POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

October 2025 | Volume 14, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 8
Comparative Politics .....
International Relations .....
Methodology .....
Non-Academic .....
Open .....
Other .....
Political Theory .....
Public Administration .....
Public Law .....
Public Policy .....

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

October 2025 | Volume 14, Issue 10
ISSN 2167-8332
Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration ..... 4 (7 listings)
American Government and Politics ..... 8 (71 listings)
Comparative Politics ..... (67 listings)
International Relations ..... (68 listings)
Methodology ..... (17 listings)
Non-Academic ..... (40 listings)
Open ..... (51 listings)
Other ..... (29 listings)
Political Theory ..... (29 listings)
Public Administration ..... (30 listings)
Public Law ..... (53 listings)
Public Policy ..... (listings)
Total listings this issue 462

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

---

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring : Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
   - departmental and institutional committee work,
   - professional or disciplinary activities, and
   - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - access to research materials and equipment,
   - the employment of research assistants,
   - research expenses on/off campus, and
   - travel expenses for conferences?
2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - the development of teaching expertise,
   - innovations in teaching, and
   - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
   - the average course load,
   - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
   - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
   - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
   - family needs of faculty and staff, and
   - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for October

ADMINISTRATION

Social Science Research Council
Rank: President

For more than a century, the Social Science Research Council (SSRC) has been furthering research and building research capacity in the social sciences for the benefit of the public. At a moment when the social sciences are ever more important, and with the Council in excellent financial health, the SSRC's Board of Directors has launched the search for the Council's new President, with an appointment expected to take effect in early 2026. The Board will prefer to appoint a chief executive who will lead the organization on a full-time basis, but is open to considering candidates who will commit to the role on a part-time basis (at least 50% basis).

The President is the chief executive officer of the SSRC and is responsible for its organizational and fiscal health, and for setting, articulating, and implementing the SSRC's strategy in collaboration with its Board of Directors. The President is the principal outside spokesperson for the SSRC. The President should be a distinguished social scientist, dedicated to scholarly, programmatic, and institutional innovation, and should possess a wide range of intellectual interests, an appreciation for different scholarly approaches, and the capacity to connect, collaborate, and facilitate exchange across diverse geographic, institutional, and intellectual boundaries.

The Board appreciates that each candidate will possess strengths in different measure. Nonetheless, the successful candidate will bring the following qualities to the role in substantial measure:

- The intellectual and creative stature and accomplishment appropriate to position SSRC as a catalyst and convener in the social sciences in and beyond the academy
- The capacity to lead through ideas and to champion the value of the social sciences in today's complex environment
- Commitment to openness, transparency, and inclusion
- Constituency connections and cultivation to enhance SSRC as a network of networks, including internationally
- A record of successful fundraising from public and private sources
- A record of effective executive leadership

To view the full position description, please contact Marisea Rivera at marisea.rivera@opuspartners.net.

The President reports to the SSRC Board of Directors and typically serves a five-year term renewable upon mutual agreement after an external review during the fourth year.

Annual salary is commensurate with experience. The general salary range for this position is $450,000 - $550,000 annually, with compensation determined based on experience, qualifications, and whether the position is structured as part-time or full-time. Comprehensive benefits include health, dental, vision, disability, life, and gym reimbursement; annual tuition and/or student loan reimbursement and professional development funds; outstanding pension plan and tax savings programs; generous vacation and sick leave; and more.

The Social Science Research Council has retained Opus Partners to support this recruitment. Craig Smith, Senior Partner, Kenna Boyd, Partner, and Marisea Rivera, Senior Associate, are leading the search. Applications, inquiries, and nominations should be sent to marisea.rivera@opuspartners.net. Required application materials include a CV and letter of interest that addresses the responsibilities and qualifications of the role. The search process will unfold with the greatest possible attention to candidate confidentiality. Finalist candidates should expect to complete a comprehensive reference-checking process managed by Opus Partners as well as a background check.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16008

The Ohio State University
Rank: Mershon Peace Chair
Subfield(s): International Relations, Administration, Other

Department:
Arts and Sciences | The Mershon Center

The Mershon Center for International Security Studies at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenured position in peace and conflict studies at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The selected candidate will hold the prestigious Mershon Chair in Peace Studies. This is a joint appointment, with a 50% commitment to the Mershon Center and a 50% appointment in a disciplinary department, which will serve as the tenure home, within the College of Arts & Sciences.

We are seeking a scholar with both a record of accomplishments and an active research agenda, who will build on Mershon's existing peacebuilding program to make Ohio State a leader in research, teaching, and engagement in this field.

The successful candidate will bring original scholarly insight to the legacies of violence and the dynamics of conflict transformation as these interact with development, governance, geopolitics, environmental and demographic change, social movements, or other issues. Candidates may be trained in any relevant social science or humanities discipline, but should demonstrate specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation international field experience – through research, engagement, and/or experiential learning – in conflict-affected settings the ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment familiarity with responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations.

The candidate will have a 50% teaching load, offering peace studies courses in their home department. As Peace Chair they will have substantial time and resources for individual and collaborative research. Funding and staff support are available for the creation of public-facing and community engagement initiatives, study-abroad experiences, or other projects. The Peace Chair will work with the Mershon Associate Director for Peacebuilding Research to support and develop Ohio State's interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies curriculum.

Performance Objectives
- Develop and maintain a productive, innovative research program
- Design and teach courses in peace studies at the general education, specialized, and graduate levels
- Demonstrate excellence in mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities
- Lead and work with Mershon staff and affiliates to develop and carry out local, national, and/or international community collaborations in peacebuilding and conflict transformation
- Support Mershon Center and home departmental operations as an active citizen through service on committees, project assignments, and/or administrative leadership roles

Education and Experience Requirements

Required:
- PhD in relevant social science or humanities discipline
- Specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation
- Record of distinguished, original scholarly accomplishment in this field
- International field experience in conflict-affected settings
- The ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment
- An understanding of responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations
- A record of accomplished teaching, especially of undergraduates
- A record of mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities

Desired:
- Capacity to bridge practice and theory, for instance through experience with peacebuilding, mediation, or restorative efforts
- Attention to the multilevel/multiscalar dimensions of peace and conflict dynamics
- A robust international network among scholars and practitioners in peace and conflict studies
- Experience in academic program-building
- Experience with public-facing research and programming

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically via https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Mershon-Peace-Chair_R136263-1

Application period closes 10/31/2025. Application materials submitted in Workday must include

- Attachment 1: Cover Letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
- Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
- Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member, with an emphasis on your vision of a direction for peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring, with your vision for teaching peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 5: A writing sample.

Candidates selected to move forward in the process will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16005

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Department Chair
Specializations: Criminal Justice, International Security, Intelligence

Job Description: The Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is seeking a Department Chair at the rank of Full Professor with an outstanding record of scholarly research and grants as well as experience in strategic planning, program-building initiatives, and faculty mentoring. We seek a leader with management and analytical skills, and a strategic planner committed to consolidating the national reputation of the department and its robust programs. The Department Chair will support recruitment and retention of faculty and staff, advocate for a strategic vision for the undergraduate and graduate programs, and foster an environment of inclusive excellence for students.

Required Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Political Science, Public Policy, or closely related field. Applicants with a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. (without a Ph.D.) will not be considered.
- Rank of Full Professor.
- Administrative or leadership experience at the Departmental, College, and/or University levels.
- Funded extramural grants and an active scholarly publication record commensurate with a Full Professor at a Carnegie R1 institution.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to candidates with experience as Department Chair.

Application Instructions: To apply, go to www.utep.edu/employment. If you have questions about the position, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Ted Curry: trcurry@utep.edu Applicants must electronically submit FOUR files:
- Letter of interest that includes relevant administrative and leadership experiences and how they fit into UTEP, a university with the double designation of R1 and HSI; research/grants accomplishments/ impact, areas of expertise and their fit within the Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies at UTEP.
- Statement of Leadership and Management Philosophy.
- Curriculum vita
- Names and full contact information of three professional references.

Application Review Date: Review of applications will begin November 21, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. Hiring decisions are based on budget approval.

About the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP): UTEP stands out as a Carnegie R1, open-access, Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), and community engaged research university at the heart of the U.S.-Mexico border region that is increasing access to excellent higher education. We advance discovery of public value and positively impact the health, culture, education, and economy of the community we serve. UTEP enrolls over 26,000 students—84% of whom are Hispanic and half of whom are the first in their families to attend college. UTEP offers 170 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs at the only open-access, R1 research university in America.

The UTEP Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is one of the largest departments in the College of Liberal Arts and offers six degree programs for over 1,200 students. Three undergraduate degrees are in Criminal Justice (B.A.), an equivalent 100% online B.A., and an online B.A. in Security Studies. The graduate programs offered are Criminology and Criminal Justice (M.S.), Intelligence and National Security Studies (M.S.) and an online Master of Defense and Strategic Studies (MDSS).

El Paso's active arts and culture community features the state's longest-running symphony orchestra, a nationally recognized chamber music festival, a vibrant street art and mural scene, art galleries, museums, and a full schedule of seasonal events and festivals. UTEP adds to the arts and entertainment scene with concerts and live events at the city's largest indoor and outdoor venues; theater, music and dance productions; contemporary and student art galleries; and a natural history museum and desert gardens. El Paso is also an ideal location for year-round hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing, and other outdoor activities in the nearby Franklin Mountains. For sports fans, the UTEP Miners offer exciting Division I college athletics at Sun Bowl Stadium and the Don Haskins Center. We are also the home of the El Paso Chihuahuas, the Triple-A baseball affiliate of the San Diego Padres, and the El Paso Locomotive FC, a professional soccer team.

In keeping with its access, excellence, and impact mission, The University of Texas at El Paso is committed to an open, diverse, and inclusive learning and working environment that honors the talents, respects the differences, and nurtures the growth and development of all. We seek to attract faculty and staff who share our commitment.

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, or sexual orientation and gender in employment or the provision of services in accordance with state and federal law. Discrimination on the basis of sex includes an employee's or prospective employee's right to be free from sexual harassment under Title IX of the Higher Education Amendments of 1972.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15978

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Full Professor in Religion and Global Affairs

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs at the University of Notre Dame in Notre Dame, Indiana is accepting applications for the McDonald Family Professorship in Forgiveness and Ethics, a full-time, tenured position at the full professor level. This position includes an administrative leadership role as the Director of the Ansari Institute for Global Engagement with Religion, which is dedicated to studying, learning from, and collaborating with religious communities worldwide. The Ansari Institute embraces wide-ranging work, including research, teaching, outreach, and interaction with religious communities, faith and civic leaders, academics and journalists, and the general public.

The ideal candidate will be a distinguished scholar in the role of religion and/or faith in shaping conflict and reconciliation, including but not limited to religious violence, interreligious tensions, transitional justice, memory and trauma, and the role of religious institutions or faith-based organizations, ideas, institutions or philosophies in peacebuilding processes. Candidates should approach these issues through rigorous disciplinary training in fields such as history, political science, international relations, sociology, anthropology, or related areas. Scholars with a regional or global comparative perspective are welcome, as are those whose research engages both historical and contemporary case studies.

The ideal candidate will also have a record of interdisciplinary research, institutional leadership, and commitment to public engagement. As director of the Ansari Institute, they will provide intellectual and strategic leadership for Ansari, guiding its research agenda, overseeing external grants and programming, and collaborating with other units in the Keough School and at the university more broadly. This is a full-time, tenured appointment with administrative responsibilities and teaching expectations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The professorship will be based in the Keough School, which promotes interdisciplinary and policy-relevant research on critical issues in global affairs, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. The Keough School approaches global affairs and development through a focus on integral human development (IHD), which is also central to the University of Notre Dame's mission. The Keough School offers degrees at the undergraduate, Master's and PhD level. Position duties include research, teaching, and service. The position is expected to begin in August 2026.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in history, political science, sociology, anthropology, or a closely related field, with demonstrated expertise in religion and global affairs.

The successful candidate is expected to have a record of distinguished scholarship and teaching that merits appointment at the full professor level, demonstrate engagement with religious dimensions of peace and conflict, including but not limited to reconciliation, religious nationalism, or religious pluralism in divided societies, be committed to interdisciplinary collaboration and public engagement, and help position the university as a center for research and teaching on religion and conflict transformation.

Applications, including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, and teaching statement, should be submitted through the Interfolio system at https://apply.interfolio.com/173134. Questions about the positions may be addressed to the search committee chair Scott Appleby, Keough-Hesburgh Professor of Global Affairs at Robert.S.Appleby.3@nd.edu. We will begin reviewing completed applications on October 20, 2025 and will accept applications through October 17, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15882

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Rogalski Professorship in International Political Economy

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs at the University of Notre Dame in Notre Dame, Indiana is accepting applications for the Rogalski Professorship in International Political Economy, a full-time, tenured position at the associate or full professor level. This position includes an administrative leadership role as the Director of the Keough School's McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business, which seeks to understand the critical role of global business in reducing poverty and inequality. The mission of the McKenna Center is to create enduring partnerships between the private sector, governments, institutions of higher education, and professional development actors to advance sustainable development and mitigate risk to companies, vulnerable populations, and our shared environment.

We seek a scholar whose work examines the role of business in the global economy. This includes areas such as international trade, global finance, supply chains and geopolitics, social entrepreneurship and innovation, economic statecraft, or the political economy of sustainability and climate transition. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work combines analytical rigor with policy relevance, and who are committed to public scholarship and engagement with global institutions, governments, civil society, and the private sector. Candidates should approach these issues through rigorous disciplinary training in fields such as political science, economics, public policy, international relations, business or related areas. The ideal candidate will contribute to shaping the School's intellectual agenda at the intersection of economics, politics, and global governance.

The ideal candidate will also have a record of interdisciplinary research, institutional leadership, and commitment to public engagement. As director of the McKenna Center, they will provide intellectual and strategic leadership for McKenna, guiding its research agenda, overseeing external grants and programming, and collaborating with other units in the Keough School and at the university more broadly. This is a full-time, tenured appointment with administrative responsibilities and teaching expectations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The professorship will be based in the Keough School, which promotes interdisciplinary and policy-relevant research on critical issues in global affairs, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. The Keough School approaches global affairs and development through a focus on integrated human development, which is also central to the University of Notre Dame's mission. The Keough School offers degrees at the undergraduate, Master's and PhD level. Position duties include research, teaching, and service. The position is expected to begin in August 2026.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science, economics, public policy, international relations, business or a closely related field, with demonstrated expertise in international political economy.

The successful candidate is expected to have a record of distinguished scholarship and teaching that merits appointment at the associate or full professor level, demonstrate expertise in at least one core area of international political economy (e.g., trade, finance, supply chains, development, environmental political economy), be committed to interdisciplinary collaboration and public engagement, have experience or strong interest in policy engagement, public communication, and applied global research, and be committed to mentoring students and contributing to a collaborative, interdisciplinary academic environment.

Applications, including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, and teaching statement, should be submitted through the Interfolio system at https://apply.interfolio.com/173136. Questions about the positions may be addressed to the search committee chair Yong Suk Lee, Associate Professor of Technology, Economy and Global Affairs at yong.s.lee@nd.edu. We will begin reviewing completed applications on October 20, 2025 and will accept applications through October 17, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15878

Howard University

Rank: Chair, Department of Political Science

Howard University (HU) invites applications and nominations for the position of Chair of the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science seeks a dynamic, energetic leader with the ability to effectively engage faculty, staff, students, and external constituencies in a collegial and collaborative manner. The Chair will have a demonstrated record of excellence in collegial academic leadership, faculty development, fundraising, executive administration, and financial management. This is an outstanding opportunity for a creative leader at an exciting time in the continued growth of the Department, College, and University.

The Chair represents the Department as part of the College's leadership team and is responsible for the Department's faculty and staff recruiting, development, retention, resource attainment, financial management, and stakeholder relationship management. The Chair manages a diverse faculty, staff and student body, and is expected to lead the Department in publishing scholarship, teaching capacity, grantsmanship, service, and outreach.

The Chair must be an active intellectual leader, adept at building and supporting multi-disciplinary partnerships within a diverse community, knowledgeable in higher education issues, collaborative in developing team-focused, data-driven approaches to problem solving, and possess effective people-skills.

Working in partnership with the senior administration of the College of Arts & Sciences, the successful candidate is expected to embrace and contribute to the mission of the University.

Desired Qualifications

Earned doctorate or terminal degree from an accredited institution; PhD in Political Science preferred, but a PhD in an allied discipline will be considered;
Record of professional accomplishments and published scholarship in the discipline that meet the qualifications for appointment to the rank of professor in the College and University. Applications from advanced associate professors will be considered.
Established and sustained record of graduate and undergraduate teaching excellence and interdisciplinary initiatives;
Recognized and reputable record of research, collaborative projects, and creative accomplishments;
Administrative, personnel, and budgetary experience at the department level;
Evidence of and capacity to secure external funding and undertake successful fundraising campaigns;
Documentation of a strong commitment to helping students obtain a broad-based education, student centeredness, and optimization of student learning;

Record of successful curriculum development including a commitment to collaboration and use of innovative pedagogies;
Successful record of effective interpersonal and communication skills with faculty, staff, students, alumni, and community members;
Demonstrated ability to manage a complex academic unit and work effectively with colleagues across divisions;
Demonstrated ability to effectively forge and build partnerships and productive relations on and off campus; engage with the community via outreach efforts; leadership abilities with both campus and external constituencies, including alumni;
Evidence of successful recruitment and retention of a diverse faculty and staff, as well as teambuilding, supervision, and staff support for professional development;

Established in 1867, Howard University is a federally chartered, private, doctoral/research extensive university located in Washington, D.C., and is widely recognized as one of the world's most prestigious institutions of higher learning. The only comprehensive American university with a predominantly African-American constituency, Howard University is committed to preparing its students to not only be respected leaders in the national and global communities, but to also promote social justice and democracy the world over. Howard has historically educated more African-American PhD's than any other university. It has a track record, for more than a century as the home to the single, largest concentration of Black scholars in the world.

Procedure for Candidacy

Applications should include a cover letter and curriculum vitae. Applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled. Confidential review of materials and screening of candidates will begin immediately.

Contact Information:

POLSChairSearch@Howard.edu

The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national and ethnic origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender or gender identity, marital status, religion, disability or protected veterans status. Veterans and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply. Inquiries regarding provisions for persons with disabilities or veteran's status, Equal Employment Opportunity and Title IX should be directed to the Office of Employee Relations and Equal Employment Opportunity at 202-806-1280.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/11/2025
Date Posted: 11/13/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15203

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty - Public Finance
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public finance. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address public finance topics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in public finance

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-finance

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15145

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

George Washington University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor beginning as early as Fall 2026. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate courses and maintain an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda.

Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

The salary range for this position is $100,000 to $120,000.

The successful applicant will be eligible for GW's employee benefits including medical, dental, and retirement. A full explanation of those benefits is available at https://hr.gwu.edu/benefits
To apply please complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/122109 and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interest, statement of research interest, summaries of teaching evaluations (if available), and samples of written work. In addition, please instruct three academic references to send letters of recommendation directly to pscjobs_ap@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 30, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.
The university and department have a strong commitment to recruiting faculty of the highest caliber who have thrived in different environments and would enrich the university with different experiences and perspectives.

Employment offers are contingent on the satisfactory outcome of a standard background screening.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16031

Harvard Kennedy School of Government

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

About the Fellowship

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

The Ash Center is a global and values-driven community that believes diverse perspectives are paramount to better understanding and addressing real-world problems. In fostering an environment of rigor, curiosity, and integrity, we value and respect different opinions, lived experiences, and diverse research and policy areas and approaches. We actively seek candidates who share our commitment and values.

Expectations & Benefits

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting from August 1 through July 31 of the following year. Democracy Visiting Fellows are expected to be in residency during their appointment to participate in required on-campus activities. The main requirement is attendance to a weekly democracy community seminar series, throughout the academic year, make a presentation of your research, and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Kennedy School more broadly. Where relevant to their work, Fellows may be asked to contribute to the development of other Ash Center research or program activities. Fellows are also expected to attend a mandatory new fellow orientation that will take place during the month of August.

The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space.

Apply via this link: https://connect.hks.harvard.edu/ashfellowships/s/login/?ec=302&startURL=%2Fashfellowships%2Fs%2F

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/9/2026
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15999

University of Texas, Arlington

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Instruction
Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, academic professional track (non-tenure-track) Assistant or Associate Professor of Instruction, with expertise in American political institutions, to begin August 2026. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching expands our current offerings in the American presidency, Congress, or civic engagement.

Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching. The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach introductory courses in American politics as well as substantive courses in their area of expertise, including upper-level undergraduate courses and Master's level courses. The position will also entail some service, particularly related to curriculum.

A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered but must have successfully defended their dissertation and the degree conferred by the appointment date of 9/1/2026.

To apply, applicants should go to https://uta.peopleadmin.com/hr/postings/32719 and submit the following materials:

Cover letter
Current curriculum vitae
Transcripts
A teaching statement
Three (3) specific examples of teaching, including syllabi and evaluations

Contact information for 3 references. Referees will be automatically notified to upload their letters as soon as possible.

Review of applications will begin on October 30, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Questions may be addressed to Search Committee Chair Dr. Bai Linh Hoang at bailinh.hoang@uta.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16011

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, U.S. Politics and Political Institutions
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

U.S. Politics and Political Institutions
Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position of assistant professor in U.S. politics and political institutions with strengths in one or more of the following: U.S. national and subnational institutions, judicial politics, U.S. and/or state constitutional law, law and courts, civil rights, and related fields. Candidates with additional specializations in historical institutionalism, voting rights, and jurisprudence including critical legal studies are also encouraged to apply. Teaching requirements for this position will be four courses a year, including a selection of undergraduate courses on U.S. political institutions, constitutional law, judicial process, and additional courses within the candidate's specialization. Candidates may also be expected to contribute to advising pre-law students from throughout the University. This position will begin August 10, 2026.

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in government or political science at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2026. Candidates must have an active research agenda with strengths in U.S. political institutions including one or more of the fields listed above. Applicants should also have demonstrated effectiveness in undergraduate and graduate teaching to meet the department's key teaching needs in its B.A. and M.A. programs.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to broadly trained candidates who have grounding and skills in a variety of theoretical, analytical, and methodological approaches, and who can work with undergraduate and graduate students at the master's and doctoral levels in political science and related fields. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and/or graduate level is preferred.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu, https://careers.pageuppeople.com/968/cw/en-us/job/534311/assistant-professor-us-politics-political-institutions, where they will submit a cover letter, current curriculum vitae, a recent writing sample, teaching evaluations or portfolio, along with contact information from three academic references. Review of applications will begin on October 23, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Professor Nick Goedert, <ngoedert@vt.edu>, U.S. Politics and Political Institutions Search Committee, Department of Political Science (0130), Major Williams Hall, Room 531, 220 Stanger Street, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chair.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency. Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, sex (including pregnancy), gender, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, ethnicity or national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, or military status, or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees or applicants, or on any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16004

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: CFR 2026-27 International Affairs Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, International Political Economy

The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking applicants for its four 2026-27 International Affairs Fellowship programs. These transformational programs enable U.S. citizens who are mid-career professionals with a demonstrated interest in foreign policy to gain experience in a new environment in the United States, Europe, Indonesia, and Japan, or at an international organization. Selected fellows broaden their perspective on foreign affairs by working in a policymaking setting or by conducting research in an academic environment.

Applications are being accepted through October 31, 2025, for all four fellowships. To learn more about each program, or to apply, visit cfr.org/fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15991

University of Florida

Rank: AST/ASO/PROF POSITION IN PHILOSOPHY, POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND LAW (PPEL)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy

Established in 2022, the Hamilton School is a multidisciplinary academic unit whose purpose is to support teaching and research concerning the ideas, traditions, and texts that shape Western civilization and American values and institutions. The School offers undergraduate majors in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) and Great Books and Ideas. Two other undergraduate and two graduate degrees are expected to be offered starting in Fall 2026.

The School seeks to fill up to four (4) tenured or tenure-track positions to teach primarily in the PPEL degree program and to start in the AY 2026–2027 academic year. Within the bounds of our academic mission, the School is flexible as to the disciplinary focus of our applicants. Applications for this cycle are especially encouraged from scholars with a research expertise in economics, economic history, political economy, law, public policy, politics and related fields. Applications especially welcome from candidates who can teach a required degree course on legal reasoning, as well as well as upper-level, multidisciplinary courses on topics at the intersection of law, economics and politics. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required. Salaries are competitive.

Successful applicants will combine excellent scholarly records, active research agendas, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a commitment to the Hamilton School's educational mission.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the Hamilton School website (Hamilton School) to learn more about the Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education.

UF is the state's oldest, largest, and most comprehensive land grant university with an enrollment of over 50,000 students and was ranked the Number 1 public university in the United States by Wall Street Journal in its "2024 Best Colleges in the U.S." report. UF is located in Gainesville, a city of approximately 150,000 residents in North-Central Florida, 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and 67 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, and within a 2-hour drive to large metropolitan areas (Orlando, Tampa, Jacksonville). The beautiful climate and extensive nearby parks and recreational areas afford year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking, and nature photography. UF's large college sports programs, museums, and performing arts centers support a range of activities and cultural events for residents to enjoy. Alachua County schools are highly rated and offer a variety of programs including magnet schools and an international baccalaureate program.

Learn more about what Gainesville has to offer at Visit Gainesville.

The salary is competitive and commensurate with education and experience,and the compensation includes a full benefits package.

Employment Benefits include:
Health Insurance: UF participates in state- and university-sponsored benefits programs for individuals, families, and domestic partners, and offers voluntary insurance that includes vision, dental, long-term disability and more.
Retirement Options: Attractive options include Florida Retirement System Pension Plan, State University System Optional Retirement Program, Florida
Retirement System Investment Plan, and Voluntary Retirement Savings Plan.
Leave: UF staff enjoy a generous paid leave plan as well as access to a sick-leave pool, maternity/paternity leave and leave payouts.

A complete application must include the following:
- a curriculum vitae
- a cover letter, which describes your interest in the Hamilton School's mission
- a research statement
- a teaching statement
- a sample of scholarly writing within the last three years
- three (3) references. These references may be contacted at some point in the hiring process to provide recommendation letters.

Screening of applicants will continue until the position is filled.

The final candidate will be required to provide official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an education institution outside of the United States are required to be evaluated by a professional credentialing service provider approved by National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at http://www.naces.org/

Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the US. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

University of Florida is a member of the State University System of Florida and an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment based on merit.

Please address any inquiries to:
Robert G. Ingram, Interim Director
Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education
University of Florida
P.O. Box 117460
Gainesville, FL 32611
E-mail: ringram1@ufl.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15982

Hamilton College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (American Politics)

The Government Department at Hamilton College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning July 1, 2026. The department seeks a specialist in American political institutions.

The teaching load for this position is four courses during the first year and five courses thereafter, including an introductory course in American politics and upper-level courses in the candidate's specialty. The expected salary range for this position is $92,100 to $97,900. The position requires institutional service, including academic advising of undergraduate students after the first year.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcript, and names and contact information for references via Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/171832. We are seeking candidates who can demonstrate their experience in teaching or working with broadly diverse student populations while contributing to a vibrant learning community that values academic freedom, creativity, and intellectual curiosity. Your cover letter should address the ways in which you would enhance the educational experience of students and further the College's educational goals.

Our review of applications will begin on 30 September 2025. Questions regarding the search may be directed to Prof. Erica De Bruin, American Politics Search Committee Chair, at edebruin@hamilton.edu.

To schedule an informational interview at APSA 2025, please email Prof. Philip Klinkner at pklinkne@hamilton.edu.

Hamilton College is a residential liberal arts college located in central New York. The College has built its reputation on the teaching excellence and leading scholarship of its faculty, and on the academic distinction and intellectual curiosity of its approximately 2000 students who take advantage of Hamilton's open curriculum (https://www.hamilton.edu/academics/open-curriculum). Accomplished faculty, highly capable and motivated students, and a student-faculty ratio of 9:1 provide an educational experience that emphasizes academic excellence, intellectual and cultural diversity, and respect for differences in the development of students as human beings. Hamilton's commitment to diversity is embodied in its need-blind admission policy and meeting the full demonstrated financial need of every accepted student for their entire undergraduate program. Please visit the college website for more information (www.hamilton.edu).

Hamilton College is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to creating an accessible, supportive environment and an educational experience that recognizes a wide array of experiences, backgrounds and viewpoints as integral components of academic excellence. Candidates who can contribute to those goals are encouraged to apply and discuss their strengths in these areas. Applicants with dual-career considerations can find other Hamilton and nearby academic job listings at https://www.hercjobs.org/regions/higher-ed-careers-upstate-new-york/, as well as additional information at https://www.hamilton.edu/dof/faculty-development/resources-for-prospective-or-new-faculty/opportunities-for-spouses-or-partners (Opportunities for Spouses or Partners). Hamilton provides domestic partner benefits.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/21/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15979

North Central College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science-American Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at North Central College seeks candidates for a tenure-track position in political science with emphasis in American political behavior. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to innovative undergraduate education. We seek a dynamic teacher-scholar who is passionate about creative pedagogy, inclusive teaching practices, and fostering critical inquiry both inside and outside the classroom. The department especially values approaches that prepare undergraduates to think critically and responsibly about the American democracy.

Appointment at the rank of assistant professor is anticipated, but higher rank may be considered for suitable qualified candidates. Ph.D. must be in hand by August 1, 2026. In addition to teaching courses in American politics, the candidate would have the opportunity to contribute to the department's law, policy, or methodology courses as well as develop courses in their areas of expertise. There will be additional opportunities for the successful candidate to contribute to North Central's tradition of interdisciplinary learning. North Central College values diversity, equity and inclusion and strongly encourages candidates who would enrich the diversity of the campus community to apply. Experience working with diverse student populations and communities is highly desirable.

Review of applications will begin on October 15 and continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should complete and submit an application with all required documentation online at: https://northcentralcollege.peopleadmin.com/postings/15006

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15977

University of Texas, Arlington

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Political Science
Specializations: Political Behavior, Electoral Behavior, Latino Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor in American politics, to begin August 2026. Scholars whose research and teaching focus on American political behavior related to elections, voting, and/or Latino politics in the US are especially invited to apply. The successful candidate should also have a strong background in research methodology, and be able to teach courses in this area.

Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in social science research, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service appropriate to the rank. The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach substantive courses in their area of expertise, including introductory courses, upper-level undergraduate courses, and Master's level courses.

The Department of Political Science offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over two hundred and fifty undergraduate majors and fifteen to twenty graduate students.

The Department is part of the College of Liberal Arts, which focuses on high-quality research and teaching, including through study abroad, internships, and service learning.

To apply please follow this link: https://uta.peopleadmin.com/postings/32587

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15972

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Job Description:
The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in American Politics, beginning in the Fall of 2026. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2026. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2025. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Job Summary:

Tenure-track position that teaches both undergraduate and graduate students, maintains an active research agenda with regular publications, and participates in departmental, college, and university service activities commensurate with rank.

Job Responsibilities:

Teach graduate or undergraduate courses and hold regular office hours. Supervise graduate assistant(s) if assigned. - 50%

Maintain an active research agenda with regular publications. - 50%

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related or equivalent field.

Additional Job Description:
Special Instructions:
Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). Please attach all documents under the "Resume/CV" section of your application. Attachments are limited to five. A copy of your transcripts may be attached to your application (if available). However, official transcripts are required prior to hire. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

For questions or concerns regarding the status of your application or salary ranges, please contact Robert Hogan at polisci@lsu.edu.

Posting Date:
September 16, 2025

Closing Date (Open Until Filled if No Date Specified):
March 13, 2026

Additional Position Information:
Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities; employee discounts; and more!

Positions approved to work outside the State of Louisiana shall be employed through Louisiana State University's partner, nextSource Workforce Solutions, for Employer of Record Services including but not limited to employment, benefits, payroll, and tax compliance. Positions employed through Employer of Record Services will be offered benefits and retirement as applicable through their provider and will not be eligible for State of Louisiana benefits and retirement.

Essential Position (Y/N):

LSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

HCM Contact Information:
For questions or concerns related to updating your application with attachments (e.g., resumes, RS:17 documents), date of birth, or reactivating applications, please contact the LSU Human Resources Management Office at 225-578-8200 or email HR@lsu.edu. For questions or concerns regarding the status of your application or salary ranges, please contact the department using the information provided in the Special Instructions section of this job posting.

External Applicant Link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0101-Charles-E-Coates-Hall/Assistant-Professor---American-Politics_R00109501

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15948

Stanford University

Rank: American Politics, Senior Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University seeks applicants for a senior appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The preferred area of specialty is American Politics. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in a related field and will be expected to teach and advise students at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494907/american-politics-senior-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science) and submit

-a cover letter
-curriculum vitae (including a publication list)
-teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages)
-teaching evaluations

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for this position is for academic year 2025-26:
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1st, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15949

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Associate Professor
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

The Department of Politics, Government, and Law in the College of Letters and Sciences at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater seeks a tenure-track faculty member in the area of public law beginning August 2026.

Job Details:

This is a full-time position with responsibilities for teaching undergraduate courses in legal studies and political science, conducting research, and engaging in service to the university, community, and profession. Research and teaching expertise should complement existing faculty expertise and may include case law, civil rights, and American minority politics.

The successful candidate will be able to teach Constitutional Law, The Constitution and Civil Liberties, The Constitution and Civil Rights, Law and Society, and courses in their area of expertise as part of the Legal Studies and Political Science programs. The candidate will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda that engages undergraduate students, results in publications and contributes to advancing the department, university, the profession, and society. The candidate will also be expected to participate in service activities and embrace the principles of diversity and inclusion as a member of the university community.

Responsibilities:

Full-Time teaching responsibilities include Constitutional Law, The Constitution and Civil Liberties, The Constitution and Civil Rights, Law and Society, courses in the applicant's area of expertise, and contributing to the university's general education program. Research expectations include maintaining an active research agenda including publication and research dissemination at disciplinary conferences. In addition, faculty members serve as advisors/mentors to students and are encouraged to engage students in undergraduate research or other scholarly and creative activities. Service responsibilities include committee service at the departmental, college, and university levels as well as participation in community organizations and the discipline as relevant to the candidate's expertise and interest. Faculty at UW-W may be required to teach in a variety of formats, including in-person, online and/or in a hybrid format, or courses in the evenings. All students, faculty, and staff are required to ensure their materials are digitally accessible and utilize standard technology platforms supported by UW-Whitewater. Examples include, but are not limited to, Navigate, Canvas, and Microsoft Office applications – including Outlook, which is essential for university email communications and scheduling.

Department Information:

The Department of Politics, Government, and Law (https://www.uww.edu/cls/departments/politics-government-law) houses programs in political science, public policy and administration, and legal studies, including majors, minors and certificates. The nine full-time faculty of the department serve approximately 200 majors and advise multiple student organizations, oversee internships in politics, government, and law, and offer experiential learning opportunities outside of the classroom. The department is housed in the College of Letters and Sciences (https://www.uww.edu/cls), home to the social sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and the humanities at UW - Whitewater.

Compensation:

Well-qualified candidates can expect a minimum starting salary of $60,000 commensurate with the candidate's education, related experience, and qualifications.

UW System employees receive an excellent benefit package. To learn more about the UW System's comprehensive benefit package, review the UW System Employee Benefits Brochure.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in political science, law or a related field is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2026; if not, they will be hired on a one-year contract with the understanding that their degree will be completed before January 2027 in advance of their first scheduled review.

Demonstrated commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with inclusive populations and serving as active member of the university community are required.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

Ability to interact respectfully with people with diverse socioeconomic, cultural and ethnic backgrounds

Willingness and ability to be an active participant in following applicable safety rules and regulations including necessary training and drills

How to Apply:

Applications must be submitted through https://wisconsin.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UW_Comprehensives/job/Whitewater-WI/Assistant-Professor---Tenure-Track---COLS---Politics--Government--and-Law_JR10003924

Only complete application packages will be considered. This includes online submission of the following documents:

Cover Letter/Letter of Interest

Statement of Teaching Philosophy

Curriculum Vita

Names and Contact information for three professional references (letters of recommendation may be solicited at a later time)

Copies of unofficial graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required if offered the position)

Contact Information:

If you have questions regarding this recruitment or if you are unable to complete the application online due to a disability or system problem, please contact us at (262) 472-1024 or hr@uww.edu.

To Ensure Consideration:

Applications received by October 16th, 2025, are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. The most qualified applicants will be invited to participate in the next step of the selection process.

CAMPUS INFORMATION:

UW-Whitewater is a thriving public university located in southeastern Wisconsin. It leads the way in providing world-class, affordable higher education programs to more students than neighboring regional comprehensives in the University of Wisconsin System. A collaborative team of 1,300 faculty and staff are devoted to the success of the university's 11,500 students at its main and Rock County campuses. The team provides high-impact practices and academic programs — online and in person — from associate to doctoral levels. Recognized nationally for affordability, inclusion, and career development, UWW serves approximately one-third first-generation students and boasts strength in many areas, especially business and education. The campus and community embrace the Warhawk Family spirit, supporting the university's arts and nationally recognized NCAA Division-III level championship athletics. As a proud institution of access, more than 10 percent of undergraduate students use the acclaimed Center for Students with Disabilities — a priority mission since the 1970s.

UW-Whitewater's campuses are located centrally near Milwaukee, Madison, and Chicago, offering easy access to the cultural and commercial opportunities of major metropolitan areas. Near both Lake Geneva and the Wisconsin Dells, the area attracts numerous visitors from across the country. Whitewater is a vibrant college community near the Kettle Moraine State Forest offering area residents seasonal outdoor enjoyment. The nearby Rock County campus is located in Janesville, a town of 60,000 located on the Rock River and known as Wisconsin's Park Place.

ORGANIZATION INFORMATION:

The University of Wisconsin-Whitewater is part of the 13-campus Universities of Wisconsin (https://www.wisconsin.edu).

Wisconsin Statute 19.36(7)(b) provides that applicants may indicate in writing that their identity should be kept confidential. In response to a public records request, the University will not reveal the identities of applicants who request confidentiality in writing, except that the identity of the successful final candidate will be released. See Wisconsin Statute 19.36(7)(a).

Per Regent Policy Document 20-19, University of Wisconsin System Criminal Background Check Policy and Universities of Wisconsin Administrative Policy 1275 Recruitment Policies, UW-Whitewater requires criminal background checks as a contingency to employment. A criminal background check will be conducted prior to an offer of employment. All final candidates must be asked, prior to hire, whether they have been found to have engaged in, are currently under investigation for, or left employment during an active investigation in which they were accused of sexual violence or sexual harassment. When obtaining employment reference checks, these same sexual violence or sexual harassment questions must also be asked.

The University of Wisconsin-Whitewater requires that all employees be active participants in following applicable safety rules and regulations including necessary training and drills.

For UW-Whitewater Campus safety information and crime statistics/annual Security Report, see? Annual Security and Fire Safety Report if you would like a paper copy of the report please contact the UW-Whitewater Police at 262-472-4660.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/16/2025
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15953

Arkansas State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Government, Law & Policy at Arkansas State University is seeking applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, set to commence in Fall 2026. The candidate must possess a PhD in Public Administration or Political Science. Candidates who are advanced ABDs will also be considered, provided they obtain their PhD by July 2026. While the position does not require a particular area of specialization within Public Administration, candidates whose research and teaching interests align with Human Resource Management and Local Government Administration are highly encouraged to apply. Additionally, candidates with a strong interest in teaching upper division electives in our B.A. program in political science will be given preference.

Requirements: (1) A statement of purpose indicating research and teaching interests and credentials, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Evidence of teaching ability, (4) A Writing sample (a peer reviewed article that was recently published or dissertation chapter will suffice,) and (5) A list of three academic references that will be contacted by the search committee if short-listed. All items listed as requirements must be submitted for your file to be considered complete.

Review of applications will begin on 11/4/25. Arkansas State University is a comprehensive Carnegie classified R2 public research university located approximately seventy miles northwest of Memphis. The department offers a well-rounded curriculum to its one hundred majors in the BA program in political science. The department also offers a NASPAA-accredited online MPA program.

Faculty members deliver instruction, conduct research, perform service for their respective professions and community, and participate in the management of the University through shared governance. Each member of the faculty has the duty to deliver instruction and maintain a learning environment consistent with the highest standards of the profession. The faculty has a responsibility to set degree requirements, assess when they are met, and establish and maintain curricula that meet professional standards and fulfill the educational goals of the University.

To learn more or apply, please visit the A-State employment website here: https://phe.tbe.taleo.net/phe02/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=ARKASTAT2&cws=40&rid=37630

The teaching load of the faculty is in alignment with a Carnegie-classified R2 institution. Faculty workload also includes research, creative activity, service, and professional development in the best interest of the students and the university community at large.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15939

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026

Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

Harvard University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Title: Postdoctoral Research Fellow
Department: Local Politics Lab at the Harvard Kennedy School and the Bloomberg Center for Cities at Harvard University

Position Description
The Local Politics Lab at the Harvard Kennedy School, along with faculty director Justin de Benedictis-Kessner, seeks applications for a Postdoctoral Researcher for two years starting in summer 2026. The Postdoctoral Researcher will work on projects related to cities and other local governments in the Local Politics Lab at the Bloomberg Center at Harvard University with faculty director Justin de Benedictis-Kessner. The candidate will work on designated projects and give direction on research ideas, hone research questions, design and implement robust research analytic plans, analyze data, interpret results, manage graduate and undergraduate research assistants, and review and/or assist in writing academic research papers and public-facing research briefs. Projects will include work on elections using and updating the American local elections database, as well as launching and analyzing surveys related to local politics and elections. The Postdoctoral Researcher will report to the Local Politics Lab faculty director and contribute to multiple ongoing research projects on local politics and policy, develop new projects in collaboration with the faculty director, and engage in their own independent research projects. More information available here: https://cities.harvard.edu/about/about-jobs/

Position Responsibilities
- Scope new research projects, conceptualize research design, and manage research project activities
- Conduct statistical and econometric analysis using R on administrative data sets and/or other incoming data, including cleaning data, conducting analysis, and presenting and visualizing the results in various formats (tables/graphs, etc).
- Support and coordinate the design and implementation of online surveys.
- Support research administration, including data use agreements, data safety requirements and IRB protocols.
- Provide oversight of junior RAs (undergraduate and graduate students).
- Support the code review process of other team members.

Basic Qualifications
PhD degree by the time of appointment and relevant academic research experience in local politics.

Additional Qualifications
- Experience supporting the design and implementation of online surveys
- Experience collecting data via web-scraping
- Demonstrated experience in quantitative data analysis, including presenting data in various visual formats.
- Ability to communicate effectively with a wide variety of stakeholders including faculty, staff, city partners, and other researchers
- Skill in overseeing multiple diverse academic and research-related activities simultaneously, delivering on commitments, and operating with speed, accuracy, and strong judgment
- Demonstrated experience with project management and meeting project timelines across multiple projects and communicating with internal and external stakeholders in a productive, professional, and timely manner.
- Strong interpersonal skills and communication skills, including exceptional writing skills.
- Ability to work both independently and as a team member
- Eagerness and ability to learn new skills quickly on the job
- Experience working in the public sector, local politics or on public sector challenges.

Application

Please submit (1) a CV; (2) a cover letter describing qualifications, a succinct description of research interests, and fit with the Local Politics Lab; (3) at least one writing sample; and (4) contact information for at least two faculty references who can be contacted by the Lab's faculty director if needed. Materials can be submitted here: https://www.dropbox.com/request/nyWw7eldHDhgwKhKM9rI

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled but should be submitted no later than November 1, 2025.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15930

University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer - American Politics & Political Campaigning
Specializations: American Politics, Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Systems

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time recurring Lecturer position in American Politics and Political Campaigning to begin August 16, 2026. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our department's strengths in American Politics, as well as our undergraduate and master's level programs in Political Campaigning. Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating campaigning-related experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and supervise capstone projects for our MA students. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach some or all of the following courses: Political Parties and Elections, Modern Political Campaigns, Political Campaigning, Advanced Campaign Strategy, Survey Research, and State and Local Politics.

The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

We are especially interested in candidates who can teach some or all of the following courses: Political Parties and Elections, Modern Political Campaigns, Political Campaigning, Advanced Campaign Strategy, Survey Research, and State and Local Politics.

Preferred: Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating campaigning-related experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and supervise capstone projects for our MA students.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 24 and will continue until the position is filled. The application is available here: https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/537110/lecturer-american-politics-political-campaigning

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16018

DePauw University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Tenure-track)

The Department of Political Science at DePauw University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026. Ph.D. (completed by August 2026) in Political Science is preferred; ABD candidates will be considered at the rank of Instructor. A commitment to teaching undergraduates in a liberal-arts setting and evidence of effective and inclusive teaching are essential. The department specifically seeks candidates to teach introductory American Politics classes and upper-level courses in any area of American Politics of the candidate's choosing, after consultation with the department. Ability to offer advanced courses on the institutions of American government and/or constitutional law are welcome. Teaching assignment is 6 courses per year, and funding is available for professional development and research with undergraduate students.

DePauw University is a leading, nationally-recognized liberal arts and sciences university dedicated to educating approximately 1,850 highly talented, motivated, and diverse students from across the country and around the globe. The University includes a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, a School of Business and Leadership, and a Creative School, which enriches the community by providing a rich set of music performances and other artistic offerings. For 185 years, DePauw has created an atmosphere of intellectual challenge that prepares students for lifelong success and fulfills its mission to develop leaders the world needs through an uncommon commitment to the liberal arts. Located in Greencastle, Indiana, about a 45-minute drive west of Indianapolis, DePauw is a member of the Great Lakes Colleges Association. DePauw has an ongoing commitment to diversity and seeks to strengthen our institution through equitable and inclusive practices. Please see this profile for more information about DePauw University.

Candidates should submit through Workday:

a cover letter summarizing qualifications;

CV;

a statement of teaching philosophy;

a statement of scholarly interests;

evidence of effective teaching, such as sample syllabi or course evaluations; and a copy of graduate transcripts.

Contact information for professional references may be requested at a later date.

Application materials should provide evidence of a commitment to successfully fostering and engaging with a diversity of ideas and experiences to create an inclusive environment in the classroom and at the University. Review of applications will begin October 12, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Please contact Deepa Prakash, Political Science Department Chair, at deepaprakah@depauw.edu with any questions.

We are proud to recognize the active participation of faculty and staff in adding to the heritage of building and supporting vibrant, intellectual and creative lives for students and for ourselves. Principles of collaboration, respect for each other, diversity, freedom of expression, accountability and service guide the daily decisions and interactions across campus.

DePauw University, in affirmation of its commitment to excellence, endeavors to provide equal opportunity for all individuals in its hiring, promotion, compensation and admission procedures. Institutional decisions regarding hiring, promotion, compensation and admission will be based upon a person's qualifications and/or performance without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, age, gender, gender identity or gender expression, except where religion, gender, or national origin is a bona fide occupational qualification.

DePauw University's goals and commitments are best served if the institution reflects the diversity of our society; hence, DePauw seeks diversity in all areas and levels of employment and abides by all local, state, and federal regulations concerning equal employment opportunities. The University admits, hires and promotes individuals upon their qualities and merits.

Employee Benefits Overview

There are many benefits offered to DePauw Employees.

For full time benefits eligible employees these benefits include medical, dental and vision insurance. Basic Life insurance, Accidental Death & Dismemberment (AD&D) and Long Term Disability are paid for by DePauw University. Full time employees may elect to purchase additional voluntary life insurance for themselves and their dependents. Additional voluntary benefits, Tuition Remission and Exchange, as well as Relocation Allowance are also employee benefits. See the Benefits Hub.

All employees may participate in the retirement savings plan, as well as employee discounts and access to University resources.

At DePauw, we recognize that our employees need to balance work and home. Please refer to University Policies for Vacation Time, Personal Time (hourly) and Sick Time policies in the Employee Handbook for more information on these and other benefits. When you need support, the Cigna Employee Assistance benefit is available to all employees and their households.

ENJOY ACCESS TO THE AMAZING FACILITIES AND PROGRAMS DEPAUW UNIVERSITY HAS TO OFFER, SUCH AS:
Welch Fitness Center and wellness classes
Indoor Tennis and Track Center University Libraries
Peeler art galleries
Green Center for the Performing Arts events and programs
Ubben lecture series
Free athletic events
Bookstore and Starbucks (Greencastle) discounts
Employee discounted meal plan
Free parking
Nature park, including walking and biking trails
Personal duplicating and printing discounts
EEO is the law. Click here for more information.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15917

CUNY-City College of New York

Rank: Professor of Political Science and Director of the Master's Program in Public Administration

The City College of New York's Political Science Department and Moynihan Center seek a dynamic, open-rank (tenure-track or tenured) professor who will also serve as the academic director of the College's Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

City College's MPA program currently has an enrollment of approximately 40 students, a dedicated Program Director who manages day-to-day operations, and a faculty pool of 12 professors. The Academic Director will provide academic leadership and strategic vision for program expansion, working collaboratively with the Program Director and integrating with broader Moynihan Center programming initiatives.

Reflecting City College's history and student population, the MPA program promotes social mobility and academic excellence in public administration, embodying the Colin Powell School's mission of "lifting leaders, shifting power, and transforming society." A demonstrable commitment to this mission and to serving the working people of New York City interested in public service careers is essential.

As Professor in CCNY's Political Science Department, the successful candidate will teach classes in public policy, public law, and/or American politics. In their role as Academic Director of the MPA program, the candidate will provide curricular leadership, support faculty development, provide admissions oversight, and engage in external relations. They will collaborate closely with the Program Director and Moynihan Center leadership on strategic planning and program growth. The Academic Director will also receive two course releases per academic year as compensation for administrative duties.

QUALIFICATIONS

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor: Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution or equivalent. Must demonstrate the ability to teach successfully, have a record of scholarship or professional achievement, and the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues and contribute to institutional goals.

Preferred Qualifications

Administrative experience in academic program leadership or equivalent professional experience in public service management is preferred. Demonstrated interest in fundraising and resource development is highly valued.

An outstanding track record of academic research and teaching experience in the field of Public Policy or Public Administration is required, but candidates also need to have experience and/or demonstrable potential in leading an academic program.

COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

Assistant Professor: $90,838 - $102,017

Associate Professor: $102,408 - $121,194

Professor: $122,201 - $145,671

Plus an additional $30,000 administrative supplement.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Only applications submitted through CUNYfirst will be considered for this position.

If you are viewing this job posting in CUNYfirst, please click on "Apply Now" on the bottom of this page and follow the instructions.

If you are viewing this job posting externally, please apply as follows:

· Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"

· Click "Search job listings"

· Click on "More options to search for CUNY jobs"

· Search for Job Opening ID number 31048

· Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions.

Applications, including the following must be uploaded to the CUNYfirst job application website as a single PDF document:

1. Cover letter

2. Curriculum Vitae

3. Writing Sample

In addition, please send three letters of recommendation to Jenifer Roman, jroman@ccny.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

The committee will begin reviewing applications on October 30th 2025, but the position will remain open until filled.

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans, and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15904

Pennsylvania State University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars specializing in American political behavior, broadly defined, who are also able to o??er undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology or social data analytics. We welcome candidates whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, public opinion, electoral behavior, the role of AI in democracy, democratic principles, representation, political participation, political psychology, partisanship, polarization, gender, or race/ethnicity.
The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on American political behavior. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071408-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15912

Rice University
Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for one tenure-track position in American Politics to begin July 1, 2026. The appointment will be made at the rank of associate or full professor. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills, and they should aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Job duties include conducting exceptional research, securing external funding, and teaching graduate courses in American Politics and undergraduate courses that serve students in Political Science and Social Policy Analysis; the position also requires service to the department, the university, and the field of Political Science. We are especially interested in candidates whose research and expertise are at the intersection of American politics and public policy. This includes, but is not limited to, areas like state and local government, courts, legislatures, bureaucracy, and the presidency. The new hire will collaborate with scholars across all departmental areas and with those conducting similar research in the School of Social Sciences.

Candidates must currently have a PhD in Political Science or related field. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2025, but applications will be accepted until the search is closed. All applications should be submitted electronically at https://apply.interfolio.com/173568. In addition to the application, the following items must be uploaded: (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) research statement, (4) teaching statement including evidence of effectiveness, and (5) contact information for three references.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Please send questions regarding this position to Ann Mikus (amikus@rice.edu).

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15915

Appalachian State University
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Political Science focusing on American Politics beginning August 2026. The department is particularly interested in scholars who study campaigns & elections, immigration politics, media, American political development, and judicial politics/public law, however other areas of American politics will be considered. The individual hired in this position will contribute to the curriculum of lower and upper-level undergraduate courses, and graduate courses based on their area of expertise and program needs. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester for faculty with an active research agenda. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or government is required at the time of appointment. A terminal J.D. is not sufficient.

Please apply for this position using the following link: https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/52012

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15894

University of Central Florida
Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.
Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, post-doctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15899

University of Central Florida

Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.
Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15900

Morehouse College
Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who work in the area of public law and are prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and contributing to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15867

Yale University
Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in American Politics at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor, beginning July 1, 2026. A successful applicant should focus on substantive questions in any area of American Politics. Candidates will be expected to teach courses in American Politics commensurate with their experience. If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter and CV. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172149. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15871

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

Duquesne University

Rank: Full Time, Tenure Track, Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests. The successful candidate will be able to teach an introductory course in American national government as well as courses in two of the following areas: 1) American political institutions; 2) political behavior (parties and interest groups; elections, campaigns, and voting; media and political communication) or 3) public administration and public policy. The successful candidate will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body.

Duquesne University is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable, according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources. Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting https://www.duq.edu/social-impact/mission-and-spiritan-values/index.php. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked how they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Alternately, the applicants may possess any equivalent combination of experience and training, which provides the knowledge, skills, and abilities required to perform the essential job functions.

-The ability to establish and maintain effective working relationships with the University Community

The ability and willingness to contribute actively to the Mission of the University and to respect the Spiritan Catholic identity of Duquesne University. The Mission is implemented through a commitment to academic excellence, a spirit of service, moral and spiritual values, sensitivity to world concerns, and an ecumenical campus community.
Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have an Ph.D from an accredited institution.

Application Instructions

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on September 30, 2025, and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. It is strongly preferred that applicants have a Ph.D. by the start date. Applicants should submit: (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted via Interfolio at the link below.

https://apply.interfolio.com/173022

Start date is August 10, 2026. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Dr. Jennie Schulze, schulzej@duq.edu

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

Duquesne University was founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit. Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Motivated by its Catholic identity, Duquesne values equality of opportunity both as an educational institution and as an employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15865

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

Job Summary
The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the assistant professor rank beginning in August 2026. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American Politics and upper-level courses in their specialty. The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching and advising in the liberal arts tradition. The department has a strong history of pre-law advising at the College, a responsibility that is available to interested faculty with expertise in judicial politics. The teaching load for this position is the equivalent of five courses (typically 2-3 or 3-2) over the academic year.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,200 students.

Qualifications
Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science or closely related field with a specialization in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship, and/or governance that they can contribute to the inclusivity of our community.

Special Instructions to Applicants
Applicants should complete the online application at https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/5982. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research program, and statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask applicants to specify the courses that they would be prepared to teach, and we also ask applicants to elaborate on their experiences and plans for building an inclusive learning environment. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2025 and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Lindsay Reid at lreid@gettysburg.edu.

EEO Statement
Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15848

Eastern Kentucky University

Rank: Asst Professor, Political Science

The Department of Government at Eastern Kentucky University seeks applications for a faculty member in the Political Science Program at the rank of Assistant Professor, tenure track, beginning on or about August 1, 2026. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory and advanced courses in American government and institutions. Previous experience teaching at the post-secondary level is preferred. Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in political science, public administration, government, public policy, public affairs, or a closely relate field from an accredited institution at the time of appointment. The application review date is October 15, 2025; and the position begins August 2026. Visit www.government.eku.edu for more information about the department.

The position serves the undergraduate political science program and other department programs, including the MPA Program. It requires the ability to develop and teach fully online classes. The successful candidate should be, or should have the potential to be, a high-quality teacher and an active scholar. The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate classes, including courses related to American Government and related institutions, in a 12-hour-per-semester teaching load. The successful candidate will also develop and maintain an active scholarly agenda, conduct academic advising, and participate in service to the department, university, and community. In addition, membership and participation in state, regional, national, or international professional organizations is recommended.

The University places a high priority on being leaders in the responsible use of artificial intelligence and in building such capacity in our students. The successful candidate will demonstrate knowledge of artificial intelligence pertinent to the discipline and/or a willingness to pursue professional development to acquire such expertise.

Applicant documents include:

- Cover Letter
- Vitae
- Copies of unofficial transcripts
- Contact Information for 3 Professional References

Applicants are also highly encouraged to submit teaching evaluations from prior courses and statements of their philosophy of teaching.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2025. Questions about the position can be directed to Ozan Kalkan at kerem.kalkan@eku.edu.

To learn more about it, please go to the link below:

https://careers.eku.edu/jobs/b7914d6c-9adb-42ce-a704-e890a494051f

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15841

Jacksonville State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Government/Public Law)

Jacksonville State University is accepting applications for a tenure-track position of Assistant Professor of Political Science in the Department of Sociology and Political Science. This is a full-time, tenure-track position with a primary teaching focus, carrying a 4/4 teaching load. The position begins in the fall semester of 2026. The successful candidate will have a background in Public Law and American government, with a strong foundation in law and legal studies.

Review of applications will begin on Monday, October 6, 2025.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via the university's job posting at: https://careers.jsu.edu/cw/en-us/job/497810/assistant-professor-political-science

Required Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field, from an accredited university by the proposed start date.
• Candidate's first field of study should be either Public Law or American Government–with the ability to teach law and legal studies at the undergraduate-level.
• College level teaching experience.
• Willingness to teach in traditional, hybrid, and online modalities.

Preferred Qualifications:
• Demonstration of effective teaching (e.g., peer reviews, student evaluations, evidence of student success).
• Interest in mentoring undergraduate students, including LSAT preparation.
• Record of scholarly achievement (e.g., peer-reviewed publication, conference presentation, and/or published journalism).

Required Documents:
• Cover letter
• Current curriculum vitae
• Unofficial transcripts
• Sample syllabus

About the Program
The Political Science Program has a rich history of mentoring students across numerous interests to achieve their goals. Students have been selected for the American Bar Foundation's Summer Research Fellowship, an internship with the Governor of Alabama, an internship with the Economic Development Partnership of Alabama, and more.

About the College
The Jacksonville State University College of Social and Behavioral Sciences offers top-quality academic programs through traditional classroom, hybrid, and online course offerings to prepare 21st century professionals for immediate careers in criminal justice and forensics, emergency management and disaster preparedness, politics and public administration, psychology, sociology, social work, military and veteran services.

About Jax State
Located in the Appalachian foothills of northeast Alabama, midway between Birmingham and Atlanta, Jacksonville State University is home to more than 9,900 students representing 63 countries. As a learning-centered university, it strives to challenge students academically in a responsive environment, meeting their educational, career and personal goals. As an academic institution, it seeks to produce broadly educated graduates prepared for global engagement. As a public, comprehensive university, it promotes excellence in scholarly and service activities consistent with its academic and professional strengths. For a complete list of Goals, Core Values and Strategies to fulfill this Mission, go to the JSU Strategic Plan home page.

Academically Jax State offers 113 academic programs and concentrations, including bachelor's, master's, post-baccalaureate, doctoral and advanced certificate programs in a variety of disciplines that prepare graduates for meaningful careers and ongoing education. More than 40 online programs are offered. The University features six colleges on its 459-acre campus – Arts, Humanities and Sciences; Business and Industry; Education and Professional Studies; Health Professions and Wellness; Social and Behavioral Sciences; and Library. Most academic programs have discipline-specific accreditations, a reflection of their quality and JSU's commitment to excellence.

Clery Notice: In compliance with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Crime Statistics Act, https://www.clerycenter.org/the-clery-act the Jacksonville State University Police provide information on crimes statistics, crime prevention, law enforcement, crime reporting, and other related issues for the past three calendar years. The JSU Annual Campus Security and Fire Report is available online at: https://www.jsu.edu/police/docs/CleryAnnualReport.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15843

University of Idaho

Rank: Regular Faculty - Political Science

Regular Faculty - Political Science

Posting Number: F001372P

Advertising Pay Range: $71,830.50 or higher commensurate with experience

Location: Moscow

Primary Division/College: Col of Letters, Arts & Social Sci.

Primary Unit: Politics and Philosophy

Employee Category: Faculty

Classification Group Title: Regular Faculty

Position Control Number: 0418

Suffix: 00

Contingency Code: Not Applicable

FTE: 1

Contract Basis: Academic Year

Anticipated Contract Start Date: 08/17/2026

FLSA Status: Exempt

Tenure Tracking: Tenure Track

Rank: Assistant Professor

Extension Type: Not Applicable

Administrative Appointment Type: Not applicable

Administrative Appointment End Date (if applicable):

Position Summary:

The Department of Politics and Philosophy in the College of Letters, Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Idaho invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Politics with a focus on Public Law, Constitutional Law, or Judicial Politics. Appointment will begin August 2026. The department is particularly interested in recruiting candidates with a Juris Doctor degree (J.D.) and those with experience coaching or advising a mock trial team.

Candidates are expected to show a strong potential for excellence in research and teaching, and should have a Ph.D. in hand by the date of appointment, but ABDs close to completion may also be considered.

Unit/Department Summary: https://www.uidaho.edu/class/ https://www.uidaho.edu/class/politics-and-philosophy

Administrative Summary:

Contingency Description:

Teaching & Advising: 60%

Scholarship & Creative Activity: 30%

Outreach & Extension: 5%

University Service & Leadership: 5%

Minimum Education/Degree Required:

Listed degree qualification is required at time of hire.

Required Qualifications:

• Ph.D. in Political Science
• Research expertise in Public Law, Constitutional Law, or Judicial Politics
• Teaching experience in Constitutional Law
• Teaching experience in Civil Liberties
• Teaching experience in Local Government Law

Preferred Qualifications:

• Juris Doctor (J.D.)
• Experience coaching or advising a mock trial team
• Strong potential for excellence in research
• Strong potential for excellence in teaching

Physical Requirements & Working Conditions:

Posting Date: 08/11/2025

Closing Date:

Open Until Filled: Yes

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Applications must be received by September 29, 2025 for priority review. Applicant materials must include all of the following: 1) a letter of application
2) curriculum vitae
3) 2-3 page statement describing current and future research projects (upload as Statement of Research)
4) 2-3 page pedagogy statement (upload as Statement of Teaching)
5) writing sample (upload as Other Document 1)
6) list of 3 references and their contact information

Candidates approved for first interview will be asked to arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to politics-and-philosophy@uidaho.edu with a subject heading that includes the applicant's name and the phrase 'American Politics Search'.

Applicant Resources: https://www.uidaho.edu/human-resources/careers/applicant-resources

Background Check Statement:

Applicants who are selected as final possible candidates must be able to pass a criminal background check.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6496634

The University of Idaho is an equal employment opportunity employer, including veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15845

Midwestern State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Midwestern State University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor in the field of American Politics. As a faculty member in the Department of Political Science, you will be expected to:
1. Develop and teach courses in the field of American Politics
2. Teach 12 credit hours/4 courses each semester
3. Regularly teach core courses in American national government and Texas government
4. Develop a record of research and scholarly activity
5. Advise and mentor undergraduate students
6. Engage in service at the department, college, and university levels

Candidates are required to have:
1. PhD in Political Science or closely related field (ABD considered with expected completion by the start date)

2. Expertise in the field of American Politics
3. Demonstrated teaching effectiveness
4. Evidence of potential for strong scholarly research

In addition to the required qualifications, individuals with the following preferred qualifications are encouraged to apply:
1. Commitment to undergraduate education
2. The ability to teach courses areas that would add to the Department offerings, such as public administration, public policy, research methods, social movements, or any additional subfield.
3. Interest in collaborative research with colleagues and/or students

About the Department:
The Department of Political Science is dedicated to undergraduate excellence and building community with colleagues and students. It houses the Political Science major, and minors in Political Science, Global Studies, and Women's and Gender Studies. The Department is proud of its success in undergraduate research and career placement.

The Department of Political Science is located within the Prothro-Yeager College of Humanities and Social Sciences, which consists of the academic departments of English, humanities, and philosophy; history; psychology; political science; sociology; and world languages and cultures. Each department offers majors, minors, and core curriculum courses. Faculty development funding is available at the university, college, and departmental levels.

About Midwestern State University:
Established in 1922, Midwestern State University is a public university in Wichita Falls, Texas, located halfway between Oklahoma City and the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. The university has an average enrollment of 5,800 students, with approximately 20% enrolled in graduate programs. Rooted in a values-based culture, Midwestern State University aims to empower students and our community through a commitment to academic excellence, personal growth, and a culture of lifelong learning, inquiry, and innovation. The university is strongly committed to serving first-generation students and those receiving financial assistance.

To apply, please include the following documents:
1. Cover Letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Statement of Teaching Philosophy
4. Unofficial Transcript
5. Evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g. syllabi or course evaluations)
6. Contact information for 3 references

Please send applications to:
Ms. Christy Magee
Secretary to the Departments of History and Political Science christy.magee@msutexas.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15829

The University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Chicago invites applications for an Assistant Professor in American Politics. We welcome applications from the entire subfield of American politics. This position will begin on or after July 1, 2026.

Candidates must have completed all requirements for the PhD degree prior to the start of the appointment.

Applicants must apply at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at https://apply.interfolio.com/172740. Applications must include a 1) cover letter, 2) CV, 3) teaching statement, 4) research statement, 5) at least one (and up to three) examples of scholarly writing, and 6) at least three letters of recommendation. Consideration of applications will begin on October 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled or the search has ended.

Salary Range: $90,000- $130,000

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15832

University of Georgia

Rank: Lecturer

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 1, 2026. Lecturers teach eight courses per academic year, four courses in each academic term. They typically teach two or more sections of the same course each semester and/or in the same academic year. The allocation of effort at appointment will be 100% teaching. A lecturer is likely to teach the undergraduate introduction to American government and upper division undergraduate courses in American politics in areas that align with their interests.

Lecturers are valued members of the Department with opportunities to shape the curriculum and participate in faculty governance process. They are eligible for professional development support, travel funding, and summer teaching (including study abroad programs) when available. The university has a clear promotion path: upon their sixth year, a lecturer may be promoted to senior lecturer, and subsequently to principal lecturer. For details see https://provost.uga.edu/wp-content/uploads/appointment-promotion-guidelines-lecturers.pdf.

Minimum Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science completed by August 1, 2026.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and/or Competencies:

-Excellent communication skills
-Evidence of teaching excellence or demonstrated potential for teaching excellence.

Duties/Responsibilities:

-Contribute to the instructional mission of the Department of Political Science
-Teach four three-credit hour courses per academic term
-Participate in workshops, the development of new course materials, and/or supervise teaching assistants

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective applicants should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, a teaching portfolio that provides: a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and any additional evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation. The cover letter is expected to include a description of the candidate's strengths as an instructor and relevant teaching experiences as they relate to this position description. Application materials can be submitted at the UGA job search website: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/450757.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Office Manager, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu).

Review of applications will begin January 7, 2026 and continue until the position is filled.

The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning, as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15824

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Government and Statistical & Data Sciences

The Department of Government (GOV) and the Program in Statistical & Data Sciences (SDS) at Smith College invite applications for a joint, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2026.

By time of appointment the applicant must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely-related discipline (e.g., public policy) -- as well as advanced training in statistics, data science, or a closely-related field at the graduate level. Candidates specializing in American political institutions, state and local politics, and/or public policy are preferred. Statistical and Data Science specializations might include, for example, the public policy implications of data storage and mining, machine learning and public health, modeling of legislative behavior, surveillance and data privacy policy, or computer algorithms for law enforcement and sentencing.

The position has a teaching load of 2:2 -- i.e., four semester-long courses over the academic year -- and will have a joint teaching commitment to GOV and SDS, split evenly. In GOV, we anticipate that the person would teach introduction to public policy, introduction to American Government, and upper-level courses related to their area of expertise in which students analyze data. In SDS, the person would teach introductory and intermediate statistics and/or data science, as well as advanced-level courses in their area of interest, for example, machine learning, causal inference, social network analysis, or text mining. Candidates from groups underrepresented in STEM or quantitative political science are encouraged to apply.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes, as advisors, and through student-faculty research projects. Smith College offers opportunities to foster faculty success at every career stage, such as those listed here. The College is a member of the Five College Consortium with Amherst, Hampshire and Mt. Holyoke Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Students cross-enroll and faculty cross-teach across the Five Colleges. Details about the Government Department may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/government, and details about the Statistical and Data Sciences Program may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/statistical-data-sciences.

Submit application at https://apply.interfolio.com/172311 with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, inclusion statement, research statement, teaching statement, and the contact information for three confidential references. Finalists may be asked for additional materials. Review of applications will begin on September 29, 2025.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15820

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

(Please note earlier deadline than initially posted, now due September 22nd.*****)
The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 29, 2026. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2027; in unusual circumstances one semester appointments may be considered. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to David.Sacko@afacademy.af.edu. Applications received by September 22, 2025 will receive primary consideration though applications received after that mayl be considered. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15817

University of Central Arkansas

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Tenure-Track
Specializations: Political Behavior, Electoral Behavior, Presidency

The Department of Government, Public Service, and International Studies at the University of Central Arkansas (UCA) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of American Government & Politics beginning in August 2026. UCA is one of three colleges/universities in Conway, Arkansas, which is a growing city of more than 70,000 individuals located 30 miles north of the capital city of Little Rock. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory sections of U.S. government & politics and upper-division courses in some of the areas of political behavior and institutions, such as the presidency, voting behavior, elections, political parties, and interest groups. The successful candidate will possess excellent teaching skills and demonstrate a record of (or the potential for) scholarly research, presentations, and publications. The required educational background for this position is a Ph.D. in Political Science with a primary teaching and research emphasis in the field of American Government & Politics. Candidates who expect to defend their dissertation and complete their Ph.D. in Political Science by mid-August 2026 are welcome to apply. The starting salary range for this position is between $57,000 and $59,000, plus a competitive benefits package (health, dental, life, and disability insurance) and a retirement plan that includes university contributions of 10% of employee salary. To apply for this position, please submit a letter of application, curriculum vita, academic transcripts covering graduate degrees and coursework, three letters of recommendation (including references regarding a candidate's teaching record or potential), a scholarly writing sample, course syllabi (if available), and teaching evaluations (if applicable) on UCA's online application system (https://jobs.uca.edu). Departmental review of applications will begin on October 9, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. For full consideration, please submit a complete application by October 8, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/8/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15812

Denison University

Rank: Open Rank, Tenure Track Professor in American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Public Affairs/American Politics
Location -Granville OH
Position Type - Tenure Track Faculty
Position URL- apply.interfolio.com/170845
Position Description:

The Department of Politics and Public Affairs (PPA) at Denison University invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in American politics beginning Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching emphasizes policy analysis at the federal, state, or local level. The successful candidate must have the demonstrated ability to teach one of our introductory courses (either PPA 102/ Introduction to Policymaking in Democracies or PPA 132/Introduction to Theorizing About Political Life: Normative Issues Common to Democratic Systems), as well as a rotating set of upper division courses in policy analysis and American politics. Candidates with an expressed interest in or experience with managing a Moot Court or Mock Trial team will be given preference.

The Politics and Public Affairs program provides our students an integrated view of politics emphasizing links between theory and practice. Our major is structured as a learning community, where undergraduates pursue a track of interest in International Affairs, Policy Analysis, or Government and Legal Affairs, and have multiple opportunities to share their knowledge with peers. Our majors must complement classroom experiences with a department-approved off campus learning component.

We seek a new colleague who shares our enthusiasm for this approach to teaching about politics and public affairs. As a department, we work hard to ensure our students hear and consider diverse perspectives, and we welcome applicants who contribute to that diversity. We graduate approximately 40 seniors each year. The PPA program is also an integral part of the Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) major at Denison, whose students take at least four classes in our department.

All instructors are expected to regularly teach introductory classes (~24 students) that serve PPA majors/minors as well as the general education requirements of the college's curriculum; successfully teaching introductory classes requires teachers who relish the challenge of instructing both skeptical and interested students. All instructors regularly teach upper division classes (~20 students) in their area of interest, as well as required

PPA major courses such as sophomore and senior seminar. The teaching load is 5 courses per academic year (3/2). Denison is a fully residential campus where all classes are held in-person and on-campus.

Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness from college-level courses. We seek to hire a new colleague with broad training in the study of politics. The successful candidate is expected to have significant interest in and demonstrated ability to effectively teach undergraduates in a liberal arts setting and contribute to the integration of the theoretical with experiential elements of our major. Independent teaching experience (beyond TA) is preferred.

Successful candidates are expected to maintain an ongoing research agenda; thus, applicants should show promise of a strong publication record. The prospective teacher-scholar also will support the University's commitment to liberal arts education, be an effective advisor to a range of students, be an active participant in departmental and university governance, and develop a program of research leading to peer-reviewed publication.

Denison is a highly selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2,400 students from across the nation and around the world. The college is located in the village of Granville, 30 minutes from Columbus, Ohio, the state capital, which hosts a wide range of cultural and artistic opportunities. Granville offers an excellent public school system and easy access to outdoor activities. A supportive environment for teacher-scholars who value both classroom and research excellence, Denison offers extensive support for its faculty, including an annual professional development account, competitive professional development funding, a one-semester research leave after a successful pre-tenure review. The college also offers opportunities for student-faculty research collaboration, stipends for supervising summer-research students and a range of workshops and mentoring programs to develop our strengths as teacher-scholars.

Denison offers a competitive salary and a comprehensive benefits package, including tuition benefits to attend Denison or other affiliated colleges and a generous retirement contribution.

Qualifications:
Candidates are required to have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely-related field by start date.

Application Instructions:
Review of applications will begin on Sept. 15. To ensure full consideration, completed applications should include the following:

? Cover Letter
? Curriculum vitae
? Graduate level transcript [official or unofficial]
? Teaching Portfolio, which should include a 1) teaching statement that lays out the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and experience; and describes how they cultivate a classroom culture where students encounter and critically evaluate diverse perspectives on important questions, and where open, civil dialogue is encouraged as part of the learning process, 2) Evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations or other artifacts), 3) an introductory syllabus for public policy making in democracies (PPA 102) or political theory (PPA 132), and 4) an upper division syllabus that demonstrates policy analysis expertise.
? Research Statement that lays out the candidate's scholarly interests and plans
? A writing sample
? Contact information for three letters of reference

Job seekers who may need a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should contact the Office of Human Resources at (740) 587-6299 or by email at HR@denison.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15804

University of South Carolina

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, American Politics, Political Thought: Historical

The South Carolina Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse at the University of South Carolina seeks to fill a 9-month, full-time, tenured faculty position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, to begin August 16, 2026. The Center is flexible as to the disciplinary home of our applicants but prioritizes commitment to the Center's mission as described below.
The Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse promotes the dialogic, cultural, and civic literacies which are essential to a well-ordered and flourishing American polity. This means educating for knowledge of American history and civics, cultivation of a life-long love of learning, and an understanding and appreciation of our founding documents, and the philosophic, political, literary, and religious traditions out of which they emerged.

This tenured position requires a PhD and a significant track record of scholarly publication and teaching in the candidate's field, consistent with the standards for tenured faculty at the University. This typically includes a scholarly monograph in print or an equivalent number of articles in competitive, peer-reviewed scholarly journals. The candidate must also be eligible for appointment at the Associate Professor or Professor level at the University of South Carolina per University policy ACAF 1.06.

Applications are especially encouraged from scholars working in History, Philosophy, and Political Science, although applications from scholars from other humanities disciplines whose research and teaching root them firmly in this mission will also be considered. The successful candidate will be tenured and a full member of the department most suitable to their field of study. The Center seeks candidates with expertise in one of the following areas: (1) American traditions of political and legal thought; (2) the history and intellectual foundations of the American Founding; or (3) the Western literary, philosophical, political, and religious traditions that have shaped American ideals and institutions.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

Applicants should apply online at USCJobs at: https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/193449 Required materials include a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, as well as their understanding of how they can serve the mission of the Center (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the names and email addresses of 3 references, who will be solicited only in case of an on-campus interview.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Confidential inquiries may be directed to Professor Chris Tollefsen, Interim Executive Director of the SC Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse, McCausland College of Arts and Sciences, at ctollefs@mailbox.sc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/20/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15802

Seton Hall University

Rank: Politics and Law
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

Job Summary:

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor beginning in the fall semester of 2026, pending budgetary approval.

Seton Hall University is in South Orange, New Jersey, 14 miles from New York City. It is the oldest Catholic diocesan institution of higher education in the United States. It is home to approximately 6,300 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students from all 50 states, with alumni from more than 60 countries. A vibrant and culturally diverse community, Seton Hall pursues academic excellence and ethicaldevelopment in a collaborative environment and prepares its students to be servant leaders in theirprofessional and community lives. Seton Hall University is an Equal Opportunity employer. It honorsdiversity and respects the religious commitments of all its employees.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science & Public Affairs have diverse research interests and value quality teaching and substantive service, and share a strong commitment to promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. We are currently seeking candidates with scholarly and teaching interests at the nexus of law and politics. Ideally, the candidate's work will focus on contemporary questions associated with justice, human rights, and civil liberties.

Tenure-track faculty at Seton Hall teach three courses per semester and are expected to publish, actively pursue grant-funded research, and perform service appropriate to their rank and experience at the department, College, and University levels.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science
Candidates should provide evidence of successful teaching and scholarship. Preference will be given to candidates who hold both a Ph.D. and J.D. and/or possess expertise in the areas of legal design and/or movement lawyering.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Please submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, demonstration of teaching effectiveness, writing sample, and the names of three references.

All materials must be submitted through the Seton Hall application portal found at https://jobs.shu.edu/.

Review of applications will begin September 29, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15793

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics), Fall 2026

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, invites applications for a tenure-track position as an assistant professor beginning on August 1, 2026, in American Politics. We are looking for applicants who will teach courses and conduct research primarily in the field of American political institutions. The successful candidate will teach courses on topics such as Congress, the U.S. presidency, the bureaucracy, and state and local politics. Successful candidates must have strong research skills and a theoretically oriented research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets, including journals and books. Preference will be given to applicants whose research and teaching interests align with existing departmental strengths, who attract extramural funding, and show evidence of or potential for teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track position, with a competitive salary that is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

More information about the Department of Political Science is available at: polisci.utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society.

The University of Tennessee campus is located in one of the most beautiful areas of the country with easy access to miles of inland waterways, pristine state and national parks, diverse cultural opportunities, and a blend of convenient urban and rural living settings. Downtown Knoxville, adjacent to campus, is a thriving neighborhood filled with restaurants, shops, and indoor and outdoor entertainment venues, and is home to the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, the Knoxville Opera Company, annual international festivals such as the Big Ears Music Festival, and seasonal and weekly events such as Jazz on the Square, Shakespeare on the Square, and the Farmers Market. The University is located within easy driving distance to Asheville, Nashville, Atlanta, and the Great Smoky Mountains.

The University is beginning a next-level initiative aimed both at substantially elevating the University's national reputation for impactful research, scholarship, and creative activity and at assembling a roster of faculty committed to delivering one of the nation's best educational experiences for undergraduate and graduate students.

Qualifications

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related discipline must be finished at the time of appointment.

Application Instructions
Applicants should apply with a cover letter, a current CV, a sample of scholarly writing, a research statement, and a teaching statement. All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded to Interfolio. Please submit application materials in digital format via Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/171457. Review of applications begins September 26, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. We encourage all potential applicants to visit the University of Tennessee's access and engagement website: https://dae.utk.edu/. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Tony Nownes at anownes@utk.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15796

Princeton University
Rank: Visiting Research Scholar/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for 12-month positions starting in August 2026. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their positions.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events.

Visiting scholars from academic institutions often receive up to one-half of their academic-year salaries from their home institutions for the appointment period. The amount that Princeton contributes to the scholar's salary will be determined based upon their salary at the home institution and will normally not exceed $70,000.00, plus benefits support. Selected candidates will be asked to indicate, or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm, what percentage of financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide during their visit, if any, and to submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 - July 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary. Successful candidates will also receive one trip to and from Princeton and a research allowance.

Selected candidates will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship (August 2026 - August 2027).

Verification of employment will be requested prior to approval by the Office of the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 4-6 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and a statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional.

Applicants should apply to req number https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39741.

The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, October 20, 2025, at 11:59 p.m. EST.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15785

Ohio State University
Rank: AI and Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Department of Political Science
College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview
The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of assistant professor. Successful applicants will have research and teaching interests in any of the following areas: the regulatory, political, or ethical challenges of the burgeoning reliance on AI in the public and/or private sectors; the social and political consequences of reliance on algorithmic approaches to public policy implementation; methodological development at the intersection of social science and AI/machine learning. Based in Columbus, Ohio, the position will begin in the fall of 2026. Preferred applicants will demonstrate the potential for a sustained and substantial body of work focusing on one or more of these areas. The position is open with respect to substantive focus or disciplinary subfield in Political Science. This position is part of the investment of The Ohio State University Provost in the Department of Political Science in Socio-Political Analysis and AI: https://polisci.osu.edu/good-to-great-proposal. Successful candidates will join with a series of successful hires focused on political methodology around the development of AI tools for social science research and will provide a strong possibility for cross-unit grant collaboration.

Performance Objectives
Responsibilities of the position include:
- Conduct research on advanced topics in the regulatory, policy, ethical areas, or consequences of AI for political or socio-economic outcomes or the application of data analytics and AI to social scientific questions
- Mentor and teach in these and related areas at the undergraduate and/or graduate level
- Engage with interdisciplinary efforts focused on data analytics and/or AI

Education and Experience Requirements
Required: Applicants must be on track to complete their PhD on or before August 15, 2026, in a relevant field, and have the capacity to integrate methodological insights with substantive research demonstrated through a record of and/or promise of scholarly excellence.

Desired: Demonstrate the potential for securing external grant funding and mentoring undergraduate or graduate students. Preferred candidates will show a willingness to participate in interdisciplinary collaborative efforts. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to building an intellectual community in line with OSU's Shared Values (see below).

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically to the Careers at Ohio State website at https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Assistant-Professor-in-AI---Politics---Department-of-Political-Science_R134968-1. A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, unofficial transcript, separate research and teaching statements, writing sample(s), and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2026. To be guaranteed full consideration, please submit all materials by October 15, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Professor Ryan Kennedy at kennedy.310@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section.

Please include the following:
• Attachment 1: Cover Letter and CV as a single document:
o Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
o CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
• Attachment 2: Unofficial transcript.
• Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
• Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
• Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

All applicants will be asked to provide the names and contact information for three references following the submission of application materials.

The College
With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought. The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University

Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15775

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Psychology
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Political Psychology, Electoral Behavior, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stony Brook University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Political Psychology. This position would begin in Fall 2026. The department is interested in applicants with expertise in any substantive area of Political Psychology including but not limited to partisanship and polarization, ideology and belief systems, democratic norms, misinformation and political communication, intergroup relations, political affect, and decision making. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching courses at the Undergraduate and/or Graduate level, developing and conducting a rigorous research agenda and disseminating research findings. Additional duties include fostering inclusive teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college, and university levels.

Qualifications
Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. (or foreign equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field in hand by August 31, 2026. Research that employs a political psychology framework to the study of American and/or comparative political behavior; well versed in the research literature in political psychology

Preferred Qualifications:
Demonstrated record of the following, as evidenced by the applicant's CV, letters of recommendation, and supporting materials:
Record of producing high-quality research
Strong research background and training
Strong publication record
Research interests in political behavior, American politics, or comparative politics
Experience teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate level

Application Instructions
Please apply at https://apply.interfolio.com/170193

Submit the following materials to Interfolio:
1. Cover Letter that includes how their professional experiences have prepared them to contribute to an academic community that values excellence, innovation, and access
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Samples of written work
4. Teaching statement
5. Research statement
6. Three confidential letters of reference, submitted via Interfolio

For questions regarding this position, please contact the search chair, Distinguished Professor Leonie Huddy at Leonie.Huddy@stonybrook.edu.

For full consideration please submit your materials by 11:59 PM Eastern Time on Monday, September 15, 2025.

All application materials must be submitted online. The names of applicants will be kept confidential until a list of finalists is confirmed. Please use the Apply Now button to begin your application. For technical support, please visit Interfolio's Support Site (https://support.interfolio.com/) or reach out to their Scholar Service Team at help@interfolio.com or (877) 997-8807.

Special Notes: This is a FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA.

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

In accordance with the Title II Crime Awareness and Security Act, a copy of our crime statistics is available upon request by calling (631) 632- 6350. It can also be viewed online at the University Police website at http://www.stonybrook.edu/police.

About the Department:
The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in research and scholarship, graduate student training, undergraduate teaching and learning, public outreach, and the promotion of responsible citizenship. It contributes to the generation of knowledge about politics and aims to deepen scholarly and public understanding of political institutions and the citizenry. The department seeks to prepare students for successful careers in government, academics, and the private sector. In addition to the M.A. in Public Policy program, the Department administers B.A. and Ph.D. programs in Political Science, as well as an M.A. in Political Psychology. It is home to 13 tenured and tenure-track faculty, roughly 600 undergraduate majors and minors, staff, Political Science graduate students, and several non-tenure track full-time lecturers. The Department is ranked in the top 30 Political Science graduate programs in the most recent U.S. News & World Report rankings, and the dynamic, interdisciplinary faculty produce high-quality research that is consistently published in top-rated journals. http://www.stonybrook.edu/polsci/

About the College:
As part of a great research university, the College of Arts and Sciences at Stony Brook University focuses on scholarly creativity, connecting our disciplines of fine arts; humanities; social, behavioral and natural sciences; and mathematics with medicine, technology, culture, education, business and environment. As the largest College for the campus, we help students and faculty begin a lifetime of learning and discovery by exploring new ideas that drive innovation and inspiration across all sectors of society. http://www.stonybrook.edu/cas/

Campus Description:
Stony Brook University, one of two flagships within the State University of New York (SUNY) system, is one of America's most dynamic public universities, a center of academic excellence, and an internationally recognized research institution that is changing the world. After more than 60 years of existence, it is ranked among the top 100 universities in the nation and the top 25 public universities in the nation. It is a member of the prestigious invitation-only Association of American Universities, composed of the top 66 leading research institutions in North America. As Long Island's largest single-site employer, Stony Brook has nearly 15,000 full- and part-time employees, including 2,800 faculty and nearly 27,000 students — including almost 18,000 undergraduates — and offers more than 200 majors, minors and combined-degree programs. Located approximately 60 miles east of Manhattan on Long Island's beautiful North Shore, Stony Brook is situated on 1,454 wooded acres, encompassing 13 schools and colleges; a Research and Development Park; world-class athletics facilities, including an 8,300-seat stadium and a 4,000-seat arena; and Stony Brook Medicine, Long Island's premier academic medical center. Also part of the University is a teaching and research campus in Southampton, New York, which offers graduate arts programs and is the site of the Marine Sciences Center. In addition, Stony Brook has a role in running, and performs joint research with, Brookhaven National Laboratory, the only Department of Energy Laboratory in the Northeast. Home to the Emerson String Quartet, the Pollock-Krasner House in East Hampton, NY, and the Humanities Institute, with endeavors that extend to the Turkana Basin Institute in Kenya and the Ranomafana National Park in Madagascar, Stony Brook sustains an international reputation that cuts across the arts, humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15770

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Political Behavior
Specializations: Political Behavior, Public Opinion, Political Psychology

The Department of Political Science in the College of Social Sciences & Public Policy at Florida State University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in Fall 2026. We seek candidates whose research focuses on American political behavior, including, but not limited to, the political behavior of the general public, groups, or political elites, public opinion, and political psychology. Successful candidates are expected to add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental, and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation classified Research I institution. Among its 45,000 students are over 10,000 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 385,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) writing samples, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript.

All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (PDFs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu and specify "Political Behavior Search 2025" in the subject line. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Florida State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer.

Contact: Prof. Hans Hassell
Email: hans.hassell@fsu.edu

Department of Political Science
Florida State University
P.O. Box 3062160
Bellamy 531
Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15765

Florida State University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Public Policy
Specializations: Political Economy, Regulatory Policy, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Florida State University, in cooperation with the Institute for Governance and Civics (IGC), invites applications for a position in the political science department, at the assistant, associate, or full professor rank in public policy and political economy. This is a full-time, 9-month, tenured or tenure-track position with an anticipated start date of August 7, 2026.

We seek candidates whose research focuses on American public policy. The search is open with respect to specialization, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work addresses topics such as bureaucratic politics and agency decision-making, distributive politics and resource allocation, regulation, deregulation, and market oversight, institutions in policy implementation, and policy evaluation. Candidates are expected to add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental, and/or formal methods.

The candidate would be expected to teach courses and mentor students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The successful candidate will have a tenure home in the Department of Political Science and will be expected to assist the IGC with its mission. The successful candidate will attend IGC events, serve on IGC committees, and help evaluate IGC award nominations. Total faculty service and teaching obligations will meet the "normal" load for FSU faculty.

Minimum Requirements
- Completed Ph.D. by the date of hire.
- Research and teaching interests that contribute to the scientific study of public policy.
- Potential for high impact peer-reviewed publications.
- Potential for obtaining external funding.
- Potential for high-quality instruction and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate level.
- Commitment to the mission of enhancing civic awareness as well as a readiness to contribute to the intellectual life and programmatic development of the IGC.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation classified Research I institution. Among its 45,000 students are over 10,000 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 385,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) writing samples. Untenured applicants must also submit (4) a graduate school transcript, and (5) three letters of recommendation. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (PDFs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu and specify "Public Policy Search 2025" in the subject line. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Florida State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer.

Contact: Prof. Christopher Reenock
Email: creenock@fsu.edu

Department of Political Science
Florida State University
P.O. Box 3062160
Bellamy 531
Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15763

University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Political Institutions

Assistant Professor in American Political Institutions
Department of Political Science
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

The Department of Political Science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a full-time tenure stream Assistant Professor position in American Political Institutions. Successful candidates are expected to teach courses in American Political Institutions at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, establish and maintain an active and independent research program, and provide service to the department, the university, and the profession. Candidates should demonstrate evidence of creativity, teaching and scholarly research effectiveness. In addition, the successful candidate will demonstrate experience with fostering or the ability to foster an inclusive and collaborative teaching, learning, departmental, and research environment where all can thrive.

Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of a promising research agenda and a commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field required. Candidates whose PhD may be delayed but will complete all the Ph.D. requirements within the first appointment year may be appointed at the rank of Instructor. After the Ph.D. requirement is met, the appointment will be changed to Assistant Professor. Target start date is August 16, 2026. The budgeted salary range for the position is $105,000 - $110,000 at the Assistant Professor level, for a 9-month service basis.

We have an active and successful dual-career partner placement program and a strong commitment to work-life balance and family-friendly programs for faculty and staff (http://provost.illinois.edu/faculty-affairs/work-life-balance/). To find out more about the resources available at the university and Urbana-Champaign community please visit these sites:

Dual Career Program
Benefits
Living in Champaign-Urbana

To apply, create your candidate profile through https://jobs.illinois.edu and upload your application materials by 6:00pm (CST) on September 16, 2025: letter of application, CV, a representative publication, statement of teaching and research interests.

We ask that all documents be uploaded in a single .pdf file as an upload in the "Resume/CV" section. An email request for contact information for three professional references will be sent to you 1-2 business days after you application is submitted. Once the contact information for the references is uploaded into the system, their letters will be invited. Early application submission is encouraged to allow time for referees to submit letters of recommendation.

Only applications submitted through the University of Illinois Job Board will be considered. Questions about the position may be directed to the faculty search coordinator at pol@illinois.edu.
For questions regarding the application portal, please contact 217-333-2137 or jobs@illinois.edu.

The University of Illinois must also comply with applicable federal export control laws and regulations and, as such, reserves the right to employ restricted party screening procedures for applicants.
The University of Illinois offers a very competitive benefits portfolio, depending on the position. Click for a complete list of Employee Benefits.

The University of Illinois System is an equal opportunity employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status, and complies with all applicable state and federal employment mandates. Please visit Required Employment Notices and Posters to view our non-discrimination statement and find additional information about required background checks, sexual harassment/misconduct disclosures, and employment eligibility review through E-Verify.

Applicants with disabilities are encouraged to apply and may request a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (2008) to complete the application and/or interview process. Accommodations may also be requested on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, and related conditions, or religion. Requests may be submitted through the reasonable accommodations portal, or by contacting the Accessibility & Accommodations Division of the Office for Access and Equity at 217-333-0885, or by emailing accessibility@illinois.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/16/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15760

University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Behavior
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor in Political Behavior
Department of Political Science
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

The Department of Political Science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a full-time tenure stream Assistant Professor position in Political Behavior, broadly defined. Candidates with research and teaching interests in comparative political behavior, comparative political psychology, or race, ethnicity, and politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Successful candidates are expected to teach courses in Political Behavior at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, to establish and maintain an active and independent research program, and to provide service to the department, the university, the profession, and the people of Illinois in keeping with the university's land-grant mission. Successful candidates should demonstrate evidence of creativity and effectiveness in teaching and scholarly research. In addition, successful candidates should demonstrate experience with fostering or the ability to foster an inclusive and collaborative teaching, learning, departmental, and research environment where all can thrive. Applicants are encouraged to include in their cover letter information about how they will further our commitment to the university's values. Learn more about our mission and values at boldly.illinois.edu <https://boldly.illinois.edu/> .

Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of a promising research agenda and a commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field required. Candidates whose PhD may be delayed but will complete all the Ph.D. requirements within the first appointment year may be appointed at the rank of Instructor. After the Ph.D. requirement is met, the appointment will be changed to Assistant Professor. Target start date is August 16, 2026. The budgeted salary range for the position is $105,000 - $110,000 at the Assistant Professor level, for a 9-month service basis.

We have an active and successful dual-career partner placement program and a strong commitment to work-life balance and family-friendly programs for faculty and staff (http://provost.illinois.edu/faculty-affairs/work-life-balance/). To find out more about the resources available at the university and Urbana-Champaign community please visit these sites:

Dual Career Program
Benefits
Living in Champaign-Urbana

To apply, create your candidate profile through https://jobs.illinois.edu and upload your application materials by 6:00pm (CST) on September 16, 2025: letter of application, CV, a representative publication, statement of teaching and research interests.

We ask that all documents be uploaded in a single .pdf file as an upload in the "Resume/CV" section. An email request for contact information for three professional references will be sent to you 1-2 business days after you application is submitted. Once the contact information for the references is uploaded into the system, their letters will be invited. Early application submission is encouraged to allow time for referees to submit letters of recommendation.

Only applications submitted through the University of Illinois Job Board will be considered. Questions about the position may be directed to the faculty search coordinator at pol@illinois.edu.
For questions regarding the application portal, please contact 217-333-2137 or jobs@illinois.edu.

The University of Illinois must also comply with applicable federal export control laws and regulations and, as such, reserves the right to employ restricted party screening procedures for applicants.

The University of Illinois offers a very competitive benefits portfolio, depending on the position. Click for a complete list of Employee Benefits.

The University of Illinois System is an equal opportunity employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status, and complies with all applicable state and federal employment mandates. Please visit Required Employment Notices and Posters to view our non-discrimination statement and find additional information about required background checks, sexual harassment/misconduct disclosures, and employment eligibility review through E-Verify.

Applicants with disabilities are encouraged to apply and may request a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (2008) to complete the application and/or interview process. Accommodations may also be requested on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, and related conditions, or religion. Requests may be submitted through the reasonable accommodations portal, or by contacting the Accessibility & Accommodations Division of the Office for Access and Equity at 217-333-0885, or by emailing accessibility@illinois.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/16/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15761

Ave Maria University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Assistant Professor of Politics
AVE MARIA, FL, US

The Department of Politics of Ave Maria University in Ave Maria, Florida, invites applications for a full-time position in politics at the rank of assistant professor to begin Fall of 2026. Applicants whose primary fields are American government and/or public policy are strongly preferred. Those with a foundation in political economy will also be regarded favorably. Competitive applicants will be gifted teachers and active in research and publishing. Applicants should also understand the nature and purpose of a Catholic liberal arts education and be familiar with and committed to the Catholic Church's teaching on the mission of Catholic universities as expressed in Ex corde Ecclesiae. Duties include three undergraduate courses per semester, mentorship of undergraduates, and committee work. Ph.D. or the equivalent by June 2026 is expected. Salary will be commensurate with experience and credentials.

The application dossier should include: (1) a letter of application; (2) a CV; (3) a writing sample of no more than 15 pages; (4) a brief statement discussing the applicant's teaching method and providing evidence of excellence in teaching (official teaching evaluations should be submitted when available); (5) a 1-2 page personal statement in which the applicant explains the contribution he/she can make to a Catholic liberal arts institution that is committed to implementing Ex corde Ecclesiae.

Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation supporting their application. These should be sent directly by the recommenders to Megan Hare, Academic Affairs Administrative Assistant: Megan.Hare@ avemaria.edu. Only complete applications will be considered. Official transcripts are required for faculty appointments and will be requested upon the final decision of the administration and search committee.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Lidiya Zubytska, Chair of the Politics Department: lidiya.zubytska@avemaria.edu

Review of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, submit your materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/

recruitment.html?cid=70cb71c1-96f8-4956-8cce-ce625b0b2943&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=540989

Ave Maria University offers an excellent benefits package to full-time faculty and staff.

Ave Maria University is a Catholic, liberal arts institution of higher learning dedicated to the formation of joyful, intentional disciples of Jesus Christ through Word and Sacrament, scholarship and service.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15752

George Washington University

Rank: Director, Emerging Technologies Initiative
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Established in 1865, the George Washington University Law School is the oldest in the nation's capital and one of the most prestigious law schools in the country. The American Bar Association accredits the Law School and is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools. GW Law is situated in the tree-laden downtown Washington, DC neighborhood familiarly known as Foggy Bottom.

We are seeking a dynamic and visionary Director to join the GW Multiracial Democracy Project to drive an initiative focused on emerging technology in a multiracial democracy. This role will be responsible for building and leading a new program that brings together our partners, including civil rights and technology non-profit organizations, community groups, scholars and academic researchers, and philanthropy with decision makers including technology companies and policymakers to explore and shape best practices and policy recommendations that center and protect communities of color.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in democracy, civil rights and racial justice, technology policy, and cross-sector collaboration, with a passion for equity and justice. They will lead strategic planning, stakeholder engagement, research coordination, and program development and contribute to fundraising efforts to ensure the initiative's work is impactful, inclusive, and forward-thinking. This role will build a plan for the growth of the initiative and will serve as a key advisor to both the Executive Director and the Faculty Director.

Key Responsibilities
- Design and launch a multidisciplinary program focused on civil rights and emerging technologies.
- Cultivate and manage partnerships and joint projects with civil rights organizations, community organizations, public interest tech organizations, scholars, academic institutions, and philanthropy.
- Engage with private sector decision makers and government policymakers.
- Guide research initiatives, policy recommendations, efforts to build tech policy capacity within civil rights and community organizations, and other activities that advance racial equity and protect marginalized communities.
- Organize convenings, workshops, and public events to elevate key issues and foster dialogue.
- In conjunction with the Executive Director, manage program operations, including budgeting, reporting, and team development.
- Serve as advisor to the Executive Director and Faculty Director on emerging technology and democracy.
- Work with the Faculty Director and Executive Director to maintain and grow financial grants and gifts for the initiative.

Qualified candidates will hold a BA/BS in a related discipline plus 7 years of relevant professional experience. Degree must be conferred by the start date of the position.

Preferred Qualifications
- B.S in computer science, data science, tech ethics, STS, or JD, LLM, MPP, MPA strongly desired.
- Demonstrated experience in civil rights, public policy, or technology-related fields is preferred.
- Strong leadership and project management skills.
- Excellent communication and relationship-building abilities.
- Several years of professional experience in technology and civil rights law and/or policy is desired.
- Commitment to racial equity and community-centered approaches.
- Consistent and familiarity of and facility with generative AI tools.
- Relevant federal, state, or local government experience is preferred (e.g., FCC, FTC, U.S. House Energy & Commerce Committee, U.S. Senate Commerce Government).

Find the job posting link here: https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/120975

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15754

George Washington University

Rank: Strategic Consultant
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Strategic Consultant on Proportional Representation and Primary Reforms
Issued by: The Multiracial Democracy Project

Deadline to Apply: 11:59 p.m. ET, August 31, 2025. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

I. Overview
The Multiracial Democracy Project at the George Washington University Law School, as part of its Scaling Voting Rights Capacity to Build a Multiracial Democracy ("Electoral Structures" or "Structures") Initiative, is seeking proposals from qualified individuals or entities to serve as a consultant. This consultant will work closely with our internal team, a cohort of 15 civil rights partner organizations, our partner academic institutions, and democracy organizations to serve as a subject-matter expert, supporting and guiding efforts around democratic innovation and inclusion, including convenings, trainings, thought leadership, and strategic planning.

II. Background
The Multiracial Democracy Project ("MDP" or "the Project") is an initiative of the George Washington University Law School. Through research, analysis, convenings, and public education, the Project produces solutions that facilitate our nation's transition to a well-functioning democracy that truly represents our increasingly diverse population. The Project serves as a bridge between academic, civil rights, democracy reform, technology, and policy communities.

The Electoral Structures Initiative is a three-year project bringing together 15 civil rights and voter mobilization organizations to examine the implications of various electoral structural reforms—including proportional representation and primary reforms—on communities of color.
Spencer Overton, Patricia Roberts Harris Research Professor of Law at the George Washington University, is the founder and faculty director of the Project; Lisa Bornstein is the executive director; and Britah Odondi is the assistant director of the Electoral Structures Initiative.

III. Scope of Work
The selected consultant will be responsible for the following duties:
Program Development & Convening Support
? Coordinate and shape convening topics, agendas, and curricula for quarterly gatherings and monthly webinars.
? Identify, develop, refine, and make accessible educational and informational materials and presentations for our 15 civil rights partner organizations through pre-reads, materials, and internal trainings.
? Collaborate with the Harvard Law School Charles Hamilton Houston Institute for Race and Justice, the Data and Democracy Lab, Protect Democracy, as well as other academic partners and subject-matter experts to design and deliver complex content in inclusive and approachable formats.
Strategic Engagement & Public Thought Leadership
? Facilitate conversations with partners to address their emerging issues and concerns, including additional democracy reform topics.
? Help lead responses to urgent issues (e.g., judicial decisions implicating the Voting Rights Act).
? Draft op-eds, engage with media, and contribute to social media content related to redistricting, federal and state reforms, administration and state voting and election actions, and ongoing structural innovation.
Ongoing Learning & Capacity Building
• Develop and lead monthly webinars and training sessions to ensure continuous learning and momentum for the 15 civil rights groups.
? Coordinate the development of research questions and partner needs assessments.
? Develop and support post-training assessments and program evaluations.
? Collaborate with civil rights groups on developing and delivering trainings and information sessions within their organizations.
Project Coordination & Deliverable Alignment
? Track project activities and outputs to ensure alignment with funder deliverables and grant milestones.
? Collaborate with staff, academic partners, and partner organizations to ensure timely progress on all metrics.
? Support the development of materials and proposals for funders.
? Collaborate on grant reports, quarterly and annual updates, and other funder and public-facing communications.
IV. Qualifications
Successful applicants will demonstrate the following:
? Academic or advocacy experience in democracy reform and expertise in electoral structures, including proportional representation and primary reform.
? Experience collaborating with partners or within a coalition, particularly with or within civil rights organizations.
? Strong written and verbal communication skills, with experience producing accessible, public-facing content (e.g., op-eds, media interviews, videos, and social media posts).
? Demonstrated experience in teaching, training, or adult education, particularly in advocacy or community leadership settings.
? Proficiency in research methods, survey design, data collection, and evaluation, supporting effective data-driven insights.
? Commitment to inclusivity and pluralism.
? Background in curriculum development and instructional design a plus.
? Adaptability and flexibility, with the ability to adjust to the evolving nature of the project.
V. Contract Terms
? Term: Initial engagement for six months, with the potential for six-month renewals through 2027.
? Compensation: Commensurate with experience and competitive for similarly scoped consulting engagements.
? Time Commitment: Part-time (expected to average up to 20 hours per week)
? Work Location: Generally remote, with required travel to quarterly convenings, relevant conferences, and occasional in-person gatherings.
? Work Hours: Generally flexible; however, availability is required for scheduled events such as convenings, webinars, training sessions, weekly check-ins, meetings and video conferences with partners, and other planned activities.

VI. Submission Guidelines
To be considered, please submit the following materials by 11:59 p.m. ET August 31, 2025, with the subject line "Proposal Submission" to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.
1. Short Proposal: A concise proposal (no more than three pages) outlining your interest in the project, proposed approach, and relevant experience.
2. Résumé or CV: A current résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Writing Samples: Two brief writing samples that demonstrate your relevant background and skills (e.g., curriculum excerpts, op-eds, reports, article excerpts, training materials).
4. Rate Proposal: Hourly or project-based consultant rate.
5. References: Name, context in which the reference knows you, and contact information (phone and email) for two professional references.

Incomplete submissions or materials may not be considered. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

VII. Evaluation Criteria
Proposals will be evaluated based on the following criteria:
? Demonstrated expertise in proportional representation, primary reforms and other electoral systems.
? Experience working in coalitions, particularly with civil rights organizations and/or community-centered movements.
? Strength and clarity of writing and communication.
? Teaching/training and curriculum development background.
? Understanding of survey and evaluation tools.
? Proposed cost and availability.

VIII. Questions
Please direct any questions regarding this RFP to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15753

Ohio State University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor in Law and Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, International Law & Organizations, Judicial Politics

Department of Political Science

College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview

The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for the Carter Phillips and Sue Henry Professorship in Political Science, focusing on Law and Politics, broadly understood and open with respect to subfield, to begin in August 2026. Substantive areas of interest include, but are not limited to, international law and norms, the politics and development of the rule of law, and American legal institutions and political development. Candidates are expected to contribute to theoretical debates and to have excellent methodological skills appropriate to their research.

Performance Objectives

Responsibilities of the position include: (1) maintaining a strong research program; (2) contributing to graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring; (3) engaging in service to the department, university, and profession.

Education and Experience Requirements

Required: Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline, a substantial record of publications and work in progress, and should provide evidence of accomplishments in teaching and/or mentoring.

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply

To be considered, please submit your application electronically via Workday at: (https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Associate-Professor-or-Professor-in-Law-and-Politics---Dept-of-Political-Science_R134488-1)

A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate research and teaching statements, and writing sample(s). Candidates advanced for further consideration may be asked to provide letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15. To be guaranteed full consideration, applications must be received by October 15. Inquiries may be directed to Professor William Minozzi at minozzi.1@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section. Please include the following:

Attachment 1: Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
Attachment 4: Teaching and Mentoring Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

The College

With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought. The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University

Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15749

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: Two Tenure-Track Faculty Positions in American Politics

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for TWO full-time tenure-track Assistant Professors specializing in American Politics to begin in August 2026.

These positions are open to candidates trained in American Politics whose research and teaching expertise is focused on American national institutions, specifically on legislative politics and/or executive branch politics. These core specializations could be coupled with other research and teaching interests, including race, gender, bureaucracy, public opinion, political psychology, state and local government, inequality, health care, and the environment. The successful candidate will teach courses at all levels, including introductory courses in American Politics (27 students) and upper division courses (19 students) in their area of specialization. Candidates also have the opportunity to contribute to the College's interdisciplinary departments, including Critical Race and Ethnic Studies and Environmental Studies, and programs, including Health Studies; Gender, Sexuality and Women's Studies; Peace and Conflict Studies; and other programs housed in the College's Center for Interdisciplinary Studies.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a research leave prior to tenure review of either a full year at 80% salary or a semester at full salary, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. To enable a smooth transition to Holy Cross, new full-time tenure-track Assistant Professors receive start-up funding to support their research and professional development and have a one-course reduction in their first year of teaching (i.e., 2-2). This position offers full benefits and a starting salary in the range of $101,850 to $103,850. Faculty at the College cultivate a richly diverse academic community, pursue innovative teaching, and create high-impact scholarship. To learn more about faculty life at the College and in the Worcester area, candidates are encouraged to see the Resources for Prospective Faculty on our Faculty Openings page.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching as well as a commitment to inclusive pedagogies. Ph.D. required by the beginning of the appointment.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS
Please submit
a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above as well as the ways you might contribute to and further the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college and its core commitment to creating a community where every individual feels empowered to contribute their talents and perspectives.
a current curriculum vitae;
unofficial undergraduate and graduate transcripts;
and a statement of your teaching philosophy and interests.

Candidates reaching the interview stage will be expected to provide three confidential letters of recommendation and a writing sample.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to https://apply.interfolio.com/171695.

For full consideration, please apply by September 7. Initial interviews of selected applicants via Zoom will take place in September and October, and campus visits for selected applicants will take place in October and November. Questions about this search may be directed to Dr. Denis Kennedy, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at dkennedy@holycross.edu.

COLLEGE OF THE HOLY CROSS
College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 3,200 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts—New England's second-largest city.

The College seeks faculty members who demonstrate an enduring commitment to academic excellence and inclusive excellence and who embrace the educational benefits of a richly diverse community. Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium. To learn more about faculty life at the College, applicants are encouraged to visit our Office of the Provost page.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT
The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/7/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15746

Morehouse College

Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics and public law, and should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and executing administrative duties related to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience (FYE) courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15733

University of Hawaii, Hilo

Rank: Assistant Professor (American, Indigenous, Environmental Politics and/or Media)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, Environmental Policy

Title: Assistant Professor (American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics and/or Media)

Position Number: 0086450

Hiring Unit: College of Arts and Sciences, Social Sciences Division

Location: University of Hawai'i Hilo

Date Posted: August 4, 2025

Closing Date: Continuous, first review on or about September 6, 2025, and will continue until filled

Salary Information: Commensurate with qualifications and experience

Monthly Type: 9 Month

Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Full-Time/Part-Time: Full-Time

Temporary/Permanent: Permanent

Other Conditions: Appointment to begin approximately January 2026, pending position clearance and availability of funding.

We seek a scholar in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media who can contribute upper and lower division undergraduate courses in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media. These courses serve our department and General Education. Teaching load will consist of three three-credit courses each semester (Fall and Spring) offered at the introductory as well as advanced levels in both the candidate's expertise and related courses.

The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment at a regional state university located in a rural island setting. The University of Hawai'i Hilo is a research-driven, teaching-focused public university with an emphasis on place-based learning. Our department serves the mission of our university - to empower leaders who will cultivate opportunity in our communities; inspire learning, discovery, and innovation in unique environments that challenge each student to reach their academic, personal and professional goals; value diversity and strive to be student-focused and relationship-oriented while becoming more collaborative, intentional, and innovative; and improve the quality of life of our diverse campus community, the people of Hawai'i Island, the state, the Pacific region and the world. Additionally, this position will contribute to our department's commitment to community engagement, civic education, rigorous scholarship, and creative pedagogies.

Duties and Responsibilities

1. Teach undergraduate courses within the major and General Education
2. Offer undergraduate courses in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media, that contribute to our political science program, with related courses as needed
3. Maintain an active agenda of scholarly research and peer-reviewed publication
4. Participate in service work, and fulfill other duties assigned by the department chair
5. Serve on appropriate department, college, and university committees
6. Contribute to department activities
7. Advising of students

Minimum Qualifications

1. At time of appointment, Ph.D. from an accredited college or university in Political Science, Politics, or Government.
2 Demonstrated research productivity in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media with at least academic publication (book chapter or peer-reviewed article) in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media
3. Evidence of High-Quality Teaching in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media

Desirable Qualifications

1. Demonstrated ability to teach in multiple areas: American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media
2. Demonstrated interest in the politics of Hawai'i
3. Experience teaching and advising in a multicultural setting

To Apply:

Go to this website: https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/hawaiiedu/jobs/5030226/assistant-professor-american-indigenous-environmental-politics-and-or-media?keywords=american%20politics&pagetype=jobOpportunitiesJobs

Click on the "Apply" button on the top right corner of the screen to complete an application and attach each required document.

Applicant must submit the following:

1. Cover letter addressing how minimum and desirable qualifications are met
2. Current curriculum vita
3. Teaching Statement
4. Teaching evaluations with analysis
5. Sample course syllabi from courses taught by applicant
6. Research Statement
7. One publication as writing sample
8. Names, addresses, email addresses, and phone numbers for three (3) references, one of which is qualified to discuss your teaching. We may contact these references for letters of recommendation.
9. Graduate transcript(s) showing degrees and course work appropriate to the position (copies are acceptable; however original official transcripts will be required prior to employment). Academic record/grade summaries will NOT be accepted. Copy of diplomas will NOT be accepted. Documents issued from an institution outside the United States of America require a course-by-course analysis with an equivalency statement from an agency having membership with the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services, Inc., verifying the degree equivalency to that of an accredited institution within the USA. Expense of the evaluation shall be borne by the applicant.

Please do not include any self-identifying photos they will be redacted. PLEASE REDACT REFERENCES TO SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS AND BIRTH DATE ON TRANSCRIPT COPIES. All requested documents/information become the property of the University. All minimum qualifications must be met by the closing date. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Failure to submit all required documents and reference information shall deem an application to be incomplete.

Note: If you have not applied for a position before using NeoGov, you will need to create an account.

Inquiries: Dr. Sarah Marusek; marusek@hawaii.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15740

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor Search in Judicial Politics

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure track position to begin August 16, 2026, in the subfield of Judicial Politics. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in Judicial Politics can speak to broader themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Kirk Randazzo (RANDAZZO@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15737

University of Central Missouri

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science - Tenure Track
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

Description:
The Department of Government, Law, and International Affairs (GLIA) at the University of Central Missouri (UCM) is seeking qualified candidates to fill a 9-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics with an emphasis on U.S. Constitutional Law beginning August 2026. GLIA resides in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHSS).

Faculty in CAHSS support the University's mission of providing a high-quality education and are committed to the success of their students.

Successful candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate (and potentially graduate) courses in American Government, Public Law, Constitutional Law, as well as Civil Rights and Liberties. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach Administrative Law, Trial Advocacy, and/or the American Presidency.

Additionally, candidates should be prepared to serve as the Coach of the UCM Mock Trial team (negotiated with the Chair as part of the teaching load or service).

Candidates must be committed to excellence in teaching and are expected to carry out a sustained research agenda in their area of expertise.

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Review of completed applications will begin October 31st, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Examples of Duties:
The faculty member's job duties will include:

Teach 9-12 hours per semester in consultation with the Department Chair.
Coach the Mock Trial team.
Conduct scholarly research in their area of expertise.
Advise and mentor undergraduate Political Science majors who pursue a Legal Studies minor.
Undertake service at the department, college, and/or university levels.
Teaching:

The primary responsibility of the faculty is quality teaching in their respective content areas, regardless of delivery format. This entails adequate preparation for courses, effective course design and instruction, and fair and timely evaluation/feedback of student progress. To ensure quality teaching, faculty must be committed to student success and ongoing assessment of curriculum and student learning.

Keep current in your discipline.
Organize courses to facilitate quality student engagement and high-impact practices.
Assist department/school chairs with scheduling classes that meet the needs of students.
Comply with departmental, college, and university standards concerning the academic quality and integrity of their classes.
Keep current in their use of technology by attending university training sessions and other professional development opportunities.
Be available to meet students outside the classroom by being available before or after classes and scheduling office hours in both physical and electronic formats, including in-person and virtual office hours.
Assist with department and college assessment and be proactive with modifications to the curriculum based on assessment feedback.
Scholarship/Professional Development:

The strength of a university rests on the knowledge and skills of its faculty.

Faculty must stay current in their field of expertise/teaching area.
Authoring academic writings.
Presentation of work at local/state/regional/national conferences.
Active membership and/or office holding in professional organizations at the local/state/regional/national levels.
Service:

An expectation of a professional faculty member is to serve the department, college, and university community.

Attending department/college/university meetings.
Engaging in committee work that will advance the department/college/institution.
Assisting with student mentoring.
Participating in graduation and convocation ceremonies.
Serve on committees at the department, college, and university levels.
Typical Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Supplemental Information:
UCM is located 40 miles southeast of the Kansas City Metropolitan area. It is a public comprehensive university with roughly 11,000 students providing a small-college learning environment coupled with large-university opportunities.

The Department of GLIA offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in Political Science, a B.A. degree in International Studies, and minors in those fields as well as Legal Studies and Global Security Studies. More information about GLIA can be found here: https://www.ucmo.edu/college-of-arts-humanities-and-social-sciences/department-of-government-law-and-international-affairs/

To apply, Candidates must complete the online faculty profile (position #997659) by going to

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

Candidates will attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and copies of transcripts showing all degrees completed to their online application.

UCM requires that all applicants for this position complete the online faculty profile and submit it to the appropriate position for consideration at https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

All documents requested for this position must also be attached to the faculty profile at the time of application. Only completed faculty profiles with attached documents will be accepted for this position.

Direct inquiries regarding this position to: Dr. Gregory Streich, Search Committee Chair, at streich@ucmo.edu

For information about the online application process, contact Human Resources at humanresources@ucmo.edu or (660) 543-4255 and note position #997659 in the request.

Special Instructions:

Full-time benefits-eligible position: Benefits include competitive salary; health, dental, vision, life insurance, AD & D, long-term disability; 3 weeks paid vacation per year; 3 weeks of accrued sick leave per year; 13 paid holidays; retirement; and generous education assistance for an employee, spouse and dependent children taking classes at UCM.

Completed UCM online application for employment required. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

NOTE: A background check is required for the selected candidate of all staff, faculty, adjunct, and temporary positions and any job offer is contingent on the results of this check. Student employees and graduate assistants do not require a background check to be conducted prior to employment.

The University of Central Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer and specifically invites applications from women, minorities, veteran status, and people with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15692

University of Georgia
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science in the UGA School of Public and International Affairs seeks a new faculty colleague in American government/politics at the Assistant Professor level. We welcome candidates from any subfield in American Politics.

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science by August 1, 2026.

Position Summary:

We encourage applications from all substantive, theoretical and methodological perspectives, including candidates who have research and teaching interests in media, especially new media (i.e., utilizing digital technologies), or political communication.

The candidate will be expected to contribute to the curriculum in ways that align with their research and teaching interests. The Department offers a wide range of courses with two undergraduate degrees, certificate programs in applied politics and data analytics, and graduate-level degree programs in political science, including a new MA track in political analytics.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and/or Competencies:

-Demonstrated Record of, or potential for, excellence in American Politics scholarship.
-Potential for externally funded research.
-Demonstrated record of, or potential for, excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses.
-Potential to collaborate with scholars on interdisciplinary research and create synergies with existing departmental faculty in political methodology, all fields of American politics, and/or political theory.

Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective candidates should submit the following in electronic form to the UGA Jobs website: a cover letter that addresses the minimum and preferred qualifications for this position, a curriculum vita, a recent publication or research-related writing sample, a teaching portfolio including evaluations, transcripts and a list of three letter writers, who will separately provide letters of recommendation (in electronic form). Application materials can be submitted at the UGA job search website: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/443188.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Office Manager, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 at wendif@uga.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled, though applications received on or before September 15, 2025 will receive full consideration.

The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning, as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15728

Princeton University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral associates for 12-month positions starting in August 2026. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each post-doctoral associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs, and the Department of Politics. CSDP scholars are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events.

Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, as well as a taxable moving allowance and a research allowance. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University. It is necessary to have the ability to be on campus daily and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation for the duration of the fellowship starting in August of 2026.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2026-2027 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39401. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Monday, October 20, 2025, at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of the business day on Monday, November 3, 2025. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

We at the Center for the Study of Democratic Politics believe that it is vital to create a climate that embraces excellence that will enhance the work of the Center and that will attract and retain a diverse student body.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 7/31/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15726

Columbia University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Social Science Division of the Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences at Pepperdine University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Political Science to begin August 1, 2026. We are open to various areas of expertise within the fields of either U.S. or international politics. An interest in teaching an introductory U.S. government course that serves the general education program of Seaver College, an introductory statistics course for the social sciences, or a course on Hispanic or Latin American politics would be welcome regardless of specialty. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, an active scholarly agenda, and a commitment to excellent teaching in a Christian liberal arts environment.

Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Application Instructions

The standard application documents are:

--Letter of application
--Curriculum vitae
--Names and contact information for three references. These should be the same individuals who will provide a Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation if you proceed with the interview process.
--Transcripts of all graduate work. (Unofficial copies are acceptable for the application; however, official transcripts may be required for selected applicants.)
--Personal Statement. Reflect on Pepperdine's Christian mission and address your pattern of support for generally accepted Christian values and the University's mission, your active participation in a faith community, and your practice or vision for integrating faith and learning in the classroom.
--[Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Three current letters of reference. All letters should be specific to the position and completed within one year prior to the date of submission. The name and email address for each individual providing a letter of recommendation is required when submitting an application.
--[Teaching statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Teaching statement. Please reflect on your values, beliefs, and goals regarding the teaching and learning process and any pedagogical practices used or envisioned to achieve these goals. Two to three pages maximum length.
--[Research Statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Research Statement. Outline your short- and long-term objectives and goals for your research and/or creative activities. Please reflect on currently published or presented work(s) as a foundation for the statement. Two to three pages maximum length.

To submit application materials please go to this URL: https://apply.interfolio.com/171069

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/29/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15714

American University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: American Politics, Congress, African American Politics

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position beginning in Academic Year 2026-27. The position will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. The Department is seeking an American Politics scholar.

Applicants should hold a PhD in political science or government. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and teaching. The search is open regarding areas of substantive specialty, but the Department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests include American political institutions (e.g., Congress), African American politics, or women and politics. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research and providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applications are particularly welcome from scholars who can contribute to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University, such as the Women and Politics Institute, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, Center for Data Science, and Center for Environmental Policy. In addition to scholarship and teaching, all faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Review of applications will begin on September 3, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled, subject to on-going budgetary approvals. The position begins on August 1, 2026. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion date by August 2026.

Salary and benefits are competitive, with an expected salary range of $90,000 to $110,000. Please submit applications via Workday. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three confidential letters of recommendation, research and teaching narratives, and a writing sample. Please contact Joanne Wiesman, Staff Assistant to the Chair, 202-885-6459 or jwiesman@american.edu if you have any questions.

To apply, please go to https://american.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/AU/job/Main-Campus-Washington-DC/Assistant-Professor--Department-of-Government_R2815

Benefits

AU offers a competitive benefits package including a 200% matching retirement plan, tuition benefits for full-time staff and their families, several leadership development certificates, and has been recognized by the American Heart Association as a fit-friendly worksite. Click here to learn about American University's unique benefit options.

Other Details

Hiring offers for this position are contingent on successful completion of a background check.

Employees in staff positions at American University must deliver their services to the university from either the District of Columbia, Maryland, or Virginia, or perform work on-site at the university.

Please note this job announcement is not designed to cover or contain a comprehensive listing of activities, duties or responsibilities that are required of the employee for this job. Duties, responsibilities, and activities may change at any time with or without notice.

American University is an E-Verify employer.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15707

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of Richmond Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the 2026-27 academic year.

The Department seeks to hire a teacher-scholar whose research focuses on executive-branch politics in the United States. The candidate's approach to the study of executive-branch politics should add to other needed areas of expertise within the Department such as the presidency, administrative politics and policymaking, and executive-legislative relations. The successful candidate will be expected to teach Introduction to American Government and to develop new electives in the American Presidency and other areas based on expertise. The position carries a 3-2 teaching load with courses typically capped at 24 or fewer students.

Applicants must either hold a PhD in Political Science or show credible evidence that they will complete the dissertation and degree requirements by August 1, 2026.

In keeping with the University's mission, the Department strives to be one of the best undergraduate departments of political science in the nation. It recognizes the variety of different theoretical approaches and methodological orientations within the discipline and offers students the opportunity to learn the critical thinking, analytical, and communicative skills needed for understanding how government and politics function in both contemporary and historical contexts.

Applicants should apply online at http://jobs.richmond.edu and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter, and separate research and teaching statements. The cover letter should provide a brief summary of the candidate's research and teaching interests and describe their commitment to the teacher-scholar model. The research statement should expand on the candidate's research agenda and expertise. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, ability to teach courses in executive politics, and future professional development goals as well as involvement in and commitment to inclusive pedagogy. Candidates for this position may be asked, at a later date, to provide the names and contact information for three references who will be asked to submit letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence September 19, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Please contact Dr. Tracy Roof at troof@ richmond.edu with any questions. For more information on the department and its programs, please see https://polisci.richmond.edu/.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With approximately 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and more than 90% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered.

The mission of the University of Richmond is to educate in an academically challenging, intellectually vibrant, and collaborative community dedicated to the holistic development of students and the production of scholarly and creative work. A Richmond education prepares students for lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a diverse world. The University of Richmond's strategic priorities are academic excellence, belonging and community, access and affordability, well-being, and experiential learning and community engagement. The University seeks to model a relentlessly welcoming and inclusive campus community that values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15704

DePaul University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) - Political Science (American Politics/Geography/Public Policy)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, State Politics

The Department of Political Science at DePaul University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position at the assistant professor level in American Politics (with an emphasis on state and local politics). The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching courses in American Politics, Political Geography and Public Policy. We will give priority to a person whose research would enable them to develop courses with a Chicago focus, and address public policy issues such as gun violence, poverty, sustainability or economic development. An ability to teach social science statistics and/or courses in Geographic Information Systems will also be viewed favorably.

With a total enrollment over 21,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet class sizes are typically between 20 and 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society.

For more information, e-mail polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at https://las.depaul.edu/academics/political-science/Pages/default.aspx

DePaul University seeks applicants that reflect the diversity of its student body and the City of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered.

Application Instructions
Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi and (5) complete course evaluations if available. All candidates will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

Applicants may apply at: https://apply.interfolio.com/170188

The screening of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15685

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics (American Public Law)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

The Department of Government and Law at Lafayette College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. The Department seeks candidates specializing in U.S. Public Law, with research and teaching expertise in law and society, constitutional law, and civil rights. Research programs that focus on law through the lenses of politics and power, as well as additional expertise in American political development and social movements, are especially welcome.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to U.S. Politics, Law and Society, and other intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise, including one or more courses in the Department's constitutional law offerings. The successful candidate will also be expected to make a contribution to the College's interdisciplinary programs and maintain an active research agenda. The Department especially welcomes applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170467. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Michael Feola (feolam@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/22/2025
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15679

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Judicial Politics) One-Year

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor position beginning August 2025. As proclaimed in our mission and institutional values, Gettysburg College strongly supports diversity and particularly invites applicants from members of any group than has been historically underrepresented in the American academy. The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American Politics and upper-level courses in judicial politics. The ability to offer a research methods course will be considered a plus, but is not required. The teaching load for this position is the equivalent of six courses over the academic year. Visiting faculty are eligible to apply for travel, teaching, and research funds while on the faculty at Gettysburg College.
Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,300 students.

Qualifications - Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science with a subfield specialization in judicial politics. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship or governance that they can contribute to the diversity and inclusivity of our community.

Special Instructions To Applicants - Applicants should complete the online application. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask applicants to elaborate on their cultural proficiencies and experiences engaging an increasingly diverse student body. Applicants also must comment on the courses that they would like to teach. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically.

https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/5923

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials should be submitted as soon as possible given the short timeline. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Caroline Hartzell at chartzel@gettysburg.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/14/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15662

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Application Deadline:
Open Until Filled. Application will begin on October 1.

Position Details:
The Department of Political Science at Texas Christian University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor of American Politics, with a preference for applicants who specialize in gender and politics. The appointment will begin in August 2026. We seek applications from talented teacher-scholars with a record of (or potential for) successful scholarly publication, undergraduate teaching, and academic service. The successful candidate should have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by the start date. The position carries a 3/2 teaching load, competitive salary, and internal research support.

Required Application Materials & Application Instructions:
Applications should upload a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and statements (up to two pages for each) detailing their research agenda and teaching interests. Three reference letters should be also submitted. Additional materials may be requested of finalists. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the position may be directed to the search committee chair, Adam Schiffer, at a.schiffer@tcu.edu.

Department Details:
The TCU political science department has 15 full-time faculty members and nearly 400 majors in two undergraduate degrees with a Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts. TCU political science faculty lead co-curricular programs such as pre-law advising, Moot Court, Model U.N., and Washington and local internships. They also teach and contribute to interdisciplinary programs, including Women and Gender Studies, Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies, Asian Studies, and Middle East Studies. The department is the editorial home to the journal Social Science Quarterly.

School/College Description:
Named for TCU's founders, Addison and Randolph Clark, the AddRan College of Liberal Arts is home to the core academic disciplines of the humanities and social sciences. The College includes approximately 155 full-time faculty members, 13 departments (Comparative Race & Ethnic Studies, Criminology & Criminal Justice, Economics, English, Geography, History, Modern Language Studies, Philosophy, Political Science, Religion, Sociology & Anthropology, Spanish and Hispanic Studies, and Women & Gender Studies), and two units of Reserve Officers' Training Corps (Army and Air Force). AddRan College departments confer 17 Bachelor of Arts and 7 Bachelor of Science degrees, a Bachelor of General Studies, an online master's degree in Criminology and Criminal Justice, a Master of Liberal Arts degree, and master's and Ph.D. degrees in History, English, and Rhetoric and Composition.

University & Fort Worth Description:
ABOUT TCU

Founded in 1873, Texas Christian University sits on 302 acres nestled in a primarily residential part of Fort Worth, just minutes away from downtown. The University includes seven schools and colleges, in addition to the John V. Roach Honors College and the Burnett School of Medicine.

Currently, TCU enrolls more than 10,200 undergraduates and 1,700 graduate students. Twenty-eight percent of students self-identify as a member of a minority group, five percent are international students, and forty-five percent are from out-of-state. Our students are supported by more than 2,200 faculty and staff. The University has more than 700 full-time faculty members and is a top 100 National University as classified by US News and World Report and has a Carnegie Classification of R2: Doctoral Universities – High Research Activity.

ABOUT FORT WORTH

Like TCU, Fort Worth has the approachable, friendly charm of a smaller town, but offers the amenities, cultural activities, diversity and unique personality of a much larger city. Fort Worth, Texas, is the 13th largest city in the United States with an ever-growing population nearing 1 million. Fort Worth and TCU have grown together in a nearly 150-year relationship. You'll find that many Horned Frogs remain here after graduation, thanks to the region's thriving job market. Fort Worth is part of the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, the fourth largest metropolitan area in the United States, and the number 1 tourist destination in Texas. In 2018, bizjournals.com ranked Fort Worth the 7th most affordable city to live and work in the United States and U.S. News and World Report named Fort Worth one of the Best Places to Live. Fort Worth, Dallas and Arlington all rank among the top 25 most diverse cities in the country.

Fort Worth is known for its vast array of cultural, educational and entertainment opportunities. The city boasts three world class art museums—the Kimbell Art Museum, the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth and the Amon Carter Museum of American Art. The Bass Performance Hall is one of the premier performance venues in the country. Concerts, film festivals and other events are held regularly at Sundance Square, Panther Island and Near Southside venues.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15658

Baylor University

Rank: Lecturer, Non-Tenure-Track, American Politics
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Congress, Political Parties & Organizations

To apply, go to: https://apply.interfolio.com/167836

Description:
The Department of Political Science at Baylor University seeks a full-time, Regular Lecturer in American Politics to begin August 2026.

The primary teaching responsibility will be teaching a general education course (PSC 1387: The U.S. Constitution, Its Interpretation, and the American Political Experience). Opportunities to teach courses in Congress, the Supreme Court, political parties, or state politics may also be available.

Regular Lecturer appointments are renewable full-time, benefits-eligible, teaching-focused positions with six-year promotion paths to Senior Lecturer for successful candidates and twelve-year promotion paths to Teaching Professor for highly successful candidates. For more information, see Baylor University's Policy on Full-Time Lecturers, Senior Lecturers, and Teaching Professors.

Complete applications must be submitted by 11pm Central Daylight Time on October 31, 2025.

About Baylor University:
Baylor University is located in Waco, Texas and is the oldest college in the state. It has a diverse student population of 21,000 and is recognized as one of the top universities in the nation, achieving R1 institution status by the Carnegie Classification in January 2022. Baylor also made it to the honor roll of "Great Colleges to Work For" from The Chronicle of Higher Education. It offers competitive salaries and benefits, allowing faculty and staff to live in one of the fastest-growing parts of the state. Baylor's new strategic plan, Baylor in Deeds, guides the University as it continues to fulfill its mission of educating men and women for worldwide leadership and service by integrating academic excellence and Christian commitment within a caring community.

Qualifications:
Candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field by the time of appointment. Teaching experience is preferred.

Application Instructions. To apply, candidates should submit:
1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of teaching philosophy
4. Teaching portfolio (including student evaluations and sample syllabi, if available)
5. Three letters of recommendation
6. Transcript from highest degree granting institution (unofficial copy acceptable)
7. Completed self-disclosed Religious Affiliation Form (found in Interfolio)

If you have questions about the position, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Dave Bridge (David_Bridge@baylor.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 6/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15605

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Harvard Kennedy School of Government

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

About the Fellowship

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

The Ash Center is a global and values-driven community that believes diverse perspectives are paramount to better understanding and addressing real-world problems. In fostering an environment of rigor, curiosity, and integrity, we value and respect different opinions, lived experiences, and diverse research and policy areas and approaches. We actively seek candidates who share our commitment and values.

Expectations & Benefits

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting from August 1 through July 31 of the following year. Democracy Visiting Fellows are expected to be in residency during their appointment to participate in required on-campus activities. The main requirement is attendance to a weekly democracy community seminar series, throughout the academic year, make a presentation of your research, and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Kennedy School more broadly. Where relevant to their work, Fellows may be asked to contribute to the development of other Ash Center research or program activities. Fellows are also expected to attend a mandatory new fellow orientation that will take place during the month of August.

The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space.

Apply via this link: https://connect.hks.harvard.edu/ashfellowships/s/login/?ec=302&startURL=%2Fashfellowships%2Fs%2F

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/9/2026
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15999

Stanford University

Rank: Comparative Politics, Open Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University is seeking applications for an open rank, tenure line position in Comparative Politics. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494916/comparative-politics-open-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science).

Candidates for an untenured position at the rank of assistant professor must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor. Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Untenured applicants should send a cover letter, CV (including a publication list), a research and teaching statement (no more than three single-spaced pages), teaching evaluations, Ph.D. program transcripts, and a writing sample along with three professional letters of recommendation.

Candidates for a tenured position at the rank of associate or full professor must have a conferred PhD or equivalent international degree. Candidates should demonstrate substantial evidence of a creative research career, impact on his or her field of study, and a commitment to excellence in teaching and advising students at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Tenured applicants should send a cover letter, CV (including a publication list), teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages), and teaching evaluations.

All candidates will be asked to provide the names of three references:
-Assistant professor applicant references will be automatically contacted for a letter upon submission of the application.
-Senior Applicants Only: During the application process, you will be asked whether you have tenure at your current academic institution. If you select "yes," the system will prompt you to provide three reference names. Please indicate "not applicable" for this field and provide email contact notapplicable@notapplicable.com. If you list valid referee information they will NOT be contacted automatically.

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for the position is as follows for academic year 2025–26:
Assistant Professor: $139,050 - $149,350
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 15th, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16010

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor-Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor position in Comparative Politics, starting in Fall 2026. We welcome applications from candidates from all subfields of Comparative Politics and are particularly interested in those whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological training, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication (commensurate with the rank for which they are applying). Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science.

Review of applications will begin October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal:

https://careers.uh.edu/jobs/assistant-associate-or-full-professor-comparative-politics-houston-texas-united-states

The position number keyword is FAC 494806. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, a writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide letters of recommendation only for junior candidates.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

For further information please contact Professor Royce Carroll, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at racarroll@ central.uh.edu. Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15994

Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Thomas J. Watson Jr. School of International and Public Affairs and Department of Political Science 2026-2028

Description
The Watson School for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a two-year joint Postdoctoral Research Associate position beginning in the Fall of 2026.

Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Watson's unique structure - including scholars from a wide range of disciplines who are also appointed in partner departments - allows post-docs to benefit from both a broad academic community while remaining closely connected with top scholars within their discipline, thus allowing them to pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the School. Postdoctoral Research Associates will also teach one seminar course per year of up to nineteen students as well as present a work in progress to an interdisciplinary group.

The selection process, open with regard to nationality and geographic area of research, is highly competitive; we anticipate selecting 1-2 scholars within this particular search. Applicants must have received their Ph.D. since September 1, 2024 or intend to receive their Ph.D. before July 1, 2026. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows or postdoctoral research associates in other programs are not eligible to apply. Watson Post-Docs will receive a competitive salary, for this benefits-eligible position. Additional funding will be made available for research expenses and research-related programming on campus.

Qualifications
This postdoctoral position offers early-career scholars the opportunity to pursue independent research while engaging with leading faculty across both the Watson School for International and Public Affairs and the political science department. An ideal applicant will focus on topics relating to interstate conflict, including but not limited to nuclear weapons, major power politics, crisis decision-making, diplomacy, and/or Chinese foreign policy. Applicants applying any type of social science methodology (qualitative, quantitative or experimental) are welcome. Successful applicants will have opportunities to work collaboratively with faculty during their fellowship.

Application Instructions
To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 15th to the application portal: https://apply.interfolio.com/171860
A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear how the candidate will thrive in and contribute to Watson's interdisciplinary environment, as well as how they would contribute to the research and/or teaching missions of our diverse and inclusive living-learning community

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample, preferably an article or dissertation chapter

Three confidential letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 16th; to receive full consideration applications should be received before that date. Awards will be announced by January 31, 2026.

For further information regarding the Watson Postdoctoral Program, please visit the Watson School website (watson.brown.edu) or contact:

Professor Rose McDermott, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. School for International and Public Affairs, Brown University, 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. Rose_Mcdermott@brown.edu.

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15983

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: CFR 2026-27 International Affairs Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, International Political Economy

The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking applicants for its four 2026-27 International Affairs Fellowship programs. These transformational programs enable U.S. citizens who are mid-career professionals with a demonstrated interest in foreign policy to gain experience in a new environment in the United States, Europe, Indonesia, and Japan, or at an international organization. Selected fellows broaden their perspective on foreign affairs by working in a policymaking setting or by conducting research in an academic environment.

Applications are being accepted through October 31, 2025, for all four fellowships. To learn more about each program, or to apply, visit cfr.org/fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15991

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Assistant Professor

Summary of Job Duties:
The Assistant Professor of Political Science will teach a variety of undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, as well as teaching the program's two courses in the university's core curriculum, American National Government and Intro to International Politics. Teaching will include both face-to-face and online course modes. The successful candidate will advise undergraduate students. The successful candidate will conduct and publish scholarly research. Research activities may include community engagement and applied research publications. This position will participate in faculty governance in the School of Public Affairs, the College of Humanities, Arts, Social Sciences, and Education, and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. This position is governed by state and federal laws, and agency/institution policy.

Qualifications:

Required Education and/or Experience:

Ph.D. in Political Science with a field or emphasis in either comparative politics or international relations;
ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment.

Preferred Education and/or Experience:

Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential.

Job Duties and Responsibilities

Teach undergraduate courses in the School of Public Affairs;
Advise undergraduate students regarding their programs of study and degree progress;
Conduct scholarly and applied research;
Serve on committees as part of faculty governance at the school, college, and university levels;
Other duties as assigned by the Director of the School of Public Affairs.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

Knowledge of either comparative politics or international relations as a field of teaching, research, and service;
Teaching skills;
Ability to advise students in their program of study and about career opportunities;
Ability to conduct scholarly research;
Ability to work with external stakeholder groups for the purpose of community engagement;
Ability to work with faculty and staff in a collegial manner to engage in faculty governance and accomplish goals.

Additional Information: We are hiring for two positions with the same job description. Candidates are strongly encouraged to submit applications for both to maximize their opportunity of being selected, using the following two links.

Apply at https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077139

https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077134

Salary Information:
Commensurate with education and experience

Required Documents to Apply:
Cover Letter/Letter of Application, Curriculum Vitae, List of three Professional References (name, email, business title)

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15988

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (Security Studies)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Assistant Professor, Comparative Security Studies
The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning assistant professor in comparative security studies anticipated to begin August 2026.

The ideal candidate will have a well-developed research agenda that focuses on areas such as contentious political behavior, political violence, regime instability, democratic backsliding, authoritarian regimes, human security, civil wars, civil-military relations, or other security studies subfields. The ideal candidate will have an ability to teach courses in security studies at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will be expected to contribute to the Security Studies PhD program. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors

Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.
For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.
UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

Minimum qualifications:
A doctorate in Political Science, Security Studies, or International Affairs (or a closely related field) from an accredited institution at the time of appointment is required.

Preference will be given to candidates who
- have a demonstrated record of high-quality publications in security studies
- have a promising research agenda that reflects theoretical creativity and empirical sophistication
- have a record of, or potential for, external research funding as appropriate for the discipline
- can teach courses related to comparative security at the undergraduate and graduate levels
- can teach qualitative and/or quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels
- can contribute to the Security Studies PhD program through doctoral student supervision

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names, phone numbers, and email addresses for three professional references (please do not submit reference letters).

NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.

The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to Mehmet Gurses, Search Committee Chair, at Mehmet.Gurses@ucf.edu

Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All application materials must be submitted before the October 17, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15987

University of Kentucky
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/600069

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY seeks to fill a tenure-eligible faculty position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level with expertise in the field of Comparative Political Behavior, with a preference for a scholar whose research and teaching focus on Democratic Attitudes and Participation across subfield boundaries. This is a 9-month position in the regular title series with an anticipated start date of August 1, 2026.

The first year Distribution of Effort will be 45% Teaching, 45% Research, and 10% Departmental service. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise or clear potential to produce high-quality research, attract extramural funding, employ rigorous quantitative and methodological approaches, and provide effective teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. A PhD in Political Science is required. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science by August 1st, 2026.

Applicants must include the following: 1) Letter of Application (upload as Cover Letter) 2) CV, 3) two publications or writing samples (upload as Specific Request 1), 4) Research Statement (upload as Specific Request 2), 5) copy of most recent Transcripts, and 6) Evidence of Teaching Experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (upload as Specific Request 3). In addition, please provide the names and contact information of three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information will be utilized to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Employment at UK is subject to fund availability and comes with comprehensive rewards, focusing on your total well-being and career development, with leadership striving to provide a strong work-life integration. The university generously contributes to employees' retirement plans, medical coverage, and life insurance. In addition, UK offers optional benefits such as dental and vision insurance, additional retirement plans and much more. To learn more about these benefits, please visit: https://hr.uky.edu/employment/our-benefits.

Questions about this search should be addressed to Dr. Justin Wedeking, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (justin.wedeking@uky.edu). Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/600069

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15989

University of Kentucky
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/599776

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY seeks to fill a tenure-eligible faculty position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level with expertise in the field of Comparative Political Institutions, with a preference for a scholar whose research and teaching focus on Emerging Democratic Institutions. This is a 9-month position in the regular title series with an anticipated start date of August 1, 2026. The first year Distribution of Effort will be 45% Teaching, 45% Research, and 10% Departmental service. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise or clear potential to produce high-quality research, attract extramural funding, employ rigorous quantitative and methodological approaches, and provide effective teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

A PhD in Political Science is required. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science by August 1st, 2026.

Applicants must include the following: 1) Letter of Application (upload as Cover Letter) 2) CV, 3) two publications or writing samples (upload as Specific Request 1), 4) Research Statement (upload as Specific Request 2), 5) copy of most recent Transcripts, and 6) Evidence of Teaching Experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (upload as Specific Request 3). In addition, please provide the names and contact information of three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information will be utilized to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Employment at UK is subject to fund availability and comes with comprehensive rewards, focusing on your total well-being and career development, with leadership striving to provide a strong work-life integration. The university generously contributes to employees' retirement plans, medical coverage, and life insurance. In addition, UK offers optional benefits such as dental and vision insurance, additional retirement plans and much more. To learn more about these benefits, please visit: https://hr.uky.edu/employment/our-benefits.

Questions about this search should be addressed to Dr. Jillienne Haglund, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (Jill.haglund@uky.edu).

Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/599776

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15990

CUNY-City College of New York
Rank: Professor and Director of the Masters Program in International Affairs

The City College of New York Political Science Department seeks a dynamic scholar for an open-rank (tenure track or tenured) professor who will also serve as the director of its Master's Program in International Affairs (MIA).

As a professor in City College's Political Science department, the successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate classes in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics. In addition to teaching, the candidate will serve as Academic Director of the MIA program providing visionary academic leadership and strategic vision and oversee curricular development, scheduling, admissions oversight, student advisement, and external relations for the program. The successful candidate will receive two course releases per academic year as compensation for administrative duties.

QUALIFICATIONS

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor: Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution or equivalent. Must demonstrate the ability to teach successfully, have a record of scholarship or professional achievement, and the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues and contribute to institutional goals.

Preferred Qualifications

An outstanding track record of academic research and teaching experience in the field of International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates also need to have experience and/or demonstrable potential in leading an academic program.

Salary is competitive based on rank and experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Only applications submitted through CUNYfirst will be considered for this position.

If you are viewing this job posting in CUNYfirst, please click on "Apply Now" on the bottom of this page and follow the instructions.

If you are viewing this job posting externally, please apply as follows:

· Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"

· Click "Search job listings"

· Click on "More options to search for CUNY jobs"

· Search for Job Opening ID number 31052

· Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions.

Applications, including the following must be uploaded to the CUNYfirst job application website as a single PDF document:

1. Cover letter;

2. Curriculum Vitae;

3. Writing Sample

In addition, please send three letters of recommendation to jroman@ccny.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

The committee will begin reviewing applications on October 30th 2025, but the position will remain open until filled.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Di

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15973

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Conflict Management
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Conflict Management in the School of Conflict Management, Peacebuilding, and Development, with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia. For a full description of this position and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289900.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15968

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR
A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

Tulane University
Rank: Center for Inter-American Policy and Research Post-Doctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, South America

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2026-2027, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are preferred. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments starting in July 2026 with a stipend of $60,000 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in one of the Center's ongoing research initiatives, including the Central American Politics Consortium and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must specify in their application which track is their first preference and which their second. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2026. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/173257 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) a writing sample; and (5) teaching evaluations if available. Letters of recommendation will be requested only for finalists, so applicants at this stage are asked only to indicate who their recommenders will be. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy and Research. Applications will be reviewed starting November 1, 2025.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15962

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB @YALE: POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE, AY 2026-2027

The Identity & Conflict Lab (ICL) at Yale University, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis, invites applications from exceptional candidates for a Postdoctoral Associate position for the 2026-2027 academic year. This opportunity is for a one-year, full-time residential postdoctoral research fellowship, with the possibility of renewal conditional on successful performance. The appointment begins on July 1, 2026.

Housed in the MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the ICL addresses a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict and identity politics. The ICL analyzes how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and how policy interventions can reduce inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are of interest to the work of the lab – ranging from various forms of bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war.

Postdoctoral associates will work on one of ICL's ongoing projects, with a focus either on immigration or foreign policy. Postdoctoral associates may also be asked to contribute to ongoing projects in the lab broadly related to the theme of "identity and conflict." The ICL seeks to integrate substantive and methodological knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to develop new analytical approaches and generate new insights that open up avenues for new research and can influence the design of policy.

Position Description
Postdoctoral associates will be expected to work three days/week on ICL projects under the direction of Professor Nicholas Sambanis and can pursue their own research for the remainder of their time. Job responsibilities include a broad range of data analysis tasks. Applicants must be highly proficient in both Stata and R statistical analysis packages and have prior experience programming surveys in Qualtrics. Applicants should have outstanding organizational, communication, and data analysis skills. They should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; able to work independently, but also as part of a team and sensitive to the demands of multiple simultaneously ongoing projects. A detailed list of job responsibilities will be shared with short-listed applicants. There is no formal teaching requirement. The salary for this position is commensurate with experience and complies with the Yale Office of Postdoctoral Affairs compensation policy and includes a benefits package.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2024, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2026. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting on November 1, 2025. Short-listed candidates will be contacted by December 15, 2025 to set up interviews.

Application Instructions
All application materials must be submitted online through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174091
Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who may be asked to submit a letter of recommendation later (only references for short-listed candidates will be requested).
If you have questions, please email the ICL Director at nicholas.sambanis@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15961

National Taiwan University
Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance— began enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

*How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/Research Fellow level)
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage.

Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15946

Louisiana State University
Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, beginning in the Fall of 2026. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2026. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2025. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Job Summary:
Tenure-track position that teaches both undergraduate and graduate students, maintains an active research agenda with regular publications, and participates in departmental, college, and university service activities commensurate with rank.

Job Responsibilities:
Teach graduate or undergraduate courses and hold regular office hours. Supervise graduate assistant(s) if assigned. - 50%
Maintain an active research agenda with regular publications. - 50%

Minimum Qualifications:
Ph.D. in Political Science or related or equivalent field.

Additional Job Description:

Special Instructions:
Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). Please attach all documents under the "Resume/CV" section of your application. Attachments are limited to five. A copy of your transcripts may be attached to your application (if available). However, official transcripts are required prior to hire. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

External Applicant Link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0240-WC-Stubbs-Hall/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00109310

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15923

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Visiting Fellow

Since 1983, the Kellogg Institute at the University of Notre Dame has offered Visiting Fellowships to promote interdisciplinary international research in a supportive community of scholars. These world-renowned fellowships are awarded through a highly selective competition, offering time to pursue scholarly inquiry wherever it leads, advance personal research, and collaborate with leading scholars and practitioners from across the US and around the globe.

The Kellogg Institute seeks excellent candidates for this residential program, located in Northern Indiana on the beautiful campus of the University of Notre Dame. The Visiting Fellows Program has three tracks, depending on an applicant's career stage and trajectory.

• Our Faculty Visiting Fellowships are for junior and senior academics pursuing research projects in global democracy.
• Our Postdoctoral Visiting Fellowships serve newer scholars who have earned a PhD no more than three years prior to the beginning of the fellowship.
• Our Hewlett Visiting Fellowship for Public Policy support nontraditional scholars, including practitioners, policy-makers, journalists, educators, artists, and activists.

The Kellogg Institute offers an ideal scholarly environment for all in our Visiting Fellows Program. Fellows interact with leading scholars one-to-one and through the Institute's seminars and lectures, international conferences, roundtable discussions on world affairs, and cultural events. The facilities at the Hesburgh Center are conducive to scholarly research with spacious offices and on-site information technology support. Fellows also have full access to library services and other campus facilities.

More information and links to apply at kellogg.nd.edu/vfellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15903

University of Utah
Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: China, Central Asia, Africa

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2026. We are interested in candidates whose research makes novel theoretical contributions to such areas as political economy and political development, democratic or authoritarian regimes, judicial politics and courts, social movements and protests, and/or the environment in one or more regions of the world. Candidates with expertise in any world region will be considered, though we have special interest in Asia (especially China) and Africa. The successful candidate will have expertise in field research and original data collection, substantial training in quantitative methods, and willingness to teach graduate and undergraduate methods classes. Applicants should have a record of research productivity, strong grant potential, and a willingness to contribute to interdisciplinary research and teaching.

Applications should be submitted by September 26, 2025 to receive full consideration, and the position will remain open until filled. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Applications should be filed using the online system at https://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/188369

The University of Utah is the flagship institution of the Utah System of Higher Education, is a member of the AAU (Association of American Universities), and has been classified by the Carnegie Foundation as among those research universities with the "highest research activity." The University provides numerous opportunities for internal research funding and offers a generous benefits and retirement package: https://www.hr.utah.edu/benefits/.

The University of Utah is located in Salt Lake City, the capital of the state and the center of a metropolitan area with approximately 1.3 million residents. Salt Lake City is home to sizable Latinx and immigrant populations (21.5% and 15% of residents, respectively). The city's proximity to the Wasatch Mountains, world-class ski resorts, and national parks makes it an ideal location for outdoor recreation. SLC has extensive arts and cultural activities. The area has received international recognition for its light rail system, foodie culture, Sundance Film Festival, its vibrant downtown, and increasing ethnic diversity.

The University of Utah is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and does not discriminate based upon race, national origin, color, religion, sex, age, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, status as a person with a disability, genetic information, or Protected Veteran status. Individuals from historically underrepresented groups, such as minorities, women, qualified persons with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply. Veterans' preference is extended to qualified applicants, upon request and consistent with university policy and Utah state law. Upon request, reasonable accommodations in the application process will be provided to individuals with disabilities. To inquire about the University's nondiscrimination or affirmative action policies or to request disability accommodation, please contact: Director, Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, 201 S. Presidents Circle, Rm 135, (801) 581-8365.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 9/26/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15914

University of Central Florida
Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.
Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, post-doctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15899

University of Central Florida

Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.
Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15900

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.
The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Tenure Track

Political Science, Junior Tenure-Track

NYU Abu Dhabi is searching for a new faculty member to conduct research and teach the next generation of global leaders. The Division of Social Science invites applications for a tenure-track junior faculty position in Comparative Politics/Political Economy. This position is open with regards to substantive and regional focus in these fields.

You may find more information about the Political Science program here: https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate/majors-and-minors/political-science-major.html

About NYU Abu Dhabi
https://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/
NYU Abu Dhabi is the first comprehensive liberal arts and research campus in the Middle East to be operated abroad by a major American research university. Times Higher Education ranks NYU among the top 30 universities in the world, making NYU Abu Dhabi the highest-ranked university in the UAE and MENA region. NYU Abu Dhabi has integrated a highly selective undergraduate curriculum across the disciplines with a world center for advanced research and scholarship. The university enables its students in the sciences, engineering, social sciences, humanities, and arts to succeed in an increasingly interdependent world and advance cooperation and progress on humanity's shared challenges. NYU Abu Dhabi's high-achieving students have come from over 120 countries and speak over 100 languages. Together, NYU's campuses in New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai form the backbone of a unique global university, giving faculty and students opportunities to experience varied learning environments and immersion in other cultures at one or more of the numerous study-abroad sites NYU maintains on six continents.

NYUAD is committed to upholding a culture of non-discrimination, anti-harassment, dignity, and mutual respect; providing equal access and opportunity; and fostering academic excellence in learning, research, and teaching.

Students are drawn from among the world's best. They are bright, intellectually passionate, and committed to building a campus environment anchored in mutual respect, understanding, and care. The NYUAD undergraduate student body has garnered an impressive record of scholarships, graduate-school admissions, and other global honors. Graduate education is an area of growth for the University; the current graduate student population of over 100 students is expected to expand in the next decade as doctoral programs are developed.

Working for NYUAD
At NYUAD, we recognize that Abu Dhabi is more than where you work; it's your home. In order for faculty/academic staff to thrive, we offer a comprehensive benefits package. This starts with a generous relocation allowance; educational assistance for your dependents; access to health and wellness services; and more. NYUAD is committed to faculty/academic staff success throughout the academic trajectory, providing support for ambitious and world-class research projects and innovative, interactive teaching approaches. Support for dual-career families is a priority. Visit our website for more information on benefits for you and your dependents.

Qualifications
This position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science or other related field by August 1, 2026.

We seek individuals who have, or have the potential to develop, a strong record of scholarship and have the ability to develop and lead high-quality research.

Application Instructions
To apply for this position, please submit the following items via Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/173054

-Curriculum Vitae (CV)
-Cover Letter
-Teaching Statement
-Research Statement
-Recent teaching evaluations (optional)
-Up to 5 representative publications or other writing samples
-Names and email addresses of 3 references (each will be contacted to upload their reference via Interfolio). Senior candidates may delay having references sent until they know if they are finalists.

The application deadline is October 10, 2025. We anticipate that successful candidates can start the appointment and relocate to Abu Dhabi in the academic year 2025-2026 or 2026-2027, subject to budget approval.

NYUAD is committed to equality and is an equal-opportunity employer. We welcome applications from all qualified candidates and seek individuals who will contribute to the excellence and vibrancy of our academic community.

For questions about this position, please email nyuad.academicrecruitment@nyu.edu.

Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

NYUAD values inclusion, belonging, and respect; such principles are fundamental to the university's commitment to excellence. NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We welcome applications from all qualified candidates and seek individuals who will contribute to our vibrant, multidisciplinary research and teaching community. Multidisciplinary research and exceptional teaching in a globally diverse campus community are hallmarks of the University's mission.

@WorkAtNYUAD
#nyuadfacultycareers

To apply, please submit your application docket to: https://apply.interfolio.com/173054

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15877

Ohio State University

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar - Traditional Governance in Africa

The Department of Political Science and the Mershon Center for International Security Studies at Ohio State University seek to appoint a Post-Doctoral Scholar in Traditional Governance in Africa under the supervision of Professor Amanda Lea Robinson. This will be a two-year appointment beginning August 15, 2026.

The post-doctoral scholar will work with Dr. Robinson on a research program on Traditional Governance in Africa, which is funded by the Mershon Center. The project evaluates how the history, institutional structures, and political practices of traditional institutions in Africa (e.g., chieftaincies) relate to the quality of governance they provide. The project employs a combination of original and existing data, both qualitative and quantitative.

While the post-doctoral scholar will be expected to devote 50% of their time to collaboration on all aspects of the project, candidates should also articulate an independent research agenda within the study of African traditional institutions. The remainder of the post-doctoral scholar's time is given to developing their own research, publications, and professional profile. There are no teaching or service obligations, although the scholar is expected to be an active participant in both the Mershon Center and the Department of Political Science.

The salary for this position is $63,500. The postdoctoral scholar will also be provided with an annual $4,000 research fund. Applicants must plan to reside in the Columbus area during the relevant academic years, except in the case of project-related field research.

Required qualifications:
Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field by June 30, 2026.
Candidates must be within three years of the Ph.D.
Strong methodological training (qualitative, quantitative, or both)

Desired qualifications:
Demonstrated research expertise in the study of traditional governance
Experience living, working, or conducting research in Africa or another developing region
Interest in conducting field-based research

Additional Information:
To apply, please combine the following materials into a single PDF and submit through Workday:
Cover letter describing the two-year research agenda and how it relates to the broader project on Traditional Governance
Current CV
An article-length writing sample
A list of three references (letters will only be requested for finalists)
The deadline for receipt of applications is December 15, 2025. Virtual interviews will take place in late January, with decisions by mid-February.

To apply:
https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Scholar---Traditional-Governance-in-Africa_R136287-1

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15884

Tulane University

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in Political Science & Political Economy

Position Description
We seek to hire an Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in Comparative Political Economy. The substantive focus of research is open, but we are particularly interested in candidates who study energy transitions, natural resources governance, and domestic environmental or climate politics. Regional focus and specialization are also open, except for Latin America. The department is home to a range of approaches and methods, which we see as a strength, and successful candidates are expected to develop a strong record of research excellence. The teaching load is 2-2, equally split between the Department of Political Science and the Murphy Institute. The prospective candidate will contribute to the Political Science program at the undergraduate and graduate curricular levels. The candidate should also be able to offer a course on International and Comparative Political Economy for the Murphy Institute twice per year. The expected start date for this position is July 1, 2026. For further questions about the position, contact Prof. Moisés Arce (marce@tulane.edu)

Qualifications
PhD in Political Science preferred. Although ABD candidates will be considered, a terminal degree is required by the time the Assistant Professor appointment begins.

Application Instructions
Please send in a cover letter, a CV, a statement of research, a teaching statement, teaching evaluations (if available), a writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation by October 1, 2025. All materials should be uploaded directly in Interfolio: apply.interfolio.com/172989

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15881

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (The Politics of Europe)

The Department of Government at William & Mary, a public university of the Commonwealth of Virginia, seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in the Politics of Europe. Appointment will begin August 10, 2026. We are interested in individuals with both research and teaching expertise in European politics.

Job Description
Duties include research, teaching, and service to the University. The applicant is expected to establish and maintain a vibrant research program that inspires a highly motivated undergraduate student body. Teaching expectation is 2 courses per semester. Successful applicants must possess the skills to teach compelling courses in the politics of Europe, comparative politics, and other lecture and seminar-style courses, as well as contribute to the university's interdisciplinary program in European Studies.

Required Qualifications:

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a related field at the time appointment begins (August 10, 2026).

Preferred Qualifications:

Previous experience in teaching and mentoring successful undergraduate research is preferred. Evidence of scholarly achievement or demonstrated potential as a scholar.

Applicants must apply online at https://go.wm.edu/VphZB3. All applications must consist of the following materials for full consideration:

Curriculum vitae

Cover letter

A statement of teaching interests

A statement of research interests

A reference page with the contact information (including names, email addresses, and phone numbers) for three references.

Applicants are encouraged to reflect on teaching and mentoring practices that advance academic excellence and success of all learners/scholars in political science in any of the aforementioned required documents.

Candidates who reach the long-list (Zoom) interview stage will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference.

For full consideration, submit application materials by the initial review date, 10/02/2025. Applications received after the initial review date will be considered if needed. All required supplemental application materials mentioned above must be clearly identified and included with your application for full consideration. Review of applications is ongoing.

Information on the degree programs in the Department of Government may be found at https://www.wm.edu/as/government/.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/16/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15870

Hope College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Hope College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor in Comparative Politics.

We seek a scholar whose work engages substantive areas of Comparative Politics, with particular interest in candidates whose regional expertise includes the Middle East, Latin America, Europe, or Asia, or whose research focuses on war and conflict, migration, or human rights. The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to teach a range of courses in Comparative Politics at both introductory and advanced levels and will contribute to strengthening the department's methods curriculum, including courses in research design, qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and an active research agenda. We particularly welcome candidates whose research and teaching complement existing departmental strengths. Candidates should also have an appreciation and understanding of diversity broadly understood and demonstrated experience working with diverse students.

Responsibilities include:

Teaching undergraduate courses in introductory and advanced Comparative Politics and research methods;
Maintaining an active program of scholarship;
Advising and mentoring undergraduate students;
Participating in departmental governance and campus-wide service;
Leading Hope's highly regarded Washington, DC semester program on a rotational basis. (Roughly one spring semester every six years.)

https://jobs.hope.edu/postings/4766

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15874

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Business and Government

Copenhagen Business School invites applications for a vacant tenure track assistant professorship in Business and Government at the Department of International Economics, Government and Business.

Expected starting date is during 2026 (negotiable).

EGB is a multidisciplinary department that conducts high-quality research in the fields of international business and political science with direct relevance to business, policy-makers and the public. Research at the department focuses on two principal focus areas Business & Government and International Business, in relation to societal challenges. These challenges include the impact of technological change and digital transformation, the ethical dilemmas facing MNEs, regulatory challenges, the changes brought about by emerging markets and the rise of Asia; the consequences of global shifts for public policy, the consequences of inequality; and the relationship between business and democracy. Faculty apply advanced quantitative and qualitative methods to generate systematic knowledge about business-government relations and international business relations.

Research in the field of Business and Government at the department is informed by a range of theoretical and methodological traditions in Political Science and Political Economy. Faculty combine an emphasis on methodological excellence with a drive for empirical impact and relevance and a keen sensitivity to the broader societal contexts in which firm and government activity is situated.

EGB delivers research-based teaching into undergraduate and graduate teaching in programs such as International Business, International Business and Politics, and International Business in Asia. To learn more about the research and teaching activities of the department, please visit the departmental website; www.cbs.dk/egb.

?These are non-exhaustive examples of research and teaching areas that the assistant professor may cover:

- Business and Government relations
- Firms in Politics
- International Business and Politics
- The Politics of FDI and Trade
- Money in Politics
- Political Economy and Public Policy

Candidates should have excellent methodological skills and show potential to have an impact in their relevant (sub) discipline. Candidates should also be interested in developing research-based teaching.

The assistant professorship is a tenure-track position (6 years) with research and teaching obligations. The decision regarding tenure is made between the fourth and the sixth year.

Requirements for promotion include:
- Four peer-reviewed publications accepted for publication in AJG4*/4/3 and/or top 10% Citescore journals (or monographs) with impact factors in the third quartile of a specific field including all its constitutive subfields of study within the 6 year period. At least one of these publications needs to be accepted for publication in a top journal, e.g., AJG4/4*, or journals at the very top of 10% Citescore, alternatively top-10 on a Google Scholar list. Monographs should be published in reputable publishing companies. At least one of the qualifying publications needs to be single-authored.
- A coherent and clear research profile
- Good teaching performance and completion of the CBS HETEP pedagogical program on teaching principles and methods
- Proven ability to introduce new pedagogical techniques and course development
- Development of strong professional relations with colleagues and international networks

The successful candidate is expected to develop a coherent and clear research profile and to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the department.

Responsibilities include
- Individual and group based research meeting high international standards
- Teaching and associated examination
- Applying for external funding (possibly with senior colleagues)
- Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the department and to CBS-wide tasks
- Communicating findings to the public in general and to CBS's stakeholders in particular
- Active participation in the regular research activities, such as research seminars, workshops and conferences

Qualifications
The applicant must hold, or be close to completing, a PhD in Political Science, Political Economy, or a related field from an accredited institution. Emphasis is placed on the applicant's research potential, which means that a researcher with a large research potential may be preferred to a researcher with a large research production.

The applicant must have professional proficiency in English (written and spoken).

Copenhagen Business School has a broad commitment to the excellence, distinctiveness and relevance of its teaching and research programmes. Candidates who wish to join us should demonstrate enthusiasm for working in an organization of this type (highlighting, for example, relevant business, educational and dissemination activities).

?For further information please contact: Head of Department Jens Gammelgaard, tel.: +45 3815 2512, e-mail jg.egb@cbs.dk.

?Appointment and salary will be in accordance with the Ministry of Finance's agreement with the Central Academic Organisation.

Application
The application must be sent via the electronic recruitment system, using the link below.

The application must include:

- Coverletter
- Proof of qualifications (diploma)
- Full CV
- Documentation of relevant, significant, original research at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and citations in the Social Science Citation Index and/or Google Scholar
- Documentation of teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of pedagogical competences
- An indicative proposal for a 6 year period of research
- Job market paper/work-in-progress paper and a complete, numbered list of publications (indicating titles, co-authors, page numbers and year) with an * marking of the academic productions to be considered during the review. A maximum of 10 publications for review are allowed. Applicants are requested to prioritize their publications in relation to the field of this job advertisement. Applicants are encouraged to submit co-author statements.
- Copies of the publications marked with an *. Only publications written in English (or another specified principal language, according to research tradition) or one of the Scandinavian languages will be taken into consideration.

Recruitment procedure
The Recruitment Committee will shortlist minimum two applicants; when possible five or more applicants will be shortlisted. The shortlisted applicants will be assessed by the Assessment Committee. All applicants will be notified of their status in the recruitment process shortly after the application deadline.

?The applicants selected for assessment will be notified about the composition of the Assessment Committee and later in the process about the result of the assessment.

?Once the recruitment process is completed, applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application.

?Copenhagen Business School must receive all application material, including all appendices (see items above), by the application deadline.

?Details about Copenhagen Business School and the department are available at www.cbs.dk.

Application deadline: 1 October, 2025

Closing date: 1 October 2025.

Apply online;
https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationForm/SinglePageApplicationForm.aspx?cid=1309&departmentId=19022&ProjectId=147702&MediaId=4614

WE TRANSFORM SOCIETY WITH BUSINESS

CBS is a globally recognised business school with deep roots in the Nordic socio-economic model. Our faculty has a broad focus on societal challenges, and we have earned a reputation for high-quality disciplinary and interdisciplinary research and education.

We are located at Frederiksberg and have approximately 20,000 full and part-time students, 800 full-time faculty members, 200 PhD students and 700 administrative staff, and a full portfolio of bachelor, master, MBA/EMBA, PhD and executive programmes taught in English and Danish.

Our global profile carries the obligation to address critical challenges in our research and to develop the transformational capabilities of students, graduates and business leaders via our educational activities and opportunities for lifelong learning. Complex challenges call for joint action, and therefore our strategy focuses on strengthening current and starting new partnerships with other sciences, the business community, authorities and civil society.

CBS is working continuously on becoming a diverse and inclusive organisation, and we encourage all regardless of gender identity and expression, ethnicity, religious beliefs, LGBT+ -identity, cultural background etc. to apply.
Reach out to us if you need assistance in the application or recruitment process, if there is something we should know, or if as a person with disability you wish to make use of your preferential access.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15850

Stanford University

Rank: Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2026–2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2026-2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellow on contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies, plus up to $3,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit:
https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan

---

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15857

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia, 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies (plus up to $3,000 for research expenses). Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15856

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description

The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Postdoctoral Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00004

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly research on topics related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil, to fill Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research positions. Although the call is open, scholars working on policy and public health, or on economic development in the region are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral associates are expected to participate regularly in the scholarly and academic activities of the program.

The term of appointment is based on rank. Positions at the postdoctoral rank are for a 12-month term during the 2026-2027 academic year with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding; those hired at more senior ranks may have multi-year appointments. Start date is around September 1, 2026. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

The 12-month, 100% duty time salary for this position will be $65,000 paid monthly. The program will provide a $2,000 moving allowance that will reimburse allowable out-of-pocket relocation expenses, some of which may be taxable. In addition, the program will provide a $6,500 research account. For the teaching component of this appointment the lecturer salary during a teaching semester will be calculated based on a nominally higher rate of pay. This position is eligible for medical benefits.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply
For full consideration complete applications including letters of recommendation should be submitted by November 15, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38404.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests (1,000 - 1,500 words)
4. A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent]
5. Three letters of recommendation

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Eligible candidates must have less than three years of post- PhD research experience prior to anticipated start date. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Expected Salary Range: $65,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15712

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar/Initiatives for Contemporary European Affairs (ICEA)

Visiting Research Scholar/Initiatives for Contemporary European Affairs (ICEA)

Princeton University's Initiatives for Contemporary European Affairs (ICEA) hosts a Visiting Research Scholar Program for faculty members applying to spend their academic leave year with ICEA. ICEA welcomes applications from social scientists who specialize in comparative politics and whose research includes a focus on European politics. ICEA visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their positions.

Visiting scholars will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of ICEA, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. To fully participate in the daily intellectual life of the university, they will be required to be in residence in Princeton or the local vicinity, or to demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice.

Visiting scholars will normally receive a stipend of one-half of their academic year salary. This will be calculated based on the amount of support that each individual expects to receive from their home institution, but will normally not exceed $100,000. Selected candidates will be asked to indicate, or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm, what percentage of financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide during their visit, if any, and to submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 - June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary; they will also be asked to provide a statement of their home institution's leave policy. Successful candidates will receive applicable benefits, travel to and from Princeton, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment will be requested prior to approval by the Office of the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, and a writing sample. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2026-2027 should apply to req number https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39923. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is October 31, 2025, at 11:59 p.m. EST.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15851

University of California, Davis

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of California, Davis invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Comparative Politics. We are especially interested in candidates working on regional and/or emerging-market powers, though the successful candidate may work in any area of Comparative Politics. We are seeking candidates with strong theoretical and methodological skills as well as strong substantive interests that will strengthen any subfield of political science currently represented on the Davis faculty. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field must be completed by the first day of courses.

Applications will be accepted on-line at https://recruit.ucdavis.edu/JPF07299. Candidates should upload a curriculum vitae, cover letter, a statement describing their research interests, sample publications or an article-length writing sample, and a statement of teaching accomplishments and philosophy. Applicants will also be asked to provide three to five letters of reference through the online recruitment system. The anticipated starting date is July 1, 2026. Applications must be received by September 15, 2025 to guarantee initial full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled. Appointment level and salary are commensurate with experience. A reasonable estimate for this position is $110600 - $145000. This recruitment is conducted at the assistant rank. The resulting hire will be at the assistant rank, regardless of the proposed appointee's qualifications.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15853

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Post-Doctoral Associate in the Division of Social Science (NYUAD)

We invite applications for a Postdoctoral Associate in the Division of Social Science at NYU Abu Dhabi from individuals who have or will soon receive a PhD in political science or a related discipline. The appointment will begin September 1, 2026, subject to final budget approval and is available for up to three years.

The post-doctoral associate will spend half their time on independent research, and half of their time on collaborative research with Drs. Leonid Peisakhin and Joan Barceló. The collaborative research will be in the field of political violence, with an emphasis on the legacy of conflict, transitional justice, and post-conflict reconciliation. This position is open as to geographical focus.

The ideal candidate will specialize in historical political economy and will have an interest in conflict studies, post-conflict reconciliation, as well as broader topics in political economy; strong candidates with research interests in other subfields will also be given full consideration. Advanced methodological training is essential; this includes high-level familiarity with causal inference, experimental methods, and econometric techniques. Familiarity with public opinion research and experience working with historical sources would be helpful, but not required.

The position does not require teaching, but it may be possible to get teaching experience for compensation. You would be part of a group of over 20 post-doctoral fellows and 70 faculty in the Division of Social Science.

For consideration, applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with a full publication list, a transcript, statement of research interests and two letters of reference, all in PDF format by December 1, 2025.

Please ensure to submit your application here : https://apply.interfolio.com/172317.

Applications will only be accepted through Interfolio and will be considered on a rolling basis. If you have any questions, please contact Dr. Leonid Peisakhin (leonid.peisakhin@nyu.edu).

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a degree-granting research university with a fully integrated liberal arts and science undergraduate program in the Arts, Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities, and Engineering. NYU Abu Dhabi, NYU New York, and NYU Shanghai, form the backbone of NYU's global network university, an interconnected network of portal campuses and academic centers across six continents that enable seamless international mobility of students and faculty in their pursuit of academic and scholarly activity. This global university represents a transformative shift in higher education, one in which the intellectual and creative endeavors of academia are shaped and examined through an international and multicultural perspective. As a major intellectual hub at the crossroads of the Arab world, NYUAD serves as a center for scholarly thought, advanced research, knowledge creation, and sharing, through its academic, research, and creative activities.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15823

St. Mary's College of Maryland
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Policy at St. Mary's College of Maryland is accepting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning August 2026. Faculty members teach three courses per semester, advise undergraduate students, supervise senior projects, engage in scholarship and professional activities, and fulfill departmental and college-level service responsibilities. Faculty are expected to teach in-person classes supported by methodologies that promote students' engagement. An interest in attracting and retaining students from underrepresented groups is desirable.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science or a related field (may be ABD at the time of application if degree completion by August 2026 is certain), college-level teaching experience, a strong desire to teach undergraduates, and a record of, or demonstrated promise of, high-quality intellectual contributions. The ideal candidate will specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates with experience teaching international or comparative political economy, as well as undergraduate research methods, are preferred. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work focuses on geographic regions outside Latin America, as we aim to complement our department's existing strengths with diverse global perspectives.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications, with a range from $72,000 - $78,000.

Non-sectarian since its founding, St. Mary's College of Maryland, the National Public Honors College, is a public Carnegie Baccalaureate, Arts and Sciences institution located in St. Mary's City, 70 miles southeast of Washington, D.C. With selective admissions policies, academically talented students, and a rigorous curriculum, we offer a small college experience similar to that found at exceptional private colleges. St. Mary's faculty benefit from a comprehensive program of support for scholarship, research, travel, and curriculum development, including course releases for pre-tenure faculty and leaves for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake region and by our proximity to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore.

St. Mary's College (www.smcm.edu) embodies diversity and inclusion in its mission. We create an environment that recognizes the value of individual and group differences and we encourage inquiries from applicants who will contribute to our cultural and ethnic diversity. Application materials should include cover letter (within the cover letter, applicants are requested to speak to ways in which their teaching will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity), curriculum vitae (include e-mail address), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available). In support of inclusive hiring practices, for all SMCM faculty searches, the College will also request three professional references (rather than letters of recommendation) at the time of application. Of these three references, at least one referee should speak to the candidate's disciplinary expertise and at least one should have seen the candidate deliver or design classroom instruction. References will be contacted only for candidates who advance to finalist interviews.

Applications are being accepted online at: apply.interfolio.com/172629. Questions may be directed to Antonio Ugues (augues@smcm.edu) at 240-895-2119.

Initial review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check. St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Visit our website: www.smcm.edu/hr

Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check.

St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15828

United States Air Force Academy
Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

(Please note earlier deadline than initially posted, now due September 22nd.*****)
The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 29, 2026. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2027; in unusual circumstances one semester appointments may be considered. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to David.Sacko@ afacademy.af.edu. Applications received by September 22, 2025 will receive primary consideration though applications received after that mayl be considered. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15817

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@ Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: POSDTDOCTORAL and MID-CAREER FELLOWSHIPS

POSDTDOCTORAL and MID-CAREER FELLOWSHIPS AT TEC DE MONTERREY, CAMPUS MONTERREY

The School of Social Sciences and Government of the Tec de Monterrey (https://tec.mx/es/profesores/ecsg) invites applications for postdoctoral research scholarships in the areas of political economy, state building, and subnational politics and economic development. Other responsibilities include contributing to the preparation and presentation of technical cooperation requests with multilateral development banks, promoting the advancement of the intellectual community and the associated dissemination efforts.

Applicants will work as a team with Sebastián Mazzuca, member of the Tec Faculty of Excellence Program, and will be considered at all ranks. The start date is negotiable but should be no later than July 2026. The duration of the appointment will be one year with the possibility of renewal for a second year.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics, or Public Policy

- Familiarity with interdisciplinary approaches to global development
- Demonstrated promise or evidence of outstanding academic achievement

Compensation

- The duration of the appointment will be one year with the possibility of renewal for a second year.
- Salary is competitive, with a generous package of social benefits
- If interested, the postdoc may teach a course or two for additional compensation in either the Economics or Political Science departments.

Required Documents

- Application letter (1,500 words approx.).
- Curriculum vitae
- Declaration of research interests
- Names and contact information for at least three references

For your application to be fully considered, please be sure to submit all application materials by October 15, 2025. We will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Additional Information

Campus Monterrey has an up-and-coming vibrant and supportive community of young research scholars in political science, political economy, and economics with many trained in outstanding global research universities. The postdoc will have a centrally located office space on campus in the political science department with opportunities to teach and work with undergraduates. Travel funds are available for conference participation to present work in progress at APSA, Midwest, etc.

Contact Information

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Karen Aguayo, Search Leader, at karenaguayo@tec.mx.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15806

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/Initiatives for Contemporary European Affairs (ICEA)

Position Description Princeton University's Initiatives on Contemporary European Affairs (ICEA) through Princeton School of Public and International and the Department of Politics hosts postdoctoral associate positions for twelve-month appointments anticipated to start on or about September 2, 2026. ICEA welcomes applications from social scientists who specialize in comparative politics and whose research includes a focus on European politics.

Research associates will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of ICEA, the Department of Politics, and the Princeton School of Public and International Affairs. Postdoctoral researchers are expected to fully participate in the daily intellectual life of the university.

Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance. PhD is required.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2026-2027 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39743.

The deadline for receipt of complete applications is October 31, 2025, at 11:59 p.m. EST. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 7, 2025 11:59 p.m. EST. Please complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15800

University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Politics of Asia/China), Fall 2026
Specializations: China, East Asia, Southeast Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track position (assistant professor) to begin on August 1, 2026 in Comparative Politics. We seek a specialist in Asian politics. The position is open to any geographic focus on the Asian continent currently not covered by existing faculty in our department, though we have particular interest in China. Successful candidates must have strong research skills and a theoretically-oriented research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). Candidates should also have strong quantitative and/or qualitative methods skills. Preference will be shown for applicants who have research and teaching interests that complement existing departmental interests and strengths, have a capacity for attracting extramural funding, and demonstrate evidence of or potential for college/university teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society.

The University of Tennessee campus is located in one of the most beautiful areas of the country with easy access to miles of inland waterways, pristine state and national parks, diverse cultural opportunities, and a blend of convenient urban and rural living settings. Downtown Knoxville, adjacent to campus, is a thriving neighborhood filled with restaurants, shops, and indoor and outdoor entertainment venues, and is home to the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra, the Knoxville Opera Company, annual international festivals such as the Big Ears Music Festival, and seasonal and weekly events such as Jazz on the Square, Shakespeare on the Square, and the Farmers Market. The University is located within easy driving distance to Asheville, Nashville, Atlanta, and the Great Smoky Mountains.

The University is beginning a next-level initiative aimed both at substantially elevating the University's national reputation for impactful research, scholarship, and creative activity and at assembling a roster of faculty committed to delivering one of the nation's best educational experiences for undergraduate and graduate students. More information about the Department is available at: polisci.utk.edu.

Qualifications
All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related discipline must be finished at the time of appointment.

Application Instructions
Applicants should apply with a cover letter, a current CV, a sample of scholarly writing, a research statement, and a teaching statement. We encourage all potential applicants to visit the University of Tennessee's access and engagement website: https://dae.utk.edu/. All applicants should request letters from three references to be directly uploaded to Interfolio. Please submit application materials in digital format via Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/171456. Review of applications begins September 26, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Kyung Joon Han at khan1@utk.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15795

Harvard University
Rank: Weatherhead Scholars Program
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Weatherhead Scholars Program offers a unique opportunity to join a dynamic, interdisciplinary cohort at Harvard University, bringing together leading academics and accomplished practitioners from around the world. Each year, approximately thirty affiliates are selected through a highly competitive process. Participants may be visiting faculty from other institutions of higher education, postdoctoral fellows who earned their PhD within three years of applying, or practitioner fellows such as mid-career or senior diplomats, journalists, NGO leaders, military officers, civil servants, and other professionals.

Housed within the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs—Harvard's largest international social science research center—the program supports independent research on international, transnational, and comparative topics while fostering meaningful dialogue across disciplines and sectors. Most affiliates spend the full academic year in residence, though one-semester appointments are possible.

Please review the Weatherhead Scholars Program website and FAQ page thoroughly for detailed information. The position requirements differ by category, and full job descriptions are available on ARIeS, Harvard's online portal for hiring. All application materials must be submitted through Harvard University's academic portal by the stated deadlines to ensure full consideration.

https://scholarsprogram.wcfia.harvard.edu/weatherhead-scholars-program

Postdoctoral Fellows and Visiting Scholars: October 15, 2025
Practitioner Fellows: February 15, 2026

Practitioner Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Practitioner Fellows come from a range of professional backgrounds, including diplomacy, journalism, private sector leadership, the military, elected office, public service, and civil society. We welcome applicants from the United States and around the world who hold at least a bachelor's degree, demonstrate a strong interest in international affairs, have a track record of professional impact, and show a clear commitment to engaging with academic and policy communities. Candidates may apply individually or be nominated by a sponsoring institution and must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs while committing to active participation in the program.

Interested individuals are encouraged to contact the director of the Weatherhead Scholars Program to discuss their candidacy and the application process. The application for individual Practitioner Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until February 15, 2026.

Practitioner Fellows are subject to an administrative fee of USD $25,000 for the academic year or USD $12,500 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Visiting Scholars
Weatherhead Scholars Program Visiting Scholars are tenured or tenure-track faculty (or the international equivalent) in the social sciences. Applicants must hold a PhD in a discipline such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field, and be actively engaged in research on international, comparative, transnational, or global issues. This category is not open to adjuncts, lecturers, or non-ladder-rank researchers. Faculty are generally expected to secure their own funding through sabbatical salary or external grants. Candidates must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs and commit to active participation in the program.

Please note: Researchers affiliated with think tanks or research institutes should apply to the Practitioner Fellowship, while recent PhD graduates should consider the Postdoctoral Fellowship.

The application for Visiting Scholars for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

Visiting Scholars are subject to an administrative fee of USD $10,000 for the academic year or USD $5,000 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Postdoctoral Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Postdoctoral Fellows in International Affairs are social scientists working on international, transnational, or comparative issues who hold a PhD in a social science discipline—such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field. Applicants must have earned their degree within the past three years or be scheduled to complete all requirements and defend their dissertation by the start of the appointment.

The Weatherhead Center accepts five to ten postdoctoral fellows each academic year through the Weatherhead Scholars Program. There are three dedicated funding opportunities:

Raphael Morrison Dorman Fellowship – Open to social scientists conducting research in any discipline related to international affairs.
Moulay Hicham Alaoui Postdoctoral Fellowship on Climate and the Environment – Open to social scientists conducting research on climate and/or environmental issues in the Middle East and North Africa.
Sang-Kee Kim Postdoctoral Fellowship on East and Southeast Asia – Open to social scientists conducting research on East Asia and Southeast Asia (excluding Japan and China).
The applications for Postdoctoral Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year are available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

This position is eligible for Harvard University benefits and includes a salary. The Weatherhead Scholars Program postdoctoral salary for 2026–2027 is USD $70,000, payable over twelve months. The fellowships are highly competitive; in a typical year, about 5% of applicants are selected.

The Weatherhead Scholars Program also welcomes applicants with external funding; however, they must apply by the stated deadline and will be considered alongside all other applicants. Postdoctoral fellows whose funding comes from a source outside of Harvard must meet the NIH minimum base salary requirement for postdoctoral researchers at their experience level on the NIH scale. Personal funds may not be used, in full or in part, to meet this requirement.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15786

National Tsing Hua University

Rank: Full Time tenure-track/ tenure position in International Relations or Political Behavior
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Political Behavior

National Tsing Hua University
Taipei School of Economics and Political Science (TSE)

Position: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Full Professor
Job Description: Full Time, Tenured Track
Location of Work: Hsinchu, Taiwan
Language of Instruction: English
Start of Employment: August 2026 onwards
Qualification: Applicants must have or expect a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or related fields. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in research as well as in teaching.
Fields of Specialty:
(1) Conflict, security, or international political economy, with a regional focus on Asia;
(2) Political behavior or data science, applied to topics broadly related to (but not limited to) democratic backsliding, autocratization, judicial politics, elections, clientelism, social media, gender politics, ethnic politics, migration, and inequality.
Compensation: TSE offers a competitive compensation package which carries full tenure-track benefits, including enrollment in National Health Insurance, pension, and retirement benefits.
About TSE:
TSE is dedicated to high-quality post-graduate education in political economy. We currently offer Master degree program in Asian Political Economy, Global Political Economy, and Economic Development as well as Ph.D. degree program in Political Science and Economics. We emphasize interdisciplinary study and integrated economics and political science training and research. International students comprise over 80 percent of our student body. We look for economists and political scientists with strong training in theory, research methodology, quantitative skills, and with a keen interest in policy research.
About NTHU:
Founded in 1911, National Tsing Hua University (NTHU) is a leading comprehensive research university located in Hsinchu, Taiwan, a hub for high-tech innovation. Since its re-establishment in 1956, NTHU has grown into a world-class institution offering over 140 degree programs across 12 colleges. Renowned for cutting-edge research and a distinguished faculty, NTHU is consistently ranked among the top universities in East Asia. Our alumni include Nobel laureates and global leaders, reflecting the university's rich academic history and commitment to excellence.
How to Apply:
To apply for these positions, please submit the following documents as a single PDF (or a download link) to the TSE office (tse@my.nthu.edu.tw), specifying your field and area of specialty in the email. The recommendation letters must be sent directly to tse@ my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.

(1) Curriculum Vitae
(2) Cover Letter
(3) Representative Publications: Please provide at least three representative publications from the last five years. For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, at least one Job Market Paper and a copy of dissertation (draft) are required. Other research papers are preferred but not required.
(4) Degree Certificate: Please provide a copy of the doctoral degree certificate or certification for the completion of coursework and successful defense of the dissertation. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter certifying the completion of coursework and the imminent scheduling of the oral examination is required.
(5) Transcripts/Certificate or Proofs for Appointments: For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, please provide the Transcripts. For applicants who are neither new Ph.D.s nor Ph.D. candidates, please provide a certificate or proof of your current position at any academic institution instead.
(6) Statement of Research Interests
(7) Teaching Evaluations (preferred but not required)
(8) Three recommendation letters: the recommendation letters may be submitted through JOE, or sent directly to tse@my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.
Application Deadline: October 15 2025 (Taipei time, GMT+8). Early applications submitted by September 10, 2025 (prior to the APSA Annual Meeting) are strongly encouraged.

To see a full description of our program, please visit the following website: www.tse.nthu.edu.tw, or contact us via email at tse@my.nthu.edu.tw.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15787

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in Political Science and International Relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and/or global governance. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability to conduct theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertatiońs chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2026 to start in August 2026.

Compensation is competitive and includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should submit the following documents in PDF format to Karen Aguayo: karenaguayo@tec.mx

- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.

- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).

- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.

- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double-spaced pages. If co-authored, the candidate should be the first author.

- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating their defense date.

For informal inquiries, please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx

Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Querétaro, and Guadalajara.

For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/cienciassociales-y-gobierno

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15781

Ohio State University

Rank: AI and Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Department of Political Science
College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview
The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of assistant professor. Successful applicants will have research and teaching interests in any of the following areas: the regulatory, political, or ethical challenges of the burgeoning reliance on AI in the public and/or private sectors; the social and political consequences of reliance on algorithmic approaches to public policy implementation; methodological development at the intersection of social science and AI/machine learning. Based in Columbus, Ohio, the position will begin in the fall of 2026. Preferred applicants will demonstrate the potential for a sustained and substantial body of work focusing on one or more of these areas. The position is open with respect to substantive focus or disciplinary subfield in Political Science. This position is part of the investment of The Ohio State University Provost in the Department of Political Science in Socio-Political Analysis and AI: https://polisci.osu.edu/good-to-great-proposal. Successful candidates will join with a series of successful hires focused on political methodology around the development of AI tools for social science research and will provide a strong possibility for cross-unit grant collaboration.

Performance Objectives
Responsibilities of the position include:
- Conduct research on advanced topics in the regulatory, policy, ethical areas, or consequences of AI for political or socio-economic outcomes or the application of data analytics and AI to social scientific questions
- Mentor and teach in these and related areas at the undergraduate and/or graduate level

- Engage with interdisciplinary efforts focused on data analytics and/or AI

Education and Experience Requirements
Required: Applicants must be on track to complete their PhD on or before August 15, 2026, in a relevant field, and have the capacity to integrate methodological insights with substantive research demonstrated through a record of and/or promise of scholarly excellence.

Desired: Demonstrate the potential for securing external grant funding and mentoring undergraduate or graduate students. Preferred candidates will show a willingness to participate in interdisciplinary collaborative efforts. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to building an intellectual community in line with OSU's Shared Values (see below).

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically to the Careers at Ohio State website at https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Assistant-Professor-in-AI---Politics---Department-of-Political-Science_R134968-1. A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, unofficial transcript, separate research and teaching statements, writing sample(s), and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2026. To be guaranteed full consideration, please submit all materials by October 15, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Professor Ryan Kennedy at kennedy.310@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section.

Please include the following:
- Attachment 1: Cover Letter and CV as a single document:

o Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
o CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.

- Attachment 2: Unofficial transcript.
- Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
- Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
- Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

All applicants will be asked to provide the names and contact information for three references following the submission of application materials.

The College
With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought. The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University
Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025

Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15775

Seattle University
Rank: Adjunct

Position Description:

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for adjunct positions for AY 2025-2026 in Political Science with a primary focus on comparative politics and a secondary focus on international politics, most likely during winter quarter 2026 and spring quarter 2026, pending budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching both introductory courses and upper division courses in comparative politics and/or international politics, and courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors. The specific subject matter is open to discussion between the successful candidate(s) and the department chair. The department currently does not need coverage on Asia, but is interested in areas such as African politics, European politics, Latin American politics, and Middle East politics.

Qualifications:

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.

Application Instructions:

Submit applications at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers/, including a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as student teaching evaluations, and the names and contact information of three references. Recruitment is ongoing and based on quarterly teaching needs, but review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025. Contact Political Science Chair, Dr. Yitan Li, liy@seattleu.edu, with any inquiries.

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 15774

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Comparative Politics and Area Studies

Open Rank Faculty Position in Comparative Politics and Area Studies

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline of comparative and area studies. We are specifically interested in candidates with research interests in South/Southeast/North/Central Asia and Middle East. Applications are invited for faculty positions at the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor and full professor. Applicants for junior positions should have solid training in theories and cutting-edge methods in comparative politics from internationally prestigious universities. Applicants for senior positions are expected to have a proven record in high-quality teaching and research in the expertise areas. For senior positions, priorities will be given to candidates with management experience and skills in program planning, curriculum development and student supervision, and a proven record of research publications in competitive international outlets.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2026-27. A Ph.D. must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

Salary & Benefits
Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits and generous start-up research support through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=573&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15773

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Psychology
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Political Psychology, Electoral Behavior, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stony Brook University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Political Psychology. This position would begin in Fall 2026. The department is interested in applicants with expertise in any substantive area of Political Psychology including but not limited to partisanship and polarization, ideology and belief systems, democratic norms, misinformation and political communication, intergroup relations, political affect, and decision making. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching courses at the Undergraduate and/or Graduate level, developing and conducting a rigorous research agenda and disseminating research findings. Additional duties include fostering inclusive teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college, and university levels.

Qualifications
Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. (or foreign equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field in hand by August 31, 2026. Research that employs a political psychology framework to the study of American and/or comparative political behavior; well versed in the research literature in political psychology

Preferred Qualifications:
Demonstrated record of the following, as evidenced by the applicant's CV, letters of recommendation, and supporting materials:
Record of producing high-quality research
Strong research background and training
Strong publication record
Research interests in political behavior, American politics, or comparative politics
Experience teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate level

Application Instructions
Please apply at https://apply.interfolio.com/170193

Submit the following materials to Interfolio:
1. Cover Letter that includes how their professional experiences have prepared them to contribute to an academic community that values excellence, innovation, and access
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Samples of written work
4. Teaching statement
5. Research statement
6. Three confidential letters of reference, submitted via Interfolio

For questions regarding this position, please contact the search chair, Distinguished Professor Leonie Huddy at Leonie.Huddy@stonybrook.edu.

For full consideration please submit your materials by 11:59 PM Eastern Time on Monday, September 15, 2025.

All application materials must be submitted online. The names of applicants will be kept confidential until a list of finalists is confirmed. Please use the Apply Now button to begin your application. For technical support, please visit Interfolio's Support Site (https://support.interfolio.com/) or reach out to their Scholar Service Team at help@interfolio.com or (877) 997-8807.

Special Notes: This is a FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA.

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

In accordance with the Title II Crime Awareness and Security Act, a copy of our crime statistics is available upon request by calling (631) 632- 6350. It can also be viewed online at the University Police website at http://www.stonybrook.edu/police.

About the Department:
The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in research and scholarship, graduate student training, undergraduate teaching and learning, public outreach, and the promotion of responsible citizenship. It contributes to the generation of knowledge about politics and aims to deepen scholarly and public understanding of political institutions and the citizenry. The department seeks to prepare students for successful careers in government, academics, and the private sector. In addition to the M.A. in Public Policy program, the Department administers B.A. and Ph.D. programs in Political Science, as well as an M.A. in Political Psychology. It is home to 13 tenured and tenure-track faculty, roughly 600 undergraduate majors and minors, staff, Political Science graduate students, and several non-tenure track full-time lecturers. The Department is ranked in the top 30 Political Science graduate programs in the most recent U.S. News & World Report rankings, and the dynamic, interdisciplinary faculty produce high-quality research that is consistently published in top-rated journals. http://www.stonybrook.edu/polsci/

About the College:
As part of a great research university, the College of Arts and Sciences at Stony Brook University focuses on scholarly creativity, connecting our disciplines of fine arts; humanities; social, behavioral and natural sciences; and mathematics with medicine, technology, culture, education, business and environment. As the largest College for the campus, we help students and faculty begin a lifetime of learning and discovery by exploring new ideas that drive innovation and inspiration across all sectors of society. http://www.stonybrook.edu/cas/

Campus Description:
Stony Brook University, one of two flagships within the State University of New York (SUNY) system, is one of America's most dynamic public universities, a center of academic excellence, and an internationally recognized research institution that is changing the world. After more than 60 years of existence, it is ranked among the top 100 universities in the nation and the top 25 public universities in the nation. It is a member of the prestigious invitation-only Association of American Universities, composed of the top 66 leading research institutions in North America. As Long Island's largest single-site employer, Stony Brook has nearly 15,000 full- and part-time employees, including 2,800 faculty and nearly 27,000 students — including almost 18,000 undergraduates — and offers more than 200 majors, minors and combined-degree programs. Located approximately 60 miles east of Manhattan on Long Island's beautiful North Shore, Stony Brook is situated on 1,454 wooded acres, encompassing 13 schools and colleges; a Research and Development Park; world-class athletics facilities, including an 8,300-seat stadium and a 4,000-seat arena; and Stony Brook Medicine, Long Island's premier academic medical center. Also part of the University is a teaching and research campus in Southampton, New York, which offers graduate arts programs and is the site of the Marine Sciences Center. In addition, Stony Brook has a role in running, and performs joint research with, Brookhaven National Laboratory, the only Department of Energy Laboratory in the Northeast. Home to the Emerson String Quartet, the Pollock-Krasner House in East Hampton, NY, and the Humanities Institute, with endeavors that extend to the Turkana Basin Institute in Kenya and the Ranomafana National Park in Madagascar, Stony Brook sustains an international reputation that cuts across the arts, humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15770

Harvard University

Rank: Academy Scholar
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies is dedicated to promoting innovative social science hand-in-hand with deepening our shared knowledge of the experiences and practices of the worlds' regions and countries. The Academy Scholars Program identifies and supports outstanding researchers at the start of their academic careers whose work combines excellence in a social science discipline with a command of the language and knowledge or expertise of countries or regions outside of the United States or Canada. The scholarship of the group spans traditional disciplinary divisions and elucidates comparative, transnational, and domestic issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals possessed of resourcefulness, initiative, and originality whose work shows promise as a foundation for careers in research universities or international institutions. Scholars are appointed for a two-year, in-residence, postdoctoral fellowship at The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA, USA. They receive substantial financial and research assistance which permits them to undertake robust research projects and skills development in their chosen fields and areas. They meet at dinners, seminars, and informal get-togethers in order to pursue innovative interdisciplinary approaches to their work. They are mentored by the Harvard Academy Senior Scholars, a cohort of faculty members who act as a selection committee, participate in Harvard Academy events, and are committed to supporting the Academy Scholars as they work to achieve their potential.

Each year, five to six Academy Scholars are named for two-year, in-residence appointments with an annual stipend of $80,000 (annual research support of $5,000 is also provided), with the two years to be completed within a three-year window. Year 1 of the fellowship must be taken up no later than the fall immediately following the postdoctoral fellowship offer. Delays or deferrals in the start of Year 1 are not permitted. Between Years 1 and 2, Academy Scholars may apply for a one-time leave (up to 12 months), either to accept or to continue with a tenure-track teaching appointment but for no other professional reason. Academy Scholars may not accept other sources of funding, awards, or obligations during their appointment.

All application materials must be submitted by the deadline of September 19, 2025. We do not accept late applications.

The completed application will include:

Curriculum vitae (CV); including list of publications

Research proposal (2000 words maximum); including intellectual objectives and planned methodological and disciplinary work

One scholarly writing sample (e.g., PhD dissertation chapter or single-authored peer-reviewed academic journal article; fifty pages maximum; in English)

A copy of your PhD program transcript

Three letters of recommendation (uploaded directly and confidentially by the recommender through the online application—please note you will need to submit your application before an upload link is sent to your recommender).

All parts of the application, including the three letters of recommendation, are submitted online as .pdf documents. Access the online application through the homepage of The Harvard Academy's website: https://academy.wcfia.harvard.edu.

All materials except for letters of recommendation must be received by September 19, 2025 (ensure letters of recommendation arrive no later than September 29, 2025). The selection process begins immediately thereafter. Applicants whose materials are incomplete are at a disadvantage when considered by the Selection Committee. Announcement of the awards will be made in December 2025.

These awards are open to recipients of PhD or equivalent degrees granted within two years of the August 1, 2026, start date and advanced doctoral candidates in the social sciences. Scholars nearing dissertation completion must be able to submit degree conferral documentation issued by their university registrar's office by June 30, 2026, for an August 1, 2026, start date. Individuals who hold or have completed another postdoctoral fellowship are not eligible to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 9/19/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15759

University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Behavior
Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Race & Ethnic Politics

Assistant Professor in Political Behavior
Department of Political Science
University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

The Department of Political Science at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign invites applications for a full-time tenure stream Assistant Professor position in Political Behavior, broadly defined. Candidates with research and teaching interests in comparative political behavior, comparative political psychology, or race, ethnicity, and politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Successful candidates are expected to teach courses in Political Behavior at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, to establish and maintain an active and independent research program, and to provide service to the department, the university, the profession, and the people of Illinois in keeping with the university's land-grant mission. Successful candidates should demonstrate evidence of creativity and effectiveness in teaching and scholarly research. In addition, successful candidates should demonstrate experience with fostering or the ability to foster an inclusive and collaborative teaching, learning, departmental, and research environment where all can thrive. Applicants are encouraged to include in their cover letter information about how they will further our commitment to the university's values. Learn more about our mission and values at boldly.illinois.edu <https://boldly.illinois.edu/> .

Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of a promising research agenda and a commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field required. Candidates whose PhD may be delayed but will complete all the Ph.D. requirements within the first appointment year may be appointed at the rank of Instructor. After the Ph.D. requirement is met, the appointment will be changed to Assistant Professor. Target start date is August 16, 2026. The budgeted salary range for the position is $105,000 - $110,000 at the Assistant Professor level, for a 9-month service basis.

We have an active and successful dual-career partner placement program and a strong commitment to work-life balance and family-friendly programs for faculty and staff (http://provost.illinois.edu/faculty-affairs/work-life-balance/). To find out more about the resources available at the university and Urbana-Champaign community please visit these sites:

Dual Career Program
Benefits
Living in Champaign-Urbana

To apply, create your candidate profile through https://jobs.illinois.edu and upload your application materials by 6:00pm (CST) on September 16, 2025: letter of application, CV, a representative publication, statement of teaching and research interests.

We ask that all documents be uploaded in a single .pdf file as an upload in the "Resume/CV" section. An email request for contact information for three professional references will be sent to you 1-2 business days after you application is submitted. Once the contact information for the references is uploaded into the system, their letters will be invited. Early application submission is encouraged to allow time for referees to submit letters of recommendation.

Only applications submitted through the University of Illinois Job Board will be considered. Questions about the position may be directed to the faculty search coordinator at pol@illinois.edu.
For questions regarding the application portal, please contact 217-333-2137 or jobs@illinois.edu.

The University of Illinois must also comply with applicable federal export control laws and regulations and, as such, reserves the right to employ restricted party screening procedures for applicants.

The University of Illinois offers a very competitive benefits portfolio, depending on the position. Click for a complete list of Employee Benefits.

The University of Illinois System is an equal opportunity employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status, and complies with all applicable state and federal employment mandates. Please visit Required Employment Notices and Posters to view our non-discrimination statement and find additional information about required background checks, sexual harassment/misconduct disclosures, and employment eligibility review through E-Verify.

Applicants with disabilities are encouraged to apply and may request a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (2008) to complete the application and/or interview process. Accommodations may also be requested on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, and related conditions, or religion. Requests may be submitted through the reasonable accommodations portal, or by contacting the Accessibility & Accommodations Division of the Office for Access and Equity at 217-333-0885, or by emailing accessibility@illinois.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/16/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15761

National Taiwan University

Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance—will begin enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:

- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

Candidates who are available for an informal interview during the 2025 APSA meeting in Vancouver, 11 – 14 September (limited slots), should send an expression of interest to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests,
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample,
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/ Research Fellow level) and
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references.

References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage. Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15747

Ohio State University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor in Law and Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, International Law & Organizations, Judicial Politics

Department of Political Science

College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview

The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for the Carter Phillips and Sue Henry Professorship in Political Science, focusing on Law and Politics, broadly understood and open with respect to subfield, to begin in August 2026. Substantive areas of interest include, but are not limited to, international law and norms, the politics and development of the rule of law, and American legal institutions and political development. Candidates are expected to contribute to theoretical debates and to have excellent methodological skills appropriate to their research.

Performance Objectives

Responsibilities of the position include: (1) maintaining a strong research program; (2) contributing to graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring; (3) engaging in service to the department, university, and profession.

Education and Experience Requirements

Required: Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline, a substantial record of publications and work in progress, and should provide evidence of accomplishments in teaching and/or mentoring.

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply

To be considered, please submit your application electronically via Workday at: (https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Associate-Professor-or-Professor-in-Law-and-Politics---Dept-of-Political-Science_R134488-1)

A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate research and teaching statements, and writing sample(s). Candidates advanced for further consideration may be asked to provide letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15. To be guaranteed full consideration, applications must be received by October 15. Inquiries may be directed to Professor William Minozzi at minozzi.1@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section. Please include the following:

Attachment 1: Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
Attachment 4: Teaching and Mentoring Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

The College

With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought. The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University

Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15749

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Development, Developing Nations, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in international development starting in Fall 2026.

Through their research and teaching, successful candidates will be expected to increase our students' ability to examine international relations with a focus in any one of a range of specialties, including international organizations, human rights, development policy, policy analysis, postcolonial thought, political economy, and sustainable development. In addition to teaching courses in their area of expertise, the department expects the candidate to contribute to teaching undergraduate and Master's curricular requirements such as Theories of International Relations, Research Methods, or Policy Analysis. The successful candidate will also contribute courses in other core areas of departmental curricular need. Candidates should describe their teaching interests in their cover letter.

Candidates must be committed to excellent, inclusive teaching and student advising at both the undergraduate and graduate level. Candidates must also be committed to pursuing a scholarly agenda and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. A typical teaching load in the College of Arts and Sciences is three courses per semester.

Applicants must submit:

a cover letter that describes the candidate's research agenda and the courses they would like to teach;

a CV;

official graduate transcripts;

three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and scholarship;
a writing sample;

a summary of teaching evaluations and evidence of teaching excellence, including a sample syllabus;

a statement of teaching philosophy that includes discussion of how candidates approach students with diverse backgrounds and learning styles.

Candidates are encouraged to submit application materials at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by September 5, 2025.

Job application materials must be uploaded to https://jobs.sandiego.edu/ at posting #5318.

Questions should be directed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. A.M. Spiegel (spiegel@sandiego.edu).

If you have any technical questions or difficulties please contact the Employment Services Team at jobs@sandiego.edu.

Additional requirements:

Background check: Successful completion of a pre-employment background check.

Degree Verification Requirement: Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide official education transcripts for degree verification purposes.
Advanced Degree: Applicants should hold a terminal degree, preferably a Ph.D. in Political Science. ABD candidates will be considered on a case-by-case basis, with the expectation of having a completed Ph.D. degree by September 2026.

Salary and Benefits

$7,000-7,333/month; Excellent Benefits

The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package including; medical, dental, vision, a retirement contribution given to you by the University, and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. Please visit the benefits section of our website to view all of the perks and benefits that USD has to offer. USD: Human Resources: Benefits

The salary range provided in this posting reflects what we reasonably expect to pay for this position. Actual compensation offered or earned is dependent on experience, education and other factors including departmental budget.

About the University of San Diego

The University of San Diego, an engaged and contemporary Catholic institution, was founded by the Diocese of San Diego and the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1949. Governed by an independent board of trustees since 1972, USD remains committed to a liberal arts education grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition and the pursuit of truth, goodness and beauty. Inspired by this centuries old tradition of Catholic higher education, the University welcomes people of all faith traditions and any, or no, religious background. The future success of USD relies on the contributions of those who seek to foster the development of engaged global citizens and an earnest confrontation of humanity's urgent challenges.

About the College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is at the heart of the University of San Diego. Our philosophy is built on the enduring values of the Catholic intellectual tradition, immersing students in the concepts of free inquiry, ethical conduct and compassionate service. The College aims to establish an academic foundation for students to thrive and gain a comprehensive education, which spans the sciences, arts and social sciences. Through our exemplary liberal arts education and rigorous scholarship, we aspire to not only educate the mind but also develop the whole person.

About the Department of Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world. Our courses cover every corner of the globe and prepare students to be keen political observers and actors. To supplement coursework, we also provide internship, community service learning, and study abroad opportunities that encourage learning outside of the classroom. The department houses two separate majors. The Political Science major focuses attention on the shared and contending ideas, values, institutions and processes of public life. The International Relations major is an interdisciplinary field of study designed for students who seek a holistic understanding of international affairs. The curriculum is rooted in political science and provides students with a strong background in international relations, comparative politics, and international political economy. The department also offers a Masters of International Relations (MAIR) degree. Courses range from the specific study of politics in one country or of a single institution or political process (the judiciary, Congress, the presidency or elections), to more general offerings such as courses on political theory, political development, race and ethnicity, environmental politics, research methods, human rights, and constitutional law.

The University of San Diego is a smoking and tobacco-free campus. For more information, visit www.sandiego.edu/smokefree.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/5/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15744

Agnes Scott College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Agnes Scott College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level to begin in Fall 2026. We are seeking a candidate who focuses on comparative politics with a special emphasis on political behavior and/or quantitative methods Successful candidates should expect to offer courses that will contribute to other programs at the college, such as International Relations and Human Rights, as well as the new Data Analytics minor. Such courses would also contribute to the Summit program, the College's general education on global learning and leadership curriculum. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Political Science (ABDs will be considered), as well as evidence of effective and inclusive teaching and a robust research and publication agenda. A commitment to serve a diverse student population is required.

To apply, email the following to Professor Eleanor Morris through facultyserv@agnesscott.edu:
? Cover letter that outlines the candidate's qualifications in research and teaching
? Curriculum vitae
? Three (3) letters of recommendation
? Unofficial graduate transcript(s)
? Research statement
? Statement on teaching philosophy
? Teaching evaluations
? Writing sample

Review of applications will start October 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.
Agnes Scott College is a highly selective, independent national liberal arts college for women located in metropolitan Atlanta. An equal opportunity employer, Agnes Scott College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, age, veteran status, disability or genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, or any other characteristic protected by law in its employment. Agnes Scott College has a strong commitment to diversity and urges members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Questions about the position, department, or college may be directed to Eleanor Morris at emorris@agnesscott.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15700

Charles University

Rank: Research Group Leader in Comparative Area Studies
Specializations: East Asia, Middle East, Post Communist Europe

Research Group Leader in Comparative Area Studies

The Faculty of Arts, Charles University (Prague, Czech Republic) is seeking a RESEARCH GROUP LEADER IN COMPARATIVE AREA STUDIES. As part of the project funded by Horizon Europe

(ERA Chair in Multidisciplinary Area Studies, ERA-AREAS), this post holder will be responsible for coordinating a newly created Center for Multidisciplinary Area Studies (CenMAS). The applicant will work closely with the ERA Chair Holder, Prof. Mariana Llanos. The applicants are expected to focus on one of three regional specializations: Middle Eastern studies, Asian studies, East European studies.

The Faculty of Arts belongs among the largest and longest-established centers for area studies research and instruction in Central and Eastern Europe, covering all global regions in its research. By engaging in the ERA-AREAS project, it seeks to strengthen its area studies programs focused on non-European global regions and Eastern Europe. We invite applications from scholars within area studies whose research demonstrates strong regional expertise and a commitment to addressing globally significant issues through a social science lens. The research group leader will coordinate a research group composed of scholars focusing on other global regions under a shared topic. We therefore expect experience with managing and coordinating academic research as well as the ability to foster particular research agendas in a collaborative fashion. The ideal candidate will employ comparative methodologies and actively engage in disciplinary debates within area studies on critical current events from a comparative perspective. While the specific disciplinary focus of the applicants is secondary (gravitating towards the loosely defined core of sociology, political science, economics, contemporary history or anthropology), the research group leader is expected to engage in research of the causes and consequences of contemporary crises in global regions which include, in particular, political crises, economic shocks, coups, democratic breakdowns, social protests, early government terminations, threats to democracies, and outbursts of political violence. Applications from scholars at middle or advanced career stage with past active engagement in international academic networks are especially welcome.

Essential criteria
· Academic focus on one of three regional specializations: Middle Eastern studies, Asian studies, East European studies, · Completed Ph.D. in a relevant social science discipline,
· Proven experience with approaches that compare contexts within or across global regions, including the ability to combine deep contextual knowledge of specific global regions with comparative methods (qualitative or quantitative) to identify causal linkages,
· Demonstrated capacity to apply social science research methods to area studies, moving beyond traditional linguistic-cultural approaches while avoiding purely universalist, theory-driven models of explanation,
· Experience with academic management or coordination of research activities ideally within a university or research institute. This includes leading a team of researchers, overseeing project planning and execution, managing grants and reporting, supporting the preparation of publications and other research outputs. Highly desirable is the ability to represent the center externally and contribute to its strategic development.
· Highly proficient in spoken and written English, Czech language proficiency is not required,
· Language skills adequate for deep contextual understanding of the given global region,
· A strong international publication record in an area studies field appropriate for the senior level position,
· A well-developed and ambitious research agenda featuring regionally grounded social science work that addresses global issues using comparative approaches,
· Advanced knowledge of area studies methodologies and social science research techniques, especially the ability to utilize comparative methods of causal inference to uncover the determinants and consequences of critical contemporary events,
· We expect a broader expertise in a global region that extends beyond the study of a single country or community and that spans multiple national contexts,
· Proven ability to work collaboratively across disciplinary boundaries, supporting multidisciplinary dialogue and research,

Desirable Criteria
· Engaging with research that involves cross-region comparisons to other global regions than those which constitute the thrust of the applicant's expertise (that is Middle East, Asia, Eastern Europe, Latin America and Africa),
· The ability to engage in research from a methodologically pluralist perspective, including historical, interpretivist, ethnographic or critical-theoretical perspectives (including decolonial and postcolonial perspectives that interrogate knowledge production in area studies).
- Prior experience with graduate student teaching and supervision.
- Evidence of research impact beyond academia, including engagement with policymakers, practitioners, or civil society,
- Engagement with the methodological and conceptual challenges of pursuing area studies.
- The ability to present research findings to broader public though media and public outreach
- A history of successful external research grant applications and a clear potential to attract further research funding.

Your Responsibilities
· The post holder will coordinate research activities of a multidisciplinary and cross-regional research team (Center for Multidisciplinary Area Studies) composed of newly hired postdoctoral researchers and current researchers at the Faculty of Arts area studies departments. They will contribute to the selection of postdoctoral researchers (covering different global regions) within his/her research topic to forge a cohesive research group guided by a single overarching analytic theme,
· Contribute to the scientific goal of the project by analyzing the causes and consequences of critical current events from a methodologically rigorous and comparative perspective,
· Limited teaching duties (approximately 1 course per semester for MA and PhD students within the research interest of the post holder),
· Conduct innovative and impactful research that pushes the boundaries of the field, collaborating with students and colleagues to cultivate a vibrant research environment and mentor early-career researchers and postgraduate students,
· Maintain a strong and consistent publication output in leading international publication outlets (peer-reviewed journals, book publishers),
· Secure external research funding, lead collaborative projects, develop and submit competitive grant applications,
· Ensure practical relevance and societal impact of the research by contributing to policy development, engage proactively with non-academic audiences, including policymakers, practitioners, and media outlets, ensuring research is accessible and socially relevant,
· Participate in other activities of the ERA-AREAS project, including public outreach, communication with area studies departments at the Faculty of Arts, contribute to the implementation of the new organizational model for area studies—both in research and academic programmes—developed within the project, and actively foster collaboration among the area studies departments,
· The post holder will be formally associated to one of the area studies departments at the Faculty of Arts (Middle Eastern Studies, Asian Studies, East European Studies) based on his/her region of expertise. They will therefore be expected to participate in the activities of that department, · Cooperate with the ERA Chair Holder (Prof. Mariana Llanos), and the Project Coordinator (Prof. Karel Kouba).

We Offer:
· Full-time employment (40 hours per week)
· Permanent contract (indefinite period)
· Salary 3.500 - 4.000 EUR per month (take-home pay approx. 2.600-3.000 EUR)
· A dynamic and intellectually stimulating academic environment at one of the oldest and most prestigious universities in Central Europe
· Full access to the research infrastructure and resources of the Faculty of Arts, Charles University, including libraries, databases, and support services
· Opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration within the university and with partner institutions in the Czech Republic and abroad
· Employee Benefits at Charles University
· Office space located in the centre of Prague
· Relocation Support such as assistance with visa arrangements, housing, healthcare registration and other individual needs related to settling in
The successful candidate is expected to start on 1 April 2026.
The ERA-AREAS project is scheduled to conclude on 31 March 2030. However, the position of the CenMAS Leader will remain permanent, as CenMAS will continue its operations beyond the project's end. Its ongoing activities as well as the CenMAS Leader salary will be supported through external funding, which CenMAS will actively seek and apply for during the project's implementation phase.
Selection Process Timeline
- Candidate Questions Concerning the Recruitment Process: 1 August 2025 – 15 September 2025
- Deadline for submission of applications: 30 September 2025 at 23:59 CEST
- Pre-selection of candidates invited to online interview: 1 - 15 October 2025
- Online interviews: 16 – 31 October 2025
- Final shortlisting of candidates invited to in-person interview: 31 October 2025
- In-person interviews in Prague: 19 November 2025 Travel (economy class) and accommodation expenses will be provided by the ERA-AREAS project.
- Final decision: 15 December 2025

How to apply
To apply please submit the following documents to era-areas@ff.cuni.cz
Please specify the position you're applying for in the email subject.
- Curriculum Vitae
- A cover letter (supporting statement), which explains why you are applying for the post and provides evidence of how your qualifications, skills, and experience meet the selection criteria outlined above. This includes experience gained in education or employment. Particular reference should be made to your research plans within the scope of the ERA-AREAS project (max. 2 pages)
- List of Publications and Research Outputs (including peer-reviewed articles, books, conference presentations, etc.)
- Contact details for two persons available to provide references (these might be contacted as part of the selection process)

Project-Specific Criteria
- In accordance with the Horizon Europe Work Programme 2023–2025 – Widening Participation and Strengthening the European Research Area, no more than 50% of the appointed team members may have had previous contractual links with Charles University. Therefore, preference will be given to candidates from outside the university.
- Charles University is committed to promoting equal opportunities and fostering a diverse, inclusive, and respectful academic environment. In line with its institutional policies, the university actively supports gender balance and particularly encourages applications from female candidates. We welcome applications from all qualified individuals regardless of age, race, ethnicity, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, disability, religion, or any other characteristic protected by applicable law.
- The selection process includes a due diligence review to ensure compliance with resilience and sanctions-related provisions under both international and national legislation.

If you would like to discuss this job post and find out more please contact the Project Coordinator Prof. Karel Kouba and Project HR Manager Petra Koubová (era-areas@ff.cuni.cz). All enquiries will be treated in strict confidence and will not form part of the selection decision. Questions should be emailed between 1 August and 15 September 2025.

As English is the official language of the selection process, all documents submitted by applicants, as well as all communication, must be conducted in English.

By submitting your application, you consent to the processing of your personal data by Charles University for the purposes of the recruitment process, in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council (General Data Protection Regulation – GDPR). Your data will be processed solely for the purpose of evaluating your application and will not be shared with third parties without your consent.

The project ERA Chair in Multidisciplinary Area Studies (ERA-AREAS), Project No. 101185327, is funded by the European Union under the Horizon Europe program.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: 9/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15724

Charles University

Rank: Researcher in Comparative Area Studies (Postdoctoral level)
Specializations: East Asia, Middle East, Post Communist Europe

The Faculty of Arts, Charles University (Prague, Czech Republic) is seeking a postdoctoral researcher in comparative area studies. As part of the project funded by Horizon Europe (ERA Chair in Multidisciplinary Area Studies, ERA-AREAS), this post holder will participate in the newly created Center for Multidisciplinary Area Studies (CenMAS). The applicant will work closely with the ERA Chair holder, Prof Mariana Llanos, and the research group leader. The applicants are expected to focus on one of five regional specializations: Middle Eastern studies, Asian studies, East European studies, African studies, Latin American studies.

The Faculty of Arts belongs among the largest and longest-established centers for area studies research and instruction in Central and Eastern Europe, covering all global regions in its research. By engaging in the ERA-AREAS project, it seeks to strengthen its area studies programs focused on non-European global regions and Eastern Europe. We invite applications from scholars within area studies whose research demonstrates strong regional expertise and a commitment to addressing globally significant issues through a social science lens. The ideal candidate will employ comparative methodologies and actively engage in disciplinary debates within area studies on critical current events from a comparative perspective. While the specific disciplinary focus of the applicants is secondary (gravitating towards the loosely defined core of sociology, political science, economics, contemporary history or anthropology), the researcher is expected to engage in research of the causes and consequences of contemporary crises in global regions which include, in particular, political crises, economic shocks, coups, democratic breakdowns, social protests, early government terminations, threats to democracies, and outbursts of political violence.

Essential criteria
· Proven experience with approaches that compare contexts within or across global regions, including the ability to combine deep contextual knowledge of specific global regions with comparative methods (qualitative or quantitative) to identify causal linkages,
· Demonstrated capacity to apply social science research methods to area studies, moving beyond traditional linguistic-cultural approaches while avoiding purely universalist, theory-driven models of explanation,
· A completed Ph.D. (or an internationally recognized equivalent) in a relevant social science discipline, obtained no more than five years prior to the application deadline (excluding eligible career breaks such as parental leave, military service, serious illness, or other legally recognized interruptions)
· High proficiency in spoken and written English, Czech language proficiency is not required,
· Language skills adequate for deep contextual understanding of the given global region,
· An international publication record in an area studies field appropriate for the postdoctoral-level position,
· A well-developed and ambitious research agenda featuring regionally grounded social science work that addresses global issues using comparative approaches,
· Advanced knowledge of area studies methodologies and social science research techniques, especially the ability to utilize comparative methods of causal inference to uncover the determinants and consequences of critical contemporary events,
· We expect a broader expertise in a global region that extends beyond the study of a single country or community and that spans multiple national contexts,
· Proven ability to work collaboratively across disciplinary boundaries, supporting multidisciplinary dialogue and research,

Desirable Criteria
· Engaging with research that involves cross-region comparisons to other global regions than those which constitute the thrust of the applicant's expertise (that is Middle East, Asia, Eastern Europe, Latin America and Africa),
- Evidence of research impact beyond academia, including engagement with policymakers, practitioners, or civil society,
- The ability to present research findings to broader public though media and public outreach. Limited travel budget will be available for academic conferences.
- A history of successful research grant applications and a clear potential to attract further research funding.

Your Responsibilities
· The postdoctoral researchers will form part of a multidisciplinary and cross-regional research team (Center for Multidisciplinary Area Studies) guided by a single overarching analytic theme, composed of other newly hired postdoctoral researchers and current researchers at the Faculty Arts area studies departments,
· Contribute to the scientific goal of the project by analyzing the causes and consequences of critical current events from a methodologically rigorous and comparative perspective,
· Limited teaching duties (approximately 1 course per semester for MA and PhD students within the research interest of the post holder),
· Conduct innovative and impactful research that pushes the boundaries of the field, collaborating with students and colleagues to cultivate a vibrant research environment,
· Maintain a strong and consistent publication output in leading international publication outlets (peer – reviewed journals, book publishers),
· Secure external research funding, engage in further collaborative projects, develop and submit competitive grant applications,
· Ensure practical relevance and societal impact of the research by contributing to policy development, engage proactively with non-academic audiences, including policymakers, practitioners, and media outlets, ensuring research is accessible and socially relevant,
· Participate in other activities of the ERA-AREAS project, including public outreach, communication with area studies departments at the Faculty of Arts,
· The post holder will be formally associated to one of the area studies departments at the Faculty of Arts (Middle Eastern Studies, Asian studies, East European, Ibero-American studies) based on his/her region of expertise. They will therefore be expected to participate in the activities of that department, · Cooperate with the ERA Chair Holder (Prof. Mariana Llanos), the Project Coordinator (Prof. Karel Kouba), and the CenMAS research group leader.

We Offer:
· Full-time employment (40 hours per week)
· Fixed-term position for a period of two years, with the possibility of extension
· Salary 2.000-2.600 EUR per month (take-home pay approx. 1.600-2.040 EUR)
· A dynamic and intellectually stimulating academic environment at one of the oldest and most prestigious universities in Central Europe
· Full access to the research infrastructure and resources of the Faculty of Arts, Charles University, including libraries, databases, and support services
· Opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration within the university and with partner institutions in the Czech Republic and abroad
· Employee Benefits at Charles University
· Office space located in the centre of Prague
· Relocation Support such as assistance with visa arrangements, housing, healthcare registration and other individual needs related to settling in

The successful candidate is expected to start on 1 April 2026.

The ERA-AREAS project will end on 31 March 2030, but CenMAS will continue operating with external funding. The researcher can remain at the faculty if they secure a grant for further financing.
Selection Process Timeline

- Candidate Questions Concerning the Recruitment Process: 1 August 2025 – 15 September 2025

Deadline for submission of applications: 30 September 2025 at 23:59 CEST

- Pre-selection of candidates invited to online interview: 15 October 2025
- Online interviews: 16 – 31 October 2025
- Final decision: 15 November 2025

How to apply
To apply please submit the following documents to era-areas@ff.cuni.cz

Please specify the position you're applying for in the email subject.

- Curriculum Vitae
- A cover letter (supporting statement), which explains why you are applying for the post and provides evidence of how your qualifications, skills, and experience meet the selection criteria outlined above. This includes experience gained in education or employment. Particular reference should be made to your research plans within the scope of the ERA-AREAS project (max. 2 pages)
- List of Publications and Research Outputs (including peer-reviewed articles, books, conference presentations, etc.)
- Contact details for two persons available to provide references (these might be contacted as part of the selection process)

Project-Specific Criteria

- In accordance with the Horizon Europe Work Programme 2023–2025 – Widening Participation and Strengthening the European Research Area, no more than 50% of the appointed team members may have had previous contractual links with Charles University. Therefore, preference will be given to candidates from outside the university.
- Charles University is committed to promoting equal opportunities and fostering a diverse, inclusive, and respectful academic environment. In line with its institutional policies, the university actively supports gender balance and particularly encourages applications from female candidates. We welcome applications from all qualified individuals regardless of age, race, ethnicity, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, disability, religion, or any other characteristic protected by applicable law.
- The selection process includes a due diligence review to ensure compliance with resilience and sanctions-related provisions under both international and national legislation.

If you would like to discuss this job post and find out more please contact the Project Coordinator Prof. Karel Kouba and Project HR Manager Petra Koubová (era-areas@ff.cuni.cz). All enquiries will be treated in strict confidence and will not form part of the selection decision. Questions should be emailed between 1 August and 15 September 2025.

Questions regarding the application process should be emailed between 1 August 2025 and 15 September 2025.

As English is the official language of the selection process, all documents submitted by applicants, as well as all communication, must be conducted in English.

By submitting your application, you consent to the processing of your personal data by Charles University for the purposes of the recruitment process, in accordance with Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of the European Parliament and of the Council (General Data Protection Regulation – GDPR). Your data will be processed solely for the purpose of evaluating your application and will not be shared with third parties without your consent.

The project ERA Chair in Multidisciplinary Area Studies (ERA-AREAS), Project No. 101185327, is funded by the European Union under the Horizon Europe programme.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: 9/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: $30,000 - $39,999
eJobs ID: 15725

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Short-term Visiting Fellowships, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Fellow

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00003

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for advanced or mid-career scholars from any discipline whose research projects focused on Latin America, including Brazil or the Caribbean. Applications will be accepted from scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established Latin American writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on research or creative projects who may benefit from a short stay at Princeton University.

Appointments will be for one calendar month during the 2026-2027 academic year (September 1, 2026, to June 30, 2027) or the summer (July and August), to be determined on a case-by-case basis. In addition to a stipend, the program will provide up to $2,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. The work location for these positions is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 12, 2025. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38403

1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the calendar month the applicant proposes to stay), title and short description of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
3) A statement (in English) describing the research project as well as the ways Princeton resources and/or faculty will be useful for the project (1,000-1500 words);
4) The names and contact information of two referees. (The Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Expected Salary Range: $5,000 per month

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15709

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Visiting Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Research Scholar

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00002

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with an opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects related to Latin America.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate regularly in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are expected to be for one or two semesters during the 2026-2027 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2026 - January 16, 2027; spring semester: January 16, 2026 - June 1, 2027). In addition to salary, the program will provide up to $7,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. If teaching, the visitor would be paid at a nominally higher rate.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 12, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38402

1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title and short description of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
2) Curriculum vitae;
3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how the course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 - 2,000 words);
5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Advanced degree preferred.

Expected Salary Range: $49,250 per semester

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15710

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Department of Government and Law and the International Affairs Program at Lafayette College invite applications for a shared tenure-track position in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar whose teaching and research focus on the politics of development in the Global South, with expertise in topics such as, but not limited to, political economy, global inequality, and/or international organizations. Preference will be given to candidates with a regional focus in South Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA). Acknowledging the vibrant diversity of studies of socioeconomic transformations in the Global South, we welcome innovative theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate that the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach introductory as well as intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise for the Government and Law Department and the International Affairs Program and is expected to maintain an active research agenda. The Department and Program especially welcome applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170245. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Professor Seo-Hyun Park (parksh@lafayette.edu) and Professor Caleb Gallemore (gallemoc@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15661

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program
Subfield(s): Open, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) at Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program for the 2026-27 academic year. As a leading global institution in interdisciplinary research on international issues, PIIRS is dedicated to advancing innovative scholarship that addresses the world's most pressing challenges. The PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellows Program is integral to that mission.

We will award two postdoctoral fellowships to our 2026-27 cohort. PIIRS seeks recent PhDs in the Social Sciences who have demonstrated exceptional scholarship, congruent with the Institute's intellectual focus, that simultaneously advances theoretical debates in their disciplinary field; creatively speaks to and engages with a multidisciplinary audience; and deepens substantive regional knowledge of specific places.

Appointments are for one year (12 months) with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding. Postdoctoral Research Associates (PDRAs) are expected to be in residence at Princeton or the local vicinity for the entire academic year or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. The position requires PDRAs to be on campus at least four days per week.

Leveraging Princeton's scholarly resources, fellows will focus on research, expand their intellectual horizons, and prepare work for publication. They will have biweekly meetings with the faculty director to share their work, and monthly meetings with faculty fellows from various social sciences to present their work and learn from others. Fellows are also encouraged to engage with colleagues and attend departmental seminars.

Applicants must demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and promise. To be eligible, applicants generally cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, at the beginning of the academic year on September 1, 2026.

The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' scholarly record; the promise of the proposed research; and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the postdoctoral program (with interest in connecting with other PIIRS and Princeton departments on campus).

In addition to a competitive salary, benefits, and housing subsidy, the program will provide the Fellow with the opportunity to host a small, pre-publication, book workshop; and a research fund of $4,000 per year.
Applicants must apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39141. Applications are due by September 15, 2025 (11:59 p.m. EST). The following application items should be uploaded by the applicant:

*Cover letter
*Curriculum vitae
*Transcripts
*Research Proposal indicating plans for two-year postdoc (maximum 5 pages double-spaced)
*Dissertation abstract (including Table of Contents)
*Writing sample: one chapter of the dissertation or one published article related to dissertation topic.
*Document confirming either that you have completed all requirements for the PhD degree or a letter signed by your dissertation advisor indicating that you will complete the PhD by the start date of the fellowship.
*The names and email addresses of three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline.

Further information can be found at https://piirs.princeton.edu/funding-fellowships/piirs-postdoctoral-fellows.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 7/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15652

University of Oxford

Rank: Associate Professor of International Business
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, International Relations
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

Saïd Business School and St Antony's College are recruiting an Associate Professor of International Business. For this post, the School welcomes applications from early career candidates (i.e., scholars who have completed or will very soon complete their PhD), postdoctoral researchers (i.e., scholars who are currently in a postdoc position), and faculty who are already a tenure-track faculty member. At Oxford the rank of Associate Professor includes faculty that would elsewhere be considered of Assistant or Associate Professor rank.

The position is tenable from 1 September 2026 or at a different date by negotiation. The position is associated with a non-tutorial fellowship at St Antony's College.

We are inviting applications from those with a background in International Business, broadly defined, who are committed to a programme of intellectually rigorous and relevant scholarship in global strategy, comparative political economy of business, and international political economy, that is publishable in top academic management journals (as defined, for instance, by the Financial Times's 48 peer-reviewed academic journals), top social science journals and as books with top academic publishers.

The successful candidate will join the International Business group which conducts research addressing pressing global issues, such as sustainability and labour standards in global value chains, innovation in emerging markets, digital transformation (including the adoption of artificial intelligence) and future of work, and state capacity and its implication for business. The group takes a distinct multi-level perspective to studying the political economy of international business. An important focus of the group, therefore, is to study how system-level institutions affect, and are affected by, organizational strategies, management and politics. Many of the group members engage actively with colleagues from other parts of Oxford in formal and informal research collaborations. The group is also committed to mixed methods in research, ranging from qualitative methods to experimental and quantitative methods. We therefore strongly encourage applicants from any methodological background as we continue to broaden the methodological interests of our group.

The duties for this post include research, teaching and service to the business school, college and wider University. Full details of the duties can be found at the link below.

If you would like to discuss this post and find out more about joining the academic community at Oxford, please contact akshay.mangla@sbs.ox.ac.uk

All enquiries will be treated in strict confidence and will not form part of the selection decision.

To apply, please follow this link: https://my.corehr.com/pls/uoxrecruit/erq_jobspec_version_4.display_form?p_company=10&p_internal_external=E&p_display_in_irish=N&p_process_type=&p_applicant_no=&p_form_profile_detail=&p_display_apply_ind=Y&p_refresh_search=Y&p_recruitment_id=178440

The closing date for applications is 12.00 noon (UK time) on Monday 29 September 2025

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/29/2025
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15636

National University of Singapore

Rank: Head of Department position (Full Professor level with tenure)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for the position of Head of Department at the rank of full professor or higher (endowed chair professor). Research and teaching specialisation is open, although candidates should contribute to one or more of the Department's four subfields: comparative politics, governance and public policy, international relations, and political theory.

The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a demonstrable commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership to implement a strategic vision, with the support of department faculty, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Interested candidates should submit a CV, cover letter that addresses the qualifications outlined above, research statement (approx. two pages), teaching statement (approx. two pages), and names and addresses of at least four references.

Review of applications will begin in August 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Campus visits for selected candidates will be arranged for October 2025. The position is expected to commence in January 2027. Questions about the position should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor William Bain (wbain@nus.edu.sg).

Exceptional candidates at the rank of senior associate professor are welcome to apply, subject to being promoted to full professor upon appointment at NUS.

The Department of Political Science is a vibrant multidisciplinary community comprised of over 25 tenure- and educator-track faculty members. The Department offers degrees in Political Science and Global Studies at the undergraduate level and in Political Science at the Masters and Doctoral levels. It also partners with the International Political Science Association (IPSA) to host the IPSA-NUS Summer School in Social Science Research Methods annually. It is one of 16 departments in a large Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, which is home to a comprehensive range of programmes in Asian Studies, Humanities, Social Science, and Language Studies. The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Asia Research Institute, the Asia-Europe Foundation, the East Asian Institute, the ISEAS–Yusof Ishak Institute, among other research units inside and outside NUS, provide additional opportunities for research interaction and collaboration.

NUS offers an internationally competitive remuneration package that includes a period of subsidised housing (for non-Singaporean applicants), annual performance bonus, medical benefits, and relocation expenses (where applicable). Outstanding applicants might also be considered for endowed/chair professorship that comes with annual research support and business class travel eligibility. NUS provides significant research support, including generous start-up grants for new faculty members.

Please submit your application through the NUS Career Portal : https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Professor-&-Head-of-Department-%28Political-Science%29/29011-en_GB/

Qualifications
The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a strong commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership in co-creating with department faculty to implement a strategic vision, consistent with NUS' research and teaching mission, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/27/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15591

National University of Singapore
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites application for one full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor. We welcome applications from candidates working in all subfields, including but not limited to international relations (including non-traditional security and human security), international political economy, gender politics, global studies, and governance and public policy. We also encourage applications from candidates with research experience relating to Asia and whose backgrounds are traditionally underrepresented in the discipline.

The teaching load is three courses per academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonus and salary increment, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support. Successful candidates are expected to teach graduate and undergraduate classes and take a leading role in developing new departmental initiatives. Candidates with publications in top outlets who conduct innovative and impactful research using, eg. computational methods, may also be invited to apply for the Presidential Young Professorship. https://www.nus.edu.sg/careers/nus-programmes/

The Department of Political Science (http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/) includes scholars working in all areas of political science, as well as an interdisciplinary Global Studies programme examining the processes and effects of globalisation across political, economic, social, and cultural domains (https://fass.nus.edu.sg/globalstudies). Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation, the Institute of South Asian Studies, the East Asia Institute, and the Yusof Ishak Institute—Institute of Southeast Asian Studies among others. NUS (http://www.nus.edu.sg/) is a global leader in research and higher education. Singapore is a highly livable global city that is a major regional and international travel hub.

Interested applicants are invited to apply directly at our NUS Career Portal: https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Assistant-Professor-in-Political-Science/28742-en_GB/ .

Applicants should submit the following documents:

1. Cover letter clearly detailing their research and teaching interests.
2. Curriculum vitae.
3. Three letters of reference. Please send all letters directly to pol-ir@nus.edu.sg .
4. A research statement of no more than 2 pages stating your research interests and research plans for the next 3 years.
5. A teaching statement of no more than 2 pages, as well as sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and/or other evidence of teaching quality.
6. Up to three writing samples

For full consideration, please submit your materials to this website by 1 July 2025. Applications received after this date may still be considered until the position is filled.

For any queries, please write to: pol-ir@nus.edu.sg.

Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15580

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in Fall 2025. Candidates should have expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The Department seeks applicants who can offer intermediate courses in European politics, international relations theory and/or international organization. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program or teach introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach in a 6-6-7 course rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or be advanced ABD in political science at the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia

Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College at http://apply.interfolio.com/161830. Review of applications will begin February 15, 2025.

Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning." As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse staff committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 2/15/2025
Date Posted: 1/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15335

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

George Washington University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science and International Affairs

Description Summary

Security studies: The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs and Department of Political Science invite applications for a full-time, tenured faculty position in security studies at the level of associate or full professor beginning as early as Fall 2026. We are seeking faculty with a strong track record of research, teaching, and policy engagement in the field of security studies, broadly defined. The position will be based in the Elliott School's Institute for Security and Conflict Studies and affiliated with the M.A. program in Security Policy Studies. Successful candidates will be jointly appointed in the GW Political Science Department. Teaching responsibilities would include courses for undergraduate and graduate students in the Elliott School and Political Science Department.

Minimum qualifications: A Ph.D. in political science or closely related field (such as government, politics, public policy, or international relations) with a primary focus on security. Applicants must have a strong publication record, an active research agenda, substantial teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels, a track record of external funding, and a demonstrated record of engagement with the broader academic and policy communities.

Advertised Salary: Associate salary range: $150,000-$175,000; Full salary range: $225,000-$275,000.

Health Benefits: GW offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, life & disability insurance, time off & leave, retirement savings, tuition, well-being and various voluntary benefits. For program details and eligibility, please visit https://hr.gwu.edu/benefits-programs.

Special Instructions To Applicants

Application procedure: Applicants should complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/122147 and upload a cover letter, CV, and 2-3 page research statement outlining past accomplishments and future research plans. Applicants selected for an interview will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 27, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Successful Completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

EEO Statement: The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/27/2025
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16026

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, International Security

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in International Relations, to begin in August 2026. This is a broad search seeking scholars of exceptional promise in any area of IR.

We are especially interested in candidates whose work engages with International Organizations, International Institutions and International Relations theory, but scholars in all IR research areas are encouraged to apply. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work combines strong theoretical contributions with rigorous empirical analysis and engages broader debates in international politics.

Classification Minimum Requirements:
Ph.D. in Political Science (or a closely related field) by time of appointment.

Evidence of high-quality scholarship or strong potential for publication in leading peer-reviewed journals of political science and international relations.

Ability to teach effectively at the graduate and undergraduate levels, including core courses in international relations.

Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. in Political Science (or a closely related field) by time of appointment.

Evidence of high-quality scholarship or strong potential for publication in leading peer-reviewed journals of political science and international relations.

Ability to teach effectively at the graduate and undergraduate levels, including core courses in international relations.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 24 and will continue until the position is filled. The application is available here: https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/537287/assistant-professor-of-international-relations

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16019

American University in Cairo

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations Theory - The American University in Cairo

Location: Cairo, Egypt Category: Political Science Posted On: Thu Jul 17 2025 Job Description:
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in International Relations starting Fall 2026. This is a tenure-track position. We invite applications at the Assistant/Associate Professor level. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in the fields of theories of international relations including critical international relations theory, global governance and security studies. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA levels within the Department of Political Science. It also involves MA theses supervisions. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to equal opportunity and a diverse faculty.

Job Requirements:
A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing research and publication program and teaching experience. In addition to research and teaching, responsibilities include service to the Department and the University. Note also that candidates with experience in and familiarity with the North American higher education system are preferred.

Additional Information:
Priority will be given to applications received by October 30, 2025. The position is open until filled.

Apply Here: https://www.click2apply.net/kN5jB6fDPR2BefXmRi2VmO

PI278360780

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/26/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16003

The Ohio State University

Rank: Mershon Peace Chair
Subfield(s): International Relations, Administration, Other

Department:
Arts and Sciences | The Mershon Center

The Mershon Center for International Security Studies at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenured position in peace and conflict studies at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The selected candidate will hold the prestigious Mershon Chair in Peace Studies. This is a joint appointment, with a 50% commitment to the Mershon Center and a 50% appointment in a disciplinary department, which will serve as the tenure home, within the College of Arts & Sciences.

We are seeking a scholar with both a record of accomplishments and an active research agenda, who will build on Mershon's existing peacebuilding program to make Ohio State a leader in research, teaching, and engagement in this field.

The successful candidate will bring original scholarly insight to the legacies of violence and the dynamics of conflict transformation as these interact with development, governance, geopolitics, environmental and demographic change, social movements, or other issues. Candidates may be trained in any relevant social science or humanities discipline, but should demonstrate specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation international field experience – through research, engagement, and/or experiential learning – in conflict-affected settings the ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment familiarity with responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations.

The candidate will have a 50% teaching load, offering peace studies courses in their home department. As Peace Chair they will have substantial time and resources for individual and collaborative research. Funding and staff support are available for the creation of public-facing and community engagement initiatives, study-abroad experiences, or other projects. The Peace Chair will work with the Mershon Associate Director for Peacebuilding Research to support and develop Ohio State's interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies curriculum.

Performance Objectives
- Develop and maintain a productive, innovative research program
- Design and teach courses in peace studies at the general education, specialized, and graduate levels
- Demonstrate excellence in mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities
- Lead and work with Mershon staff and affiliates to develop and carry out local, national, and/or international community collaborations in peacebuilding and conflict transformation
- Support Mershon Center and home departmental operations as an active citizen through service on committees, project assignments, and/or administrative leadership roles

Education and Experience Requirements

Required:
- PhD in relevant social science or humanities discipline
- Specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation
- Record of distinguished, original scholarly accomplishment in this field
- International field experience in conflict-affected settings
- The ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment
- An understanding of responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations
- A record of accomplished teaching, especially of undergraduates
- A record of mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities

Desired:
- Capacity to bridge practice and theory, for instance through experience with peacebuilding, mediation, or restorative efforts
- Attention to the multilevel/multiscalar dimensions of peace and conflict dynamics
- A robust international network among scholars and practitioners in peace and conflict studies
- Experience in academic program-building
- Experience with public-facing research and programming

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically via https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Mershon-Peace-Chair_R136263-1

Application period closes 10/31/2025. Application materials submitted in Workday must include

- Attachment 1: Cover Letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
- Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
- Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member, with an emphasis on your vision of a direction for peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring, with your vision for teaching peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 5: A writing sample.

Candidates selected to move forward in the process will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16005

Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Thomas J. Watson Jr. School of International and Public Affairs and Department of Political Science 2026-2028

Description
The Watson School for International and Public Affairs and the Department of Political Science at Brown University invite applications for a two-year joint Postdoctoral Research Associate position beginning in the Fall of 2026.

Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Watson's unique structure - including scholars from a wide range of disciplines who are also appointed in partner departments - allows post-docs to benefit from both a broad academic community while remaining closely connected with top scholars within their discipline, thus allowing them to pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the School. Postdoctoral Research Associates will also teach one seminar course per year of up to nineteen students as well as present a work in progress to an interdisciplinary group.

The selection process, open with regard to nationality and geographic area of research, is highly competitive; we anticipate selecting 1-2 scholars within this particular search. Applicants must have received their Ph.D. since September 1, 2024 or intend to receive their Ph.D. before July 1, 2026. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows or postdoctoral research associates in other programs are not eligible to apply. Watson Post-Docs will receive a competitive salary, for this benefits-eligible position. Additional funding will be made available for research expenses and research-related programming on campus.

Qualifications
This postdoctoral position offers early-career scholars the opportunity to pursue independent research while engaging with leading faculty across both the Watson School for International and Public Affairs and the political science department. An ideal applicant will focus on topics relating to interstate conflict, including but not limited to nuclear weapons, major power politics, crisis decision-making, diplomacy, and/or Chinese foreign policy. Applicants applying any type of social science methodology (qualitative, quantitative or experimental) are welcome. Successful applicants will have opportunities to work collaboratively with faculty during their fellowship.

Application Instructions
To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 15th to the application portal: https://apply.interfolio.com/171860
A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear how the candidate will thrive in and contribute to Watson's interdisciplinary environment, as well as how they would contribute to the research and/or teaching missions of our diverse and inclusive living-learning community

An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

A copy of each graduate transcript.

A writing sample, preferably an article or dissertation chapter

Three confidential letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 16th; to receive full consideration applications should be received before that date. Awards will be announced by January 31, 2026.

For further information regarding the Watson Postdoctoral Program, please visit the Watson School website (watson.brown.edu) or contact:

Professor Rose McDermott, Faculty Director of the Watson Postdoctoral Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. School for International and Public Affairs, Brown University, 111 Thayer Street, Box 1970 Providence, RI 02912. Rose_Mcdermott@brown.edu.

For information about the application process, please email: Watson_Applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15983

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: CFR 2026-27 International Affairs Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, International Political Economy

The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking applicants for its four 2026-27 International Affairs Fellowship programs. These transformational programs enable U.S. citizens who are mid-career professionals with a demonstrated interest in foreign policy to gain experience in a new environment in the United States, Europe, Indonesia, and Japan, or at an international organization. Selected fellows broaden their perspective on foreign affairs by working in a policymaking setting or by conducting research in an academic environment.

Applications are being accepted through October 31, 2025, for all four fellowships. To learn more about each program, or to apply, visit cfr.org/fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15991

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Science & Technology

The School of Foreign Service (SFS) at Georgetown University seeks qualified applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor in security studies. The successful candidate will serve as a core faculty member of the Security Studies Program (SSP) of the SFS.

Ideal candidates will have an active research agenda in a key aspect of security studies. Disciplinary specialization is open, and includes international relations, political science, history, economics, and public policy. Area of expertise is also open, and includes topics such as great-power politics, strategic studies, technology and security, military history, and the economics of security. Competitive candidates will have a Ph.D. in international security or a related field, and be prepared to teach core security courses as well as more specialized courses in their areas of expertise.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and available material on teaching record, including syllabi and course evaluations.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link https://apply.interfolio.com/174027 . Applications will be accepted until October 17, 2025. Invited interviews will occur shortly thereafter. It is expected that the appointed candidate will join the Georgetown faculty at the beginning of the fall semester, 2026.

Questions about the online application should be directed to Lauren Bauschard, Director of Faculty Affairs, at lb1230@georgetown.edu. Questions about the position should be directed to Professor Charles Kupchan, the search committee chair, at kupchanc@georgetown.edu.

The projected salary range for this position is $103,678 - $115,281, which represents the full range of anticipated compensation for this position. Compensation is determined by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the candidate's individual qualifications, experience, education, skills, and certifications, as well as the University's business needs and external factors.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15980

Stanford University

Rank: International Relations, Senior Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University seeks applicants for a senior appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The preferred area of specialty is International Relations. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in a related field and will be expected to teach and advise students at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494912/international-relations-senior-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science) and submit
-a cover letter
-curriculum vitae (including a publication list)
-teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages)
-teaching evaluations

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for this position is for academic year 2025-26:
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 6th, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15985

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Assistant Professor

Summary of Job Duties:
The Assistant Professor of Political Science will teach a variety of undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, as well as teaching the program's two courses in the university's core curriculum, American National Government and Intro to International Politics. Teaching will include both face-to-face and online course modes. The successful candidate will advise undergraduate students. The successful candidate will conduct and publish scholarly research. Research activities may include community engagement and applied research publications. This position will participate in faculty governance in the School of Public Affairs, the College of Humanities, Arts, Social Sciences, and Education, and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. This position is governed by state and federal laws, and agency/institution policy.

Qualifications:

Required Education and/or Experience:

Ph.D. in Political Science with a field or emphasis in either comparative politics or international relations;
ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment.

Preferred Education and/or Experience:

Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential.

Job Duties and Responsibilities

Teach undergraduate courses in the School of Public Affairs;

Advise undergraduate students regarding their programs of study and degree progress;
Conduct scholarly and applied research;
Serve on committees as part of faculty governance at the school, college, and university levels;
Other duties as assigned by the Director of the School of Public Affairs.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

Knowledge of either comparative politics or international relations as a field of teaching, research, and service;
Teaching skills;
Ability to advise students in their program of study and about career opportunities;
Ability to conduct scholarly research;
Ability to work with external stakeholder groups for the purpose of community engagement;
Ability to work with faculty and staff in a collegial manner to engage in faculty governance and accomplish goals.

Additional Information: We are hiring for two positions with the same job description. Candidates are strongly encouraged to submit applications for both to maximize their opportunity of being selected, using the following two links.

Apply at https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077139

https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077134

Salary Information:
Commensurate with education and experience

Required Documents to Apply:
Cover Letter/Letter of Application, Curriculum Vitae, List of three Professional References (name, email, business title)

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15988

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (Security Studies)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Assistant Professor, Comparative Security Studies
The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning assistant professor in comparative security studies anticipated to begin August 2026.

The ideal candidate will have a well-developed research agenda that focuses on areas such as contentious political behavior, political violence, regime instability, democratic backsliding, authoritarian regimes, human security, civil wars, civil-military relations, or other security studies subfields. The ideal candidate will have an ability to teach courses in security studies at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will be expected to contribute to the Security Studies PhD program. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.
For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.
UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

Minimum qualifications:
A doctorate in Political Science, Security Studies, or International Affairs (or a closely related field) from an accredited institution at the time of appointment is required.

Preference will be given to candidates who
- have a demonstrated record of high-quality publications in security studies
- have a promising research agenda that reflects theoretical creativity and empirical sophistication
- have a record of, or potential for, external research funding as appropriate for the discipline
- can teach courses related to comparative security at the undergraduate and graduate levels
- can teach qualitative and/or quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels
- can contribute to the Security Studies PhD program through doctoral student supervision

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names, phone numbers, and email addresses for three professional references (please do not submit reference letters).

NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.

The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to Mehmet Gurses, Search Committee Chair, at Mehmet.Gurses@ucf.edu

Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All application materials must be submitted before the October 17, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15987

CUNY-City College of New York

Rank: Professor and Director of the Masters Program in International Affairs

The City College of New York Political Science Department seeks a dynamic scholar for an open-rank (tenure track or tenured) professor who will also serve as the director of its Master's Program in International Affairs (MIA).

As a professor in City College's Political Science department, the successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate classes in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics. In addition to teaching, the candidate will serve as Academic Director of the MIA program providing visionary academic leadership and strategic vision and oversee curricular development, scheduling, admissions oversight, student advisement, and external relations for the program. The successful candidate will receive two course releases per academic year as compensation for administrative duties.

QUALIFICATIONS

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor: Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution or equivalent. Must demonstrate the ability to teach successfully, have a record of scholarship or professional achievement, and the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues and contribute to institutional goals.

Preferred Qualifications

An outstanding track record of academic research and teaching experience in the field of International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates also need to have experience and/or demonstrable potential in leading an academic program.

Salary is competitive based on rank and experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Only applications submitted through CUNYfirst will be considered for this position.

If you are viewing this job posting in CUNYfirst, please click on "Apply Now" on the bottom of this page and follow the instructions.

If you are viewing this job posting externally, please apply as follows:

· Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"

· Click "Search job listings"

· Click on "More options to search for CUNY jobs"

· Search for Job Opening ID number 31052

· Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions.

Applications, including the following must be uploaded to the CUNYfirst job application website as a single PDF document:

1. Cover letter;

2. Curriculum Vitae;

3. Writing Sample

In addition, please send three letters of recommendation to jroman@ccny.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

The committee will begin reviewing applications on October 30th 2025, but the position will remain open until filled.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Di

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15973

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Conflict Management
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Conflict Management in the School of Conflict Management, Peacebuilding, and Development, with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia. For a full description of this position and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289900.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15968

University of London, SOAS

Rank: Assistant Professor / Associate Professor position focused on the Politics of China

Job title: Assistant Professor / Associate Professor positions focused on the Politics of China
Department: Politics and International Studies
Contract Type: Full-Time (Permanent)
Salary: Grade 8/Ac3 - 9/Ac4 - Lecturer (£51,902.57 - £61,048.57), Senior Lecturer (£62,738.57 - £71,981.57) p/a incl. London Allowance
Location: Bloomsbury WC1H 0XG, London
Hours: 35 per week

SOAS University of London is the leading Higher Education institution in Europe specialising in the study of Asia, Africa and the Near and Middle East. SOAS University of London is positioned to play a leading role in re imagining higher education globally, with a new strategic plan in place as the basis for the renewal and revitalisation of the School which commits SOAS to both student responsiveness and research intensity. SOAS is moving towards a new model of international partnerships which is responsive to the transnational character of our global challenges

About the Role

The Department of Politics and International Studies is pleased to invite applications for a Lecturer (Assistant Professor) / Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor) position focused on the Politics of China.

The appointee will strengthen and work with the Department's active group of East Asia-focused scholars, contributing to—and shaping—the Department's research profile as well as delivery of our undergraduate and postgraduate degrees.

Apart from the publication of outstanding academic research, the role holder will convene and teach both general and specialist modules (individually and with others), advise both undergraduate and postgraduate dissertations, supervise PhD theses (pending completion of a probationary period), and provide pastoral care for students. The role holder will also be expected to work in a collegial and collaborative manner with both academic and non-academic staff across the Department and the School.

Alongside a thematic specialism and regional expertise focused on the politics of modern China, some experience running online modules?-and?executive education,?as well as engagement with non-academic audiences, will be beneficial.

You can find further information on the key criteria for the role in the Job Description and Person Specification, along with a full list of duties and responsibilities, which can be found on the SOAS website

About the Department:

Within SOAS, the Department of Politics and International Studies is a world-leading, research-led department, ranked 3rd globally for its outstanding "Academic Reputation" (QS World University Rankings 2025).

The Department of Politics and International Studies is currently one of the largest at SOAS. It is known for its research-based engagement with the political realities of Africa, Asia, and the Middle East, and for providing innovative and challenging perspectives on these realities.

Our academic staff, together with our research students, work across a wide spectrum of global, international, regional, and theoretical issues, including international security, international organisations, international political economy, diplomacy, and migration, as well as comparative political theory, the politics of regimes and resistance, cultural identity, urban politics, climate change, and violence.

We are an exceptionally diverse department with expertise in both quantitative and qualitative methodologies. Most of our faculty members have regional and theoretical interests, a command of one or more languages in the regions they study, and substantial fieldwork experience.

One of our core commitments lies in fostering a supportive learning environment for our students. There are currently about 1,250 students enrolled on the Department's on-campus degree programmes. The majority study for a BA in Politics (or Politics with another subject) or a BA in International Relations (or International Relations with another subject). In addition, the Department hosts three postgraduate programmes: MSc Politics and International Relations, MSc Global Energy and Climate Policy, and MA International Studies and Diplomacy. The Department also delivers the MA Global Diplomacy online programme.

N.b. Our MSc Politics and International Relations programme appeals to generalists as well as those with specific thematic and/or regional interests, offering distinctive pathways focused on Comparative Political Theory; International Politics and Security; Conflict, Rights, and Justice; and the Politics and International Relations of Africa; the Middle East; South Asia; Southeast Asia; East Asia; and Central Asia.

Nurturing multiple research-oriented events every week, the Department hosts interdisciplinary research centres/clusters focused on International Studies and Diplomacy as well as Comparative Political Thought; International Politics and Security; Conflict, Rights, and Justice; and (more generally) the politics and international relations of Asia; Africa; and the Middle East.

How to Apply: Please apply via the link : https://vacancies.soas.ac.uk/job/766564

Closing date: 15th November 2025 at 23:59

For informal inquiries please contact the Head of Department, Professor Matthew J. Nelson, at mn6@soas.ac.uk.

Further information:

Successful candidates will need to demonstrate their eligibility to work in the UK or have limited leave to remain in the UK and associated right to work for the duration of their employment with SOAS, in accordance with the Immigration, Asylum and Nationality Act 2006.

We may be able to offer sponsorship for candidates who do not currently possess the right to work in the UK.

We would particularly welcome applications from candidates from working class, first generation Higher Education, Black, Asian, other minority ethnic and underrepresented groups from within the UK and beyond. All appointment decisions will be made on merit, following a fair and competitive process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15967

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

Musashi University

Rank: Faculty Position in International Relations (Open Rank)
Specializations: International Security, Conflict Processes, Quantitative Methods

Position Description: The School of Liberal Arts and Sciences (SLAS) at Musashi University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time position (tenure-track or tenured) in International Relations, with a specialization in International Security. The successful candidate will play a central role in SLAS's Parallel Degree Programme (PDP) in partnership with the University of London (UoL), particularly through teaching contributions to the newly planned BSc in International Relations. We welcome applications from scholars with a strong research agenda and publication record in international security, and demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses in English.

Teaching Responsibilities: SLAS faculty members are responsible for teaching five "koma" per semester, with one "-koma" being a 105-minute class meeting per week. The teaching load for this position includes the following courses: International Relations: Theories, Concepts and Debates* (three "koma"), Security in International Relations* (three "koma"), Social Science Research Methods (two "koma"), and other undergraduate lectures or seminars (two "koma"). Courses marked with an asterisk (*) are part of the Parallel Degree Programme (PDP) with the University of London (UoL). For further details, please refer to:
- Musashi PDP (Japanese): https://www.musashi.ac.jp/manabi/parallel_degree_programme/gaiyou.html
- UoL BSc IR: https://www.london.ac.uk/study/courses/undergraduate/bsc-international-relations

Salary and Benefits: Salary and benefits will be determined in accordance with the university's salary regulations (based on the recommendations of the National Personnel Authority). Allowances are provided towards dependent care, housing, and commuting costs, as well as a fixed personal research stipend (200,000 yen); additional personal research expenses are covered up to a yearly maximum of 400,000 yen.

Research & Service Expectations: The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research agenda, participate in program development and administrative duties for the SLAS, the PDP, and the IR BSc program, and contribute to broader university service and interdisciplinary collaboration.

Tenure-Track Details (if applicable): The opening is for a Full-time (tenured or tenure-track) position. In the case of an appointment of a tenure-track lecturer (sennin-koshi in Japanese, equivalent to a tenure-track assistant professor in the US) or a tenure-track associate professor, the initial tenure-track appointment is for a three-year period during which a one-time-only decision about whether to confirm tenure will be made by the tenure committee. If the tenure-track appointee is eligible to take parental leave, in accordance with the relevant regulations for such leave, the period of appointment can be correspondingly extended. The decision on tenure will be made based on output in the areas of (1) research, (2) teaching, (3) university administration, and (4) other contributions to society, etc. Should tenure not be awarded, employment will terminate with the end of the tenure-track appointment period. However, where it is deemed necessary, the period of tenure-track employment may be extended once, for one year. Note that teaching loads and administrative obligations for tenure-track appointments remain as specified above.

Qualifications: 1) Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. program in political science, international relations, or a related field at the time of appointment. (2) Applicants must have the ability to effectively teach courses in English. (3) Japanese language proficiency is preferred but not required; intercultural competence and willingness to contribute to a Japanese university environment are essential.

Application Instructions: Applications must be received by October 17th (Friday), 2025 (JST). Selection may be conducted on a rolling basis, with submitted applications examined in the order they are received.

Applicants should submit the following documents to the recruitment committee by e-mail (job6@sec.musashi.ac.jp):
1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae including research activities and teaching experience
3. Reprints or photocopies of three research papers considered most relevant to the position
4. A 400-word English summary of each of the submitted papers
5. List of two referees (names, positions/titles, and email addresses). Emails will be sent to your referees requesting confidential letters, when needed.

*If you have ever been subject to disciplinary action due to sexual violence, including sexual harassment, you must clearly state the details of the disciplinary measure and the specific reason in the "Disciplinary Actions" section of your CV. Please note that failure to disclose such information or providing false information on your CV may result in the withdrawal of a job offer or disciplinary action.

Please submit all application documents (in principle in PDF format) in a zipped file (maximum 30MB). The name of the file should be "SubmissionDateName.zip" (all single-byte alphanumeric characters, no spaces).
Example: For submission on September 31: "0931JaneDoe.zip"
* Don't set passwords for files or folders.
* If your application exceeds 30MB in size, please contact us at the address below.

Interview & Selection Process: Candidates short-listed for interview may be required to submit further documentation, including copies of degree and other certificates as well as additional publications.

Review of application materials will be followed by a panel interview (short-listed candidates only). Details of subsequent stages of the appointment process will be explained to candidates who are successful at the interview stage.

Short-listed candidates will be notified of the interview schedule as early as possible. Only those who passed the second round of interview will be notified of the selection schedule after the second round.

The successful candidate will be informed in writing once a decision has been made. Remote interviews may be considered in exceptional cases where a candidate is based overseas or has difficulty attending an interview in person. Please contact us at the address below for details.

Contact: Written queries should be made via e-mail (job6@sec.musashi.ac.jp).

All application materials will be treated in the utmost confidence. Personal information therein will be used only for the selection of candidates applying for the current position and subsequently, where applicable, for necessary personnel, salary, or welfare-related paperwork; it will be used for no other purposes.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15958

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB @YALE: POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE, AY 2026-2027

The Identity & Conflict Lab (ICL) at Yale University, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis, invites applications from exceptional candidates for a Postdoctoral Associate position for the 2026-2027 academic year. This opportunity is for a one-year, full-time residential postdoctoral research fellowship, with the possibility of renewal conditional on successful performance. The appointment begins on July 1, 2026.

Housed in the MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the ICL addresses a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict and identity politics. The ICL analyzes how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and how policy interventions can reduce inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are of interest to the work of the lab – ranging from various forms of bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war.

Postdoctoral associates will work on one of ICL's ongoing projects, with a focus either on immigration or foreign policy. Postdoctoral associates may also be asked to contribute to ongoing projects in the lab broadly related to the theme of "identity and conflict." The ICL seeks to integrate substantive and methodological knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to develop new analytical approaches and generate new insights that open up avenues for new research and can influence the design of policy.

Position Description
Postdoctoral associates will be expected to work three days/week on ICL projects under the direction of Professor Nicholas Sambanis and can pursue their own research for the remainder of their time. Job responsibilities include a broad range of data analysis tasks. Applicants must be highly proficient in both Stata and R statistical analysis packages and have prior experience programming surveys in Qualtrics. Applicants should have outstanding organizational, communication, and data analysis skills. They should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; able to work independently, but also as part of a team and sensitive to the demands of multiple simultaneously ongoing projects. A detailed list of job responsibilities will be shared with short-listed applicants. There is no formal teaching requirement. The salary for this position is commensurate with experience and complies with the Yale Office of Postdoctoral Affairs compensation policy and includes a benefits package.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2024, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2026. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting on November 1, 2025. Short-listed candidates will be contacted by December 15, 2025 to set up interviews.

Application Instructions
All application materials must be submitted online through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174091
Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who may be asked to submit a letter of recommendation later (only references for short-listed candidates will be requested).
If you have questions, please email the ICL Director at nicholas.sambanis@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15961

National Taiwan University
Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance— began enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

*How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/ Research Fellow level)
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage.

Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15946

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Open Rank Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs,

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for an open rank tenure-track position. Priority will be given to researchers specializing in international relations and security studies. The appointment will begin on October 1st, 2026.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and are expected to pursue an innovative research program. They must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates are expected to be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (article or up to two chapters), and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Application materials should be submitted using this link to the submission portal:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdsqhyrJ-DMjorvs1XEYKET9HMUW1Q7bJyiPm7_Je_jWKlUHg/viewform

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed). These should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il.

All material should arrive by October 12th. After this date, the committee will begin reading applications. The committee may consider files received after this date, but we urge all applicants to submit the full package before the deadline.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 9/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15934

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government & International Affairs

The Department of Government and International Affairs at Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor. The effective start date is August 19, 2026. Please submit application materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=026eaaee-2102-4004-840c-8e8ad42d78b1&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=541370

Responsibilities:
The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. The position involves teaching seven courses each academic year: three courses per semester, with an additional course during the three-week Interim term in January.

While the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages scholars to apply who are prepared to offer courses on international law and security, conflict studies, and Western/non-Western political theory (to be offered to support our political philosophy minor). The successful candidate will also offer sections of introductory political science courses that contribute to the general education curriculum. Additionally, they will maintain an active research agenda and contribute to university service, consistent with the expectations for tenure.

Qualifications:
A Ph.D. completed by August 1, 2026 is required, with evidence of teaching excellence expected.

Candidates must value interacting with students, faculty, and leadership from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and must also have a deep appreciation and respect for academic principles and culture.

Application Procedure:
Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position has been filled.

Interested applicants are asked to submit the application materials listed below in one document to our career center portal, URL provided above.

-Letter of interest
-Curriculum vitae
-Statement of teaching philosophy
-Statement of research agenda
-Evidence of teaching effectiveness
-Letters of recommendation and contact details for three professional references

If assistance is needed in the application process, please reach out to humanresources@augie.edu. Official website: augie.edu.

Augustana University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Title IX Employer. Applicants must comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act and may be required to submit official transcripts upon employment. Finalist candidates must satisfactorily complete a pre-employment background check.

About Augustana University:

Located in the growing and vibrant city of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Augustana University has, for more than 160 years, provided a strong student-centric education based on its five core values: Christian faith, liberal arts, excellence, community, and service. The institution continues to expand its pre-professional and graduate offerings, while remaining true to its liberal arts tradition. Guided by the Viking Bold: Journey to 2030 strategic plan, Augustana seeks to grow its enrollment from just over 1,900 students to more than 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15926

University of Texas at Austin
Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations

The Department of Government at The University of Texas at Austin invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of International Relations.

Duties will include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, the College of Liberal Arts, and the University.

UT Government is one of the largest political science departments in the country. With nearly sixty faculty covering almost every facet of the discipline and a strong commitment to eclecticism in theoretical and methodological approaches, it is a remarkable and remarkably collegial intellectual community. Located in Austin, at Texas' flagship public university, we also have the privilege of serving a plural and gifted student population, in a vibrant and dynamic city.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D. by the time of appointment or expect to obtain the Ph.D. within a year of joining the faculty as Instructor. Preferred qualifications include a strong record of research and a trajectory that shows or promises teaching excellence.

Application Instructions
Interested candidates should upload a cover letter, vitae, research statement, examples of scholarly work, teaching portfolio, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation.

The department will begin reviewing applications on September 30, 2025, and continue until the position is filled. For help with the application process please reach out to Sarah Eliason (seliason@austin.utexas.edu). For substantive questions about the position please reach out to the chair of the search committee, Terrence Chapman (t.chapman@austin.utexas.edu).

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Position funding is subject to budget availability.

Position URL: apply.interfolio.com/173553

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15925

Kenyon College
Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The Department of International Studies at Kenyon College, a highly selective, nationally-ranked liberal arts college in central Ohio, invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning July 1, 2026. We seek a social scientist with a degree in either sociology, political science, or anthropology, whose regional focus is on Sub-Saharan Africa or the Middle East and Northern Africa, with a demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary research and teaching. The successful candidate would be appointed in International Studies, and expected to teach an interdisciplinary course in methods, sophomore and senior-level interdisciplinary seminars, and courses in their disciplinary department.

Candidates should also demonstrate their commitment to a career in the liberal arts. We will prioritize candidates with a strong record of teaching excellence; a commitment to student advising and mentorship; and plans to incorporate student researchers into their research programs. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in hand or be near completion by the beginning of the appointment (July 2026).

Applications should include (1) a letter of application (2) a curriculum vitae and (3) list of names and contact information of three (3) references. The letter of application should discuss (1) teaching experience with specific examples of innovative assignments and approaches; and (2) the candidate's research agenda, including current and future projects. More materials - letters of recommendation, writing sample, unofficial transcript, statement of research and scholarship, and teaching philosophy - will be requested of candidates who advance beyond the initial stage of the search. To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at http://careers.kenyon.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15918

McGill University
Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

McGill University
Department of Political Science
Faculty of Arts

Full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor

Subfield: International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations, with an emphasis on global governance and/or international security. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a wide range of International Relations courses, including large introductory lectures and advanced courses, and to contribute to the running of the Centre for International Peace and Security Studies (CIPSS), which is the hub for International Relations scholarship at McGill.

The appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointments at a higher rank may be possible under exceptional circumstances. The position start date is August 1, 2026.

The Department of Political Science engages in world-class research and teaching across diverse theoretical, thematic, and methodological approaches to the study of politics. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at: https://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/.

Inquiries may be directed to Professor Arash Abizadeh, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at chair.polisci@mcgill.ca.

Job Duties:
Teaching, research, and service to the institution. All McGill faculty members are expected to contribute to service activities within their units, the University, and the wider scholarly community.

Qualifications and Education Requirements:
Candidates should have completed their PhD or be near completion. An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability/potential to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as evidence (or intentions) of undergraduate and graduate supervision and of mentoring students with diverse lived experiences.

Faculty/Department/Unit:
Department of Political Science
Faculty of Arts

Job Type:
Tenure-track

Rank:
Assistant Professor

Salary:
Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Application Deadline:
Applications must be submitted online to Workday: https://mcgill.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/mcgill_careers/job/Leacock-Building/Assitant-Professor_JR0000069066

Applications should be received by October 15, 2025, to guarantee full consideration, although applications will continue to be reviewed until the position is filled.

Required Documents:
The following supporting documents are required:

- A cover letter and curriculum vitae;
- A statement of research;
- A writing sample (article or chapter length);
- A teaching statement, as well as course evaluations and syllabi if available;
- Three confidential letters of reference submitted directly by the referees (You will be sent an email with instructions on how to provide referee contact information shortly after application).

Depending on your nationality, it may be necessary for you to have a valid Canadian Visa to travel should you be invited to a campus visit.

Please note that to work at McGill University, you must be both authorized to work in Canada (or apply and obtain authorization) and willing to work in the province of Quebec at the campus where the position is located.

McGill University is an English-language university where most teaching and research activities are conducted in the English language, thereby requiring English communication both verbally and in writing. However, knowledge of French is an asset.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15902

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

Rutgers University, New Brunswick
Rank: Endowed Position in International Relations

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, is hiring an associate or full professor for a tenured, endowed position in International Relations with a focus on security, broadly construed. Substantively, this includes research on international security, foreign policy, the political economy of security, human rights repression, conflict resolution, civil conflict, and other security-adjacent topics. The position will begin Sept. 1, 2026. The ideal candidate employs sophisticated methodological approaches. The selected candidate for the Moses and Anuta Back Chair in Conflict Resolution will be expected to conduct research and teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations. Candidates must have a PhD in political science, international relations, or an adjacent field. This endowed position includes an annual research budget drawn from the proceeds of the endowment.

Candidates should submit the following materials: (1) c.v.; (2) cover letter; (3) research statement; (4) teaching statement; (5) contact information for three academic references. The materials should be uploaded to: https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/258912

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. It is university policy to provide equal employment opportunity to all its employees and applicants for employment regardless of their race, creed, color, national origin, age, ancestry, nationality, marital or domestic partnership or civil union status, sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, disability status, liability for military service, protected veteran status, affectional or sexual orientation, atypical cellular or blood trait, genetic information (including the refusal to submit to genetic testing), or any other category protected by law. As an institution, we value diversity of background and opinion, and prohibit discrimination or harassment on the basis of any legally protected class in the areas of hiring, recruitment, promotion, transfer, demotion, training, compensation, pay, fringe benefits, layoff, termination or any other terms and conditions of employment. For additional information please see the Non-Discrimination Statement at the following web address: https://uhr.rutgers.edu/non-discrimination-statement

As required by the NJ Pay Transparency Act, please be aware that the academic year salary for an associate professor will not be less than $84,950 and the academic year salary for a full professor will not be less than $95,764 based on the most recent collective bargaining agreement between the faculty union (AAUP-AFT) and Rutgers University. The final salary offer may be determined by several factors, including, but not limited to, the candidate's qualifications, experience, and expertise, and availability of department or grant funds to support the position. We also take into consideration market benchmarks, if and when appropriate, and internal equity to ensure fair compensation relative to the university's broader compensation structure. We are committed to offering competitive and flexible compensation packages to attract and retain top talent.

Review of applicants will begin on October 5, 2025, and continue until the job is filled.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 10/5/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15907

Columbia University, Columbia World Projects
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar - The Columbia Center for Political Economy
Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, Political Economy

About Columbia World Projects

Columbia World Projects mobilizes the university's researchers and scholars to work with governments, organizations, businesses and communities to tackle global challenges. Columbia World Projects is a major, university-wide initiative that aims to forge a closer and more useful connection between Columbia University's vast research capabilities and the needs of the world.

Columbia World Projects is part of Columbia Global, which brings together major global initiatives from across the university to advance knowledge and foster global engagement. In addition to World Projects, those initiatives include the Columbia Global Centers, the Committee on Global Thought, and the Institute for Ideas and Imagination.

Columbia Global's mission is to address complex global challenges through groundbreaking scholarly pursuits, leadership development, cutting-edge research, and projects that aim for social impact.

About the Columbia Center for Political Economy
Launched in 2022, the Center for Political Economy at Columbia World Projects identifies and advances the most promising contemporary developments that concern the economy and promotes a new political economy with robust intellectual and policy incubators across distinct themes.

Position Summary
The Columbia Center for Political Economy is seeking full-time Postdoctoral Research Scholars beginning August 1, 2026. Under the direction of the Center's faculty Co-directors and Idea Lab leads, the Scholar will have the opportunity to pursue their own research while supporting the work of the Center.

The Center welcomes applications that align with its broad thematic priorities, including the focus areas of the following Idea Labs – Work and Labor, Firms and Industrial Policy, Political Economy of Climate, and International Political Economy. We encourage you to select the Idea Lab that best reflects your background, expertise, and research interests. Please see below for descriptions of each Lab.

- Work and Labor examines the forces that influence labor and labor markets, focusing on modes of collective worker action, the interplay between government policies and worker power, how worker organizations intersect with the political process and government, and the future of domestic and international labor movements, with an emphasis on empirical research. This cycle the Work and Labor Idea Lab is especially interested in applicants whose work speaks to politics and policy, including, but not limited to, the politics of enacting labor reform at different levels of government; worker perspectives on representation through labor organizations and collective action; the design of labor policies and the effects of those policies on opportunities for building worker power and fostering collective action; coalition management between worker organizations and other movements and organized interests; and the relationship between worker organizations, including unions, and politics and government.

- Firms and Industrial Policy aims to gain new insights into how firms behave, to provide a grounding for policy interventions to promote innovation and shared prosperity. Industrial policy – government interventions to stimulate innovation, accelerate technological change, and promote selected industries – is back on mainstream policy agendas across the globe . But even as the policy pendulum swings back toward government intervention, the knowledge base to guide industrial policy remains underdeveloped. Topics may focus on factors that shape firms' decisions technology adoption, product innovation, quality upgrading, R&D investments, patenting, and other forms of innovative behavior; on how such decisions are influenced by market conditions, network relationships, and supply chain architectures; on novel ways to measure such decisions and influences; and on what works and doesn't work in industrial policy.

- Political Economy of Climate explores how political and economic forces shape policy and societal responses to climate change. The Lab is most interested in fostering synergies around the following thematic areas: climate fairness and environmental justice, international collaboration or lack thereof, interests shaping the effectiveness of energy transition, and political constraints on environmental (especially climate) policies.

- International Political Economy analyzes the intersection of international economics and international politics, including the politics of international money, finance, trade, and migration, and the interaction of international economics and geopolitics.

Funding for the Postdoctoral Research Scholar will cover salary for up to one year with the possibility of a one-year extension. Together with the other members of their Idea Lab, the scholar will organize seminars and conferences, public events, and additional programmatic support and outreach within the given Lab with which they are involved.

Qualifications
Applicants must have a PhD, JSD, or equivalent from across the social sciences, history, and law.

Salary Range
The salary range for this position is $72,116- $80,000.

Application
Interested applicants should submit the following materials via Interfolio:

1. Cover Letter describing your interest and relevant experience;
2. Curriculum Vitae;
3. Documentation of PhD or JSD conferment, or timeline for obtaining degree;
4. Writing sample consisting of a single journal article, essay, or book chapter (published or unpublished);
5. A summary of the research plan for which the position is sought (limited to 350 words);
6. A detailed research plan (up to five pages, single-spaced) for the position stating specific goals to be accomplished during the period it will be held; and
7. Three letters of recommendation provided by references familiar with your work (including your doctoral supervisor, if applicable).

Please use this Interfolio application link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173083 to submit an application. Only complete applications submitted via the process outlined will be considered.

Key Deadlines:
All application materials must be received no later than November 3, 2025 at 5:00 PM EST.

Please contact politicaleconomy@columbia.edu with any questions.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15891

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.
The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes, Health Care

Posting Description

POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE (2 positions), Center for International Studies (CIS), to conduct policy-relevant research in global development. Will advance research on international, transnational, comparative, and global issues, and involves collaboration with faculty and graduate students. Areas of interest include global challenges such as climate adaptation, environmental degradation, artificial intelligence, inequality reduction, building just societies, conflict resolution, global governance, democratic erosion, health access, and science policy.

The full job description is available https://www.dropbox.com/scl/fi/pei7s6ncbj1ygcwsya2q0/Postdoc-2026_2027-call-for-applications-8.28.25.pdf?rlkey=tf4zawqnes5ulx7gwrp5218bu&e=1&st=hwztd7q6&dl=0 here.

Job Requirements

REQUIRED: PhD in Political Science, Environmental Science, Sociology, Anthropology, History, Economics, Psychology, Computer Science, and related fields earned after September 1, 2023; and exceptional scholarly achievement and promise for policy-relevant research in international studies.

To apply, please submit a cover letter outlining your research interests and a CV including a list of publications through MIT's hiring site https://careers.peopleclick.com/careerscp/client_mit/external/results/searchResult.htmlhere.

Additionally, upload the following materials to this https://airtable.com/appKsxUrlZNDqpG3d/pagPgOVUttFxCewA3/formform. Research proposal (maximum 1000 words), dissertation abstract with Table of Contents, one writing sample (published article or dissertation chapter), proof of PhD completion or a letter from the dissertation advisor indicating anticipated completion by June 30, 2026, and two letters of reference that should be sent directly by the referees to cis-research@mit.edu (Subject: Applicant's Name).

Review of applications begins October 15, 2025, and continues until the position is filled. The appointment starts August 1, 2026, for one year, with the potential for a one-year extension and is contingent upon a satisfactory background check.

If you have any questions about our postdoctoral program, please email cis-research@mit.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15888

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Randolph-Macon College (RMC) invites applications for an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science to begin September 1, 2026. This is a tenure-track appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach a broad range of International Relations courses, as well as contribute courses to the College's general education program. In addition, all faculty members in the department are expected to teach either Introduction to Politics or Introduction to American Government. Although the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages applications from scholars focused on one or more of the following areas: international law, international organizations, foreign policy, global inequality, security studies, humanitarian assistance and relief, and international political economy. Preference will be given to candidates with a geographic focus on East Asia, Europe, or Latin America. The standard teaching load is seven courses per year, normally in a 3-1-3 configuration across the College's academic calendar, which consists of Fall and Spring terms, along with a four-week January term.

This position requires a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment; as such, evidence of teaching effectiveness is required. We also encourage interdisciplinary contributions to the curriculum. Opportunities may be available to teach in interdisciplinary programs at the College, including Asian Studies; Black Studies; Environmental Studies; Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies (GSWS); Hispanic Studies; the College's Honors Program; and more. RMC faculty are also expected to have an active research program, and are encouraged to conduct research in collaboration with students. The College offers generous research, travel, and sabbatical funding.

Institution Information

Randolph-Macon College is a nationally-recognized residential institution of about 1800 students located in Ashland, Virginia, just north of Richmond. Founded in 1830, the college offers a broad range of academic programs, including a graduate program in PA studies. The RMC curriculum, grounded in a liberal arts core, fosters intellectual growth and personal development, with a steadfast focus on helping students find and navigate pathways through college and to successful outcomes. With a commitment to inclusivity and hands-on learning, Randolph-Macon College provides an extraordinary educational experience – enhanced by exceptional athletic and extracurricular activities and supportive alumni – and prepares graduates for success in their chosen fields and in their lives.

The Department of Political Science gives students a firm footing in the core concepts of political science, and unique internship, research, and hands-on learning opportunities in a specialization of their choosing: American politics; international relations; foreign and comparative politics; and political theory. An RMC political science degree provides students with a strong foundation for careers in law, public administration, election campaigns, social justice, and public service.

Major/Essential Functions:

Randolph-Macon College faculty teach, advise, conduct research and engage in scholarship, and serve the college and department. Primary teaching responsibilities will include courses in International Relations, and contributions to the College's general education program.

Minimum Qualifications:

• PhD in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field by the time appointment begins in Fall 2026
• Demonstrated effectiveness in undergraduate teaching
• Ability to teach upper-level undergraduate courses in at least one area of International Relations
• Evidence of a clear research agenda with the potential to produce scholarly publications in an area(s) of International Relations
• Evidence of a commitment to undergraduate teaching and student engagement
• Experience working with students and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical methods that support all learners in reaching their maximum potential.

Preferred Qualifications:

• Evidence of ability to engage undergraduates in the applicant's area of study
• Ability to contribute to interdisciplinary programs outside of the political science department
• Geographic focus on East Asia, Europe, or Latin America

Application Procedures

Please complete an online application at https://bit.ly/RMC0028 to upload the following as a single pdf addressed to Sabrina Granderson, Administrative Services Coordinator, no later than October 15:
• Letter of application that addresses the position qualifications
• Curriculum vitae
• One page statement of teaching philosophy and commitment to undergraduate teaching
• One page statement of scholarly research interests
• A single example of scholarly writing (this can be a link to a publicly available sample)
• A brief (one page) statement describing inclusive teaching practices you employ and how you actively support students across a broad range of experiences, interests, and perspectives.
• Transcripts (unofficial and scanned copies acceptable)
• The names and contact information for three professional references. At least one must be able to address teaching experience and teaching effectiveness; please indicate the teaching reference in your letter of application. Please do NOT ask references to submit letters of recommendation; the committee will conduct reference checks by phone.

For full consideration, applications must be received by October 15. While applications may be accepted after this date, it is not guaranteed that they will be considered. At this time, please only upload the required documents listed above; finalists may be asked to submit additional documentation as needed. Incomplete applications will NOT be considered by the search committee.

Randolph-Macon College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, marital status, disability, or veteran status in its education or employment programs or activities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15875

Stanford University

Rank: Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2026–2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2026-2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellow on contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies, plus up to $3,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit:
https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan

---

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15857

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia, 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies (plus up to $3,000 for research expenses). Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15856

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Postdoctoral Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00004

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly research on topics related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil, to fill Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research positions. Although the call is open, scholars working on policy and public health, or on economic development in the region are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral associates are expected to participate regularly in the scholarly and academic activities of the program.

The term of appointment is based on rank. Positions at the postdoctoral rank are for a 12-month term during the 2026-2027 academic year with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding; those hired at more senior ranks may have multi-year appointments. Start date is around September 1, 2026. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

The 12-month, 100% duty time salary for this position will be $65,000 paid monthly. The program will provide a $2,000 moving allowance that will reimburse allowable out-of-pocket relocation expenses, some of which may be taxable. In addition, the program will provide a $6,500 research account. For the teaching component of this appointment the lecturer salary during a teaching semester will be calculated based on a nominally higher rate of pay. This position is eligible for medical benefits.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply
For full consideration complete applications including letters of recommendation should be submitted by November 15, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38404.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests (1,000 - 1,500 words)
4. A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent]
5. Three letters of recommendation

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Eligible candidates must have less than three years of post- PhD research experience prior to anticipated start date. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Expected Salary Range: $65,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15712

Harvard University
Rank: William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellow

The Canada Program at Harvard University's Weatherhead Center for International Affairs hosts two William Lyon Mackenzie King Postdoctoral Fellowships. The fellowships are two-year positions and are open to scholars in all disciplines who are engaged in Canadian studies broadly defined. Scholars working on comparative US-Canada research may receive preference. To be eligible, applicants must have been awarded the PhD no earlier than five years before the start date of the appointment.

The fellowships provide an annual stipend of $70,000. Fellows are expected to engage with the Canada Program and with the University's wider community. Fellows receive shared office space at the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs, and enjoy full access to the University's library, archival, and computing resources.

Application deadline is Friday, December 5, 2025

To apply:

https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15075

Candidates should submit: a letter of application describing their suitability for the fellowship; a curriculum vitae with a list of publications; a sample of their written work; and three letters of recommendation.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15835

Columbia University
Rank: Arnold A. Saltzman Professor in War and Peace Studies

The School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University in the City of New York invites applications from scholars and practitioners whose work focuses on international security policy, for a position as the Arnold A. Saltzman Professor in War and Peace studies at the rank of full Professor or at the rank of Professor of Professional Practice, to begin July 1, 2026. Disciplinary specialization is open, and includes political science, public policy, history, law, economics, and sociology. Candidates should have a PhD or a combination of another terminal degree and senior policy experience. The successful candidate will contribute to teaching and intellectual leadership in the SIPA International Security and Diplomacy curriculum at the masters level, and engage with other SIPA and Columbia faculty to address global policy challenges including great power competition, intelligence practice, nuclear weapons, civil-military relations, technology, or regional security, among others.

The successful candidate will direct the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies. The Institute was founded in 1951 as The Institute of War and Peace Studies (IWPS), under the sponsorship of Dwight D. Eisenhower, during his tenure as president of Columbia University, in an effort to promote an understanding of "the disastrous consequences of war upon man's spiritual, intellectual, and material progress." In March, 2003, the Institute was renamed the Arnold A. Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies (SIWPS), in honor of the late Arnold A. Saltzman. In its more than 70-year history, the Institute has served as one of the foremost research centers on international relations in the country.

Qualifications
Ph.D. in political science, public policy, history, economics, sociology, or related disciplines, or a terminal degree (e.g. Juris Doctor) plus senior experience in policy practice. Candidates will be expected to sustain a strong commitment to research, publication, and teaching, and to practice entrepreneurial leadership as Saltzman Institute Director, to include effective fundraising and cultivation of the Institute's public profile in the field.

Salary Range: $225,000-275,000

Application Instructions
Applicants should upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, statement of current and future plans, a writing sample, and a list of references.

Please visit our online application site at: https://apply.interfolio.com/172646 for further information about this position and to submit your application.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. For further information, please contact Eric Fillinger, Program Director for Faculty Affairs, at ef2622@columbia.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/25/2025
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 15827

St. Mary's College of Maryland
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Policy at St. Mary's College of Maryland is accepting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning August 2026. Faculty members teach three courses per semester, advise undergraduate students, supervise senior projects, engage in scholarship and professional activities, and fulfill departmental and college-level service responsibilities. Faculty are expected to teach in-person classes supported by methodologies that promote students' engagement. An interest in attracting and retaining students from underrepresented groups is desirable.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science or a related field (may be ABD at the time of application if degree completion by August 2026 is certain), college-level teaching experience, a strong desire to teach undergraduates, and a record of, or demonstrated promise of, high-quality intellectual contributions. The ideal candidate will specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates with experience teaching international or comparative political economy, as well as undergraduate research methods, are preferred. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work focuses on geographic regions outside Latin America, as we aim to complement our department's existing strengths with diverse global perspectives.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications, with a range from $72,000 - $78,000.

Non-sectarian since its founding, St. Mary's College of Maryland, the National Public Honors College, is a public Carnegie Baccalaureate, Arts and Sciences institution located in St. Mary's City, 70 miles southeast of Washington, D.C. With selective admissions policies, academically talented students, and a rigorous curriculum, we offer a small college experience similar to that found at exceptional private colleges. St. Mary's faculty benefit from a comprehensive program of support for scholarship, research, travel, and curriculum development, including course releases for pre-tenure faculty and leaves for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake region and by our proximity to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore.

St. Mary's College (www.smcm.edu) embodies diversity and inclusion in its mission. We create an environment that recognizes the value of individual and group differences and we encourage inquiries from applicants who will contribute to our cultural and ethnic diversity. Application materials should include cover letter (within the cover letter, applicants are requested to speak to ways in which their teaching will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity), curriculum vitae (include e-mail address), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available). In support of inclusive hiring practices, for all SMCM faculty searches, the College will also request three professional references (rather than letters of recommendation) at the time of application. Of these three references, at least one referee should speak to the candidate's disciplinary expertise and at least one should have seen the candidate deliver or design classroom instruction. References will be contacted only for candidates who advance to finalist interviews.

Applications are being accepted online at: apply.interfolio.com/172629. Questions may be directed to Antonio Ugues (augues@smcm.edu) at 240-895-2119.

Initial review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check. St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Visit our website: www.smcm.edu/hr

Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check.

St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15828

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Latin American Politics)

The Department of Government at Smith College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2026.

By time of appointment applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely-related discipline that includes significant training in political science. The position has a teaching load of 2:2 – i.e., four semester-long courses over the academic year. The candidate will also be expected to contribute to student learning beyond regular classes through directing student research and Honors theses, offering independent studies, and helping with department administrative, curricular and advising responsibilities. We expect the new faculty member will also participate in Smith's interdisciplinary program in Latin American and Latino/a Studies.

Candidates for the position should have a focus on Latin American politics in their research and teaching. We encourage applications from scholars using a range of methodological approaches and focusing on a variety of topics and themes pertaining to their regional specialization. We anticipate that a successful candidate for this position will also be prepared to teach Introduction to Comparative Politics as well as upper-division courses relating to their specific area(s) of expertise.

Candidates from groups underrepresented in political science are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates should be prepared to engage actively with diverse students across the liberal arts.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes, as advisors, and through student-faculty research projects. Smith College offers opportunities to foster faculty success at every career stage, such as those listed here. The College is a member of the Five College Consortium with Amherst, Hampshire and Mt. Holyoke Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Students cross-enroll and faculty cross-teach across the Five Colleges. Details about the Department of Government may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/government..

Submit application at https://apply.interfolio.com/172310with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching and research statements, an equity and inclusion statement , a short writing sample, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15819

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

(Please note earlier deadline than initially posted, now due September 22nd.*****)

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 29, 2026. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2027; in unusual circumstances one semester appointments may be considered. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to David.Sacko@ afacademy.af.edu. Applications received by September 22, 2025 will receive primary consideration though applications received after that mayl be considered. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15817

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate Fellowships

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs invites applications for postdoctoral research associates from individuals with a Ph.D. degree or who expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by July 1, 2026, for the 2026-2027 academic year. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of international trade and finance; monetary and regulatory policies; cooperation at the global and regional level; the domestic and international politics of economic development; the political economy of human security; the evolution and impact of international institutions; and the politics of international law and human rights policies are of relevance. Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. NCGG invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. The postdoctoral researchers are expected to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation in regular events, office hours, and related activities for the duration of the fellowship (July 1, 2026- July 1, 2027). Appointments are for one year.

Application Deadline - Applicants should apply by Monday, October 13, 2025 (11:59 pm EST) for full consideration; however, the posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39861

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by July 1, 2026, in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

*Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;

*Current curriculum vitae, including publications;

*2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;

*One writing sample (limit of 50 pages);

*Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are due by the end of the business day on Wednesday, October 22, 2025. Complete your application well in advance of the deadline so that your references can be submitted on time.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in December 2025. This position is subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Jennifer Bolton, Assistant Director, at jbolton@princeton.edu.

The Princeton School of Public and International Affairs is committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community with varying viewpoints who share Princeton University's dedication to excellence and service.
Expected Salary Range: $65,000 - $67,000. Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a small research fund. This is a one-year appointment.

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see https://hr.princeton.edu/benefits-overview-prospective-candidates for more information.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15810

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Harvard University

Rank: Weatherhead Scholars Program
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Weatherhead Scholars Program offers a unique opportunity to join a dynamic, interdisciplinary cohort at Harvard University, bringing together leading academics and accomplished practitioners from around the world. Each year, approximately thirty affiliates are selected through a highly competitive process. Participants may be visiting faculty from other institutions of higher education, postdoctoral fellows who earned their PhD within three years of applying, or practitioner fellows such as mid-career or senior diplomats, journalists, NGO leaders, military officers, civil servants, and other professionals.

Housed within the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs—Harvard's largest international social science research center—the program supports independent research on international, transnational, and comparative topics while fostering meaningful dialogue across disciplines and sectors. Most affiliates spend the full academic year in residence, though one-semester appointments are possible.

Please review the Weatherhead Scholars Program website and FAQ page thoroughly for detailed information. The position requirements differ by category, and full job descriptions are available on ARIeS, Harvard's online portal for hiring. All application materials must be submitted through Harvard University's academic portal by the stated deadlines to ensure full consideration.

https://scholarsprogram.wcfia.harvard.edu/weatherhead-scholars-program

Postdoctoral Fellows and Visiting Scholars: October 15, 2025
Practitioner Fellows: February 15, 2026

Practitioner Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Practitioner Fellows come from a range of professional backgrounds, including diplomacy, journalism, private sector leadership, the military, elected office, public service, and civil society. We welcome applicants from the United States and around the world who hold at least a bachelor's degree, demonstrate a strong interest in international affairs, have a track record of professional impact, and show a clear commitment to engaging with academic and policy communities. Candidates may apply individually or be nominated by a sponsoring institution and must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs while committing to active participation in the program.

Interested individuals are encouraged to contact the director of the Weatherhead Scholars Program to discuss their candidacy and the application process. The application for individual Practitioner Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until February 15, 2026.

Practitioner Fellows are subject to an administrative fee of USD $25,000 for the academic year or USD $12,500 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Visiting Scholars
Weatherhead Scholars Program Visiting Scholars are tenured or tenure-track faculty (or the international equivalent) in the social sciences. Applicants must hold a PhD in a discipline such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field, and be actively engaged in research on international, comparative, transnational, or global issues. This category is not open to adjuncts, lecturers, or non-ladder-rank researchers. Faculty are generally expected to secure their own funding through sabbatical salary or external grants. Candidates must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs and commit to active participation in the program.

Please note: Researchers affiliated with think tanks or research institutes should apply to the Practitioner Fellowship, while recent PhD graduates should consider the Postdoctoral Fellowship.

The application for Visiting Scholars for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

Visiting Scholars are subject to an administrative fee of USD $10,000 for the academic year or USD $5,000 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Postdoctoral Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Postdoctoral Fellows in International Affairs are social scientists working on international, transnational, or comparative issues who hold a PhD in a social science discipline—such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field. Applicants must have earned their degree within the past three years or be scheduled to complete all requirements and defend their dissertation by the start of the appointment.

The Weatherhead Center accepts five to ten postdoctoral fellows each academic year through the Weatherhead Scholars Program. There are three dedicated funding opportunities:

Raphael Morrison Dorman Fellowship – Open to social scientists conducting research in any discipline related to international affairs.
Moulay Hicham Alaoui Postdoctoral Fellowship on Climate and the Environment – Open to social scientists conducting research on climate and/or environmental issues in the Middle East and North Africa.
Sang-Kee Kim Postdoctoral Fellowship on East and Southeast Asia – Open to social scientists conducting research on East Asia and Southeast Asia (excluding Japan and China).
The applications for Postdoctoral Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year are available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

This position is eligible for Harvard University benefits and includes a salary. The Weatherhead Scholars Program postdoctoral salary for 2026–2027 is USD $70,000, payable over twelve months. The fellowships are highly competitive; in a typical year, about 5% of applicants are selected.

The Weatherhead Scholars Program also welcomes applicants with external funding; however, they must apply by the stated deadline and will be considered alongside all other applicants. Postdoctoral fellows whose funding comes from a source outside of Harvard must meet the NIH minimum base salary requirement for postdoctoral researchers at their experience level on the NIH scale. Personal funds may not be used, in full or in part, to meet this requirement.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15786

National Tsing Hua University

Rank: Full Time tenure-track/ tenure position in International Relations or Political Behavior
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Political Behavior

National Tsing Hua University
Taipei School of Economics and Political Science (TSE)

Position: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Full Professor
Job Description: Full Time, Tenured Track
Location of Work: Hsinchu, Taiwan
Language of Instruction: English
Start of Employment: August 2026 onwards
Qualification: Applicants must have or expect a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or related fields. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in research as well as in teaching.
Fields of Specialty:
(1) Conflict, security, or international political economy, with a regional focus on Asia;

(2) Political behavior or data science, applied to topics broadly related to (but not limited to) democratic backsliding, autocratization, judicial politics, elections, clientelism, social media, gender politics, ethnic politics, migration, and inequality.
Compensation: TSE offers a competitive compensation package which carries full tenure-track benefits, including enrollment in National Health Insurance, pension, and retirement benefits.
About TSE:
TSE is dedicated to high-quality post-graduate education in political economy. We currently offer Master degree program in Asian Political Economy, Global Political Economy, and Economic Development as well as Ph.D. degree program in Political Science and Economics. We emphasize interdisciplinary study and integrated economics and political science training and research. International students comprise over 80 percent of our student body. We look for economists and political scientists with strong training in theory, research methodology, quantitative skills, and with a keen interest in policy research.
About NTHU:
Founded in 1911, National Tsing Hua University (NTHU) is a leading comprehensive research university located in Hsinchu, Taiwan, a hub for high-tech innovation. Since its re-establishment in 1956, NTHU has grown into a world-class institution offering over 140 degree programs across 12 colleges. Renowned for cutting-edge research and a distinguished faculty, NTHU is consistently ranked among the top universities in East Asia. Our alumni include Nobel laureates and global leaders, reflecting the university's rich academic history and commitment to excellence.
How to Apply:
To apply for these positions, please submit the following documents as a single PDF (or a download link) to the TSE office (tse@my.nthu.edu.tw), specifying your field and area of specialty in the email. The recommendation letters must be sent directly to tse@ my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.

(1) Curriculum Vitae
(2) Cover Letter
(3) Representative Publications: Please provide at least three representative publications from the last five years. For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, at least one Job Market Paper and a copy of dissertation (draft) are required. Other research papers are preferred but not required.
(4) Degree Certificate: Please provide a copy of the doctoral degree certificate or certification for the completion of coursework and successful defense of the dissertation. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter certifying the completion of coursework and the imminent scheduling of the oral examination is required.
(5) Transcripts/Certificate or Proofs for Appointments: For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, please provide the Transcripts. For applicants who are neither new Ph.D.s nor Ph.D. candidates, please provide a certificate or proof of your current position at any academic institution instead.
(6) Statement of Research Interests
(7) Teaching Evaluations (preferred but not required)
(8) Three recommendation letters: the recommendation letters may be submitted through JOE, or sent directly to tse@my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.
Application Deadline: October 15 2025 (Taipei time, GMT+8). Early applications submitted by September 10, 2025 (prior to the APSA Annual Meeting) are strongly encouraged.

To see a full description of our program, please visit the following website: www.tse.nthu.edu.tw, or contact us via email at tse@my.nthu.edu.tw.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15787

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in Political Science and International Relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and/or global governance. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability to conduct theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertatiońs chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2026 to start in August 2026.

Compensation is competitive and includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should submit the following documents in PDF format to Karen Aguayo: karenaguayo@tec.mx

- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.

- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).

- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.

- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double-spaced pages. If co-authored, the candidate should be the first author.

- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating their defense date.

For informal inquiries, please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx

Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Querétaro, and Guadalajara.

For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/cienciassociales-y-gobierno

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15781

Ohio State University

Rank: AI and Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Department of Political Science
College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview
The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of assistant professor. Successful applicants will have research and teaching interests in any of the following areas: the regulatory, political, or ethical challenges of the burgeoning reliance on AI in the public and/or private sectors; the social and political consequences of reliance on algorithmic approaches to public policy implementation; methodological development at the intersection of social science and AI/machine learning. Based in Columbus, Ohio, the position will begin in the fall of 2026. Preferred applicants will demonstrate the potential for a sustained and substantial body of work focusing on one or more of these areas. The position is open with respect to substantive focus or disciplinary subfield in Political Science. This position is part of the investment of The Ohio State University Provost in the Department of Political Science in Socio-Political Analysis and AI: https://polisci.osu.edu/good-to-great-proposal. Successful candidates will join with a series of successful hires focused on political methodology around the development of AI tools for social science research and will provide a strong possibility for cross-unit grant collaboration.

Performance Objectives
Responsibilities of the position include:
- Conduct research on advanced topics in the regulatory, policy, ethical areas, or consequences of AI for political or socio-economic outcomes or the application of data analytics and AI to social scientific questions
- Mentor and teach in these and related areas at the undergraduate and/or graduate level
- Engage with interdisciplinary efforts focused on data analytics and/or AI

Education and Experience Requirements
Required: Applicants must be on track to complete their PhD on or before August 15, 2026, in a relevant field, and have the capacity to integrate methodological insights with substantive research demonstrated through a record of and/or promise of scholarly excellence.

Desired: Demonstrate the potential for securing external grant funding and mentoring undergraduate or graduate students. Preferred candidates will show a willingness to participate in interdisciplinary collaborative efforts. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to building an intellectual community in line with OSU's Shared Values (see below).

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically to the Careers at Ohio State website at https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Assistant-Professor-in-AI---Politics---Department-of-Political-Science_R134968-1. A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, unofficial transcript, separate research and teaching statements, writing sample(s), and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2026. To be guaranteed full consideration, please submit all materials by October 15, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Professor Ryan Kennedy at kennedy.310@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section.

Please include the following:
- Attachment 1: Cover Letter and CV as a single document:

o Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
o CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
- Attachment 2: Unofficial transcript.
- Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
- Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
- Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

All applicants will be asked to provide the names and contact information for three references following the submission of application materials.

The College
With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought.

The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University
Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15775

Seattle University
Rank: Adjunct

Position Description:

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for adjunct positions for AY 2025-2026 in Political Science with a primary focus on comparative politics and a secondary focus on international politics, most likely during winter quarter 2026 and spring quarter 2026, pending budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching both introductory courses and upper division courses in comparative politics and/or international politics, and courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors. The specific subject matter is open to discussion between the successful candidate(s) and the department chair. The department currently does not need coverage on Asia, but is interested in areas such as African politics, European politics, Latin American politics, and Middle East politics.

Qualifications:

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.

Application Instructions:

Submit applications at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers/, including a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as student teaching evaluations, and the names and contact information of three references. Recruitment is ongoing and based on quarterly teaching needs, but review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025. Contact Political Science Chair, Dr. Yitan Li, liy@seattleu.edu, with any inquiries.

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 15774

Harvard University

Rank: Academy Scholar
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies is dedicated to promoting innovative social science hand-in-hand with deepening our shared knowledge of the experiences and practices of the worlds' regions and countries. The Academy Scholars Program identifies and supports outstanding researchers at the start of their academic careers whose work combines excellence in a social science discipline with a command of the language and knowledge or expertise of countries or regions outside of the United States or Canada. The scholarship of the group spans traditional disciplinary divisions and elucidates comparative, transnational, and domestic issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals possessed of resourcefulness, initiative, and originality whose work shows promise as a foundation for careers in research universities or international institutions. Scholars are appointed for a two-year, in-residence, postdoctoral fellowship at The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA, USA. They receive substantial financial and research assistance which permits them to undertake robust research projects and skills development in their chosen fields and areas. They meet at dinners, seminars, and informal get-togethers in order to pursue innovative interdisciplinary approaches to their work. They are mentored by the Harvard Academy Senior Scholars, a cohort of faculty members who act as a selection committee, participate in Harvard Academy events, and are committed to supporting the Academy Scholars as they work to achieve their potential.

Each year, five to six Academy Scholars are named for two-year, in-residence appointments with an annual stipend of $80,000 (annual research support of $5,000 is also provided), with the two years to be completed within a three-year window. Year 1 of the fellowship must be taken up no later than the fall immediately following the postdoctoral fellowship offer. Delays or deferrals in the start of Year 1 are not permitted. Between Years 1 and 2, Academy Scholars may apply for a one-time leave (up to 12 months), either to accept or to continue with a tenure-track teaching appointment but for no other professional reason. Academy Scholars may not accept other sources of funding, awards, or obligations during their appointment.

All application materials must be submitted by the deadline of September 19, 2025. We do not accept late applications.

The completed application will include:

Curriculum vitae (CV); including list of publications

Research proposal (2000 words maximum); including intellectual objectives and planned methodological and disciplinary work

One scholarly writing sample (e.g., PhD dissertation chapter or single-authored peer-reviewed academic journal article; fifty pages maximum; in English)

A copy of your PhD program transcript

Three letters of recommendation (uploaded directly and confidentially by the recommender through the online application—please note you will need to submit your application before an upload link is sent to your recommender).

All parts of the application, including the three letters of recommendation, are submitted online as .pdf documents. Access the online application through the homepage of The Harvard Academy's website: https://academy.wcfia.harvard.edu.

All materials except for letters of recommendation must be received by September 19, 2025 (ensure letters of recommendation arrive no later than September 29, 2025). The selection process begins immediately thereafter. Applicants whose materials are incomplete are at a disadvantage when considered by the Selection Committee. Announcement of the awards will be made in December 2025.

These awards are open to recipients of PhD or equivalent degrees granted within two years of the August 1, 2026, start date and advanced doctoral candidates in the social sciences. Scholars nearing dissertation completion must be able to submit degree conferral documentation issued by their university registrar's office by June 30, 2026, for an August 1, 2026, start date. Individuals who hold or have completed another postdoctoral fellowship are not eligible to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 9/19/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15759

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in International Relations and/or International Political Economy
Specializations: International Political Economy, South Asia, International Security

Open Rank Faculty Position in International Relations and/or International Political Economy

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline of international relations/international political economy. Preferred areas include Japan-Southeast Asia Relations, BRICS, International Organizations, and International Security. Candidates with research interests that focus on one of these topics or which combine two or more of these topics are welcome. Applications are invited for faculty positions at the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor and full professor. Applicants for junior positions should have solid training in theories and cutting-edge methods (either qualitative or quantitative) from internationally prestigious universities. Applicants for senior positions are expected to have a proven record in high-quality teaching and research in the expertise areas. For senior positions, priorities will be given to candidates with management experience and skills in program planning, curriculum development and student supervision, and a proven record of research publications in competitive international outlets.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2026-27. A Ph.D. must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

Salary & Benefits
Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits and generous start-up research support through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=445&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.
Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15756

National Taiwan University
Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance—will begin enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

Candidates who are available for an informal interview during the 2025 APSA meeting in Vancouver, 11 – 14 September (limited slots), should send an expression of interest to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests,
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample,
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/Research Fellow level) and
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references.

References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage. Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15747

Ohio State University
Rank: Associate Professor or Professor in Law and Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, International Law & Organizations, Judicial Politics

Department of Political Science

College of Arts and Sciences

Position Overview

The Department of Political Science at The Ohio State University invites applications for the Carter Phillips and Sue Henry Professorship in Political Science, focusing on Law and Politics, broadly understood and open with respect to subfield, to begin in August 2026. Substantive areas of interest include, but are not limited to, international law and norms, the politics and development of the rule of law, and American legal institutions and political development. Candidates are expected to contribute to theoretical debates and to have excellent methodological skills appropriate to their research.

Performance Objectives

Responsibilities of the position include: (1) maintaining a strong research program; (2) contributing to graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring; (3) engaging in service to the department, university, and profession.

Education and Experience Requirements

Required: Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a related discipline, a substantial record of publications and work in progress, and should provide evidence of accomplishments in teaching and/or mentoring.

Additional Information

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply

To be considered, please submit your application electronically via Workday at: (https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Associate-Professor-or-Professor-in-Law-and-Politics---Dept-of-Political-Science_R134488-1)

A competitive application consists of the following required elements: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate research and teaching statements, and writing sample(s). Candidates advanced for further consideration may be asked to provide letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on September 15. To be guaranteed full consideration, applications must be received by October 15. Inquiries may be directed to Professor William Minozzi at minozzi.1@osu.edu.

You will be presented with the opportunity to attach up to FIVE documents in the Application Documents section. Please include the following:

Attachment 1: Cover letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member.
Attachment 4: Teaching and Mentoring Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring.
Attachment 5: One or more writing samples as a single document.

The College

With more than 80 majors and 100 minors, the College of Arts and Sciences is the academic heart of the university. The Arts and Sciences provides extraordinary opportunities to collaborate across disciplines, blending creativity and analysis to truly be at the forefront of thought. The breadth and depth of knowledge in the college gives students and researchers the critical thinking and adaptability essential for a lifetime of success.

The University

Ohio State is a top-20 public university, and its Ohio State Wexner Medical Center is one of America's leading academic health centers. Eligible Ohio State employees receive comprehensive benefits packages, including medical, dental and vision insurance, tuition assistance for employees and their dependents, and state or alternative retirement options with competitive employer contributions.

Grounded in Ohio State University's Shared Values, our university community welcomes differences, encourages open-minded exploration and courageous thinking, and upholds freedom of expression.

Ohio State is a dynamic community where opportunity thrives, and individuals transform themselves and their world. Positions are available in countless fields and specialties. Become a Buckeye and contribute to an incredible legacy that serves to guide our future and shape a better tomorrow.

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has established central resources to focus on offering support to new and prospective faculty and their loved ones. Service offerings include dual career partner consultation, potential employer and/or employment opportunity identification, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and in the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available. More information about dual career and faculty recruitment can be found here.

In addition to being responsive to dual-career opportunities, we strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. Ohio State is a member of the Michigan, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania & West Virginia HERC.

Located in Ohio's capital city, Ohio State's Columbus campus is near the center of a rapidly growing and vibrant metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation, and technology industries. Additional information about the Columbus area is available here. Beyond its Columbus campus, Ohio State has four regional campuses including Ohio State Lima, Ohio State Mansfield, Ohio State Marion, and Ohio State Newark, in addition to the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences (CFAES) Wooster Campus, which houses Ohio State ATI.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.?

Final candidates are subject to successful completion of a background check. Additionally, there may be further requirements specific to the college or unit, which could include drug and health screenings, as well as faculty misconduct checks depending on the rank of the position.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15749

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Development, Developing Nations, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in international development starting in Fall 2026.

Through their research and teaching, successful candidates will be expected to increase our students' ability to examine international relations with a focus in any one of a range of specialties, including international organizations, human rights, development policy, policy analysis, postcolonial thought, political economy, and sustainable development. In addition to teaching courses in their area of expertise, the department expects the candidate to contribute to teaching undergraduate and Master's curricular requirements such as Theories of International Relations, Research Methods, or Policy Analysis. The successful candidate will also contribute courses in other core areas of departmental curricular need. Candidates should describe their teaching interests in their cover letter.

Candidates must be committed to excellent, inclusive teaching and student advising at both the undergraduate and graduate level. Candidates must also be committed to pursuing a scholarly agenda and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. A typical teaching load in the College of Arts and Sciences is three courses per semester.

Applicants must submit:

a cover letter that describes the candidate's research agenda and the courses they would like to teach;

a CV;

official graduate transcripts;

three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and scholarship;
a writing sample;

a summary of teaching evaluations and evidence of teaching excellence, including a sample syllabus;

a statement of teaching philosophy that includes discussion of how candidates approach students with diverse backgrounds and learning styles.

Candidates are encouraged to submit application materials at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by September 5, 2025.

Job application materials must be uploaded to https://jobs.sandiego.edu/ at posting #5318.

Questions should be directed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. A.M. Spiegel (spiegel@sandiego.edu).

If you have any technical questions or difficulties please contact the Employment Services Team at jobs@sandiego.edu.

Additional requirements:

Background check: Successful completion of a pre-employment background check.

Degree Verification Requirement: Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide official education transcripts for degree verification purposes.
Advanced Degree: Applicants should hold a terminal degree, preferably a Ph.D. in Political Science. ABD candidates will be considered on a case-by-case basis, with the expectation of having a completed Ph.D. degree by September 2026.

Salary and Benefits

$7,000-7,333/month; Excellent Benefits

The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package including; medical, dental, vision, a retirement contribution given to you by the University, and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. Please visit the benefits section of our website to view all of the perks and benefits that USD has to offer. USD: Human Resources: Benefits

The salary range provided in this posting reflects what we reasonably expect to pay for this position. Actual compensation offered or earned is dependent on experience, education and other factors including departmental budget.

About the University of San Diego

The University of San Diego, an engaged and contemporary Catholic institution, was founded by the Diocese of San Diego and the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1949. Governed by an independent board of trustees since 1972, USD remains committed to a liberal arts education grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition and the pursuit of truth, goodness and beauty. Inspired by this centuries old tradition of Catholic higher education, the University welcomes people of all faith traditions and any, or no, religious background. The future success of USD relies on the contributions of those who seek to foster the development of engaged global citizens and an earnest confrontation of humanity's urgent challenges.

About the College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is at the heart of the University of San Diego. Our philosophy is built on the enduring values of the Catholic intellectual tradition, immersing students in the concepts of free inquiry, ethical conduct and compassionate service. The College aims to establish an academic foundation for students to thrive and gain a comprehensive education, which spans the sciences, arts and social sciences. Through our exemplary liberal arts education and rigorous scholarship, we aspire to not only educate the mind but also develop the whole person.

About the Department of Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world. Our courses cover every corner of the globe and prepare students to be keen political observers and actors. To supplement coursework, we also provide internship, community service learning, and study abroad opportunities that encourage learning outside of the classroom. The department houses two separate majors. The Political Science major focuses attention on the shared and contending ideas, values, institutions and processes of public life. The International Relations major is an interdisciplinary field of study designed for students who seek a holistic understanding of international affairs. The curriculum is rooted in political science and provides students with a strong background in international relations, comparative politics, and international political economy. The department also offers a Masters of International Relations (MAIR) degree.

Courses range from the specific study of politics in one country or of a single institution or political process (the judiciary, Congress, the presidency or elections), to more general offerings such as courses on political theory, political development, race and ethnicity, environmental politics, research methods, human rights, and constitutional law.

The University of San Diego is a smoking and tobacco-free campus. For more information, visit www.sandiego.edu/smokefree.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/5/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15744

Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies

Rank: Associate Professor in Gender and International Relations

The Geneva Graduate Institute seeks to hire an innovative scholar with an outstanding track record whose research focuses on Gender and International Relations, with a sensitivity to the intersections of gender with inter alia class, sexuality, race and/or coloniality. We construe the field broadly as encompassing scholars who work on gender, or women, within or in relation to established fields such as political economy, security studies, and governance studies, as well as in relation to transnational and global issues. A strong grounding in social theory and methodology will be considered an asset.

Applicants must hold a PhD or equivalent, preferably in International Relations or Political Science. They must have experience with research, teaching and service commensurate with a tenured associate professorship. Candidates from the Global South are particularly encouraged to apply.

The successful applicant will be expected to lead the development of research in their field at the Institute and beyond. Excellence in research and publication is therefore essential.

The position involves teaching postgraduate courses and supervising master's dissertations and PhD theses in the Department of International Relations/Political Science. It also requires teaching and supervision of Master's dissertations in the Institute's interdisciplinary Master's programme. Candidates must therefore be able to offer general and specialised courses; experience with graduate supervision is an asset.

The teaching language is either English or French. Prior knowledge of French is not required, but the successful candidate is expected to acquire at least a passive knowledge of it within two years of being hired.

The successful candidate will join a dynamic and diverse environment. The International Relations/Political Science Department houses a wide range of theoretical, conceptual, methodological and empirical perspectives. It cultivates academic excellence by encouraging inquiries that challenge established theoretical and empirical boundaries. Its members are therefore expected both to be open to – and respectful of – multiple, evolving research agendas and pedagogies and to develop high-quality research in a specialized area. Overall, the department offers a lively, inclusive and inspiring space for researchers to develop and thrive.

The Graduate Institute favours a transdisciplinary culture and welcomes candidates who are open to discussions across disciplinary boundaries.

To apply: https://erecruit.graduateinstitute.ch/professeurs/

Please note that offers received by post will not be considered. The Institute reserves the right to fill the post by invitation at any time.

For more information, candidates are encouraged to consult the Institute's website, as well as the site of the Department of International Relations/Political Science:
- https://www.graduateinstitute.ch/
- https://www.graduateinstitute.ch/academic-departments/international-relations-political-science

The Institute is an equal opportunity employer and values diversity. We do not discriminate on the basis of age, marital status, disability status, race, national origin, colour, gender, sexual orientation or religion.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15735

University of South Carolina

Rank: Open Rank Search in International Relations

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure-track position to begin August 16, 2026, in International Relations. This search is open with respect rank and applicants will be considered at the Assistant, Associate, and Full professor levels. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in International Relations can speak to themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish, or have published, in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by the start date of appointment and, for more advanced candidates, a record or professional accomplishment commensurate with rank.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester. Candidates at the level of Associate or Full professor will also be expected to provide service contributions consistent with their interests and expertise.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Chelsea Estancona (ESTANCON@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15736

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Short-term Visiting Fellowships, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Fellow

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00003

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for advanced or mid-career scholars from any discipline whose research projects focused on Latin America, including Brazil or the Caribbean. Applications will be accepted from scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established Latin American writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on research or creative projects who may benefit from a short stay at Princeton University.

Appointments will be for one calendar month during the 2026-2027 academic year (September 1, 2026, to June 30, 2027) or the summer (July and August), to be determined on a case-by-case basis. In addition to a stipend, the program will provide up to $2,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. The work location for these positions is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 12, 2025. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38403

1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the calendar month the applicant proposes to stay), title and short description of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
3) A statement (in English) describing the research project as well as the ways Princeton resources and/or faculty will be useful for the project (1,000-1500 words);
4) The names and contact information of two referees. (The Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Expected Salary Range: $5,000 per month

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15709

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Visiting Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Research Scholar

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00002

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with an opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects related to Latin America.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate regularly in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are expected to be for one or two semesters during the 2026-2027 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2026 - January 16, 2027; spring semester: January 16, 2026 - June 1, 2027). In addition to salary, the program will provide up to $7,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. If teaching, the visitor would be paid at a nominally higher rate.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 12, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38402

1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title and short description of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
2) Curriculum vitae;
3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how the course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 - 2,000 words);
5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Advanced degree preferred.

Expected Salary Range: $49,250 per semester

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15710

University of Georgia
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Affairs (DIA) at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall of 2026. We seek a scholar who is trained in the concepts, methods, and approaches used in the study of international relations. Candidates are expected to have a demonstrated ability to produce high quality research, show promise of attracting external funding and teaching effectiveness, and be well trained in research methods, including qualitative and/or quantitative methods.
Prospective candidates must apply for the position through the UGA Job site at: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/442137. To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, a statement describing their research interests and research agenda, a writing sample, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, unofficial transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to: Bill Zachmann (zachmann@uga.edu) at the School of Public and International Affairs, University of Georgia, 219 Candler Hall, 202 Herty Drive, Athens, GA 30602-1942. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline by August 1, 2026. Applications received by October 1, 2025, will be assured full consideration.
Georgia is well known for its quality of life, outdoor and cultural amenities, and affordability (https://www.exploregeorgia.org and https://www.georgia.org/competitive-advantages/life-georgia). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15729

Columbia University
Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Social Science Division of the Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences at Pepperdine University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Political Science to begin August 1, 2026. We are open to various areas of expertise within the fields of either U.S. or international politics. An interest in teaching an introductory U.S. government course that serves the general education program of Seaver College, an introductory statistics course for the social sciences, or a course on Hispanic or Latin American politics would be welcome regardless of specialty. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, an active scholarly agenda, and a commitment to excellent teaching in a Christian liberal arts environment.

Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Application Instructions

The standard application documents are:

--Letter of application
--Curriculum vitae
--Names and contact information for three references. These should be the same individuals who will provide a Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation if you proceed with the interview process.
--Transcripts of all graduate work. (Unofficial copies are acceptable for the application; however, official transcripts may be required for selected applicants.)
--Personal Statement. Reflect on Pepperdine's Christian mission and address your pattern of support for generally accepted Christian values and the University's mission, your active participation in a faith community, and your practice or vision for integrating faith and learning in the classroom.
--[Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Three current letters of reference. All letters should be specific to the position and completed within one year prior to the date of submission. The name and email address for each individual providing a letter of recommendation is required when submitting an application.

--[Teaching statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Teaching statement. Please reflect on your values, beliefs, and goals regarding the teaching and learning process and any pedagogical practices used or envisioned to achieve these goals. Two to three pages maximum length.
--[Research Statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Research Statement. Outline your short- and long-term objectives and goals for your research and/or creative activities. Please reflect on currently published or presented work(s) as a foundation for the statement. Two to three pages maximum length.

To submit application materials please go to this URL: https://apply.interfolio.com/171069

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/29/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15714

DePaul University

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure track) - Political Science: International Relations
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Political Economy, South America

The Department of Political Science at DePaul University invites applications for a full time, tenure-track position with primary expertise in the field of International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor. Responsibilities will include teaching courses on International Relations, Political Economy, International Security and American Foreign Policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the Honors program of the University. An ability to teach research methods or courses on Latin America will be viewed favorably.

With a total enrollment over 21,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet class sizes are typically between 20 and 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society.

For more information, e-mail polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at https://las.depaul.edu/academics/political-science/Pages/default.aspx

Qualifications
A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered.

DePaul University seeks applicants that reflect the diversity of its student body and the City of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. We urge candidates to provide examples of their successes in these areas. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions
Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi and (5) complete course evaluations if available. All candidates will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

apply.interfolio.com/169318

The screening of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15686

Hebrew University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

Tenure Track Positions (Open rank)
Department of International Relations
The Hebrew University of Jerusalem

The Department of International Relations at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks to fill two open-rank positions beginning Fall 2026:

1) Position in International Relations/Global Studies: We seek excellent candidates from all academic ranks who can complement the strengths of our department in all areas and subfields of International Relations and adjacent subfields, broadly defined, including but not limited to security studies, foreign policy analysis, conflict and peace science, great-power politics, political economy, international political thought, global governance, transnational networks and flows, and environmental politics.

2) Position in Gender and International Relations: We seek excellent candidates from all academic ranks who have a proven record of excellence in cutting edge research and teaching in Gender and International Relations. We are especially interested in candidates with a substantive focuson gender, conflict resolution and peace. The holder of this position is expected to take on a leadership role in the development of research and teaching on Gender and IR at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. We encourage applications from scholars of all approaches to the study of gender. We especially seek candidates who can complement the strengths of our department in other areas of International Relations.

Candidates for both positions should be able to teach undergraduate and graduate-level classes as well as mentor students.

Junior and senior scholars are encouraged to apply. Advanced doctoral candidates are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than 1 October 2026.

The deadline for applications is 10 October 2025. Candidates selected by the Department of International Relations require the approval of the Faculty of Social Sciences.

The Department of International Relations and the Hebrew University are committed to diversity and equal opportunity.

Please submit all application materials electronically at http://ttp.huji.ac.il.

The applicants will be asked to upload:

- A letter of intent stating willingness to begin teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem in the fall of 2026
- A list of required and elective courses that can be taught at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem
- A scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years
- A Curriculum Vitae, including teaching experience
- Three writing samples
- Teaching evaluations, if available

Three letters of recommendation should be sent directly according to the guidelines in the application website.

For questions regarding the search please contact Prof. Devorah Manekin at: dmanekin@mail.huji.ac.il

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15677

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Department of Government and Law and the International Affairs Program at Lafayette College invite applications for a shared tenure-track position in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar whose teaching and research focus on the politics of development in the Global South, with expertise in topics such as, but not limited to, political economy, global inequality, and/or international organizations. Preference will be given to candidates with a regional focus in South Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA). Acknowledging the vibrant diversity of studies of socioeconomic transformations in the Global South, we welcome innovative theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate that the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach introductory as well as intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise for the Government and Law Department and the International Affairs Program and is expected to maintain an active research agenda. The Department and Program especially welcome applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170245. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Professor Seo-Hyun Park (parksh@lafayette.edu) and Professor Caleb Gallemore (gallemoc@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15661

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program
Subfield(s): Open, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) at Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program for the 2026-27 academic year. As a leading global institution in interdisciplinary research on international issues, PIIRS is dedicated to advancing innovative scholarship that addresses the world's most pressing challenges. The PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellows Program is integral to that mission.

We will award two postdoctoral fellowships to our 2026-27 cohort. PIIRS seeks recent PhDs in the Social Sciences who have demonstrated exceptional scholarship, congruent with the Institute's intellectual focus, that simultaneously advances theoretical debates in their disciplinary field; creatively speaks to and engages with a multidisciplinary audience; and deepens substantive regional knowledge of specific places.

Appointments are for one year (12 months) with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding. Postdoctoral Research Associates (PDRAs) are expected to be in residence at Princeton or the local vicinity for the entire academic year or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. The position requires PDRAs to be on campus at least four days per week.

Leveraging Princeton's scholarly resources, fellows will focus on research, expand their intellectual horizons, and prepare work for publication. They will have biweekly meetings with the faculty director to share their work, and monthly meetings with faculty fellows from various social sciences to present their work and learn from others. Fellows are also encouraged to engage with colleagues and attend departmental seminars.

Applicants must demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and promise. To be eligible, applicants generally cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, at the beginning of the academic year on September 1, 2026.

The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' scholarly record; the promise of the proposed research; and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the postdoctoral program (with interest in connecting with other PIIRS and Princeton departments on campus).

In addition to a competitive salary, benefits, and housing subsidy, the program will provide the Fellow with the opportunity to host a small, pre-publication, book workshop; and a research fund of $4,000 per year.
Applicants must apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39141. Applications are due by September 15, 2025 (11:59 p.m. EST). The following application items should be uploaded by the applicant:

*Cover letter
*Curriculum vitae
*Transcripts
*Research Proposal indicating plans for two-year postdoc (maximum 5 pages double-spaced)
*Dissertation abstract (including Table of Contents)
*Writing sample: one chapter of the dissertation or one published article related to dissertation topic.
*Document confirming either that you have completed all requirements for the PhD degree or a letter signed by your dissertation advisor indicating that you will complete the PhD by the start date of the fellowship.
*The names and email addresses of three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline.

Further information can be found at https://piirs.princeton.edu/funding-fellowships/piirs-postdoctoral-fellows.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 7/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15652

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Defense

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs and the Wilson Center for Leadership in the Public Interest at Hampden-Sydney College invite applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment in security studies at the Assistant Professor level, beginning Fall 2026. The successful applicant will have research and teaching interests on topics including U.S. and international security, intelligence and cybersecurity, and the history and ethics of irregular warfare. Faculty teach in a 6-6-7 course rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College highly values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a spirit for collaborative professional service to the broader College community. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or related field at the time of appointment; ABDs close to completion will be considered.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, sample syllabi research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College at https://apply.interfolio.com/169215. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025.

About Hampden-Sydney College
Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning." As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse staff committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 7/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15648

University of Oxford

Rank: Associate Professor of International Business
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, International Relations
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

Saïd Business School and St Antony's College are recruiting an Associate Professor of International Business. For this post, the School welcomes applications from early career candidates (i.e., scholars who have completed or will very soon complete their PhD), postdoctoral researchers (i.e., scholars who are currently in a postdoc position), and faculty who are already a tenure-track faculty member. At Oxford the rank of Associate Professor includes faculty that would elsewhere be considered of Assistant or Associate Professor rank.

The position is tenable from 1 September 2026 or at a different date by negotiation. The position is associated with a non-tutorial fellowship at St Antony's College.

We are inviting applications from those with a background in International Business, broadly defined, who are committed to a programme of intellectually rigorous and relevant scholarship in global strategy, comparative political economy of business, and international political economy, that is publishable in top academic management journals (as defined, for instance, by the Financial Times's 48 peer-reviewed academic journals), top social science journals and as books with top academic publishers.

The successful candidate will join the International Business group which conducts research addressing pressing global issues, such as sustainability and labour standards in global value chains, innovation in emerging markets, digital transformation (including the adoption of artificial intelligence) and future of work, and state capacity and its implication for business. The group takes a distinct multi-level perspective to studying the political economy of international business.

An important focus of the group, therefore, is to study how system-level institutions affect, and are affected by, organizational strategies, management and politics. Many of the group members engage actively with colleagues from other parts of Oxford in formal and informal research collaborations. The group is also committed to mixed methods in research, ranging from qualitative methods to experimental and quantitative methods. We therefore strongly encourage applicants from any methodological background as we continue to broaden the methodological interests of our group.

The duties for this post include research, teaching and service to the business school, college and wider University. Full details of the duties can be found at the link below.

If you would like to discuss this post and find out more about joining the academic community at Oxford, please contact akshay.mangla@sbs.ox.ac.uk

All enquiries will be treated in strict confidence and will not form part of the selection decision.

To apply, please follow this link: https://my.corehr.com/pls/uoxrecruit/erq_jobspec_version_4.display_form?p_company=10&p_internal_external=E&p_display_in_irish=N&p_process_type=&p_applicant_no=&p_form_profile_detail=&p_display_apply_ind=Y&p_refresh_search=Y&p_recruitment_id=178440

The closing date for applications is 12.00 noon (UK time) on Monday 29 September 2025

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/29/2025
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15636

National University of Singapore

Rank: Head of Department position (Full Professor level with tenure)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for the position of Head of Department at the rank of full professor or higher (endowed chair professor). Research and teaching specialisation is open, although candidates should contribute to one or more of the Department's four subfields: comparative politics, governance and public policy, international relations, and political theory.

The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a demonstrable commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership to implement a strategic vision, with the support of department faculty, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Interested candidates should submit a CV, cover letter that addresses the qualifications outlined above, research statement (approx. two pages), teaching statement (approx. two pages), and names and addresses of at least four references.

Review of applications will begin in August 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Campus visits for selected candidates will be arranged for October 2025. The position is expected to commence in January 2027. Questions about the position should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor William Bain (wbain@nus.edu.sg).

Exceptional candidates at the rank of senior associate professor are welcome to apply, subject to being promoted to full professor upon appointment at NUS.

The Department of Political Science is a vibrant multidisciplinary community comprised of over 25 tenure- and educator-track faculty members. The Department offers degrees in Political Science and Global Studies at the undergraduate level and in Political Science at the Masters and Doctoral levels. It also partners with the International Political Science Association (IPSA) to host the IPSA-NUS Summer School in Social Science Research Methods annually. It is one of 16 departments in a large Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, which is home to a comprehensive range of programmes in Asian Studies, Humanities, Social Science, and Language Studies. The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Asia Research Institute, the Asia-Europe Foundation, the East Asian Institute, the ISEAS–Yusof Ishak Institute, among other research units inside and outside NUS, provide additional opportunities for research interaction and collaboration.

NUS offers an internationally competitive remuneration package that includes a period of subsidised housing (for non-Singaporean applicants), annual performance bonus, medical benefits, and relocation expenses (where applicable). Outstanding applicants might also be considered for endowed/chair professorship that comes with annual research support and business class travel eligibility. NUS provides significant research support, including generous start-up grants for new faculty members.

Please submit your application through the NUS Career Portal : https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Professor-&-Head-of-Department-%28Political-Science%29/29011-en_GB/

Qualifications
The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a strong commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership in co-creating with department faculty to implement a strategic vision, consistent with NUS' research and teaching mission, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/27/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15591

National University of Singapore
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites application for one full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor. We welcome applications from candidates working in all subfields, including but not limited to international relations (including non-traditional security and human security), international political economy, gender politics, global studies, and governance and public policy. We also encourage applications from candidates with research experience relating to Asia and whose backgrounds are traditionally underrepresented in the discipline.

The teaching load is three courses per academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonus and salary increment, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support. Successful candidates are expected to teach graduate and undergraduate classes and take a leading role in developing new departmental initiatives. Candidates with publications in top outlets who conduct innovative and impactful research using, eg. computational methods, may also be invited to apply for the Presidential Young Professorship. https://www.nus.edu.sg/careers/nus-programmes/

The Department of Political Science (http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/) includes scholars working in all areas of political science, as well as an interdisciplinary Global Studies programme examining the processes and effects of globalisation across political, economic, social, and cultural domains (https://fass.nus.edu.sg/globalstudies). Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation, the Institute of South Asian Studies, the East Asia Institute, and the Yusof Ishak Institute—Institute of Southeast Asian Studies among others. NUS (http://www.nus.edu.sg/) is a global leader in research and higher education. Singapore is a highly livable global city that is a major regional and international travel hub.

Interested applicants are invited to apply directly at our NUS Career Portal: https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Assistant-Professor-in-Political-Science/28742-en_GB/ .

Applicants should submit the following documents:

1. Cover letter clearly detailing their research and teaching interests.
2. Curriculum vitae.
3. Three letters of reference. Please send all letters directly to pol-ir@nus.edu.sg .
4. A research statement of no more than 2 pages stating your research interests and research plans for the next 3 years.
5. A teaching statement of no more than 2 pages, as well as sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and/or other evidence of teaching quality.
6. Up to three writing samples

For full consideration, please submit your materials to this website by 1 July 2025. Applications received after this date may still be considered until the position is filled.

For any queries, please write to: pol-ir@nus.edu.sg.

Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15580

Hampden-Sydney College
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in Fall 2025. Candidates should have expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The Department seeks applicants who can offer intermediate courses in European politics, international relations theory and/or international organization. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program or teach introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach in a 6-6-7 course rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or be advanced ABD in political science at the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College at http://apply.interfolio.com/161830. Review of applications will begin February 15, 2025.

Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning." As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse staff committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 2/15/2025
Date Posted: 1/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15335

Yale University
Rank: Identity & Conflict Lab: Postdoctoral Associate, 2025-26

The Identity & Conflict Lab (ICL) at Yale University, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis, seeks to appoint up to two exceptional candidates as Postdoctoral Associates for the 2025-2026 academic year. This opportunity is for a one-year, full-time residential postdoctoral research fellowship, with potential to renew for one year conditional on successful performance. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2025.

Housed in the MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the ICL addresses a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict and identity politics. The ICL analyzes how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and what interventions are effective in reducing inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are considered, ranging from bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war.

Postdoctoral associates will work in one of ICL's ongoing projects in the following two thematic areas: (1) measuring norms of good citizenship across countries; (2) conducting experimental interventions to reduce native-immigrant conflict in Europe with a primary focus on Greece; and (3) analyzing sources of the escalation of foreign policy disputes. Postdoctoral associates may also be asked to contribute to projects in other areas/ongoing projects on a variety of different topics related to the broad theme of "identity and conflict." Most of the research currently in progress uses quantitative methods, with an emphasis on experimental methods. The ICL seeks to integrate substantive and methodological knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to develop new analytical approaches and new insights into these thematic areas with a view to shaping new directions in scholarly literatures as well as influencing policy design.

Postdoctoral associates will be expected to work three days/week on ICL projects under the direction of Professor Nicholas Sambanis and can pursue their own research for the remainder of their work time.

Job responsibilities may include the following: Collect and clean data; program complex surveys in Qualtrics; prepare IRB applications; manage logistical details of field projects; prepare scripts and do-files for statistical analysis in Stata and R; prepare visualizations of quantitative data/results; draft short reports with project results; assist with the drafting of grant proposals; review/comment projects by other ICL affiliates; and co-author papers and reports with the Lab Director and affiliated faculty. Associates may be asked to contribute to the ICL Director's engagement with funders and agencies that enable the ICL's work by preparing power-point presentations of ICL projects and drafting non-technical summaries of results from different projects. Associates will also assist with preparing replication files for published studies, and help manage the ICL website and seminar series.

There is no formal teaching requirement. Associates will be asked to co-organize with the Director the ICL's annual conference or the workshop, which holds meetings throughout the year. Associates will be expected to give at least one presentation of their research at the workshop or at a graduate-level course led by the ICL Director. They would also be expected to engage with research by graduate students who are affiliated with the ICL.

The salary for this position is commensurate with experience and complies with the Yale Office of Postdoctoral Affairs compensation policy and includes a benefits package.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2023, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2025. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting on November 25, 2023. Applications will be received until December 15, 2024. Successful applicants will be contacted by mid-January 2025.

Successful applicants will have excellent training in quantitative methods with an emphasis on statistical analysis, survey methods and experimental methods. Excellent knowledge of the statistical software Stata and R is required as is expertise in programming surveys in Qualtrics. Applicants should have outstanding organizational and communication skills and prior experience using large databases. They should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; they should be able to work independently, but also as part of a team and be sensitive to the demands of multiple simultaneously ongoing projects; they should be able to multi-task and respond to feedback quickly. Applicants must be willing to travel for fieldwork if necessary. Training in behavioral economics and/or social psychology is a plus as several of the Lab's projects cross disciplinary boundaries.

Application Instructions
All application materials must be submitted online through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/158750

Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation (only references for short-listed candidates will be requested).

If you have questions, please email the ICL Director at nicholas.sambanis@yale.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/12/2025
Date Posted: 11/12/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15189

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

METHODOLOGY

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Assistant Professor

Political Methodology. The Department of Political Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, with appointment beginning July 1, 2026. We seek a scholar doing innovative research in any area of quantitative political methodology and applied experimental methods, broadly defined. We welcome applications from scholars whose work crosses traditional subfield or disciplinary boundaries, who show promise of research excellence and a desire to train and work with students from a variety of backgrounds.
The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is committed to providing an environment where all members of our community can learn, work, and thrive. The University is firmly committed to maintaining a campus environment free from discrimination, harassment, and related misconduct. In accordance with its Policy Statement on Non-Discrimination, the University does not unlawfully discriminate in offering equal access to its educational programs and activities or with respect to employment terms and conditions on the basis of an individual's Age, Color, Disability, Gender, Gender Expression, Gender Identity, Genetic Information, Race, National Origin, Religion, Sex, Sexual Orientation, or Veteran Status.

Review of applications will begin October 24, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for the position, please follow this link: https://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/307025 . Please include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching portfolio (including a teaching statement and any available teaching evaluations or other evidence of potential for teaching excellence), and a research-focused writing sample.

Applicants will be required to identify the names, titles, and email addresses of FOUR professional references at the time of application (please note that four are required). Recommenders will be contacted via email with instructions for uploading their letters of support. Alternatively, applicants may list Interfolio as a reference. Please see https://www.interfolio.com/blog/faq/how-do-i-send-a-letter-to-interfolio/ for instructions. Applicants may also list the email of a Graduate Coordinator who will upload their references. Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265; https://politicalscience.unc.edu. To facilitate a systematic and equitable review of applicants, people wishing to support a particular applicant are requested to provide such support within a formal letter of reference. They are discouraged from contacting current faculty members directly to support particular individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/24/2025
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15993

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (Security Studies)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Assistant Professor, Comparative Security Studies
The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning assistant professor in comparative security studies anticipated to begin August 2026.

The ideal candidate will have a well-developed research agenda that focuses on areas such as contentious political behavior, political violence, regime instability, democratic backsliding, authoritarian regimes, human security, civil wars, civil-military relations, or other security studies subfields. The ideal candidate will have an ability to teach courses in security studies at the undergraduate and graduate levels and will be expected to contribute to the Security Studies PhD program. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.
For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.

For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.
UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

Minimum qualifications:
A doctorate in Political Science, Security Studies, or International Affairs (or a closely related field) from an accredited institution at the time of appointment is required.

Preference will be given to candidates who
- have a demonstrated record of high-quality publications in security studies
- have a promising research agenda that reflects theoretical creativity and empirical sophistication
- have a record of, or potential for, external research funding as appropriate for the discipline
- can teach courses related to comparative security at the undergraduate and graduate levels
- can teach qualitative and/or quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels
- can contribute to the Security Studies PhD program through doctoral student supervision

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names, phone numbers, and email addresses for three professional references (please do not submit reference letters).

NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.

The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to Mehmet Gurses, Search Committee Chair, at Mehmet.Gurses@ucf.edu

Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All application materials must be submitted before the October 17, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15987

London School of Economics and Political Science
Rank: Assistant Professor in Computational Social Science

The Department of Methodology is a leading centre for research and education in social science research methods. The Department has a thriving research culture, with its members advancing research in core social science disciplines as well as in research methodology. It leads the provision of research methods education to graduate students across the range of disciplines at LSE. The Department is recruiting an Assistant Professor in Computational Social Science with expertise in quantitative methods.

Based in the Department of Methodology, the post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

Applicants should have completed a PhD, or be close to obtaining a PhD, and have research expertise in in applying computational and quantitative methods to an empirical social science discipline or disciplines. They should have a track record or trajectory of internationally excellent publications and the ability to teach a range of computational social data science courses.. We are especially interested in candidates who use generative AI to address methodological and substantive research questions and who can develop new courses in this area.

The full set of criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see follow this link: https://jobs.lse.ac.uk/Vacancies/W/5265/0/457122/15539/assistant-professor-in-computational-social-science

To apply for this post, please go to www.jobs.lse.ac.uk. If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email p.sturgis@lse.ac.uk

The closing date for receipt of applications is Sunday 26 October 2025 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/26/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15932

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Lecturer

The University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for TWO lecturer positions in its interdisciplinary Data Analytics & Computational Social Science program, housed within the School of Public Policy. The first of these (with a preferred start date of January 28, 2026) will have as its focus undergraduate education, teaching primarily courses for our new undergraduate certificate. The second (with a start date of September 1, 2026) will primarily involve instruction in graduate courses. Candidates who wish to be considered for each position must apply separately to each (see individual application links below). Application review for both positions will begin during the first week of October and will continue until the respective position is filled.

Job Description (Undergraduate Focus)

The interdisciplinary Data Analytics and Computational Social Science Program at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (9-month) lecturer in data analytics and quantitative/computational methods for the social and behavioral sciences. The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching three course sections per semester, either primarily or exclusively to undergraduate students. In addition to teaching introductory courses such as Mathematics for the Social World and Fundamentals of Data Analytics for Social Science (in R), they may be asked to teach more advanced courses such as Applied Regression and/or Data-Driven Storytelling. The successful candidate will have an opportunity to collaborate with the Program Director on developing new courses based on their interests, for example: responsible use of generative AI, machine learning, computational text analysis, social network analysis, survey methods, social simulation & agent-based modeling, GIS/spatial analysis.

The initial appointment is for two years, with anticipated reappointments for another two years and the possibility of a continuing reappointment thereafter, under union-bargained guidelines. All reappointments are contingent upon funding availability and satisfactory performance. The preferred start date is January 28, 2026.

For additional details, minimum position requirements, and to submit an application, visit the website here: https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528323/lecturer-data-analytics-computational-social-science-dacss

Inquiries about this position can be directed to the search chair: Justin Gross, jhgross@umass.edu.

Job Description (Graduate Focus)

The Data Analytics and Computational Social Science (DACSS) Program at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (9-month academic year) non-tenure track Lecturer position in Data Analytics and Computational Social Science. The successful candidate will be expected to offer three unique in-person or online courses each year (6 total sections), including at least one of the four DACSS core courses covering topics in data science, quantitative analysis, research design, and data communication; and at least one technical elective covering topics such as text data, networks, machine learning, surveys, experiments, simulations, Bayesian inference, and advanced quantitative analysis. We are especially interested in courses on the applied use of generative AI, including courses on developing and using agentic systems and on using generative AI for analysis. All courses will be taught with guidance from a UMass faculty mentor.

This is a two-year position, with the expectation of reappointment contingent upon funding and the candidate's performance. The preferred start date is September 1, 2026.

For additional details, minimum position requirements, and to submit an application, visit the website here: https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528377/lecturer-data-analytics-computational-social-science-dacss

Inquiries about this position can be directed to the search chair: Doug Rice, drrice@umass.edu.

About UMass Amherst

The flagship of the Commonwealth, the University of Massachusetts Amherst is a nationally ranked public land-grant research university that seeks to expand educational access, fuel innovation and creativity, and share and use its knowledge for the common good. Founded in 1863, UMass Amherst sits on nearly 1,450-acres in scenic Western Massachusetts and boasts state-of-the-art facilities for teaching, research, scholarship, and creative activity. The institution advances a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community where everyone feels connected and valued—and thrives, and offers a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees across 10 schools and colleges, and 100 undergraduate majors. We believe every member of our university community can contribute to our ongoing success by striving for the highest level of excellence as we seek breakthrough solutions to mounting environmental, social, economic, and technological challenges in our world.

The University of Massachusetts Amherst welcomes all qualified applicants and complies with all state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15921

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars specializing in American political behavior, broadly defined, who are also able to o??er undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology or social data analytics. We welcome candidates whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, public opinion, electoral behavior, the role of AI in democracy, democratic principles, representation, political participation, political psychology, partisanship, polarization, gender, or race/ethnicity.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on American political behavior. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071408-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15912

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College seeks a teacher-scholar for appointment as a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor, to begin as early as July 1, 2026. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science. With an emphasis on tackling social science questions, relevant fields for this search include economics, geography, political science, social psychology, sociology, applied mathematics, statistics, demography, and related disciplines.

Applicants should have a strong methodological background and should seek to (1) conduct social science research using advanced quantitative or game theoretic methods; (2) teach and develop courses in research design, statistical methods, and/or game theoretic methods at the undergraduate level; and (3) facilitate the continuing development of the QSS program. The person in this position will teach methods courses in the QSS curriculum and also strengthen ties between QSS and other departments at Dartmouth that rely on statistical, computational, and/or game theoretic methods for research. QSS averages approximately 50 majors per year and approximately 20 percent of its graduating students write honors theses. Keen interest in mentoring of undergraduates is a must for the person in this position, along with a demonstrated interest in encouraging students of all backgrounds and disciplinary interests.

Dartmouth is committed to academic excellence and encourages the open exchange of ideas within a culture of mutual respect. Dartmouth welcomes people with different backgrounds, life experiences, and perspectives and believes that diversity in all its forms enhances academic excellence. Applicants should address in their cover letter how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to serve Dartmouth's commitment to academic excellence in an environment that is welcoming to all.

Qualifications

Qualified candidates should have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, or be ABD with degree conferred by the start date. Effective classroom teaching is essential to this position as is interest in leadership of QSS.
Application Instructions

Please submit all materials electronically via Interfolio - https://apply.interfolio.com/172357. Letters may be addressed to Professor Brendan Nyhan.

Cover Letter, addressing all relevant aspects of the position description;
CV, including contact information for three references;
Two (2) writing samples that together demonstrate strong skills in applied statistical methods, research design, and/or game theoretic methods.
Three (3) letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on November 10, 2025, and continue until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Professor Brendan Nyhan: Brendan.J.Nyhan@dartmouth.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15889

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

The University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at the University of Chicago invites applications for an Assistant Professor in Quantitative Methods. This position will begin on or after July 1, 2026. The department is especially interested in candidates who can assist graduate training in quantitative methods. The search is open with respect to additional substantive subfields.

Candidates must have completed all requirements for the PhD degree prior to the start of the appointment.

Applicants must apply at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at https://apply.interfolio.com/172391. Applications must include a 1) cover letter, 2) CV, 3) teaching statement, 4) research statement, and 5) contact information for at least three recommenders that may be contacted at a later date. Short-listed candidates may be asked to submit supplemental documents. Consideration of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled or the search has ended.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15834

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Computational Social Science

POSITION DESCRIPTION
The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for an open rank faculty position at the level of Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Computational Social Science, starting in Fall 2026. We are seeking candidates with expertise in developing and applying cutting-edge computational and quantitative methods to the study of politics as well as a demonstrated ability to work across disciplines. Areas of methods focus may include, but are not limited to, AI, machine learning, deep learning, digital experimentation, natural language processing, network analysis, text analysis, big-data analytics, or system dynamics.

The successful candidate is expected to direct a new interdisciplinary Ph.D. program in Computational Social Science in the College of Arts & Sciences with a tenure home department in Political Science.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's mission is to "inspire an enlightened community that is characterized by vibrant cultural diversity; that embraces difference; that is built upon a learning environment that fosters respect, understanding, and social justice; and that rejects prejudice and intolerance." Our department seeks candidates whose principles align with that mission.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
The successful candidate will be expected to have strong skills in computational social science with a substantive research program on politics informed by innovative quantitative, data-intensive, or computationally-intensive techniques. Competitive candidates will have a scholarly track record with evidence of high-quality research in their respective field of study as well as demonstrated potential in program leadership, advising and mentoring of Ph.D. students, and curriculum development.

The successful candidate will be responsible for directing the new interdisciplinary Ph.D. program in Computational Social Science (CSS) within the College of Arts & Sciences. As the Director, the candidate will lead the development and refinement of its curriculum, foster interdisciplinary collaborations, and oversee recruitment, advising, and mentoring of Ph.D. students. This position will involve working closely with faculty across multiple social science departments to ensure the program remains at the cutting edge of computational methodologies and their applications in the social sciences.

The Computational Social Science program's administrative home resides within the Political Science Department; this position will split their teaching and service duties across the CSS and traditional Political Science programs.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ph.D. in Political Science, Computational Social Science, or in a closely related discipline.
2) Expertise in one or more of the following areas: computational social science, big-data analytics, machine learning, AI, natural language processing, text analysis, or network analysis.
3) Demonstrated ability to excel in teaching advanced coursework on applications of innovative quantitative, data-intensive, or computationally-intensive techniques in the social sciences.
4) Demonstrated experience in advising and mentoring of students.
5) Evidence of research in the area of computational social science, with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.
6) Demonstrated potential to develop and maintain an externally grant-funded research program relevant to Computational Social Science.
7) Demonstrated interpersonal communication skills.
8) Demonstrated proficiency in written communication skills.
9) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ability to teach undergraduate research methods courses and substantive political science courses.
2) Demonstrated leadership and management skills in the areas of program development, student recruitment, and coordination of faculty and resources.
3) Demonstrated experience or interest in interdisciplinary collaboration, particularly with statistics, computer science, or related fields.
4) Demonstrated interest in developing collaborative research and/or consulting to support the interdisciplinary nature of programs within the Department, College, and the University as a whole.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:
The search will remain open until the position has been filled. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 10, 2025. Applications received after October 10, 2025 may be reviewed depending on search progress and needs but are not guaranteed full consideration.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15597

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS
Required Documents: Please attach 5 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Profile Application:
1) A letter of application that describes your interest in this position that addresses the required qualifications

2) A Curriculum Vitae that includes the names/contact information for three professional references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses taken, and course syllabi and teaching evaluations for select courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)

3) A brief research and teaching statement

4) URI is committed to fostering a welcoming, respectful, and supportive working and learning community where people from all backgrounds can thrive. We value unique and diverse perspectives, experiences, and talents that each individual brings to our campus. Please provide a statement, with examples, describing how your professional experiences, teaching, research, service, or other activities have helped create an inclusive environment in your discipline.

5) Submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15822

University of Texas, Tyler

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Methodology

Job Summary

The Department of Social Sciences at the University of Texas at Tyler is seeking a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration to teach in the Master of Public Administration program beginning August 15, 2026.

Duties include teaching a 3/3 course-load, active scholarship agenda, and service to the university and local community.

The Department of Social Sciences incorporates Anthropology, Criminal Justice, Economics, Geography, Social Work, Sociology and Public Administration. In addition to the Master of Public Administration, the Department has a Criminal Justice Master of Science degree. Applications will be accepted through September 30, 2025, with preference provided to applications received by September 15, 2025.

Key Responsibilities

· Development and implementation of graduate courses in public administration.

· Responsible for recruiting and retaining undergraduate and graduate students.

· Other related duties as assigned.

· Attend departmental meetings.

Required Qualifications

· PhD in Public Administration or related discipline from an accredited university (ABD is acceptable to apply but must have the degree awarded by August 15, 2026).

· Ability to teach online graduate courses in Public Administration.

· Evidence of teaching in an accredited community college and/or university setting or similar experience.

· Strong verbal and written communication skills.

· Ability to work independently.

· Skills and confidence with technology.

Preferred Qualifications

· Previous professional experience in the field of Public Administration.

· Ability to teach courses that may be cross listed with the Criminal Justice discipline.

Accompanying Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and Competencies

· Experience in instructional design and course development, including online teaching and active learning strategies.

· Ability to develop and maintain effective and constructive collaborative relationships with faculty and administration throughout the university.

· Record of professional activities related to criminal justice and education.

Other Information

Faculty members at UT Tyler are expected to be outstanding teachers and scholars and are able to demonstrate a commitment to service to the community and university. Additional expectations include academic advising, academic programming and assessment, service to the university, and continued professional development. Priority will be given to candidates who demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and who enthusiastically support the university's strategic plan.

About The University of Texas at Tyler

The University of Texas at Tyler is part of the prestigious University of Texas System that includes 13 institutions located throughout the state. Founded in 1971, UT Tyler today enrolls 10,000 students and consists of six colleges.

Our beautiful Tyler campus features more than 200 acres nestled along a lake and surrounded by thick pine and oak forests, providing a picturesque location for study and recreation. We also offer instructional sites at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler and in Palestine, Longview, and Houston.

With more than 80 bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs offered, UT Tyler provides a wealth of learning opportunities and dynamic programs.

For more information, please visit https://www.uttyler.edu/about/.

Additional Information

This position is security-sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code Section 51.215, which authorizes the employer to obtain criminal history record information. Applicants selected must be able to show proof of eligibility to work in the United States by time of hire.

EEO/AA Statement

The University of Texas at Tyler is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, status as a protected veteran, among other things, or status as a qualified individual with a disability.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15816

National Tsing Hua University

Rank: Full Time tenure-track/ tenure position in International Relations or Political Behavior
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Political Behavior

National Tsing Hua University
Taipei School of Economics and Political Science (TSE)

Position: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, Full Professor
Job Description: Full Time, Tenured Track
Location of Work: Hsinchu, Taiwan
Language of Instruction: English
Start of Employment: August 2026 onwards
Qualification: Applicants must have or expect a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Economics, or related fields. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in research as well as in teaching.
Fields of Specialty:
(1) Conflict, security, or international political economy, with a regional focus on Asia;
(2) Political behavior or data science, applied to topics broadly related to (but not limited to) democratic backsliding, autocratization, judicial politics, elections, clientelism, social media, gender politics, ethnic politics, migration, and inequality.
Compensation: TSE offers a competitive compensation package which carries full tenure-track benefits, including enrollment in National Health Insurance, pension, and retirement benefits.
About TSE:
TSE is dedicated to high-quality post-graduate education in political economy. We currently offer Master degree program in Asian Political Economy, Global Political Economy, and Economic Development as well as Ph.D. degree program in Political Science and Economics. We emphasize interdisciplinary study and integrated economics and political science training and research. International students comprise over 80 percent of our student body. We look for economists and political scientists with strong training in theory, research methodology, quantitative skills, and with a keen interest in policy research.
About NTHU:
Founded in 1911, National Tsing Hua University (NTHU) is a leading comprehensive research university located in Hsinchu, Taiwan, a hub for high-tech innovation. Since its re-establishment in 1956, NTHU has grown into a world-class institution offering over 140 degree programs across 12 colleges. Renowned for cutting-edge research and a distinguished faculty, NTHU is consistently ranked among the top universities in East Asia. Our alumni include Nobel laureates and global leaders, reflecting the university's rich academic history and commitment to excellence.
How to Apply:
To apply for these positions, please submit the following documents as a single PDF (or a download link) to the TSE office (tse@my.nthu.edu.tw), specifying your field and area of specialty in the email.

The recommendation letters must be sent directly to tse@my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.

(1) Curriculum Vitae
(2) Cover Letter
(3) Representative Publications: Please provide at least three representative publications from the last five years. For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, at least one Job Market Paper and a copy of dissertation (draft) are required. Other research papers are preferred but not required.
(4) Degree Certificate: Please provide a copy of the doctoral degree certificate or certification for the completion of coursework and successful defense of the dissertation. For applicants who have not yet passed the oral examination, a letter certifying the completion of coursework and the imminent scheduling of the oral examination is required.
(5) Transcripts/Certificate or Proofs for Appointments: For new Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates, please provide the Transcripts. For applicants who are neither new Ph.D.s nor Ph.D. candidates, please provide a certificate or proof of your current position at any academic institution instead.
(6) Statement of Research Interests
(7) Teaching Evaluations (preferred but not required)
(8) Three recommendation letters: the recommendation letters may be submitted through JOE, or sent directly to tse@my.nthu.edu.tw by the referees, respective departments, or via services such as Interfolio.
Application Deadline: October 15 2025 (Taipei time, GMT+8). Early applications submitted by September 10, 2025 (prior to the APSA Annual Meeting) are strongly encouraged.
To see a full description of our program, please visit the following website: www.tse.nthu.edu.tw, or contact us via email at tse@my.nthu.edu.tw.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15787

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Psychology
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Political Psychology, Electoral Behavior, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Stony Brook University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Political Psychology. This position would begin in Fall 2026. The department is interested in applicants with expertise in any substantive area of Political Psychology including but not limited to partisanship and polarization, ideology and belief systems, democratic norms, misinformation and political communication, intergroup relations, political affect, and decision making. Successful candidates will have a strong record of demonstrated research excellence. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching courses at the Undergraduate and/or Graduate level, developing and conducting a rigorous research agenda and disseminating research findings. Additional duties include fostering inclusive teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels, and participating in faculty governance at the departmental, college, and university levels.

Qualifications
Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. (or foreign equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field in hand by August 31, 2026. Research that employs a political psychology framework to the study of American and/or comparative political behavior; well versed in the research literature in political psychology

Preferred Qualifications:
Demonstrated record of the following, as evidenced by the applicant's CV, letters of recommendation, and supporting materials:
Record of producing high-quality research
Strong research background and training
Strong publication record
Research interests in political behavior, American politics, or comparative politics
Experience teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate level

Application Instructions
Please apply at https://apply.interfolio.com/170193

Submit the following materials to Interfolio:
1. Cover Letter that includes how their professional experiences have prepared them to contribute to an academic community that values excellence, innovation, and access
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Samples of written work
4. Teaching statement
5. Research statement
6. Three confidential letters of reference, submitted via Interfolio

For questions regarding this position, please contact the search chair, Distinguished Professor Leonie Huddy at Leonie.Huddy@stonybrook.edu.

For full consideration please submit your materials by 11:59 PM Eastern Time on Monday, September 15, 2025.

All application materials must be submitted online. The names of applicants will be kept confidential until a list of finalists is confirmed. Please use the Apply Now button to begin your application. For technical support, please visit Interfolio's Support Site (https://support.interfolio.com/) or reach out to their Scholar Service Team at help@interfolio.com or (877) 997-8807.

Special Notes: This is a FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA.

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

In accordance with the Title II Crime Awareness and Security Act, a copy of our crime statistics is available upon request by calling (631) 632- 6350. It can also be viewed online at the University Police website at http://www.stonybrook.edu/police.

About the Department:
The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in research and scholarship, graduate student training, undergraduate teaching and learning, public outreach, and the promotion of responsible citizenship. It contributes to the generation of knowledge about politics and aims to deepen scholarly and public understanding of political institutions and the citizenry. The department seeks to prepare students for successful careers in government, academics, and the private sector. In addition to the M.A. in Public Policy program, the Department administers B.A. and Ph.D. programs in Political Science, as well as an M.A. in Political Psychology. It is home to 13 tenured and tenure-track faculty, roughly 600 undergraduate majors and minors, staff, Political Science graduate students, and several non-tenure track full-time lecturers. The Department is ranked in the top 30 Political Science graduate programs in the most recent U.S. News & World Report rankings, and the dynamic, interdisciplinary faculty produce high-quality research that is consistently published in top-rated journals. http://www.stonybrook.edu/polsci/

About the College:
As part of a great research university, the College of Arts and Sciences at Stony Brook University focuses on scholarly creativity, connecting our disciplines of fine arts; humanities; social, behavioral and natural sciences; and mathematics with medicine, technology, culture, education, business and environment. As the largest College for the campus, we help students and faculty begin a lifetime of learning and discovery by exploring new ideas that drive innovation and inspiration across all sectors of society. http://www.stonybrook.edu/cas/

Campus Description:
Stony Brook University, one of two flagships within the State University of New York (SUNY) system, is one of America's most dynamic public universities, a center of academic excellence, and an internationally recognized research institution that is changing the world. After more than 60 years of existence, it is ranked among the top 100 universities in the nation and the top 25 public universities in the nation. It is a member of the prestigious invitation-only Association of American Universities, composed of the top 66 leading research institutions in North America. As Long Island's largest single-site employer, Stony Brook has nearly 15,000 full- and part-time employees, including 2,800 faculty and nearly 27,000 students — including almost 18,000 undergraduates — and offers more than 200 majors, minors and combined-degree programs. Located approximately 60 miles east of Manhattan on Long Island's beautiful North Shore, Stony Brook is situated on 1,454 wooded acres, encompassing 13 schools and colleges; a Research and Development Park; world-class athletics facilities, including an 8,300-seat stadium and a 4,000-seat arena; and Stony Brook Medicine, Long Island's premier academic medical center. Also part of the University is a teaching and research campus in Southampton, New York, which offers graduate arts programs and is the site of the Marine Sciences Center. In addition, Stony Brook has a role in running, and performs joint research with, Brookhaven National Laboratory, the only Department of Energy Laboratory in the Northeast. Home to the Emerson String Quartet, the Pollock-Krasner House in East Hampton, NY, and the Humanities Institute, with endeavors that extend to the Turkana Basin Institute in Kenya and the Ranomafana National Park in Madagascar, Stony Brook sustains an international reputation that cuts across the arts, humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15770

Pepperdine University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Social Science Division of the Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences at Pepperdine University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Political Science to begin August 1, 2026. We are open to various areas of expertise within the fields of either U.S. or international politics. An interest in teaching an introductory U.S. government course that serves the general education program of Seaver College, an introductory statistics course for the social sciences, or a course on Hispanic or Latin American politics would be welcome regardless of specialty. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, an active scholarly agenda, and a commitment to excellent teaching in a Christian liberal arts environment.

Review of applicants will begin on October 1, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Application Instructions

The standard application documents are:

--Letter of application
--Curriculum vitae
--Names and contact information for three references. These should be the same individuals who will provide a Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation if you proceed with the interview process.
--Transcripts of all graduate work. (Unofficial copies are acceptable for the application; however, official transcripts may be required for selected applicants.)
--Personal Statement. Reflect on Pepperdine's Christian mission and address your pattern of support for generally accepted Christian values and the University's mission, your active participation in a faith community, and your practice or vision for integrating faith and learning in the classroom.
--[Confidential Letter of Recommendation or Evaluation] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Three current letters of reference. All letters should be specific to the position and completed within one year prior to the date of submission. The name and email address for each individual providing a letter of recommendation is required when submitting an application.
--[Teaching statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Teaching statement. Please reflect on your values, beliefs, and goals regarding the teaching and learning process and any pedagogical practices used or envisioned to achieve these goals. Two to three pages maximum length.
--[Research Statement] Once selected for preliminary interviews: Research Statement. Outline your short- and long-term objectives and goals for your research and/or creative activities. Please reflect on currently published or presented work(s) as a foundation for the statement. Two to three pages maximum length.

To submit application materials please go to this URL: https://apply.interfolio.com/171069

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/29/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15714

DePaul University

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure track) - Political Science: International Relations
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Political Economy, South America

The Department of Political Science at DePaul University invites applications for a full time, tenure-track position with primary expertise in the field of International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor. Responsibilities will include teaching courses on International Relations, Political Economy, International Security and American Foreign Policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the Honors program of the University. An ability to teach research methods or courses on Latin America will be viewed favorably.

With a total enrollment over 21,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet class sizes are typically between 20 and 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society.

For more information, e-mail polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at https://las.depaul.edu/academics/political-science/Pages/default.aspx

Qualifications
A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered.

DePaul University seeks applicants that reflect the diversity of its student body and the City of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. We urge candidates to provide examples of their successes in these areas. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions
Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi and (5) complete course evaluations if available. All candidates will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

apply.interfolio.com/169318

The screening of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15686

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: Weidenbaum Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

We are pleased to announce a new Postdoctoral Fellowship in Survey Research through the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship allows new Ph.D.s and early career scholars the opportunity to contribute to cutting-edge research using high-quality survey data collected by the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship is uniquely situated at the intersection of academic and public-facing scholarship, allowing the fellow to pursue a multitude of career paths, contribute to research that directly affects important issues in American politics, and increase visibility of their research.

The Weidenbaum Center at Washington University in St. Louis invites applications from recent Ph.D. graduates for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship. The fellowship will run for 12 months, starting on or around July 1, 2025, with the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The Weidenbaum Center has supported survey data collection efforts through The American Panel Survey (TAPS), The American Social Survey (TASS), and the Weidenbaum Center Survey (WCS). The Center's most recent efforts have focused on the launch of the WCS, which is fielded three times each year, includes a sample of 3,000 respondents (2,000 general US adult population and oversample of 1,000 African Americans), with each survey paired with voter file data and web-tracking data for a subset of respondents. For more information on survey work supported by the Center, please visit: https://wc.wustl.edu/weidenbaum-center-survey-work.

The Fellow will work collaboratively with Taylor Carlson, graduate student fellows, and other Weidenbaum Center affiliates to support the launch of the Weidenbaum Center Survey and other data collection efforts through the Center. The Fellow will assist with the launch of an online dashboard that allows people to analyze and download the survey data, write public-facing reports describing key findings from the data, draft survey instruments, create publicly available data repositories, and conduct both coauthored and independent academic research.

We are seeking an individual with social science research interests who will advance the Center's mission by engaging in collaborative and independent research and who will enjoy the opportunity to contribute to public scholarship (blog posts, reports, website graphics). We are especially interested in candidates with training in survey methodology and experience with public-facing scholarship (e.g., op-eds). Candidates should detail their experience in these areas in their cover letters and showcase any of these interests in the writing sample. We anticipate that the Fellow will spend most of their time working on Center-related and coauthored projects with Taylor Carlson and other Center affiliates.

Qualifications
We invite applications from qualified candidates who will have a PhD in hand by the time of the appointment, are no more than four years from the granting of their Ph.D. at the time of the submission, and who do not yet hold tenure-track academic positions.

Applications are evaluated against a broad set of criteria with special consideration given to contributions the candidate can make to academic diversity in our University community and more specifically to the study of survey methodology or addressing contemporary issues in American society with survey data.

Application Instructions
Proposal Submission Deadline: We will begin reviewing applications on February 7 and anticipate scheduling Zoom interviews as early as late February.

Proposal Format:

Applications should include the following:

- Cover letter

- Curriculum vitae

- Research statement not to exceed 2000 words describing the dissertation project and other research

- Writing sample

- Three letters of reference

- The cover letter should be addressed to Taylor Carlson

NOTE: Please apply through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/161709

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15339

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella
Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

NON-ACADEMIC

OPEN

Florida Gulf Coast University
Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Public Administration. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses in an online Master of Public Administration program and contribute to the department's undergraduate program in Political Science; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Public Administration or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full position description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/eaglejobs/job/Assistant-Professor--Public-Administration_R0006855

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16033

Florida Gulf Coast University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Law/Judicial Politics
Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Political Science with specialization in Judicial Politics and/or Public Law, broadly defined. The successful candidate will teach lower and upper-level courses in an undergraduate Political Science program; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned. The position is open regarding secondary subfield in political science and geographic concentration.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full job description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/eaglejobs/job/Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0006842

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16032

University of South Carolina

Rank: Executive Director
Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

The South Carolina Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse at the University of South Carolina seeks to fill a 9-month, full-time, tenured faculty position at the rank of Professor, to begin August 16, 2026. The Center is flexible as to the disciplinary home of our applicants but prioritizes commitment to the Center's mission as described below.

The Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse promotes the dialogic, cultural, and civic literacies which are essential to a well-ordered and flourishing American polity. This means advancing the teaching of American history and civics, cultivation of a life-long love of learning, and a knowledge and appreciation of our founding documents, as well as the philosophic, political, literary, and religious traditions out of which they emerged. Applications are especially encouraged from scholars working in History, Politics, and Philosophy, although applications from scholars in the humanities and social sciences whose research and teaching root them firmly in this mission will also be considered. The successful applicant will be hired at the rank of Professor and should have a record of scholarly achievement and national or international recognition that places them among the leading scholars in their field. The applicant must also be eligible for appointment at the Professor level at the University of South Carolina per University policy ACAF 1.06
.
At the time of appointment, in Fall 2026, the Center will have finished its first year of growth and activity. The Executive Director will be charged with overseeing the Center's future growth including: the recruitment, appointment, and ongoing supervision of tenure-track faculty members as well as additional staff who will hold their appointments within the Center; developing and promoting the curriculum, programming, and other initiatives of the Center; building relationships with key internal and external interested parties regarding Center operations; and overseeing and adhering to a budget for Center operations. The Director should have appropriate administrative experience and a proven ability to work collegially with a wide range of faculty across the University.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

Applicants should apply online at USCJobs. Required materials include (1) a cover letter that describes their leadership experience and research and teaching interests, as well as their understanding of how they can serve the mission of the Center (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the names and email addresses of 3 references, who will be solicited only in case of an on-campus interview.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Confidential inquiries may be directed to Professor Carl Dahlman, Director of the Walker Institute and Interim Associate Dean for Natural Sciences, McCausland College of Arts and Sciences, at carl.dahlman@sc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 16035

Wabash College
Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar in Residence

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men located in Crawfordsville, Indiana, seeks applicants to fill a Post-doctoral Scholar-in-Residence position to be housed in the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism.

The Post-doctoral Scholar-in-Residencies are residential fellowships that support full-time research and publication efforts. The duration of the appointment is one academic year with the possibility of renewal for a second-year term.

The disciplinary field, project design, and research approach are open. Successful applicants will have an interest in engaging with our students and participating in the intellectual life of the College and Institute during the fellowship. Applicants will propose a project that contributes to one or more of the subject areas and research topics of particular interest to the Stephenson Institute's mission:

- The institutional and cultural conditions of individual rights and legal equality
- Free inquiry, free expression, free speech, and the market-place of ideas
- The relationship(s) between market economies and government intervention
- The role of personal responsibility in a free society
- Comparative and historical investigations of differing property rights regimes
- Comparative political economy and comparative political philosophy

Applicants are invited in their proposals to offer other ideas for how they might contribute to the Institute's programming and areas of student engagement. While the primary focus of the position is research, any Scholar-in-Residence will also contribute to campus conversations via participation in Institute programming. There are no formal teaching expectations, but candidates who desire to teach a course should indicate that interest in their materials. A teaching placement is at the full discretion of the relevant academic department.

Preferred start date is July 1, 2026. This position provides salary, benefits, office space, relocation costs, and a generous fund to support research, travel, and related needs. Salary will be commensurate with relevant experience and academic field.

About Wabash College and the Stephenson Institute
Wabash College is a private, independent, residential four-year liberal arts college for men located in Crawfordsville, Indiana. Founded in 1832, its mission is to "educate men to think critically, act responsibly, lead effectively, and live humanely." Our 92-acre wooded campus is located 50 miles west of Indianapolis and three hours from Chicago.

Established in 2021, the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism is a non-partisan academic research center. We provide teaching, learning, and research opportunities for motivated students and faculty at Wabash College and beyond whom share an interest in the operations and implications of a free society.
In the midst of a strategic transformation to advance the success of first-generation students and students from low-income families, Wabash College is committed to attracting and effectively supporting faculty and staff with a demonstrated commitment to supporting student success. Approximately 25% of our students are federal Pell Grant recipients, one-third are first-generation college students, and about 20% identify as domestic students of color. Wabash is a top-50 Liberal Arts College according to U.S. News and is a member of Colleges That Change Lives.

Qualifications
Applicants for the Postdoctoral Scholar-in-Residence position should have a terminal degree in their academic field, and be no further than four years since completion of a Ph.D.

To apply, go to https://www.wabash.edu/employment/, select the Stephenson Institute Postdoctoral Scholar-in-Residence and click the "Apply Now" button. The application dossier should consist of:

1. A cover letter describing interest in the position and the stated mission and topic areas of the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism;
2. A curriculum vitae;
3. A proposal for the research project to be conducted in residence; and
4. Email addresses for two individuals who will submit letters of reference that address the scholar's contributions to the field.

Inquiries about the positions should be addressed to Dr. Daniel J. D'Amico, director of the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism, at damicod@wabash.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men, seeks faculty and staff who are committed to providing quality engagement with students, high levels of academic challenge and support, and meaningful experiences that prepare students for life and leadership among diverse populations around the globe. Wabash is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applications from persons of all backgrounds.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16034

Princeton University
Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional curricular need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach, on campus, in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory, and accepts applications in advance in the event the occasion arises where such lecturers are needed. Such positions would require leading discussions, attending course lectures, being available for meetings with the course instructor(s), holding regular on-campus office hours, and grading student exams and papers. Any appointments are subject to enrollments and are expected to begin January 16, 2026, or September 1, 2026, with the potential for renewal depending on departmental need.

Advanced degree required.

To apply, please visit https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40421. Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Applications will be reviewed based on curricular need, and the Department may not review all applications it receives. Only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. You will be required to submit contact information for one reference, but your reference will not be contacted at this time.

These positions are subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for these positions is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Expected Salary Range: 81,700 - 86,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you are a qualified individual with a disability and you are unable or limited in your ability to use or access the Jobs at Princeton system as a result of your disability, you can request a reasonable accommodation by calling The Office of The Dean of The Faculty at 609-258-8989 or by sending an e-mail to dofjobs@princeton.edu.

Requisition No: D-26-POL-00005

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16030

CUNY Graduate Center

Rank: Associate Professor

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The CUNY Graduate Center invites applications for two tenured faculty positions at the rank of Associate Professor, with an anticipated start date of Fall 2026. The primary appointment will be with the new discipline: Ph.D. and M.A. Programs in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies (BRES), with a secondary appointment—if desired—in another academic discipline. Both positions will be part of a Mellon Foundation-funded faculty cluster hire in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies at CUNY.

We seek scholars with strong records of research, funding, teaching, advising, mentoring and a commitment to public outreach. The area of specialization is fully open, but we are especially interested in scholars who will be able to contribute to both the interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary orientation of the newly established Ph.D. Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies. Specialization might include:

Race, gender, sexuality, and intersectionality

The political economy of race and capitalism

State, Power, Politics, Networks, and Institutions

Race, Diasporic communities and transnational connections

Social movements, rights, and social justice

Race, Indigenous knowledge systems, and global perspectives

Theory, Humanistic Knowledge and the Social Sciences

Race, representations and cultural studies

Epistemologies, knowledge production and political thought

Art, Aesthetics, and Humanities

Histories of Difference and Cultural Formations

The Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies seeks to offer both innovative and substantive approaches to the study of race and racial formations, the comparative examination of global blackness and the study of ethnicity and ethnic formations on a planetary scale. Launched in 2025, this new Ph.D. Program—conceived with the twenty-first century university and student in mind—brings a dynamic faculty together trained both in traditional disciplines and scholars whose intellectual formation originated in interdisciplinarity. As scholars addressing themselves to societal concerns from the vantage point of the humanities and the social sciences, the faculty are equally committed to pedagogy and the training of pioneering thinkers and actors. The commitment to bold interdisciplinary and intersectional analysis offering explanations and solutions to pressing societal concerns, situates the Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies in constant dialogue with various publics.

Campus Information:

The Graduate Center of the City University of New York (CUNY) is the focal point for advanced teaching and research at CUNY, the nation's largest urban public university. With over 35 doctoral and master's programs of the highest caliber, the Graduate Center fosters pioneering research and scholarship in the arts and sciences and prepares students for careers in universities and the private, nonprofit, and government sectors. The Graduate Center's commitment to research and scholarship for the public good is exemplified by its more than 30 centers, institutes, and initiatives, including its Advanced Science Research Center (ASRC), a 200,000 square-foot facility in upper Manhattan, designed to promote collaboration among scientists in five areas of global research and innovation: nanoscience, photonics, structural biology, neuroscience, and environmental sciences.

The Graduate Center (GC) benefits from highly ambitious and diverse students and alumni who, in turn, teach hundreds of thousands of undergraduates every year. Through its public programs, the Graduate Center enhances New York City's intellectual and cultural life.

Program Information:

The Ph.D. Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies is an innovative multidisciplinary graduate program offering a Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) and a Master of Arts (M.A.) degree in Black, Race & Ethnic Studies—the first graduate program of its kind in the New York Metropolitan Area. The BRES Ph.D. Program trains students in both humanities- and social science-based frameworks oriented around questions of race and ethnic studies. It builds on the existing strengths in our Ph.D. Programs in the Humanities and Social Sciences at the Graduate Center, convening faculty with shared interest in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies from 25 CUNY campuses and infusing the community with intellectual energy and resources for collaborations. It establishes CUNY as a leader in both interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary scholarship of race, black and ethnic studies in the region, country and world.

Our 60-credit 'discipline-plus one' Ph.D. Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies combines the strengths of a Ph.D. in a traditional discipline with both interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary research and training in Race, Black and Ethnic studies. Our Ph.D. students complete the requirements of a discipline of their choice acquiring competence in a disciplinary canon while immersing themselves in both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary training that is foundational to the study of racial formations, Black and Ethnic Studies. We aim to train the next generation of academic leaders whose research will place them at the frontiers of knowledge creation and discovery in this important field of study. Our 30-credit M.A. Program in Black, Race and Ethnic Studies trains the next generation of professionals whose expertise in BRES will allow them to effectively serve their diverse and multiethnic constituencies in academic, private, public and non-profit settings, with an emphasis on multidisciplinary research, education, collaboration, social and racial justice, and praxis.

QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in area(s) of experience or equivalent. Since the appointments are for two tenured Associate Professors expectations are that successful candidates have moved substantially beyond the dissertation project, having published a well-received first book(s) or the disciplinary-specific equivalent. Also required are the ability to teach at the graduate level successfully, a record of graduate student advisement or the institutional equivalent, demonstrated scholarship or achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution. The Ph.D. degree may be in any of the Humanities or Social Sciences Disciplines or related interdisciplinary program.

COMPENSATION

$129,041/year ($133,558/year as of 9/1/26)

HOW TO APPLY

Please submit the following materials through the CUNYfirst online application portal. Our graduate programs value inclusivity as a form of excellence and strongly encourage women and individuals from underrepresented populations to apply.

Cover letter

Curriculum vitae

Research statement describing research accomplishments, funding record and research priorities

Teaching and Mentoring statement describing pedagogical approach, philosophy, practices or experiences in mentoring and advising graduate students

Contact information for three professional references. References will only be solicited as the search process evolves

Please submit all application materials as one PDF document.

CLOSING DATE

Open until filled with review of applications to begin on October 1, 2025

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: $120,000 - $129,999
eJobs ID: 16009

Harvard Kennedy School of Government

Rank: Democracy Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Open

About the Fellowship

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites faculty, doctoral, and postdoctoral students to apply to its Democracy Visiting Fellowship Program and further their research on substantive democratic governance issues.

Eligibility

We are broadly interdisciplinary and invite scholars who use approaches from political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. We are especially interested in drawing scholars whose work focuses on innovations in public participation and political participation in democracies or non-democracies.

The Ash Center is a global and values-driven community that believes diverse perspectives are paramount to better understanding and addressing real-world problems. In fostering an environment of rigor, curiosity, and integrity, we value and respect different opinions, lived experiences, and diverse research and policy areas and approaches. We actively seek candidates who share our commitment and values.

Expectations & Benefits

The duration of the fellowship is one academic year, lasting from August 1 through July 31 of the following year. Democracy Visiting Fellows are expected to be in residency during their appointment to participate in required on-campus activities. The main requirement is attendance to a weekly democracy community seminar series, throughout the academic year, make a presentation of your research, and engage in the activities of the Ash Center and Kennedy School more broadly. Where relevant to their work, Fellows may be asked to contribute to the development of other Ash Center research or program activities. Fellows are also expected to attend a mandatory new fellow orientation that will take place during the month of August.

The Democracy Visiting Fellowship carries a modest administration fee, and offers institutional support including physical and online library access, access to Harvard's electronic resources, and use of our shared fellow study space.

Apply via this link: https://connect.hks.harvard.edu/ashfellowships/s/login/?ec=302&startURL=%2Fashfellowships%2Fs%2F

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/9/2026
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15999

Peking University

Rank: Associate Professor and Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development (ISSCAD) was initiated by Chinese President XI Jinping during the High-Level Roundtable on South-South Cooperation at the 70th Anniversary Celebration of the United Nations in New York on September 26, 2015. The Institute provides both degree education and non-degree executive training programs for middle and senior-level officials, as well as managers and researchers from government, academia, the media, NGOs, and other organizations in developing countries.

The Institute invites applications for Associate Professor and Full Professor in all fields, particularly in development economics and public economics. Teaching will be conducted in English at the graduate level. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics, political science, public policy or social science. The normal teaching load is two courses per year. Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested and qualified applicants please submit your curriculum vitae, representative papers or publications, and three letters of reference etc. to the corresponding JOE listing on the AEA website. [JOE ID Number: 2025-02_111476386]

All applications should be submitted by November 22, 2025. Candidate interviews will be conducted online in early December 2025.

For more information about the ISSCAD, please visit our webpage at: https://www.isscad.pku.edu.cn

Or contact us by:
Recruitment Committee
The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development
Peking University
Beijing 100871, P. R. China
Email: joe@nsd.pku.edu.cn, (please also cc: fhan@nsd.pku.edu.cn)
FAX: 86-10-62751474

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/22/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16012

University of Utah

Rank: Full Professor and Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah invites applications for the position of Department Chair at the rank of Full Professor. We are a collegial and research-active department, distinguished by award-winning teachers and scholars, a strong record of faculty grants, thriving enrollments and major numbers, and a strong commitment to graduate education. We seek a dynamic and accomplished scholar with a strong record of academic leadership, and an inclusive and collaborative leadership style who is passionate about building on our strengths and guiding the department into its next phase of academic distinction. This is a tenured position open to all subfields of political science.

The Department Chair provides academic and administrative leadership for the faculty, staff, and students of the department.

Responsibilities include:

· Provide strategic and visionary leadership that advances the department's research profile, student success, and community engagement.

· Provide administrative oversight of the department.

· Recruit, retain, and mentor faculty.

· Support undergraduate and graduate programs, curriculum development, and student success.

· Foster a culture of collaboration, academic excellence, shared governance, and service to the community.

· Manage departmental budgets and resources.

· Serve as Managing Editor for the Political Research Quarterly (PRQ) journal.

· Represent and advocate for the department within the College of Social and Behavioral Science and the University.

· Represent the department to external stakeholders and promote interdisciplinary connections.

· Maintain an active research and teaching portfolio appropriate to the mission of an R1 university.

Qualifications

· Ph.D. in Political Science

· Appointment as Full Professor with tenure, or qualifications suitable for tenure at this rank in the Department of Political Science at the University of Utah.

· Distinguished record of research and scholarly achievement with evidence of sustained impact.

· Evidence of excellence in teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

· Evidence of an inclusive, transparent and collaborative leadership style that fosters excellence in research, teaching and service.

· Demonstrated administrative or leadership experience, such as serving as department chair, associate chair, center director, or equivalent role.

· Commitment to fostering faculty, staff, and student success.

Preferred qualifications include:

· Experience managing budgets and resources.

· Record of success in securing external research funding.

· Experience mentoring faculty and graduate students.

· Demonstrated ability to foster interdisciplinary initiatives.

Application Instruction: Applicants should submit the following materials through the University of Utah's application portal: https://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/188719 · Cover letter describing leadership philosophy, administrative experience, and vision for the department.

· Curriculum vitae.

· Statement of research accomplishments and future research agenda.

· Names and contact information of at least three professional references (references will not be contacted without prior notification).

Review of applications will begin October 24, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

For questions about the position, please contact Dr. Claudio Holzner, Chair of the department (c.holzner@utah.edu) or Dr. Matthew Burbank (mburbank@poli-sci.utah.edu), Chair of the search committee.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16007

INSTITUTE FOR ADVANCED STUDY IN TOULOUSE

Rank: Post-doctoral Research Fellow

Each year, IAST invites applications for post-doctoral Research Fellowships, which offer candidates an opportunity to devote themselves full-time to their research at the start of their careers.?Fellows are provided with office space, computer facilities, and a two-year contract.

We welcome applications from researchers in a wide range of disciplines in the social and behavioral sciences, including anthropology, economics, evolutionary biology, history, mathematics, philosophy, political science, psychology, and sociology. Motivated applications from outside these disciplines will also be considered.

We seek candidates with a strong research background in their discipline but open to engaging in interdisciplinarity. Successful applicants must demonstrate an interest in and a commitment to at least one of the other disciplines of IAST. All research interests relevant to studying human behavior and organization are welcome. However, interests that complement and enhance those already developed at IAST — particularly those in line with one of the Research Teams — will be given special consideration. These interests include (to cite a few):

• In anthropology: cooperation and conflict, life history theory, human development and plasticity, health and infectious disease, aging, demography, diet and nutrition, global health, evolutionary medicine, and genetics.

• In evolutionary biology: evolutionary theory, social evolution, major evolutionary transitions, and behavioral ecology.

• In history: quantitative economic history (cliometrics), empirical political economy in history, qualitative economics, and social history.

• In political science: public opinion and public policies, political economy, political institutions, development, experimental political science, and studies of networks and their impact on individual and collective action.

• In psychology: artificial intelligence ethics, cumulative culture, human-machine cooperation, machine behavior, moral character, moral dilemmas, social credit, social learning, and social preferences.

• In sociology: analytical sociology, social networks, social mobility, inequality and social stratification, polarization and social influence, and environmental sociology.

What do we expect from our Research Fellows?

IAST is an institution that fosters communication between disciplines and interdisciplinary research. Key components of this process are exposure to presentations and participation in discussions. Research Fellows are, therefore, expected to regularly attend seminars, institutional social events, and our annual retreat. If required, they should also be able to contribute to our summer school in quantitative social sciences.

Who is eligible?

Eligible applicants for 2026 must be active researchers who have completed or will complete their PhD after December 2022 and before September 2026 (if the PhD is expected to be completed between October and December of 2026, the start of the fellowship will be postponed accordingly). Motivated applications will be considered from candidates whose PhDs were completed in 2022 or earlier; if applicable, please explain your reasons in your cover letter. Researchers who are either tenure-track or tenured at their present institution should not apply for this research fellowship.

IAST supports equality, diversity, and inclusion. We encourage applications from members of underrepresented groups in academia, including citizens from the Global South.

How do I apply?

To apply for a Research Fellowship, please send your application (before November 15, 2025) by clicking on the link below:

https://www.iast.fr/postdoctoral-fellowship-2025-2026

Each application should include (only in English):
- CV.
- Cover Letter (not to exceed two single-spaced pages). This should include a statement addressing current research and future plans.
- At least two writing samples (e.g., published peer-reviewed journal articles, working papers, book chapters).
- Contact information (i.e., name, title, email) of at least three references willing to provide a letter on your behalf. Note that your references will automatically receive an email notification from IAST once you submit your application. Just in case, please ask your references to check their spam folders. The deadline for submitting recommendation letters is November 30, 2025.

Sponsoring Marie Curie Fellowship applications:

If you're interested in applying for an IAST fellowship and you seek sponsorship for a Marie Curie fellowship application, please submit your IAST application (see requirements above) and clearly indicate in your cover letter your intent to apply for a Marie Curie fellowship. Alternatively, please indicate in your cover letter if you are only looking for a Marie Curie sponsorship, but you are not applying for an IAST fellowship.

In either case, you will be evaluated in a similar fashion and during the same timeline as for IAST fellowship applications.

Tentative Recruitment Timeline

Zoom interviews will likely occur from mid-January until early February. Recruitment committee decisions will not be made until around mid-March 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15992

SUNY, University at Albany
Rank: Assistant Professor - School of Criminal Justice

Assistant Professor - School of Criminal Justice

About University at Albany:
Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany is a Research 1 university in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. Its broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of approximately 17,000 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

The University at Albany School of Criminal Justice is home to the 5th ranked PhD program in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. It was the first program in the nation to offer a PhD in Criminal Justice, virtually inventing the discipline when a distinguished group of faculty embarked a wholly new endeavor, bringing together scholars from law, public administration, psychology, sociology, and related fields to create a program that looked beyond the individual to explore the nature of crime and the entire criminal justice system. The School also offers robust Master's and Bachelor's programs, and faculty and students benefit from our home within Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy. Since its inception, the School has remained interdisciplinary in its approach, and its graduates have been highly successful as academics and as practitioners.

Job Description:
The School of Criminal Justice invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty appointment at the academic rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2026. The area of research focus is open. Candidates should be able to effectively teach a 2-2 load of relevant undergraduate and graduate courses, mentor graduate and undergraduate students, and engage in service to the School, University, community, and profession.

Applicants should provide a current curriculum vitae, a letter of application addressing each of the qualifications outlined in the position announcement, and statements of research and teaching interests and experience. They should address in their application their ability to work with and instruct a diverse population.

Functional and Supervisory Relationships:

Reports to: SCJ Senior Executive Director
Supervises the following positions: none
May supervise employees as assigned (if no direct reports at time of filling position)
Job Requirements:

Candidates must be willing to contribute to the University's priorities, including research, student success, diversity and inclusion, and community engagement and service.
Requirements:
Minimum Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in criminal justice, criminology, or related discipline (e.g., sociology, political science, psychology, economics) is required, in hand by August 15, 2026. Degrees must be from a university accredited by the U.S. Department of Education or an internationally recognized accrediting organization.
Evidence of a research program in criminal justice or criminology.
Demonstrated potential for publications in criminal justice or criminology.
Demonstrated potential for effectively teaching undergraduate and graduate criminal justice or criminology courses.
Applicants must demonstrate an ability to develop inclusive and equitable relationships within our diverse campus community
Applicants must demonstrate an ability to support diversity, equity, access, inclusion, and belonging relative to their role
Preferred Qualifications:

A record of quality publications in criminal justice or criminology.
Experience teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in criminal justice or criminology.
A record of, or demonstrated potential for, applying for and obtaining external funding for research.
Working Environment:

Typical academic environment
Self-directed research agenda
Responsible for effective management of students/classroom
Additional Information:
Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant Professor, salary commensurate with experience.

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via http://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=192227

Application Instructions:
Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

CV
Cover letter stating all the required minimum qualifications and any of the applicable preferred qualifications.
Contact information for three references
Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.).

A review of applications will start on September 25, 2025 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15970

Tulane University

Rank: Center for Inter-American Policy and Research Post-Doctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, South America

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2026-2027, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are preferred. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments starting in July 2026 with a stipend of $60,000 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in one of the Center's ongoing research initiatives, including the Central American Politics Consortium and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must specify in their application which track is their first preference and which their second. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2026. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/173257 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) a writing sample; and (5) teaching evaluations if available. Letters of recommendation will be requested only for finalists, so applicants at this stage are asked only to indicate who their recommenders will be. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy and Research. Applications will be reviewed starting November 1, 2025.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15962

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy

Job Title
Assistant Professor (tenure-track) of U.S. Constitutional Law and Legal History

Job Description
The Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy at the University of Missouri invites applications for an interdisciplinary, assistant professor tenure-track job in U.S. Constitutional Law and Legal History. Candidates from history, political science, and joint JD/PhDs are encouraged to apply, though all applicants should have PhD in hand by 1 August 2026. Depending on their expertise, the holder of this position will have an academic home in either the Department of History or the Truman School of Government and Public Affairs. The search committee is looking for candidates whose research and teaching focuses on the constitutional development, public law, and legal history of the United States in the chronological period 1750-1865. A willingness to contribute to student programs at the Kinder Institute is required.

Qualifications:
Minimum Qualifications:
Ph.D. in History or Political Science by time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Candidates should have an established research trajectory, commensurate with career stage, as well as college-level teaching experience.

Application Materials
Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57333). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your cover letter, CV, list of three reference contacts, and chapter or article length writing sample.
The cover letter should include statements on both your research and teaching.

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Kinder Institute Associate Director Dr. Billy Coleman (colemanw@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. Deadline for applications is October 22; the position will remain open until filled.

Benefit Eligibility This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15959

Harvard University
Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellow

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $90,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Center for the Environment expects to award approximately five fellowships for the 2026 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

Candidates for 2026 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2022 and August 2026. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2026.)

Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.

Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.

Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.

Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and postdocs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with their thesis advisor.

Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.

Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge, MA area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

Please complete the online application form found at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15040 by December 1, 2025 at 5 p.m. (ET) (please note earlier deadline this year) and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs: curriculum vitae including list of publications; detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to this fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately) and up to three publications/writing samples.

Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.

A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining their commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space. Hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Cayla Jett at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15940

Arizona State University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar
Specializations: Latino Politics, Immigration Policy, Electoral Behavior

The Hispanic Research Center at Arizona State University is searching for a Postdoctoral Research Scholar to join our team. Please apply or help us promote this opportunity to graduating or graduated scholars/researchers in your networks. Information and the link for applying is below. The deadline to apply is October 13, 2025.

The Hispanic Research Center (HRC) at Arizona State University (ASU) invites applications for a full-time Postdoctoral Research Scholar position in one or more areas that examines the experiences and challenges of the Hispanic/Latino community in the United States. The specific area of specialization in the study of Latinos is open, but preference will be given to candidates who bring an interdisciplinary perspective to their research and a desire to engage with faculty, students, and HRC affiliates to build an intellectual community. HRC is committed to the success of a Postdoctoral Research Scholar who will work closely with the HRC director and associate director, as well as other partners across ASU.
This position is for one year, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026. Options for an additional one or two years of funding is subject to HRC needs and available funding. The position is fully in-person, at the ASU Tempe campus, beginning the first day of the appointment.

Salary: $62,500

More information and how to apply:
https://apply.interfolio.com/173623

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/13/2025
Date Posted: 9/12/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15933

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Open Rank Tenure-track Appointment in The School of Political Science, Government and International Affairs,

The School of Political Science, Government, and International Affairs at Tel Aviv University invites applications for an open rank tenure-track position. Priority will be given to researchers specializing in international relations and security studies. The appointment will begin on October 1st, 2026.

Successful candidates must have a PhD in Political Science or a closely related discipline at the time of appointment. Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence and are expected to pursue an innovative research program. They must also demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Hebrew is the primary language of instruction at Tel Aviv University, and candidates are expected to be able to teach courses in Hebrew within three years of their appointment.

Applicants should send a letter of interest along with a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (article or up to two chapters), and brief research and teaching statements (no more than two pages for each statement). Application materials should be submitted using this link to the submission portal:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSdsqhyrJ-DMjorvs1XEYKET9HMUW1Q7bJyiPm7_Je_jWKlUHg/viewform

Additionally, applicants should ask for three letters of recommendation (on letterhead, signed). These should be sent directly by the letter writers to the search committee via e-mail to polijobs@tauex.tau.ac.il.

All material should arrive by October 12th. After this date, the committee will begin reading applications. The committee may consider files received after this date, but we urge all applicants to submit the full package before the deadline.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 9/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15934

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant Professor

https://jobs.wisc.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-department-of-political-science-madison-wisconsin-united-states

The Political Science department at the University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member at the level of Assistant Professor who will publish original empirical research and teach courses on environmental politics.

Successful applicants will teach graduate and undergraduate classes, mentor students, conduct scholarly research, and provide service to the department, college, university, and academic community nationally or internationally.

The successful candidate, as a member of the College of L&S, will proactively contribute to, support, and advance the college's commitment to equity among all aspects of their teaching, mentoring, research, and service.

"In the College of Letters & Science, we provide a liberal arts education that is both broad and deep through excellent, empathic teaching. We hire faculty who are interested in pursuing difficult questions, making new discoveries, and making an impact in their field. We reward excellent teaching and classroom innovation, and we are committed to shared governance.

Learn more about the L&S mission on our webpage: https://ls.wisc.edu/about/mission."

Apply online at "Jobs at UW" https://jobs.wisc.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-department-of-political-science-madison-wisconsin-united-states. Applications must be received through UW-Madison's online application system. Applications submitted outside the system will not be considered. To begin the application process please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., a cover letter, a research statement, a teaching and mentoring statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will be also asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application; each reference will receive an electronic link through which they can upload a signed letter of reference at the time of application submission.

Applications must be received by October 15th, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15936

Boston College

Rank: Director of the Boisi Center for Religion and American Public Life and Open Discipline Faculty Position

Boston College invites applications for a senior scholar to serve as the Director of the Boisi Center for Religion and American Public Life. This is an open-discipline search, and the scholar appointed as the Boisi Center Director will hold the rank of full Professor with tenure in an appropriate tenure-home department, with a preferred start in advance of the Fall 2026 semester.

The Boisi Center for Religion and American Public Life was created at Boston College in 1999 to connect a community of scholars, policy makers, media, and religious leaders in conversation and scholarly reflection around issues at the intersection of religion and American public life. From its outset, the Center's hope has been that such conversations can clarify the moral consequences of public policies in ways that help to maintain the common good while respecting America's increasing religious diversity. The Center's current director, Professor of Theology Mark S. Massa, S.J., succeeded the Center's founding director, Professor Emeritus of Political Science Alan Wolfe, in 2017.

The Center organizes lectures, seminars, and conferences on various topics relevant to the intersection of religion, politics, and public life in today's society. It also offers an annual graduate student symposium, an interdisciplinary undergraduate minor in Religion and Public Life, as well as annual symposia that allow students, faculty, staff and alumni to read and discuss primary texts related to religion and politics. The Center is committed to fostering rigorous, civil, and constructive conversations about religion in public life. It brings exceptional scholarship into dialogue with engaged citizenship and the creative arts, in order to produce meaningful exchanges that inform, challenge, and inspire. In doing so, the Center supports Boston College's Jesuit and Catholic commitment to education that shapes minds and souls alike for service to others.

Qualifications
Candidates must have a Ph.D., scholarly expertise in an area related to the study of religion and public life (which could include, but not be limited to, the disciplines of political science, sociology, history, and theology), a distinguished record of publication and teaching experience commensurate with appointment at the rank of full Professor, and an established record of administrative experience.

Applicants may learn more about the program and about Boston College at https://www.bc.edu/bc-web/centers/boisi-center.htmlhttps://www.bc.edu/bc-web/centers/boisi-center.html

Application Instructions
Applicants should upload their curriculum vitae and a cover letter, stating their research and teaching interests and describing their experience and expectations for the position of Boisi Center Director to Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/173598https://apply.interfolio.com/173598

Applications should be submitted for review by the search committee no later than October 27, 2025.

Nominations and inquiries can be sent via email to Gregory Kalscheur, S.J., Search Committee Chair and Dean of the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, Boston College, mailto:gregory.kalscheur.1@bc.edugregory.kalscheur.1@bc.edu

No email applications or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/27/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15928

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location

Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia. For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289923.

Responsibilities
Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in one or more of the Political Science subfields.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Scholarship/Research expectations: Maintaining a steady research and publication agenda on one or more of the following areas: security policy, homeland security, and emergency management (Focus on the role of artificial intelligence to be considered).
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
A Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline, is required at the time of hire.
Experience teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses and willingness to teach in large classes.
Evidence of or potential for scholarship activities pertaining to one or more of the following areas: security policy, homeland security, emergency management, or artificial intelligence (Focus on the role of artificial intelligence to be considered).

Preferred Qualifications
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Likelihood of obtaining extramural funding
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Statement of Research Interests
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by October 10, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289923.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Jack Moran, Search Committee Chair, jmoran@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15906

Princeton University
Rank: Visiting Research Scholar - Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select early-career scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year (10 months) and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The fellowships will be awarded to those employed outside the United States who have a faculty appointment or a professional research appointment, and they will be expected to return to their positions at the conclusion of the fellowship. Lastly, they must have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and unusual intellectual promise. Early-career scholars will be appointed at the rank of Visiting Research Scholar.

The program for the academic year 2026-27 will focus on "the Politics of the Archive." Selected fellows will explore the international inheritance of libraries, museums, and archives broadly defined and in any modern nation. Just how have these collections been created? And how are they now maintained, justified, or redacted in light of current politics?

Applicants may also be working on demands for redress for past appropriations. What forms have these taken, and when has curatorial re-contextualization or physical restitution been offered in response to such calls? How might digital technology overcome or reinforce asymmetries of knowledge production?

We will further be interested in considering projects examining instances where collections remain integral to national histories of resistance, or else contest such narratives, even transforming erstwhile heroes into collaborators. Finally, it seems appropriate at the present moment to consider the histories of, and potential for, the forced migration of custodians of memory.

Applicants may address any region of the world, and may be from any disciplinary background in the humanities and social sciences. Applicants must apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40021. Applications are due on November 17, 2025 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. (or equivalent) generally after September 1, 2016. Candidates who are currently enrolled in a Ph.D. program or employed as postdocs are not eligible to apply. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of that project to the program's theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and their ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information, see: https://funggfp.princeton.edu/applications.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 17, 2025:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)
- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (Please note: all letters of reference should be submitted by your referees before the November 17, 2025 deadline.)

Should an offer be made, successful candidates who hold faculty appointments or professional research appointments will be required to submit an official letter from their current employer affirming that they would be permitted to accept the offer and to spend the academic year at Princeton University.

The work location for these positions is in-person, on campus at Princeton University.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15890

University of British Columbia
Rank: Merilees Chair for the Study of Democracy (Professor)

The Department of Political Science at the University of British Columbia (UBC), Vancouver Campus, invites applications for the Harold and Dorrie Merilees Chair for the Study of Democracy, which is made possible through the generous support of Stephen and Gail Jarislowsky. The Holder of the Merilees Chair will have a reduced teaching load and annual research funding for an initial five-year term, which may be renewed, in accordance with the University's Honorifics Policy and the terms of the Endowment that supports the Chair.

The successful candidate will be appointed as a full-time tenured faculty member in the Department of Political Science, at the rank of Professor (but consideration may be given to appointment at the Associate Professor rank in the case of an outstanding candidate who is expected to be promoted to the Professor rank within one or two years). Appointment at a senior rank with tenure is subject to an additional review process, which must be approved by the President prior to the start of the appointment. The anticipated start date for the position is July 1, 2026.

We are seeking an established scholar and leader with a Ph.D. in any field of political science, who has attained eminence in their field and who holds a distinguished international reputation in the study of democratic politics, institutions, transnational dynamics, or theory, broadly defined. The successful candidate will be expected to carry out a robust research agenda, teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels in Political Science, supervise graduate students, and contribute to service at the departmental level and beyond.

Applicants should submit:
- cover letter
- curriculum vitae
- statement of major research contributions and current and future research programs (2-4 pages)
- statement addressing experience working with a diverse student body and past and potential contributions to creating/advancing a culture of equity and inclusion (1-2 pages)
- names and contact information (incl. institutional affiliation, address, e-mail address) of four referees
- a recent writing sample.

Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide a statement of teaching philosophy, interests, and accomplishments, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, sample syllabi) prior to the interview.

Applications should be submitted online at: https://poli.air.arts.ubc.ca/merilees-chair-for-the-study-of-democracy-professor-application-form-2025/ . Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Expected pay range for this position at the Professor rank is $15,000CAD/month – $22,000CAD/month. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University is committed to creating and maintaining an accessible work environment for all members of its workforce. Within this hiring process we will make efforts to create an accessible process for all candidates (including but not limited to disabled people). If you have any questions regarding accommodations or accessibility during the recruitment and hiring process or for more information and support, please visit UBC's Centre for Workplace Accessibility website at https://hr.ubc.ca/health-and-wellbeing/working-injury-illness-or-disability/centre-workplace-accessibility.

The UBC – Vancouver Campus is located on the traditional, ancestral and unceded territory of the h?n?q??min??m?-speaking Musqueam people. Equity and diversity are essential to academic and creative excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We especially encourage applications from members of groups that have historically been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15883

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description
The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Latin American Politics)

The Department of Government at Smith College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2026.

By time of appointment applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely-related discipline that includes significant training in political science. The position has a teaching load of 2:2 – i.e., four semester-long courses over the academic year. The candidate will also be expected to contribute to student learning beyond regular classes through directing student research and Honors theses, offering independent studies, and helping with department administrative, curricular and advising responsibilities. We expect the new faculty member will also participate in Smith's interdisciplinary program in Latin American and Latino/a Studies.

Candidates for the position should have a focus on Latin American politics in their research and teaching. We encourage applications from scholars using a range of methodological approaches and focusing on a variety of topics and themes pertaining to their regional specialization. We anticipate that a successful candidate for this position will also be prepared to teach Introduction to Comparative Politics as well as upper-division courses relating to their specific area(s) of expertise.

Candidates from groups underrepresented in political science are encouraged to apply. Successful candidates should be prepared to engage actively with diverse students across the liberal arts.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes, as advisors, and through student-faculty research projects. Smith College offers opportunities to foster faculty success at every career stage, such as those listed here. The College is a member of the Five College Consortium with Amherst, Hampshire and Mt. Holyoke Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Students cross-enroll and faculty cross-teach across the Five Colleges. Details about the Department of Government may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/government..

Submit application at https://apply.interfolio.com/172310with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching and research statements, an equity and inclusion statement , a short writing sample, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin on October 1.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15819

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Open

Assistant Professor Positions

The Tecnológico de Monterrey (Tec) invites applications from candidates in Political Science and International Relations. The search is open with respect to specialty and methodological approaches. We are recruiting candidates with the potential to conduct theoretically informed, methodologically rigorous research for publication in top peer-reviewed venues. In IR, we are interested in scholars from any of the major subfields, including international political economy, security studies, and/or global governance. In Political Science, we are seeking scholars from comparative politics and methods subfields. The Tecnológico de Monterrey offers a dynamic academic environment with generous research support.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a demonstrated ability to conduct theoretical and empirical research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. The Tecnológico de Monterrey also prizes an excellent background in teaching. Professors are expected to teach and mentor undergraduates as well as graduate students. We are primarily interested in scholars early in their academic careers for the Assistant Research Professor track with teaching obligations that approximate a 2-2 load. We also have openings for Assistant Teaching Professors (3-3 or 4-4) and Student Advisor Professors (2-2 or 3-3), depending on the campus. Applications from ABD candidates will be considered if they include a letter from the dissertatioń s chair stating a defense date, which should occur no later than June 2026 to start in August 2026.

Compensation is competitive and includes incentives and support for research activities. The Tecnológico de Monterrey will provide legal assistance for foreign nationals in order to obtain work permits and visas for the candidate and his or her dependents.

Applicants should submit the following documents in PDF format to Karen Aguayo: karenaguayo@tec.mx

- Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.

- Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).

- A statement of teaching philosophy (no more than two pages). Finalists may be asked to provide evidence of teaching performance.

- Writing sample, not to exceed 50 double-spaced pages. If co-authored, the candidate should be the first author.

- Three letters of recommendation. Ph.D. candidates should also include a letter from their chair indicating their defense date.

For informal inquiries, please contact the following committee members:

Prof. Mariana Rangel: mariana.rangel@tec.mx

Prof. Gabriel Aguilera: gabe.aguilera@tec.mx

About the Tecnológico de Monterrey:

The Tecnológico de Monterrey is ranked highly among the top universities in Latin America and Mexico. Undergraduate departments and programs in political science, international relations, economics, law, and public policy are housed in the School of Social Sciences and Government at our major campuses in Mexico City, Monterrey, Puebla, Querétaro, and Guadalajara.

For more information, visit https://tec.mx/es/noticias/cienciassociales-y-gobierno

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 8/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15781

Harvard University

Rank: Academy Scholar
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies is dedicated to promoting innovative social science hand-in-hand with deepening our shared knowledge of the experiences and practices of the worlds' regions and countries. The Academy Scholars Program identifies and supports outstanding researchers at the start of their academic careers whose work combines excellence in a social science discipline with a command of the language and knowledge or expertise of countries or regions outside of the United States or Canada. The scholarship of the group spans traditional disciplinary divisions and elucidates comparative, transnational, and domestic issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals possessed of resourcefulness, initiative, and originality whose work shows promise as a foundation for careers in research universities or international institutions. Scholars are appointed for a two-year, in-residence, postdoctoral fellowship at The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA, USA. They receive substantial financial and research assistance which permits them to undertake robust research projects and skills development in their chosen fields and areas. They meet at dinners, seminars, and informal get-togethers in order to pursue innovative interdisciplinary approaches to their work. They are mentored by the Harvard Academy Senior Scholars, a cohort of faculty members who act as a selection committee, participate in Harvard Academy events, and are committed to supporting the Academy Scholars as they work to achieve their potential.

Each year, five to six Academy Scholars are named for two-year, in-residence appointments with an annual stipend of $80,000 (annual research support of $5,000 is also provided), with the two years to be completed within a three-year window. Year 1 of the fellowship must be taken up no later than the fall immediately following the postdoctoral fellowship offer. Delays or deferrals in the start of Year 1 are not permitted. Between Years 1 and 2, Academy Scholars may apply for a one-time leave (up to 12 months), either to accept or to continue with a tenure-track teaching appointment but for no other professional reason. Academy Scholars may not accept other sources of funding, awards, or obligations during their appointment.

All application materials must be submitted by the deadline of September 19, 2025. We do not accept late applications.

The completed application will include:

Curriculum vitae (CV); including list of publications

Research proposal (2000 words maximum); including intellectual objectives and planned methodological and disciplinary work

One scholarly writing sample (e.g., PhD dissertation chapter or single-authored peer-reviewed academic journal article; fifty pages maximum; in English)

A copy of your PhD program transcript

Three letters of recommendation (uploaded directly and confidentially by the recommender through the online application—please note you will need to submit your application before an upload link is sent to your recommender).

All parts of the application, including the three letters of recommendation, are submitted online as .pdf documents. Access the online application through the homepage of The Harvard Academy's website: https://academy.wcfia.harvard.edu.

All materials except for letters of recommendation must be received by September 19, 2025 (ensure letters of recommendation arrive no later than September 29, 2025). The selection process begins immediately thereafter. Applicants whose materials are incomplete are at a disadvantage when considered by the Selection Committee. Announcement of the awards will be made in December 2025.

These awards are open to recipients of PhD or equivalent degrees granted within two years of the August 1, 2026, start date and advanced doctoral candidates in the social sciences. Scholars nearing dissertation completion must be able to submit degree conferral documentation issued by their university registrar's office by June 30, 2026, for an August 1, 2026, start date. Individuals who hold or have completed another postdoctoral fellowship are not eligible to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 9/19/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15759

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Faith and AI Faculty Fellowship

The Notre Dame Institute for Ethics and the Common Good (ECG) invites applications for its 2026–27 Faculty Fellowship program. We are seeking five scholars to join a vibrant, interdisciplinary cohort dedicated to advancing research on faith-based ethical approaches to powerful AI.

For further explanation of this topic, including a list of potential research topics related to it, please see https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/faith-and-ai-faculty-fellowships/.

In 2026-27, one Faculty Fellowship will be co-sponsored by the Liu Institute for Asia and Asian Studies. This fellowship will fund a project that connects with the topic above from a perspective in Asian studies.

The program is open to U.S. and international scholars at any career stage, including tenured faculty and postdoctoral researchers.

Faculty Fellows receive half their base salary per academic year (up to $80,000), a housing subsidy (for those who currently reside outside of the South Bend area), a research allowance of $1,000, and a private office at ECG. Fellows' home institutions provide the remainder of their salaries as well as all benefits, including health insurance.

Postdocs are welcome to apply and receive a stipend of up to $80,000 paid directly to them (rather than to a home institution). Postdocs are also provided health insurance benefits.

Faculty Fellowships are open to scholars who are conducting a substantial research project related to love-based ethical frameworks.

Applicants from all academic disciplines are encouraged to apply, including—but not limited to—philosophy, theology, psychology, sociology, political science, computer science, engineering, law, literature, and the arts.

While most Faculty Fellows hold academic appointments at colleges or universities, the fellowship is also open to independent scholars, journalists, artists, and others whose work aligns meaningfully with the fellowship theme.

The majority of fellowships will be awarded to scholars external to the University of Notre Dame. However, Notre Dame faculty are eligible to apply, and a limited number of fellowships may be awarded to applicants from within the university.

Postdoctoral scholars and advanced graduate students are welcome to apply, provided they will have completed all Ph.D. requirements by May 1, 2026, and are within five years of earning their degree.

We welcome applications from scholars who are based outside the U.S. We also welcome applications from scholars from a variety of faith and cultural traditions.

Fellows are expected to be in residence for the full academic year (August through May). Semester-long fellowships are generally not available.

All Faculty Fellows are expected to reside in the South Bend area and to remain in residence at the University of Notre Dame during the period of their fellowship (except for vacation periods, holidays, and University breaks).

Faculty Fellows are expected to be free of their regular commitments and to have their primary office at the Institute so they may devote themselves full time to the work outlined in their research proposal and participate fully in the community of scholars at the Institute.

Faculty Fellows are also expected to attend weekly seminars, present their research twice during these seminars, and attend ECG retreats, communications workshops, and other special events.

Learn more and apply at: https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/faith-and-ai-faculty-fellowships/.

Applications for 2026-27 Faculty Fellowships are due by 11:59 (ET) on October 13, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/13/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15665

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Love Ethic Collaborator Grant

Sponsored by a transformative grant from the John Templeton Foundation, the Notre Dame Institute Ethics and the Common Good (ECG) is seeking to support 5-10 collaborators who are conducting ambitious research projects connected to love-based ethics.

For further explanation of this topic, including a list of potential research topics related to them, please see https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/love-ethic-collaborator-grant/.

Love Ethic Collaborators should identify at least two other researchers within their institution to participate in the project.

Collaborators will receive grants of up to $250,000 for projects beginning in July 2026 and running for up to four years, concluding by April 2030. They will conduct their research project at their home institution during this time, though occasional travel to Notre Dame and other sites will be required.

Love Ethic Collaborations are open to scholars who are conducting a substantial research project that advances our theoretical understanding of a dimension of love-based ethical frameworks. Applicants from all academic disciplines are encouraged to apply, including—but not limited to—philosophy, theology, psychology, sociology, political science, law, literature, and the arts.

Successful applications will propose a set of defined deliverables (e.g., research papers, draft policy, teaching materials, and impact assessments) aimed at advancing the love-ethic framework.

Collaborators should be tenure-track / tenured faculty members or senior administrators who are working on their project in conjunction with at least two other researchers at their institution.

The project team should have a proven track record of research impact in their discipline and a commitment to engaging with other scholars who are working to advance love-based ethical frameworks.

We welcome applications from scholars who are based outside the U.S. We also welcome applications from scholars from a variety of faith and cultural traditions.

While many programs at the ECG are residential in nature, Love Ethic Collaborators are not expected to reside on the Notre Dame campus; instead, the research will be conducted at the Collaborator's home institution. However, occasional travel to Notre Dame (and other locations) to participate in institute events will be required. At least one member of each collaboration team will be required to present at the two global conferences that anchor the fellowship (May 2028 and May 2030).

Love Ethic Collaborators will be awarded a grant of up to $250,000 (total cost, inclusive of indirects). Applicants should submit a detailed budget of their intended use of the funds at the point of application. The grant funds will begin in July 2026 and projects must conclude by April 2030.

In addition to executing the research plan in accordance with the Collaborators' proposal, they will be expected to do the following:

Participate in the two global conferences that anchor the John Templeton Foundation grant (May 2028 and May 2030); Provide annual project evaluations in April of each year; Submit a summative report and presentation at the conclusion of their project.

Learn more and apply at: https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/love-ethic-collaborator-grant/.

Applications for Love Ethic Collaborator Subgrants are due by 11:59 (ET) on October 13, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/13/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15667

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Love Ethic Faculty Fellowship

The Notre Dame Institute for Ethics and the Common Good (ECG) invites applications for its 2026–27 Faculty Fellowship program. Sponsored by a transformative grant from the John Templeton Foundation, we are seeking five scholars to join a vibrant, interdisciplinary cohort dedicated to advancing research on love-based ethical frameworks.

For further explanation of this topic, including a list of potential research topics related to it, please see https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/faculty/.

In 2026-27, one Faculty Fellowship will be co-sponsored by the Liu Institute for Asia and Asian Studies. This fellowship will fund a project that connects with the topic above from a perspective in Asian studies.

Faculty Fellows receive half their base salary per academic year (up to $80,000), a housing subsidy (for those who currently reside outside of the South Bend area), a research allowance of $1,000, and a private office at ECG. Fellows' home institutions provide the remainder of their salaries as well as all benefits, including health insurance.

The program is open to U.S. and international faculty at any career stage, from assistant to full professor. The fellowship is also open to independent scholars, journalists, artists, and others whose work aligns meaningfully with the fellowship theme.

Faculty Fellowships are open to scholars who are conducting a substantial research project related to love-based ethical frameworks.

Applicants from all academic disciplines are encouraged to apply, including—but not limited to—philosophy, theology, psychology, sociology, political science, law, literature, and the arts.

While most Faculty Fellows hold academic appointments at colleges or universities, the fellowship is also open to independent scholars, journalists, artists, and others whose work aligns meaningfully with the fellowship theme.

The majority of fellowships will be awarded to scholars external to the University of Notre Dame. However, Notre Dame faculty are eligible to apply, and a limited number of fellowships may be awarded to applicants from within the university.

We welcome applications from scholars who are based outside the U.S. We also welcome applications from scholars from a variety of faith and cultural traditions.

Fellows are expected to be in residence for the full academic year (August through May). Semester-long fellowships are generally not available.

All Faculty Fellows are expected to reside in the South Bend area and to remain in residence at the University of Notre Dame during the period of their fellowship (except for vacation periods, holidays, and University breaks).

Faculty Fellows are expected to be free of their regular commitments and to have their primary office at the Institute so they may devote themselves full time to the work outlined in their research proposal and participate fully in the community of scholars at the Institute.

Faculty Fellows are also expected to attend weekly seminars, present their research twice during these seminars, and attend ECG retreats, communications workshops, and other special events.

Learn more and apply at: https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/faculty/.

Applications for 2026-27 Faculty Fellowships are due by 11:59 (ET) on October 13, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/13/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15664

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Love Ethic Postdoctoral Fellowship

Sponsored by a transformative grant from the John Templeton Foundation, the Notre Dame Institute Ethics and the Common Good (ECG) is seeking to support three postdoctoral fellows who are conducting ambitious research projects connected to the topic of love-based ethical frameworks. These fellows will join the institute from July 2026 through June 2028.

For further explanation of this topic, including a list of potential research topics related to them, please see https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/postdoctoral-fellowships-love-based-ethics/.

In addition to pursuing independent research on love-based ethics, postdoctoral fellows will contribute to the broader goals of the grant by collaborating with ECG staff to help organize two academic conferences focused on love-based ethical frameworks.

Postdoctoral Fellows receive $80,000 each year in salary, $1,000 each year in dedicated research funds, and Notre Dame benefits.

These postdoctoral fellowships are open to scholars who are conducting a serious research project related to love-based ethical frameworks. Applicants from all academic disciplines are encouraged to apply, including—but not limited to—philosophy, theology, psychology, sociology, political science, law, literature, and the arts.

Note: This opportunity is only for postdocs working on love-based ethical frameworks. Postdocs working on faith-based approaches to artificial intelligence should apply for a one-year faculty fellowship.

These are intended to be two-year postdocs; Fellows are expected to be in residence at Notre Dame for the full fellowship period (July 2026 through June 2028).

Candidates should have completed all Ph.D. requirements by May 1, 2026 and be within five years of earning their degree.

We welcome applications from scholars who are based outside the U.S. We also welcome applications from scholars from a variety of faith and cultural traditions.

All Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to reside in the South Bend area and to remain in residence at the University of Notre Dame during the period of their fellowship (July 2026 through June 2028), except for vacation periods, holidays, and University breaks.

Postdocs are expected to be free of their regular commitments so they may devote themselves full time to the work outlined in their research proposal and participate fully in the community of scholars at the Institute.

In addition to pursuing independent research on love-based ethics, postdoctoral fellows will contribute to the broader goals of the grant by collaborating with ECG staff to help organize two academic conferences focused on love-based ethical frameworks.

Fellows are also expected to attend weekly seminars, present their research twice during these seminars, and attend ECG retreats, communications workshops, and other special events.

Postdoctoral Fellows may have the opportunity to teach one undergraduate course per year on a topic related to love-based-ethics. This arrangement is subject to departmental approval.

Learn more and apply at: https://ethics.nd.edu/fellowships-and-grants/postdoctoral-fellowships-love-based-ethics/.

Applications for 2026-27 Postdoctoral Fellowships on Love-Based Ethics are due by 11:59 (ET) on October 13, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/13/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15666

University of California, Santa Cruz

Rank: Legal Studies Program Teaching Professor

The Legal Studies Program at the University of California, Santa Cruz (UCSC) invites applications for the position of Teaching Professor (open-rank) in Legal Studies. The successful candidate will be a faculty member in the Politics Department and have primary teaching responsibilities in the Legal Studies Program.

The Legal Studies Program offers an interdisciplinary undergraduate major, administered by the Politics Department, which seeks to integrate the study of law and legal issues through the contributions and insights of the diverse disciplines of the social sciences and humanities. While the specialization is open, we welcome candidates in law and society whose education, professional activities, and teaching combine law and policy from a comparative or international perspective, or with a focus on the United States.

The selected candidate will offer six courses per year across three quarters, including a mix of introductory and upper-division lectures, core courses, electives, and seminars. The teaching professor will also mentor undergraduates in Legal Studies, sustain research or other professional activity, and contribute service to the Legal Studies Program and the wider profession. The teaching professor may have the opportunity to serve on PhD committees in Politics and, if they wish, teach up to two courses for additional compensation during Summer Session.

UC Santa Cruz is a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI) with a high proportion of first-generation students. We welcome candidates who understand the historical barriers that exist in higher education and who can clearly articulate how their teaching, mentoring, creative/professional activity, and service contribute towards building a just scholarly community.

The Assistant Teaching Professor title confers the rights and responsibilities of membership in the UCSC and UC Academic Senates. Appointees to this title are eligible for promotion to Security of Employment, which is analogous to tenure. The Associate Teaching Professor and Teaching Professor titles confer the rights and responsibilities of membership in the UCSC and UC Academic Senates, and appointees to these titles have Security of Employment which is analogous to tenure.

Qualifications

Basic qualifications (required at the time the application is submitted) JD/PhD or PhD in legal studies, law, law and society, political science, or a related field in the social sciences or humanities. Equivalent foreign degrees are applicable. For applicants to the Assistant Teaching Professor rank, your application materials must document that your projected date for completing your degree will be on or before June 30, 2026.

Demonstrated record of teaching that includes a minimum of one year of college-level teaching (three quarters or two semesters) in legal studies, law, law and society, political science, or a related field in the social sciences or humanities.

Professional and/or scholarly record that includes publications; grants; awards; fellowships; organizing workshops; and/or participation in conferences, workshops, or summer schools.

Your application must document that you meet all basic qualifications at the time of submission. There are no exceptions to this requirement.

Application Requirements

Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

Cover Letter

Teaching Statement - Statement of teaching experience, interests, and plans appropriate for the students at UC Santa Cruz . Refer to the teaching statement guidelines and evaluation criteria.

Statement of Professional Activity and/or Scholarly Activity - A statement that summarizes your professional and research/creative activities and plans relevant to the advertised position.

Sample Course Syllabus (1 required)
Sample Course Syllabus (1 of 2 optional) (Optional)
Sample Course Syllabus (2 of 2 optional) (Optional)

Course Evaluations (1 required)
Course Evaluations (1 of 2 optional) (Optional)
Course Evaluations (2 of 2 optional) (Optional)

Reference requirements

3-5 required (contact information only)
Applicants must provide the names and contact information of their references (a minimum of three [3] are required and a maximum of five [5] will be accepted). The hiring unit will request confidential letters* from the references of those applicants who are under serious consideration. Please note that your references, or dossier service, will submit their confidential letters directly to the UC Recruit System.

*All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. For any reference letter provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service, career center), direct the author to UCSC's confidentiality statement at https://academicpersonnel.ucsc.edu/confidentiality-statements/.

Apply link: https://recruit.ucsc.edu/JPF01985

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15750

University of South Carolina
Rank: Assistant Professor search in Problems of Democracy

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure-track position to begin August 16, 2026. This search is open with respect to subfield. We are interested in a scholar whose expertise can speak to themes of Problems of Democracy, particularly citizenship and governance, as part of an intentional cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Natalie Letsa (nwletsa@sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15738

Texas A&M University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science, Bush School of Government & Public Service at Texas A&M University (http://bush.tamu.edu/pols) is recruiting 2 tenure-track full-time, nine-month positions which are open with respect to subfields. This search is for the rank of Assistant Professor. The expected starting date for this position is August 1, 2026. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service to the profession. Strong research and teaching interests across traditional subfields of political science will be highly valued. All appointees are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas was founded in 1997 under President George H. W. Bush's philosophy that "public service is a noble calling." https://bush.tamu.edu/

Qualifications
This position requires a Ph.D. in political science or a related field.
Application Instructions
Applicants must submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/170762 1) cover letter 2) curriculum vitae, 3) personal statement, (your statement should include your philosophy and plans for teaching, research and service), 4) writing sample (You may provide unpublished works or works in progress if you have not published, 5) three (3) confidential letters of recommendation requested through applicant's Interfolio account, and 6) provide contact information for two additional professional references. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.
The review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025, and will continue until the positions are filled.
Questions regarding this position should be sent to Carrie Kilpatrick at carriek@tamu.edu.
Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Equal Opportunity/Veterans/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15730

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellow for AY 2026-27

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2026-27. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines across the humanities and social sciences. We welcome applications from scholars from a variety of disciplines.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to commute to campus on a daily basis during the 12-week fall and spring semesters. Fellows pursue their own research and are active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities and facilities throughout the University.

Candidates must have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically, Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a postdoctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment, or who are coming directly from a postdoctoral fellowship.

The fellowship extends from September 1 to June 1. Fellows receive a stipend paid in nine equal installments. Ordinarily, home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to benefits, although this is not a requirement. Independent scholars are eligible to apply.

Main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:
*The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see http://uchv.princeton.edu/)
*The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through their scholarship
*The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment

How to apply

Candidates must submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39121.

Required materials:
1. A CV
2. One scholarly paper (no more than 12,000 words) written in the past three years
3. A statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project, including a brief working title for the project.
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one referee who was not a graduate advisor (note that referees will be asked to send in their letters fairly quickly – by October 26, 2025 for best consideration).

Applicant materials must be submitted by the deadline: October 17, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST. We aim to announce decisions by late March 2026.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Expected Salary Range: $100,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 7/14/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15663

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Assistant, Associate, Professor

The Department of AI and Society (AIS) at the University at Buffalo (UB) invites candidates to apply for multiple positions as Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Full Professor.
The new AIS department was created with the goal of creating AI systems that are designed to be built by society, for society. We seek to upend the dominant approach where AI systems are built with accuracy as the primary metric and then "fine tuned" for societal considerations. A successful candidate is expected to contribute to our initial attempts to make this vision a reality. To that end, we are looking for candidates who can operate effectively in a team environment with a diverse community of students and faculty, and who share and want to help shape our vision for a new department in the field of AI and Society.

Review of applications will begin immediately with start dates in Fall 2025 and beyond; applications will be considered until all positions are filled. (the posting can be found here: https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/57734)

The AIS department seeks to hire interdisciplinary scholars whose research agenda connects the study of AI with humanistic and/or social scientific line(s) of study and are open to hire scholars with training in a wide range of home disciplines, including (but not limited to) Social Work, History, Computer Science, Engineering, Public Health, Digital Media and Art, Education, Psychology, Sociology, Geography, Languages and Literatures, etc. We expect a successful applicant to be a transdisciplinary researcher who incorporates insights across AI and the arts, humanities and/or one or more of the social sciences.

We envision successful candidates might include scholars who:
Use methodologies, theories, and/or concepts from the arts, humanities and/or social sciences to develop new kinds of AI (e.g. new models or new uses of existing models informed by humanistic or social scientific theory);
Use AI to engage social science questions (e.g. computational social science) or humanistic lines of inquiry (e.g. digital humanities concerned with social change and justice);
Develop community-driven (e.g. participatory-design-based) AI solutions to address societal problems (e.g. HCI, Human Factors, and other design scholars specializing in community work);
Pursue critical work on AI through a social scientific or humanistic lens (e.g. critical algorithm studies or critical artistic work).

These lines of inquiry are by no means exhaustive, but reflect our belief as a department that 1) we cannot have AI systems that are built for society without undertaking meaningful analyses of the strengths and weaknesses of existing AI systems, 2) that AI can, if used effectively, be an important tool in the social sciences, humanities, and arts, and 3) that attempts to build "AI for social good" that do not involve impacted communities from the start of the design process are doomed to fail. Given that AIS is a new department, initially, all faculty members are expected to fully engage and participate in the building of a new department including but not limited to Developing a vision for the department that encompasses its role in enhancing training opportunities and engaging communities around issues related to AI and society,
Developing department policies and procedures,
Creating undergraduate and graduate programs, including developing and implementing new courses, in the department.

In the steady state, successful candidates will be expected to teach courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels, mentor graduate students, advise students at all levels, and maintain an active research program. The successful Associate Professor or Full Professor candidates should also have a record of scholarly accomplishments, teaching experience, and a record of sustained external funding through grants, fellowships, or foundations. We also expect any successful candidate to work with faculty and experts from multiple fields within the AIS department and/or the UB community in general.

About the Department
The Department of AI and Society (AIS) is the newest department at UB and reports to both School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) as well as the College of Arts and Sciences (CAS). The department has been initially supported by New York State with the goal of being the epicenter of new foundational education and research at the intersection of AI and society.
The University at Buffalo (UB) is a flagship of the State University of New York (SUNY) system, a member of the prestigious American Association of Universities, is the largest and most comprehensive university in the SUNY system, with about 21,000 undergraduates 11,000 graduate students, and 2500 full-time faculty. The College of Arts and Sciences is the home for the liberal arts at UB, with 30 departments, 16 academic programs, and 23 centers and institutes covering the full range of the Arts and Humanities, Social Sciences, the Natural Sciences, and Mathematics. The School of Engineering and Applied Sciences has about 8,000 students across 10 academic departments. Funding of $400M was recently announced to launch EmpireAI, located at UB and supporting the state-wide consortium. The prestigious NSF National AI Institute for Exceptional Education continues to innovate in the application of AI to address important problems across disciplines.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/8/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15653

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program
Subfield(s): Open, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) at Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program for the 2026-27 academic year. As a leading global institution in interdisciplinary research on international issues, PIIRS is dedicated to advancing innovative scholarship that addresses the world's most pressing challenges. The PIIRS Postdoctoral Fellows Program is integral to that mission.

We will award two postdoctoral fellowships to our 2026-27 cohort. PIIRS seeks recent PhDs in the Social Sciences who have demonstrated exceptional scholarship, congruent with the Institute's intellectual focus, that simultaneously advances theoretical debates in their disciplinary field; creatively speaks to and engages with a multidisciplinary audience; and deepens substantive regional knowledge of specific places.

Appointments are for one year (12 months) with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding.

Postdoctoral Research Associates (PDRAs) are expected to be in residence at Princeton or the local vicinity for the entire academic year or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to be on campus on a daily basis and on short notice in order to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. The position requires PDRAs to be on campus at least four days per week.

Leveraging Princeton's scholarly resources, fellows will focus on research, expand their intellectual horizons, and prepare work for publication. They will have biweekly meetings with the faculty director to share their work, and monthly meetings with faculty fellows from various social sciences to present their work and learn from others. Fellows are also encouraged to engage with colleagues and attend departmental seminars.

Applicants must demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and promise. To be eligible, applicants generally cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, at the beginning of the academic year on September 1, 2026.

The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' scholarly record; the promise of the proposed research; and the ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the postdoctoral program (with interest in connecting with other PIIRS and Princeton departments on campus).

In addition to a competitive salary, benefits, and housing subsidy, the program will provide the Fellow with the opportunity to host a small, pre-publication, book workshop; and a research fund of $4,000 per year.
Applicants must apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39141. Applications are due by September 15, 2025 (11:59 p.m. EST). The following application items should be uploaded by the applicant:

*Cover letter
*Curriculum vitae
*Transcripts
*Research Proposal indicating plans for two-year postdoc (maximum 5 pages double-spaced)
*Dissertation abstract (including Table of Contents)
*Writing sample: one chapter of the dissertation or one published article related to dissertation topic.
*Document confirming either that you have completed all requirements for the PhD degree or a letter signed by your dissertation advisor indicating that you will complete the PhD by the start date of the fellowship.
*The names and email addresses of three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline.

Further information can be found at https://piirs.princeton.edu/funding-fellowships/piirs-postdoctoral-fellows.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 7/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15652

Texas A&M University
Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science, Bush School of Government & Public Service at Texas A&M University (http://bush.tamu.edu/pols) is recruiting 3 tenured full-time, nine-month positions which are open with respect to subfields. This search is for the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service to the profession. Strong research and teaching interests across traditional subfields of political science will be highly valued. All appointees are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality. The expected starting date for this position is August 1, 2026. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas was founded in 1997 under President George H. W. Bush's philosophy that "public service is a noble calling." https://bush.tamu.edu/

Qualifications
This position requires a Ph.D. in political science or a related field.

Application Instructions
Applicants should submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/169060 1) cover letter 2) curriculum vitae, 3) personal statement, (your statement should include your philosophy and plans for teaching, research and service), 4) provide contact information for five professional references. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Equal Opportunity/Veterans/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15623

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY IN ST. LOUIS–Professor - Ordered Liberty Project

Washington University invites applications for multiple endowed professorships from tenured faculty whose research and teaching engage with the principles of classical liberalism, including the rule of law, free markets, regulatory reform, and government accountability. We seek scholars with a strong record of rigorous research, employing advanced doctrinal or empirical methods to explore fundamental questions related to democratic governance, private ordering, individual liberties, economic regulation, and the institutional foundations of a free society. This search is open to tenured scholars across disciplines, including but not limited to law, economics, political science, sociology, philosophy, and business. Appointments will be made at the rank of Full Professor and begin as early as the spring semester of 2026.

Qualifications
For a law appointment, a JD (or the equivalent international credential), JSD, or Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. For an appointment outside of law, a Ph.D. in a relevant field is required at the time of appointment. Duties will include teaching assigned courses, conducting research, writing for publication, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Application Instructions
Application materials should include a cover letter that addresses how their research and teaching align with the goals of the search and indicates the department they would most like to join. Applications should also include a CV and a list of references. Materials should be submitted via Interfolio.

Consideration of applications will begin May 1 and will be considered on a rolling basis.

Please apply via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/166960

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15582

National University of Singapore
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Open

Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites application for one full-time tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor. We welcome applications from candidates working in all subfields, including but not limited to international relations (including non-traditional security and human security), international political economy, gender politics, global studies, and governance and public policy. We also encourage applications from candidates with research experience relating to Asia and whose backgrounds are traditionally underrepresented in the discipline.

The teaching load is three courses per academic year. Compensation is competitive and includes eligibility for annual performance bonus and salary increment, subsidized housing, medical benefits, and substantial research support. Successful candidates are expected to teach graduate and undergraduate classes and take a leading role in developing new departmental initiatives. Candidates with publications in top outlets who conduct innovative and impactful research using, eg. computational methods, may also be invited to apply for the Presidential Young Professorship. https://www.nus.edu.sg/careers/nus-programmes/

The Department of Political Science (http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/pol/) includes scholars working in all areas of political science, as well as an interdisciplinary Global Studies programme examining the processes and effects of globalisation across political, economic, social, and cultural domains (https://fass.nus.edu.sg/globalstudies). Faculty and students can take advantage of resources in the Asia Research Institute, the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, and various research institutes including the Asia-Europe Foundation, the Institute of South Asian Studies, the East Asia Institute, and the Yusof Ishak Institute—Institute of Southeast Asian Studies among others. NUS (http://www.nus.edu.sg/) is a global leader in research and higher education. Singapore is a highly livable global city that is a major regional and international travel hub.

Interested applicants are invited to apply directly at our NUS Career Portal: https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Assistant-Professor-in-Political-Science/28742-en_GB/ .

Applicants should submit the following documents:

1. Cover letter clearly detailing their research and teaching interests.
2. Curriculum vitae.
3. Three letters of reference. Please send all letters directly to pol-ir@nus.edu.sg .
4. A research statement of no more than 2 pages stating your research interests and research plans for the next 3 years.
5. A teaching statement of no more than 2 pages, as well as sample syllabi, teaching evaluations, and/or other evidence of teaching quality.
6. Up to three writing samples

For full consideration, please submit your materials to this website by 1 July 2025. Applications received after this date may still be considered until the position is filled.

For any queries, please write to: pol-ir@nus.edu.sg.

Please note that only short-listed candidates will be notified.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15580

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Position Description
Professor Hélène Landemore seeks a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2025. Professor Landemore seeks someone capable of helping her conduct research on the ethics and politics of Artificial Intelligence. The research associate will work on various editorial projects (books, articles, edited volumes) and help professor Landemore organize conferences and workshops. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant.

Qualifications
A background in political theory/philosophy is preferred; additional background in computer science, engineering, or economics would be a plus. Excellent organizational skills and editorial experience are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application Instructions
Applications should include the following:

· A cover letter indicating your interest in the Post-doctoral Fellowship
· CV

· One scholarly writing sample (in English)

· PhD program transcript

· Two letters of recommendation (uploaded by letter writers in interfolio)
. The review process will begin April 1, 2025.

http://apply.interfolio.com/164436

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 3/8/2026
Date Posted: 3/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15497

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. The program offers two postdoctoral positions to support outstanding scholars starting their academic careers. We seek scholars whose work spans disciplinary boundaries and integrates empirical, analytical, and normative concerns to shed light on substantial social problems.

We welcome applications from new PhDs in political science, economics, philosophy, business, and related social sciences working on furthering our understanding of complex social realities from an interdisciplinary perspective. This year, we are particularly interested in supporting scholars who are examining political economy problems.

The positions allow new PhD's to develop a strong research program in a stimulating collegial environment alongside faculty across the social sciences and humanities at Yale University. In addition to conducting their research, postdocs are expected to teach one interdisciplinary undergraduate seminar, be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

Positions are for one year, renewable to two, at a salary of $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2025.

Applications should include the following:

· A cover letter indicating your interest in the Post-doctoral Fellowship

· CV

· Job Market Paper or at least one scholarly writing sample (in English)

· PhD program transcript

· A preliminary syllabus for an interdisciplinary undergraduate course that integrates material from at least two of the following: Political Science, Economics, and Ethics.

· Two letters of recommendation (uploaded by letter writers in interfolio) Please submit application materials electronically to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/160735. The review process will begin January 5, 2025. We will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Ana De La O, Director of Ethics, Politics, and Economics, ana.delao@yale.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 12/12/2025
Date Posted: 12/12/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15282

OTHER

Western Carolina University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency & Disaster Management

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking a faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track), beginning August 1, 2026. This is a nine-month position with summer teaching possibilities and is for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Political Science, Public Administration, Public Health, Urban Planning, or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management, experience and/or graduate coursework related to Emergency & Disaster Management, and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality.

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:
Application materials must be submitted online to the Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin October 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

Western Carolina University holds inclusive excellence as a core value, and we work together to foster a welcoming community, where all are respected and know they belong. WCU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16027

The Ohio State University

Rank: Mershon Peace Chair
Subfield(s): International Relations, Administration, Other

Department:
Arts and Sciences | The Mershon Center

The Mershon Center for International Security Studies at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenured position in peace and conflict studies at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The selected candidate will hold the prestigious Mershon Chair in Peace Studies. This is a joint appointment, with a 50% commitment to the Mershon Center and a 50% appointment in a disciplinary department, which will serve as the tenure home, within the College of Arts & Sciences.

We are seeking a scholar with both a record of accomplishments and an active research agenda, who will build on Mershon's existing peacebuilding program to make Ohio State a leader in research, teaching, and engagement in this field.

The successful candidate will bring original scholarly insight to the legacies of violence and the dynamics of conflict transformation as these interact with development, governance, geopolitics, environmental and demographic change, social movements, or other issues. Candidates may be trained in any relevant social science or humanities discipline, but should demonstrate specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation international field experience – through research, engagement, and/or experiential learning – in conflict-affected settings the ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment familiarity with responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations.

The candidate will have a 50% teaching load, offering peace studies courses in their home department. As Peace Chair they will have substantial time and resources for individual and collaborative research. Funding and staff support are available for the creation of public-facing and community engagement initiatives, study-abroad experiences, or other projects. The Peace Chair will work with the Mershon Associate Director for Peacebuilding Research to support and develop Ohio State's interdisciplinary Peace and Conflict Studies curriculum.

Performance Objectives
- Develop and maintain a productive, innovative research program
- Design and teach courses in peace studies at the general education, specialized, and graduate levels
- Demonstrate excellence in mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities
- Lead and work with Mershon staff and affiliates to develop and carry out local, national, and/or international community collaborations in peacebuilding and conflict transformation
- Support Mershon Center and home departmental operations as an active citizen through service on committees, project assignments, and/or administrative leadership roles

Education and Experience Requirements

Required:
- PhD in relevant social science or humanities discipline
- Specific expertise in the study of positive peace and conflict transformation
- Record of distinguished, original scholarly accomplishment in this field
- International field experience in conflict-affected settings
- The ability to work in an interdisciplinary environment
- An understanding of responsible engagement in community and/or policy collaborations
- A record of accomplished teaching, especially of undergraduates
- A record of mentoring students in research and/or engagement activities

Desired:
- Capacity to bridge practice and theory, for instance through experience with peacebuilding, mediation, or restorative efforts
- Attention to the multilevel/multiscalar dimensions of peace and conflict dynamics
- A robust international network among scholars and practitioners in peace and conflict studies
- Experience in academic program-building
- Experience with public-facing research and programming

Ohio State provides access to a depth and breadth of opportunities and resources. Starting your first day, Ohio State offers you a comprehensive benefits package.

How to Apply
To be considered, please submit your application electronically via https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Mershon-Peace-Chair_R136263-1

Application period closes 10/31/2025. Application materials submitted in Workday must include

- Attachment 1: Cover Letter: 1-2 page letter, which should include a brief summary of your academic background and why you are interested in this opportunity.
- Attachment 2: CV (Curriculum Vitae): Detailed overview of your scholarly experience, including your research experience, teaching and mentoring experience, service, funding, and publications.
- Attachment 3: Research Statement: Summary of your past research accomplishments, current work/research, and proposal for your future research plan as a faculty member, with an emphasis on your vision of a direction for peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 4: Teaching Statement: A statement of your approaches, experience and philosophy regarding your teaching, learning, and mentoring, with your vision for teaching peace and conflict studies.
- Attachment 5: A writing sample.

Candidates selected to move forward in the process will be asked to provide three letters of reference.

The university is an equal opportunity employer, including veterans and disability.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16005

Augusta University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

Assistant Professor in Political Science

Job ID: 290581

Location: Summerville Campus

Full/Part Time: Full Time

Job Summary

Job ID 290581

Position # 40099226

The Katherine Reese Pamplin College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, Department of Social Sciences at Augusta University, is seeking to fill a tenure track position at the rank of Assistant Professor for its PhD program in Intelligence, Defense, and Cybersecurity Policy, anticipated to begin August 2026. The selected candidate will be expected to teach courses in this program, as well as our Master of Arts in Intelligence and Security Studies (MAISS) and to implement an active research agenda in Cyber and Intelligence. Candidates must have a PhD in Intelligence Studies, Political Science, International Relations, Security Studies, or a related field and a broad concentration in security, national defense, and conflict. Preferred candidates will also have experience or willingness to research and teach intelligence studies, and/or strategic studies, and/or cybersecurity policy, including norms and ethics, as well as Artificial Intelligence. Candidates should demonstrate potential for excellence in research, including writing and securing grants and a strong commitment to teaching, including an interest in online instruction. Please see Augusta University Promotion and Tenure website in the Shift/Salary/Benefits section of this posting.

Responsibilities

Teach courses in the Intelligence, Defense, and Cybersecurity Policy PhD program.

Teach courses in our Master of Arts in Intelligence and Security Studies (MAISS).

Implement an active research agenda in Cyber, Intelligence, and Security Studies.

Participate in shared governance of department, college, and university as assigned.

Required Qualifications

PhD in Intelligence Studies, Political Science, International Relations, Security Studies, or a related field (completed and conferred by start of hire, August 1, 2026).

Assistant Professor- Terminal degree (or nearing its completion), or its equivalent in training, ability, and/or experience.

Required faculty employment qualifications for all USG institutions and all academic ranks within these institutions shall be:

• Consistent with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC)'s requirements for institutional accreditation;
• Evidence of ability as a teacher;
• Evidence of activity as a scholar and ability in all other duties assigned;
• Successful experience (which will necessarily be waived for those just entering the academic profession who meet all other requirements); and,
• Desirable personal qualities judged on the basis of personal interview, complete biographical data, and recommendations.

Preferred Qualifications

• Established record or demonstrated potential for high-quality, original scholarship that is appropriate to the discipline and shows promise of continuation.
• Ability to teach graduate-level coursework in the Department's PhD program, especially related to intelligence and cyber-intelligence/policy.
• Research/teaching/experience with intelligence studies.
• Research/teaching/experience with strategic studies.
• Research/teaching/experience with cyber policy, ethics, norms and AI.
• Experience with research methods, data analytics, and/or machine-learning
• Experience teaching in person and online
• Grant writing experience or potential/willingness for grant writing.

Shift/Salary/Benefits

This position is academic year based and typically works August through May, depending on dates outlined in offer letter and yearly contract.

The intended work commitment or full-time equivalent (FTE) for this position is 1.0.

Assistant Professor - Salary and compensation is commensurate with education, experience, and achievements. The salary is subject to availability of funds.

Comprehensive benefits include medical, dental, vision, sick leave, generous retirement plans, tuition waiver, wellness options, and much more!

Also, our full-time employees who have been employed with us successfully for more than 6 months can be considered for the Tuition Assistance Program.

Rank and salary are determined at the time of hire and are based on a variety of factors including but not limited to experience, education, credentials, specialty, training, etc. while also considering internal equity and market data.

Advancement through the faculty ranks at Augusta University is only through the annual Promotion and Tenure process in which faculty may apply if eligible (typically five-year increments). For more information on ranks, please review the Augusta University Promotion and Tenure website:hhttps://www.augusta.edu/faculty-affairs/promotionandtenure.php

College/Department Information

The Katherine Reese Pamplin College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences forms the heart of the liberal arts mission of Augusta University. We foster critical thinking about complex questions of the human experience; cultivate skills in written, verbal, and creative expression; promote active citizenship and community engagement; and prepare graduates for a variety of careers in quickly changing globalized environments. Our faculty and staff share a deep commitment to developing the intellectual potential of our students. We offer many undergraduate degrees as well as select graduate and minor programs that allow our students to gain the knowledge and skills that will transfer to career success. Explore opportunities for growth, including undergraduate research, study abroad, internships, and community service.

The Department of Social Sciences is the academic home to over 500 students in undergraduate degree programs in Political Science, Criminal Justice, Sociology, Health, Society, and Policy; Nonprofit Leadership and Administration, and Social Work; MPA and MAISS. Our PhD in Intelligence, Defense, and Cybersecurity Policy has over 40 students. Our MA-Intelligence and Security Studies program has over 70 current students.

The department is located on the beautiful and historic Summerville campus in a building with newly remodeled classrooms. The city of Augusta is home of the US Army's Cyber Command at Fort Gordon and the world-renowned Masters Golf Tournament and is the birthplace of music icon James Brown. Nestled along the banks of the Savannah River, Augusta is located approximately 2.5 hours from the cosmopolitan amenities of Atlanta and Charlotte, as well as the outdoor beauty of several beaches and mountains.

About Us

Augusta University is Georgia's innovation center for education and health care, training the next generation of innovators, leaders, and healthcare providers in classrooms and clinics on four campuses in Augusta and locations across the state. More than 10,500 students choose Augusta for educational opportunities at the center of Georgia's cybersecurity hub and experiential learning that blends arts and application, humanities, and the health sciences. Augusta is home to Georgia's only public academic health center, where groundbreaking research is creating a healthier, more prosperous Georgia, and world-class clinicians are bringing the medicine of tomorrow to patient care today. Our mission and values https://www.augusta.edu/about/mission.php make Augusta University an institution like no other.

Augusta University's distinct characteristics in education and research include real-world experiences and community engagement, as well as a culture of building community, corporate and government partnerships that address health, security, economic and societal concerns locally and across the state.

The University System of Georgia https://www.usg.edu/hr/orientation/welcome_to_the_board_of_regents_university_system_office is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Location

Our Summerville Campus:

2500 Walton Way, Augusta, GA 30904

Conditions of Employment

All selected candidates are required to successfully pass a Background Check review prior to starting with Augusta University.

If applicable for the specific position based on the duties: the candidate will also need to have a credit check completed for Positions of Trust and or approved departmental Purchase Card usage.

Motor vehicle reports are required for positions that are required to drive an Augusta University vehicle.

For Faculty Hires: Final candidates will be required to provide proof of completed academic degree(s) as well as post-secondary coursework in the form of original transcript(s). Those candidates trained by a foreign institution will also be required to provide an educational/credential evaluation.

All employees are responsible for ensuring the confidentiality, availability, and integrity of sensitive [patient, student, employee, financial, business, etc.] information by exercising sound judgment and adhering to cybersecurity and privacy policies during their employment and beyond.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Augusta University is proud to be an equal opportunity employer welcoming applicants from underrepresented groups, including individuals with disabilities and veterans.

How To Apply

Interested candidates must apply online through our website at http://www.augusta.edu/jobs/faculty/. Please upload a cover letter describing research, teaching, and other pertinent qualifications; a curriculum vitae; an unofficial copy of graduate school transcripts (the successful candidate will be required to submit official copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts); and a list of three references. These documents should be submitted as one combined document. Questions can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Craig Albert, in the Department of Social Sciences at mailto:calbert@augusta.edu. The committee will begin reviewing applications immediately.

Other Information

This position is also responsible for promoting a customer-friendly environment and providing superior service to our patients, students, faculty, and employees. "Augusta University is a patient-and family-centered care institution, where employees partner every day with patients and families for success."

Augusta University is a tobacco-free environment, and the use of any tobacco products on any part of the campus, both inside and outside, is strictly prohibited.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6591865

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15996

Bryn Mawr College/Haverford College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Social Science

The Bi-College Department of Environmental Studies at Bryn Mawr College and Haverford College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Environmental Social Sciences, to begin August 1, 2026. The successful candidate will be expected to have a robust research agenda and offer courses that complement the current curriculum and contribute to the department's community-based learning requirements. We welcome candidates whose scholarship and teaching are comparative in scope and address issues at the intersection of the environment and governance, such as public policy, environmental activism, or environmental/climate justice. We particularly encourage candidates whose primary geographic focus lies outside the United States. Candidates must show demonstrated promise in research and a serious commitment to undergraduate teaching at all levels of the curriculum. Prior experience teaching in an interdisciplinary Environmental Studies program is desirable. Candidates must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the start date.

This position will be housed at Bryn Mawr College. To apply, candidates must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, and statement of teaching philosophy to the Environmental Studies Department Search Committee, Bryn Mawr College via Interfolio at: https://apply.interfolio.com/170429. In addition, arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted via Interfolio to the Environmental Studies Department Search Committee. Applications received by October 15, 2025 will receive full consideration.

Bryn Mawr College is a distinguished liberal arts women's college with a vibrant faculty, a talented staff, and an intellectually engaged student body eager to make a difference in the world. We have a student body of about 1,400 undergraduates and more than 300 graduate students in coeducational graduate programs in social work, humanities and science. Bryn Mawr College is located in the greater Philadelphia area and enjoys strong consortial relationships with Haverford College, Swarthmore College, and the University of Pennsylvania. Bryn Mawr College is an equal-opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15995

Louisiana Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

POSITION: Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science by September 1, 2026.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The person hired will become part of an interdisciplinary academic unit with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A successful candidate will have teaching and research interests in public policy/public law, preferably with a focus on digital governance and law. The candidate will have the opportunity to contribute to the growth of our political science undergraduate program as well as a new MA program in Media Studies. The normal teaching load is three courses per quarter.?Responsibilities will also include advising undergraduate political science majors. A strong commitment to exemplary teaching at the undergraduate level, scholarship/research activity, and good interpersonal and collegial skills are expected.

THE UNIVERSITY: Louisiana Tech is a selective admissions university and offers a broad range of fully accredited undergraduate degrees in a variety of majors and doctoral programs in areas of specified expertise. The School of Human Inquiry offers Bachelor of Arts degrees in Political Science, History, Communication Studies, and Sociology, as well as minors in Geography and Philosophy. The campus is located in Ruston, Louisiana, 70 miles east of Shreveport and 30 miles west of Monroe on Interstate 20.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Submit a letter of application and current curriculum vitae to John Worsencroft, Director, School of Human Inquiry, via Workday. Three letters of recommendation and transcripts will be required of finalists only. LINK: https://ulsltu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/LATECHCareers/details/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R-1713

Louisiana Tech is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Employer and places a high priority on the creation of an environment supportive of ethnic minorities, women, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16002

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor-Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor position in Comparative Politics, starting in Fall 2026. We welcome applications from candidates from all subfields of Comparative Politics and are particularly interested in those whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological training, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication (commensurate with the rank for which they are applying). Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science.

Review of applications will begin October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal:

https://careers.uh.edu/jobs/assistant-associate-or-full-professor-comparative-politics-houston-texas-united-states

The position number keyword is FAC 494806. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, a writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide letters of recommendation only for junior candidates.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

For further information please contact Professor Royce Carroll, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at racarroll@central.uh.edu. Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15994

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Science & Technology

The School of Foreign Service (SFS) at Georgetown University seeks qualified applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor in security studies. The successful candidate will serve as a core faculty member of the Security Studies Program (SSP) of the SFS.

Ideal candidates will have an active research agenda in a key aspect of security studies. Disciplinary specialization is open, and includes international relations, political science, history, economics, and public policy. Area of expertise is also open, and includes topics such as great-power politics, strategic studies, technology and security, military history, and the economics of security. Competitive candidates will have a Ph.D. in international security or a related field, and be prepared to teach core security courses as well as more specialized courses in their areas of expertise.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and available material on teaching record, including syllabi and course evaluations.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link https://apply.interfolio.com/174027 . Applications will be accepted until October 17, 2025. Invited interviews will occur shortly thereafter. It is expected that the appointed candidate will join the Georgetown faculty at the beginning of the fall semester, 2026.

Questions about the online application should be directed to Lauren Bauschard, Director of Faculty Affairs, at lb1230@georgetown.edu. Questions about the position should be directed to Professor Charles Kupchan, the search committee chair, at kupchanc@georgetown.edu.

The projected salary range for this position is $103,678 - $115,281, which represents the full range of anticipated compensation for this position. Compensation is determined by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the candidate's individual qualifications, experience, education, skills, and certifications, as well as the University's business needs and external factors.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15980

University of Florida

Rank: AST/ASO/PROF IN HUMANITIES & SOCIAL SCIENCES
Subfield(s): Other, Other, Other

Established in 2022, the Hamilton School is a multidisciplinary academic unit whose purpose is to support teaching and research concerning the ideas, traditions, and texts that shape Western civilization and American values and institutions. The School offers two undergraduate degrees, with two more undergraduate degrees and two graduate degrees also expected to be offered starting in Fall 2026.

The School seeks to fill up to three (3) tenured or tenure-track to start in the AY 2026–2027 academic year. Within the bounds of our academic mission, the School is flexible as to the disciplinary focus of our applicants. Applications especially welcome from scholars who could teach in any of the School's four undergraduate degree programs: (1) Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law; (2) Great Books and Ideas; (3) War, Statecraft and Strategy; and (4) American Government, History, Literature and Law. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required. Salaries are competitive.

Successful applicants will combine excellent scholarly records, active research agendas, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a commitment to the Hamilton School's educational mission.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the Hamilton School website (Hamilton School) to learn more about the Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education.

UF is the state's oldest, largest, and most comprehensive land grant university with an enrollment of over 50,000 students and was ranked the Number 1 public university in the United States by Wall Street Journal in its "2024 Best Colleges in the U.S." report. UF is located in Gainesville, a city of approximately 150,000 residents in North-Central Florida, 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and 67 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, and within a 2-hour drive to large metropolitan areas (Orlando, Tampa, Jacksonville). The beautiful climate and extensive nearby parks and recreational areas afford year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking, and nature photography. UF's large college sports programs, museums, and performing arts centers support a range of activities and cultural events for residents to enjoy. Alachua County schools are highly rated and offer a variety of programs including magnet schools and an international baccalaureate program.

Learn more about what Gainesville has to offer at Visit Gainesville.

The salary is competitive and commensurate with education and experience, and the compensation includes a full benefits package.

Employment Benefits include:
Health Insurance: UF participates in state- and university-sponsored benefits programs for individuals, families, and domestic partners, and offers voluntary insurance that includes vision, dental, long-term disability and more.
Retirement Options: Attractive options include Florida Retirement System Pension Plan, State University System Optional Retirement Program, Florida
Retirement System Investment Plan, and Voluntary Retirement Savings Plan.
Leave: UF staff enjoy a generous paid leave plan as well as access to a sick-leave pool, maternity/paternity leave and leave payouts.

A complete application must include the following:
- a curriculum vitae
- a cover letter, which describes your interest in the Hamilton School's mission
- a research statement
- a teaching statement
- a sample of scholarly writing within the last three years
- three (3) references. These references may be contacted at some point in the hiring process to provide recommendation letters.

Screening of applicants will continue until the position is filled.

The final candidate will be required to provide official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an education institution outside of the United States are required to be evaluated by a professional credentialing service provider approved by National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at http://www.naces.org/

Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the US. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

University of Florida is a member of the State University System of Florida and an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment based on merit.

Please address any inquiries to:
Robert G. Ingram, Interim Director
Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education
University of Florida
P.O. Box 117460
Gainesville, FL 32611
E-mail: ringram1@ufl.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15986

University of Florida

Rank: AST/ASO/PROF POSITION IN PHILOSOPHY, POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND LAW (PPEL)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy

Established in 2022, the Hamilton School is a multidisciplinary academic unit whose purpose is to support teaching and research concerning the ideas, traditions, and texts that shape Western civilization and American values and institutions. The School offers undergraduate majors in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) and Great Books and Ideas. Two other undergraduate and two graduate degrees are expected to be offered starting in Fall 2026.

The School seeks to fill up to four (4) tenured or tenure-track positions to teach primarily in the PPEL degree program and to start in the AY 2026–2027 academic year. Within the bounds of our academic mission, the School is flexible as to the disciplinary focus of our applicants. Applications for this cycle are especially encouraged from scholars with a research expertise in economics, economic history, political economy, law, public policy, politics and related fields. Applications especially welcome from candidates who can teach a required degree course on legal reasoning, as well as well as upper-level, multidisciplinary courses on topics at the intersection of law, economics and politics. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required. Salaries are competitive.

Successful applicants will combine excellent scholarly records, active research agendas, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a commitment to the Hamilton School's educational mission.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the Hamilton School website (Hamilton School) to learn more about the Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education.

UF is the state's oldest, largest, and most comprehensive land grant university with an enrollment of over 50,000 students and was ranked the Number 1 public university in the United States by Wall Street Journal in its "2024 Best Colleges in the U.S." report. UF is located in Gainesville, a city of approximately 150,000 residents in North-Central Florida, 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and 67 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, and within a 2-hour drive to large metropolitan areas (Orlando, Tampa, Jacksonville). The beautiful climate and extensive nearby parks and recreational areas afford year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking, and nature photography. UF's large college sports programs, museums, and performing arts centers support a range of activities and cultural events for residents to enjoy. Alachua County schools are highly rated and offer a variety of programs including magnet schools and an international baccalaureate program.

Learn more about what Gainesville has to offer at Visit Gainesville.

The salary is competitive and commensurate with education and experience,and the compensation includes a full benefits package.

Employment Benefits include:
Health Insurance: UF participates in state- and university-sponsored benefits programs for individuals, families, and domestic partners, and offers voluntary insurance that includes vision, dental, long-term disability and more.
Retirement Options: Attractive options include Florida Retirement System Pension Plan, State University System Optional Retirement Program, Florida
Retirement System Investment Plan, and Voluntary Retirement Savings Plan.
Leave: UF staff enjoy a generous paid leave plan as well as access to a sick-leave pool, maternity/paternity leave and leave payouts.

A complete application must include the following:
- a curriculum vitae
- a cover letter, which describes your interest in the Hamilton School's mission
- a research statement
- a teaching statement
- a sample of scholarly writing within the last three years
- three (3) references. These references may be contacted at some point in the hiring process to provide recommendation letters.

Screening of applicants will continue until the position is filled.

The final candidate will be required to provide official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an education institution outside of the United States are required to be evaluated by a professional credentialing service provider approved by National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at http://www.naces.org/

Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the US. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

University of Florida is a member of the State University System of Florida and an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment based on merit.

Please address any inquiries to:
Robert G. Ingram, Interim Director
Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education
University of Florida
P.O. Box 117460
Gainesville, FL 32611
E-mail: ringram1@ufl.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15982

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Policy and Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration (PSPA) seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in public administration and policy to begin August 2026. Candidates should have primary research and teaching interests in public administration and policy with particular consideration given to well-qualified candidates specializing in public policy and program evaluation. Particular consideration will also be given to candidates with interest in rural and agricultural policy. A Ph.D. degree in public administration, public policy, or related fields is required at the time of appointment.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited MPPA, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 197 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 PhD students. More information on the department is available at http://www.pspa.msstate.edu. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Dr. Mike Potter at mpotter@cci.msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at http://www.msujobs.msstate.edu/ (PARF #509273) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, current curriculum vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin October 21, 2025, and the search will remain open until filled.

MSU is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15975

Nanyang Technological University

Rank: Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration

Nanyang Centre for Public Administration (NCPA) at NTU Singapore is a leading institution in Asia that provides quality education and research in public governance and administration development as well as promotes good governance in the region and beyond. We offer 6 programs, in English and Chinese, to meet the education needs at early, mid, and advanced career stages. Faculty on the Teaching Track is expected to teach well and contribute to NCPA's education objectives.

Candidates with the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

• PhD in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Management, or other related advanced degrees.

• Ability to teach postgraduate-level courses in English and/or Chinese specializing in Applied Economics, Finance and Macroeconomic Policy, Public Management/Public Administration, Politics and Public Policy (especially in Asia), Technology Policy and AI Governance, or related areas.

• A record of teaching in tertiary educational institutes for similar subjects is strongly preferred.

• Interest in developing new courses in your specialization. Providing 2-3 synopsis of courses you are keen to teach (have or have not taught) is strongly encouraged.

• Demonstrated potential for scholarship in a research area undertaken by NCPA is an advantage. These areas include (but are not limited to) Asian governance, talent strategies and digital regulations.

• Candidates for the Lecturer position should have experiences in the relevant areas of teaching and course development.

Key Benefits

NTU offers an internationally competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience.

Application

Review of applications will be on an on-going basis until the positions are filled. Applicants are invited to submit their applications (cover letter, CV, teaching and research statements, student feedback on teaching (if applicable), synopsis of courses) via the link.
https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Lecturer--Teaching-Track--for-Nanyang-Centre-for-Public-Administration_R00021964/apply

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15971

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Conflict Management
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Conflict Management in the School of Conflict Management, Peacebuilding, and Development, with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia. For a full description of this position and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289900.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15968

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar, Technology and International Security (IGCC)

Postdoctoral Scholar, Technology and International Security (IGCC)

University of California San Diego

Position overview
Position title: Postdoctoral Scholar Employee

Salary range: $69,073 - $74,232

Application Window

Open date: September 16, 2025

Next review date: Saturday, Nov 1, 2025 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time) Apply by this date to ensure full consideration by the committee.

Final date: Saturday, Aug 29, 2026 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time) Applications will continue to be accepted until this date, but those received after the review date will only be considered if the position has not yet been filled.

Position description

The University of California Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation (IGCC), together with the UC Office of the President and UC-managed National Laboratories: the Center for Global Security Research at the Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) and the National Security and International Studies Office at the Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL), are pleased to invite applications for up to six (6) postdoctoral fellowship positions in Technology and International Security.

Technology has always played a central role in international security. Technology shapes the ways states fight during wartime and compete during peacetime. Today, significant advancements in nuclear technology, autonomous weapons, artificial intelligence, remote sensing, cyber technology, hypersonic vehicles, additive manufacturing, stealth, precision guidance, and other areas have contributed to a widespread sense that the world is again on the precipice of a new technological era. We seek applicants whose research generates new theoretical and empirical insights into the relationship between technology, national security, and the global security environment.

The fellowship program will be based in Washington, D.C. for a 24-month term in line with the 2026-27 and 2027-28 academic years, contingent on funding. Applicants who can participate for only 12-months in line with the 2026-27 academic year should also apply. Eligible applicants should expect to receive a Ph.D. degree by September 1, 2026.

All Fellows are expected to be in residence at the University of California Washington, D.C. Center for the duration of the fellowship. Fellows are expected to dedicate the majority of their time to research and complete a book, monograph, or other significant publication during their period of residence. Fellows are also expected to plan and regularly participate in all weekly seminars, research colloquia, and occasional travel.

Competitive salary with benefits and a modest research/travel budget.

Qualifications

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)
At the time of application candidates must either have a Ph.D. (or equivalent degree) or be ABD (all but dissertation) in social sciences, humanities, physical or natural sciences, engineering or computer sciences, and other technical and non-technical fields.

Additional qualifications (required at time of start)
Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. or received a Ph.D. degree by the start of the appointment.

Preferred qualifications
We seek applicants whose research generates new theoretical and empirical insights into the relationship between technology, national security, and the global security environment.

Application Requirements

Document requirements
• Cover Letter - 1-2 pages

• Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

• Statement of Research - 3-5 pages

• Graduate School Transcripts - Unofficial accepted

• Writing Sample - Under 100 pages

Reference requirements

• 2-3 letters of reference required

Apply link: https://apptrkr.com/6577027
Help contact: gps-ap@ucsd.edu

About UC San Diego

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected status under state or federal law.

As a university employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, state, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

The University of California prohibits smoking and tobacco use at all of its university-controlled properties.

The UC San Diego Annual Security & Fire Safety Report is available online at: https://www.police.ucsd.edu/docs/annualclery.pdf. This report provides crime and fire statistics, as well as institutional policy statements & procedures. Contact the UC San Diego Police Department at (858) 534-4361 if you want to obtain paper copies of this report.

As a condition of employment, the finalist will be required to disclose if they are subject to any final administrative or judicial decisions within the last seven years determining that they committed any misconduct, are currently being investigated for misconduct, left a position during an investigation for alleged misconduct, or have filed an appeal with a previous employer.
Click for more information on https://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/billNavClient.xhtml?bill_id=202320240AB810
Click for more information on https://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/billNavClient.xhtml?bill_id=202320240SB791

• "Misconduct" means any violation of the policies or laws governing conduct at the applicant's previous place of employment, including, but not limited to, violations of policies or laws prohibiting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other forms of harassment, discrimination, dishonesty, or unethical conduct, as defined by the employer.

• UC Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment Policy: [https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000385/SVSH]

• UC Anti-Discrimination Policy for Employees, Students and Third Parties: [https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/1001004/Anti-Discrimination]
Job location
Washington, DC

To apply, please visit: https://apptrkr.com/6577027

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 8/29/2026
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15966

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Nonprofit Management

The Paul H. O'Neill School of Public and Environmental Affairs at Indiana University-Bloomington invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position focusing on nonprofit/civil society organizations at the Assistant Professor rank. We seek candidates who focus on questions of domestic or international nonprofit, nongovernmental organizations. Some example areas of interest are nonprofit performance; nonprofit-government relations; nonprofit fundraising, fund development, or finance; civil society organizing or advocacy; or other topics pertaining to the management of nonprofit organizations. The position is open to candidates using qualitative or quantitative methodological and theoretical approaches. Candidates will have a robust research agenda in Public or Nonprofit Management, Public Policy, Political Science, Sociology, Law, or a related field. Successful candidates will develop a nationally competitive program of research, including external funding, and be engaged in the teaching and mentoring of undergraduate and graduate students that come from many different backgrounds. Applicants should demonstrate an interest in contributing to O'Neill's research programs, curricular offerings and service portfolio.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree in a relevant field by time of hire. To ensure consideration, application materials must be received by October 6, 2025. However, the search may continue until the position is filled. Please submit via the online system (https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/30462) the following materials: 1) a letter of application describing research interests and teaching philosophy, 2) curriculum vita, 3) two samples of research, and 4) contact information for three references. Preferred start date is August 1, 2026. For more information, please contact the search committee chair: Dr. Jennifer Brass (brassj@iu.edu).

Submit an application at: https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/30462

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15952

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Studies--Social Scientist

Randolph-Macon College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Environmental Studies to begin in Fall 2026. The opportunity for an accelerated tenure decision may be available. We broadly seek candidates whose research and teaching focus on the complex interrelations among environmental systems from political, cultural, critical, and/or social perspectives. Ideal candidates are interdisciplinary scholars dedicated to teaching and mentoring students in a project-based environment. Currently, the program is distinguished by its novel and successful three-course, problem-solving sequence. In these courses, students work for off-campus clients to solve real environmental problems. Clients range from multinational corporations to small non-profit groups. Projects and clients are developed to complement the disciplinary expertise of the faculty involved and routinely include a mixture of natural and social sciences. Faculty teaching these courses serve as project managers overseeing the work students conduct.

Environmental Studies faculty are committed to conducting research with undergraduate students. The College's Schapiro Undergraduate Research Fellowships are available to support students and faculty in all disciplines during summer research. The successful candidate will also be eligible for internal research and travel grants and have access to the program's research facilities.

Major/Essential Functions:

Randolph-Macon College faculty teach, advise, conduct research and engage in scholarship, and serve the college and program. Primary teaching responsibilities currently include the three-course problem-solving sequence (co-taught with other faculty), core courses in the Environmental Studies major (including GIS, environmental law, and/or environmental policy), courses in the applicant's area of study, and contributions to general education.

Institutional Information:

Randolph-Macon College is a nationally-recognized residential institution of about 1800 students located in Ashland, Virginia, just north of Richmond. Founded in 1830, the college offers a broad range of academic programs, including a graduate program in PA studies. The RMC curriculum, grounded in a liberal arts core, fosters intellectual growth and personal development, with a steadfast focus on helping students find and navigate pathways through college and to successful outcomes. With a commitment to inclusivity and hands-on learning, Randolph-Macon College provides an extraordinary educational experience – enhanced by exceptional athletic and extracurricular activities and supportive alumni – and prepares graduates for success in their chosen fields and in their lives.

Minimum Qualifications:

• Ph.D. in a social science (broadly defined) with a focus on the environment in hand by August 31, 2026
• Demonstrated effectiveness in teaching
• Evidence of a commitment to undergraduate teaching and student engagement
• Ability to teach courses in core subjects in Environmental Studies, including: GIS, environmental law, and/or environmental policy
• Ability to teach upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialty
• Experience working with students and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical methods that support all learners in reaching their maximum potential.

Preferred Qualifications:

• Experience in project-based learning with real-world clients, preferably through experience in environmental consulting
• Evidence of scholarly productivity in the applicant's area of study
• Evidence of ability to engage undergraduates in the applicant's area of study
• Commitment to collaborative teaching with other faculty

Application Procedures:

Please complete an online application at http://bit.ly/4gFDrwJ. And include the following as a single pdf addressed to Sabrina Granderson, Administrative Services Coordinator. Review of applications will begin on October 31.

• Letter of application that addresses the position qualifications;
• Curriculum vitae;
• One page statement of teaching philosophy;
• One page statement of research goals;
• A brief (one page) statement describing inclusive teaching practices you employ and how you actively support students across a broad range of experiences, interests, and perspectives.
• Transcripts (unofficial and scanned copies are acceptable); and
• The names and contact information for three professional references (at least one must be able to address teaching experience and teaching effectiveness; please indicate the teaching reference in your letter of application). Please do not ask references to submit letters of recommendation; the committee will conduct reference checks by phone.

For full consideration, applications must be received by October 31. While applications may be accepted after this date, it is not guaranteed that they will be considered.

Incomplete applications will not be considered by the search committee. For specific inquiries about the position, contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Liz Burmester (lizburmester@rmc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15937

Augustana University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Government & International Affairs

The Department of Government and International Affairs at Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor. The effective start date is August 19, 2026. Please submit application materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=026eaaee-2102-4004-840c-8e8ad42d78b1&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=541370

Responsibilities:
The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. The position involves teaching seven courses each academic year: three courses per semester, with an additional course during the three-week Interim term in January.

While the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages scholars to apply who are prepared to offer courses on international law and security, conflict studies, and Western/non-Western political theory (to be offered to support our political philosophy minor). The successful candidate will also offer sections of introductory political science courses that contribute to the general education curriculum. Additionally, they will maintain an active research agenda and contribute to university service, consistent with the expectations for tenure.

Qualifications:
A Ph.D. completed by August 1, 2026 is required, with evidence of teaching excellence expected.

Candidates must value interacting with students, faculty, and leadership from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and must also have a deep appreciation and respect for academic principles and culture.

Application Procedure:
Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position has been filled.

Interested applicants are asked to submit the application materials listed below in one document to our career center portal, URL provided above.

-Letter of interest
-Curriculum vitae
-Statement of teaching philosophy
-Statement of research agenda
-Evidence of teaching effectiveness
-Letters of recommendation and contact details for three professional references

If assistance is needed in the application process, please reach out to humanresources@augie.edu. Official website: augie.edu.

Augustana University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Title IX Employer. Applicants must comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act and may be required to submit official transcripts upon employment. Finalist candidates must satisfactorily complete a pre-employment background check.

About Augustana University:

Located in the growing and vibrant city of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Augustana University has, for more than 160 years, provided a strong student-centric education based on its five core values: Christian faith, liberal arts, excellence, community, and service. The institution continues to expand its pre-professional and graduate offerings, while remaining true to its liberal arts tradition. Guided by the Viking Bold: Journey to 2030 strategic plan, Augustana seeks to grow its enrollment from just over 1,900 students to more than 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15926

University of Massachusetts Boston
Rank: Senior Research Associate

The Institute for Asian American Studies (IAAS) 1. conducts community-focused research on Asian American issues principally with a Massachusetts focus, 2. provides data and information about Asian Americans to policymakers, service providers, educators and students, foundations, the media, and community groups; and 3. contributes to the success of Asian American students and the enrichment of Asian American studies on campus.

Working with the Director and the Operations Coordinator, the Senior Research Associate will initiate, develop, lead, and conduct research and related projects for IAAS. S/he will pursue funding opportunities working with on-campus partners and external collaborators as appropriate, and interface with the grants administration office as required. S/he will develop work plans, including budgets, for projects which may include original data gathering, and submit applications to the Institutional Review Board (IRB) as needed. The Senior Research Associate will manage research projects, ensuring compliance with university and IRB requirements, and oversee cleaning and analysis of data as well as the writing and preparing reports for publication. Responsibilities include supervising research and program support staff. The Senior Research Associate will present findings to multiple constituencies including academics, government agencies, media outlets, non-profit organizations, and community members depending on the project. Developing strong relationships with faculty, other researchers, and on- and off-campus partners including government agencies and community-based organizations is essential as IAAS collaborates with a variety of partners on its research projects and programs.

Examples of Duties:

Initiate and develop research projects with the Director and Operations Coordinator.

Pursue external funding opportunities in collaboration with both on- and off-campus partners as appropriate.

Write grant proposals and apply for grants as part of a team of collaborators.

Work with the grants administration office as needed to manage grants.

Lead a team of research staff and partners both on- and off-campus to plan and carry out research projects.

Oversee the collection of original data including interviews and focus groups.

Oversee the cleaning and analysis of data.

Supervise full and part time research staff, including students.

Perform and monitor personnel functions for designated staff, subject to established university personnel policies in consultation with Director and Operations Coordinator.

Produce written products such as research papers, reports, and briefs for multiple audiences including academia, policymakers, practitioners, and laypeople.

Deliver presentations to multiple audiences including academia, policymakers, practitioners, and laypeople.

Provide guidance to senior staff about Asian American issues nationally and developments in local Asian American communities as relevant to shaping IAAS' agenda.

Network and develop partnerships with Asian American community organizations.
Qualifications:

Doctoral degree in the social or behavioral sciences, public policy, public health, education, humanities or law preferred; advanced degree with 5–7 years experience leading research projects required. Command of a range of research methodologies, including quantitative and qualitative approaches. Advanced knowledge of a statistical software package used to analyze data such as SPSS or STATA. Managerial and supervisory skills with the ability to foster a positive and cooperative workplace. Excellent analysis, organizational, writing, and oral communication skills. A record of published work, such as journal articles, books and monographs, and research reports on topics related to Asian Americans. Ability to engage external collaborators including government agencies, non-profit organizations, and individuals. Ability to present information and findings in a cogent fashion, both written and oral, to a wide variety of audiences. Experience pursuing external funding preferred. Knowledge of and experience working effectively and respectfully with Asian American community organizations desirable

Application Instructions:

Link to apply: https://employmentopportunities.umb.edu/boston/en-us/job/527898/senior-research-associate

Please apply online with your resume, cover letter and list of three professional references.

Review of candidates will begin following the application closing date.

Only Internal candidates in the Professional Staff Bargaining Unit will be considered during the first 10 business days of the posting. All other candidates will be considered after that period.

Salary Ranges for the appropriate Pay Grade can be found at the following link:

Grade: 34

Salary Ranges

This is an exempt union position.

All official salary offers must be approved by Human Resources.

UMass Boston is committed to the full inclusion of all qualified individuals. As part of this commitment, we will ensure that persons with disabilities are provided reasonable accommodations for the hiring process. If reasonable accommodation is needed, please contact HRDirect@umb.edu or 617-287-5150.

The University of Massachusetts Boston provides equal employment opportunities to all employees and applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, genetic information, pregnancy or a pregnancy-related condition, or membership in any other legally protected class. The University of Massachusetts Boston complies with all applicable federal, state and local laws governing nondiscrimination in employment in every location in which the university operates. This policy applies to all terms and conditions of employment.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15924

Kenyon College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

The Department of International Studies at Kenyon College, a highly selective, nationally-ranked liberal arts college in central Ohio, invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning July 1, 2026. We seek a social scientist with a degree in either sociology, political science, or anthropology, whose regional focus is on Sub-Saharan Africa or the Middle East and Northern Africa, with a demonstrated commitment to interdisciplinary research and teaching. The successful candidate would be appointed in International Studies, and expected to teach an interdisciplinary course in methods, sophomore and senior-level interdisciplinary seminars, and courses in their disciplinary department.

Candidates should also demonstrate their commitment to a career in the liberal arts. We will prioritize candidates with a strong record of teaching excellence; a commitment to student advising and mentorship; and plans to incorporate student researchers into their research programs. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in hand or be near completion by the beginning of the appointment (July 2026).

Applications should include (1) a letter of application (2) a curriculum vitae and (3) list of names and contact information of three (3) references. The letter of application should discuss (1) teaching experience with specific examples of innovative assignments and approaches; and (2) the candidate's research agenda, including current and future projects. More materials - letters of recommendation, writing sample, unofficial transcript, statement of research and scholarship, and teaching philosophy - will be requested of candidates who advance beyond the initial stage of the search. To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at http://careers.kenyon.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15918

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Lecturer
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties

Job Description

The interdisciplinary Legal Studies Department at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (academic year) non-tenure track lecturer. We welcome applications from scholars and teachers who focus on law and society broadly defined. The successful candidate can offer courses that address social, political, historical and/or cultural issues in the U.S., foreign or global courses are also welcome, and preference will be given to candidates that offer creative course designs and well developed pedagogy for undergraduate students.

This is a full-time position with a two-year contract, with the expectation of ongoing contract renewal based on programmatic needs, funding, and the candidate's performance. It is expected to start on September 1, 2026. The teaching load for the position is 3-3, including upper division classes of the successful candidate's choosing. Teaching decisions will be made in consultation with the Undergraduate Program Director of the Legal Studies Department. The successful candidate will be expected to participate fully in the Department of Legal Studies, which includes both tenure track faculty and lecturers sharing teaching and service responsibilities.

Requirements

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in a disciplinary or interdisciplinary program, with a focus on law. Applicants with a law degree (e.g., J.D.) will be considered if they provide evidence of successful undergraduate teaching.

The University of Massachusetts Amherst welcomes all qualified applicants and complies with all state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Additional Information

Legal Studies is an independent academic department within the School of Public Policy Legal Studies is the oldest undergraduate liberal arts degree for the study of law and society in the country, and the only one in New England at a public university. The expanding Legal Studies Department is a center for ambitious intellectual activity, research, and teaching that addresses important questions about the place of law in societies around the world while helping to produce the next generation of social science law and society scholars. The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is the institutional home of the Law and Society Association, the world's premier interdisciplinary legal studies organization, and the Center for Justice, Law, and Societies, which offers opportunities for research, training, and public engagement.

Application Instructions

To APPLY, visit: https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528196/legal-studies-lecturer

Applicants should submit the following:

a letter of interest
curriculum vitae (CV)
teaching statement
evidence of quality teaching (such as a teaching statement and/or summaries of teaching evaluations) names and contact information for three references who are willing to submit letters upon request through the UMass online application system.

Inquiries about the position can be addressed to Jamie Rowen, Search Committee Chair (jrowen@umass.edu). Review of applications will begin November 1, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

About UMass Amherst

The flagship of the Commonwealth, the University of Massachusetts Amherst is a nationally ranked public land-grant research university that seeks to expand educational access, fuel innovation and creativity, and share and use its knowledge for the common good. Founded in 1863, UMass Amherst sits on nearly 1,450-acres in scenic Western Massachusetts and boasts state-of-the-art facilities for teaching, research, scholarship, and creative activity. The institution advances a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community where everyone feels connected and valued—and thrives, and offers a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees across 10 schools and colleges, and 100 undergraduate majors. We believe every member of our university community can contribute to our ongoing success by striving for the highest level of excellence as we seek breakthrough solutions to mounting environmental, social, economic, and technological challenges in our world.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15920

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Lecturer

The University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for TWO lecturer positions in its interdisciplinary Data Analytics & Computational Social Science program, housed within the School of Public Policy. The first of these (with a preferred start date of January 28, 2026) will have as its focus undergraduate education, teaching primarily courses for our new undergraduate certificate. The second (with a start date of September 1, 2026) will primarily involve instruction in graduate courses. Candidates who wish to be considered for each position must apply separately to each (see individual application links below). Application review for both positions will begin during the first week of October and will continue until the respective position is filled.

Job Description (Undergraduate Focus)

The interdisciplinary Data Analytics and Computational Social Science Program at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (9-month) lecturer in data analytics and quantitative/computational methods for the social and behavioral sciences. The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching three course sections per semester, either primarily or exclusively to undergraduate students. In addition to teaching introductory courses such as Mathematics for the Social World and Fundamentals of Data Analytics for Social Science (in R), they may be asked to teach more advanced courses such as Applied Regression and/or Data-Driven Storytelling. The successful candidate will have an opportunity to collaborate with the Program Director on developing new courses based on their interests, for example: responsible use of generative AI, machine learning, computational text analysis, social network analysis, survey methods, social simulation & agent-based modeling, GIS/spatial analysis.

The initial appointment is for two years, with anticipated reappointments for another two years and the possibility of a continuing reappointment thereafter, under union-bargained guidelines. All reappointments are contingent upon funding availability and satisfactory performance. The preferred start date is January 28, 2026.

For additional details, minimum position requirements, and to submit an application, visit the website here:
https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528323/lecturer-data-analytics-computational-social-science-dacss

Inquiries about this position can be directed to the search chair: Justin Gross, jhgross@umass.edu.

Job Description (Graduate Focus)

The Data Analytics and Computational Social Science (DACSS) Program at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (9-month academic year) non-tenure track Lecturer position in Data Analytics and Computational Social Science. The successful candidate will be expected to offer three unique in-person or online courses each year (6 total sections), including at least one of the four DACSS core courses covering topics in data science, quantitative analysis, research design, and data communication; and at least one technical elective covering topics such as text data, networks, machine learning, surveys, experiments, simulations, Bayesian inference, and advanced quantitative analysis. We are especially interested in courses on the applied use of generative AI, including courses on developing and using agentic systems and on using generative AI for analysis. All courses will be taught with guidance from a UMass faculty mentor.

This is a two-year position, with the expectation of reappointment contingent upon funding and the candidate's performance. The preferred start date is September 1, 2026.

For additional details, minimum position requirements, and to submit an application, visit the website here:
https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528377/lecturer-data-analytics-computational-social-science-dacss

Inquiries about this position can be directed to the search chair: Doug Rice, drrice@umass.edu.

About UMass Amherst

The flagship of the Commonwealth, the University of Massachusetts Amherst is a nationally ranked public land-grant research university that seeks to expand educational access, fuel innovation and creativity, and share and use its knowledge for the common good. Founded in 1863, UMass Amherst sits on nearly 1,450-acres in scenic Western Massachusetts and boasts state-of-the-art facilities for teaching, research, scholarship, and creative activity. The institution advances a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community where everyone feels connected and valued—and thrives, and offers a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees across 10 schools and colleges, and 100 undergraduate majors. We believe every member of our university community can contribute to our ongoing success by striving for the highest level of excellence as we seek breakthrough solutions to mounting environmental, social, economic, and technological challenges in our world.

The University of Massachusetts Amherst welcomes all qualified applicants and complies with all state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15921

University of Memphis
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration in the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Memphis invites applicants for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2026. Successful candidates will be expected to undertake a rigorous program of research, actively contribute to graduate teaching, and participate in service to the university and the profession. The position is a full-time, 9-month appointment with a standard teaching load of 2-2 courses per semester (Fall/Spring).

The Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration, home to the Institute for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership, offers a NACC-affiliated Master of Nonprofit Management, a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, graduate certificates in Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership and Local Government Management, and undergraduate minors in Nonprofit Management and Public Administration.

The Department welcomes candidates with a record of research and publication in department-aligned disciplines of nonprofit management and public administration. Those whose research agendas focus on nonprofit finance, strategic management, and/or information and communication technologies are especially encouraged to apply.

The position requires teaching in the core of the MNM and MPA programs, as well as the graduate certificates offered by the Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration. The successful candidate will be able to offer courses in public budgeting and nonprofit finance and contribute to other courses in public and nonprofit management.

Candidates must have earned a doctorate in nonprofit management/leadership, philanthropy, public administration, public policy, social entrepreneurship, community development, or a related field by the time of appointment.

Applicants must be authorized to work in the U.S. We are unable to sponsor or take over sponsorship of an employment visa at this time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15895

Christopher Newport University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies

Working Title Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies Appointment Type Full Time
Purpose of Position
The Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Leadership Studies, effective August 2026. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and an interest in conducting research with undergraduates, as well as in scholarship.

The Department of Leadership and American Studies is committed to educating students to understand and practice ethical, responsible leadership and civic engagement. The University is seeking productive scholars in Leadership Studies, or a clearly connected area, such as (though not limited to) social or political psychology, organizational psychology, economics, political theory, intellectual history, communication, or philosophy. Given the interdisciplinary nature of Leadership Studies, a candidate's scholarship and teaching in the field would likely integrate expertise from a related field.

The successful candidate will be able to teach one or more of our core courses for the major and minor in Leadership Studies, along with one or more elective courses. Our core courses include: Self, Group and Leadership; Theories and Perspectives on Leadership; Leadership Through the Ages; Leading Adaptive Change; Values and Ethics in Leadership; and Leadership in Complex Contexts. The department is interested in faculty developing new elective courses that align with their areas of expertise, and especially those that address the intersection of leadership with contemporary issues. Elective courses also draw upon an interdisciplinary perspective to inform the study of leadership.

Faculty expectations, in addition to teaching, include: productive scholarship leading to publications; advising of students; curriculum and program development; and university service. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3.

A doctorate in Leadership Studies or a related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank, and ABD candidates who will not hold the doctorate by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is desirable.
Departmental Information
The Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University is composed of 14 faculty and offers a second major and a minor in Leadership Studies, and a major and minor in American Studies. The Leadership Studies minor won the Outstanding Leadership Program Award in 2019 from the Association of Leadership Educators. The newly developed second major in Leadership Studies began in the Fall 2020 semester. Candidates wishing to know more about the department and its academic programs are invited to visit https://cnu.edu/academics/departments/lams/
CNU Information
Christopher Newport University is a public liberal arts and sciences institution dedicated to excellence in teaching, scholarship, research and student success. Our efforts are guided by our vision: "Anchored in excellence and focused on students, Christopher Newport University aspires to be the nation's premier regional public university, offering an innovative education embedded in the liberal arts that advances the values of honor, service, scholarship, and leadership to empower graduates to lead lives of significance."

Located in Newport News, Virginia, CNU enrolls approximately 4,500 undergraduate and graduate students in more than 90 areas of study. Our modern, walkable campus features world-class arts facilities, advanced technology, and a close-knit community that fosters collaboration and discovery. Just minutes from family neighborhoods, locally-owned businesses, historic sites, unique cultural attractions, and beautiful parks – and a short drive to beaches, Colonial Williamsburg, and Norfolk – CNU offers an exceptional place to advance your career, contribute to a community of scholars, and inspire the next generation.

Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored, and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. For further details and information about Christopher Newport, visit http://www.cnu.edu.

Posting Number F258P
Posting Date
Review Begin Date 10/01/2025
Application Instructions
To apply, please provide a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy, a one-page statement articulating how your teaching, scholarship and service would contribute toward fostering an inclusive learning environment on campus, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation. (Letters should be uploaded with application materials or emailed to facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu).

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2025.
Applications received after October 1, 2025 will be accepted but considered only if needed.

Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University (CNU) will make a reasonable effort to accommodate persons with disabilities in the application and/or interview process. Persons with disabilities who require accommodation should contact the CNU Human Resources Office by calling (757) 594-7145.
Quick Link for Internal Postings https://jobs.cnu.edu/postings/19776
EEO/Diversity Statement(s)
Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully Committed to Access and Opportunity.

Notice of Non-Discrimination & Title IX Policy Statement

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15905

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Senior Researcher/Program Manager, Social Science Matrix (7398U) 80846

Senior Researcher/Program Manager, Social Science Matrix (7398U) 80846
About Berkeley

At the University of California, Berkeley, we are dedicated to fostering a community where everyone feels welcome and can thrive. Our culture of openness, freedom and belonging make it a special place for students, faculty and staff.

As a world-leading institution, Berkeley is known for its academic and research excellence, public mission, diverse student body, and commitment to equity and social justice. Since our founding in 1868, we have driven innovation, creating global intellectual, economic and social value.

We are looking for applicants who reflect California's diversity and want to be part of an inclusive, equity-focused community that views education as a matter of social justice. Please consider whether your values align with our https://chancellor.berkeley.edu/guiding-values-and-principles, https://diversity.berkeley.edu/principles-community, and https://strategicplan.berkeley.edu/.

At UC Berkeley, we believe that learning is a fundamental part of working, and provide space for https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KEjdp4CRjgg&t=3s (staff organizations). Our goal is for everyone on the Berkeley campus to feel supported and equipped to realize their full potential. We actively support this by providing all of our full-time staff employees with at least 80 hours (10 days) of paid time per year to engage in professional development activities. Find out more about how you can http://grow.berkeley.edu/ at UC Berkeley.

Departmental Overview

Social Science Matrix is a UC Berkeley institute for social science research. Our purpose is captured in our name: we provide an organizational framework, a "matrix" that supports cross-disciplinary projects pursued by more than 500 social scientists across the Berkeley campus research landscape and beyond.

With Matrix as a catalyst, UC Berkeley social scientists have unique potential to generate effective solutions to global challenges, including climate change, transnational migration, and growing risks of democratic backsliding.

This position will support the Program on Finance and Democracy of the Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative (BESI). BESI is a political economy research center within Matrix that champions multidisciplinary research and informed policy conversation exploring and countering the inequalities of resources and power that frequently impede social progress. The Program on Finance and Democracy is a program run within BESI's Capitalism and Democracy Research Cluster, directed by Professor Paul Pierson. It investigates how finance constrains democratic self-determination and drives new forms of power concentration while exploring alternative models that could promote greater democratic control and economy justice. Planned research themes are (1)Cryptocurrency and Digital Finance; (2) Financial Power Concentration and Oligarchy; (3) Geopolitical Drivers of Finance; (4)Empirical survey of global financial flows, and (5)Theoretical Perspectives on Finance.

Position Summary

Reporting to the BESI director, Paul Pierson, of the Political Science Department, the Senior Researcher/Program Manager is responsible for a wide range of activities related to the Berkeley Program on Finance and Democracy (BPFD) and the program's research activities and outputs. The current gift fund that supports this program includes a remit for research dissemination, public and private engagement, and policy and curricular development.

The Senior Researcher/Program Manager will work closely with other staff and teams at BESI, Matrix and other campus departments, as appropriate, and is expected to have strong managerial and leadership skills. In addition to conducting their own investigations, the Senior Researcher/Program Manager will establish bridges to the larger (both Berkeley and global) Finance and Society research community; launch and administer an ongoing Summer Training Workshop for graduate students and faculty, write scholarly articles, reviews and Program newsletters about relevant recent scholarship in program areas, convene a Finance and Democracy Seminar; administer student research fellowships, and collaborate with external scholars on publications and events to advance the Program's aims. Leads strategic planning, execution, and evaluation of a research program focused on finance and democracy. Supports program leadership with analytical studies and reporting.

This is a challenging opportunity for someone with a strong desire to use and deepen skills in project management and communications, advance intellectual agendas in interdisciplinary social science research, and who is energized to contribute to the long-term success of the Program on Finance and Democracy's research and outreach portfolios.

Application Review Date

The First Review Date for this job is: 09/12/2025. The posting will remain open until filled, and applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed.

Responsibilities

Proposes, leads and/or participates on policy and planning committees and working groups.

- Provides strategy development for organizational or research initiative.
- Coordinates implementation with cross-organizational departments or external entities as needed.
- Provide comprehensive thematic and logistical leadership for all program-related seminars, mini-conferences, workshops, and other events, working in close collaboration with internal and external partners. This includes conceptualization, speaker identification, logistical planning, and post-event follow-up.
- Proposes, leads and/or participates on policy and planning committees and working groups. Provides strategy development for organizational or research initiative.

• Coordinates implementation with cross-organizational departments or external entities as needed.
• Provide comprehensive thematic and logistical leadership for all program-related seminars, mini-conferences, workshops, and other events, working in close collaboration with internal and external partners. This includes conceptualization, speaker identification, logistical planning, and post-event follow-up.
• Convene, prepare for, and provide comprehensive support for advisory board meetings, facilitating effective communication and strategic alignment between Program leadership, the Social Science Social Science Dean, and relevant faculty to review Program Objectives and Programming.
• Initiate and manage collaborative activities with the Society for the Advancement of Socio-Economics' (SASE) Finance & Society Research Network, including the organization of joint mini-conferences and other scholarly events.

Researches and drafts complex proposals, reports, briefings, executive summaries, and speeches.

• Establishes and maintains contacts internally and with external constituents for the collection and exchange of data.
• Produce and disseminate a compelling monthly newsletter, summarizing recent scholarship, program activities, and relevant news for a diverse audience of stakeholders, including academics, policymakers, and the public.
• Author an annual or biennial review of critical financial studies, synthesizing key developments, emerging trends, and significant contributions, for publication in specialized disciplinary journals (e.g., Political Science, Sociology, Political Economy).

Conducts post-implementation analysis to determine the need for further enhancements, finer distinctions and/or additional process/policy components.

• Systematically evaluate the annual summer training workshop, including the development of metrics and reporting mechanisms, to inform strategic adjustments and ensure the program's ongoing relevance and impact.

Provides analyses for complex budget, financial, academic, data, systems and resource projects working directly with all levels of managers.

• Develop detailed program plans, manage associated budgets, and lead the effective implementation of all program activities, ensuring objectives are met within established timelines and resources.

Researches, monitors and analyzes regulations, legislation, research literature and UC policies for impact on the organization or initiative.

• Produce and disseminate a compelling monthly newsletter, summarizing recent scholarship, program activities, and relevant news for a diverse audience of stakeholders, including academics, policymakers, and the public.

Coordinates efforts with a variety of external and internal contacts; researches organizational structures, policies and procedures and summarizes best practices in field.

• Provides technical guidance and quality assessment.
• Develop and implement strategies to foster a robust and engaged community of researchers in Finance and Democracy.
• Proactively identify and cultivate a network of leading scholars, emerging academics, and practitioners working on relevant themes.

Develops scope of work, budgets, and reports for project requirements.

• Provide comprehensive support for Program Leadership and Advisory Board with BPFD substantive and financial reports.
• Actively support program fundraising and development initiatives by fostering positive donor relations, assisting in proposal preparation, reporting on activities, and participating in cultivation events as needed.

Performs ad hoc, analytical studies on a wide variety of policies, programs and issues which are complex in nature.

Required Qualifications

• Knowledge of and/or can quickly learn common organization- or research-specific and other computer application programs.
• Strong communication and interpersonal skills to communicate effectively, both verbally and in writing.
• Ability to use discretion and maintain all confidentiality.
• Analytical/problem-solving skills.
• Strong skills in analyzing, researching and synthesizing large amounts of data for preparing sound and relevant proposals/analyses.
• Ability to multi-task with demanding timeframes.
• Strong policy analysis techniques.
• Bachelor's degree in fields related to the political economy of finance and democracy and/or equivalent experience/training.

Preferred Qualifications

• PhD in fields related to the political economy of finance and democracy and/or equivalent experience/training.

Salary & Benefits

For information on the comprehensive benefits package offered by the University, please visit the University of California's http://ucnet.universityofcalifornia.edu/compensation-and-benefits/index.htmlwebsite.

Under California law, the University of California, Berkeley is required to provide a reasonable estimate of the compensation range for this role and should not offer a salary outside of the range posted in this job announcement. This range takes into account the wide range of factors that are considered in making compensation decisions including but not limited to experience, skills, knowledge, abilities, education, licensure and certifications, analysis of internal equity, and other business and organizational needs. It is not typical for an individual to be offered a salary at or near the top of the range for a position. Salary offers are determined based on final candidate qualifications and experience.

The budgeted annual salary range that the University reasonably expects to pay for this position is $74,700.00 - $100,000.00.

• This is an exempt monthly-paid position.

How to Apply

• To apply, please submit your resume and cover letter.

Other Information

• This is not a visa opportunity.

SB 791 and AB 810 Misconduct Disclosure Requirement: As a condition of employment, the final candidate who accepts a conditional offer of employment will be required to disclose if they have been subject to any final administrative or judicial decisions within the last seven years determining that they committed any misconduct; received notice of any allegations or are currently the subject of any administrative or disciplinary proceedings involving misconduct; have left a position after receiving notice of allegations or while under investigation in an administrative or disciplinary proceeding involving misconduct; or have filed an appeal of a finding of misconduct with a previous employer.

"Misconduct" means any violation of the policies or laws governing conduct at the applicant's previous place of employment, including, but not limited to, violations of policies or laws prohibiting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other forms of harassment, discrimination, dishonesty, or unethical conduct, as defined by the employer. For reference, below are UC's policies addressing some forms of misconduct:

https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000385/SVSH

https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/1001004/Anti-Discrimination

https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000701/AbusiveConduct

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected status under state or federal law.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6553370

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15916

University of Southern California

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher

The Everyday Respect research project (https://dornsife.usc.edu/everydayrespect/) at the University of Southern California is seeking a highly motivated Postdoctoral Researcher to join our NSF-funded interdisciplinary project focused on analyzing police body-worn camera (BWC) footage using cutting-edge AI. This groundbreaking research, conducted in collaboration with the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) and community partners, aims to transform police training, policy, and community relations by developing novel tools for understanding police-civilian interactions.

The University of Southern California (USC), founded in 1880, is located in the heart of downtown L.A. and is the largest private employer in the City of Los Angeles. As an employee of USC, you will be a part of a world-class research university and a member of the "Trojan Family," which is comprised of the faculty, students and staff that make the university a great place to work. The USC Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences is the largest and oldest of the USC schools, USC Dornsife functions as the academic core of the university, offering courses and advancing knowledge across the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

The ideal candidate will have a PhD in Computer Science with a strong interest in computational social science, or a PhD in Psychology or Political Science with a deep background in computational methods. You will play a key role in developing and deploying advanced multimodal and multiperspective models, video summarization techniques, and personalized reinforcement learning frameworks to analyze an unprecedented dataset of ~50,000 BWC videos of police traffic stops. The project has already completed several thousand hours of human annotation of these videos, providing a deep and rich set of training data. Our video annotators include both former police officers and formerly justice impacted individuals; their annotations include both subjective and relative objective features of officer-driver interactions. The successful candidate will work collaboratively with scholars from the Morality and Language Lab, the Signal Analysis and Interpretation Lab, the Security and Political Economy Lab, and the rest of Everyday Respect's multidisciplinary team.

Must have PhD in hand before starting the position (ABDs may apply).
Salary range: The annual base salary range for this position is $84,000.00 - $85,000.00. When extending an offer of employment, the University of Southern California considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, federal, state and local laws, contractual stipulations, grant funding, as well as external market and organizational considerations.

Performs other related duties as assigned or requested. The university reserves the right to add or change duties at any time.
Required Documents and Additional Information:

- Resume, cover letter, writing sample, research statement and three letters of recommendation (may be uploaded as one file). Please do not submit your application without these documents.
- Application Deadline: February 1 with applications reviewed on a rolling basis starting October 15.
- Anticipated Start Date: No later than August 15, 2026, with the option to start as early as January 9, 2026.
- Questions about this position can be directed to Benjamin Graham (benjamag@usc.edu) or Morteza Dehghani (mdehghan@usc.edu).
- How to Apply: Please apply online at: https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/postdoctoral-scholar-research-associate/1209/85917817632

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15913

Haverford College

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Peace, Justice, and Human Rights

Haverford college seeks two Tenure-Track Assistant Professors of Peace, Justice, and Human Rights.

Haverford College invites applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professors in its Peace, Justice, and Human Rights program, to begin Fall semester 2026. The positions are open to humanists and social scientists at all pre-tenure levels (including new PhDs through those who currently hold a tenure-track position) whose work is interdisciplinary and focuses on questions of justice, law, human rights, and related fields. Position 1 seeks scholars specializing in justice- or law-oriented work that engages with theory and can contribute to the vibrancy of an interdisciplinary program. Position 2 seeks scholars specializing in ethics-oriented work who are able to engage with the college's new Kim Ethics Institute as well as contribute to the PJHR curriculum. Successful candidates for both positions will be required to teach an introductory course on peace, justice, and human rights and/or an applied ethics course emphasizing diplomacy over winning an argument, and also offer more specialized courses in their area of expertise. Scholars knowledgeable in both theory and practice in their fields will be best suited for these positions. Candidates should also be well-versed in inclusive pedagogy and prepared to mentor a diverse student body. Haverford College embraces the teacher-scholar model and supports faculty research through programs and funding opportunities such as a pre-tenure sabbatical after a successful 3rd year review. Candidates must have a PhD by August 31, 2026.

Peace, Justice, and Human Rights (PJHR) is an interdisciplinary concentration attracting students from many different disciplines; it offers students the opportunity to study the history, philosophy, and critiques of the rights tradition, examine issues of justice in their local and international contexts, and apply humanistic, social scientific, theoretical, and ethical reasoning to real-world problems. The program's goal is to foster cross-disciplinary collaboration and new perspectives on entrenched problems. For more information, see http://www.haverford.edu/pjhr/

Still in the planning stages, the Kim Ethics Institute takes a holistic approach to ethical inquiry across the liberal arts, teaching students to address and evaluate competing goods and the consequences of choices in a global context. It brings scholarship, coursework, experiential learning, and collaborative action together, transforming theory into practice; and ethical inquiry into participation and leadership. For more information, see https://catalog.haverford.edu/programs/kim-ethics-institute/

Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio (https://apply.interfolio.com/171862):

-A cover letter indicating which position(s) are being applied for and addressing qualifications for the position(s), including a paragraph description of a course you'd like to teach in PJHR

-A curriculum vitae

-A writing sample (up to 25 pages) or statement of research

-Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be submitted directly by the recommenders via Interfolio.

All application materials must be received by the end of the day on October 24, 2025 in order to receive consideration.

Haverford College is a leading liberal arts college serving highly motivated students on a nationally recognized arboretum in suburban Haverford, just outside Philadelphia. For more information about Haverford and this position, please see here: https://www.haverford.edu/provost/available-positions/tenure-track-search-peace-justice-and-human-rights-pjhr-additional-information

Questions about the application process should be directed to hc-pjhrsearch@ haverford.edu. For technical questions, please contact Interfolio directly at 1-877-997-8807 or help@interfolio.com.

Haverford College is an Equal Opportunity employer committed to diversity, equity, inclusion, social justice, and providing equal opportunities and access to all individuals regardless of race, ethnicity, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin or ancestry, age, marital status, disability, or veteran status. Women, non-binary and transgender individuals, people of color, Indigenous people, and those with other or multiple historically marginalized and/or underrepresented identities are especially encouraged to apply. Haverford College and our consortial partners are located on Lenape lands.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15896

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor, PLST & Philosophy

The Program in Politics, Law, and Social Thought (PLST) and the Department of Philosophy in the School of Humanities at Rice University seek to appoint a tenure-track assistant professor in political and social philosophy and/or history of philosophy (AoS) and philosophy of law (AoC). A Ph.D. in Philosophy or a related field is required at the time of appointment. Further qualifications, such as a JD, LLM, LLB, are welcome but not required. The start date for the position is July 1, 2026.

PLST is an interdisciplinary program with rapidly growing student numbers. Its faculty from the School of Humanities and the School of Social Sciences focus on political and legal thought understood in its social and historical contexts. Students also participate in legal and judicial practica (see www.politics.rice.edu) and often place at the top law schools. Our alumni have established highly successful careers in law, government, public affairs, and the academy. We seek applicants eager to lead and grow PLST in its second decade.

The successful candidate will simultaneously contribute to Rice's Department of Philosophy, teaching courses in their AoC and AoS. The department offers BA and PhD programs with a particularly strong reputation in ethics and philosophy of mind. The department has close working relationships across the School of Humanities. In addition to its engagement with PLST, it is also involved in other interdisciplinary programs, including the Center for the Study of Women, Gender &Sexuality, Cognitive Science, Neuroscience, and Medical Humanities.

We are looking for an assistant professor who will deliver outstanding scholarship in political and social philosophy or the history of philosophy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in the philosophy of law, political and social philosophy, or the history of philosophy at the undergraduate and graduate levels. This position involves teaching for the popular minor in Politics, Law and Social Thought (PLST), which may include a "gateway" course for the minor, an upper-level" core" course and electives that are aligned with the candidate's research specialties (see https://ga.rice.edu/programs-study/departments-programs/humanities/politics-law-social-thought/politics-law-social-thought-minor/#requirementstext). Rice University has a semester-based teaching schedule with a 2-2 teaching load. The University expects faculty members to maintain an active program of scholarly research and publication and to contribute service to the Department, University, and profession.

For full consideration, applications should be received by November 1 (via Interfolio) https://apply.interfolio.com/173365 and must include: a cover letter of 1-2 pages; CV, including a list of publications; a writing sample of approximately 25 double-spaced pages; a statement of teaching philosophy and interests (a complete teaching portfolio, including student evaluations, will be requested from finalists), and three letters of reference. For further information or questions, contact Ms. Christine Gocek Medina, Lead Administrative Specialist, Office of the Dean, School of Humanities (cmedina@rice.edu) (https://apply.interfolio.com/173365) (mailto:cmedina@rice.edu).

Rice University is a private, comprehensive research university located in the heart of Houston's dynamic museum district, on a 300-acre tree-shaded campus adjacent to the Texas Medical Center, the world's largest medical complex. Rice has a highly diverse and international student body and a strong faculty culture of cross-disciplinary collaboration. Offering undergraduate and graduate degrees across eight schools, Rice has a student body of around 5,000 undergraduates and a nearly equal number of graduate students. Rice is consistently ranked among the nation's top 20 universities by U.S. News & World Report and is ranked No. 1 for race/class interaction and No. 1 for quality of life by the Princeton Review. The university has a very high level of research activity and a 6:1 student-faculty ratio.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15897

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

Ohio State University

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar - Traditional Governance in Africa

The Department of Political Science and the Mershon Center for International Security Studies at Ohio State University seek to appoint a Post-Doctoral Scholar in Traditional Governance in Africa under the supervision of Professor Amanda Lea Robinson. This will be a two-year appointment beginning August 15, 2026.

The post-doctoral scholar will work with Dr. Robinson on a research program on Traditional Governance in Africa, which is funded by the Mershon Center. The project evaluates how the history, institutional structures, and political practices of traditional institutions in Africa (e.g., chieftaincies) relate to the quality of governance they provide. The project employs a combination of original and existing data, both qualitative and quantitative.

While the post-doctoral scholar will be expected to devote 50% of their time to collaboration on all aspects of the project, candidates should also articulate an independent research agenda within the study of African traditional institutions. The remainder of the post-doctoral scholar's time is given to developing their own research, publications, and professional profile. There are no teaching or service obligations, although the scholar is expected to be an active participant in both the Mershon Center and the Department of Political Science.

The salary for this position is $63,500. The postdoctoral scholar will also be provided with an annual $4,000 research fund. Applicants must plan to reside in the Columbus area during the relevant academic years, except in the case of project-related field research.

Required qualifications:
Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field by June 30, 2026.
Candidates must be within three years of the Ph.D.
Strong methodological training (qualitative, quantitative, or both)

Desired qualifications:
Demonstrated research expertise in the study of traditional governance
Experience living, working, or conducting research in Africa or another developing region
Interest in conducting field-based research

Additional Information:

To apply, please combine the following materials into a single PDF and submit through Workday:
Cover letter describing the two-year research agenda and how it relates to the broader project on Traditional Governance
Current CV
An article-length writing sample
A list of three references (letters will only be requested for finalists)
The deadline for receipt of applications is December 15, 2025. Virtual interviews will take place in late January, with decisions by mid-February.

To apply:
https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Scholar---Traditional-Governance-in-Africa_R136287-1

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15884

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Rogalski Professorship in International Political Economy

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs at the University of Notre Dame in Notre Dame, Indiana is accepting applications for the Rogalski Professorship in International Political Economy, a full-time, tenured position at the associate or full professor level. This position includes an administrative leadership role as the Director of the Keough School's McKenna Center for Human Development and Global Business, which seeks to understand the critical role of global business in reducing poverty and inequality. The mission of the McKenna Center is to create enduring partnerships between the private sector, governments, institutions of higher education, and professional development actors to advance sustainable development and mitigate risk to companies, vulnerable populations, and our shared environment.

We seek a scholar whose work examines the role of business in the global economy. This includes areas such as international trade, global finance, supply chains and geopolitics, social entrepreneurship and innovation, economic statecraft, or the political economy of sustainability and climate transition. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work combines analytical rigor with policy relevance, and who are committed to public scholarship and engagement with global institutions, governments, civil society, and the private sector. Candidates should approach these issues through rigorous disciplinary training in fields such as political science, economics, public policy, international relations, business or related areas. The ideal candidate will contribute to shaping the School's intellectual agenda at the intersection of economics, politics, and global governance.

The ideal candidate will also have a record of interdisciplinary research, institutional leadership, and commitment to public engagement. As director of the McKenna Center, they will provide intellectual and strategic leadership for McKenna, guiding its research agenda, overseeing external grants and programming, and collaborating with other units in the Keough School and at the university more broadly. This is a full-time, tenured appointment with administrative responsibilities and teaching expectations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The professorship will be based in the Keough School, which promotes interdisciplinary and policy-relevant research on critical issues in global affairs, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. The Keough School approaches global affairs and development through a focus on integrated human development, which is also central to the University of Notre Dame's mission. The Keough School offers degrees at the undergraduate, Master's and PhD level. Position duties include research, teaching, and service. The position is expected to begin in August 2026.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science, economics, public policy, international relations, business or a closely related field, with demonstrated expertise in international political economy.

The successful candidate is expected to have a record of distinguished scholarship and teaching that merits appointment at the associate or full professor level, demonstrate expertise in at least one core area of international political economy (e.g., trade, finance, supply chains, development, environmental political economy), be committed to interdisciplinary collaboration and public engagement, have experience or strong interest in policy engagement, public communication, and applied global research, and be committed to mentoring students and contributing to a collaborative, interdisciplinary academic environment.

Applications, including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research statement, and teaching statement, should be submitted through the Interfolio system at https://apply.interfolio.com/173136. Questions about the positions may be addressed to the search committee chair Yong Suk Lee, Associate Professor of Technology, Economy and Global Affairs at yong.s.lee@nd.edu. We will begin reviewing completed applications on October 20, 2025 and will accept applications through October 17, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15878

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Security Studies, Political Scientist (Assistant, Associate, or Full)

Security Studies, Political Scientist
(Assistant, Associate, or Full)

The Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin ("LBJ School") invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Political Science focused on security studies to begin in Fall of academic year 2026-27 (with an August 2026 start date). One of the nation's top ten programs in public affairs, the LBJ School is seeking to strengthen its faculty in national security. The LBJ School comprises more than 45 faculty members and approximately 500 undergraduate and graduate students. This faculty would specifically support teaching in the Master of National Security, the National Security Minor and the Master of Global Policy.

The appointee is expected to contribute to the core curriculum in these programs by teaching courses on topics such as foundations of international security, military operations and strategy, security cooperation, regional security, or courses that focus on politics and policymaking in defense, intelligence, and national security agencies. Faculty research should focus on a subset of similar themes, demonstrating an ability to contribute to scholarly debates ongoing in top journals and presses in political science and security studies. The appointee's research should have direct relevance to public policy. The appointee will also participate in faculty governance in the LBJ School.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field is required. ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment. Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential is preferred.

Application Instructions :

• Full Professors

Apply Here: https://apply.interfolio.com/171895

Interested candidates can submit their cover letter, CV, statement of teaching, three years of teaching evaluations (or fewer if unavailable), three letters of reference, and one article-length writing sample via Interfolio. For full professors, reference letters will be solicited at a later stage in the search process. Questions about the position can be directed to Sheena Greitens at sheena.greitens@austin.utexas.edu Questions about the application can be directed to Shannon LaFevers at slafevers@austin.utexas.edu.

The search committee will begin considering applications September 25th. The position will remain open until filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

The University of Texas at Austin, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15869

University of Toronto

Rank: Associate Professor/Professor – Lawson Chair in Climate Policy Innovation

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenured position in Climate Policy Innovation. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026.

Candidates must hold a PhD in a social science discipline and have a clearly demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching in the area of climate-related policy. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research, and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate, upon formally accepting the offer of a full-time faculty position, will be considered for appointment to the Lawson Chair in Climate Policy Innovation for a five-year term, which will be renewable following a favourable review. As an internationally recognized scholar in climate-related policy, the Chair will play a critical role in the Lawson Climate Institute, working with the institute leadership to drive solutions-oriented research and impactful engagement related to climate policy. As the Lawson Chair in Policy Innovation the candidate will:

o Share insights with the public through news sources and popular media o Collaborate with, and build, the community of LCI Scholars and Chairs
o Represent U of T in creating and joining international scholarly partnerships o Connect with, inform, and convene municipal, provincial, national and international policy makers.
o Enable measurable improvements for communities, industry, academia and government.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the discipline, as well as strong endorsements from referees. Candidates must also provide evidence of their research impact via policy, industry and/or civil society.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application (with required materials outlined below), as well as strong letters of reference.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; one recent publication; and a teaching dossier which includes a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations.

Equity, diversity and inclusion are essential to academic excellence as articulated in University of Toronto's Statement on Equity, Diversity and Excellence. We seek candidates who share these values and who demonstrate throughout the application materials their commitment and efforts to advance equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The Department will request letters of recommendation from references at a later stage of the search process.
Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including names and contact information of references, must be received by October 22, 2025.

Preference will be given to candidates who self-identify as Indigenous. Recognizing that there are a variety of terms that potential candidates may use to self-identify, the University uses the term "Indigenous" in this search, which forms part of the U of T Response to Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission, to encompass the people of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations, Métis, Inuk (Inuit), Alaska Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian people.

The University of Toronto has adopted the AAU Principles on Preventing Sexual Harassment in Academia, including the requirement that applicants release personnel information from prior employers regarding sexual misconduct. Full details and requirements can be found here.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement:
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

To apply, please click here (https://jobs.utoronto.ca/job/Toronto-Associate-ProfessorProfessor-Lawson-Chair-in-Climate-Policy-Innovation-ON/594178317/)

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/22/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15868

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Professor

The University of Notre Dame's Department of Political Science and the Keough School of Global Affairs are searching for one or more faculty members who specialize in the empirical study of democracy. We expect the appointment to be at the level of Full Professor, but we will consider applications from advanced Associate Professors. We define the study of democracy broadly, as research on political regimes and regime change, challenges to democratic institutions, and the study of political behavior. Applicants should have a research agenda that addresses key questions related to democracy, either inside or outside the United States, or both. Successful candidates will also be capable of excellent teaching and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Position duties include research, teaching, and service.

A PhD is required in political science, any subfield of political science, other social science disciplines, or related fields.

This search is conducted under the auspices of the Notre Dame Democracy Initiative, a significant investment from the Provost's office that will provide multiple faculty lines and substantial research support.

Those attracted to a university with a Catholic identity are particularly encouraged to apply. Information about Notre Dame, including our mission statement, is available at www.nd.edu.

Applicants are asked to provide a CV and letter of interest to Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/172986

Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2025, but additional applications are welcome until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15860

University of Texas at Austin
Rank: Economics and National Security

Economics and National Security
(Assistant, Associate, or Full)

The Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas at Austin ("LBJ School") invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with a focus on the intersection of economics and national security, statecraft, and foreign policy. The position is open with respect to disciplinary affiliation, including political science, economics, and international relations, and will begin August 2026 for the 2026-27 academic year.

One of the nation's top ten programs in public affairs, the LBJ School is seeking to strengthen its faculty in national security, including at the intersection of national security and economic policy and statecraft. The LBJ School comprises more than 45 faculty members and approximately 500 undergraduate and graduate students. The faculty role supports teaching in the Master of National Security, Master of Global Policy Studies and Bachelor of Arts in Public Affairs, and the appointee can expect to teach courses focused on the economic policies that advance foreign policy development, national security and economic statecraft.

Faculty research may focus on the policy design, implementation and assessment of financial sanctions, trade agreements, tariffs, export controls, intellectual property protections, currency manipulation, commercial diplomacy, foreign investment or industrial policy development, with an emphasis on the use of such tools for national security and statecraft. The appointee should conduct and publish scholarly research in top outlets in their field and be willing to seek grant opportunities in support of their research and/or teaching activities. The appointee's research should have direct relevance to public policy, and they will also participate in faculty governance in the LBJ School.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics or a related field is required. ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment. Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential is preferred.

Application Instructions:

Apply Here: apply.interfolio.com/171892

Interested candidates can submit their cover letter, CV, statement of teaching, three years of teaching evaluations (or fewer if unavailable), three letters of reference, and one article-length writing sample via Interfolio. For full professors, reference letters will be solicited at a later stage in the search process. Questions about the position can be directed to Sheena Greitens at sheena.greitens@austin.utexas.edu. Questions about the application can be directed to Shannon LaFevers at slafevers@austin.utexas.edu

The search committee will begin considering applications September 25th. The position will remain open until filled.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement:

The University of Texas at Austin, as an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding nondiscrimination and affirmative action. The University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all persons and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, disability, religion, or veteran status in employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15864

Cornell University
Rank: Tenured Track Chinese Politics

The Department of Government invites applications for a tenured faculty position in Chinese Politics, broadly defined, at the rank of associate or full professor. In addition to maintaining an active research agenda, the successful applicant will teach courses in the field of Chinese politics as well as contribute to the broad research and teaching mission of the Department of Government. Ph.D. is required. The successful applicant will serve as the Director of the Brittany and Adam J. Levinson Program in China and Asia-Pacific Studies (https://caps.cornell.edu/). The ideal candidate will be an internationally recognized scholar with a strong record of external funding. The Director will provide leadership to foster the intellectual development of faculty in China and Asia-Pacific studies and enhance the Program's educational curricula. Applicants should apply online at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30453. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, teaching statement, and the names of three references (letters for finalist candidates will be requested later). In addition, we ask applicants to share their experiences and/or approaches (past, current, or future) to fostering learning, research, service, and/or outreach in a diverse community; applicants may choose to submit a stand-alone statement or embed the information in other parts of their application. We will begin to review applications starting September 22, 2025, and will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. [Pay Range: $99,200 - $280,000] Actual salary offers in the College of Arts and Sciences will be based on education, experience, discipline, and relevant skills.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15837

University of Georgia
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Administration and Policy in the School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites nominations and applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position (with appointment to begin in August 2026) specializing in governance and policy implications of energy systems and/or energy security in the transport sector (i.e., road, rail, maritime, air, intermodal, pipeline, space). The department seeks scholars who are dedicated to research, teaching, and student mentorship and who will contribute to the strengths of our undergraduate and graduate public administration and policy degree programs. Affiliation with the energy security policy team in the Benson-Bertsch Center for International Trade and Security is possible for a finalist with relevant expertise and interest.

Ideal candidates will have will have research and teaching interests in areas such as (but not limited to) innovation and technology policy as it relates to electrification and the transition to net-zero energy systems; policy implications of rising electricity demand and potential impacts on the transport sector; public finance, policy, and regulatory dimensions of electric mobility; policy and management challenges of battery production for the transport sector; policy implications of U.S. non-competitiveness in electric vehicle production; health and environmental implications of decarbonization; and public management of the transition to net-zero energy systems. Evidence of high-quality research, an active research agenda, and a commitment to excellence in instruction are necessary. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated success in securing external research funding. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in public administration, political science, public policy, or a related field by August 2026.

To apply, please visit https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/447839. Include in your application: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the contact information for three individuals providing reference letters. In your cover letter, please describe your preparation to contribute to the undergraduate minor in public policy and management as well as the MPA core curriculum and elective specializations. Applicants invited for interviews may also be required to provide graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching experience and evaluations, and examples of scholarly research. If you have questions or would like more information about the position, please contact Hannah Cowart (hrcowart@uga.edu). All applications received by October 1, 2025, are assured full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked consistently among the top-10 Public Affairs Schools by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit https://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/padp/. In addition, the State of Georgia is well known for its quality of life, outdoor and cultural amenities, and affordability (https://www.exploregeorgia.org and https://www.georgia.org/competitive-advantages/life-georgia). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15814

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Governance and Transportation Policy

The Department of Public Administration and Policy in the School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites nominations and applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position (with appointment to begin in August 2026) specializing in governance and policy implications of energy systems and/or energy security in the transport sector (i.e., road, rail, maritime, air, intermodal, pipeline, space). The department seeks scholars who are dedicated to research, teaching, and student mentorship and who will contribute to the strengths of our undergraduate and graduate public administration and policy degree programs. Affiliation with the energy security policy team in the Benson-Bertsch Center for International Trade and Security is possible for a finalist with relevant expertise and interest.

Ideal candidates will have will have research and teaching interests in areas such as (but not limited to) innovation and technology policy as it relates to electrification and the transition to net-zero energy systems; policy implications of rising electricity demand and potential impacts on the transport sector; public finance, policy, and regulatory dimensions of electric mobility; policy and management challenges of battery production for the transport sector; policy implications of U.S. non-competitiveness in electric vehicle production; health and environmental implications of decarbonization; and public management of the transition to net-zero energy systems. Evidence of high-quality research, an active research agenda, and a commitment to excellence in instruction are necessary. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated success in securing external research funding. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in public administration, political science, public policy, or a related field by August 2026.

To apply, please visit https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/447839. Include in your application: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the contact information for three individuals providing reference letters. In your cover letter, please describe your preparation to contribute to the undergraduate minor in public policy and management as well as the MPA core curriculum and elective specializations. Applicants invited for interviews may also be required to provide graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching experience and evaluations, and examples of scholarly research. If you have questions or would like more information about the position, please contact Hannah Cowart (hrcowart@uga.edu). All applications received by October 1, 2025, are assured full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked consistently among the top-10 Public Affairs Schools by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit https://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/padp/. In addition, the State of Georgia is well known for its quality of life, outdoor and cultural amenities, and affordability (https://www.exploregeorgia.org and https://www.georgia.org/competitive-advantages/life-georgia). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15815

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Stanford University
Rank: Survey Center Research Scientist

Please apply through Stanford University's online application portal at https://careersearch.stanford.edu/jobs/survey-center-research-scientist-28631

Job Summary
This position has been deemed critical by the School of Humanities and Sciences Dean's Office and is exempt from the hiring freeze.

The School of Humanities and Sciences (H&S) is the foundation of a liberal arts education at Stanford. The school encompasses 24 departments and 25 interdisciplinary programs. H&S is home to fundamental and applied research, where free, open, and critical inquiry is pursued across disciplines. As the university's largest school, H&S serves as the foundation of a Stanford undergraduate education no matter which discipline students pursue as a major. Graduate students work alongside world-renowned faculty to pursue and shape foundational research that leads to breakthroughs and discoveries that shed new light on the past, influence the present, and shape the future. Together, faculty and students in H&S engage in inspirational teaching, learning, and research every day.

POSITION SUMMARY
Stanford's Institute for Research in the Social Sciences (IRiSS) (https://iriss.stanford.edu/) seeks to hire a Survey Research Scientist [Academic Program Professional 2] to launch the Stanford Institute for Excellence in Survey Research (SIESR) (https://iriss.stanford.edu/siesr), focused on providing survey research guidance to the Stanford community and analyzing survey data and developing reports for the Public Pulse project, with the aim to support Stanford researchers in the study of human behavior and measurement of public opinion by facilitating survey research and securing grants; advancing survey methodology with the aim of producing more accurate and reliable surveys; and informing policy debates by disseminating findings not only to academics, but also to media, policymakers, and industry. These are exciting times for survey research across the social sciences, within academia and outside. Never before has so much survey research been done and has it had so much impact on academic scholarship, on government policymaking, and on business decision making. SIESR is committed to advancing the methods, credibility and understanding of the best practices in survey research.

This is an outstanding opportunity to be on the ground floor of an exciting and innovative new initiative at Stanford University. The position requires a person with a demonstrated ability to initiate, develop, and manage projects, and get things accomplished, who has training and experience in survey research and survey methods. This will be an extraordinary opportunity for someone who holds a strong commitment to the value of survey research in the nation's social and political discourse, who is immersed in the details and nuances of survey research and survey methods, and who relishes the chance to direct and manage a startup initiative, breaking new ground.

The position is responsible for working with Stanford faculty and graduate students on the design and fielding of surveys, and analysis of survey data. Additional critical components of the job will include: identifying surveys done with high quality methods; overseeing the development and management of a set of dynamic databases on American public opinion, in keeping with current standards and best practices in open science; sourcing or building systems for monitoring and analyzing incoming data on a continuous basis; and developing narratives and visual representations that summarize the results, suitable for presentation to academic and non-academic audiences.

The job also involves writing and editing content for proposals, peer-reviewed publications, and other program activities under the general direction of the faculty director, institute director and advisory board leadership. The incumbent will assist with the development of research grants, including exploring new funding opportunities, writing portions of the grant proposals, and summarizing data needs and data findings.

Qualified applicants should be able to demonstrate experience in these areas:
- Successfully spearheading new, long-term research-oriented initiatives

- Project management, from start to successful completion
- Familiarity with the numerous sources of public opinion data in America
- Ability to manage the electronic collection and vetting of survey results
- Familiarity with the questionnaire design literature
- Clarity and efficiency in describing survey results and producing written reports

This is a 100% FTE, exempt position for a two-year term, with the possibility of extension based on funding and performance. The position is eligible for a full range of benefits. This position will be based on the Stanford campus and is eligible for a hybrid schedule, based on organizational need.

If you believe that this opportunity is a match for your knowledge, skills and abilities, we encourage you to apply. Thank you for considering employment opportunities with the School of Humanities and Sciences.

CORE DUTIES
- Consult with faculty and students on the design and administration of surveys and analysis of data, including support for proposal development that includes a survey research component.
- Source, collect and analyze data. This work includes (1) writing scripts in order to produce efficient, documented and reproducible methods of data collection, (2) creating databases where the data is held and made publicly available.
- Develop a list of tip sheets on best practices for survey research, and promote awareness of this information to the research community.
- Write and edit complex content for proposals, peer-reviewed publications, and other program activities under the general direction of PI. Assist with the development of research grants, (i.e., may suggest new funding opportunities, write portions of grants, and/or summarize data for grant support).
- Contribute to and inform strategic program planning and related funding and financial sustainability.
- Develop and manage research activities, making recommendations that impact policies and programs, and coordinating and implementing changes.
- Identify, recommend and implement opportunities for new research.
- Represent the program or function as the key contact and subject matter expert within the department, unit or school and develop communications for internal and external constituencies. Organize and/or participate in outreach activities such as events, partnerships, fundraising, training, and conferences. Lead workshops and facilitate meetings
- Monitor expenses, budgets, and finances of the program. Make recommendations on funding based on program spending.

EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE:
A PhD in a social science, with a particular emphasis on and experience in survey research and survey methods is highly preferred. Program administration and research experience are required.

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS AND ABILITIES
- Entrepreneurship, managing, and enthusiasm for the development of a new venture
- Data engineering, automation & packaging
- Scientific computing, open science & FAIR Data principles
- Data management, analysis, and wrangling
- Demonstrated oral, written, and analytical skills, exhibiting fluency in area of specialization.
- Ability to oversee and provide basic direction to staff.

Highly desired knowledge, skills and abilities include:
- Academic interest in advancing the frontiers of survey methodology

The expected pay range for this position is $116,966 to $150,114 per annum.
Stanford University provides pay ranges representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for a position. The pay offered to a selected candidate will be determined based on factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the qualifications of the selected candidate, departmental budget availability, internal equity, geographic location and external market pay for comparable jobs.

At Stanford University, base pay represents only one aspect of the comprehensive rewards package. The Cardinal at Work website (https://cardinalatwork.stanford.edu/benefits-rewards) provides detailed information on Stanford's extensive range of benefits and rewards offered to employees. Specifics about the rewards package for this position may be discussed during the hiring process.

Why Stanford is for You
Imagine a world without search engines or social platforms. Consider lives saved through first-ever organ transplants and research to cure illnesses. Stanford University has revolutionized the way we live and enrich the world. Supporting this mission is our diverse and dedicated 17,000 staff. We seek talent driven to impact the future of our legacy. Our culture and unique perks empower you with:
- Freedom to grow. We offer career development programs, tuition reimbursement, and opportunities to audit courses. Join a film screening or listen to a renowned author or global leader speak.
- A caring culture. We provide superb retirement plans, generous time-off, and family care resources.
- A healthier you. Climb our rock wall or choose from hundreds of health or fitness classes at our world-class exercise facilities. We also provide excellent health care benefits.
- Discovery and fun. Stroll through historic sculptures, trails, and museums.
- Enviable resources. Enjoy free commuter programs, ridesharing incentives, discounts and more!

The job duties listed are typical examples of work performed by positions in this job classifications and are not designed to contain or be interpreted as a comprehensive inventory of all duties, tasks and responsibilities. Specific duties and responsibilities may vary depending on department or program needs without changing the general nature and scope of the job or level of responsibility. Employees may also perform other duties as assigned

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact Stanford University Human Resources at stanfordelr@stanford.edu. For all other inquiries, please submit a contact form.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15803

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor - Indigenous Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in Indigenous Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026.

Preference will be given to candidates who self-identify as Indigenous. Recognizing that there are a variety of terms that potential candidates may use to self-identify, the University uses the term "Indigenous" in this search, which forms part of the U of T Response to Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission, to encompass the people of Turtle Island, including those who identify as First Nations, Métis, Inuk (Inuit), Alaska Native, Native American, and Native Hawaiian people.

Candidates must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related social sciences or humanities discipline, with a focus on Indigenous politics by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in teaching, research, and Indigenous community engagement. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and enhance our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research, and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The Department of Political Science is a leading research-intensive department with large undergraduate and graduate programs. Responsibilities of the position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses (specific assignments to be negotiated), regular participation in departmental and university activities, maintaining a productive research agenda, supervising students at the undergraduate, MA and PhD levels, and student mentoring. The successful candidate will play an important role in growing and shaping the Political Science department's commitment to Indigenous Studies in the next few years.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest and most research-intensive university and the only Canadian university to be named in the top 25 in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings. Located in and around Toronto, one of the world's most diverse cities, the University of Toronto's vibrant academic life is enhanced by the cultural diversity in its community. In response to the Final Report of the Canadian Truth and Reconciliation Commission, U of T established a TRC Steering Committee to guide the University's response to the 94 Calls to Action. The University recently established an office of Indigenous Initiatives that works in close collaboration with the Centre for Indigenous Studies, First Nations House and other Indigenous facets of the University of Toronto (such as Indigenous Medical Education, Waakebiness-Bryce, and the Indigenous Education Network) to motivate initiatives designed to recruit and retain Indigenous students. This office supports the intellectual and communal life of Indigenous students and scholars on campus, including Indigenous Staff and Faculty Gatherings, an Elders Symposium, organizing and hosting Indigenous Education Week, and various conference initiatives (such as sending individuals to the World Indigenous Peoples Conference on Education (WIPCE) and hosting the Native American and Indigenous Studies Association (NAISA) meetings in 2020). The office includes a large staff and Faculty advisory and collaboration committee. The University has also earmarked funding to host Indigenous scholars and Distinguished Visiting Faculty Fellows. This work complements a major recruitment drive to hire Indigenous faculty across the University.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample of no more than 30 pages; and a teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations.

Equity, diversity and inclusion are essential to academic excellence as articulated in University of Toronto's Statement on Equity, Diversity. and Excellence. We seek candidates who share these values and who demonstrate throughout the application materials their commitment and efforts to advance equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. At least one reference letter must primarily address the candidate's engagement with Indigenous communities. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each referee within 48 hours after an application is submitted. Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including recent reference letters, must be received by November 5, 2025.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.
Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/5/2025
Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15805

Seton Hall University
Rank: Politics and Law
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

Job Summary:

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor beginning in the fall semester of 2026, pending budgetary approval.

Seton Hall University is in South Orange, New Jersey, 14 miles from New York City. It is the oldest Catholic diocesan institution of higher education in the United States. It is home to approximately 6,300 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students from all 50 states, with alumni from more than 60 countries. A vibrant and culturally diverse community, Seton Hall pursues academic excellence and ethicaldevelopment in a collaborative environment and prepares its students to be servant leaders in theirprofessional and community lives. Seton Hall University is an Equal Opportunity employer. It honorsdiversity and respects the religious commitments of all its employees.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science & Public Affairs have diverse research interests and value quality teaching and substantive service, and share a strong commitment to promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. We are currently seeking candidates with scholarly and teaching interests at the nexus of law and politics. Ideally, the candidate's work will focus on contemporary questions associated with justice, human rights, and civil liberties.

Tenure-track faculty at Seton Hall teach three courses per semester and are expected to publish, actively pursue grant-funded research, and perform service appropriate to their rank and experience at the department, College, and University levels.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science
Candidates should provide evidence of successful teaching and scholarship. Preference will be given to candidates who hold both a Ph.D. and J.D. and/or possess expertise in the areas of legal design and/or movement lawyering.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Please submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, demonstration of teaching effectiveness, writing sample, and the names of three references.

All materials must be submitted through the Seton Hall application portal found at https://jobs.shu.edu/.

Review of applications will begin September 29, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15793

Stanford University
Rank: 2026 Hoover Fellow Position

The Hoover Institution at Stanford University seeks outstanding scholars for positions as a Hoover Fellow. The term of the appointment is five years, with the option to renew for one additional term. The position is located at the Hoover Institution, Stanford, CA.

During their fellowship, Hoover Fellows are expected to publish scholarly articles and books with implications for public policy and to contribute to the intellectual life of the Hoover Institution. This position carries no teaching responsibilities. The 12-month base salary range is $165,000 to $230,000, plus a $20,000 annual housing allowance.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in a relevant field, such as economics, history, international relations, national security, political science, or public policy, and expect to complete that degree by September 1st, 2026.

Hoover Fellows are encouraged to engage with Stanford's broader research community in their respective fields. The Hoover Institution is a research center at Stanford University, located in the heart of Stanford's campus.

Please submit:

A cover letter or statement of interest that includes a description of academic background and experience

One or more recent publications, working papers, or draft book chapters
A curriculum vitae
A statement about future research plans (two pages maximum)
Three letters of recommendation that focus on the candidate's research and research potential

If you have any questions, please contact hooverfellowship@stanford.edu. Please note that we only monitor this email address periodically.

Please submit completed applications online at https://www.hoover.org/hoover-fellows-program by November 18, 2025.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/18/2025
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15797

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Environmental Social Sciences, Stanford Doerr School for Sustainability

Assistant Professor in Environmental Social Sciences, Stanford Doerr School for Sustainability

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the field of Global Environmental Policy within the Department of Environmental Social Sciences. The scope of the search is broad, and we welcome applications from scholars studying environmental policy issues from the perspective of the quantitative social sciences or related fields, including candidates who have completed or will soon complete their PhD in economics, political science, environmental policy, or data science as applied to environmental policy. The successful candidate will serve as faculty within the Department of Environmental Social Sciences, at the Stanford Doerr School of Sustainability.

Application packages should be submitted online at this LINK (https://secure.dc4.pageuppeople.com/apply/1054/gateway/Default.aspx?c=apply&sJobIDs=494886&SourceTypeID=796&sLanguage=en-us). Review of applications will begin Dec 1, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration, your application should be submitted by this date.

Candidates for an untenured position at the rank of assistant professor must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor.
Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory, interest in the quantitative analysis of topics related to environmental policy, and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants for an untenured position must include with their application:

1. a cover letter,
2. CV,
3. a combined research and teaching statement of no more than three pages,
4. graduate school transcripts,
5. a writing sample,
6. name and contact information for three professional references.

The Environmental Social Sciences Department, Stanford Doerr School of Sustainability and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds, and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

The expected base pay range for this position is: Assistant Professor: $143,500-$193,000

Stanford University has provided a base pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the experience and qualifications of the selected candidate including years since terminal degree, training, and field or discipline; departmental budget availability; internal equity; and external market pay for comparable jobs.

For general questions regarding this position, please contact Marisa MacAskill at mmacaskill@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15789

Stanford University

Rank: W. Glenn Campbell and Rita Ricardo-Campbell National Fellows

The Hoover Institution's Glenn Campbell and Rita Ricardo-Campbell National Fellows Program enables outstanding scholars from colleges, universities, and institutions worldwide to step away from their academic and professional responsibilities for one year to pursue unrestricted, creative research and publication. The fellowships provide an opportunity to complete an original, significant research project, with the expectation of producing a publishable manuscript while in residence at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University in Stanford, California.

Two unique resources frame the Hoover Institution National Fellows program:

The Hoover Library and Archives offers Fellows access to one of the richest private archive collections in the United States. With nearly one million volumes and more than six thousand archival collections from 171 countries, it serves as a premier national and international center for primary-source documentation and research on issues of political, economic, and social change.

Access to outstanding resident scholars at the Hoover Institution and Stanford University. National Fellows can draw on the expertise of resident fellows and university faculty, who are available to discuss research topics and provide valuable insight into policy issues and strategic challenges.

Participation in the program begins on September 1, 2026, and ends on August 31, 2027. National Fellows are encouraged to engage in the intellectual life of the Hoover Institution and are expected to deliver at least one presentation on their research to an appropriate group of scholars during their year in residence. Total compensation for full participation ranges from $125,000 to $155,000.

ADMINISTRATION

The selection committee is made up of Hoover Senior Fellows and distinguished scholars from Stanford University. The committee selects program participants and makes recommendations to the Director of the Hoover Institution regarding each year's participants.

APPLICATION

Application to the program requires the online submission of:

Cover letter
Curriculum vitae
Three (3) to five (5) page research proposal
Three (3) to five (5) confidential letters of recommendation from leading scholars

Qualified candidates should hold a Ph.D. degree or its equivalent or should expect to complete the Ph.D. by September 2026. They should have an established publication record or promising pipeline of unpublished works. National Fellows typically resume or begin full-time appointments at highly regarded institutions or universities upon completion of the National Fellows Program.

Hoover National Fellows receive financial support solely on the merits of their proposed research and scholarly record, irrespective of any pre-existing support.

All materials must be submitted electronically at https://www.hoover.org/fellows/category/national-fellows by November 18, 2025.

If you have any questions, please contact hooverfellowship@stanford.edu. Please include "National Fellow" in the subject line, and note that this email account is monitored periodically.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/18/2025
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15798

University of Toronto

Rank: Associate Professor / Professor, Munk Chair in Global China

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy in the Faculty of Arts & Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Global China. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, with an expected start date of July 1, 2026. The successful candidate may be eligible to be named the Munk Chair in Global China for a five-year term, which will be renewable following a favourable review.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in any social sciences field relating to Global China or a related area such as Economics, History, Law, Political Science, Sociology, with a clearly demonstrated exceptional record of excellence in research and teaching. The Committee especially welcomes scholars who focus on China's role in the world through the analysis of China's international strategies in the domain of economics, foreign policy, military, and /or the digital world. Candidates will have an established international reputation and will be expected to sustain and lead innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to maintain an outstanding, competitive, externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of sustained high-impact contributions and publications in top-ranked disciplinary and/or field-relevant academic journals or academic presses, the submitted research statement, presentations at significant conferences, distinguished awards and accolades, other noteworthy activities that contribute to the visibility and prominence of the field, as well as strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application (with required materials outlined below), as well as strong letters of reference.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, including in the Munk School's professional graduate programs (the Master of Global Affairs and the Master of Public Policy) to students from a wide range of academic backgrounds and interests and will also expand teaching capacity in the Asian Institute Collaborative Master's Specialization in Contemporary East and Southeast Asian Studies and the Dr. David Chu program in Contemporary Asian Studies. The successful candidate will have experience or demonstrable interest in a professional school and/or in an interdisciplinary environment.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy at the University of Toronto St. George campus, please visit our home page at https://munkschool.utoronto.ca/.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; one recent publication; teaching dossier (including a teaching statement and sample course materials and teaching evaluations); and a research statement outlining current and future research interests. Equity, diversity and inclusion are essential to academic excellence as articulated in University of Toronto's Statement on Equity, Diversity and Excellence. We seek candidates who share these values and who demonstrate throughout the application materials their commitment and efforts to advance equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each referee the day after an application is submitted. Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit recent letters (on letterhead, dated, and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in the PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact munkschool.academic@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including recent reference letters, must be received by Wednesday October 15, 2025.

The University of Toronto has adopted the AAU Principles on Preventing Sexual Harassment in Academia, including the requirement that applicants release personnel information from prior employers regarding sexual misconduct. Full details and requirements can be found here.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement:

The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement:

The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

To apply please click here - https://jobs.utoronto.ca/job/Toronto-Associate-Professor-Professor-Munk-Chair-in-Global-China-ON/594239917/

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15788

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher in Moral Philosophy

The Princeton University Center for Human Values invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate in Moral Philosophy for a position starting in September 2026. The researcher's duties will include making progress on their own research projects, teaching the equivalent of one course each year, and actively participating in the intellectual community of the University Center for Human Values. The teaching will likely involve running a senior thesis seminar rather than teaching a traditional course, subject to approval of Princeton's Office of the Dean of the Faculty. The postdoc will be expected to participate in a year-long research seminar for visiting fellows and Center faculty, as well as a year-long seminar for the Center's cohort of Postdoctoral Associates . (Each of these seminars meets roughly every other week.) The postdoc will also be expected to regularly attend talks, panels, and conferences sponsored by the Center.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by September 1, 2026. Applicants should not have more than two years of postdoctoral experience by the start of appointment. Applicants should have a serious research specialization in Moral Philosophy. We understand Moral Philosophy broadly to include specific ethical questions, moral theory, and meta-ethics, but not to include political philosophy. Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments and the promise of the proposed research project in moral philosophy.

Term of Appointment
The term of the fellowship is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2026, with the possibility of renewal for up to one additional year subject to satisfactory performance and meeting all requirements, and continued funding. Appointment will be made to the rank of Postdoctoral Research Associate. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University. Expected Salary Range: $80,000

How to Apply
Candidates must submit an online application. A complete application will include the following supporting materials:

A curriculum vitae
A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words) describing the research project(s) the applicant plans to work on during the fellowship. Please provide an indicative title in the heading
A scholarly paper (of no more than 12,000 words, not including bibliography) representing the applicant's scholarly achievement or potential;
Contact information for three referees, who should be prepared to comment specifically about the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.
Applicant materials must be submitted online and by November 2, 2025 for fullest consideration. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference should be submitted by the priority deadline of November 9, 2025. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately so letters of reference received after the priority deadline may put candidates at a disadvantage.

We expect to announce decisions in February, 2026. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15777

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in a relevant area of social science, including but not limited to political science, media and communication studies, public policy, urban studies, linguistics, psychology and sociology. Successful candidates should have solid training and strong background in AI application in social science research, such as online data collection, management and analysis, machine learning, and/or experience in survey and experimental research. Applications are invited for faculty position at the rank of full professor/associate professor level with prospect for tenure, although junior candidate with very competitive academic records may be considered for position of assistant professor.

Candidate for full professor or associate professor position is expected to have solid evidence of excellence in teaching/research/service, and a strong track record of sustained high-quality research/scholarship outcomes in the expertise area(s), as evidenced by research publications in competitive international outlets in the relevant areas of public policy. In addition, candidate needs to demonstrate academic leadership and strong commitment to the highest standard of excellence. Candidate is advised to provide quality indicators for the journals where he/she have research publications (e.g., journal impact factor, journal ranking in a relevant category).

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2025-26.

Salary & Benefits
Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=311&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15757

American University
Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Violence & Terrorism

The Department of Justice, Law & Criminology in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position beginning in Academic Year 2026-2027. The position will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. For this position, the department is seeking a scholar with substantive expertise in political violence and terrorism. The search is open regarding specialty, but the Department is especially interested in a scholar whose research and teaching interests include terrorism, political violence, radicalization, extremism, or cybersecurity.

Applicants should hold a PhD in political science, criminology, sociology, or other closely related discipline. Candidates who possess a law degree only (J.D. or LL.M.) will not be considered for this position. Candidates should be effective teachers and must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research and providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching. Competitive candidates will possess a strong background in social science methodologies and a productive research portfolio, including publications in high-quality peer reviewed outlets. The Department is home to a range of disciplines, approaches, and methods. We are particularly interested in individuals whose research is interdisciplinary. In addition to scholarship and teaching, all faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Teaching responsibilities will include core and elective courses. Possible courses include: Causes of Terrorism, Radicalization, and various research methods classes. In addition to producing high quality scholarship and effective teaching, responsibilities will include mentoring graduate students and service to the department, school, and university. The search committee is especially interested in candidates who, through their research, teaching, and/or service will contribute to the excellence of the academic community.

Salary and benefits are competitive, with an expected salary range of $90,000 to $110,000. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approvals. The position begins August 1, 2026. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion date by August 2026.

Please submit applications via Workday. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, copies of up to three recently published articles and/or working papers, and three letters of recommendation. Please contact Tatiana Williams, Senior Administrative Assistant, at twilliams@american.edu if you have any questions.

Job Link Here: https://american.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/AU/details/Assistant-Professor--Political-Violence---Terrorism_R2964

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

Benefits:
AU offers a competitive benefits package including a 200% matching retirement plan, tuition benefits for full-time staff and their families, several leadership development certificates, and has been recognized by the American Heart Association as a fit-friendly worksite. Click here to learn about American University's unique benefit options.

Other Details:
-Hiring offers for this position are contingent on successful completion of a background check.
-Employees in staff positions at American University must deliver their services to the university from either the District of Columbia, Maryland, or Virginia, or perform work on-site at the university.
-Please note this job announcement is not designed to cover or contain a comprehensive listing of activities, duties or responsibilities that are required of the employee for this job. Duties, responsibilities, and activities may change at any time with or without notice.
-American University is an E-Verify employer.

Current American University Employees:
American University current employees must apply through their employee Workday account. If you are a current employee at American University, please log into Workday and select the Find Jobs report which will take you to our internal career listings.

Contact Us:
For more information or assistance with the American University careers site, email theworkline@american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15743

University of Hawaii, Hilo

Rank: Assistant Professor (American, Indigenous, Environmental Politics and/or Media)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics, Environmental Policy

Title: Assistant Professor (American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics and/or Media)

Position Number: 0086450

Hiring Unit: College of Arts and Sciences, Social Sciences Division

Location: University of Hawai'i Hilo

Date Posted: August 4, 2025

Closing Date: Continuous, first review on or about September 6, 2025, and will continue until filled

Salary Information: Commensurate with qualifications and experience

Monthly Type: 9 Month

Tenure Track: Tenure Track

Full-Time/Part-Time: Full-Time

Temporary/Permanent: Permanent

Other Conditions: Appointment to begin approximately January 2026, pending position clearance and availability of funding.

We seek a scholar in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media who can contribute upper and lower division undergraduate courses in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media. These courses serve our department and General Education. Teaching load will consist of three three-credit courses each semester (Fall and Spring) offered at the introductory as well as advanced levels in both the candidate's expertise and related courses.

The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment at a regional state university located in a rural island setting. The University of Hawai'i Hilo is a research-driven, teaching-focused public university with an emphasis on place-based learning. Our department serves the mission of our university - to empower leaders who will cultivate opportunity in our communities; inspire learning, discovery, and innovation in unique environments that challenge each student to reach their academic, personal and professional goals; value diversity and strive to be student-focused and relationship-oriented while becoming more collaborative, intentional, and innovative; and improve the quality of life of our diverse campus community, the people of Hawai'i Island, the state, the Pacific region and the world. Additionally, this position will contribute to our department's commitment to community engagement, civic education, rigorous scholarship, and creative pedagogies.

Duties and Responsibilities

1. Teach undergraduate courses within the major and General Education
2. Offer undergraduate courses in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media, that contribute to our political science program, with related courses as needed
3. Maintain an active agenda of scholarly research and peer-reviewed publication
4. Participate in service work, and fulfill other duties assigned by the department chair
5. Serve on appropriate department, college, and university committees
6. Contribute to department activities
7. Advising of students

Minimum Qualifications

1. At time of appointment, Ph.D. from an accredited college or university in Political Science, Politics, or Government.
2 Demonstrated research productivity in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media with at least academic publication (book chapter or peer-reviewed article) in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media
3. Evidence of High-Quality Teaching in American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media

Desirable Qualifications

1. Demonstrated ability to teach in multiple areas: American Politics, Indigenous Politics, Environmental Politics, and/or Media
2. Demonstrated interest in the politics of Hawai'i
3. Experience teaching and advising in a multicultural setting

To Apply:

Go to this website: https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/hawaiiedu/jobs/5030226/assistant-professor-american-indigenous-environmental-politics-and-or-media?keywords=american%20politics&pagetype=jobOpportunitiesJobs

Click on the "Apply" button on the top right corner of the screen to complete an application and attach each required document.

Applicant must submit the following:

1. Cover letter addressing how minimum and desirable qualifications are met
2. Current curriculum vita
3. Teaching Statement
4. Teaching evaluations with analysis
5. Sample course syllabi from courses taught by applicant
6. Research Statement
7. One publication as writing sample
8. Names, addresses, email addresses, and phone numbers for three (3) references, one of which is qualified to discuss your teaching. We may contact these references for letters of recommendation.
9. Graduate transcript(s) showing degrees and course work appropriate to the position (copies are acceptable; however original official transcripts will be required prior to employment). Academic record/grade summaries will NOT be accepted. Copy of diplomas will NOT be accepted. Documents issued from an institution outside the United States of America require a course-by-course analysis with an equivalency statement from an agency having membership with the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services, Inc., verifying the degree equivalency to that of an accredited institution within the USA. Expense of the evaluation shall be borne by the applicant.

Please do not include any self-identifying photos they will be redacted. PLEASE REDACT REFERENCES TO SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS AND BIRTH DATE ON TRANSCRIPT COPIES. All requested documents/information become the property of the University. All minimum qualifications must be met by the closing date. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Failure to submit all required documents and reference information shall deem an application to be incomplete.

Note: If you have not applied for a position before using NeoGov, you will need to create an account.

Inquiries: Dr. Sarah Marusek; marusek@hawaii.edu.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15740

Columbia University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

University of Toronto
Rank: Assistant Professor - Canadian Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Faculty of Arts and Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure stream position in the area of Canadian Politics. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026.

Candidates must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related discipline by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. We seek candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the theoretical and empirical understanding of Canadian politics, with a focus on Canadian institutions, governance or public policy.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and deepen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University of Toronto's downtown (St. George) campus. Candidates are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home page (Department of Political Science https://politics.utoronto.ca) to learn more about us. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, the submitted research statement, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees of high standing.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, a teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample of no more than 30 pages; and a teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations.

Equity, diversity and inclusion are essential to academic excellence as articulated in University of Toronto's Statement on Equity, Diversity. and Excellence. We seek candidates who share these values and who demonstrate throughout the application materials their commitment and efforts to advance equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial learning and working environment.
Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each referee within 48 hours after an application is submitted. Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that references submit letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including recent reference letters, must be received by October 14, 2025.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/14/2025
Date Posted: 7/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15706

DePaul University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) - Political Science (American Politics/Geography/Public Policy)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, State Politics

The Department of Political Science at DePaul University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position at the assistant professor level in American Politics (with an emphasis on state and local politics). The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching courses in American Politics, Political Geography and Public Policy. We will give priority to a person whose research would enable them to develop courses with a Chicago focus, and address public policy issues such as gun violence, poverty, sustainability or economic development. An ability to teach social science statistics and/or courses in Geographic Information Systems will also be viewed favorably.

With a total enrollment over 21,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet class sizes are typically between 20 and 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society.

For more information, e-mail polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at https://las.depaul.edu/academics/political-science/Pages/default.aspx

DePaul University seeks applicants that reflect the diversity of its student body and the City of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications
A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered.

Application Instructions
Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi and (5) complete course evaluations if available. All candidates will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

Applicants may apply at: https://apply.interfolio.com/170188

The screening of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15685

POLITICAL THEORY

Brandeis University
Rank: Instructor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University seeks an instructor for two 4-credit courses in the subfield of political theory to be offered in Spring 2026: Democratic Theory (Politics 190a) and a second Special Topics Course (Politics 193a). The Democratic Theory course explores the nature, virtues, and limitations of democracy as a way of organizing political affairs. It is an intermediate level undergraduate course. The Special Topics course can be on a topic proposed by applicants. This course can be offered as an intermediate or advanced undergraduate course in political theory.

Candidates with an MA or PhD in political science and training in Political Theory will be given preference. Interested individuals should submit a cover letter, CV, draft course syllabi, and names and contact information for two references. The deadline for first consideration is October 15, 2025. This appointment is to a position that is in a collective bargaining unit represented by SEIU Local 509.
Equal Opportunity Statement.

Please apply here: https://brandeis.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/Jobs/job/Lecturer-in-Politics--Political-Theory-_R0012281

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 16013

University of South Florida
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Job Description
The School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies (SIGS) at the University of South Florida (Tampa campus) invites applications for a 9-month, full-time and tenure-earning Assistant Professor position beginning on August 7, 2026. Salary is negotiable. The teaching load is four courses per academic year.

Responsibilities
Applicants should attach the following supplemental items to their application:

-a cover letter emphasizing the candidate's teaching experience and research background within political theory
-a curriculum vitae
-a writing sample no longer than 40 pages
-All documents must be combined and uploaded as one combined file. Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide letters of recommendation from three sources at a later date.

The closing date for receiving applications is October 31, 2025.

Qualifications
The minimum requirement for this position is a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government or a related field with a specialization in Political Theory from an accredited institution. Applications from individuals who are ABD will be accepted, but the degree must be conferred by the appointment start date. Candidates must be able to teach both undergraduate and graduate level courses. Must meet university criteria for appointment to the rank of Assistant Professor.

We are interested in candidates whose teaching and research interests contribute to the School's focus on "citizenship, justice, and identity in a global context." Special consideration will be paid to candidates who demonstrate a theoretical background in topics related to democratic theory; feminist political thought; and/or concerns related to commodity flows, borderlands, and migration.

Conclusion of this search is subject to final budget approval. According to Florida Law, applications and meetings regarding them are open to the public. USF is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access institution. For disability accommodations, contact Jamie Lane at jamielane@usf.edu, a minimum of five working days in advance. This position is subject to Foreign Influence Screening. House Bill 7017 ("HB 7017")

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16020

University of Texas, Tyler
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Tyler invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the subfield of political theory to begin August 2026.

We are a growing and vibrant department embarking on a new direction with a Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPL) focus. Our PPL program emphasizes public service and equips students with critical skills in politics, ethics, law, and philosophy. The PPL program provides our students an integrated view of politics emphasizing links between theory, philosophy, and practice. UT Tyler PPL students must complement classroom experiences in methodology, politics, philosophy, and law and a capstone cooperative off campus learning component. We are seeking a new colleague who shares our enthusiasm for this approach to teaching and learning about politics, service, and public affairs. Specifically, we are seeking a scholar who is focused on political theory, texts, and themes in political thought such as the founding of the United States and comparative constitutional principles. We seek a scholar who will work with our PPL students to explore and understand the underlying theories, ideologies, and principles that inform political thought and guide political choices and policymaking.

While most political theorists are trained in departments of politics and political science, we also welcome applications from candidates with research expertise in political theory who are trained in other disciplines or in interdisciplinary approaches. Duties will include teaching two courses (graduate and undergraduate) in the Classical Foundations of Political Theory. All faculty are expected to regularly teach an introductory course that serves our majors/minors as well as the general education requirements of the college's core curriculum. This position offers an opportunity to join a growing and academically vibrant community and to make significant contributions to teaching, research, and service.

Position Responsibilities:
- Teach a 3/3 course load.
- Demonstrate the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses.
- Maintain a record of research. Successful candidates are expected to maintain an ongoing research agenda; thus, applicants should show interest and promise of a strong publication record.
- Advise students.
- Serve the department, college, and university.
- Candidates should have an earned Ph.D. in Political Science or similar by the time of appointment.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at The University of Texas at Tyler. The University of Texas at Tyler is a centerpiece for learning, culture and natural beauty in East Texas, located midway between Dallas and Shreveport, Louisiana. Founded in 1971, UT Tyler is one of the fastest-growing universities in the renowned University of Texas System. The University of Texas at Tyler, serving over 11,000 students, is a pivotal educational institution and a central hub for cultural and academic pursuits in the region.

Application Process:

Qualified candidates may apply at [UT Tyler Prospective Employees] (https://www.uttyler.edu/human-resources/prospective-employees/).

Please submit a letter of application detailing teaching and research interests, teaching philosophy, curriculum vitae and unofficial transcripts all in one document.

Review of applications begins the week of November 3, 2025.

Additional Information:

The successful applicant must be able to demonstrate eligibility to work in the United States. This position is security-sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code Section 51.215, authorizing the employer to obtain criminal history record information. The University of Texas at Tyler is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, status as a protected veteran, or status as a qualified individual with a disability. Women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

We are looking forward to receiving your application.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16025

University of London, SOAS

Rank: Assistant Professor / Associate Professor position focused on the Politics of China

Job title: Assistant Professor / Associate Professor positions focused on the Politics of China
Department: Politics and International Studies
Contract Type: Full-Time (Permanent)
Salary: Grade 8/Ac3 - 9/Ac4 - Lecturer (£51,902.57 - £61,048.57), Senior Lecturer (£62,738.57 - £71,981.57) p/a incl. London Allowance
Location: Bloomsbury WC1H 0XG, London
Hours: 35 per week

SOAS University of London is the leading Higher Education institution in Europe specialising in the study of Asia, Africa and the Near and Middle East. SOAS University of London is positioned to play a leading role in re imagining higher education globally, with a new strategic plan in place as the basis for the renewal and revitalisation of the School which commits SOAS to both student responsiveness and research intensity. SOAS is moving towards a new model of international partnerships which is responsive to the transnational character of our global challenges

About the Role

The Department of Politics and International Studies is pleased to invite applications for a Lecturer (Assistant Professor) / Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor) position focused on the Politics of China.

The appointee will strengthen and work with the Department's active group of East Asia-focused scholars, contributing to—and shaping—the Department's research profile as well as delivery of our undergraduate and postgraduate degrees.

Apart from the publication of outstanding academic research, the role holder will convene and teach both general and specialist modules (individually and with others), advise both undergraduate and postgraduate dissertations, supervise PhD theses (pending completion of a probationary period), and provide pastoral care for students. The role holder will also be expected to work in a collegial and collaborative manner with both academic and non-academic staff across the Department and the School.

Alongside a thematic specialism and regional expertise focused on the politics of modern China, some experience running online modules?-and?executive education,?as well as engagement with non-academic audiences, will be beneficial.

You can find further information on the key criteria for the role in the Job Description and Person Specification, along with a full list of duties and responsibilities, which can be found on the SOAS website

About the Department:

Within SOAS, the Department of Politics and International Studies is a world-leading, research-led department, ranked 3rd globally for its outstanding "Academic Reputation" (QS World University Rankings 2025).

The Department of Politics and International Studies is currently one of the largest at SOAS. It is known for its research-based engagement with the political realities of Africa, Asia, and the Middle East, and for providing innovative and challenging perspectives on these realities.

Our academic staff, together with our research students, work across a wide spectrum of global, international, regional, and theoretical issues, including international security, international organisations, international political economy, diplomacy, and migration, as well as comparative political theory, the politics of regimes and resistance, cultural identity, urban politics, climate change, and violence.

We are an exceptionally diverse department with expertise in both quantitative and qualitative methodologies. Most of our faculty members have regional and theoretical interests, a command of one or more languages in the regions they study, and substantial fieldwork experience.

One of our core commitments lies in fostering a supportive learning environment for our students. There are currently about 1,250 students enrolled on the Department's on-campus degree programmes. The majority study for a BA in Politics (or Politics with another subject) or a BA in International Relations (or International Relations with another subject). In addition, the Department hosts three postgraduate programmes: MSc Politics and International Relations, MSc Global Energy and Climate Policy, and MA International Studies and Diplomacy. The Department also delivers the MA Global Diplomacy online programme.

N.b. Our MSc Politics and International Relations programme appeals to generalists as well as those with specific thematic and/or regional interests, offering distinctive pathways focused on Comparative Political Theory; International Politics and Security; Conflict, Rights, and Justice; and the Politics and International Relations of Africa; the Middle East; South Asia; Southeast Asia; East Asia; and Central Asia.

Nurturing multiple research-oriented events every week, the Department hosts interdisciplinary research centres/clusters focused on International Studies and Diplomacy as well as Comparative Political Thought; International Politics and Security; Conflict, Rights, and Justice; and (more generally) the politics and international relations of Asia; Africa; and the Middle East.

How to Apply: Please apply via the link : https://vacancies.soas.ac.uk/job/766564

Closing date: 15th November 2025 at 23:59

For informal inquiries please contact the Head of Department, Professor Matthew J. Nelson, at mn6@soas.ac.uk.

Further information:

Successful candidates will need to demonstrate their eligibility to work in the UK or have limited leave to remain in the UK and associated right to work for the duration of their employment with SOAS, in accordance with the Immigration, Asylum and Nationality Act 2006.

We may be able to offer sponsorship for candidates who do not currently possess the right to work in the UK.

We would particularly welcome applications from candidates from working class, first generation Higher Education, Black, Asian, other minority ethnic and underrepresented groups from within the UK and beyond. All appointment decisions will be made on merit, following a fair and competitive process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15967

Musashi University

Rank: Faculty Position in Political Theory (Open Rank)
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Position Description: The School of Liberal Arts and Sciences (SLAS) at Musashi University invites applications for an open-rank, full-time position (tenure-track or tenured) in International Relations, with a specialization in International Political Theory. The successful candidate will play a central role in SLAS's Parallel Degree Programme (PDP) in partnership with the University of London (UoL), particularly through teaching contributions to the newly planned BSc in International Relations. We welcome applications from scholars with a strong research agenda and publication record in international political theory, and demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses in English.

Teaching Responsibilities: SLAS faculty members are responsible for teaching five "koma" per semester, with one "-koma" being a 105-minute class meeting per week. The teaching load for this position includes the following courses: International Political Theory* (three "koma"), World History since 1945* OR IFP Politics* (three "koma"), and other undergraduate lectures or seminars (four "koma"). Priority will be given to candidates who can teach World History since 1945. Courses marked with an asterisk (*) are part of the Parallel Degree Programme (PDP) with the University of London (UoL). For further details, please refer to:
- Musashi PDP (Japanese): https://www.musashi.ac.jp/manabi/parallel_degree_programme/gaiyou.html
- UoL BSc IR: https://www.london.ac.uk/study/courses/undergraduate/bsc-international-relations
- University of London International Foundation Programme (IFP) https://www.london.ac.uk/study/courses/undergraduate/bsc-international-relations

Salary and Benefits: Salary and benefits will be determined in accordance with the university's salary regulations (based on the recommendations of the National Personnel Authority). Allowances are provided towards dependent care, housing, and commuting costs, as well as a fixed personal research stipend (200,000 yen); additional personal research expenses are covered up to a yearly maximum of 400,000 yen.

Research & Service Expectations: The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research agenda, participate in program development and administrative duties for the SLAS, the PDP, and the IR BSc program, and contribute to broader university service and interdisciplinary collaboration.

Tenure-Track Details (if applicable): The opening is for a Full-time (tenured or tenure-track) position. In the case of an appointment of a tenure-track lecturer (sennin-koshi in Japanese, equivalent to a tenure-track assistant professor in the US) or a tenure-track associate professor, the initial tenure-track appointment is for a three-year period during which a one-time-only decision about whether to confirm tenure will be made by the tenure committee. If the tenure-track appointee is eligible to take parental leave, in accordance with the relevant regulations for such leave, the period of appointment can be correspondingly extended. The decision on tenure will be made based on output in the areas of (1) research, (2) teaching, (3) university administration, and (4) other contributions to society, etc. Should tenure not be awarded, employment will terminate with the end of the tenure-track appointment period. However, where it is deemed necessary, the period of tenure-track employment may be extended once, for one year. Note that teaching loads and administrative obligations for tenure-track appointments remain as specified above.

Qualifications: 1) Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. program in political science, international relations, or a related field at the time of appointment. (2) Applicants must have the ability to effectively teach courses in English. (3) Japanese language proficiency is preferred but not required; intercultural competence and willingness to contribute to a Japanese university environment are essential.

Application Instructions: Applications must be received by October 17th (Friday), 2025 (JST). Selection may be conducted on a rolling basis, with submitted applications examined in the order they are received.

Applicants should submit the following documents to the recruitment committee by e-mail (job7@sec.musashi.ac.jp):
1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae including research activities and teaching experience
3. Reprints or photocopies of three research papers considered most relevant to the position
4. A 400-word English summary of each of the submitted papers
5. List of two referees (names, positions/titles, and email addresses). Emails will be sent to your referees requesting confidential letters, when needed.

*If you have ever been subject to disciplinary action due to sexual violence, including sexual harassment, you must clearly state the details of the disciplinary measure and the specific reason in the "Disciplinary Actions" section of your CV. Please note that failure to disclose such information or providing false information on your CV may result in the withdrawal of a job offer or disciplinary action.

Please submit all application documents (in principle in PDF format) in a zipped file (maximum 30MB). The name of the file should be "SubmissionDateName.zip" (all single-byte alphanumeric characters, no spaces).
Example: For submission on September 31: "0931JaneDoe.zip"
* Don't set passwords for files or folders.
* If your application exceeds 30MB in size, please contact us at the address below.

Interview & Selection Process: Candidates short-listed for interview may be required to submit further documentation, including copies of degree and other certificates as well as additional publications.

Review of application materials will be followed by a panel interview (short-listed candidates only). Details of subsequent stages of the appointment process will be explained to candidates who are successful at the interview stage.

Short-listed candidates will be notified of the interview schedule as early as possible. Only those who passed the second round of interview will be notified of the selection schedule after the second round.

The successful candidate will be informed in writing once a decision has been made. Remote interviews may be considered in exceptional cases where a candidate is based overseas or has difficulty attending an interview in person. Please contact us at the address below for details.

Contact: Written queries should be made via e-mail (job7@sec.musashi.ac.jp).

All application materials will be treated in the utmost confidence. Personal information therein will be used only for the selection of candidates applying for the current position and subsequently, where applicable, for necessary personnel, salary, or welfare-related paperwork; it will be used for no other purposes.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15957

Tulane University

Rank: Center for Inter-American Policy and Research Post-Doctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Open
Specializations: Caribbean, Central America, South America

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for five (5) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2026-2027, some with program administration duties and others with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are preferred. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments starting in July 2026 with a stipend of $60,000 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in one of the Center's ongoing research initiatives, including the Central American Politics Consortium and/or Research Group MEGA: Mobilization, Extractivism, and Government Action, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowships carry a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment. Applicants must specify in their application which track is their first preference and which their second. Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2026. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting apply.interfolio.com/173257 and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) a writing sample; and (5) teaching evaluations if available. Letters of recommendation will be requested only for finalists, so applicants at this stage are asked only to indicate who their recommenders will be. For further information, please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy and Research. Applications will be reviewed starting November 1, 2025.

Tulane University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. All eligible candidates are invited to apply for position vacancies as appropriate.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15962

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

University of Tennessee

Rank: Associate/Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Public Administration, Baker School of Public Policy (Tenure Track) - Fall 2026 2 positions available
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The Howard H. Baker, Jr. School of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is seeking to fill two tenure-line faculty positions in the field of public policy and public administration. We seek accomplished scholars and experienced teachers whose research and instructional expertise contribute meaningfully to the advancement of public service education. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work demonstrates a strong record of policy engagement at the state and local levels, as well as a commitment to producing impactful, policy-relevant research that informs practice and advances the public good. This search is open at the associate or assistant level, and applicants will be appointed to a rank commensurate with their research, teaching, and service records. The appointments will begin on August 1, 2026. These are 9-month positions.

We seek scholars who will contribute to teaching across our academic programs, including the Master of Public Administration (MPA), Master of Public Policy (MPP), and the undergraduate major in Public Affairs. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated experience and interest in online instruction, particularly those prepared to teach in our rapidly growing online MPA program. The ideal candidate will bring strong pedagogical skills and a commitment to delivering high-quality, engaging instruction to students in both in-person and virtual formats. Specific teaching needs include courses in public management, organizational theory and behavior, program implementation and evaluation, policy process, human resources in the public sector, state and local government, economic development, and planning and land use. The teaching load is 2-2.

The successful candidate should have an active research agenda addressing one or more contemporary questions in public administration or public policy. All Baker School faculty are expected to maintain a productive research agenda, provide service to the School, University, State, and the community, and engage with local policymakers and leaders. Ideally, the successful candidate will contribute both through research and engagement to a new Center for Economic and Community Development.

Who We Are

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society.

The Baker School was established in 2023 to honor the distinguished life and legacy of Howard H. Baker Jr., a former US Senator, Senate Majority Leader, White House Chief of Staff, and Ambassador to Japan. Located in a 51,000-sq. ft. purpose-built facility, the Baker School evolved from the Baker Center, which for twenty years has operated as a think-tank producing research, public engagement programming, and an active set of student programs. The Baker School is very excited to add degree programs and to grow its research programming into independent research centers. In addition, the Baker School houses the Institute of American Civics, which is responsible for encouraging civic knowledge and civic participation among UT undergraduates and the state at large.

We are a dynamic and close-knit team of dedicated and hardworking individuals who are devoted to research, education, and public service initiatives that address real-world problems in local, state, national, and global communities. Each member of our team is a valuable contributor to achieving our mission and we work together to find innovative approaches to moving the Baker School forward. We are fast-moving and growing. Our work is constantly evolving to meet changing needs.

Who We Are Looking For

We are in search of a solution-finder, someone who enthusiastically embraces opportunities to address novel situations through teamwork and collaboration. We need a hardworking and flexible professional who thrives in developing out-of-the-box approaches and addressing new challenges. We are looking for an achiever, someone who is searching for a chance to grow their skills and who is open to learning from others. We need a critical thinker who exercises good judgment and who can be relied upon and trusted to provide sound counsel to colleagues and leadership inside and beyond the academy. We need teammates who are dedicated to public service.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, Economics, or a related field.
Candidates for Assistant Professor must have at least three years of teaching experience post-PhD, a clear research agenda, and have demonstrated the ability to publish their work in peer-reviewed journals.
Candidates for Associate Professor should have a demonstrated record of publishing in appropriate journals, exceptional teaching, and internal and external service to their professional community.
Candidates who have experience in securing and executing externally funded research are preferred, though this is not a requirement of the position.
Application Instructions
Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/173029

A cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience,
A current CV,
A sample of scholarly writing, and
Teaching evaluations (if available),
Names and contact information for three references.

Successful candidates will be required to submit official transcripts and undergo a background check. Review of applications will begin on October 20, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact the search chair: Dr. Tara Bryan, tbryan29@utk.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15947

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.

Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: AADS/MALS Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Public Law
Specializations: Criminal Justice, Economic Policy, Political Development

OVERVIEW

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin invite applications for four postdoctoral research fellowships in public policy for the 2026-27 academic year.

The LRI postdoctoral fellowship provides support to scholars studying Latino populations from a broad range of fields in the social sciences. We encourage applications whose research aligns with the LRI's mission to produce research that informs policy and action to enhance the well-being of Latinos and their communities.

We welcome candidates whose research intersects with Mexican American & Latina/o Studies and African & African Diaspora Studies.

We are particularly interested in candidates with disciplinary homes in Sociology, Criminology, Political Science, Public Health, and Economics.

The fellow will work under the supervision of researchers in the LRI and their colleagues from across the University.

PURPOSE

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin seek four postdoctoral research fellows in public policy. The ideal candidates will have a track record in both academic and public-facing publications as well as research experience in one of the following policy areas: health care, reproduction, public and higher education, energy, immigration and criminal justice, or free speech. Candidates should hold a PhD in a field such as History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Conduct primary and secondary source research; prepare academic journal articles, policy briefs, white papers, and/or op-eds for public outlets.

Meet regularly with supervisor and research team; participate in the intellectual life of the Institutes.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD completed by August 15, 2026, but no more than three years prior to the start date.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD in History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

CONTACT

If you have questions, email us at LRI@austin.utexas.edu and include subject line "LRI Postdoc Question."

Apply here: https://utaustin.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UTstaff/job/AADS-MALS-Postdoctoral-Fellow_R_00039080

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15941

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: American Political Thought – Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Government at The University of Texas at Austin, in association with the Thomas Jefferson Center for the Study of Core Texts and Ideas, invites applications for an open rank position specializing in the history of political theory with a focus on American political thought. The position begins Fall of academic year 2026-27.

Candidates' research should focus on fundamental texts and themes in American political thought such as the American Founding and constitutional principles; the meaning of rights, equality, and liberty; African-American thought; democratic statesmanship; civic virtue; and the challenges of sustaining democracy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and upper-division courses on these and related themes and to serve as a lead instructor in the introductory course Constitutional Principles: Core Texts for students in the program in Core Texts and Ideas. Duties will include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the department, center, college, and university. The teaching expectation is typically three courses per academic year.

Qualifications
To be considered for a tenure-track position, applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D. by time of appointment, or they must expect to obtain the Ph.D. within a year of joining the faculty as Instructor. Tenured applicants must hold a Ph.D.

Application Instructions
Interested candidates should upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, examples of scholarly work, teaching portfolio, graduate transcripts (if applying at Assistant rank), and three letters of recommendation.

The department will begin reviewing applications on September 30, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

For assistance with the application process please contact Sarah Eliason (seliason@austin.utexas.edu). For substantive questions about the position please contact the chair of the search committee, Thomas Pangle (tpangle@austin.utexas.edu).

Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications. Position funding is subject to budget availability.

Position URL: apply.interfolio.com/173550

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15927

Vassar College

Rank: Assistant Professor Of Political Science, Tenure Track

Assistant Professor Of Political Science, Tenure Track

R00032272

Poughkeepsie, NY

Department

Political Science

Vassar College is dedicated to providing equal employment opportunities to all applicants and employees and welcomes applications from individuals of all backgrounds. Decisions concerning employment are made on the basis of an individual's qualifications to contribute to meeting Vassar College's educational objectives and its institutional needs, which includes promoting a respect for difference and creating a learning environment where students from all backgrounds can thrive. Candidates who can contribute to these goals through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences in this area. If you need to request an accommodation to fully participate in the search process, please contact mailto:employment@vassar.edu

Job Description

Position Introduction:

The Department of Political Science at Vassar College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank beginning in the 2026-27 academic year. We seek a specialist in International Relations with research and teaching interests in War and Peace, International Order, US Foreign Policy, International and National Security, and/or related fields. Preference will be given to candidates who employ a positivist, social-scientific approach to the study of politics, including, but not limited to, quantitative analysis, qualitative analysis such as comparative case studies, game theory, and formal modeling.

Job Description:

Candidates for this position must have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field by the time of appointment. The successful candidate will teach introductory, intermediate, and advanced courses in the international politics subfield. These may be cross-listed in one or more of Vassar's Multidisciplinary Programs.The teaching load in the first year is four courses; after that it is four courses per year plus intensively mentored research or other work with students.

Application Materials:

• Cover Letter & CV

• Teaching Statement

• Community Impact Statement (https://offices.vassar.edu/dean-of-the-faculty/positions/community-impact-statement/)

• Graduate School Transcripts (unofficial copy is acceptable at the time of application)

• Course evaluation material & syllabi

• Writing Sample

• Contact information for three references. Candidates will be prompted for these at a later stage, following the submission of the application.

How to Apply:

Applications should be addressed to Stephen Rock, Chair, Department of Political Science, and submitted online at https://vassar.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/Vassar-External. Please contact Stephen Rock at mailto:strock@vassar.edu with any questions. Review of applicant materials will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the position has been filled. There is no guarantee that applications received after October 15, 2025 will be reviewed.

Pay Transparency Disclosure:

The annual base starting salary range for this position is $94,000 to $104,000 (USD). This range includes new faculty appointments beginning the first year of a standard tenure clock as well as Assistant Professors with previous tenure-line experience who will be on an accelerated tenure clock. When extending an offer of employment, Vassar College considers factors such as (but not limited to) candidate's education/training, work experience, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations. This salary range represents the College's good faith and reasonable estimate at the time of posting. The starting salary for an Assistant Professor in this position with a PhD beginning the first year of a standard tenure clock in Fall 2026 is $98,000.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6553662.

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/9/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15910

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

In the spring of 2025, the University of Notre Dame announced the creation of the Provost's Postdoctoral Fellowship Program, a university-wide initiative to support outstanding early-career scholars in science, engineering, and the liberal arts who seek to make a difference in the world.

The College of Arts and Letters will appoint and host a cohort of six postdoctoral fellows for the 2026-2028 academic years. Each of the following departments will host one fellow each: Department of Anthropology, Department of Music, Department of Philosophy, Department of Political Science, Department of Theology, and the Institute for Latino Studies.

The Department of Political Science seeks an outstanding emerging scholar in the field of Political Theory. The department is a vibrant, collegial community of scholars with strengths across wide-ranging substantive areas and epistemological approaches. We are home to nearly 600 undergraduate majors, an outstanding Ph.D. program, and thriving centers that focus on citizenship and constitutional government, international security, and American democracy. We have strong connections to Notre Dame's initiatives on democracy, ethics, and poverty.

The successful applicant for this postdoctoral fellowship will join a theory program that has long been one of the nation's top ten and is home to The Review of Politics, an annual Graduate Conference in Political Theory, and a thriving Political Theory Colloquium. The Political Theory faculty and graduate student community stands out for its strength in the history of thought and its methodological diversity. We welcome excellent applicants whose work would benefit from this strength and diversity. With the aid of a faculty mentor, the fellow will focus on developing their research and possibly engage in collaborative work with Notre Dame scholars. The fellow also may participate in, and potentially help with leading, our theory colloquium, engage in the editorial work of The Review of Politics, or teach an independent course.

These prestigious fellowships target exceptional early-career scholars interested in advancing their careers in an academic environment that is both committed to disciplinary expertise and vibrant in interdisciplinary exchange. The College will appoint the fellows for a two-year term. They will receive an annual salary of $75,000 and an additional $15,000 to cover expenses related to research endeavors and further training. Hosting units will provide fellows with office space and work together with the director of postdoctoral studies in the College to identify primary faculty mentors for the fellows' proposed research projects. Co-mentors with appointments at the University can be named at the discretion of the director and hosting units. Every six months, the director and hosting units will review the fellows' progress in their research and discuss future plans.

Monetary support and faculty mentoring will be coupled with professional development and networking opportunities in and outside of the hosting unit. The Provost's fellows will be a part of a university-wide cohort of distinguished researchers who participate regularly in lectures, colloquia, and panel discussions designed to advance their research and career aspirations.

Notre Dame has recently launched eight strategic initiatives intended to identify research areas where the University can make a significant impact. These initiatives will support dramatically expanded research efforts in the arts; data, AI, and computing; democracy; ethics; health and well-being; sustainability; poverty; and, global Catholicism. The University also sustains premier research programs in traditional disciplines as well as having more than 30 university-wide interdisciplinary centers and institutes. Candidates for the Provost's Postdoctoral Fellowship are encouraged to explore these opportunities, as well as the areas of excellence and growth identified by hosting units, and to select a field of study in which they can excel.

Applicants must have successfully completed (or plan to complete) a doctoral degree between June 2023 and June 2026. Earlier dates may be accepted if maternity or paternity leave, or Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) leave occurred within the past two years. Scholars of all nationalities may apply. We welcome candidates with or without permanent full-time research or teaching positions. Doctoral candidates and graduates of the University of Notre Dame, as well as current postdoctoral scholars at the University, are not eligible.

Applicants should submit the following via the Interfolio website: https://apply.interfolio.com/171503.

1. A cover letter including your research trajectory, the motivations for your application, and how this fellowship will further your career goals. Your cover letter should not exceed 4 pages in length, double-spaced, with font size 12 and 1-inch margins.

2. Your curriculum vitae.

3. A statement describing your previous research accomplishments and your proposed research project(s) for the fellowship period. Your research statement should not exceed 5 pages in length, double-spaced, with font size 12 and 1-inch margins. This statement may include the names of faculty from whom you would like to receive mentorship if you should be selected as a fellow, and why you think you would benefit from their expertise and experience. Please do not, however, reach out to faculty in the hosting department or institute to arrange a primary mentor or co-mentor prior to submitting your application.

4. Candidates must submit a writing sample representative of their own work (no more than 10,000 words in length).

5. Candidates must also arrange for at least three letters of recommendation to be submitted via Interfolio by the deadline. Please do not ask your letter writers to email their letters directly. Applications without the full complement of letters will not be reviewed.

The application deadline is October 31, 2025, at 11:59 pm EST. Decision by March 2, 2026.

For more information about each unit and potential areas of study within them, see the Program's webpage: https://al.nd.edu/research/centers-institutes-and-special-programs/provostpostdocs/.
Frequently Asked Questions can be found on the Program's webpage. For further questions or concerns about the application process, please email alprovostpostdocs@nd.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15898

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

Tufts University
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Theory (tenure-track)

The Department of Political Science at Tufts University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the subfield of political theory to begin September 2026. The position is open with respect to scholarly and teaching concentrations. Teaching topics of particular interest include, but are not limited to, civic studies, the pursuit of justice, citizen behavior under conditions of injustice, the intellectual foundations of liberal democracy, and political rhetoric. The promise of excellence in scholarship and teaching is required. Teaching duties are two courses per semester, and the successful candidate will be expected to teach the history of ancient and modern political thought at the introductory level.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. or ABD in political science is required; completion of degree by September 2026 is strongly preferred.

Application Instructions:

All applications are submitted via Interfolio, at apply.interfolio.com/172975. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application; curriculum vita; statements on research, teaching, and confidential letters from three colleagues submitted directly to Interfolio.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Please contact Abdulahi Salam at Abdulahi.Salam@tufts.edu with any questions.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15859

University of Georgia
Rank: Lecturer

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 1, 2026. Lecturers teach eight courses per academic year, four courses in each academic term. They typically teach two or more sections of the same course each semester and/or in the same academic year. The allocation of effort at appointment will be 100% teaching. A lecturer is likely to teach the undergraduate introduction to American government and upper division undergraduate courses in political theory in areas that align with their interests.

Lecturers are valued members of the Department with opportunities to shape the curriculum and participate in faculty governance process. They are eligible for professional development support, travel funding, and summer teaching (including study abroad programs) when available. The university has a clear promotion path: upon their sixth year, a lecturer may be promoted to senior lecturer, and subsequently to principal lecturer. For details see https://provost.uga.edu/wp-content/uploads/appointment-promotion-guidelines-lecturers.pdf.

Minimum Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science completed by August 1, 2026.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and/or Competencies:

-Excellent communication skills
-Evidence of teaching excellence or demonstrated potential for teaching excellence.

Duties/Responsibilities:

-Contribute to the instructional mission of the Department of Political Science
-Teach four three-credit hour courses per academic term
-Participate in workshops, the development of new course materials, and/or supervise teaching assistants

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective applicants should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, a teaching portfolio that provides: a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and any additional evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation. The cover letter is expected to include a description of the candidate's strengths as an instructor and relevant teaching experiences as they relate to this position description. Application materials can be submitted at the UGA job search website: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/450802.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Office Manager, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu).

Review of applications will begin January 7, 2026 and continue until the position is filled.

The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning, as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15825

Denison University

Rank: Open Rank, Tenure Track Professor in American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Public Affairs/American Politics
Location -Granville OH
Position Type - Tenure Track Faculty
Position URL- apply.interfolio.com/170845
Position Description:

The Department of Politics and Public Affairs (PPA) at Denison University invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in American politics beginning Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching emphasizes policy analysis at the federal, state, or local level. The successful candidate must have the demonstrated ability to teach one of our introductory courses (either PPA 102/ Introduction to Policymaking in Democracies or PPA 132/Introduction to Theorizing About Political Life: Normative Issues Common to Democratic Systems), as well as a rotating set of upper division courses in policy analysis and American politics. Candidates with an expressed interest in or experience with managing a Moot Court or Mock Trial team will be given preference.

The Politics and Public Affairs program provides our students an integrated view of politics emphasizing links between theory and practice. Our major is structured as a learning community, where undergraduates pursue a track of interest in International Affairs, Policy Analysis, or Government and Legal Affairs, and have multiple opportunities to share their knowledge with peers. Our majors must complement classroom experiences with a department-approved off campus learning component.

We seek a new colleague who shares our enthusiasm for this approach to teaching about politics and public affairs. As a department, we work hard to ensure our students hear and consider diverse perspectives, and we welcome applicants who contribute to that diversity. We graduate approximately 40 seniors each year. The PPA program is also an integral part of the Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) major at Denison, whose students take at least four classes in our department.

All instructors are expected to regularly teach introductory classes (~24 students) that serve PPA majors/minors as well as the general education requirements of the college's curriculum; successfully teaching introductory classes requires teachers who relish the challenge of instructing both skeptical and interested students. All instructors regularly teach upper division classes (~20 students) in their area of interest, as well as required

PPA major courses such as sophomore and senior seminar. The teaching load is 5 courses per academic year (3/2). Denison is a fully residential campus where all classes are held in-person and on-campus.

Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness from college-level courses. We seek to hire a new colleague with broad training in the study of politics. The successful candidate is expected to have significant interest in and demonstrated ability to effectively teach undergraduates in a liberal arts setting and contribute to the integration of the theoretical with experiential elements of our major. Independent teaching experience (beyond TA) is preferred.

Successful candidates are expected to maintain an ongoing research agenda; thus, applicants should show promise of a strong publication record. The prospective teacher-scholar also will support the University's commitment to liberal arts education, be an effective advisor to a range of students, be an active participant in departmental and university governance, and develop a program of research leading to peer-reviewed publication.

Denison is a highly selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2,400 students from across the nation and around the world. The college is located in the village of Granville, 30 minutes from Columbus, Ohio, the state capital, which hosts a wide range of cultural and artistic opportunities. Granville offers an excellent public school system and easy access to outdoor activities. A supportive environment for teacher-scholars who value both classroom and research excellence, Denison offers extensive support for its faculty, including an annual professional development account, competitive professional development funding, a one-semester research leave after a successful pre-tenure review. The college also offers opportunities for student-faculty research collaboration, stipends for supervising summer-research students and a range of workshops and mentoring programs to develop our strengths as teacher-scholars.

Denison offers a competitive salary and a comprehensive benefits package, including tuition benefits to attend Denison or other affiliated colleges and a generous retirement contribution.

Qualifications:
Candidates are required to have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely-related field by start date.

Application Instructions:
Review of applications will begin on Sept. 15. To ensure full consideration, completed applications should include the following:

? Cover Letter
? Curriculum vitae
? Graduate level transcript [official or unofficial]
? Teaching Portfolio, which should include a 1) teaching statement that lays out the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and experience; and describes how they cultivate a classroom culture where students encounter and critically evaluate diverse perspectives on important questions, and where open, civil dialogue is encouraged as part of the learning process, 2) Evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations or other artifacts), 3) an introductory syllabus for public policy making in democracies (PPA 102) or political theory (PPA 132), and 4) an upper division syllabus that demonstrates policy analysis expertise.
? Research Statement that lays out the candidate's scholarly interests and plans
? A writing sample
? Contact information for three letters of reference

Job seekers who may need a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should contact the Office of Human Resources at (740) 587-6299 or by email at HR@denison.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15804

University of South Carolina

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, American Politics, Political Thought: Historical

The South Carolina Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse at the University of South Carolina seeks to fill a 9-month, full-time, tenured faculty position at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor, to begin August 16, 2026. The Center is flexible as to the disciplinary home of our applicants but prioritizes commitment to the Center's mission as described below.
The Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse promotes the dialogic, cultural, and civic literacies which are essential to a well-ordered and flourishing American polity. This means educating for knowledge of American history and civics, cultivation of a life-long love of learning, and an understanding and appreciation of our founding documents, and the philosophic, political, literary, and religious traditions out of which they emerged.

This tenured position requires a PhD and a significant track record of scholarly publication and teaching in the candidate's field, consistent with the standards for tenured faculty at the University. This typically includes a scholarly monograph in print or an equivalent number of articles in competitive, peer-reviewed scholarly journals. The candidate must also be eligible for appointment at the Associate Professor or Professor level at the University of South Carolina per University policy ACAF 1.06.

Applications are especially encouraged from scholars working in History, Philosophy, and Political Science, although applications from scholars from other humanities disciplines whose research and teaching root them firmly in this mission will also be considered. The successful candidate will be tenured and a full member of the department most suitable to their field of study. The Center seeks candidates with expertise in one of the following areas: (1) American traditions of political and legal thought; (2) the history and intellectual foundations of the American Founding; or (3) the Western literary, philosophical, political, and religious traditions that have shaped American ideals and institutions.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

Applicants should apply online at USCJobs at: https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/193449 Required materials include a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, as well as their understanding of how they can serve the mission of the Center (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the names and email addresses of 3 references, who will be solicited only in case of an on-campus interview.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Confidential inquiries may be directed to Professor Chris Tollefsen, Interim Executive Director of the SC Center for American Civic Leadership and Public Discourse, McCausland College of Arts and Sciences, at ctollefs@mailbox.sc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/20/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15802

CUNY, Hunter College

Rank: Professor of Political Science (Open Rank)
Specializations: Women & Politics, Political Thought: Historical, Political Theory

Faculty Open Rank - (Assistant Professor, Associate Professor or Professor)- Feminist Political Theory, Political Science Department

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Hunter College Political Science Department invites applications for an open rank (full-time tenure track or tenured) position in feminist political theory, beginning Fall 2026, pending final college approval. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on gender in the history of political thought, contemporary feminist political theory, and other courses in their areas of expertise.

This position involves conducting research, contributing to departmental administration, participating in university programs, and potentially having the option to join the faculty at the CUNY Graduate Center.

QUALIFICATIONS

For appointment as assistant professor, applicants must have a PhD in hand by the position's starting date. For appointment as an associate professor, a PhD, a substantial publication record, and teaching experience are required. For appointment as a full professor, evidence of an established professional reputation, a strong and sustained publication record, substantial teaching experience, and a PhD are required.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers a competitive compensation and benefits package to its faculty, covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development. The salary range is $52,267 to $90,375 (Assistant Professor), $67,784 to $107,789 (Associate Professor) and $83,878 to $129,310 (Professor).

CUNY is in the process of implementing salary schedule increases. Once implemented, salaries of eligible employees will increase by approximately 9.54% with an additional increase of 3.5% effective 9/1/26, in accordance with the terms of the PSC-CUNY collective bargaining agreement.

HOW TO APPLY

This position involves conducting research, contributing to departmental administration, participating in university programs, and potentially having the option to join the faculty at the CUNY Graduate Center. Candidates should submit a cover letter describing their research agenda and teaching philosophy, a current CV, writing sample, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness by October 3, 2025. The application process will remain open until the position is filled.

Candidates should apply on the CUNY jobs site: https://cuny.jobs/new-york-ny/faculty-open-rank-assistant-professor-associate-professor-or-professor-feminist-political-theory-political-science-department/33AF0F333C8C4396BFC796801D88536B/job/

Letters of recommendation should be emailed to polsrch@hunter.cuny.edu .

We will be meeting with potential candidates at the APSA Annual Meeting on Friday 3pm-5pm and Saturday 9am-11am. Please email Charles Tien (ctien@hunter.cuny.edu) to schedule.

CLOSING DATE

October 3, 2025

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

Job ID

30749

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/3/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15741

Furman University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Professor of Politics and International Affairs

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Furman University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant, Associate, or Full professorial rank in Political Thought to begin August 1, 2026. The position is open to candidates who have broad expertise in Political Thought with a particular focus on contemporary political theory. Candidates who engage with class, race, gender, identity, or democratic theory are especially encouraged to apply. The teaching load will be five courses per year, including introductory and upper-level courses.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Government, Politics, or a related field is required by August 1, 2026. Applicants should submit the following documents as a single PDF in the order listed: a letter of interest containing a discussion of teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations (if available), sample syllabi (if available), at least one writing sample (preferably single-authored), and complete contact information for three references. Additional application materials will be requested at later stages of the search for candidates who advance.

The Politics and International Affairs Department is a large department with specialists in all major political science fields. The Department is committed to fostering a professional community where every member is treated with dignity. All are welcome to participate in the department's life and the respectful exploration of ideas. The candidate should show interest in and aptitude for contributing to this endeavor.

Furman University is dedicated to fostering a vibrant and inclusive community through excellence in teaching, mentorship, and programming. We believe that cultural understanding, inclusiveness, and freedom of inquiry, thought, and discourse are essential components of a transformative undergraduate education.

We advance these ideals with a liberal arts and sciences curriculum built on a substantial general education program, featuring traditional and innovative elements, and a robust portfolio of disciplinary and interdisciplinary major and minor areas of study. Additionally, we have established and continue to develop various initiatives, including historic projects, dialogue programs such as On Discourse and the Intergroup Dialogues Program, the Center for Interpersonal Connections, and four distinctive external-facing institutes.

The successful candidate will have the ability to work with students from diverse backgrounds and contribute to Furman's commitment to expanding access and opportunity to Furman's rich learning culture.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, one of the fastest-growing cities in the Southeast, and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The thriving downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. Greenville also enjoys an impressive network of nonprofits, small businesses, and international corporations. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the country's most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains. Greenville is 2½ hours from Atlanta, 1½ hours from Charlotte, and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. It is an ideal place to live and work.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

To apply, click on this link: https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Furman_Careers/job/Main-Campus/Assistant--Associate--or-Full-Professor-in-Politics-and-International-Affairs_R002940

Questions should be directed to the co-chairs of the search committee, Professor David Fleming at david.fleming@furman.edu or Professor Akan Malici at akan.malici@furman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15731

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Political Theory, Public Policy

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in political science. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address political science topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in political science, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the school. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15698

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Management
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management. We welcome candidates from any subfield of public management, including those with research interests that intersect with political science, decision science, and/or economics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in management science, political science, or similar disciplines with a track record of research on public management topics.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15697

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public policy. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on applied econometrics and public policy design topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public policy design and evaluation, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in public policy.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15699

Colorado College
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political philosophy beginning fall 2026. We seek broadly trained candidates prepared to teach introductory and advanced courses in political philosophy. Appointment will be made at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should provide evidence of scholarly potential and a commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Colorado College is a nationally recognized, residential liberal arts and sciences college enrolling approximately 2,100 students from across the US and around the world. The College, located on a 99-acre campus in Colorado Springs, is distinguished by its immersive learning and pedagogy made possible by the Block Plan, in which professors teach, and students take, one course at a time. Each block is three and a half weeks long, allowing for unique teaching and learning strategies. Professors have a six-block teaching duty in the eight-block year, where one of the six blocks may be assigned to supervising senior and independent projects where the work is spread out across the year rather than completed in a conventional block. As part of a full teaching load, the candidate will typically teach incoming students as part of the First-Year Program.

All requirements for the Ph.D. should be complete by the starting date of August 17, 2026.

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or Philosophy by the start of employment.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience in undergraduate teaching.

Application Instructions:

Continuous Recruitment - for full consideration, apply by: 09-15-2025
References will be contacted to upload a letter of recommendation for all candidates (letters will be requested upon application submission) You must meet the minimum qualifications to be considered for this position.

Required Documents:

Applicants should submit the following by September 15, 2025: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a statement of pedagogical principles, (4) a research statement, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (including syllabi and evaluations), (6) graduate transcripts, (7) a dissertation abstract, (8) a sample of scholarship (published, if possible), and (9) three letters of recommendation.

Offers of employment are contingent on completion of a background check. Further information can be found here: https://www.coloradocollege.edu/offices/humanresources/people-practices/forms/#newemployment

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Optional Documents

Anticipated Hiring Salary Range:

$90,000

Visa Sponsorship Information:

Eligible for H-1B sponsorship

Please apply using this link https://jobs.coloradocollege.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-of-political-science-on-campus-colorado-united-states or at www.coloradocollege.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15689

Claremont McKenna College
Rank: Assistant / Associate / Full Professor of Political Philosophy

The Department of Government at Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for an open-rank, tenure-track professorship in Political Philosophy. The position will begin on July 1, 2026. The successful candidate is expected to hold a Ph.D. in Political Science by the time of the appointment. The department is interested in candidates whose scholarship and teaching focus on the moral and ethical foundations of liberal democracy. Research and teaching topics of particular interest include the grounding of rights and republican government, studies of the works of central figures of classical and modern political philosophy, political rhetoric, and statesmanship.

The ideal candidate will also be a teacher-scholar who can contribute to CMC's Open Academy Initiative, which embodies the College's foundational commitment to freedom of expression, viewpoint diversity, and constructive dialogue.

The teaching load is two courses per semester. The candidate must have demonstrated ability to maintain an active, high quality research program and to maintain the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The successful applicant will teach courses in their area of expertise, including one introductory course a year.

Given the College's commitment to cultivating an inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Anticipated Annual Salary Range:

$110,000 - $210,000 per year

Please upload application materials at: https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=17072

Applications should include a cover letter; curriculum vitae; research statement; teaching statement that addresses the candidate's ability to teach, mentor, and inspire students representing a broad range of backgrounds; evidence of teaching effectiveness; and a writing sample. Applicants must also submit the names and e-mail addresses of three references; an email will be automatically sent to them with a link to upload their confidential recommendation letter.

Complete applications, including letters of recommendation, will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2025. Review of complete applications will continue until the position is filled. Preliminary interviews may be conducted via Zoom.

Claremont McKenna College is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. The Claremont Colleges consortium constitutes an academic community of more than 9,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Claremont McKenna College is an equal opportunity employer. In a continuing effort to enrich its academic environment and provide equal educational and employment opportunities, the College actively encourages applications from members of historically under-represented groups in higher education.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 7/9/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 15654

University of Michigan

Rank: WCEE Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Political Theory

The Weiser Center for Europe and Eurasia seeks to hire a scholar of contemporary Russia for a two-year WCEE Postdoctoral Fellowship, from August 2026 to July 2028. We encourage applications from specialists on Russia proper as well as those who focus on Russia's interactions with its neighbors (the Baltic states, Moldova, Belarus, Ukraine, the Caucasus, Central Asia, Mongolia, China, Japan). Candidates should have a PhD completed, or nearly completed, in the social sciences and/or cultural studies, broadly construed. We are especially interested in scholars who will complement and add to the coverage offered by our existing faculty.

WCEE Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in the center's events, present at least one public lecture during their two-year fellowship, and teach one course per year at the University of Michigan while in full-time residency.

Eligibility:
Eligibility is restricted to applicants who have obtained their PhD no earlier than January 1, 2024. Current doctoral candidates are eligible to apply but must have defended and filed their dissertations by July 31, 2026.

Benefits:
Fellowships carry an annual salary of $60,000 and up to $10,000 in research funds during the postdoctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning August 1, 2026 through July 31, 2028). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Application materials:
Candidates should submit the following via Interfolio (https://apply.interfolio.com/169185):

- A research proposal (2000 words maximum) that describes your intellectual objectives and concrete plan for the fellowship duration
- Curriculum Vitae
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter or peer-reviewed journal article (50 pages maximum)
- Teaching statement with potential course topics
- Two letters of recommendation

To be assured full consideration, fellowship applications should be received by October 15, 2025, 11:59 PM EST. Successful applicants will be notified by December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15610

Middlebury College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure-track position in political philosophy beginning fall 2026. We seek broadly trained candidates prepared to teach the introductory and advanced courses in the history of political philosophy. Appointment will be made at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should provide evidence of commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarly potential.

As part of a full teaching load, the candidate will also occasionally contribute to Middlebury's First Year Seminar Program and Winter Term course offerings. All faculty at Middlebury are also expected to contribute to service to the College including, but not limited to, committee membership and, once tenured, serving as Director or Chair of a Program or Department when asked.

Middlebury College is a top-tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and research. It is also an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to fostering a truly open, and supportive learning, teaching, and working environment. The College hires faculty from a myriad of life experiences, cultures, frames of reference, social identities, and learning perspectives to help cultivate and advance innovation in our curriculum and to provide a rich and varied educational experience to our talented and distinguished student body. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Middlebury College uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Email and paper applications will not be accepted. At Middlebury, we strive to make our campus a respectful, engaged community that embraces difference, and a full range of views and opinions, with all the complexity and individuality each person brings. Through Interfolio submit: a letter of application addressed to the search committee chair, Professor Murray Dry; a curriculum vitae; a sample of scholarly production; undergraduate and graduate transcripts; a statement of teaching and research plans; and three current letters of recommendation, at least two of which must speak to teaching ability/promise. More information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/169061 and https://www.middlebury.edu/academics/ps. Review of applications begins September 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. This is a full time, benefits eligible, salaried position with a hiring range of $88,963 – $100,129 per year.

Offers of employment are contingent on completion of a background check. Information on our background check policy can be found here: http://go.middlebury.edu/backgroundchecks.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15609

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Energy & Environmental Economics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in energy and environmental economics. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on energy markets, climate finance, and climate policy design. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in energy and environmental economics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-energy-environmental-economics

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15146

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Florida Gulf Coast University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Public Administration. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses in an online Master of Public Administration program and contribute to the department's undergraduate program in Political Science; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Public Administration or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full position description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/eaglejobs/job/Assistant-Professor--Public-Administration_R0006855

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16033

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency & Disaster Management

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking a faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track), beginning August 1, 2026. This is a nine-month position with summer teaching possibilities and is for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Political Science, Public Administration, Public Health, Urban Planning, or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management, experience and/or graduate coursework related to Emergency & Disaster Management, and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality.

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:
Application materials must be submitted online to the Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin October 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

Western Carolina University holds inclusive excellence as a core value, and we work together to foster a welcoming community, where all are respected and know they belong. WCU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16027

Kennesaw State University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Public Administration in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290497.

Responsibilities
Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Public Administration
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes
Service to department, college, University, and profession
Scholarship/Research expectations: Maintaining a steady research and publication agenda on one or more of the following areas: cybersecurity, homeland security, national security policy, and emergency management

Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
A Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Public Administration or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.
Experience teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of or potential for scholarly activities pertaining to one or more of the following areas: cybersecurity, homeland security, national security policy, or emergency management

Preferred Qualifications
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Likelihood of obtaining extramural funding
Ability to teach one or more of the following areas: organization theory, human resource management, public policy analysis/program evaluation, or state and local governance and administration.

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Statement of Research Interests
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by November 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290497.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Jerry Herbel, Search Committee Chair, jherbel@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16006

Peking University

Rank: Associate Professor and Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development (ISSCAD) was initiated by Chinese President XI Jinping during the High-Level Roundtable on South-South Cooperation at the 70th Anniversary Celebration of the United Nations in New York on September 26, 2015. The Institute provides both degree education and non-degree executive training programs for middle and senior-level officials, as well as managers and researchers from government, academia, the media, NGOs, and other organizations in developing countries.

The Institute invites applications for Associate Professor and Full Professor in all fields, particularly in development economics and public economics. Teaching will be conducted in English at the graduate level. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics, political science, public policy or social science. The normal teaching load is two courses per year. Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested and qualified applicants please submit your curriculum vitae, representative papers or publications, and three letters of reference etc. to the corresponding JOE listing on the AEA website. [JOE ID Number: 2025-02_111476386]

All applications should be submitted by November 22, 2025. Candidate interviews will be conducted online in early December 2025.

For more information about the ISSCAD, please visit our webpage at: https://www.isscad.pku.edu.cn

Or contact us by:
Recruitment Committee
The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development
Peking University
Beijing 100871, P. R. China
Email: joe@nsd.pku.edu.cn, (please also cc: fhan@nsd.pku.edu.cn)
FAX: 86-10-62751474

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/22/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16012

Nanyang Technological University

Rank: Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration

Nanyang Centre for Public Administration (NCPA) at NTU Singapore is a leading institution in Asia that provides quality education and research in public governance and administration development as well as promotes good governance in the region and beyond. We offer 6 programs, in English and Chinese, to meet the education needs at early, mid, and advanced career stages. Faculty on the Teaching Track is expected to teach well and contribute to NCPA's education objectives.

Candidates with the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

• PhD in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Management, or other related advanced degrees.

• Ability to teach postgraduate-level courses in English and/or Chinese specializing in Applied Economics, Finance and Macroeconomic Policy, Public Management/Public Administration, Politics and Public Policy (especially in Asia), Technology Policy and AI Governance, or related areas.

• A record of teaching in tertiary educational institutes for similar subjects is strongly preferred.

• Interest in developing new courses in your specialization. Providing 2-3 synopsis of courses you are keen to teach (have or have not taught) is strongly encouraged.

• Demonstrated potential for scholarship in a research area undertaken by NCPA is an advantage. These areas include (but are not limited to) Asian governance, talent strategies and digital regulations.

• Candidates for the Lecturer position should have experiences in the relevant areas of teaching and course development.

Key Benefits

NTU offers an internationally competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience.

Application

Review of applications will be on an on-going basis until the positions are filled. Applicants are invited to submit their applications (cover letter, CV, teaching and research statements, student feedback on teaching (if applicable), synopsis of courses) via the link.
https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Lecturer--Teaching-Track--for-Nanyang-Centre-for-Public-Administration_R00021964/apply

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15971

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Department Chair
Specializations: Criminal Justice, International Security, Intelligence

Job Description: The Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is seeking a Department Chair at the rank of Full Professor with an outstanding record of scholarly research and grants as well as experience in strategic planning, program-building initiatives, and faculty mentoring. We seek a leader with management and analytical skills, and a strategic planner committed to consolidating the national reputation of the department and its robust programs. The Department Chair will support recruitment and retention of faculty and staff, advocate for a strategic vision for the undergraduate and graduate programs, and foster an environment of inclusive excellence for students.

Required Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Political Science, Public Policy, or closely related field. Applicants with a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. (without a Ph.D.) will not be considered.
- Rank of Full Professor.
- Administrative or leadership experience at the Departmental, College, and/or University levels.
- Funded extramural grants and an active scholarly publication record commensurate with a Full Professor at a Carnegie R1 institution.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to candidates with experience as Department Chair.

Application Instructions: To apply, go to www.utep.edu/employment. If you have questions about the position, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Ted Curry: trcurry@utep.edu Applicants must electronically submit FOUR files:

- Letter of interest that includes relevant administrative and leadership experiences and how they fit into UTEP, a university with the double designation of R1 and HSI; research/grants accomplishments/ impact, areas of expertise and their fit within the Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies at UTEP.
- Statement of Leadership and Management Philosophy.
- Curriculum vita
- Names and full contact information of three professional references.

Application Review Date: Review of applications will begin November 21, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. Hiring decisions are based on budget approval.

About the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP): UTEP stands out as a Carnegie R1, open-access, Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), and community engaged research university at the heart of the U.S.-Mexico border region that is increasing access to excellent higher education. We advance discovery of public value and positively impact the health, culture, education, and economy of the community we serve. UTEP enrolls over 26,000 students—84% of whom are Hispanic and half of whom are the first in their families to attend college. UTEP offers 170 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs at the only open-access, R1 research university in America.

The UTEP Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is one of the largest departments in the College of Liberal Arts and offers six degree programs for over 1,200 students. Three undergraduate degrees are in Criminal Justice (B.A.), an equivalent 100% online B.A., and an online B.A. in Security Studies. The graduate programs offered are Criminology and Criminal Justice (M.S.), Intelligence and National Security Studies (M.S.) and an online Master of Defense and Strategic Studies (MDSS).

El Paso's active arts and culture community features the state's longest-running symphony orchestra, a nationally recognized chamber music festival, a vibrant street art and mural scene, art galleries, museums, and a full schedule of seasonal events and festivals. UTEP adds to the arts and entertainment scene with concerts and live events at the city's largest indoor and outdoor venues; theater, music and dance productions; contemporary and student art galleries; and a natural history museum and desert gardens. El Paso is also an ideal location for year-round hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing, and other outdoor activities in the nearby Franklin Mountains. For sports fans, the UTEP Miners offer exciting Division I college athletics at Sun Bowl Stadium and the Don Haskins Center. We are also the home of the El Paso Chihuahuas, the Triple-A baseball affiliate of the San Diego Padres, and the El Paso Locomotive FC, a professional soccer team.

In keeping with its access, excellence, and impact mission, The University of Texas at El Paso is committed to an open, diverse, and inclusive learning and working environment that honors the talents, respects the differences, and nurtures the growth and development of all. We seek to attract faculty and staff who share our commitment.

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, or sexual orientation and gender in employment or the provision of services in accordance with state and federal law. Discrimination on the basis of sex includes an employee's or prospective employee's right to be free from sexual harassment under Title IX of the Higher Education Amendments of 1972.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15978

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

About Us

For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location

Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information

The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Public Administration in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289992.

Responsibilities
Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Public Administration
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes
Service to department, college, University, and profession
Scholarship/Research expectations: Maintaining a steady research and publication agenda on one or more subfields of Public Administration (e.g. budgeting, local government administration, policy studies)
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
A Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent in Public Administration or a related discipline, is required at the time of hire.
Experience teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses.
Evidence of scholarship or potential of scholarly activities pertaining to one or more subfields of Public Administration.

Preferred Qualifications
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Likelihood of obtaining extramural funding
Ability to teach one or more of the following areas: budgeting, research methods, governmental relations, Capstone, nonprofit administration, or state and local governance and administration.

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Statement of Research Interests
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Optional Document:
Evidence of successful teaching

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by November 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289992.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Madinah F. Hamidullah, Search Committee Chair, mhamidul@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15965

University of Tennessee

Rank: Associate/Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Public Administration, Baker School of Public Policy (Tenure Track) - Fall 2026 2 positions available
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The Howard H. Baker, Jr. School of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is seeking to fill two tenure-line faculty positions in the field of public policy and public administration. We seek accomplished scholars and experienced teachers whose research and instructional expertise contribute meaningfully to the advancement of public service education. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work demonstrates a strong record of policy engagement at the state and local levels, as well as a commitment to producing impactful, policy-relevant research that informs practice and advances the public good. This search is open at the associate or assistant level, and applicants will be appointed to a rank commensurate with their research, teaching, and service records. The appointments will begin on August 1, 2026. These are 9-month positions.

We seek scholars who will contribute to teaching across our academic programs, including the Master of Public Administration (MPA), Master of Public Policy (MPP), and the undergraduate major in Public Affairs. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated experience and interest in online instruction, particularly those prepared to teach in our rapidly growing online MPA program. The ideal candidate will bring strong pedagogical skills and a commitment to delivering high-quality, engaging instruction to students in both in-person and virtual formats. Specific teaching needs include courses in public management, organizational theory and behavior, program implementation and evaluation, policy process, human resources in the public sector, state and local government, economic development, and planning and land use. The teaching load is 2-2.

The successful candidate should have an active research agenda addressing one or more contemporary questions in public administration or public policy. All Baker School faculty are expected to maintain a productive research agenda, provide service to the School, University, State, and the community, and engage with local policymakers and leaders. Ideally, the successful candidate will contribute both through research and engagement to a new Center for Economic and Community Development.

Who We Are

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society.

The Baker School was established in 2023 to honor the distinguished life and legacy of Howard H. Baker Jr., a former US Senator, Senate Majority Leader, White House Chief of Staff, and Ambassador to Japan. Located in a 51,000-sq. ft. purpose-built facility, the Baker School evolved from the Baker Center, which for twenty years has operated as a think-tank producing research, public engagement programming, and an active set of student programs. The Baker School is very excited to add degree programs and to grow its research programming into independent research centers. In addition, the Baker School houses the Institute of American Civics, which is responsible for encouraging civic knowledge and civic participation among UT undergraduates and the state at large.

We are a dynamic and close-knit team of dedicated and hardworking individuals who are devoted to research, education, and public service initiatives that address real-world problems in local, state, national, and global communities. Each member of our team is a valuable contributor to achieving our mission and we work together to find innovative approaches to moving the Baker School forward. We are fast-moving and growing. Our work is constantly evolving to meet changing needs.

Who We Are Looking For

We are in search of a solution-finder, someone who enthusiastically embraces opportunities to address novel situations through teamwork and collaboration. We need a hardworking and flexible professional who thrives in developing out-of-the-box approaches and addressing new challenges. We are looking for an achiever, someone who is searching for a chance to grow their skills and who is open to learning from others. We need a critical thinker who exercises good judgment and who can be relied upon and trusted to provide sound counsel to colleagues and leadership inside and beyond the academy. We need teammates who are dedicated to public service.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, Economics, or a related field.
Candidates for Assistant Professor must have at least three years of teaching experience post-PhD, a clear research agenda, and have demonstrated the ability to publish their work in peer-reviewed journals.
Candidates for Associate Professor should have a demonstrated record of publishing in appropriate journals, exceptional teaching, and internal and external service to their professional community.
Candidates who have experience in securing and executing externally funded research are preferred, though this is not a requirement of the position.
Application Instructions
Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/173029

A cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience,
A current CV,
A sample of scholarly writing, and
Teaching evaluations (if available),
Names and contact information for three references.

Successful candidates will be required to submit official transcripts and undergo a background check. Review of applications will begin on October 20, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact the search chair: Dr. Tara Bryan, tbryan29@utk.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15947

Arkansas State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Government, Law & Policy at Arkansas State University is seeking applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, set to commence in Fall 2026. The candidate must possess a PhD in Public Administration or Political Science. Candidates who are advanced ABDs will also be considered, provided they obtain their PhD by July 2026. While the position does not require a particular area of specialization within Public Administration, candidates whose research and teaching interests align with Human Resource Management and Local Government Administration are highly encouraged to apply. Additionally, candidates with a strong interest in teaching upper division electives in our B.A. program in political science will be given preference.

Requirements: (1) A statement of purpose indicating research and teaching interests and credentials, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Evidence of teaching ability, (4) A Writing sample (a peer reviewed article that was recently published or dissertation chapter will suffice,) and (5) A list of three academic references that will be contacted by the search committee if short-listed. All items listed as requirements must be submitted for your file to be considered complete.

Review of applications will begin on 11/4/25. Arkansas State University is a comprehensive Carnegie classified R2 public research university located approximately seventy miles northwest of Memphis. The department offers a well-rounded curriculum to its one hundred majors in the BA program in political science. The department also offers a NASPAA-accredited online MPA program.

Faculty members deliver instruction, conduct research, perform service for their respective professions and community, and participate in the management of the University through shared governance. Each member of the faculty has the duty to deliver instruction and maintain a learning environment consistent with the highest standards of the profession. The faculty has a responsibility to set degree requirements, assess when they are met, and establish and maintain curricula that meet professional standards and fulfill the educational goals of the University.

To learn more or apply, please visit the A-State employment website here: https://phe.tbe.taleo.net/phe02/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=ARKASTAT2&cws=40&rid=37630

The teaching load of the faculty is in alignment with a Carnegie-classified R2 institution. Faculty workload also includes research, creative activity, service, and professional development in the best interest of the students and the university community at large.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15939

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration in the School of Urban Affairs and Public Policy at the University of Memphis invites applicants for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2026. Successful candidates will be expected to undertake a rigorous program of research, actively contribute to graduate teaching, and participate in service to the university and the profession. The position is a full-time, 9-month appointment with a standard teaching load of 2-2 courses per semester (Fall/Spring).

The Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration, home to the Institute for Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership, offers a NACC-affiliated Master of Nonprofit Management, a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, graduate certificates in Philanthropy and Nonprofit Leadership and Local Government Management, and undergraduate minors in Nonprofit Management and Public Administration.

The Department welcomes candidates with a record of research and publication in department-aligned disciplines of nonprofit management and public administration. Those whose research agendas focus on nonprofit finance, strategic management, and/or information and communication technologies are especially encouraged to apply.

The position requires teaching in the core of the MNM and MPA programs, as well as the graduate certificates offered by the Department of Public and Nonprofit Administration. The successful candidate will be able to offer courses in public budgeting and nonprofit finance and contribute to other courses in public and nonprofit management.

Candidates must have earned a doctorate in nonprofit management/leadership, philanthropy, public administration, public policy, social entrepreneurship, community development, or a related field by the time of appointment.

Applicants must be authorized to work in the U.S. We are unable to sponsor or take over sponsorship of an employment visa at this time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15895

CUNY-City College of New York

Rank: Professor of Political Science and Director of the Master's Program in Public Administration

The City College of New York's Political Science Department and Moynihan Center seek a dynamic, open-rank (tenure-track or tenured) professor who will also serve as the academic director of the College's Master of Public Administration (MPA) program.

City College's MPA program currently has an enrollment of approximately 40 students, a dedicated Program Director who manages day-to-day operations, and a faculty pool of 12 professors. The Academic Director will provide academic leadership and strategic vision for program expansion, working collaboratively with the Program Director and integrating with broader Moynihan Center programming initiatives.

Reflecting City College's history and student population, the MPA program promotes social mobility and academic excellence in public administration, embodying the Colin Powell School's mission of "lifting leaders, shifting power, and transforming society." A demonstrable commitment to this mission and to serving the working people of New York City interested in public service careers is essential.

As Professor in CCNY's Political Science Department, the successful candidate will teach classes in public policy, public law, and/or American politics. In their role as Academic Director of the MPA program, the candidate will provide curricular leadership, support faculty development, provide admissions oversight, and engage in external relations. They will collaborate closely with the Program Director and Moynihan Center leadership on strategic planning and program growth. The Academic Director will also receive two course releases per academic year as compensation for administrative duties.

QUALIFICATIONS

For Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor: Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related field from an accredited institution or equivalent. Must demonstrate the ability to teach successfully, have a record of scholarship or professional achievement, and the ability to collaborate effectively with colleagues and contribute to institutional goals.

Preferred Qualifications

Administrative experience in academic program leadership or equivalent professional experience in public service management is preferred. Demonstrated interest in fundraising and resource development is highly valued.

An outstanding track record of academic research and teaching experience in the field of Public Policy or Public Administration is required, but candidates also need to have experience and/or demonstrable potential in leading an academic program.

COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS

Assistant Professor: $90,838 - $102,017

Associate Professor: $102,408 - $121,194

Professor: $122,201 - $145,671

Plus an additional $30,000 administrative supplement.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

Only applications submitted through CUNYfirst will be considered for this position.

If you are viewing this job posting in CUNYfirst, please click on "Apply Now" on the bottom of this page and follow the instructions.

If you are viewing this job posting externally, please apply as follows:

· Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"

· Click "Search job listings"

· Click on "More options to search for CUNY jobs"

· Search for Job Opening ID number 31048

· Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions.

Applications, including the following must be uploaded to the CUNYfirst job application website as a single PDF document:

1. Cover letter

2. Curriculum Vitae

3. Writing Sample

In addition, please send three letters of recommendation to Jenifer Roman, jroman@ccny.cuny.edu.

CLOSING DATE

The committee will begin reviewing applications on October 30th 2025, but the position will remain open until filled.

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans, and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15904

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor and Director of Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology at Murray State University invites applications for an advanced assistant or associate professor and director of public administration starting August 1, 2026. Appointment at rank commensurate with experience. This is a ten-month position from August 1st – May 31st each year. Prior service credit may be awarded towards tenure. We offer both an on-campus and online MPA program with several concentrations. While the specialization is open, we are interested in candidates who can teach some combination of Public Policy Analysis, Research Methods, and Public Organizations, along with other courses that contribute to the department's programs. The candidate must also be able to use multiple delivery methods in non-traditional formats (e.g. online, ITV, and in-person).

As director of the MPA the candidate will:
*review applications for admission to the MPA program,
*advise newly admitted and some returning students,
*work with the chair and program faculty on course offerings, *oversee program assessment, and *represent the program at meetings and events.

PhD, DPA, or related doctorate in political science, public administration, public policy or related field is required.

Application materials:
*Letter of application
*Curriculum Vitae
*Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness
*Research Sample (please submit under "Writing Sample")

For best consideration, please submit a completed application along? with all required materials? by November 1, 2025.? Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

For the complete description and to apply visit: https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/12298

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15909

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description
The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:

Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track), in Public Administration

Position Summary: The Auburn University Department of Political Science seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor to support its undergraduate and graduate public administration offerings starting August 16, 2026. Advanced assistant professors may also be considered. The appointment is a full-time, nine-month, tenure-track position.

Position Responsibilities: Candidates must be able to offer courses in public administration in person and online at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Candidates should be broadly trained in public administration and/or public policy. We seek individuals who can contribute extensively to the NASPAA-accredited MPA program's core curriculum offerings and our Ph.D. and undergraduate public administration programs. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester for at least the first three years of appointment.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and the ability to teach courses in local government administration. We seek candidates who can also contribute to teaching and/or research capabilities in some combination of the following areas: ethics, environmental policy and management, intergovernmental relations/federalism, in addition to other core areas of public administration that are aligned with the mission and focus of the department's program.

Required/Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, or related field conferred by August 16, 2026. Ability to teach courses in local government administration. The candidate selected for this position must meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States when the appointment begins and to continue working legally for the proposed term of employment; excellent communication skills are required.

Desired Qualifications: Candidates with professional experience in the public or nonprofit sectors; experience teaching in-person and online classes; experience teaching public administration courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels; evidence of a record of commitment to student success at the college level through substantial and continued effectiveness in teaching, advising, and other student-related responsibilities are highly desired. Candidates must strongly indicate the ability to achieve future research productivity in appropriate academic journals.

Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2025, and will continue until a suitable candidate is selected. To apply, visit https://www.auemployment.com/postings/55403. Candidates must submit a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position, a curriculum vitae, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, a teaching statement and evidence of teaching ability, a research statement, and a writing sample.

Auburn University is an elite, top-tier Carnegie R1 research institution, enrolling more than 33,000 students. It is one of the nation's premier public land-grant institutions. In 2024, U.S. News and World Report ranked Auburn among the top 50 public universities in the country. The University is nationally recognized for its commitment to academic excellence, positive work environment, student engagement, and beautiful campus.

The Political Science Department maintains a multidisciplinary faculty of 33 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master of Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance, Economic Development and Global Public Service; a Master of Community Planning (MCP), and a Ph.D. program in Public Administration and Public Policy.

Direct questions to Dr. John C. Morris, Public Administration Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849. Email: jcm0143@auburn.edu. The department's website may be found at https://cla.auburn.edu/polisci/.

Auburn University is understanding of and sensitive to the family needs of faculty, including dual-career couples" http://www.auburn.edu/academic/provost/facultyjobs/.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15855

San Jose State University

Rank: Assistant Professor -Political Science

Position Rank and Title: Assistant Professor
School/Department Name: Department of Political Science
Compensation: Commensurate with qualifications, experience, and rank as established by the CSU Salary Schedule. Anticipated hiring academic year annual salary range: $ 86,000 - $ 90,000.
Faculty employee benefits are very competitive for the higher education sector. See the CSU Employee Benefits Summary for details about the CSU's excellent benefits package.
Target Start Date: August 2026
Application Deadline: October 6, 2025 (Applications accepted until filled or closed)
Position Description

The Political Science Department at San José State University is pleased to announce a search for a full time, tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in Latin American Politics beginning in August 2026. We highly encourage candidates with specializations such as politics of development in Latin America, political economy, political behavior, and social movements. The ideal candidate will focus on political systems, social movements, governance, and policy issues across Latin America, with potential intersections with migration, development, human rights, or U.S.–Latin America relations. Faculty will contribute to program growth through research and teaching in areas that are highly relevant to our students.
The Political Science Department at SJSU was founded in 1962 and currently has 25 full and part time faculty and approximately 350 majors and minors. The undergraduate program offers a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science and three minors: Political Science, Public Administration and Public Policy, and Applied Research Methods. The Political Science major provides students with an understanding of politics and government, prepares them to be active, engaged, and informed citizens, and further develops skills in critical analysis and communication. The major in political science leads to a wide variety of professional careers, including public service, the law, diplomacy, public policy, teaching, and business.
The Political Science Department in the College of Social Sciences and San José State University value inclusive excellence and are committed to advancing equity through research, teaching, and service. We enroll more than 36,000 students, many of whom are historically underserved; approximately 45% of our undergraduate students are first-generation college students and 38% are Pell Grant recipients. In addition, we are both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI). SJSU aspires to create holistic learning environments that facilitate both individual and collective transformation. We seek teacher-scholars who cultivate inclusive, empowering spaces for mutual learning, skill-building, and knowledge exchange. Our commitment to lifelong learning supports meaningful connections among faculty, staff, students, alumni, and the broader communities we serve.

We invite all applicants to include a Statement of Inclusive Excellence to share how your lived and professional experiences will contribute to the SJSU community—particularly in relation to student success and inclusive education. A guide to writing this statement can be found at SJSU Inclusive Excellence Statement Guidelines.
Link: https://jobs.sjsu.edu/en-us/job/550915/assistant-professor-political-science
Equal Employment Statement:
SJSU is an Equal Opportunity employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15852

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa
Rank: Instructor of Public Administration (Renewable Contract)

Detailed Position Information
The Department of Political Science at the University of Alabama invites applications for a renewable contract Instructor position in Public Administration. This is a one-year appointment with the possibility of renewal based on satisfactory performance. The appointment will begin as early as January 2, 2026.

We invite applications from specialists in public administration and related fields to offer courses in our Master of Public Administration program.

Minimum: PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; with some experience teaching at the college level.

Preferred: PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; experience teaching courses independently.

For more information about the department and the MPA program, see https://psc.ua.edu/
Applicants should submit a cover letter that summarizes their teaching qualifications and experience, courses prepared to offer, and reasons for interest in the position; a CV; evidence of teaching effectiveness as available; and the names and contact information of 3 references---ideally those with knowledge of the candidate's teaching experience. Letters of reference and transcripts will only be required for short-listed candidates. Applications must be submitted via the University website, http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

For questions related to the search, please contact Search Committee Chair and MPA Program Director, Dr. Hyunjung Ji at hji4@ua.edu.

Submit applications by October 1, 2025, for best consideration. Screening of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Minimum Qualifications
PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; with some experience teaching at the college level.

Preferred Qualifications
PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; experience teaching courses independently.

Instructions and Required Materials for Application
Applicants should submit a cover letter that summarizes their teaching qualifications and experience, courses prepared to offer, and reasons for interest in the position; a CV; evidence of teaching effectiveness as available; and the names and contact information of 3 references---ideally those with knowledge of the candidate's teaching experience. Letters of reference and transcripts will only be required for short-listed candidates. Applications must be submitted via the University website, http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

For more information, and to apply, please see http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15838

University of Georgia
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Department of Public Administration and Policy in the School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites nominations and applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position with appointment to begin in August 2026. The position requires a research and teaching focus on public administration. While the field of specialization is open, candidates with research and teaching interests in public management, public personnel administration, organizational theory/behavior, or nonprofit management are particularly encouraged to apply.

Ideal candidates will have the ability to teach core courses in the Master of Public Administration curriculum, such as public management, public personnel administration, public administration and democracy, research methods, and electives in their fields of expertise. Evidence of high-quality research, an active research agenda, and a commitment to excellence in instruction are necessary. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated success in securing external research funding. Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, political science, or a related field by August 2026.

To apply, please visit https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/448110. Include in your application: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) the contact information for three individuals providing reference letters. In your cover letter, please describe your preparation to contribute to the undergraduate minor in public policy and management as well as the MPA core curriculum and elective specializations. Applicants invited for interviews may also be required to provide graduate transcripts, evidence of teaching experience and evaluations, and examples of scholarly research. If you have questions or would like more information about the position, please contact Hannah Cowart (hrcowart@uga.edu). All applications received by October 1, 2025, are assured full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked consistently among the top-10 Public Affairs Schools by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit https://spia.uga.edu/departments-centers/padp/. In addition, the State of Georgia is well known for its quality of life, outdoor and cultural amenities, and affordability (https://www.exploregeorgia.org and https://www.georgia.org/competitive-advantages/life-georgia). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15813

University of Texas, Tyler

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Methodology

Job Summary

The Department of Social Sciences at the University of Texas at Tyler is seeking a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration to teach in the Master of Public Administration program beginning August 15, 2026.

Duties include teaching a 3/3 course-load, active scholarship agenda, and service to the university and local community.

The Department of Social Sciences incorporates Anthropology, Criminal Justice, Economics, Geography, Social Work, Sociology and Public Administration. In addition to the Master of Public Administration, the Department has a Criminal Justice Master of Science degree. Applications will be accepted through September 30, 2025, with preference provided to applications received by September 15, 2025.

Key Responsibilities

· Development and implementation of graduate courses in public administration.

· Responsible for recruiting and retaining undergraduate and graduate students.

· Other related duties as assigned.

· Attend departmental meetings.

Required Qualifications

· PhD in Public Administration or related discipline from an accredited university (ABD is acceptable to apply but must have the degree awarded by August 15, 2026).

· Ability to teach online graduate courses in Public Administration.

· Evidence of teaching in an accredited community college and/or university setting or similar experience.

· Strong verbal and written communication skills.

· Ability to work independently.

· Skills and confidence with technology.

Preferred Qualifications

· Previous professional experience in the field of Public Administration.

· Ability to teach courses that may be cross listed with the Criminal Justice discipline.

Accompanying Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and Competencies

· Experience in instructional design and course development, including online teaching and active learning strategies.

· Ability to develop and maintain effective and constructive collaborative relationships with faculty and administration throughout the university.

· Record of professional activities related to criminal justice and education.

Other Information

Faculty members at UT Tyler are expected to be outstanding teachers and scholars and are able to demonstrate a commitment to service to the community and university. Additional expectations include academic advising, academic programming and assessment, service to the university, and continued professional development. Priority will be given to candidates who demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and who enthusiastically support the university's strategic plan.

About The University of Texas at Tyler

The University of Texas at Tyler is part of the prestigious University of Texas System that includes 13 institutions located throughout the state. Founded in 1971, UT Tyler today enrolls 10,000 students and consists of six colleges.

Our beautiful Tyler campus features more than 200 acres nestled along a lake and surrounded by thick pine and oak forests, providing a picturesque location for study and recreation. We also offer instructional sites at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler and in Palestine, Longview, and Houston.

With more than 80 bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs offered, UT Tyler provides a wealth of learning opportunities and dynamic programs.

For more information, please visit https://www.uttyler.edu/about/.

Additional Information

This position is security-sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code Section 51.215, which authorizes the employer to obtain criminal history record information. Applicants selected must be able to show proof of eligibility to work in the United States by time of hire.

EEO/AA Statement

The University of Texas at Tyler is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, status as a protected veteran, among other things, or status as a qualified individual with a disability.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15816

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, College of Arts and Sciences, at the University of Rhode Island is recruiting for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. This is a tenure-track, academic year appointment at the rank of assistant professor to commence in the Fall of 2026.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's strategic goal to foster an inclusive culture is "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." For more information about our commitment to diversity, please visit: https://web.uri.edu/president/strategic-plan/priority-3/

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
We invite applications for a faculty position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to both graduate and undergraduate teaching, research, and service responsibilities within the department and the University.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses in Public Management or Public Policy that are part of the core requirements for the online Master of Public Administration (MPA) program, as well as courses supporting online graduate certificates. In addition, the candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses in areas such as Public Administration, Public Management, Public Policy, and other subjects aligned with their area of expertise. Experience with or interest in online instruction is strongly preferred.

Applicants should demonstrate a clear research agenda and the potential to produce original, high-quality scholarship in the fields of Public Administration and/or Public Policy. A record of peer-reviewed publications or evidence of research promise is expected. The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research profile that contributes to the discipline.

The faculty member will contribute to the governance and ongoing development of the MPA program, including curriculum planning, Capstone advising, and program assessment. In addition to department-level duties, the candidate will provide service to the University and engage with the broader academic and professional community.

QUALIFICATIONS: REQUIRED
1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2026, in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

2) Specialization in Public Management subfields or a specialized public policy-related field.

3) Demonstrated ability to teach courses in at least two of the following: Seminar in Public Administration and Policy, Ethics in Public Administration and Policy, Public Personnel Management, Public Budgeting and Finance, or other Public Management courses.

4) Demonstrated ability to teach undergraduate political science courses in at least one of the following areas: Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

5) Demonstrated ability or potential to effectively deliver high-quality graduate-level online courses, with strong record of effective teaching and student engagement in virtual learning environments.

6) Evidence of research in the field of Public Administration or Public Policy with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.

7) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

QUALIFICATIONS: PREFERRED
Preference will be given to candidates who can provide a strong plan for active publication and who can demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellent teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: ethics in public administration or policy, performance management, representative bureaucracy, leadership, information and technology management, local government management, or specific policy-related fields.

2) Evidence of online instruction or extensive training in online pedagogy.

3) Ability to teach on identity plurality and their intersections in public administration and policy.

CANDIDATES WILL BE REQUIRED TO ELECTRONICALLY SUBMIT
1) A cover letter that describes your interest in this position.

2) A Curriculum Vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document).

3) A brief research and teaching statement.

4) "Other Document" - A statement reflecting how you will support URI's strategic priorities in "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." (as one complete pdf document).

5) "Other" - If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work (Document is Optional).

The application deadline is September 14, 2025.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15547

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15762

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Political Theory, Public Policy

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in political science. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address political science topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in political science, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the school. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15698

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Management
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management. We welcome candidates from any subfield of public management, including those with research interests that intersect with political science, decision science, and/or economics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in management science, political science, or similar disciplines with a track record of research on public management topics.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15697

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public policy. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on applied econometrics and public policy design topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public policy design and evaluation, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in public policy.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15699

Waseda University

Rank: Tenure-track or tenured position in Public Administration/ Public Policy(Political Science)

Faculty Recruitment Information in Public Administration/Public Policy(Political Science)

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in Public Administration/Public Policy(Political Science) to begin in the spring or fall of 2026 (or a mutually agreed later date).

Qualifications
- Substantial research achievements in Public Administration or Public Policy
- Ability to teach courses in Japanese and English
- Ability to teach research methods in the field of empirical analysis and/or formal models at the Graduate School of Political Science
- Ph.D. in Political Science or a relevant field by the time of appointment
- Teaching experience is desirable

Teaching responsibility:
- Graduate Seminar in the Graduate School of Political Science, Political Science Course
- Related undergraduate courses in the fields of Public Administration and Public Policy

Scheduled start of employment:
April 1, 2026, or September 1, 2026 (or a mutually agreed later date)

For more details and instructions for application, please go to the website at https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news-en/2025/07/10/24379/

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: 9/30/2025
Date Posted: 7/10/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15655

University of Oxford

Rank: Associate Professor of International Business
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, International Relations
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

Saïd Business School and St Antony's College are recruiting an Associate Professor of International Business. For this post, the School welcomes applications from early career candidates (i.e., scholars who have completed or will very soon complete their PhD), postdoctoral researchers (i.e., scholars who are currently in a postdoc position), and faculty who are already a tenure-track faculty member. At Oxford the rank of Associate Professor includes faculty that would elsewhere be considered of Assistant or Associate Professor rank.

The position is tenable from 1 September 2026 or at a different date by negotiation. The position is associated with a non-tutorial fellowship at St Antony's College.

We are inviting applications from those with a background in International Business, broadly defined, who are committed to a programme of intellectually rigorous and relevant scholarship in global strategy, comparative political economy of business, and international political economy, that is publishable in top academic management journals (as defined, for instance, by the Financial Times's 48 peer-reviewed academic journals), top social science journals and as books with top academic publishers.

The successful candidate will join the International Business group which conducts research addressing pressing global issues, such as sustainability and labour standards in global value chains, innovation in emerging markets, digital transformation (including the adoption of artificial intelligence) and future of work, and state capacity and its implication for business. The group takes a distinct multi-level perspective to studying the political economy of international business. An important focus of the group, therefore, is to study how system-level institutions affect, and are affected by, organizational strategies, management and politics. Many of the group members engage actively with colleagues from other parts of Oxford in formal and informal research collaborations. The group is also committed to mixed methods in research, ranging from qualitative methods to experimental and quantitative methods. We therefore strongly encourage applicants from any methodological background as we continue to broaden the methodological interests of our group.

The duties for this post include research, teaching and service to the business school, college and wider University. Full details of the duties can be found at the link below.

If you would like to discuss this post and find out more about joining the academic community at Oxford, please contact akshay.mangla@sbs.ox.ac.uk

All enquiries will be treated in strict confidence and will not form part of the selection decision.

To apply, please follow this link: https://my.corehr.com/pls/uoxrecruit/erq_jobspec_version_4.display_form?p_company=10&p_internal_external=E&p_display_in_irish=N&p_process_type=&p_applicant_no=&p_form_profile_detail=&p_display_apply_ind=Y&p_refresh_search=Y&p_recruitment_id=178440

The closing date for applications is 12.00 noon (UK time) on Monday 29 September 2025

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/29/2025
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15636

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration
Specializations: International Security, Public Finance & Budgeting, Leadership Studies

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP), National University of Singapore, invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor appointments. One position will be in international security (political science-international relations or other relevant disciplines), which is broadly defined to include traditional and emerging security issues. For the other two positions—in public policy and public administration—the areas of interest are open; however, there is a particular interest in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of international relations, political science, public policy, public administration, or related disciplines;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) to the Hiring Committee via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30182. The deadline for submitting the package is September 1, 2025.

The package should include:

1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Members of the hiring committee will be attending the APSA Annual Conference in Vancouver and will be available for an informational session and preliminary interviews. Shortlisted candidates who are unable to meet at APSA will be contacted separately over email. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15632

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – Public Administration/Public Management

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP) at the National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration/Public Management. We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of public administration, public management, public policy, political science, or a related discipline at the time of appointment;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;

- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30180.

The package should include:
1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Applications submitted prior to September 15, 2025 will receive preference; but the review of applications will continue until positions are filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified. Initial face-to-face conversations may be conducted at the Asian Association for Public Administration Conference in October 2025 in Beijing, or at other relevant international conferences in 2025. Promising candidates not attending these events will be invited to a Zoom conversation. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15631

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Energy & Environmental Economics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in energy and environmental economics. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on energy markets, climate finance, and climate policy design. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in energy and environmental economics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-energy-environmental-economics

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15146

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Public Finance
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public finance. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address public finance topics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in public finance

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-finance

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15145

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Public Management

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management. We welcome candidates from any subfield of public management, including those with research interests that intersect with political science, decision science, and/or economics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in management science, political science, or similar disciplines with a track record of research on public management topics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-management

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15147

PUBLIC LAW

Florida Gulf Coast University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Law/Judicial Politics
Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Political Science with specialization in Judicial Politics and/or Public Law, broadly defined. The successful candidate will teach lower and upper-level courses in an undergraduate Political Science program; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned. The position is open regarding secondary subfield in political science and geographic concentration.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full job description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/eaglejobs/job/Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0006842

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16032

Louisiana Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

POSITION: Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science by September 1, 2026.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The person hired will become part of an interdisciplinary academic unit with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A successful candidate will have teaching and research interests in public policy/public law, preferably with a focus on digital governance and law. The candidate will have the opportunity to contribute to the growth of our political science undergraduate program as well as a new MA program in Media Studies. The normal teaching load is three courses per quarter.?Responsibilities will also include advising undergraduate political science majors. A strong commitment to exemplary teaching at the undergraduate level, scholarship/research activity, and good interpersonal and collegial skills are expected.

THE UNIVERSITY: Louisiana Tech is a selective admissions university and offers a broad range of fully accredited undergraduate degrees in a variety of majors and doctoral programs in areas of specified expertise. The School of Human Inquiry offers Bachelor of Arts degrees in Political Science, History, Communication Studies, and Sociology, as well as minors in Geography and Philosophy. The campus is located in Ruston, Louisiana, 70 miles east of Shreveport and 30 miles west of Monroe on Interstate 20.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Submit a letter of application and current curriculum vitae to John Worsencroft, Director, School of Human Inquiry, via Workday. Three letters of recommendation and transcripts will be required of finalists only. LINK: https://ulsltu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/LATECHCareers/details/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R-1713

Louisiana Tech is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Employer and places a high priority on the creation of an environment supportive of ethnic minorities, women, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16002

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Associate Professor
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

The Department of Politics, Government, and Law in the College of Letters and Sciences at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater seeks a tenure-track faculty member in the area of public law beginning August 2026.

Job Details:

This is a full-time position with responsibilities for teaching undergraduate courses in legal studies and political science, conducting research, and engaging in service to the university, community, and profession. Research and teaching expertise should complement existing faculty expertise and may include case law, civil rights, and American minority politics.

The successful candidate will be able to teach Constitutional Law, The Constitution and Civil Liberties, The Constitution and Civil Rights, Law and Society, and courses in their area of expertise as part of the Legal Studies and Political Science programs. The candidate will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda that engages undergraduate students, results in publications and contributes to advancing the department, university, the profession, and society. The candidate will also be expected to participate in service activities and embrace the principles of diversity and inclusion as a member of the university community.

Responsibilities:

Full-Time teaching responsibilities include Constitutional Law, The Constitution and Civil Liberties, The Constitution and Civil Rights, Law and Society, courses in the applicant's area of expertise, and contributing to the university's general education program. Research expectations include maintaining an active research agenda including publication and research dissemination at disciplinary conferences. In addition, faculty members serve as advisors/mentors to students and are encouraged to engage students in undergraduate research or other scholarly and creative activities. Service responsibilities include committee service at the departmental, college, and university levels as well as participation in community organizations and the discipline as relevant to the candidate's expertise and interest. Faculty at UW-W may be required to teach in a variety of formats, including in-person, online and/or in a hybrid format, or courses in the evenings. All students, faculty, and staff are required to ensure their materials are digitally accessible and utilize standard technology platforms supported by UW-Whitewater. Examples include, but are not limited to, Navigate, Canvas, and Microsoft Office applications – including Outlook, which is essential for university email communications and scheduling.

Department Information:

The Department of Politics, Government, and Law (https://www.uww.edu/cls/departments/politics-government-law) houses programs in political science, public policy and administration, and legal studies, including majors, minors and certificates. The nine full-time faculty of the department serve approximately 200 majors and advise multiple student organizations, oversee internships in politics, government, and law, and offer experiential learning opportunities outside of the classroom. The department is housed in the College of Letters and Sciences (https://www.uww.edu/cls), home to the social sciences, natural sciences and mathematics, and the humanities at UW - Whitewater.

Compensation:

Well-qualified candidates can expect a minimum starting salary of $60,000 commensurate with the candidate's education, related experience, and qualifications.

UW System employees receive an excellent benefit package. To learn more about the UW System's comprehensive benefit package, review the UW System Employee Benefits Brochure.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in political science, law or a related field is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2026; if not, they will be hired on a one-year contract with the understanding that their degree will be completed before January 2027 in advance of their first scheduled review.

Demonstrated commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with inclusive populations and serving as active member of the university community are required.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities:

Ability to interact respectfully with people with diverse socioeconomic, cultural and ethnic backgrounds

Willingness and ability to be an active participant in following applicable safety rules and regulations including necessary training and drills

How to Apply:

Applications must be submitted through https://wisconsin.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UW_Comprehensives/job/Whitewater-WI/Assistant-Professor---Tenure-Track---COLS---Politics--Government--and-Law_JR10003924

Only complete application packages will be considered. This includes online submission of the following documents:

Cover Letter/Letter of Interest

Statement of Teaching Philosophy

Curriculum Vita

Names and Contact information for three professional references (letters of recommendation may be solicited at a later time)

Copies of unofficial graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required if offered the position)

Contact Information:

If you have questions regarding this recruitment or if you are unable to complete the application online due to a disability or system problem, please contact us at (262) 472-1024 or hr@uww.edu.

To Ensure Consideration:

Applications received by October 16th, 2025, are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. The most qualified applicants will be invited to participate in the next step of the selection process.

CAMPUS INFORMATION:

UW-Whitewater is a thriving public university located in southeastern Wisconsin. It leads the way in providing world-class, affordable higher education programs to more students than neighboring regional comprehensives in the University of Wisconsin System. A collaborative team of 1,300 faculty and staff are devoted to the success of the university's 11,500 students at its main and Rock County campuses. The team provides high-impact practices and academic programs — online and in person — from associate to doctoral levels. Recognized nationally for affordability, inclusion, and career development, UWW serves approximately one-third first-generation students and boasts strength in many areas, especially business and education. The campus and community embrace the Warhawk Family spirit, supporting the university's arts and nationally recognized NCAA Division-III level championship athletics. As a proud institution of access, more than 10 percent of undergraduate students use the acclaimed Center for Students with Disabilities — a priority mission since the 1970s.

UW-Whitewater's campuses are located centrally near Milwaukee, Madison, and Chicago, offering easy access to the cultural and commercial opportunities of major metropolitan areas. Near both Lake Geneva and the Wisconsin Dells, the area attracts numerous visitors from across the country. Whitewater is a vibrant college community near the Kettle Moraine State Forest offering area residents seasonal outdoor enjoyment. The nearby Rock County campus is located in Janesville, a town of 60,000 located on the Rock River and known as Wisconsin's Park Place.

ORGANIZATION INFORMATION:

The University of Wisconsin-Whitewater is part of the 13-campus Universities of Wisconsin (https://www.wisconsin.edu).

Wisconsin Statute 19.36(7)(b) provides that applicants may indicate in writing that their identity should be kept confidential. In response to a public records request, the University will not reveal the identities of applicants who request confidentiality in writing, except that the identity of the successful final candidate will be released. See Wisconsin Statute 19.36(7)(a).

Per Regent Policy Document 20-19, University of Wisconsin System Criminal Background Check Policy and Universities of Wisconsin Administrative Policy 1275 Recruitment Policies, UW-Whitewater requires criminal background checks as a contingency to employment. A criminal background check will be conducted prior to an offer of employment. All final candidates must be asked, prior to hire, whether they have been found to have engaged in, are currently under investigation for, or left employment during an active investigation in which they were accused of sexual violence or sexual harassment. When obtaining employment reference checks, these same sexual violence or sexual harassment questions must also be asked.

The University of Wisconsin-Whitewater requires that all employees be active participants in following applicable safety rules and regulations including necessary training and drills.

For UW-Whitewater Campus safety information and crime statistics/annual Security Report, see? Annual Security and Fire Safety Report if you would like a paper copy of the report please contact the UW-Whitewater Police at 262-472-4660.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/16/2025
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15953

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at
https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at
https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: AADS/MALS Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Public Law
Specializations: Criminal Justice, Economic Policy, Political Development

OVERVIEW

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin invite applications for four postdoctoral research fellowships in public policy for the 2026-27 academic year.

The LRI postdoctoral fellowship provides support to scholars studying Latino populations from a broad range of fields in the social sciences. We encourage applications whose research aligns with the LRI's mission to produce research that informs policy and action to enhance the well-being of Latinos and their communities.

We welcome candidates whose research intersects with Mexican American & Latina/o Studies and African & African Diaspora Studies.

We are particularly interested in candidates with disciplinary homes in Sociology, Criminology, Political Science, Public Health, and Economics.

The fellow will work under the supervision of researchers in the LRI and their colleagues from across the University.

PURPOSE

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin seek four postdoctoral research fellows in public policy. The ideal candidates will have a track record in both academic and public-facing publications as well as research experience in one of the following policy areas: health care, reproduction, public and higher education, energy, immigration and criminal justice, or free speech. Candidates should hold a PhD in a field such as History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Conduct primary and secondary source research; prepare academic journal articles, policy briefs, white papers, and/or op-eds for public outlets.

Meet regularly with supervisor and research team; participate in the intellectual life of the Institutes.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD completed by August 15, 2026, but no more than three years prior to the start date.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD in History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

CONTACT

If you have questions, email us at LRI@austin.utexas.edu and include subject line "LRI Postdoc Question."

Apply here: https://utaustin.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UTstaff/job/AADS-MALS-Postdoctoral-Fellow_R_00039080

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15941

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Lecturer
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties

Job Description

The interdisciplinary Legal Studies Department at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is accepting applications for a full-time (academic year) non-tenure track lecturer. We welcome applications from scholars and teachers who focus on law and society broadly defined. The successful candidate can offer courses that address social, political, historical and/or cultural issues in the U.S., foreign or global courses are also welcome, and preference will be given to candidates that offer creative course designs and well developed pedagogy for undergraduate students.

This is a full-time position with a two-year contract, with the expectation of ongoing contract renewal based on programmatic needs, funding, and the candidate's performance. It is expected to start on September 1, 2026. The teaching load for the position is 3-3, including upper division classes of the successful candidate's choosing. Teaching decisions will be made in consultation with the Undergraduate Program Director of the Legal Studies Department. The successful candidate will be expected to participate fully in the Department of Legal Studies, which includes both tenure track faculty and lecturers sharing teaching and service responsibilities.

Requirements

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. in a disciplinary or interdisciplinary program, with a focus on law. Applicants with a law degree (e.g., J.D.) will be considered if they provide evidence of successful undergraduate teaching.

The University of Massachusetts Amherst welcomes all qualified applicants and complies with all state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Additional Information

Legal Studies is an independent academic department within the School of Public Policy Legal Studies is the oldest undergraduate liberal arts degree for the study of law and society in the country, and the only one in New England at a public university. The expanding Legal Studies Department is a center for ambitious intellectual activity, research, and teaching that addresses important questions about the place of law in societies around the world while helping to produce the next generation of social science law and society scholars. The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is the institutional home of the Law and Society Association, the world's premier interdisciplinary legal studies organization, and the Center for Justice, Law, and Societies, which offers opportunities for research, training, and public engagement.

Application Instructions

To APPLY, visit: https://careers.umass.edu/amherst/en-us/job/528196/legal-studies-lecturer

Applicants should submit the following:

a letter of interest
curriculum vitae (CV)
teaching statement
evidence of quality teaching (such as a teaching statement and/or summaries of teaching evaluations)
names and contact information for three references who are willing to submit letters upon request through the UMass online application system.

Inquiries about the position can be addressed to Jamie Rowen, Search Committee Chair (jrowen@umass.edu). Review of applications will begin November 1, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

About UMass Amherst

The flagship of the Commonwealth, the University of Massachusetts Amherst is a nationally ranked public land-grant research university that seeks to expand educational access, fuel innovation and creativity, and share and use its knowledge for the common good. Founded in 1863, UMass Amherst sits on nearly 1,450-acres in scenic Western Massachusetts and boasts state-of-the-art facilities for teaching, research, scholarship, and creative activity. The institution advances a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community where everyone feels connected and valued—and thrives, and offers a full range of undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees across 10 schools and colleges, and 100 undergraduate majors. We believe every member of our university community can contribute to our ongoing success by striving for the highest level of excellence as we seek breakthrough solutions to mounting environmental, social, economic, and technological challenges in our world.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/10/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15920

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Law and/or Public Policy)

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Long Beach is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and/or Public Policy. The position is open regarding subfield, and all methodological and theoretical approaches are welcome. This is a general hire recruitment (not part of a cluster hire effort).

Application Deadline: Review of applications to begin October 10, 2025. Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled).

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate closely related discipline. Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2026.
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication
Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population, including low socioeconomic and first-generation students

Preferred Qualifications:

Evidence of academic training and expertise in one of the following specializations: Public Law, Judicial Politics, or Public Policy
Evidence of scholarly activities grounded in law, public policy, or broader questions within the intersection of law and policy, such as environmental law and policy, immigration law and policy, international law and policy, health law and policy, law and economic policy, civil rights law and policy, social welfare law and policy, education law and policy, labor and employment law and policy, administrative law and policy, election law and voting rights policy, and intersectional approaches to law and social inequality, including the ways race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, disability, nationality, and other identities interact within legal and policy frameworks
Evidence of ability to effectively teach current and future University course offerings in legal studies and public policy broadly, at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Constitutional Law, Environmental Law, Queer Law, International Law, Law and Social Change, Jurisprudence, Public Policy, Fundamentals of Public Administration, and Public Values and Public Policy
Evidence of the ability to develop new course offerings in political science related to law and public policy
Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body
Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.
Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service
Experience of successfully working with populations demographically and/or socioeconomically similar to the CSULB student body
Experience mentoring or supporting students with minoritized identities or experience using inclusive and culturally relevant teaching strategies in a diverse classroom

Duties:

Teach courses in Law and Public Policy at the undergraduate and graduate levels (Mode of instruction may include in-person, hybrid, online, and/or any combination thereof.)
Develop courses in Law and Public Policy at undergraduate and graduate levels
Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and writing theses
Engage in research leading to conference participation and peer-reviewed publications
Participate in faculty shared governance
Participate in service to the school, college, university, and profession/community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The Department of Political Science takes great pride in having one of the most diverse student bodies in higher education. We have more than 600 students in one of our three academic programs: a Bachelor of Arts, a Minor, and a Master of Arts. Our 18 full-time and 14 part-time faculty are passionate about teaching politics in the twenty-first century, offering courses that are directly relevant to the contemporary world. Together we seek to provide our students the foundational knowledge and skills essential to understand and engage issues relevant to our common political life today. Our department offers numerous programs and clubs, including a Legal Studies certificate, a judicial internship course, nationally competitive Moot Court and Model United Nations programs, undergraduate and graduate student associations, chapters of the Phi Alpha Delta pre-law fraternity and the Pi Sigma Alpha National Honor Society, a peer mentoring program, extensive internship and research opportunities, and much more.

The College of Liberal Arts at CSULB is the largest college on campus, with thirty-one excellent departments and programs, several innovative centers and projects, over 685 outstanding faculty members, and over 74 individual staff members. The college faculty are among the best in the nation and have received a variety of national and international awards. CLA has 9300 undergraduate students pursuing a variety of highly valued degrees through the college's 99 unique majors and minors. Additionally, 575 graduate students are also obtaining advanced degrees and special certificates in the college. With degrees ranging from humanities and foreign languages to social and behavioral sciences, CLA's graduates are well-rounded citizens, effective communicators, and analytical thinkers who live knowledgeably, responsibly, and humanely in a world where complex problems demand informed, creative, and thoughtful solutions. The skills gained through degrees from CLA are invaluable and open up countless career paths for graduates to follow

Information on excellent benefits package available to CSULB faculty is located here: CSU Employee Benefits

How to Apply - Required Documentation:

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (maximum two pages, single-spaced). For further information and guidelines, please visit: Student Success Statement
Letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications
CV
Names and contact information for three references (to be contacted for confidential letters of recommendation should you reach the semi-finalist stage)
Sample of scholarly work (e.g., peer-reviewed article, conference paper, or dissertation chapter)
Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including, if available, representative syllabi and teaching evaluations from courses taught as an instructor of record)
Copy of graduate school transcript/s
Finalists should be prepared to submit an official transcript (e-transcript preferred, if available)
How to Apply: Click Apply Now icon to complete the CSULB online application

Requests for information about the position and process should be addressed to the Search Committee Chair:

Darin DeWitt, Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

Darin.DeWitt@csulb.edu
(562) 985-4711

EMPLOYMENT REQUIREMENTS:

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment.

Pursuant to the CSU Out of State Employment Policy, hiring employees to perform CSU-related work outside of California is prohibited effective January 1, 2022. By prohibiting employment outside of California, the CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States. Exceptions to the Policy are limited to approved and documented purposes for conducting CSU business outside of California.

All employees who assign and/or oversee work are responsible for ensuring that compliant work controls and procedures consistent with Federal, State and local regulations and University policies are implemented and maintained to provide for the protection of individuals and to safeguard the environment. Everyone is expected to comply with applicable Environmental Health and Safety regulations and University policies, programs and procedures. For more information, the systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/18172024/latest/ and questions may be sent to Environmental_Health_Safety@csulb.edu.

The CSU strongly recommends that all individuals who access any in-person program or activity (on- or off-campus) operated or controlled by the University follow the COVID-19 vaccine recommendations adopted by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) applicable to their age, medical condition, and other relevant indications and comply with other safety measures established by each campus. The systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/9779821/latest/ and questions may be sent to fahr@csulb.edu.

All university program and activities are open and available to all regardless of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin. Consistent with CSU's Nondiscrimination Policy, as well as state and federal law, CSULB provides equal opportunity in education and employment without unlawful discrimination or preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin. To access CSULB's full statement on Equal Opportunity and Excellence in Education and Employment, please visit Equity and Compliance.

Apply Here: https://csucareers.calstate.edu/en-us/job/551207/assistant-professor-of-political-science-law-andor-public-policy

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15901

Morehouse College

Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who work in the area of public law and are prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and contributing to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15867

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public Policy and Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) invites applications for one full-time tenure stream position in Public Policy and Law. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026.

Candidates must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching specializing in Canadian and/or Comparative Public Policy and its relationship to Law. The successful candidate will teach courses in Public Policy and in Law and Policy at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and will also be expected to contribute courses relevant to our new certificate program in Politics, Law and Social Justice (https://utm.calendar.utoronto.ca/program/ercer2015). The theoretical and methodological approach is open.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and deepen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research, and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate teaching responsibilities at the University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) campus and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science, with graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. Candidates are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members at the UTM campus (https://www.utm.utoronto.ca/political-science/) and the tri-campus Graduate Department (https://politics.utoronto.ca/).

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, the submitted research statement, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At UTM we are committed to fostering an environment of diversity and inclusion. With an enviable diverse student body, we especially welcome applications from candidates who identify as Indigenous, Black, or racially visible (persons of colour), and who have experience working with, teaching or mentoring diverse groups or students. Candidates must demonstrate, in their application materials, an ability to foster diversity on campus and within the curriculum or discipline, and must show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial environment. Candidates must submit a statement describing their contributions to equity, diversity, and inclusion, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities; efforts undertaken to develop inclusive pedagogies, collaboration, and engagement with underrepresented communities; and mentoring of students from underrepresented groups. If you have questions about this statement, please contact Distinguished Professor and Chair Steven Bernstein at chair.pol.utm@utoronto.ca .

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample; a teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations; and an EDI statement as described above.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each referee within 48 hours after an application is submitted. Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that referees submit recent letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Debra Burrowes at assistant.pol.utm@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including recent reference letters, must be received by November 6, 2025.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15863

Dickinson College

Rank: Professor of American Public Law, open rank

The Political Science and Law, Justice, & Society programs at Dickinson College invite applications for a full-time, open-rank professorship in American Public Law. Successful applicants will have research and teaching interests in public law, law and society, and/or the United States court system. The successful candidate will direct Dickinson's Law, Justice, & Society program. This position carries a five-course (annual) teaching load, which includes capacity an introductory level course in either American government or political philosophy, with a one-course release in both of the first two years at Dickinson, to prioritize program management.

The department expects the successful candidate to conduct high-quality research while maintaining high standards of teaching excellence. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 2026; strong preference will be given to advanced assistant professors or mid-career tenured faculty, and those with demonstrated ability to provide vision for and management of the Law, Justice & Society major.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City.

The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin at the start of October and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu. Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Preferred Qualifications
Ph.D. must be in hand by September 2026; strong preference will be given to advanced assistant professors or mid-career tenured faculty, and those with demonstrated ability to provide vision for and management of the Law, Justice & Society major

The College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15846

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

Job Summary
The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the assistant professor rank beginning in August 2026. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American Politics and upper-level courses in their specialty. The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching and advising in the liberal arts tradition. The department has a strong history of pre-law advising at the College, a responsibility that is available to interested faculty with expertise in judicial politics. The teaching load for this position is the equivalent of five courses (typically 2-3 or 3-2) over the academic year.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,200 students.

Qualifications
Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science or closely related field with a specialization in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship, and/or governance that they can contribute to the inclusivity of our community.

Special Instructions to Applicants
Applicants should complete the online application at https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/5982. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research program, and statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask applicants to specify the courses that they would be prepared to teach, and we also ask applicants to elaborate on their experiences and plans for building an inclusive learning environment. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2025 and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Lindsay Reid at lreid@gettysburg.edu.

EEO Statement
Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15848

Jacksonville State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Government/Public Law)

Jacksonville State University is accepting applications for a tenure-track position of Assistant Professor of Political Science in the Department of Sociology and Political Science. This is a full-time, tenure-track position with a primary teaching focus, carrying a 4/4 teaching load. The position begins in the fall semester of 2026. The successful candidate will have a background in Public Law and American government, with a strong foundation in law and legal studies.

Review of applications will begin on Monday, October 6, 2025.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via the university's job posting at: https://careers.jsu.edu/cw/en-us/job/497810/assistant-professor-political-science

Required Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field, from an accredited university by the proposed start date.
• Candidate's first field of study should be either Public Law or American Government–with the ability to teach law and legal studies at the undergraduate-level.
• College level teaching experience.
• Willingness to teach in traditional, hybrid, and online modalities.

Preferred Qualifications:
• Demonstration of effective teaching (e.g., peer reviews, student evaluations, evidence of student success).
• Interest in mentoring undergraduate students, including LSAT preparation.
• Record of scholarly achievement (e.g., peer-reviewed publication, conference presentation, and/or published journalism).

Required Documents:
• Cover letter
• Current curriculum vitae
• Unofficial transcripts

• Sample syllabus

About the Program
The Political Science Program has a rich history of mentoring students across numerous interests to achieve their goals. Students have been selected for the American Bar Foundation's Summer Research Fellowship, an internship with the Governor of Alabama, an internship with the Economic Development Partnership of Alabama, and more.

About the College
The Jacksonville State University College of Social and Behavioral Sciences offers top-quality academic programs through traditional classroom, hybrid, and online course offerings to prepare 21st century professionals for immediate careers in criminal justice and forensics, emergency management and disaster preparedness, politics and public administration, psychology, sociology, social work, military and veteran services.

About Jax State
Located in the Appalachian foothills of northeast Alabama, midway between Birmingham and Atlanta, Jacksonville State University is home to more than 9,900 students representing 63 countries. As a learning-centered university, it strives to challenge students academically in a responsive environment, meeting their educational, career and personal goals. As an academic institution, it seeks to produce broadly educated graduates prepared for global engagement. As a public, comprehensive university, it promotes excellence in scholarly and service activities consistent with its academic and professional strengths. For a complete list of Goals, Core Values and Strategies to fulfill this Mission, go to the JSU Strategic Plan home page.

Academically Jax State offers 113 academic programs and concentrations, including bachelor's, master's, post-baccalaureate, doctoral and advanced certificate programs in a variety of disciplines that prepare graduates for meaningful careers and ongoing education. More than 40 online programs are offered. The University features six colleges on its 459-acre campus – Arts, Humanities and Sciences; Business and Industry; Education and Professional Studies; Health Professions and Wellness; Social and Behavioral Sciences; and Library. Most academic programs have discipline-specific accreditations, a reflection of their quality and JSU's commitment to excellence.

Clery Notice: In compliance with the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Crime Statistics Act, https://www.clerycenter.org/the-clery-act the Jacksonville State University Police provide information on crimes statistics, crime prevention, law enforcement, crime reporting, and other related issues for the past three calendar years. The JSU Annual Campus Security and Fire Report is available online at: https://www.jsu.edu/police/docs/CleryAnnualReport.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15843

New Mexico State University

Rank: College Assistant Professor in Public Law and American Judicial Institutions

The Department of Government at New Mexico State University invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track position at the rank of College Assistant Professor with a specialization in Public Law and American Judicial Institutions.

Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. in Political Science, Juris Doctorate (J.D.) or equivalent, with expertise in public law and American judicial institutions; an ability to work with undergraduate and graduate students; an ability to advise and mentor students seeking to apply to law school and/or pursue law-related careers; willingness to work with a diverse faculty and student population.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:
The position consists of teaching and service responsibilities. Teaching includes three upper-division undergraduate public law courses per semester and an annual 1-credit LSAT prep class (paid overload). Service duties involve coordinating the Supplemental Major in Law, serving as the chief prelaw adviser, participating in departmental committees and evaluations, and contributing to college, university, and professional service as outlined in the annual allocation of effort.

Job Duties and Responsibilities:
The responsibilities for this position consist of 75% teaching and 25% service. Teaching duties include delivering three 3-credit undergraduate upper-division courses per semester in the field of public law and American judicial institutions, as well as teaching a one-credit Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) Prep class once per year as a paid overload. Service responsibilities involve coordinating the interdisciplinary Supplemental Major in Law and serving as the chief prelaw adviser for NMSU main campus students. Additional service includes active participation in departmental functions such as the Undergraduate Committee, annual program evaluations, and the scholarship selection process, along with contributing to the college, university, and broader professional community as appropriate and outlined in the annual allocation of effort.

Department and University:
The NMSU Department of Government offers a BA degree in Political Science, an interdisciplinary Supplemental Major in Law and Society, an MA in Political Science, and a nationally-accredited Masters in Public Administration (MPA). It is also one of the lead departments for the interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Transborder and Global Human Dynamics.
NMSU is New Mexico's land-grant institution and a comprehensive research university dedicated to teaching, research public service and outreach at all levels. NMSU is a welcoming community of talented faculty, staff and students who are working together to make a difference. We are a NASA Space Grant College, a Hispanic-serving institution (HSI), a minority-serving institution (MSI) and home to the first Honors College in New Mexico. We offer an accessible education that shapes bright futures.
NMSU provides learning opportunities to a diverse population of students and community members at four campuses, Cooperative Extension offices located in each of New Mexico's 33 counties, 12 research and science centers, and through distance education.

Special Instructions to Applicant:
The electronic application is the official document that will be used to qualify applicants. Paper/email documents will not be accepted. Required documents must be attached to the application.
Deadline for applications: 10/12/2025. Apply here: https://careers.nmsu.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-public-law-las-cruces-new-mexico-united-states

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 8/21/2025

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15799

Seton Hall University

Rank: Politics and Law
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

Job Summary:

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Seton Hall University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor beginning in the fall semester of 2026, pending budgetary approval.

Seton Hall University is in South Orange, New Jersey, 14 miles from New York City. It is the oldest Catholic diocesan institution of higher education in the United States. It is home to approximately 6,300 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students from all 50 states, with alumni from more than 60 countries. A vibrant and culturally diverse community, Seton Hall pursues academic excellence and ethicaldevelopment in a collaborative environment and prepares its students to be servant leaders in theirprofessional and community lives. Seton Hall University is an Equal Opportunity employer. It honorsdiversity and respects the religious commitments of all its employees.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science & Public Affairs have diverse research interests and value quality teaching and substantive service, and share a strong commitment to promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion. We are currently seeking candidates with scholarly and teaching interests at the nexus of law and politics. Ideally, the candidate's work will focus on contemporary questions associated with justice, human rights, and civil liberties.

Tenure-track faculty at Seton Hall teach three courses per semester and are expected to publish, actively pursue grant-funded research, and perform service appropriate to their rank and experience at the department, College, and University levels.

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science
Candidates should provide evidence of successful teaching and scholarship. Preference will be given to candidates who hold both a Ph.D. and J.D. and/or possess expertise in the areas of legal design and/or movement lawyering.

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Please submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, demonstration of teaching effectiveness, writing sample, and the names of three references.

All materials must be submitted through the Seton Hall application portal found at https://jobs.shu.edu/.

Review of applications will begin September 29, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15793

Franklin College

Rank: Elmon and Lucile Williams Endowed Chair in Law and Public Service (Tenure-Track Political Science Faculty Position)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, State Politics

Franklin College invites applications for the Elmon and Lucile Williams Endowed Chair in Law and Public Service. This is a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science, to begin in August 2026. We provide a strong, active, and tailored liberal arts education through small class sizes and intentional relationships between students and their faculty mentors. Located in a vibrant city of 25,000 about 20 miles from downtown Indianapolis, we support purposeful and practical academic experiences in and out of the classroom that leverage this location as students pursue personal, intellectual and professional growth. Please see www.FranklinCollege.edu for more details.

This new hire will join the department and the college at a time of exciting change. The historically strong Political Science program is committed to delivering fundamentals needed in the market today through increasingly immersive and hands-on methods of teaching and learning.

The successful candidate will direct the College's Pre-Law Program and will:

- teach three undergraduate courses in Constitutional Law, Business Law, Communications Law, State and Local Government, and/or Public Policy, per semester,
- teach one section of our First Year Seminar every other year,
- teach one intensive January Term course every three years,
- coach the Franklin College Moot Court Team,
- serve as the primary Pre-Law Advisor for the campus, and
- advise undergraduate students.

Candidates who can demonstrate prior experience in the above will be given priority. The successful candidate, with approval of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, will have access to an endowed fund to support programming within the guidelines of the endowment.

Required qualifications include:
- college-level teaching experience, and
- an earned Juris Doctorate from an accredited law school.

We especially welcome candidates with:
- both a JD and an advanced degree in politics/public policy,
- professional experience in the legal system, including legal practice, judicial service, or other substantive legal work,
- a competitive track record of scholarship,
- interest and/or background in environmental or conservation law, and
- ability to contribute meaningfully to the College's commitment to diversity.

Review of applications will begin 11 September 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Applicants should submit a letter of application addressing the above qualifications, vita, and three current letters of recommendation via the following link: Franklin College Faculty Application.

Contact human resources for additional information:

Franklin College
Office of Human Resources 101 Branigin Blvd.
Franklin, IN 46131
humanresources@FranklinCollege.edu

Franklin College is committed to providing an inclusive and welcoming environment and to ensuring that educational and employment decisions are based on individuals' abilities and qualifications. Consistent with these principles and applicable laws, it is therefore the College's policy not to discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, marital status, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status as consistent with the Policy on Prohibited Discrimination, Harassment and Related Misconduct. No person, on the basis of protected status, shall be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to unlawful discrimination, harassment, or retaliation under any College program or activity, including with respect to employment terms and conditions. Such a policy ensures that only relevant factors are considered and that equitable and consistent standards of conduct and performance are applied.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15784

Florida State University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Florida State University, in cooperation with the Institute for Governance and Civics (IGC), invites applications for a position in the political science department, at the assistant, associate, or full professor rank in public law. This is a full-time, 9-month, tenured or tenure-track position with an anticipated start date of August 7, 2026.

Candidates whose research and teaching contribute to the scientific study of law are strongly encouraged to apply. Substantive areas of interest include, but are not limited to judicial behavior, judicial elections, and/or judicial legitimacy. Candidates are expected to add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental, and/or formal methods.

The candidate would be expected to teach courses and mentor students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The successful candidate will have a tenure home in the Department of Political Science and will be expected to assist the IGC with its mission. The successful candidate will attend IGC events, serve on IGC committees, and help evaluate IGC award nominations. Total faculty service and teaching obligations will meet the "normal" load for FSU faculty.

Minimum Requirements
- Completed Ph.D. by the date of hire.
- Research and teaching interests that contribute to the scientific study of law.
- Potential for high impact peer-reviewed publications.
- Potential for obtaining external funding.
- Potential for high-quality instruction and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate level.
- Commitment to the mission of enhancing civic awareness as well as a readiness to contribute to the intellectual life and programmatic development of the IGC.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) writing samples. Untenured applicants must also submit (4) a graduate school transcript, and (5) three letters of recommendation. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (PDFs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu and specify "Public Law Search 2025" in the subject line. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Florida State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer.

Contact: Prof. Ryan Owens
Email: Ryan.Owens@fsu.edu

Department of Political Science
Florida State University
P.O. Box 3062160
Bellamy 531
Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15764

George Washington University

Rank: Director, Emerging Technologies Initiative
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Established in 1865, the George Washington University Law School is the oldest in the nation's capital and one of the most prestigious law schools in the country. The American Bar Association accredits the Law School and is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools. GW Law is situated in the tree-laden downtown Washington, DC neighborhood familiarly known as Foggy Bottom.

We are seeking a dynamic and visionary Director to join the GW Multiracial Democracy Project to drive an initiative focused on emerging technology in a multiracial democracy. This role will be responsible for building and leading a new program that brings together our partners, including civil rights and technology non-profit organizations, community groups, scholars and academic researchers, and philanthropy with decision makers including technology companies and policymakers to explore and shape best practices and policy recommendations that center and protect communities of color.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in democracy, civil rights and racial justice, technology policy, and cross-sector collaboration, with a passion for equity and justice. They will lead strategic planning, stakeholder engagement, research coordination, and program development and contribute to fundraising efforts to ensure the initiative's work is impactful, inclusive, and forward-thinking. This role will build a plan for the growth of the initiative and will serve as a key advisor to both the Executive Director and the Faculty Director.

Key Responsibilities
- Design and launch a multidisciplinary program focused on civil rights and emerging technologies.
- Cultivate and manage partnerships and joint projects with civil rights organizations, community organizations, public interest tech organizations, scholars, academic institutions, and philanthropy.
- Engage with private sector decision makers and government policymakers.
- Guide research initiatives, policy recommendations, efforts to build tech policy capacity within civil rights and community organizations, and other activities that advance racial equity and protect marginalized communities.
- Organize convenings, workshops, and public events to elevate key issues and foster dialogue.
- In conjunction with the Executive Director, manage program operations, including budgeting, reporting, and team development.
- Serve as advisor to the Executive Director and Faculty Director on emerging technology and democracy.
- Work with the Faculty Director and Executive Director to maintain and grow financial grants and gifts for the initiative.

Qualified candidates will hold a BA/BS in a related discipline plus 7 years of relevant professional experience. Degree must be conferred by the start date of the position.

Preferred Qualifications
- B.S in computer science, data science, tech ethics, STS, or JD, LLM, MPP, MPA strongly desired.
- Demonstrated experience in civil rights, public policy, or technology-related fields is preferred.
- Strong leadership and project management skills.
- Excellent communication and relationship-building abilities.
- Several years of professional experience in technology and civil rights law and/or policy is desired.
- Commitment to racial equity and community-centered approaches.
- Consistent and familiarity of and facility with generative AI tools.
- Relevant federal, state, or local government experience is preferred (e.g., FCC, FTC, U.S. House Energy & Commerce Committee, U.S. Senate Commerce Government).

Find the job posting link here: https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/120975

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15754

George Washington University

Rank: Strategic Consultant
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Strategic Consultant on Proportional Representation and Primary Reforms
Issued by: The Multiracial Democracy Project

Deadline to Apply: 11:59 p.m. ET, August 31, 2025. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

I. Overview

The Multiracial Democracy Project at the George Washington University Law School, as part of its Scaling Voting Rights Capacity to Build a Multiracial Democracy ("Electoral Structures" or "Structures") Initiative, is seeking proposals from qualified individuals or entities to serve as a consultant. This consultant will work closely with our internal team, a cohort of 15 civil rights partner organizations, our partner academic institutions, and democracy organizations to serve as a subject-matter expert, supporting and guiding efforts around democratic innovation and inclusion, including convenings, trainings, thought leadership, and strategic planning.

II. Background

The Multiracial Democracy Project ("MDP" or "the Project") is an initiative of the George Washington University Law School. Through research, analysis, convenings, and public education, the Project produces solutions that facilitate our nation's transition to a well-functioning democracy that truly represents our increasingly diverse population. The Project serves as a bridge between academic, civil rights, democracy reform, technology, and policy communities.

The Electoral Structures Initiative is a three-year project bringing together 15 civil rights and voter mobilization organizations to examine the implications of various electoral structural reforms—including proportional representation and primary reforms—on communities of color.

Spencer Overton, Patricia Roberts Harris Research Professor of Law at the George Washington University, is the founder and faculty director of the Project; Lisa Bornstein is the executive director; and Britah Odondi is the assistant director of the Electoral Structures Initiative.

III. Scope of Work

The selected consultant will be responsible for the following duties:

Program Development & Convening Support

? Coordinate and shape convening topics, agendas, and curricula for quarterly gatherings and monthly webinars.

? Identify, develop, refine, and make accessible educational and informational materials and presentations for our 15 civil rights partner organizations through pre-reads, materials, and internal trainings.

? Collaborate with the Harvard Law School Charles Hamilton Houston Institute for Race and Justice, the Data and Democracy Lab, Protect Democracy, as well as other academic partners and subject-matter experts to design and deliver complex content in inclusive and approachable formats.

Strategic Engagement & Public Thought Leadership

? Facilitate conversations with partners to address their emerging issues and concerns, including additional democracy reform topics.

? Help lead responses to urgent issues (e.g., judicial decisions implicating the Voting Rights Act).

? Draft op-eds, engage with media, and contribute to social media content related to redistricting, federal and state reforms, administration and state voting and election actions, and ongoing structural innovation.

Ongoing Learning & Capacity Building
- Develop and lead monthly webinars and training sessions to ensure continuous learning and momentum for the 15 civil rights groups.

? Coordinate the development of research questions and partner needs assessments.

? Develop and support post-training assessments and program evaluations.

? Collaborate with civil rights groups on developing and delivering trainings and information sessions within their organizations.

Project Coordination & Deliverable Alignment

? Track project activities and outputs to ensure alignment with funder deliverables and grant milestones.
? Collaborate with staff, academic partners, and partner organizations to ensure timely progress on all metrics.
? Support the development of materials and proposals for funders.
? Collaborate on grant reports, quarterly and annual updates, and other funder and public-facing communications.
IV. Qualifications
Successful applicants will demonstrate the following:
? Academic or advocacy experience in democracy reform and expertise in electoral structures, including proportional representation and primary reform.
? Experience collaborating with partners or within a coalition, particularly with or within civil rights organizations.
? Strong written and verbal communication skills, with experience producing accessible, public-facing content (e.g., op-eds, media interviews, videos, and social media posts).
? Demonstrated experience in teaching, training, or adult education, particularly in advocacy or community leadership settings.
? Proficiency in research methods, survey design, data collection, and evaluation, supporting effective data-driven insights.
? Commitment to inclusivity and pluralism.
? Background in curriculum development and instructional design a plus.
? Adaptability and flexibility, with the ability to adjust to the evolving nature of the project.
V. Contract Terms
? Term: Initial engagement for six months, with the potential for six-month renewals through 2027.
? Compensation: Commensurate with experience and competitive for similarly scoped consulting engagements.
? Time Commitment: Part-time (expected to average up to 20 hours per week)
? Work Location: Generally remote, with required travel to quarterly convenings, relevant conferences, and occasional in-person gatherings.
? Work Hours: Generally flexible; however, availability is required for scheduled events such as convenings, webinars, training sessions, weekly check-ins, meetings and video conferences with partners, and other planned activities.

VI. Submission Guidelines
To be considered, please submit the following materials by 11:59 p.m. ET August 31, 2025, with the subject line "Proposal Submission" to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.
1. Short Proposal: A concise proposal (no more than three pages) outlining your interest in the project, proposed approach, and relevant experience.
2. Résumé or CV: A current résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Writing Samples: Two brief writing samples that demonstrate your relevant background and skills (e.g., curriculum excerpts, op-eds, reports, article excerpts, training materials).
4. Rate Proposal: Hourly or project-based consultant rate.
5. References: Name, context in which the reference knows you, and contact information (phone and email) for two professional references.

Incomplete submissions or materials may not be considered. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

VII. Evaluation Criteria
Proposals will be evaluated based on the following criteria:
? Demonstrated expertise in proportional representation, primary reforms and other electoral systems.
? Experience working in coalitions, particularly with civil rights organizations and/or community-centered movements.
? Strength and clarity of writing and communication.
? Teaching/training and curriculum development background.
? Understanding of survey and evaluation tools.
? Proposed cost and availability.

VIII. Questions
Please direct any questions regarding this RFP to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15753

Morehouse College
Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics and public law, and should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and executing administrative duties related to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience (FYE) courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15733

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor Search in Judicial Politics

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure track position to begin August 16, 2026, in the subfield of Judicial Politics. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in Judicial Politics can speak to broader themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Kirk Randazzo (RANDAZZO@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15737

University of Central Missouri

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science - Tenure Track
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

Description:
The Department of Government, Law, and International Affairs (GLIA) at the University of Central Missouri (UCM) is seeking qualified candidates to fill a 9-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics with an emphasis on U.S. Constitutional Law beginning August 2026. GLIA resides in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHSS).

Faculty in CAHSS support the University's mission of providing a high-quality education and are committed to the success of their students.

Successful candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate (and potentially graduate) courses in American Government, Public Law, Constitutional Law, as well as Civil Rights and Liberties. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach Administrative Law, Trial Advocacy, and/or the American Presidency.

Additionally, candidates should be prepared to serve as the Coach of the UCM Mock Trial team (negotiated with the Chair as part of the teaching load or service).

Candidates must be committed to excellence in teaching and are expected to carry out a sustained research agenda in their area of expertise.

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Review of completed applications will begin October 31st, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Examples of Duties:
The faculty member's job duties will include:

Teach 9-12 hours per semester in consultation with the Department Chair.
Coach the Mock Trial team.
Conduct scholarly research in their area of expertise.
Advise and mentor undergraduate Political Science majors who pursue a Legal Studies minor.
Undertake service at the department, college, and/or university levels.
Teaching:

The primary responsibility of the faculty is quality teaching in their respective content areas, regardless of delivery format. This entails adequate preparation for courses, effective course design and instruction, and fair and timely evaluation/feedback of student progress. To ensure quality teaching, faculty must be committed to student success and ongoing assessment of curriculum and student learning.

Keep current in your discipline.

Organize courses to facilitate quality student engagement and high-impact practices.
Assist department/school chairs with scheduling classes that meet the needs of students.
Comply with departmental, college, and university standards concerning the academic quality and integrity of their classes.
Keep current in their use of technology by attending university training sessions and other professional development opportunities.
Be available to meet students outside the classroom by being available before or after classes and scheduling office hours in both physical and electronic formats, including in-person and virtual office hours.
Assist with department and college assessment and be proactive with modifications to the curriculum based on assessment feedback.
Scholarship/Professional Development:

The strength of a university rests on the knowledge and skills of its faculty.

Faculty must stay current in their field of expertise/teaching area.
Authoring academic writings.
Presentation of work at local/state/regional/national conferences.
Active membership and/or office holding in professional organizations at the local/state/regional/national levels.
Service:

An expectation of a professional faculty member is to serve the department, college, and university community.

Attending department/college/university meetings.
Engaging in committee work that will advance the department/college/institution.
Assisting with student mentoring.
Participating in graduation and convocation ceremonies.
Serve on committees at the department, college, and university levels.
Typical Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Supplemental Information:
UCM is located 40 miles southeast of the Kansas City Metropolitan area. It is a public comprehensive university with roughly 11,000 students providing a small-college learning environment coupled with large-university opportunities.

The Department of GLIA offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in Political Science, a B.A. degree in International Studies, and minors in those fields as well as Legal Studies and Global Security Studies. More information about GLIA can be found here: https://www.ucmo.edu/college-of-arts-humanities-and-social-sciences/department-of-government-law-and-international-affairs/

To apply, Candidates must complete the online faculty profile (position #997659) by going to

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

Candidates will attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and copies of transcripts showing all degrees completed to their online application.

UCM requires that all applicants for this position complete the online faculty profile and submit it to the appropriate position for consideration at https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

All documents requested for this position must also be attached to the faculty profile at the time of application. Only completed faculty profiles with attached documents will be accepted for this position.

Direct inquiries regarding this position to: Dr. Gregory Streich, Search Committee Chair, at streich@ucmo.edu

For information about the online application process, contact Human Resources at humanresources@ucmo.edu or (660) 543-4255 and note position #997659 in the request.

Special Instructions:

Full-time benefits-eligible position: Benefits include competitive salary; health, dental, vision, life insurance, AD & D, long-term disability; 3 weeks paid vacation per year; 3 weeks of accrued sick leave per year; 13 paid holidays; retirement; and generous education assistance for an employee, spouse and dependent children taking classes at UCM.

Completed UCM online application for employment required. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

NOTE: A background check is required for the selected candidate of all staff, faculty, adjunct, and temporary positions and any job offer is contingent on the results of this check. Student employees and graduate assistants do not require a background check to be conducted prior to employment.

The University of Central Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer and specifically invites applications from women, minorities, veteran status, and people with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15692

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Public Law

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a faculty position in public law. This position involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. We seek applicants with demonstrated excellence in research and a commitment to teaching and mentoring. Applicants are expected to have earned their PhD by September 2026. Interested applicants should apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39421.

Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, research statement, writing sample, transcripts, and the names and contact information of three references. Unofficial transcripts are sufficient and may be uploaded with the application. Applicants who are unable to upload unofficial transcripts may send official transcripts to: Public Law Search Committee, Department of Politics, 001 Fisher Hall, Princeton, NJ 08544.

Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time.

We will begin reviewing applications on September 17, 2025.

Requisition Number D-26-POL-00001

Expected Salary Range: Assistant Professor: $121,000-$147,000; Associate Professor: $180,000-$235,000; Full Professor: $252,000-$330,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/17/2025
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15720

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics (American Public Law)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

The Department of Government and Law at Lafayette College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. The Department seeks candidates specializing in U.S. Public Law, with research and teaching expertise in law and society, constitutional law, and civil rights. Research programs that focus on law through the lenses of politics and power, as well as additional expertise in American political development and social movements, are especially welcome.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to U.S. Politics, Law and Society, and other intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise, including one or more courses in the Department's constitutional law offerings. The successful candidate will also be expected to make a contribution to the College's interdisciplinary programs and maintain an active research agenda. The Department especially welcomes applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170467. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Michael Feola (feolam@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/22/2025
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15679

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Judicial Politics

Position Details:
The Department of Political Science Texas Christian University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor with specialization in public law and/or judicial politics to begin August 2026. We seek applications from talented teacher-scholars with a record of (or potential for) successful scholarly publication, undergraduate teaching, and academic service. The successful candidate should have a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by the start date. The position carries a 3/2 teaching load, competitive salary, and internal research support.

Required Application Materials & Application Instructions:
Applications should upload a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and statements (up to two pages for each) detailing their research agenda and teaching interests. Three reference letters should be also submitted. Additional materials may be requested of finalists. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled. All questions regarding the application process may be directed to Human Resources at hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu or 817-257-7790. Questions about the position may be directed to the search committee chair, Emily Farris, at e.farris@tcu.edu.

Department Details:
The TCU political science department has 15 full-time faculty members and nearly 400 majors in two undergraduate degrees with a Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts. TCU political science faculty lead co-curricular programs such as pre-law advising, Moot Court, Model U.N., and Washington and local internships. They also teach and contribute to interdisciplinary programs, including Women and Gender Studies, Comparative Race and Ethnic Studies, Asian Studies, and Middle East Studies. The department is the editorial home to the journal Social Science Quarterly.

School/College Description:
Named for TCU's founders, Addison and Randolph Clark, the AddRan College of Liberal Arts is home to the core academic disciplines of the humanities and social sciences. The College includes approximately 155 full-time faculty members, 13 departments (Comparative Race & Ethnic Studies, Criminology & Criminal Justice, Economics, English, Geography, History, Modern Language Studies, Philosophy, Political Science, Religion, Sociology & Anthropology, Spanish and Hispanic Studies, and Women & Gender Studies), and two units of Reserve Officers' Training Corps (Army and Air Force). AddRan College departments confer 17 Bachelor of Arts and 7 Bachelor of Science degrees, a Bachelor of General Studies, an online master's degree in Criminology and Criminal Justice, a Master of Liberal Arts degree, and master's and Ph.D. degrees in History, English, and Rhetoric and Composition.

University & Fort Worth Description:
ABOUT TCU

Founded in 1873, Texas Christian University sits on 302 acres nestled in a primarily residential part of Fort Worth, just minutes away from downtown. The University includes seven schools and colleges, in addition to the John V. Roach Honors College and the Burnett School of Medicine.

Currently, TCU enrolls more than 10,200 undergraduates and 1,700 graduate students. Twenty-eight percent of students self-identify as a member of a minority group, five percent are international students, and forty-five percent are from out-of-state. Our students are supported by more than 2,200 faculty and staff. The University has more than 700 full-time faculty members and is a top 100 National University as classified by US News and World Report and has a Carnegie Classification of R2: Doctoral Universities – High Research Activity.

ABOUT FORT WORTH

Like TCU, Fort Worth has the approachable, friendly charm of a smaller town, but offers the amenities, cultural activities, diversity and unique personality of a much larger city. Fort Worth, Texas, is the 13th largest city in the United States with an ever-growing population nearing 1 million. Fort Worth and TCU have grown together in a nearly 150-year relationship. You'll find that many Horned Frogs remain here after graduation, thanks to the region's thriving job market. Fort Worth is part of the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area, the fourth largest metropolitan area in the United States, and the number 1 tourist destination in Texas. In 2018, bizjournals.com ranked Fort Worth the 7th most affordable city to live and work in the United States and U.S. News and World Report named Fort Worth one of the Best Places to Live. Fort Worth, Dallas and Arlington all rank among the top 25 most diverse cities in the country.

Fort Worth is known for its vast array of cultural, educational and entertainment opportunities. The city boasts three world class art museums—the Kimbell Art Museum, the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth and the Amon Carter Museum of American Art. The Bass Performance Hall is one of the premier performance venues in the country. Concerts, film festivals and other events are held regularly at Sundance Square, Panther Island and Near Southside venues.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15660

University of Michigan

Rank: WCEE Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Political Theory

The Weiser Center for Europe and Eurasia seeks to hire a scholar of contemporary Russia for a two-year WCEE Postdoctoral Fellowship, from August 2026 to July 2028. We encourage applications from specialists on Russia proper as well as those who focus on Russia's interactions with its neighbors (the Baltic states, Moldova, Belarus, Ukraine, the Caucasus, Central Asia, Mongolia, China, Japan). Candidates should have a PhD completed, or nearly completed, in the social sciences and/or cultural studies, broadly construed. We are especially interested in scholars who will complement and add to the coverage offered by our existing faculty.

WCEE Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in the center's events, present at least one public lecture during their two-year fellowship, and teach one course per year at the University of Michigan while in full-time residency.

Eligibility:
Eligibility is restricted to applicants who have obtained their PhD no earlier than January 1, 2024. Current doctoral candidates are eligible to apply but must have defended and filed their dissertations by July 31, 2026.

Benefits:
Fellowships carry an annual salary of $60,000 and up to $10,000 in research funds during the postdoctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning August 1, 2026 through July 31, 2028). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Application materials:
Candidates should submit the following via Interfolio (https://apply.interfolio.com/169185):

- A research proposal (2000 words maximum) that describes your intellectual objectives and concrete plan for the fellowship duration
- Curriculum Vitae
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter or peer-reviewed journal article (50 pages maximum)
- Teaching statement with potential course topics
- Two letters of recommendation

To be assured full consideration, fellowship applications should be received by October 15, 2025, 11:59 PM EST. Successful applicants will be notified by December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15610

Baylor University

Rank: Lecturer, Non-Tenure-Track, American Politics
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Congress, Political Parties & Organizations

To apply, go to: https://apply.interfolio.com/167836

Description:
The Department of Political Science at Baylor University seeks a full-time, Regular Lecturer in American Politics to begin August 2026.

The primary teaching responsibility will be teaching a general education course (PSC 1387: The U.S. Constitution, Its Interpretation, and the American Political Experience). Opportunities to teach courses in Congress, the Supreme Court, political parties, or state politics may also be available.

Regular Lecturer appointments are renewable full-time, benefits-eligible, teaching-focused positions with six-year promotion paths to Senior Lecturer for successful candidates and twelve-year promotion paths to Teaching Professor for highly successful candidates. For more information, see Baylor University's Policy on Full-Time Lecturers, Senior Lecturers, and Teaching Professors.

Complete applications must be submitted by 11pm Central Daylight Time on October 31, 2025.

About Baylor University:
Baylor University is located in Waco, Texas and is the oldest college in the state. It has a diverse student population of 21,000 and is recognized as one of the top universities in the nation, achieving R1 institution status by the Carnegie Classification in January 2022. Baylor also made it to the honor roll of "Great Colleges to Work For" from The Chronicle of Higher Education. It offers competitive salaries and benefits, allowing faculty and staff to live in one of the fastest-growing parts of the state. Baylor's new strategic plan, Baylor in Deeds, guides the University as it continues to fulfill its mission of educating men and women for worldwide leadership and service by integrating academic excellence and Christian commitment within a caring community.

Qualifications:
Candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field by the time of appointment. Teaching experience is preferred.

Application Instructions. To apply, candidates should submit:
1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of teaching philosophy
4. Teaching portfolio (including student evaluations and sample syllabi, if available)
5. Three letters of recommendation
6. Transcript from highest degree granting institution (unofficial copy acceptable)
7. Completed self-disclosed Religious Affiliation Form (found in Interfolio)

If you have questions about the position, please contact the search committee chair, Dr. Dave Bridge (David_Bridge@baylor.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 6/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15605

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Law/Law and Society)

The Political Science and Law & Policy programs at Dickinson College seek applications for a full-time Visiting Assistant Professor of law and society. A successful applicant will have research and teaching interests in either law and society or in comparative law. This position is for one year with the possibility of renewal and carries a five-course (annual) teaching load. The department expects the successful candidate to be a committed, collaborative, and imaginative scholar with a Ph.D. in hand by September 2025.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials. Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu.

Review of applications will begin February 1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin at the start of February and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu.

Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15333

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (US Public Law)

The Political Science and Law & Policy programs at Dickinson College seek applications for a full-time Visiting Assistant Professor of American Public Law. A successful applicant will have research and teaching interests in either constitutional law or the judiciary. The ability to teach either American politics or political theory at introductory level is a plus. This position is for one year with the possibility of renewal and carries a five-course (annual) teaching load. The department expects the successful candidate to be a committed, collaborative, and imaginative scholar with a Ph.D. in hand by September 2025.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu. Review of applications will begin February

1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin at the start of February and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu. Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15332

PUBLIC POLICY

Peking University

Rank: Associate Professor and Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Open

The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development (ISSCAD) was initiated by Chinese President XI Jinping during the High-Level Roundtable on South-South Cooperation at the 70th Anniversary Celebration of the United Nations in New York on September 26, 2015. The Institute provides both degree education and non-degree executive training programs for middle and senior-level officials, as well as managers and researchers from government, academia, the media, NGOs, and other organizations in developing countries.

The Institute invites applications for Associate Professor and Full Professor in all fields, particularly in development economics and public economics. Teaching will be conducted in English at the graduate level. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics, political science, public policy or social science. The normal teaching load is two courses per year. Salary and benefits are competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested and qualified applicants please submit your curriculum vitae, representative papers or publications, and three letters of reference etc. to the corresponding JOE listing on the AEA website. [JOE ID Number: 2025-02_111476386]

All applications should be submitted by November 22, 2025. Candidate interviews will be conducted online in early December 2025.

For more information about the ISSCAD, please visit our webpage at: https://www.isscad.pku.edu.cn

Or contact us by:
Recruitment Committee
The Institute of South-South Cooperation and Development
Peking University
Beijing 100871, P. R. China
Email: joe@nsd.pku.edu.cn, (please also cc: fhan@nsd.pku.edu.cn)
FAX: 86-10-62751474

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/22/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16012

Louisiana Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Other

Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

POSITION: Assistant Professor of Political Science. Tenure track, nine-month position. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Starting date: September 1, 2026.

QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science by September 1, 2026.

RESPONSIBILITIES: The person hired will become part of an interdisciplinary academic unit with a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A successful candidate will have teaching and research interests in public policy/public law, preferably with a focus on digital governance and law. The candidate will have the opportunity to contribute to the growth of our political science undergraduate program as well as a new MA program in Media Studies. The normal teaching load is three courses per quarter.?Responsibilities will also include advising undergraduate political science majors. A strong commitment to exemplary teaching at the undergraduate level, scholarship/research activity, and good interpersonal and collegial skills are expected.

THE UNIVERSITY: Louisiana Tech is a selective admissions university and offers a broad range of fully accredited undergraduate degrees in a variety of majors and doctoral programs in areas of specified expertise. The School of Human Inquiry offers Bachelor of Arts degrees in Political Science, History, Communication Studies, and Sociology, as well as minors in Geography and Philosophy. The campus is located in Ruston, Louisiana, 70 miles east of Shreveport and 30 miles west of Monroe on Interstate 20.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Submit a letter of application and current curriculum vitae to John Worsencroft, Director, School of Human Inquiry, via Workday. Three letters of recommendation and transcripts will be required of finalists only. LINK: https://ulsltu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/LATECHCareers/details/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R-1713

Louisiana Tech is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Employer and places a high priority on the creation of an environment supportive of ethnic minorities, women, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16002

University of Florida

Rank: AST/ASO/PROF POSITION IN PHILOSOPHY, POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND LAW (PPEL)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy

Established in 2022, the Hamilton School is a multidisciplinary academic unit whose purpose is to support teaching and research concerning the ideas, traditions, and texts that shape Western civilization and American values and institutions. The School offers undergraduate majors in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and Law (PPEL) and Great Books and Ideas. Two other undergraduate and two graduate degrees are expected to be offered starting in Fall 2026.

The School seeks to fill up to four (4) tenured or tenure-track positions to teach primarily in the PPEL degree program and to start in the AY 2026–2027 academic year. Within the bounds of our academic mission, the School is flexible as to the disciplinary focus of our applicants. Applications for this cycle are especially encouraged from scholars with a research expertise in economics, economic history, political economy, law, public policy, politics and related fields. Applications especially welcome from candidates who can teach a required degree course on legal reasoning, as well as well as upper-level, multidisciplinary courses on topics at the intersection of law, economics and politics. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required. Salaries are competitive.

Successful applicants will combine excellent scholarly records, active research agendas, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a commitment to the Hamilton School's educational mission.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the Hamilton School website (Hamilton School) to learn more about the Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education.

UF is the state's oldest, largest, and most comprehensive land grant university with an enrollment of over 50,000 students and was ranked the Number 1 public university in the United States by Wall Street Journal in its "2024 Best Colleges in the U.S." report. UF is located in Gainesville, a city of approximately 150,000 residents in North-Central Florida, 50 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and 67 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, and within a 2-hour drive to large metropolitan areas (Orlando, Tampa, Jacksonville). The beautiful climate and extensive nearby parks and recreational areas afford year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking, and nature photography. UF's large college sports programs, museums, and performing arts centers support a range of activities and cultural events for residents to enjoy. Alachua County schools are highly rated and offer a variety of programs including magnet schools and an international baccalaureate program.

Learn more about what Gainesville has to offer at Visit Gainesville.

The salary is competitive and commensurate with education and experience,and the compensation includes a full benefits package.

Employment Benefits include:
Health Insurance: UF participates in state- and university-sponsored benefits programs for individuals, families, and domestic partners, and offers voluntary insurance that includes vision, dental, long-term disability and more.
Retirement Options: Attractive options include Florida Retirement System Pension Plan, State University System Optional Retirement Program, Florida
Retirement System Investment Plan, and Voluntary Retirement Savings Plan.

Leave: UF staff enjoy a generous paid leave plan as well as access to a sick-leave pool, maternity/paternity leave and leave payouts.

A complete application must include the following:
- a curriculum vitae
- a cover letter, which describes your interest in the Hamilton School's mission
- a research statement
- a teaching statement
- a sample of scholarly writing within the last three years
- three (3) references. These references may be contacted at some point in the hiring process to provide recommendation letters.

Screening of applicants will continue until the position is filled.

The final candidate will be required to provide official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an education institution outside of the United States are required to be evaluated by a professional credentialing service provider approved by National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at http://www.naces.org/

Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the US. Searches are conducted in accordance with Florida's Sunshine Law.

All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records, reference checks, and verification of education.

University of Florida is a member of the State University System of Florida and an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment based on merit.

Please address any inquiries to:
Robert G. Ingram, Interim Director
Hamilton School for Classical and Civic Education
University of Florida
P.O. Box 117460
Gainesville, FL 32611
E-mail: ringram1@ufl.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15982

Emory University

Rank: Pre/Post Doctoral Fellowship – Local Politics and Policy Lab

Directed by Professor Natalia Bueno, the Local Politics and Policy Lab conducts cutting-edge, rigorous empirical research on local politics and policy around the globe (United States included), especially on issues of housing, municipal finance, decentralization, public service provision, and local elections. The Fellow will work closely with Professor Bueno to manage the Lab, collaborate on research initiatives, collect and analyze data. The Fellow will also participate in the academic activity of the department and will have time to conduct their own research.

Salary is competitive. There is no formal teaching required. The starting date of the position is flexible, and the Fellow can start anytime up to Summer 2026.

Priority will be given to candidates with a Ph.D. in political science, economics, or adjacent disciplines in hand, but exceptional candidates without a Ph.D. will be considered.

Strong skills in quantitative methods, data analysis, project management, and written communication.

The application package should contain:
• A 1-3 page cover letter explaining your research interests and experience, and how you would expect to advance your research agenda during the fellowship.
• A CV
• One academic writing sample
• Three letters of recommendation
Application materials should be submitted electronically to Professor Natalia Bueno, Department of Political Science, at https://apply.interfolio.com/168743. To ensure full consideration, please have all materials sent by October 15, 2025, though the position will remain open until filled or the search is closed. Shortlisted candidates will be contacted for an interview.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15976

Mississippi State University
Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Policy and Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration (PSPA) seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position in public administration and policy to begin August 2026. Candidates should have primary research and teaching interests in public administration and policy with particular consideration given to well-qualified candidates specializing in public policy and program evaluation. Particular consideration will also be given to candidates with interest in rural and agricultural policy. A Ph.D. degree in public administration, public policy, or related fields is required at the time of appointment.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited MPPA, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 197 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 PhD students. More information on the department is available at http://www.pspa.msstate.edu. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Dr. Mike Potter at mpotter@cci.msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at http://www.msujobs.msstate.edu/ (PARF #509273) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, current curriculum vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin October 21, 2025, and the search will remain open until filled.

MSU is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15975

Nanyang Technological University
Rank: Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Lecturer (Teaching Track) for Nanyang Centre for Public Administration

Nanyang Centre for Public Administration (NCPA) at NTU Singapore is a leading institution in Asia that provides quality education and research in public governance and administration development as well as promotes good governance in the region and beyond. We offer 6 programs, in English and Chinese, to meet the education needs at early, mid, and advanced career stages. Faculty on the Teaching Track is expected to teach well and contribute to NCPA's education objectives.

Candidates with the following qualifications are encouraged to apply:

• PhD in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy, Public Administration, Management, or other related advanced degrees.

• Ability to teach postgraduate-level courses in English and/or Chinese specializing in Applied Economics, Finance and Macroeconomic Policy, Public Management/Public Administration, Politics and Public Policy (especially in Asia), Technology Policy and AI Governance, or related areas.

• A record of teaching in tertiary educational institutes for similar subjects is strongly preferred.

• Interest in developing new courses in your specialization. Providing 2-3 synopsis of courses you are keen to teach (have or have not taught) is strongly encouraged.

• Demonstrated potential for scholarship in a research area undertaken by NCPA is an advantage. These areas include (but are not limited to) Asian governance, talent strategies and digital regulations.

• Candidates for the Lecturer position should have experiences in the relevant areas of teaching and course development.

Key Benefits

NTU offers an internationally competitive salary commensurate with the candidate's qualifications and experience.

Application

Review of applications will be on an on-going basis until the positions are filled. Applicants are invited to submit their applications (cover letter, CV, teaching and research statements, student feedback on teaching (if applicable), synopsis of courses) via the link.

https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Lecturer--Teaching-Track--for-Nanyang-Centre-for-Public-Administration_R00021964/apply

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15971

Boise State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public Policy

Assistant Professor - Public Policy

Boise State University

Job no: 499078

Work type: Faculty

Location: Boise, ID

Categories: School of Public Service

Boise State University's School of Public Service invites applications for up to two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions beginning Fall 2026. We are seeking dynamic scholars with expertise in areas such as environmental governance, administrative law, or public management-especially those whose work addresses pressing challenges like disaster response, air quality, or agriculture policy. These faculty will play a pivotal role in teaching and advising within our Master of Public Administration (MPA), Master of Environmental Management (MEM), and newly reimagined Public Policy and Administration Ph.D. programs, with additional opportunities in undergraduate Environmental Studies. Join a collaborative, interdisciplinary community committed to impactful research, civic engagement, and public service.

The https://www.boisestate.edu/sps/ seeks applicants for up to two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions to support its Public Policy and Administration and Environmental Studies programs, with research and teaching expertise in areas including, but not limited to, Environmental Governance, Administrative Law, and/or Public Management. Although all research areas will be considered, we are especially interested in applicants with policy expertise in areas such as administrative law and governance, public budgeting and finance, public sector human resource management, disaster or wildfire management, air quality policy, and agriculture policy. The position(s) begin in fall semester 2026.

Successful candidates will have an established record of social science research demonstrated through peer-reviewed publications and public service scholarship, or clear potential to develop such a record. They will primarily teach core courses in SPS graduate programs, including the https://www.boisestate.edu/sps-publicpolicy/, https://www.boisestate.edu/sps-mem/ and https://www.boisestate.edu/sps-phd/ programs, with opportunities to teach undergraduate courses in https://www.boisestate.edu/sps-environmental/. The position(s) are key hires to support the re-envisioned Public Policy and Administration Ph.D program, and will have an important role in mentoring and advising graduate and Ph.D. students.

School overview:

The School of Public Service (SPS) at https://www.boisestate.edu/about/ embodies the university's state-mandated public affairs mission through its innovative, interdisciplinary approach to teaching, research, and community engagement. Established in 2015, SPS was intentionally designed to encourage faculty to collaborate across disciplines and focus on addressing real-world problems. The School's mission-to prepare problem-solvers and leaders through education, research, and community engagement to tackle society's challenges-guides every aspect of its work. With a student body in the School of approximately 1,500 and over 100 faculty and staff, SPS has graduated approximately 8,000 alumni who serve in impactful roles across the public, private, and nonprofit sectors.

About Boise State:

Nestled along the Boise River and steps from the state capitol, Boise State University fosters a vibrant and welcoming academic environment that fuels student and employee success. We're a trailblazing institution, nationally recognized for our innovative spirit and commitment to positive impact on Idaho and beyond.

We're building a thriving community of faculty and staff whose unique skills, experiences, and perspectives come together to create a rich and rewarding academic experience. Applications from all backgrounds are welcomed.

https://www.boisestate.edu/jobs/boise-state-faculty-careers/.

Minimum qualifications:

• Ph.D. in Public Administration, Public Policy, Environmental Studies, Political Science, or a related field is required. Advanced ABDs may be considered, but a Ph.D. must be transcripted prior to the position's start date.

• Ability to teach core courses in the MPA program.

Preferred qualifications:

• Experience with, or interest in developing, experiential and career-focused learning pedagogy.

• Ability to teach public budgeting and finance, land use, and/or administrative law

• Ability to teach courses in qualitative, quantitative, or spatial methods, and to mentor students using these methods.

Required application materials:

• An updated curriculum vitae (CV).

• A letter of application outlining the applicant's qualifications, experience, and interest in the position, with specific reference to research, teaching, and service.

• A sample of scholarly work.

• Contact information for three professional references.

Closing Date:

Position will remain open until filled, with review to begin on October 1, 2025.

For questions regarding this position, please contact Nisha Bellinger, nishabellinger@boisestate.edu

Salary and Benefits:

Salary starts at $63,000 and is commensurate with experience.

Our standard faculty contract is a 9-month contract (unless otherwise noted) with pay and benefits spread over 12 months. This is a yearly, renewable contract, unless noted that the position is temporary. More information about faculty contract and work days is available https://www.boisestate.edu/hrs/employment-dates-and-fringe/fy-2025-standard-employment-dates/.

Boise State University provides a best-in-class https://docs.google.com/document/d/1Yt-dextMkThD-AxYR_jyFNqjZ9_Hoyix95JzhwkHJIY/edit?usp=sharing, including (but not limited to):

• 10.76% University contribution to your https://www.boisestate.edu/hrs/benefits/orp/ (Professional and Faculty employees)

• Excellent medical, dental and other https://www.boisestate.edu/hrs/benefits/medical-prescription-dental-and-vision/ coverages

• https://www.boisestate.edu/hrs/benefits/tuition-fee-waiver-benefit/ benefits for employees, spouses and their dependents

• https://www.boisestate.edu/jobs/boise-state-faculty-careers/dual-career-assistance-program/for spouses and partners.

• See our https://www.boisestate.edu/hrs/benefits/ for more information

Applications close:

To apply, please visit: https://apptrkr.com/6574117

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/18/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15969

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for a full-time, tenure track faculty position as Assistant Professor of Public Administration in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. This is a nine-month contracted position. This position is for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289992.

Responsibilities
Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Public Administration
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes
Service to department, college, University, and profession
Scholarship/Research expectations: Maintaining a steady research and publication agenda on one or more subfields of Public Administration (e.g. budgeting, local government administration, policy studies)

Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
A Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent in Public Administration or a related discipline, is required at the time of hire.
Experience teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses.
Evidence of scholarship or potential of scholarly activities pertaining to one or more subfields of Public Administration.

Preferred Qualifications
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Likelihood of obtaining extramural funding
Ability to teach one or more of the following areas: budgeting, research methods, governmental relations, Capstone, nonprofit administration, or state and local governance and administration.

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Statement of Research Interests
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Optional Document:
Evidence of successful teaching

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by November 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 289992.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Madinah F. Hamidullah, Search Committee Chair, mhamidul@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15965

University of Massachusetts Boston
Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy and Public Affairs)

Assistant Professor

Department of Public Policy and Public Affairs

John W. McCormack School of Policy and Global Studies

College of Liberal Arts

University of Massachusetts Boston

The Department of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Massachusetts Boston invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor to join our faculty beginning September 1, 2026.

The Department is especially interested in hiring a candidate with a degree in applied social sciences. We welcome applications from fields such as public health, health policy, sociology, political science, public policy, public administration, among others. Priority will be given to candidates with expertise in health and/or economic inequality by race/ethnicity, disability status, gender, among other key factors, as those relate to health policy, international development or a combination of health policy and international development. Appointment requires completion of a doctoral degree no later than August 31, 2026.

The Department welcomes experts in both qualitative and quantitative methodologies. The Department also welcomes scholars who conduct policy-relevant, publicly engaged scholarship and who collaborate with community-based organizations, nonprofits and NGOs, and/or government agencies. All candidates should have an emerging or established program of research with evidence of external funding or the potential for generating external funding.

Candidates should be prepared to teach in the well-established Ph.D. in public policy program, in the nationally ranked Master's of Public Administration program and in the Master's of Public Policy program. Candidates should have strong research skills that enable them to contribute to the methods training core curriculum in addition to graduate courses related to their expertise. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate classes in their field of expertise. Experience in designing diverse course syllabi, teaching diverse groups of students and in creating a pedagogical environment that addresses systematic issues of racial disparity, gender inequality, and intersectional inequities, among others, are desirable.

The search committee will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2025. Applicants should submit the following: a) cover letter, b) curriculum vitae, c) a research example, d) evidence of teaching effective and/or teaching statement and, e) three letters of recommendation.

The Department of Public Policy and Public Affairs provides a rich interdisciplinary, collaborative research environment and houses four graduate degree programs: the Ph.D. in public policy which has existed for almost three decades, the NASPAA accredited Master's of Public Administration, an Master's of Public Policy and a Certificate degree program in Gender, Leadership and Public Policy. The Department focuses on training public service professionals and future policy scholars in a wide range of social science disciplines and methods. Program graduates work in research positions in academia, governments and nonprofits in the United States and around the world.

UMass Boston is an urban public research university with a teaching soul, whose impact is both local and global. We are the third most diverse university in the country - more than 60% of our undergraduate students come from minoritized communities and groups and more than half of our students are the first in their families to attend a college or university. Thus, our students come to us from richly diverse life experiences and backgrounds; they bring to our classrooms and research settings the robust range of perspectives growing out of the socio-cultural, economic, and historical contexts in which they have lived, along with the challenges they encounter, engage, and strive to overcome. We invite applications from candidates who engage the diverse life experiences of our student body, who appreciate that students bring their holistic selves into the academic setting, and who recognize and articulate how their own life experiences and backgrounds have shaped their journeys, practices, and commitments as researchers, scholars, and educators.

UMass Boston is committed to the full inclusion of all qualified individuals. As part of this commitment, we will ensure that persons with disabilities are provided reasonable accommodations for the hiring process. If reasonable accommodation is needed, please contact HRDirect@umb.edu or 617-287-5150.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15963

University of Tennessee

Rank: Associate/Assistant Professor of Public Policy and Public Administration, Baker School of Public Policy (Tenure Track) - Fall 2026 2 positions available
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory
Specializations: American Politics, Economic Policy, Political Communication

The Howard H. Baker, Jr. School of Public Policy and Public Affairs at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is seeking to fill two tenure-line faculty positions in the field of public policy and public administration. We seek accomplished scholars and experienced teachers whose research and instructional expertise contribute meaningfully to the advancement of public service education. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work demonstrates a strong record of policy engagement at the state and local levels, as well as a commitment to producing impactful, policy-relevant research that informs practice and advances the public good. This search is open at the associate or assistant level, and applicants will be appointed to a rank commensurate with their research, teaching, and service records. The appointments will begin on August 1, 2026. These are 9-month positions.

We seek scholars who will contribute to teaching across our academic programs, including the Master of Public Administration (MPA), Master of Public Policy (MPP), and the undergraduate major in Public Affairs. We are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated experience and interest in online instruction, particularly those prepared to teach in our rapidly growing online MPA program. The ideal candidate will bring strong pedagogical skills and a commitment to delivering high-quality, engaging instruction to students in both in-person and virtual formats. Specific teaching needs include courses in public management, organizational theory and behavior, program implementation and evaluation, policy process, human resources in the public sector, state and local government, economic development, and planning and land use. The teaching load is 2-2.

The successful candidate should have an active research agenda addressing one or more contemporary questions in public administration or public policy. All Baker School faculty are expected to maintain a productive research agenda, provide service to the School, University, State, and the community, and engage with local policymakers and leaders. Ideally, the successful candidate will contribute both through research and engagement to a new Center for Economic and Community Development.

Who We Are

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society.

The Baker School was established in 2023 to honor the distinguished life and legacy of Howard H. Baker Jr., a former US Senator, Senate Majority Leader, White House Chief of Staff, and Ambassador to Japan. Located in a 51,000-sq. ft. purpose-built facility, the Baker School evolved from the Baker Center, which for twenty years has operated as a think-tank producing research, public engagement programming, and an active set of student programs. The Baker School is very excited to add degree programs and to grow its research programming into independent research centers. In addition, the Baker School houses the Institute of American Civics, which is responsible for encouraging civic knowledge and civic participation among UT undergraduates and the state at large.

We are a dynamic and close-knit team of dedicated and hardworking individuals who are devoted to research, education, and public service initiatives that address real-world problems in local, state, national, and global communities. Each member of our team is a valuable contributor to achieving our mission and we work together to find innovative approaches to moving the Baker School forward. We are fast-moving and growing. Our work is constantly evolving to meet changing needs.

Who We Are Looking For

We are in search of a solution-finder, someone who enthusiastically embraces opportunities to address novel situations through teamwork and collaboration. We need a hardworking and flexible professional who thrives in developing out-of-the-box approaches and addressing new challenges. We are looking for an achiever, someone who is searching for a chance to grow their skills and who is open to learning from others. We need a critical thinker who exercises good judgment and who can be relied upon and trusted to provide sound counsel to colleagues and leadership inside and beyond the academy. We need teammates who are dedicated to public service.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a doctoral degree in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, Economics, or a related field.
Candidates for Assistant Professor must have at least three years of teaching experience post-PhD, a clear research agenda, and have demonstrated the ability to publish their work in peer-reviewed journals.
Candidates for Associate Professor should have a demonstrated record of publishing in appropriate journals, exceptional teaching, and internal and external service to their professional community.
Candidates who have experience in securing and executing externally funded research are preferred, though this is not a requirement of the position.
Application Instructions
Applicants should submit the following via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/173029

A cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience,
A current CV,
A sample of scholarly writing, and
Teaching evaluations (if available),
Names and contact information for three references.

Successful candidates will be required to submit official transcripts and undergo a background check. Review of applications will begin on October 20, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact the search chair: Dr. Tara Bryan, tbryan29@utk.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15947

Arkansas State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Government, Law & Policy at Arkansas State University is seeking applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, set to commence in Fall 2026. The candidate must possess a PhD in Public Administration or Political Science. Candidates who are advanced ABDs will also be considered, provided they obtain their PhD by July 2026. While the position does not require a particular area of specialization within Public Administration, candidates whose research and teaching interests align with Human Resource Management and Local Government Administration are highly encouraged to apply. Additionally, candidates with a strong interest in teaching upper division electives in our B.A. program in political science will be given preference.

Requirements: (1) A statement of purpose indicating research and teaching interests and credentials, (2) Curriculum Vitae, (3) Evidence of teaching ability, (4) A Writing sample (a peer reviewed article that was recently published or dissertation chapter will suffice,) and (5) A list of three academic references that will be contacted by the search committee if short-listed. All items listed as requirements must be submitted for your file to be considered complete.

Review of applications will begin on 11/4/25. Arkansas State University is a comprehensive Carnegie classified R2 public research university located approximately seventy miles northwest of Memphis. The department offers a well-rounded curriculum to its one hundred majors in the BA program in political science. The department also offers a NASPAA-accredited online MPA program.

Faculty members deliver instruction, conduct research, perform service for their respective professions and community, and participate in the management of the University through shared governance. Each member of the faculty has the duty to deliver instruction and maintain a learning environment consistent with the highest standards of the profession. The faculty has a responsibility to set degree requirements, assess when they are met, and establish and maintain curricula that meet professional standards and fulfill the educational goals of the University.

To learn more or apply, please visit the A-State employment website here: https://phe.tbe.taleo.net/phe02/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=ARKASTAT2&cws=40&rid=37630

The teaching load of the faculty is in alignment with a Carnegie-classified R2 institution. Faculty workload also includes research, creative activity, service, and professional development in the best interest of the students and the university community at large.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15939

Elon University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science & Public Policy and Environmental Studies

Elon University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor with a joint appointment in the Department of Political Science & Public Policy and Department of Environmental Studies, with expertise in U.S. public policy and the environment. The position will begin mid-August 2026 and requires candidates to:
- Hold a PhD in Public Policy, Political Science, or another policy-related field by time of appointment
- Be committed to high-quality undergraduate teaching in a liberal arts context
- Have an active, significant research agenda at the intersection of public policy and environmental studies

Responsibilities include teaching Introduction to Public Policy (PUB 1000), Policy Analysis (PUB 3010), a sophomore seminar in Environmental Inquiry (ENS 2000), Environmental Policy (PUB 3240), and offering upper-level courses in Public Policy and Environmental Studies. Ability to teach in the university's interdisciplinary Elon Core Curriculum is also desired.

The course load for this position will be six courses per year. Additional responsibilities include student mentorship through advising and collaborative undergraduate research, contributions to the life of the Public Policy and Environmental Studies programs, departments, university, and to their discipline or profession.

We welcome a diverse range of methodological and theoretical approaches in a candidate's scholarship. To support Elon's teacher-scholar-mentor model, we offer an attractive package of research support that includes a pre-tenure sabbatical, course reassignment times, a summer research grant, and funds for conference travel.

To apply, please upload a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement and/or portfolio, research/scholarly plans (not to exceed 3 pages), unofficial copies of graduate school transcripts, and a writing sample to the PageUp application platform. In addition, candidates must provide three contacts for letters of reference within the application form.

https://jobs.elon.edu/jobs/258d1c57-572f-47f6-9d30-53be2f6a4b3b

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/5/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15944

University of Texas at Austin

Rank: AADS/MALS Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Public Law
Specializations: Criminal Justice, Economic Policy, Political Development

OVERVIEW

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin invite applications for four postdoctoral research fellowships in public policy for the 2026-27 academic year.

The LRI postdoctoral fellowship provides support to scholars studying Latino populations from a broad range of fields in the social sciences. We encourage applications whose research aligns with the LRI's mission to produce research that informs policy and action to enhance the well-being of Latinos and their communities.

We welcome candidates whose research intersects with Mexican American & Latina/o Studies and African & African Diaspora Studies.

We are particularly interested in candidates with disciplinary homes in Sociology, Criminology, Political Science, Public Health, and Economics.

The fellow will work under the supervision of researchers in the LRI and their colleagues from across the University.

PURPOSE

The Latino Research Institute (LRI) and the Institute for Urban Research and Policy Analysis (IUPRA) at UT Austin seek four postdoctoral research fellows in public policy. The ideal candidates will have a track record in both academic and public-facing publications as well as research experience in one of the following policy areas: health care, reproduction, public and higher education, energy, immigration and criminal justice, or free speech. Candidates should hold a PhD in a field such as History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Conduct primary and secondary source research; prepare academic journal articles, policy briefs, white papers, and/or op-eds for public outlets.

Meet regularly with supervisor and research team; participate in the intellectual life of the Institutes.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD completed by August 15, 2026, but no more than three years prior to the start date.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

PhD in History, Political Science, Public Policy, Criminology, Gender and Women's Studies, Black Studies, Latino Studies, Ethnic Studies, Sociology, Education, Public Health, Social Work, or Communication.

CONTACT

If you have questions, email us at LRI@austin.utexas.edu and include subject line "LRI Postdoc Question."

Apply here: https://utaustin.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/UTstaff/job/AADS-MALS-Postdoctoral-Fellow_R_00039080

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 11/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15941

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Law and/or Public Policy)

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Long Beach is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and/or Public Policy. The position is open regarding subfield, and all methodological and theoretical approaches are welcome. This is a general hire recruitment (not part of a cluster hire effort).

Application Deadline: Review of applications to begin October 10, 2025. Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled).

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate closely related discipline. Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2026.
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication
Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population, including low socioeconomic and first-generation students

Preferred Qualifications:

Evidence of academic training and expertise in one of the following specializations: Public Law, Judicial Politics, or Public Policy
Evidence of scholarly activities grounded in law, public policy, or broader questions within the intersection of law and policy, such as environmental law and policy, immigration law and policy, international law and policy, health law and policy, law and economic policy, civil rights law and policy, social welfare law and policy, education law and policy, labor and employment law and policy, administrative law and policy, election law and voting rights policy, and intersectional approaches to law and social inequality, including the ways race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, disability, nationality, and other identities interact within legal and policy frameworks
Evidence of ability to effectively teach current and future University course offerings in legal studies and public policy broadly, at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Constitutional Law, Environmental Law, Queer Law, International Law, Law and Social Change, Jurisprudence, Public Policy, Fundamentals of Public Administration, and Public Values and Public Policy
Evidence of the ability to develop new course offerings in political science related to law and public policy
Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body
Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.
Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service
Experience of successfully working with populations demographically and/or socioeconomically similar to the CSULB student body
Experience mentoring or supporting students with minoritized identities or experience using inclusive and culturally relevant teaching strategies in a diverse classroom

Duties:

Teach courses in Law and Public Policy at the undergraduate and graduate levels (Mode of instruction may include in-person, hybrid, online, and/or any combination thereof.)
Develop courses in Law and Public Policy at undergraduate and graduate levels
Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and writing theses
Engage in research leading to conference participation and peer-reviewed publications
Participate in faculty shared governance
Participate in service to the school, college, university, and profession/community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The Department of Political Science takes great pride in having one of the most diverse student bodies in higher education. We have more than 600 students in one of our three academic programs: a Bachelor of Arts, a Minor, and a Master of Arts. Our 18 full-time and 14 part-time faculty are passionate about teaching politics in the twenty-first century, offering courses that are directly relevant to the contemporary world. Together we seek to provide our students the foundational knowledge and skills essential to understand and engage issues relevant to our common political life today. Our department offers numerous programs and clubs, including a Legal Studies certificate, a judicial internship course, nationally competitive Moot Court and Model United Nations programs, undergraduate and graduate student associations, chapters of the Phi Alpha Delta pre-law fraternity and the Pi Sigma Alpha National Honor Society, a peer mentoring program, extensive internship and research opportunities, and much more.

The College of Liberal Arts at CSULB is the largest college on campus, with thirty-one excellent departments and programs, several innovative centers and projects, over 685 outstanding faculty members, and over 74 individual staff members. The college faculty are among the best in the nation and have received a variety of national and international awards. CLA has 9300 undergraduate students pursuing a variety of highly valued degrees through the college's 99 unique majors and minors. Additionally, 575 graduate students are also obtaining advanced degrees and special certificates in the college. With degrees ranging from humanities and foreign languages to social and behavioral sciences, CLA's graduates are well-rounded citizens, effective communicators, and analytical thinkers who live knowledgeably, responsibly, and humanely in a world where complex problems demand informed, creative, and thoughtful solutions. The skills gained through degrees from CLA are invaluable and open up countless career paths for graduates to follow

Information on excellent benefits package available to CSULB faculty is located here: CSU Employee Benefits

How to Apply - Required Documentation:

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (maximum two pages, single-spaced). For further information and guidelines, please visit: Student Success Statement

Letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications
CV
Names and contact information for three references (to be contacted for confidential letters of recommendation should you reach the semi-finalist stage)
Sample of scholarly work (e.g., peer-reviewed article, conference paper, or dissertation chapter)
Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including, if available, representative syllabi and teaching evaluations from courses taught as an instructor of record)
Copy of graduate school transcript/s
Finalists should be prepared to submit an official transcript (e-transcript preferred, if available)
How to Apply: Click Apply Now icon to complete the CSULB online application

Requests for information about the position and process should be addressed to the Search Committee Chair:

Darin DeWitt, Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

Darin.DeWitt@csulb.edu
(562) 985-4711

EMPLOYMENT REQUIREMENTS:

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment.

Pursuant to the CSU Out of State Employment Policy, hiring employees to perform CSU-related work outside of California is prohibited effective January 1, 2022. By prohibiting employment outside of California, the CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States. Exceptions to the Policy are limited to approved and documented purposes for conducting CSU business outside of California.

All employees who assign and/or oversee work are responsible for ensuring that compliant work controls and procedures consistent with Federal, State and local regulations and University policies are implemented and maintained to provide for the protection of individuals and to safeguard the environment. Everyone is expected to comply with applicable Environmental Health and Safety regulations and University policies, programs and procedures. For more information, the systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/18172024/latest/ and questions may be sent to Environmental_Health_Safety@csulb.edu.

The CSU strongly recommends that all individuals who access any in-person program or activity (on- or off-campus) operated or controlled by the University follow the COVID-19 vaccine recommendations adopted by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) applicable to their age, medical condition, and other relevant indications and comply with other safety measures established by each campus. The systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/9779821/latest/ and questions may be sent to fahr@csulb.edu.

All university program and activities are open and available to all regardless of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin. Consistent with CSU's Nondiscrimination Policy, as well as state and federal law, CSULB provides equal opportunity in education and employment without unlawful discrimination or preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin. To access CSULB's full statement on Equal Opportunity and Excellence in Education and Employment, please visit Equity and Compliance.

Apply Here: https://csucareers.calstate.edu/en-us/job/551207/assistant-professor-of-political-science-law-andor-public-policy

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15901

Columbia University, Columbia World Projects

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar - The Columbia Center for Political Economy
Specializations: Economic Policy, Labor Politics, Political Economy

About Columbia World Projects

Columbia World Projects mobilizes the university's researchers and scholars to work with governments, organizations, businesses and communities to tackle global challenges. Columbia World Projects is a major, university-wide initiative that aims to forge a closer and more useful connection between Columbia University's vast research capabilities and the needs of the world.

Columbia World Projects is part of Columbia Global, which brings together major global initiatives from across the university to advance knowledge and foster global engagement. In addition to World Projects, those initiatives include the Columbia Global Centers, the Committee on Global Thought, and the Institute for Ideas and Imagination.

Columbia Global's mission is to address complex global challenges through groundbreaking scholarly pursuits, leadership development, cutting-edge research, and projects that aim for social impact.

About the Columbia Center for Political Economy
Launched in 2022, the Center for Political Economy at Columbia World Projects identifies and advances the most promising contemporary developments that concern the economy and promotes a new political economy with robust intellectual and policy incubators across distinct themes.

Position Summary
The Columbia Center for Political Economy is seeking full-time Postdoctoral Research Scholars beginning August 1, 2026. Under the direction of the Center's faculty Co-directors and Idea Lab leads, the Scholar will have the opportunity to pursue their own research while supporting the work of the Center.

The Center welcomes applications that align with its broad thematic priorities, including the focus areas of the following Idea Labs – Work and Labor, Firms and Industrial Policy, Political Economy of Climate, and International Political Economy. We encourage you to select the Idea Lab that best reflects your background, expertise, and research interests. Please see below for descriptions of each Lab.

- Work and Labor examines the forces that influence labor and labor markets, focusing on modes of collective worker action, the interplay between government policies and worker power, how worker organizations intersect with the political process and government, and the future of domestic and international labor movements, with an emphasis on empirical research. This cycle the Work and Labor Idea Lab is especially interested in applicants whose work speaks to politics and policy, including, but not limited to, the politics of enacting labor reform at different levels of government; worker perspectives on representation through labor organizations and collective action; the design of labor policies and the effects of those policies on opportunities for building worker power and fostering collective action; coalition management between worker organizations and other movements and organized interests; and the relationship between worker organizations, including unions, and politics and government.

- Firms and Industrial Policy aims to gain new insights into how firms behave, to provide a grounding for policy interventions to promote innovation and shared prosperity. Industrial policy – government interventions to stimulate innovation, accelerate technological change, and promote selected industries – is back on mainstream policy agendas across the globe . But even as the policy pendulum swings back toward government intervention, the knowledge base to guide industrial policy remains underdeveloped. Topics may focus on factors that shape firms' decisions technology adoption, product innovation, quality upgrading, R&D investments, patenting, and other forms of innovative behavior; on how such decisions are influenced by market conditions, network relationships, and supply chain architectures; on novel ways to measure such decisions and influences; and on what works and doesn't work in industrial policy.

- Political Economy of Climate explores how political and economic forces shape policy and societal responses to climate change. The Lab is most interested in fostering synergies around the following thematic areas: climate fairness and environmental justice, international collaboration or lack thereof, interests shaping the effectiveness of energy transition, and political constraints on environmental (especially climate) policies.

- International Political Economy analyzes the intersection of international economics and international politics, including the politics of international money, finance, trade, and migration, and the interaction of international economics and geopolitics.

Funding for the Postdoctoral Research Scholar will cover salary for up to one year with the possibility of a one-year extension. Together with the other members of their Idea Lab, the scholar will organize seminars and conferences, public events, and additional programmatic support and outreach within the given Lab with which they are involved.

Qualifications
Applicants must have a PhD, JSD, or equivalent from across the social sciences, history, and law.

Salary Range
The salary range for this position is $72,116- $80,000.

Application
Interested applicants should submit the following materials via Interfolio:

1. Cover Letter describing your interest and relevant experience;
2. Curriculum Vitae;
3. Documentation of PhD or JSD conferment, or timeline for obtaining degree;
4. Writing sample consisting of a single journal article, essay, or book chapter (published or unpublished);
5. A summary of the research plan for which the position is sought (limited to 350 words);
6. A detailed research plan (up to five pages, single-spaced) for the position stating specific goals to be accomplished during the period it will be held; and
7. Three letters of recommendation provided by references familiar with your work (including your doctoral supervisor, if applicable).

Please use this Interfolio application link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173083 to submit an application. Only complete applications submitted via the process outlined will be considered.

Key Deadlines:
All application materials must be received no later than November 3, 2025 at 5:00 PM EST.

Please contact politicaleconomy@columbia.edu with any questions.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15891

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.
The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

University of Houston

Rank: Associate or Full Professor – American, State, Urban Politics and Policy

The Hobby School of Public Affairs at the University of Houston (UH) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Associate Professor (with tenure) or Full Professor in Public Policy to begin September 1, 2026. We are interested in scholars who will bring fresh ideas, a commitment to public policy, and an interdisciplinary mindset.

The successful candidate will pursue research in American, state, or local politics and public policy, with particular preference for applicants who demonstrate expertise and a national reputation in survey research and political methodology. Depending on background and experience, the faculty member may also be considered for appointment as the Lanier Chair in Public Policy and/or as Director of the Survey on Public Attitudes and Community Engagement (SPACE City Panel)—a multi-year longitudinal survey project launched in 2025 by the Hobby School's Center for Public Policy (https://uh.edu/hobby/research/space-city-panel/).

Applicants should have an established record of rigorous scholarship and a demonstrated commitment to advancing the Hobby School's mission of applied policy analysis and interdisciplinary research. Expertise in advanced statistical methods—including data visualization, mapping, local area models, spatial analysis, policy evaluation, and structural or quantitative modeling—is highly desirable. Candidates who have experience and expertise in designing, implementing, and analyzing panel surveys and surveys focusing on state and municipal areas or advanced methods to estimate local area public opinion from national surveys, are particularly encouraged to apply. The faculty member will be expected to produce both academic and applied research that informs evidence-based policymaking, supports the development of viable and politically feasible strategies, and contributes to the University of Houston's core research priorities.

In the selection process, the search committee will prioritize collaborative scholars who: (1) engage in nationally-recognized, interdisciplinary work on significant public policy issues, (2) demonstrate an eagerness to contribute to undergraduate and graduate education and student success, and (3) pursue grants, awards, and other sources of funding to support research, academic programming, student success, community engagement, and impact.

We are seeking applicants with a strong research record and developing reputation who can help build our growing programs. We are interested in candidates with a background in rigorous research methods that can support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

About the Hobby School
The Hobby School of Public Affairs was created in 2016 by the University of Houston System. Incoming faculty will have the opportunity to join existing faculty in building and shaping the direction and culture of the school. The Hobby School emphasizes advanced social science methodology, leadership development, and ethical analysis in its teaching, training, and research. It is the home of UH's Center for Public Policy, Survey Research Institute, and Elizabeth D. Rockwell Center for Ethics and Leadership.

The Hobby School offers: (1) a Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, (2) a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree, (3) BA and BSc degrees in public policy, (4) Dual Degree programs combining public policy with degrees in other fields—multidisciplinary studies (UH's Honors College), business, economics, law, psychology, and social work, and (5) Certificate programs in data analytics, energy policy, ethics, infrastructure policy and population health, health care policy, public policy, and public administration. We are in the planning process for launching a PhD program. The Hobby School also runs the Institute on the Empirical Implications of Theoretical Models (EITM) and is expanding its research and instructional mission through innovative initiatives, such as the SPACE City Panel.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie-designated Tier One research institution and is the flagship campus of a state-assisted higher education system that enrolls over 70,000 students (system-wide). We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence.

Houston (www.houston.org) boasts a high quality of life with the following attributes: (1) a growing economy, including a vibrant energy sector, robust manufacturing, a bustling port that serves as a hub for international trade, the Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical center, (b) rich traditions in music, theatre, art, and sports, (c) award-winning restaurants and (d) a relatively low cost of living among large cities.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Application Instructions
Interested individuals should apply at Prospective Faculty | Office of the Provost | University of Houston and provide: (1) a letter of interest, (2) evidence of teaching effectiveness and commitment to mentoring students, (3) a statement of research specialization and interests, (4) three names and email addresses of prospective writers of letters of recommendation, (5) a curriculum vita, and (6) up to three representative papers. Referees may be contacted to submit letters. Review of applications will begin on September 30 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the search committee co-chair Mirya Holman (mrholman@central.uh.edu) and Pablo M. Pinto (ppinto@central.uh.edu).

Qualifications
Doctoral degree required. Advanced Associate (with tenure) or Full Professor. We are primarily seeking applicants with a strong research record and established reputation that can help build our growing program. Candidates should have a strong background in rigorous research methods to support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

Minimum Qualifications: Doctoral degree required; Associate Professor (with tenure)

Preferred Qualifications: Full Professor or tenured Associate Professor with 3-5 years in the rank

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidates.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15879

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Business and Government

Copenhagen Business School invites applications for a vacant tenure track assistant professorship in Business and Government at the Department of International Economics, Government and Business.

Expected starting date is during 2026 (negotiable).

EGB is a multidisciplinary department that conducts high-quality research in the fields of international business and political science with direct relevance to business, policy-makers and the public. Research at the department focuses on two principal focus areas Business & Government and International Business, in relation to societal challenges. These challenges include the impact of technological change and digital transformation, the ethical dilemmas facing MNEs, regulatory challenges, the changes brought about by emerging markets and the rise of Asia; the consequences of global shifts for public policy, the consequences of inequality; and the relationship between business and democracy. Faculty apply advanced quantitative and qualitative methods to generate systematic knowledge about business-government relations and international business relations.

Research in the field of Business and Government at the department is informed by a range of theoretical and methodological traditions in Political Science and Political Economy. Faculty combine an emphasis on methodological excellence with a drive for empirical impact and relevance and a keen sensitivity to the broader societal contexts in which firm and government activity is situated.

EGB delivers research-based teaching into undergraduate and graduate teaching in programs such as International Business, International Business and Politics, and International Business in Asia. To learn more about the research and teaching activities of the department, please visit the departmental website; www.cbs.dk/egb.

?These are non-exhaustive examples of research and teaching areas that the assistant professor may cover:

- Business and Government relations
- Firms in Politics
- International Business and Politics
- The Politics of FDI and Trade
- Money in Politics
- Political Economy and Public Policy

Candidates should have excellent methodological skills and show potential to have an impact in their relevant (sub) discipline. Candidates should also be interested in developing research-based teaching.

The assistant professorship is a tenure-track position (6 years) with research and teaching obligations. The decision regarding tenure is made between the fourth and the sixth year.

Requirements for promotion include:
- Four peer-reviewed publications accepted for publication in AJG4*/4/3 and/or top 10% Citescore journals (or monographs) with impact factors in the third quartile of a specific field including all its constitutive subfields of study within the 6 year period. At least one of these publications needs to be accepted for publication in a top journal, e.g., AJG4/4*, or journals at the very top of 10% Citescore, alternatively top-10 on a Google Scholar list. Monographs should be published in reputable publishing companies. At least one of the qualifying publications needs to be single-authored.
- A coherent and clear research profile
- Good teaching performance and completion of the CBS HETEP pedagogical program on teaching principles and methods
- Proven ability to introduce new pedagogical techniques and course development
- Development of strong professional relations with colleagues and international networks

The successful candidate is expected to develop a coherent and clear research profile and to be physically present on a regular basis and actively participate in the teaching and research activities of the department.

Responsibilities include
- Individual and group based research meeting high international standards
- Teaching and associated examination
- Applying for external funding (possibly with senior colleagues)
- Contributing to the administrative responsibilities of the department and to CBS-wide tasks
- Communicating findings to the public in general and to CBS's stakeholders in particular
- Active participation in the regular research activities, such as research seminars, workshops and conferences

Qualifications
The applicant must hold, or be close to completing, a PhD in Political Science, Political Economy, or a related field from an accredited institution. Emphasis is placed on the applicant's research potential, which means that a researcher with a large research potential may be preferred to a researcher with a large research production.

The applicant must have professional proficiency in English (written and spoken).

Copenhagen Business School has a broad commitment to the excellence, distinctiveness and relevance of its teaching and research programmes. Candidates who wish to join us should demonstrate enthusiasm for working in an organization of this type (highlighting, for example, relevant business, educational and dissemination activities).

?For further information please contact: Head of Department Jens Gammelgaard, tel.: +45 3815 2512, e-mail jg.egb@cbs.dk.

?Appointment and salary will be in accordance with the Ministry of Finance's agreement with the Central Academic Organisation.

Application
The application must be sent via the electronic recruitment system, using the link below.

The application must include:

- Coverletter
- Proof of qualifications (diploma)
- Full CV
- Documentation of relevant, significant, original research at an international level, including publications in the field's internationally recognized journals and citations in the Social Science Citation Index and/or Google Scholar
- Documentation of teaching qualifications or other material for the evaluation of pedagogical competences
- An indicative proposal for a 6 year period of research
- Job market paper/work-in-progress paper and a complete, numbered list of publications (indicating titles, co-authors, page numbers and year) with an * marking of the academic productions to be considered during the review. A maximum of 10 publications for review are allowed. Applicants are requested to prioritize their publications in relation to the field of this job advertisement. Applicants are encouraged to submit co-author statements.
- Copies of the publications marked with an *. Only publications written in English (or another specified principal language, according to research tradition) or one of the Scandinavian languages will be taken into consideration.

Recruitment procedure
The Recruitment Committee will shortlist minimum two applicants; when possible five or more applicants will be shortlisted. The shortlisted applicants will be assessed by the Assessment Committee. All applicants will be notified of their status in the recruitment process shortly after the application deadline.

?The applicants selected for assessment will be notified about the composition of the Assessment Committee and later in the process about the result of the assessment.

?Once the recruitment process is completed, applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application.

?Copenhagen Business School must receive all application material, including all appendices (see items above), by the application deadline.

?Details about Copenhagen Business School and the department are available at www.cbs.dk.

Application deadline: 1 October, 2025

Closing date: 1 October 2025.

Apply online;
https://candidate.hr-manager.net/ApplicationForm/SinglePageApplicationForm.aspx?cid=1309&departmentId=19022&ProjectId=147702&MediaId=4614

WE TRANSFORM SOCIETY WITH BUSINESS

CBS is a globally recognised business school with deep roots in the Nordic socio-economic model. Our faculty has a broad focus on societal challenges, and we have earned a reputation for high-quality disciplinary and interdisciplinary research and education.

We are located at Frederiksberg and have approximately 20,000 full and part-time students, 800 full-time faculty members, 200 PhD students and 700 administrative staff, and a full portfolio of bachelor, master, MBA/EMBA, PhD and executive programmes taught in English and Danish.

Our global profile carries the obligation to address critical challenges in our research and to develop the transformational capabilities of students, graduates and business leaders via our educational activities and opportunities for lifelong learning. Complex challenges call for joint action, and therefore our strategy focuses on strengthening current and starting new partnerships with other sciences, the business community, authorities and civil society.

CBS is working continuously on becoming a diverse and inclusive organisation, and we encourage all regardless of gender identity and expression, ethnicity, religious beliefs, LGBT+ -identity, cultural background etc. to apply.
Reach out to us if you need assistance in the application or recruitment process, if there is something we should know, or if as a person with disability you wish to make use of your preferential access.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15850

Stanford University

Rank: Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Stanford University: 2026–2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Japan Program at Stanford University's Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center is pleased to announce its search for a 2026-2027 Japan Program Postdoctoral Fellow on contemporary Japan. The award will be made to one junior scholar (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Japan.

The primary focus of the fellowship is multidisciplinary research including, but not limited to the areas of political science, economics, sociology, law, policy studies, and international relations of Japan. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies, plus up to $3,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit:
https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellowship-contemporary-japan

---

About the Japan Program:

The Japan Program at Stanford's Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center cultivates multidisciplinary research and education on contemporary Japanese affairs. Through collaboration with experts from academia, government, business, and civil society, we engage in policy-relevant dialogue and scholarship to promote a comprehensive understanding of the internal and external political, economic, and social factors that influence the progress and development of Japan and its role within the Asia-Pacific region and on the world's stage.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15857

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia, 2026-2027
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Stanford University: 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellowship on Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2026-2027 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral and approval by June 30, 2026) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate commensurate with university policies (plus up to $3,000 for research expenses). Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2026-2027 academic year.

Applications will be accepted until December 1, 2025.

For additional information and to apply, visit https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/education/fellowship-and-training-opportunities/shorenstein-postdoctoral-fellowship

The Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center (APARC) is dedicated to the study of critical issues affecting the countries of Asia and their regional and global relations. Our scholar community is comprised of distinguished academics and practitioners in government, business, and civil society. Through policy-relevant research, publications, education, public programs, and international collaborations, we address pressing challenges in a world in which Asia plays an increasingly central role.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15856

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public Policy and Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) invites applications for one full-time tenure stream position in Public Policy and Law. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2026.

Candidates must have earned a PhD degree in Political Science or a related area by the time of appointment, or shortly thereafter, with a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching specializing in Canadian and/or Comparative Public Policy and its relationship to Law. The successful candidate will teach courses in Public Policy and in Law and Policy at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and will also be expected to contribute courses relevant to our new certificate program in Politics, Law and Social Justice (https://utm.calendar.utoronto.ca/program/ercer2015). The theoretical and methodological approach is open.

We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests complement and deepen our existing departmental strengths. The successful candidate will be expected to pursue innovative and independent research, and to establish an outstanding, competitive, and externally funded research program.

The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate teaching responsibilities at the University of Toronto Mississauga (UTM) campus and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science, with graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. Candidates are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members at the UTM campus (https://www.utm.utoronto.ca/political-science/) and the tri-campus Graduate Department (https://politics.utoronto.ca/).

Candidates must provide evidence of research excellence which can be demonstrated by a record of publications in top-ranked and field relevant journals or forthcoming publications meeting high international standards, presentations at significant conferences, the submitted research statement, awards and accolades, and strong endorsements from referees.

Evidence of excellence in teaching will be provided through teaching accomplishments, the teaching dossier (with required materials outlined below) submitted as part of the application, as well as strong letters of reference.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At UTM we are committed to fostering an environment of diversity and inclusion. With an enviable diverse student body, we especially welcome applications from candidates who identify as Indigenous, Black, or racially visible (persons of colour), and who have experience working with, teaching or mentoring diverse groups or students. Candidates must demonstrate, in their application materials, an ability to foster diversity on campus and within the curriculum or discipline, and must show evidence of a commitment to equity, diversity, inclusion, and the promotion of a respectful and collegial environment. Candidates must submit a statement describing their contributions to equity, diversity, and inclusion, which might cover topics such as (but not limited to): teaching that incorporates a focus on underrepresented communities; efforts undertaken to develop inclusive pedagogies, collaboration, and engagement with underrepresented communities; and mentoring of students from underrepresented groups. If you have questions about this statement, please contact Distinguished Professor and Chair Steven Bernstein at chair.pol.utm@utoronto.ca .

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online by clicking the link below. Applicants must submit a cover letter; a current curriculum vitae; a research statement outlining current and future research interests; a recent writing sample; a teaching dossier including a teaching statement, sample course materials, and teaching evaluations; and an EDI statement as described above.

Applicants must provide the name and contact information of three references. The University of Toronto's recruiting tool will automatically solicit and collect letters of reference from each referee within 48 hours after an application is submitted. Applicants remain responsible for ensuring that referees submit recent letters (on letterhead, dated and signed) by the closing date. More details on the automatic reference letter collection, including timelines, are available in the candidate FAQ.

Submission guidelines can be found at http://uoft.me/how-to-apply. Your CV and cover letter should be uploaded into the dedicated fields. Please combine additional application materials into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. If you have any questions about this position, please contact Debra Burrowes at assistant.pol.utm@utoronto.ca.

All application materials, including recent reference letters, must be received by November 6, 2025.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Diversity Statement
The University of Toronto embraces Diversity and is building a culture of belonging that increases our capacity to effectively address and serve the interests of our global community. We strongly encourage applications from Indigenous Peoples, Black and racialized persons, women, persons with disabilities, and people of diverse sexual and gender identities. We value applicants who have demonstrated a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and recognize that diverse perspectives, experiences, and expertise are essential to strengthening our academic mission.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see http://uoft.me/UP.

Accessibility Statement
The University strives to be an equitable and inclusive community, and proactively seeks to increase diversity among its community members. Our values regarding equity and diversity are linked with our unwavering commitment to excellence in the pursuit of our academic mission.

The University is committed to the principles of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). As such, we strive to make our recruitment, assessment and selection processes as accessible as possible and provide accommodations as required for applicants with disabilities.

If you require any accommodations at any point during the application and hiring process, please contact uoft.careers@utoronto.ca.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15863

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Program in Latin American Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Postdoctoral Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00004

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from any discipline who are engaged in scholarly research on topics related to Latin American Studies, including the Caribbean and Brazil, to fill Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research positions. Although the call is open, scholars working on policy and public health, or on economic development in the region are particularly encouraged to apply.

Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing and may teach not more than one course per semester. When teaching, successful candidates will hold the secondary rank of Lecturer, and any teaching opportunities are subject to sufficient enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral associates are expected to participate regularly in the scholarly and academic activities of the program.

The term of appointment is based on rank. Positions at the postdoctoral rank are for a 12-month term during the 2026-2027 academic year with the possibility of renewal pending satisfactory performance and continued funding; those hired at more senior ranks may have multi-year appointments. Start date is around September 1, 2026. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

The 12-month, 100% duty time salary for this position will be $65,000 paid monthly. The program will provide a $2,000 moving allowance that will reimburse allowable out-of-pocket relocation expenses, some of which may be taxable. In addition, the program will provide a $6,500 research account. For the teaching component of this appointment the lecturer salary during a teaching semester will be calculated based on a nominally higher rate of pay. This position is eligible for medical benefits.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply
For full consideration complete applications including letters of recommendation should be submitted by November 15, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials (in English) at https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38404.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Statement of research interests (1,000 - 1,500 words)
4. A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent]
5. Three letters of recommendation

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Eligible candidates must have less than three years of post- PhD research experience prior to anticipated start date. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Expected Salary Range: $65,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 9/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15712

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Instructor of Public Administration (Renewable Contract)

Detailed Position Information
The Department of Political Science at the University of Alabama invites applications for a renewable contract Instructor position in Public Administration. This is a one-year appointment with the possibility of renewal based on satisfactory performance. The appointment will begin as early as January 2, 2026.

We invite applications from specialists in public administration and related fields to offer courses in our Master of Public Administration program.

Minimum: PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; with some experience teaching at the college level.

Preferred: PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; experience teaching courses independently.

For more information about the department and the MPA program, see https://psc.ua.edu/
Applicants should submit a cover letter that summarizes their teaching qualifications and experience, courses prepared to offer, and reasons for interest in the position; a CV; evidence of teaching effectiveness as available; and the names and contact information of 3 references---ideally those with knowledge of the candidate's teaching experience. Letters of reference and transcripts will only be required for short-listed candidates. Applications must be submitted via the University website, http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

For questions related to the search, please contact Search Committee Chair and MPA Program Director, Dr. Hyunjung Ji at hji4@ua.edu.

Submit applications by October 1, 2025, for best consideration. Screening of applications will continue until the position is filled.

Minimum Qualifications
PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; with some experience teaching at the college level.

Preferred Qualifications
PhD in Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Science, or a related field; experience teaching courses independently.

Instructions and Required Materials for Application
Applicants should submit a cover letter that summarizes their teaching qualifications and experience, courses prepared to offer, and reasons for interest in the position; a CV; evidence of teaching effectiveness as available; and the names and contact information of 3 references---ideally those with knowledge of the candidate's teaching experience. Letters of reference and transcripts will only be required for short-listed candidates. Applications must be submitted via the University website, http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

For more information, and to apply, please see http://careers.ua.edu/cw/en-us/job/527374

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15838

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Government and Statistical & Data Sciences

The Department of Government (GOV) and the Program in Statistical & Data Sciences (SDS) at Smith College invite applications for a joint, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2026.

By time of appointment the applicant must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely-related discipline (e.g., public policy) -- as well as advanced training in statistics, data science, or a closely-related field at the graduate level. Candidates specializing in American political institutions, state and local politics, and/or public policy are preferred. Statistical and Data Science specializations might include, for example, the public policy implications of data storage and mining, machine learning and public health, modeling of legislative behavior, surveillance and data privacy policy, or computer algorithms for law enforcement and sentencing.

The position has a teaching load of 2:2 -- i.e., four semester-long courses over the academic year -- and will have a joint teaching commitment to GOV and SDS, split evenly. In GOV, we anticipate that the person would teach introduction to public policy, introduction to American Government, and upper-level courses related to their area of expertise in which students analyze data. In SDS, the person would teach introductory and intermediate statistics and/or data science, as well as advanced-level courses in their area of interest, for example, machine learning, causal inference, social network analysis, or text mining. Candidates from groups underrepresented in STEM or quantitative political science are encouraged to apply.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes, as advisors, and through student-faculty research projects. Smith College offers opportunities to foster faculty success at every career stage, such as those listed here. The College is a member of the Five College Consortium with Amherst, Hampshire and Mt. Holyoke Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts Amherst. Students cross-enroll and faculty cross-teach across the Five Colleges. Details about the Government Department may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/government, and details about the Statistical and Data Sciences Program may be found at https://www.smith.edu/academics/statistical-data-sciences.

Submit application at https://apply.interfolio.com/172311 with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, inclusion statement, research statement, teaching statement, and the contact information for three confidential references. Finalists may be asked for additional materials. Review of applications will begin on September 29, 2025.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15820

University of Texas, Tyler

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Methodology

Job Summary

The Department of Social Sciences at the University of Texas at Tyler is seeking a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Public Administration to teach in the Master of Public Administration program beginning August 15, 2026.

Duties include teaching a 3/3 course-load, active scholarship agenda, and service to the university and local community.

The Department of Social Sciences incorporates Anthropology, Criminal Justice, Economics, Geography, Social Work, Sociology and Public Administration. In addition to the Master of Public Administration, the Department has a Criminal Justice Master of Science degree. Applications will be accepted through September 30, 2025, with preference provided to applications received by September 15, 2025.

Key Responsibilities

· Development and implementation of graduate courses in public administration.

· Responsible for recruiting and retaining undergraduate and graduate students.

· Other related duties as assigned.

· Attend departmental meetings.

Required Qualifications

· PhD in Public Administration or related discipline from an accredited university (ABD is acceptable to apply but must have the degree awarded by August 15, 2026).

· Ability to teach online graduate courses in Public Administration.

· Evidence of teaching in an accredited community college and/or university setting or similar experience.

· Strong verbal and written communication skills.

· Ability to work independently.

· Skills and confidence with technology.

Preferred Qualifications

· Previous professional experience in the field of Public Administration.

· Ability to teach courses that may be cross listed with the Criminal Justice discipline.

Accompanying Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and Competencies

· Experience in instructional design and course development, including online teaching and active learning strategies.

· Ability to develop and maintain effective and constructive collaborative relationships with faculty and administration throughout the university.

· Record of professional activities related to criminal justice and education.

Other Information

Faculty members at UT Tyler are expected to be outstanding teachers and scholars and are able to demonstrate a commitment to service to the community and university. Additional expectations include academic advising, academic programming and assessment, service to the university, and continued professional development. Priority will be given to candidates who demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and who enthusiastically support the university's strategic plan.

About The University of Texas at Tyler

The University of Texas at Tyler is part of the prestigious University of Texas System that includes 13 institutions located throughout the state. Founded in 1971, UT Tyler today enrolls 10,000 students and consists of six colleges.

Our beautiful Tyler campus features more than 200 acres nestled along a lake and surrounded by thick pine and oak forests, providing a picturesque location for study and recreation. We also offer instructional sites at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler and in Palestine, Longview, and Houston.

With more than 80 bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs offered, UT Tyler provides a wealth of learning opportunities and dynamic programs.

For more information, please visit https://www.uttyler.edu/about/.

Additional Information

This position is security-sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code Section 51.215, which authorizes the employer to obtain criminal history record information. Applicants selected must be able to show proof of eligibility to work in the United States by time of hire.

EEO/AA Statement

The University of Texas at Tyler is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, status as a protected veteran, among other things, or status as a qualified individual with a disability.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15816

Denison University

Rank: Open Rank, Tenure Track Professor in American Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics and Public Affairs/American Politics
Location -Granville OH
Position Type - Tenure Track Faculty
Position URL- apply.interfolio.com/170845
Position Description:

The Department of Politics and Public Affairs (PPA) at Denison University invites applications for an open rank, tenure-track position in American politics beginning Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching emphasizes policy analysis at the federal, state, or local level. The successful candidate must have the demonstrated ability to teach one of our introductory courses (either PPA 102/ Introduction to Policymaking in Democracies or PPA 132/Introduction to Theorizing About Political Life: Normative Issues Common to Democratic Systems), as well as a rotating set of upper division courses in policy analysis and American politics. Candidates with an expressed interest in or experience with managing a Moot Court or Mock Trial team will be given preference.

The Politics and Public Affairs program provides our students an integrated view of politics emphasizing links between theory and practice. Our major is structured as a learning community, where undergraduates pursue a track of interest in International Affairs, Policy Analysis, or Government and Legal Affairs, and have multiple opportunities to share their knowledge with peers. Our majors must complement classroom experiences with a department-approved off campus learning component.

We seek a new colleague who shares our enthusiasm for this approach to teaching about politics and public affairs. As a department, we work hard to ensure our students hear and consider diverse perspectives, and we welcome applicants who contribute to that diversity. We graduate approximately 40 seniors each year. The PPA program is also an integral part of the Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) major at Denison, whose students take at least four classes in our department.

All instructors are expected to regularly teach introductory classes (~24 students) that serve PPA majors/minors as well as the general education requirements of the college's curriculum; successfully teaching introductory classes requires teachers who relish the challenge of instructing both skeptical and interested students. All instructors regularly teach upper division classes (~20 students) in their area of interest, as well as required

PPA major courses such as sophomore and senior seminar. The teaching load is 5 courses per academic year (3/2). Denison is a fully residential campus where all classes are held in-person and on-campus.

Applicants should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness from college-level courses. We seek to hire a new colleague with broad training in the study of politics. The successful candidate is expected to have significant interest in and demonstrated ability to effectively teach undergraduates in a liberal arts setting and contribute to the integration of the theoretical with experiential elements of our major. Independent teaching experience (beyond TA) is preferred.

Successful candidates are expected to maintain an ongoing research agenda; thus, applicants should show promise of a strong publication record. The prospective teacher-scholar also will support the University's commitment to liberal arts education, be an effective advisor to a range of students, be an active participant in departmental and university governance, and develop a program of research leading to peer-reviewed publication.

Denison is a highly selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2,400 students from across the nation and around the world. The college is located in the village of Granville, 30 minutes from Columbus, Ohio, the state capital, which hosts a wide range of cultural and artistic opportunities. Granville offers an excellent public school system and easy access to outdoor activities. A supportive environment for teacher-scholars who value both classroom and research excellence, Denison offers extensive support for its faculty, including an annual professional development account, competitive professional development funding, a one-semester research leave after a successful pre-tenure review. The college also offers opportunities for student-faculty research collaboration, stipends for supervising summer-research students and a range of workshops and mentoring programs to develop our strengths as teacher-scholars.

Denison offers a competitive salary and a comprehensive benefits package, including tuition benefits to attend Denison or other affiliated colleges and a generous retirement contribution.

Qualifications:
Candidates are required to have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely-related field by start date.

Application Instructions:
Review of applications will begin on Sept. 15. To ensure full consideration, completed applications should include the following:

? Cover Letter
? Curriculum vitae
? Graduate level transcript [official or unofficial]
? Teaching Portfolio, which should include a 1) teaching statement that lays out the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and experience; and describes how they cultivate a classroom culture where students encounter and critically evaluate diverse perspectives on important questions, and where open, civil dialogue is encouraged as part of the learning process, 2) Evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations or other artifacts), 3) an introductory syllabus for public policy making in democracies (PPA 102) or political theory (PPA 132), and 4) an upper division syllabus that demonstrates policy analysis expertise.
? Research Statement that lays out the candidate's scholarly interests and plans
? A writing sample
? Contact information for three letters of reference

Job seekers who may need a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should contact the Office of Human Resources at (740) 587-6299 or by email at HR@denison.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/21/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15804

Franklin College

Rank: Elmon and Lucile Williams Endowed Chair in Law and Public Service (Tenure-Track Political Science Faculty Position)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, State Politics

Franklin College invites applications for the Elmon and Lucile Williams Endowed Chair in Law and Public Service. This is a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in Political Science, to begin in August 2026. We provide a strong, active, and tailored liberal arts education through small class sizes and intentional relationships between students and their faculty mentors. Located in a vibrant city of 25,000 about 20 miles from downtown Indianapolis, we support purposeful and practical academic experiences in and out of the classroom that leverage this location as students pursue personal, intellectual and professional growth. Please see www.FranklinCollege.edu for more details.

This new hire will join the department and the college at a time of exciting change. The historically strong Political Science program is committed to delivering fundamentals needed in the market today through increasingly immersive and hands-on methods of teaching and learning.

The successful candidate will direct the College's Pre-Law Program and will:

- teach three undergraduate courses in Constitutional Law, Business Law, Communications Law, State and Local Government, and/or Public Policy, per semester,
- teach one section of our First Year Seminar every other year,
- teach one intensive January Term course every three years,
- coach the Franklin College Moot Court Team,
- serve as the primary Pre-Law Advisor for the campus, and
- advise undergraduate students.

Candidates who can demonstrate prior experience in the above will be given priority. The successful candidate, with approval of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, will have access to an endowed fund to support programming within the guidelines of the endowment.

Required qualifications include:
- college-level teaching experience, and
- an earned Juris Doctorate from an accredited law school.

We especially welcome candidates with:
- both a JD and an advanced degree in politics/public policy,
- professional experience in the legal system, including legal practice, judicial service, or other substantive legal work,

- a competitive track record of scholarship,
- interest and/or background in environmental or conservation law, and
- ability to contribute meaningfully to the College's commitment to diversity.

Review of applications will begin 11 September 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications. Applicants should submit a letter of application addressing the above qualifications, vita, and three current letters of recommendation via the following link: Franklin College Faculty Application.

Contact human resources for additional information:

Franklin College
Office of Human Resources 101 Branigin Blvd.
Franklin, IN 46131
humanresources@FranklinCollege.edu

Franklin College is committed to providing an inclusive and welcoming environment and to ensuring that educational and employment decisions are based on individuals' abilities and qualifications. Consistent with these principles and applicable laws, it is therefore the College's policy not to discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, marital status, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status as consistent with the Policy on Prohibited Discrimination, Harassment and Related Misconduct. No person, on the basis of protected status, shall be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to unlawful discrimination, harassment, or retaliation under any College program or activity, including with respect to employment terms and conditions. Such a policy ensures that only relevant factors are considered and that equitable and consistent standards of conduct and performance are applied.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15784

Harvard University

Rank: Weatherhead Scholars Program
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Weatherhead Scholars Program offers a unique opportunity to join a dynamic, interdisciplinary cohort at Harvard University, bringing together leading academics and accomplished practitioners from around the world. Each year, approximately thirty affiliates are selected through a highly competitive process. Participants may be visiting faculty from other institutions of higher education, postdoctoral fellows who earned their PhD within three years of applying, or practitioner fellows such as mid-career or senior diplomats, journalists, NGO leaders, military officers, civil servants, and other professionals.

Housed within the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs—Harvard's largest international social science research center—the program supports independent research on international, transnational, and comparative topics while fostering meaningful dialogue across disciplines and sectors. Most affiliates spend the full academic year in residence, though one-semester appointments are possible.

Please review the Weatherhead Scholars Program website and FAQ page thoroughly for detailed information. The position requirements differ by category, and full job descriptions are available on ARIeS, Harvard's online portal for hiring. All application materials must be submitted through Harvard University's academic portal by the stated deadlines to ensure full consideration.

https://scholarsprogram.wcfia.harvard.edu/weatherhead-scholars-program

Postdoctoral Fellows and Visiting Scholars: October 15, 2025
Practitioner Fellows: February 15, 2026

Practitioner Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Practitioner Fellows come from a range of professional backgrounds, including diplomacy, journalism, private sector leadership, the military, elected office, public service, and civil society. We welcome applicants from the United States and around the world who hold at least a bachelor's degree, demonstrate a strong interest in international affairs, have a track record of professional impact, and show a clear commitment to engaging with academic and policy communities. Candidates may apply individually or be nominated by a sponsoring institution and must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs while committing to active participation in the program.

Interested individuals are encouraged to contact the director of the Weatherhead Scholars Program to discuss their candidacy and the application process. The application for individual Practitioner Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until February 15, 2026.

Practitioner Fellows are subject to an administrative fee of USD $25,000 for the academic year or USD $12,500 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Visiting Scholars
Weatherhead Scholars Program Visiting Scholars are tenured or tenure-track faculty (or the international equivalent) in the social sciences. Applicants must hold a PhD in a discipline such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field, and be actively engaged in research on international, comparative, transnational, or global issues. This category is not open to adjuncts, lecturers, or non-ladder-rank researchers. Faculty are generally expected to secure their own funding through sabbatical salary or external grants. Candidates must propose a project aligned with the mission of the Weatherhead Center for International Affairs and commit to active participation in the program.

Please note: Researchers affiliated with think tanks or research institutes should apply to the Practitioner Fellowship, while recent PhD graduates should consider the Postdoctoral Fellowship.

The application for Visiting Scholars for the 2026–2027 academic year is available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

Visiting Scholars are subject to an administrative fee of USD $10,000 for the academic year or USD $5,000 per semester, payable before the start of the fellowship program.

Postdoctoral Fellows
Weatherhead Scholars Program Postdoctoral Fellows in International Affairs are social scientists working on international, transnational, or comparative issues who hold a PhD in a social science discipline—such as international affairs, political science, sociology, history, economics, environmental studies, or a related field. Applicants must have earned their degree within the past three years or be scheduled to complete all requirements and defend their dissertation by the start of the appointment.

The Weatherhead Center accepts five to ten postdoctoral fellows each academic year through the Weatherhead Scholars Program. There are three dedicated funding opportunities:

Raphael Morrison Dorman Fellowship – Open to social scientists conducting research in any discipline related to international affairs. Moulay Hicham Alaoui Postdoctoral Fellowship on Climate and the Environment – Open to social scientists conducting research on climate and/or environmental issues in the Middle East and North Africa. Sang-Kee Kim Postdoctoral Fellowship on East and Southeast Asia – Open to social scientists conducting research on East Asia and Southeast Asia (excluding Japan and China).
The applications for Postdoctoral Fellows for the 2026–2027 academic year are available via Harvard's ARIeS online system. Applications are accepted until October 15, 2025.

This position is eligible for Harvard University benefits and includes a salary. The Weatherhead Scholars Program postdoctoral salary for 2026–2027 is USD $70,000, payable over twelve months. The fellowships are highly competitive; in a typical year, about 5% of applicants are selected.

The Weatherhead Scholars Program also welcomes applicants with external funding; however, they must apply by the stated deadline and will be considered alongside all other applicants. Postdoctoral fellows whose funding comes from a source outside of Harvard must meet the NIH minimum base salary requirement for postdoctoral researchers at their experience level on the NIH scale. Personal funds may not be used, in full or in part, to meet this requirement.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/18/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15786

Florida State University

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Public Policy
Specializations: Political Economy, Regulatory Policy, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Florida State University, in cooperation with the Institute for Governance and Civics (IGC), invites applications for a position in the political science department, at the assistant, associate, or full professor rank in public policy and political economy. This is a full-time, 9-month, tenured or tenure-track position with an anticipated start date of August 7, 2026.

We seek candidates whose research focuses on American public policy. The search is open with respect to specialization, but we are particularly interested in candidates whose work addresses topics such as bureaucratic politics and agency decision-making, distributive politics and resource allocation, regulation, deregulation, and market oversight, institutions in policy implementation, and policy evaluation. Candidates are expected to add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental, and/or formal methods.

The candidate would be expected to teach courses and mentor students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The successful candidate will have a tenure home in the Department of Political Science and will be expected to assist the IGC with its mission. The successful candidate will attend IGC events, serve on IGC committees, and help evaluate IGC award nominations. Total faculty service and teaching obligations will meet the "normal" load for FSU faculty.

Minimum Requirements
- Completed Ph.D. by the date of hire.
- Research and teaching interests that contribute to the scientific study of public policy.
- Potential for high impact peer-reviewed publications.
- Potential for obtaining external funding.
- Potential for high-quality instruction and mentoring at the undergraduate and graduate level.
- Commitment to the mission of enhancing civic awareness as well as a readiness to contribute to the intellectual life and programmatic development of the IGC.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation classified Research I institution. Among its 45,000 students are over 10,000 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 385,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, and (3) writing samples. Untenured applicants must also submit (4) a graduate school transcript, and (5) three letters of recommendation. All items must be submitted electronically. Send these files as separate email attachments (PDFs are expected) to polisci@fsu.edu and specify "Public Policy Search 2025" in the subject line. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled.

Florida State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer.

Contact: Prof. Christopher Reenock
Email: creenock@fsu.edu

Department of Political Science
Florida State University
P.O. Box 3062160
Bellamy 531
Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15763

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in a relevant area of social science, including but not limited to political science, media and communication studies, public policy, urban studies, linguistics, psychology and sociology. Successful candidates should have solid training and strong background in AI application in social science research, such as online data collection, management and analysis, machine learning, and/or experience in survey and experimental research. Applications are invited for faculty position at the rank of full professor/associate professor level with prospect for tenure, although junior candidate with very competitive academic records may be considered for position of assistant professor.

Candidate for full professor or associate professor position is expected to have solid evidence of excellence in teaching/research/service, and a strong track record of sustained high-quality research/scholarship outcomes in the expertise area(s), as evidenced by research publications in competitive international outlets in the relevant areas of public policy. In addition, candidate needs to demonstrate academic leadership and strong commitment to the highest standard of excellence. Candidate is advised to provide quality indicators for the journals where he/she have research publications (e.g., journal impact factor, journal ranking in a relevant category).

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2025-26.

Salary & Benefits
Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=311&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15757

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, College of Arts and Sciences, at the University of Rhode Island is recruiting for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. This is a tenure-track, academic year appointment at the rank of assistant professor to commence in the Fall of 2026.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's strategic goal to foster an inclusive culture is "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." For more information about our commitment to diversity, please visit: https://web.uri.edu/president/strategic-plan/priority-3/

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
We invite applications for a faculty position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to both graduate and undergraduate teaching, research, and service responsibilities within the department and the University.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses in Public Management or Public Policy that are part of the core requirements for the online Master of Public Administration (MPA) program, as well as courses supporting online graduate certificates. In addition, the candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses in areas such as Public Administration, Public Management, Public Policy, and other subjects aligned with their area of expertise. Experience with or interest in online instruction is strongly preferred.

Applicants should demonstrate a clear research agenda and the potential to produce original, high-quality scholarship in the fields of Public Administration and/or Public Policy. A record of peer-reviewed publications or evidence of research promise is expected. The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research profile that contributes to the discipline.

The faculty member will contribute to the governance and ongoing development of the MPA program, including curriculum planning, Capstone advising, and program assessment. In addition to department-level duties, the candidate will provide service to the University and engage with the broader academic and professional community.

QUALIFICATIONS: REQUIRED
1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2026, in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

2) Specialization in Public Management subfields or a specialized public policy-related field.

3) Demonstrated ability to teach courses in at least two of the following: Seminar in Public Administration and Policy, Ethics in Public Administration and Policy, Public Personnel Management, Public Budgeting and Finance, or other Public Management courses.

4) Demonstrated ability to teach undergraduate political science courses in at least one of the following areas: Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

5) Demonstrated ability or potential to effectively deliver high-quality graduate-level online courses, with strong record of effective teaching and student engagement in virtual learning environments.

6) Evidence of research in the field of Public Administration or Public Policy with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.

7) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

QUALIFICATIONS: PREFERRED
Preference will be given to candidates who can provide a strong plan for active publication and who can demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellent teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: ethics in public administration or policy, performance management, representative bureaucracy, leadership, information and technology management, local government management, or specific policy-related fields.

2) Evidence of online instruction or extensive training in online pedagogy.

3) Ability to teach on identity plurality and their intersections in public administration and policy.

CANDIDATES WILL BE REQUIRED TO ELECTRONICALLY SUBMIT
1) A cover letter that describes your interest in this position.

2) A Curriculum Vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document).

3) A brief research and teaching statement.

4) "Other Document" - A statement reflecting how you will support URI's strategic priorities in "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." (as one complete pdf document).

5) "Other" - If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work (Document is Optional).

The application deadline is September 14, 2025.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15547

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15762

Ave Maria University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Assistant Professor of Politics
AVE MARIA, FL, US

The Department of Politics of Ave Maria University in Ave Maria, Florida, invites applications for a full-time position in politics at the rank of assistant professor to begin Fall of 2026. Applicants whose primary fields are American government and/or public policy are strongly preferred. Those with a foundation in political economy will also be regarded favorably. Competitive applicants will be gifted teachers and active in research and publishing. Applicants should also understand the nature and purpose of a Catholic liberal arts education and be familiar with and committed to the Catholic Church's teaching on the mission of Catholic universities as expressed in Ex corde Ecclesiae. Duties include three undergraduate courses per semester, mentorship of undergraduates, and committee work. Ph.D. or the equivalent by June 2026 is expected. Salary will be commensurate with experience and credentials.

The application dossier should include: (1) a letter of application; (2) a CV; (3) a writing sample of no more than 15 pages; (4) a brief statement discussing the applicant's teaching method and providing evidence of excellence in teaching (official teaching evaluations should be submitted when available); (5) a 1-2 page personal statement in which the applicant explains the contribution he/she can make to a Catholic liberal arts institution that is committed to implementing Ex corde Ecclesiae.

Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation supporting their application. These should be sent directly by the recommenders to Megan Hare, Academic Affairs Administrative Assistant: Megan.Hare@avemaria.edu. Only complete applications will be considered. Official transcripts are required for faculty appointments and will be requested upon the final decision of the administration and search committee.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Lidiya Zubytska, Chair of the Politics Department: lidiya.zubytska@avemaria.edu

Review of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, submit your materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=70cb71c1-96f8-4956-8cce-ce625b0b2943&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=540989

Ave Maria University offers an excellent benefits package to full-time faculty and staff.

Ave Maria University is a Catholic, liberal arts institution of higher learning dedicated to the formation of joyful, intentional disciples of Jesus Christ through Word and Sacrament, scholarship and service.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15752

George Washington University

Rank: Director, Emerging Technologies Initiative
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Established in 1865, the George Washington University Law School is the oldest in the nation's capital and one of the most prestigious law schools in the country. The American Bar Association accredits the Law School and is a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools. GW Law is situated in the tree-laden downtown Washington, DC neighborhood familiarly known as Foggy Bottom.

We are seeking a dynamic and visionary Director to join the GW Multiracial Democracy Project to drive an initiative focused on emerging technology in a multiracial democracy. This role will be responsible for building and leading a new program that brings together our partners, including civil rights and technology non-profit organizations, community groups, scholars and academic researchers, and philanthropy with decision makers including technology companies and policymakers to explore and shape best practices and policy recommendations that center and protect communities of color.

The ideal candidate will have a strong background in democracy, civil rights and racial justice, technology policy, and cross-sector collaboration, with a passion for equity and justice. They will lead strategic planning, stakeholder engagement, research coordination, and program development and contribute to fundraising efforts to ensure the initiative's work is impactful, inclusive, and forward-thinking. This role will build a plan for the growth of the initiative and will serve as a key advisor to both the Executive Director and the Faculty Director.

Key Responsibilities
- Design and launch a multidisciplinary program focused on civil rights and emerging technologies.
- Cultivate and manage partnerships and joint projects with civil rights organizations, community organizations, public interest tech organizations, scholars, academic institutions, and philanthropy.
- Engage with private sector decision makers and government policymakers.
- Guide research initiatives, policy recommendations, efforts to build tech policy capacity within civil rights and community organizations, and other activities that advance racial equity and protect marginalized communities.
- Organize convenings, workshops, and public events to elevate key issues and foster dialogue.
- In conjunction with the Executive Director, manage program operations, including budgeting, reporting, and team development.
- Serve as advisor to the Executive Director and Faculty Director on emerging technology and democracy.
- Work with the Faculty Director and Executive Director to maintain and grow financial grants and gifts for the initiative.

Qualified candidates will hold a BA/BS in a related discipline plus 7 years of relevant professional experience. Degree must be conferred by the start date of the position.

Preferred Qualifications
- B.S in computer science, data science, tech ethics, STS, or JD, LLM, MPP, MPA strongly desired.
- Demonstrated experience in civil rights, public policy, or technology-related fields is preferred.
- Strong leadership and project management skills.
- Excellent communication and relationship-building abilities.
- Several years of professional experience in technology and civil rights law and/or policy is desired.
- Commitment to racial equity and community-centered approaches.
- Consistent and familiarity of and facility with generative AI tools.
- Relevant federal, state, or local government experience is preferred (e.g., FCC, FTC, U.S. House Energy & Commerce Committee, U.S. Senate Commerce Government).

Find the job posting link here: https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/120975

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15754

George Washington University

Rank: Strategic Consultant
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Strategic Consultant on Proportional Representation and Primary Reforms
Issued by: The Multiracial Democracy Project

Deadline to Apply: 11:59 p.m. ET, August 31, 2025. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

I. Overview
The Multiracial Democracy Project at the George Washington University Law School, as part of its Scaling Voting Rights Capacity to Build a Multiracial Democracy ("Electoral Structures" or "Structures") Initiative, is seeking proposals from qualified individuals or entities to serve as a consultant. This consultant will work closely with our internal team, a cohort of 15 civil rights partner organizations, our partner academic institutions, and democracy organizations to serve as a subject-matter expert, supporting and guiding efforts around democratic innovation and inclusion, including convenings, trainings, thought leadership, and strategic planning.

II. Background
The Multiracial Democracy Project ("MDP" or "the Project") is an initiative of the George Washington University Law School. Through research, analysis, convenings, and public education, the Project produces solutions that facilitate our nation's transition to a well-functioning democracy that truly represents our increasingly diverse population. The Project serves as a bridge between academic, civil rights, democracy reform, technology, and policy communities.
The Electoral Structures Initiative is a three-year project bringing together 15 civil rights and voter mobilization organizations to examine the implications of various electoral structural reforms—including proportional representation and primary reforms—on communities of color.
Spencer Overton, Patricia Roberts Harris Research Professor of Law at the George Washington University, is the founder and faculty director of the Project; Lisa Bornstein is the executive director; and Britah Odondi is the assistant director of the Electoral Structures Initiative.

III. Scope of Work
The selected consultant will be responsible for the following duties:
Program Development & Convening Support
? Coordinate and shape convening topics, agendas, and curricula for quarterly gatherings and monthly webinars.
? Identify, develop, refine, and make accessible educational and informational materials and presentations for our 15 civil rights partner organizations through pre-reads, materials, and internal trainings.
? Collaborate with the Harvard Law School Charles Hamilton Houston Institute for Race and Justice, the Data and Democracy Lab, Protect Democracy, as well as other academic partners and subject-matter experts to design and deliver complex content in inclusive and approachable formats.
Strategic Engagement & Public Thought Leadership
? Facilitate conversations with partners to address their emerging issues and concerns, including additional democracy reform topics.
? Help lead responses to urgent issues (e.g., judicial decisions implicating the Voting Rights Act).
? Draft op-eds, engage with media, and contribute to social media content related to redistricting, federal and state reforms, administration and state voting and election actions, and ongoing structural innovation.
Ongoing Learning & Capacity Building
• Develop and lead monthly webinars and training sessions to ensure continuous learning and momentum for the 15 civil rights groups.
? Coordinate the development of research questions and partner needs assessments.
? Develop and support post-training assessments and program evaluations.
? Collaborate with civil rights groups on developing and delivering trainings and information sessions within their organizations.
Project Coordination & Deliverable Alignment
? Track project activities and outputs to ensure alignment with funder deliverables and grant milestones.
? Collaborate with staff, academic partners, and partner organizations to ensure timely progress on all metrics.
? Support the development of materials and proposals for funders.
? Collaborate on grant reports, quarterly and annual updates, and other funder and public-facing communications.
IV. Qualifications
Successful applicants will demonstrate the following:
? Academic or advocacy experience in democracy reform and expertise in electoral structures, including proportional representation and primary reform.
? Experience collaborating with partners or within a coalition, particularly with or within civil rights organizations.
? Strong written and verbal communication skills, with experience producing accessible, public-facing content (e.g., op-eds, media interviews, videos, and social media posts).
? Demonstrated experience in teaching, training, or adult education, particularly in advocacy or community leadership settings.
? Proficiency in research methods, survey design, data collection, and evaluation, supporting effective data-driven insights.
? Commitment to inclusivity and pluralism.
? Background in curriculum development and instructional design a plus.
? Adaptability and flexibility, with the ability to adjust to the evolving nature of the project.
V. Contract Terms
? Term: Initial engagement for six months, with the potential for six-month renewals through 2027.
? Compensation: Commensurate with experience and competitive for similarly scoped consulting engagements.
? Time Commitment: Part-time (expected to average up to 20 hours per week)
? Work Location: Generally remote, with required travel to quarterly convenings, relevant conferences, and occasional in-person gatherings.
? Work Hours: Generally flexible; however, availability is required for scheduled events such as convenings, webinars, training sessions, weekly check-ins, meetings and video conferences with partners, and other planned activities.

VI. Submission Guidelines
To be considered, please submit the following materials by 11:59 p.m. ET August 31, 2025, with the subject line "Proposal Submission" to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.
1. Short Proposal: A concise proposal (no more than three pages) outlining your interest in the project, proposed approach, and relevant experience.
2. Résumé or CV: A current résumé or curriculum vitae.
3. Writing Samples: Two brief writing samples that demonstrate your relevant background and skills (e.g., curriculum excerpts, op-eds, reports, article excerpts, training materials).
4. Rate Proposal: Hourly or project-based consultant rate.
5. References: Name, context in which the reference knows you, and contact information (phone and email) for two professional references.

Incomplete submissions or materials may not be considered. Please note that applications will be considered on a rolling basis.

VII. Evaluation Criteria
Proposals will be evaluated based on the following criteria:
? Demonstrated expertise in proportional representation, primary reforms and other electoral systems.
? Experience working in coalitions, particularly with civil rights organizations and/or community-centered movements.
? Strength and clarity of writing and communication.
? Teaching/training and curriculum development background.
? Understanding of survey and evaluation tools.
? Proposed cost and availability.

VIII. Questions
Please direct any questions regarding this RFP to multiracdemoc@law.gwu.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15753

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Development, Developing Nations, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in international development starting in Fall 2026.

Through their research and teaching, successful candidates will be expected to increase our students' ability to examine international relations with a focus in any one of a range of specialties, including international organizations, human rights, development policy, policy analysis, postcolonial thought, political economy, and sustainable development. In addition to teaching courses in their area of expertise, the department expects the candidate to contribute to teaching undergraduate and Master's curricular requirements such as Theories of International Relations, Research Methods, or Policy Analysis. The successful candidate will also contribute courses in other core areas of departmental curricular need. Candidates should describe their teaching interests in their cover letter.

Candidates must be committed to excellent, inclusive teaching and student advising at both the undergraduate and graduate level. Candidates must also be committed to pursuing a scholarly agenda and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. A typical teaching load in the College of Arts and Sciences is three courses per semester.

Applicants must submit:

a cover letter that describes the candidate's research agenda and the courses they would like to teach;

a CV;

official graduate transcripts;

three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and scholarship;
a writing sample;

a summary of teaching evaluations and evidence of teaching excellence, including a sample syllabus;

a statement of teaching philosophy that includes discussion of how candidates approach students with diverse backgrounds and learning styles.

Candidates are encouraged to submit application materials at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by September 5, 2025.

Job application materials must be uploaded to https://jobs.sandiego.edu/ at posting #5318.

Questions should be directed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. A.M. Spiegel (spiegel@sandiego.edu).

If you have any technical questions or difficulties please contact the Employment Services Team at jobs@sandiego.edu.

Additional requirements:

Background check: Successful completion of a pre-employment background check.

Degree Verification Requirement: Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide official education transcripts for degree verification purposes.
Advanced Degree: Applicants should hold a terminal degree, preferably a Ph.D. in Political Science. ABD candidates will be considered on a case-by-case basis, with the expectation of having a completed Ph.D. degree by September 2026.

Salary and Benefits

$7,000-7,333/month; Excellent Benefits

The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package including; medical, dental, vision, a retirement contribution given to you by the University, and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. Please visit the benefits section of our website to view all of the perks and benefits that USD has to offer. USD: Human Resources: Benefits

The salary range provided in this posting reflects what we reasonably expect to pay for this position. Actual compensation offered or earned is dependent on experience, education and other factors including departmental budget.

About the University of San Diego

The University of San Diego, an engaged and contemporary Catholic institution, was founded by the Diocese of San Diego and the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1949. Governed by an independent board of trustees since 1972, USD remains committed to a liberal arts education grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition and the pursuit of truth, goodness and beauty. Inspired by this centuries old tradition of Catholic higher education, the University welcomes people of all faith traditions and any, or no, religious background. The future success of USD relies on the contributions of those who seek to foster the development of engaged global citizens and an earnest confrontation of humanity's urgent challenges.

About the College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is at the heart of the University of San Diego. Our philosophy is built on the enduring values of the Catholic intellectual tradition, immersing students in the concepts of free inquiry, ethical conduct and compassionate service. The College aims to establish an academic foundation for students to thrive and gain a comprehensive education, which spans the sciences, arts and social sciences. Through our exemplary liberal arts education and rigorous scholarship, we aspire to not only educate the mind but also develop the whole person.

About the Department of Political Science and International Relations

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world. Our courses cover every corner of the globe and prepare students to be keen political observers and actors. To supplement coursework, we also provide internship, community service learning, and study abroad opportunities that encourage learning outside of the classroom. The department houses two separate majors. The Political Science major focuses attention on the shared and contending ideas, values, institutions and processes of public life. The International Relations major is an interdisciplinary field of study designed for students who seek a holistic understanding of international affairs. The curriculum is rooted in political science and provides students with a strong background in international relations, comparative politics, and international political economy. The department also offers a Masters of International Relations (MAIR) degree. Courses range from the specific study of politics in one country or of a single institution or political process (the judiciary, Congress, the presidency or elections), to more general offerings such as courses on political theory, political development, race and ethnicity, environmental politics, research methods, human rights, and constitutional law.

The University of San Diego is a smoking and tobacco-free campus. For more information, visit www.sandiego.edu/smokefree.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/5/2025
Date Posted: 8/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15744

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Short-term Visiting Fellowships, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Fellow

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00003

The Program in Latin American Studies is launching an open call for applications for next year's visiting short-term fellowships. We are looking for advanced or mid-career scholars from any discipline whose research projects focused on Latin America, including Brazil or the Caribbean. Applications will be accepted from scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established Latin American writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on research or creative projects who may benefit from a short stay at Princeton University.

Appointments will be for one calendar month during the 2026-2027 academic year (September 1, 2026, to June 30, 2027) or the summer (July and August), to be determined on a case-by-case basis. In addition to a stipend, the program will provide up to $2,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. The work location for these positions is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Visiting Fellows will be expected to devote themselves to research and to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed below must be received by October 12, 2025. All candidates must apply online to submit materials at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38403

1) Cover letter (in English) indicating the calendar month the applicant proposes to stay), title and short description of the proposed research project, and an explanation for reasons to be here at Princeton (i.e., use the library, look at particular archives, work with members of the faculty, etc.);
2) Curriculum vitae (in English);
3) A statement (in English) describing the research project as well as the ways Princeton resources and/or faculty will be useful for the project (1,000-1500 words);
4) The names and contact information of two referees. (The Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Expected Salary Range: $5,000 per month

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15709

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Program in Latin American Studies
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: South America, Central America, Caribbean

Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) Visiting Fellowship, 2026-2027

Job Title: Visiting Research Scholar

Requisition Number: D-25-LAS-00002

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking top scholars in their fields who have teaching experience and will provide Princeton students with an opportunity to study topics that are not regularly offered at the University. Applications will be accepted from outstanding scholars in the humanities and social sciences, as well as from established writers, artists, filmmakers, or architects working on projects related to Latin America.

Visiting Research Scholars will be expected to teach one undergraduate course per semester, conditional upon sufficient enrollments and approval of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty, and to participate regularly in PLAS-related events on campus.

Appointments are expected to be for one or two semesters during the 2026-2027 academic year (fall semester: September 1, 2026 - January 16, 2027; spring semester: January 16, 2026 - June 1, 2027). In addition to salary, the program will provide up to $7,500 as a housing allowance and up to $2,000 as a travel allowance to reimburse allowable out-of-pocket rental and travel expenses, some of which may be taxable. If teaching, the visitor would be paid at a nominally higher rate.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

How to Apply:
For full consideration, all the materials listed must be received by October 12, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must submit materials (in English) and apply online at: https://puwebp.princeton.edu/AcadHire/position/38402

1) Cover letter indicating the applicant's proposed length of stay (1-2 semesters), title and short description of the proposed research project, and teaching interests;
2) Curriculum vitae;

3) One undergraduate seminar proposal or syllabus for each proposed semester of the fellowship, including a statement of how the course(s) would enhance undergraduate education at Princeton;
4) A statement describing the research project and its scholarly contribution (1,500 - 2,000 words);
5) The names and contact information of two referees (the Program will contact them, if needed, later).

Advanced degree preferred.

Expected Salary Range: $49,250 per semester

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information https://hr.princeton.edu/thrive/health.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/12/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15710

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Political Theory, Public Policy

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in political science. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address political science topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in political science, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the school. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15698

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Management
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management. We welcome candidates from any subfield of public management, including those with research interests that intersect with political science, decision science, and/or economics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in management science, political science, or similar disciplines with a track record of research on public management topics.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15697

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty Position in Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Political Theory

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public policy. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on applied econometrics and public policy design topics.

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public policy design and evaluation, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in public policy.

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these fields, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 7/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15699

DePaul University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) - Political Science (American Politics/Geography/Public Policy)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, State Politics

The Department of Political Science at DePaul University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position at the assistant professor level in American Politics (with an emphasis on state and local politics). The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching courses in American Politics, Political Geography and Public Policy. We will give priority to a person whose research would enable them to develop courses with a Chicago focus, and address public policy issues such as gun violence, poverty, sustainability or economic development. An ability to teach social science statistics and/or courses in Geographic Information Systems will also be viewed favorably.

With a total enrollment over 21,000 students, DePaul is one of the largest private non-profit universities in the nation. Yet class sizes are typically between 20 and 40 students, reflecting the value the university places on teaching excellence. Our programs provide high quality, personalized, accessible education to a diverse student body, grounded in the values of St. Vincent de Paul. Our teaching and research advance knowledge and service to society.

For more information, e-mail polisci@depaul.edu or visit the department's web site at https://las.depaul.edu/academics/political-science/Pages/default.aspx

DePaul University seeks applicants that reflect the diversity of its student body and the City of Chicago. Those with experience working with diverse faculty, staff, and students, and who can contribute to an inclusive climate are encouraged to apply. Women, members of historically underrepresented groups, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged to apply.

Qualifications
A Ph.D. is preferred at the time of appointment, but ABD candidates will be considered.

Application Instructions
Candidates should electronically submit the following: (1) a letter of application (cover letter), (2) a CV, (3) an unofficial transcript of the last degree (earned or in progress), (4) syllabi and (5) complete course evaluations if available. All candidates will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

Applicants may apply at: https://apply.interfolio.com/170188

The screening of applications will begin September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15685

Waseda University

Rank: Tenure-track or tenured position in Public Administration/Public Policy(Political Science)

Faculty Recruitment Information in Public Administration/Public Policy(Political Science)

The Faculty of Political Science and Economics at Waseda University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in Public Administration/Public Policy(Political Science) to begin in the spring or fall of 2026 (or a mutually agreed later date).

Qualifications
- Substantial research achievements in Public Administration or Public Policy
- Ability to teach courses in Japanese and English
- Ability to teach research methods in the field of empirical analysis and/or formal models at the Graduate School of Political Science
- Ph.D. in Political Science or a relevant field by the time of appointment
- Teaching experience is desirable

Teaching responsibility:
- Graduate Seminar in the Graduate School of Political Science, Political Science Course

- Related undergraduate courses in the fields of Public Administration and Public Policy

Scheduled start of employment:
April 1, 2026, or September 1, 2026 (or a mutually agreed later date)

For more details and instructions for application, please go to the website at https://www.waseda.jp/fpse/pse/news-en/2025/07/10/24379/

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: 9/30/2025
Date Posted: 7/10/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15655

University of Michigan

Rank: WCEE Postdoctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Political Theory

The Weiser Center for Europe and Eurasia seeks to hire a scholar of contemporary Russia for a two-year WCEE Postdoctoral Fellowship, from August 2026 to July 2028. We encourage applications from specialists on Russia proper as well as those who focus on Russia's interactions with its neighbors (the Baltic states, Moldova, Belarus, Ukraine, the Caucasus, Central Asia, Mongolia, China, Japan). Candidates should have a PhD completed, or nearly completed, in the social sciences and/or cultural studies, broadly construed. We are especially interested in scholars who will complement and add to the coverage offered by our existing faculty.

WCEE Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in the center's events, present at least one public lecture during their two-year fellowship, and teach one course per year at the University of Michigan while in full-time residency.

Eligibility:
Eligibility is restricted to applicants who have obtained their PhD no earlier than January 1, 2024. Current doctoral candidates are eligible to apply but must have defended and filed their dissertations by July 31, 2026.

Benefits:
Fellowships carry an annual salary of $60,000 and up to $10,000 in research funds during the postdoctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning August 1, 2026 through July 31, 2028). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Application materials:
Candidates should submit the following via Interfolio (https://apply.interfolio.com/169185):

- A research proposal (2000 words maximum) that describes your intellectual objectives and concrete plan for the fellowship duration
- Curriculum Vitae
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter or peer-reviewed journal article (50 pages maximum)
- Teaching statement with potential course topics
- Two letters of recommendation

To be assured full consideration, fellowship applications should be received by October 15, 2025, 11:59 PM EST. Successful applicants will be notified by December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/1/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15610

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration
Specializations: International Security, Public Finance & Budgeting, Leadership Studies

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP), National University of Singapore, invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor appointments. One position will be in international security (political science-international relations or other relevant disciplines), which is broadly defined to include traditional and emerging security issues. For the other two positions—in public policy and public administration—the areas of interest are open; however, there is a particular interest in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of international relations, political science, public policy, public administration, or related disciplines;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) to the Hiring Committee via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30182. The deadline for submitting the package is September 1, 2025.

The package should include:

1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)

6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Members of the hiring committee will be attending the APSA Annual Conference in Vancouver and will be available for an informational session and preliminary interviews. Shortlisted candidates who are unable to meet at APSA will be contacted separately over email. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15632

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – Public Administration/Public Management

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP) at the National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration/Public Management. We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of public administration, public management, public policy, political science, or a related discipline at the time of appointment;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30180.

The package should include:
1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Applications submitted prior to September 15, 2025 will receive preference; but the review of applications will continue until positions are filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified. Initial face-to-face conversations may be conducted at the Asian Association for Public Administration Conference in October 2025 in Beijing, or at other relevant international conferences in 2025. Promising candidates not attending these events will be invited to a Zoom conversation. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15631

National University of Singapore

Rank: Head of Department position (Full Professor level with tenure)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the National University of Singapore invites applications for the position of Head of Department at the rank of full professor or higher (endowed chair professor). Research and teaching specialisation is open, although candidates should contribute to one or more of the Department's four subfields: comparative politics, governance and public policy, international relations, and political theory.

The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a demonstrable commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership to implement a strategic vision, with the support of department faculty, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Interested candidates should submit a CV, cover letter that addresses the qualifications outlined above, research statement (approx. two pages), teaching statement (approx. two pages), and names and addresses of at least four references.

Review of applications will begin in August 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Campus visits for selected candidates will be arranged for October 2025. The position is expected to commence in January 2027. Questions about the position should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor William Bain (wbain@nus.edu.sg).

Exceptional candidates at the rank of senior associate professor are welcome to apply, subject to being promoted to full professor upon appointment at NUS.

The Department of Political Science is a vibrant multidisciplinary community comprised of over 25 tenure- and educator-track faculty members. The Department offers degrees in Political Science and Global Studies at the undergraduate level and in Political Science at the Masters and Doctoral levels. It also partners with the International Political Science Association (IPSA) to host the IPSA-NUS Summer School in Social Science Research Methods annually. It is one of 16 departments in a large Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, which is home to a comprehensive range of programmes in Asian Studies, Humanities, Social Science, and Language Studies. The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy, the Asia Research Institute, the Asia-Europe Foundation, the East Asian Institute, the ISEAS–Yusof Ishak Institute, among other research units inside and outside NUS, provide additional opportunities for research interaction and collaboration.

NUS offers an internationally competitive remuneration package that includes a period of subsidised housing (for non-Singaporean applicants), annual performance bonus, medical benefits, and relocation expenses (where applicable). Outstanding applicants might also be considered for endowed/chair professorship that comes with annual research support and business class travel eligibility. NUS provides significant research support, including generous start-up grants for new faculty members.

Please submit your application through the NUS Career Portal : https://careers.nus.edu.sg/job/Professor-&-Head-of-Department-%28Political-Science%29/29011-en_GB/

Qualifications
The successful candidate will have an internationally recognised record of research and publication, as well as a record of very good teaching. Exceptional leadership skills are essential, as is a strong commitment to intellectual and methodological pluralism. Other qualifications include evidence of substantial administrative experience; a record of promoting faculty and student success; a commitment to collegiality and diversity; and excellent interpersonal, communication, and organisational skills. The Head is expected to provide leadership in co-creating with department faculty to implement a strategic vision, consistent with NUS' research and teaching mission, which advances the Department's international profile and reputation. Research and teaching expectations may be reduced (e.g. one course teaching commitment per year), given the Head's crucial service role.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/27/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15591

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Weidenbaum Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

We are pleased to announce a new Postdoctoral Fellowship in Survey Research through the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship allows new Ph.D.s and early career scholars the opportunity to contribute to cutting-edge research using high-quality survey data collected by the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship is uniquely situated at the intersection of academic and public-facing scholarship, allowing the fellow to pursue a multitude of career paths, contribute to research that directly affects important issues in American politics, and increase visibility of their research.

The Weidenbaum Center at Washington University in St. Louis invites applications from recent Ph.D. graduates for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship. The fellowship will run for 12 months, starting on or around July 1, 2025, with the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The Weidenbaum Center has supported survey data collection efforts through The American Panel Survey (TAPS), The American Social Survey (TASS), and the Weidenbaum Center Survey (WCS). The Center's most recent efforts have focused on the launch of the WCS, which is fielded three times each year, includes a sample of 3,000 respondents (2,000 general US adult population and oversample of 1,000 African Americans), with each survey paired with voter file data and web-tracking data for a subset of respondents. For more information on survey work supported by the Center, please visit: https://wc.wustl.edu/weidenbaum-center-survey-work.

The Fellow will work collaboratively with Taylor Carlson, graduate student fellows, and other Weidenbaum Center affiliates to support the launch of the Weidenbaum Center Survey and other data collection efforts through the Center. The Fellow will assist with the launch of an online dashboard that allows people to analyze and download the survey data, write public-facing reports describing key findings from the data, draft survey instruments, create publicly available data repositories, and conduct both coauthored and independent academic research.

We are seeking an individual with social science research interests who will advance the Center's mission by engaging in collaborative and independent research and who will enjoy the opportunity to contribute to public scholarship (blog posts, reports, website graphics). We are especially interested in candidates with training in survey methodology and experience with public-facing scholarship (e.g., op-eds). Candidates should detail their experience in these areas in their cover letters and showcase any of these interests in the writing sample. We anticipate that the Fellow will spend most of their time working on Center-related and coauthored projects with Taylor Carlson and other Center affiliates.

Qualifications
We invite applications from qualified candidates who will have a PhD in hand by the time of the appointment, are no more than four years from the granting of their Ph.D. at the time of the submission, and who do not yet hold tenure-track academic positions.

Applications are evaluated against a broad set of criteria with special consideration given to contributions the candidate can make to academic diversity in our University community and more specifically to the study of survey methodology or addressing contemporary issues in American society with survey data.

Application Instructions
Proposal Submission Deadline: We will begin reviewing applications on February 7 and anticipate scheduling Zoom interviews as early as late February.

Proposal Format:

Applications should include the following:

- Cover letter

- Curriculum vitae

- Research statement not to exceed 2000 words describing the dissertation project and other research

- Writing sample

- Three letters of reference

- The cover letter should be addressed to Taylor Carlson

NOTE: Please apply through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/161709

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15339

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty - Climate Policy and Sustainability

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in climate policy and sustainability. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on climate policies and sustainability. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics or an interdisciplinary Ph.D. in environmental science/engineering and economics with a track record of research on environmental and sustainability topics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-climate-policy-and-sustainability

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15148

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Energy & Environmental Economics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Political Theory

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in energy and environmental economics. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on energy markets, climate finance, and climate policy design. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in energy and environmental economics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-energy-environmental-economics

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15146

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Public Finance
Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public finance. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly address public finance topics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in economics with a field specialization in public finance

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-finance

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15145

KAPSARC School of Public Policy

Rank: Faculty - Public Management

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond. The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public management. We welcome candidates from any subfield of public management, including those with research interests that intersect with political science, decision science, and/or economics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in management science, political science, or similar disciplines with a track record of research on public management topics.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-management

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15147

KAPSARC School of Public Policy
Rank: Faculty - Public Policy

Position Summary:

The KSPP is a newly established graduate school that offers master's and executive education programs. The first cohort of master's students commenced their graduate studies in the fall of 2024. Situated in the thriving capital city of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on the state-of-the-art KAPSARC campus, the KSPP is well-placed to offer students an exceptional educational experience.

The KSPP's vision is to be a world-class education and research institution that prepares the next generation of public policy leaders and professionals within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and globally. To achieve this vision, the school is committed to providing high-quality educational programs and creating a bridge between academia, industry, and government. As the first public policy school in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the KSPP is uniquely positioned to offer public policy degrees focusing on management and leadership, energy and climate policy, and data analytics. By providing concentrations in these areas, the school aims to help students develop the skills and knowledge necessary to address pressing policy challenges and make a meaningful impact in their communities and beyond.

The KAPSARC School of Public Policy (KSPP) invites applications for a faculty position in public policy. We welcome candidates whose research, teaching, and outreach activities broadly focus on applied econometrics and public policy design topics. The KSPP offers a highly competitive salary and benefits package, including children's educational support, housing support, and premier health insurance.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will be expected to carry out impactful research, teach courses related to the candidate's research field, contribute to core courses and/or electives in public sector management and leadership, supervise capstone projects, and contribute to the overall academic environment of the School.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in public policy.

To apply, please visit: https://www.kspp.edu.sa/careers/faculty-public-policy

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15144