sporting events and more)
• FREE Full Tuition for Employees and their Families
• Pet Insurance
• 100% Employer-Funded Employee Assistance Program
• Flexible Spending Accounts
• Award-Winning Wellbeing Programs: Blue Rewards, Rally Dollars, Hinge Health Musculoskeletal Coaching
• Plus More!

Additional Perks:

• Local & National Discount Programs, including Winter Park Locations (i.e. shops, restaurants, gift cards and more)
• FREE E-Training Courses & Professional Development Opportunities
• IT Software & Laptop Discounts (Apple, Lenovo, and more)
• College Bookstore Discounts
• Annual Service Awards & Recognition Programs
• Discover what it's like to live in Orlando: https://life.orlando.org/l/live/
• Plus More!

https://www.rollins.edu/human-resources/working-at-rollins/why-rollins/benefits.html.

FLSA Status:

Exempt

Service Months:

9

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/4294766

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12044

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Sceince
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Economy, Race & Ethnic Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Michigan is conducting an Assistant Professor search.
The full job posting can be found below and at: https://careers.umich.edu/job_detail/235272/asst-professor

How to Apply
All applications must be submitted electronically to https://apply.interfolio.com/126053

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation.

Summary

The University of Michigan's Department of Political Science invites applications from outstanding candidates for a tenure track position for a scholar who combines advanced skills in Methods of Causal Inference, Big Data, Computational Social Science, Data Science, and/or Field Experiments, open with respect to substantive interest; the department has specific interests in international political economy, comparative developing countries, and political behavior in race and ethnic politics.

This position is at the assistant professor rank and is a university year appointment. It is anticipated to begin August 26, 2024. Promise of excellence in research and teaching is required.

Application Instructions

Applicants should include the following application materials in PDF format: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a concise statement describing current and future plans for research, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence (if any), writing samples, graduate transcripts, and a statement of activities contributing to diversity, equity, and inclusion in academia. Applications should also submit three letters of recommendation. Information on our research initiatives and scholarly interests of current faculty can be found on the Department's website: https://lsa.umich.edu/polisci.

For full consideration, complete applications should be submitted by August 31, 2023.

The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates and may use a third-party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act and offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening.

The University of Michigan is committed to fostering and maintaining a diverse work culture that respects the rights of each individual, without regard to race, color, national original, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, gender expression, height, weight, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, or veteran status. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/7/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12007

New York University Abu Dhabi
Rank: Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Theory, Political Development

Instructor of Political Science, Open-Rank

New York University Abu Dhabi

The Division of Social Science at New York University (NYU) Abu Dhabi is looking to hire an instructor in the field of political science to provide support to faculty with grading and administrative duties for undergraduate courses in political science, and elsewhere in the division of social sciences. The instructor may also be asked to lead small-group discussions with undergraduate students.

About NYU Abu Dhabi
Established in partnership between New York University (NYU) and the emirate of Abu Dhabi, over the last decade, NYUAD has assembled a remarkable community of scholars, students, researchers, artists, inventors, and others who have contributed to the growth of the UAE's capital as a global hub of knowledge and culture while establishing a new model of higher education for today's complex world.

NYUAD is animated by inspiring and diverse faculty, students, and staff working together in an exciting and dynamic city. As an international center of excellence in teaching and research, our goal is to attract outstanding faculty who are leaders in their fields, encouraging them to create programs that draw outstanding students and provide an intellectually rich environment.

NYUAD students come from more than 126 countries, with no single nationality exceeding more than 15 percent of the total student population. Likewise, our over 320 faculty members represent more than 45 nationalities and bring a global perspective to their classrooms and research projects. NYUAD is committed to building and strengthening a university-wide culture of inclusion, diversity, belonging and equity (IDBE), which is fundamental to the University's commitment to excellence. Visit our website for more information on NYUAD's commitment to IDBE and how these values are fundamental to our mission.

Students are drawn from among the world's best. They are bright, intellectually passionate, and committed to building a campus environment anchored in mutual respect, understanding, and care. The NYUAD undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school admissions, and other global honors. Graduate education is an area of growth for the University; the current graduate student population of over 100 students is expected to expand in the next decade as we develop new graduate programs.

Working for NYUAD
To help Academic Staff thrive, we offer a comprehensive benefits package. This starts with a relocation allowance to ensure a smooth transition to Abu Dhabi. It includes a competitive salary; furnished accommodation provided; educational assistance for your dependents attending school in the UAE; and access to health and wellness services. Click here for more information on benefits for you and your family.

Qualifications
The candidate will have broad familiarity with several subfields in political science, including international relations, quantitative methodology/data analysis, and comparative politics. They will have a proven track-record of English-language academic writing for their coursework and at least some experience leading small-group discussions. Candidates must have at least a master's degree in political science or a related discipline and, ideally, some experience providing teaching support. Fluency in spoken and written English is essential, and familiarity with the US or British higher educational systems is preferable.

Application Instructions
To apply for this position, please submit the following items to:

https://apply.interfolio.com/126011

.Curriculum Vitae (CV)
.Cover Letter
.List of three references that may be contacted at a later date.

We will begin reviewing applications immediately and will continue on a rolling basis until the position is filled. We anticipate that successful candidates can start the appointment and relocate to Abu Dhabi before the start of the 2023 fall semester.

NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We encourage applications from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural and ethnic diversity of our University, including women, underrepresented minorities, and UAE nationals.

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply. #nyuadinstructorcareers

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/5/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12005

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Data Analytics and Policy

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Description

Institution Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach one of several courses within the Master of Science in Data Analytics and Policy program. Specifically, we are seeking instructors qualified to teach Probability and Statistics (470.681), Programming and Data Management (470.768), Quantitative Methods (470.709), or Data Visualization (470.673). The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in the spring 2023 semester. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

These four courses are part of the core curriculum in the Data Analytics and Policy program. The courses introduce learners to statistical analysis and programming using R. Topics include probability theory, descriptive statistics, data visualization, research design for causal inference, and linear regression analysis. Full course descriptions and an overview of our full curriculum are available on the program website. The program has course templates for each course from which the candidate will teach. Faculty duties include supporting student learning, evaluating student work, and working with the Program Director to revise and update course materials as needed.

These courses are taught on a regular basis with semester-length contracts. Adjunct faculty may be included in future course development projects.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:
- Master's degree with training in quantitative statistical methods (e.g., political science, sociology, business analytics, economics, geography, public policy, psychology, or similar)
- Demonstrated experience doing original work using R for programming, data visualization, and statistical analysis

Preferred Qualifications:
- A terminal degree with training in quantitative statistical methods (e.g., political science, sociology, business analytics, economics, geography, public policy, psychology, or similar)
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience
- Online teaching experience
- Training in statistical programming and analysis using Python
- Professional experience in applied statistics, predictive modeling, machine learning, database management, and related data science topics

Application Instructions:

The position(s) will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by September 16, 2022.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses, if applicant has teaching experience
- Professional or academic references

The selected candidate will be expected to undergo a background check and to submit proof of educational attainment.

Submit your application online only at http://apply.interfolio.com/112053 using the" Apply Now" button.

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 10751

NON-ACADEMIC

Department of Defense
Rank: Operations Research Analyst
Subfield(s): Methodology, International Relations, Non-Academic
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Research Methods, Conflict Processes

Are you interested in international relations, comparative politics, political economy or foreign policy? Do you want to use cutting-edge quantitative methods to apply research to real world problems? The Joint Warfare Analysis Center is the place for you!

Join a team of smart, motivated individuals with access to cutting-edge technology while enjoying work-life balance and generous benefits. Join us in doing research that makes a difference.

The Joint Warfare Analysis Center (JWAC) is currently recruiting motivated individuals who are excited about the opportunity to research projects and develop advanced methods for defense analysis.

JWAC's mission is to provide the U.S. military with effects-based analysis to support U.S. national security and military strategies during peace, crisis, and war. Learn more about JWAC and its mission at https://www.jwac.mil/ .

Ideal candidates will have both a strong quantitative methods background, including the ability to use R or Python, and either professional experience or substantive research in the areas of military affairs, foreign policy, international relations, comparative politics, or political economy.

We offer a range of benefits, including: medical, dental and life insurance, paid time to exercise, generous time off, and competitive pay with contribution-based bonuses. U.S. citizenship and the ability to obtain and maintain a security clearance are required for all positions.

If you are interested in more information please email: stratcom.south-potomac.jwac.list.recruiting-sociopoli@mail.mil

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12012

APSA
Rank: Associate Director, Centennial Center

POSITION SUMMARY:
The American Political Science Association (APSA) seeks a full-time Associate Director, Centennial Center for Political Science and Public Affairs to lead all aspects of the Centennial Center's mission, operations, and program development. This includes but is not limited to administering research and project-based grant programs and supporting the Institute for Civically Engaged Research (ICER). The Associate Director works closely and cooperatively with staff across the association on collaborative programming, especially public engagement, international programs, diversity and inclusion, teaching and learning, and professional development. The Associate Director also works closely with key governance committees including the Centennial Center Advisory Board.

REPORTING RELATIONSHIP:
Reports to: Director, Grant Initiatives and International Programs

SUPERVISION EXERCISED:
Program Assistant as applicable

FLSA STATUS:
This position is considered Exempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act and is therefore not eligible for overtime pay.

ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS:

The examples of essential functions listed below are intended only as illustrations of the various types of work that may be performed. The omission of specific statements of duties does not exclude them from the position. Duties and responsibilities are also subject to change by the employer as the needs of the employer and requirements of the job change.

- Lead program development and administration of APSA's Centennial Center Spring and Summer Research Grants, and APSA Winter Grants (Research Partnerships on Critical Issues Grants, Growing Democracy, Pedagogical Partnerships) and Special Projects Fund Grants when funding is available —including overseeing design of applications and marketing, convening review committees, making award decisions, evaluating grantmaking practices, and overseeing reporting and dissemination of grantee results.
- Maintain and update all program-related data in relevant databases as well as all program-related web pages.
- Track grant monitoring and evaluation; work closely with Finance office to ensure stewardship and use of temporarily restricted and unrestricted funds.
- Monitor and implement best practices for grantmaking with attention to diversity and inclusion, impact, and program efficiency.
- Lead planning annual budget for Centennial Center, in conjunction with Finance office and Director of Grant Initiatives and International Programs.
- Develop Annual Meeting programming that highlights grant opportunities and grantee results.
- Prepare annual reports on grantmaking for APSA Council and Senior staff, as well as other promotional, reporting, or outreach materials for members, partners, and potential funders/donors.
- Develop new programs and initiatives to fulfil the Center's mission, in collaboration with Director of Grant Initiatives and International Programs, Deputy Director, Executive Director, and APSA staff.
- Provide strategic support to the Institute for Civically Engaged Research directors and participate in the annual Institute.
- Serve as staff liaison for Centennial Center Advisory Board and ICER Advisory Board.
- Oversee work of Program Assistant to ensure support for grant programs, as applicable.
- Perform additional duties as assigned.

Rogers Smith Presidential Task Force:
- Serve as primary staff lead working with the programs resulting from the Rogers Smith Task Force on New Partnerships. Work with Director of Grant Initiatives and International Programs and Director of Finance to develop and distribute annual report to the Ivywood Foundation on grant activities.
- Track expenses related to task force; works closely with Finance office to ensure stewardship of any grant funds or gifts received and expended in relation to the task force work.
- Work with Director of Grant Initiatives and International Programs and development staff to identify and secure external funding to support Task Force programs.
- Represent the association with external bodies, associations, and groups.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: EXPERIENCE, KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS, AND ABILITY:

- Doctoral degree in Political Science or related field or equivalent combination of education and experience
- At least two years' work experience with program development and management, experience with new initiatives for scholars and/or experience with civic engagement, diversity and inclusion, or cognate initiatives strongly preferred

- Strong organizational skills and ability to collaborate with a variety of individuals is essential
- Ability to communicate effectively with others in person and in writing
- Ability to work independently and as a member of a team
- Ability to set priorities and meet deadlines
- Excellent computer skills and knowledge of data base programs

PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS AND WORK ENVIRONMENT: The physical demands described here are representative of those that must be met by an employee to successfully perform the essential functions of this job. This job description is subject to change at any time. While performing the duties of this job, the employee is regularly required to communicate and exchange information. The employee frequently is required to remain in a stationary position and constantly operate computer and other office productivity machinery.

- Generally good working conditions with little or no exposure to extremes in noises or temperature.
- Minimal lifting or climbing.
- Work performed in an office setting.
- Hybrid schedule (at least 2 days a week in the office)
- All team members are required to adhere to the APSA vaccination policy.

APSA is an equal opportunity employer committed to workplace diversity, equity, inclusion and belonging.

Apply here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=14a57c82-310e-42e3-8cc8-6b9883f0d8a9&ccId=19000101_000001&jobId=479336&lang=en_US&source=CC2 https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=14a57c82-310e-42e3-8cc8-6b9883f0d8a9&ccId=19000101_000001&jobId=479336&lang=en_US&source=CC2

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/6/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12068

OPEN

Princeton University
Rank: Assistant Professor, Department of Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions. Applications from all subfields of political science are welcome. These positions involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. We seek faculty members who will create a climate that embraces excellence and diversity, with a commitment to teaching and mentoring that will enhance the work of the department and attract and retain a diverse student body. Interested applicants should apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/31061.

Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, research statement, writing sample, transcripts, and the names and contact information of three references. Unofficial transcripts are sufficient and may be uploaded with the application. Applicants who are unable to upload unofficial transcripts may send official transcripts to Omnibus Junior Search Committee, Department of Politics, 001 Fisher Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544.

For best consideration apply by September 5, 2023.

Requisition No: D-24-POL-00001

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/31/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12182

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): International Relations, Open, Other

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies (2 positions) and Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations (1 position). Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars. We are open regarding specific areas of research and teaching specialisation. As the School has previously recruited experts in international relations of China and South Asia, it does not require experts in these areas at the moment.

The successful candidates will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisations; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in either Strategic Studies or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative work of the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per year, including one core course for either the MSc in Strategic Studies (Analysis of Defence and Security Policies or Evolution of Strategic Thought) or MSc in International Relations (Study of International Relations) programme depending on their specialisation.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system, click on this link to access - https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-Strategic-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS--_R00013946

All applicants should submit the following:
1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 15 November 2023.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12143

University of Oregon
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Required Application Materials:

Candidates are asked to apply online at https://careers.uoregon.edu/en-us/job/531910/assistant-professor-in-political-science by submitting the following materials by:
- application letter describing research and teaching interests, experience, and a statement concerning contributions that promote diversity, equity, and inclusion.
- curriculum vitae
- three letters of recommendation
- a writing sample

Position Announcement:

The University of Oregon's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position of Assistant Professor in Political Science, to begin in fall of 2024. We seek candidates specializing in U.S. Racial and Ethnic Politics, including Latinx Politics to support the growing Latinx Studies program at the UO. Open to research on any US political issue and/or institution as well as qualitative and quantitative methodologies. Interest in teaching intro level classes in political science, and race and ethnics politics is a plus.

Competitive applicants will be capable of outstanding research and teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Description of Department/Programs:

Our faculty employ diverse theoretical and methodological approaches but share the pursuit of meaningful answers to big questions with real-world implications. The department features a strong pole of research and teaching about American politics, with particular strengths in institutions, American political development, and the politics of race, immigration, gender and sexuality. We particularly welcome applications from scholars who are from populations historically underrepresented in the academy, and/or who have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds.

University/Community Description:

The University of Oregon is one of only two Pacific Northwest members of the Association of American Universities and holds the distinction of a "very high research activity" ranking in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. UO enrolls more than 20,000 undergraduate and 3,600 graduate students representing all 50 states and nearly 100 countries. In recent years, the university has increased the diversity of its student body while raising average GPAs and test scores for incoming students. UO's beautiful, 295-acre campus features state-of-the art facilities in an arboretum-like setting. We are located in Eugene, a vibrant city of 157,000 with a wide range of cultural and culinary offerings, a pleasant climate, and a community engaged in environmental and social concerns. The campus is within easy driving distance of the Pacific Coast, the Cascade Mountains, and Portland.

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand by time of appointment. Salary is competitive. The successful candidate is expected to conduct a rigorous research program as well as teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12140

University of Oregon
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Required Application Materials:

Candidates are asked to apply online at https://careers.uoregon.edu/en-us/job/531911/assistant-professor-in-political-science or another university-vetted platform by submitting the following materials by the application deadline:
• application letter describing research and teaching interests, experience, and potential contributions to our diverse and pluralistic community,
• curriculum vitae,
• academic transcripts,
• three letters of recommendation,
• a writing sample,

Position Announcement:

The University of Oregon's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position for an Assistant Professor in Political Science with a focus on Global Environmental Politics, to begin in fall 2024.
Competitive applicants will be capable of outstanding research and teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Description of Department and related Programs:

Our department is seeking an international relations scholar working on any (or multiple) aspects of global environmental politics, including the politics of climate change, biodiversity loss, marine and terrestrial ecosystem protection, resources use, various forms of pollution, vulnerable populations and other environmental challenges. We are open to scholars whose scholarship on global environmental politics focuses on international cooperation and conflict, transnational networks, public-private partnerships, non-governmental organizations, the science/politics nexus, and related approaches. We are particularly interested in faculty who approach these issues with a recognition of, and an openness to, the value of interdisciplinary perspectives and interdisciplinary research on these topics.

We also seek a scholar who can integrate into, and work well, with faculty in Political Science and the University of Oregon's Environmental Studies Program, as well as faculty involved in the UO's recently-launched Environment Initiative. Our existing faculty use diverse theoretical and methodological approaches in pursuit of meaningful answers to big real-world policy problems. We want to build on existing faculty commitments to innovative research and teaching about international relations, environmental politics, and the intersection of those realms with other social science, natural science, and humanities disciplines. The successful applicant will join our faculty who are already doing cutting edge research on international environmental politics and comparative environmental politics. An existing network of interdisciplinary scholarship exists between faculty in Political Science and Environmental Studies and we expect this to expand rapidly as the recently-launched Environment Initiative makes new resources available for teaching and research that can build a national and internationally-recognized research team dedicated to understanding and resolving the wide range of global environmental problems. The successful candidate could offer courses in international relations and courses related to our department's "Sustainability, Development, and Social Action" and "Global Engagement" career paths, the "Globalization, Environment, and Policy Concentration" (within the UO's General Social Science major), and to help create a "Politics of Environmental Protection" concentration within the UO's Environment Initiative.

University/Community Description:

The University of Oregon has a long tradition of solution-oriented, interdisciplinary research that integrates scholarship from a wide range of disciplines to understand and address global environmental issues. The University of Oregon's new university-wide Environment Initiative seeks to build on and extend our existing faculty and institutional strengths by bringing in new faculty who will have the interests and skills to do cutting edge disciplinary and interdisciplinary research that engages directly and self-consciously with government policymakers, stakeholder communities (including tribes and underrepresented communities), corporate actors, and non-governmental organizations. As one example of efforts to ensure that scholarship is well-informed by practitioners and that practitioners are aware of solution-oriented scholarship, the University's Tribal Climate Change Project was launched in 2009 and now has well-established links with the Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Northwest Climate Adaptation Science Center, the Oregon Climate Change Research Institute, and the USDA Forest Service Pacific Northwest Research Station.

The University of Oregon has numerous units on campus with which new faculty can develop and conduct their research and teaching, including the Environmental Studies Program; the Geography, Sociology, and Economics Departments; the School of Global Studies and Languages; the Data Science program; the Center for Global Health; and the Center for Asian Pacific Studies.

The University of Oregon is one of only two Pacific Northwest members of the Association of American Universities and holds the distinction of a "very high research activity" ranking in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. UO enrolls more than 20,000 undergraduate and 3,600 graduate students representing all 50 states and nearly 100 countries. In recent years, the university has increased the diversity of its student body while raising average GPAs and test scores for incoming students. UO's beautiful, 295-acre campus features state-of-the art facilities in an arboretum-like setting. We are located in Eugene, a vibrant city of 157,000 with a wide range of cultural and culinary offerings, a pleasant climate, and a community engaged in environmental and social concerns. The campus is within easy driving distance of the Pacific Coast, the Cascade Mountains, and Portland.

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand by time of appointment. Salary is competitive.
The successful candidate is expected to conduct a rigorous research program as well as teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12141

Texas A&M University
Rank: Associate Professor or Full Professor

The Department of Political Science, Bush School of Government & Public Service at Texas A&M University (http://bush.tamu.edu/pols) is recruiting 2 tenured full-time, nine-month positions which are open with respect to subfields. This search is for the rank of Associate or Full Professor. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service to the profession. Strong research and teaching interests across traditional subfields of political science will be highly valued. A Ph.D. is required. The expected starting date for this position is August 1, 2024. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas was founded in 1997 under President George H. W. Bush's philosophy that "public service is a noble calling." https://bush.tamu.edu/

This position requires a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. All appointees are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality.

Applicants should submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/127657: 1) cover letter 2) curriculum vitae, 3) personal statement, (your statement should include your philosophy and plans for teaching), 4) graduate school transcripts, 5) any available teaching evaluations, 6) writing sample, 7) three confidential letters of recommendation requested through applicant's Interfolio account, and 8) provide contact information for two additional professional references. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.
The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Questions regarding this position should be sent to Mrs. Carrie Kilpatrick at carriek@tamu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12101

Princeton University
Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Fellow

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for academic year 2024-25. Fellows devote an academic year in residence to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines across the humanities and social sciences. For 2024-25, the Center's designated research theme is Criminal Justice, but scholars need not work on Criminal Justice to apply. We anticipate that roughly half of the fellowships awarded for 2024-25 will fall within the research theme, and welcome applications for research projects in any area of human values, broadly defined. We welcome applications from scholars from a variety of disciplines for both our theme and non-theme fellowships.

For those proposing research on the theme of Criminal Justice, we are especially interested in research which may critically analyze underlying values in the philosophy and practice of criminal justice; evaluate institutional formations and policy proposals in light of those values; and explore the roles played by race, ethnicity, gender, and other factors in the differential ways that criminal justice is conceived and carried out in specific contexts.

For thematically relevant applications, please state this explicitly and describe the relevance of the research to the theme. In assessing each application, we look for the potential of applicants to contribute to and benefit from a research community that draws together scholars who work in and across different disciplines.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus daily and on short notice. Fellows are expected to pursue their own research and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of UCHV. This includes participating in a weekly seminar to discuss work in progress. Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically, Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship typically extends from September 1 to June 1. Fellows receive a stipend paid in nine equal installments. Ordinarily, home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to benefits, although this is not a requirement. Independent scholars are eligible to apply.

Main considerations are the following:
*The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values

*The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future
*The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted at UCHV
*Where applicable, the relevance of the application to the Center's designated research theme

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/30681.

Required materials:

1. A CV
2. A scholarly paper (no more than 12,000 words) written in the past three years
3. A statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed project. Describe the project's relevance to the research theme where applicable
4. Contact information for three referees, including one who was not a graduate advisor (note, the priority deadline for letters of reference only is Thursday, October 26, 2023; all other applicant materials must be submitted by the earlier deadline stated below). Referees will be contacted directly

Applicant materials must be submitted by: Thursday, October 19, 2023, 11:59 p.m. EST. Decisions expected by late March 2024.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12079

University of Western Ontario
Rank: Tier 2 CRC in Sustainability and the Social

Canada Research Chair (CRC) Tier 2 in Sustainability and the Social

The Faculty of Social Science at The University of Western Ontario invites applications for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair (CRC) in Sustainability and the Social. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor, Probationary (tenure-track) or Associate Professor, Probationary (tenure-track or tenured) in any department in the Faculty of Social Science. (https://www.ssc.uwo.ca/departments.html) Candidates will have a PhD or equivalent, and postgraduate research experience in any area of specialization that examines sustainability from a social science perspective. Salary and rank will be commensurate with educational qualifications and experience. The anticipated starting date will be January 1, 2024 or as negotiated. The successful candidate will be expected to apply for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair in the first available competition after their appointment.

About the Chair - The challenge to create sustainable futures and transitions in the face of rapidly changing, extreme and unpredictable weather patterns, human destruction of the natural environment, the loss of arable land, food insecurity, limited availability of clean water, the devastation of species and biospheres, is ultimately a political and social issue that requires a wholistic approach deeply engaged with social relations and cultural processes as they inform, frame, and transform the natural world. We seek a CRC in Sustainability and the Social who will lead research projects, enable dialogue, and engage students at the cutting edge of interdisciplinary thinking across the social and natural sciences about the central issues facing our planet.

The Chair will advance research at the intersection of the social and natural worlds that will benefit the University's broader initiatives towards increased knowledge sharing across disciplines, integrated learning and education, innovation, and public dialogue. The Chair's specialization may cover a range of areas including, but not limited to, sustainable development and climate transition, the climate crisis, decarbonisation, green finance and manufacturing, health and well-being, corporate environmental responsibility, political action, biodiversity depletion, geopolitical environmental risks, and equity and environment. The Chair will complement existing strengths within our Faculty ranging from big data to qualitative ethnographic analysis. The Chair will provide empirically based analysis through already present strengths across an expansive social science and science methodological terrain to open research frontiers, enhance wider public discussions and/or stimulate student experiential engagement. They might also bring interdisciplinarity to these specializations by catalyzing conversations and collaboration across the Faculties of Science, Engineering, Health Sciences, Arts and Humanities, Ivey School of Business, and more.

The University of Western Ontario, Faculty of Social Science, Social Science Centre Rm 9438 London, Ontario, Canada, N6A 5C2 t. 519.661.2111 ext 80449, www.ssc.uwo.ca

We seek a Chair whose research has the potential to be world-leading and who shows evidence of top-tier research excellence through knowledge production and mobilization. The candidate will be appointed within one or more of our Social Science departments, research centres, research institutes, and the Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program. As appropriate, the successful candidate may also demonstrate a record of interdisciplinary collaborations nationally or internationally; show a record of early leadership through collaborative research, the establishment of networks, esteem, and connections in their field of work; or demonstrate a record of engagement of knowledge users outside academia such as with government non-governmental organizations, educators, and the general public.

In accordance with the CRC regulations set for Tier 2 Canada Research Chairs https://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca, Tier 2 chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e. candidates must have less than 10 years of experience as an active researcher in their field at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier 2 Chair assessed through the program's Tier 2 justification process; please contact Research Development at The University of Western Ontario at ResearchWesternCRC@uwo.ca for more information. Please consult the Canada Research Chair website for full information, including further details on eligibility criteria. http://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca/program-programme/nomination-mise_en_candidature- eng.aspx

As chairholder, the candidate must have the potential to attract, develop and retain excellent students and trainees, and be proposing an original, innovative research program of high quality fundable through Canada's Social Science and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) https://www.sshrc-crsh.gc.ca/home-accueil-eng.aspx .

About Western www.uwo.ca - Western University is located on the traditional lands of the Anishinaabek, Haudenosaunee, Lunaapéewak and Chonnonton peoples, on lands connected with the London Township and Sombra Treaties of 1796 and the Dish with One Spoon Covenant Wampum. This land continues to be home to diverse Indigenous Peoples (First Nations, Métis, and Inuit) whom we recognize as contemporary stewards of the land and vital contributors of our society.

With annual research funding exceeding $220 million, and an international reputation for success, Western ranks as one of Canada's top research-intensive universities. Our research excellence expands knowledge and drives discovery with real-world application. Western also provides an exceptional employment experience, offering competitive salaries, a wide range of employment opportunities and one of Canada's most beautiful campuses.

Western University recognizes that our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion is central to the University's mandate as a research intensive situation of higher learning and a community leader. Western understands that our pursuit of research excellence and our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion are mutually supporting. As such, Western is committed to achieving and maintaining an equitable representation amongst our Canada Research Chair holders, as well as within Western's broader research enterprise.

The University of Western Ontario recognizes the potential impact that career interruptions can have on a candidate's record of research achievement. Potential candidates are encouraged to explain within their application the impact that career interruptions have had on their record, and to submit a full career or extended CV to a chairholder position in cases where they have had career interruptions.

The University of Western Ontario's Recruitment and Retention Office is available to assist in the transition of successful applicants and their families.

This position includes a comprehensive benefits package. Further details can be accessed at: https://www.uwo.ca/hr/benefits/your_benefits/faculty.html

About The Faculty of Social Science - Western is home to one of the largest and most diverse Social Science Faculties in Canada. We have eight core Departments, Anthropology, Economics, Geography, History, the DAN Department of Management & Organizational Studies, Political Science, Psychology and Sociology, as well as co-hosting the Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program and the Department of Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies. Research excellence in each of these departments is supplemented by multiple interdisciplinary Research Centres, Institutes and Groups https://www.ssc.uwo.ca/research/research_centres_and_groups/index.html .

Application must include the following:

- Application for Full-Time Faculty Position form, which can be found here: https://www.uwo.ca/facultyrelations/pdf/full-time-application-form.pdf ;
- Cover Letter;
- Curriculum Vitae;
- Research Statement;
- Statement on Equity, Diversity and Inclusion in relation to your research, teaching and/or service;

- Names, addresses, and email addresses for three referees (we do not solicit letters until the interview stage).

Please combine all components, ordered as above, in a single PDF file named YOURLASTNAME_UWO_FSS_CRC_T2 and email the file to:

Chair, Search Committee, Tier 2 CRC in Sustainability and the Social c/o Karen Foullong, Faculty Coordinator
Faculty of Social Science Western University Email: kfoullon@uwo.ca

Consideration of applications will commence August 31, 2023.

Positions are subject to budget approval. Applicants should have fluent written and oral communication skills in English.

The University invites applications from all qualified individuals. Western is committed to employment equity and diversity in the workplace and welcomes applications from women, members of racialized groups, Indigenous peoples, persons with disabilities, persons of any sexual orientation, and persons of any gender identity or gender expression. In accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, priority will be given to Canadian citizens and permanent residents.

Accommodations are available for applicants with disabilities throughout the recruitment process. If you require accommodations for interviews or other meetings, please contact Karen Foullong kfoullon@uwo.ca .

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/5/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12065

American University SIS
Rank: Korea in Global Affairs Postdoctoral Fellowship

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for a full-time, one-year Korea in Global Affairs Postdoctoral Fellowship for scholars who have received their Ph.D. in the past five years. The position begins on August 1, 2023, with the possibility of renewal for a second year.

We welcome applicants who conduct interdisciplinary research on Korea in broad global historical, political, cultural, economic, and/or sociological perspective. Preference will be given to applicants whose work seeks to illuminate the Korean experience in the context of the country's broad web of relations with other global actors, while producing knowledge that can help tackle pressing global problems today.

The postdoctoral fellow should reside in the D.C. metropolitan area and be an active participant in SIS' vibrant intellectual community. The successful candidate will be enthusiastic about working with Professor Ji- Young Lee, the C.W. Lim and Korea Foundation Professor of Korean Studies, to expand and enhance AU's Korean Studies in DC and globally. Other fellowship expectations include:

Make progress in revising their doctoral dissertation for publication; Help to plan and organize an international conference on Korea during the fellowship period; Plan and help to execute a proposal for an edited volume or special journal issue based on contributions to the international conference.

Candidates should be enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment that includes political scientists, geographers, sociologists, anthropologists, economists, historians, and international relations scholars. Candidates should also share a commitment to the university's Inclusive Excellence plan.

Applicants should hold a PhD or the highest equivalent degree in a social science or humanities discipline by the start date. Annual salary: $65,000. Review of applications will begin in mid-June 2023 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applications must be submitted through the online Interfolio system (https://apply.interfolio.com/127394%5D). Applications should include the following:

-Cover letter detailing the applicant's proposed research
-Curriculum vitae
-Sample publications
-Brief research statement including research agenda
-Statement describing past examples of your contributions to diversity and inclusion in your scholarship, the classroom and/or in other professional settings.
-The names and email addresses of three references (the Interfolio system will contact them for a confidential letter of recommendation) and whom the committee may contact.

Queries about the search may be sent to Professor Ji-Young Lee (jiyoungl@american.edu). Queries about the online application system may be sent to SIS faculty affairs coordinator Alissa Iwaniuk (aiwaniuk@american.edu) and help@interfolio.com.

American University is a private institution of higher education in the nation's capital (Please visit www.american.edu for more information). American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs with 3,000 students, 120 full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. SIS faculty produce transformational research and our prime location provides opportunities for collaboration with professionals in government, the private sector, and think tanks and other non-profits. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities.

American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus. To ensure the health and safety of our community, American University requires that all faculty and staff are vaccinated for Covid-19. To learn more about American University's health and safety directives please click here.

Hiring offers for this position are contingent on the successful completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12063

Bocconi University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Bocconi University, Department of Social and Political Sciences Comparative Politics, Assistant Professor

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Science, specifically within the subfield of comparative politics (with an emphasis on either mass behavior, political economy, or political institutions). The appointment begins on September 1, 2024.

To complement the existing strengths and profile of the department, candidates engaged in research employing rigorous quantitative analysis are highly preferred. Candidates should show evidence of a promising research agenda, and should be doing work that engages with multiple fields of study in the department—political science, applied economics, public administration and health, sociology and demography, and economic history. Candidates should also be able to teach courses in comparative politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels, specifically in the university's undergraduate program in International Politics and Government, its master's program in Politics and Policy Analysis, and its PhD program in Social and Political Sciences.

Bocconi University is a leading European research and teaching institution in economics, social sciences, management and related disciplines. In the 2022 QS World University Ranking of Social Sciences and Management programs, Bocconi ranked 4th in Europe and 10th worldwide. The Department of Social and Political Sciences provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. It comprises approximately 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members who share an interest in policy-relevant research, addressing questions on numerous world challenges, such as inequality, government responsiveness and accountability, corruption and organized crime, environmental sustainability, global health, and international cooperation. Bocconi is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historic, cosmopolitan and international city in a metropolitan area of 3 million that is well connected to the rest of Europe and the world. Knowledge of Italian is not required. Terms of employment are competitive.

Applications should be received by October 1, 2023. Applicants must submit (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a job market paper (and up to four other published papers), (3) a cover letter, and (4) teaching and research statements via the on-line form using PDF attachments at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Additionally, at least three academic letters of reference must also be submitted by referees via www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Applicants must successfully defend their PhD thesis by no later than October 1, 2023 to receive a final offer of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12023

Texas A&M University
Rank: Assistant

The Department of Political Science, Bush School of Government & Public Service at Texas A&M University (http://bush.tamu.edu/pols) is recruiting for four tenure-track (Assistant Professor) full-time, nine-month positions which are open with respect to subfields. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service to the profession. Strong research and teaching interests across traditional subfields of political science will be highly valued. A Ph.D. is required. The starting date for this position is fall 2024. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas was founded in 1997 under President George H. W. Bush's philosophy that "public service is a noble calling." https://bush.tamu.edu/

This position requires a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. All appointees are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality.

Applicants should submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/126310: 1) cover letter 2) curriculum vitae, 3) personal statement, (your statement should include your philosophy and plans for teaching), 4) graduate school transcripts, 5) any available teaching evaluations, 6) writing sample, 7) three confidential letters of recommendation requested through applicant's Interfolio account, and 8) provide contact information for two additional professional references. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Questions regarding this position should be sent to Carrie Kilpatrick at carriek@tamu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12055

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Faculty Fellowship

The Notre Dame Institute for Advanced Study (NDIAS) promotes issue-engaged, inclusive, and interdisciplinary study of questions that affect our ability to lead valuable, meaningful lives. Each year, the NDIAS convenes a diverse group of 8-10 Faculty Fellows to conduct research on projects related to its yearly research theme.

During the 2024-2025 academic year, the Notre Dame Institute for Advanced Study is sponsoring residential research projects that investigate The Good Life.

The Good Life fellowship program will bring together ethicists, humanities faculty, scientists, social scientists, policy scholars, and artists with projects that advance our understanding of human flourishing. We are particularly interested in projects that contribute to ethical research and debates surrounding flourishing, including foundational topics in philosophy and psychology but also applied questions across many different disciplines. We seek scholars who will deepen our understanding, teach us novel methods, and translate the institute's discussions into interdisciplinary and public debates about the good life.

For a list of potential research topics related to the theme, please see ndias.nd.edu/fellowships/faculty.

Faculty Fellows typically have a faculty appointment at their home institution, but the Fellowships are also open to independent researchers, public practitioners, postdoctoral scholars, those who have recently received their Ph.D. (or equivalent terminal) degree, those who are pursuing the creative arts, and faculty from Notre Dame. Scholars from outside the U.S. are welcome to apply–there are no citizenship requirements for these fellowships. Current graduate students are eligible to apply only if they will receive their terminal degree by August 1, 2024.

Faculty Fellows receive half their base salary per academic year (up to $75,000), a housing subsidy (for those who currently reside outside of the South Bend area), a research allowance of $500 per semester, and a private office at the NDIAS. Fellows' home institutions provide the remainder of their salaries as well as all benefits, including health insurance.

Postdocs are welcome to apply and receive a stipend of up to $60,000 paid directly to them (rather than to a home institution). Postdocs are also provided health insurance benefits.

All NDIAS Fellows are expected to reside in the South Bend area and to remain in residence at the University of Notre Dame during the period of their fellowship (except for vacation periods, holidays, and University breaks). Preference is given to those who can join the NDIAS for the entire academic year (August - May), but fellowships for shorter periods of time may be possible.

Applications must be submitted through Interfolio and should include the following:

1) Cover letter

2) Curriculum vitae (no more than four pages, single-spaced)

3) Proposal abstract (no more than 400 words)

4) Fellowship research proposal (no more than six pages double-spaced; research proposals may include a works-cited or bibliography page, which does not count toward the 6-page limit). In the research proposal, applicants should provide an explanation of the project they intend to pursue at the NDIAS, including:

-How the proposed research aligns with the research theme and mission of the Institute (see ndias.nd.edu/about);
-Preliminary objectives for the research to be conducted (i.e., whether the research might result in a book, journal article, art work, etc.);

-The proposed work plan (including what research or work has already been accomplished, what will be done during the fellowship period, the methodology to be employed, and the organization of the scholarly project, book, or other work).

5) Public-engagement proposal (no more than two pages, double sided). In the public-engagement proposal, applicants should explain how they plan to engage a public audience with their proposed research project (e.g., through a newspaper op-ed, public discussion, podcast episode, etc.).

6) Two Letters of Reference. The letters should address the strength of the applicant's proposed research project, its fit with the 2024-2025 theme of The Good Life, and the applicant's collaborative potential and collegiality.

7) (Optional) Up to two pages of non-text materials supporting the research proposal.

Finalists will be asked to be available for a brief Zoom conversation with committee members during the final stage of the selection process.

All 2024-2025 NDIAS Faculty Fellowship applications, including letters of reference and supporting documentation, must be received by 11:59 p.m. (ET) on Monday, October 2, 2023.

For more information, please visit ndias.nd.edu/fellowships/faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/2/2023
Date Posted: 6/21/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12041

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should be broadly trained in the foundations of political thought and have teaching interests in comparative politics and institutions. An ability to teach in at least one regional area--Middle East, East Asia, Latin America, etc.--is expected. The willingness to offer courses on global or regional policymaking in a specialized area is also welcomed. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a comparable degree by the time of appointment.
Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia

Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122859. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.
Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11861

University of Tennessee, Chattanooga
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Service at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga College of Arts and Sciences invites applications for a non-renewable, one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position in American Political Behavior beginning August 2023.

We are seeking a political scientist from any subfield to assist in teaching research methods (a required course for all of the majors in the department at the 3000-level), senior capstone, and American Government in the fall and American Government, senior capstone, and electives of their choice in the Spring. Review of applications will begin immediately.

Further information about the department is available at https://www.utc.edu/psps.

Qualifications:
Successful candidates will possess the following requirements:
Ph.D. or ABD in Political Science or closely-related field.
- Ability to teach introductory/advanced courses in Research Methods.
- Willingness to engage in a variety of instructional modalities, including online instruction.
- Willingness to participate in the life of the department.

Application Procedures:
Applicants must submit the following information within our online application system for consideration:
https://ut.taleo.net/careersection/utc_faculty/jobdetail.ftl?job=230000015Z&tz=GMT-04%3A00&tzname=America%2FNew_York

- Cover letter/letter of interest

- CV, including up-to-date, personal contact information (email, phone, etc.)
- Unofficial transcripts
- Any evidence of teaching effectiveness, including teaching philosophy, course evaluations, and sample syllabi
- Additionally, candidates will need to include names, titles, and email addresses for three (3) references. Confidential letters of recommendation will be requested from finalists only.

Inquiries may be made to Dr. Michelle D. Deardorff, Department Head, at Michelle-Deardorff@utc.edu.

Review of applicants will begin immediately.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is the second-largest school in the University of Tennessee System and serves a diverse student body of more than 11,600 undergraduate and graduate students through five academic colleges. UTC offers a unique blend of private and public school traditions with a commitment to achieve excellence, embrace diversity and inclusion and offer experiential learning opportunities for students. As an urban university, we also are dedicated to inspiring positive change and enriching our community. Each day, we strive to earn the trust and confidence of those we serve. Our goal is to make a difference in our community and in the lives of our students.

Our definition of student success is a graduate who has the knowledge required to succeed in the workplace and the personal development to show up on time, how to collaborate and work with others and to execute the steps to complete a project. We have held the line on the cost of education with record low tuition increases over the past four years. But we still have $325 million invested in eight ongoing renovations to campus buildings and construction of new facilities.

Chattanooga, the fourth-largest city in the state, is located in Southeast Tennessee on the Georgia stateline and only a few miles from the stateline of Alabama. Because of our location, UTC enrolls students from those states as well as Tennessee. The city itself has received national recognition for the renaissance of its beautiful downtown and redevelopment of its riverfront on the Tennessee River. For two straight years, Outside magazine has twice named Chattanooga as the Best Town Ever, the only city to achieve that distinction. Lonely Planet magazine says we are one of the Top 10 U.S. destinations, and Money Inc. calls us one of the nation's most underrated cities.

Chattanooga also is home to the first 10-gig internet network in the United States, the fastest internet service in the Western Hemisphere. The city's ongoing dedication to advancing technology has attracted dozens of startups to join companies already here such as Volkswagen, Amazon, Unum, McKee Foods, U.S. Xpress, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. United. Attractions such as the Tennessee Aquarium, Lookout Mountain, the Creative Discovery Museum for Children, Civil War battlefield sites and the African American Museum in the Bessie Smith Cultural Center bring thousands of people to the area, as do events such as the Southern Writers Conference and the musical festivities of Riverbend, Nightfall and Jazzanooga. People who love the outdoors are coming to Chattanooga in vast numbers for its multitude of offerings such as hang-gliding, kayaking, rock climbing, biking, fishing and caving expeditions. The world-famous Ironman Triathlon and Ironman 70.3 half-marathon have contracted to take place in Chattanooga until at least 2023.

In short, Chattanooga is internationally recognized as a forward-thinking city that's rich in tradition, history and wide-ranging activities. We are an exciting and vibrant place to live and work. Whether you're raising a family or single, Chattanooga has something for you.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/2/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11999

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/International Organization & European Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Western Europe, Post Communist Europe

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the development of international organization as well as research and teaching interests in European politics. The ability to offer courses on global and regional policymaking is a plus. The successful applicant will participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11995

Yale University
Rank: Lecturer, Ethics, Politics, and Economics

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. It is designed to foster informed debate about public policy in the light of disciplined reflection on the fundamentals of human association. The Program was created in the belief that, for all the value of specialized fields and subdisciplines, these should not displace attempts to integrate empirical, analytical, and normative concerns that range over different disciplines in the modern university. The undergraduate major in Ethics, Politics, and Economics joins the analytic rigor of the social sciences and the enduring normative questions of philosophy to promote an integrative and critical understanding of the institutions, practices, and policies that shape the contemporary world.

EP&E is now offering a single year lecturer position. We welcome applications from PhDs from political science, economics, philosophy, and business with excellent teaching evaluations, and experience teaching courses that integrate Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines. We encourage PhDs with an interest in teaching the Classics of Ethics, Politics & Economics to apply for this position.

In addition to teaching four courses per year, lecturers are expected to be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

The position is for one year, with the possibility of extending the contract conditional upon performance and available resources. Starting salary is $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and teaching experience. In addition to salary, instructor will receive a $1,500 research account. Starting date is August 1, 2023 or negotiable.

Applicants should have completed PhD (or equivalent degree) requirements by August 2023.

Applications should include the following:

· A cover letter indicating your interest in the position

· CV

· Job Market Paper or at least one scholarly writing sample (in English)

· PhD program transcript

· A preliminary syllabus for an interdisciplinary undergraduate course that integrates Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines.

· Teaching evaluations

· Three letters of recommendation

Please submit application materials electronically here: http://apply.interfolio.com/123777. The review process will begin on May 14, 2023. We will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Ana De La O, Director of Ethics, Politics, and Economics, ana.delao@yale.edu

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 4/11/2024
Date Posted: 4/14/2023

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 11899

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor/Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open
Specializations: Middle East, Latin American, International Security

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College is seeking applicants for a Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor position beginning August 2023. This full-time contract position is for Fall 2023 and Spring 2024 semesters. Successful applicants will teach a total of seven undergraduate courses over two semesters including Introduction to World Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and Politics of Latin America.

Applicants should have demonstrated effectiveness as classroom instructors and an active research agenda in their field of study. Ph.D. candidates are preferred; ABD candidates will also be considered. Rank will be determined based on education and experience.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/122858. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, Hampden-Sydney is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment. Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/5/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11860

Yale University
Rank: Multi-year Lecturer, Program of Ethics, Politics, and Economics

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. It is designed to foster informed debate about public policy in the light of disciplined reflection on the fundamentals of human association. The Program was created in the belief that, for all the value of specialized fields and subdisciplines, these should not displace attempts to integrate empirical, analytical, and normative concerns that range over different disciplines in the modern university. The undergraduate major in Ethics, Politics, and Economics joins the analytic rigor of the social sciences and the enduring normative questions of philosophy to promote an integrative and critical understanding of the institutions, practices, and policies that shape the contemporary world.

EP&E is now offering a multi-year lecturer position. We welcome applications from PhDs from political science, economics, philosophy, and business with excellent teaching evaluations, and experience teaching courses that integrate Ethics with either Political Science, Economics, or both disciplines. In particular, we encourage PhDs with an interest and experience in teaching the Classics of Ethics, Politics & Economics to apply for this position.

In addition to teaching three courses per year, lecturers are expected to be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

The position is for two years, with the possibility of extending the contract conditional upon performance and available resources. Starting salary is $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and teaching experience. In addition to salary, multi-year instructors will receive a $3,000 research account. Starting date is August 1, 2023 or negotiable.

Please submit application materials electronically to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/111113.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 8/24/2022
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 10763

OTHER
Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

Associate Program Director Lecturer/Sr. Lecturer, Nonprofit Management
Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Location
Washington, DC or Remote

Open Date
Jul 27, 2023

Description

POSITION:
Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Krieger School of Arts & Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

REPORT TO:

Program Director, Public Management

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Position Description:
The Johns Hopkins University invites applications for Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management in the Advanced Academic Programs' (AAP) Center for Data Analytics, Policy, and Government, a division of the Krieger School of Arts & Sciences. The Associate Program Director will report to the Director of the Public Management Program. The Johns Hopkins University is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

The Center seeks to hire an innovative and forward-thinking individual to manage the online MA in Nonprofit Management program. This faculty member will also work collaboratively with other Center faculty to set goals and direction in its pursuit of teaching excellence. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track, 12-month renewable faculty position with the academic title of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer.

Advanced Academic Programs:
AAP offers rigorous and high-quality master's degrees and certificates in three locations: the Washington, DC Center, the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD, and online. AAP enrolls almost 6,000 students each academic year in over 45 programs and distinguishes itself through its intensive instructional assistance, selective admissions, and over 60 dedicated full-time faculty. Tenured Krieger School faculty members serve as Program Chairs and oversee the academic rigor of AAP programs and courses. AAP's website, http://advanced.jhu.edu/, provides additional information.

Academic Responsibilities:

- Teach 4 graduate courses per year, including preparation and time spent in the classroom (online), using best practices for teaching, engaging, and mentoring students from diverse backgrounds in the learning process, and responding to student questions
- Advise students, including both program and research/capstone advising
- Provide innovative leadership for curriculum design and new course development to ensure the delivery and growth of a quality program
- Other academic duties normally performed by full-time faculty, such as participating on committees, attending academic events, or contributing to other academic service

Administrative Responsibilities:

- Work with the Program Director and Center Director to hire, mentor, and evaluate adjunct faculty
- Oversee the program's admissions process, including reviewing and approving prospective students' admissions materials
- Provide overall supervision for the Nonprofit Management program
- Schedule courses and set teaching assignments throughout the year
- Host events for current and prospective students

Qualifications:
The Associate Program Director's role is critical to maintaining the overall high quality of this program. The Associate Program Director must have a passion for education and its power to change lives, especially for part-time and non-residential students. A track record of building and managing successful onsite and online education programs, and skills in instructional design, content development, and instructional technologies, are important. Candidates who have experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

Minimum Qualifications:
- PhD in Nonprofit Management, Management, Administration, or a related field
- One to three years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- One to three years of experience at the Assistant Director level, or equivalent administrative experience
- Ability to teach a variety of courses in the nonprofit management field Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Strong organizational

Preferred Qualifications:
- Four or more years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- Professional work experience in the nonprofit management field
- Demonstrated track record of excellence in teaching and innovation in curriculum design
- The ability to work independently in a fast-paced environment with competing demands and multiple deadlines
- Experience managing a degree or certificate program

Application Instructions:
The position will remain open until it is filled. Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for the two most recent semesters taught

The selected candidate will undergo a background check, provide three references, and official transcripts for each credential.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12179

University of Toronto
Rank: Associate Professor / Professor and Chair in Global India

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Global India. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter. The successful candidate may be appointed as the endowed Munk Chair in Global India for a five-year term.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in any social sciences or humanities field and have demonstrated expertise relating to Global India, with a clearly demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. The Munk School seeks a scholar whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance one or more of our existing strengths, which include the Future of Democratic Societies, the Changing World Order, the Political Economy of Innovation, and the Digital World. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, externally funded research program. The Committee especially welcomes candidates whose work focuses on the global role of India and South Asia within the political economy of innovation, and the role of democratic societies, justice, and foreign relations.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished awards and accolades, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the field, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, through the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application including a teaching statement, sample course materials, teaching evaluations, and through endorsements of teaching in the letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School's professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests and may also expand teaching capacity in the Asian Institute. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; curriculum vitae; writing sample; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1-2 page statement of contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 11, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement

The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.
If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

To apply please go to https://jobs.utoronto.ca/job/Toronto-Associate-ProfessorProfessor-and-Chair-in-Global-India-ON/572611217/

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/11/2023
Date Posted: 7/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12174

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: Tenure-track faculty position in Global Economics and Management (GEM)

The Global Economics and Management (GEM) Group at the MIT Sloan School of Management invites applications for tenure-track faculty appointments in GEM at a junior or mid-level effective July 1, 2024. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Economics, Political Sciences, Sociology, Applied Management, or a related field by the start of employment.

Candidates must have strong research skills in global strategy, global entrepreneurship, global markets, political economy or international economics and a teaching interest in global management broadly defined. A range of approaches, perspectives, methods, and disciplines are welcome as long as the individual is interested in broad global management issues. Candidates with an expertise in a specific country or region are also encouraged to apply.

Faculty duties include teaching MBA courses in Global Economics and Management (GEM) and related topics, overseeing graduate student research, and conducting research. Candidates at the mid-level should have a proven track record of successful teaching. Candidates may also have the opportunity to teach doctoral students.

The Global Economics and Management Group includes faculty with interests in international economics, political economy, economic history, and international management and business. Our group is part of the Behavioral and Policy Sciences Area, one of three major areas at Sloan. We encourage multidisciplinary work with colleagues in other parts of the school.

Please submit applications electronically at http://apply.interfolio.com/117311 and provide a cover letter outlining interests and experience, a current CV, one or two papers that indicate your research focus and capabilities, and any recent teaching evaluations. Applicants should also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted via this link. The application deadline for this faculty position is November 3, 2023. Employment is contingent upon the completion of a satisfactory background check.

MIT is an equal opportunity employer committed to building a culturally diverse and pluralistic intellectual community and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 11/3/2023
Date Posted: 7/29/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12173

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in Cambridge MA, together with the MIT Schwarzman College of Computing (SCC), seeks applicants for a position in the area of "Computation and Political Science" at the level of tenure-track Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2024 (for the 2024–25 academic year), or as soon thereafter as possible. A PhD degree in political science, computer science, statistics, or another relevant field is required by the start of employment. We seek candidates whose research involves development and/or intensive use of computational and/or statistical methodologies, aimed at addressing substantive questions in political science. Areas of interest include methods for causal inference; AI/machine learning as applied to political questions; analysis and political implications of AI, big data, and computation; and other topics at the intersection of politics and computing. The successful candidate will have a shared appointment in both the Department of Political Science and SCC in either the Institute for Data, Systems, and Society or the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, depending on best fit. Faculty duties include conducting original research, and teaching and mentoring graduate and undergraduate students. The normal teaching load is three subjects per year (2+1 or 1+2). Candidates are expected to teach in both the Department of Political Science and educational programs of SCC.

MIT is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, ancestry, or national or ethnic origin. Applications should include a cover letter which addresses your research agenda and teaching interests, and how your past efforts and future plans will advance diversity, equity, and inclusion in your scholarship, teaching, and service. Also include a CV, writing sample(s), and three recommendations. Please submit online applications to https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/25219. Completed applications must be submitted by September 15, 2023. Employment is contingent upon the completion of a satisfactory background check, including verifying any finding of misconduct (or pending investigation) from prior employers.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12163

Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey Rank: Professor of Cybersecurity (Open Rank)

Description

(Open Rank) Faculty Appointment in Cybersecurity

The Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey (MIIS) seeks to hire a full-time faculty member specializing in cybersecurity. Expertise in related areas would be a plus; these might include the impact of emerging technologies (such as artificial intelligence) on international security, financial crime, data analytics, and/or a relevant region or country (such as East Asia or Iran). The person we hire will join the faculty of the M.A. program in Nonproliferation and Terrorism Studies (NPTS). The position is open as to rank (assistant, associate, or full professor); for a person whose background is mainly professional rather than academic, an appointment as a professor of practice is possible. We will consider applications from individuals educated in any relevant discipline or field of study. We seek an individual who can teach a range of courses on cybersecurity and related topics. The ability to also train students in applied skills would be a plus. We welcome applications from people who are entrepreneurial and potentially interested in developing new programs, such as a small research center or a new online degree.

The Middlebury Institute is a professional graduate school with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching, research, and professional engagement, and where diversity, equity, and inclusion are core values. MIIS is committed to hiring a diverse faculty as we work to foster innovation in our curriculum and to provide a rich and varied educational experience to an international student body that includes people with varied backgrounds and experience levels. We encourage applications from women, people of color, people with disabilities, and members of other protected classes and historically underrepresented communities. MIIS also invites applications from individuals who demonstrate an ongoing commitment to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in the workplace.

Review of applications will begin on Friday, September 15, 2023; the position will remain open until filled. To apply, please submit a cover letter that describes your areas of expertise and the set of courses you are prepared to teach, a CV or resume, a sample of your research or other writing, sample syllabi and course evaluations if available, and a statement about practices you would use to foster an inclusive classroom and provide support to the wide range of MIIS students. Please also arrange for at least two letters of recommendation to be emailed directly to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Philipp Bleek, at pbleek@middlebury.edu. Salary will be based on rank and experience; it is expected to fall in the range of $80,000 to $130,000. Requirements

Essential Duties/Responsibilities

• Develop and teach classes on cybersecurity and related topics
• Advise and mentor students
• Contribute to development of new programming such as an online degree or small research center
• Engage with relevant professional community through research or other activities

Skills/Abilities/Knowledge

• Ability to develop syllabi and design a broader curriculum
• Ability to teach professional Master's students
• Expertise in relevant aspects of cybersecurity, which might include but is not limited to strategies and policies for protecting cybersecurity, management of cyberdefense operations in government or the private sector, or cyber crime investigations
• At least some foundation on the technical side of cybersecurity
• Collegiality and ability to work with others in an academic environment

Education/Experience

• Ph.D. in a relevant subject or M.A. plus extensive professional experience
• Teaching experience will be a plus
• Professional experience working on cybersecurity or related concerns will be a plus
• A track record of publishable research will be a plus
• A track record of successful fundraising, institution-building, or managing employees will be a plus

Benefits

As an employee of Middlebury, you will enjoy being part of a vibrant supportive community in a gorgeous setting. Middlebury offers its employees excellent compensation and competitive benefits, including access to faculty development funding programs, tuition benefits for dependents, health, dental, core life and AD&D, Flexible Spending Accounts (Dependent Care and Healthcare), short and long term disability, generous retirement matching, and vision benefits. Employees choose between a Low Deductible PPO or a HDHP with employer HSA contributions up to $2,000 dollars a year.

To apply visit https://apptrkr.com/4437551.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12172

The Carter Center
Rank: Data Analyst
Specializations: Electoral Systems, Science & Technology, International Security

SUMMARY:

The Data Analyst supports data management and analysis for Democracy Program's Digital Threats activities, election integrity, and issues where technology interacts with elections, governance, and democracy.
The Data Analyst reports to the Democracy Program's Data Scientist and provides technical and analytical support for initiatives throughout the Democracy Program.
Following The Carter Center Peace Programs' data governance policies, this individual will contribute to the design and implementation of research designs, data collection, and analysis of multi-faceted initiatives vital to the Democracy Program's core objectives, including digital threats to democracy and social media analyses.
This person will also support drafting funding proposals, donor reports, and public information and communications.
Candidates should have excellent communication and interpersonal skills because they may be asked to liaise with both Carter Center staff and external parties.
The Data Analyst is expected to support program publications development, assist supervising and mentoring diverse interns, and contribute to other project(s) responsibilities as assigned; they are encouraged to conduct applied research that contributes to the Democracy Program's leadership in the field.
The Data Analyst will be a valuable member of the Democracy Program. Hostile Environment

FORMAL JOB DESCRIPTION:

Creates and maintains a data dictionary and meta data.
Supports efforts to ensure that data standards are developed and maintained.
Ensures that the uses of data through reports and queries are accurate.
Supports business and system re-engineering and architecture development to define future data needs.
Serves as an organizational consultant on matters relating to databases by providing expertise to assist users in meeting their needs.
Performs other related duties as required.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

A bachelor's degree and one year of experience in data analysis, statistics, or a related field, OR an equivalent combination of education, training, and experience.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Experience with election processes, knowledge of political behavior, and capable of applying appropriate research methods to address real-time problems.
Substantive academic training in political science, public policy, international studies, or similar field.
Familiarity with social media data collection and analysis is preferred. Must possess quantitative, qualitative, and mixed-methods research skills. Experience in original data collection and familiarity with ethical research standards a plus.
Requires familiarity with programming languages (e.g., Python), analytical applications (e.g., Stata, R, NVivo), and working with APIs. Candidate must possess capacities in these areas or demonstrate the ability to learn these skills.
Proven experience with data visualization tools is strongly preferred. Successful applicants must be able to work independently and demonstrate a willingness to work collaboratively in teams.
Understanding of Azure environment, MS Power BI, and Open Data Kit (ODK) and similar data collections management tools preferred.

Applicants must be currently authorized to work in the United States for any employer.

NOTE: This role will be granted the opportunity to work from home regularly but must be able to commute to The Carter Center on a flexible weekly schedule based upon business needs. Schedule is based on agreed upon guidelines. The Carter Center reserves the right to change remote work status with notice to employee.

Start Date: Summer 2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12152

Nanyang Technological University
Rank: Lecturer for "Ethics & Civics in a Multicultural World"
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Political Behavior

Lecturer for "Ethics & Civics in a Multicultural World"

Young and research intensive, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore (NTU Singapore) is ranked among the world's top universities.
The School of Social Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate degree programmes in a full range of disciplines and actively promotes interdisciplinary learning and research.

Lecturer in Ethics and Civics

The School of Social Sciences invites applications for a Lecturer position in the Interdisciplinary Collaborative Core for a course titled 'Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World' at Nanyang Technological University.

Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World aims to equip students with the necessary philosophical foundations to understand theories of ethics and subsequently apply those theories to real-life scenarios and issues. It also aims to enable students to understand and critically assess the civic institutions that structure their local and global communities.

Topics include human rights, democracy, freedom of speech, inequality, abortion, as well as many others. The rights and duties of citizenship shall be a unifying theme. Students will think through assumptions they hold on all of these matters. They will be provided with the tools to understand conflicting perspectives on these important issues. There will be a substantial amount of time devoted toward understanding Singapore's own institutions and ideologies, which are of course products specific to the country's own unique historical and geo-political circumstances.

Responsibilities

The syllabus, including content and assignments, for Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World is fixed. The hired Lecturer will have the following responsibilities:

• Facilitate and conduct all teaching assignments during tutorials, both face-to-face and virtual delivery, across multiple tutorial groups involving activities such as case discussions and student panel presentations.
• Help improve the curriculum, course outlines, evaluation procedures and instruments to foster student learning, stimulate class discussions, and ensure student engagement.
• Support course administration such as course evaluation, online course materials, data entry related to seminar groups, attendance records, and academic counselling on student progress
• Conduct assessments, marking and grade entries, feedback to students, student consultations, non-academic matters etc.
• Provide regular course and student progress statistics
• Adhere to principles of professional conduct.
• Any other assigned duties

Requirements

Candidates with the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

• A master's degree (e.g., MA) or a PhD in philosophy, politics/political science, or public policy. Holding a PhD degree is an advantage.
• Ability to teach ethics, public policy, government, or civics.
• A record of excellence in teaching and mentoring is an advantage.
• Interest and/or proficiency in technology-enhanced learning (e.g., developing online learning activities and assessments, creating lectures to be streamed online).
• Demonstrated potential for scholarship is an advantage.

Application

Applicants are invited to submit their applications (cover letter, CV, research and teaching statements, teaching evaluations, names and contact details of at least three candidates) through the NTU career portal.

Enquiries about the position may be addressed to:
Chair, ICC Search Committee
Email: sc-sss@ntu.edu.sg

Review of applications will begin on 15 August 2023 and we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12144

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, Canadian Politics and Democracy

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time, continuing teaching-stream position in the area of Canadian Politics and Democracy. The appointment will be the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related discipline by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in teaching. We seek candidates whose teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. Candidates must have teaching experience in a degree granting program, including lecture preparation and delivery, curriculum development, and development of online material/lectures. Additionally, candidates must possess a demonstrated commitment to excellent pedagogical inquiry and a demonstrated interest in teaching-related scholarly activities.

The successful candidate will focus on Canadian Politics and will regularly teach core courses in Canadian Politics at the undergraduate level. We particularly welcome applications from candidates with interests in experiential learning and with innovative pedagogical approaches to the fundamentals of democratic citizenship, as well as a commitment to pedagogical development, such as discipline-based scholarship, pedagogical research, and/or professional work relevant to Canadian Politics.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and a commitment to excellent pedagogical inquiry can be demonstrated through teaching accomplishments, awards and accolades, presentations at significant conferences, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application (with required materials outlined below) as well as strong letters of reference from referees of high standing.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; and a complete teaching dossier to include a teaching statement, sample syllabi and course materials, and teaching evaluations.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each once an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. At least one reference letter must primarily address the candidate's teaching. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the FAQ.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity. Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1–2-page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover (but need not be limited to): teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at sari.sherman@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 18, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12145

Western Carolina University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking two faculty members at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2024. These are nine-month positions with summer teaching possibilities and are for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency and Disaster Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Public Administration, Sociology, Urban Planning or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality

The Emergency and Disaster Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:
Application materials must be submitted online to Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin September 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery service and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

The Western Carolina University Annual Safety Report can be found at https://www.wcu.edu/WebFiles/2022ASFSR.pdf or in hard-copy by request at the office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, 114 Scott, Cullowhee, NC 28723 (828.227.7234) or the Office of University Police, 111 Camp Annex, Cullowhee, NC 28723 (828.227.7301).

Persons with disabilities requiring accommodations in the application and interview process please call 828.227.7218 or email at http://jobs.wcu.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12147

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): International Relations, Open, Other

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint Assistant or Associate Professor in Strategic Studies (2 positions) and Assistant or Associate Professor in International Relations (1 position). Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars.

We are open regarding specific areas of research and teaching specialisation. As the School has previously recruited experts in international relations of China and South Asia, it does not require experts in these areas at the moment.

The successful candidates will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisations; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in either Strategic Studies or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative work of the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per year, including one core course for either the MSc in Strategic Studies (Analysis of Defence and Security Policies or Evolution of Strategic Thought) or MSc in International Relations (Study of International Relations) programme depending on their specialisation.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system, click on this link to access - https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-Strategic-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS--_R00013946

All applicants should submit the following:
1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 15 November 2023.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12143

San Diego State University
Rank: Politics of East Asia
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Political Science Department at San Diego State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin Fall 2024. Applicants should demonstrate a well-developed research agenda, a promise of sustained scholarship, and a record of effective teaching.

Qualifications
The department seeks a scholar with research and teaching expertise in the politics of East Asia, broadly understood to encompass Northeast and Southeast Asia. We are open to applications from scholars in both comparative politics and international relations whose research is focused on one or more countries in the region. The successful candidate's research may focus on any of a range of substantive topics – including but not limited to, democratization, political economy, state-society relations, and foreign policy – and should demonstrate a capacity to engage with normative issues underlying critical debates in the field. The candidate would be expected to work closely with the program on International Security and Conflict Resolution and the Center for Asian & Pacific Studies. The department is open to a diversity of theoretical and methodological approaches.

The Political Science Department at San Diego State is dedicated to the ideal of the engaged teacher-scholar. It has over 600 undergraduate majors and provides course offerings for students with a wide variety of backgrounds and interests. At the graduate level, the department maintains an M.A. program of high quality. The members of the faculty share a strong commitment to collegiality, active participation in the governing of the department, innovative scholarship, methodological pluralism, rigorous teaching, and robust intellectual and normative engagement. Candidates are encouraged to consult the department website: http://politicalscience.sdsu.edu.

We are seeking applicants with demonstrated experience in and/or commitment to teaching and working effectively with individuals from diverse backgrounds and members of underrepresented groups. Candidates must satisfy two or more of the eight Building on Inclusive Excellence (BIE) criteria. Candidates that meet BIE criteria: (a) are committed to engaging in service with underrepresented populations within the discipline, (b) have demonstrated knowledge of barriers for underrepresented students and faculty within the discipline, (c) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to teaching and mentoring underrepresented students, (d) have experience or have demonstrated commitment to integrating understanding of underrepresented populations and communities into research, (e) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to extending knowledge of opportunities and challenges in achieving artistic/scholarly success to members of an underrepresented group, (f) have experience in or have demonstrated commitment to research that engages underrepresented communities, (g) have expertise or demonstrated commitment to developing expertise in cross-cultural communication and collaboration, and/or (h) have research interests that contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education. Please indicate in a separate diversity statement how you meet at least two (2) of these criteria. Additional guidance on our BIE program for applicants is here.

SDSU is the oldest institution of higher education in the San Diego region, with a campus in San Diego serving 36,000 undergraduate and graduate students and additional locations in Southern California's Imperial Valley and Tbilisi in the Republic of Georgia. SDSU is included in the Carnegie Foundation's Doctoral Universities: High Research Activity category. Established in 1897, SDSU offers bachelor degrees in 97 areas, masters in 84 and doctorates in 23. See http://www.sdsu.edu for more information. SDSU is a large, diverse, urban university, an Asian-Native American-Pacific Islander -Serving Institution and a Hispanic-Serving Institution with a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusive excellence. Our campus community is diverse in many ways, including race, religion, color, sex, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, national origin, pregnancy, medical condition, and covered veteran status. We strive to build and sustain a welcoming environment for all.

Application Instructions
Applicants must apply via Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/127871. A completed file includes a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, complete teaching evaluations (quantitative evaluations and complete sets of qualitative evaluations of recent courses), sample syllabi, academic writing samples, diversity statement, and three letters of recommendation. To ensure full consideration, submit all materials by September 21st, 2023. Screening of applications will begin then. Applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. by the start of the term of appointment will be given priority. Those without a Ph.D. in-hand should include in their letter of interest a statement of progress on the dissertation and reasons to expect completion in a timely fashion.

Further inquiries should be addressed to Farid Abdel-Nour, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at abdelnou@sdsu.edu.

The minimum salary for this position is based on the current CSU salary schedule for Assistant Professors and may be revised based on contract collective bargaining. The anticipated salary range is from $79,000 to $83,000. Salary placement will be based on the selected candidate's qualifications and experience, and salaries higher than the published maximums may be offered in limited circumstances. San Diego State University offers a rich benefits package that constitutes a major portion of total compensation. For benefits information, click here.

As part of its commitment to a safe and equitable "OneSDSU" community, SDSU requires that individuals seeking faculty employment provide at the time of application authorization to conduct background checks if they become a finalist for the position; applications without this authorization will be considered incomplete and not considered.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
SDSU is a Title IX, equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity and expression, marital status, age, disability, pregnancy, medical condition, or covered veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/21/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12136

Hebrew University
Rank: Gender & International Relations, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

The Department of International Relations at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem is seeking to fill the newly established Leonard and Sophie Davis Lectureship in Gender, Conflict Resolution, and Peace, beginning fall 2024. We welcome applicants at all academic ranks.

The candidate for this endowed position is expected to have a proven record of excellence in cutting edge research and teaching in Gender and International Relations with an emphasis on Gender, Conflict Resolution and Peace, and is expected to take on a leadership role in the development of research and teaching on Gender and IR at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. We encourage applications from scholars of all epistemological and methodological approaches to the study of gender. We especially seek candidates who can complement the strengths of our department in other areas of International Relations. Candidates should be able to conduct research, to teach undergraduate and graduate level classes as well as to mentor students.

Advanced doctoral candidates are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2024.

The language of teaching at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years following their arrival.

The deadline for applications is 23 September, 2023. Candidates selected by the Department of International Relations require the approval of the Faculty of Social Sciences.

The Department of International Relations and the Hebrew University are committed to diversity and equal opportunity. We are also aware of the lasting impact that the Covid-19 pandemic has had on the academic trajectories of applicants. These issues are considered in hiring deliberations. We welcome the submission of a statement explaining the pandemic's impact, if relevant.

Please submit all application materials electronically here: http://ttp.huji.ac.il/

The applicants will be asked to upload:

· A letter of intent stating willingness to begin teaching at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem in the fall of 2024
· A list of required and elective courses that can be taught at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem
· A scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years
· A Curriculum Vitae, including teaching experience
· Three writing samples
· Covid-19 statement (optional) – Brief (up to 400 words), specific statement explaining how the pandemic affected the candidate's academic trajectory
· Teaching evaluations, if available

Three letters of recommendation should be sent directly according to the guidelines in the application website.

Questions about the search can be addressed to Dr. Devorah Manekin (dmanekin@mail.huji.ac.il).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/23/2023
Date Posted: 7/23/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12113

Amherst College
Rank: Visiting Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Political Science

Visiting Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Political Science

Amherst College: Faculty Search: Department of Political Science

Location
Amherst, MA

Open Date
Jul 06, 2023

Amherst College's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, two-year visiting appointment in Middle Eastern politics at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor, beginning on July 1, 2024. The successful candidate will demonstrate competence and sensitivity in working in a department in which students are broadly diverse with regard to gender, race, ethnicity, nationality, sexual identity, and religion. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester and supervision of senior honors projects. We are particularly interested in candidates who are specialists in a particular Middle Eastern country or who study the region as a whole, or the role of the Middle East in international affairs. We are seeking candidates with a broad range of interests, including resource conflicts; natural resource economy; comparative or international political economy of the area; human rights; religion, and politics; refugees and displacement; civil-military relations; political uprisings and social movements; and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

The position requires a Ph.D. Applicants are asked to submit electronically to http://apply.interfolio.com/127839 a cover letter, addressed to Professor Austin Sarat; curriculum vitae; sample of their scholarship; and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled.

Amherst College is a private undergraduate liberal arts college with 1,800 students and more than 200 faculty members. Located in the Connecticut River Valley of western Massachusetts, Amherst participates with Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts in the Five-College Consortium.

Amherst College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages persons of all genders, persons of color, and persons with disabilities to apply. The college is committed to enriching its educational experience and its culture through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/17/2023

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12102

Laval University
Rank: Professor of Global Value Chains
Specializations: Trade, Political Economy, Foreign Policy

Université Laval's Graduate School of International Studies is seeking applications for a position of Professor of Global Value Chains. The successful candidate will serve as Co-Chair of the Chaire de recherche Couche-Tard sur les chaînes de valeur globales. Once a candidate from outside Université Laval has been recruited, an internal competition will be launched to select a Co-Chair with a complementary research record and expertise.

A research advisor will support the Co-Chairs in the development, planning and submission of grant applications, and will oversee the full deployment of the Chair's outreach activities. A budget will be available for doctoral scholarships associated with the Chair.

The candidate hired for this position will join the Graduate School of International Studies as a regular professor as of January 1st, 2024, or no later than June 1st, 2024. Hiring may be at any academic rank in accordance with the Convention collective entre l'Université Laval et le Syndicat des professeurs et des professeures de l'Université Laval (SPUL) (collective agreement between Université Laval and its faculty union (SPUL) – available in French only).

Duties include:
- teaching at the graduate level;
- supervising master's essays, dissertations and doctoral theses;
- conducting research and publishing in the field of global value chains;
- participating in GSIS-related pedagogical and administrative activities;
- being involved in any other activity provided for in the Université Laval-SPUL collective agreement.

Selection Criteria:

- hold a Ph.D. in International Studies or in a field of study relevant to the position;
- demonstrate a strong commitment to multi/interdisciplinarity, whether through training, a research program, teaching experience or collaborations;
- have an excellent research record with publications in peer-reviewed journals considered among the best in the field, or the potential to develop an excellent research record for early career applicants;
- have teaching experience at the university level, ideally confirmed by evaluations;
- have received research grants from granting agencies in their field or demonstrate the potential to obtain such grants in the near future;
- demonstrate the ability to teach a graduate-level methodology course;
- demonstrate proven involvement in international research networks (considered an asset);
- show a high interest in collaborative work;
- have the ability to teach in French within 3 years of taking up the position (Université Laval provides support for newly-recruited faculty to attain proficiency in French).

Applications from doctoral students who are about to defend their doctoral thesis will be considered, provided that a letter from the department head confirming the expected date of thesis submission or defense is provided.

Application deadline: September 29th, 2023

The application file must include:
A. a cover letter demonstrating, among other things, a commitment to multi/interdisciplinarity and international issues;
B. a resume;
C. a document (2 pages maximum) describing a research program for the next 5 years that covers the theoretical, methodological and dissemination aspects of research;
D. a sample of publications.

Candidates on the short list of successful applicants will be required to provide three letters of recommendation from respondents outside Université Laval. Letters are to be sent to the Graduate School of International Studies management.

All applications will be processed confidentially.

Applications and letters of recommendations must be sent to:

Philippe Bourbeau
Director
Graduate School of International Studies
Université Laval
directeur@eti.ulaval.ca

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12077

Public Agenda
Rank: Director, Research Accelerators
Specializations: Research Methods, Public Opinion, Quantitative Methods

Job Title: Director, Research Accelerators

Date Posted: June 30, 2023

Send Cover Letter and Resume to: careers@publicagenda.org

About Public Agenda

Public Agenda is a mission-focused research and public engagement organization. We seek to strengthen democracy by expanding voice and participation opportunities for all Americans. We focus on improving democracy itself and the systems and institutions that determine whether the promise of American democracy will be realized in the lives of everyday people—systems such as health care, education, and criminal justice. We discover pathways and tools for change, and we connect what we are learning to individuals and organizations who can put it to use.

About the Position

We are seeking a Director to oversee a new operational model that will function alongside our existing programming. We call the model the research accelerator, and its purpose is to provide individuals and organizations dedicated to democracy renewal and adjacent goals with reliable and actionable evidence to support their efforts. The research accelerator model will form the centerpiece of a new initiative called the Public Agenda Democracy Renewal Project. Through the Democracy Renewal Project, Public Agenda will provide grant funding to support research on promising democracy-strengthening interventions, synthesize and disseminate findings, and translate information into tools for practical implementation. The goal is to generate, interpret, and synthesize a body of quantitative and qualitative data to provide philanthropies, advocacy leaders, policymakers, and journalists with better information about the efficacy of democracy renewal approaches.

The Research Accelerator Director is an integral member of the leadership team, contributing to Public Agenda's strategic direction, national partnership development, and efforts to translate research into action and impact for the American people. The ideal candidate is someone who possesses strong social science research skills, is passionate about data-informed approaches to challenges facing our democracy, brings an asset-based and equity-centered orientation to project and partnership development, has experience building systems and executing projects or initiatives, and is comfortable working with a wide variety of stakeholders.

Public Agenda's staff is geographically distributed, and this is a work-from-anywhere position within the United States. Staff members must be available to work during standard Eastern Time business hours.

The successful candidate must be available to travel for quarterly organization-wide meetings and occasional additional conferences and meetings.

Key responsibilities include:

Work with a national panel of practitioners, funders, and researchers to identify practice-relevant questions for research, craft requests for proposals to investigate those questions, review proposals, and select projects to fund.

Organize and support connections with and among researchers; ensure progress toward objectives and deliverables.

Lead work to synthesize and report on research findings.

In partnership with our communications staff, promote research opportunities, share research findings (including through in-person convenings) and grow dissemination channels for application tools.

Engage with practitioners, funders, journalists, and policymakers to share findings and explore implications.

Work closely with colleagues to contribute to efforts to engage funders.

Desired qualifications, skills and abilities:
Significant experience in research and execution

Strong strategic and operational sense; ability to read and respond to dynamic contexts and organize systems to meet evolving programmatic requirements

Demonstrated ability to communicate research findings and evidence-based implementation approaches in oral and written form to key stakeholders, such as funders, policymakers, advocates, and journalists

Experience with a range of quantitative and qualitative research approaches
Personal integrity, commitment to resource stewardship

Balanced, solutions-seeking orientation; strong listening skills
Commitment to Public Agenda's mission

Comfort working in a nonpartisan organization committed to ideological diversity

Commitment to a respectful and equitable workplace

Ph.D. in a relevant social science preferred

The annual salary range for this position is $85,000 - $100,000.

Interested candidates should submit (1) a resume or CV, (2) a cover letter describing your interest in and qualifications for the position, and (3) a research-related writing sample (of any length) to careers@publicagenda.org.

*Public Agenda is a qualifying employer under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program (PSLF).

The above statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work being performed by the individual(s) assigned to this position. They are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all duties, responsibilities, and skills required. Management reserves the right to modify, add, or remove duties and to assign other duties as necessary. In addition, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of this position.

Our organization is committed to equal employment opportunity and diversity in the workplace. We will not discriminate against employees or applicants for employment on any legally-recognized basis ["protected class"] including, but not limited to: veteran status, uniform service member status, race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information or any other protected class under federal, state, or local law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/14/2023
Date Posted: 7/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12097

Public Agenda
Rank: Senior Research Associate
Specializations: Public Opinion, Quantitative Methods, Research Methods

Job Title: Senior Research Associate

Date Posted: June 30, 2023

Send Cover Letter and Resume to: careers@publicagenda.org

About Public Agenda

Public Agenda is a mission-focused research and public engagement organization. We seek to strengthen democracy by expanding voice and participation opportunities for all Americans. We focus on improving democracy itself and the systems and institutions that determine whether the promise of American democracy will be realized in the lives of everyday people—systems such as health care and education. We discover pathways and tools for change, and we connect what we are learning to individuals and organizations who can put it to use.

About the Position

The Senior Research Associate (SRA) will contribute to Public Agenda's efforts through work on research projects that use qualitative and quantitative methodologies—surveys, focus groups, in-depth interviews, diary studies—to develop deeper understandings of the views of Americans on key issues, their experiences with important institutions, their values, and their aspirations. The SRA may also participate in research that analyzes media coverage and other forms of public discourse. We are particularly interested in (1) candidates whose skills enable them to identify causal relationships in analyses of attitudes and opinions, as well as the impact of policies and practices, and (2) candidates who are well prepared to conduct research on policies and practices aimed at strengthening democracy in the United States.

Based on the successful candidate's skills and research interests, the SRA will participate in developing ideas for new research projects consistent with Public Agenda's mission. In keeping with Public Agenda's commitment to connecting research to action, the SRA will also contribute to projects that link our research and public engagement capacities and that bring knowledge and knowhow to people who can use it.

The successful candidate will also contribute to the Democracy Renewal Project, a new Public Agenda initiative that will involve translating and synthesizing academic research on policies and practices intended to strengthen democracy—and bringing what we learn to people who can use the information to take action.

Because we are a small team engaged in a broad range of research and engagement activities, we seek a candidate with varied interests and a strong desire to learn about new policy areas and develop new research skills. We are particularly interested in a candidate who can complement our existing strengths by (1) adding to our capacity to conduct research on strengthening our nation's democracy and (2) adding to our methodological toolkit.

The SRA's most frequent tasks will include:

Participating in the development of research instruments, including survey questions, focus group guides, and interview questions
Analyzing quantitative and qualitative data
Writing formal public-facing research reports and more accessible pieces such as blog posts on research findings
Presenting findings in settings such as conferences and meetings with funders and partners
Translating research findings into accessible language and formats for use by non-researchers
Facilitating discussions about research findings with interested constituencies, including advocates, journalists, policymakers, and members of the philanthropic community
Collaborating with colleagues on logistics to ensure smooth completion of projects
Collaborating with Public Agenda's communications team on the production and dissemination of reports and presentations
Collaborating with colleagues across the organization to identify and find support for new projects
Desired qualifications, skills, and abilities:

Advanced skills in statistical analysis, including experience with descriptive and inferential statistics, correlational analyses, regressions, and statistical tests
Experience with survey research
Knowledge of and research experience with key questions in United States politics

Excellent written and oral communication skills and an ability to communicate research findings to non-researchers

Experience making progress on several projects at once

Experience with or willingness and aptitude to learn focus group facilitation

Experience working with large volumes of unstructured data to create datasets is a plus

Experience pulling and cleaning large quantities of data from public databases is a plus

Collaborative spirit

Commitment to Public Agenda's mission

Comfort working in a non-partisan environment committed to ideological diversity

Commitment to a respectful and equitable workplace

Public Agenda's staff is geographically distributed, and this is a work-from-anywhere position within the United States. Staff members must be available to work during standard Eastern Time business hours.

The SRA must be available to travel for quarterly organization-wide meetings and occasional additional conferences and meetings.

The annual salary range for this position is $70,000-$80,000.

Interested candidates should submit (1) a resume or CV, (2) a cover letter describing your interest in and qualifications for the position, and (3) a research-related writing sample (of any length) to careers@publicagenda.org.

*Public Agenda is a qualifying employer under the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program (PSLF).

The above statements are intended to describe the general nature and level of work being performed by the individual(s) assigned to this position. They are not intended to be an exhaustive list of all duties, responsibilities, and skills required. Management reserves the right to modify, add, or remove duties and to assign other duties as necessary. In addition, reasonable accommodations may be made to enable individuals with disabilities to perform the essential functions of this position.

Our organization is committed to equal employment opportunity and diversity in the workplace. We will not discriminate against employees or applicants for employment on any legally-recognized basis ["protected class"] including, but not limited to: veteran status, uniform service member status, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, or any other protected class under federal, state, or local law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/14/2023
Date Posted: 7/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12098

University of Michigan
Rank: Lama Shetzer Professorship in Contemporary Jewish Life

The Frankel Center for Judaic Studies at the University of Michigan invites applications for the Lama Shetzer Professorship in Contemporary Jewish Life. Successful candidates will be appointed at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor. This is a university-year appointment with an expected start date of August 26, 2024.

We invite scholars whose research and teaching engages the complexity of Jewish identities, experiences, and practices in the contemporary world. Scholars whose work draws on social science theories and methods (including, but not limited to, anthropology, sociology, political thought, ethics, and media & communication studies) are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates should demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement as well as excellence in teaching and mentorship. They will also be expected to contribute to the Frankel Center's public outreach efforts and participate in cross-departmental initiatives and collaborations.

A completed Ph. D. is required by the time of appointment. Application review begins on September 18, 2023 and will continue until an appointment is made.

All application materials should be submitted online through Interfolio http://apply.interfolio.com/127450. Materials should include a cover letter detailing the candidate's interest in and qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy and experience (2-3 pages), statement of current and future research plans (2-3 pages), a writing sample (approximately 25 pages), teaching evaluations and other evidence of teaching excellence. Additionally, please include a diversity statement that demonstrates your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion through scholarship/research, and/or teaching/mentoring, and/or service/engagement. There may be some overlap with your research proposal and teaching statements. Candidates selected for interviews will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

For any questions, please contact Michele Fleming at js-secretary-admin@umich.edu.

Offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12078

Tel Aviv University
Rank: Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for two open rank tenure-track positions. We welcome applications from all subfields in political science. Preference will be given to researchers specializing in comparative politics or international relations, as well as scholars studying the interaction between politics and technology. The term of appointment will begin on October 1, 2024.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and endorsements from referees of high standing. The successful candidate is expected to pursue an innovative research program. Candidates must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates must be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, two writing samples, and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Interested individuals must submit their application materials using this link to the submission portal:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdsqhyrJ-DMjorvs1XEYKET9HMUW1Q7bJyiPm7_Je_jWKlUHg/viewform

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed) that should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il by October 10, 2023.

The committee will begin reading applications on October 10, 2023, but may consider files received after this date. The school reserves the right to make (or not make) an appointment according to its exclusive consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 10/10/2023
Date Posted: 7/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12029

University of Texas at Austin
Rank: Tenure Track Business and the Natural Environment Position

The Department of Business, Government & Society (BGS) at the University of Texas at Austin's McCombs School of Business invites applications for an assistant professor (tenure track) position focused on firms and the natural environment effective September 1, 2024. Exceptional candidates may be considered at other ranks.

The BGS department (https://www.mccombs.utexas.edu/faculty-and-research/departments/bgs/) teaches future leaders at all levels of McCombs' curriculum how to recognize and respond to the regulatory, legal, ethical and social expectations that businesses face. BGS aims to contribute to important public policy debates in these and related areas through research that applies rigorous social scientific methods to relevant questions. A willingness to also engage with UT-Austin's Global Sustainability Leadership Institute (https://www.mccombs.utexas.edu/centers-and-initiatives/global-sustainability-leadership-institute/), a partnership between the McCombs School and the Moody School of Communication, will be considered an asset.

The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in economics, political science, sociology, or strategic management and be prepared to publish in top outlets in these fields, as well as teach courses on firms and the natural environment (e.g., Net Zero Strategy or Climate Adaptation) and non-market strategy more broadly. Additionally, candidates' research should primarily focus on business at the organizational- (i.e., firm-) level.

Interested parties should submit the following: 1) a cover letter that includes brief statements of research and teaching interests, 2) a CV,

3) a job market paper, 4) any evidence of teaching effectiveness, and 5) three letters of recommendation. All applications submitted by Friday, September 29, 2023 will receive full consideration, although the search will continue until a suitable candidate is identified. UT-Austin uses Interfolio's Faculty Search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials free of charge. The posting is available here:

https://apply.interfolio.com/127054

Direct any inquiries to Adam Cobb (adam.cobb@ mccombs.utexas.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 6/22/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12047

University of Nebraska, Omaha
Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Tenure-Track Assistant or Tenure Associate Professor
Subfield(s): Other, Public Administration, Public Policy

Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) program in the School of Public Administration at the University of Nebraska seeks a tenure-track Assistant or tenured Associate Professor. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management, Public Administration or Public Policy with emphasis in Emergency Management, or a related field in the social sciences. We are seeking applicants who offer faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) and complement the work of current faculty in EMDS and SPA.

Candidates seeking to fill this position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach existing EMDS core courses, electives and help develop new courses for the Program. Ability to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in our emergency management program and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research with and emphasis on emergency management. The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract.

The University and the School of Public Administration have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment. UNO is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an E-Verify employer.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. Over the past decade, the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the 2022 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #5 in Public Budgeting and Finance, #7 in local government management and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D. programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.

To apply for this position, go to https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/17486, a current curriculum vita, a cover letter addressing professional experience and qualifications, a writing sample and the names and contact information for three references must be attached to the electronic application. We also request that applicants submit with their application a statement that addresses their past efforts, as well as their plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are also encouraged to attach evidence of teaching excellence. We will begin reviewing applications August 21, 2023. Start time is negotiable but the preferred candidate would start in Spring, 2024. The position will remain open until filled. If applicants have any questions, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Craig S Maher (csmaher@unomaha.edu).

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: 8/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12017

University of Zurich
Rank: Head of Research Area "Governance of Global Inequalities"
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, International Political Economy, Trade

The successful candidate will be responsible for research and teaching in the area of the political governance of global inequalities. Applicants can have a background in international/comparative political economy, international relations, or in political philosophy, and their research and/or teaching should relate to PPE ('Politics, Philosophy and Economics'). Within the broader substantive area, specialized attention might be given to issues such as the governance of global climate change agreements and policies, the regulation of migration flows, trade imbalances, developing economies and emerging markets, or changing geopolitical hierarchies. Irrespective of the substantive orientation, the successful candidate's research should have a focus on the political governance of transnational economic, political, or social inequalities, and show an interest in empirical and normative questions and implications.

The University of Zurich offers a dynamic and collaborative work environment with an international orientation, as well as generous support for research and teaching activities. The position is permanent. It comes with a research budget of 3000 CHF/year. In addition, the holder of the position is eligible to apply for Swiss National Science Foundation funding, as well as many other grant programs in Switzerland and abroad. The teaching load is 5 hours per semester plus advising (at 100% employment). A substantial part of the teaching will be in the MA-level program "PPE Politics, Philosophy and Economics". The salary is approximately 110.000CHF/year at 100% employment (80-100% are negotiable). The start date of the position is 1st of February 2024 or upon agreement.

Applicants should hold a PhD degree in political science, international relations, political philosophy, political economy or in a related field at the time of application and have a strong record of academic achievements in the relevant areas. Teaching may be carried out in English, but knowledge of German is an asset. The University of Zurich is an equal opportunities employer and strives to increase the percentage of women in leading positions. Therefore, qualified female researchers are encouraged to apply.

Please send your application electronically as one pdf-file comprising your motivation letter, CV, publication list, transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), a 1-page statement on the research agenda for the coming 3 years and its link to PPE, as well as the names of at least two references to the personnel office of the Department of Political Science (personal@ipz.uzh.ch) by July 31st. Interviews will be held in fall 2023.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr. Silja Häusermann (silja.haeusermann@ipz.uzh.ch).

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: 7/31/2023
Date Posted: 6/8/2023
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 12010

Hitotsubashi University
Rank: Tenure-Track Lecturer in Politics

Hitotsubashi University is one of the top research universities in Japan, specializing in the social sciences. The Graduate School of Social Sciences does advanced and interdisciplinary research and teaching across the social sciences and humanities. We are recruiting a tenure-track lecturer in politics.

Our tenure-track system recruits promising young researchers and supports the development of their research and educational skills. During the five year employment period (extendable up to seven years in some circumstances), tenure-track staff have reduced teaching and administrative loads to allow them to focus on their research. Tenure-track staff who pass the approval process will be promoted to tenured associate professor.

The post requires teaching up to 18 teaching units per year (a lecture course counts as 2 units and a year-long seminar counts as 4 units). Undergraduate teaching: Lecture courses on Political Science (for 2nd year undergraduates and above) and Political Processes (advanced course for 3rd years and above, taught in English); Seminar for 3rd and 4th years (weekly throughout the year).
Graduate teaching: Lecture course on a political science; Seminar.

Qualifications
(1) Hold a PhD or equivalent, or be about to complete one. (The doctorate must be awarded before the successful candidate takes up the post).

(2) Have publications in English that use quantitative methods. The successful candidate should preferably have at least one publication related to Japanese politics.

(3) Be able to teach a lecture course on Political Processes in English.

(4) Can communicate with students and carry out administrative duties in Japanese.

For further information, please see: https://jrecin.jst.go.jp/seek/SeekJorDetail?fn=1&ln=1&id=D123051888&ln_jor=1

Start Date: Spring 2024
Application Deadline: 8/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/5/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12003

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor/International Law & IR
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Normative Political Theory

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the history and development of international law, theories of international relations, and the role of the U.S. Constitution in foreign affairs. The ability to teach courses in regional or global policymaking is also welcome. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or comparable degree by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11994

Political Science Department, Northwestern University

Rank: Two Postdoctoral Scholars – Environmental Social Science STRONG Manoomin Collective Specializations: Environmental Policy, Native American Politics, Research Methods

Seeking Two Postdoctoral Scholars - Environmental Social Science STRONG Manoomin Collective

Deadline: Applications received before May 31st, 2023 will receive full consideration | https://app.smartsheet.com/b/form/01c4c33f00dd49248cfe87cd2e62b16e" rel="noopener" target="_blankApply Here »

Deadline: Applications received by May 31, 2023, will receive full consideration. Expected to begin Fall 2023, preferably by September 1, with some flexibility on start date. For more information on the Collective or the positions, please contact Kim Marion Suiseeya: mailto:Kimberly.suiseeya@northwestern.edu" rel="noopener" target="_blankKimberly.suiseeya@northwestern.edu

Kim Marion Suiseeya (Political Science, Northwestern University) and Josiah Hester (Computer Engineering, Georgia Tech) co-direct the https://www.manoom.in/" rel="noopener" target="_blankSTRONG Manoomin Collective. The Collective supports Indigenous-led, data-driven resilience strategies through sovereignty-affirming and culturally empowering collaborative research. We currently have two funded projects, (1) "Strengthening Resilience of Ojibwe Nations across Generations" and (2) the Coastlines and Peoples Hub's "Research for Indigenous-led, Collaborative Environmental Governance (RICE-Gov)" each seeking a Postdoctoral Scholar in the field of Indigenous environmental governance (1 position/project). These are two-year positions with the possibility of renewal. More details about each position below.

We are seeking researchers with a PhD in Political Science, Sociology, Human Geography, Anthropology, or related social science disciplines. The search is open to ABD candidates close to degree and PhDs who received their degrees no later than 2020. The Postdoctoral Scholars will be part of a large, multi- and transdisciplinary research collective that co-produces tribally driven research to support long-term resilience to climate change. Successful candidates for the positions will conduct field-based, empirical research in the Western Great Lakes region of the United States.

Excellent candidates for these positions will demonstrate a strong commitment to Indigenous and/or decolonizing methodologies; experience co-producing and/or collaborating with Native Nations and Indigenous communities; subject area expertise in Indigenous sovereignty, self-determination, environmental governance, and/or resilience; and experience with a variety of qualitative and/or participatory methodologies, including empirical environmental justice analysis, ethnography, interviewing, surveys, focus groups, and/or institutional analysis. Applicants should demonstrate interdisciplinary literacy and be familiar with or willing to learn approaches to integrate Indigenous Environmental Governance frameworks, cyberinfrastructure, and advanced data science.

In addition to relationship building, collaborative data collection and analysis, and mentoring, the postdoctoral researchers will be expected to:

Contribute to research papers for publication
Conduct literature reviews
Present research for multiple audiences, including Indigenous communities, academic conferences, policy audiences, and the general public
Contribute to project management, including supporting project reporting, coordination, and communication

Finally, successful applicants are expected to uphold the Collective's commitment to respect the rights of Native Nations and Indigenous communities in making decisions related to why, how, and by whom knowledge, information, and data are collected, used, or shared.

Applicants should indicate which position they are applying for (either one or both). Details provided below. Both positions are open to ABD candidates close to degree and PhDs who received their degrees since 2020. Expected to begin Fall 2023 with flexibility on start date.

Review will begin immediately and continue until the positions are filled. Applications received by May 31, 2023, will receive full consideration. To apply, please submit your cover letter, CV, writing sample, and three contacts for references through the https://app.smartsheet.com/b/form/ 01c4c33f00dd49248cfe87cd2e62b16e" rel="noopener" target="_blankonline application.

Postdoctoral Researcher: Strengthening Sovereignty for Resilience

Strengthening Resilience of Ojibwe Nations across Generations project (STRONG; PI: Suiseeya) is a tribally driven effort whose vision is to enhance disaster anticipation, preparation, mitigation, and response in Indigenous communities by building and deploying cyberinfrastructure that integrates Indigenous knowledge, advanced sensing technologies and data systems in ways that support and strengthen Ojibwe Nations' sovereignty and resilience to climate change. During STRONG's planning efforts, Ojibwe Nation leaders made clear that their ability to effectively implement resilience strategies requires recognition of their sovereignty and respect for their authority, legitimacy, and credibility to govern and to exercise treaty rights by the US and state governmental agencies. To strengthen resilience, these leaders identified the need to collect and integrate new environmental data within a culturally appropriate resilience framework. The STRONG project aims to understand the relationships between Indigenous sovereignty and resilience to climate change and support co-development of governance frameworks and tools to strengthen resilience.

The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to conduct field-based research to understand the empirical relationship between sovereignty and resilience. The research will involve working with partner Native Nations and communities to analyze how multi-level governance systems shape sovereignty and resilience practices, experiences, and outcomes; and exploring how multi-modal data can inform and strengthen sovereignty. The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to use multiple, mixed methods including archival research, interviews, focus groups, empirical environmental justice analysis, and institutional analysis to assess sovereignty and wellbeing, and inform development and measurement of sovereignty-affirming resilience indicators. Ideally, the candidate will also contribute to development of STRONG's decision-support cyberinfrastructure, Noon-dawind, a dynamic online community that supports Ojibwe analysis and interpretation of socio-ecological data for asserting sovereignty.

Postdoctoral Researcher: RICE-Gov

Research for Indigenous-led, Collaborative Environmental Governance (RICE-Gov) is part of the NSF-funded Coastlines and Peoples (CoPe, https://www.nsf.gov/awardsearch/showAward?AWD_ID= 2209226" rel="noopener" target="_ blankAward No. 2209226, PI: Hester) Research Hub examining manoomin (wild rice) resilience in the Western Great Lakes region of the United States. Central to Ojibwe lifeways and resilience, manoomin is also a keystone sentinel species for understanding and conserving Great Lakes coastal wetlands. As part of a broader tribally driven research initiative at Northwestern University, the Hub seeks to support Indigenous-led, data-driven resilience strategies for manoomin and increase participation of Great Lakes Indigenous Peoples in science through culturally empowering and sovereignty-affirming collaborative research. Currently, hundreds of Tribal, governmental, private, and community agencies and organizations govern the manoomin range using a complicated, sometimes overlapping and often competing set of public and private treaties, laws, regulations, policies, and norms, all of which operate at different governance levels. As part of the Hub, RICE-Gov aims to understand how such fragmented governance presents challenges and opportunities for advancing manoomin resilience.

The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to conduct field-based research to understand the governance dynamics around manoomin. The research will involve analyzing the institutional landscapes for manoomin governance, identifying opportunities for integrating sovereignty-affirming knowledge practices into policy-making, and develop strategies and capacity-building plans for translating real-time data into real-time governance for manoomin resilience. The postdoctoral researcher will be expected to work with tribal partners to convene iterative workshops focused on strengthening reciprocal relationships through understanding the human and social dimensions of manoomin environments (2) support development of virtual interfaces and opportunities for collaboratively analyzing scientific knowledge and Indigenous knowledge to inform multiple evidence base (MEB) policy-making; and, (3) proactively and responsively analyze governance architectures and policy options to contribute to development and realization of an Indigenous Environmental Governance framework that convenes relatives and responsibilities for advancing manoomin resilience across the region.

Mentorship and Training Opportunities

Successful candidates will join a university with a broad, interdisciplinary community of scholars affiliated with programs such as the Center for Diversity and Democracy (CSDD), the Institute for Sustainability and Energy at Northwestern (ISEN), the Institute for Policy Research (IPR), the Global Poverty Research Lab, the Center for Native American and Indigenous Research (CNAIR), the Environmental Humanities workshop, and the newly established graduate Environment Cluster whose research and pedagogy engages themes related to environmental justice and policy. Additionally, successful applicants will work with PIs to co-create mentoring plans and individual development plans (IDP) to support each Postdoctoral Scholar in advancing their career goals. In addition to diverse opportunities to publish interdisciplinary work with diverse teams, team member will have the opportunity to present their work to broad networks in academia, national labs, and with funding agencies. Trainees will also have opportunities to mentor graduate and undergraduate students, participate in professional development programming through NU's Graduate School and the Searle Center for Advanced Learning and Teaching.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 5/31/2023
Date Posted: 4/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11933

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: Political Science and Weidenbaum Center on Economy, Government, and Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Department of Political Science and the Weidenbaum Center on the Economy, Government, and Public Policy at Washington University in St. Louis invite applications for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship, for a scholar with quantitative methods skills as well as strengths in database management (e.g., SQL) and data analytic methods (e.g., webscraping, Python, and R). Training in political science and/or experience in urban or local electoral politics and representation is a bonus.

The position begins July 1, 2023. The fellow will work under the supervision of Political Science Professors Brian Crisp and Matthew Gabel.

Fellows are expected to be in residence during the fellowship period and to participate in the intellectual life of the Department of Political Science along with the other units of Washington University relevant to the Fellow's research interests. Fellows will work together in a collaborative setting with a team on research projects toward the production of jointly published scholarly research. The Fellow will mostly be working on collaborative projects with the supervising faculty, but will also have time for their own projects. There are no teaching or service obligations.
Qualifications

Required qualifications include a Ph.D. and training in Political Science, Public Policy, or other related fields. For candidates finishing their Ph.D. in 2023, all requirements of the degree must be finished no later than June 30, 2023. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to sex, race, ethnicity, protected veteran, or disability status.

Employment eligibility verification required upon hire.

Application Instructions

Please apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/120801
Applicants should submit: a CV, writing sample, cover letter, and letters of reference (3).

Direct questions about application process to Elizabeth Larson at Elizabeth.Larson@wustl.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2023
Date Posted: 2/9/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11685

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Intelligence Analysis
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Intelligence, Defense, International Security

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Location:
Washington, DC or Online (Remote)

Open Date:
Feb 01, 2023

POSITION:
Adjunct Faculty, Intelligence Analysis
Krieger School of Arts and Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Institution Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach several courses within the MS in Intelligence Analysis program. The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in Summer 2023 and beyond. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest. We are looking for faculty who can teach one or more of the following courses:

473.600 the Art and Practice of Intelligence
This course introduces students to the field of intelligence, particularly as practiced in the United States. After a brief overview of the historical foundations of modern intelligence, it discusses how intelligence is conducted including collection, analysis, counterintelligence, covert action, and oversight. It also discusses intelligence ethics, as well as the disruptive influences of September 11, new technologies, and emerging social trends.

473.602 Intelligence Analysis
Intelligence analysis is fundamentally about understanding and communicating to decision makers what is known, not known, and surmised, as it can best be determined. Students will read seminal texts on intelligence analysis, discuss the complex cognitive, psychological, organizational, ethical, and legal issues surrounding intelligence analysis now and, in the past, and apply analytic methodologies to real-world problems.

473.604 Advanced Critical Thinking and Analysis
Critical thinking involves the methods and principles of correct reasoning and argumentation. Students will apply a combination of logic, critical thinking skills, and structured analytical techniques to identify biases, promote self-reflective reasoning, and improve the quality of intelligence analysis. Using a selection of empirical case studies and operational exemplars, students will conduct a comparative assessment of analytical outcomes based on the application of course learnings versus outcomes derived in their absence.

473.607 Intelligence Ethics
This course will address the ethical dilemmas and issues that challenge intelligence and government decision makers in an increasingly complex operational and technological environment. We will examine basic moral, ethical and privacy considerations at several key points in intelligence operations from collection to covert action. The course will analyze the evolving nature of privacy concerns worldwide, with an emphasis on the balance between individual rights and national security. Students will examine the policy implications inherent in seeking to address these tensions.

473.606 Legal Issues in Intelligence
This class will examine the interplay between the laws and the practices and policies of the United States' Intelligence Community and national security system, both foreign and domestic. While discussion of the history of intelligence activities and laws dating from the origins of our colonial days will necessarily shape the framework of the class, the focus shall particularly be on current debates and challenges faced by the United States in the 21st Century.

473.800 Research Seminar
This course will introduce a variety of research, analytical, and statistical methods intended to provide a basis for designing a research project, including an introduction to quantitative, qualitative, and mixed method research design. Within the context of the course, students will complete foundational work for the capstone project, including identifying and accessing relevant primary and secondary source data, surveying and evaluating the literature, and framing a research question based on the intersection of empirical studies and organizational needs. Attention will be given to the unique restrictions placed on research design and publication within the intelligence community.

473.801 Capstone: Current Issues in Intelligence
In this culminating course, students complete an independent, faculty-approved project that will address a substantive or methodological challenge in intelligence analysis. A successful capstone will include research that provides evidence of the student's mastery of the theoretical knowledge and analytical skills central to the degree's learning outcomes. The capstone provides an opportunity to apply the skills acquired throughout the program to a key challenge facing their organization or community. Students will conduct a literature review, select a research method appropriate to their study, analyze data using qualitative or quantitative methods in their capstone project, and propose and defend their findings.

Minimum Qualifications:
- An advanced degree in any relevant field, with a master's degree at minimum.
- At least five years of professional work experience within the intelligence field.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A terminal degree in international relations, global security studies, political science, history, or in a relevant field related to intelligence.
- A scholar-practitioner background and publications in the field.
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience.
- Leadership experience within the US Intelligence Community.
- Online teaching experience.
- Experience in developing graduate courses.
- The background to teach a wide variety of courses in an intelligence analysis program.
- Strong interest in advising graduate students interested in an intelligence career.

Application Instructions"
The position will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by April 1 2023.

Candidates must submit the following:
- Cover letter should indicate the course or courses you're interested in teaching plus your experience with online learning management systems (i.e., Canvas)
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses
- Transcript from highest degree earned
- The selected candidate will undergo a background check and provide three references.

APPLY HERE: https://apply.interfolio.com/120762

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 2/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11649

Yale University
Rank: Associate/Full Professor, International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

The Department of Political Science and the Jackson School of Global Affairs at Yale University are looking to hire several faculty at the rank of Associate or Full Professor with tenure, with an appointment in International Relations, Comparative Political Economy, and Comparative Politics, beginning July 1, 2023. Faculty are expected to share their teaching and service obligations between both the Political Science Department and the Jackson School of Global Affairs. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year, plus service to the programs.

http://apply.interfolio.com/110491

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 9/5/2023
Date Posted: 8/3/2022
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 10594

POLITICAL THEORY

Tulane University
Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) in Feminist Political Philosophy

Position description: The Political Science Department at Tulane University, in conjunction with Tulane's Gender & Sexuality Studies (GESS) Program, is seeking a tenure track Assistant Professor in Political Theory with a research focus on Feminist Political Philosophy and a strong interest in teaching for the GESS Program as well as Political Science. The successful candidate's home department for tenure and promotion purposes will be the Political Science Department.

The 2-2 teaching load will be split equally between the Political Science Department and the GESS Program. The successful candidate will contribute 2 classes per year in Political Theory and Feminist Political Philosophy in the Political Science Department at undergraduate and graduate curricular levels and will contribute 2 classes per year to the GESS Program (Introduction to GESS and upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in Feminist and/or Queer Theory).

Qualifications
A completed Ph.D. in Political Theory/Political Science is preferred but ABD candidates will be considered. The proposed start date for this position is July 1, 2024. Tulane University values diversity and inclusion. Members of minorities and traditionally underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. Any questions about the position may be directed to the Chair of the Search Committee, Martyn Thompson (mpt@tulane.edu).

Application Instructions
Applicants are requested to send: (1) a cover letter; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a statement of research; (4) a writing sample; (5) three letters of recommendation; and (6) a diversity statement by September 15, 2023. All materials should be uploaded directly in Interfolio: http://apply.interfolio.com/128229.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/18/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12154

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor - Liberal Democratic Theory

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in liberal democratic theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2024, or shortly thereafter.

Applicants must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related area by the time of the appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. The successful candidate will specialize in liberal democratic theory and its critics.

The position is open with respect to approaches and methods. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research addresses the ideals and challenges of liberal democratic politics.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and deepen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University of Toronto's downtown (St. George) campus. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science https://politics.utoronto.ca) to learn more about us.

The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by the submitted research statement, a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, and awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Candidates are also expected to show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment demonstrated through the application materials.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample of no more than 30 pages; and a teaching dossier to include a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations.
Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. We seek candidates who value diversity and whose research, teaching and service bear out our commitment to equity.

Candidates are therefore also asked to submit a 1–2-page statement of their contributions to equity and diversity, which might cover topics such as (but need not be limited to): research or teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities, the development of inclusive pedagogies, or the mentoring of students from underrepresented groups.
Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each after an application is submitted (this happens overnight). Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including reference letters, must be received by September 26, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community.

We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/26/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12133

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Political Theory
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Science & Technology, Political Economy

The Center for the Study of Complex Systems (CSCS) at the University of Michigan seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in complex systems science. The Center is a broad, interdisciplinary unit whose faculty use and develop tools from applied mathematics, computation, physics, statistics, engineering, and network theory to understand questions in the social, biological, and physical sciences. This is a University-year appointment at the Assistant Professor level. The expected start date is August 26, 2024.
Required Qualifications: We seek applicants with a research agenda focused on the development and/or application of complex systems models and/or methods. This may involve theoretical or applied research in areas of complex systems including (but not limited to) mathematical and computational work in network science, computational approaches in complex systems and related topics in computer science, social science, emergence and robustness, or scientific applications where complex systems theory lies at the core of the approach such as: quantitative modeling of biological and social systems, complex systems approaches to systemic racism and health disparities, biological and social evolution, artificial life, and cognition. We are particularly interested in candidates with a record of working across disciplines.

How to Apply: All applications must be uploaded here: https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1700

This faculty position will be in the Center for the Study of Complex Systems or joint between Complex Systems and another academic department or school at the University of Michigan. If a joint appointment is preferred, candidates should suggest possible partner departments or schools. Complex Systems has a tradition of jointly appointed faculty across a wide range of schools and colleges at the University of Michigan, however both joint and 100% Complex Systems appointments will be considered. Applicants must submit a CV, a statement of current and future research plans, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, and evidence of teaching excellence, if any. At least three letters of recommendation are required and must be uploaded by the letter writers to the same website. Finally, please include a diversity statement that demonstrates your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion through scholarship/research, and/or teaching/mentoring, and/or service/engagement. There may be some overlap with your research proposal and teaching statements (1-3 pages).
Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2023 and continue until the position is filled.

Offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women and minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/12/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12090

Bethel University
Rank: Full-time faculty position in the Department of History, Philosophy, and Political Science

Position Title: Full-time faculty position in the Department of History, Philosophy, and Political Science

Job Summary: One-year term position teaching undergraduate Political Science courses with a focus on American politics

Responsibilities:

-Teach seven courses; ideal course load will include teaching at least three sections of the introductory course in American Government and Politics, as well as courses in American Political Ideologies, American Public Policy and Classical Political Thought
-Participate in departmental and institutional activities as appropriate
-Contribute to an academic environment that seeks to advance inclusive excellence in the department and the discipline

Skills:
-Strong teaching skills
-Demonstrated ability to teach courses in American Government and Politics
-Prefer ability to teach courses in Political Theory
-Understanding of and ability to promote Bethel's mission as a Christian liberal arts university
-Commitment to Bethel's efforts to develop as an inclusive university community

Experience: College level teaching strongly preferred

Education: Master's in Political Science or related field required; PhD preferred

Compensation: Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications and experience

Position open: August 2023; Candidate must be legally permitted to work in US

Questions?
Academic Affairs
College of Arts & Sciences
Bethel University
3900 Bethel Drive
St. Paul, MN 55112
651.638.6804
cas-academic-affairs@bethel.edu

Bethel seeks to recruit, retain, support, and develop a diverse workforce that contributes to our educational and Christ-centered mission. Bethel encourages candidates to apply who can assist the University to develop a faculty that reflects the diversity of people in God's kingdom through a variety of ethnicities, cultures, and lived experiences.

Bethel University is a leader in Christ-centered higher education with approximately 5,000 students from 48 states and 32 countries enrolled in undergraduate, graduate, seminary, and adult education programs. Based in St. Paul, Minnesota, Bethel offers bachelor's and advanced degrees in nearly 100 fields. Educationally excellent classroom-based and online programs equip graduates to make exceptional contributions in life-long service to God and the world.

Bethel employs qualified individuals regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, age, marital status, genetic information, veteran status, familial status, and status with regard to public assistance. Individuals must be able to perform the essential functions of the position with or without reasonable accommodations.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12082

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor/International Law & IR
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Other
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Normative Political Theory

Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor within the Department of Government and Foreign Affairs to begin in the fall of 2024. Candidates should have expertise in the history and development of international law, theories of international relations, and the role of the U.S. Constitution in foreign affairs. The ability to teach courses in regional or global policymaking is also welcome. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program and teach, as needed, introductory courses in world politics Faculty teach on a three-year course load rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and the willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or comparable degree by the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College via Interfolio. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Hampden-Sydney College is a selective liberal arts institution enrolling approximately 1000 students. Founded in 1775, it is the tenth oldest institution of higher learning in the United States and one of four liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men. Our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning."

Our beautiful 1300-acre campus is less than 7 miles from downtown Farmville, home to Longwood University and the Moton Museum, which is listed on the U.S. Civil Rights Trail. The campus is located 65 miles west of Richmond, 50 miles east of Lynchburg, and 75 miles south of Charlottesville, providing abundant cultural, recreational and artistic resources. As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/31/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11994

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Public Policy

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The search is open with respect to the substantive subfields of International Political Economy. A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Experience in policy-relevant research and publication is not necessary but would be useful. Candidates are expected to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda and strong promise for teaching in graduate programs.

The successful candidate will join the school's Centre for Multilateralism Studies and International Political Economy Programme. He/she is expected to contribute to and play an active role in teaching, research, and think-tank workstream. The teaching load is up to three courses per academic year.

The initial appointment will be for four (4) years, with further contracts to be considered by the relevant School Reappointment Committee. RSIS offers a competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience. Funding support for research and conference travels is also available.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online career portal:https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-International-Political-Economy--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS-_R00013667

All applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798

Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will be accepted until 31 August 2023

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 5/24/2023

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11980

Seattle University
Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for a full-time term faculty Assistant Teaching Professor position for AY 2023-2024 with the possibility for renewal for AY 2024-2025 in Political Science with a primary focus on Political Theory and a preferred secondary focus on Law. The position begins September 2023, pending budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will primarily be responsible for teaching introductory and upper-division courses in Political Theory, such as American Political Thought, Contemporary Political Thought, and Modern Political Thought. They will also provide limited service, such as attending departmental meetings/events and advising students. Successful candidates must also demonstrate the ability to incorporate issues of diversity in their classes.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Preferred qualifications include the ability to teach, as a secondary focus, courses in Law, such as legal theory, constitutional law, and sociolegal studies.

Additional preferred qualifications include the ability to teach courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors and/or the University Honors Program; comparative political theory relating to non-Western traditions of political thought; and critical theory, broadly construed, including critical legal studies and critical race theory.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.

Compensation at a Glance:

Salary Range: $55,000-$61,000

Seattle University has provided a compensation range that represents its good faith estimate of what the University may pay for the position at the time of posting. The salary offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors such as the qualifications of the selected candidate, departmental budget availability, internal salary equity considerations, and available market information, and not based on a candidate's gender or any other protected status.

Your total compensation goes beyond the number on your paycheck. Seattle University provides generous leave, health plans, and retirement contributions that add to your total compensation package.

Benefits at a Glance

Consistent with its fundamental Jesuit values, Seattle University offers a wide range of benefits designed to care for the whole person. Choose from three different medical plans, a dental, and vision insurance programs. Protect your income with life, short & long-term disability coverage. Plan for your future with up to a 10% employer contribution for retirement benefits, comprised of a 5% nonelective employer contribution and an additional dollar-for-dollar match of your voluntary contributions up to a maximum of 5%. You may also take advantage of 100% paid tuition benefits for the employee and dependents, a subsidized transportation benefit, a wellness program with free access to an onsite fitness facility, and a wide variety of campus events. Enjoy a generous holiday schedule, including a paid Holiday break closure in December, and paid sick leave. For more information explore the Benefits website at: https://www.seattleu.edu/hr/benefits/ Applicants should submit applications online at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers, including curriculum vitae, a writing sample, evidence of successful teaching, such as student teaching evaluation, and be prepared to provide three reference letters upon request. Review of applications will begin May 22, 2023. Open until filled. For additional information, contact Yitan Li, Chair, Political Science Department, at liy@seattleu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 5/22/2023
Date Posted: 4/19/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11919

George Washington University
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a one-year position as a visiting professor with a specialization in American Politics and Theory. The candidate hired will teach a 3-3 load of undergraduate classes during the 2023-2024 academic year.

Minimum Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field by the date of appointment, with specialization in American Politics and Theory. Applicants must have experience teaching undergraduate courses.

Application Procedure: To apply, please complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/100915; upload a cover latter: curriculum vitae;
statement of teaching experience; evidence of teaching effectiveness, preferably student evaluations; and include the names of three references (letters of recommendation are not required). Review of applications will begin on April 24, 2023, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered. Please note the University has an ongoing mandate for all personnel to be fully vaccinated with a booster against

COVID-19.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

The university and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply.
Successful completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 4/24/2023
Date Posted: 3/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11834

Bloomsburg University
Rank: Political Science Temporary Pool-Political Theory

Position Description
The Department of Political Science at Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania seeks qualified candidates for temporary teaching positions (full-time one semester, part-time one semester or part-time academic year) as needs arise. A successful applicant must be able to teach our introductory course in political theory, POLISCI 108: Contemporary Political Ideologies. A description of this courses can be found in the most current Academic Catalog at Bloomsburg University https://archive.bloomu.edu/catalog- .

Qualifying Education/Experience
Applicants must possess a Master's Degree in Political Science or related field (Public Administration, Public Policy) from a regionally accredited institution. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is preferred as is specialization in the disciplinary subfield of political theory. Applicants should also possess a demonstrated ability to work with diverse populations. Previous college teaching experience is preferred.

Supplemental Information
A complete application includes a cover letter addressing requirements and preferences for the position, a current CV, teaching evaluations (if available), a statement of philosophy of education, and 3 letters of recommendation. Submit application materials online at www.bloomu.edu/jobs Applications to this temporary pool will be accepted through April 30, 2024
(to reflect three-year life cycle of pool). Questions may be directed to Search & Screen Committee
Chair, Dr. Neil Strine, hstrin2@bloomu.edu

Finalist(s) for these positions must communicate well and successfully complete an interview process and/or teaching demonstration as judged by the department faculty. Recommendation for hiring is needed from a majority of the regular, full-time department faculty.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, Pennsylvania Child Abuse History Clearance and criminal background.

Completing this search is contingent upon enrollment and available funding.

The University prohibits any form of discrimination or harassment on the basis of sex, race, color, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression,

pregnancy, marital or family status, medical condition, genetic information, veteran status, or disability in any decision regarding admissions, employment, or participation in a

University program or activity in accordance with the letter and spirit of federal, state, and local non-discrimination and equal opportunity laws, such as Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights

Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the Age Discrimination in Employment

Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act and ADA Amendments Act, the Equal Pay Act, and the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act.

The University also complies with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus

Crimes Statistics Act, as amended by the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). Title IX

prohibits retaliation for asserting or otherwise participating in claims of sex discrimination. VAWA imposes additional duties on universities and colleges to investigate and respond to reports of sexual assault, stalking, and dating or domestic violence, and to publish policies and procedures related to the way these reports are handled. The University has designated

the Title IX Coordinator (Jennifer Raup, Elwell Hall,

ORL, 570-389-4808, jraup@bloomu.edu or titleixcoord@bloomu.edu), to coordinate the

University's compliance with Title IX and VAWA and to respond to reports of violations. The University has directed the Bloomsburg University Police Department to coordinate the University's compliance with the VAWA- related Clery reporting requirements. Additionally, inquiries concerning Title IX and its implementing regulation can be made to the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, Region III, The Wanamaker Building, 100 Penn Square East

- Suite 505, Philadelphia, PA 19107; Phone: (215) 656-6010; Fax: (215) 656-6020.

Start Date: Spring 2021

Application Deadline: 4/30/2024
Date Posted: 4/30/2021
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 8845

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

Associate Program Director Lecturer/Sr. Lecturer, Nonprofit Management
Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Location
Washington, DC or Remote

Open Date
Jul 27, 2023

Description

POSITION:
Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management
Krieger School of Arts & Sciences
Advanced Academic Programs

REPORT TO:
Program Director, Public Management

INSTITUTION:
Johns Hopkins University

Position Description:
The Johns Hopkins University invites applications for Associate Program Director, Nonprofit Management in the Advanced Academic Programs' (AAP) Center for Data Analytics, Policy, and Government, a division of the Krieger School of Arts & Sciences. The Associate Program Director will report to the Director of the Public Management Program. The Johns Hopkins University is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

The Center seeks to hire an innovative and forward-thinking individual to manage the online MA in Nonprofit Management program. This faculty member will also work collaboratively with other Center faculty to set goals and direction in its pursuit of teaching excellence. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track, 12-month renewable faculty position with the academic title of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer.

Advanced Academic Programs:
AAP offers rigorous and high-quality master's degrees and certificates in three locations: the Washington, DC Center, the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD, and online. AAP enrolls almost 6,000 students each academic year in over 45 programs and distinguishes itself through its intensive instructional assistance, selective admissions, and over 60 dedicated full-time faculty. Tenured Krieger School faculty members serve as Program Chairs and oversee the academic rigor of AAP programs and courses. AAP's website, http://advanced.jhu.edu/, provides additional information.

Academic Responsibilities:

- Teach 4 graduate courses per year, including preparation and time spent in the classroom (online), using best practices for teaching, engaging, and mentoring students from diverse backgrounds in the learning process, and responding to student questions
- Advise students, including both program and research/capstone advising
- Provide innovative leadership for curriculum design and new course development to ensure the delivery and growth of a quality program
- Other academic duties normally performed by full-time faculty, such as participating on committees, attending academic events, or contributing to other academic service

Administrative Responsibilities:

- Work with the Program Director and Center Director to hire, mentor, and evaluate adjunct faculty
- Oversee the program's admissions process, including reviewing and approving prospective students' admissions materials
- Provide overall supervision for the Nonprofit Management program
- Schedule courses and set teaching assignments throughout the year
- Host events for current and prospective students

Qualifications:
The Associate Program Director's role is critical to maintaining the overall high quality of this program. The Associate Program Director must have a passion for education and its power to change lives, especially for part-time and non-residential students. A track record of building and managing successful onsite and online education programs, and skills in instructional design, content development, and instructional technologies, are important. Candidates who have experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

Minimum Qualifications:
- PhD in Nonprofit Management, Management, Administration, or a related field
- One to three years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- One to three years of experience at the Assistant Director level, or equivalent administrative experience
- Ability to teach a variety of courses in the nonprofit management field Excellent oral and written communication skills
- Strong organizational

Preferred Qualifications:
- Four or more years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
- Professional work experience in the nonprofit management field
- Demonstrated track record of excellence in teaching and innovation in curriculum design
- The ability to work independently in a fast-paced environment with competing demands and multiple deadlines
- Experience managing a degree or certificate program

Application Instructions:
The position will remain open until it is filled. Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for the two most recent semesters taught

The selected candidate will undergo a background check, provide three references, and official transcripts for each credential.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge: https://apply.interfolio.com/129081

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12179

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics and Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning August 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer classes in the undergraduate subfield of American Politics, graduate classes in the Public Administration core, and either Research Methods or Public Law.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load, shared between the undergraduate Political Science program, and the graduate Public Administration program, and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in undergraduate and graduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Applicants must apply through eJobs at https://jobs.etsu.edu.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach in the undergraduate political science program and MPA program.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related discipline, with the ability to teach in both the undergraduate political science program and the MPA program. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching in American politics, Public Administration, and Research Methods or Public Law.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12156

East Tennessee State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - Public Administration and American Politics

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the level of assistant professor beginning August 15, 2024. We are seeking a candidate that can offer both graduate classes in the Public Administration core and classes in the undergraduate subfield of American Politics and Research Methods/Policy Analysis. We welcome any subfield, but City Management, Regional Planning, or Non-Profit Management are especially desired.

The appointment normally carries a 3/3 teaching load, shared between the graduate Public Administration program and the undergraduate Political Science program, and comes with generous startup funding designed to promote a promising research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Candidates must also be capable of excellent teaching in graduate and undergraduate courses. Service to the department, university, profession, and community is also expected.

Applicants must apply through eJobs at https://jobs.etsu.edu.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: Ability to teach in MPA Program and undergraduate political science program.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related discipline, with the ability to teach in both the MPA Program and the undergraduate political science program. ABD will be accepted if the graduation date is prior to August 1, 2024.

Preferred Qualifications: Ph.D. subfields and teaching Public Administration, American Politics, and research methods.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 11/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/27/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12157

Western Carolina University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking two faculty members at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2024. These are nine-month positions with summer teaching possibilities and are for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency and Disaster Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Public Administration, Sociology, Urban Planning or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality

The Emergency and Disaster Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:
Application materials must be submitted online to Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin September 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery service and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

The Western Carolina University Annual Safety Report can be found at https://www.wcu.edu/WebFiles/2022ASFSR.pdf or in hard-copy by request at the office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, 114 Scott, Cullowhee, NC 28723 (828.227.7234) or the Office of University Police, 111 Camp Annex, Cullowhee, NC 28723 (828.227.7301).

Persons with disabilities requiring accommodations in the application and interview process please call 828.227.7218 or email at http://jobs.wcu.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12147

American University
Rank: Professor

American University
School of Public Affairs
Public Administration and Policy
Location
Washington, DC
Open Date
Jul 20, 2023

Description:
The Department of Public Administration and Policy (DPAP) in the School of Public Affairs (SPA) at American University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track positions at the rank of Full, Associate, or Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2024. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2024 in public administration, political science, or a related field.

Teaching responsibilities will include core and elective courses in the School's highly ranked Master of Public Administration, Master of Public Policy, and PhD degree programs. Possible courses include Introduction to Public Administration and the Policy Process, Organizational Analysis, Leadership, Public-Private Partnerships, Legal Basis for Public Administration, Project Management, Policy Process, Policy Implementation and others.

Qualifications:
Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2024 in public administration, political science, or a related field. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. We welcome applications from candidates with an excellent record or promise of scholarly research and exceptional teaching in public administration and management. Possible research topics of interest include but are not limited to: public management, public administration and democracy, public administration and law, citizen voice and participation in governance, diversification of the public service and representative bureaucracy, public organizations and performance, public-private-nonprofit networked governance. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12139

Sam Houston State University
Rank: AY2023-2024 Lecturer – Pool Faculty (Public Administration) – up to 3 positions to be filled

Usual Duties:
The Department of Political Science seeks a qualified instructor to teach courses in our online Masters in Public Administration (MPA) program during the 2023-2024 academic year. We are especially interested in finding a candidate that could teach "Global Disaster Politics" or offer a "Special Topics" course that would fit into the program's concentration in Emergency Management. Depending on student demand and instructor qualifications, we could have additional opportunities upper-division undergraduate courses.

Degree Requirements:
Ph.D. in political science or public administration preferred; will consider candidates that are ABD in a relevant Ph.D. program and/ or candidates that have a master's degree in public administration

Experience Requirements:
Teaching experience, especially online-teaching experience, is preferred.

Required Documents:
1. Cover Letter
2. CV (with references)
3. Transcripts

Optional Documents:
1. Letter of recommendation 1
2. Letter of recommendation 2
3. Letter of recommendation 3

Link to Apply: https://shsu.peopleadmin.com/postings/35403

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12106

Syracuse University
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant or Tenured Associate Professor Positions in Public Management

Tenure-Track Assistant or Tenured Associate Professor Positions in Public Management
Public Administration and International Affairs
Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University

The Department of Public Administration and International Affairs (PAIA) at Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs seeks to appoint two tenure-track Assistant or tenured Associate Professors in public management. We are open to scholars with research expertise in any area of public management. We welcome candidates from a wide range of academic disciplines, theoretical orientations and methodological approaches. The appointments are expected to begin in August 2024.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment in public administration, management, organizational behavior, organizational psychology, sociology, political science, social psychology, or a closely related discipline or interdisciplinary field.

We strongly value excellence in research and teaching. Candidates should demonstrate high-quality research and productivity commensurate with their rank. The successful candidates will contribute to both core and elective courses in public management in the PAIA Department's Master of Public Administration Program. Candidates may also teach in other PAIA programs at the doctoral, masters, and undergraduate level.

The Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs is home to the social science disciplines at Syracuse University and is ranked #1 in the nation for graduate education in public affairs, according to the 2023 edition of U.S. News & World Report's Best Graduate Schools. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to work in or collaborate with faculty from interdisciplinary research centers across the Maxwell School, including the Institute for Democracy, Journalism, and Citizenship, the Autonomous Systems Policy Institute, the Center for Policy Design and Governance, Campbell Public Affairs Institute, the Center for Environmental Policy and Administration, the Center for Policy Research, the Lerner Center for Public Health Promotion, the Maxwell X Lab, the Moynihan Institute of Global Affairs, and the Program for the Advancement of Research on Conflict and Collaboration.

Syracuse University is committed to fostering a diverse, equitable, inclusive, and accessible (DEIA) environment. We seek candidates whose research, teaching, service, or lived experiences have prepared them to contribute to our commitment to DEIA in our work with students, colleagues, and wider communities. The Maxwell School has an Associate Dean of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion who works with the entire Maxwell community to support faculty and students of color, a Faculty of Color group, and several affinity groups. Syracuse University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and encourages applications from women, minority candidates, and individuals with disabilities. Successful candidates must be committed to working with diverse student and community populations.

To apply, candidates must complete an online faculty application https://www.sujobopps.com/postings/99582 and submit a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a list of recommenders, and a writing sample. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive, with full consideration given to those received by September 1. We will continue to consider applications until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12103

Framingham State University
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Faculty of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science, Law, and Global Studies at Framingham State University invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time faculty position in the areas of American Government and Public Administration/Public Policy, beginning in the academic year 2024-2025.

We are seeking candidates deeply committed to teaching in a liberal arts environment. Full-time faculty members at Framingham State teach three 4-credit courses per semester.

Duties include undergraduate teaching, research and scholarship, and service to the department and Framingham State University. The successful candidate will regularly teach Introduction to American Politics and advanced courses in American government and public administration/policy including Legislative Politics, Bureaucratic Politics and Public policy analysis, and other related courses in these fields.

Requirements:
MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field
ABDs will also be considered (Ph.D. must be completed by August 31, 2024)
A strong record of teaching in American Politics and Public Administration/Policy is required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Experience with or a demonstrated willingness to participate in teaching, mentoring, research, or service activities that promote the growth of an equitable, diverse, and inclusive academic environment.

The successful candidate may also teach courses in research methods and support undergraduate civic engagement opportunities.

This is a full-time, exempt, benefits-eligible position in the Massachusetts State College Association (MSCA) bargaining unit at a faculty rank commensurate with credentials and experience. Salary commensurate with experience in accordance with Appendix O of the MSCA contract (http://mscaunion.org/day-and-dgce-contracts/)

Framingham State University conducts criminal history and sexual offender record checks on recommended finalists prior to final employment for all positions.

Framingham State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Members of underrepresented groups, minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and all persons committed to diversity and inclusive excellence are strongly encouraged to apply.

Candidates must apply online by submitting:

Cover Letter addressing teaching philosophy and any areas of specialization/expertise,
CV/Resume,
Equity and Inclusion Statement, and
the names and contact information for three professional references (references are not automatically contacted at the time of application).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12015

University of Nebraska, Omaha
Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Tenure-Track Assistant or Tenure Associate Professor
Subfield(s): Other, Public Administration, Public Policy

Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) program in the School of Public Administration at the University of Nebraska seeks a tenure-track Assistant or tenured Associate Professor. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management, Public Administration or Public Policy with emphasis in Emergency Management, or a related field in the social sciences. We are seeking applicants who offer faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) and complement the work of current faculty in EMDS and SPA.

Candidates seeking to fill this position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach existing EMDS core courses, electives and help develop new courses for the Program. Ability to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in our emergency management program and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research with and emphasis on emergency management. The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract.

The University and the School of Public Administration have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment. UNO is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an E-Verify employer.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. Over the past decade, the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the 2022 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #5 in Public Budgeting and Finance, #7 in local government management and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D. programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.

To apply for this position, go to https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/17486, a current curriculum vita, a cover letter addressing professional experience and qualifications, a writing sample and the names and contact information for three references must be attached to the electronic application. We also request that applicants submit with their application a statement that addresses their past efforts, as well as their plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are also encouraged to attach evidence of teaching excellence. We will begin reviewing applications August 21, 2023. Start time is negotiable but the preferred candidate would start in Spring, 2024. The position will remain open until filled. If applicants have any questions, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Craig S Maher (csmaher@unomaha.edu)

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: 8/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12017

University of South Dakota
Rank: Visiting Lecturer of Public Administration
Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Leadership Studies, Research Methods

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Dakota invites applicants for the position of visiting lecturer of public administration. The successful candidate will teach in our online M.S. in Administration and Executive Master of Public Administration (Executive MPA) programs. This is a nine-month, full-time position that may be renewed subject to budget authorization and administrative approval. The area of specialization is open, although the Department prefers candidates with expertise in organizational behavior and management; leadership in theory and practice; and research methods for administrators. Because the ideal candidate will teach online graduate courses, remote work (i.e. telecommuting) may be an option. The expected workload will be four graduate courses per semester.

This position is not eligible for visa sponsorship at this time.

The University of South Dakota is the state's flagship liberal arts institution with a "higher research" (R2) Carnegie classification. We seek a candidate who possesses a commitment to excellence in teaching and student mentoring within the context of a strong liberal arts program. The successful candidate will be expected to share in the work of a vibrant department and apply his or her professional expertise in the service of the university, community and discipline. The M.S. in Administration and Executive MPA programs enjoy major endowments that support faculty research and professional development.

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in public administration, public affairs or a related field from a NASPAA-accredited program on the date of appointment. The start date will be August 21, 2023.

Applications MUST be submitted online at https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu. A complete application consists of:

1. a letter of application;
2. current curriculum vitae;
3. unofficial graduate transcripts;
4. three letters of reference; and
5. a teaching portfolio (course evaluations, philosophy of teaching statement, and/or sample syllabi).

Additional information may be requested from the finalists for the position. Inquiries and materials that cannot be uploaded should be sent to Professor David C. Earnest, chair of the Department of Political Science, at David.Earnest@usd.edu.

Review of applications will begin on June 19, 2023 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/6/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12006

Auburn University
Rank: Election Administration, Policy, and Law Post Doctoral Fellow

The Fellow will work with Auburn faculty members in the Election Administration concentration in its graduate programs at the masters and doctoral levels, and the newly created Institute for Election Administration Practice and Research to generate new knowledge while also strengthening connections across the election administration community.
The Institute is a partnership between Auburn's election administration faculty and the Election
Center, also known as the National Association of Election Officials, and has been established to conduct and share research and advance and share best practices for the benefit of the election administration community.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 5/25/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11985

Wayne State University
Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Wayne State University

The Department of Political Science at Wayne State University seeks applicants for a tenure track position at the level of Assistant Professor in Public Administration/Nonprofit Management, to begin on or about August 17, 2023.

We seek candidates whose scholarship investigates contemporary issues in public and nonprofit management. A successful candidate will teach graduate-level courses in public and nonprofit management in the Master of Public Administration (MPA) program. Specifically, applicants will be required to teach courses in public service personnel management and nonprofit management. Special consideration will be given to candidates who can also teach administrative ethics including standards for policy making. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester. Responsibilities of this position also include coordinating a primarily online Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Management.

Wayne State University is an urban-serving, premier research university in Detroit, Michigan. The Department of Political Science offers a BA in political science, a BS in public affairs, a graduate certificate in nonprofit management, an MPA program, and MA/Ph.D. programs in political science. The Graduate Program in Public Administration is accredited by the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs, and Administration, and is the oldest and highest-ranked MPA program in Michigan.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, nonprofit and philanthropic studies, or a related field by the time of the appointment. A promise of excellence in scholarship and teaching is required. The starting date is August 17, 2023. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference sent to Dr. Daniel S. Geller, Chair. However, all applicants must also provide their materials through the Wayne State University jobs website:
<https://jobs.wayne.edu/applicants/jsp/shared/search/SearchResults_css.jsp>.
Reference Posting # 046807

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Diversity, equity, and inclusion are integral to Wayne State University's commitment to excellence in research, education, and community engagement. As an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action employer, Wayne State University is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in an inclusive environment. We actively encourage applications from all candidates who appreciate student diversity and success and can contribute to the excellence of the academic community in an urban-serving institution. We welcome applications from black, indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC), LGBTQ+, women, and members of historically underrepresented communities.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11104

PUBLIC LAW

University of Pennsylvania
Rank: Assistant Professor of Legal Studies and Business Ethics/Wharton

Assistant Professor of Legal Studies and Business Ethics/Wharton

The Legal Studies and Business Ethics Department of the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, is seeking applicants for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position. While applicants may be of any rank, we are seeking to hire at the Assistant Professor level in this search. Similarly, we welcome candidates working in any business-relevant area of law and/or ethics, but we are particularly interested in the following areas:

• Corporate responsibility, purpose, and/or governance
• Technology and/or artificial intelligence
• Inequality, discrimination and/or DEI (diversity, equity, and inclusion)
• Labor, employment, and/or work
• Global justice and the international order

The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2024. Information about the Legal Studies and Business Ethics Department and the research expertise of its current faculty may be found at: https://lgst.wharton.upenn.edu.

JOB QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants must have either a JD (or equivalent) or a PhD from an accredited institution or both (expected PhD completion by June 30, 2025 is acceptable). We seek outstanding researchers and teachers with a commitment to business-relevant scholarship. The Department's faculty hold graduate degrees in a variety of areas, including law, philosophy, sociology, history, psychology, and political science. They teach courses in business ethics and law to undergraduates, MBAs, Executive MBAs, and PhD students.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Applications, including a cover letter, a one-page research statement or summary, curriculum vitae, and either a published work or a work in progress may submitted online beginning August 1, 2023.

We encourage early submission of applications, as they will be reviewed until our deadline of November 1, 2023.

Please apply at this link: https://apptrkr.com/4354274

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Candidates are considered for employment without regard to race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class. Questions or concerns about this should be directed to the Executive Director of the http://www.upenn.edu/affirm-action/ and Equal Opportunity Programs, University of Pennsylvania, 421 Franklin Building, 3451 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6205; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

FURTHER INFORMATION: Contact: lgstrecruiting@wharton.upenn.edu

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/4354274

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/31/2023
Date Posted: 8/1/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12071

University of Washington
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science: Law and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and Politics/Public Law starting September 2024. The search is open with respect to field specialization and methodology. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses with capacity for large enrollments of diverse students as well as graduate seminars. The successful candidate will be expected to support the unit's commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. Tenure track faculty engage in teaching, research and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). Washington State Law requires that this ad list a binding salary range. The base salary range for this position will be $9,650-$13,500 per month ($86,850-$121,500 annually), commensurate with experience and qualifications, or as mandated by a U.S. Department of labor prevailing wage determination.

Qualifications
Applicants should demonstrate a strong record of teaching and research in law and politics. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, although applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Application Instructions
Applications should include (1) a one page letter of interest, (2) a two page research statement outlining the candidate's research accomplishments and future trajectory, (3) a two page teaching statement that includes the candidate's pedagogical philosophy, teaching experience, and identifies existing and new courses the candidate is qualified to teach, (4) a two page diversity statement describing the applicant's record of engagement with issues around diversity and equity, and how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities (5) a curriculum vitae, (6) two article-length academic writing samples; and (6) three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted online at: http://apply.interfolio.com/127832

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Benefits Information
A summary of benefits associated with this title/rank can be found at https://hr.uw.edu/benefits/benefits-orientation/benefit-summary-pdfs/. Appointees solely employed and paid directly by a non-UW entity are not UW employees and are not eligible for UW or Washington State employee benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12128

University of Washington
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science: Law and Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Washington invites applications for a full-time (100%) tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and Politics/Public Law starting September 2024. The search is open with respect to field specialization and methodology. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses with capacity for large enrollments of diverse students as well as graduate seminars. The successful candidate will be expected to support the unit's commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. Tenure track faculty engage in teaching, research and service and have an annual service period of nine months (Sept 16-June 15). Washington State Law requires that this ad list a binding salary range. The base salary range for this position will be $9,650-$13,500 per month ($86,850-$121,500 annually), commensurate with experience and qualifications, or as mandated by a U.S. Department of labor prevailing wage determination.

Qualifications
Applicants should demonstrate a strong record of teaching and research in law and politics. Candidates should have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field (or foreign equivalent) by the appointment start date, although applicants at the ABD level will also be considered.

Application Instructions
Applications should include (1) a one page letter of interest, (2) a two page research statement outlining the candidate's research accomplishments and future trajectory, (3) a two page teaching statement that includes the candidate's pedagogical philosophy, teaching experience, and identifies existing and new courses the candidate is qualified to teach, (4) a two page diversity statement describing the applicant's record of engagement with issues around diversity and equity, and how their scholarship and teaching support diverse communities (5) a curriculum vitae, (6) two article-length academic writing samples; and (6) three letters of recommendation. All application materials must be submitted online at: http://apply.interfolio.com/127832

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2023. Questions about this position can be directed to polisci@uw.edu.

Benefits Information
A summary of benefits associated with this title/rank can be found at https://hr.uw.edu/benefits/benefits-orientation/benefit-summary-pdfs/. Appointees solely employed and paid directly by a non-UW entity are not UW employees and are not eligible for UW or Washington State employee benefits.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Date Posted: 7/21/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12129

Rice University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2024. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to university service. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on race and ethnic politics in the U.S., including the intersection of race and ethnicity with political behavior, political representation, public policy, and the law. Successful candidates will be prepared to teach in the area of race and ethnic politics and have skills in quantitative research methods. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2024.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, and DEI statements; graduate school transcripts; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at http://apply.interfolio.com/128602.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12125

Portland State University
Rank: Teaching Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Comparative Politics

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

The University Honors College and the Department of Political Science at Portland State University seek a Teaching Assistant Professor with a focus in Law and Courts with a strong commitment to undergraduate education. This is a non-tenure track faculty (NTTF) appointment for an individual whose responsibilities are primarily devoted to teaching. Expectations of the position will also include mentoring, advising, and service. Appointment may include responsibility for undergraduate curriculum development, participation in assessment, professional development, training graduate teaching assistants and adjuncts, and/or community-based work. We are interested in candidates who engage with key contemporary urban issues such as the environment, immigration, violence and/or policing, fascism and racism, poverty and inequality, among others. Ability to work with, mentor, and advise students and graduate assistants/ tutors/ graders of diverse populations, and participation in departmental, college/ school, or university service are required.

Minimum Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Political Science (or related field).
- Expertise in law and courts in either comparative or American politics.
- Ability to teach academic writing to undergraduates and support undergraduate senior thesis writing.
- Interest in pedagogy and pedagogical professional development.

- Ability to teach introductory qualitative research methods for undergraduates.
- Interest in/ record of mentoring underrepresented and first generation students in US higher education.
- Documented excellence in teaching large and small undergraduate courses in the candidate's field of study.
- Successful completion of a background check.

Preferred Qualifications:
For Honors College: the candidate will be qualified to teach the HON 100 Global City sequence and HON 260 & HON 360 transfer courses, which require a strong foundation in teaching undergraduate writing.

Key Cultural Competencies:
- Create an environment that acknowledges, encourages, and celebrates differences.
- Function and communicate effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities, and cultural backgrounds.
- Seek opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement.
- Adhere to all of PSU's policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

Total Compensation Range & Benefits:
The starting annual salary for this position will be $68,751. An excellent benefits package includes 95% premium paid healthcare; a generous retirement and vacation package; and reduced tuition rates for employee, spouse or dependent at any of the Oregon University System schools. Please visit our total compensation calculator to see the full value of our benefits package.

View the complete job posting and apply through our website: https://jobs.hrc.pdx.edu/postings/42111

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2023
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 12112

University of San Diego
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and International Relations in Public Law

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in public law.

Successful candidates should be committed to excellent, inclusive teaching at the lower and upper division levels, and to engage in student advising. Candidates will pursue a scholarly agenda and engage in service at the departmental, college, and university levels. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The University of San Diego is a teaching focused liberal arts institution, and all faculty in the department of Political Science and International Relations are committed to offering a range of courses aligned with their interests and in support of the departmental curriculum.

The candidate will offer courses that address the relationships between the law, politics, and structural inequity, with a specific expectation that they will regularly offer upper division courses in Constitutional Law and lower division courses in political theory and/or race and ethnic politics. Within the scope of these parameters, the position is open to teacher-scholars of a variety of sub-disciplinary approaches to public law, including law & society, political theory, judicial politics, legal institutions, critical legal studies, politics of race & ethnicity, feminist legal theory, or comparative law. The successful candidate will also contribute courses in other core areas of departmental curricular need and participate actively in student advising, including especially pre-law advising.

In addition to outlining their own interests in and approaches to teaching and research in a liberal arts environment, candidates should also describe how their research or teaching connects to one or more of the following three cluster themes in the College of Arts and Sciences. (link to cluster hire here: https://www.sandiego.edu/cas/about/diversity-equity-inclusion/hiring.php). These clusters will include new faculty from multiple academic disciplines who have research or teaching interests in one of the following substantive themes: Borders and Social Justice, Technology and the Human Experience, and Climate Change and Environmental Justice. The goal of these themed clusters is to facilitate collaborative research, provide opportunities for interdisciplinary teaching, and build community among faculty and students throughout the University. Candidates are encouraged to interpret these themes broadly and creatively to indicate how their teaching and research in political science and public law may be understood to intersect with one or more of the three themes.

Click Apply Now at the following link to apply: https://jobs.sandiego.edu/cw/en-us/job/496415/assistant-professor-of-political-science-and-international-relations-in-public-law

Candidates are asked to submit, at the earliest convenience, but no later than August 21, 2023, the following materials:

Letter of application
Curriculum vitae

Letters of application should explain how the candidate's expertise aligns with the job description of this position as described above, including especially teaching interests and reference to the cluster(s) of interest. The department will review these materials, and candidates will be notified of the department's interest on a rolling basis, but no later than September 8.

At that point, we will invite candidates in whom the department is interested to submit the following further materials:

Teaching Statement and a sample syllabus
Research Statement and a sample of scholarly or creative work Diversity statement, in which you address A) your values with respect to diversity, equity, and inclusion; B) your experience working with minoritized populations and/or on issues that disproportionately affect diverse populations, and C) your plans related to diversity and inclusion in your teaching and research.
Contact information for three references who will be sent a link to upload letters.

Contact: Questions should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Timothy Wyman McCarty, tmccarty@sandiego.edu.

If you have any technical questions or difficulties please contact the Employment Services Team at 619-260-6806, or email us at jobs@sandiego.edu

Special Conditions of Employment:

Effective June 1, 2023, based on CDC guidance, the University strongly encourages all campus members to stay up to date with Influenza and COVID-19 vaccination recommendations. For more regarding information USD's COVID-19 protocols, please visit sandiego.edu/onward.

Background check: Successful completion of a pre-employment background check.

Degree Verification Requirement: Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide official education transcripts for degree verification purposes.

The successful candidates will:

Hold an advanced degree, preferably a doctorate or other terminal degree. ABD candidates will be considered on a case by case basis. Have demonstrated a commitment to teaching and research, mentoring undergraduates, and fostering a climate of inclusion and diversity.
Please note that most positions will be hired at the Assistant Professor level.

BB Positions

$6,833.33 - 7,083.33/month; Excellent Benefits

The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package including; medical, dental, vision, a retirement contribution given to you by the University, and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. Please visit the benefits section of our website to view all of the perks and benefits that USD has to offer. USD: Human Resources: Benefits

The salary range provided in this posting reflects what we reasonably expect to pay for this position. Actual compensation offered or earned is dependent on experience, education and other factors including departmental budget.

The University of San Diego, a contemporary and engaged Roman Catholic institution, was founded by the Diocese of San Diego and the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1949. Governed by an independent board of trustees since 1972, USD remains committed to a liberal arts education grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition and the pursuit of truth, goodness and beauty. Inspired by this centuries old tradition of Catholic higher education, the University welcomes people of all faith traditions and any, or no, religious background. The future success of USD relies on the contributions of those who seek to foster the development of engaged global citizens and an earnest confrontation of humanity's urgent challenges.

The College of Arts and Sciences and University of San Diego
The College of Arts and Sciences is at the heart of the University of San Diego. Our philosophy is built on the enduring values of the Catholic intellectual tradition, immersing students in the concepts of free inquiry, diversity and inclusion, ethical conduct and compassionate service. The College aims to establish an academic foundation for students to thrive and gain a comprehensive education, which spans the sciences, arts and social sciences. Through our exemplary liberal arts education and rigorous scholarship, we aspire to not only educate the mind but also develop the whole person.

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 8/21/2023
Date Posted: 7/11/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12080

Stockton University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, tenure-tack

Responsibilities: The Political Science Program of Stockton University invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning September 1, 2024. The rank is Assistant Professor for applicants who possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field or a J.D. by September 1, 2024. Advanced ABD candidates will be considered, but the rank is Instructor until the degree is completed. Stockton offers a B.A. degree and Minor in Political Science as well as a Pre-Law Concentration, which is the most popular option among our majors. Candidates will be expected to regularly teach advanced undergraduate courses in Civil Liberties and Constitutional Law. An ideal candidate will also be prepared to rotate teaching lower-level and advanced-level pre-law electives such as Judicial Process, Advanced Constitutional Litigation, and the Supreme Court, special topics in the law (e.g., gender, environment, technology, etc.), and other courses as proposed and reviewed within the program. Applicants will be expected to have a research program broadly related to law and the courts. The program is dedicated to maintaining a high-quality pre-law concentration, and applicants interested in teaching at a public university are encouraged to apply. There is a separate position of a campus-wide Pre-Law Coordinator that this candidate would be expected to consider in the future. Stockton offers opportunities for interdisciplinary teaching and engagement.

Descriptions of Essential Duties/Responsibilities:
• Teach three 4-credit courses per semester. This includes 1-to-2 interdisciplinary General Studies courses annually as part of one's regular teaching load. These General Studies courses might include courses for the University's interdisciplinary minors.
• Engage in ongoing scholarship/research.
• Serve as a preceptor (advisor) to students, as assigned.
• Provide service to the University, community, and profession.
• Demonstrate a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion and a strong student-centered vision and public mission.

Required Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field OR advanced ABD (with a timeline for degree completion) OR J.D.
• Research focus on American Law/Courts/Public Law.

Preferred Qualifications:
• 1-5 years of undergraduate or graduate-level teaching experience.
• Teaching and/or research experience in Civil Liberties and/or Constitutional Law.
• Teaching and/or research experience in a specialized legal field such as gender, environment, technology, etc.
• Pre-law advising or service experience.
• For J.D. applicants, a master's degree in policy, political science, or related field.

• For J.D. applicants, experience as a judicial law clerk (preferably at appellate level), and/or experience in constitutional or civil rights litigation including appellate litigation, and/or service on law journal editorial board.

Screening Information: Screening of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by September 15th will receive full consideration.

How to Apply: To apply visit https://employment.stockton.edu. Please complete the online application and include three professional references in addition to the following required documents. Only electronic documents will be accepted. All required documents (Microsoft Word of PDF) must be submitted in order for your application to move forward:

1) A letter of interest describing qualifications and accomplishments
2) A curriculum vitae
3) Unofficial Graduate transcripts
4) A Teaching Portfolio including a 1-2 page teaching philosophy statement and evidence of teaching effectiveness including syllabi, student evaluations, samples of innovative pedagogical assignments, etc.
5) A 1-2 page description of scholarship plans and research capabilities
6) Up to 3 samples of scholarly work

Salary commensurate with experience and is accompanied by an extremely competitive University benefits package.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12075

Stockton University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, tenure-tack

Responsibilities: The Political Science Program of Stockton University invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning September 1, 2024. The rank is Assistant Professor for applicants who possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field or a J.D. by September 1, 2024. Advanced ABD candidates will be considered, but the rank is Instructor until the degree is completed. Stockton offers a B.A. degree and Minor in Political Science as well as a Pre-Law Concentration, which is the most popular option among our majors. Candidates will be expected to regularly teach advanced undergraduate courses in Civil Liberties and Constitutional Law. An ideal candidate will also be prepared to rotate teaching lower-level and advanced level pre-law electives such as Judicial Process, Advanced Constitutional Litigation, and the Supreme Court, special topics in the law (e.g., gender, environment, technology, etc.), and other courses as proposed and reviewed within the program. Applicants will be expected to have a research program broadly related to law and the courts. The program is dedicated to maintaining a high-quality pre-law concentration, and applicants interested in teaching at a public university are encouraged to apply. There is a separate position of a campus-wide Pre-Law Coordinator that this candidate would be expected to consider in the future. Stockton offers opportunities for interdisciplinary teaching and engagement.

Descriptions of Essential Duties/Responsibilities:
• Teach three 4-credit courses per semester. This includes 1-to-2 interdisciplinary General Studies courses annually as part of one's regular teaching load. These General Studies courses might include courses for the University's interdisciplinary minors.

• Engage in ongoing scholarship/research.
• Serve as a preceptor (advisor) to students, as assigned.
• Provide service to the University, community, and profession.
• Demonstrate a commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion and a strong student-centered vision and public mission.

Required Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field OR advanced ABD (with a timeline for degree completion) OR J.D.
• Research focus on American Law/Courts/Public Law.

Preferred Qualifications:
• 1-5 years of undergraduate or graduate-level teaching experience.
• Teaching and/or research experience in Civil Liberties and/or Constitutional Law.
• Teaching and/or research experience in a specialized legal field such as gender, environment, technology, etc.
• Pre-law advising or service experience.
• For J.D. applicants, a master's degree in policy, political science, or related field.
• For J.D. applicants, experience as a judicial law clerk (preferably at appellate level), and/or experience in constitutional or civil rights litigation including appellate litigation, and/or service on law journal editorial board.

Screening Information: Screening of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by September 15th will receive full consideration.

How to Apply: To apply visit https://employment.stockton.edu. Please complete the online application and include three professional references in addition to the following required documents. Only electronic documents will be accepted. All required documents (Microsoft Word of PDF) must be submitted in order for your application to move forward:

1) A letter of interest describing qualifications and accomplishments
2) A curriculum vitae
3) Unofficial Graduate transcripts
4) A Teaching Portfolio including a 1-2 page teaching philosophy statement and evidence of teaching effectiveness including syllabi, student evaluations, samples of innovative pedagogical assignments, etc.
5) A 1-2 page description of scholarship plans and research capabilities
6) Up to 3 samples of scholarly work

Salary commensurate with experience and is accompanied by an extremely competitive University benefits package.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/10/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12076

University of Cincinnati
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Founded in 1819, the University of Cincinnati ranks among the nation's best urban public research universities. Home to nearly 48,000 students, about 11,000 faculty and staff and 332,000 alumni, UC combines a Top 35 public research university with a physical setting The New York Times calls "the most ambitious campus design program in the country."

With the launch of Next Lives Here, the Cincinnati Innovation District, a $100 million JobsOhio investment, eight straight years of record enrollment, worldwide leadership in cooperative education, a dynamic academic health center and entry into the Big 12 athletic conference, UC's momentum has never been stronger. UC's annual budget tops $1.65 billion and its endowment totals $1.8 billion.

Job Overview
The School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) at the University of Cincinnati invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor with a primary workload focus in support of our Law and Society-related curriculum. The position would begin August 15, 2023 and, thus, will need to cover three currently scheduled in-person courses for the Fall semester. Current syllabi and course material will be shared with the selected candidate given the short timing window of this appointment. There will be some flexibility in courses for the Spring, both in terms of time and subject as specified below.

SPIA offers three undergraduate BAs (Political Science, International Affairs, and Law and Society). SPIA also houses three research centers—the Center for Truth, Racial Healing and Transformation (CTRHT) and the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy (CCSP) and our new Portman Center for Policy Solutions The successful candidate will have the opportunity to affiliate with these centers, if they wish.
Essential Functions
The successful candidate will be expected to teach three (3) courses this 2023 fall semester and three (3) courses spring 2024 semester: Specifically,

Fall 2023 courses will be:
• Introduction to Law, Politics, and Society
• Politics of Law and Religion in the U.S.
• Freshman Seminar: Democratic Citizenship

Spring 2024 courses will be:
• Introduction to Law, Politics, and Society (repeated course from Fall)
• 2 Additional American Politics, Public Law, or Political Theory undergraduate courses that the candidate is prepared to teach. Examples include: American Presidency, Legal Advocacy, American Courts, American Public Thought, etc.

Service activities will include advising Law and Society majors and Legal Studies Certificate students.

Minimum Requirements
Prior to the effective date of the appointment, candidates must have:
• Passed comprehensive exams and Minimally have achieved advanced ABD status in their doctoral program
OR
• Have obtained a completed PhD in Political Science or a related field

The appointment will begin August 15, 2023.

Application Process
Interested and qualified applicants must complete our on-line application at https://jobs.uc.edu/job-invite/93435/. In addition to the basic online application, please provide:
• Cover letter indicating fit with the job description and SPIA programs outlined above
• Full and current CV
• List of three references (letters of reference will be requested for short-list finalists)

Review of Applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled with a goal of a mid-to late July 2023 conclusion of the search to allow for the candidate to on-board in time for the Fall semester.

Questions should be directed to Dr. Richard J. Harknett, Director and Search Committee Chair at: Richard.harknett@uc.edu.

Compensation and Benefits

UC offers a wide array of complementary and affordable benefit options, to meet the financial, educational, health, and wellness needs of you and your family. Eligibility varies by position and FTE.

- Competitive salary range dependent on the candidate's experience.
- Comprehensive insurance plans including medical, dental, vision, and prescription coverage.
- Flexible spending accounts and an award-winning employee wellness program, plus an employee assistance program.
- Financial security via our life and long-term disability insurance, accident and illness insurance, and retirement savings plans.
- Generous paid time off work options including vacation, sick leave, annual holidays, and winter season days in addition to paid parental leave.
- Tuition remission is available for employees and their eligible dependents.
- Enjoy discounts for on and off-campus activities and services.

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

The University of Cincinnati, as a multi-national and culturally diverse university, is committed to providing an inclusive, equitable and diverse place of learning and employment. As part of a complete job application you will be asked to include a Contribution to Diversity and Inclusion statement.

As a UC employee, and an employee of an Ohio public institution, if hired you will not contribute to the federal Social Security system, other than contributions to Medicare. Instead, UC employees have the option to contribute to a state retirement plan (OPERS, STRS) or an alternative retirement plan (ARP).

The University of Cincinnati is an Affirmative Action / Equal Opportunity Employer / Minority / Female / Disability / Veteran.

REQ: 93435

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/29/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 12058

Texas State University, San Marcos
Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Congress, American Politics

Posting 20243TTL
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level to teach required and elective graduate and undergraduate courses. The department awards the bachelor's degree and the master of arts degree. All positions are subject to availability of funds.

Required Qualifications:
1. Earned Ph.D. in political science prior to start date;
2. Potential for research and publication in at least one of the following areas: constitutional law, the judiciary, Congress, or American political development.
3. Ability to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in constitutional law;
4. Potential for exceptional teaching; and
5. Effective interpersonal skills.

Preferred Qualifications:
1. Willingness to assist with advising and coordinating events for pre-law students; and
2. Potential for research across the institutions of American government.

Application Procedures:
Online submission of all application materials is required through the university's application portal, https://jobs.hr.txstate.edu/postings/39682.

To assure full consideration, please submit the following by October 16, 2023: 1) a letter of intent addressing required and preferred qualifications, 2) current curriculum vitae, 3) unofficial transcript(s), 4) samples of scholarly work (presentations and/or publications), 5) syllabi (if available), and 6) three letters of recommendation.

Note that as part of our application process, we are requesting three letters of reference. Please provide the names and email addresses for your references in the Reference Letter section of the employment application. Upon submission of your application, an automated email will be generated and sent to your references with instructions on how to attach the reference letter to your application though a confidential online portal.

Candidates selected for interviews will be required to provide official transcripts from all degree granting universities.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12018

Auburn University
Rank: Election Administration, Policy, and Law Post Doctoral Fellow

The Fellow will work with Auburn faculty members in the Election Administration concentration in its graduate programs at the masters and doctoral levels, and the newly created Institute for Election Administration Practice and Research to generate new knowledge while also strengthening connections across the election administration community.
The Institute is a partnership between Auburn's election administration faculty and the Election
Center, also known as the National Association of Election Officials, and has been established to conduct and share research and advance and share best practices for the benefit of the election administration community.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 5/25/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11985

Seattle University
Rank: Assistant Teaching Professor

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for a full-time term faculty Assistant Teaching Professor position for AY 2023-2024 with the possibility for renewal for AY 2024-2025 in Political Science with a primary focus on Political Theory and a preferred secondary focus on Law. The position begins September 2023, pending budgetary approval.
The successful candidate will primarily be responsible for teaching introductory and upper-division courses in Political Theory, such as American Political Thought, Contemporary Political Thought, and Modern Political Thought. They will also provide limited service, such as attending departmental meetings/events and advising students. Successful candidates must also demonstrate the ability to incorporate issues of diversity in their classes.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Preferred qualifications include the ability to teach, as a secondary focus, courses in Law, such as legal theory, constitutional law, and sociolegal studies.

Additional preferred qualifications include the ability to teach courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors and/or the University Honors Program; comparative political theory relating to non-Western traditions of political thought; and critical theory, broadly construed, including critical legal studies and critical race theory.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.
In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.
Compensation at a Glance:

Salary Range: $55,000-$61,000

Seattle University has provided a compensation range that represents its good faith estimate of what the University may pay for the position at the time of posting. The salary offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors such as the qualifications of the selected candidate, departmental budget availability, internal salary equity considerations, and available market information, and not based on a candidate's gender or any other protected status.

Your total compensation goes beyond the number on your paycheck. Seattle University provides generous leave, health plans, and retirement contributions that add to your total compensation package. Benefits at a Glance

Consistent with its fundamental Jesuit values, Seattle University offers a wide range of benefits designed to care for the whole person. Choose from three different medical plans, a dental, and vision insurance programs. Protect your income with life, short & long-term disability coverage. Plan for your future with up to a 10% employer contribution for retirement benefits, comprised of a 5% nonelective employer contribution and an additional dollar-for-dollar match of your voluntary contributions up to a maximum of 5%. You may also take advantage of 100% paid tuition benefits for the employee and dependents, a subsidized transportation benefit, a wellness program with free access to an onsite fitness facility, and a wide variety of campus events. Enjoy a generous holiday schedule, including a paid Holiday break closure in December, and paid sick leave. For more information explore the Benefits website at: https://www.seattleu.edu/hr/benefits/ Applicants should submit applications online at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers, including curriculum vitae, a writing sample, evidence of successful teaching, such as student teaching evaluation, and be prepared to provide three reference letters upon request. Review of applications will begin May 22, 2023. Open until filled. For additional information, contact Yitan Li, Chair, Political Science Department, at liy@seattleu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 5/22/2023
Date Posted: 4/19/2023
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 11919

University of Florida
Rank: Visiting Lecturer in American Politics & Public Law/Judicial Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, time-limited, nine-month, non-tenure-accruing Visiting Lecturer position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. We are particularly interested in applicants whose teaching and research focus on the judicial system in the U.S. Applicants able to teach courses on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating undergraduate policy-related internships, develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors & Junior Fellows programs. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester but may be reduced for significant service to the department. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (http://www.polisci.ufl.edu) to learn more about the Department of Political Science.

Start Date: Fall 2023

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11901

University of Puget Sound
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Visiting Assistant Professor, University of Puget Sound

Appointment: One-year visiting assistant professor in US politics for the 2023-2024 academic year.Responsibilities/Description: We are seeking a scholar of US politics to teach six courses for the year. Courses will include Constitutional Law, Introduction to US Politics, and courses that match the interest and expertise of the successful applicant. While not required, applications are encouraged from scholars who could offer courses appealing to student interests in critical approaches or in areas such as indigenous rights or immigration law. There are also opportunities to connect with scholars and students in a range of interdisciplinary programs including a new Crime, Law, and Justice program; African American Studies; and Latinx Studies.

Qualifications: A doctoral degree (ABD considered) in Political Science and a commitment to undergraduate education are required. Candidates must demonstrate a willingness and ability to address the needs of historically underrepresented students. Successful applicants will have expertise in the US courts or the law. We are interested in candidates with a range of secondary interests including but not limited to parties, political behavior, or US institutions.

Application Deadline: Review of applications will begin March 1 and continue until position is filled.

Required Documents:
• Curriculum vitae
• Letter of interest
• Teaching statement
• Diversity statement (see prompt below)
• Sample syllabi of courses you would be prepared to teach
• A research sample (e.g. article, dissertation chapter, conference presentation)
• Contact information for three (3) references. You will be prompted to enter the contact information for three (3) reference providers. The system will automatically email these reference providers to request a letter.

Applicant's Diversity Statement. As a department and university, we are strongly committed to creating an inclusive and effective teaching, learning, and working environment for all. In the applicant's diversity statement, applicants should comment on their ability to contribute meaningfully to our on-going commitment to be informed and competent with regard to issues of diversity, equity, and individual differences. We encourage applicants to reference the University of Puget Sound's current Diversity Strategic Plan (DSP) at https://www.pugetsound.edu/equity-diversity-puget-sound/threshold-2022-cultivating-culture-inclusive-excellence prior to writing this statement. While not an exhaustive list, the following are some ways applicants can express their qualifications:
• Demonstration of your awareness of inequities for underrepresented student populations in education, research experience, and other opportunities;
• Brief insights on why diversity is important at institutions like the University of Puget Sound;

• Your lived experiences and/or identities that speak to the department and university's commitment to inclusion and diversity;Infusion of diversity and diversity-related issues into your research, pedagogy, and/or service;
• Previous and/or current activities involving mentoring underrepresented student populations;
• Brief insights on how cultural competency increases one's effectiveness as an educator and department/university colleague.

Compensation and Benefits:
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor
Salary is commensurate with education and experience. Faculty salaries at the University of Puget Sound are based on a common salary scale based on experience. Assistant Professor salaries in 2022-2023 begin at $69,074 for an assistant professor level 1 in their first year of full-time post-doctorate teaching through $77,297 for an assistant professor level 6 in their sixth year of full-time post-doctorate teaching. Puget Sound offers a generous benefits package. For more information, visit: https://www.pugetsound.edu/human-resources/benefits

About the department of Politics and Government Department: The department of Politics and Government offers a rich educational experience centered on disciplined thinking about political processes, policy, and political values to prepare students for citizenship and leadership in challenging times. We offer minors and majors with emphases in US Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Law and Society.

About the University: The University of Puget Sound is a liberal arts college dedicated to preparing graduates for the highest tests of democratic citizenship. To learn more about our mission, please visit: https://www.pugetsound.edu/about-puget-sound-0/mission-core-valuesPuget Sound is a member of the Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC), Greater Washington State https://www.hercjobs.org/regions/higher-ed-careers-washington/.

About Tacoma: The University of Puget Sound is located in Tacoma, Washington, a vibrant, diverse mid-sized urban port city. Within and near Tacoma there is ready access to urban, rural, and natural areas as well as opportunities to participate in a wide variety of cultural activities.

University Diversity Statement
• We acknowledge the richness of commonalities and differences we share as a university community; the intrinsic worth of all who work and study here; that education is enhanced by investigation of and reflection upon multiple perspectives.
• We aspire to create respect for and appreciation of all persons as a key characteristic of our campus community; to increase the diversity of all parts of our University community through commitment to diversity in our recruitment and retention efforts; to foster a spirit of openness to active engagement among all members of our campus community.
• We act to achieve an environment that welcomes and supports diversity; to ensure full educational opportunity for all who teach and learn here; to prepare effectively citizen-leaders for a pluralistic world.

Puget Sound is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. We seek diversity of identity, thought, perspective, and background in our students, faculty, and staff. To learn more please visit: http://www.pugetsound.edu/about/diversity-at-puget-sound/

All offers of employment are contingent on successful completion of all required background checks. All new hires will be required to submit proof of current COVID-19 vaccination (including booster) or receive an approved medical or religious exemption from the university.

The University of Puget Sound is an equal opportunity employer.

To apply, go to: https://www2.pugetsound.jobs/psp/HR92PRD/ EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_FL.HRS_CG_SEARCH_FL. GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST_FL&Action=U&FOCUS= Applicant&SiteId=3&JobOpeningId=6988&PostingSeq=1

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 3/8/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 11790

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson School of Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong training in political economy and quantitative methods. We are interested in candidates who study the effects of regime type, electoral systems, and the rule of law on the economy with particular attention to economic growth, regulation, social protection, and the performance of financial markets." The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by Professor Ian Shapiro.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2023. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/118479.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see https://your.yale. edu/enroll#pda .

Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@ yale.edu

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 12/8/2022
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 11487

PUBLIC POLICY
University of Mississippi
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi invites applications for a tenure track assistant professorship to begin in August 2024. The position has a 3/2 teaching load, and the successful candidate will advance an active research agenda. Teaching responsibilities include the department's required courses in Public Policy Research Methods (PPL 210) and Policy Design and Analysis (PPL 310), Advanced Quantitative Methods (PPL 399), and courses in the candidate's area of specialization. A Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration, Political Science or a closely related field is required at the time of employment, as is a record of excellence in teaching and research. A strong background in quantitative methods and policy analysis is required.

The Department provides a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The interdisciplinary curriculum for the major incorporates economics, geography, philosophy, political science, public administration, and public policy. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making; the ethical imperatives of leadership; critical thinking and communication skills; and the conceptual and methodological skills necessary for careful policy analysis. Visit our website at http://leadership.olemiss.edu.

Apply online: https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a teaching portfolio (including syllabi and evaluations, if available). The review of applications will begin on September 25, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The University of Mississippi is classified by Carnegie Foundation as a R1 research university and has been rated a "best college to work for" by the Chronicle of Higher Education. It is an EEO/AA/TitleIX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12164

University of Mississippi
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi invites applications for a tenure track assistant professorship to begin in August 2024. The position has a 3/2 teaching load, and the successful candidate will advance an active research agenda. Teaching responsibilities include the department's required courses in Public Policy Research Methods (PPL 210) and Policy Design and Analysis (PPL 310), Advanced Quantitative Methods (PPL 399), and courses in the candidate's area of specialization. A Ph.D. in Public Policy and Administration, Political Science or a closely related field is required at the time of employment, as is a record of excellence in teaching and research. A strong background in quantitative methods and policy analysis is required.

The Department provides a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The interdisciplinary curriculum for the major incorporates economics, geography, philosophy, political science, public administration, and public policy. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making; the ethical imperatives of leadership; critical thinking and communication skills; and the conceptual and methodological skills necessary for careful policy analysis. Visit our website at http://leadership.olemiss.edu. Apply online: https://careers.olemiss.edu. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, three letters of reference, and a teaching portfolio (including syllabi and evaluations, if available). The review of applications will begin on September 25, 2023 and continue until the position is filled. The University of Mississippi is classified by Carnegie Foundation as a R1 research university and has been rated a "best college to work for" by the Chronicle of Higher Education. It is an EEO/AA/TitleIX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12165

Nanyang Technological University
Rank: Lecturer for "Ethics & Civics in a Multicultural World"
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Political Behavior

Lecturer for "Ethics & Civics in a Multicultural World"

Young and research intensive, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore (NTU Singapore) is ranked among the world's top universities.
The School of Social Sciences offers undergraduate and graduate degree programmes in a full range of disciplines and actively promotes interdisciplinary learning and research.

Lecturer in Ethics and Civics

The School of Social Sciences invites applications for a Lecturer position in the Interdisciplinary Collaborative Core for a course titled 'Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World' at Nanyang Technological University.

Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World aims to equip students with the necessary philosophical foundations to understand theories of ethics and subsequently apply those theories to real-life scenarios and issues. It also aims to enable students to understand and critically assess the civic institutions that structure their local and global communities.

Topics include human rights, democracy, freedom of speech, inequality, abortion, as well as many others. The rights and duties of citizenship shall be a unifying theme. Students will think through assumptions they hold on all of these matters. They will be provided with the tools to understand conflicting perspectives on these important issues. There will be a substantial amount of time devoted toward understanding Singapore's own institutions and ideologies, which are of course products specific to the country's own unique historical and geo-political circumstances.

Responsibilities

The syllabus, including content and assignments, for Ethics and Civics in a Multicultural World is fixed. The hired Lecturer will have the following responsibilities:

• Facilitate and conduct all teaching assignments during tutorials, both face-to-face and virtual delivery, across multiple tutorial groups involving activities such as case discussions and student panel presentations.
• Help improve the curriculum, course outlines, evaluation procedures and instruments to foster student learning, stimulate class discussions, and ensure student engagement.
• Support course administration such as course evaluation, online course materials, data entry related to seminar groups, attendance records, and academic counselling on student progress
• Conduct assessments, marking and grade entries, feedback to students, student consultations, non-academic matters etc.
• Provide regular course and student progress statistics
• Adhere to principles of professional conduct.
• Any other assigned duties

Requirements

Candidates with the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

• A master's degree (e.g., MA) or a PhD in philosophy, politics/political science, or public policy. Holding a PhD degree is an advantage.
• Ability to teach ethics, public policy, government, or civics.
• A record of excellence in teaching and mentoring is an advantage.
• Interest and/or proficiency in technology-enhanced learning (e.g., developing online learning activities and assessments, creating lectures to be streamed online).
• Demonstrated potential for scholarship is an advantage.

Application

Applicants are invited to submit their applications (cover letter, CV, research and teaching statements, teaching evaluations, names and contact details of at least three candidates) through the NTU career portal.

Enquiries about the position may be addressed to:
Chair, ICC Search Committee
Email: sc-sss@ntu.edu.sg

Review of applications will begin on 15 August 2023 and we will continue to review applications until the position is filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/26/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12144

American University
Rank: Professor

American University
School of Public Affairs
Public Administration and Policy
Location
Washington, DC
Open Date
Jul 20, 2023

Description:

The Department of Public Administration and Policy (DPAP) in the School of Public Affairs (SPA) at American University invites applications for two full-time, tenure-track positions at the rank of Full, Associate, or Assistant Professor beginning August 1, 2024. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2024 in public administration, political science, or a related field.

Teaching responsibilities will include core and elective courses in the School's highly ranked Master of Public Administration, Master of Public Policy, and PhD degree programs. Possible courses include Introduction to Public Administration and the Policy Process, Organizational Analysis, Leadership, Public-Private Partnerships, Legal Basis for Public Administration, Project Management, Policy Process, Policy Implementation and others.

Qualifications:
Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2024 in public administration, political science, or a related field. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. We welcome applications from candidates with an excellent record or promise of scholarly research and exceptional teaching in public administration and management. Possible research topics of interest include but are not limited to: public management, public administration and democracy, public administration and law, citizen voice and participation in governance, diversification of the public service and representative bureaucracy, public organizations and performance, public-private-nonprofit networked governance. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/25/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12139

Baylor University
Rank: Full-Time Lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Social Movements, Race & Ethnic Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for Full-time Lecturer, non-tenure track, in comparative politics and/or American politics. This position emphasizes excellent teaching. We are looking for a candidate whose teaching emphasis includes race and ethnic relations and related topics in the US context or from a comparative international perspective. The department is open to candidates with any regional focus and methodological approach. Applicants may also contribute to the flourishing MA and PhD programs and to the direction of the undergraduate public service internship program and other engaged learning initiatives in the College of Arts and Sciences. Review of applications will begin as they are received. To assure full consideration applications should arrive by September 15, 2023.
About Baylor University: Located in Waco, Texas, Baylor University is the oldest college in Texas. With a population of 21,000 diverse students, Baylor is one of the top universities in the nation, having been named an R1 institution by the Carnegie Classification in January 2022. Baylor is also on the honor roll of the "Great Colleges to Work For" from The Chronicle of Higher Education; Baylor offers competitive salaries and benefits while allowing faculty and staff to live in one of the fastest-growing parts of the state. Our strategic plan, Illuminate, guides the University as we continue to live up to Baylor's mission of educating men and women for worldwide leadership and service by integrating academic excellence and Christian commitment within a caring community.

Qualifications
Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of Comparative politics or American politics.

Application Instructions

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Please submit in Interfolio a letter of application, a current CV, official transcripts showing the highest degree conferred, three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Inquiries about this position can be directed to the co-chairs of the search committee, Pat Flavin (Patrick_J_Flavin@baylor.edu) or Ivy Hamerly (Ivy_Hamerly@baylor.edu).

apply.interfolio.com/126605

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12135

CUNY-Baruch College
Rank: Assistant Professor - International Security
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Austin W. Marxe School of Public and International Affairs at Baruch College invites applications for an Assistant Professor (Marxe School), tenure track, with a specialization in international security and technology. Areas of policy research could address cyber conflict, disinformation, military uses of AI, hybrid warfare, weapons proliferation, and other national security and global security challenges of the 21st century. Teaching responsibilities will include electives in a new Global Security concentration and core courses in the Master of International Affairs (MIA) program.

This position is part of an interdisciplinary cluster of new faculty across the College studying data science. Faculty in this cluster will prepare students to understand the threats and opportunities of the digital world. They will form an interdisciplinary data analytics group that will conduct high level research while simultaneously suffusing data science across all areas of the Baruch curriculum to improve student employment prospects.

Compensation and Benefits:
90,134 - 99,532; Commensurate with qualifications and experience. CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

How to apply:
Go to the CUNY website cuny.jobs to see the complete position description and job requirements in CUNYFirst under Job Opening ID #27080. You can view and apply for this job in CUNYFirst via the following direct link to the posting https://cuny.jobs/new-york-ny/assistant-professor-of-policy-cyber-security/85CF44B277D7485D89E11ED06ABE4027/job/

Candidate should provide:
• Cover letter explaining your interest in the position
• Curriculum vitae
• One recent scholarly publication or paper
• Statement of scholarship interest (1 page maximum)
• A narrative statement describing your commitment to working effectively with faculty, staff, and students in a multicultural/multiethnic urban campus environment with a substantial population of students who are among the first-generation of their family to attend a college or university. (1 page maximum)
• Reference list with contact information

Closing Date:
This position will be open until filled and review of applications will start on October 1, 2023.

EEO Statement:
CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 12119

Rice University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for a tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2024. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant professor. Assistant professors are expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses, perform research in their specialized area, and contribute to university service. Therefore, successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on race and ethnic politics in the U.S., including the intersection of race and ethnicity with political behavior, political representation, public policy, and the law. Successful candidates will be prepared to teach in the area of race and ethnic politics and have skills in quantitative research methods. Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by July 1, 2024.

Rice University and the Department of Political Science are committed to building and sustaining an inclusive, diverse environment for our faculty, staff, and students. We encourage applications from individuals who have been historically underrepresented in academia, including people of color, LGBTQI+ people, women, and people with disabilities. We strive to counter prejudice actively and to create a working environment that is inclusive and equitable.

The application deadline is September 15, 2023. A complete application must include a letter of application; a curriculum vitae; research, teaching, and DEI statements; graduate school transcripts; two writing samples; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and three letters of recommendation (applicants must provide contact information for three references who will be contacted automatically for letters of recommendation). All applications should be submitted electronically at http://apply.interfolio.com/128602.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: 9/15/2023
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12125

Tecnologico de Monterrey
Rank: Assistant Professor Positions
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in political science and international relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and or international organizations. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability in conducting theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertations chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2024 to start in August 2024. Compensation is competitive and it includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format to karenaguayo@tec.mx
- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.
- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double spaced pages. If co-authored the candidate should be the first author.
- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating defense date.

For informal inquiries please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx
Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Queretaro, and Guadalajara. For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/ciencias-sociales-y-gobierno.

For more information on the Graduate School of Government, Escuela de Gobierno y Transformación Pública, visit http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/ The graduate school has campuses in Mexico City and Monterrey.

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12124

Singapore Management University
Rank: Open-rank positions in Public Policy / Sociology [centered on Sustainability]

Sustainability Faculty Positions – Open Rank (2 Positions)
Singapore Management University, School of Social Sciences

The School of Social Sciences (SOSS), Singapore Management University, invites applications for two tenure-track / open-rank positions in Public Policy / Sociology centered on Sustainability, to commence in July 2024.

The ideal candidate will demonstrate academic excellence in topics related to environmental and social sustainability, through scholarly research that broadly resonates with one or more of the UN Sustainable Development Goals (UN SDGs). The candidate should also be able to display teaching expertise in their area to be able to contribute introductory as well as advanced courses in the rapidly growing Sustainability curriculum (undergraduate and graduate) at SOSS, including the SMU Master of Sustainable (MST). In sum, the successful candidate should be able to display a record of, or high potential for, scholarly work on topics related to sustainable development (e.g. water-energy-food nexus, natural resource management, climate institutions and partnerships, sustainable communities etc.)

The position requires a doctorate in Public Policy / Sociology or a closely related field. Those with a research focus involving Asia are encouraged to apply.

Singapore Management University is committed to an interdisciplinary and integrated curriculum, providing opportunities to work with faculty across the social sciences. The research support is excellent and salary and benefits are highly competitive. The teaching load is relatively light, and classes are capped at no more than 45 students.

To ensure full consideration, applications must be received by Singapore time 11:59PM on 31 August 2023. Full evaluation of applications will begin immediately thereafter. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified for interviews. Interviews and campus visits will be conducted no later than October 2023. All hires are contingent upon the successful completion of a background check.

The application package should be in electronic form (Word or PDF file) and include:
(1) a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, (2) an up-to-date curriculum vitae (including teaching experience and a list of three referees), (3) a 1-2 page research statement, (4) a 1-2 page teaching statement, (5) up to three writing samples, and (6) evidence of teaching effectiveness (such as teaching evaluations and syllabi).

Applicants for the Assistant Professor position should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent directly to: The Dean's Office, School of Social Sciences, Singapore Management University, 10 Canning Rise, Level 5, Singapore 179873, or e-mailed to: socialsciencescv@smu.edu.sg

Applicants for the Associate and Full Professor position only need to submit the contact information of their three referees. Referees will be contacted for recommendation letters if the applicant is shortlisted.

Further information about the University and the School can be found at https://socsc.smu.edu.sg/

To apply, copy and paste the link:
https://smucareers.taleo.net/careersection/smu_ext_ft/jobdetail.ftl?job=23000070&tz=GMT%2B08%3A00&tzname=Asia%2FSingapore

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 7/16/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12099

Suffolk University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, American Politics, African American Politics

The Political Science and Legal Studies (PSLS) Department at Suffolk University invites applicants for a full time, tenure-track position in American Politics and Public Policy. The Department is interested in recruiting a teacher scholar with a focus on civil rights and liberties, race and ethnic politics, the role of identity in politics, or the impact of economic, social, or political inequality on marginalized groups.

Candidates should provide evidence of commitment to excellent teaching and scholarly potential including a research agenda and plans for peer-reviewed publication. The successful candidate will teach at the undergraduate and graduate level; previous teaching experience is preferred. The PSLS department offers three undergraduate majors (political science, international relations, and law) and two graduate programs (Master's in Applied Politics and a Master's in Global Public Policy). We are looking for candidates who are excited about developing and teaching courses in American Politics, American Institutions and/or public policy. Research methods is also a need in the department.

The successful candidate will contribute to a rich tradition of community-engaged teaching and experiential education that prepares our diverse, substantially first-generation college students—40% of whom are Pell eligible—for careers and civic engagement. The successful candidate will have a commitment to inclusive pedagogy and curricular diversity, mentoring and advising students—especially first-generation college students—as well as conducting impactful research.

Not sure this is you? Contact us to find out! Research indicates that women and members of under-represented groups tend not to apply to jobs when they think they do not meet every qualification, when, in fact, they often do. Suffolk University is dedicated to a diverse and inclusive academic community. Familiarity with and experience using pedagogical methods that enable students across racial, ethnic, socio-economic, and ability groups to reach their maximum potential is a valuable qualification.

Faculty in the PSLS department are award-winning teachers recognized for innovative pedagogical practices, community leaders civically engaged in advancing social justice, internationally recognized policy and political consultants and active researchers and scholars. Department faculty take advantage of our location in the heart of Boston to design exciting real-world learning opportunities.

Diversity, equity and inclusion are woven into Suffolk University's very fabric. We have been providing access and expanding opportunities for under-represented groups for more than a century. This mission is lived through our decisions at every level. U.S. News ranked Suffolk University among the top 100 universities in the country for social mobility. Suffolk was also listed 14th nationally in percentage of international students. Through student, faculty and staff recruitment and support, community engagement, curriculum development, and research, the University community works to advance equity for every student, every day. Learn more about how we manifest the core values of our mission at Suffolk DEI.

Candidates must hold a PhD by the commencement of the 2024/2025 academic year; ABD candidates in the final stages of completing their degrees will be considered.

Application should be made through the Suffolk University Human Resources' Careers at Suffolk site. A complete submission will include: cover letter (including research agenda); CV; graduate transcripts; research writing sample; statement of teaching philosophy; student course evaluations; and contact information for three professional references. For full consideration, applications should be submitted by September 30. Initial interviews will be via Zoom followed by on-campus interviews. The department will also hold an information session at the 2023 APSA conference in August.

Suffolk University is a private, comprehensive, urban university located in downtown Boston, and is an equal opportunity employer committed to faculty diversity. Candidates from underrepresented groups are encouraged to apply. You can learn more about Suffolk University from our website. To learn more about the Political Science & Legal Studies department, go to our department website.

Inquiries about the position and the APSA information session should be addressed to Dr. Rachael Cobb, Chair of the PSLS Department at rcobb@suffolk.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/13/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12094

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Political Theory
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Science & Technology, Political Economy

The Center for the Study of Complex Systems (CSCS) at the University of Michigan seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in complex systems science. The Center is a broad, interdisciplinary unit whose faculty use and develop tools from applied mathematics, computation, physics, statistics, engineering, and network theory to understand questions in the social, biological, and physical sciences. This is a University-year appointment at the Assistant Professor level. The expected start date is August 26, 2024.
Required Qualifications: We seek applicants with a research agenda focused on the development and/or application of complex systems models and/or methods. This may involve theoretical or applied research in areas of complex systems including (but not limited to) mathematical and computational work in network science, computational approaches in complex systems and related topics in computer science, social science, emergence and robustness, or scientific applications where complex systems theory lies at the core of the approach such as: quantitative modeling of biological and social systems, complex systems approaches to systemic racism and health disparities, biological and social evolution, artificial life, and cognition. We are particularly interested in candidates with a record of working across disciplines.

How to Apply: All applications must be uploaded here: https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1700

This faculty position will be in the Center for the Study of Complex Systems or joint between Complex Systems and another academic department or school at the University of Michigan. If a joint appointment is preferred, candidates should suggest possible partner departments or schools. Complex Systems has a tradition of jointly appointed faculty across a wide range of schools and colleges at the University of Michigan, however both joint and 100% Complex Systems appointments will be considered. Applicants must submit a CV, a statement of current and future research plans, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, and evidence of teaching excellence, if any. At least three letters of recommendation are required and must be uploaded by the letter writers to the same website. Finally, please include a diversity statement that demonstrates your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion through scholarship/research, and/or teaching/mentoring, and/or service/engagement. There may be some overlap with your research proposal and teaching statements (1-3 pages).

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2023 and continue until the position is filled.

Offers for this appointment are contingent on successful completion of a background screening. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an equal opportunity/ affirmative action employer. Women and minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: 10/1/2023
Date Posted: 7/12/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12090

Harvard University
Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Science)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Russia, Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes

The John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in international and global affairs. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in political science (with a specialty either in international relations or comparative politics), a strong commitment to producing rigorous social scientific research, excellent teaching skills, and a demonstrable interest in engagement with the world of practice. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to teaching in the Harvard Kennedy School's core curriculum for students in its Master of Public Policy program.

The search is open in terms of subject matter, but we particularly welcome applications from empirically-sophisticated political scientists whose work advances clear and compelling perspectives on interstate conflict, human rights, migration and refugee policy, environmental politics, and the politics of nuclear weapons. We are especially interested in scholars of these issues whose regional focus is Europe or Russia and the former Soviet Union.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, C.V., research statement, a description of past or planned teaching (along with teaching evaluations, if available), one or two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/12482.

Applications should be submitted by September 5, 2023 in order to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 12067

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty Position - Economics

Position Summary:

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) is an emerging graduate school that offers Masters, PhD, and executive education programs. Presently, the school is in the developmental phase and is offering executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students is scheduled to begin in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia on the KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research facility that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals, within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. By doing so, the KSPP seeks to facilitate the sharing and application of knowledge and best practices, and the adoption of industry-leading practices to enhance the learning experience of its students.

As the first public policy college in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer degrees that focus on general public policy, energy policy and economics, sustainability, and climate policy. By providing programs in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

Responsibilities:

Teaching required and elective courses in public policy in our graduate programs.
Conducting high-quality research and publishing in top discipline journals
Participating in curriculum design, assessment, revisions, and supporting the activities that serve the school and the community

Qualifications:

PhD or equivalent degree in economics or related field
A strong teaching, research, and services record

To apply, please visit the following link: <a href ="https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Economics/851376023/ https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Economics/851376023/

Start Date: Spring 2024
Date Posted: 6/30/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12060

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty Position - Public Policy

Position Summary:

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) is an emerging graduate school that offers Masters, PhD, and executive education programs. Presently, the school is in the developmental phase and is offering executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students is scheduled to begin in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia on the KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research facility that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals, within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. By doing so, the KSPP seeks to facilitate the sharing and application of knowledge and best practices, and the adoption of industry-leading practices to enhance the learning experience of its students.

As the first public policy college in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer degrees that focus on general public policy, energy policy and economics, sustainability, and climate policy. By providing programs in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

Responsibilities:

Teaching required and elective courses in public policy in our graduate programs.
Conducting high-quality research and publishing in top discipline journals
Participating in curriculum design, assessment, revisions, and supporting the activities that serve the school and the community

Qualifications:

PhD or equivalent degree in public policy or related field such as economics or political science
A strong teaching, research, and services record

To apply, please visit the following link: https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Public-Policy/851375923/ https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Public-Policy/851375923/

Start Date: Spring 2024
Date Posted: 6/30/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12061

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty Position - Quantitative Methods

Position Summary:

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) is an emerging graduate school that offers Masters, PhD, and executive education programs. Presently, the school is in the developmental phase and is offering executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students is scheduled to begin in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia on the KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research facility that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals, within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. By doing so, the KSPP seeks to facilitate the sharing and application of knowledge and best practices, and the adoption of industry-leading practices to enhance the learning experience of its students.

As the first public policy college in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer degrees that focus on general public policy, energy policy and economics, sustainability, and climate policy. By providing programs in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

Responsibilities:

Teaching required and elective courses in public policy in our graduate programs.
Conducting high-quality research and publishing in top discipline journals
Participating in curriculum design, assessment, revisions, and supporting the activities that serve the school and the community

Qualifications:

PhD or equivalent degree in data science or related field
A strong teaching, research, and services record

To apply, please visit the following link: https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Quantitative-Methods/851376123/ https://careers.kapsarc.org/job/Faculty-Position-Quantitative-Methods/851376123/

Start Date: Spring 2024
Date Posted: 6/30/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 12062

Framingham State University
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Faculty of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science, Law, and Global Studies at Framingham State University invites applications for a tenure-track, full-time faculty position in the areas of American Government and Public Administration/Public Policy, beginning in the academic year 2024-2025.

We are seeking candidates deeply committed to teaching in a liberal arts environment. Full-time faculty members at Framingham State teach three 4-credit courses per semester.

Duties include undergraduate teaching, research and scholarship, and service to the department and Framingham State University. The successful candidate will regularly teach Introduction to American Politics and advanced courses in American government and public administration/policy including Legislative Politics, Bureaucratic Politics and Public policy analysis, and other related courses in these fields.

Requirements:
MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field
ABDs will also be considered (Ph.D. must be completed by August 31, 2024)
A strong record of teaching in American Politics and Public Administration/Policy is required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Experience with or a demonstrated willingness to participate in teaching, mentoring, research, or service activities that promote the growth of an equitable, diverse, and inclusive academic environment.

The successful candidate may also teach courses in research methods and support undergraduate civic engagement opportunities.

This is a full-time, exempt, benefits-eligible position in the Massachusetts State College Association (MSCA) bargaining unit at a faculty rank commensurate with credentials and experience. Salary commensurate with experience in accordance with Appendix O of the MSCA contract (http://mscaunion.org/day-and-dgce-contracts/)

Framingham State University conducts criminal history and sexual offender record checks on recommended finalists prior to final employment for all positions.

Framingham State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Members of underrepresented groups, minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and all persons committed to diversity and inclusive excellence are strongly encouraged to apply.

Candidates must apply online by submitting:

Cover Letter addressing teaching philosophy and any areas of specialization/expertise,
CV/Resume,
Equity and Inclusion Statement, and
the names and contact information for three professional references (references are not automatically contacted at the time of application).

Start Date: Fall 2024
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2023
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 12015

University of Nebraska, Omaha
Rank: Emergency Management and Disaster Science Tenure-Track Assistant or Tenure Associate Professor
Subfield(s): Other, Public Administration, Public Policy

Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) program in the School of Public Administration at the University of Nebraska seeks a tenure-track Assistant or tenured Associate Professor. A successful candidate for this position will possess a PhD in Emergency Management, Public Administration or Public Policy with emphasis in Emergency Management, or a related field in the social sciences. We are seeking applicants who offer faculty expertise in the field of Emergency Management and Disaster Science (EMDS) and complement the work of current faculty in EMDS and SPA.

Candidates seeking to fill this position should have interests and demonstrated capacity to teach existing EMDS core courses, electives and help develop new courses for the Program. Ability to teach introductory, upper level, and graduate courses in our emergency management program and offer courses in an on-line format is also required. Candidates must have the demonstrated ability to conduct research with and emphasis on emergency management. The position offers a teaching load of two courses per semester and a nine-month contract.

The University and the School of Public Administration have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. The University of Nebraska does not discriminate based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation in its programs, activities, or employment. UNO is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an E-Verify employer.

The UNO Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program is the largest undergraduate emergency management and fire services management program in the state and the only program that offers a Bachelor of Science in Emergency Management, minors in Emergency Management, Fire Services Management, Tribal Management and Emergency Services and an undergraduate certificate in Tribal Management and Emergency Services. Over the past decade, the Emergency Management and Disaster Science Program has proven to be one of the fastest expanding academic programs in the Nebraska University System.

The School of Public Administration boasts a supportive and collaborative academic culture. It is home to one of the longest-accredited MPA programs in the country, enrolling over 200 graduate students, offering the program both online and on campus. The MPA program is ranked among the top 10-percent of all such programs in the 2022 edition of America's Best Graduate Schools, and is ranked #5 in Public Budgeting and Finance, #7 in local government management and #11 in Nonprofit Management. The School is also home to one of the few Ph.D. programs in Public Administration in the Great Plains region; faculty regularly have the opportunity to work with Ph.D. students.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is a Carnegie Doctoral Research University. We are a metropolitan university, located in the heart of Omaha, which has a population of 463,000. The population of the eight-county metropolitan area is 943,000.
To apply for this position, go to https://unomaha.peopleadmin.com/postings/17486, a current curriculum vita, a cover letter addressing professional experience and qualifications, a writing sample and the names and contact information for three references must be attached to the electronic application. We also request that applicants submit with their application a statement that addresses their past efforts, as well as their plans, to advance equity, diversity, and inclusion in their scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are also encouraged to attach evidence of teaching excellence. We will begin reviewing applications August 21, 2023. Start time is negotiable but the preferred candidate would start in Spring, 2024. The position will remain open until filled. If applicants have any questions, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Craig S Maher (csmaher@unomaha.edu)

Start Date: Winter 2024
Application Deadline: 8/15/2023
Date Posted: 6/13/2023
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 12017

Purdue University
Rank: Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy

Lecturer, Environmental Politics and Policy
Job Summary

Purdue Political Science Department seeks applicants for a Lecturer position, field open, who can teach courses in environmental politics and policy. Applicants should be prepared to teach the following core courses on campus in West Lafayette: POL 223 Introduction to Environmental Politics and Policy and POL 327 Global Green Politics. In addition, candidates may also teach Comparative or International Environmental Policy, or other introductory or upper-level courses in their area of specialty.

This position is a renewable academic year appointment starting in August 2023, with a teaching load of four courses a semester. A typical semester includes 2 sections of either POL 223 or 327 and two additional courses. There is a possibility for a 3-4 load in conjunction with taking on administrative responsibilities such as managing the Model UN program or other significant student engagement or experiential learning initiatives. Lecturers are reviewed for merit annually and reviewed comprehensively for promotion to Senior Lecturer at least every five years of employment.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or a closely related field is preferred. ABDs with a master's degree will be considered. All requirements for the master's degree must be completed prior to the start date of the appointment. Candidates should have a record of quality independent instruction at the postsecondary level and evidence of efforts to develop skills associated with excellence in teaching and learning outcomes.

The Department, College, and University

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive public land-grant university and member of the AAU. Purdue has a strong commitment to creating an innovative and high-quality learning experience for students. Political Science faculty members are actively involved with interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods at Purdue (AMAP) cluster, Purdue Policy Research Institute, and the Institute for Sustainable Futures. The Department offers certificates in environmental policy at the graduate and undergraduate level, as well as a concentration in the major in environmental politics and policy, and a minor in environmental policy.

Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are committed to advancing diversity including in discovery, instruction, and engagement. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values diversity and inclusion. Purdue University, the College of Liberal Arts, and the Department of Political Science are also committed to free and open inquiry in all matters. Candidates are encouraged to address in their cover letter how they are prepared to contribute to a climate that values free inquiry and academic freedom.

Applications

We will begin reviewing applications immediately. Candidates should submit, electronically, the following: 1) a cover letter the explains the interest in the position, qualifications, and a summary of the areas of teaching interest, 2) a CV that includes the names of at least 3 references, and 3) a teaching portfolio. Applicants who advance in the process may be asked to provide additional information such as transcripts and letters of recommendation. Application materials must be submitted electronically via https://careers.purdue.edu/.

Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to Department Head Cherie Maestas cmaestas@purdue.edu.

A background check is required for employment in this position.

Must have the ability to work in the US without immigration sponsorship from Purdue University.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Date Posted: 6/1/2023
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 11997

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Public Policy

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Assistant or Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track/Tenured)

The search is open with respect to the substantive subfields of International Political Economy. A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Experience in policy-relevant research and publication is not necessary but would be useful. Candidates are expected to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda and strong promise for teaching in graduate programs.

The successful candidate will join the school's Centre for Multilateralism Studies and International Political Economy Programme. He/she is expected to contribute to and play an active role in teaching, research, and think-tank workstream. The teaching load is up to three courses per academic year.

The initial appointment will be for four (4) years, with further contracts to be considered by the relevant School Reappointment Committee. RSIS offers a competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience. Funding support for research and conference travels is also available.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online career portal:https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-in-International-Political-Economy--Tenure-Track-Tenured---RSIS-_R00013667

All applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report if available;

Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the name and details of THREE referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor; and applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the name and details of FOUR referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B4,
Singapore 639798

Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will be accepted until 31 August 2023

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/31/2023
Date Posted: 5/24/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11980

American University
Rank: Professorial Lecturer

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for one term faculty appointment for 2023-24 academic year. The appointment is at the rank of Professorial Lecturer and will commence on August 28, 2023 through May 31, 2024.

Applicants should hold a PhD or other terminal degree. Highly qualified applicants with a master's degree related to political science will be considered at the rank of instructor. The position will require the incumbent to teach three undergraduate or M.A. courses per semester in political science with a primary focus on American Politics and Public Policy. We are especially interested in applicants who can teach

GOVT 443/643 (Applied Political Writing), GOVT 210 (Political Power and American Public Policy), and GOVT 620 (Applied Politics and American Public Policy). All faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Salary is competitive. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled, subject to on-going budgetary approval. Please submit applications via http://apply.interfolio.com/125384. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, contact information for three professional recommendations, recent teaching evaluations (when possible), and copies of recent published papers or working papers. Please contact Rachel Whelan, Faculty Coordinator, 202-885-6201 or spa_academicaffairs@american.edu if you have any questions.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs offers both undergraduate and graduate degree programs. Learn more about SPA at https://www.american.edu/spa/ and about the department at https://www.american.edu/spa/gov/.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus. Hiring offers for this position are contingent on the successful completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/16/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11967

University of Texas, Arlington
Rank: Lecturer

Position ID: F00418P
The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Arlington is seeking a non-tenure-stream, full time lecturer, which will begin in August 2023. This position will operate with a three-year contract. We encourage applications from people qualified to teach courses in the following areas: US Government; Texas/State and Local Government. We also welcome applications from those who also are qualified to teach upper division (sophomore-seniors) and graduate MA courses in political science. We are especially interested in applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to students' success and an interest in supporting student recruitment and retention efforts.

Essential duties and responsibilities:
The ability to teach face-to-face, hybrid, and/or online courses in the following areas: US Government; Texas/State and Local Government and other high-enrollment upper-division courses.

Required qualifications:

For lecturer positions, we require at minimum a Master's degree in political science or a very closely related field and prefer applicants who are PhD holding or pursuing a doctorate, or who are ABD.

The University of Texas at Arlington is located in the heart of the Dallas-Fort Worth-Arlington metroplex, a vibrant and diverse metropolitan area that is home to over 7 million people, one of the fastest-growing tech economies in the United States, and a wide array of arts, entertainment, and cultural activities. UTA is a comprehensive teaching, research, and public service institution dedicated to the advancement of knowledge through scholarship and creative work. The University is committed to providing access and ensuring student success, and to a culture of innovation, entrepreneurship, and commercialization of discoveries by our community of scholars. With an enrollment of approximately 46,000 students, UTA is the largest institution in North Texas and the second-largest in the UT System. As a result of its combination of rigorous academics and innovative research, UTA is designated as a Carnegie R-1 "Very High Research Activity" institution and as a Texas Tier One institution. In 2021, UTA received the Higher Education Excellence in Diversity Award for its deep commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in higher education.

UTA ranks No. 4 nationally in Military Times' annual "Best for Vets: Colleges" list and No. 1 in Texas for the number of degrees awarded to African American students (Diverse: Issues in Higher Education, 2021). UTA is designated by the U.S. Department of Education as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI), and it has the fifth-most ethnically diverse undergraduate population in the United States (U.S. News & World Report, 2023). UTA is among the top 50 performers nationwide for promoting social mobility of its graduates (U.S. News & World Report, 2023), and its approximately 250,000 alumni, including some who occupy leadership positions at many of the 23 Fortune 500 companies headquartered in North Texas, contribute to the UTA's $22.2 billion annual economic impact on Texas.

The Department of Political Science (http://www.uta.edu/pols/ and https://www.facebook.com/POLSatUTArlington) offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over two hundred and forty undergraduate majors and minors and ten to twenty graduate students.

Successful candidates are expected to demonstrate a commitment to diversity and equity in education through their scholarship, teaching, and/or service as well as a strong commitment to teaching, advising, and mentoring undergraduate and graduate students from diverse backgrounds.

To apply applicants should go to http://uta.peopleadmin.com/ and submit the following materials: Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two sample syllabi, a statement of interest, and contact information for three references. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. The start date for the position is August 15, 2023.

Questions may be addressed to: Dr. Brent Boyea (boyea@uta.edu). For more information about UTA, please visit: http://www.uta.edu/uta.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/4/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11950

University of Florida
Rank: Visiting Lecturer in American Politics & Public Law/Judicial Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, time-limited, nine-month, non-tenure-accruing Visiting Lecturer position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2023. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our department's tradition of intellectual diversity and pluralism, as well as to better reflect the interests of our diverse undergraduate and graduate students. We are particularly interested in applicants whose teaching and research focus on the judicial system in the U.S. Applicants able to teach courses on the carceral state are particularly encouraged to apply. Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating undergraduate policy-related internships, develop experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and excel in mentoring undergraduate research in the Department's Honors & Junior Fellows programs. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester but may be reduced for significant service to the department. Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (http://www.polisci.ufl.edu) to learn more about the Department of Political Science.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/14/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11901

SUNY, Geneseo
Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics & Public Policy

The Department of Political Science & International Relations at the State University of New York at Geneseo seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in American Politics, with a focus on Public Policy and Public Administration, to begin August, 2023. Possible areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, Environmental Policy, Health Care Policy, Income Inequality, or Social Welfare Policy. We are a highly collegial department of six full-time faculty members who are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and liberal arts education. We offer two majors (Political Science and International Relations), contribute to several interdisciplinary minors, and have access to substantial resources to support research. More information about our department is available at https://www.geneseo.edu/political_science.

Duties of the position include:
• Teaching courses 3 courses per semester in American Politics, including an introductory American politics course every semester, courses on public policy and public administration, and other courses in the candidate's area of expertise.

- Coordinating a Public Administration minor, and administering Geneseo's joint 5-year BA/MPA program with the University of Albany.
- Pursuing a program of scholarly research, leading to publication in peer-reviewed outlets.
- Providing academic advising to students.
- Mentoring and supervising undergraduate research and other projects.
- Contributing to governance and engaging in service to the department, the college, and the discipline.
- There may also be opportunities to contribute to other interdisciplinary programs, including the Sustainability Studies, Sociomedical Sciences, and American Studies majors, and the Legal Studies, Urban Studies, Conflict Studies, and Environmental Studies minors.

Our priority is teaching excellence. We seek someone with a strong commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting and who is prepared to teach both introductory courses and advanced courses in their area of expertise. A commitment to working effectively with students from diverse backgrounds is essential. We also highly value collegiality, experience with integrative learning, and a willingness to contribute to a holistic and broadly-conceived education in political science as a part of a broader liberal arts curriculum.

Required Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the time of appointment.
- Expertise in American Politics and ability to teach courses in Public Policy and Public Administration.
- Prior experience or demonstrated potential in teaching courses in American Politics at the undergraduate level.
- Potential to establish a program of research leading to publication.
- Demonstrated commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive working/teaching environment.

Applicants should upload a cover letter addressing research and teaching interests, current CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a brief writing sample. Cover letters should address how candidates view themselves as contributing to Geneseo's commitment to Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging (DEIB) and its aspiration to become a public equity-centered honors college. Applicants should also supply contact information for three references, who will be contacted to upload letters at the time of application. Please submit materials at https://jobs.geneseo.edu/postings/4241. Review of completed applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by March 10 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: 3/10/2023
Date Posted: 2/22/2023
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11742

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, Regulatory Policy

Postdoctoral Fellowships with the Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance at Yale, 2023-24

Yale University's Leitner Program on Effective Democratic Governance housed at the Jackson School of Global Affairs is seeking applications for a Postdoctoral Associate with strong training in political economy and quantitative methods. We are interested in candidates who study the effects of regime type, electoral systems, and the rule of law on the economy with particular attention to economic growth, regulation, social protection, and the performance of financial markets." The Postdoctoral Associate will work with a Yale group led by Professor Ian Shapiro.

This is a full-time position. The Postdoctoral Associate will spend fifty percent of their time working collaboratively on this project and the other fifty percent pursuing their own research.

The appointment period will run for twelve months, starting in July 2023. Fellows will be expected to be in full-time residence at Yale for the duration of their appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, one page description of research plans, and two letters of recommendation. All information from the applicant should be submitted electronically through Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/118479.

Compensation includes a salary of $65,000 for the duration of the appointment, health insurance, and other benefits afforded to postdoctoral associates at Yale. For more information see https://your.yale.edu/enroll#pda .

Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2022 and will continue until the position is filled.

For questions concerning this search, please contact larisa.satara@yale.edu

Start Date: Summer 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 12/8/2022
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 11487

Ramapo College of New Jersey
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science & Public Policy - 10 month - Tenure Track

Job Details

Title:
Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science & Public Policy - 10 month - Tenure Track
Position Number:
641050
Position Type:
Faculty Tenure Track - 10 Month
Department:
SHGS
Posted Date:
10/06/2022
Position Type and Expected Hours of Work:

Full-time tenure-track - Starting August 30, 2023

Job Summary/Description:

RAMAPO COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY:

Mission: Ramapo College of New Jersey is New Jersey's Public Liberal Arts College, dedicated to providing students with a strong foundation for a lifetime of achievement. The College is committed to academic excellence through interdisciplinary and experiential learning and international and intercultural understanding. Ramapo College emphasizes teaching and individual attention to all students. We promote diversity, inclusiveness, sustainability, student engagement, and community involvement.

Established in 1969, Ramapo College offers bachelor's degrees in the arts, business, humanities, social sciences, and the sciences, as well as in professional studies, which include business, elementary education, nursing, and social work. The College also offers articulated programs, including dental, optometry, chiropractic, and health professions, as well as visual arts therapy and law, with colleges and institutions in New Jersey and New York.

Undergraduate students may choose to concentrate their studies in one of five schools with over 500 course offerings and more than 40 academic programs. Ramapo College boasts an average student/faculty ratio of 15:1 and an average class size of 21, which allows students to develop close ties to the College's exceptional faculty

The School of Humanities and Global Studies aims to create a holistic educational experience that enables our students to become literate, intentional, and empowered global citizens who are prepared, not only in specific recognized fields but also in interdisciplinary dialogue. Through our varied offerings (in Anthropology, American Studies, Foreign Languages, History, International Studies, Literature, Political Science, Liberal Studies, and Philosophy), we seek to enhance students' understanding and appreciation of the complex cultural, political, and imaginative dimensions of human existence.

Our teaching, service, and scholarly or creative achievement combine to help our students develop their powers of reasoning, speaking, writing, and creativity, thus equipping them for the challenges of contemporary life. The School's faculty members are dedicated to teaching and scholarship, have traveled extensively and studied abroad, and have backgrounds in foreign languages, humanities, and social sciences.

EEO STATEMENT:

Ramapo College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Ramapo has a long history of advocating, advising, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. Examples can be found in its mission statement, strategic plans, degree and course offerings, community outreach programs, and diversity programs. Ramapo's commitment to diversity and inclusion is infused across all facets of the College; where the environment is welcoming, dedicated to social justice, respectful of freedom of expression, focused on educating and having an ongoing conversation regarding cultural competence and the benefits and importance of diversity.

JOB SUMMARY:

Ramapo College of New Jersey invites applications for one assistant Professor or Associate Professor (tenure-track) position in Political Science and Public Policy. Primary teaching responsibilities include public policy courses in the Political Science program and in the Public Policy minor. Areas of policy research and methodology are open. Rank will depend on experience. The appointment will begin on August 30, 2023, subject to administrative and budgetary approval.

Successful applicants must show commitment to teaching, the potential for success in scholarly achievement and productivity, commitment to service to the institution and community, and the ability to develop a public policy curriculum. The candidate must have a strong background in their discipline, as evidenced by publications, presentations, professional experience, external funding record, and/or their work as a Ph.D. candidate. Applicants whose work demonstrates a commitment to diversity and inclusion in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply.
Duties/Responsibilities:

Duties/Responsibilities:

Primary teaching responsibilities include six (6) courses per academic year within the Political Science major and Public Policy minor.
Develop courses and curriculum in public policy.
Develop policy-related student internships and co-curricular activities.
Demonstrate excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the institution and community.
Perform other duties as assigned.

Education/Experience:

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Policy by August 30, 2023, and must demonstrate the potential to be an excellent teacher, mentor, curriculum developer, and researcher in Political Science and Public Policy.

Application Process:

Applications will begin to be reviewed starting October 24, 2022. Apply through https://www.ramapojobs.com/. Inquiries may be directed to Professor Michael Unger, Search Committee Chair, School of Humanities & Global Studies (unger@ramapo.edu). To request accommodations, call (201) 684 - 7732. For more information about the Political Science program(major and minor) and the Public Policy minor at Ramapo College, please visit our webpage: https://www.ramapo.edu/majors - minors/majors/political - science/ and https://www.ramapo.edu/majors - minors/majors/public - policy.

Application Materials :

Cover letter
CV
Statement of teaching philosophy
Experience with curriculum development
One sample of research/scholarship
List of three references

Start Date: Fall 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 11128

Johns Hopkins University
Rank: Adjunct Faculty: Data Analytics and Policy

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Description

Institution Description:
The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) is a division of the Krieger School of Arts and Sciences at the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). As the nation's oldest and one of the most prestigious research universities, Johns Hopkins offers high-quality master's degrees and post-baccalaureate education to students in the mid-Atlantic region and online. In addition to the online programs, AAP also offers master's degrees and graduate certificate programs at its Washington, DC Center and at the Homewood campus in Baltimore, MD. AAP has approximately 18,000 enrollments each academic year. JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

Position Description:

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) division seeks non-tenure track adjunct faculty to teach one of several courses within the Master of Science in Data Analytics and Policy program. Specifically, we are seeking instructors qualified to teach Probability and Statistics (470.681), Programming and Data Management (470.768), Quantitative Methods (470.709), or Data Visualization (470.673). The course(s) will be taught fully online beginning in the spring 2023 semester. Candidates with online course development and teaching experience and those with experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds are of particular interest.

These four courses are part of the core curriculum in the Data Analytics and Policy program. The courses introduce learners to statistical analysis and programming using R. Topics include probability theory, descriptive statistics, data visualization, research design for causal inference, and linear regression analysis. Full course descriptions and an overview of our full curriculum are available on the program website. The program has course templates for each course from which the candidate will teach. Faculty duties include supporting student learning, evaluating student work, and working with the Program Director to revise and update course materials as needed.

These courses are taught on a regular basis with semester-length contracts. Adjunct faculty may be included in future course development projects.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:
- Master's degree with training in quantitative statistical methods (e.g., political science, sociology, business analytics, economics, geography, public policy, psychology, or similar)
- Demonstrated experience doing original work using R for programming, data visualization, and statistical analysis

Preferred Qualifications:
- A terminal degree with training in quantitative statistical methods (e.g., political science, sociology, business analytics, economics, geography, public policy, psychology, or similar)
- 1-3 years of graduate level teaching experience
- Online teaching experience
- Training in statistical programming and analysis using Python
- Professional experience in applied statistics, predictive modeling, machine learning, database management, and related data science topics

Application Instructions:

The position(s) will remain open until filled. For best consideration, please apply by September 16, 2022.

Candidates must submit the following:

- Cover letter

- Curriculum vitae
- Teaching evaluations for two most recently taught courses, if applicant has teaching experience
- Professional or academic references

The selected candidate will be expected to undergo a background check and to submit proof of educational attainment.

Submit your application online only at http://apply.interfolio.com/112053 using the" Apply Now" button.

Start Date: Spring 2023
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2022
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 10751