POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

December 2025 | Volume 14, Issue 12

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 6
Comparative Politics 46
International Relations 84
Methodology 127
Non-Academic 137
Open 138
Other 154
Political Theory 179
Public Administration 189
Public Law 201
Public Policy .....

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

December 2025 | Volume 14, Issue 12
ISSN 2167-8332
Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration ..... 4 (5 listings)
American Government and Politics ..... 6 (69 listings)
Comparative Politics ..... 46 (66 listings)
International Relations ..... 84 (69 listings)
Methodology ..... 127 (18 listings)
Non-Academic ..... 137 (1 listings)
Open ..... 138 (27 listings)
Other ..... 154 (32 listings)
Political Theory ..... 179 (18 listings)
Public Administration ..... 189 (19 listings)
Public Law ..... 201 (22 listings)
Public Policy ..... (41 listings)
Total listings this issue 387

Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

---

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring : Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
   - departmental and institutional committee work,
   - professional or disciplinary activities, and
   - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - access to research materials and equipment,
   - the employment of research assistants,
   - research expenses on/off campus, and
   - travel expenses for conferences?
2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
   - the development of teaching expertise,
   - innovations in teaching, and
   - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
   - the average course load,
   - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
   - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
   - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
   - family needs of faculty and staff, and
   - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for December

ADMINISTRATION

SUNY, University at Buffalo

Rank: Professor and Department Chair

The Department of AI and Society at the University at Buffalo, invites applications from outstanding scholars with excellent leadership abilities for the position of Department Chair.

The Department of AI and Society – the first of its kind in the nation – is explicitly intended to be a home for transdisciplinary research on the relationship between artificial intelligence (AI) and society, with its vision of creating a future world where AI systems are built by society, for society. As a transdisciplinary department that is part of both the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences and the College of Arts and Sciences, the department is home to faculty with diverse disciplinary and training backgrounds, and their profiles of research and creative activity reflect this breadth.

The transdisciplinary nature of the Department means that its faculty may engage in research and creative activities spanning the arts, humanities, social sciences, cognitive sciences, computer science, and engineering. The Chair will work with the department to achieve its vision and to support the university's goal of becoming a top 25 public research institution.

Priorities include overseeing the department's research, creative, teaching, operational, and community engagement activities; facilitating collaborative grant writing and research activities; helping to foster research collaborations between academic faculty; recruitment of several additional faculty to fill already approved positions; and advocating for the department at the academic unit and university levels, as well as externally.

The successful candidate will have an exceptional academic record and evidence of administrative leadership abilities, in addition to holding a PhD in an area relevant to the mission of the department. The position is at the rank of tenured Full Professor.

Tenured faculty in AIS are expected to obtain external funding to support and conduct research leading to research outputs and creative activities; engage in scholarly work that has strong community engagement; present at professional venues; teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels in addition to mentoring students and postdoctoral scholars; and provide service to the department, school, college, university, discipline, and the community. A teaching release is granted for faculty serving in administrative capacities such as Department Chair.

AI and Society currently supports a set of seven new AI+X degrees:
AI and Geospatial Analytics
AI and Policy Analysis
AI and Logic and Ontology
AI and Language Technology
AI and Responsible Communication
AI and Quantitative Economics
AI and Language and Intercultural Competence

The department will also be creating new undergraduate and graduate degrees in AI and Society.

The position is open until filled; applications received by December 15, 2025 will be given priority consideration. The posting link is https://www.ubjobs.buffalo.edu/postings/58810

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16212

Washington State University

Rank: Director of Foley Institute and Associate Professor/Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Administration

Washington State University seeks a visionary leader for the position of Director of the Foley Institute for Public Policy and Public Service and as a faculty member in the School of Politics, Philosophy, and Public Affairs (PPPA) in the College of Arts and Sciences. Applications are invited for a permanent, full-time 9-month, tenure-eligible position at the rank of Associate Professor or Full Professor as well as a termed, though renewable, administrative leadership appointment as the Director of the Foley Institute for which an administrative stipend will be paid.

The mission of the Foley Institute is to provide public affairs education, engage students in public service, and support academic research on public policy and democratic institutions. As the Director you are expected to interact with and serve the public, build connections with state and national institutions, and create and sustain pathways for students interested in pursuing public service careers.

You will be expected to strengthen your own disciplinary area while fostering collaboration and building connections across PPPA's multiple disciplines. PPPA engages in scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and public outreach to address the ethical, philosophical, and political challenges facing the world. As a member of PPPA faculty, you are expected to work within the School to prepare students to be effective and engage citizens and leaders equipped with a strong understanding of research methods and a multidisciplinary, problem-solving mindset. Additionally, you are expected to be an effective administrator, while maintaining a strong research agenda in your area of expertise, and contribute to teaching in the School of PPPA.

As the successful candidate is expected to have an exceptional record of collaborative leadership that fosters common goals within a department or program and the broader university community, experience with public service, and a record of effective communication with the university community and the broader public. The successful candidate will also have an outstanding record in research and teaching in American Politics, interpreted broadly. Successful candidates will be expected to begin the four (4) year renewable appointment as Director on August 16, 2026.

See the following link for full details and to apply: https://wsu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/WSU_Jobs/job/Associate-Professor-Professor_R-14220

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: $140,000 - $149,999
eJobs ID: 16211

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Department Chair
Subfield(s): Administration, Open, Public Policy
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice, Defense

The Department of Political and Global Affairs invites applications for the position of Department Chair (128005). Applicants must be eligible to meet the criteria for the rank of either associate professor or professor. Expedited tenure upon appointment is possible. The start date for the position is August 1, 2026.

The successful candidate will lead a department that offers undergraduate degrees and concentrations in Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Policy Management, International Relations, Global Studies, and Human Geography, and an M.A. in International Affairs. The department seeks candidates who emphasize collaborative leadership and the ability to manage quotidian operations while focusing on long-range plans to foster growth and sustain quality programs.

The successful candidate will prioritize excellence in teaching, have a distinguished record of scholarship, and a commitment to equitable student success. In addition, the successful candidate will have demonstrated leadership abilities, strong interpersonal and problem-solving skills, and will provide advocacy for multi-faceted student and faculty concerns.

A terminal degree in Political Science or a closely related field is required. While the teaching specialization and research are open, those specializing in public policy or pre-law may receive special consideration. In addition, candidates with prior administrative experience—including management of budgets, experience with assessment for learning improvement, and interest in recruitment and fundraising may also receive special consideration.

To apply or for more detailed information, visit https://careers.mtsu.edu. MTSU is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified individuals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16200

American Bar Foundation

Rank: Executive Director

The American Bar Foundation (ABF), a cornerstone and wellspring of the global socio-legal research community, seeks a committed, curious, and strategic leader to propel this historic institution forward as its next Executive Director (ED). As the nation's premier independent, non-partisan research institute operating at the intersection of law and society, the ABF produces deeply resourced, inquiry-driven scholarship of the highest quality to inform and guide the legal profession, the academy, and the public conversation on matters of law and its influence in the United States and internationally. The ABF's next ED will eagerly invest in the ABF's dedicated community of researchers, staff, and partners and will champion the institution's commitment to expanding knowledge and advancing justice.

The ABF's commitment to academic freedom and staunchly independent and interdisciplinary approach yields scholarly and actionable research that individuals and institutions use to shape laws, inform policy, and influence society. The ABF's intellectual community is robust and comprises full- and part-time research professors, visiting scholars, and affiliated researchers who explore legal education, access to justice, legal practice, and the design, implementation, and impact of laws. The institution also benefits from a 16,000-plus-member honors society of licensed attorneys – the Fellows of the American Bar Foundation – who gain valuable insights from the ABF's scholarly findings, provide material support to the ABF, and generously donate their time and expertise as renowned practitioners and scholars.

The ABF is governed by a 25-member board of directors. Its FY2025 operating budget totaled $9.1 million, most of which was derived from support from the American Bar Endowment (ABE) and the ABF Fellows. It also benefits from an institutional endowment of $35.5 million. The ABF maintains a faculty of 19 full- time and jointly appointed researchers and 39 full-time and part-time staff members.

Reporting to the board, the Executive Director ensures that the ABF's research, operations, communications, and development strategies work harmoniously to sustain and grow its impact and visibility. The next ED will embrace their role as an intellectual leader, facilitating research and mentoring junior research faculty, and will be an effective external representative, enriching the ABF's scholarly community, expanding its resources, and bolstering its operations and capacities. They will uphold the highest standards of integrity, independence, and scholarly rigor while articulating and championing the practical applications and outcomes of the ABF's research with the ABE, the ABF Fellows, donors, and others. The ED will be an attentive administrative leader and an effective liaison among ABF faculty, staff, and the board, and will promote a culture of inclusivity, teamwork, and respect.

EMPLOYMENT DETAILS

Salary and Benefits

The anticipated salary range for this position is $290,000-$320,000. Full-time benefits currently include medical, dental, and vision insurance; paid sick leave; paid vacation; paid holidays (including a week-long winter holiday recess); paid family/medical leave after one year of employment; FSA or HSA; 403(b) retirement plan with employer match and nonelective contribution; transit and parking benefits, including discounted parking; employee assistance program; and more.

Location and Commitment

The ED must reside within a daily commutable distance of the ABF's offices in Chicago, IL. This role requires a consistent presence in the office, as well as regular travel.

APPLICATIONS, INQUIRIES, AND NOMINATIONS

All applications, inquiries, and nominations should be submitted electronically and in confidence to the search team at: (https://www.imsearch.com/open-searches/american-bar-foundation/executive-director). Screening of applications will begin immediately and continue until the search process is completed.

Vijay Saraswat, Partner
Gale Merseth, Partner
Tatiana Oberkoetter, Managing Associate
Elizabeth Arvanitis, Senior Search Coordinator

Isaacson, Miller

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16167

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Department Chair
Specializations: Criminal Justice, International Security, Intelligence

Job Description: The Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is seeking a Department Chair at the rank of Full Professor with an outstanding record of scholarly research and grants as well as experience in strategic planning, program-building initiatives, and faculty mentoring. We seek a leader with management and analytical skills, and a strategic planner committed to consolidating the national reputation of the department and its robust programs. The Department Chair will support recruitment and retention of faculty and staff, advocate for a strategic vision for the undergraduate and graduate programs, and foster an environment of inclusive excellence for students.

Required Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Political Science, Public Policy, or closely related field. Applicants with a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. (without a Ph.D.) will not be considered.
- Rank of Full Professor.
- Administrative or leadership experience at the Departmental, College, and/or University levels.
- Funded extramural grants and an active scholarly publication record commensurate with a Full Professor at a Carnegie R1 institution.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to candidates with experience as Department Chair.

Application Instructions: To apply, go to www.utep.edu/employment. If you have questions about the position, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Ted Curry: trcurry@utep.edu Applicants must electronically submit FOUR files:
- Letter of interest that includes relevant administrative and leadership experiences and how they fit into UTEP, a university with the double designation of R1 and HSI; research/grants accomplishments/ impact, areas of expertise and their fit within the Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies at UTEP.
- Statement of Leadership and Management Philosophy.
- Curriculum vita
- Names and full contact information of three professional references.

Application Review Date: Review of applications will begin November 21, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. Hiring decisions are based on budget approval.

About the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP): UTEP stands out as a Carnegie R1, open-access, Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), and community engaged research university at the heart of the U.S.-Mexico border region that is increasing access to excellent higher education. We advance discovery of public value and positively impact the health, culture, education, and economy of the community we serve. UTEP enrolls over 26,000 students—84% of whom are Hispanic and half of whom are the first in their families to attend college. UTEP offers 170 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs at the only open-access, R1 research university in America.

The UTEP Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is one of the largest departments in the College of Liberal Arts and offers six degree programs for over 1,200 students. Three undergraduate degrees are in Criminal Justice (B.A.), an equivalent 100% online B.A., and an online B.A. in Security Studies. The graduate programs offered are Criminology and Criminal Justice (M.S.), Intelligence and National Security Studies (M.S.) and an online Master of Defense and Strategic Studies (MDSS).

El Paso's active arts and culture community features the state's longest-running symphony orchestra, a nationally recognized chamber music festival, a vibrant street art and mural scene, art galleries, museums, and a full schedule of seasonal events and festivals. UTEP adds to the arts and entertainment scene with concerts and live events at the city's largest indoor and outdoor venues; theater, music and dance productions; contemporary and student art galleries; and a natural history museum and desert gardens. El Paso is also an ideal location for year-round hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing, and other outdoor activities in the nearby Franklin Mountains. For sports fans, the UTEP Miners offer exciting Division I college athletics at Sun Bowl Stadium and the Don Haskins Center. We are also the home of the El Paso Chihuahuas, the Triple-A baseball affiliate of the San Diego Padres, and the El Paso Locomotive FC, a professional soccer team.

In keeping with its access, excellence, and impact mission, The University of Texas at El Paso is committed to an open, diverse, and inclusive learning and working environment that honors the talents, respects the differences, and nurtures the growth and development of all. We seek to attract faculty and staff who share our commitment.

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, or sexual orientation and gender in employment or the provision of services in accordance with state and federal law. Discrimination on the basis of sex includes an employee's or prospective employee's right to be free from sexual harassment under Title IX of the Higher Education Amendments of 1972.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15978

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty
Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, History & Politics

The Institute for the American Constitutional Heritage (IACH) and Department of Classics and Letters at the University of Oklahoma seek to recruit a dynamic leader and accomplished scholar for the endowed Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty, who will also serve as the Director of the IACH. Established in 2009, the IACH has become a premier civic education program, whose mission is focused on teaching undergraduates, nurturing outstanding scholarship, and engaging the public with a variety of enriching programs.

The next Sanders Chair will have substantial opportunity to develop the IACH's vision, advance its mission, and increase its impact. Subfields of interest include but are not limited to: American law and constitutionalism from the eighteenth-century to present; the historical and ideological background of the American founding; the history of republicanism and democratic theory, etc. Applications are welcome from scholars in fields such as History, Political Science, Law, and Philosophy. Experience in building interdisciplinary academic programs, developing impactful public-facing events, and fundraising are desirable. The successful candidate will be hired at the Full Professor rank in the Department of Classics and Letters starting August 2026 or January 2027. This position will have a 1:1 teaching load while holding the Endowed Chair and Director position.

To apply, please visit: apply.interfolio.com/177567

For questions or inquiries, please contact Kyle Harper at kyleharper@ou.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
The University, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations, does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, genetic information, gender identity/expression (consistent with applicable law), age (40 or older), religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes but is not limited to admissions, employment, housing, financial aid, and educational services.

Why You Belong at the University of Oklahoma
The University of Oklahoma values our community's unique talents, perspectives, and experiences. At OU, we aspire to harness our innovation, creativity, and collaboration for the advancement of people everywhere. You Belong Here!

Mission of the University of Oklahoma
The Mission of the University of Oklahoma is to provide the best possible educational experience for our students through excellence in teaching, research and creative activity, and service to the state and society.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16263

Rutgers University-Newark
Rank: Post-Doctoral Associate

The Sheila Y. Oliver Center for Race & Politics in America (CPRA) at Rutgers University-Newark invites applications for a Post-Doctoral Associate to support bold research into race and politics in the United States. This is a one-year position that may be renewable for a second year pending budgetary approval. In addition, the research support, the position offers the opportunity to teach one 3-credit course per academic year designed to help undergraduate students develop foundational policy analysis, writing, and communication skills; and to write and distribute policy-relevant research.

This Post-Doctoral Associate position provides an ideal environment for scholars to further their research into race and politics in the United States while contributing to the academic development of undergraduate students. The Post-Doctoral Associate is expected to advance their research agenda during their appointment through academic and policy-focused publications; participate in the community and intellectual life of CPRA; and to share their research with the Rutgers-Newark community. The Post-Doctoral Associate will also prepare and teach a course focused on social justice and public policy, with a focus on strengthening students' skills in researching, writing and presenting policy recommendations. This teaching experience will allow fellows to mentor students in essential academic and professional skills while integrating their own scholarly work into the classroom.
Research and Teaching Expectations
The Post-Doctoral Associate will be expected to:
? Conduct independent research and progress significantly on their scholarly agenda, including preparing research for publication.
? Prepare 1-2 policy reports on issues that pertain to race and politics in the United States. We are especially interested in work that is relevant to the State of New Jersey and/or New Jersey politics.
? Teach one course per academic year on social justice and public policy memo writing and policy recommendations designed for undergraduate students in their second year. This course will teach students how to critically analyze and communicate political issues in verbal and written policy forms.
? Contribute to the intellectual, community and academic life of the Sheila Y. Oliver Center for Race & Politics and the Rutgers-Newark campus and community.
? The Post-Doctoral Associate will be expected to participate in professional development activities and engage with faculty and students in an intellectually collaborative environment.
? The Post-Doctoral Associate will be expected to participate in professional development activities and engage with faculty and students in an intellectually collaborative environment.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/25/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16260

Yale University
Rank: Democratic Innovations Postdoctoral Associate 2026-2027

The Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) invites postdoctoral students and junior scholars to apply for its Democratic Innovations Fellowship. Democratic Innovations is an interdisciplinary ISPS program that encourages social scientists from a variety of fields to think about the factors that affect government policy and decision-making and to analyze novel democratic institutions that might support improvements in representation, citizen inclusion, and government performance. To further the study and dissemination of novel ideas, the program will aim to answer questions such as:

- What changes to our political institutions will promote efficient, evidence-based decisions?
- What changes to our political institutions can make them more representative, inclusive, deliberative, and participatory?
- How do ideas and knowledge spread and what institutions can catalyze faster social learning and elevate fact over misinformation?
- How can we build democratic political institutions founded on a realistic view of citizen engagement?
- How can we attract dedicated and talented people to government and promote public engagement that contributes high-quality participation to the political system?

- What new possibilities for government, representation, and citizen participation are introduced by modern technologies, including artificial intelligence?
- What lessons can we learn about factors affecting government performance from history and social science?
- How can we test our ideas scientifically and how can we work to put proven good ideas into practice?

QUALIFICATIONS

We are interested in theoretical and empirical scholars doing basic or applied research on these and related questions. We are also interested in scholars who are experts in novel systems of representation and decision making, especially any innovations in voting, citizens' assemblies, or other political reforms that have been introduced recently and take advantage of advances in communication or computation.

Fellowship positions are open to those who have recently completed their Ph.D. (in the last 6 years), or to those who currently hold an untenured faculty position. Junior scholars are generally supported at a standard postdoctoral level for a period of one year beginning July 1, 2026 and are expected to be in residence during the academic year. In some cases, the Democratic Innovations Fellowship may be extended to a second year. Fellows are expected to be actively engaged with the activities of the Democratic Innovations program and present their research at least once per semester. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and may, in some cases, include minimal teaching responsibilities.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please send cover letter, research statement, current C.V., one writing sample, and two letters of recommendation. A copy of graduate transcripts is also required for postdoctoral applicants not currently holding a faculty position. Please apply on Interfolio at this link.

The review process will begin on January 15, 2026. Please submit your application by that date to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16261

Princeton University

Rank: Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Researchers at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice at Princeton University, under the auspices of the Department of Politics and in collaboration with the School of Public and International Affairs, invites applications for postdoctoral or more senior research position for the 2026-2027 year (Job ID D-26-POL-00007). Renewal is contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. The aim of the program is to promote a group of promising scholars in the broad area of comparative politics, with a special but not exclusive focus on state formation, political regimes, and national identities. This position is overseen by Professor Carles Boix, Robert Garrett Professor of Politics and Public Affairs.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have or expect to have a Ph.D. in the fields of political science, history, political sociology, and economics. The work location for this position is in-person, on campus at Princeton University, for the duration of the appointment (anticipated to be September 1, 2026, through August 31, 2027).

For full consideration, apply by December 31, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Interested applicants must apply online and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members.
Successful applicants will be provided a competitive salary, standard benefits, and an annual allowance to support conference and career development travel. Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2026.

For more information about the Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Program at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice, please contact Michelle Anderson, Program Manager at mcanders@princeton.edu.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. This position is in-person, on-campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16253

Johns Hopkins University: Zanvyl Krieger School of Arts and Sciences: Advanced Academic Programs

Rank: Program Director for Master of Arts in Government program

Johns Hopkins University's Center for Data Analytics, Government and Policy in Washington, D.C. seeks a Faculty Program Director to lead and teach in its Master of Arts in Government program, which enrolls roughly 150 students each year. The Center offers six master's degrees, including Government, Data Analytics and Policy, Public Management, Global Security Studies, Intelligence Analysis, and Non-Profit Management, preparing students for policy-focused careers.

The Faculty Program Director works closely with the Center Director, Associate Dean for AAP, Program Directors, Coordinators, staff, and administrators. Reporting to the Associate Dean for AAP, Center Director, and Program Chair of Governmental Studies, the Program Director is responsible for maintaining program excellence, leading curriculum innovation, and ensuring efficient support for faculty and students.

JHU is committed to hiring candidates who, through their teaching and service, will contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.
Advanced Academic Programs

The Advanced Academic Programs (AAP) provides master's degree programs at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg Center in Washington, D.C., JHU's Homewood Campus in Baltimore, Maryland, and online. AAP distinguishes itself through its intensive instructional assistance, selective admissions, and over 60 dedicated full-time faculty. Tenured Krieger School faculty members serve as program chairs to oversee the academic rigor of AAP's graduate offerings. For more information, see https://advanced.jhu.edu/.

The Program Director is a full-time, renewable, non-tenure-track faculty role with a 12-month appointment and the title of Senior Lecturer. The Program Director will have the following faculty and administrative responsibilities:

Academic Responsibilities
· Teach 3 graduate courses per year, which includes the preparation for and time spent in the classroom (online or onsite), using best practices for online teaching, engaging and mentoring students from diverse backgrounds in the learning process, and responding to student questions
· Engage, advise, and mentor students from diverse backgrounds in the learning process · Provide innovative leadership for curriculum design and new course development to ensure the growth and delivery of the programs
· Keep current in the academic field, attend academic conferences, and contributing to other academic endeavors
· University service

Administrative Responsibilities
· Provide overall supervision for the MA Government program
· Oversee adjunct faculty hiring, development,?mentoring, and evaluation in consultation with the Center Director, Program Chair and KSAS Dean or designee
· Oversee program admissions processes, including reviewing and approving prospective students' admissions materials
· Schedule courses and set teaching assignments
· Coordinate program promotion and outreach with the Marketing and Communications Team, including interacting with outside groups and develop external/internal partnerships · Coordinate with staff in Student Affairs, Faculty and Academic Affairs, instructional design teams, administration and finance, and enrollment services to ensure the day to day operations of the program.
· Other administrative duties as assigned

Qualifications

The Program Director must be entrepreneurial, energetic, collaborative, and inclusive. They will bring a passion for education and its power to change lives, especially for part-time and non-residential students, combined with the business acumen necessary to lead a successful professional education enterprise. Successful candidates will have experience creating both in-person and online education programs, demonstrate skills in instructional design, content development, and technology, and deliver excellent student experiences. Experience teaching and engaging students from diverse backgrounds is especially valued.

To be considered, candidates should meet a set of minimum qualifications and ideally meet several additional preferred qualifications.

Minimum Qualifications
· Ph.D. in Government/Political Science or in a similar relevant field
· Five-plus years of higher education teaching experience online and/or at the graduate level
· 3 or more years of management or leadership experience in an Associate Director or similar related position
· The ability to teach a wide variety of courses in the Government field · Extensive connections in the practitioner community, preferably both governmental and non-governmental.
· Demonstrated track record of excellence in teaching and innovation in curriculum design
· Strong organizational skills
· The ability to work independently in a fast-paced environment with competing demands and multiple deadlines
· Excellent oral and written communication skills

Preferred Qualifications
· A record of scholarly or professional publications or analogous classified work;
· Experience managing a degree program
· 2 or more years of related professional work experience outside of academia, including but not limited to relevant government or public; outside consulting or collaborative work within fields related to government

For full details and application, see here: https://apply.interfolio.com/177741

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 16236

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Political Science and Public Administration. Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in American government, advanced undergraduate courses in policy and/or public administration, and graduate seminars in public policy and/or public administration. Demonstrated ability to maintain and active research agenda resulting in peer-reviewed publications is essential. A successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students, maintain an active research agenda leading to publication, participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university, and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Essential Job Functions
Implement effective teaching strategies.
Maintain an active research agenda that includes publication of research papers in peer-reviewed journals and/or submission of research grants.
Actively participate in academic service at the department, college, and university levels.

Minimum and Desired Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
Applicants should have an earned PhD in Political Science or Public Administration.
Supplemental Information

Key Competencies:
Excellent interpersonal, verbal, and written communication skills.
Ability to implement effective and innovative teaching strategies.
Ability to perform academic research in degree area of specialty.
Demonstrated commitment to service to the university, profession, and community.

Physical Requirements: Able to lift 25 lbs and be able to perform a variety of physical tasks including lifting, bending, stooping, squatting, stair climbing and walking between buildings.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS: For consideration please be sure to have these documents attached to your application.
Teaching Philosophy
Curriculum Vita
Writing Sample
Cover Letter

Special Instructions: "Application considered incomplete pending receipt of three letters of recommendation to officeofthedean-COAS@lamar.edu"

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16238

Yale University

Rank: Center for the Study of American Politics Research Postdoctoral Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177907.

We will be accepting applications until the position is filled, but applications submitted by February 1, 2026 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 2/18/2026
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16239

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - Political Design for Effective Goverment Project
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Professors Alan Gerber, Gregory Huber, and Josh Kalla at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) seek postdoctoral research associates for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will be funded by the Democratic Innovations Program's new Political Design for Effective Government Project.

Research projects will likely include, but are not limited to, field experiments using informational interventions to improve government performance, measurement of bureaucratic and officeholder quality and careers, designing politically viable general interest policy proposals, elite surveys, and developing political economy models of government performance.

Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicants and will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming, database management, or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177876.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16237

Alma College

Rank: Instructor/lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Political Science Department at Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applicants for an Instructor/Lecturer of Political Science. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track position beginning Fall 2026. This position is for three years with the possibility of renewal. Teaching load will be 8 units per academic year.

The department seeks applicants with a demonstrated commitment to exciting, engaging pedagogies and topics. Preference will be given to candidates that can teach courses that complement existing departmental strengths in International Relations and American Politics. A master's degree is required, but a Ph.D. is preferred. Candidates who are ABD with teaching experience may also be considered.

The Political Science Department at Alma College is committed to the preparation of knowledgeable, competent, and well-rounded graduates who reflect critically, serve ethically, and lead intentionally in a diverse world. This is a small department that works collaboratively to provide rigorous student-centered education in a residential setting with a deep commitment to quality liberal arts education.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16225

Michigan State University

Rank: Associate Director, Institute for Public Policy and Social Research

Academic Specialist - Outreach - Fixed Term

Michigan State University actively promotes a dynamic research and learning environment in which qualified individuals of differing perspectives, and cultural backgrounds pursue academic goals with mutual respect and shared inquiry.

Michigan State University is seeking an Associate Director that supports the overall leadership and strategic direction of the Institute for Public Policy and Social Research (IPPSR) by fostering connections between academic research and public policy, managing compliance and budgeting, and advancing outreach to state and local stakeholders. It also involves developing independent and collaborative projects, strengthening the survey research unit, mentoring staff, and cultivating a research-driven culture among faculty and students that emphasizes communication, policy engagement, and external funding.

The Associate Director will co-lead signature programs with the Director, such as the Legislative Leadership Program, Michigan Political Leadership Program, Policy Forums, and other educational and training programs. They will also support the Institute's survey research unit, manage large-scale data projects like the Correlates of State Policy database and the Michigan Policy Insiders Panel, oversee the Michigan Applied Public Policy Research grant program, and mentor student research teams.

IPPSR operates within the College of Social Science and seeks to apply research to urgent public issues by offering survey services, educational programs, and fostering problem-solving relationships across academic and policymaker communities on society's most pressing needs. This role requires a collaborative spirit, a commitment to public engagement, and the ability to translate academic research into actionable policy insights. The Associate Director will also contribute to fundraising efforts and represent IPPSR and MSU across campus and beyond.

Minimum Requirements:
• Master's degree and at least 6/8 years' experience in fields of government law, policy affairs, or public policy or bachelor's degree and 8/10 years' experience in fields of government, law, policy affairs, or public policy
• At least three years' professional experience leading teams, managing projects in public policy arenas with increasingly responsible roles involving external relations, program development and execution, strategic planning, team building, conference coordination, budget development and administration, or related fields
• Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively and maintain strategic alliances and relationships with a wide cross section of stakeholders

Desired Qualifications:
• Strong familiarity with Michigan and national policymaking
• Strong writing, editing, and public speaking skills
• Commitment to civic engagement and public service
• Familiarity with strategic planning, organizational operations, and administrative procedures associated with a university setting
• Experience with data-driven policy analysis or survey research

Required Application Materials:
• Cover letter
• Curriculum Vita
• Please provide the names and contact information of three references.

Website: ippsr.msu.edu

Apply at: https://careers.msu.edu/
Posting number: 1083287

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16214

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions Senior Visiting Scholar
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Public Opinion

Vanderbilt University's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) seeks up to three Senior Visiting Scholars to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior during the 2026-27 academic year. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions.

The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending the entire academic year at Vanderbilt. There is no teaching requirement associated with these positions. Successful candidates will receive office space and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing your research project, what you hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applicants should submit materials electronically at: https://apply.interfolio.com/177613. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 5, 2026.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16216

Washington State University

Rank: Director of Foley Institute and Associate Professor/Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Administration

Washington State University seeks a visionary leader for the position of Director of the Foley Institute for Public Policy and Public Service and as a faculty member in the School of Politics, Philosophy, and Public Affairs (PPPA) in the College of Arts and Sciences. Applications are invited for a permanent, full-time 9-month, tenure-eligible position at the rank of Associate Professor or Full Professor as well as a termed, though renewable, administrative leadership appointment as the Director of the Foley Institute for which an administrative stipend will be paid.

The mission of the Foley Institute is to provide public affairs education, engage students in public service, and support academic research on public policy and democratic institutions. As the Director you are expected to interact with and serve the public, build connections with state and national institutions, and create and sustain pathways for students interested in pursuing public service careers.

You will be expected to strengthen your own disciplinary area while fostering collaboration and building connections across PPPA's multiple disciplines. PPPA engages in scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and public outreach to address the ethical, philosophical, and political challenges facing the world. As a member of PPPA faculty, you are expected to work within the School to prepare students to be effective and engage citizens and leaders equipped with a strong understanding of research methods and a multidisciplinary, problem-solving mindset. Additionally, you are expected to be an effective administrator, while maintaining a strong research agenda in your area of expertise, and contribute to teaching in the School of PPPA.

As the successful candidate is expected to have an exceptional record of collaborative leadership that fosters common goals within a department or program and the broader university community, experience with public service, and a record of effective communication with the university community and the broader public. The successful candidate will also have an outstanding record in research and teaching in American Politics, interpreted broadly. Successful candidates will be expected to begin the four (4) year renewable appointment as Director on August 16, 2026.

See the following link for full details and to apply: https://wsu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/WSU_Jobs/job/Associate-Professor-Professor_R-14220

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: $140,000 - $149,999
eJobs ID: 16211

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking applicants for its 2026–27 Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship. The fellowship offers younger scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to conduct policy-relevant research at CFR's New York or Washington, DC, offices. CFR awards up to two fellowships annually.

The fellowship begins on September 8, 2026, and runs for twelve months.

How to Apply

Program details, eligibility requirements, and the online application can be found at: www.cfr.org/fellowships/stanton-nuclear-security-fellowship. Applicants must be U.S. citizens.

The deadline to apply is November 30, 2025. If you have questions about the fellowship, please email fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16202

Delta College

Rank: Political Science (Tenure Track) Instructor

Delta College is seeking faculty members committed to the college's philosophy that education serves the greater good by providing students access to a better life. The candidates for faculty positions understand that community colleges are positioned to fundamentally change people's lives, and as a result, society itself. Required qualities include a belief that continuous improvement in pedagogy and relationships with students, other faculty, and staff are hallmarks of an educator who has been called to the profession. We are seeking colleagues who embrace the idea of helping students achieve their goals, and approach academic excellence as evidenced in equity as a moral imperative.

Delta believes that faculty are the heart of the institution. We are seeking faculty members who are energized by the community college pathways and inclusivity/equity initiatives, and see it as their job to support a diverse set of learners inside and outside the classroom. Delta embraces the notion of life-long learning and continuous improvement, and so is looking for those with a sincere desire to self-reflect on personal instructional practices and work collaboratively with colleagues to improve teaching and learning for all students. The faculty members that Delta seeks to hire live a daily work-commitment to the democratic ideal espoused in Delta's mission.

The Social Sciences division is seeking candidates for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to teach Political Science. Instructors are responsible for establishing and promoting an inclusive and effective learning environment to maximize student learning. Instructors may be assigned to teach a variety of courses in the discipline, with most of the teaching load being in introductory American Politics.

Instructors teach in various modalities such as a traditional classroom, online asynchronous, online synchronous, or hybrid modality as needed in the Social Sciences Division at Delta College. In addition, we seek candidates whose pedagogy, research, and continuous professional development have prepared them to engage with the college's commitment to belonging, equity, diversity, and inclusion (BEDI).

POSITION ACCOUNTABILITIES AND ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS:

-Demonstrate a commitment to the mission, vision, and values of Delta College.
-Demonstrate a philosophy of teaching that provides learning opportunities that meet the needs of all students.
-Teach at least 30 equated credit hours annually in a variety of settings including the main campus, Saginaw Center, Midland Center, or online. Online modalities include hybrid, asynchronous, and synchronous.
-Focus on supporting and assessing student learning and academic achievement to promote student success.
-Develop innovative, dynamic, and engaging learning environments that support student learning and success.
-Collaborate voluntarily and energetically with colleagues in the academic discipline and with other faculty colleagues to develop effective learning experiences for a diverse student body.
-Integrate international and intercultural experiences in the college, community, and curriculum.
-Design, implement, and assess civic engagement projects in collaboration with students, faculty, and local communities.
-Serve the community through outreach activities.
-Make effective and innovative use of appropriate technology in the performance of the listed responsibilities and accountabilities.
-Participate in shared governance as a full member of the academic community.
-Commit to ongoing educational and professional growth.
-Engage fully in course, discipline, and program development.
-Attend and participate in discipline, division, and college meetings.
-Possess minimum technology skills and understanding of a course management system.
-Demonstrate teaching effectiveness which encompasses pedagogies for student success and learning to meet course or program requirements.
-Possess excellent verbal, written and interpersonal skills.
-Participate in activities that are required for the accreditation of the discipline, division or college.

Required Qualifications
-Master's degree or higher in Political Science
-Ability to teach both in-person on a Delta campus and in an online setting.
-Commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive learning environment.

Additional Experiences Considered
-Experience using a variety of teaching technologies and methodologies
-Experience with interdisciplinary teaching
-Demonstrated current and ongoing professional growth
-Substantive multicultural experience (for example: urban community service, academic course work in minority or foreign language studies, or teaching experience with students from underrepresented groups)
-Experience working with non-traditional students from diverse backgrounds and with varying academic skills
-Experience using course management systems
-College teaching experience, especially in a community college setting
-Online teaching experience
-Experience with dual enrollment initiatives
-Pedagogy is informed by belonging, equity, diversity and inclusion.
-Bilingual

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16056

SUNY Plattsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Expected to begin Fall 2026, the duties of this tenure-track position are expected to include instruction of three courses (e.g. introductory course in U.S. national politics, upper-level electives in American political institutions and behavior, and other courses related to their areas of expertise) per semester, scholarship, and participation in department and university service, including the academic advisement of a diverse student body with a large population of first-generation students. The successful candidate may be asked to teach courses in a distance learning format. The Political Science Department is a small, collegial department that offers a wide range of courses in politics and government, preparing our students for a variety of career paths while developing valuable relationships and skills. We are part of the School of Arts & Sciences which provides excellence in learning opportunities for all students at SUNY Plattsburgh through a core liberal arts education. We train students who can think critically, have mastered their discipline, can communicate effectively and are broadly educated. As SUNY Plattsburgh is an institution that delivers challenging and high-quality educational experiences to a diverse group of learners, the successful candidate must demonstrate an understanding of and sensitivity to diversity, inclusion, and equity-minded policies, programs, and practices.

SUNY Plattsburgh is an AA/EEO/ADA/VEVRAA employer committed to excellence through diversity and supporting an inclusive environment for all.

To learn more about this position and to apply, please visit https://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/15623

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/3/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16186

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate - Yale Center on State Capacity and Economic Growth

The Yale Center on State Capacity and Economic Growth at Yale's Institution for Social and Political Studies invites applications for a post-doctoral associate position for AY 2026-27.

The post-doctoral associate will be expected to teach one undergraduate course during the year, pursue their own research on topics related to state capacity, regulatory reform, economic growth, or institutional design, and assist in organizing an annual conference and ongoing speakers series. The position is expected to begin on July 1, 2026. The post-doctoral associate is expected to be in residence during the academic year and to present their research during the annual conference or speakers series. This is a one-year position, with the possibility to renew for a second year depending on funding and performance. Compensation is competitive, and includes benefits, health coverage, and a $10,000 annual research and conference travel account.

Candidates must have a robust research program in political science, economics, political economy, public policy, or law, and must have completed their Ph.D., J.D., or equivalent by the time of appointment. To apply, send a cover letter, CV, research statement, one writing sample, and a draft of a syllabus of an undergraduate course you propose to teach at Yale on topics related to this position. Please also provide two letters of recommendation submitted on your behalf.

The Yale Center on State Capacity and Economic Growth, led by Professors Joshua Kalla, Zachary Liscow, and David Schleicher, is an interdisciplinary research group committed to exploring evidence-based approaches to tackle the economic and political challenges that America faces. The Lab brings together scholars from across the social sciences and law to study how institutions can be designed and reformed to work more effectively for citizens. Our research examines the political processes that shape policy outcomes and investigates how regulatory barriers, procedural obstacles, and institutional design choices shaped by politics and public opinion constrain the capacity to build the housing, infrastructure, and investments that communities need. We examine how policy reforms can reduce costs, expand opportunity, and promote innovation. Through rigorous empirical analysis and cross-disciplinary collaboration, the Lab aims to bridge the gap between academic research and real-world policy implementation, fostering dialogue among scholars, policymakers, and practitioners from across the political spectrum who share a commitment to effective, evidence-based governance.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2026
Date Posted: 11/3/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16185

Patrick Henry College

Rank: Professor of Government—American Politics
Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Political Parties & Organizations

Patrick Henry College seeks a professor of government (rank negotiable) to begin in the fall of 2026. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching and research and possess a strong biblical worldview that aligns with historic orthodox Christian teachings. The ideal candidate will have an earned Ph.D. in Government or Political Science with the ability to provide leadership to PHC's vibrant American Politics and Policy program and teach a variety of courses in American Politics including Congress, Presidency, Campaigns and Elections, Public Policy, State and Local Government, and an introductory course in research methods or comparative politics.

Candidates should be evangelical Christians, in full agreement with the College's Statement of Faith and Biblical Foundations Statement, and supportive of the College's Mission, Vision, and Educational Philosophy.

PHC is a private, nondenominational, SACS and TRACS-accredited institution located near Washington, D.C., in Purcellville, Virginia. The classical liberal arts—wed to a strong biblical foundation—are at the heart of the College's educational philosophy. This approach is evidenced by the College's unique sixty-three-credit core curriculum. PHC is known for its talented and highly motivated students and for its high academic quality.

The position is subject to the College's verification of credentials along with other information required by law and PHC's policies, including the successful completion of a background check. Compensation is competitive. Review of applications will begin immediately.

To apply, submit a cover letter addressed to Dr. Mark T. Mitchell, Dean of Academic Affairs, along with curriculum vitae, a list of three references (one pastoral), a sample of scholarship, and a personal statement of faith including an explanation of how faith shapes your teaching in the classroom. Please also include teaching evaluations or evidence of successful teaching if available. Application materials should be submitted to jobs@phc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16160

Appalachian State University

Rank: Dan German Endowed Professorship of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for the Dan German Endowed Professorship, a tenure-track position at the rank of Associate or Full Professor.
This distinguished position is open to established scholars with an exemplary record of mentoring students, innovative teaching, and/or civic and community engagement.. The appointment will begin in August 2026, though the start date is negotiable. The salary is competitive and includes dedicated funds to support the activities of the professorship.

The Dan German Endowed Professorship is designed to honor and extend the legacy of student-centered engagement and scholarship. The successful candidate will:
- Demonstrate a sustained record of mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, including guiding research and fostering professional development.
- Exhibit innovative teaching practices, which may include experiential learning, community-based pedagogy, or collaborative course design.
- Engage in civic and community partnerships that connect students to broader political, professional, social, and cultural issues.

Areas of expertise are open to all subfields of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political theory, public administration, and public policy. Candidates whose work intersects with civic engagement, democratic participation, or applied politics are especially encouraged to apply.

The Dan German Professor will:
- Teach 2-3 courses per semester, with opportunities to develop new courses that reflect the scholar's expertise and complement departmental offerings.

- Mentor students in research, internships, and community-engaged projects.
- Collaborate with faculty to design programming that enriches the intellectual life of the department and university.
- Use endowed funds to support activities such as:
-- Hosting public lectures, panels, or workshops.
-- Supporting student research or travel.
-- Developing civic engagement initiatives in partnership with local or regional organizations.

Applicants must submit an electronic application consisting of:
1. A letter of interest highlighting previous student engagement, mentoring approaches, innovative teaching, and engagement activities to be pursued during the professorship.
2. A current curriculum vitae.

Questions may be directed to the search chair, Dr. Phillip J. Ardoin, at ardoinpj@appstate.edu.

Apply here: https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/52477

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16155

Harvard University

Rank: Professor of Public Policy (American Politics)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Social Movements

Harvard Kennedy School seeks a scholar of the highest distinction to appoint as a professor of public policy, focusing on American politics, elections, and policy. We particularly welcome applications from scholars whose research focuses on those American principles, institutions, and norms that support a free and fair society. Specializations may include individual liberties, federalism, government regulations and efficiency, electoral campaigns, social and religious movements, and the relationship between government and the rights of private citizens. Candidates should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Requirements include a doctorate in political science and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV to Professor Maya Sen, Search Committee Chair, via https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15417. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16149

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Asian American Politics, History & Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES
Department of Social and Cultural Analysis
NEW YORK UNIVERSITY ARTS AND SCIENCE

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis invites applications for a Faculty Fellow in Asian/Pacific/American Studies, with an initial appointment of one year beginning September 1, 2026, and the expectation of annual renewal for two additional years, subject to pending budgetary and administrative approval.

The successful candidate should hold a PhD in any field or discipline related to Asian/Pacific/American Studies, and we especially encourage scholars who focus on trans-regional and interdisciplinary approaches to Asian American and/or Pacific World studies to apply. Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. no earlier than five years before the date of appointment and have a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. The teaching load will be three courses per annum.

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis is an interdisciplinary department committed to developing innovative approaches in urbanism, migration, critical racial, ethnic and indigenous studies, gender and sexuality, art, culture, politics, and economic life. The Department has degree programs in Africana Studies, American Studies, Asian/Pacific/American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latinx Studies, Urban Studies, and Social and Cultural Analysis.

Applicants must apply through Interfolio using this link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/175770

Review of applications will begin on November 10, 2025 and continue until the search is complete. Candidates should submit the following on Interfolio: a cover letter that reflects on relevant experience, a CV, a writing sample, a sample syllabus, and the contact information of three people NYU can solicit for letters of recommendation.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Arts & Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who are sensitive to the needs of and possess an interest in working in a broad academic community with different viewpoints and backgrounds. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here:
https://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultyexcellence.html.

If you have questions, please contact Marty Correia at mc2828@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16145

Angelo State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy at Angelo State University is seeking a new colleague starting Fall 2026 to assist in its core mission of preparing its majors for excellence and leadership in their communities and careers and of instilling and promoting civic education in the larger ASU student body.

Considering the responsibility public institutions of higher education have to prepare students for responsible citizenship in a free society, the Department has been charged with teaching core courses in Texas Government and Federal Government. These courses represent a majority of the teaching workload for faculty in our department and require a thorough familiarity with the principles of liberty and free, republican government underlying the Constitutions of Texas and of the United States.

Our new colleague must be prepared to contribute to the major in Political Science by teaching Introduction to Political Science and upper division courses in International Relations and Comparative Politics. A variety of research areas will be considered, but we are looking for emphases on the activity of major states, such as China, Russia, etc. Also important to this position is the ability to cultivate our students for careers in diplomacy, national security, and foreign policy.

Our major in Political Science is undergoing a period of enrollment growth, and we are proposing to build on that growth with a number of interdisciplinary programs/curricular initiatives, such as, new minors and certificates in PPE (Politics, Philosophy, and Economics), Civic Education and Leadership, and Constitutional and Legal Studies. Ability to contribute to these efforts will be considered a plus factor.

Review of applications will begin 11/17/25 and will continue until the position is filled.

Typical Duties/Job Duties
Faculty at Angelo State teach a 4-4 load and are expected to maintain an active research agenda and engage in service to the university. A typical semester will involve teaching one upper-level course and three sections of Texas Government or Federal Government. The faculty member's record of scholarly achievement will be evaluated according to the department's established criterion. Service at Angelo State includes attending departmental and college meetings, advising majors, serving on both department and university-wide committees, and may also be bolstered by service to the discipline and to the Concho Valley community.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities
Teaching experience and a commitment to teaching excellence.
Knowledge of the Constitutions of the United States and Texas and of the civic educational purposes underscored by the requirements found in Section 51.301 of the Texas Education Code.

Minimum Qualifications
PhD in Political Science; advanced ABDs are also encouraged to apply.

Preferred Qualifications
Experience with the efforts to revive civic knowledge in Texas and the United States.

Applications can be submitted at Angelo State University's Employment Page, which can be accessed at https://employment.angelo.edu/postings/7223

Any inquiries should be directed to tony.bartl@angelo.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16142

Angelo State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy at Angelo State University is searching for two new colleagues to assist in its core mission of instilling and promoting civic education in the student body and preparing its majors for excellence and leadership in their communities and careers.

The Department has been charged with teaching core courses in Texas Government and Federal Government. These courses require a thorough familiarity with the principles of liberty and free government underlying the Constitutions of Texas and of the United States, and of the structural elements by which these Constitutions seek to put those principles into practice—separation of powers, federalism, local self-government, etc.

Our major in Political Science is undergoing a period of enrollment growth, and we are currently seeking approval for a number of new program/curricular initiatives, such as new minors and certificates in PPE (Politics, Philosophy, and Economics), Civic Education and Leadership, and Constitutional and Legal Studies. Preference will be given to candidates who can assist in the implementation and growth of these endeavors, as well as those who can contribute to the major in Political Science by teaching Introduction to Political Science and some combination of the following upper-division courses: Political Parties, Congress, the Presidency, American Political Thought, and Religion and Politics.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. A Spring 2026 start is preferable for one of the positions and Fall 2026 for the other.

Applications can be submitted at Angelo State University's Employment Page, which can be accessed at https://employment.angelo.edu/postings/7180

Any inquiries should be directed to tony.bartl@angelo.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16143

North Carolina State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations
Specializations: Political Behavior, Race & Ethnic Politics, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in political behavior to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose area of specialization is race and ethnicity politics but will also consider candidates with primary interests in other identity and social groups, voting behavior, public opinion, political psychology, media politics, campaigns and elections, or other subject matter related to the sub-field of political behavior.

We welcome scholars who approach these topics from American, comparative, or international perspectives. Those with relevant expertise will have the opportunity to teach in the Master of International Studies program.

Candidates should be able to demonstrate that they will have defended their dissertation by their start date.

The successful candidate will maintain a robust research agenda, teach two courses per semester, contribute to student mentoring, and actively participate in service to the university and profession.

Perform other duties as assigned by the department head.

For best consideration, apply before November 17, 2025.

To apply, go to: https://jobs.ncsu.edu/postings/224115

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16141

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher in Government: Polarization Research Lab, 2026-2027

The Polarization Research Lab (PRL) at Dartmouth College seeks a postdoctoral researcher to join our team for 2026-2027. The postdoc will work with Associate Professor of Government and PRL Director Sean Westwood on projects related to democratic attitudes and governance in the United States. Postdocs in the lab receive mentorship and training to achieve their career goals.

The main job of the postdoc will be to write academic articles, design and implement survey experiments, use methods of causal inference to assess the impact of changes in the information environment on changes in attitudes, and conduct descriptive studies of the data. They will be involved in all aspects of the research, with the goal of co-authoring academic publications and creating reports for widespread consumption.

The postdoc will have the chance to co-author (and lead) papers and work on scientific projects with researchers from institutions around the world. While the majority of the time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there will be opportunity (and space on the lab's survey instrument) to develop related independent research.

This position is full-time, non-remote, in-residence at Dartmouth in Hanover, NH, with start date as early as July 1, 2026. Initial appointment is for one year, with the possibility of renewal. Postdoctoral researchers receive a stipend of approximately $67,500 plus benefits and an allocation for research expenses (exact funding levels for 2026-27 will be set at the time of offer). Postdoctoral researchers are advised and hosted in the Department of Government. They are also supported by the Guarini School for Graduate and Advanced Studies, including their community initiatives.

Qualifications

. A Ph.D. conferred by July 1, 2026, with a preference for political science, economics, statistics, or computer science.
. A range of statistical and data skills, including graduate-level knowledge of causal inference methods, computational data management, and data analysis.
. Experience managing large datasets and executing data analysis in complex environments is highly valued.

Please submit all materials electronically through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/175722

Review of applications will begin January 5, 2026, and continue until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Professor Sean J. Westwood at sean.j.westwood@dartmouth.edu.

Dartmouth is committed to academic excellence and encourages the open exchange of ideas within a culture of mutual respect. Dartmouth welcomes people with different backgrounds, life experiences, and perspectives and believes that diversity in all its forms enhances academic excellence. Applicants should address in their cover letter how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to serve Dartmouth's commitment to academic excellence in an environment that is welcoming to all.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16129

New College of Florida

Rank: Political Behavior and Methodology (tenure-track)
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Political Science position in Comparative or American Political Behavior and Methodology. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to teaching at least one core quantitative methods course each year and joining the rotation for a general Research Design course, the candidate will offer courses in their substantive field of interest. Although the geographic specialization is open to Comparative and American, the candidate must be able to teach upper-level courses in American Political Behavior. The candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. We are especially looking for candidates who are interested in teaching applied methodological techniques at the intermediate to advanced undergraduate level, including multiple regression, probit/logit regression, and any of the following: time series analysis, computational social science, complex systems, GIS, and social network analysis. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2026.

New College, the honors college of the State University System of Florida, is a small, selective, innovative liberal arts institution. Students, with the help of faculty sponsors, plan their own academic programs through a series of semester contracts, and receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work appropriate to their specializations.

Interested candidates should apply online at http://www.ncf.edu/employment and upload the following: a cover letter, c.v., statements of teaching and research interests, syllabi, teaching evaluations, one writing sample (article or chapter length), and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please identify three scholars to write letters of recommendation (they will receive a request through the system). According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding the search are open to the public upon request.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16130

Ramapo College of New Jersey

Rank: Temporary Assistant Professor of Political Science (Non-Tenure Track - 10 months)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science convening group of Ramapo College of New Jersey seeks a Temporary Assistant Professor for a one-year renewable appointment starting August 26, 2026. We seek a colleague whose teaching and scholarship engage contemporary developments in American politics and policy. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester. Courses to be taught can include American Government, Supreme Court, Civil Rights, Interest Groups and Parties, Political Theory, Presidency, and Principles of Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to the activities of the convening group and the college, in addition to teaching responsibilities. Describe how your teaching and scholarship, or outside community work, engage in trends in the discipline and support the academic success of students.

Ramapo College of New Jersey, a public liberal arts institution, seeks a dynamic and forward-thinking faculty member whose teaching, research, and service reflect a deep commitment to the College's core academic pillars: international, intercultural, interdisciplinary, and experiential learning. We welcome candidates who are passionate about integrating emerging technologies and AI into their pedagogy and scholarship, and who bring both personal and professional dedication to student success. The ideal candidate is energized by community engagement and committed to educating students from the broad range of backgrounds Ramapo proudly serves— including first-generation college students, as well as bi- and multilingual and multicultural learners of all ages.

Qualifications

Education:

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science.

Application Process:

Please submit your completed application online via http://www.ramapojobs.com. Applications will begin to be reviewed starting January 1, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Prof. Dean Chen (dchen@ramapo.edu), Search Committee Chair, School of Humanities and Global Studies. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7732.

For more information about the Political Science program at Ramapo College, please visit our webpage: https://www.ramapo.edu/majors-minors/majors/political-science/

Application Materials:

Cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, and one sample syllabus

Supplemental Information

EEO Statement:

Ramapo College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Ramapo has a long history of advocating, advising, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. Examples can be found in its mission statement, strategic plans, degree and course offerings, community outreach programs, and other diversity programs. Ramapo's commitment to diversity and inclusion is infused across all facets of the College; where the environment is welcoming, dedicated to social justice, respectful of freedom of expression, focused on educating and having an ongoing conversation regarding cultural competence and the benefits and importance of diversity.

Employer
Ramapo College of New Jersey

Address
505 Ramapo Valley Road

Mahwah, New Jersey, 07430

Phone
2016847782

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ramapo/jobs/5106344/temporary-assistant-professor-of-political-science-non-tenure-track-10-months?pagetype=jobOpportunitiesJobs

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16108

University of Cincinnati

Rank: Assistant Professor, Cyber Security Studies

Assistant Professor, Cyber Security Studies, College of Arts and Sciences

Next Lives at the University of Cincinnati

Founded in 1819, the University of Cincinnati ranks among the nation's best urban public research universities. Home to more than 53,000 students, 12,000 faculty and staff, and over 350,000 living alumni, UC, a Carnegie 1 institution, combines research prowess with a physical setting The New York Times has called "the most ambitious campus design program in the country." UC's momentum has never been stronger as the anchor of the Cincinnati Innovation District, the oldest cooperative education (co-op) program in the country with students earning $88.8 million annually through paid experiences, an academic health system, and as a member of the Big 12 Conference. The university contributes $10.6 billion in economic impact to the city and $22.7 billion to the state of Ohio. At UC, next is all of us. Learn more at uc.edu.

UC is a mission-driven organization where we are committed to student success and positively transforming the community through scholarship and service. We thrive on innovation, making an impact, and fostering an environment where staff and faculty are key contributors to UC's success.

Job Overview

The School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) at the University of Cincinnati invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in Cyber Security Studies. The position will hold an additional appointment of Faculty Fellow in the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy to advance grant-funded research including the areas of cyber threat modeling, cyber exercises and their methodology, operational security, and cyber-related US national security research conducted through the new National Security Research Institute at UC. Candidates will teach the core National and International Cyber Strategy and Policy course minimally twice a year (on-line 120 students per semester) and two other courses in a new BA in Cyber Strategy and Digital Affairs going through approval at this time. The appointment is intended to begin August 15, 2026.

SPIA offers an MPA, MA and PhD in Political Science as well as three undergraduate BAs (Political Science, International Affairs, and Law and Society). SPIA also houses three research centers --the Portman Center for Policy Solutions, the Center for Truth, Community Healing and Transformation (CTRHT) and the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy (CCSP).

The University of Cincinnati is an urban, public, comprehensive Research I institution committed to attracting, supporting, and retaining an academically and culturally diverse faculty.

Essential Functions

The successful candidate will:
· Teach the core undergraduate course in National and International Cyber Strategy and Policy minimally twice a year (on-line 120 students per semester) and two additional in-person courses in a new BA in Cyber Strategy and Digital Affairs per academic year (2-2 teaching load). Overtime a graduate course maybe developed in cyber security studies.
· Hold an additional appointment of Faculty Fellow with the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy and pursue an active research agenda in cyber security studies and advance the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy's grant-based research including cyber threat modeling, cyber exercises and their methodology, operational security, and cyber-related US national security research conducted through the new National Security Research Institute at UC.
· Support SPIA governance through unit-level, college, and/or university service such as but not limited to advising of SPIA majors. Engagement with the wider university community, external partners such as state of Ohio agencies, and/or national and international professional organizations is also expected as professional service.
Minimum Requirements

Prior to effective date of the appointment, PhD in Political Science or a related field.

Application Process

Interested and qualified applicants must complete our on-line application.
https://jobs.uc.edu/job/Cincinnati-Assistant-Professor%2C-Cyber-Security-Studies%2C-College-of-Arts-and-Sciences-OH-45201/1334683000/

In addition to the basic online application, please provide:
· a cover letter indicating fit with the job description and SPIA/CCSP programs outlined above;
· full and current CV;
· three names of references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists);
· a one-page statement addressing the candidate's intended contributions to the University's goals of building a team culture through teaching and service.

Please use the`additional documents' feature to include all these required items. Review of applications will begin immediately with applications accepted until the position is filled.

Questions should be directed to Richard.Harknett@uc.edu

Compensation and Benefits

UC offers a wide array of complementary and affordable benefit options, to meet the financial, educational, health, and wellness needs of you and your family. Eligibility varies by position and FTE.

· Competitive salary range dependent on the candidate's experience.
· Comprehensive insurance plans including medical, dental, vision, and prescription coverage.
· Flexible spending accounts and an award-winning employee wellness program, plus an employee assistance program.

· Financial security via our life and long-term disability insurance, accident and illness insurance, and retirement savings plans.
· Generous paid time off work options including vacation, sick leave, annual holidays, and winter season days in addition to paid parental leave.
· Tuition remission is available for employees and their eligible dependents.
· Enjoy discounts for on and off-campus activities and services.

As a UC employee, and an employee of an Ohio public institution, if hired you will not contribute to the federal Social Security system, other than contributions to Medicare. Instead, UC employees have the option to contribute to a state retirement plan (OPERS, STRS) or an alternative retirement plan (ARP).

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

For questions about the UC recruiting process or to request accommodations with the application, please contact Human Resources at jobs@uc.edu.

The University of Cincinnati is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Compensation and Benefits

UC offers an exceptional benefits package designed to support your well-being, financial security, and work-life balance. (UC Benefits Link) Highlights include:

Comprehensive Tuition Remission

UC provides tuition remission for you and your eligible dependents, covering tuition costs for nearly all undergraduate and graduate programs offered by the university.

Robust Retirement Plans

As a UC employee, you won't contribute to Social Security (except Medicare). Instead, you'll choose between state pension plans (OPERS, STRS) or an Alternative Retirement Plan (ARP), with UC contributing 14–18% of your salary based on position.

Real Work-Life Balance

UC prioritizes work-life balance with a generous time-off policy, including:

Vacation and sick time
11 paid holidays and additional end-of-year paid time off (Winter Season Days)
6 weeks of paid parental leave for new parents

Additional Benefits Include:

Competitive salary based on experience
Comprehensive health coverage (medical, dental, vision, prescription)
Flexible spending accounts & wellness programs
Professional development & mentorship opportunities

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html

UC is an E-Verify employer. If hired into this position, you will be required to provide satisfactory proof of employment eligibility by providing acceptable, original forms of identification for employment verification via the Federal I-9 employment verification process. A list of acceptable documents can be seen here: https://www.uscis.gov/i-9-central/form-i-9-acceptable-documents

Important: To apply you must create a profile and submit a complete job application through the UC applicant portal. We are unable to consider "easy apply" applications submitted via other websites. For questions about the UC recruiting process or to request accommodations with the application, please contact Human Resources at jobs@uc.edu.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

Equal Opportunity Employer. Building a workplace where all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment, including Individuals with Disabilities and Protected Veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16112

University of Nebraska, Omaha

Rank: Instructor: American Government and Politics

Two-Year Instructor Position, American Government and Politics

The University of Nebraska at Omaha seeks applicants for a two-year instructor position in Political Science. The anticipated start date is August 2026. The position may be renewed, contingent on performance and university resources. A completed PhD is preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Candidates seeking to fill the position should have interests in and a demonstrated capacity to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American government and politics and in political science research methods. A willingness to teach online courses is also required. The position offers a teaching load of four courses per semester and a nine-month contract with the possibility to teach in the summer, contingent upon resources. We will begin reviewing applications after November 17, 2025. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and will be accepted until the position is filled.

UNO is a vibrant, metropolitan university in the state's largest city with an enrollment of approximately 15,000 students. In recent decades the campus has developed as a more traditional residential university supported by several new and beautifully appointed residence halls. UNO is classified as a doctoral research university in the latest Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education and the Athletic program competes in NCAA division I. UNO also has the distinction of being one of the nation's leaders in engagement and outreach with a 2015 Community Engagement Classification from the Carnegie Foundation. The campus is located in the heart of Omaha, a cosmopolitan city of more than 600,000 (1.2 million including the large Omaha metro area), which is known for its excellent public school system and strong economic base.

To learn more and apply online, please visit: https://jobs.nebraska.edu/UniversityNebraskaSystem/job/Instructor-American-Government/839-en_US and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and e-mail addresses of three references.

Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Carson Holloway, Chair, Department of Political Science: cholloway@unomaha.edu. Applications must be submitted directly through the UNO website to be considered for this position. Any applications submitted via email or this website will not be reviewed or considered.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is an Equal Opportunity Employer, committed to preventing and eliminating discrimination against employees and prospective employees based on race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, marital status, and/or political affiliation. The University of Nebraska at Omaha does not condone or tolerate discrimination. In support of this policy, the University has implemented employment programs to recruit, employ, and promote qualified individuals based solely on their knowledge, skills, abilities and talents. These factors, along with our commitment to recruit, assess and select all candidates/employees using job-related criteria, ensure fairness, equal evaluation, and treatment in our selection decisions and processes.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16111

Florida Atlantic University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics Specializations: American Politics, Presidency, Congress

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Florida Atlantic University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in American Politics specializing in institutions (Presidency and Congress) beginning August 2026.

Each academic year, candidates should expect to teach at least one section of the introductory Government of the United States course (POS 2041) and/or one section of the Exploring Political Science course (POS 3330). Teaching other undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics and quantitative research methods will be anticipated based on candidate specialization and interests. Applications reflecting breadth of quantitative methodological proficiency, including new techniques and technologies, are preferred.

The hired candidate will have a teaching load of 3/2 with the ability to provide instruction in a variety of modalities, including online, hybrid and in-person. Those willing to lead occasional faculty seminars on new methods are preferred. Candidates should also demonstrate an active research agenda in either methodology or American Politics, which includes potential for outside support through public or private grants. Undergraduate and graduate advising, mentoring, and thesis supervision related to Political Science and Data Science majors are important components of this position.

The Department of Political Science has 17 faculty members committed to excellence in research and teaching. The department has over 400 undergraduate majors and 25 Master's students. The department also contributes to the College of Arts & Letters' interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Comparative Studies. Programs in the department or led by department faculty include the Advanced Campaigning Program, the FAU Florida Internship Program and the Leon Charney Diplomacy Program and the Political Communication and Public Opinion Research (PolCom) Lab.

Further information about the department can be found at: https://www.fau.edu/artsandletters/politicalscience/

Summary of Responsibilities:
- Responsible to a Chair or other appropriate administrator of a State university.
- Responsible for teaching, research, service, and related administrative activities.
- Responsible for academic advising and related activities.
- Responsible for a teaching load of 3/2 with the ability to provide instruction in a variety of modalities, including online, hybrid and in-person.
- Responsible for seeking internal and external grants.
- May represent the university, college/school, or department/unit on university and/or Statewide committees.

Minimum Qualifications:
- A Ph.D. in political science or a related field.
- Applications reflecting breadth of quantitative methodological proficiency, including new techniques and technologies, are preferred.

Salary:
Commensurate with Experience

College or Department:
Dorothy F. Schmidt College of Arts and Letters/Department of Political Science

Location:
Boca Raton

Work Days and Hours:
N/A

Application Deadline:
2025-12-15

Special Instructions to Applicant:
This position is open until filled and may close without prior notice.

This position is subject to funding.

All applicants must apply electronically to the currently posted position on the Office of Human Resources' job website (https://fau.edu/jobs) by completing the required employment application for this recruitment and submitting the related documents.

Required Documents:
FAU's Career Page permits the attachment of required/requested documentation.

PLEASE NOTE: A maximum of five (5) documents may be attached to your application. If more than five (5) documents are required for submission, please combine additional documents into a single attachment to not exceed the maximum permitted.

The site permits the attachment of required/requested documentation. Candidates wishing full consideration are to provide the following: (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) research statement, (4) teaching statement and (5) the names and email addresses of three persons who will be writing letters of recommendation (letters will be solicited later).

Transcripts:
The selected candidate for this position is required to submit an official transcript sent directly from the institution for the Provost's credential file prior to the first day of employment. Similarly, for degrees from outside the United States, the evaluation by an organization belonging to the National Association of Credential Evaluation (NACES), with an indication of the documents the evaluation was prepared from (official transcripts, diplomas, dissertation abstracts) is required for the Provost's credential file prior to the first day of employment. Transcripts must be issued to Florida Atlantic University, not to the individual applicant.

Background Screening:
Selected candidates must successfully complete and pass all employment screenings prior to the start of employment. Employment screenings may include a criminal background check (level I and level II), motor vehicle check, credit check, reference checks, alcohol, and drug screening check.

Accommodations:
Individuals requiring accommodation, please call 561-297-3057. 711

To Apply:
https://fau.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/FAU/details/Assistant-Professor-American-Politics_REQ21108

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/13/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16107

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Center for Effective Lawmaking Postdoctoral Fellow: AY 2026-2027

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Vanderbilt Political Science faculty member, Alan Wiseman, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are required. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their Ph.D. by August 1, 2026. This position involves a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2026. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita, a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking while serving as a postdoctoral fellow. Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and three letters of reference are also required. Applicants should submit materials electronically through Interfolio using this link: https://apply.interfolio.com/175483. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before November 15, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16106

Mississippi College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science/Department Chair
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of History and Political Science at Mississippi College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science to start in the Fall 2026 semester. Associate Professor candidates will also be considered for the role of Department Chair, which comes with a course reduction and stipend.

Responsibilities:

Teach four courses per semester, three if department chair.
Hold office hours for student advising and mentoring.
Curriculum and program development.
Participation in departmental and university governance structures.
Active involvement in scholarly activities.
Play a key role in graduate program development.
Qualifications:

PhD in Political Science strongly preferred
D.P.A with qualifications to teach courses in American government will be considered
Primary field must be United States Government
Additional experience in Public Administration or Public Policy is desired
Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025. Additional materials may be requested after initial screening, and shortlisted candidates will be invited to interview.

To apply, please visit: https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460.

About Mississippi College: Mississippi College is a private, co-educational, comprehensive university of liberal arts, sciences, and professional studies dedicated to the pursuit of academic excellence. The 325-acre campus is located in Clinton, MS which is in the Jackson metropolitan area. Clinton is a growing community with one of the top school districts in the state. Conveniently located near I-20, it is also within easy driving distance to New Orleans, Memphis, Birmingham, and the Gulf Coast.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/9/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16101

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Center for Effective Lawmaking
Specializations: Legislative Studies, Congress, State Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time postdoctoral research position. The position is offered for one year starting in July 2026. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Batten faculty member, Craig Volden, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking, and will have the opportunity to teach one class in the Batten School. A particular research focus on lawmaking in American state legislatures and/or the U.S. Congress is welcome.

The Center for Effective Lawmaking seeks to advance the generation, communication, and use of new knowledge about the effectiveness of individual lawmakers and U.S. legislative institutions. We envision American legislatures comprised of effective lawmakers, strong institutional capacity, and the incentive structure needed to address America's greatest public policy challenges. To learn more about the Center, please visit: https://thelawmakers.org/.

A PhD degree in Political Science or related disciplines is required by the start date of the position. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are also required. UVA offers competitive salaries and excellent benefits to its community of postdoctoral researchers and scholars.

The position includes mentorship, access to resources and research infrastructure, opportunities to collaborate with faculty at a truly interdisciplinary school, and connections to the policy world and to a robust network of diverse scholars.

- This is an exempt-level, benefited position. Learn more about UVA benefits: https://hr.virginia.edu/benefits.
- This position is based in Charlottesville, VA, and may be eligible for a hybrid schedule for a number of days each week. To learn more about UVA and the Charlottesville area, visit UVA Life: https://www.virginia.edu/visit-uva/ and Embark CVA: https://embarkcva.com/.
- This is primarily a sedentary job involving extensive use of desktop computers. The job does occasionally require traveling some distance to attend meetings, and programs.
- This position will not consider candidates who require immigration sponsorship now or in the future.
- Background checks will be conducted on all new hires prior to employment.
- For immediate consideration, please apply by November 15, 2025. The position will remain open until filled.

How to Apply

Please apply online at https://jobs.virginia.edu/us/en, by searching for requisition number R0077090. Complete an application with the following documents:

- CV
- Cover Letter
- A two-page proposal on how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking
- Contact information for three references
- Writing sample
- Graduate school transcript

Upload all materials into the resume submission field. You can submit multiple documents into this one field or combine them into one PDF. Applications without all required documents will not receive full consideration.

Internal applicants: Apply through your Workday profile by searching "Find Jobs."

For questions about the application process, please contact Jessica Russo, Senior Recruiter, sxv9zv@virginia.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16087

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Washington DC Program Coordinator & Assistant Teaching Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the Pennsylvania State University invites applications for a full-time non-tenure line Assistant Teaching Professor to serve as the Program Coordinator based permanently in Washington D.C. to administer its new Semester in Washington Program.

Responsibilities include locating governmental and non-governmental internship opportunities and developing relationships with potential internship hosts. Participates in the recruitment and selection of students for the program, assists students with application and interview preparations, provides guidance to students in selecting appropriate internship opportunities, and evaluates students' progress in their internships through outreach to sponsors. Responsible for arranging student housing, classroom facilities and managing other logistics related to students living and working in Washington, DC. Offers support to students on-site and assists with personal, professional, and academic issues. Collaborate with the Program's director and the Career Enrichment Network in the College of the Liberal Arts to arrange a schedule of extracurricular events each semester that may include professional development seminars, tours of government and non-government work sites, and activities with alumni. Responsibilities also include teaching a course related to students' professional development as well as an in-person or online substantive political science or public policy course. This job is permanently located in Washington, D.C. Must live in or relocate to the Washington, D.C. area. The position may require occasional local and out-of-state travel, and working evenings and weekends, as necessary.

Additional Details:
Requires a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field by appointment date. Experience working with students to support their career readiness and professional development, including through experiential learning opportunities is desired. Starting date is October 15, 2025, with flexibility.

Interested candidates must submit an online application and upload the following application materials: a letter of interest, CV or resume, a list of three references with contact information, and a teaching statement/philosophy. Inquiries may be directed to Marie Hojnacki, Inaugural Director, Washington Center Initiative and Associate Head of Political Science (meh11@psu.edu). The College of the Liberal Arts is committed to offering professional growth and promotional opportunities for non-tenure-line faculty appointments. Information on faculty ranks and progression can be found at https://policy.psu.edu/policies/ac21 Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Washington-DC/Washington-DC-Program-Coordinator---Assistant-Teaching-Professor-of-Political-Science_REQ_0000071694-2.

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16085

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: History & Politics, Intelligence, International Security

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD recipients in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities for activities such as directed research or teaching will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership; the emphasis of the fellowship is to provide ample time for the young scholar's own research and writing for book manuscripts, journal articles, and similar projects. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current c.v., cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for a formal affiliation at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central. The salary for this position is $70,000 - $75,000. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2026, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2024
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16038

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, International Law & Organizations

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD students in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. This fellowship is designed specifically to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one or at most two years of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current C.V, cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. The salary range for this position is $40,000 -$45,000. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for the Predoctoral Fellowship at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central.

Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/3/2025

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 16039

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Government and Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Congress, Presidency

The Department of Political Science and Public Affairs at Western Carolina University is excited to seek applications for a tenure-track position in American government and politics at the rank of Assistant Professor. The anticipated begin work date is August 2026. This is a nine-month contract with the possibility of summer teaching.

The successful candidate will contribute teaching, scholarship, and service to an accomplished and growing department. This is a nine-month position with the possibility of summer teaching.

The successful candidate will teach six courses per year on our Cullowhee, N.C. campus, including sections of our Introduction to American Government course and upper-level undergraduate courses in Congress and the U.S. Presidency.

Minimum qualifications include a PhD in Political Science or related field from an accredited institution. ABD candidates will be considered with degree conferral by December 30, 2026. Applicants should also have a promising research agenda related to Congress and/or the presidency.

Preferred qualifications include prior teaching experience at the university level and the ability and desire to perform service to the university, region, and profession.

Application materials must be submitted online here: https://jobs.wcu.edu/postings/31915

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until a candidate has been selected for hire. Please include the following:

1. Cover letter
2. Current Curriculum Vitae
3. Unofficial transcripts showing degree conferral dates for all degrees at the master's degree level and higher.
4. List of three professional references with full contact information
5. Evidence of teaching effectiveness
6. Writing sample

For questions or additional information please contact Heather Rimes at hnrimes@email.wcu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16053

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor - School of Government and Policy

Assistant Professor

Johns Hopkins University: School of Government and Policy

Location
Washington, DC, 20001

Open Date

Sep 22, 2025

Salary Range or Pay Grade
$95,000 - $175,000

Description
Johns Hopkins University's brand new School of Government and Policy seeks to recruit multiple tenure-track faculty in multiple disciplines and fields of study, including (but not limited to) political science, economics, law, sociology, history, philosophy, and computer science. These are open searches with respect to subfield and specialization.

While searching broadly, we have a particular interest in faculty conducting research on the following topics of inquiry:

Cities and Communities: local governance, state capacity, and urban innovation; neighborhood effects; neighborhood choice; public education and school choice; local labor markets; crime and policing; social networks in communities; housing and real estate; transportation and land use; local public service provision; local economic development; and local public finance.

Governance: public management, public administration, and institutional design, with a particular focus on the connections between the writing and administration of public policy, inter-branch relations, federalism, the administrative state, organizational innovation, and the justification, evolution, and functioning of governing institutions.

AI, Science, and Innovation: AI alignment and governance; government, societal, and labor market impacts of and adaptation to AI; development of new econometric/statistical methods for the analysis of AI-generated data; the uses of AI to simulate and design policy interventions and to accelerate scientific progress; the political economy of science and innovation; science funding, intellectual property rights, and other policies affecting the rate and direction of innovation; the roles of the public and private sector in innovation.

Within all these domains, both theorists and applied researchers are encouraged to apply. We further welcome candidates who bring a demonstrated commitment to working with public institutions, industry, and civil society to implement their ideas. And as we build an intellectually pluralistic community, we are particularly interested in candidates who are keen to engage scholars and practitioners who sit outside of their immediate areas of expertise.

About the School of Government and Policy

Anchored at the Hopkins Bloomberg Center in the heart of Washington, D.C., the School of Government and Policy will be a hub of discovery, collaboration, and impact. At a time of political, social, and technological upheaval, this new school will support and inform scholarly and practical efforts to build a more effective government and solve complex policy challenges. The school will scrutinize institutional reforms that have the potential to improve government operations, examine the potential for advancing technologies to transform government workforces and operations, develop novel approaches to multidisciplinary education and experiential learning, and foster vital dialogue and engagement across a wide range of worldviews, backgrounds, and epistemologies.

Similar to JHU's other academic divisions, the School of Government and Policy will be grounded in a commitment to both world-class research and exceptional education. It will prepare the next generation of policy and public sector leaders to advance evidence-based solutions to society's greatest challenges through innovative approaches that: 1) embed science, data, and technology in curricula; 2) give students the tools required to think strategically and creatively about government and policy innovations; and 3) emphasize the critical need for cross-functional skills and capabilities at all levels of government and in bridging public, non-profit, and industry sectors.

We are building a community of scholars, experts, and leaders from a wide range of disciplines who embrace intellectual pluralism—with the intention not merely of representing different perspectives and ways of understanding, but of putting these differences to good use. We welcome applications from scholars who challenge conventional thinking through rigorous inquiry.

Over the course of its founding years, the school will grow to encompass 35 full-time faculty members with expertise that spans both theoretical and applied approaches to public policy and government. During this founding period, additional hires will be made with other units across the University, yielding an even larger and more integrated tenured and tenure-track faculty.

Qualifications
Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in an appropriate field or J.D. by the time their appointment begins. Candidates must have demonstrated an ability to conduct outstanding independent research and show promise for excellent teaching, mentoring, and public engagement.

Application Instructions
Interested applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, two writing samples, and three letters of recommendation. Applications will be considered on an ongoing basis and until positions are filled. Interested candidates should submit their applications via Interfolio.

Dependent upon discipline, rank, and other factors listed below, the overall expected salary range for this position is $95,000 to $175,000.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.
Apply Now
Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Salary Range

The referenced salary range represents the minimum and maximum salaries for this position and is based on Johns Hopkins University's good faith belief at the time of posting. Not all candidates will be eligible for the upper end of the salary range. The actual compensation offered to the selected candidate may vary and will ultimately depend on multiple factors, which may include the successful candidate's geographic location, skills, work experience, internal equity, market conditions, education/training and other factors, as reasonably determined by the University.

Total Rewards

Johns Hopkins offers a total rewards package that supports our employees' health, life, career and retirement. More information can be found here: https://hr.jhu.edu/benefits-worklife/.

Equal Opportunity Employer

The Johns Hopkins University is committed to equal opportunity for its faculty, staff, and students. To that end, the university does not discriminate on the basis of sex, gender, marital status, pregnancy, race, color, ethnicity, national origin, age, disability, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, veteran status or other legally protected characteristic. The university is committed to providing qualified individuals access to all academic and employment programs, benefits and activities on the basis of demonstrated ability, performance and merit without regard to personal factors that are irrelevant to the program involved.

Pre-Employment Information

If you are interested in applying for employment with The Johns Hopkins University and require special assistance or accommodation during any part of the pre-employment process, please contact the HR Business Services Office at jhurecruitment@jhu.edu. For TTY users, call via Maryland Relay or dial 711. For more information about workplace accommodations or accessibility at Johns Hopkins University, please visit accessibility.jhu.edu.

Background Checks

The successful candidate(s) for this position will be subject to a pre-employment background check including education verification.

EEO is the Law:
https://www.eeoc.gov/sites/default/files/2023-06/22 088_EEOC_KnowYourRights6.12ScreenRdr.pdf

Diversity and Inclusion

The Johns Hopkins University values diversity, equity and inclusion and advances these through our key strategic framework, the JHU Roadmap on Diversity and Inclusion.

Vaccine Requirements

Johns Hopkins University strongly encourages, but no longer requires, at least one dose of the COVID-19 vaccine. The COVID-19 vaccine does not apply to positions located in the State of Florida. We still require all faculty, staff, and students to receive the seasonal flu vaccine. Exceptions to the COVID and flu vaccine requirements may be provided to individuals for religious beliefs or medical reasons. Requests for an exception must be submitted to the JHU vaccination registry. This change does not apply to the School of Medicine (SOM). SOM hires must be fully vaccinated with an FDA COVID-19 vaccination and provide proof of vaccination status. For additional information, applicants for SOM positions should visit https://www.hopkinsmedicine.org/coronavirus/covid-19-vaccine/ and all other JHU applicants should visit https://covidinfo.jhu.edu/health-safety/covid-vaccination-information/.

The following additional vaccine requirements may apply, depending upon your campus. Please contact the hiring department for more information.

The pre-employment physical for positions in clinical areas, laboratories, working with research subjects, or involving community contact requires documentation of immune status against Rubella (German measles), Rubeola (Measles), Mumps, Varicella (chickenpox), Hepatitis B and documentation of having received the Tdap (Tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis) vaccination. This may include documentation of having two (2) MMR vaccines; two (2) Varicella vaccines; or antibody status to these diseases from laboratory testing. Blood tests for immunities to these diseases are ordinarily included in the pre-employment physical exam except for those employees who provide results of blood tests or immunization documentation from their own health care providers. Any vaccinations required for these diseases will be given at no cost in our Occupational Health office.

To Apply, Please click the link : https://apply.interfolio.com/173959

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16043

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Associate and Full Professor - School of Government and Policy

Associate and Full Professor

Johns Hopkins University: School of Government and Policy

Location
Washington, DC, 20001

Open Date
Sep 22, 2025

Salary Range or Pay Grade
$175,000 - $425,000

Description
Johns Hopkins University's brand new School of Government and Policy seeks to recruit multiple tenured faculty in multiple disciplines and fields of study, including (but not limited to) political science, economics, law, sociology, history, philosophy, and computer science. These are open searches with respect to subfield and specialization.

While searching broadly, we have a particular interest in faculty conducting research on the following topics of inquiry:

Cities and Communities: local governance, state capacity, and urban innovation; neighborhood effects; neighborhood choice; public education and school choice; local labor markets; crime and policing; social networks in communities; housing and real estate; transportation and land use; local public service provision; local economic development; and local public finance.

Governance: public management, public administration, and institutional design, with a particular focus on the connections between the writing and administration of public policy, inter-branch relations, federalism, the administrative state, organizational innovation, and the justification, evolution, and functioning of governing institutions.

AI, Science, and Innovation: AI alignment and governance; government, societal, and labor market impacts of and adaptation to AI; development of new econometric/statistical methods for the analysis of AI-generated data; the uses of AI to simulate and design policy interventions and to accelerate scientific progress; the political economy of science and innovation; science funding, intellectual property rights, and other policies affecting the rate and direction of innovation; the roles of the public and private sector in innovation.

Within all these domains, both theorists and applied researchers are encouraged to apply. We further welcome candidates who bring a demonstrated commitment to working with public institutions, industry, and civil society to implement their ideas. And as we build an intellectually pluralistic community, we are particularly interested in candidates who are keen to engage scholars and practitioners who sit outside of their immediate areas of expertise.

About the School of Government and Policy

Anchored at the Hopkins Bloomberg Center in the heart of Washington, D.C., the School of Government and Policy will be a hub of discovery, collaboration, and impact. At a time of political, social, and technological upheaval, this new school will support and inform scholarly and practical efforts to build a more effective government and solve complex policy challenges. The school will scrutinize institutional reforms that have the potential to improve government operations, examine the potential for advancing technologies to transform government workforces and operations, develop novel approaches to multidisciplinary education and experiential learning, and foster vital dialogue and engagement across a wide range of worldviews, backgrounds, and epistemologies.

Similar to JHU's other academic divisions, the School of Government and Policy will be grounded in a commitment to both world-class research and exceptional education. It will prepare the next generation of policy and public sector leaders to advance evidence-based solutions to society's greatest challenges through innovative approaches that: 1) embed science, data, and technology in curricula; 2) give students the tools required to think strategically and creatively about government and policy innovations; and 3) emphasize the critical need for cross-functional skills and capabilities at all levels of government and in bridging public, non-profit, and industry sectors.

We are building a community of scholars, experts, and leaders from a wide range of disciplines who embrace intellectual pluralism—with the intention not merely of representing different perspectives and ways of understanding, but of putting these differences to good use. We welcome applications from scholars who challenge conventional thinking through rigorous inquiry.

Over the course of its founding years, the school will grow to encompass 35 full-time faculty members with expertise that spans both theoretical and applied approaches to public policy and government. During this founding period, additional hires will be made with other units across the University, yielding an even larger and more integrated tenured and tenure-track faculty.

Qualifications
Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in an appropriate field or J.D. by the time their appointment begins. Candidates must have a demonstrated ability to conduct outstanding independent research and a strong record of excellence in teaching, mentoring, and public engagement.

Application Instructions
Interested applicants should submit a cover letter and CV. Applications will be considered on an ongoing basis and until positions are filled. Interested candidates should submit their applications via Interfolio.

Dependent upon discipline, rank, and other factors listed below, the overall expected salary range for these positions is $175,000 to $425,000.

Application Process
This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Salary Range

The referenced salary range represents the minimum and maximum salaries for this position and is based on Johns Hopkins University's good faith belief at the time of posting. Not all candidates will be eligible for the upper end of the salary range. The actual compensation offered to the selected candidate may vary and will ultimately depend on multiple factors, which may include the successful candidate's geographic location, skills, work experience, internal equity, market conditions, education/training and other factors, as reasonably determined by the University.

Total Rewards

Johns Hopkins offers a total rewards package that supports our employees' health, life, career and retirement. More information can be found here: https://hr.jhu.edu/benefits-worklife/.

Equal Opportunity Employer

The Johns Hopkins University is committed to equal opportunity for its faculty, staff, and students. To that end, the university does not discriminate on the basis of sex, gender, marital status, pregnancy, race, color, ethnicity, national origin, age, disability, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, veteran status or other legally protected characteristic. The university is committed to providing qualified individuals access to all academic and employment programs, benefits and activities on the basis of demonstrated ability, performance and merit without regard to personal factors that are irrelevant to the program involved.

Pre-Employment Information

If you are interested in applying for employment with The Johns Hopkins University and require special assistance or accommodation during any part of the pre-employment process, please contact the HR Business Services Office at jhurecruitment@jhu.edu. For TTY users, call via Maryland Relay or dial 711. For more information about workplace accommodations or accessibility at Johns Hopkins University, please visit accessibility.jhu.edu.

Background Checks

The successful candidate(s) for this position will be subject to a pre-employment background check including education verification.

EEO is the Law:
https://www.eeoc.gov/sites/default/files/2023-06/22 088_EEOC_KnowYourRights6.12ScreenRdr.pdf

Diversity and Inclusion

The Johns Hopkins University values diversity, equity and inclusion and advances these through our key strategic framework, the JHU Roadmap on Diversity and Inclusion.

Vaccine Requirements

Johns Hopkins University strongly encourages, but no longer requires, at least one dose of the COVID-19 vaccine. The COVID-19 vaccine does not apply to positions located in the State of Florida. We still require all faculty, staff, and students to receive the seasonal flu vaccine. Exceptions to the COVID and flu vaccine requirements may be provided to individuals for religious beliefs or medical reasons. Requests for an exception must be submitted to the JHU vaccination registry. This change does not apply to the School of Medicine (SOM). SOM hires must be fully vaccinated with an FDA COVID-19 vaccination and provide proof of vaccination status. For additional information, applicants for SOM positions should visit https://www.hopkinsmedicine.org/coronavirus/covid-19-vaccine/ and all other JHU applicants should visit https://covidinfo.jhu.edu/health-safety/covid-vaccination-information/.

The following additional vaccine requirements may apply, depending upon your campus. Please contact the hiring department for more information.

The pre-employment physical for positions in clinical areas, laboratories, working with research subjects, or involving community contact requires documentation of immune status against Rubella (German measles), Rubeola (Measles), Mumps, Varicella (chickenpox), Hepatitis B and documentation of having received the Tdap (Tetanus, diphtheria, pertussis) vaccination. This may include documentation of having two (2) MMR vaccines; two (2) Varicella vaccines; or antibody status to these diseases from laboratory testing. Blood tests for immunities to these diseases are ordinarily included in the pre-employment physical exam except for those employees who provide results of blood tests or immunization documentation from their own health care providers. Any vaccinations required for these diseases will be given at no cost in our Occupational Health office.

Apply now: https://apply.interfolio.com/173960

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16044

George Washington University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor beginning as early as Fall 2026. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate courses and maintain an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda.

Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

The salary range for this position is $100,000 to $120,000.

The successful applicant will be eligible for GW's employee benefits including medical, dental, and retirement. A full explanation of those benefits is available at https://hr.gwu.edu/benefits
To apply please complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/122109 and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interest, statement of research interest, summaries of teaching evaluations (if available), and samples of written work. In addition, please instruct three academic references to send letters of recommendation directly to pscjobs_ap@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 30, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.
The university and department have a strong commitment to recruiting faculty of the highest caliber who have thrived in different environments and would enrich the university with different experiences and perspectives.

Employment offers are contingent on the satisfactory outcome of a standard background screening.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16031

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley
Rank: Assistant Professor

We seek applicants who are dedicated to serving The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley's student body as an Assistant Professor of Public Law beginning in the 2026-2027 academic year.

The School of Political Science, Public Affairs, Legal and Security Studies (PPLSS) at The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley (UTRGV) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty member in Public Law to begin September 1, 2026. The successful candidate must be able to teach courses on Civil Rights & Civil Liberties, Federalism, and the Judicial Process, as well as a lower-division course in U.S. Federal Government & Politics. The department maintains a highly flexible teaching schedule to encourage faculty research and faculty regularly receive teaching support from graduate assistants, undergraduate research interns, and online instructional coaches.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16105

University of Texas, Arlington
Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Instruction
Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, academic professional track (non-tenure-track) Assistant or Associate Professor of Instruction, with expertise in American political institutions, to begin August 2026. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching expands our current offerings in the American presidency, Congress, or civic engagement.

Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching. The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach introductory courses in American politics as well as substantive courses in their area of expertise, including upper-level undergraduate courses and Master's level courses. The position will also entail some service, particularly related to curriculum.

A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required. ABDs will be considered but must have successfully defended their dissertation and the degree conferred by the appointment date of 9/1/2026.

To apply, applicants should go to https://uta.peopleadmin.com/hr/postings/32719 and submit the following materials:

Cover letter
Current curriculum vitae
Transcripts
A teaching statement
Three (3) specific examples of teaching, including syllabi and evaluations
Contact information for 3 references. Referees will be automatically notified to upload their letters as soon as possible.

Review of applications will begin on October 30, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Questions may be addressed to Search Committee Chair Dr. Bai Linh Hoang at bailinh.hoang@uta.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/30/2025
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16011

North Central College
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science-American Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at North Central College seeks candidates for a tenure-track position in political science with emphasis in American political behavior. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate a commitment to innovative undergraduate education. We seek a dynamic teacher-scholar who is passionate about creative pedagogy, inclusive teaching practices, and fostering critical inquiry both inside and outside the classroom. The department especially values approaches that prepare undergraduates to think critically and responsibly about the American democracy.

Appointment at the rank of assistant professor is anticipated, but higher rank may be considered for suitable qualified candidates. Ph.D. must be in hand by August 1, 2026. In addition to teaching courses in American politics, the candidate would have the opportunity to contribute to the department's law, policy, or methodology courses as well as develop courses in their areas of expertise. There will be additional opportunities for the successful candidate to contribute to North Central's tradition of interdisciplinary learning. North Central College values diversity, equity and inclusion and strongly encourages candidates who would enrich the diversity of the campus community to apply. Experience working with diverse student populations and communities is highly desirable.

Review of applications will begin on October 15 and continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should complete and submit an application with all required documentation online at: https://northcentralcollege.peopleadmin.com/postings/15006

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15977

University of Texas, Arlington

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Political Science
Specializations: Political Behavior, Electoral Behavior, Latino Politics

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Texas at Arlington invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor in American politics, to begin August 2026. Scholars whose research and teaching focus on American political behavior related to elections, voting, and/or Latino politics in the US are especially invited to apply. The successful candidate should also have a strong background in research methodology, and be able to teach courses in this area.

Candidates should demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellence in social science research, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service appropriate to the rank. The successful applicant will be expected to develop and teach substantive courses in their area of expertise, including introductory courses, upper-level undergraduate courses, and Master's level courses.

The Department of Political Science offers a Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts. It serves students from across the University (in state-mandated introductory courses) as well as over two hundred and fifty undergraduate majors and fifteen to twenty graduate students.

The Department is part of the College of Liberal Arts, which focuses on high-quality research and teaching, including through study abroad, internships, and service learning.

To apply please follow this link: https://uta.peopleadmin.com/postings/32587

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15972

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Job Description:
The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in American Politics, beginning in the Fall of 2026. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2026. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2025. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Job Summary:

Tenure-track position that teaches both undergraduate and graduate students, maintains an active research agenda with regular publications, and participates in departmental, college, and university service activities commensurate with rank.

Job Responsibilities:

Teach graduate or undergraduate courses and hold regular office hours. Supervise graduate assistant(s) if assigned. - 50%

Maintain an active research agenda with regular publications. - 50%

Minimum Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or related or equivalent field.

Additional Job Description:
Special Instructions:
Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). Please attach all documents under the "Resume/CV" section of your application. Attachments are limited to five. A copy of your transcripts may be attached to your application (if available). However, official transcripts are required prior to hire. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

For questions or concerns regarding the status of your application or salary ranges, please contact Robert Hogan at polisci@lsu.edu.

Posting Date:
September 16, 2025

Closing Date (Open Until Filled if No Date Specified):
March 13, 2026

Additional Position Information:
Background Check - An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check.

Benefits - LSU offers outstanding benefits to eligible employees and their dependents including health, life, dental, and vision insurance; flexible spending accounts; retirement options; various leave options; paid holidays; wellness benefits; tuition exemption for qualified positions; training and development opportunities; employee discounts; and more!

Positions approved to work outside the State of Louisiana shall be employed through Louisiana State University's partner, nextSource Workforce Solutions, for Employer of Record Services including but not limited to employment, benefits, payroll, and tax compliance. Positions employed through Employer of Record Services will be offered benefits and retirement as applicable through their provider and will not be eligible for State of Louisiana benefits and retirement.

Essential Position (Y/N):

LSU is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

HCM Contact Information:
For questions or concerns related to updating your application with attachments (e.g., resumes, RS:17 documents), date of birth, or reactivating applications, please contact the LSU Human Resources Management Office at 225-578-8200 or email HR@lsu.edu. For questions or concerns regarding the status of your application or salary ranges, please contact the department using the information provided in the Special Instructions section of this job posting.

External Applicant Link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0101-Charles-E-Coates-Hall/Assistant-Professor---American-Politics_R00109501

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15948

Stanford University

Rank: American Politics, Senior Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University seeks applicants for a senior appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The preferred area of specialty is American Politics. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in a related field and will be expected to teach and advise students at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494907/american-politics-senior-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science) and submit
-a cover letter
-curriculum vitae (including a publication list)
-teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages)
-teaching evaluations

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for this position is for academic year 2025-26:
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1st, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/16/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15949

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at
https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at
https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer - American Politics & Political Campaigning
Specializations: American Politics, Political Parties & Organizations, Electoral Systems

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time recurring Lecturer position in American Politics and Political Campaigning to begin August 16, 2026. The prospective hire is expected to contribute to our department's strengths in American Politics, as well as our undergraduate and master's level programs in Political Campaigning. Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating campaigning-related experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and supervise capstone projects for our MA students. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach some or all of the following courses: Political Parties and Elections, Modern Political Campaigns, Political Campaigning, Advanced Campaign Strategy, Survey Research, and State and Local Politics.

The normal teaching assignment is three courses per fall and three courses per spring semester.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

We are especially interested in candidates who can teach some or all of the following courses: Political Parties and Elections, Modern Political Campaigns, Political Campaigning, Advanced Campaign Strategy, Survey Research, and State and Local Politics.

Preferred: Applicants should be able to offer courses at the graduate and undergraduate level and should be willing to advise undergraduate political science majors, assist with coordinating campaigning-related experiential learning opportunities for undergraduates, and supervise capstone projects for our MA students.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 24 and will continue until the position is filled. The application is available here: https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/537110/lecturer-american-politics-political-campaigning

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16018

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars specializing in American political behavior, broadly defined, who are also able to o??er undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology or social data analytics. We welcome candidates whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, public opinion, electoral behavior, the role of AI in democracy, democratic principles, representation, political participation, political psychology, partisanship, polarization, gender, or race/ethnicity.
The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on American political behavior. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.

To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071408-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15912

Rice University
Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for one tenure-track position in American Politics to begin July 1, 2026. The appointment will be made at the rank of associate or full professor. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills, and they should aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. Job duties include conducting exceptional research, securing external funding, and teaching graduate courses in American Politics and undergraduate courses that serve students in Political Science and Social Policy Analysis; the position also requires service to the department, the university, and the field of Political Science. We are especially interested in candidates whose research and expertise are at the intersection of American politics and public policy. This includes, but is not limited to, areas like state and local government, courts, legislatures, bureaucracy, and the presidency. The new hire will collaborate with scholars across all departmental areas and with those conducting similar research in the School of Social Sciences.

Candidates must currently have a PhD in Political Science or related field. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2025, but applications will be accepted until the search is closed. All applications should be submitted electronically at https://apply.interfolio.com/173568. In addition to the application, the following items must be uploaded: (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) research statement, (4) teaching statement including evidence of effectiveness, and (5) contact information for three references.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Please send questions regarding this position to Ann Mikus (amikus@rice.edu).

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15915

Appalachian State University
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Political Science focusing on American Politics beginning August 2026. The department is particularly interested in scholars who study campaigns & elections, immigration politics, media, American political development, and judicial politics/public law, however other areas of American politics will be considered. The individual hired in this position will contribute to the curriculum of lower and upper-level undergraduate courses, and graduate courses based on their area of expertise and program needs. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester for faculty with an active research agenda. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or government is required at the time of appointment. A terminal J.D. is not sufficient.

Please apply for this position using the following link: https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/52012

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15894

University of Central Florida
Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.
Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:

N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15900

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor – American, State, Urban Politics and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Research Methods, State Politics, American Politics

The Hobby School of Public Affairs at the University of Houston (UH) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Public Policy to begin September 1, 2026. We are interested in scholars who will bring fresh ideas, a commitment to public policy, and an interdisciplinary mindset.

The successful candidate will pursue research in American, state, or local politics and public policy, with particular preference for applicants who demonstrate expertise and a national reputation in survey research and political methodology. Depending on background and experience, the faculty member may also be considered for appointment as the Lanier Chair in Public Policy and/or as Director of the Survey on Public Attitudes and Community Engagement (SPACE City Panel)—a multi-year longitudinal survey project launched in 2025 by the Hobby School's Center for Public Policy (https://uh.edu/hobby/research/space-city-panel/).

Applicants should have an established record of rigorous scholarship and a demonstrated commitment to advancing the Hobby School's mission of applied policy analysis and interdisciplinary research. Expertise in advanced statistical methods—including data visualization, mapping, local area models, spatial analysis, policy evaluation, and structural or quantitative modeling—is highly desirable. Candidates who have experience and expertise in designing, implementing, and analyzing panel surveys and surveys focusing on state and municipal areas or advanced methods to estimate local area public opinion from national surveys, are particularly encouraged to apply. The faculty member will be expected to produce both academic and applied research that informs evidence-based policymaking, supports the development of viable and politically feasible strategies, and contributes to the University of Houston's core research priorities.

In the selection process, the search committee will prioritize collaborative scholars who: (1) engage in nationally-recognized, interdisciplinary work on significant public policy issues, (2) demonstrate an eagerness to contribute to undergraduate and graduate education and student success, and (3) pursue grants, awards, and other sources of funding to support research, academic programming, student success, community engagement, and impact.

We are seeking applicants with a strong research record and developing reputation who can help build our growing programs. We are interested in candidates with a background in rigorous research methods that can support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

About the Hobby School

The Hobby School of Public Affairs was created in 2016 by the University of Houston System. Incoming faculty will have the opportunity to join existing faculty in building and shaping the direction and culture of the school. The Hobby School emphasizes advanced social science methodology, leadership development, and ethical analysis in its teaching, training, and research. It is the home of UH's Center for Public Policy, Survey Research Institute, and Elizabeth D. Rockwell Center for Ethics and Leadership.

The Hobby School offers: (1) a Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, (2) a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree, (3) BA and BSc degrees in public policy, (4) Dual Degree programs combining public policy with degrees in other fields—multidisciplinary studies (UH's Honors College), business, economics, law, psychology, and social work, and (5) Certificate programs in data analytics, energy policy, ethics, infrastructure policy and population health, health care policy, public policy, and public administration. We are in the planning process for launching a PhD program. The Hobby School also runs the Institute on the Empirical Implications of Theoretical Models (EITM) and is expanding its research and instructional mission through innovative initiatives, such as the SPACE City Panel.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie-designated Tier One research institution and is the flagship campus of a state-assisted higher education system that enrolls over 70,000 students (system-wide). We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence.

Houston (www.houston.org) boasts a high quality of life with the following attributes: (1) a growing economy, including a vibrant energy sector, robust manufacturing, a bustling port that serves as a hub for international trade, the Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical center, (b) rich traditions in music, theatre, art, and sports, (c) award-winning restaurants and (d) a relatively low cost of living among large cities.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Application Instructions

Interested individuals should apply at Prospective Faculty | Office of the Provost | University of Houston and provide: (1) a letter of interest, (2) evidence of teaching effectiveness and commitment to mentoring students, (3) a statement of research specialization and interests, (4) three names and email addresses of prospective writers of letters of recommendation, (5) a curriculum vita, and (6) up to three representative papers. Referees may be contacted to submit letters. Review of applications will begin on October 31 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the search committee co-chair Mirya Holman (mrholman@central.uh.edu) and Pablo M. Pinto (ppinto@central.uh.edu).

Qualifications

Doctoral degree required. Advanced Assistant, Associate or Full Professor. We are primarily seeking applicants with a strong research record and established reputation that can help build our growing program. Candidates should have a strong background in rigorous research methods to support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidates.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15879

Morehouse College

Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who work in the area of public law and are prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and contributing to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15867

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in American Politics at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor, beginning July 1, 2026. A successful applicant should focus on substantive questions in any area of American Politics. Candidates will be expected to teach courses in American Politics commensurate with their experience. If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter and CV. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172149. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15871

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

Duquesne University

Rank: Full Time, Tenure Track, Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Duquesne University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position in American politics. We are open to methodological approach and scholarly interests. The successful candidate will be able to teach an introductory course in American national government as well as courses in two of the following areas: 1) American political institutions; 2) political behavior (parties and interest groups; elections, campaigns, and voting; media and political communication) or 3) public administration and public policy. The successful candidate will be expected to continue the Department's tradition of excellence in scholarship and undergraduate teaching to a diverse and dynamic student body.

Duquesne University is located in downtown Pittsburgh, PA. The city, frequently ranked as America's most livable, according to Places Rated Almanac, enjoys rich educational, cultural, and recreational resources. Founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit, Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Its Mission Statement commits the University to "serving God by serving students – through commitment to excellence in liberal and professional education, through profound concern for moral and spiritual values, through the maintenance of an ecumenical atmosphere open to diversity, and service to the Church, the community, the nation and the world." We invite applicants for this position to learn more about our university and its Spiritan heritage by visiting https://www.duq.edu/social-impact/mission-and-spiritan-values/index.php. Those invited to campus for an interview may be asked how they see their talents contributing to the continued growth of our community and furthering its mission.

Alternately, the applicants may possess any equivalent combination of experience and training, which provides the knowledge, skills, and abilities required to perform the essential job functions.

-The ability to establish and maintain effective working relationships with the University Community

The ability and willingness to contribute actively to the Mission of the University and to respect the Spiritan Catholic identity of Duquesne University. The Mission is implemented through a commitment to academic excellence, a spirit of service, moral and spiritual values, sensitivity to world concerns, and an ecumenical campus community.
Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have an Ph.D from an accredited institution.

Application Instructions

The Search Committee will begin its review of applications on September 30, 2025, and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. It is strongly preferred that applicants have a Ph.D. by the start date. Applicants should submit: (1) a detailed cover letter describing research interests and teaching experience; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a single best piece of scholarship no longer than 40 pages; (4) teaching evaluations, if available; and (5) three letters of recommendation to be submitted directly from references. Additional information may be required at a later date. All materials must be submitted via Interfolio at the link below.

https://apply.interfolio.com/173022

Start date is August 10, 2026. Contracts are nine months in duration. For additional information, please contact Dr. Jennie Schulze, schulzej@duq.edu

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

Duquesne University was founded in 1878 by its sponsoring religious community, the Congregation of the Holy Spirit. Duquesne University is Catholic in mission and ecumenical in spirit. Motivated by its Catholic identity, Duquesne values equality of opportunity both as an educational institution and as an employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15865

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

Job Summary
The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the assistant professor rank beginning in August 2026. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American Politics and upper-level courses in their specialty. The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching and advising in the liberal arts tradition. The department has a strong history of pre-law advising at the College, a responsibility that is available to interested faculty with expertise in judicial politics. The teaching load for this position is the equivalent of five courses (typically 2-3 or 3-2) over the academic year.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,200 students.

Qualifications
Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science or closely related field with a specialization in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship, and/or governance that they can contribute to the inclusivity of our community.

Special Instructions to Applicants

Applicants should complete the online application at https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/5982. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research program, and statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask applicants to specify the courses that they would be prepared to teach, and we also ask applicants to elaborate on their experiences and plans for building an inclusive learning environment. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2025 and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Lindsay Reid at lreid@gettysburg.edu.

EEO Statement
Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15848

Eastern Kentucky University
Rank: Asst Professor, Political Science

The Department of Government at Eastern Kentucky University seeks applications for a faculty member in the Political Science Program at the rank of Assistant Professor, tenure track, beginning on or about August 1, 2026. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory and advanced courses in American government and institutions. Previous experience teaching at the post-secondary level is preferred. Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in political science, public administration, government, public policy, public affairs, or a closely relate field from an accredited institution at the time of appointment. The application review date is October 15, 2025; and the position begins August 2026. Visit www.government.eku.edu for more information about the department.

The position serves the undergraduate political science program and other department programs, including the MPA Program. It requires the ability to develop and teach fully online classes. The successful candidate should be, or should have the potential to be, a high-quality teacher and an active scholar. The successful candidate will teach graduate and undergraduate classes, including courses related to American Government and related institutions, in a 12-hour-per-semester teaching load. The successful candidate will also develop and maintain an active scholarly agenda, conduct academic advising, and participate in service to the department, university, and community. In addition, membership and participation in state, regional, national, or international professional organizations is recommended.

The University places a high priority on being leaders in the responsible use of artificial intelligence and in building such capacity in our students. The successful candidate will demonstrate knowledge of artificial intelligence pertinent to the discipline and/or a willingness to pursue professional development to acquire such expertise.

Applicant documents include:

- Cover Letter
- Vitae
- Copies of unofficial transcripts
- Contact Information for 3 Professional References

Applicants are also highly encouraged to submit teaching evaluations from prior courses and statements of their philosophy of teaching.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2025. Questions about the position can be directed to Ozan Kalkan at kerem.kalkan@eku.edu.

To learn more about it, please go to the link below:
https://careers.eku.edu/jobs/b7914d6c-9adb-42ce-a704-e890a494051f

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 8/27/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15841

The University of Chicago
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Chicago invites applications for an Assistant Professor in American Politics. We welcome applications from the entire subfield of American politics. This position will begin on or after July 1, 2026.

Candidates must have completed all requirements for the PhD degree prior to the start of the appointment.

Applicants must apply at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at https://apply.interfolio.com/172740. Applications must include a 1) cover letter, 2) CV, 3) teaching statement, 4) research statement, 5) at least one (and up to three) examples of scholarly writing, and 6) at least three letters of recommendation. Consideration of applications will begin on October 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled or the search has ended.

Salary Range: $90,000- $130,000

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15832

University of Georgia
Rank: Lecturer

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 1, 2026. Lecturers teach eight courses per academic year, four courses in each academic term. They typically teach two or more sections of the same course each semester and/or in the same academic year. The allocation of effort at appointment will be 100% teaching. A lecturer is likely to teach the undergraduate introduction to American government and upper division undergraduate courses in American politics in areas that align with their interests.

Lecturers are valued members of the Department with opportunities to shape the curriculum and participate in faculty governance process. They are eligible for professional development support, travel funding, and summer teaching (including study abroad programs) when available. The university has a clear promotion path: upon their sixth year, a lecturer may be promoted to senior lecturer, and subsequently to principal lecturer. For details see https://provost.uga.edu/wp-content/uploads/appointment-promotion-guidelines-lecturers.pdf.

Minimum Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science completed by August 1, 2026.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and/or Competencies:

-Excellent communication skills
-Evidence of teaching excellence or demonstrated potential for teaching excellence.

Duties/Responsibilities:

-Contribute to the instructional mission of the Department of Political Science
-Teach four three-credit hour courses per academic term
-Participate in workshops, the development of new course materials, and/or supervise teaching assistants

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective applicants should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, a teaching portfolio that provides: a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and any additional evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation. The cover letter is expected to include a description of the candidate's strengths as an instructor and relevant teaching experiences as they relate to this position description. Application materials can be submitted at the UGA job search website: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/450757.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Office Manager, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu).

Review of applications will begin January 7, 2026 and continue until the position is filled.

The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning, as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15824

Ave Maria University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Assistant Professor of Politics
AVE MARIA, FL, US

The Department of Politics of Ave Maria University in Ave Maria, Florida, invites applications for a full-time position in politics at the rank of assistant professor to begin Fall of 2026. Applicants whose primary fields are American government and/or public policy are strongly preferred. Those with a foundation in political economy will also be regarded favorably. Competitive applicants will be gifted teachers and active in research and publishing. Applicants should also understand the nature and purpose of a Catholic liberal arts education and be familiar with and committed to the Catholic Church's teaching on the mission of Catholic universities as expressed in Ex corde Ecclesiae. Duties include three undergraduate courses per semester, mentorship of undergraduates, and committee work. Ph.D. or the equivalent by June 2026 is expected. Salary will be commensurate with experience and credentials.

The application dossier should include: (1) a letter of application; (2) a CV; (3) a writing sample of no more than 15 pages; (4) a brief statement discussing the applicant's teaching method and providing evidence of excellence in teaching (official teaching evaluations should be submitted when available); (5) a 1-2 page personal statement in which the applicant explains the contribution he/she can make to a Catholic liberal arts institution that is committed to implementing Ex corde Ecclesiae.

Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation supporting their application. These should be sent directly by the recommenders to Megan Hare, Academic Affairs Administrative Assistant: Megan.Hare@avemaria.edu. Only complete applications will be considered. Official transcripts are required for faculty appointments and will be requested upon the final decision of the administration and search committee.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Lidiya Zubytska, Chair of the Politics Department: lidiya.zubytska@avemaria.edu

Review of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, submit your materials here:

https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=70cb71c1-96f8-4956-8cce-ce625b0b2943&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=540989

Ave Maria University offers an excellent benefits package to full-time faculty and staff.

Ave Maria University is a Catholic, liberal arts institution of higher learning dedicated to the formation of joyful, intentional disciples of Jesus Christ through Word and Sacrament, scholarship and service.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15752

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor Search in Judicial Politics

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure track position to begin August 16, 2026, in the subfield of Judicial Politics. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in Judicial Politics can speak to broader themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Kirk Randazzo (RANDAZZO@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15737

University of Central Missouri

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science - Tenure Track
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

Description:
The Department of Government, Law, and International Affairs (GLIA) at the University of Central Missouri (UCM) is seeking qualified candidates to fill a 9-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics with an emphasis on U.S. Constitutional Law beginning August 2026. GLIA resides in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHSS).

Faculty in CAHSS support the University's mission of providing a high-quality education and are committed to the success of their students.

Successful candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate (and potentially graduate) courses in American Government, Public Law, Constitutional Law, as well as Civil Rights and Liberties. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach Administrative Law, Trial Advocacy, and/or the American Presidency.

Additionally, candidates should be prepared to serve as the Coach of the UCM Mock Trial team (negotiated with the Chair as part of the teaching load or service).

Candidates must be committed to excellence in teaching and are expected to carry out a sustained research agenda in their area of expertise.

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Review of completed applications will begin October 31st, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Examples of Duties:
The faculty member's job duties will include:

Teach 9-12 hours per semester in consultation with the Department Chair.
Coach the Mock Trial team.
Conduct scholarly research in their area of expertise.
Advise and mentor undergraduate Political Science majors who pursue a Legal Studies minor.
Undertake service at the department, college, and/or university levels.
Teaching:

The primary responsibility of the faculty is quality teaching in their respective content areas, regardless of delivery format. This entails adequate preparation for courses, effective course design and instruction, and fair and timely evaluation/feedback of student progress. To ensure quality teaching, faculty must be committed to student success and ongoing assessment of curriculum and student learning.

Keep current in your discipline.
Organize courses to facilitate quality student engagement and high-impact practices.
Assist department/school chairs with scheduling classes that meet the needs of students.
Comply with departmental, college, and university standards concerning the academic quality and integrity of their classes.
Keep current in their use of technology by attending university training sessions and other professional development opportunities.
Be available to meet students outside the classroom by being available before or after classes and scheduling office hours in both physical and electronic formats, including in-person and virtual office hours.
Assist with department and college assessment and be proactive with modifications to the curriculum based on assessment feedback.
Scholarship/Professional Development:

The strength of a university rests on the knowledge and skills of its faculty.

Faculty must stay current in their field of expertise/teaching area.
Authoring academic writings.
Presentation of work at local/state/regional/national conferences.
Active membership and/or office holding in professional organizations at the local/state/regional/national levels.
Service:

An expectation of a professional faculty member is to serve the department, college, and university community.

Attending department/college/university meetings.
Engaging in committee work that will advance the department/college/institution.
Assisting with student mentoring.
Participating in graduation and convocation ceremonies.
Serve on committees at the department, college, and university levels.
Typical Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Supplemental Information:
UCM is located 40 miles southeast of the Kansas City Metropolitan area. It is a public comprehensive university with roughly 11,000 students providing a small-college learning environment coupled with large-university opportunities.

The Department of GLIA offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in Political Science, a B.A. degree in International Studies, and minors in those fields as well as Legal Studies and Global Security Studies. More information about GLIA can be found here: https://www.ucmo.edu/college-of-arts-humanities-and-social-sciences/department-of-government-law-and-international-affairs/

To apply, Candidates must complete the online faculty profile (position #997659) by going to

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

Candidates will attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and copies of transcripts showing all degrees completed to their online application.

UCM requires that all applicants for this position complete the online faculty profile and submit it to the appropriate position for consideration at https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

All documents requested for this position must also be attached to the faculty profile at the time of application. Only completed faculty profiles with attached documents will be accepted for this position.

Direct inquiries regarding this position to: Dr. Gregory Streich, Search Committee Chair, at streich@ucmo.edu

For information about the online application process, contact Human Resources at humanresources@ucmo.edu or (660) 543-4255 and note position #997659 in the request.

Special Instructions:

Full-time benefits-eligible position: Benefits include competitive salary; health, dental, vision, life insurance, AD & D, long-term disability; 3 weeks paid vacation per year; 3 weeks of accrued sick leave per year; 13 paid holidays; retirement; and generous education assistance for an employee, spouse and dependent children taking classes at UCM.

Completed UCM online application for employment required. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

NOTE: A background check is required for the selected candidate of all staff, faculty, adjunct, and temporary positions and any job offer is contingent on the results of this check. Student employees and graduate assistants do not require a background check to be conducted prior to employment.

The University of Central Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer and specifically invites applications from women, minorities, veteran status, and people with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15692

Columbia University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

American University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: American Politics, Congress, African American Politics

The Department of Government in the School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position beginning in Academic Year 2026-27. The position will be at the rank of Assistant Professor. The Department is seeking an American Politics scholar.

Applicants should hold a PhD in political science or government. Candidates must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and teaching. The search is open regarding areas of substantive specialty, but the Department is especially interested in scholars whose research and teaching interests include American political institutions (e.g., Congress), African American politics, or women and politics. Most of all, the department seeks scholars who will further its goals of producing high impact research and providing innovative undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applications are particularly welcome from scholars who can contribute to high visibility centers and research initiatives at American University, such as the Women and Politics Institute, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, Center for Data Science, and Center for Environmental Policy. In addition to scholarship and teaching, all faculty are expected to hold office hours and participate in School and University activities and service.

Review of applications will begin on September 3, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled, subject to on-going budgetary approvals. The position begins on August 1, 2026. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion date by August 2026.

Salary and benefits are competitive, with an expected salary range of $90,000 to $110,000. Please submit applications via Workday.

Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three confidential letters of recommendation, research and teaching narratives, and a writing sample. Please contact Joanne Wiesman, Staff Assistant to the Chair, 202-885-6459 or jwiesman@american.edu if you have any questions.

To apply, please go to https://american.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/AU/job/Main-Campus-Washington-DC/Assistant-Professor--Department-of-Government_R2815

Benefits

AU offers a competitive benefits package including a 200% matching retirement plan, tuition benefits for full-time staff and their families, several leadership development certificates, and has been recognized by the American Heart Association as a fit-friendly worksite. Click here to learn about American University's unique benefit options.

Other Details

Hiring offers for this position are contingent on successful completion of a background check.

Employees in staff positions at American University must deliver their services to the university from either the District of Columbia, Maryland, or Virginia, or perform work on-site at the university.

Please note this job announcement is not designed to cover or contain a comprehensive listing of activities, duties or responsibilities that are required of the employee for this job. Duties, responsibilities, and activities may change at any time with or without notice.

American University is an E-Verify employer.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/28/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15707

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics (American Public Law)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

The Department of Government and Law at Lafayette College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. The Department seeks candidates specializing in U.S. Public Law, with research and teaching expertise in law and society, constitutional law, and civil rights. Research programs that focus on law through the lenses of politics and power, as well as additional expertise in American political development and social movements, are especially welcome.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to U.S. Politics, Law and Society, and other intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise, including one or more courses in the Department's constitutional law offerings. The successful candidate will also be expected to make a contribution to the College's interdisciplinary programs and maintain an active research agenda. The Department especially welcomes applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170467. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Michael Feola (feolam@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/22/2025
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15679

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Yale University

Rank: Democratic Innovations Postdoctoral Associate 2026-2027

The Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) invites postdoctoral students and junior scholars to apply for its Democratic Innovations Fellowship. Democratic Innovations is an interdisciplinary ISPS program that encourages social scientists from a variety of fields to think about the factors that affect government policy and decision-making and to analyze novel democratic institutions that might support improvements in representation, citizen inclusion, and government performance. To further the study and dissemination of novel ideas, the program will aim to answer questions such as:

- What changes to our political institutions will promote efficient, evidence-based decisions?
- What changes to our political institutions can make them more representative, inclusive, deliberative, and participatory?
- How do ideas and knowledge spread and what institutions can catalyze faster social learning and elevate fact over misinformation?
- How can we build democratic political institutions founded on a realistic view of citizen engagement?
- How can we attract dedicated and talented people to government and promote public engagement that contributes high-quality participation to the political system?

- What new possibilities for government, representation, and citizen participation are introduced by modern technologies, including artificial intelligence?
- What lessons can we learn about factors affecting government performance from history and social science?
- How can we test our ideas scientifically and how can we work to put proven good ideas into practice?

QUALIFICATIONS

We are interested in theoretical and empirical scholars doing basic or applied research on these and related questions. We are also interested in scholars who are experts in novel systems of representation and decision making, especially any innovations in voting, citizens' assemblies, or other political reforms that have been introduced recently and take advantage of advances in communication or computation.

Fellowship positions are open to those who have recently completed their Ph.D. (in the last 6 years), or to those who currently hold an untenured faculty position. Junior scholars are generally supported at a standard postdoctoral level for a period of one year beginning July 1, 2026 and are expected to be in residence during the academic year. In some cases, the Democratic Innovations Fellowship may be extended to a second year. Fellows are expected to be actively engaged with the activities of the Democratic Innovations program and present their research at least once per semester. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and may, in some cases, include minimal teaching responsibilities.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please send cover letter, research statement, current C.V., one writing sample, and two letters of recommendation. A copy of graduate transcripts is also required for postdoctoral applicants not currently holding a faculty position. Please apply on Interfolio at this link.

The review process will begin on January 15, 2026. Please submit your application by that date to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16261

George Washington University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Elizabeth J. Somers Women's Leadership Program (WLP) at the George Washington University in Washington, D.C invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning Fall 2026. WLP is a selective living-learning program for first-year students designed to build leadership skills within the context of their discipline and within a supportive community. Students enroll in one of four WLP cohorts: International Politics; International Arts & Culture; Science, Health, & Medicine; or Globalization, Economics, &; Business. Students take foundational courses in their field of study in small classes with their cohort faculty members both fall and spring semesters, and a year-long, experiential leadership symposium course.

The selected candidate will serve as the primary faculty and Program Coordinator for the International Politics cohort of approximately 20 students in the WLP. The Program Coordinator serves as instructor, academic mentor, and advisor, helping students navigate their college experience from the first year and beyond. They will teach small classes of first-year students for WLP and the University Honors Program, and they will work with the WLP Director and colleagues from across disciplines to integrate co-curricular offerings and activities that enhance the academic experiences of WLP students. They will also participate in WLP information sessions for prospective students and join in campus events.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in comparative politics and international relations. We welcome applicants familiar with the history of ideas and experienced in designing and teaching introductory courses in the history of political thought (ancient and/or modern). These themes are well suited for the University Honors Program teaching component, and the selected candidate will have freedom to design courses that complement their interests. Strong candidates will also have experience and vision regarding teaching and mentorship of students of multiple backgrounds with attention to structural barriers that limit access to educational opportunities.

Specific Duties and Responsibilities:
The effort breakdown for the position is 70% teaching, 15% administration/service, and 15% scholarship. The teaching component includes five undergraduate courses each year and co-teaching a year-long, one-credit leadership symposium. Two courses and the symposium are taught to first-year students in the Women's Leadership Program.
The remaining three courses may be taught to students in WLP, the University Honors
Program, Department of Political Science and/or Elliott School of International Affairs.
Administrative work is related to the Program Coordinator role and includes planning co-curricular events and symposium structure. Service obligations are primarily met through engagement in extracurricular events with WLP applicants, students, and alumni. Service obligations may also be met by serving on a departmental or university-level committee and attending major campus events. Scholarship for this role is broadly defined and may include activities such as presenting at conferences, creating and disseminating curriculum materials, or publishing political science or pedagogical research.

Minimum Qualifications:
Applicants must have excellent teaching skills as demonstrated by student evaluations, and a plan for assuring inclusive engagement in the classroom. They must have a strong desire to teach and mentor first year undergraduates and a commitment to advancing women and gender minorities in leadership. They must hold a doctorate in Political Science or a related field by date of appointment; ABD applicants will be considered but must complete all requirements for the doctorate by date of appointment.

Advertised Salary: $78,000-$84,000

Other Benefits:
Continuing non-tenure track faculty appointments at GW have relative parity with tenure-track positions in salary, benefits, and access to promotion. This position is eligible for full-time health benefits. For more information, please visit https://hr.gwu.edu/health-benefits.

Other Information:
The contract period will be three years and is renewable. The teaching load is 2/3 plus the 1-credit leadership symposium.

Special Instructions to Applicants:
To apply please complete an online application (https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/123003); Applicants should submit a cover letter that includes a statement of interest in the Women's Leadership Program and discusses contributions to women's initiatives in their teaching, mentorship, and/or professional engagement.

Applicants should also submit: 1) a curriculum vitae with detailed information about teaching experience; 2) a statement of teaching objectives and methods; 3) student teaching evaluations; 4) a writing sample; and 5) names of three references. Letters of recommendation are not required for application but will be requested for final candidates. Candidates who are invited for an interview will be expected to give a teaching demonstration on a topic of their choosing and a research presentation.
Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2026, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Background Screening: Successful Completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

EEO Statement:
The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16254

Princeton University

Rank: Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Researchers at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice at Princeton University, under the auspices of the Department of Politics and in collaboration with the School of Public and International Affairs, invites applications for postdoctoral or more senior research position for the 2026-2027 year (Job ID D-26-POL-00007). Renewal is contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. The aim of the program is to promote a group of promising scholars in the broad area of comparative politics, with a special but not exclusive focus on state formation, political regimes, and national identities. This position is overseen by Professor Carles Boix, Robert Garrett Professor of Politics and Public Affairs.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have or expect to have a Ph.D. in the fields of political science, history, political sociology, and economics. The work location for this position is in-person, on campus at Princeton University, for the duration of the appointment (anticipated to be September 1, 2026, through August 31, 2027).

For full consideration, apply by December 31, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Interested applicants must apply online and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members.
Successful applicants will be provided a competitive salary, standard benefits, and an annual allowance to support conference and career development travel. Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2026.

For more information about the Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Program at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice, please contact Michelle Anderson, Program Manager at mcanders@princeton.edu.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. This position is in-person, on-campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16253

University of Rochester

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship- International or Comparative Politics

University of Rochester
International or Comparative Politics

Skalny Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies at the University of Rochester invites applications for a two-year postdoctoral fellowship beginning in fall 2026. Applications are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics; research does not need to focus specifically on Poland or Central Europe. International applicants are welcome.
Fellows are expected to offer one course during each academic year.

Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Application materials:
- Letter of application
- Curriculum vitae
- Research project description (3-5 pages)
- Proposed course sketch (one page)
- One or more writing samples
- Three letters of recommendation

Submit application materials electronically to:
Anna Michas, Skalny Center Coordinator, at amichasb@UR.Rochester.edu.
Letters of recommendation should be sent directly to the same email address.

In the heading of your application letter, please use the following address: Postdoctoral Fellowship, Prof. Randall Stone, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. All materials should be submitted electronically to Anna Michas at the email above - no hard copies needed.

Applications received by January 1, 2026, will receive full consideration.
For questions, contact Anna Michas (amichasb@UR.Rochester.edu) or 585-275-9898.

The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to principles of diversity, and actively encourages applications from members of groups underrepresented in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16246

Yale University

Rank: Center for the Study of American Politics Research Postdoctoral Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177907.

We will be accepting applications until the position is filled, but applications submitted by February 1, 2026 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 2/18/2026
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16239

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - Political Design for Effective Goverment Project
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Professors Alan Gerber, Gregory Huber, and Josh Kalla at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) seek postdoctoral research associates for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will be funded by the Democratic Innovations Program's new Political Design for Effective Government Project.

Research projects will likely include, but are not limited to, field experiments using informational interventions to improve government performance, measurement of bureaucratic and officeholder quality and careers, designing politically viable general interest policy proposals, elite surveys, and developing political economy models of government performance.

Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicants and will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming, database management, or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177876.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16237

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: 2026 – 2027 DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows
Specializations: Germany, Western Europe, United States

The Paul H. Nitze School for Advanced International Studies (SAIS) is pleased to announce the opportunity for outstanding scholars to conduct research in Washington, D.C., on "The United States, Europe, and World Order."

During the academic year 2026-2027, up to two post-doctoral fellowships will be awarded.? Both fellowships will be available for a minimum of nine (9) and maximum of twelve (12) months between July 1, 2026 to June 30, 2027.? Applicants should indicate their preferred start and end dates in the application.

DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows are closely integrated into the SAIS academic community and will be affiliated with the Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs. A division of Johns Hopkins University, SAIS is a global institution that provides interdisciplinary professional education to prepare a diverse student body for internationally related positions of responsibility; to foster research, scholarship and cross-cultural exchange; and to contribute knowledge, expertise, and leadership to the global community.

The Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs is home to a distinguished faculty of scholars and practitioners working to address some of today's most complex global challenges. Through its innovative research, curricula, and programs, the Kissinger Center seeks to integrate historical scholarship with rigorous analysis of geostrategy and statecraft.

The Fellowships are funded through a grant from the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) with the generous support by the German Federal Foreign Office.

During the academic year 2026-2027 research and related activities will focus on "the roles of the United States and Germany at a crucial moment in world history." DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows will focus on this subject during a regular series of high-level seminars, peer review sessions, and opportunities for direct engagement with senior foreign policy practitioners and leading scholars of statecraft and world order. Each Fellow is expected to complete a research paper related to the theme during the period of residence in addition to continuing to work on their own research projects. The Fellows will also work with the Helmut Schmidt Distinguished Visiting Professor and the Kissinger Center on a German-US conference on issues of international security, historically informed statecraft and strategy and/or transatlantic relations taking place in Germany and a summer workshop on grand strategy and international security for early career academics and policymakers in Washington, D.C.

Eligibility

Applicants for the DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellowships at SAIS must have a doctorate or be at the post-doctorate level, have demonstrated research capacity, and be fluent in English. EU and U.S. citizens are welcome to apply. EU citizens should be currently affiliated with a German university or research institution and be eligible for a J-1 visa. Preference will be given to those who are no more than 6 years beyond completing their dissertation, although others are also eligible.

Salary

Each DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellow will receive a monthly salary of up to $6,000, minus U.S. taxes; access to a computer and shared workspace; internet access; access to Johns Hopkins University libraries and other facilities. Each Fellow is expected to take care of his/her accommodation and living expenses. A basic health care package is available for all Post-Doctoral Fellows. For non-US citizens one economy class roundtrip airfare will be provided. Furthermore, research funding of up to $3,000 for a 12-month stay will be available for each Fellow as well as one economy class roundtrip airfare to the above-mentioned conference in Germany. Health benefit premiums for accompanying dependents can also be covered ($560 per month if one dependent or $880 per month if more than one dependent).

Application Procedure

Each applicant should submit the following (in English):

A statement of interest outlining why you are applying and what you hope to get out of this fellowship.

A 3 to 5-page double-spaced research statement that proposes a research project, including its relevance to the theme "The United States, Europe and World Order."

Preferred appointment start and end dates, between July 1, 2026 and June 30, 2027.

A curriculum vitae.

Three references with contact information.

The applicant is responsible for collecting all materials and submitting them before 23:59 EST on January 14, 2026 using the following application portal: https://apply.interfolio.com/177831.

Applicants will be notified of their acceptance in February 2026.

The 2026-2027 DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellowship begins between July 1 and October 1, 2026 and concludes on June 30, 2027 with the possibility of renewal for an additional twelve (12) months upon mutual agreement. For further information please visit the program website, the Kissinger Center website, or write to KissingerCenter@jhu.edu. ?

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/14/2026

Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16230

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Helmut Schmidt Distinguished Visiting Chair - Full or Associate Professor Specializations: History & Politics, Western Europe, Foreign Policy

The Position

In 2018, with funding from the German Federal Foreign Office, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) established a Distinguished Visiting Chair in honor of former German chancellor Helmut Schmidt at the Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs, an international policy center at SAIS. The Chair commemorates the long and deep friendship between Kissinger and Schmidt and constitutes the core of a Germany Initiative that acts as a bridge between Germany and the US. The initiative also aims to become a focal point for German and American cooperation in addressing global challenges.

The distinguished scholar selected for the chair will partner with faculty within the Kissinger Center and other programs at SAIS. The visitor may also establish a research group, comprising several postdoctoral students. The scholar will further collaborate with other SAIS faculty (1) to build a research program capable of harnessing transatlantic cooperation to tackle geostrategic global challenges; (2) to devise a curriculum to educate and train future generations of world leaders; and (3) to conduct an active program to engage U.S., European and global policy professionals in this work. Together with Kissinger Center staff the chair will actively support two DAAD postdoctoral fellows at the Kissinger Center whose research will focus on the roles of the United States and Germany at a crucial moment in world history. Together with the postdocs the chair will work on initiatives of high visibility, such as an annual high-level German-US conference in Berlin as well as a regular summer workshop for early career academics and high-level policymakers in Washington, D.C.

Qualifications

To occupy the Helmut Schmidt Chair, SAIS is seeking a distinguished scholar who has made (or has the potential to make) an important impact on our understanding of contemporary global challenges and whose research is innovative and policy-relevant. Scholars in fields consistent with Kissinger's broad, eclectic approach to the analysis of international affairs, including but not limited to strategic studies and diplomatic history, are encouraged to apply. It is preferred that the scholar be well grounded in historical approaches to the understanding of global statecraft and strategy, and also be able to communicate with a broad audience. Individuals with a research agenda touching on transnational issues of global concern such as climate change, migration and immigration, regional integration and globalization, and international / transatlantic security policy will receive special consideration. Candidates should have a research focus on Germany and proven expertise concerning Germany's international relations with Europe and the world - in particular its transatlantic relations - to forge strategic links with international policymaking circles and draw attention to Germany's accomplishments and the lessons they hold for long-term strategic analysis. Also, candidates should be affiliated with a German university or research institution in order to build a bridge between Germany and the U.S.. Prior experience within a U.S. academic and policy environment is a plus.

The contract is flexible, comprising an initial one-year term with the possibility of renewal. The scholar will be expected to fulfill a teaching role in Kissinger Center curriculum and seminars. The preference is for a scholar at the full-professor level, but promising candidates at the associate professor level will also be considered.

Application

Applications will only be accepted through Interfolio. A letter of application and motivation, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact points of three references should be included. Applications for the 2026–2027 academic year will be accepted up until January 31, 2026. Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to recruiting, supporting and fostering a diverse community of outstanding faculty, staff and students. All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

To apply: https://apply.interfolio.com/176910

Background

A division of Johns Hopkins University, the School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) is a global institution that offers students an international perspective on today's critical issues. For more than 75 years, Johns Hopkins SAIS has produced great leaders, thinkers, and practitioners of international relations. Public leaders and private sector executives alike seek the counsel of the faculty, whose ideas and research inform and shape policy. Johns Hopkins SAIS offers a global perspective across three campus locations: Bologna, Italy; Nanjing, China; and Washington, D.C. The school's interdisciplinary curriculum is strongly rooted in the study of international economics, international relations, and regional studies, preparing students to address multifaceted challenges in the world today. For more information, visit sais.jhu.edu.

Since its founding in 1925, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) has awarded funding to more than 2.7 million scholars in Germany and abroad. DAAD is a registered members' association made up of German institutions of higher education and student bodies whose activities go far beyond simply awarding grants and scholarships. DAAD supports the internationalization of German universities, promotes German Studies and the German language abroad, provides developing countries with best practices in establishing universities and advises decision makers in the area of cultural, educational and developmental policy. Today, DAAD is one of the most important funding organizations worldwide for the international exchange of students and researchers. For more information, visit www.daad.de.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16231

University College Dublin

Rank: Ad Astra Doctoral Scholarship 2026: Environmental and Climate-Related Risk
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Quantitative Methods

Applications are invited for projects that assess vulnerability; evaluate the effectiveness of adaptation and resilience-building interventions;

analyse the political dynamics of environmental governance; or map the role of various actors (e.g., states, international organizations, civil society, private sector entities, etc.) in addressing climate and environmental insecurity. Proposals related to the climate-conflict nexus, climate-related displacement, early warning systems, or data-driven evaluations of climate policy and program effectiveness are also welcome.

Proposed projects should be empirically grounded and methodologically rigorous. Quantitative, computational, or mixed-method approaches are particularly encouraged, including but not limited to geospatial analysis, machine learning, predictive modelling, and causal inference techniques relevant to environmental or climate vulnerabilities.

Applicants may pursue the PhD in Quantitative and Computational Social Science (QCSS) or the PhD in Politics and International Relations. The intended track must be clearly specified in the application materials.

The successful candidate will undertake a PhD under the supervision of Dr. Elisa D'Amico, starting in September 2026.

Applicants must fill out and submit the Application Form below. The following documents will be required as part of the application form submission. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Please do not include any unrequested documents such as passport pages, birth certs, etc.

1. Brief Cover letter, stating reasons for interest in the SPIRe PhD programme (1-2 pages maximum).
2. Thesis proposal (2,000 words maximum, excluding bibliography) which should include the following: (a) a statement of your proposed focus area within the broader theme of environmental and climate-related risk, response, or resilience, (b) a brief literature review that points to work on which the proposed focus could build and on the research gaps which the proposal is going to address, and (c) a brief discussion of the proposed methodology.
3. Copies of Academic Transcripts (Undergraduate and Postgraduate)
4. C.V. or Resumé (2 pages maximum)
5. Evidence of English language competence (if applicable)
6. Two academic referees

Specific questions can be addressed to Dr. Elisa D'Amico (elisa.damico@ucd.ie)

Questions regarding the application process should be addressed to Ms Dara Gannon (dara.gannon@ucd.ie)

See more information and apply here: https://www.ucd.ie/spire/study/prospectivephdstudents/adastradoctoralscholarships/

Deadline: Friday, 6-February 2026

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 16232

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Political Economy

POSITION OVERVIEW
Position title: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition
Salary range: The UC postdoc salary scales set the minimum pay determined by experience level at appointment. See the following table(s) for the current salary scale(s) for this position: https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2024-25/oct-2024-scales/t23.pdf. The current minimum salary range for this position is $69,073 - $77,030. Salaries above the minimum may be offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.
Percent time: 100
Anticipated start: as early as possible, negotiable
Position duration: Initial appointment is for 2 years with possibility of renewal based on performance and availability of funding.

APPLICATION WINDOW
Next review date: Monday, December 15, 2025
Final date: Applications will continue to be accepted until a candidate has been chosen.

POSITION DESCRIPTION
The Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative seeks applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the area of the political economy of climate policy and the energy transition.

The Postdoctoral Scholar will be part of the Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative (BESI), a campuswide program to advance new political and economic thought on urgent societal challenges. BESI's climate cluster conducts research and engagement on climate politics and policy, with a focus on the intersection of climate and economic policymaking. The Postdoctoral Scholar would work with Jonas Meckling. Areas of research interest include but are not limited to the intersection of climate policy and economic policy broadly understood. Specific interests relate to the greening of innovation, industrial, trade, development, monetary, and fiscal policy as well as the geopolitics of the energy transition. We welcome international political economy, comparative political economy, or regional/country perspectives as well as firm-centered approaches. Applicants are expected to pitch their existing research and possible areas of collaboration. They may also contribute to possible projects of collaboration proposed by us.

QUALIFICATIONS
Basic qualifications (required at time of application)
PhD or equivalent international degree or enrolled in such a program.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS
Document requirements
Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.
Cover Letter - Please include a 1-2 page cover letter.
Statement of Research - This research proposal should not exceed 5 pages. Applicants should provide specific information about research plans, including possible areas of collaboration.
Recent Publications - Please include at least one recent publication.

Reference requirements

Names and contact details for 3 references. We will only request letters of recommendation for shortlisted candidates.

Apply email: Submit your application as a single pdf file to BESIHR@berkeley.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16228

Alma College

Rank: Instructor/lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Political Science Department at Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applicants for an Instructor/Lecturer of Political Science. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track position beginning Fall 2026. This position is for three years with the possibility of renewal. Teaching load will be 8 units per academic year.

The department seeks applicants with a demonstrated commitment to exciting, engaging pedagogies and topics. Preference will be given to candidates that can teach courses that complement existing departmental strengths in International Relations and American Politics. A master's degree is required, but a Ph.D. is preferred. Candidates who are ABD with teaching experience may also be considered.

The Political Science Department at Alma College is committed to the preparation of knowledgeable, competent, and well-rounded graduates who reflect critically, serve ethically, and lead intentionally in a diverse world. This is a small department that works collaboratively to provide rigorous student-centered education in a residential setting with a deep commitment to quality liberal arts education.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16225

Memorial University of Newfoundland

Rank: Canadian Excellence Research Chair in Comparative Democratic Resilience in the Global South Specializations: Africa, South America, Central America

Canadian Excellence Research Chair in Comparative Democratic Resilience in the Global South

Department of Political Science, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences

Date available online: November 12, 2025

Closing Date: December 12, 2025

The Department of Political Science at Memorial University invites applications to the highly prestigious Canada Excellence Research Chairs (CERC) Program with a specialization in Comparative Democratic Resilience in the Global South. The CERC 2026 competition aims to attract world-leading research talent to Canada with the high potential to generate social and economic benefits for Canadians via their research aligned with priority areas of Canadian science, technology and innovation (ST&I). Contingent upon the successful CERC nomination, the allocation to this non-renewable position will be $500K/year for 8 years, for a total of $4M, with the CERC recipient appointed to a full-time faculty position on understanding and respect.

Research Focus
The CERC recipient will address one of the defining global challenges of our time: the erosion of democratic institutions under pressures of polarization, authoritarianism, disinformation, and deep structural inequality. Focusing on Africa and Latin America—regions where innovative civic responses to democratic crisis are emerging—the Chair will examine how democratic institutions survive, adapt, or falter under pressure, particularly in contexts shaped by colonial legacies, economic inequality, and racialized exclusion. The Chair's research program will explore how grassroots movements, Indigenous sovereignties, and racial justice campaigns are contesting and transforming public institutions. While grounded in the Global South, the Chair's work will inform democratic innovation globally—including in Canada—as societies grapple with political polarization, technological disruption, and declining trust in public institutions.
The Chair will build on and critically augment Memorial's Political Science Department's nationally and internationally recognized strengths in the study of democratic politics and theory, innovative democratic practices, and comparative politics. Current faculty members are embedded in strong national and international research networks on democracy, including SSHRC Partnership Grants (Participedia, The Consortium on Electoral Democracy, and the Canadian Municipal Barometer).
Memorial has an all-Indigenous Committee for Ethical Research Impacting Indigenous Groups to ensure research, including classroom research, meets high standards of ethics and responsibility. The focus is on research with, by and for Indigenous Peoples that emphasizes engagement based on understanding and respect. More information, can be found here.

Candidate Profile
The successful candidate will be an established, internationally recognized research leader whose scholarship has made a major impact on the study of democracy, governance or civic capacity in the Global South. They will have the primary responsibility for directing the research program and all related activities, and will be expected to develop and implement a plan for an inclusive research environment that fosters equity, accessibility, and diverse participation at all levels.
The successful candidate will have:

- A PhD* in Political Science or a closely related discipline.
- Hold a tenure-stream appointment at the Associate or Full Professor level in Political Science or adjacent discipline.
- A demonstrated record of world-class research excellence in comparative politics, democratic theory, global governance, or related areas.
- Evidence of sustained high-impact contributions, publications in leading journals, and success in securing external research funding.
- A strong commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion and anti-racism (EDI-AR) in research, teaching, and mentorship.
- Experience mentoring a diverse group of students, trainees, and research personnel.
- A record of service to the research community through leadership, peer review, and institutional engagement.

*This is a requirement of Memorial University, not the CERC Program.

The CERC Program does not impose any restrictions regarding nationality or country of residence of the nominee. The Program's objective is to strengthen Canada's ability to attract the world's top researchers. Applicants holding positions at Canadian universities, including Memorial, are welcome to apply; however, if selected, Memorial will be required to demonstrate the net benefit to the country in moving the researcher from one Canadian institution to another.

How to Apply
Applications should be sent electronically as a single PDF file, with the subject heading: CERC 2026 applicant_NAME, and quoting the reference number: F03259-2025-164. An application should include:

- A cover letter, including a vision for the CERC on Comparative Democratic Resilience in the Global South
- An up-to-date Curriculum vitae
- Names and contact information of three referees who can provide letters of reference if short-listed.

Application packages should be submitted through this portal: https://careers.mun.ca/hss/apply/advertisements/6328, as soon as possible but no later than December 12, 2025.
Questions regarding the position can be directed to Dr. Scott Matthews, Head of the Department of Political Science, at polisci-head@mun.ca.

Memorial acknowledges that career paths can be diverse and that life circumstances such as illness, disability, family and community responsibilities are often an expected part of life and are likely to have an impact on a nominee's record of research achievement. Applicants are encouraged to explain, in their cover letter, any life circumstances resulting in career interruptions, if applicable. These impacts will be taken into careful consideration during the assessment process.

Memorial University is committed to employment equity, diversity, inclusion and anti-racism, and encourages applications from qualified candidates from all underrepresented, equity-seeking, rights-seeking populations, including: women; people of any sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression; Indigenous Peoples; visible minorities, and racialized people; and people with disabilities. All applicants are invited to identify themselves as a member of an equity-deserving group(s) as appropriate. Please note that applicants cannot be considered a member of an equity-deserving group(s) unless they complete Memorial's employment equity (EE) survey. EE surveys will be emailed to all applicants within seven days of their submission of the application package to Memorial. If you do not receive a survey or have any questions, please contact equity@mun.ca.

Memorial is also committed to providing an inclusive learning and work environment. If there is anything we can do to ensure your full participation during the application process, please contact equity@mun.ca directly, and we will work with you to make appropriate arrangements.

Memorial University
As Newfoundland and Labrador's only university, Memorial University plays an integral role in the education and cultural life of the province; offering diverse undergraduate and graduate programs to more than 17,000 students from over 120 countries. Memorial's St. John's campus provides a distinctive and stimulating environment for learning in the capital city. Home to many natural wonders, including a puffin colony, whales, and icebergs, St. John's is steps away from the Atlantic Ocean, with a vibrant arts and culture scene, mild temperatures, and access to a wide range of outdoor activities in all seasons.

We acknowledge that the lands on which Memorial University's campuses are situated are in the traditional territories of diverse Indigenous groups, and we acknowledge with respect the diverse histories and cultures of the Beothuk, Mi'kmaq, Innu, and Inuit of this province.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/12/2025
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16222

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions Senior Visiting Scholar
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Public Opinion

Vanderbilt University's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) seeks up to three Senior Visiting Scholars to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior during the 2026-27 academic year. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions.

The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending the entire academic year at Vanderbilt. There is no teaching requirement associated with these positions. Successful candidates will receive office space and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing your research project, what you hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applicants should submit materials electronically at: https://apply.interfolio.com/177613. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 5, 2026.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16216

Columbia University

Rank: István Deák Visiting Assistant Professor/Visiting Associate Professor/Visiting Professor

Columbia University invites applications for István Deák Visiting Professorship(s) in East Central European Studies for one semester (fall or spring) in the academic year 2026-2027. The professorship, commemorating Professor Deák's legacy of excellence in research and teaching, is open to scholars who have active interest and accomplishments in East and Central European studies. Appointment(s) will be open-rank, to be filled at any level from Visiting Assistant to Visiting Full Professor.

The visiting professor(s) will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

The visitors will teach two courses per semester, one a lecture course of broad interest for undergraduates, the other a seminar for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students. The visitors are expected to give one public lecture and participate in the academic life of the University, whose interests in East and Central European studies are well represented on campus by the East Central European Center, the European Institute, and the Harriman Institute.

Ph.D. or professional equivalent. Distinction in teaching and research within the field of East Central European studies.

Please provide a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of three persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, and a modest sample (article or book chapter) of scholarship. The letter of application should include a statement of which semester the applicant prefers, a list with titles and brief (one-paragraph long) descriptions of two courses which the applicant might teach, and a description of the applicant's current research interests.

Applications must be submitted here: https://apply.interfolio.com/176288

For inquiries about the István Deák Visiting Professorship, please contact Christopher Caes: cc4038@columbia.edu

Review of applications will begin on January 15, 2026 and continue until the position(s) are filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16205

Columbia University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The Harriman Institute invites applications for two-year Postdoctoral Research Scholar positions, starting July 1, 2026. Postdoctoral Research Scholars are expected to concentrate on their own research and writing; to teach a course of their own design in the spring semester of each of the two years; to give a public seminar/lecture on their research and to be active participants in the Institute's scholarly community. The Institute provides opportunities to organize conferences and other public events around their particular interests. The Scholar is required to be in residence in the New York City area.

The primary criterion in awarding these fellowships is academic excellence. The Institute seeks evidence that the candidate's research, teaching, and publications will make a significant, original contribution to the study of Russia, Eurasia, and/or Eastern Europe in their particular field of study. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received the Ph.D. between January 1, 2024 and June 30, 2026 and do not hold a tenure-track position. All Postdoctoral Research Scholars must have successfully defended and deposited their dissertations prior to the commencement of the appointment.

Applications must be submitted here: https://apply.interfolio.com/176134

The following list of materials is required for all applicants:

Curriculum Vitae
Cover letter
Dissertation abstract
Research proposal: 2-3 page statement describing the research project you would pursue at Columbia University if awarded a fellowship, indicating its relation (if any) to your doctoral dissertation, as well as its relation to the mission of the Harriman Institute
A scholarly writing sample, such as an article or dissertation chapter. The writing sample must be in English.
Letters of recommendation: 2 letters of reference that include an evaluation of your research and teaching proposals
1-2 page preliminary syllabus or course concept (defining problem, method, expectations of students and brief selection of readings)

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16206

Columbia University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar in Ukrainian Studies

The Harriman Institute seeks a Postdoctoral Research Scholar in Ukrainian Studies for a two-year appointment, starting July 1, 2026. Postdoctoral research scholars are expected to concentrate on their own research and writing, which should be focused on some aspect of contemporary Ukrainian life, politics, and/or international affairs; to teach a course of their own design in the spring semester of each of the two years; to give a public seminar/lecture on their research; and to be active participants in the Institute's scholarly community and events. The Scholar is required to be in residence in the New York City area. This position is made possible by generous support of the Petro Jacyk Ukrainian Studies Fund.

The primary criterion for this position is academic excellence. The Hiring Committee seeks evidence that the candidate's research, teaching, and publications will make a significant, original contribution to the study of contemporary Ukraine in their particular field of study. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received the Ph.D. between January 1, 2024 to June 30, 2026, and do not hold a tenure-track position. All scholars must have successfully defended and deposited their dissertations prior to the commencement of the appointment. Successful applicants are expected to commit to the full two-year sequence.

Applications must be submitted here: https://apply.interfolio.com/176069

The following list of materials is required for all applicants:

Curriculum Vitae
Cover letter
Dissertation abstract
Research proposal: 2-3 page statement describing the research project you would pursue at Columbia University if awarded a fellowship, indicating its relation (if any) to your doctoral dissertation, as well as its relation to the mission of the Harriman Institute
A writing sample, such as an article or dissertation chapter
Letters of recommendation: 2 letters of reference that include an evaluation of your research and teaching proposals
1-2 page preliminary syllabus or course concept (defining problem, method, expectations of students and brief selection of readings)

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026

Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16207

Columbia University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor/Visiting Associate Professor/ Visiting Professor in Ukrainian Studies

Columbia University invites applications for an appointment in Ukrainian studies to be filled at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor, Visiting Associate Professor, or Visiting Professor in Ukrainian Studies for one year in the academic year 2026-2027. Rank commensurate with experience. History is the preferred area of research and teaching specialization, but literary/cultural studies and other areas will also be considered. The successful candidate will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science Departments in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and will teach three courses throughout the academic year: a lecture course of broad interest for undergraduates, a seminar for upper-level undergradutes, and a seminar for graduate students. Additionally, the successful candidate will be expected to give one public lecture and to participate in the academic life of the University, including as an affiliate of the Harriman Institute.

Review of applications will begin January 6, 2026 and continue until the position is filled.

Ph.D. or equivalent is required.

Applications must be submitted through Columbia University's Academic Search and Recruiting (ASR) system: https://apply.interfolio.com/176071

Please upload the following required materials: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of three persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, a modest scholarly writing sample (article or dissertation/book chapter), and past teaching evaluations, if available. The letter of application should include a short list of possible courses which the applicant might teach, and a description of the applicant's current research interests.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16208

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking applicants for its 2026–27 Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship. The fellowship offers younger scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to conduct policy-relevant research at CFR's New York or Washington, DC, offices. CFR awards up to two fellowships annually.

The fellowship begins on September 8, 2026, and runs for twelve months.

How to Apply

Program details, eligibility requirements, and the online application can be found at: www.cfr.org/fellowships/stanton-nuclear-security-fellowship. Applicants must be U.S. citizens.

The deadline to apply is November 30, 2025. If you have questions about the fellowship, please email fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16202

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowship in Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history. Applications are particularly welcomed from candidates who work in the fields of contemporary political theory, comparative government, or international relations, but this is not a requirement.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should hold, or be close to the completion of, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research, and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills.

The Fellowships are full-time, fixed-term posts and are to be taken up on 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter. The post end date will normally be 31 August 2029. Candidates who have not yet completed their doctorate at the time of application should note that to take up the Fellowship in September 2026, it may be necessary for them to have submitted their doctoral dissertation for examination by the end of May 2026. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 41,700 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may apply to rent single accommodation in College.

Benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https:\\www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/s2wd5jlt/polpprf_jd2026.pdf

The deadline for applications is Thursday 4 December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16196

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Faculty Fellow, European and Mediterranean Studies
Specializations: Western Europe, Middle East, Middle East

Faculty Fellow, European and Mediterranean Studies Center for European and Mediterranean Studies
New York University Arts and Science

The Center for European and Mediterranean Studies at New York University Arts and Science (CEMS/NYU) invites applicants for a Faculty Fellow position in the field of Mediterranean Studies. The initial appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2026, renewable annually for a maximum of three years, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

CEMS/NYU seeks a scholar with research and teaching interests in Southern Europe and the Mediterranean region. Research specialization should be in one or more of the following fields: comparative politics, anthropology, sociology, and/or modern history of Mediterranean Europe. We seek candidates with a specific focus on questions of migration, human rights, economic and social development, the environment/climate change, populism, and/or Mediterranean countries' relationship with the European Union, and with strong experience in advising student research.

Responsibilities include teaching a total of three courses per year (graduate and/or undergraduate) - often including a graduate research methods seminar. Student advising is a key component of this position, as the faculty fellow will have a significant role in directing theses for master's students and the possibility of advising undergraduate honors majors. Service to the program includes organizing events that feature the Mediterranean (seminars that bring in outside scholars, for instance) and can involve representing the Center at university occasions and committee meetings. Candidates should demonstrate a commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship and excellence in teaching.

Arts& Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who are sensitive to the needs of and possess an interest in working in a broad academic community with different viewpoints and backgrounds. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here: https://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultyexcellence.html.

Incompliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to)the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Qualifications
Candidates should have completed their Ph.D. no earlier than January 2021 and no later than August 1, 2026.

Application Instructions
Submission deadline: Jan 15, 2026

To apply, please submit a cover letter (including research interests and teaching experience), CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample.

Applications should be submitted through Interfolio to: https://apply.interfolio.com/175381

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16193

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor in Asian Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track / Tenured)
Specializations: East Asia, Foreign Policy, Japan

Assistant / Associate Professor in Asian Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track / Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint an Assistant/Associate Professor (Tenure-Track/Tenured) in Asian Studies and/or International Relations. Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars. The candidate is expected to conduct research and teach in the subject areas of Japan, Korea, and more broadly, Asia. As the School has previously recruited experts in international relations of China and South Asia, it does not require experts who particularly specialise in these areas at the moment.

The successful candidate will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisation; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in Asian Studies and/or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative duties at the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must also submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per academic year.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system. Please click on this link to access – https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant---Associate-Professor-in-Asian-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track---Tenured---RSIS-_R00022123/apply

Applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how their qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests, and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report, if available;
6. Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the names and contact details of THREE (3) referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor, or;

Applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the names and contact details of FOUR (4) referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B3,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2026.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 10/31/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16183

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track / Tenured)
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

Assistant / Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track / Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint an Assistant/Associate Professor (Tenure-Track/Tenured) in International Political Economy. Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars with demonstrated expertise in the substantive subfields of International Political Economy (e.g. international trade, finance, investment, global value chains, foreign direct investment, development, and technological innovation).

The successful candidate will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisation; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in International Political Economy at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative duties at the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must also submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per academic year.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system. Please click on this link to access – https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant---Associate-Professor-in-International-Political-Economy--Tenure-Track---Tenured---RSIS-_R00022110/apply

Applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how their qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests, and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report, if available;
6. Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the names and contact details of THREE (3) referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor, or;

Applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the names and contact details of FOUR (4) referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B3,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2026.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 10/31/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16117

Appalachian State University

Rank: Dan German Endowed Professorship of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for the Dan German Endowed Professorship, a tenure-track position at the rank of Associate or Full Professor.
This distinguished position is open to established scholars with an exemplary record of mentoring students, innovative teaching, and/or civic and community engagement.. The appointment will begin in August 2026, though the start date is negotiable. The salary is competitive and includes dedicated funds to support the activities of the professorship.

The Dan German Endowed Professorship is designed to honor and extend the legacy of student-centered engagement and scholarship. The successful candidate will:
- Demonstrate a sustained record of mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, including guiding research and fostering professional development.
- Exhibit innovative teaching practices, which may include experiential learning, community-based pedagogy, or collaborative course design.
- Engage in civic and community partnerships that connect students to broader political, professional, social, and cultural issues.

Areas of expertise are open to all subfields of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political theory, public administration, and public policy. Candidates whose work intersects with civic engagement, democratic participation, or applied politics are especially encouraged to apply.

The Dan German Professor will:
- Teach 2-3 courses per semester, with opportunities to develop new courses that reflect the scholar's expertise and complement departmental offerings.
- Mentor students in research, internships, and community-engaged projects.
- Collaborate with faculty to design programming that enriches the intellectual life of the department and university.
- Use endowed funds to support activities such as:
-- Hosting public lectures, panels, or workshops.
-- Supporting student research or travel.
-- Developing civic engagement initiatives in partnership with local or regional organizations.

Applicants must submit an electronic application consisting of:
1. A letter of interest highlighting previous student engagement, mentoring approaches, innovative teaching, and engagement activities to be pursued during the professorship.
2. A current curriculum vitae.

Questions may be directed to the search chair, Dr. Phillip J. Ardoin, at ardoinpj@appstate.edu.

Apply here: https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/52477

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16155

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

UNC Charlotte - Postdoctoral Researcher

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position in migration with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a social science research project investigating the relationships between long-term environmental and climatic changes, shorter-term shocks (such as conflicts, natural disasters, and economic disruptions), and migration. The postdoctoral researcher would lead and implement the creation of complex data collections that combine survey, remote sensing, and administrative data, and generate new research questions, hypotheses, and approaches for analyzing this data.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of and analysis of a large dataset that integrates data from multiple sources. The role includes:
? Leading dataset construction efforts.
? Supporting the new Center for Migration and Diaspora Studies.
? Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position.
? Conducting and publishing high-quality research and preparing grant proposals in close collaboration with and under the guidance of project leaders.
? Participating in the broader intellectual life of the College and University.

Minimum Experience/Education
The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.)

Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics, Public Policy, Geography, or a closely related Computational or Social Science discipline.

Departmental Preferred Experience, Skills, Training/Education:
Demonstrated ability to independently design and carry out a social science research project.
Demonstrable knowledge of and experience working with the R programming language and strong data management skills are required. Preference is given to applicants with additional knowledge of Stata or Python. Knowledge of machine learning, geospatial analysis, or spatial statistics are a plus.

Apply online at https://jobs.charlotte.edu/postings/64603.
Please upload the following documents with your electronic submission:
1) curriculum vitae that includes contact information for two references;
2) cover letter summarizing your motivation for the position, relevant research interests, and qualifications; 3) a single-authored, paper-length writing sample that is an original piece of research most relevant to the position.

Screening of applicants will begin on October 27, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Contact Information
Dr. James Walsh
jwalsh@charlotte.edu

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16156

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Asian American Politics, History & Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES

Department of Social and Cultural Analysis
NEW YORK UNIVERSITY ARTS AND SCIENCE

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis invites applications for a Faculty Fellow in Asian/Pacific/American Studies, with an initial appointment of one year beginning September 1, 2026, and the expectation of annual renewal for two additional years, subject to pending budgetary and administrative approval.

The successful candidate should hold a PhD in any field or discipline related to Asian/Pacific/American Studies, and we especially encourage scholars who focus on trans-regional and interdisciplinary approaches to Asian American and/or Pacific World studies to apply. Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. no earlier than five years before the date of appointment and have a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. The teaching load will be three courses per annum.

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis is an interdisciplinary department committed to developing innovative approaches in urbanism, migration, critical racial, ethnic and indigenous studies, gender and sexuality, art, culture, politics, and economic life. The Department has degree programs in Africana Studies, American Studies, Asian/Pacific/American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latinx Studies, Urban Studies, and Social and Cultural Analysis.

Applicants must apply through Interfolio using this link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/175770

Review of applications will begin on November 10, 2025 and continue until the search is complete. Candidates should submit the following on Interfolio: a cover letter that reflects on relevant experience, a CV, a writing sample, a sample syllabus, and the contact information of three people NYU can solicit for letters of recommendation.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Arts & Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who are sensitive to the needs of and possess an interest in working in a broad academic community with different viewpoints and backgrounds. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here:
https://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultyexcellence.html.

If you have questions, please contact Marty Correia at mc2828@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16145

Angelo State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy at Angelo State University is seeking a new colleague starting Fall 2026 to assist in its core mission of preparing its majors for excellence and leadership in their communities and careers and of instilling and promoting civic education in the larger ASU student body.

Considering the responsibility public institutions of higher education have to prepare students for responsible citizenship in a free society, the Department has been charged with teaching core courses in Texas Government and Federal Government. These courses represent a majority of the teaching workload for faculty in our department and require a thorough familiarity with the principles of liberty and free, republican government underlying the Constitutions of Texas and of the United States.

Our new colleague must be prepared to contribute to the major in Political Science by teaching Introduction to Political Science and upper division courses in International Relations and Comparative Politics. A variety of research areas will be considered, but we are looking for emphases on the activity of major states, such as China, Russia, etc. Also important to this position is the ability to cultivate our students for careers in diplomacy, national security, and foreign policy.

Our major in Political Science is undergoing a period of enrollment growth, and we are proposing to build on that growth with a number of interdisciplinary programs/curricular initiatives, such as, new minors and certificates in PPE (Politics, Philosophy, and Economics), Civic Education and Leadership, and Constitutional and Legal Studies. Ability to contribute to these efforts will be considered a plus factor.

Review of applications will begin 11/17/25 and will continue until the position is filled.

Typical Duties/Job Duties
Faculty at Angelo State teach a 4-4 load and are expected to maintain an active research agenda and engage in service to the university. A typical semester will involve teaching one upper-level course and three sections of Texas Government or Federal Government. The faculty member's record of scholarly achievement will be evaluated according to the department's established criterion. Service at Angelo State includes attending departmental and college meetings, advising majors, serving on both department and university-wide committees, and may also be bolstered by service to the discipline and to the Concho Valley community.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities
Teaching experience and a commitment to teaching excellence.
Knowledge of the Constitutions of the United States and Texas and of the civic educational purposes underscored by the requirements found in Section 51.301 of the Texas Education Code.

Minimum Qualifications
PhD in Political Science; advanced ABDs are also encouraged to apply.

Preferred Qualifications
Experience with the efforts to revive civic knowledge in Texas and the United States.

Applications can be submitted at Angelo State University's Employment Page, which can be accessed at https://employment.angelo.edu/postings/7223

Any inquiries should be directed to tony.bartl@angelo.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16142

North Carolina State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations
Specializations: Political Behavior, Race & Ethnic Politics, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in political behavior to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose area of specialization is race and ethnicity politics but will also consider candidates with primary interests in other identity and social groups, voting behavior, public opinion, political psychology, media politics, campaigns and elections, or other subject matter related to the sub-field of political behavior.

We welcome scholars who approach these topics from American, comparative, or international perspectives. Those with relevant expertise will have the opportunity to teach in the Master of International Studies program.

Candidates should be able to demonstrate that they will have defended their dissertation by their start date.

The successful candidate will maintain a robust research agenda, teach two courses per semester, contribute to student mentoring, and actively participate in service to the university and profession.

Perform other duties as assigned by the department head.

For best consideration, apply before November 17, 2025.

To apply, go to: https://jobs.ncsu.edu/postings/224115

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16141

New College of Florida

Rank: Political Behavior and Methodology (tenure-track)
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Political Science position in Comparative or American Political Behavior and Methodology. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to teaching at least one core quantitative methods course each year and joining the rotation for a general Research Design course, the candidate will offer courses in their substantive field of interest. Although the geographic specialization is open to Comparative and American, the candidate must be able to teach upper-level courses in American Political Behavior. The candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. We are especially looking for candidates who are interested in teaching applied methodological techniques at the intermediate to advanced undergraduate level, including multiple regression, probit/logit regression, and any of the following: time series analysis, computational social science, complex systems, GIS, and social network analysis. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2026.

New College, the honors college of the State University System of Florida, is a small, selective, innovative liberal arts institution. Students, with the help of faculty sponsors, plan their own academic programs through a series of semester contracts, and receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work appropriate to their specializations.

Interested candidates should apply online at http://www.ncf.edu/employment and upload the following: a cover letter, c.v., statements of teaching and research interests, syllabi, teaching evaluations, one writing sample (article or chapter length), and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please identify three scholars to write letters of recommendation (they will receive a request through the system). According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding the search are open to the public upon request.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16130

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science
Specializations: Africa, Middle East, Developing Nations

Area: Comparative Politics
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P invites applications for a position at the assistant or associate professor level starting in Autumn 2026. We are looking for a political scientist with expertise in the field of comparative politics, with a preference for scholars whose research and teaching focus on the Global South.

Candidates should have substantive research experience in comparative politics. They should either have a Ph.D., or expect to receive one by August 2026, in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences. If the candidate is hired at the associate level, it will be with tenure; at the assistant level, it will be tenure track.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.

Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications (which may be part of the CV), and two recent writing samples. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must also arrange to have two letters of recommendation submitted.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16115

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Area: Quantitative Methods
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) invites applications for a position at the assistant or associate professor level starting in Autumn 2026. We are looking for a political scientist with specialization in quantitative and computational methods. The successful candidate will teach courses in statistics and, if possible, computational modeling; knowledge of NLP is a plus.

Candidates should have substantive research experience in comparative politics, public policy, or international relations. They should either have a Ph.D., or expect to receive one by August 2026, in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences. If the candidate is hired at the associate level, it will be with tenure; at the assistant level, it will be tenure track.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in methods or that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.
Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications (which may be part of the CV), and two recent writing samples. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must also arrange to have two letters of recommendation submitted.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026

Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16113

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration
Specializations: Political Development, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Social Welfare

Area: Governance and institutions
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Associate or Full Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P invites applications for a position at the associate or full professor level starting in Autumn 2026. The successful candidate will become tenured at UM6P. We are looking for an accomplished social scientist or policy scholar with specialization in the study of effective governance, political institutions, corruption, institutional reform, government accountability, and related topics. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research and teaching focus on the Global South.

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.

Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications and two recent writing samples.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16114

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Assistant Professor

Tenure Track Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics
Position Description
The Political Science program at The University of Texas at Dallas invites applications for a tenure-track
Assistant Professor position in international relations or comparative politics. The scholarly subfield of interest is international relations or comparative politics, with a research specialty in topics related to international or domestic conflict, security, or human rights. The successful candidate will be expected to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in conflict studies. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.
The appointment commences for the fall 2026 semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Education and Experience: A PhD or equivalent in political science or a related discipline is required prior to employment; those with ABD status will be considered at the application/interviewing stage. Candidates are expected to demonstrate the ability to work effectively in a highly collaborative, engaging, and dynamic environment comprised of individuals with a range of backgrounds, skills, and perspectives. We are seeking candidates able to produce research and scholarly or creative achievements that enhance the program and the discipline, and able to deliver high quality teaching using evidence-based practices to effectively engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.
Preferred Education and Experience: A PhD in Political Science.
The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences
The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (EPPS) at UT Dallas is a national leader in research addressing critical social, political and economic issues.
Our graduates work in government, nonprofits and the private sector, with many pursuing advanced degrees that prepare them for leadership roles in advancing positive changes on the local, national and global levels.
Application Instructions
Applicants should upload the following via the online application:
• Full curriculum vitae and cover letter summarizing their interests and qualifications for the position.

• Statement of teaching philosophy describing their conceptualizations of teaching and learning, and teaching and assessment methods, and how their teaching practices will engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.
• Research statement describing past, present, and future research, including how they mentor (or will mentor) student researchers and foster (or will foster) collaborative research environments.
• A writing/publication sample.
• Full contact information for at least three academic or professional references.
Priority will be given to completed applications received by October 31, 2025. Reviews will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed on March 1, 2026.

The University and Community
UT Dallas is a top public research university located in one of the nation's fastest-growing metropolitan regions. Our seven schools offer more than 140 undergraduate and graduate programs, plus professional certificates and fast-track programs. Our student body is approximately 30,000 strong, reflecting students from over 100 countries and a multiplicity of perspectives and experiences. Over 65% of our undergraduate students receive some form of need- or merit-based financial aid; and 66% of graduating seniors have no student debt compared to 48% in Texas and 32% in the nation (2021 TICAS report).
UT Dallas is committed to graduating well-rounded members of the community whose education has prepared them for rewarding lives and productive careers in a constantly changing world. Our mission centers on providing Texas and the nation with excellent and innovative education and research. The University's rapid growth is fueled by our creative and enterprising spirit, bright students, innovative programs, renowned faculty, dedicated staff, engaged alumni, and research that matters.
The University promotes a welcoming environment through programs and initiatives designed to support engagement and success for members of the campus community. Employee benefits include a range of physical and mental wellness resources, competitive insurance and retirement plan options, lactation facilities located throughout the campus, and Employee Resource Groups (ERGs) comprised of individuals who share common interests to help build community among UT Dallas faculty and staff (e.g., Universal Access ERG, Military and Veteran ERG, UT Dallas Young Professionals). Additionally, the University's modern campus, 400+ campus organizations, and prime location foster collaboration and community.

Situated in Richardson, Texas, the University's location offers abundant professional development and entertainment options. The Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW) metroplex is rich in visual and performing arts venues, museum districts, professional and semi-professional athletics teams, botanical gardens, accessible trails, and much more, ensuring there's something for everyone. The University's partnerships with regional higher education institutions, local school districts, numerous companies, and the Richardson Innovation Quarter (Richardson IQ) – a major hub for innovation, entrepreneurship, and educational activities – promotes collaboration, professional growth, and educational excellence.

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Texas at Dallas is committed to providing an educational, living and working environment that is welcoming, respectful, and inclusive of all members of the university community. The University prohibits unlawful discrimination against a person because of their race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, disability, genetic information, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16124

North Carolina State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: East Asia, International Political Economy, China

Essential Job Duties
The Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian Politics to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026.

Those with relevant expertise will have the opportunity to teach in the Master of International Studies program. Candidates should be able to demonstrate that they will have defended their dissertation by their start date.

Teaching responsibilities will be at the graduate and undergraduate level in thedepartment's Master of International Studies (MIS) program as well as Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science in Political Science. The successful candidate will maintain a robust research agenda, teach two courses per semester, contribute to student mentoring, and actively participate in service to the university and profession.

The applicant must be able to develop coursework in East Asian politics at the graduate level for our MIS program and be able to teach undergraduate course(s) on the politics and political issues relevant to East Asia as a region and/or specific countries (China, Japan) in that region of the world.

Scholars with interests in comparative political institutions, international political economy, security, energy, climate change, sustainability and environmental policies and/or democratization are particularly encouraged to apply.

Other Responsibilities
Other duties will be performed as assigned by the department head.
Qualifications

Minimum Education and Experience
Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or a related field.
Other Required Qualifications
Demonstrated evidence of teaching excellence
Strong research and publication skills
Future research productivity
Preferred Qualifications
Teaching experience at the university level and demonstrated evidence of teaching excellence.
Applicants who can thrive in, and help foster, a varied research and learning environment are especially encouraged to apply.
Examples of mentorship are welcome as part of the application packet.
Required License(s) or Certification(s)
N/A
Valid NC Driver's License required No
Commercial Driver's License required No
Recruitment Dates and Special Instructions
Job Open Date 10/07/2025
Anticipated Close Date Open Until Filled
Special Instructions to Applicants
In addition to a curriculum vitae, cover letter and contact information for at least 3 references, please submit the following with your application:
Research Statement
Teaching Statement
Short Writing Sample
Transcripts
These documents can be uploaded as other applications documents.
Position Details
Position Number 00111631
Position Type Tenured/Tenure-Track Faculty
Full Time Equivalent (FTE) (1.0 = 40 hours/week) 1.0
Appointment 9 Month Recurring

To apply go to: https://jobs.ncsu.edu/postings/223887
For best consideration apply by November 7, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16103

Stanford

Rank: CDDRL Pre/Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory
Specializations: International Political Economy, American Politics, Political Development

Stanford University Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law welcomes applications from pre-doctoral students at the write-up stage and from post-doctoral scholars working in any of the four program areas of democracy, development, evaluating the efficacy of democracy promotion, and rule of law. The application cycle for the 2026-2027 academic year will be open from Monday, September 22, 2025, through Thursday, December 4, 2025.

Pre-doctoral fellows must be enrolled currently in a doctoral program or equivalent through the time of intended residency at Stanford and must be at the dissertation write-up (post course work) phase of their doctoral program. Post-doctoral fellows must have earned their Ph.D. within 3 years of the start of the fellowship, or plan to have successfully defended their Ph.D. dissertations by July 31, 2026.

In addition to our regular call for applications, CDDRL invites applications for the Gerhard Casper Fellow in Rule of Law for 2026-27. We welcome research on any aspect of rule of law, including judicial politics, criminal justice, and the politicization of judicial institutions. We are an interdisciplinary center; candidates from any relevant field (i.e. the social sciences, law) are welcome to apply. The Gerhard Casper Fellow will be part of CDDRL's larger cohort of pre- and postdoctoral fellows. Please apply through the CDDRL fellowship application process and indicate that you would like to be considered for the Gerhard Casper Rule of Law Fellowship.

More information on the application and the guidelines to apply can be found at our website at https://cddrl.fsi.stanford.edu/cddrl-pre-doctoral-and-postdoctoral-fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16100

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Lightning Scholar and Postdoctoral Fellows
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's home for global policy engagement, is pleased to announce the application processes for the 2026-27 Postdoctoral Fellowships and Lightning Scholar (untenured faculty) are now open through December 1, 2025.

Perry World House is pleased to offer two unique opportunities for postdoctoral fellowship.

- The first postdoctoral fellowship (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/fellowship-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellows/) is open to scholars who study global affairs and have interests in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants working on subjects broadly related to Perry World House's thematic research areas: Climate Change, Democracy, Global Justice and Human Rights, and Security. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173254.
- The Borders and Boundaries Project (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/programs-and-reports/projects/the-borders-and-boundaries-project/) is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173258.

The Lightning Scholar program (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/faculty-opportunities/lightening-scholars/) brings untenured, but tenure-track, faculty from around the world to Philadelphia for a semester or year of writing, fellowship, and bridging the gap between academia and the policy world. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173301.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16099

Middlebury College
Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science

Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science, Middlebury College, MIDDLEBURY, VT -- The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a one-year term position in Comparative Politics with a focus on African politics and development beginning fall 2026. We seek broadly trained candidates prepared to teach the introductory course in comparative politics as well as a variety of upper-level courses on African politics and development as part of a five course teaching load including a class in Winter Term. Appointment will be made at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor. Candidates should provide evidence of commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarly potential.

Middlebury College is a top-tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and research. It is also an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to fostering a truly open, and supportive learning, teaching, and working environment. The College hires faculty from a myriad of life experiences, cultures, frames of reference, social identities, and learning perspectives?to help cultivate and advance innovation in our curriculum and to provide a rich and varied educational experience to our talented and distinguished student body. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Middlebury College uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Email and paper applications will not be accepted. At Middlebury, we strive to make our campus a respectful, engaged community that embraces difference, and a full range of views and opinions, with all the complexity and individuality each person brings. Through Interfolio submit: a letter of application addressed to the search committee chair, Professor Sebnem Gumuscu; a curriculum vitae; a sample of scholarly production; evidence of teaching effectiveness; undergraduate and graduate transcripts; a statement of teaching and research plans; and three current letters of recommendation, at least two of which must speak to teaching ability/promise. More information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/175369 and Open Positions | Middlebury College. Review of applications begins December 15, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. This is a full time, benefits eligible, salaried, one-year term position with a hiring range of $88,963 – $100,129 per year.

Offers of employment are contingent on completion of a background check. Information on our background check policy can be found here: http://go.middlebury.edu/backgroundchecks.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 16079

The University of Texas at Austin
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: History & Politics, Intelligence, International Security

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD recipients in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities for activities such as directed research or teaching will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership; the emphasis of the fellowship is to provide ample time for the young scholar's own research and writing for book manuscripts, journal articles, and similar projects. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current c.v., cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for a formal affiliation at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central. The salary for this position is $70,000 - $75,000. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2026, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2024
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16038

The University of Texas at Austin
Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, International Law & Organizations

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD students in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. This fellowship is designed specifically to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one or at most two years of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current C.V, cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. The salary range for this position is $40,000 -$45,000. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for the Predoctoral Fellowship at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central.

Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 16039

University of New Mexico

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science, Latin American Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for an open rank Assistant or Associate Professor faculty position in Comparative Politics, beginning August 10, 2026. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor or at the rank of Associate Professor, depending on the qualifications of the selected candidate.

Minimum qualifications:

· a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by August 10, 2026

· a primary specialization in Latin American Comparative Politics

Preferred qualifications:

· demonstrated excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in comparative politics of Latin America;

· strong methodological expertise;

· demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics;

· ability to teach an interdisciplinary social science course on Latin America;

· international research experience;

· research program alignment with any of the department's emphases, including democratic representation and effective governance; environmental protection and adaptation; human rights, the rule of law, and conflict resolution; indigenous, race, gender and ethnic politics; or the impact on democracy of new communications and computational technologies

· demonstrated commitment to cultivating an understanding of the rich and varied cultures of New Mexico and to the success of the university's mission to serve local and global communities.

Applications MUST be submitted via the UNMJobs Site: https://unm.csod.com/ux/ats/careersite/18/home/requisition/34190?c=unm&referralToken=rSMwBIyAoEG5X8M5fUVt9A

The Department of Political Science currently employs 12 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high quality undergraduate major (BA); it also plays an active role in the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies BA and MA programs, the interdisciplinary International Studies BA program, the Master of Public Policy (MPP) program, and the Professional Masters of Science in Global and National Security. UNM's Latin American and Iberian Institute, as well as the International Studies Institute and Global Education Office, provide funding and programmatic support for international scholarship and faculty development.

UNM is the premier research university in New Mexico, is a Carnegie Highest Research Activity Institution. Our campus is located in the heart of Albuquerque, which has cultural, outdoor and recreational opportunities for everyone. Learn more about our city, our welcoming campus, and research opportunities at http://advance.unm.edu/why-abq/ and https://advance.unm.edu/why-unm/. For more information regarding the College of Arts and Science's ambitious hiring plan, including a list of departments that are hiring faculty members with shared interests, please see this page.

For best consideration, apply no later than October 22, 2025. This position will remain open until filled.

Applicants selected as semifinalists will be asked to arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent directly by referees to Marliss McGarvey at mcgarvey@unm.edu. Emails from referees should include "Attn: Comparative Politics Search Committee" in the subject line. Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, additional sample syllabi, and official graduate transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 10/22/2025
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16067

Illinois College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

Tenure-track position in Comparative Politics and International Relations

Illinois College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science position in Comparative Politics and International Relations beginning in the Fall of 2026.

Responsibilities include teaching introductory political science courses for first-year students as well as a range of courses in both Comparative Politics and International Relations in support of the Political Science major. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute courses to our interdisciplinary Global Studies program. The successful candidate should be an enthusiastic and skilled teacher, as well as an advisor and mentor to undergraduate students, particularly those preparing for careers in government, international affairs, law, and related fields. Engaging in research with students is also a key component of this role. Participation in departmental, college, and community service is expected.

Doctorate or ABD strongly preferred, in Political Science or a related field.

Illinois College seeks candidates who have a commitment to working closely with a wide range of students. Currently, our population is approximately one-quarter students of color and 30% first-generation college students. Eagerness and ability to work with these populations is essential. Equally important is excellence in pedagogy and an openness to student-centered teaching approaches.

Founded by abolitionists, Illinois College was the first in Illinois to graduate students and hosts a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. The College is student-focused, offering numerous opportunities for faculty-student interaction beyond the classroom, including collaborative research, international study-travel, and mentoring. Located in historic Jacksonville, Illinois—just 30 miles from Springfield and 70 miles from St. Louis—Illinois College has been transforming lives since 1829.

Applicants should submit the following materials in PDF format to: https://www.paycomonline.net/v4/ats/web.php/jobs/ViewJobDetails?job=326860&clientkey=1A1F01429B0D77840F84E7C37F0997E7

Cover letter addressing teaching experience and interest in contributing to the mission of a student-focused institution
Curriculum Vitae
Contact information for three references

Review of applications will begin on November 3 and will continue until the position is filled. Illinois College is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16036

Stanford University

Rank: Comparative Politics, Open Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University is seeking applications for an open rank, tenure line position in Comparative Politics. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494916/comparative-politics-open-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science).

Candidates for an untenured position at the rank of assistant professor must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor. Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Untenured applicants should send a cover letter, CV (including a publication list), a research and teaching statement (no more than three single-spaced pages), teaching evaluations, Ph.D. program transcripts, and a writing sample along with three professional letters of recommendation.

Candidates for a tenured position at the rank of associate or full professor must have a conferred PhD or equivalent international degree. Candidates should demonstrate substantial evidence of a creative research career, impact on his or her field of study, and a commitment to excellence in teaching and advising students at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Tenured applicants should send a cover letter, CV (including a publication list), teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages), and teaching evaluations.

All candidates will be asked to provide the names of three references:
-Assistant professor applicant references will be automatically contacted for a letter upon submission of the application.
-Senior Applicants Only: During the application process, you will be asked whether you have tenure at your current academic institution. If you select "yes," the system will prompt you to provide three reference names. Please indicate "not applicable" for this field and provide email contact notapplicable@notapplicable.com. If you list valid referee information they will NOT be contacted automatically.

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for the position is as follows for academic year 2025–26:
Assistant Professor: $139,050 - $149,350
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 15th, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/25/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16010

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor-Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor position in Comparative Politics, starting in Fall 2026. We welcome applications from candidates from all subfields of Comparative Politics and are particularly interested in those whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological training, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication (commensurate with the rank for which they are applying). Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science.

Review of applications will begin October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal:

https://careers.uh.edu/jobs/assistant-associate-or-full-professor-comparative-politics-houston-texas-united-states

The position number keyword is FAC 494806. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, a writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide letters of recommendation only for junior candidates.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

For further information please contact Professor Royce Carroll, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at racarroll@central.uh.edu. Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15994

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Assistant Professor

Summary of Job Duties:
The Assistant Professor of Political Science will teach a variety of undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, as well as teaching the program's two courses in the university's core curriculum, American National Government and Intro to International Politics. Teaching will include both face-to-face and online course modes. The successful candidate will advise undergraduate students. The successful candidate will conduct and publish scholarly research. Research activities may include community engagement and applied research publications. This position will participate in faculty governance in the School of Public Affairs, the College of Humanities, Arts, Social Sciences, and Education, and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. This position is governed by state and federal laws, and agency/institution policy.

Qualifications:

Required Education and/or Experience:

Ph.D. in Political Science with a field or emphasis in either comparative politics or international relations;
ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment.

Preferred Education and/or Experience:

Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential.

Job Duties and Responsibilities

Teach undergraduate courses in the School of Public Affairs;
Advise undergraduate students regarding their programs of study and degree progress;
Conduct scholarly and applied research;
Serve on committees as part of faculty governance at the school, college, and university levels;
Other duties as assigned by the Director of the School of Public Affairs.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

Knowledge of either comparative politics or international relations as a field of teaching, research, and service;
Teaching skills;
Ability to advise students in their program of study and about career opportunities;
Ability to conduct scholarly research;
Ability to work with external stakeholder groups for the purpose of community engagement;
Ability to work with faculty and staff in a collegial manner to engage in faculty governance and accomplish goals.

Additional Information: We are hiring for two positions with the same job description. Candidates are strongly encouraged to submit applications for both to maximize their opportunity of being selected, using the following two links.

Apply at https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077139

https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077134

Salary Information:
Commensurate with education and experience

Required Documents to Apply:
Cover Letter/Letter of Application, Curriculum Vitae, List of three Professional References (name, email, business title)

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15988

University of Kentucky

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/600069

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY seeks to fill a tenure-eligible faculty position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level with expertise in the field of Comparative Political Behavior, with a preference for a scholar whose research and teaching focus on Democratic Attitudes and Participation across subfield boundaries. This is a 9-month position in the regular title series with an anticipated start date of August 1, 2026.

The first year Distribution of Effort will be 45% Teaching, 45% Research, and 10% Departmental service. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise or clear potential to produce high-quality research, attract extramural funding, employ rigorous quantitative and methodological approaches, and provide effective teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. A PhD in Political Science is required. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science by August 1st, 2026.

Applicants must include the following: 1) Letter of Application (upload as Cover Letter) 2) CV, 3) two publications or writing samples (upload as Specific Request 1), 4) Research Statement (upload as Specific Request 2), 5) copy of most recent Transcripts, and 6) Evidence of Teaching Experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (upload as Specific Request 3). In addition, please provide the names and contact information of three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information will be utilized to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Employment at UK is subject to fund availability and comes with comprehensive rewards, focusing on your total well-being and career development, with leadership striving to provide a strong work-life integration. The university generously contributes to employees' retirement plans, medical coverage, and life insurance. In addition, UK offers optional benefits such as dental and vision insurance, additional retirement plans and much more. To learn more about these benefits, please visit: https://hr.uky.edu/employment/our-benefits.

Questions about this search should be addressed to Dr. Justin Wedeking, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (justin.wedeking@uky.edu). Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/600069

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15989

University of Kentucky

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Political Science

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/599776

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, KY seeks to fill a tenure-eligible faculty position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level with expertise in the field of Comparative Political Institutions, with a preference for a scholar whose research and teaching focus on Emerging Democratic Institutions. This is a 9-month position in the regular title series with an anticipated start date of August 1, 2026. The first year Distribution of Effort will be 45% Teaching, 45% Research, and 10% Departmental service. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise or clear potential to produce high-quality research, attract extramural funding, employ rigorous quantitative and methodological approaches, and provide effective teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

A PhD in Political Science is required. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science by August 1st, 2026.

Applicants must include the following: 1) Letter of Application (upload as Cover Letter) 2) CV, 3) two publications or writing samples (upload as Specific Request 1), 4) Research Statement (upload as Specific Request 2), 5) copy of most recent Transcripts, and 6) Evidence of Teaching Experience, particularly syllabi from courses taught (upload as Specific Request 3). In addition, please provide the names and contact information of three references when prompted in the academic profile. This information will be utilized to solicit recommendation letters from your references within the employment system.

Employment at UK is subject to fund availability and comes with comprehensive rewards, focusing on your total well-being and career development, with leadership striving to provide a strong work-life integration. The university generously contributes to employees' retirement plans, medical coverage, and life insurance. In addition, UK offers optional benefits such as dental and vision insurance, additional retirement plans and much more. To learn more about these benefits, please visit: https://hr.uky.edu/employment/our-benefits.

Questions about this search should be addressed to Dr. Jillienne Haglund, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky (Jill.haglund@uky.edu).

Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Apply here: https://ukjobs.uky.edu/postings/599776

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/3/2025
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15990

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB @YALE: POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE, AY 2026-2027

The Identity & Conflict Lab (ICL) at Yale University, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis, invites applications from exceptional candidates for a Postdoctoral Associate position for the 2026-2027 academic year. This opportunity is for a one-year, full-time residential postdoctoral research fellowship, with the possibility of renewal conditional on successful performance. The appointment begins on July 1, 2026.

Housed in the MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the ICL addresses a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict and identity politics. The ICL analyzes how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and how policy interventions can reduce inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are of interest to the work of the lab – ranging from various forms of bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war.

Postdoctoral associates will work on one of ICL's ongoing projects, with a focus either on immigration or foreign policy. Postdoctoral associates may also be asked to contribute to ongoing projects in the lab broadly related to the theme of "identity and conflict." The ICL seeks to integrate substantive and methodological knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to develop new analytical approaches and generate new insights that open up avenues for new research and can influence the design of policy.

Position Description
Postdoctoral associates will be expected to work three days/week on ICL projects under the direction of Professor Nicholas Sambanis and can pursue their own research for the remainder of their time. Job responsibilities include a broad range of data analysis tasks. Applicants must be highly proficient in both Stata and R statistical analysis packages and have prior experience programming surveys in Qualtrics. Applicants should have outstanding organizational, communication, and data analysis skills. They should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; able to work independently, but also as part of a team and sensitive to the demands of multiple simultaneously ongoing projects. A detailed list of job responsibilities will be shared with short-listed applicants. There is no formal teaching requirement. The salary for this position is commensurate with experience and complies with the Yale Office of Postdoctoral Affairs compensation policy and includes a benefits package.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2024, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2026. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting on November 1, 2025. Short-listed candidates will be contacted by December 15, 2025 to set up interviews.

Application Instructions
All application materials must be submitted online through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174091
Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who may be asked to submit a letter of recommendation later (only references for short-listed candidates will be requested).
If you have questions, please email the ICL Director at nicholas.sambanis@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15961

National Taiwan University
Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance— began enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

*How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/Research Fellow level)

(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage.

Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15946

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science of Louisiana State University invites applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, beginning in the Fall of 2026. Sub-field specialization is open. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a 2-2 teaching load. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2026. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.
Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2025. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience.

Job Summary:
Tenure-track position that teaches both undergraduate and graduate students, maintains an active research agenda with regular publications, and participates in departmental, college, and university service activities commensurate with rank.

Job Responsibilities:
Teach graduate or undergraduate courses and hold regular office hours. Supervise graduate assistant(s) if assigned. - 50%
Maintain an active research agenda with regular publications. - 50%

Minimum Qualifications:
Ph.D. in Political Science or related or equivalent field.

Additional Job Description:

Special Instructions:
Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, a research statement, a teaching statement, and any teaching materials (e.g., course evaluations and syllabi). Please attach all documents under the "Resume/CV" section of your application. Attachments are limited to five. A copy of your transcripts may be attached to your application (if available). However, official transcripts are required prior to hire. In addition, three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Robert Hogan, Chair, by email to polisci@lsu.edu.

External Applicant Link: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/0240-WC-Stubbs-Hall/Assistant-Professor---Comparative-Politics_R00109310

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15923

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.

Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

University of Central Florida

Rank: Instructor/Lecturer
Specializations: Electoral Behavior, American Politics, Political Communication

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for the position of an instructor or lecturer in American politics with an anticipated start date of August 2026. The job is a 9-month, non-tenure earning, annually renewable position that offers a clear career path with the possibility of promotion based on years of service and performance.

The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful classroom teaching in a variety of Political Science courses on different aspects of American politics. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach in different modalities including face-to-face and online.

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics.

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers; a number of COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.
For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu.

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

UCF requires all applications and supporting documents to be submitted electronically through the Human Resources website http://ucf.edu/jobs (job number 15033) and attach the following materials: a letter of interest, current CV, teaching statement (including, if available, evidence of teaching excellence). Additionally, provide the names and contact information for three professional references.

Minimum Qualifications:
A master's degree (for an instructor) or a terminal degree (for a lecturer) in Political Science (or a closely related field) with an emphasis in American politics, from an accredited institution.

Preferred Qualifications:
- A demonstrated record of successful undergraduate teaching in American politics courses
- An ability to teach courses on American politics, including voting and elections, interest groups, civic engagement, Congress and the legislative process, mass media, political parties.
- An ability to teach undergraduate research methods.
- An ability to teach in different modalities (online, face-to-face, etc.).

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/. In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages); and (4) the names and contact information for three professional references. The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.
NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be simultaneously uploaded. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to Dr. Jonathan Knuckey, search committee chair, at jonathan.knuckey@ucf.edu
Special Instructions to the Applicants:
N/A

Job Close Date:
All Application materials must be submitted before the October 10, 2025 deadline.

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?
As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:
- Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
- Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
- Retirement savings options.?
- Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
- Education assistance.
- Flexible work environment.?
- And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:
Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15900

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.
The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

Ohio State University

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar - Traditional Governance in Africa

The Department of Political Science and the Mershon Center for International Security Studies at Ohio State University seek to appoint a Post-Doctoral Scholar in Traditional Governance in Africa under the supervision of Professor Amanda Lea Robinson. This will be a two-year appointment beginning August 15, 2026.

The post-doctoral scholar will work with Dr. Robinson on a research program on Traditional Governance in Africa, which is funded by the Mershon Center. The project evaluates how the history, institutional structures, and political practices of traditional institutions in Africa (e.g., chieftaincies) relate to the quality of governance they provide. The project employs a combination of original and existing data, both qualitative and quantitative.

While the post-doctoral scholar will be expected to devote 50% of their time to collaboration on all aspects of the project, candidates should also articulate an independent research agenda within the study of African traditional institutions. The remainder of the post-doctoral scholar's time is given to developing their own research, publications, and professional profile. There are no teaching or service obligations, although the scholar is expected to be an active participant in both the Mershon Center and the Department of Political Science.

The salary for this position is $63,500. The postdoctoral scholar will also be provided with an annual $4,000 research fund. Applicants must plan to reside in the Columbus area during the relevant academic years, except in the case of project-related field research.

Required qualifications:
Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field by June 30, 2026.
Candidates must be within three years of the Ph.D.
Strong methodological training (qualitative, quantitative, or both)

Desired qualifications:
Demonstrated research expertise in the study of traditional governance
Experience living, working, or conducting research in Africa or another developing region
Interest in conducting field-based research

Additional Information:
To apply, please combine the following materials into a single PDF and submit through Workday:
Cover letter describing the two-year research agenda and how it relates to the broader project on Traditional Governance
Current CV
An article-length writing sample
A list of three references (letters will only be requested for finalists)
The deadline for receipt of applications is December 15, 2025. Virtual interviews will take place in late January, with decisions by mid-February.

To apply:
https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Scholar---Traditional-Governance-in-Africa_R136287-1

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15884

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (The Politics of Europe)

The Department of Government at William & Mary, a public university of the Commonwealth of Virginia, seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in the Politics of Europe. Appointment will begin August 10, 2026. We are interested in individuals with both research and teaching expertise in European politics.

Job Description
Duties include research, teaching, and service to the University. The applicant is expected to establish and maintain a vibrant research program that inspires a highly motivated undergraduate student body. Teaching expectation is 2 courses per semester. Successful applicants must possess the skills to teach compelling courses in the politics of Europe, comparative politics, and other lecture and seminar-style courses, as well as contribute to the university's interdisciplinary program in European Studies.

Required Qualifications:

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a related field at the time appointment begins (August 10, 2026).

Preferred Qualifications:

Previous experience in teaching and mentoring successful undergraduate research is preferred. Evidence of scholarly achievement or demonstrated potential as a scholar.

Applicants must apply online at https://go.wm.edu/VphZB3. All applications must consist of the following materials for full consideration:

Curriculum vitae

Cover letter

A statement of teaching interests

A statement of research interests

A reference page with the contact information (including names, email addresses, and phone numbers) for three references.

Applicants are encouraged to reflect on teaching and mentoring practices that advance academic excellence and success of all learners/scholars in political science in any of the aforementioned required documents.

Candidates who reach the long-list (Zoom) interview stage will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted by the system with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference.

For full consideration, submit application materials by the initial review date, 10/02/2025. Applications received after the initial review date will be considered if needed. All required supplemental application materials mentioned above must be clearly identified and included with your application for full consideration. Review of applications is ongoing.

Information on the degree programs in the Department of Government may be found at https://www.wm.edu/as/government/.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/16/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15870

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description
The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

New York University Abu Dhabi
Rank: Post-Doctoral Associate in the Division of Social Science (NYUAD)

We invite applications for a Postdoctoral Associate in the Division of Social Science at NYU Abu Dhabi from individuals who have or will soon receive a PhD in political science or a related discipline. The appointment will begin September 1, 2026, subject to final budget approval and is available for up to three years.

The post-doctoral associate will spend half their time on independent research, and half of their time on collaborative research with Drs. Leonid Peisakhin and Joan Barceló. The collaborative research will be in the field of political violence, with an emphasis on the legacy of conflict, transitional justice, and post-conflict reconciliation. This position is open as to geographical focus.

The ideal candidate will specialize in historical political economy and will have an interest in conflict studies, post-conflict reconciliation, as well as broader topics in political economy; strong candidates with research interests in other subfields will also be given full consideration. Advanced methodological training is essential; this includes high-level familiarity with causal inference, experimental methods, and econometric techniques. Familiarity with public opinion research and experience working with historical sources would be helpful, but not required.

The position does not require teaching, but it may be possible to get teaching experience for compensation. You would be part of a group of over 20 post-doctoral fellows and 70 faculty in the Division of Social Science.

For consideration, applicants must submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with a full publication list, a transcript, statement of research interests and two letters of reference, all in PDF format by December 1, 2025.

Please ensure to submit your application here : https://apply.interfolio.com/172317.

Applications will only be accepted through Interfolio and will be considered on a rolling basis. If you have any questions, please contact Dr. Leonid Peisakhin (leonid.peisakhin@nyu.edu).

About NYU Abu Dhabi

NYU Abu Dhabi is a degree-granting research university with a fully integrated liberal arts and science undergraduate program in the Arts, Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities, and Engineering. NYU Abu Dhabi, NYU New York, and NYU Shanghai, form the backbone of NYU's global network university, an interconnected network of portal campuses and academic centers across six continents that enable seamless international mobility of students and faculty in their pursuit of academic and scholarly activity. This global university represents a transformative shift in higher education, one in which the intellectual and creative endeavors of academia are shaped and examined through an international and multicultural perspective. As a major intellectual hub at the crossroads of the Arab world, NYUAD serves as a center for scholarly thought, advanced research, knowledge creation, and sharing, through its academic, research, and creative activities.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15823

St. Mary's College of Maryland
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Policy at St. Mary's College of Maryland is accepting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning August 2026. Faculty members teach three courses per semester, advise undergraduate students, supervise senior projects, engage in scholarship and professional activities, and fulfill departmental and college-level service responsibilities. Faculty are expected to teach in-person classes supported by methodologies that promote students' engagement. An interest in attracting and retaining students from underrepresented groups is desirable.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science or a related field (may be ABD at the time of application if degree completion by August 2026 is certain), college-level teaching experience, a strong desire to teach undergraduates, and a record of, or demonstrated promise of, high-quality intellectual contributions. The ideal candidate will specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates with experience teaching international or comparative political economy, as well as undergraduate research methods, are preferred. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work focuses on geographic regions outside Latin America, as we aim to complement our department's existing strengths with diverse global perspectives.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications, with a range from $72,000 - $78,000.

Non-sectarian since its founding, St. Mary's College of Maryland, the National Public Honors College, is a public Carnegie Baccalaureate, Arts and Sciences institution located in St. Mary's City, 70 miles southeast of Washington, D.C. With selective admissions policies, academically talented students, and a rigorous curriculum, we offer a small college experience similar to that found at exceptional private colleges. St. Mary's faculty benefit from a comprehensive program of support for scholarship, research, travel, and curriculum development, including course releases for pre-tenure faculty and leaves for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake region and by our proximity to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore.

St. Mary's College (www.smcm.edu) embodies diversity and inclusion in its mission. We create an environment that recognizes the value of individual and group differences and we encourage inquiries from applicants who will contribute to our cultural and ethnic diversity. Application materials should include cover letter (within the cover letter, applicants are requested to speak to ways in which their teaching will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity), curriculum vitae (include e-mail address), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available). In support of inclusive hiring practices, for all SMCM faculty searches, the College will also request three professional references (rather than letters of recommendation) at the time of application. Of these three references, at least one referee should speak to the candidate's disciplinary expertise and at least one should have seen the candidate deliver or design classroom instruction. References will be contacted only for candidates who advance to finalist interviews.

Applications are being accepted online at: apply.interfolio.com/172629. Questions may be directed to Antonio Ugues (augues@smcm.edu) at 240-895-2119.

Initial review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check. St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Visit our website: www.smcm.edu/hr

Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check.

St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15828

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Seattle University
Rank: Adjunct

Position Description:

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for adjunct positions for AY 2025-2026 in Political Science with a primary focus on comparative politics and a secondary focus on international politics, most likely during winter quarter 2026 and spring quarter 2026, pending budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching both introductory courses and upper division courses in comparative politics and/or international politics, and courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors. The specific subject matter is open to discussion between the successful candidate(s) and the department chair. The department currently does not need coverage on Asia, but is interested in areas such as African politics, European politics, Latin American politics, and Middle East politics.

Qualifications:

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.

Application Instructions:

Submit applications at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers/, including a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as student teaching evaluations, and the names and contact information of three references. Recruitment is ongoing and based on quarterly teaching needs, but review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025. Contact Political Science Chair, Dr. Yitan Li, liy@seattleu.edu, with any inquiries.

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 15774

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Comparative Politics and Area Studies

Open Rank Faculty Position in Comparative Politics and Area Studies

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline of comparative and area studies. We are specifically interested in candidates with research interests in South/Southeast/North/Central Asia and Middle East. Applications are invited for faculty positions at the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor and full professor. Applicants for junior positions should have solid training in theories and cutting-edge methods in comparative politics from internationally prestigious universities. Applicants for senior positions are expected to have a proven record in high-quality teaching and research in the expertise areas. For senior positions, priorities will be given to candidates with management experience and skills in program planning, curriculum development and student supervision, and a proven record of research publications in competitive international outlets.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2026-27. A Ph.D. must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

Salary & Benefits

Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits and generous start-up research support through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=573&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15773

National Taiwan University

Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance—will begin enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

Candidates who are available for an informal interview during the 2025 APSA meeting in Vancouver, 11 – 14 September (limited slots), should send an expression of interest to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests,
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample,
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/Research Fellow level) and
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references.

References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage. Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15747

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Department of Government and Law and the International Affairs Program at Lafayette College invite applications for a shared tenure-track position in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar whose teaching and research focus on the politics of development in the Global South, with expertise in topics such as, but not limited to, political economy, global inequality, and/or international organizations. Preference will be given to candidates with a regional focus in South Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA). Acknowledging the vibrant diversity of studies of socioeconomic transformations in the Global South, we welcome innovative theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate that the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach introductory as well as intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise for the Government and Law Department and the International Affairs Program and is expected to maintain an active research agenda. The Department and Program especially welcome applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170245. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Professor Seo-Hyun Park (parksh@lafayette.edu) and Professor Caleb Gallemore (gallemoc@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15661

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in Fall 2025. Candidates should have expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The Department seeks applicants who can offer intermediate courses in European politics, international relations theory and/or international organization. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program or teach introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach in a 6-6-7 course rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or be advanced ABD in political science at the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College at http://apply.interfolio.com/161830. Review of applications will begin February 15, 2025.

Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning." As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse staff committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 2/15/2025
Date Posted: 1/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15335

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Elizabeth J. Somers Women's Leadership Program (WLP) at the George Washington University in Washington, D.C invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning Fall 2026. WLP is a selective living-learning program for first-year students designed to build leadership skills within the context of their discipline and within a supportive community. Students enroll in one of four WLP cohorts: International Politics; International Arts & Culture; Science, Health, & Medicine; or Globalization, Economics, &; Business. Students take foundational courses in their field of study in small classes with their cohort faculty members both fall and spring semesters, and a year-long, experiential leadership symposium course.

The selected candidate will serve as the primary faculty and Program Coordinator for the International Politics cohort of approximately 20 students in the WLP. The Program Coordinator serves as instructor, academic mentor, and advisor, helping students navigate their college experience from the first year and beyond. They will teach small classes of first-year students for WLP and the University Honors Program, and they will work with the WLP Director and colleagues from across disciplines to integrate co-curricular offerings and activities that enhance the academic experiences of WLP students. They will also participate in WLP information sessions for prospective students and join in campus events.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in comparative politics and international relations. We welcome applicants familiar with the history of ideas and experienced in designing and teaching introductory courses in the history of political thought (ancient and/or modern). These themes are well suited for the University Honors Program teaching component, and the selected candidate will have freedom to design courses that complement their interests. Strong candidates will also have experience and vision regarding teaching and mentorship of students of multiple backgrounds with attention to structural barriers that limit access to educational opportunities.

Specific Duties and Responsibilities:
The effort breakdown for the position is 70% teaching, 15% administration/service, and 15% scholarship. The teaching component includes five undergraduate courses each year and co-teaching a year-long, one-credit leadership symposium. Two courses and the symposium are taught to first-year students in the Women's Leadership Program.
The remaining three courses may be taught to students in WLP, the University Honors
Program, Department of Political Science and/or Elliott School of International Affairs.
Administrative work is related to the Program Coordinator role and includes planning co-curricular events and symposium structure. Service obligations are primarily met through engagement in extracurricular events with WLP applicants, students, and alumni. Service obligations may also be met by serving on a departmental or university-level committee and attending major campus events. Scholarship for this role is broadly defined and may include activities such as presenting at conferences, creating and disseminating curriculum materials, or publishing political science or pedagogical research.

Minimum Qualifications:
Applicants must have excellent teaching skills as demonstrated by student evaluations, and a plan for assuring inclusive engagement in the classroom. They must have a strong desire to teach and mentor first year undergraduates and a commitment to advancing women and gender minorities in leadership. They must hold a doctorate in Political Science or a related field by date of appointment; ABD applicants will be considered but must complete all requirements for the doctorate by date of appointment.

Advertised Salary: $78,000-$84,000

Other Benefits:

Continuing non-tenure track faculty appointments at GW have relative parity with tenure-track positions in salary, benefits, and access to promotion. This position is eligible for full-time health benefits. For more information, please visit https://hr.gwu.edu/health-benefits.

Other Information:
The contract period will be three years and is renewable. The teaching load is 2/3 plus the 1-credit leadership symposium.

Special Instructions to Applicants:
To apply please complete an online application (https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/123003); Applicants should submit a cover letter that includes a statement of interest in the Women's Leadership Program and discusses contributions to women's initiatives in their teaching, mentorship, and/or professional engagement.

Applicants should also submit: 1) a curriculum vitae with detailed information about teaching experience; 2) a statement of teaching objectives and methods; 3) student teaching evaluations; 4) a writing sample; and 5) names of three references. Letters of recommendation are not required for application but will be requested for final candidates. Candidates who are invited for an interview will be expected to give a teaching demonstration on a topic of their choosing and a research presentation.
Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2026, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Background Screening: Successful Completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

EEO Statement:
The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16254

Princeton University

Rank: Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Researchers at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice at Princeton University, under the auspices of the Department of Politics and in collaboration with the School of Public and International Affairs, invites applications for postdoctoral or more senior research position for the 2026-2027 year (Job ID D-26-POL-00007). Renewal is contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. The aim of the program is to promote a group of promising scholars in the broad area of comparative politics, with a special but not exclusive focus on state formation, political regimes, and national identities. This position is overseen by Professor Carles Boix, Robert Garrett Professor of Politics and Public Affairs.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have or expect to have a Ph.D. in the fields of political science, history, political sociology, and economics. The work location for this position is in-person, on campus at Princeton University, for the duration of the appointment (anticipated to be September 1, 2026, through August 31, 2027).

For full consideration, apply by December 31, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Interested applicants must apply online and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members.
Successful applicants will be provided a competitive salary, standard benefits, and an annual allowance to support conference and career development travel. Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in February 2026.

For more information about the Comparative Politics Postdoctoral Program at the Mamdouha S. Bobst Center for Peace and Justice, please contact Michelle Anderson, Program Manager at mcanders@princeton.edu.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. This position is in-person, on-campus at Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16253

University of Rochester

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship- International or Comparative Politics

University of Rochester
International or Comparative Politics

Skalny Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies at the University of Rochester invites applications for a two-year postdoctoral fellowship beginning in fall 2026. Applications are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics; research does not need to focus specifically on Poland or Central Europe. International applicants are welcome.
Fellows are expected to offer one course during each academic year.

Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Application materials:
- Letter of application

- Curriculum vitae
- Research project description (3-5 pages)
- Proposed course sketch (one page)
- One or more writing samples
- Three letters of recommendation

Submit application materials electronically to:
Anna Michas, Skalny Center Coordinator, at amichasb@UR.Rochester.edu.
Letters of recommendation should be sent directly to the same email address.

In the heading of your application letter, please use the following address: Postdoctoral Fellowship, Prof. Randall Stone, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. All materials should be submitted electronically to Anna Michas at the email above - no hard copies needed.

Applications received by January 1, 2026, will receive full consideration.
For questions, contact Anna Michas (amichasb@UR.Rochester.edu) or 585-275-9898.

The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to principles of diversity, and actively encourages applications from members of groups underrepresented in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16246

Laval University

Rank: Faculty Position in Maritime Security and Arctic Defence

The Graduate School of International Studies at Université Laval, located in Quebec City (Canada), is a centre of excellence in multidisciplinary research and teaching on international issues. The School is currently seeking applications for a faculty position specializing in maritime security and the defence of the Canadian Arctic (position 22349). The selected candidate will hold the Desgagnés Research Chair in Maritime Security and Arctic Defence.

The Chair's mission is to conduct cutting-edge, multidisciplinary research to inform public policy, strengthen the resilience of maritime infrastructure, particularly in the Arctic, and examine the implications of great power rivalries for Canada's sovereignty in the North. By mobilizing academic expertise on strategic issues of critical importance to Canada, the Chair aims to actively contribute to national discussions on defence and security.

A research advisor will support the Chairholder in developing, planning, and submitting research grant applications, while also helping to maximize the Chair's outreach and engagement activities. Funding will also be available to offer doctoral scholarships associated with the Chair.

The successful candidate will join the Graduate School of International Studies as a regular faculty member starting June 1, 2026, and no later than September 1, 2026. Hiring may be at any academic rank in accordance with the Collective Agreement between Laval University and the Syndicat des professeurs et des professeures de l'Université Laval (SPUL).

The mission of the Graduate School of International Studies is to contribute to the advancement of knowledge on global issues and to train highly specialized professionals capable of understanding, debating, and acting on the international stage. Our specialists, from 12 different disciplines, work on various international issues, such as international trade, the environment, security, migration, geopolitics, global health, agribusiness, development, democratization, conflicts, and many other subjects.

Duties include:
• Teaching at the graduate level;
• Supervising master's essays, dissertations and doctoral theses;
• Conducting research and publishing on maritime security and the Arctic;
• Participating in School-related pedagogical and administrative activities;
• Being involved in any other activity provided for in the Université Laval-SPUL collective agreement.

Selection criteria:
• Ability to teach in French within three years of appointment;
• A PhD in a field relevant to maritime security and Arctic defence;
• Applications from doctoral candidates nearing the completion of their dissertation will be considered, provided a letter from the department chair confirms the expected date of submission or defence;
• Demonstrated strong commitment to pluri-/interdisciplinarity, whether through academic background, research program, teaching experience, or collaborative projects;
• An excellent research record, with publications in top peer-reviewed journals in the candidate's field, or strong potential to develop such a record for early- career applicants;
• University-level teaching experience;
• A proven track record of securing research funding from recognized granting agencies, or strong potential to obtain such funding in the near future;
• Ability to teach a graduate-level methodology course. Proficiency in quantitative methods would be considered an asset.
• Proven integration into national and international research networks is considered an asset.

Employment conditions:
• Regular full-time position;
• Salary based on recognized experience with benefits in accordance with the Université Laval-SPUL collective agreement (available in French only) https://www.rh.ulaval.ca/personnel-enseignant-et- derecherche/professeurs/conventions-collectives

Applications:
• Application deadline: January 10, 2026
• Starting date: June 1, 2026 (no later than September 1, 2026).

The application file must include:
a) A cover letter demonstrating the candidate's commitment to pluri/interdisciplinarity and international studies;
b) A curriculum vitae;
c) A document of no more than two pages outlining a proposed five-year research chair program;

d) A sample publication.

Valuing equity, diversity, and excellence, Université Laval is firmly committed to providing all its staff with a work and living environment characterized by an inclusive culture. For Université Laval, diversity is a source of strength, and we encourage qualified individuals of all origins, genders, sexual orientations, gender identities or expressions, as well as individuals with disabilities, to apply.

Université Laval also adheres to an employment equity program for women, members of visible or ethnic minorities, Indigenous peoples, and individuals with disabilities. To this end, all applicants will be invited to complete a confidential self-identification form upon submission of their application.

All applications will be processed confidentially.

Applications must be sent to:
Jonathan Paquin
Director
Graduate School of International Studies - Université Laval recrutement.esei@ulaval.ca

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/10/2026
Date Posted: 11/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16241

Koç University

Rank: Assistant Professor in IPE
Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Environmental Policy

The College of Administrative Sciences and Economics at Koç University invites applications for a full-time Assistant Professor position in International Relations with a focus on International Political Economy (IPE) starting in September 2026. We seek a scholar whose research, publications, and teaching contribute to the field of IPE.

We are especially interested in candidates whose work engages topics, such as global trade, finance, production, development, political economy of international organizations, global governance, global inequality, sustainability, or the political economy of climate change and technology.
The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in IPE at both undergraduate and graduate levels, supervise student research, and contribute to the intellectual life of the department and university. A Ph.D. in International Relations or Political Science, awarded within the past three years or expected by September 2026 is required. Interested applicants need to send a cover letter explaining how their research, publication, and teaching experience relates to IPE, a current curriculum vitae, up to three sample publications/working papers, teaching portfolio (including sample syllabus and teaching evaluations with a key), and three letters of reference.
Koç University is a private, non-profit Turkish institution of higher education located just north of Istanbul (https://case.ku.edu.tr/en/). Koç University is committed to the pursuit of excellence in both research and teaching. The Department of International Relations ranks as number one in Asia by citations per faculty member. Students are admitted to the department through a very competitive central examination. The medium of instruction is English. Assistant Professors teach three courses per academic year till being promoted to the rank of Associate Professor. Salary and benefits are competitive.

The committee will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2026. All application materials should be uploaded using the online submission form available at https://forms.gle/zVSkzYppGcaGv7VV9. Applicants are also asked to provide information on their educational background (e.g., date of graduation, degree, and institution) through the form.

For questions and inquiries, please contact Ms. Vildan Ertugrul (vertugrul@ku.edu.tr) in the Office of the Dean, College of Administrative Sciences and Economics, Koç University, Rumelifeneri Yolu, Sariyer 34450, Istanbul, Türkiye.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16234

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: 2026 – 2027 DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows
Specializations: Germany, Western Europe, United States

The Paul H. Nitze School for Advanced International Studies (SAIS) is pleased to announce the opportunity for outstanding scholars to conduct research in Washington, D.C., on "The United States, Europe, and World Order."

During the academic year 2026-2027, up to two post-doctoral fellowships will be awarded.? Both fellowships will be available for a minimum of nine (9) and maximum of twelve (12) months between July 1, 2026 to June 30, 2027.? Applicants should indicate their preferred start and end dates in the application.

DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows are closely integrated into the SAIS academic community and will be affiliated with the Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs. A division of Johns Hopkins University, SAIS is a global institution that provides interdisciplinary professional education to prepare a diverse student body for internationally related positions of responsibility; to foster research, scholarship and cross-cultural exchange; and to contribute knowledge, expertise, and leadership to the global community.

The Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs is home to a distinguished faculty of scholars and practitioners working to address some of today's most complex global challenges. Through its innovative research, curricula, and programs, the Kissinger Center seeks to integrate historical scholarship with rigorous analysis of geostrategy and statecraft.

The Fellowships are funded through a grant from the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) with the generous support by the German Federal Foreign Office.

During the academic year 2026-2027 research and related activities will focus on "the roles of the United States and Germany at a crucial moment in world history." DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellows will focus on this subject during a regular series of high-level seminars, peer review sessions, and opportunities for direct engagement with senior foreign policy practitioners and leading scholars of statecraft and world order. Each Fellow is expected to complete a research paper related to the theme during the period of residence in addition to continuing to work on their own research projects. The Fellows will also work with the Helmut Schmidt Distinguished Visiting Professor and the Kissinger Center on a German-US conference on issues of international security, historically informed statecraft and strategy and/or transatlantic relations taking place in Germany and a summer workshop on grand strategy and international security for early career academics and policymakers in Washington, D.C.

Eligibility

Applicants for the DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellowships at SAIS must have a doctorate or be at the post-doctorate level, have demonstrated research capacity, and be fluent in English. EU and U.S. citizens are welcome to apply. EU citizens should be currently affiliated with a German university or research institution and be eligible for a J-1 visa. Preference will be given to those who are no more than 6 years beyond completing their dissertation, although others are also eligible.

Salary

Each DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellow will receive a monthly salary of up to $6,000, minus U.S. taxes; access to a computer and shared workspace; internet access; access to Johns Hopkins University libraries and other facilities. Each Fellow is expected to take care of his/her accommodation and living expenses. A basic health care package is available for all Post-Doctoral Fellows. For non-US citizens one economy class roundtrip airfare will be provided. Furthermore, research funding of up to $3,000 for a 12-month stay will be available for each Fellow as well as one economy class roundtrip airfare to the above-mentioned conference in Germany. Health benefit premiums for accompanying dependents can also be covered ($560 per month if one dependent or $880 per month if more than one dependent).

Application Procedure

Each applicant should submit the following (in English):

A statement of interest outlining why you are applying and what you hope to get out of this fellowship.

A 3 to 5-page double-spaced research statement that proposes a research project, including its relevance to the theme "The United States, Europe and World Order."

Preferred appointment start and end dates, between July 1, 2026 and June 30, 2027.

A curriculum vitae.

Three references with contact information.

The applicant is responsible for collecting all materials and submitting them before 23:59 EST on January 14, 2026 using the following application portal: https://apply.interfolio.com/177831.

Applicants will be notified of their acceptance in February 2026.

The 2026-2027 DAAD Post-Doctoral Fellowship begins between July 1 and October 1, 2026 and concludes on June 30, 2027 with the possibility of renewal for an additional twelve (12) months upon mutual agreement. For further information please visit the program website, the Kissinger Center website, or write to KissingerCenter@jhu.edu. ?

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/14/2026
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16230

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Helmut Schmidt Distinguished Visiting Chair - Full or Associate Professor Specializations: History & Politics, Western Europe, Foreign Policy

The Position

In 2018, with funding from the German Federal Foreign Office, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) established a Distinguished Visiting Chair in honor of former German chancellor Helmut Schmidt at the Henry A. Kissinger Center for Global Affairs, an international policy center at SAIS. The Chair commemorates the long and deep friendship between Kissinger and Schmidt and constitutes the core of a Germany Initiative that acts as a bridge between Germany and the US. The initiative also aims to become a focal point for German and American cooperation in addressing global challenges.

The distinguished scholar selected for the chair will partner with faculty within the Kissinger Center and other programs at SAIS. The visitor may also establish a research group, comprising several postdoctoral students. The scholar will further collaborate with other SAIS faculty (1) to build a research program capable of harnessing transatlantic cooperation to tackle geostrategic global challenges; (2) to devise a curriculum to educate and train future generations of world leaders; and (3) to conduct an active program to engage U.S., European and global policy professionals in this work. Together with Kissinger Center staff the chair will actively support two DAAD postdoctoral fellows at the Kissinger Center whose research will focus on the roles of the United States and Germany at a crucial moment in world history. Together with the postdocs the chair will work on initiatives of high visibility, such as an annual high-level German-US conference in Berlin as well as a regular summer workshop for early career academics and high-level policymakers in Washington, D.C.

Qualifications

To occupy the Helmut Schmidt Chair, SAIS is seeking a distinguished scholar who has made (or has the potential to make) an important impact on our understanding of contemporary global challenges and whose research is innovative and policy-relevant. Scholars in fields consistent with Kissinger's broad, eclectic approach to the analysis of international affairs, including but not limited to strategic studies and diplomatic history, are encouraged to apply. It is preferred that the scholar be well grounded in historical approaches to the understanding of global statecraft and strategy, and also be able to communicate with a broad audience. Individuals with a research agenda touching on transnational issues of global concern such as climate change, migration and immigration, regional integration and globalization, and international / transatlantic security policy will receive special consideration. Candidates should have a research focus on Germany and proven expertise concerning Germany's international relations with Europe and the world - in particular its transatlantic relations - to forge strategic links with international policymaking circles and draw attention to Germany's accomplishments and the lessons they hold for long-term strategic analysis. Also, candidates should be affiliated with a German university or research institution in order to build a bridge between Germany and the U.S.. Prior experience within a U.S. academic and policy environment is a plus.

The contract is flexible, comprising an initial one-year term with the possibility of renewal. The scholar will be expected to fulfill a teaching role in Kissinger Center curriculum and seminars. The preference is for a scholar at the full-professor level, but promising candidates at the associate professor level will also be considered.

Application

Applications will only be accepted through Interfolio. A letter of application and motivation, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact points of three references should be included. Applications for the 2026–2027 academic year will be accepted up until January 31, 2026. Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to recruiting, supporting and fostering a diverse community of outstanding faculty, staff and students. All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

To apply: https://apply.interfolio.com/176910

Background

A division of Johns Hopkins University, the School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) is a global institution that offers students an international perspective on today's critical issues. For more than 75 years, Johns Hopkins SAIS has produced great leaders, thinkers, and practitioners of international relations. Public leaders and private sector executives alike seek the counsel of the faculty, whose ideas and research inform and shape policy. Johns Hopkins SAIS offers a global perspective across three campus locations: Bologna, Italy; Nanjing, China; and Washington, D.C. The school's interdisciplinary curriculum is strongly rooted in the study of international economics, international relations, and regional studies, preparing students to address multifaceted challenges in the world today. For more information, visit sais.jhu.edu.

Since its founding in 1925, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) has awarded funding to more than 2.7 million scholars in Germany and abroad. DAAD is a registered members' association made up of German institutions of higher education and student bodies whose activities go far beyond simply awarding grants and scholarships. DAAD supports the internationalization of German universities, promotes German Studies and the German language abroad, provides developing countries with best practices in establishing universities and advises decision makers in the area of cultural, educational and developmental policy. Today, DAAD is one of the most important funding organizations worldwide for the international exchange of students and researchers. For more information, visit www.daad.de.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16231

University College Dublin

Rank: Ad Astra Doctoral Scholarship 2026: Environmental and Climate-Related Risk
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Quantitative Methods

Applications are invited for projects that assess vulnerability; evaluate the effectiveness of adaptation and resilience-building interventions; analyse the political dynamics of environmental governance; or map the role of various actors (e.g., states, international organizations, civil society, private sector entities, etc.) in addressing climate and environmental insecurity. Proposals related to the climate-conflict nexus, climate-related displacement, early warning systems, or data-driven evaluations of climate policy and program effectiveness are also welcome.

Proposed projects should be empirically grounded and methodologically rigorous. Quantitative, computational, or mixed-method approaches are particularly encouraged, including but not limited to geospatial analysis, machine learning, predictive modelling, and causal inference techniques relevant to environmental or climate vulnerabilities.

Applicants may pursue the PhD in Quantitative and Computational Social Science (QCSS) or the PhD in Politics and International Relations. The intended track must be clearly specified in the application materials.

The successful candidate will undertake a PhD under the supervision of Dr. Elisa D'Amico, starting in September 2026.

Applicants must fill out and submit the Application Form below. The following documents will be required as part of the application form submission. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Please do not include any unrequested documents such as passport pages, birth certs, etc.

1. Brief Cover letter, stating reasons for interest in the SPIRe PhD programme (1-2 pages maximum).
2. Thesis proposal (2,000 words maximum, excluding bibliography) which should include the following: (a) a statement of your proposed focus area within the broader theme of environmental and climate-related risk, response, or resilience, (b) a brief literature review that points to work on which the proposed focus could build and on the research gaps which the proposal is going to address, and (c) a brief discussion of the proposed methodology.
3. Copies of Academic Transcripts (Undergraduate and Postgraduate)
4. C.V. or Resumé (2 pages maximum)
5. Evidence of English language competence (if applicable)
6. Two academic referees

Specific questions can be addressed to Dr. Elisa D'Amico (elisa.damico@ucd.ie)

Questions regarding the application process should be addressed to Ms Dara Gannon (dara.gannon@ucd.ie)

See more information and apply here: https://www.ucd.ie/spire/study/prospectivephdstudents/adastradoctoralscholarships/

Deadline: Friday, 6-February 2026

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 16232

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

Postdoctoral Scholar

Notre Dame, IN, United States

Part-time

Keough School of Global Affairs

Company Description

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applicants for a Postdoctoral Scholar starting in Summer 2026. We seek talented scholars with a demonstrated ability to do innovative and rigorous teaching and research related to civil and human rights in the disciplines of Political Science, International Relations, Sociology, or Economics. Areas of particular interest include, but are not limited to, global human rights; domestic civil rights especially racial justice and criminal justice; migration; and human rights in the Catholic social tradition.

Job Description

Postdoctoral Scholar, Klau Institute for Civil and Human Rights - Keough School of Global Affairs

Please do not submit your application through this platform - here are the application instructions:

Applications including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and research statement should be submitted through the Interfolio system: \"https://apply.interfolio.com/177620\" Applicants should also arrange for three confidential letters of reference to be submitted via Interfolio. Questions about the position can be directed to \"mailto:amonteve@nd.edu\". The deadline for applications is December 31, 2025.

Successful candidates are expected to lead and collaborate on research projects with faculty at the Klau Institute. Possibilities include: an international race and rights lab, migration research working groups, and new research initiatives related to civil and human rights. At least half of the postdoctoral scholar's time will be committed to research. The scholar will be supervised by the Klau Institute Faculty Director, Jennifer Mason McAward, a legal scholar in civil rights law and habeas corpus, and mentored by additional Klau Institute faculty and its Associate Director. The anticipated start date of the appointment is August 1, 2026. This is a one-year appointment with the possibility of renewal for a second year based on performance and funding availability.

The scholar will lead initiatives related to student engagement at the undergraduate and graduate level which may include experiential learning, research projects, guest lectures, and more. In addition, there may be the possibility to teach one introductory level course for the civil and human rights minor. Competitive candidates for this position will have a scholarly track record with evidence of, or potential for, high-quality research related to the research priorities of the Klau Institute. Successful applications will clearly identify how their research relates to priority areas described above. We encourage candidates with a PhD in sociology, political science, international relations, or economics to apply.

The appointment will be based in the \"https://keough.nd.edu/\", which promotes interdisciplinary and policy-relevant research on critical issues in global affairs, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. The Keough School approaches global affairs and development through a focus on integral human development, which is also central to the University of Notre Dame's mission. The Klau Institute, founded by Fr. Hesburgh in 1973, aspires to be a leading scholarly voice in the areas of civil and human rights with a three-pillar mission of education, inquiry, and engagement. The Scholar will enhance the Klau Institute's current capacity.

The University of Notre Dame seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to our Catholic tradition, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. The Keough School is committed to fostering a culture of diverse views and approaches to Global Affairs. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or service has prepared them to contribute to our mission and commitment to diversity and excellence.

Qualifications

We encourage candidates with a PhD in sociology, political science, international relations, or economics to apply.

Additional Information

Applications including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and research statement should be submitted through the Interfolio system: \"https://apply.interfolio.com/177620\" Applicants should also arrange for three confidential letters of reference to be submitted via Interfolio. Questions about the position can be directed to \"mailto:amonteve@nd.edu\". The deadline for applications is December 31, 2025.

At Notre Dame, we know our impact depends on exceptional people, people like you. We are committed to fostering a vibrant, welcoming community. In keeping with our mission, we encourage applications from all who will help build and strengthen our beloved community. We strive to empower every employee to flourish, knowing your success propels Notre Dame to new heights of impact.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6727605

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16229

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Political Economy

POSITION OVERVIEW

Position title: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition

Salary range: The UC postdoc salary scales set the minimum pay determined by experience level at appointment. See the following table(s) for the current salary scale(s) for this position: https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2024-25/oct-2024-scales/t23.pdf. The current minimum salary range for this position is $69,073 - $77,030. Salaries above the minimum may be offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.

Percent time: 100

Anticipated start: as early as possible, negotiable

Position duration: Initial appointment is for 2 years with possibility of renewal based on performance and availability of funding.

APPLICATION WINDOW

Next review date: Monday, December 15, 2025

Final date: Applications will continue to be accepted until a candidate has been chosen.

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative seeks applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the area of the political economy of climate policy and the energy transition.

The Postdoctoral Scholar will be part of the Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative (BESI), a campuswide program to advance new political and economic thought on urgent societal challenges. BESI's climate cluster conducts research and engagement on climate politics and policy, with a focus on the intersection of climate and economic policymaking. The Postdoctoral Scholar would work with Jonas Meckling. Areas of research interest include but are not limited to the intersection of climate policy and economic policy broadly understood. Specific interests relate to the greening of innovation, industrial, trade, development, monetary, and fiscal policy as well as the geopolitics of the energy transition. We welcome international political economy, comparative political economy, or regional/country perspectives as well as firm-centered approaches. Applicants are expected to pitch their existing research and possible areas of collaboration. They may also contribute to possible projects of collaboration proposed by us.

QUALIFICATIONS

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)

PhD or equivalent international degree or enrolled in such a program.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Document requirements

Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

Cover Letter - Please include a 1-2 page cover letter.

Statement of Research - This research proposal should not exceed 5 pages. Applicants should provide specific information about research plans, including possible areas of collaboration.

Recent Publications - Please include at least one recent publication.

Reference requirements

Names and contact details for 3 references. We will only request letters of recommendation for shortlisted candidates.

Apply email: Submit your application as a single pdf file to BESIHR@berkeley.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16228

California State University, Fullerton

Rank: Assistant Professor, Asian American Studies (with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific Studies)

Specializations: Asian American Politics, American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Department of Asian American Studies
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
Assistant Professor
Fall 2026

The Department of Asian American Studies (ASAM) at California State University, Fullerton (CSUF), invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or advanced Assistant Professor in Asian American Studies with an appointment to begin Fall 2026. The advanced rank will include up to two years of service credit (time counted toward the normal six-year probationary period).

California State University, Fullerton (CSUF) is an equal opportunity employer and a minority-serving institution, with a Hispanic-Serving Institution designation. CSUF earned the prestigious Seal of Excelencia in 2021 and 2024, joining a distinguished group of colleges and universities recognized for their commitment to the success of Latine/x students. Our 45,000 Titans, including international students, study in 122 dynamic degree programs. CSUF is firmly committed to student success by equipping students to achieve academic excellence, career success, and economic mobility. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences. We are seeking to recruit and retain faculty who can teach and mentor our students to achieve their academic and career goals while advancing the University's strategic plan objectives. CSUF strives to retain all faculty by providing resources to build meaningful connections and community within and across disciplines. The campus community is designed to foster an inclusive environment that enables students, staff, administrators, and faculty to thrive.

Position

The Department of Asian American Studies at California State University, Fullerton invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position with appointment to begin Fall 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar of ethnic studies or related fields with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific studies.

CSUF faculty are committed teachers/scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, studios, individually mentored projects, and faculty-student collaborations on papers and presentations. They teach broadly in the curricula of their departments, advise students, serve on departmental and university-wide committees, and engage in community work. The primary responsibilities of the person in this position will include the development and teaching of introductory and core courses in Asian American studies and ethnic studies and the development of courses in their area(s) of specialization. This faculty member will also be responsible for producing scholarship or creative work commensurate with the requirements for tenure. The successful candidate will also be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the department, advise students, serve on committees, and participate in the broader university and disciplinary communities.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. in ethnic studies or related field, with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific studies, by the time of appointment
- Ability to teach a wide range of Asian American studies and ethnic studies courses
- Demonstrated commitment to and excellence in undergraduate teaching
- Strong record of scholarly or creative accomplishments appropriate to the level of appointment
- Demonstrated commitment to department/university, professional, and community service
- Experience in working collaboratively with colleagues
- Ability to balance excellent teaching, scholarship/creative activity, and service
- Demonstrated commitment to working effectively with students from intersecting marginalized social groups

Preferred Qualifications

- Emphases in history; cultural studies (literature, digital/media studies, music); colonialism, empire, and war; queer of color theories; women of color feminist theories; diaspora; and/or community and social movements
- Interdisciplinary, intersectional and/or comparative approaches
- Evidence of effective use of a variety of instructional methods and learning modalities
- Evidence of successful scholarly/creative works and publications
- Evidence of engagement with student co-curricular activities and Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific communities

Application
A complete online application must be received by electronic submission to be considered. To apply, please visit http://hr.fullerton.edu/careers/Faculty.php, choose full-time faculty, search for the 553089 and provide the following required materials:

- Cover letter addressing the required and/or preferred qualifications
- Curriculum vitae
- 500-word-maximum teaching statement describing experience and philosophy
- 500-word-maximum research statement describing current and future projects
- 500-word-maximum service statement describing experience and interests
- 500-word-maximum statement on commitment to inclusive excellence:

Inclusive excellence is a strategic framework that recognizes the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusion in achieving organizational success and high-quality learning and teaching. It is a way of thinking and acting that integrates these values into all aspects of an institution, from curriculum and pedagogy to recruitment and hiring. Essentially, it means that excellence is not just about achieving high standards, but also about ensuring that all members of the community have the opportunity to thrive and contribute (Williams et al., 2005).

With the Inclusive Excellence Statement, we aim to learn about the applicant's perspective on their past and present contributions to and future aspirations for promoting and engaging with a diverse student population. This statement should showcase the candidate's professional experience, intellectual commitments, and/or willingness to teach and create an academic environment supportive of all students, including but not limited to those of diverse ages, abilities, cultures, ethnicities, gender identities, languages, religions, and sexual orientations.

Cal State Fullerton serves a student body that reflects the rich cultural, ethnic, and socioeconomic mosaic of Southern California. Please provide concrete examples of how you, as a faculty member, will support our students in one or more of the following areas, which fall under the areas of awareness and understanding, experience and commitment, and future plans.

1. Your contributions (past, present, or future) to embedding perspectives that are reflective of the student population into your teaching and/or scholarship.
2. Your experience in service activities that are reflective of a diverse student population.
3. Your experience and commitment to mentoring and providing opportunities to a diverse student body inside and outside the classroom environment.
4. Your experience integrating creative activities that are inclusive of the identities of our student body and communities.

- Evidence of excellent teaching:
- Sample syllabi (i.e., previously taught and new course proposals in area of expertise)
- Teaching peer observations
- Professional development training
- One writing sample (ABD applicants to provide a minimum of 2 dissertation chapters)
- A list of three references with relevant contact information:

Semi-finalists must submit three letters of recommendation. Please have these ready for the?references to submit. On the References page of the online application, enter information and email?addresses of three individuals who will provide a confidential letter of reference for your application. At?the appropriate time in the search process, they will receive a request via email along with information on?uploading the letter. You may verify that CSUF has received each letter by logging?into your applicant portal.

- Semi-finalists and/or finalists may be asked to submit additional materials for further consideration (e.g., scholarly articles, portfolio, etc.).
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review)

Please direct all questions about the position to Search Committee Chair Dr. Eliza Noh at enoh@fullerton.edu.

Application Deadline
To be assured full consideration, all application materials must be received by December 9, 2025. The anticipated appointment date is Fall 2026. The position is open until filled.

The College and Department

The mission of the Department of Asian American Studies is to realize the department's vision of achieving and sustaining social justice for all through creating knowledge, teaching, and serving our communities, with an emphasis on Asian and Pacific Islander American communities. The department goals are to promote study and research by, for, and about Asian and Pacific Islander Americans; to teach students about the experiences of Asians and Pacific Islanders in the US and in the world; to teach students critical thinking and communication skills; to prepare students for social and community engagement by providing opportunities to gain skills and organizational experiences; and to advance social justice for Asian and Pacific Islander Americans.

ASAM is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the largest college within CSUF, offering 23 undergraduate degrees, 38 minors, and 15 graduate degrees. Our college mission is to educate students to be culturally, globally, socially, historically and environmentally astute, civically responsible graduates able to navigate an increasingly complex and interconnected world. ASAM often collaborates with the Department of African American Studies, the Department of Chicana/o Studies, the Asian American and Pacific Islander Faculty & Staff Association, the Asian Pacific American Resource Center, various student organizations including the Student Association for Asian American Studies, alumni, and various community-based organizations in Orange County.

Compensation
The Assistant Professor (Academic Year) classification salary range is $6,221 to $13,224 monthly (12 monthly payments per academic year). The anticipated hiring range is $7,465 to $7,608 per month.

Salary offered is commensurate with experience and qualifications. In addition, the California Equal Pay Act prohibits employers from paying its employees less than those of the opposite sex and/or another race or ethnicity for substantially similar work (https://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/california_equal_pay_act.htm).

Summer research grants, moving expenses, start-up funds, and a reduced teaching load may be available.

CSUF Benefits
An excellent comprehensive benefits package includes health/vision/dental plans; spouse, domestic partner, and dependent fee-waiver; access to campus child-care; and a defined-benefit retirement through the state system and optional tax-sheltering opportunities. For a detailed description of benefits, please visit https://hr.fullerton.edu/total-wellness/.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017, are subject to a 10-year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Additional Information
Multiple positions may be hired from this recruitment based on the strength of the applicant pool.

CSU Policies
The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and must comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083, revised July 21, 2017, as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be formally offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or the continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Reasonable accommodations will be provided for qualified applicants with disabilities who self-disclose.

Notice of Non-Discrimination based on Gender or Sex and Contact Information for Title IX Coordinator (http://www.fullerton.edu/titleix/about/notice.php).

In accordance with the California State University (CSU) Out-of-State Employment Policy, the CSU is a state entity whose business operations reside within the State of California. It requires hiring employees to perform CSU-related work within the State of California. The employee must be able to accept on-campus instruction, as assigned, and come to campus when needed. The CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States.

California State University, Fullerton, is not currently sponsoring faculty positions for H-1B employment visas. At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty/Staff Visas and Permanent Residency page: https://hr.fullerton.edu/risk-management/faculty-staff-visas-permanent-residency/default.php

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 16226

Boston University
Rank: 2026-2027 Fellows Program

The Boston University Global Development Policy Center (GDP Center) is seeking applications for the 2026-2027 Fellows Program. The GDP Center is a policy-oriented research center working to advance financial stability, human well-being and environmental sustainability across the globe through rigorous interdisciplinary research, policy engagement and strategic communications.
The Fellows Program provides a one-of-a-kind opportunity to engage and collaborate with GDP Center researchers, BU faculty members and Global South-based institutions to conduct policy research in line with one of the GDP Center's research initiatives: the Global China Initiative or the Global Economic Governance Initiative.

The Global China Fellows Program trains the next generation of thought leaders to advance policy-oriented, interdisciplinary academic research on China's overseas economic activities and engagement. Fellows will be paired with a BU faculty member, GDP Center Senior Academic Researcher under, or a Non-Resident (Senior) Fellow on one of the four workstreams: Data Analysis for Transparency and Accountability (D.A.T.A.); Forestry, Agriculture, and Indigenous Rights (FAIR); Energy and Climate; and China and the International Financial Architecture (CHIFA).

The Global Economic Governance Fellows Program pairs fellows with a senior researcher in their field to conduct research in line with one of the following thematic programs: the role of development banks (multilateral, regional or national) in enhancing climate and development action, particularly in mobilizing resources and facilitating a just transition away from fossil fuels; the intersection of international trade and investment rules with the needs of the climate crisis, including green industrialization strategies; and financial stability and development, with a focus on reform of the global debt architecture to be fit-for-purpose, the global financial safety net and the International Monetary Fund.

The majority of the fellowships will be awarded for the 2026-2027 academic year (September 2026 to May 2027). In addition to the fellowship award, fellows will receive a competitive stipend to support fieldwork and conference travel, and other approved professional development expenses. This fellowship program is in-person at the GDP Center's office at Boston University.

Required Qualifications:
• Enrolled in or graduated from a PhD program:
o Pre-doctoral applicants must have completed their qualification/comprehensive exams and defended their dissertation proposal
o Post-doctoral applicants must have successfully defended their dissertation by August 2026.
• For GCI: Strong research interest and expertise in China's overseas economic activities and engagement with international institutions.
• For GEGI: Strong research interest in one or more of the GEGI areas of focus: development finance institutions, trade and investment rules, and financial stability.

To apply:

For Global China scholars: Interested applicants should send the following materials in one PDF to the Global China Initiative Team (gci@bu.edu) with the subject line "<<LastName_FirstName>> GCI Fellow Application 2026-2027"

For Global Economic Governance scholars: Interested applicants should send the following materials in one PDF to the Global Economic Governance Initiative Team (gegi@bu.edu) with the subject line "<<LastName_FirstName>> GEGI Fellow Application 2026-2027?

Required Application Materials:

1. Recent Curriculum Vitae.
2. A 1-2 page cover letter describing applicant's academic training, research interests and experience.
3. A 1-2 page working paper proposal that outlines the research question(s), methodology, research plan and its significance.
4. Contact information for two references.

Applications must be received by December 19, 2025, 11:59 PM EST. Applicants will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with screening interviews starting in October. Due to the volume of applicants, only shortlisted candidates will be contacted.

For International candidates: International candidates will need express approval from their sponsoring institution stating that the potential fellow is allowed to earn income from another institution. This is especially important for international students with J-1 visas. Note: If you do not currently have a valid US scholar visa, certain research positions at Boston University qualify for immigration sponsorship. Prospective scholars should first establish their potential affiliation with the GDP Center as a pre- or post-doctoral fellow and clarify the terms of their appointment. BU's International Students and Scholars Office (ISSO) will work with the prospective scholar and the GDP Center to evaluate which immigration classification is most appropriate. The ISSO will consider various factors such as the appointment/affiliation terms, the scholar's educational achievements and US immigration history.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/19/2025
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16218

Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Rank: European Security Policy Fellow

European Security Policy Fellow

The Security Studies Program at MIT invites applications for a one-year residential fellowship, the Paul (1969) and Melonie Brophy Fellows Program, for post-doctoral or junior faculty scholars of European security for the 2026-2027 academic year. We interpret European security broadly to include the defense and security policies of one or more NATO and/or European Union member states, Russia, or Ukraine. Projects that focus on NATO or EU security policy as a whole are also of interest. Studies that focus principally on U.S. policy toward Europe, Russia, or Ukraine or "Transatlantic Relations," however, are unlikely to be considered. The fellow will be expected to participate fully in the activities of the Security Studies Program and to interact intensively with the program's faculty, students, and other fellows. Post-doctoral and junior faculty applicants must have completed their PhD by the start of the fellowship. Applicants from the policy community are also welcome and should demonstrate equivalent practical and analytic policy experience.

Application Procedures
Each applicant should submit a packet that includes:

• Completed one-page form (download here: https://drive.google.com/file/d/1qcNZlS6FbcDzzKJmMmG1ehAtvUFTGSUF/viewhttps://drive.google.com/file/d/1qcNZlS6FbcDzzKJmMmG1ehAtvUFTGSUF/view)
• a current CV
• a short writing sample pertinent to the application
• a brief discussion of the applicant's planned research for the fellowship period
• at least two letters of recommendation

This residential fellowship is a ten-month appointment from September 1, 2026-June 31, 2027. Stipends will be competitive and commensurate with experience. MIT does not pay for other benefits, but you will be able to purchase both health and dental insurance at a subsidized rate. Fellows are expected to be in residence at MIT for the duration of the fellowship. Office space and supplies, as well as access to MIT's libraries and other facilities, will be provided.

Please submit all application materials electronically, by email, to mailto:ssp-fellowships@mit.edussp-fellowships@mit.edu.

Applications for the 2026-2027 academic year will be accepted until December 19, 2025. Applications will be reviewed starting January

1, 2026. Letters of recommendation should be sent separately by the recommenders to ssp-fellowships@mit.edu.

The Paul (1969) and Melonie Brophy Fellows Program is generously funded by an alumnus and seeks to develop the next generation of thought leaders in European security policy.

MIT is an equal employment opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, disability, age, genetic information, veteran status, ancestry, or national or ethnic origin. MIT's full policy on Nondiscrimination can be found here.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16217

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor, International and/or Human Development

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International and/or Human Development, beginning July 1, 2026. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses not only on traditional economic development themes, but also addresses outcomes in health, education, and freedom at the individual and group levels, and pays particular attention to issues of inequality. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including economics, geography, political science, development studies, and international relations. We are open to all methodological approaches, however, the ability to teach quantitative methods is a plus. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience in addition to scholarly qualifications are especially encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will teach at least one required course on development, as well as course/s in methods, and their area/s of functional expertise, and will also advise and mentor our undergraduate and graduate Masters degree students. Prior teaching experience and a record of publication and research will be considered a significant plus. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, empirically-grounded, and policy-relevant research and teaching and to nurturing the next generation of international relations practitioners, and it is expected that candidates will share this commitment.

Since its founding in 1839, Boston University has embraced a mission of openness and access, becoming one of the first universities in the nation to welcome all students of ability regardless of race, gender, or creed. That tradition shapes our enduring commitment to academic freedom, free inquiry, and the robust exchange of ideas.

We seek scholars who will contribute to our community of teachers and researchers through excellence in innovative scholarship, engaged teaching, and participation in the intellectual life of the University. Boston University provides an environment where faculty and students work together across disciplines, perspectives, and experiences to advance knowledge and address society's most pressing challenges.

Boston University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender, age, national origin, ethnicity, disability, veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law or identified in the University's Notice of Non-Discrimination. Retaliation is also prohibited. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor. Under Massachusetts law, we may not require or administer a lie detector test as a condition of employment or continued employment.

Boston University, consistent with the AAU's Principles on Preventing Sexual Harassment, conducts background checks for final candidates for certain faculty and staff positions. As part of this process, we ask current and past employers of the last seven years whether there has been a substantiated finding of sexual misconduct under their policies. To move forward, final candidates must complete and sign an "Authorization to Release Information" form after receiving an offer to enable this background check.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) three letters of recommendation electronically at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/31150. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Ms. Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis beginning December 15, 2025, but applications will be accepted until the job is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2026.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: $110,000 - $119,999
eJobs ID: 16204

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is seeking applicants for its 2026–27 Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship. The fellowship offers younger scholars studying nuclear security issues the opportunity to conduct policy-relevant research at CFR's New York or Washington, DC, offices. CFR awards up to two fellowships annually.

The fellowship begins on September 8, 2026, and runs for twelve months.

How to Apply

Program details, eligibility requirements, and the online application can be found at: www.cfr.org/fellowships/stanton-nuclear-security-fellowship. Applicants must be U.S. citizens.

The deadline to apply is November 30, 2025. If you have questions about the fellowship, please email fellowships@cfr.org.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16202

London School of Economics and Political Science

Rank: Assistant Professor (Education) in International Political Economy

We are searching to recruit an Assistant Professor (Education) in International Political Economy, to join a world-renowned group of experts in the Department of International Relations, one of the oldest as well as largest IR departments in the world, with a truly international reputation.

This post is on the Education Career Track, a career track LSE introduced for academic staff whose primary responsibility is education. The post-holder is expected to possess expertise in the field of International Political Economy to a demonstrably high level and have a PhD in a relevant field.

The post-holder is expected to have evidence of a strong track record in teaching and evidence of a track record in student mentoring and pastoral care. They ought to have the ability to teach core courses in International Political Economy at both the Undergraduate and Postgraduate levels.

It is also essential that candidates demonstrate their commitment to high-quality teaching, to fostering a positive, inclusive and supportive learning environment for students, and to working as part of a team toward ensuring the smooth running of the Department and its teaching programmes.

The post-holder will also be expected to contribute substantially to the development of our teaching programmes, taking on course/programme level leadership role/s, and working collaboratively with other colleagues to enhance the delivery of our educational offering. The post-holder is anticipated to contribute to developing an effective learning community in the Department.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification.

In addition to a competitive salary, the benefits that come with this job include occupational pension scheme, a collegial environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 30 November 2025 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Interview dates will be in January/February 2026

For further information about the post, and how to apply please see the how to apply document, job description and the person specification, which can be found at: https://jobs.lse.ac.uk/Vacancies/W/2726/0/459782/15539/assistant-professor-education-in-international-political-economy

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16201

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government & International Affairs

The Department of Government and International Affairs at Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor. The effective start date is August 19, 2026. Please submit application materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=026eaaee-2102-4004-840c-8e8ad42d78b1&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=541370

Responsibilities:
The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. The position involves teaching seven courses each academic year: three courses per semester, with an additional course during the three-week Interim term in January.

While the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages scholars to apply who are prepared to offer courses on international law and security, conflict studies, and Western/non-Western political theory (to be offered to support our political philosophy minor). The successful candidate will also offer sections of introductory political science courses that contribute to the general education curriculum. Additionally, they will maintain an active research agenda and contribute to university service, consistent with the expectations for tenure.

Qualifications:
A Ph.D. completed by August 1, 2026 is required, with evidence of teaching excellence expected.

Candidates must value interacting with students, faculty, and leadership from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and must also have a deep appreciation and respect for academic principles and culture.

Application Procedure:
Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position has been filled.

Interested applicants are asked to submit the application materials listed below in one document to our career center portal, URL provided above.

-Letter of interest
-Curriculum vitae
-Statement of teaching philosophy
-Statement of research agenda
-Evidence of teaching effectiveness
-Letters of recommendation and contact details for three professional references

If assistance is needed in the application process, please reach out to humanresources@augie.edu. Official website: augie.edu.

Augustana University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Title IX Employer. Applicants must comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act and may be required to submit official transcripts upon employment. Finalist candidates must satisfactorily complete a pre-employment background check.

About Augustana University:

Located in the growing and vibrant city of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Augustana University has, for more than 160 years, provided a strong student-centric education based on its five core values: Christian faith, liberal arts, excellence, community, and service. The institution continues to expand its pre-professional and graduate offerings, while remaining true to its liberal arts tradition. Guided by the Viking Bold: Journey to 2030 strategic plan, Augustana seeks to grow its enrollment from just over 1,900 students to more than 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16198

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowship in Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history. Applications are particularly welcomed from candidates who work in the fields of contemporary political theory, comparative government, or international relations, but this is not a requirement.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should hold, or be close to the completion of, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research, and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills.

The Fellowships are full-time, fixed-term posts and are to be taken up on 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter. The post end date will normally be 31 August 2029. Candidates who have not yet completed their doctorate at the time of application should note that to take up the Fellowship in September 2026, it may be necessary for them to have submitted their doctoral dissertation for examination by the end of May 2026. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 41,700 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may apply to rent single accommodation in College. Benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https:\\www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/s2wd5jlt/polpprf_jd2026.pdf

The deadline for applications is Thursday 4 December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16196

American University in Cairo

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in International Relations Theory - The American University in Cairo

Location: Cairo, Egypt Category: Political Science Posted On: Thu Jul 17 2025 Job Description:
The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in International Relations starting Fall 2026. This is a tenure-track position. We invite applications at the Assistant/Associate Professor level. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in the fields of theories of international relations including critical international relations theory, global governance and security studies. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA levels within the Department of Political Science. It also involves MA theses supervisions. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to equal opportunity and a diverse faculty.

Job Requirements:
A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing research and publication program and teaching experience. In addition to research and teaching, responsibilities include service to the Department and the University. Note also that candidates with experience in and familiarity with the North American higher education system are preferred.

Additional Information:
Priority will be given to applications received by October 30, 2025. The position is open until filled.

Apply Here: https://www.click2apply.net/jo7JbntVNKmdztGMPFlerJ

PI279411402

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16191

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor in Asian Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track / Tenured)
Specializations: East Asia, Foreign Policy, Japan

Assistant / Associate Professor in Asian Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track / Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint an Assistant/Associate Professor (Tenure-Track/Tenured) in Asian Studies and/

or International Relations. Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars. The candidate is expected to conduct research and teach in the subject areas of Japan, Korea, and more broadly, Asia. As the School has previously recruited experts in international relations of China and South Asia, it does not require experts who particularly specialise in these areas at the moment.

The successful candidate will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisation; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in Asian Studies and/or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative duties at the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must also submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per academic year.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system. Please click on this link to access – https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant---Associate-Professor-in-Asian-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track---Tenured---RSIS-_R00022123/apply

Applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how their qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests, and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report, if available;
6. Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the names and contact details of THREE (3) referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor, or;

Applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the names and contact details of FOUR (4) referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B3,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2026.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 10/31/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16183

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant / Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track / Tenured)
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

Assistant / Associate Professor in International Political Economy (Tenure-Track / Tenured)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint an Assistant/Associate Professor (Tenure-Track/Tenured) in International Political Economy. Applications are welcome from both early career and established scholars with demonstrated expertise in the substantive subfields of International Political Economy (e.g. international trade, finance, investment, global value chains, foreign direct investment, development, and technological innovation).

The successful candidate will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisation; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in International Political Economy at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative duties at the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must also submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per academic year.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system. Please click on this link to access – https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant---Associate-Professor-in-International-Political-Economy--Tenure-Track---Tenured---RSIS-_R00022110/apply

Applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how their qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests, and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report, if available;
6. Applicants applying for the Assistant Professor position, please include the names and contact details of THREE (3) referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor, or;

Applicants applying for the Associate Professor position, please include the names and contact details of FOUR (4) referees of the rank of Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University

50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B3,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2026.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 10/31/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16117

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track)

Assistant Professor in Strategic Studies / International Relations (Tenure-Track)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS) at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is seeking to appoint a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations. The candidate is expected to conduct research and teach in areas concerning the intersection of technology and strategy/security, broadly defined.

The successful candidate will be expected to be conceptually and empirically grounded in their own areas of specialisation; to demonstrate an active research and publication agenda; to teach, supervise, and examine in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations at the graduate level; to contribute to the administrative duties at the School; and to provide teaching and pastoral support to students.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record commensurate with the level of appointment are essential requirements. Candidates must also submit evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching. If successful, the candidate will teach up to 3 courses per academic year.

To apply for this position, candidates are required to submit their application via Nanyang Technological University's online application system. Please click on this link to access – https://ntu.wd3.myworkdayjobs.com/Careers/job/NTU-Main-Campus-Singapore/Assistant-Professor-in-Strategic-Studies---International-Relations--Tenure-Track---RSIS-_R00022127/apply

Applicants should submit the following:

1. A cover letter specifying how their qualifications match the job description;
2. A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants, fellowships, and graduate supervision, if applicable);
3. Statements of research and teaching interests, and teaching evaluation;
4. Three (3) published articles or writing samples;
5. Google Scholar citation report, if available;
6. Names and contact details of three (3) referees of the rank of Associate Professor/Professor.

If you have any questions about this position, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
50 Nanyang Avenue
Block S4, Level B3,
Singapore 639798
Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2026.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website: www.rsis.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/31/2026
Date Posted: 10/31/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16184

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows Program in U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security

The Davidson Institute for Global Security at the John Sloan Dickey Center for International Understanding, Dartmouth College invites applications for the 2026-27 E. John Rosenwald, Jr. '52 TU'53 Fellows Program in U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security. The fellowship program hosts an interdisciplinary mix of untenured scholars that includes recent Ph.D recipients as well as faculty on leave from other institutions. This year, we specifically seek applications from political scientists.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of (i) significance of the applicant's research for advancing knowledge about U.S. foreign policy and international security; (ii) ability of the applicant to benefit from interaction with and mentoring from Dartmouth faculty in Government or other relevant departments; and (iii) ability of the applicant to contribute to Dartmouth's community.

Fellows receive competitive stipends, research support, and benefits, comparable to those offered by other fellowship programs. Fellows are expected to be in residence from September 2026 through June 2027 in order to participate in seminars and to contribute to Dartmouth's community more broadly. Fellows who meet program expectations will have the option to extend the fellowship through the 2027-28 academic year.

Dartmouth is committed to academic excellence and encourages the open exchange of ideas within a culture of mutual respect. People with different backgrounds, life experiences, and perspectives make the Dartmouth community diverse, which enhances academic excellence. Applicants should address in their cover letter how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to advance Dartmouth's commitment to diversity in service of academic excellence.

Qualifications
Applicants should hold a Ph.D, or equivalent degree in political science or a related field by the start of their appointment.

Application Instructions
Please submit all materials electronically through Interfolio by Monday, December 1, 2025 at 11:59pm EST to: https://apply.interfolio.com/175821

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum vitae
3. An abstract (200 words max.) describing the applicant's principal research project
4. A statement (1,500 words max.) describing the applicant's research agenda for the next year
5. Writing sample (50 pp. max)
6. Two confidential letters of reference

Questions should be sent to Thomas K. Candon <Thomas.K.Candon@dartmouth.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16182

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Government
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Science & Technology

The United States Coast Guard Academy has an opening for an Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Government. Please see our website for a complete job description and application instructions at https://www.uscga.edu/about/jobs

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/18/2025
Date Posted: 10/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16171

Appalachian State University

Rank: Dan German Endowed Professorship of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for the Dan German Endowed Professorship, a tenure-track position at the rank of Associate or Full Professor.
This distinguished position is open to established scholars with an exemplary record of mentoring students, innovative teaching, and/or civic and community engagement.. The appointment will begin in August 2026, though the start date is negotiable. The salary is competitive and includes dedicated funds to support the activities of the professorship.

The Dan German Endowed Professorship is designed to honor and extend the legacy of student-centered engagement and scholarship. The successful candidate will:
- Demonstrate a sustained record of mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, including guiding research and fostering professional development.
- Exhibit innovative teaching practices, which may include experiential learning, community-based pedagogy, or collaborative course design.
- Engage in civic and community partnerships that connect students to broader political, professional, social, and cultural issues.

Areas of expertise are open to all subfields of political science, including American politics, comparative politics, international relations, political theory, public administration, and public policy. Candidates whose work intersects with civic engagement, democratic participation, or applied politics are especially encouraged to apply.

The Dan German Professor will:
- Teach 2-3 courses per semester, with opportunities to develop new courses that reflect the scholar's expertise and complement departmental offerings.
- Mentor students in research, internships, and community-engaged projects.
- Collaborate with faculty to design programming that enriches the intellectual life of the department and university.
- Use endowed funds to support activities such as:
-- Hosting public lectures, panels, or workshops.
-- Supporting student research or travel.
-- Developing civic engagement initiatives in partnership with local or regional organizations.

Applicants must submit an electronic application consisting of:
1. A letter of interest highlighting previous student engagement, mentoring approaches, innovative teaching, and engagement activities to be pursued during the professorship.
2. A current curriculum vitae.

Questions may be directed to the search chair, Dr. Phillip J. Ardoin, at ardoinpj@appstate.edu.

Apply here: https://appstate.peopleadmin.com/postings/52477

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16155

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

UNC Charlotte - Postdoctoral Researcher

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position in migration with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a social science research project investigating the relationships between long-term environmental and climatic changes, shorter-term shocks (such as conflicts, natural disasters, and economic disruptions), and migration. The postdoctoral researcher would lead and implement the creation of complex data collections that combine survey, remote sensing, and administrative data, and generate new research questions, hypotheses, and approaches for analyzing this data.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of and analysis of a large dataset that integrates data from multiple sources. The role includes:
? Leading dataset construction efforts.
? Supporting the new Center for Migration and Diaspora Studies.
? Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position.

? Conducting and publishing high-quality research and preparing grant proposals in close collaboration with and under the guidance of project leaders.
? Participating in the broader intellectual life of the College and University.

Minimum Experience/Education
The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.)

Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics, Public Policy, Geography, or a closely related Computational or Social Science discipline.

Departmental Preferred Experience, Skills, Training/Education:
Demonstrated ability to independently design and carry out a social science research project.
Demonstrable knowledge of and experience working with the R programming language and strong data management skills are required. Preference is given to applicants with additional knowledge of Stata or Python. Knowledge of machine learning, geospatial analysis, or spatial statistics are a plus.

Apply online at https://jobs.charlotte.edu/postings/64603.
Please upload the following documents with your electronic submission:
1) curriculum vitae that includes contact information for two references;
2) cover letter summarizing your motivation for the position, relevant research interests, and qualifications; 3) a single-authored, paper-length writing sample that is an original piece of research most relevant to the position.

Screening of applicants will begin on October 27, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Contact Information
Dr. James Walsh
jwalsh@charlotte.edu

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16156

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Asian American Politics, History & Politics, Race & Ethnic Politics

FACULTY FELLOW IN ASIAN/PACIFIC/AMERICAN STUDIES
Department of Social and Cultural Analysis
NEW YORK UNIVERSITY ARTS AND SCIENCE

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis invites applications for a Faculty Fellow in Asian/Pacific/American Studies, with an initial appointment of one year beginning September 1, 2026, and the expectation of annual renewal for two additional years, subject to pending budgetary and administrative approval.

The successful candidate should hold a PhD in any field or discipline related to Asian/Pacific/American Studies, and we especially encourage scholars who focus on trans-regional and interdisciplinary approaches to Asian American and/or Pacific World studies to apply. Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. no earlier than five years before the date of appointment and have a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. The teaching load will be three courses per annum.

The Department of Social and Cultural Analysis is an interdisciplinary department committed to developing innovative approaches in urbanism, migration, critical racial, ethnic and indigenous studies, gender and sexuality, art, culture, politics, and economic life. The Department has degree programs in Africana Studies, American Studies, Asian/Pacific/American Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Latinx Studies, Urban Studies, and Social and Cultural Analysis.

Applicants must apply through Interfolio using this link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/175770

Review of applications will begin on November 10, 2025 and continue until the search is complete. Candidates should submit the following on Interfolio: a cover letter that reflects on relevant experience, a CV, a writing sample, a sample syllabus, and the contact information of three people NYU can solicit for letters of recommendation.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Arts & Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber who are sensitive to the needs of and possess an interest in working in a broad academic community with different viewpoints and backgrounds. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here:
https://as.nyu.edu/departments/facultyexcellence.html.

If you have questions, please contact Marty Correia at mc2828@nyu.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16145

Angelo State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy at Angelo State University is seeking a new colleague starting Fall 2026 to assist in its core mission of preparing its majors for excellence and leadership in their communities and careers and of instilling and promoting civic education in the larger ASU student body.

Considering the responsibility public institutions of higher education have to prepare students for responsible citizenship in a free society,

the Department has been charged with teaching core courses in Texas Government and Federal Government. These courses represent a majority of the teaching workload for faculty in our department and require a thorough familiarity with the principles of liberty and free, republican government underlying the Constitutions of Texas and of the United States.

Our new colleague must be prepared to contribute to the major in Political Science by teaching Introduction to Political Science and upper division courses in International Relations and Comparative Politics. A variety of research areas will be considered, but we are looking for emphases on the activity of major states, such as China, Russia, etc. Also important to this position is the ability to cultivate our students for careers in diplomacy, national security, and foreign policy.

Our major in Political Science is undergoing a period of enrollment growth, and we are proposing to build on that growth with a number of interdisciplinary programs/curricular initiatives, such as, new minors and certificates in PPE (Politics, Philosophy, and Economics), Civic Education and Leadership, and Constitutional and Legal Studies. Ability to contribute to these efforts will be considered a plus factor.

Review of applications will begin 11/17/25 and will continue until the position is filled.

Typical Duties/Job Duties
Faculty at Angelo State teach a 4-4 load and are expected to maintain an active research agenda and engage in service to the university. A typical semester will involve teaching one upper-level course and three sections of Texas Government or Federal Government. The faculty member's record of scholarly achievement will be evaluated according to the department's established criterion. Service at Angelo State includes attending departmental and college meetings, advising majors, serving on both department and university-wide committees, and may also be bolstered by service to the discipline and to the Concho Valley community.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities
Teaching experience and a commitment to teaching excellence.
Knowledge of the Constitutions of the United States and Texas and of the civic educational purposes underscored by the requirements found in Section 51.301 of the Texas Education Code.

Minimum Qualifications
PhD in Political Science; advanced ABDs are also encouraged to apply.

Preferred Qualifications
Experience with the efforts to revive civic knowledge in Texas and the United States.

Applications can be submitted at Angelo State University's Employment Page, which can be accessed at https://employment.angelo.edu/postings/7223

Any inquiries should be directed to tony.bartl@angelo.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16142

Boston University

Rank: Professor of Global Public Policy and Director of the Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future
Specializations: International Security, Environmental Policy, Economic Policy

Boston University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of professor in the Frederick S. Pardee School of Global Studies.

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for Frederick S. Pardee Professor of Global Public Policy and Director of the Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future. The Director shall hold the rank of Professor, with tenure. The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2026. The search is open to applicants from all disciplines and functional specializations. Successful candidates would be expected to have demonstrated the potential for excellence in any discipline relevant to international affairs, broadly understood, and share a commitment to the Pardee School's institutional values and to advancing human progress. The successful candidate must have a demonstrated record of interdisciplinary research that addresses globally important issues and with increasing global relevance over the next several decades, such as the challenges of climate change and other forms of environmental degradation, artificial intelligence, cyber security, the future of technologies, governance, and/or human security. We are particularly interested in work that has policy relevance, and candidates who have demonstrated policy experience in addition to scholarly qualifications are encouraged to apply.

The Center Director oversees the operations and activities of the Center, including research affiliates, research seminars, summer graduate fellows program, and supervises staff. The Director is expected to participate in fundraising activities for the School and the Pardee Center. In addition to leading the work of the Center, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses in his/her/their area(s) of functional expertise and will also advise and mentor our undergraduate and graduate MA students.

The Frederick S. Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future is an interdisciplinary research center of the Frederick S. Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University. The Pardee Center was established in 2000 through the generosity of the late Frederick S. Pardee, whose career as a systems analyst and an economic forecaster was imbued with a passion for analyzing trends for the future. Both the Pardee Center and the Pardee School are motivated by Mr. Pardee's lifelong dedication to the creation of a better future for all of humanity. The Center conducts interdisciplinary research on globally important issues that affect the human condition over the course of several decades. Through programs of scholarship, outreach, and education, the Pardee Center works to improve public decision-making and policy and to train future generations of interdisciplinary scholars.

Since its founding in 1839, Boston University has embraced a mission of openness and access, becoming one of the first universities in the nation to welcome all students of ability regardless of race, gender, or creed. That tradition shapes our enduring commitment to academic freedom, free inquiry, and the robust exchange of ideas.

We seek scholars who will contribute to our community of teachers and researchers through excellence in innovative scholarship, engaged teaching, and participation in the intellectual life of the University. Boston University provides an environment where faculty and students work together across disciplines, perspectives, and experiences to advance knowledge and address society's most pressing challenges.

Boston University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender, age, national origin, ethnicity, disability, veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law or identified in the University's Notice of Non-Discrimination. Retaliation is also prohibited. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor. Under Massachusetts law, we may not require or administer a lie detector test as a condition of employment or continued employment.

Boston University, consistent with the AAU's Principles on Preventing Sexual Harassment, conducts background checks for final candidates for certain faculty and staff positions. As part of this process, we ask current and past employers of the last seven years whether there has been a substantiated finding of sexual misconduct under their policies. To move forward, final candidates must complete and sign an "Authorization to Release Information" form after receiving an offer to enable this background check.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, and 2) curriculum vitae electronically at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30827. At least three letters of reference will be solicited separately. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, beginning October 15, 2025, but applications will be accepted until the job is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2026.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16138

North Carolina State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations
Specializations: Political Behavior, Race & Ethnic Politics, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in political behavior to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose area of specialization is race and ethnicity politics but will also consider candidates with primary interests in other identity and social groups, voting behavior, public opinion, political psychology, media politics, campaigns and elections, or other subject matter related to the sub-field of political behavior.

We welcome scholars who approach these topics from American, comparative, or international perspectives. Those with relevant expertise will have the opportunity to teach in the Master of International Studies program.

Candidates should be able to demonstrate that they will have defended their dissertation by their start date.

The successful candidate will maintain a robust research agenda, teach two courses per semester, contribute to student mentoring, and actively participate in service to the university and profession.

Perform other duties as assigned by the department head.

For best consideration, apply before November 17, 2025.

To apply, go to: https://jobs.ncsu.edu/postings/224115

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16141

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellow

The Stanton Nuclear Security Fellows Program seeks to stimulate the development of the next generation of thought leaders in nuclear security by supporting research that will advance policy-relevant understanding of the subject. Fellowships are available for pre-doctoral and post-doctoral scholars and for junior faculty. Fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant research, including book manuscripts, draft articles, dissertations, chapters in edited volumes, or reports. Nuclear security as a subject of study is an umbrella term that includes nuclear war, nuclear terrorism, nuclear proliferation, nuclear weapons, nuclear force posture, and, as it relates to nuclear security, nuclear energy.

Eligibility:
Fellowships are available to scholars with a PhD or equivalent degree (e.g., MD or JD) from the United States or abroad. PhD candidates must have at least three chapters of their dissertation completed, and their dissertation topic must be in nuclear security. Proposed research for the fellowship must be consistent with the mission of the program described above.

Stipend Information:
All fellows will receive a ten-month stipend. Stipends at the pre-doctoral, post-doctoral and junior faculty level will be competitive and commensurate with experience. MIT does not pay for other benefits, but you will be able to purchase both health and dental insurance at a subsidized rate. Fellows are expected to be in residence at MIT for the duration of the fellowship. Office space and supplies as well as access to MIT's libraries and other facilities will be provided.

Application Procedures are available here: https://ssp.mit.edu/about/fellowships/nuclear-security-fellows-program.

Please submit all application materials electronically, by email, to ssp-fellowships@mit.edu.

Applications for these fellowships for the 2026-2027 academic year will be accepted until November 30, 2025. Decisions will be announced in January 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16121

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Area: Quantitative Methods
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) invites applications for a position at the assistant or associate professor level starting in Autumn 2026. We are looking for a political scientist with specialization in quantitative and computational methods. The successful candidate will teach courses in statistics and, if possible, computational modeling; knowledge of NLP is a plus.

Candidates should have substantive research experience in comparative politics, public policy, or international relations. They should either have a Ph.D., or expect to receive one by August 2026, in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences. If the candidate is hired at the associate level, it will be with tenure; at the assistant level, it will be tenure track.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in methods or that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.
Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications (which may be part of the CV), and two recent writing samples. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must also arrange to have two letters of recommendation submitted.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16113

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Assistant Professor

Tenure Track Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics
Position Description
The Political Science program at The University of Texas at Dallas invites applications for a tenure-track
Assistant Professor position in international relations or comparative politics. The scholarly subfield of interest is international relations or comparative politics, with a research specialty in topics related to international or domestic conflict, security, or human rights. The successful candidate will be expected to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in conflict studies. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.
The appointment commences for the fall 2026 semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Education and Experience: A PhD or equivalent in political science or a related discipline is required prior to employment; those with ABD status will be considered at the application/interviewing stage. Candidates are expected to demonstrate the ability to work effectively in a highly collaborative, engaging, and dynamic environment comprised of individuals with a range of backgrounds, skills, and perspectives. We are seeking candidates able to produce research and scholarly or creative achievements that enhance the program and the discipline, and able to deliver high quality teaching using evidence-based practices to effectively engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.
Preferred Education and Experience: A PhD in Political Science.
The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences
The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (EPPS) at UT Dallas is a national leader in research addressing critical social, political and economic issues.
Our graduates work in government, nonprofits and the private sector, with many pursuing advanced degrees that prepare them for leadership roles in advancing positive changes on the local, national and global levels.
Application Instructions
Applicants should upload the following via the online application:
• Full curriculum vitae and cover letter summarizing their interests and qualifications for the position.
• Statement of teaching philosophy describing their conceptualizations of teaching and learning, and teaching and assessment methods, and how their teaching practices will engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.

• Research statement describing past, present, and future research, including how they mentor (or will mentor) student researchers and foster (or will foster) collaborative research environments.
• A writing/publication sample.
• Full contact information for at least three academic or professional references.
Priority will be given to completed applications received by October 31, 2025. Reviews will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed on March 1, 2026.

The University and Community
UT Dallas is a top public research university located in one of the nation's fastest-growing metropolitan regions. Our seven schools offer more than 140 undergraduate and graduate programs, plus professional certificates and fast-track programs. Our student body is approximately 30,000 strong, reflecting students from over 100 countries and a multiplicity of perspectives and experiences. Over 65% of our undergraduate students receive some form of need- or merit-based financial aid; and 66% of graduating seniors have no student debt compared to 48% in Texas and 32% in the nation (2021 TICAS report).
UT Dallas is committed to graduating well-rounded members of the community whose education has prepared them for rewarding lives and productive careers in a constantly changing world. Our mission centers on providing Texas and the nation with excellent and innovative education and research. The University's rapid growth is fueled by our creative and enterprising spirit, bright students, innovative programs, renowned faculty, dedicated staff, engaged alumni, and research that matters.
The University promotes a welcoming environment through programs and initiatives designed to support engagement and success for members of the campus community. Employee benefits include a range of physical and mental wellness resources, competitive insurance and retirement plan options, lactation facilities located throughout the campus, and Employee Resource Groups (ERGs) comprised of individuals who share common interests to help build community among UT Dallas faculty and staff (e.g., Universal Access ERG, Military and Veteran ERG, UT Dallas Young Professionals). Additionally, the University's modern campus, 400+ campus organizations, and prime location foster collaboration and community.

Situated in Richardson, Texas, the University's location offers abundant professional development and entertainment options. The Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW) metroplex is rich in visual and performing arts venues, museum districts, professional and semi-professional athletics teams, botanical gardens, accessible trails, and much more, ensuring there's something for everyone. The University's partnerships with regional higher education institutions, local school districts, numerous companies, and the Richardson Innovation Quarter (Richardson IQ) – a major hub for innovation, entrepreneurship, and educational activities – promotes collaboration, professional growth, and educational excellence.

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Texas at Dallas is committed to providing an educational, living and working environment that is welcoming, respectful, and inclusive of all members of the university community. The University prohibits unlawful discrimination against a person because of their race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, disability, genetic information, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16124

University of Cincinnati
Rank: Assistant Professor, Cyber Security Studies

Assistant Professor, Cyber Security Studies, College of Arts and Sciences

Next Lives at the University of Cincinnati

Founded in 1819, the University of Cincinnati ranks among the nation's best urban public research universities. Home to more than 53,000 students, 12,000 faculty and staff, and over 350,000 living alumni, UC, a Carnegie 1 institution, combines research prowess with a physical setting The New York Times has called "the most ambitious campus design program in the country." UC's momentum has never been stronger as the anchor of the Cincinnati Innovation District, the oldest cooperative education (co-op) program in the country with students earning $88.8 million annually through paid experiences, an academic health system, and as a member of the Big 12 Conference. The university contributes $10.6 billion in economic impact to the city and $22.7 billion to the state of Ohio. At UC, next is all of us. Learn more at uc.edu.

UC is a mission-driven organization where we are committed to student success and positively transforming the community through scholarship and service. We thrive on innovation, making an impact, and fostering an environment where staff and faculty are key contributors to UC's success.

Job Overview

The School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA) at the University of Cincinnati invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor in Cyber Security Studies. The position will hold an additional appointment of Faculty Fellow in the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy to advance grant-funded research including the areas of cyber threat modeling, cyber exercises and their methodology, operational security, and cyber-related US national security research conducted through the new National Security Research Institute at UC.

Candidates will teach the core National and International Cyber Strategy and Policy course minimally twice a year (on-line 120 students per semester) and two other courses in a new BA in Cyber Strategy and Digital Affairs going through approval at this time. The appointment is intended to begin August 15, 2026.

SPIA offers an MPA, MA and PhD in Political Science as well as three undergraduate BAs (Political Science, International Affairs, and Law and Society). SPIA also houses three research centers --the Portman Center for Policy Solutions, the Center for Truth, Community Healing and Transformation (CTRHT) and the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy (CCSP).

The University of Cincinnati is an urban, public, comprehensive Research I institution committed to attracting, supporting, and retaining an academically and culturally diverse faculty.

Essential Functions

The successful candidate will:
· Teach the core undergraduate course in National and International Cyber Strategy and Policy minimally twice a year (on-line 120 students per semester) and two additional in-person courses in a new BA in Cyber Strategy and Digital Affairs per academic year (2-2 teaching load). Overtime a graduate course maybe developed in cyber security studies.
· Hold an additional appointment of Faculty Fellow with the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy and pursue an active research agenda in cyber security studies and advance the Center for Cyber Strategy and Policy's grant-based research including cyber threat modeling, cyber exercises and their methodology, operational security, and cyber-related US national security research conducted through the new National Security Research Institute at UC.
· Support SPIA governance through unit-level, college, and/or university service such as but not limited to advising of SPIA majors. Engagement with the wider university community, external partners such as state of Ohio agencies, and/or national and international professional organizations is also expected as professional service.
Minimum Requirements

Prior to effective date of the appointment, PhD in Political Science or a related field.

Application Process

Interested and qualified applicants must complete our on-line application.
https://jobs.uc.edu/job/Cincinnati-Assistant-Professor%2C-Cyber-Security-Studies%2C-College-of-Arts-and-Sciences-OH-45201/1334683000/

In addition to the basic online application, please provide:
· a cover letter indicating fit with the job description and SPIA/CCSP programs outlined above;
· full and current CV;
· three names of references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists);
· a one-page statement addressing the candidate's intended contributions to the University's goals of building a team culture through teaching and service.

Please use the`additional documents' feature to include all these required items. Review of applications will begin immediately with applications accepted until the position is filled.

Questions should be directed to Richard.Harknett@uc.edu

Compensation and Benefits

UC offers a wide array of complementary and affordable benefit options, to meet the financial, educational, health, and wellness needs of you and your family. Eligibility varies by position and FTE.

· Competitive salary range dependent on the candidate's experience.
· Comprehensive insurance plans including medical, dental, vision, and prescription coverage.
· Flexible spending accounts and an award-winning employee wellness program, plus an employee assistance program.
· Financial security via our life and long-term disability insurance, accident and illness insurance, and retirement savings plans.
· Generous paid time off work options including vacation, sick leave, annual holidays, and winter season days in addition to paid parental leave.
· Tuition remission is available for employees and their eligible dependents.
· Enjoy discounts for on and off-campus activities and services.

As a UC employee, and an employee of an Ohio public institution, if hired you will not contribute to the federal Social Security system, other than contributions to Medicare. Instead, UC employees have the option to contribute to a state retirement plan (OPERS, STRS) or an alternative retirement plan (ARP).

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

For questions about the UC recruiting process or to request accommodations with the application, please contact Human Resources at jobs@uc.edu.

The University of Cincinnati is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Compensation and Benefits

UC offers an exceptional benefits package designed to support your well-being, financial security, and work-life balance. (UC Benefits Link) Highlights include:

Comprehensive Tuition Remission

UC provides tuition remission for you and your eligible dependents, covering tuition costs for nearly all undergraduate and graduate programs offered by the university.

Robust Retirement Plans

As a UC employee, you won't contribute to Social Security (except Medicare). Instead, you'll choose between state pension plans (OPERS, STRS) or an Alternative Retirement Plan (ARP), with UC contributing 14–18% of your salary based on position.

Real Work-Life Balance

UC prioritizes work-life balance with a generous time-off policy, including:

Vacation and sick time

11 paid holidays and additional end-of-year paid time off (Winter Season Days)
6 weeks of paid parental leave for new parents

Additional Benefits Include:

Competitive salary based on experience
Comprehensive health coverage (medical, dental, vision, prescription)
Flexible spending accounts & wellness programs
Professional development & mentorship opportunities

To learn more about why UC is a great place to work, please visit our careers page at https://www.uc.edu/careers.html

UC is an E-Verify employer. If hired into this position, you will be required to provide satisfactory proof of employment eligibility by providing acceptable, original forms of identification for employment verification via the Federal I-9 employment verification process. A list of acceptable documents can be seen here: https://www.uscis.gov/i-9-central/form-i-9-acceptable-documents

Important: To apply you must create a profile and submit a complete job application through the UC applicant portal. We are unable to consider "easy apply" applications submitted via other websites. For questions about the UC recruiting process or to request accommodations with the application, please contact Human Resources at jobs@uc.edu.

FOR ALL FACULTY HIRES OFFICIAL ACADEMIC TRANSCRIPTS WILL BE REQUIRED AT THE TIME OF HIRE

Equal Opportunity Employer. Building a workplace where all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment, including Individuals with Disabilities and Protected Veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16112

North Carolina State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: East Asia, International Political Economy, China

Essential Job Duties
The Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in East Asian Politics to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2026.

Those with relevant expertise will have the opportunity to teach in the Master of International Studies program. Candidates should be able to demonstrate that they will have defended their dissertation by their start date.

Teaching responsibilities will be at the graduate and undergraduate level in thedepartment's Master of International Studies (MIS) program as well as Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science in Political Science. The successful candidate will maintain a robust research agenda, teach two courses per semester, contribute to student mentoring, and actively participate in service to the university and profession.

The applicant must be able to develop coursework in East Asian politics at the graduate level for our MIS program and be able to teach undergraduate course(s) on the politics and political issues relevant to East Asia as a region and/or specific countries (China, Japan) in that region of the world.

Scholars with interests in comparative political institutions, international political economy, security, energy, climate change, sustainability and environmental policies and/or democratization are particularly encouraged to apply.

Other Responsibilities
Other duties will be performed as assigned by the department head.
Qualifications
Minimum Education and Experience
Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science or a related field.
Other Required Qualifications
Demonstrated evidence of teaching excellence
Strong research and publication skills
Future research productivity
Preferred Qualifications
Teaching experience at the university level and demonstrated evidence of teaching excellence.
Applicants who can thrive in, and help foster, a varied research and learning environment are especially encouraged to apply.
Examples of mentorship are welcome as part of the application packet.
Required License(s) or Certification(s)
N/A
Valid NC Driver's License required No
Commercial Driver's License required No
Recruitment Dates and Special Instructions
Job Open Date 10/07/2025
Anticipated Close Date Open Until Filled
Special Instructions to Applicants
In addition to a curriculum vitae, cover letter and contact information for at least 3 references, please submit the following with your application:
Research Statement
Teaching Statement
Short Writing Sample
Transcripts
These documents can be uploaded as other applications documents.
Position Details
Position Number 00111631
Position Type Tenured/Tenure-Track Faculty
Full Time Equivalent (FTE) (1.0 = 40 hours/week) 1.0
Appointment 9 Month Recurring

To apply go to: https://jobs.ncsu.edu/postings/223887
For best consideration apply by November 7, 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16103

Stanford

Rank: CDDRL Pre/Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory
Specializations: International Political Economy, American Politics, Political Development

Stanford University Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law welcomes applications from pre-doctoral students at the write-up stage and from post-doctoral scholars working in any of the four program areas of democracy, development, evaluating the efficacy of democracy promotion, and rule of law. The application cycle for the 2026-2027 academic year will be open from Monday, September 22, 2025, through Thursday, December 4, 2025.

Pre-doctoral fellows must be enrolled currently in a doctoral program or equivalent through the time of intended residency at Stanford and must be at the dissertation write-up (post course work) phase of their doctoral program. Post-doctoral fellows must have earned their Ph.D. within 3 years of the start of the fellowship, or plan to have successfully defended their Ph.D. dissertations by July 31, 2026.

In addition to our regular call for applications, CDDRL invites applications for the Gerhard Casper Fellow in Rule of Law for 2026-27. We welcome research on any aspect of rule of law, including judicial politics, criminal justice, and the politicization of judicial institutions. We are an interdisciplinary center; candidates from any relevant field (i.e. the social sciences, law) are welcome to apply. The Gerhard Casper Fellow will be part of CDDRL's larger cohort of pre- and postdoctoral fellows. Please apply through the CDDRL fellowship application process and indicate that you would like to be considered for the Gerhard Casper Rule of Law Fellowship.

More information on the application and the guidelines to apply can be found at our website at https://cddrl.fsi.stanford.edu/cddrl-pre-doctoral-and-postdoctoral-fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16100

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Lightning Scholar and Postdoctoral Fellows
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's home for global policy engagement, is pleased to announce the application processes for the 2026-27 Postdoctoral Fellowships and Lightning Scholar (untenured faculty) are now open through December 1, 2025.

Perry World House is pleased to offer two unique opportunities for postdoctoral fellowship.

- The first postdoctoral fellowship (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/fellowship-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellows/) is open to scholars who study global affairs and have interests in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants working on subjects broadly related to Perry World House's thematic research areas: Climate Change, Democracy, Global Justice and Human Rights, and Security. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173254.
- The Borders and Boundaries Project (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/programs-and-reports/projects/the-borders-and-boundaries-project/) is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173258.

The Lightning Scholar program (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/faculty-opportunities/lightening-scholars/) brings untenured, but tenure-track, faculty from around the world to Philadelphia for a semester or year of writing, fellowship, and bridging the gap between academia and the policy world. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173301.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16099

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Temple University's main campus in Philadelphia invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations within the College of Liberal Arts, beginning August 2026. The successful candidate will have broad expertise in International Security. We conceptualize international security to cover a wide range of topics, including but not limited to interstate war; territorial disputes; conflict resolution and peace-building; technology and security; institutions and alliances; terrorism; and related topics. Additional expertise in cybersecurity is desirable but not required. We seek an outstanding scholar and teacher who will contribute to our mission of academic excellence, innovative research, and inclusive education. Review of applications will begin in late October and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applications should be received by 20 October 2025.

Responsibilities

-Teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses in International Relations.
-Conduct scholarly research and publish in peer-reviewed venues.
-Seek external funding to support research activities.
-Mentor and advise students from diverse backgrounds.
-Contribute to departmental, college, and university service.

Qualifications

Required:
-Ph.D. in Political Science or related field, completed by start date.
-Demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and scholarship.

Preferred:

-Cybersecurity.
-Experience teaching and mentoring in diverse and inclusive settings.
-Evidence of collaborative and interdisciplinary work.

About the Department

The Political Science Department in the College of Liberal Arts offers B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. programs. Additionally, the College offers bachelor's degrees in Global Studies, and Cybersecurity and Human Behavior, and hosts research institutes such the Center for the Study of Force and Diplomacy, Public Policy Lab, and the Center for the Humanities.

About Temple University

Temple University, founded in 1884, is a Carnegie R1 (Very High Research Activity) institution and one of the nation's largest urban public research universities. Located North Philadelphia, just 1.5 miles from Center City, Temple enrolls more than 30,000 students across undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs.

As an anchor institution in North Philadelphia, Temple is deeply engaged with the surrounding community through educational partnerships, workforce development, and neighborhood initiatives. Faculty and students benefit from the university's dynamic urban setting, vibrant campus life, and opportunities to contribute to research, teaching, and service that make a meaningful impact locally and globally.

We are committed to fostering an inclusive environment for students, faculty, and staff. We believe that diversity (of experiences, thought, etc.) enriches our learning environment and strengthens our academic community. We encourage applications from individuals whose backgrounds, experiences, and perspectives will enhance our commitment to these values.

Application Instructions

Applicants should submit the following via email to pssearch@temple.edu:

-Cover letter addressing qualifications and fit.
-Curriculum vitae.
-Statement of teaching philosophy.
-Statement of research interests.
-Writing sample.
-Three or more confidential letters of recommendation (sent under separate cover to pssearch@temple.edu)

For questions about this search, contact IR.search@temple.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/20/2025
Date Posted: 10/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16091

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of National Security and Artificial Intelligence

The Department of International Affairs at the University of Georgia (UGA) invites applications for (2) tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in National Security and Artificial Intelligence. The incumbents will also have faculty affiliations in the Benson-Bertsch Center for International Trade and Security and the UGA Institute for Artificial Intelligence. Candidates with relevant training and experience may also affiliate with the Department of Public Administration and Policy.

The successful candidates will contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching both in-person and potentially online, mentor and advise students, direct graduate-level projects/theses, conduct professional and collegiate service activities both within UGA and the community at large, and collaborate across departments and research centers. Candidates will be expected to develop a robust research agenda and secure external funding.

We seek candidates whose research explores the role of AI in addressing national security threats in conventional and/or non-conventional domains such as cyber and kinetic attack prediction, misinformation detection, prediction of military movements, analysis of influence operations, modeling of natural disasters and impacts on national and regional security, and scenario-building involving chemical, nuclear, or biological threats, pandemics, or engineered pathogens. Sought-after methodological training may include, but is not limited to, natural language processing, large language models, cognitive computing, machine learning, computer vision, neural networks, predictive analytics, or deep learning.

To complete the application, candidates will need to submit a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, original transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to the UGAJobs system at https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/45605.

Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 219, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu).

Applicants should have an earned Ph.D. degree in political science, international affairs, or related discipline by August 1, 2026.

All applications received by December 1, 2025 will receive full consideration. Screening will continue until the position is filled.

Chartered by the state of Georgia in 1785, the University of Georgia is the birthplace of public higher education in America and is the state's flagship university (https://www.uga.edu/). The proof is in our more than 240 years of academic and professional achievements and our continual commitment to higher education. UGA is currently ranked among the top 20 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA employs approximately 3,100 faculty and more than 7,700 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 41,000 students including over 31,000 undergraduates and over 10,000 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 19 schools and colleges, including our newly established School of Medicine.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16092

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: History & Politics, Intelligence, International Security

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD recipients in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities for activities such as directed research or teaching will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership; the emphasis of the fellowship is to provide ample time for the young scholar's own research and writing for book manuscripts, journal articles, and similar projects. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current c.v., cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) statement of proposed research, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for a formal affiliation at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central. The salary for this position is $70,000 - $75,000. Note that applicants are required to have received their doctorate by August 2026, the date the Postdoctoral Fellowship will commence. Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2024
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16038

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, International Security, International Law & Organizations

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's emphasis on history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. While our Center tends to emphasize the discipline of history, or research with a strong historical component, we also highly encourage applications from PhD students in political science, political philosophy, public policy, language studies, area studies, and classics, whose research contributes to traditional political and military history or makes meaningful contributions to the practice of statecraft. This fellowship is designed specifically to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one or at most two years of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will spend their time as fellows working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic and professional resources available at the Center and across the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will actively participate in the Clements Center's programs and activities such as guest lectures and conferences. Additional, specific responsibilities will only occur through mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Applications open on October 3, 2025. Apply on the Clements Center's website. Applicants should submit a current C.V, cover letter, graduate school transcripts, a brief (no more than two-page, single-spaced) research statement, and three letters of recommendation. The salary range for this position is $40,000 -$45,000. Applicants whose research addresses the Indo-Pacific region's increasing role in U.S. foreign policy and security should indicate whether they want to be considered for the Predoctoral Fellowship at the Clements-Strauss Asia Policy Program. Applications are due no later than December 5, 2025 at 10:59 p.m. Central.

Please direct any questions to Emily Burch, Student Programs Manager, at emily.burch@austin.utexas.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 16039

University of Notre Dame

Rank: 2026 Emerging Scholars in Grand Strategy Conference

The O'Brien Notre Dame International Security Center (ONDISC) seeks applications from outstanding early career researchers (usually advanced ABD students or postdoctoral fellows) to present their work at ONDISC's 2026 Emerging Scholars in Grand Strategy Conference, which will be held from February 5 to 7, 2026, at the University of Notre Dame.

The three-day conference will consist of six workshops, one for each Emerging Scholar. Each workshop will include a presentation by the Emerging Scholar, followed by discussant comments by a senior scholar in the field and general discussion. The conference will also include a professionalization workshop, such as on publishing in top journals. ONDISC will make all travel arrangements and cover all expenses.

By grand strategy, we mean some aspect of where, when, and how states or armed groups consider using military force among other instruments of statecraft to achieve foreign policy goals, broadly defined. We seek applicants whose work applies the very best scholarship to the most pressing issues facing the United States in the 21st Century and does so in a way that broadens the intellectual and practical discussion of these issues in innovative ways. In addition to having first-rate scholarly credentials, the ideal applicant will also have an interest in applying their scholarly work to the formulation and implementation of foreign policy goals.

Applicants should upload a CV, a brief bio, and a 250-word abstract that describes their project to https://apply.interfolio.com/175205.

Interfolio will ask applicants for a letter of recommendation; letters that have already been written for other purposes (e.g., fellowships or academic jobs) are sufficient.

The application deadline is November 30, 2025.

Please direct any questions to Jenna Gibson <jgibson6@nd.edu>

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2024
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16061

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows, Liberal Studies, GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Literature & Politics, History & Politics, Leadership Studies

Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows
Liberal Studies
-GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
New York University Arts & Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for two Postdoctoral Faculty Fellow positions to begin September 1, 2026, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

The Liberal Studies Core is a dynamic liberal arts curriculum that provides a global and interdisciplinary foundation for nearly 100 NYU majors. The curriculum emphasizes conceptual and spatial frameworks to trace the movement of ideas and the interconnectivity of material culture, through the study of different texts, histories, exchanges, structures and systems, languages, arts, and writing from early antiquity through contemporary times. Small seminar-style classes and close faculty-student interaction ensure the benefits of a liberal arts college within a large urban research university. We are especially interested in hiring qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching and service to the intellectual diversity and excellence of the Liberal Studies community.

Liberal Studies Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows teach two courses each semester in the Core Curriculum. Fellows work closely with an assigned Faculty Mentor, they attend pedagogy workshops that explore innovative approaches to interdisciplinary global teaching, and they have the opportunity to lead faculty development workshops or host program wide events in their area of scholarly, creative, or pedagogical expertise.The initial appointment is for one (1) year, and it may be renewed for two additional years, based upon satisfactory performance reviews and mutual agreement. Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows are limited to a maximum of three (3) years in rank; they are non-tenure track..

We seek applicants in the following area:

GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to draw on ancient and early modern sources in their teaching with a global emphasis in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary and intersectional approaches from a variety of global perspectives and must have the ability to examine relationships of power and to interrogate the historical roots of current challenges.

Minimum qualifications: Successful candidates must have a PhD conferred by the date of appointment, or have received the PhD no more than three years before the date of appointment. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who share Liberal Studies' commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, and who can contribute to the diversity of intellectual life in LS and NYU. Candidates must present demonstrated experience and commitment to interdisciplinarity, intersectionality, and a teaching approach informed by global perspectives. Commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching required; some college-level teaching experience, and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are desirable.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) and a current c.v. Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), November 15, 2025. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/174370

Liberal Studies sees equity and inclusion and belonging as essential to education and the development of leadership in a globally interconnected world. These values inform LS as a collegial and respectful environment for students, faculty and staff—with particular attention to improving the student experience. To learn more about the Liberal Studies commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, please read here: Global Inclusion. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here: A&S Inclusive Excellence

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16046

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Teaching Assistant Professor: International Relations

Teaching Assistant Professor: International Relations
The Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense (PWAD) at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for the position of Teaching Assistant Professor, with a specialization in international relations. The position will have a joint appointment with the Center for European Studies.
We are looking for a colleague who will teach 3 courses per semester (fall and spring) in support of the academic programs offered by the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense and the Center for European Studies. Familiarity with European politics is strongly preferred. The ideal candidate will have a demonstrated record of successful teaching performance. There are no research expectations associated with this position.?Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science, international relations, or a related field at the time of appointment.?

The Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense offers an interdisciplinary undergraduate major focused on questions of peace, conflict, and human security. Successful candidates should be able to teach introductory and core courses on peace and security studies, international relations and global politics, and the ethics of peace, war, and defense. They may also teach other courses in the PWAD curriculum related to their area of expertise.
The Center for European Studies offers an undergraduate major in Contemporary European Studies and a graduate program, the Transatlantic Masters Program (TAM). Candidates should be prepared to offer courses on themes that intersect with European politics such as populism, migration, human rights, development aid, or trade. The candidate will be expected to teach multiple courses each year within the TAM program. Willingness to teach an annual course on statistics and data analysis is an asset.
This is a fixed-term position with an initial appointment for 3 years and opportunities for re-appointment and advances contingent on performance and available funding. As part of the University's teaching track, the position offers competitive benefits. More information on UNC's career ladder and fixed-term ranks is available here: https://facultyaffairs.unc.edu/policies-and-procedures/faculty-appointments/fixed-term-faculty-ranks/.??
Review of applications will begin October 24, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for the position, follow this link: https://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/307381. Please include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio (including a teaching statement and teaching evaluations), a sample course syllabus, and the contact information for three references.
The University is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes all to apply without regard to age, color, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, or sexual orientation. We encourage all qualified applicants to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16051

Illinois College

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

Tenure-track position in Comparative Politics and International Relations

Illinois College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science position in Comparative Politics and International Relations beginning in the Fall of 2026.

Responsibilities include teaching introductory political science courses for first-year students as well as a range of courses in both Comparative Politics and International Relations in support of the Political Science major. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute courses to our interdisciplinary Global Studies program. The successful candidate should be an enthusiastic and skilled teacher, as well as an advisor and mentor to undergraduate students, particularly those preparing for careers in government, international affairs, law, and related fields. Engaging in research with students is also a key component of this role. Participation in departmental, college, and community service is expected.

Doctorate or ABD strongly preferred, in Political Science or a related field.

Illinois College seeks candidates who have a commitment to working closely with a wide range of students. Currently, our population is approximately one-quarter students of color and 30% first-generation college students. Eagerness and ability to work with these populations is essential. Equally important is excellence in pedagogy and an openness to student-centered teaching approaches.

Founded by abolitionists, Illinois College was the first in Illinois to graduate students and hosts a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. The College is student-focused, offering numerous opportunities for faculty-student interaction beyond the classroom, including collaborative research, international study-travel, and mentoring. Located in historic Jacksonville, Illinois—just 30 miles from Springfield and 70 miles from St. Louis—Illinois College has been transforming lives since 1829.

Applicants should submit the following materials in PDF format to: https://www.paycomonline.net/v4/ats/web.php/jobs/ViewJobDetails?job=326860&clientkey=1A1F01429B0D77840F84E7C37F0997E7

Cover letter addressing teaching experience and interest in contributing to the mission of a student-focused institution
Curriculum Vitae
Contact information for three references

Review of applications will begin on November 3 and will continue until the position is filled. Illinois College is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16036

George Washington University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science and International Affairs

Description Summary

Security studies: The George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs and Department of Political Science invite applications for a full-time, tenured faculty position in security studies at the level of associate or full professor beginning as early as Fall 2026. We are seeking faculty with a strong track record of research, teaching, and policy engagement in the field of security studies, broadly defined. The position will be based in the Elliott School's Institute for Security and Conflict Studies and affiliated with the M.A. program in Security Policy Studies. Successful candidates will be jointly appointed in the GW Political Science Department. Teaching responsibilities would include courses for undergraduate and graduate students in the Elliott School and Political Science Department.

Minimum qualifications: A Ph.D. in political science or closely related field (such as government, politics, public policy, or international relations) with a primary focus on security. Applicants must have a strong publication record, an active research agenda, substantial teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels, a track record of external funding, and a demonstrated record of engagement with the broader academic and policy communities.

Advertised Salary: Associate salary range: $150,000-$175,000; Full salary range: $225,000-$275,000.

Health Benefits: GW offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, life & disability insurance, time off & leave, retirement savings, tuition, well-being and various voluntary benefits. For program details and eligibility, please visit https://hr.gwu.edu/benefits-programs.

Special Instructions To Applicants

Application procedure: Applicants should complete an online faculty application at https://www.gwu.jobs/postings/122147 and upload a cover letter, CV, and 2-3 page research statement outlining past accomplishments and future research plans. Applicants selected for an interview will also be asked to submit three letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 27, 2025 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

Successful Completion of a Background Screening will be required as a condition of hire.

EEO Statement: The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/27/2025
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16026

University of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, International Security

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in International Relations, to begin in August 2026. This is a broad search seeking scholars of exceptional promise in any area of IR.

We are especially interested in candidates whose work engages with International Organizations, International Institutions and International Relations theory, but scholars in all IR research areas are encouraged to apply. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work combines strong theoretical contributions with rigorous empirical analysis and engages broader debates in international politics.

Classification Minimum Requirements:
Ph.D. in Political Science (or a closely related field) by time of appointment.

Evidence of high-quality scholarship or strong potential for publication in leading peer-reviewed journals of political science and international relations.

Ability to teach effectively at the graduate and undergraduate levels, including core courses in international relations.

Required Qualifications:
Ph.D. in Political Science (or a closely related field) by time of appointment.

Evidence of high-quality scholarship or strong potential for publication in leading peer-reviewed journals of political science and international relations.

Ability to teach effectively at the graduate and undergraduate levels, including core courses in international relations.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 24 and will continue until the position is filled. The application is available here: https://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/en-us/job/537287/assistant-professor-of-international-relations

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16019

Stanford University

Rank: International Relations, Senior Rank Faculty Position in Political Science

The Department of Political Science (https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/) at Stanford University seeks applicants for a senior appointment at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The preferred area of specialty is International Relations. Applicants must have demonstrated the ability to maintain a world-class research program and a commitment to effective teaching and mentoring. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in a related field and will be expected to teach and advise students at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. The term of appointment is expected to begin on September 1, 2026.

Candidates should apply through Stanford Faculty Positions (https://facultypositions.stanford.edu/en-us/job/494912/international-relations-senior-rank-faculty-position-in-political-science) and submit
-a cover letter
-curriculum vitae (including a publication list)
-teaching and research statement (no more than three single-spaced pages)
-teaching evaluations

The Department of Political Science, School of Humanities & Sciences, and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

The salary range for this position is for academic year 2025-26:
Associate Professor: $180,250 - $226,600
Professor: $257,500 - $360,500

Stanford University has provided a pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity.

Further information about Stanford's Department of Political Science may be found at https://politicalscience.stanford.edu/. Inquiries may be directed to Natalie Badalov, Faculty Affairs Coordinator, nbadalov@stanford.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 6th, 2025; later applications may be considered at the discretion of the search committee.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15985

University of Arkansas, Little Rock

Rank: Assistant Professor

Summary of Job Duties:
The Assistant Professor of Political Science will teach a variety of undergraduate courses in comparative politics and/or international relations, as well as teaching the program's two courses in the university's core curriculum, American National Government and Intro to International Politics. Teaching will include both face-to-face and online course modes. The successful candidate will advise undergraduate students. The successful candidate will conduct and publish scholarly research. Research activities may include community engagement and applied research publications. This position will participate in faculty governance in the School of Public Affairs, the College of Humanities, Arts, Social Sciences, and Education, and the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. This position is governed by state and federal laws, and agency/institution policy.

Qualifications:

Required Education and/or Experience:

Ph.D. in Political Science with a field or emphasis in either comparative politics or international relations;
ABD candidates will be considered if the doctoral degree will be complete by the time of employment.

Preferred Education and/or Experience:

Experience in college teaching and evidence of scholarship or scholarly potential.

Job Duties and Responsibilities

Teach undergraduate courses in the School of Public Affairs;
Advise undergraduate students regarding their programs of study and degree progress;
Conduct scholarly and applied research;
Serve on committees as part of faculty governance at the school, college, and university levels;
Other duties as assigned by the Director of the School of Public Affairs.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

Knowledge of either comparative politics or international relations as a field of teaching, research, and service;
Teaching skills;
Ability to advise students in their program of study and about career opportunities;
Ability to conduct scholarly research;
Ability to work with external stakeholder groups for the purpose of community engagement;
Ability to work with faculty and staff in a collegial manner to engage in faculty governance and accomplish goals.

Additional Information: We are hiring for two positions with the same job description. Candidates are strongly encouraged to submit applications for both to maximize their opportunity of being selected, using the following two links.

Apply at https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077139

https://uasys.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/UASYS/job/Little-Rock/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R0077134

Salary Information:
Commensurate with education and experience

Required Documents to Apply:
Cover Letter/Letter of Application, Curriculum Vitae, List of three Professional References (name, email, business title)

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 15988

Kennesaw State University

Rank: Lecturers of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

About Us
For more than 60 years, Kennesaw State University has been known for its entrepreneurial spirit and sense of community. A leader in innovative teaching and learning, Kennesaw State is located just north of Atlanta and combines a suburban setting on two metro-Atlanta campuses in Kennesaw and Marietta. As one of Georgia's largest universities, Kennesaw State offers undergraduate and graduate degrees to over 50,000 students. Our high-impact research, and Division I athletics also draw students from throughout the region and across the globe. A member of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State is a Carnegie-designated doctoral research institution (R2) committed to becoming a world-class academic institution positioned to broaden its academic and research missions and expand its scope on a local, regional, and national level.

Our university's vibrant culture, career opportunities, rich benefits, and values of respect, integrity, collaboration, inclusivity, and accountability make us an employer of choice. As part of the University System of Georgia, Kennesaw State exemplifies the power and promise of a student-centered, research-driven university. In addition, Kennesaw State supports the University of Georgia's core values of accountability, excellence, integrity, and respect. We are searching for talented people to join Kennesaw State University in our vision. Kennesaw State is launching a new strategic plan in 2024-2025. For more information, visit https://www.kennesaw.edu/.

Location
Our Kennesaw campus is located at 1000 Chastain Road NW, Kennesaw, GA 30144. Our Marietta campus is located at 1100 South Marietta Parkway, Marietta, GA 30060.

Department Information
The School of Government and International Affairs prepares students to be engaged citizens and high-performing professionals with the skills and knowledge to address vital local, regional, national, and international challenges through relevant curricula with experiential learning, community involvement, and global engagement. Through our various undergraduate and graduate programs and outreach activities, the faculty and students work together to engage in independent scholarship and professional development in areas such as domestic and international politics and public administration.

With more than 400 full-time faculty and 8,100 degree-seeking students, the Norman J. Radow College of Humanities & Social Sciences is dedicated to pioneering workforce readiness in the humanities and social sciences. By staying true to our Liberal Arts values and integrating practical knowledge and experiential learning into our curriculum, we empower our students to become responsible citizens ready for the demands of the modern workplace. The home of three schools and eight departments, the College offers more than 80 graduate and undergraduate programs of study in both traditional and interdisciplinary fields. These programs enable students to develop leadership, problem-solving, and critical thinking skills, as well as a strong sense of civic engagement.

The College is committed to the success of our students, faculty, staff and communities. We seek candidates whose experience has prepared them to fulfill that commitment and engage our students, partners, and stakeholders effectively.

Job Summary
Kennesaw State University is now accepting applications for two full-time, non-tenure track faculty positions as Lecturer of Political Science in the School of Government and International Affairs with a preferred start date of August 2026. These are nine-month contracted positions. These positions are for work to be performed in the state of Georgia.

For a full description of this position, application deadlines, and application procedures, visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for Job ID 290161.

Responsibilities
A commitment to excellence in teaching and service to the university, department and/or discipline is expected of all non-tenure track faculty. Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

Teaching undergraduate and/or graduate courses in Political Science.
Teaching courses of variable size and modalities, including large class sizes.
A strong commitment to undergraduate education and mentorship.
Service to department, college, University, and profession.
Teaching assignments will be based on earned degrees and SACSCOC Faculty Credentials Guidelines.

Required Qualifications
To teach undergraduate courses:

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a closely related discipline is required at the time of hire.
OR

A minimum of a Master's degree, or the foreign equivalent, in a non-related discipline with 18 graduate credit hours in the teaching discipline is required at the time of hire.

To teach graduate courses:

A Terminal/Doctorate degree, or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related discipline is required at the time of hire.

Preferred Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D., or the foreign equivalent, in Political Science or a related field.
Experience in teaching in-person, on-line or hybrid courses
Evidence of teaching excellence in a wide variety of fields in political science
Record of past teaching at undergraduate and/or graduate level
Ability to teach introductory courses in Political Science, American political institutions, or international law.
Experience in teaching American government, comparative politics, or international relations.
Ability to mentor undergraduate research

Required Documents to Attach
CV
Cover Letter
Evidence of Successful Teaching (Upload as Additional Documents)
Unofficial Transcripts (Official Transcripts and Official International Course-by-Course Evaluations Due Upon Hire)
Names, phone numbers, and email addresses of at least 3 references
Incomplete applications will not be considered.

Apply Before Date
Review of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, please apply by December 1, 2025. For application visit https://hr.kennesaw.edu/careers.php. Search for 290161.

Contact Information
For questions about this faculty opening, please contact Dr. Heather Pincock at hpincock@kennesaw.edu.

For technical support or assistance completing a job application, please contact the Shared Services Center at (877) 251-2644 or support@usg.edu.

For questions about a specific job posting at Kennesaw State University, please contact the search chair listed under the contact information section on each posting. For general questions about faculty jobs please email facultyjobs@kennesaw.edu.

USG Core Values
The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Equal Employment Opportunity
Kennesaw State University is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. The University is committed to maintaining a fair and respectful environment for living, work and study. To that end, and in accordance with federal and state law, Board of Regents policy, and University policy, the University prohibits harassment of or discrimination against any person because of race, color, sex (including sexual harassment, pregnancy, and medical conditions related to pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, ethnicity or national origin, religion, age, genetic information, disability, or veteran or military status by any member of the KSU Community on campus, in connection with a University program or activity, or in a manner that creates a hostile environment for members of the KSU community.

For additional information on this policy, or to file a complaint under the provisions of this policy, students, employees, applicants for employment or admission or other third parties should contact the Office of Institutional Equity at English Building, Suite 225, eeo@kennesaw.edu.

Background Check
Per the University System of Georgia background check policy, all final candidates will be required to consent to a criminal background investigation. Final candidates may be asked to disclose criminal record history during the initial screening process and prior to a conditional offer of employment. Applicants for positions of trust with screening results which confirm a disqualifying criminal history will be immediately disqualified from employment eligibility.

All applicants are required to include professional references as part of their application process. Some positions may require additional job based screenings such as motor vehicle report, credit check, preemployment drug screening and/or verification of academic credentials. https://www.usg.edu/hr/assets/hr/hrap_manual/HRAP_Background_Investigation_Employment.pdf

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15964

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

IDENTITY & CONFLICT LAB @YALE: POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE, AY 2026-2027

The Identity & Conflict Lab (ICL) at Yale University, led by Professor Nicholas Sambanis, invites applications from exceptional candidates for a Postdoctoral Associate position for the 2026-2027 academic year. This opportunity is for a one-year, full-time residential postdoctoral research fellowship, with the possibility of renewal conditional on successful performance. The appointment begins on July 1, 2026.

Housed in the MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies, the ICL addresses a broad range of critical questions focused on inter-group conflict and identity politics. The ICL analyzes how social identities shape individual behavior, how conflict affects identities, and how policy interventions can reduce inter-group conflict. Both violent and non-violent forms of conflict are of interest to the work of the lab – ranging from various forms of bias, discrimination, and protest to ethnic violence, secessionism and war.

Postdoctoral associates will work on one of ICL's ongoing projects, with a focus either on immigration or foreign policy. Postdoctoral associates may also be asked to contribute to ongoing projects in the lab broadly related to the theme of "identity and conflict." The ICL seeks to integrate substantive and methodological knowledge across the social and behavioral sciences to develop new analytical approaches and generate new insights that open up avenues for new research and can influence the design of policy.

Position Description
Postdoctoral associates will be expected to work three days/week on ICL projects under the direction of Professor Nicholas Sambanis and can pursue their own research for the remainder of their time. Job responsibilities include a broad range of data analysis tasks. Applicants must be highly proficient in both Stata and R statistical analysis packages and have prior experience programming surveys in Qualtrics. Applicants should have outstanding organizational, communication, and data analysis skills. They should be intellectually curious, ambitious, energetic, and self-motivated; able to work independently, but also as part of a team and sensitive to the demands of multiple simultaneously ongoing projects. A detailed list of job responsibilities will be shared with short-listed applicants. There is no formal teaching requirement. The salary for this position is commensurate with experience and complies with the Yale Office of Postdoctoral Affairs compensation policy and includes a benefits package.

Qualifications
Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees since June 2024, or who expect to complete their degree by June 2026. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis starting on November 1, 2025. Short-listed candidates will be contacted by December 15, 2025 to set up interviews.

Application Instructions
All application materials must be submitted online through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174091
Applicants will be asked to upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one-page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who may be asked to submit a letter of recommendation later (only references for short-listed candidates will be requested).
If you have questions, please email the ICL Director at nicholas.sambanis@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15961

National Taiwan University

Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance— began enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

*How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/Research Fellow level)
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage.

Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15946

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

Rutgers University, New Brunswick
Rank: Endowed Position in International Relations

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, is hiring an associate or full professor for a tenured, endowed position in International Relations with a focus on security, broadly construed. Substantively, this includes research on international security, foreign policy, the political economy of security, human rights repression, conflict resolution, civil conflict, and other security-adjacent topics. The position will begin Sept. 1, 2026. The ideal candidate employs sophisticated methodological approaches. The selected candidate for the Moses and Anuta Back Chair in Conflict Resolution will be expected to conduct research and teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations. Candidates must have a PhD in political science, international relations, or an adjacent field. This endowed position includes an annual research budget drawn from the proceeds of the endowment.

Candidates should submit the following materials: (1) c.v.; (2) cover letter; (3) research statement; (4) teaching statement; (5) contact information for three academic references. The materials should be uploaded to: https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/258912

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. It is university policy to provide equal employment opportunity to all its employees and applicants for employment regardless of their race, creed, color, national origin, age, ancestry, nationality, marital or domestic partnership or civil union status, sex, pregnancy, gender identity or expression, disability status, liability for military service, protected veteran status, affectional or sexual orientation, atypical cellular or blood trait, genetic information (including the refusal to submit to genetic testing), or any other category protected by law. As an institution, we value diversity of background and opinion, and prohibit discrimination or harassment on the basis of any legally protected class in the areas of hiring, recruitment, promotion, transfer, demotion, training, compensation, pay, fringe benefits, layoff, termination or any other terms and conditions of employment. For additional information please see the Non-Discrimination Statement at the following web address: https://uhr.rutgers.edu/non-discrimination-statement

As required by the NJ Pay Transparency Act, please be aware that the academic year salary for an associate professor will not be less than $84,950 and the academic year salary for a full professor will not be less than $95,764 based on the most recent collective bargaining agreement between the faculty union (AAUP-AFT) and Rutgers University. The final salary offer may be determined by several factors, including, but not limited to, the candidate's qualifications, experience, and expertise, and availability of department or grant funds to support the position. We also take into consideration market benchmarks, if and when appropriate, and internal equity to ensure fair compensation relative to the university's broader compensation structure. We are committed to offering competitive and flexible compensation packages to attract and retain top talent.

Review of applicants will begin on October 5, 2025, and continue until the job is filled.

All job offers are contingent upon successful pre-employment background screening prior to commencement of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 10/5/2025
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15907

IE University
Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Postdoctoral Associate
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Conflict Processes, Health Care

Posting Description

POSTDOCTORAL ASSOCIATE (2 positions), Center for International Studies (CIS), to conduct policy-relevant research in global development. Will advance research on international, transnational, comparative, and global issues, and involves collaboration with faculty and graduate students. Areas of interest include global challenges such as climate adaptation, environmental degradation, artificial intelligence, inequality reduction, building just societies, conflict resolution, global governance, democratic erosion, health access, and science policy.

The full job description is available https://www.dropbox.com/scl/fi/pei7s6ncbj1ygcwsya2q0/Postdoc-2026_2027-call-for-applications-8.28.25.pdf?rlkey=tf4zawqnes5ulx7gwrp5218bu&e=1&st=hwztd7q6&dl=0 here.

Job Requirements

REQUIRED: PhD in Political Science, Environmental Science, Sociology, Anthropology, History, Economics, Psychology, Computer Science, and related fields earned after September 1, 2023; and exceptional scholarly achievement and promise for policy-relevant research in international studies.

To apply, please submit a cover letter outlining your research interests and a CV including a list of publications through MIT's hiring site https://careers.peopleclick.com/careerscp/client_mit/external/results/searchResult.htmlhere.

Additionally, upload the following materials to this https://airtable.com/appKsxUrlZNDqpG3d/pagPgOVUttFxCewA3/formform. Research proposal (maximum 1000 words), dissertation abstract with Table of Contents, one writing sample (published article or dissertation chapter), proof of PhD completion or a letter from the dissertation advisor indicating anticipated completion by June 30, 2026, and two letters of reference that should be sent directly by the referees to cis-research@mit.edu (Subject: Applicant's Name).

Review of applications begins October 15, 2025, and continues until the position is filled. The appointment starts August 1, 2026, for one year, with the potential for a one-year extension and is contingent upon a satisfactory background check.

If you have any questions about our postdoctoral program, please email cis-research@mit.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15888

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Randolph-Macon College (RMC) invites applications for an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science to begin September 1, 2026. This is a tenure-track appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach a broad range of International Relations courses, as well as contribute courses to the College's general education program. In addition, all faculty members in the department are expected to teach either Introduction to Politics or Introduction to American Government. Although the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages applications from scholars focused on one or more of the following areas: international law, international organizations, foreign policy, global inequality, security studies, humanitarian assistance and relief, and international political economy. Preference will be given to candidates with a geographic focus on East Asia, Europe, or Latin America. The standard teaching load is seven courses per year, normally in a 3-1-3 configuration across the College's academic calendar, which consists of Fall and Spring terms, along with a four-week January term.

This position requires a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment; as such, evidence of teaching effectiveness is required. We also encourage interdisciplinary contributions to the curriculum. Opportunities may be available to teach in interdisciplinary programs at the College, including Asian Studies; Black Studies; Environmental Studies; Gender, Sexuality, and Women's Studies (GSWS); Hispanic Studies; the College's Honors Program; and more. RMC faculty are also expected to have an active research program, and are encouraged to conduct research in collaboration with students. The College offers generous research, travel, and sabbatical funding.

Institution Information

Randolph-Macon College is a nationally-recognized residential institution of about 1800 students located in Ashland, Virginia, just north of Richmond. Founded in 1830, the college offers a broad range of academic programs, including a graduate program in PA studies. The RMC curriculum, grounded in a liberal arts core, fosters intellectual growth and personal development, with a steadfast focus on helping students find and navigate pathways through college and to successful outcomes. With a commitment to inclusivity and hands-on learning, Randolph-Macon College provides an extraordinary educational experience – enhanced by exceptional athletic and extracurricular activities and supportive alumni – and prepares graduates for success in their chosen fields and in their lives.

The Department of Political Science gives students a firm footing in the core concepts of political science, and unique internship, research, and hands-on learning opportunities in a specialization of their choosing: American politics; international relations; foreign and comparative politics; and political theory. An RMC political science degree provides students with a strong foundation for careers in law, public administration, election campaigns, social justice, and public service.

Major/Essential Functions:

Randolph-Macon College faculty teach, advise, conduct research and engage in scholarship, and serve the college and department. Primary teaching responsibilities will include courses in International Relations, and contributions to the College's general education program.

Minimum Qualifications:

• PhD in Political Science, International Relations, or a related field by the time appointment begins in Fall 2026
• Demonstrated effectiveness in undergraduate teaching
• Ability to teach upper-level undergraduate courses in at least one area of International Relations
• Evidence of a clear research agenda with the potential to produce scholarly publications in an area(s) of International Relations
• Evidence of a commitment to undergraduate teaching and student engagement
• Experience working with students and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical methods that support all learners in reaching their maximum potential.

Preferred Qualifications:

• Evidence of ability to engage undergraduates in the applicant's area of study
• Ability to contribute to interdisciplinary programs outside of the political science department
• Geographic focus on East Asia, Europe, or Latin America

Application Procedures

Please complete an online application at https://bit.ly/RMC0028 to upload the following as a single pdf addressed to Sabrina Granderson, Administrative Services Coordinator, no later than October 15:
• Letter of application that addresses the position qualifications
• Curriculum vitae
• One page statement of teaching philosophy and commitment to undergraduate teaching
• One page statement of scholarly research interests
• A single example of scholarly writing (this can be a link to a publicly available sample)
• A brief (one page) statement describing inclusive teaching practices you employ and how you actively support students across a broad range of experiences, interests, and perspectives.
• Transcripts (unofficial and scanned copies acceptable)
• The names and contact information for three professional references. At least one must be able to address teaching experience and teaching effectiveness; please indicate the teaching reference in your letter of application. Please do NOT ask references to submit letters of recommendation; the committee will conduct reference checks by phone.

For full consideration, applications must be received by October 15. While applications may be accepted after this date, it is not guaranteed that they will be considered. At this time, please only upload the required documents listed above; finalists may be asked to submit additional documentation as needed. Incomplete applications will NOT be considered by the search committee.

Randolph-Macon College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, marital status, disability, or veteran status in its education or employment programs or activities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15875

St. Mary's College of Maryland
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Policy at St. Mary's College of Maryland is accepting applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning August 2026. Faculty members teach three courses per semester, advise undergraduate students, supervise senior projects, engage in scholarship and professional activities, and fulfill departmental and college-level service responsibilities. Faculty are expected to teach in-person classes supported by methodologies that promote students' engagement. An interest in attracting and retaining students from underrepresented groups is desirable.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science or a related field (may be ABD at the time of application if degree completion by August 2026 is certain), college-level teaching experience, a strong desire to teach undergraduates, and a record of, or demonstrated promise of, high-quality intellectual contributions. The ideal candidate will specialize in International Relations or Comparative Politics. Candidates with experience teaching international or comparative political economy, as well as undergraduate research methods, are preferred. We particularly encourage applications from scholars whose work focuses on geographic regions outside Latin America, as we aim to complement our department's existing strengths with diverse global perspectives.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications, with a range from $72,000 - $78,000.

Non-sectarian since its founding, St. Mary's College of Maryland, the National Public Honors College, is a public Carnegie Baccalaureate, Arts and Sciences institution located in St. Mary's City, 70 miles southeast of Washington, D.C. With selective admissions policies, academically talented students, and a rigorous curriculum, we offer a small college experience similar to that found at exceptional private colleges. St. Mary's faculty benefit from a comprehensive program of support for scholarship, research, travel, and curriculum development, including course releases for pre-tenure faculty and leaves for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake region and by our proximity to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore.

St. Mary's College (www.smcm.edu) embodies diversity and inclusion in its mission. We create an environment that recognizes the value of individual and group differences and we encourage inquiries from applicants who will contribute to our cultural and ethnic diversity. Application materials should include cover letter (within the cover letter, applicants are requested to speak to ways in which their teaching will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity), curriculum vitae (include e-mail address), statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available). In support of inclusive hiring practices, for all SMCM faculty searches, the College will also request three professional references (rather than letters of recommendation) at the time of application. Of these three references, at least one referee should speak to the candidate's disciplinary expertise and at least one should have seen the candidate deliver or design classroom instruction. References will be contacted only for candidates who advance to finalist interviews.

Applications are being accepted online at: apply.interfolio.com/172629. Questions may be directed to Antonio Ugues (augues@smcm.edu) at 240-895-2119.

Initial review of applications will begin on September 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check. St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Visit our website: www.smcm.edu/hr

Employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check.

St. Mary's College of Maryland is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 15828

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Seattle University

Rank: Adjunct

Position Description:

The Political Science Department at Seattle University invites applications for adjunct positions for AY 2025-2026 in Political Science with a primary focus on comparative politics and a secondary focus on international politics, most likely during winter quarter 2026 and spring quarter 2026, pending budgetary approval.

The successful candidate will be responsible for teaching both introductory courses and upper division courses in comparative politics and/or international politics, and courses in the University Core for non-Political Science majors. The specific subject matter is open to discussion between the successful candidate(s) and the department chair. The department currently does not need coverage on Asia, but is interested in areas such as African politics, European politics, Latin American politics, and Middle East politics.

Qualifications:

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field are preferred, but advanced ABDs will be considered. Evidence of teaching excellence is required.

Founded in 1891, Seattle University is a Jesuit Catholic university located on a beautiful campus of more than 50 acres in the dynamic heart of Seattle. Our diverse and driven population is made up of more than 7,200 students enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs within eight schools and colleges. Seattle University is an equal opportunity employer.

In support of its pursuit of academic and scholarly excellence, Seattle University is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty and staff that is dedicated to the fundamental principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment regardless of age, color, disability, gender identity, national origin, political ideology, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. The university encourages applications from, and nominations of, individuals who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community.

Application Instructions:

Submit applications at https://www.seattleu.edu/careers/, including a cover letter, Curriculum Vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, such as student teaching evaluations, and the names and contact information of three references. Recruitment is ongoing and based on quarterly teaching needs, but review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025. Contact Political Science Chair, Dr. Yitan Li, liy@seattleu.edu, with any inquiries.

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/13/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 15774

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in International Relations and/or International Political Economy
Specializations: International Political Economy, South Asia, International Security

Open Rank Faculty Position in International Relations and/or International Political Economy

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

Applicants should have a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a related discipline of international relations/international political economy. Preferred areas include Japan-Southeast Asia Relations, BRICS, International Organizations, and International Security. Candidates with research interests that focus on one of these topics or which combine two or more of these topics are welcome. Applications are invited for faculty positions at the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor and full professor. Applicants for junior positions should have solid training in theories and cutting-edge methods (either qualitative or quantitative) from internationally prestigious universities. Applicants for senior positions are expected to have a proven record in high-quality teaching and research in the expertise areas. For senior positions, priorities will be given to candidates with management experience and skills in program planning, curriculum development and student supervision, and a proven record of research publications in competitive international outlets.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2026-27. A Ph.D. must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

Salary & Benefits
Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits and generous start-up research support through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure
Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/jobDetails?id=445&channel=HSS_APSA and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.
Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15756

National Taiwan University

Rank: Open-Rank Search in Political Economy/International Political Economy

Sponsored by Taiwan's National Development Fund and several internationally renowned enterprises (including TSMC), the School of Political Science and Economics (SPE; https://spe.ntu.edu.tw/) at National Taiwan University (NTU) is committed to developing a world-class research hub in political economy. SPE adopts an interdisciplinary approach, integrating faculty expertise across political science, economics, and finance. Two master's programs—MA in Political Economy and MS in Finance—will begin enrolling students in Fall 2025. All the programs at SPE are conducted entirely in English.

We invite applications for multiple open-rank faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor) and non-faculty (Assistant/Associate/Full Research Fellow) positions, both tenure-track and non-tenure-track, with a preference for candidates specializing in the following fields:
- (International) Political Economy
- International Trade and Finance
- Public Economics
- Development Economics

Applicants must demonstrate strong potential in both research and teaching. Preference will be given to candidates with interdisciplinary research agendas, particularly those engaging with the intersection of the social sciences and advanced technologies. A Ph.D. is required by July 2026.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2025 and will continue until the positions are filled. To receive full consideration, applications should be submitted by December 15, 2025. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Hans H. Tung at hanstung@g.ntu.edu.tw.

Candidates who are available for an informal interview during the 2025 APSA meeting in Vancouver, 11 – 14 September (limited slots), should send an expression of interest to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

How to Apply
Applications must include:
(1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests,
(2) a curriculum vitae
(3) a writing sample,
(4) a transcript (required for applicants at the Assistant Professor/ Research Fellow level) and
(5) contact information including phone number and email address for three references.

References will be contacted directly for letters at a later stage. Please submit your applications to ntuspepe@ntu.edu.tw.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15747

University of South Carolina
Rank: Open Rank Search in International Relations

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure-track position to begin August 16, 2026, in International Relations. This search is open with respect rank and applicants will be considered at the Assistant, Associate, and Full professor levels. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in International Relations can speak to themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish, or have published, in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by the start date of appointment and, for more advanced candidates, a record or professional accomplishment commensurate with rank.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester. Candidates at the level of Associate or Full professor will also be expected to provide service contributions consistent with their interests and expertise.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Chelsea Estancona (ESTANCON@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15736

Columbia University
Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates
Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations/Comparative Politics
Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Economy, International Political Economy

The Department of Government and Law and the International Affairs Program at Lafayette College invite applications for a shared tenure-track position in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar whose teaching and research focus on the politics of development in the Global South, with expertise in topics such as, but not limited to, political economy, global inequality, and/or international organizations. Preference will be given to candidates with a regional focus in South Asia or the Middle East and North Africa (MENA). Acknowledging the vibrant diversity of studies of socioeconomic transformations in the Global South, we welcome innovative theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate that the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach introductory as well as intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise for the Government and Law Department and the International Affairs Program and is expected to maintain an active research agenda. The Department and Program especially welcome applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170245. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Professor Seo-Hyun Park (parksh@lafayette.edu) and Professor Caleb Gallemore (gallemoc@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15661

Hampden-Sydney College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Foreign Affairs at Hampden-Sydney College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in Fall 2025. Candidates should have expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The Department seeks applicants who can offer intermediate courses in European politics, international relations theory and/or international organization. The successful applicant may participate in the college-wide Core Cultures program or teach introductory courses in world politics. Faculty teach in a 6-6-7 course rotation with six courses per year for two years and seven courses in the third year.

Hampden-Sydney College values the teacher/scholar model. Successful applicants will have a record of effective classroom teaching, a commitment to scholarly productivity, and a willingness to work with colleagues on professional service responsibilities. Applicants should have a Ph.D. or be advanced ABD in political science at the time of appointment.

Please submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and three letters of reference to Dr. Celia Carroll Jones, Chair, Department of Government and Foreign Affairs, Hampden-Sydney College at http://apply.interfolio.com/161830. Review of applications will begin February 15, 2025.

Hampden-Sydney is one of three liberal arts colleges in the United States dedicated to the education of men, and our mission is to educate "good men and good citizens in an atmosphere of sound learning." As a community, we are dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse staff committed to working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women and minoritized groups. Hampden-Sydney College values diversity, prohibits discrimination, and is committed to equal opportunity for all employees and applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 2/15/2025
Date Posted: 1/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15335

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

METHODOLOGY

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science or Sociology

The School of Anthropology, Political Science, and Sociology (SAPSS) invites scholars with potential for excellence in research and teaching to apply for consideration as an Assistant Professor in Political Science or Sociology. This is a tenure-tracked nine-month appointment with an anticipated start date of August 11, 2026. The position reports to the Director of SAPSS.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, while also considering internal equity.

Examples of Duties

The selected candidate will participate in undergraduate and graduate teaching, engage in scholarly research and provide service to the School/University appropriate to the rank of assistant professor. Normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications: Appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor requires a Ph.D. in Political Science, Sociology, or a closely related field. The selected candidate must also demonstrate commitment to research and teaching in computational methods in support of our pre-law program.

Preferred Qualifications: Candidates who have a demonstrated record of peer-reviewed publications using computational methods such as AI, machine learning, textual analysis, network analysis, and large language models. Candidates who are prepared to teach methods at the undergraduate and graduate level. Candidates whose substantive focus is on law and politics, law and society, or criminology.

Required Documents :Submit a letter of application, CV, teaching statement, research statement, and three references.

Contact: Tobin Grant, grant@siu.edu

Supplemental Information

School of Anthropology, Political Science and Sociology candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students and who can contribute to the climate of inclusivity are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas in their cover letter. New faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are offered competitive startup packages, often including graduate teaching or research assistant support and summer salary, designed to jumpstart research scholarship. All applications are welcomed and encouraged and will receive consideration.

Southern Illinois University Carbondale is an R1 Opportunity University with a statewide economic impact of $2.7 billion dollars. We offer 200+ undergraduate degrees, minors and specializations, 79 master's degrees, and 40 doctoral degrees. Our main campus is 1,136 acres, with additional acreage in University Farms, Touch of Nature Outdoor Education Center, and other facilities. The university is an essential part of the city of Carbondale and an important contributor to the culture of the entire region. While Carbondale includes many of the amenities of urban life, it retains its small-town flavor. Cost of living is considerably lower in the region than similar areas elsewhere, and many employees commute from nearby counties.

The Southern Illinois region is distinct from the rest of the state, boasting considerable natural beauty including the Shawnee National Forest, many state parks, national wildlife areas, and several lakes beloved for recreation. Local foods are readily available in the area, with a variety of eateries and a growing specialized food truck presence. The area is home to the Shawnee Hills Wine Trail, an official wine appellation designation. The wineries extend the cultural reach of the community, hosting live music and continual art exhibits. The campus itself is a microcosm of the area, with a lake and forest on campus, as well as traditional collegiate architecture, quad, and residential halls. Students enjoy outdoor study areas as well as specialized computer labs scattered across campus, including in the three million volume Morris Library. To learn about employee benefits, employee tuition waivers, and find resources about Carbondale and the Southern Illinois region, visit: https://jobs.siu.edu/.

SIU Carbondale is an Equal Opportunity Employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status.

Employer

Southern Illinois University - Carbondale
Address
900 S. Normal Ave

Carbondale, Illinois, 62901
Website
https://siu.edu/

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/1/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16242

Yale University

Rank: Center for the Study of American Politics Research Postdoctoral Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics (CSAP) seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177907.

We will be accepting applications until the position is filled, but applications submitted by February 1, 2026 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 2/18/2026
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16239

University College Dublin

Rank: Ad Astra Doctoral Scholarship 2026: Environmental and Climate-Related Risk
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Quantitative Methods

Applications are invited for projects that assess vulnerability; evaluate the effectiveness of adaptation and resilience-building interventions; analyse the political dynamics of environmental governance; or map the role of various actors (e.g., states, international organizations, civil society, private sector entities, etc.) in addressing climate and environmental insecurity. Proposals related to the climate-conflict nexus, climate-related displacement, early warning systems, or data-driven evaluations of climate policy and program effectiveness are also welcome.

Proposed projects should be empirically grounded and methodologically rigorous. Quantitative, computational, or mixed-method approaches are particularly encouraged, including but not limited to geospatial analysis, machine learning, predictive modelling, and causal inference techniques relevant to environmental or climate vulnerabilities.

Applicants may pursue the PhD in Quantitative and Computational Social Science (QCSS) or the PhD in Politics and International Relations. The intended track must be clearly specified in the application materials.

The successful candidate will undertake a PhD under the supervision of Dr. Elisa D'Amico, starting in September 2026.

Applicants must fill out and submit the Application Form below. The following documents will be required as part of the application form submission. Incomplete applications will not be considered. Please do not include any unrequested documents such as passport pages, birth certs, etc.

1. Brief Cover letter, stating reasons for interest in the SPIRe PhD programme (1-2 pages maximum).
2. Thesis proposal (2,000 words maximum, excluding bibliography) which should include the following: (a) a statement of your proposed focus area within the broader theme of environmental and climate-related risk, response, or resilience, (b) a brief literature review that points to work on which the proposed focus could build and on the research gaps which the proposal is going to address, and (c) a brief discussion of the proposed methodology.
3. Copies of Academic Transcripts (Undergraduate and Postgraduate)
4. C.V. or Resumé (2 pages maximum)
5. Evidence of English language competence (if applicable)
6. Two academic referees

Specific questions can be addressed to Dr. Elisa D'Amico (elisa.damico@ucd.ie)

Questions regarding the application process should be addressed to Ms Dara Gannon (dara.gannon@ucd.ie)

See more information and apply here: https://www.ucd.ie/spire/study/prospectivephdstudents/adastradoctoralscholarships/

Deadline: Friday, 6-February 2026

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 16232

Alma College

Rank: Instructor/lecturer
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Political Science Department at Alma College in Alma, Michigan invites applicants for an Instructor/Lecturer of Political Science. This is a full-time, non-tenure-track position beginning Fall 2026. This position is for three years with the possibility of renewal. Teaching load will be 8 units per academic year.

The department seeks applicants with a demonstrated commitment to exciting, engaging pedagogies and topics. Preference will be given to candidates that can teach courses that complement existing departmental strengths in International Relations and American Politics. A master's degree is required, but a Ph.D. is preferred. Candidates who are ABD with teaching experience may also be considered.

The Political Science Department at Alma College is committed to the preparation of knowledgeable, competent, and well-rounded graduates who reflect critically, serve ethically, and lead intentionally in a diverse world. This is a small department that works collaboratively to provide rigorous student-centered education in a residential setting with a deep commitment to quality liberal arts education.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 1/5/2026
Date Posted: 11/14/2025

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16225

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, International Relations

UNC Charlotte - Postdoctoral Researcher

We invite applications for a postdoctoral research position in migration with strong data analysis and management skills to work on a social science research project investigating the relationships between long-term environmental and climatic changes, shorter-term shocks (such as conflicts, natural disasters, and economic disruptions), and migration. The postdoctoral researcher would lead and implement the creation of complex data collections that combine survey, remote sensing, and administrative data, and generate new research questions, hypotheses, and approaches for analyzing this data.

The postdoctoral position is a full-time research-focused role to lead the construction of and analysis of a large dataset that integrates data from multiple sources. The role includes:
? Leading dataset construction efforts.
? Supporting the new Center for Migration and Diaspora Studies.
? Dedicating time to personal research as part of the position.
? Conducting and publishing high-quality research and preparing grant proposals in close collaboration with and under the guidance of project leaders.
? Participating in the broader intellectual life of the College and University.

Minimum Experience/Education
The Postdoctoral appointee must have recently (within the last eight years) been awarded a Ph.D. or equivalent doctorate (e.g., Sc.D., M.D.)

Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics, Public Policy, Geography, or a closely related Computational or Social Science discipline.

Departmental Preferred Experience, Skills, Training/Education:
Demonstrated ability to independently design and carry out a social science research project.
Demonstrable knowledge of and experience working with the R programming language and strong data management skills are required. Preference is given to applicants with additional knowledge of Stata or Python. Knowledge of machine learning, geospatial analysis, or spatial statistics are a plus.

Apply online at https://jobs.charlotte.edu/postings/64603.
Please upload the following documents with your electronic submission:
1) curriculum vitae that includes contact information for two references;
2) cover letter summarizing your motivation for the position, relevant research interests, and qualifications; 3) a single-authored, paper-length writing sample that is an original piece of research most relevant to the position.

Screening of applicants will begin on October 27, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

Contact Information

Dr. James Walsh
jwalsh@charlotte.edu

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/22/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16156

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher in Government: Polarization Research Lab, 2026-2027

The Polarization Research Lab (PRL) at Dartmouth College seeks a postdoctoral researcher to join our team for 2026-2027. The postdoc will work with Associate Professor of Government and PRL Director Sean Westwood on projects related to democratic attitudes and governance in the United States. Postdocs in the lab receive mentorship and training to achieve their career goals.

The main job of the postdoc will be to write academic articles, design and implement survey experiments, use methods of causal inference to assess the impact of changes in the information environment on changes in attitudes, and conduct descriptive studies of the data. They will be involved in all aspects of the research, with the goal of co-authoring academic publications and creating reports for widespread consumption.

The postdoc will have the chance to co-author (and lead) papers and work on scientific projects with researchers from institutions around the world. While the majority of the time will be dedicated to collaborative lab projects, there will be opportunity (and space on the lab's survey instrument) to develop related independent research.

This position is full-time, non-remote, in-residence at Dartmouth in Hanover, NH, with start date as early as July 1, 2026. Initial appointment is for one year, with the possibility of renewal. Postdoctoral researchers receive a stipend of approximately $67,500 plus benefits and an allocation for research expenses (exact funding levels for 2026-27 will be set at the time of offer). Postdoctoral researchers are advised and hosted in the Department of Government. They are also supported by the Guarini School for Graduate and Advanced Studies, including their community initiatives.

Qualifications

. A Ph.D. conferred by July 1, 2026, with a preference for political science, economics, statistics, or computer science.
. A range of statistical and data skills, including graduate-level knowledge of causal inference methods, computational data management, and data analysis.
. Experience managing large datasets and executing data analysis in complex environments is highly valued.

Please submit all materials electronically through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/175722

Review of applications will begin January 5, 2026, and continue until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Professor Sean J. Westwood at sean.j.westwood@dartmouth.edu.

Dartmouth is committed to academic excellence and encourages the open exchange of ideas within a culture of mutual respect. Dartmouth welcomes people with different backgrounds, life experiences, and perspectives and believes that diversity in all its forms enhances academic excellence. Applicants should address in their cover letter how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to serve Dartmouth's commitment to academic excellence in an environment that is welcoming to all.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16129

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Spatial Data Science

The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) (https://cosspp.fsu.edu/sdsc/) at Florida State University is hiring two tenure-track assistant professors in any area of spatial data science (e.g., GeoAI, spatial statistics, health, transportation, urban, crime, voting, environment, etc.). The candidate will have an academic home in one of the departments (Geography, Urban and Regional Planning, Economics, Political Science, Public Administration, Sociology) of the College of Social Sciences & Public Policy at FSU.

Application review begins December 1, 2025.

Application link: https://jobs.omni.fsu.edu/psc/sprdhr_er/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_FL.HRS_CG_SEARCH_FL.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST_FL&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=61348&PostingSeq=1

RESPONSIBILITIES
The successful candidates will have an academic home in one of the departments of the College which will be responsible for teaching assignments. Normally, the teaching assignment is two courses per semester during the 9-month academic year.

- Contribute to research and scholarship through high quality publications in top-tier venues.
- Introductory undergraduate, advanced undergraduate, and graduate courses related to some aspect in the candidate's area of specialization.
- Standard service responsibilities with rank.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Ph.D. in any field related to spatial data science.
- Ability to demonstrate clear potential to produce frontier research in any aspect of spatial data science.
- An established record of successful teaching at the university level, commensurate with the rank being sought, and a demonstrated ability to teach and participate in the Department's undergraduate and graduate programs.

OTHER INFORMATION
The College of Social Sciences & Public Policy at Florida State University invites applications for two tenure-track appointments at the Assistant Professor level to begin August 2026. We seek individuals in any area of spatial data science who would work within the newly created Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) under the Directorship of Professor A. Stewart Fotheringham. The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) brings together some of the world's most prominent experts in the field. It currently consists of 12 faculty members and 18 Ph.D. students dedicated to advancing knowledge and practice in spatial data analytics. The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) is committed to developing solutions to some of society's most pressing problems in areas such as health, transportation, crime, poverty and the environment through the power of spatial data analytics. To support this mission, the center also has dedicated space and resources designed to foster collaboration, innovation, and impact.

The successful candidates will be dynamic and innovative, with demonstrated commitment to maintain an active research program that will yield high-quality research publications and external grant submissions. The candidates will also demonstrate and value high quality teaching and mentoring at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Contact Info: Stewart Fotheringham - stewart.fotheringham@fsu.edu

UNIVERSITY INFORMATION
One of the nation's elite research universities, Florida State University preserves, expands, and disseminates knowledge in the sciences, technology, arts, humanities, and professions, while embracing a philosophy of learning strongly rooted in the traditions of the liberal arts and critical thinking. Founded in 1851, Florida State University is the oldest continuous site of higher education in Florida. FSU is a community steeped in tradition that fosters research and encourages creativity. At FSU, there's the excitement of being part of a vibrant academic and professional community, surrounded by people whose ideas are shaping tomorrow's news! Learn more about our university and campuses.

FSU TOTAL REWARDS
FSU offers a robust Total Rewards package. Visit our website to learn more about our Compensation, Benefits, Wellness, Recognition, and Employee Development programs.

Use our interactive tool to calculate Total Compensation options based on potential salary, benefits and retirement contributions, earned leave, and other employment-related perks.

HOW TO APPLY
If qualified and interested in a specific Faculty job opening as advertised, apply to Florida State University at https://hr.fsu.edu/facultyjobs.

Applicants are required to complete the online application with all applicable information. Applications must include education details even if attaching a Vita. Applicants must attach to the application:

- Cover Letter.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- Statement of research interests.
- Statement of teaching philosophy and experience.
- Copies of up to three relevant publications.
- Names and contact information for three professional references.

CONSIDERATIONS
This is a Faculty position. This position requires successful completion of a criminal history background check. This position is being advertised as open until filled.

Review of applications begins December 1, 2025 and continues until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16135

New College of Florida

Rank: Political Behavior and Methodology (tenure-track)
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Political Science position in Comparative or American Political Behavior and Methodology. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to teaching at least one core quantitative methods course each year and joining the rotation for a general Research Design course, the candidate will offer courses in their substantive field of interest. Although the geographic specialization is open to Comparative and American, the candidate must be able to teach upper-level courses in American Political Behavior. The candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. We are especially looking for candidates who are interested in teaching applied methodological techniques at the intermediate to advanced undergraduate level, including multiple regression, probit/logit regression, and any of the following: time series analysis, computational social science, complex systems, GIS, and social network analysis. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2026.

New College, the honors college of the State University System of Florida, is a small, selective, innovative liberal arts institution. Students, with the help of faculty sponsors, plan their own academic programs through a series of semester contracts, and receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work appropriate to their specializations.

Interested candidates should apply online at http://www.ncf.edu/employment and upload the following: a cover letter, c.v., statements of teaching and research interests, syllabi, teaching evaluations, one writing sample (article or chapter length), and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please identify three scholars to write letters of recommendation (they will receive a request through the system). According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding the search are open to the public upon request.

Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16130

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Area: Quantitative Methods
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) invites applications for a position at the assistant or associate professor level starting in Autumn 2026. We are looking for a political scientist with specialization in quantitative and computational methods. The successful candidate will teach courses in statistics and, if possible, computational modeling; knowledge of NLP is a plus.

Candidates should have substantive research experience in comparative politics, public policy, or international relations. They should either have a Ph.D., or expect to receive one by August 2026, in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences. If the candidate is hired at the associate level, it will be with tenure; at the assistant level, it will be tenure track.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in methods or that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support. Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications (which may be part of the CV), and two recent writing samples. Applicants at the Assistant Professor level must also arrange to have two letters of recommendation submitted.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16113

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars of Comparative Politics or International Relations with a focus on non-democratic politics who are also able to oUer undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology. We welcome candidates with expertise in any geographic region whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, authoritarianism, democratic backsliding, state repression, contentious politics, and intrastate conflict. Candidates who can contribute to the department's dual-title Ph.D.
programs in African Studies, Asian Studies, Social Data Analytics, or Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies are especially encouraged to apply.

The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on anti-democratic governance. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.
This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071418-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15911

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park,
PA, USA, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position, at the rank of Assistant Professor.

The Department invites applications from scholars specializing in American political behavior, broadly defined, who are also able to o??er undergraduate and graduate courses in political methodology or social data analytics. We welcome candidates whose research and teaching address topics, including but not limited to, public opinion, electoral behavior, the role of AI in democracy, democratic principles, representation, political participation, political psychology, partisanship, polarization, gender, or race/ethnicity.
The Assistant Professor will have demonstrated ability as a researcher and a promising research agenda with a focus on American political behavior. The candidate should show potential for excellence in instruction and mentoring at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Promise for securing external research funding is also desirable.

This position will include resident and online teaching and normal university service. The teaching load during the academic year is four courses. Onsite teaching is an essential function of this job.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by the appointment date.
Candidates for Assistant Professor of Political Science must have demonstrated ability as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field and have evidence of growth in scholarly achievement. Duties will involve a combination of teaching, research, and service, based on the candidate's qualifications.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until an applicant is selected.
Interested candidates must submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board, and should upload the following application materials electronically: a letter of interest, CV or resume, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Nelson, Head of Political Science (mjn15@psu.edu).

Visit our website at https://polisci.la.psu.edu/ for more information on our department.
To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-
State-University-Park/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_REQ_0000071408-1
To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15912

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College seeks a teacher-scholar for appointment as a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor, to begin as early as July 1, 2026. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science. With an emphasis on tackling social science questions, relevant fields for this search include economics, geography, political science, social psychology, sociology, applied mathematics, statistics, demography, and related disciplines.

Applicants should have a strong methodological background and should seek to (1) conduct social science research using advanced quantitative or game theoretic methods; (2) teach and develop courses in research design, statistical methods, and/or game theoretic methods at the undergraduate level; and (3) facilitate the continuing development of the QSS program. The person in this position will teach methods courses in the QSS curriculum and also strengthen ties between QSS and other departments at Dartmouth that rely on statistical, computational, and/or game theoretic methods for research. QSS averages approximately 50 majors per year and approximately 20 percent of its graduating students write honors theses. Keen interest in mentoring of undergraduates is a must for the person in this position, along with a demonstrated interest in encouraging students of all backgrounds and disciplinary interests.

Dartmouth is committed to academic excellence and encourages the open exchange of ideas within a culture of mutual respect. Dartmouth welcomes people with different backgrounds, life experiences, and perspectives and believes that diversity in all its forms enhances academic excellence. Applicants should address in their cover letter how their research, teaching, service, and/or life experiences prepare them to serve Dartmouth's commitment to academic excellence in an environment that is welcoming to all.

Qualifications

Qualified candidates should have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, or be ABD with degree conferred by the start date. Effective classroom teaching is essential to this position as is interest in leadership of QSS.
Application Instructions

Please submit all materials electronically via Interfolio - https://apply.interfolio.com/172357. Letters may be addressed to Professor Brendan Nyhan.

Cover Letter, addressing all relevant aspects of the position description;
CV, including contact information for three references;
Two (2) writing samples that together demonstrate strong skills in applied statistical methods, research design, and/or game theoretic methods.
Three (3) letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on November 10, 2025, and continue until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact Professor Brendan Nyhan: Brendan.J.Nyhan@dartmouth.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15889

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor – American, State, Urban Politics and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Research Methods, State Politics, American Politics

The Hobby School of Public Affairs at the University of Houston (UH) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Public Policy to begin September 1, 2026. We are interested in scholars who will bring fresh ideas, a commitment to public policy, and an interdisciplinary mindset.

The successful candidate will pursue research in American, state, or local politics and public policy, with particular preference for applicants who demonstrate expertise and a national reputation in survey research and political methodology. Depending on background and experience, the faculty member may also be considered for appointment as the Lanier Chair in Public Policy and/or as Director of the Survey on Public Attitudes and Community Engagement (SPACE City Panel)—a multi-year longitudinal survey project launched in 2025 by the Hobby School's Center for Public Policy (https://uh.edu/hobby/research/space-city-panel/).

Applicants should have an established record of rigorous scholarship and a demonstrated commitment to advancing the Hobby School's mission of applied policy analysis and interdisciplinary research. Expertise in advanced statistical methods—including data visualization, mapping, local area models, spatial analysis, policy evaluation, and structural or quantitative modeling—is highly desirable. Candidates who have experience and expertise in designing, implementing, and analyzing panel surveys and surveys focusing on state and municipal areas or advanced methods to estimate local area public opinion from national surveys, are particularly encouraged to apply. The faculty member will be expected to produce both academic and applied research that informs evidence-based policymaking, supports the development of viable and politically feasible strategies, and contributes to the University of Houston's core research priorities.

In the selection process, the search committee will prioritize collaborative scholars who: (1) engage in nationally-recognized, interdisciplinary work on significant public policy issues, (2) demonstrate an eagerness to contribute to undergraduate and graduate education and student success, and (3) pursue grants, awards, and other sources of funding to support research, academic programming, student success, community engagement, and impact.

We are seeking applicants with a strong research record and developing reputation who can help build our growing programs. We are interested in candidates with a background in rigorous research methods that can support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

About the Hobby School
The Hobby School of Public Affairs was created in 2016 by the University of Houston System. Incoming faculty will have the opportunity to join existing faculty in building and shaping the direction and culture of the school. The Hobby School emphasizes advanced social science methodology, leadership development, and ethical analysis in its teaching, training, and research. It is the home of UH's Center for Public Policy, Survey Research Institute, and Elizabeth D. Rockwell Center for Ethics and Leadership.

The Hobby School offers: (1) a Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, (2) a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree, (3) BA and BSc degrees in public policy, (4) Dual Degree programs combining public policy with degrees in other fields—multidisciplinary studies (UH's Honors College), business, economics, law, psychology, and social work, and (5) Certificate programs in data analytics, energy policy, ethics, infrastructure policy and population health, health care policy, public policy, and public administration. We are in the planning process for launching a PhD program. The Hobby School also runs the Institute on the Empirical Implications of Theoretical Models (EITM) and is expanding its research and instructional mission through innovative initiatives, such as the SPACE City Panel.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie-designated Tier One research institution and is the flagship campus of a state-assisted higher education system that enrolls over 70,000 students (system-wide). We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence.

Houston (www.houston.org) boasts a high quality of life with the following attributes: (1) a growing economy, including a vibrant energy sector, robust manufacturing, a bustling port that serves as a hub for international trade, the Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical center, (b) rich traditions in music, theatre, art, and sports, (c) award-winning restaurants and (d) a relatively low cost of living among large cities.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Application Instructions
Interested individuals should apply at Prospective Faculty | Office of the Provost | University of Houston and provide: (1) a letter of interest, (2) evidence of teaching effectiveness and commitment to mentoring students, (3) a statement of research specialization and interests, (4) three names and email addresses of prospective writers of letters of recommendation, (5) a curriculum vita, and (6) up to three representative papers. Referees may be contacted to submit letters. Review of applications will begin on October 31 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the search committee co-chair Mirya Holman (mrholman@central.uh.edu) and Pablo M. Pinto (ppinto@central.uh.edu).

Qualifications
Doctoral degree required. Advanced Assistant, Associate or Full Professor. We are primarily seeking applicants with a strong research record and established reputation that can help build our growing program. Candidates should have a strong background in rigorous research methods to support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidates.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15879

Yale University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Quantitative Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Political Economy, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Yale University is seeking to hire multiple faculty members with expertise in Quantitative Political Science at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with substantive expertise in American Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Economy, International Relations, or the intersection of these fields, beginning July 1, 2026. These are not positions solely in quantitative methodology; we instead seek scholars who would be comfortable teaching courses in quantitative research methods and who applies methods of quantitative political science to applied questions in their area of expertise.

If candidates are appointed at the untenured level, the initial appointment will be for 5 years. The teaching expectation is normally 3 courses per academic year.

Qualifications:
Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at time of hire.

Application Instructions:
All applications must include a cover letter, CV, and a list of 3 references. Untenured candidates should also supply 3 recommendation letters, 2 writing samples, and separate short (2 pages or less) research and teaching statements. All materials should be uploaded to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/172152. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Kelsey Kanavy, Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, at kelsey.kanavy@@yale.edu if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/2/2026
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15873

The University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at the University of Chicago invites applications for an Assistant Professor in Quantitative Methods. This position will begin on or after July 1, 2026. The department is especially interested in candidates who can assist graduate training in quantitative methods. The search is open with respect to additional substantive subfields.

Candidates must have completed all requirements for the PhD degree prior to the start of the appointment.

Applicants must apply at the University of Chicago's Interfolio website at https://apply.interfolio.com/172391. Applications must include a 1) cover letter, 2) CV, 3) teaching statement, 4) research statement, and 5) contact information for at least three recommenders that may be contacted at a later date. Short-listed candidates may be asked to submit supplemental documents. Consideration of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled or the search has ended.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 15834

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in Computational Social Science

POSITION DESCRIPTION
The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for an open rank faculty position at the level of Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Computational Social Science, starting in Fall 2026. We are seeking candidates with expertise in developing and applying cutting-edge computational and quantitative methods to the study of politics as well as a demonstrated ability to work across disciplines. Areas of methods focus may include, but are not limited to, AI, machine learning, deep learning, digital experimentation, natural language processing, network analysis, text analysis, big-data analytics, or system dynamics.

The successful candidate is expected to direct a new interdisciplinary Ph.D. program in Computational Social Science in the College of Arts & Sciences with a tenure home department in Political Science.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's mission is to "inspire an enlightened community that is characterized by vibrant cultural diversity; that embraces difference; that is built upon a learning environment that fosters respect, understanding, and social justice; and that rejects prejudice and intolerance." Our department seeks candidates whose principles align with that mission.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
The successful candidate will be expected to have strong skills in computational social science with a substantive research program on politics informed by innovative quantitative, data-intensive, or computationally-intensive techniques. Competitive candidates will have a scholarly track record with evidence of high-quality research in their respective field of study as well as demonstrated potential in program leadership, advising and mentoring of Ph.D. students, and curriculum development.

The successful candidate will be responsible for directing the new interdisciplinary Ph.D. program in Computational Social Science (CSS) within the College of Arts & Sciences. As the Director, the candidate will lead the development and refinement of its curriculum, foster interdisciplinary collaborations, and oversee recruitment, advising, and mentoring of Ph.D. students. This position will involve working closely with faculty across multiple social science departments to ensure the program remains at the cutting edge of computational methodologies and their applications in the social sciences.

The Computational Social Science program's administrative home resides within the Political Science Department; this position will split their teaching and service duties across the CSS and traditional Political Science programs.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ph.D. in Political Science, Computational Social Science, or in a closely related discipline.
2) Expertise in one or more of the following areas: computational social science, big-data analytics, machine learning, AI, natural language processing, text analysis, or network analysis.
3) Demonstrated ability to excel in teaching advanced coursework on applications of innovative quantitative, data-intensive, or computationally-intensive techniques in the social sciences.
4) Demonstrated experience in advising and mentoring of students.
5) Evidence of research in the area of computational social science, with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.
6) Demonstrated potential to develop and maintain an externally grant-funded research program relevant to Computational Social Science.
7) Demonstrated interpersonal communication skills.
8) Demonstrated proficiency in written communication skills.
9) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:
1) Ability to teach undergraduate research methods courses and substantive political science courses.
2) Demonstrated leadership and management skills in the areas of program development, student recruitment, and coordination of faculty and resources.
3) Demonstrated experience or interest in interdisciplinary collaboration, particularly with statistics, computer science, or related fields.
4) Demonstrated interest in developing collaborative research and/or consulting to support the interdisciplinary nature of programs within the Department, College, and the University as a whole.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:
The search will remain open until the position has been filled. First consideration will be given to applications received by October 10, 2025. Applications received after October 10, 2025 may be reviewed depending on search progress and needs but are not guaranteed full consideration.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15597

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS
Required Documents: Please attach 5 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Profile Application:
1) A letter of application that describes your interest in this position that addresses the required qualifications

2) A Curriculum Vitae that includes the names/contact information for three professional references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses taken, and course syllabi and teaching evaluations for select courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)

3) A brief research and teaching statement

4) URI is committed to fostering a welcoming, respectful, and supportive working and learning community where people from all backgrounds can thrive. We value unique and diverse perspectives, experiences, and talents that each individual brings to our campus. Please provide a statement, with examples, describing how your professional experiences, teaching, research, service, or other activities have helped create an inclusive environment in your discipline.

5) Submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/10/2025
Date Posted: 8/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15822

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: Weidenbaum Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

We are pleased to announce a new Postdoctoral Fellowship in Survey Research through the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship allows new Ph.D.s and early career scholars the opportunity to contribute to cutting-edge research using high-quality survey data collected by the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship is uniquely situated at the intersection of academic and public-facing scholarship, allowing the fellow to pursue a multitude of career paths, contribute to research that directly affects important issues in American politics, and increase visibility of their research.

The Weidenbaum Center at Washington University in St. Louis invites applications from recent Ph.D. graduates for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship. The fellowship will run for 12 months, starting on or around July 1, 2025, with the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The Weidenbaum Center has supported survey data collection efforts through The American Panel Survey (TAPS), The American Social Survey (TASS), and the Weidenbaum Center Survey (WCS). The Center's most recent efforts have focused on the launch of the WCS, which is fielded three times each year, includes a sample of 3,000 respondents (2,000 general US adult population and oversample of 1,000 African Americans), with each survey paired with voter file data and web-tracking data for a subset of respondents. For more information on survey work supported by the Center, please visit: https://wc.wustl.edu/weidenbaum-center-survey-work.

The Fellow will work collaboratively with Taylor Carlson, graduate student fellows, and other Weidenbaum Center affiliates to support the launch of the Weidenbaum Center Survey and other data collection efforts through the Center. The Fellow will assist with the launch of an online dashboard that allows people to analyze and download the survey data, write public-facing reports describing key findings from the data, draft survey instruments, create publicly available data repositories, and conduct both coauthored and independent academic research.

We are seeking an individual with social science research interests who will advance the Center's mission by engaging in collaborative and independent research and who will enjoy the opportunity to contribute to public scholarship (blog posts, reports, website graphics). We are especially interested in candidates with training in survey methodology and experience with public-facing scholarship (e.g., op-eds). Candidates should detail their experience in these areas in their cover letters and showcase any of these interests in the writing sample. We anticipate that the Fellow will spend most of their time working on Center-related and coauthored projects with Taylor Carlson and other Center affiliates.

Qualifications
We invite applications from qualified candidates who will have a PhD in hand by the time of the appointment, are no more than four years from the granting of their Ph.D. at the time of the submission, and who do not yet hold tenure-track academic positions.

Applications are evaluated against a broad set of criteria with special consideration given to contributions the candidate can make to academic diversity in our University community and more specifically to the study of survey methodology or addressing contemporary issues in American society with survey data.

Application Instructions
Proposal Submission Deadline: We will begin reviewing applications on February 7 and anticipate scheduling Zoom interviews as early as late February.

Proposal Format:

Applications should include the following:

- Cover letter

- Curriculum vitae

- Research statement not to exceed 2000 words describing the dissertation project and other research

- Writing sample

- Three letters of reference

- The cover letter should be addressed to Taylor Carlson

NOTE: Please apply through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/161709

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15339

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella
Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at Universidad Torcuato Di Tella (UTDT) seeks candidates for two tenure-track assistant professor positions in Comparative Politics and International Relations, with an expected (but negotiable) start date of March 2025. Very strong candidates at the associate level will also be considered. We are open with respect to substantive subfield, theoretical orientation, and methodological approach. Regional expertise in regions other than Latin America (e.g., East, South, or Southeast Asia, Western or Eastern Europe, the Middle East or North America) is a plus, as is the ability to teach courses on research design, data science/statistics, and/or causal inference. Candidates are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to research and to teaching and mentoring students. The teaching load is three courses per year. Most courses are taught in Spanish, although a growing number are offered in English. The position includes a research fund and a year's sabbatical (at full salary) every six years.

Duties will include teaching assigned courses in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, conducting research, writing for publication in high-quality academic venues, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related disciplines (ABD candidates will also be considered) and a demonstrated record of excellence in research and teaching. Proficiency in both Spanish and English is required. Questions should be directed to Professor Carlos Gervasoni, Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Studies, at cgervasoni@utdt.edu.

To apply please visit https://utdt.hiringroom.com/jobs/get_vacancy/665727a62994ec85980166a0, by August 30, 2024 (applications received after this date will continue to be reviewed until the positions are filled). The required documents include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of 3 references (letters of reference will be required of short-listed finalists).

Universidad Torcuato Di Tella is a private research university located in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Our Department is consistently ranked as one of the best in Latin America in terms of reputation and research excellence. Our guiding principles are academic excellence, pluralism of ideas and equal opportunity. UTDT is committed to creating a diverse community of students, faculty, and staff, following the principles of equal opportunity and treatment in education and employment, regardless of national origin, race, color, ethnicity, religion, political ideology, age, sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity. The university encourages applications of individuals from historically underrepresented groups who will further enrich the diversity of our educational community. We welcome applications from all nationalities. Approximately 25% of the Department's research professors are foreigners. For further information about Universidad Torcuato Di Tella and our department, please visit: https://www.utdt.edu/.

Start Date: Spring 2025
Application Deadline: 8/30/2024
Date Posted: 6/5/2024
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 14404

NON-ACADEMIC

American Bar Foundation
Rank: Executive Director

The American Bar Foundation (ABF), a cornerstone and wellspring of the global socio-legal research community, seeks a committed, curious, and strategic leader to propel this historic institution forward as its next Executive Director (ED). As the nation's premier independent, non-partisan research institute operating at the intersection of law and society, the ABF produces deeply resourced, inquiry-driven scholarship of the highest quality to inform and guide the legal profession, the academy, and the public conversation on matters of law and its influence in the United States and internationally. The ABF's next ED will eagerly invest in the ABF's dedicated community of researchers, staff, and partners and will champion the institution's commitment to expanding knowledge and advancing justice.

The ABF's commitment to academic freedom and staunchly independent and interdisciplinary approach yields scholarly and actionable research that individuals and institutions use to shape laws, inform policy, and influence society. The ABF's intellectual community is robust and comprises full- and part-time research professors, visiting scholars, and affiliated researchers who explore legal education, access to justice, legal practice, and the design, implementation, and impact of laws. The institution also benefits from a 16,000-plus-member honors society of licensed attorneys – the Fellows of the American Bar Foundation – who gain valuable insights from the ABF's scholarly findings, provide material support to the ABF, and generously donate their time and expertise as renowned practitioners and scholars.

The ABF is governed by a 25-member board of directors. Its FY2025 operating budget totaled $9.1 million, most of which was derived from support from the American Bar Endowment (ABE) and the ABF Fellows. It also benefits from an institutional endowment of $35.5 million. The ABF maintains a faculty of 19 full- time and jointly appointed researchers and 39 full-time and part-time staff members.

Reporting to the board, the Executive Director ensures that the ABF's research, operations, communications, and development strategies work harmoniously to sustain and grow its impact and visibility. The next ED will embrace their role as an intellectual leader, facilitating research and mentoring junior research faculty, and will be an effective external representative, enriching the ABF's scholarly community, expanding its resources, and bolstering its operations and capacities. They will uphold the highest standards of integrity, independence, and scholarly rigor while articulating and championing the practical applications and outcomes of the ABF's research with the ABE, the ABF Fellows, donors, and others. The ED will be an attentive administrative leader and an effective liaison among ABF faculty, staff, and the board, and will promote a culture of inclusivity, teamwork, and respect.

EMPLOYMENT DETAILS

Salary and Benefits

The anticipated salary range for this position is $290,000-$320,000. Full-time benefits currently include medical, dental, and vision insurance; paid sick leave; paid vacation; paid holidays (including a week-long winter holiday recess); paid family/medical leave after one year of employment; FSA or HSA; 403(b) retirement plan with employer match and nonelective contribution; transit and parking benefits, including discounted parking; employee assistance program; and more.

Location and Commitment

The ED must reside within a daily commutable distance of the ABF's offices in Chicago, IL. This role requires a consistent presence in the office, as well as regular travel.

APPLICATIONS, INQUIRIES, AND NOMINATIONS

All applications, inquiries, and nominations should be submitted electronically and in confidence to the search team at: (https://www.imsearch.com/open-searches/american-bar-foundation/executive-director). Screening of applications will begin immediately and continue until the search process is completed.

Vijay Saraswat, Partner
Gale Merseth, Partner
Tatiana Oberkoetter, Managing Associate
Elizabeth Arvanitis, Senior Search Coordinator
Isaacson, Miller

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/24/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16167

OPEN

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor - Harper & Schmidt Fellows

The College at the University of Chicago is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. Collegiate Assistant Professors are members of the College Faculty whose primary professional responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program. https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core-curriculum

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works or primary source materials, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. For the 2026-2027 cohort of Fellows, we are inviting applications for Collegiate Assistant Professors to teach in two of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society and Democracy: Equality, Liberty and the Dilemma of Self-Governance. Other Social Science sequences (Classics of Social and Political Thought, Mind, Global Society, Social Science Inquiry and Power, Identity, Resistance) will also review application files if programmatically necessary.

We encourage applicants to spend time reviewing the descriptions and syllabi for Core sequences to understand the distinct topics and approaches and gauge best fit. Descriptions of these courses are available here: https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/social-sciences-core
Some Collegiate Assistant Professors also teach in the Introduction to the Civilizations Core Sequences. For the 2026-27 cohort of fellows, we are accepting applications in the History of European Civilization core sequence. These courses are taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents. Other Civilization sequences (Introduction to Latin American Civilizations and Introduction to East Asian Civilizations) will also review application files if programmatically necessary.
For descriptions and syllabi of the History of European Civilization see: https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/civilization-studies-core

Qualifications
The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D.

degree no later than August 31, 2026. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in teaching as well as in their original scholarship. While many Core sequences feature set reading lists, applicants need not have conventional expertise in the specific texts and topics that are currently taught. Rather, we welcome applicants from a wide variety of disciplinary backgrounds who can apply conceptual and methodological creativity and skill to the teaching of general education courses. Applicants should be prepared 1) to identify and guide students through fundamental questions in a Core sequence and 2) to contribute meaningfully to the instructional community and the curricular evolution for that Core sequence.
In most years, Collegiate Assistant Professors teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. In the second through fourth year of residence, each Collegiate Assistant Professor has the opportunity to design up to two independent courses and each is eligible for two quarters of research sabbatical. In the fourth year there is a possibility of another quarter with a reduced teaching load. The position comes with a salary of $89,734, carries full benefits, and a minimum annual professional development fund of $7,000. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2026.

These positions are benefits-eligible. The University of Chicago offers a wide range of benefits programs and resources for eligible employees, including health, retirement, and paid time off. Information about the benefit offerings can be found in the Benefits Guidebook.

Application Instructions
To apply for these positions, please use the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/176687.
To complete your application, you will need to upload the following supporting documents:
- A curriculum vitae (be sure to list your full legal name)
- A cover letter describing your past and current research as well as your teaching experience and interests
- A Teaching statement, not to exceed 750 words, describing your methods and goals in teaching a text in a general education course. Applicants should write about a specific text of their own choosing, which need not come directly from a Core sequence syllabus but should lend itself to a similar kind of general education course in the chosen program area. For a description of the sequences, see the College Core Website at https://college.uchicago.edu/academics/core/social-sciences-core
- A research statement, not to exceed 750 words
- A writing sample of up to 50 pages,
- One or two syllabi from previously taught courses,
- Teaching evaluations
- Three letters of recommendation

The terms and conditions of these positions are described in the collective bargaining agreement between the University and the Service Employees International Union.
On-line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM EDT, Sunday, January 4, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/4/2026
Date Posted: 11/24/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16235

Chapman University
Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy at Chapman University invites applications for a two-year Post Doctoral position, beginning August 2026.

The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics.

Apply via Interfolio at (https://apply.interfolio.com/176890).
Direct inquiries to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Brennan McDavid (mcdavid@chapman.edu). Please use "Smith Institute Post Doc" in the email subject line.

Review of applications will begin December 1, 2025 and will continue until filled. To ensure full consideration, candidates should submit by November 30, 2025. The salary for this position is $70,304.00. This position is subject to final budget approval. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16248

Stanford University
Rank: Stanford University Civics Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Call for applications: Stanford University Civics Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship

Review of applications begins February 16, 2026.

The Stanford University Political Science Department seeks to appoint up to two postdoctoral fellows, funding permitting, for the 2026-2027 academic year as part of the Stanford Civics Initiative (https://civics.stanford.edu/). Fellows will teach, conduct their own research, and participate in the intellectual community of the department and the university. We invite applications from recent Ph.D. recipients whose research agendas and teaching experience focus on political history, political economy, and/or the history of political thought.

Stanford Civics Initiative
This fellowship is part of the Stanford Civics Initiative (SCI) in the Political Science Department of Stanford University. SCI furthers the Department's longstanding commitment to teaching and research on the moral and philosophical foundations of democratic citizenship. SCI's goals are to strengthen, expand, and diversify the community of scholars working on issues of democratic citizenship, the history of political thought and practice, political economy, and political history and to teach a full range of rigorous undergraduate courses on these topics. The postdoctoral fellows will take on integral roles in achieving both goals.

Fellowship responsibilities
This is a combined research and teaching fellowship. Fellows will have one quarter per year free of teaching responsibilities and will teach (or assist in teaching) two or three classes over the rest of the year. Fellows are required to be on campus for the full academic year and expected to take part in the department's intellectual community, including by participating in the weekly Political Theory workshop and presenting their own in-progress work.

Appointment requirements and application details
The fellowship appointment is initially for one year (September 1, 2026 to August 31, 2027) but is renewable for up to a total of three years, depending on performance, funding and departmental need. The expected base pay range for this position is $80,000 and $85,000 annually. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the qualifications of the selected candidate, budget availability, and internal equity. The fellows receive full Stanford University benefits, including healthcare, as well as research funds. Applicants must have received their Ph.D. no earlier than September 2023 and no later than the fellowship start date of September 1, 2026. Stanford University is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer, committed to increasing the diversity of its workforce. It welcomes applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans, persons with disabilities, and others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching mission.

Please submit the following via Academic Jobs Online: https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/31257
· A cover letter explaining why you are applying for this fellowship.
· A statement of your research interests, experiences, and plans.
· A writing sample of no more than 25 double-spaced pages.
· Two academic letters of reference.
· List of classes that you have taught and/or are prepared to teach.
· C.V.

With any questions, please contact Brian Coyne, Advanced Lecturer in Political Science and SCI Associate Director, at bkcoyne@stanford.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16251

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor and Department Head of Public Service and Administration

The Department of Public Service and Administration, Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University, invites applications for a Department Head and full-time, 11-month academic appointment beginning as early as July 1, 2026, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. Successful candidates will be tenured full professors or current advanced associate professors who will meet the qualifications of full professor. Academic Professional Track (non-tenure) Professors of the Practice with substantial career accomplishments will also be considered. The appointment as Department Head is for an initial five-year term with the potential for renewal. The ideal candidate will have a substantial record of scholarly publications, demonstrated success in teaching, and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations, or associations. In addition, successful candidates will have a record of professional university service, excellent communication skills, and a commitment to working effectively with individuals of varied backgrounds.

The successful candidate will be a forward thinker who can execute a strategic vision to advance the department. The Department Head supervises a Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs, and Administration (NASPAA) accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration, certificate programs in Public Management, Policy Analysis, Homeland Security, Nonprofit Management, and multiple undergraduate degrees in public service and administration. The Department Head is also responsible for fostering faculty excellence in teaching, research, and service. Teaching responsibilities may include contributing to the needs of the department and advanced courses in the candidate's area of specialization, as well as providing service to the department, school, and university.

The Department of Public Service and Administration offers master's and undergraduate coursework for four tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, nonprofit management, and homeland security and emergency management. The School is ranked in the top 10 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from several concentrations to focus their studies, including state and local government; health policy; education policy; homeland security and emergency management; energy, environment, and technology; analytic methods; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow and offers a variety of both in-residence and online programs, and at the Washington, DC teaching site.

Qualifications
For Tenure Review Upon Hire: An earned doctorate in public administration, public policy, public affairs, political science, economics, or a related field (Ph.D. preferred) with at least 5 years of experience in an academic leadership role. Successful candidates will have significant professional, research, and teaching experience in a related field.

For Academic Professional Track: A master's degree in public administration, public policy, public affairs, political science, economics, or a related field and 25 years of experience in a related discipline, and at least 5 years of experience in an academic leadership role. Successful candidates will have significant professional, research, and teaching experience at the college/school level the field or in a related field.

Application Instructions
Applicants must submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio:

Cover letter that discusses approach to leadership, goals, and vision for the department, and an explanation of how your research and teaching can fit within the department.
Curriculum vitae
Personal statement to include philosphy and plans for research, teaching, and service.
Five (5) professional contact references. References will be contacted for finalists only.

For the Academic Professional Track, please submit materials here: apply.interfolio.com/176319

For Tenure Review Upon Hire, please submit materials here: apply.interfolio.com/176325

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. The review of applications will begin on December 1st, 2025 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis until the position is filled.

Questions regarding this position should be sent to Porscha Cooks at BushSchool-DeptHeadSearch@tamu.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16245

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Department Chair
Subfield(s): Administration, Open, Public Policy
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice, Defense

The Department of Political and Global Affairs invites applications for the position of Department Chair (128005). Applicants must be eligible to meet the criteria for the rank of either associate professor or professor. Expedited tenure upon appointment is possible. The start date for the position is August 1, 2026.

The successful candidate will lead a department that offers undergraduate degrees and concentrations in Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Policy Management, International Relations, Global Studies, and Human Geography, and an M.A. in International Affairs. The department seeks candidates who emphasize collaborative leadership and the ability to manage quotidian operations while focusing on long-range plans to foster growth and sustain quality programs.

The successful candidate will prioritize excellence in teaching, have a distinguished record of scholarship, and a commitment to equitable student success. In addition, the successful candidate will have demonstrated leadership abilities, strong interpersonal and problem-solving skills, and will provide advocacy for multi-faceted student and faculty concerns.

A terminal degree in Political Science or a closely related field is required. While the teaching specialization and research are open, those specializing in public policy or pre-law may receive special consideration. In addition, candidates with prior administrative experience—including management of budgets, experience with assessment for learning improvement, and interest in recruitment and fundraising may also receive special consideration.

To apply or for more detailed information, visit https://careers.mtsu.edu. MTSU is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified individuals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16200

Princeton University

Rank: CITP Fellow: Postdoctoral, Visiting Professional, Visiting Professor Researcher

About:

The Center for Information Technology Policy Fellows Program is a competitive, fully-funded, in-person program that supports scholars and practitioners in research and policy work tied to the Center's mission. CITP research falls into the following three areas: Platforms and Digital Infrastructure; Data Science, AI and Society; and Privacy and Security. Fellows accepted into this program conduct research with members of the Center's community — including faculty, scholars and other fellows — across disciplines, and engage in our public programs, such as workshops and conferences. The program offers three fellowship tracks:

- Postdoctoral track: for people who recently received a Ph.D. or doctorate degree
- Visiting Research scholar/Visiting Professional track: for academics and professionals (e.g., lawyers, journalists, technologists, former government officials, etc.)
- Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor track: for academics

Find additional information and compare each track below.

Application Process:

We hire for the Fellows Program each year. Applicants may apply for more than one track. Both CITP and Princeton University place high value on in-person collaborations and interactions. As such, candidates are expected to participate in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

CITP's fellows committee begins reviewing applications mid-December every year. Candidates are encouraged to apply by the start-of-review date, Monday, December 1, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST, for full consideration. Applications received after that date will only be considered if the position has not yet been filled.

Contact information for three references must be included in the application materials.

 Postdoctoral Track **

The postdoctoral track is for people who have recently received or are about to receive a Ph.D. or doctorate degree, and work on understanding and improving the relationship between technology and society. Selected candidates will be appointed at the postdoctoral research associate or more senior research rank. These are typically 12-month appointments, commencing on or about September 1, and can be renewed for a second-year, contingent on performance and funding. Fellows in the postdoctoral track have the option of teaching, subject to sufficient course enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

Most postdocs are matched to a specific faculty adviser. A list of CITP Associated Faculty and the areas in which they are looking for postdocs will be forthcoming below. Please check back periodically as topics and people could be added throughout the hiring process.

Faculty advisers/topics will be listed on the CITP website.

Candidates are expected to have their Ph.D. on the start date of the appointment. The appointment will not be finalized, and an exact start date will not be set, until the candidate has successfully defended their thesis or provided proof of their doctorate degree. Official proof of Ph.D. should be provided by July 1, 2026.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed here.

 Visiting Research Scholar (Visiting Professionals Track) **

The Visiting Professional track is for professionals who hold an advanced degree —such as a M.A., Ph.D. or J.D. — and must be on leave from their full-time job. This includes professors on sabbaticals or journalists on leave from their newsrooms. This fellowship appointment is roughly nine months long and will begin on or about September 1. However, CITP does offer some flexibility between May 1 and October 1. The primary appointment will be at the rank of "Visiting Research Scholar" or "Visiting Professional Specialist" depending on experience. This position is in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

In addition to a current curriculum vitae, research statement, and cover letter describing your background, interest in the program, and salary requirements, applicants to the Visiting Professionals track should provide a breakdown of all of the sources of financial support you will receive during the fellowship. This includes sabbatical funding or financial support from your home institution. Upon hire, written proof of employment, leave dates, and salary must be provided by the candidate's home institution for the appointment period while at CITP.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed here.

Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar (Visiting Professor Track) **

The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor track is for visiting academics who are nationally or internationally recognized experts in technology policy. Appointments are typically for a term of up to nine months with an expected start date in September. The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor must hold a Ph.D. or J.D. and must be on leave from their home institution. This position is in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor is expected to collaborate and contribute to CITP's mission in at least one of the following ways:

- Teach one course related to their research during their nine-month term, subject to sufficient enrollment and with the approval of the Dean of the Faculty.
- Envision and lead a conference or a series of workshops during their time at CITP.
- Collaborate with existing faculty members on research and jointly mentor students or CITP's emerging scholars.

Please include a proposal in your cover letter elaborating on how you plan to contribute to CITP during your term. For example, if you are proposing to teach, please include details about potential topics you are willing to teach (provide a sample syllabus and reading list). If you are proposing to develop a conference or workshop series, please include a proposal describing the series, potential speakers, audience, and output of the conference. Finally, if you are proposing to collaborate on research with existing faculty members, please describe the joint project and potential mentorship opportunities associated with the project.

The Microsoft Visiting Professor track will carry the title of Microsoft Visiting (Assistant/Associate) Professor in the semester of teaching. Their primary appointment will be at the rank of "Visiting Research Scholar" or "Visiting Professional Specialist," depending on experience. Typically, there will be one Microsoft Visiting Professor per year.

In addition to a current curriculum vitae, research statement, and cover letter describing your background, interest in the program, and salary requirements, applicants to the Visiting Professionals track should provide a breakdown of all of the sources of financial support you will receive during the fellowship. This includes sabbatical funding or financial support from your home institution.

Upon hire, written proof of current employment, leave dates. and salary must be provided by candidate's home institution for the appointment period while at CITP.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed at: https://citp.princeton.edu/programs/fellows-program.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/5/2025
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16194

Brown University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Center for Philosophy, Politics, and Economics at Brown University (PPE Center) invites applications for up to three Postdoctoral Research Associate. Candidates must have received their PhD within the past three years.

Postdoctoral Research Associates will pursue their own research, contribute actively to the intellectual life of the Center by participating in the PPE Workshop and other events, and teach one PPE course per year. They will also join the PPE Society's student fellows reading group, fostering connections with some of Brown's most engaged undergraduates. This is a residential position: successful applicants are expected to be regularly present in the office (at least four days per week during the academic term) in order to collaborate with faculty, interact with the other postdocs, and build a vibrant PPE community.

Appointments are for one year, with the possibility of renewal for a second year based on satisfactory performance and the availability of funds. Salary is competitive, and successful applicants will have access to the full resources of Brown University.

Applications should include: CV, cover letter, writing sample, teaching statement (student evaluations if available), and three confidential letters of reference. The cover letter should describe how the candidate's research connects with the mission of the PPE Center.

The PPE Center fosters an integrative approach to understanding the values, institutions, and incentives that shape society. Applicants should highlight how their work combines insights from at least two of the constituent disciplines. Many of today's most pressing questions demand both normative and empirical insight, and the Center supports work that unites philosophical reasoning, political analysis, and economic approaches in a coherent framework. Rather than treating these disciplines in parallel, Brown PPE emphasizes methodological integration — reconnecting traditions that once addressed questions of justice, cooperation, freedom, and institutional design together. In advancing critical thinking and civil discourse, the Center supports rigorous scholarship and innovative teaching that equip students and faculty to understand and engage with a complex and contested world.

Details about the PPE Center's research and pedagogical missions can be found at https://ppe.brown.edu/. Applications received by December 1, 2025 will be assured of full consideration.

For this position, Brown offers only the J-1 visa classification to scholars who need immigration sponsorship in order to enter the U.S. and commence lawful employment under the terms of their appointment.

Please apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/175034

Start Date: Summer 2026
Date Posted: 10/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16177

Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile

Rank: 2 FULL TIME ACADEMIC POSITIONS, PREFERENCE FOR ASSISTANT PROFESSOR LEVEL
Subfield(s): Open, Open, Open

The School of Government at the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for two full-time tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of Assistant Professor. This call is primarily aimed at early-career researchers with an interest in conducting high-quality research and teaching on topics relevant to public policy. Exceptionally, applications from more senior scholars will be considered.

The School of Government is an interdisciplinary academic unit, composed of faculty with backgrounds in public policy, public administration, economics, political science, sociology, law, engineering, and related fields. Its work is based on the conviction that public problems require innovative, rigorous, collaborative, and interdisciplinary approaches grounded in academic excellence.

This is a broad call for applications, aimed at strengthening and expanding the School's current lines of work. Areas of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Institutions and quality of democratic governance
- Social inequalities and social policy
- Crime and public safety
- State management and public administration
- Fiscal policy and effectiveness of public spending
- Climate change adaptation and sustainable development
- Economic and social development
- Technology, artificial intelligence, and public policy

Requirements and Profile

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. (or be close to completion) in a discipline relevant to public policy.
The call is open to a wide range of disciplinary backgrounds, including political science, economics, law, sociology, public administration, public policy, engineering, and other areas related to the study of government and public policy.

We especially value:

- Interest and experience in applied empirical research
- Commitment to evidence-based public policy
- Ability to work and collaborate in interdisciplinary teams
- Prior teaching experience (appropriate to career stage)
- Academic leadership, initiative, and a collaborative spirit

Academic Expectations

Faculty appointments are governed by the regulations and policies of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile and the School of Government, including the University's Regulations of the Academic (Reglamento del Académico).

In general, appointed faculty members are expected to:

- Teach undergraduate and graduate courses in both general and specialized areas (standard teaching load is three courses per year). Spanish fluency is not required at the time of application, but candidates should be prepared to teach in Spanish in the short term.
- Supervise theses or final graduation projects.
- Develop an independent research agenda with external funding.
- Maintain a sustained record of high-quality academic publications and research projects.

Required Application Materials

Applicants must submit the following documents through the application link below:

1. Full curriculum vitae, including a list of research projects and publications.
2. A representative publication, showcasing work relevant to the call (or a core chapter/article from the Ph.D. dissertation for applicants nearing completion).
3. Personal statement (max. 2 pages), including:
- Academic interests and trajectory in research and teaching
- Motivation to join Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile and the School of Government
- Expected contributions to the UC community, in light of its institutional mission (see here: https://www.uc.cl/universidad)
4. Brief academic proposal (max. 2 pages), outlining:
- General description of planned research agenda over the coming years
- Teaching areas or courses the candidate could offer
- How the applicant's work aligns with the School of Government's mission and priorities
5. Copy of Ph.D. diploma, or an official letter from the doctoral program confirming completion of all degree requirements.

6. Two confidential letters of recommendation, addressed to the Hiring Committee of the School of Government. Contact information for referees must be included in the application form. Letters should be sent directly by the referees through the link received.
7. Copies of teaching evaluations, if available.

Additional Information

• Expected start date: Second semester of 2026
• Diversity and inclusion: The Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile is committed to equal opportunity and to building an inclusive, diverse, and welcoming academic community. In this context, women scholars are especially encouraged to apply • International candidates selected for the position must obtain the appropriate visa to join the academic staff

Deadline and Contact

• Application deadline: November 30th, 2025
• Application form: https://airtable.com/appXAkqceBTdmqmoL/pagkrGoMDVnPvz2vD/form • Inquiries: Please contact Diego Gil, Associate Director of the School, at contrataciones.egob@uc.cl

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 11/30/2025
Date Posted: 10/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16175

Tulane University
Rank: Faculty Fellow/Visiting Research Professor

CENTER FOR ETHICS FACULTY FELLOWSHIP APPLICATION NOW OPEN FOR 2026-2027:

The Murphy Institute's Center for Ethics (CE) at Tulane University is pleased to announce that applications are now open for the 2026-2027 CE Faculty Fellowship Program. These fellowships are available to support outstanding faculty whose teaching and research focus on ethics; political and social philosophy; moral psychology, agency and responsibility; philosophy of law; political theory; or questions of moral choice in areas such as (but not restricted to) business, government, law, economics, public health and medicine.

Faculty Fellows are appointed as Visiting Research Professors at Tulane University's Murphy Institute, receive a salary of $70,000, and are eligible for faculty benefits, including medical insurance. While fellows will participate in seminars, lectures, and conferences organized by the Murphy Institute, they will be expected to devote most of their time to conducting their research. ?

We encourage candidates from a broad range of disciplines to apply.?-Applicants must hold a doctorate in philosophy, economics, political theory, law, political economy, public health, or a related discipline at the time of application. Applicants must also hold a full-time college or university appointment at the time of application. Faculty Fellowships are open to full-time faculty at all ranks.

The deadline to apply for this position is December 15, 2025. Applications must be submitted via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174803 ?

Required application materials include a curriculum vitae, a project description of approximately 1500 words (including a one-page bibliography, which is not included in the suggested word count), a scholarly paper, and two confidential letters of recommendation.

Please direct any questions about the Center for Ethics Faculty Fellows program to Dr. Jennifer Beers, Director of Academic and Scholarly Initiatives, at jbeers@tulane.edu.?

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/23/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16165

New York University Abu Dhabi
Rank: Dean of Social Science

The Opportunity
New York University Abu Dhabi (NYUAD) seeks an accomplished scholar and visionary leader to serve as its next Dean of the Division of Social Science. This is a rare opportunity to shape a dynamic academic division at a pivotal moment in the university's evolution. The Dean will lead a vibrant community of scholars who advance foundational and applied research on some of the most pressing issues of our time - ranging from inequality, governance, and social change - within a highly international and interdisciplinary environment.

The Division
The Social Science Division is home to over 80 full-time faculty, including a Nobel Laureate in Economics and a vibrant community of post-doctoral researchers in Economics, Political Science, Social Research & Public Policy, Business Organizations & Society, and Legal Studies. The Division offers five undergraduate majors as well as graduate programs. Faculty conduct world-class research that is both theoretically rigorous and globally engaged, with collaborations spanning every continent and close ties to policy and practice in the UAE and beyond. The Division's research strength is internationally recognized - Economics at NYUAD ranks 4th in Asia in Research Papers in Economics, and Political Science ranks 6th globally according to a recent study. Its faculty regularly publish in leading disciplinary and interdisciplinary journals.

The Dean will have a unique opportunity to capitalize on this momentum: building on the Division's existing strengths in graduate education, interdisciplinary collaboration, and the global and local visibility of its research and teaching.

About NYU Abu Dhabi
Founded in partnership with New York University and the Emirate of Abu Dhabi, NYUAD is an extraordinary achievement in global higher education. Since opening in 2010, it has become one of the most selective universities in the world with a 2025 admit rate of 2.7 percent, enrolling students from over 120 countries, NYU Abu Dhabi has produced 24 Rhodes Scholars. Its more than 370 faculty members include 4 Nobel laureates. The faculty are situated across five divisions spanning Arts and Humanities, Science, Engineering, Social Science, and Stern at NYUAD. They are drawn from leading institutions worldwide. NYUAD's research and teaching are deeply integrated with NYU's global network, offering opportunities for collaboration and mobility across New York and Shanghai.

The Role
The Dean reports to the Provost and serves as a key member of NYUAD's senior leadership team. As the Division's chief academic officer, the Dean will provide strategic leadership for its faculty, curricula, and research agenda, championing excellence and innovation in both research and pedagogy. The role also carries significant responsibility for fostering an accessible and collaborative academic community and for representing the Division's strengths to partners within and beyond NYU.

As part of the senior administration, the Dean must work effectively and collegially with other deans as well as academic and administrative leaders. In addition to engaging with members of the Division of Social Science, they must also be able to work with faculty across the institution. The Dean must be committed to two-way communication, to fostering trust, and to building community at the campus, national, and international levels.

Specifically, the Dean will be a catalyst in addressing the following key challenges and opportunities for the Division:

-Recruiting and retaining an excellent, collaborative, and engaged faculty
-Enhancing interdisciplinary research, scholarship, and creative activity
-Delivering programs that maximize the excellence and societal impact of NYUAD
-Engaging the Abu Dhabi and UAE community
-Cultivating and promoting the values and vision of NYUAD and the NYU Global Network

The Candidate
Candidates should hold a PhD in a social science discipline and possess a record of research, publication, and teaching that merits appointment as a tenured full Professor at NYUAD. They will be internationally recognized scholars with proven leadership experience and intellectual breadth to guide a diverse division covering multiple disciplines. The successful candidate will combine academic distinction with sound judgment and the ability to inspire others around a shared vision, while demonstrating strong leadership in managing, supporting, and developing faculty and staff.

Application Instructions
NYUAD is being supported by the executive search firm Perrett Laver. For nominations or to learn more, please contact NYUAD@perrettlaver.com.

Formal applications should be made via INTERFOLIO, https://apply.interfolio.com/176086.

Candidates are requested to submit the following documents:
-A letter of interest that addresses specifically the leadership priorities and themes described in the profile;
-A current curriculum vitae or resume;

The search will continue throughout the 2025-2026 academic year until an appointment is made, with the expectation that the selected candidate will begin no later than September 2027.

NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We welcome applications from all qualified candidates and seek individuals who will contribute to the excellence and vibrancy of our academic community.

Join NYU Abu Dhabi, an exceptional place for exceptional people.

NYUAD values belonging and respect; such principles are fundamental to the University's commitment to excellence. NYUAD is an equal-opportunity employer. We welcome applications from all qualified candidates and seek individuals who will contribute to our vibrant, multidisciplinary research and teaching community. Multidisciplinary research and exceptional teaching in a global campus community are hallmarks of the University's mission.

Application link: https://apply.interfolio.com/176086

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/20/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 16144

Bilkent University

Rank: Two positions in Political Science and Public Adminsitration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Bilkent University in Ankara, Turkey, invites applications for two positions (see details below). Candidates must demonstrate an active research agenda and a strong record of publication. They are also expected to offer high-quality teaching and training at undergraduate and graduate levels. The preferred starting date is September 2026. Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

Bilkent University was founded in 1984. It has since been a leading research institution in Turkey. The medium of instruction is English. The University is an internationally diverse community with students and faculty. The university offers on-campus housing. For further information about Bilkent University, please visit: http://w3.bilkent.edu.tr/bilkent/about-bilkent/.

The Search Committees will start evaluating the files starting on 1 January 2026 and continue until the position is filled. Contact details: pols@bilkent.edu.tr

1) Open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, preferably Assistant Professor) position in Turkish Politics. Application website: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/POLS2026T

2) Assistant Professor position in Public Policy. Candidates whose research focuses on politics of the policy process will be given priority. Application website: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/POLS2026P

For both positions, please submit your application by uploading the following items at this address:

* Cover letter
* Teaching statement
* Research statement
* CV
* Names and contact details of three referees
* Two sample publications (e.g. articles, chapter of a monograph, dissertation chapters in case of continuing Ph.D. students.)

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 1/1/2026
Date Posted: 10/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16139

Bilkent University

Rank: Two Open Rank Positions in International Relations

The Department of International Relations (IR) at Bilkent University invites applications for two open-rank positions (Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor) to begin in September 2026.

Position 1: Historical Approaches to IR

We seek scholars whose research connects historical analysis to broader debates in international relations. Candidates working in Historical International Relations, Historical Political Economy, and Comparative Historical Analysis, who employ rigorous analytical and evidence-based methods (quantitative or qualitative) are encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to produce world-class scholarly output evidenced by publications in leading peer-reviewed journals, and to contribute to the undergraduate and graduate programs in the department, including teaching the department's compulsory historical survey courses "Diplomatic History" and "20th Century World Politics". The normal teaching load is 2+2, after an initial course reduction for early career researchers.

Application Link: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/IR2026H

Position 2: Open Specialization

The department welcomes applications from scholars working in any area of specialization within the field of international relations broadly defined. Candidates who can broaden our research and teaching portfolio and employ rigorous analytical and evidence-based methods (quantitative or qualitative) are especially encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to produce world-class scholarly output evidenced by publications in leading peer-reviewed journals, and to contribute to the undergraduate and graduate programs in the department. The normal teaching load is 2+2, after an initial course reduction for early career researchers.

Application Link: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/IR2026

General Information

Bilkent University offers a stimulating scholarly environment and a competitive compensation package, including free on-campus housing. Bilkent is an English-medium private university that provides stellar International Baccalaureate schooling options for school age children of faculty and a variety of campus facilities.

Application Process

For both positions, applicants should submit:
1. CV,
2. A cover letter that includes a description of research and teaching interests,
3. Contact information for three scholars who can provide letters of recommendation, to be requested if needed,
4. A writing sample.

Applicants are expected to have completed a Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or a related academic discipline by the beginning of the appointment. The deadline for submission is December 15th, 2025.

Bilkent University is an equal opportunity employer. The Department of International Relations welcomes applications from scholars with diverse backgrounds.

Bilkent is the country's first private, non-profit university, and global rankings regularly highlight its place as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 550 undergraduate students and 50 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, producing high-impact research, and serving the public in general.

Please direct questions about the application process and the positions to ir@bilkent.edu.tr.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16116

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Research Director
Specializations: Economic Policy, Political Economy, History & Politics

The Center for Economy and Society, a division of the SNF Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University, invites applications for the position of Research Director. We seek a scholar to coordinate and lead our Center's research agenda, publishing, and related programming, combining strategic coordination of faculty research initiatives with the development and execution of a cohesive, CES-branded research program. The Center for Economy and Society is a multidisciplinary research and teaching initiative dedicated to reinvigorating debates about politics, economics, and culture and identifying new possibilities for change.

Key Responsibilities: The Research Director will coordinate a unified research agenda in collaboration with affiliated faculty. They will develop coherent, center-branded research strategy and foster collaborative research projects that leverage expertise within our academic community. The position involves leading external communications through conferences, publications, and digital platforms. The Director will represent CES at academic conferences and policy forums while overseeing planning and dissemination of major research initiatives. Responsibilities include managing research budgets and coordinating grant applications for multi-investigator projects. The role focuses on building CES reputation as a leading voice in political economy. The position includes teaching responsibilities in the Moral and Political Economy Program and capacity to continue an aligned personal research program.

Qualifications: PhD in history, economics, sociology, political science, or closely-related field required. Candidates must demonstrate a track record of high-impact research and publication. We seek applicants with experience in research coordination or program management and strong communication skills for both academic and non-academic audiences. Candidates should show proven collaborative abilities and experience with digital communication platforms. Preferred qualifications include research center leadership experience and methodological flexibility across qualitative and quantitative approaches. We value grant writing success, policy engagement experience, and interdisciplinary collaboration background. The successful candidate will be appointed on the Research Professor track (open rank).

Please submit a cover letter outlining your vision for research leadership and alignment with CES mission (up to 2 pages), a CV, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation online via Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/175740. Review of applications will begin on November 17, 2025 and remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16126

Florida Gulf Coast University
Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Political Science with specialization in Judicial Politics and/or Public Law, broadly defined. The successful candidate will teach lower and upper-level courses in an undergraduate Political Science program; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned. The position is open regarding secondary subfield in political science and geographic concentration.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full job description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/eaglejobs/job/Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0006842

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16032

Florida Gulf Coast University
Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Public Administration. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses in an online Master of Public Administration program and contribute to the department's undergraduate program in Political Science; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Public Administration or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full position description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/eaglejobs/job/Assistant-Professor--Public-Administration_R0006855

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16033

Wabash College
Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar in Residence

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men located in Crawfordsville, Indiana, seeks applicants to fill a Post-doctoral Scholar-in-Residence position to be housed in the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism.

The Post-doctoral Scholar-in-Residencies are residential fellowships that support full-time research and publication efforts. The duration of the appointment is one academic year with the possibility of renewal for a second-year term.

The disciplinary field, project design, and research approach are open. Successful applicants will have an interest in engaging with our students and participating in the intellectual life of the College and Institute during the fellowship. Applicants will propose a project that contributes to one or more of the subject areas and research topics of particular interest to the Stephenson Institute's mission:

- The institutional and cultural conditions of individual rights and legal equality
- Free inquiry, free expression, free speech, and the market-place of ideas
- The relationship(s) between market economies and government intervention
- The role of personal responsibility in a free society
- Comparative and historical investigations of differing property rights regimes
- Comparative political economy and comparative political philosophy

Applicants are invited in their proposals to offer other ideas for how they might contribute to the Institute's programming and areas of student engagement. While the primary focus of the position is research, any Scholar-in-Residence will also contribute to campus conversations via participation in Institute programming. There are no formal teaching expectations, but candidates who desire to teach a course should indicate that interest in their materials. A teaching placement is at the full discretion of the relevant academic department.

Preferred start date is July 1, 2026. This position provides salary, benefits, office space, relocation costs, and a generous fund to support research, travel, and related needs. Salary will be commensurate with relevant experience and academic field.

About Wabash College and the Stephenson Institute
Wabash College is a private, independent, residential four-year liberal arts college for men located in Crawfordsville, Indiana. Founded in 1832, its mission is to "educate men to think critically, act responsibly, lead effectively, and live humanely." Our 92-acre wooded campus is located 50 miles west of Indianapolis and three hours from Chicago.

Established in 2021, the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism is a non-partisan academic research center. We provide teaching, learning, and research opportunities for motivated students and faculty at Wabash College and beyond whom share an interest in the operations and implications of a free society.
In the midst of a strategic transformation to advance the success of first-generation students and students from low-income families, Wabash College is committed to attracting and effectively supporting faculty and staff with a demonstrated commitment to supporting student success. Approximately 25% of our students are federal Pell Grant recipients, one-third are first-generation college students, and about 20% identify as domestic students of color. Wabash is a top-50 Liberal Arts College according to U.S. News and is a member of Colleges That Change Lives.

Qualifications
Applicants for the Postdoctoral Scholar-in-Residence position should have a terminal degree in their academic field, and be no further than four years since completion of a Ph.D.

To apply, go to https://www.wabash.edu/employment/, select the Stephenson Institute Postdoctoral Scholar-in-Residence and click the "Apply Now" button. The application dossier should consist of:

1. A cover letter describing interest in the position and the stated mission and topic areas of the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism;
2. A curriculum vitae;
3. A proposal for the research project to be conducted in residence; and
4. Email addresses for two individuals who will submit letters of reference that address the scholar's contributions to the field.

Inquiries about the positions should be addressed to Dr. Daniel J. D'Amico, director of the Stephenson Institute for Classical Liberalism, at damicod@wabash.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men, seeks faculty and staff who are committed to providing quality engagement with students, high levels of academic challenge and support, and meaningful experiences that prepare students for life and leadership among diverse populations around the globe. Wabash is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applications from persons of all backgrounds.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16034

Princeton University
Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional curricular need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach, on campus, in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory, and accepts applications in advance in the event the occasion arises where such lecturers are needed. Such positions would require leading discussions, attending course lectures, being available for meetings with the course instructor(s), holding regular on-campus office hours, and grading student exams and papers. Any appointments are subject to enrollments and are expected to begin January 16, 2026, or September 1, 2026, with the potential for renewal depending on departmental need.

Advanced degree required.

To apply, please visit https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40421. Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Applications will be reviewed based on curricular need, and the Department may not review all applications it receives. Only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time. You will be required to submit contact information for one reference, but your reference will not be contacted at this time.

These positions are subject to the University's background check policy. The work location for these positions is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

Expected Salary Range: 81,700 - 86,000

The University considers factors such as (but not limited to) scope and responsibilities of the position, candidate's qualifications, work experience, education/training, key skills, market, collective bargaining agreements as applicable, and organizational considerations when extending an offer. The posted salary range represents the University's good faith and reasonable estimate for a full-time position; salaries for part-time positions are pro-rated accordingly.

The University also offers a comprehensive benefit program to eligible employees. Please see this link for more information.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

If you are a qualified individual with a disability and you are unable or limited in your ability to use or access the Jobs at Princeton system as a result of your disability, you can request a reasonable accommodation by calling The Office of The Dean of The Faculty at 609-258-8989 or by sending an e-mail to dofjobs@princeton.edu.

Requisition No: D-26-POL-00005

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16030

University of Missouri, Columbia
Rank: Assistant Professor

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy

Job Title
Assistant Professor (tenure-track) of U.S. Constitutional Law and Legal History

Job Description
The Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy at the University of Missouri invites applications for an interdisciplinary, assistant professor tenure-track job in U.S. Constitutional Law and Legal History. Candidates from history, political science, and joint JD/PhDs are encouraged to apply, though all applicants should have PhD in hand by 1 August 2026. Depending on their expertise, the holder of this position will have an academic home in either the Department of History or the Truman School of Government and Public Affairs. The search committee is looking for candidates whose research and teaching focuses on the constitutional development, public law, and legal history of the United States in the chronological period 1750-1865. A willingness to contribute to student programs at the Kinder Institute is required.

Qualifications:
Minimum Qualifications:
Ph.D. in History or Political Science by time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Candidates should have an established research trajectory, commensurate with career stage, as well as college-level teaching experience.

Application Materials
Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57333). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your cover letter, CV, list of three reference contacts, and chapter or article length writing sample.
The cover letter should include statements on both your research and teaching.

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Kinder Institute Associate Director Dr. Billy Coleman (colemanw@missouri.edu) with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. Deadline for applications is October 22; the position will remain open until filled.

Benefit Eligibility This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15959

University of Wisconsin, Madison
Rank: Assistant Professor

https://jobs.wisc.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-department-of-political-science-madison-wisconsin-united-states

The Political Science department at the University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member at the level of Assistant Professor who will publish original empirical research and teach courses on environmental politics.

Successful applicants will teach graduate and undergraduate classes, mentor students, conduct scholarly research, and provide service to the department, college, university, and academic community nationally or internationally.

The successful candidate, as a member of the College of L&S, will proactively contribute to, support, and advance the college's commitment to equity among all aspects of their teaching, mentoring, research, and service.

"In the College of Letters & Science, we provide a liberal arts education that is both broad and deep through excellent, empathic teaching. We hire faculty who are interested in pursuing difficult questions, making new discoveries, and making an impact in their field. We reward excellent teaching and classroom innovation, and we are committed to shared governance.

Learn more about the L&S mission on our webpage: https://ls.wisc.edu/about/mission."

Apply online at "Jobs at UW" https://jobs.wisc.edu/jobs/assistant-professor-department-of-political-science-madison-wisconsin-united-states. Applications must be received through UW-Madison's online application system. Applications submitted outside the system will not be considered. To begin the application process please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., a cover letter, a research statement, a teaching and mentoring statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will be also asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application; each reference will receive an electronic link through which they can upload a signed letter of reference at the time of application submission.

Applications must be received by October 15th, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/15/2025
Date Posted: 9/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15936

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar - Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select early-career scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year (10 months) and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The fellowships will be awarded to those employed outside the United States who have a faculty appointment or a professional research appointment, and they will be expected to return to their positions at the conclusion of the fellowship. Lastly, they must have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and unusual intellectual promise. Early-career scholars will be appointed at the rank of Visiting Research Scholar.

The program for the academic year 2026-27 will focus on "the Politics of the Archive." Selected fellows will explore the international inheritance of libraries, museums, and archives broadly defined and in any modern nation. Just how have these collections been created? And how are they now maintained, justified, or redacted in light of current politics?

Applicants may also be working on demands for redress for past appropriations. What forms have these taken, and when has curatorial re-contextualization or physical restitution been offered in response to such calls? How might digital technology overcome or reinforce asymmetries of knowledge production?

We will further be interested in considering projects examining instances where collections remain integral to national histories of resistance, or else contest such narratives, even transforming erstwhile heroes into collaborators. Finally, it seems appropriate at the present moment to consider the histories of, and potential for, the forced migration of custodians of memory.

Applicants may address any region of the world, and may be from any disciplinary background in the humanities and social sciences. Applicants must apply online at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40021. Applications are due on November 17, 2025 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. (or equivalent) generally after September 1, 2016. Candidates who are currently enrolled in a Ph.D. program or employed as postdocs are not eligible to apply. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of that project to the program's theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and their ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information, see: https://funggfp.princeton.edu/applications.

The following items must be submitted by the applicant, in English, by November 17, 2025:

- Cover letter (1.5 pages maximum)
- Curriculum Vitae (including publications)
- Research proposal (maximum of 3 pages, single spaced)
- One writing sample (article or book chapter, maximum of 50 pages)
- The names and email addresses for three referees, who will be contacted automatically by the online application system with an invitation to upload their letter of recommendation to the system by the application deadline. (Please note: all letters of reference should be submitted by your referees before the November 17, 2025 deadline.)

Should an offer be made, successful candidates who hold faculty appointments or professional research appointments will be required to submit an official letter from their current employer affirming that they would be permitted to accept the offer and to spend the academic year at Princeton University.

The work location for these positions is in-person, on campus at Princeton University.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/17/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15890

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description
The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

University of California, Santa Cruz
Rank: Legal Studies Program Teaching Professor

The Legal Studies Program at the University of California, Santa Cruz (UCSC) invites applications for the position of Teaching Professor (open-rank) in Legal Studies. The successful candidate will be a faculty member in the Politics Department and have primary teaching responsibilities in the Legal Studies Program.

The Legal Studies Program offers an interdisciplinary undergraduate major, administered by the Politics Department, which seeks to integrate the study of law and legal issues through the contributions and insights of the diverse disciplines of the social sciences and humanities. While the specialization is open, we welcome candidates in law and society whose education, professional activities, and teaching combine law and policy from a comparative or international perspective, or with a focus on the United States.

The selected candidate will offer six courses per year across three quarters, including a mix of introductory and upper-division lectures, core courses, electives, and seminars. The teaching professor will also mentor undergraduates in Legal Studies, sustain research or other professional activity, and contribute service to the Legal Studies Program and the wider profession. The teaching professor may have the opportunity to serve on PhD committees in Politics and, if they wish, teach up to two courses for additional compensation during Summer Session.

UC Santa Cruz is a Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI) and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI) with a high proportion of first-generation students. We welcome candidates who understand the historical barriers that exist in higher education and who can clearly articulate how their teaching, mentoring, creative/professional activity, and service contribute towards building a just scholarly community.

The Assistant Teaching Professor title confers the rights and responsibilities of membership in the UCSC and UC Academic Senates. Appointees to this title are eligible for promotion to Security of Employment, which is analogous to tenure. The Associate Teaching Professor and Teaching Professor titles confer the rights and responsibilities of membership in the UCSC and UC Academic Senates, and appointees to these titles have Security of Employment which is analogous to tenure.

Qualifications

Basic qualifications (required at the time the application is submitted) JD/PhD or PhD in legal studies, law, law and society, political science, or a related field in the social sciences or humanities. Equivalent foreign degrees are applicable. For applicants to the Assistant Teaching Professor rank, your application materials must document that your projected date for completing your degree will be on or before June 30, 2026.

Demonstrated record of teaching that includes a minimum of one year of college-level teaching (three quarters or two semesters) in legal studies, law, law and society, political science, or a related field in the social sciences or humanities.

Professional and/or scholarly record that includes publications; grants; awards; fellowships; organizing workshops; and/or participation in conferences, workshops, or summer schools.

Your application must document that you meet all basic qualifications at the time of submission. There are no exceptions to this requirement.

Application Requirements

Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

Cover Letter

Teaching Statement - Statement of teaching experience, interests, and plans appropriate for the students at UC Santa Cruz . Refer to the teaching statement guidelines and evaluation criteria.

Statement of Professional Activity and/or Scholarly Activity - A statement that summarizes your professional and research/creative activities and plans relevant to the advertised position.

Sample Course Syllabus (1 required)
Sample Course Syllabus (1 of 2 optional) (Optional)
Sample Course Syllabus (2 of 2 optional) (Optional)

Course Evaluations (1 required)
Course Evaluations (1 of 2 optional) (Optional)
Course Evaluations (2 of 2 optional) (Optional)

Reference requirements

3-5 required (contact information only)
Applicants must provide the names and contact information of their references (a minimum of three [3] are required and a maximum of five [5] will be accepted). The hiring unit will request confidential letters* from the references of those applicants who are under serious consideration. Please note that your references, or dossier service, will submit their confidential letters directly to the UC Recruit System.

*All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. For any reference letter provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service, career center), direct the author to UCSC's confidentiality statement at https://academicpersonnel.ucsc.edu/confidentiality-statements/.

Apply link: https://recruit.ucsc.edu/JPF01985

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15750

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor search in Problems of Democracy

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure-track position to begin August 16, 2026. This search is open with respect to subfield. We are interested in a scholar whose expertise can speak to themes of Problems of Democracy, particularly citizenship and governance, as part of an intentional cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Natalie Letsa (nwletsa@sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15738

Texas A&M University
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science, Bush School of Government & Public Service at Texas A&M University (http://bush.tamu.edu/pols) is recruiting 2 tenure-track full-time, nine-month positions which are open with respect to subfields. This search is for the rank of Assistant Professor. The expected starting date for this position is August 1, 2026. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching, and service to the profession. Strong research and teaching interests across traditional subfields of political science will be highly valued. All appointees are expected to be committed to teaching and research of the highest quality. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas was founded in 1997 under President George H. W. Bush's philosophy that "public service is a noble calling." https://bush.tamu.edu/

Qualifications
This position requires a Ph.D. in political science or a related field.

Application Instructions
Applicants must submit the following materials electronically through Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/170762 1) cover letter 2) curriculum vitae, 3) personal statement, (your statement should include your philosophy and plans for teaching, research and service), 4) writing sample (You may provide unpublished works or works in progress if you have not published, 5) three (3) confidential letters of recommendation requested through applicant's Interfolio account, and 6) provide contact information for two additional professional references. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The review of applications will begin on September 1, 2025, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Questions regarding this position should be sent to Carrie Kilpatrick at carriek@tamu.edu.

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement
Equal Opportunity/Veterans/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15730

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY IN ST. LOUIS–Professor - Ordered Liberty Project

Washington University invites applications for multiple endowed professorships from tenured faculty whose research and teaching engage with the principles of classical liberalism, including the rule of law, free markets, regulatory reform, and government accountability. We seek scholars with a strong record of rigorous research, employing advanced doctrinal or empirical methods to explore fundamental questions related to democratic governance, private ordering, individual liberties, economic regulation, and the institutional foundations of a free society. This search is open to tenured scholars across disciplines, including but not limited to law, economics, political science, sociology, philosophy, and business. Appointments will be made at the rank of Full Professor and begin as early as the spring semester of 2026.

Qualifications
For a law appointment, a JD (or the equivalent international credential), JSD, or Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. For an appointment outside of law, a Ph.D. in a relevant field is required at the time of appointment. Duties will include teaching assigned courses, conducting research, writing for publication, advising students, participating in department governance, and university service.

Application Instructions
Application materials should include a cover letter that addresses how their research and teaching align with the goals of the search and indicates the department they would most like to join. Applications should also include a CV and a list of references. Materials should be submitted via Interfolio.

Consideration of applications will begin May 1 and will be considered on a rolling basis.

Please apply via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/166960

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 5/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15582

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Position Description
Professor Hélène Landemore seeks a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2025. Professor Landemore seeks someone capable of helping her conduct research on the ethics and politics of Artificial Intelligence. The research associate will work on various editorial projects (books, articles, edited volumes) and help professor Landemore organize conferences and workshops. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant.

Qualifications
A background in political theory/philosophy is preferred; additional background in computer science, engineering, or economics would be a plus. Excellent organizational skills and editorial experience are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application Instructions
Applications should include the following:

· A cover letter indicating your interest in the Post-doctoral Fellowship
· CV

· One scholarly writing sample (in English)

· PhD program transcript

· Two letters of recommendation (uploaded by letter writers in interfolio)
. The review process will begin April 1, 2025.

http://apply.interfolio.com/164436

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 3/8/2026
Date Posted: 3/8/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15497

Yale University
Rank: Postdoctoral Associate

The Program on Ethics, Politics, and Economics sponsors interdisciplinary teaching and research in the Social Sciences and Humanities at Yale. The program offers two postdoctoral positions to support outstanding scholars starting their academic careers. We seek scholars whose work spans disciplinary boundaries and integrates empirical, analytical, and normative concerns to shed light on substantial social problems.

We welcome applications from new PhDs in political science, economics, philosophy, business, and related social sciences working on furthering our understanding of complex social realities from an interdisciplinary perspective. This year, we are particularly interested in supporting scholars who are examining political economy problems.

The positions allow new PhD's to develop a strong research program in a stimulating collegial environment alongside faculty across the social sciences and humanities at Yale University. In addition to conducting their research, postdocs are expected to teach one interdisciplinary undergraduate seminar, be available to meet undergraduate students of the EP&E major, and assist with advising majors on their senior essays.

Positions are for one year, renewable to two, at a salary of $70,000 with Yale health benefits. Applicants should have completed PhD requirements by September 2025.

Applications should include the following:

· A cover letter indicating your interest in the Post-doctoral Fellowship

· CV

· Job Market Paper or at least one scholarly writing sample (in English)

· PhD program transcript

· A preliminary syllabus for an interdisciplinary undergraduate course that integrates material from at least two of the following: Political Science, Economics, and Ethics.

· Two letters of recommendation (uploaded by letter writers in interfolio) Please submit application materials electronically to Interfolio at http://apply.interfolio.com/160735. The review process will begin January 5, 2025. We will continue to accept applications until the position has been filled. Please direct inquiries to Ana De La O, Director of Ethics, Politics, and Economics, ana.delao@yale.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: 12/12/2025
Date Posted: 12/12/2024
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15282

OTHER

London School of Economics
Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

Based in the Department of Government, the post holder will contribute to the intellectual life of the School through conducting and publishing outstanding quality research, engaging in high quality teaching as instructed by the Head of Department, and participating in the School and wider Department activities.

Full details of the post and application pack are available on the following link: https://jobs.lse.ac.uk/Vacancies/W/6630/0/460795/15539/assistant-professor-in-political-science

The job description is as follows:

Research:
Conducting substantive research into complex problems, ideas, concepts or theories and applying appropriate methodologies.
Developing and carrying forward a coherent research strategy in their discipline which has national and international impact.
Developing a body of outstanding quality publications in well regarded peer reviewed outlets.
Initiating and developing links with internal contacts such as academics in interdisciplinary departments/institutes/centres, external contacts at other educational institutions, employers and professional organisations to actively foster collaboration.
Presenting research and giving invited papers at national and international conferences.
Acting as a reviewer for academic journals.
Providing academic leadership at conferences and raising the profile of LSE research.
Providing expert opinion and commentary to external audiences and organisations.

Teaching:
Contributing to the intellectual life of the School by engaging in high quality core teaching.
Contributing to the monitoring and enhancement of quality in teaching within the department.
Actively seeking and pursuing training in teaching technology and practice, for example by undertaking the PGCertHE to associate level.
Teaching and examining undergraduate and masters level students.
Acting as personal adviser and providing pastoral care.
Supervising PhD students (but not sole supervisory responsibility for research students whilst pre-Interim Review).
Developing innovative and attractive courses, shaping and influencing curriculum development and actively contributing to the review of courses in accordance with departmental strategy.
Supervising hourly-paid teachers, including organising and delegating work, arranging induction and providing training and guidance.
Actively contributing to departmental teaching administration.

Activities relating to departmental administration and management and/or School-wide service:
Fostering departmental collegiality and fulfilling individual responsibilities as set out by the Head of Department and/or other senior colleagues.
Actively contributing to the intellectual life of the department and to the work of the School overall, for example:
Attending and participating in departmental meetings.

Acting as a member of and/or chairing departmental, inter-departmental or School committees, e.g. exam boards and sub-boards.
Participating in departmental hiring searches and making shortlisting recommendations for new members of academic staff.
Liaising with central and departmental administration across the School to resolve issues concerning programme development, student welfare and examinations etc.
Engaging with external institutions, organisations and the wider community to support research, teaching and School strategic objectives.

To apply for this post, please go to www.jobs.lse.ac.uk.
If you have any technical queries with applying on the online system, please use the "contact us" links at the bottom of the LSE Jobs page. Should you have any queries about the role, please email gov.hod@lse.ac.uk

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/4/2026
Date Posted: 11/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16259

University of Virginia

Rank: Jefferson Scholars Foundation Endowed Professorships in Constitutionalism, Democracy and Political Economy

Jefferson Scholars Foundation Endowed Professorships in Constitutionalism, Democracy & Political Economy
University of Virginia
Charlottesville, VA

"This institution of my native state, the hobby of my old age, will be based on the illimitable freedom of the human mind to explore and to expose every subject susceptible of its contemplation."
– Thomas Jefferson

The College and Graduate School of Arts & Sciences at the University of Virginia invites applications and nominations for two recently established endowed professorships:

The Melville Foundation Jefferson Scholars Foundation Distinguished University Professorship
The Jefferson Scholars Foundation Distinguished Professorship in Political Economy, Law & Democracy

These Jefferson Scholars Endowed Professorships, supported by the Jefferson Scholars Foundation, represent among the highest honors conferred upon UVA faculty. UVA seeks innovative and collaborative academic leaders who are eager to consolidate and build on the University of Virginia's premier position among American universities in research and teaching on democracy and the legal and institutional foundations of liberal societies. The endowed professors will join a community of exceptional scholars of democracy and the American political tradition, found across the University, and will benefit from UVA's rich historical and cultural endowment.

The endowed professors will anchor a planned expansion of the Program on Constitutionalism and Democracy (PCD). As a public institution founded by Thomas Jefferson, UVA has long embraced its mission of forming free and thoughtful citizen leaders through a liberal arts formation. The PCD reflects this commitment by supporting scholarship and teaching on the philosophical foundations of republican constitutionalism and liberal democratic government, as well as the development of the American political system.

Successful candidates will be eminent scholars in the humanities or social sciences with established records of excellence in research and teaching in one or more of the following areas: history of democracy; republican constitutionalism; contemporary North Atlantic democracies; and/or liberal traditions of political thought and practice. Applications and inquiries are invited from scholars who study the philosophical, legal, religious, scientific, sociological, literary, or artistic dimensions of liberal democratic government and/or American civic life. We are particularly interested in candidates who engage in public scholarship on the development of American political traditions and their future possibilities. In addition to a record of recognized excellence in research and scholarship, successful candidates will have a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate education.

The University of Virginia has engaged Issacson, Miller to assist in this search. Inquiries, nominations, referrals, and applications should be sent in confidence via: https://apptrkr.com/6752000.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16262

Fairfield University

Rank: Professor of the Practice, Sociology and Anthropology

The Master of Public Administration Program and the Sociology and Anthropology Department, in the Meditz College of Arts and Sciences at Fairfield University, invite applications for a full-time Professor of the Practice (POP) in public administration with expertise in nonprofit leadership/organizations. Areas of specialization include but are not limited to nonprofit management, policy implementation & program evaluation, and strategic planning. The appointment begins in September 2026, pending final budgetary approval.

Position Description
- Teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels, including the graduate course in Nonprofit Management as a primary responsibility.
- Teach one course in Sociology per semester at the undergraduate level as a primary responsibility.
- Offer additional courses in the MPA program and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology as needed.
- Teach in a variety of formats: The MPA program is a fully online, asynchronous program, while undergraduate courses are face-to-face on campus.
- Assist the MPA director with recruitment, student advising, and other program needs.

Successful candidates will demonstrate teaching effectiveness in both online and in-person environments. Demonstrated commitment to mentoring students and engaging with a diverse community of learners is a plus.

The teaching load is 4 courses each semester (3 credit hours each). Class sizes are intentionally small to support meaningful student engagement. Faculty have access to professional development opportunities through Fairfield University's Center for Academic Excellence and other campus resources. The salary and the benefits for the position are highly competitive for the New England/Northeast region of the United States.

Qualifications
- Required: MPA, MA in Sociology, or an advanced degree in a closely related field.
- Preferred: PhD in Sociology, Political Science, or related social science
- Preferred: Experience in Nonprofit Management

Additional Information: The Sociology and Anthropology department consists of nine full-time faculty members and two professors of the practice representing a range of specialties in Sociology, Anthropology, and related programs at Fairfield University, including Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies, American Studies, Black Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Health Studies, Humanitarian Action, and International Studies. Our department colleagues offer courses in all of the Magis Core signature elements and are active in Community Engaged Learning and Research. We also work closely with the Fredrickson Family Innovation Lab in their growing work on social science research, data analysis, and visualization.

The MPA Program currently includes 7 part-time and 1 full-time faculty members and also oversees the Graduate Certificate in Nonprofit Management and the undergraduate Public Administration minor. The MPA program attracts a wide range of students, including nonprofit and government professionals, career changers, and traditional graduate students who are preparing for leadership roles in public service.
Fairfield University is a comprehensive, co-educational, Jesuit Catholic university with a 200-acre campus located in the scenic shoreline community of Fairfield, CT, one hour from New York City. In academic year 2022-2023, Fairfield University moved into the U.S. News and World Report's National Universities category. Consistently ranked as a top comprehensive university in New England, Fairfield enrolls approximately 5,400 undergraduate and 1,300 graduate students pursuing degrees within five schools: the John Charles Meditz College of Arts and Sciences, the Charles F. Dolan School of Business, the School of Engineering, the Marion Peckham Egan School of Nursing and Health Studies, and the School of Education and Human Development. As an expression of our Jesuit identity, Fairfield embraces a liberal, humanistic approach to education, encouraging critical thinking, cultivating free and open inquiry, and fostering ethical values.

Fairfield University provides equal employment opportunities to all employees and applicants for employment and prohibits discrimination and harassment of any type without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, national origin, disability status, genetics, protected veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or any other characteristic protected by federal, state or local laws. This policy applies to all terms and conditions of employment, including recruiting, hiring, placement, promotion, termination, layoff, recall, transfer, leaves of absence, compensation, and training.

Application Instructions:
Review of applications will begin January 10th. Please click "https://ffd.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/EmploymentOpportunities/details/Professor-of-the-Practice--Sociology-and-Anthropology_JR0003025-1 and submit the following materials:
- a cover letter
- a curriculum vitae
- a statement of teaching philosophy and interests
- unofficial graduate transcript
- names and contact information of three reviewers

Candidates on the shortlist will be contacted to submit:
- Three letters of recommendation

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/20/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 16244

University of California, Riverside
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Mass Behavior

The Department of Political Science at the University of California, Riverside, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in the field of Mass Political Behavior. We seek a scholar with an active research agenda and teaching interests. While we are open to all substantive areas of mass political behavior, we especially encourage applications from candidates whose research addresses Race and Ethnic Politics (REP), public opinion, and/or mass behavior in comparative contexts including but not limited to Asia or the Middle East.

The successful candidate should be committed to excellence in undergraduate and graduate education and have a record or promise of research publications. The candidate should also be committed to teaching and mentoring that will enhance the work of the department and support a diverse student body. Faculty in the University of California are expected to engage in research, teaching, . and service. The typical course load is four classes over the academic year. A PhD in Political Science or related field will be required by the start of appointment; 7/1/26, candidates who are ABD at the time of application will be considered.

Applications must be submitted electronically via the UC Recruit system aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF02196. Complete applications must include: a cover letter of interest, an updated CV, a research statement, a writing sample, teaching evidence or evaluations, and 3 letters of recommendation. Review of applications will commence on January 21, 2026 and will continue until filled. Applications received on or before January 21 will receive full consideration. Only complete applications will be reviewed by the committee.

Applicants who use Interfolio may utilize a feature provided by the Interfolio Service to allow Interfolio to upload their letters directly into AP Recruit. Applicants can input an Interfolio-generated email address in place of their letter writer's email address. Interfolio refers to this as Online Application Deliveries. The following link on the Interfolio website shows how to set this up http://www.interfolio.com/help-center/.
The University of California values salary transparency and reports salaries annually in the UC Annual Wage Database. The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment. See Table(s) https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2025-26/policy-covered-october-2025-scales/t1.pdf. Salary ranges for this position are $80,800 - $104,700. "Off-scale salaries" and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive condition.

Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input.

Questions should be directed to Search Chair Jennifer Merolla jennifer.merolla@ucr.edu

UCR is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse undergraduate student body. Its mission is explicitly linked to providing routes to educational success for underrepresented and first-generation college students. A commitment to this mission is a preferred qualification.

As a condition of employment, the finalist will be required to disclose if they are subject to any final administrative or judicial decisions within the last seven years determining that they committed any misconduct, are currently being investigated for misconduct, left a position during an investigation for alleged misconduct, or have filed an appeal with a previous employer.

"Misconduct" means any violation of the policies or laws governing conduct at the applicant's previous place of employment, including, but not limited to, violations of policies or laws prohibiting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other forms of harassment, discrimination, dishonesty, or unethical conduct, as defined by the employer.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/21/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16250

University of Mississippi
Rank: Chair

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi is seeking applicants for the position of department chair. Public Policy Leadership is an interdisciplinary unit, including public policy, philosophy, geography, political science and more. The ideal candidate will have a PhD in Public Policy or a closely related field, and an excellent record of teaching, research, and academic leadership. The successful candidate must be tenurable as an Associate or Full Professor. Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their vision for the department and their qualifications for the job, c.v., and other supporting material they think appropriate. References will be checked for interviewed candidates. Start date will be July 1, 2026. Apply online at https://jobs.olemiss.edu.

The department offers a selective B.A. degree, providing a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making, the ethical imperatives of leadership, critical thinking and communication skills required for careful policy analysis. See https://olemiss.edu/ppl for more information.

Appointment: 12 months

Interview Requirements: Any candidate who is called for an interview must notify the Department of Equal Opportunity/Regulatory Compliance in writing of any reasonable accommodation needed prior to the date of the interview.

About the University of MS & Oxford, MS
The University of Mississippi welcomes international applicants. However, due to current federal regulations, we are unable to sponsor new H-1B petitions that request consular notification, port of entry notification, or pre-flight inspection. Candidates already in the United States who hold valid work authorization or are eligible for an H-1B transfer or change of status remain eligible for consideration. Candidates in other visa statuses who are in the United States, including, but not limited to, F/OPT, J, O-1, TN, and E-3, remain eligible for consideration.

Founded in 1848, the University of Mississippi (UM), affectionately known to alumni, students and friends as Ole Miss, is Mississippi's flagship university. Included in the elite group of R-1: Doctoral Universities - Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification, it has a long history of producing leaders in public service, academics and business. The University of Mississippi, consistently named by The Chronicle of Higher Education as a "Great College to Work For," is located in Oxford, MS, which is ranked one of the "Top 10 Best College Towns." With more than 24,000 students, UM is the state's largest university and is ranked among the nation's fastest-growing institutions. The University of Mississippi, which has aggressively implemented many health and wellness initiatives for its more than 2,900 employees, has consistently been named one of Mississippi's Healthiest Workplaces.

Touted as the "Cultural Mecca of the South", creativity abounds in Oxford as musicians, artists and writers alike find inspiration in Oxford's rich history, small town charm and creative community. Oxford is a one-hour drive south of Memphis, TN and is known as the home of Nobel Prize winning author William Faulkner. Over the years Oxford has also been known for offering exceptional culinary experiences and as the home of the University of Mississippi and the Ole Miss Rebels, there is always something here to immerse yourself in. Oxford has also been featured as a literary and arts destination in such publications as The New York Times, Southern Living, Condé Nast Traveler, and GQ. Among other cultural activities, annual events include the Oxford Film Festival, a thriving local music scene, and the Ford Center Performing Arts Series. Oxford is a vibrant university town, filled with unique shops and galleries, eclectic restaurants and clubs, historic landmarks, and comfortable inns.

Background Check Statement
The University of Mississippi is committed to providing a safe campus community. UM conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

EEO Statement
The University of Mississippi provides equal opportunity in any employment practice, education program, or education activity to all qualified persons. The University complies with all applicable laws regarding equal opportunity and does not unlawfully discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment based upon race, color, gender, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, national origin, ethnicity, citizenship, age, disability, military status, protected veteran status, genetic information, or any other legally protected status.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16247

University of Notre Dame
Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

Postdoctoral Scholar

Notre Dame, IN, United States

Part-time

Keough School of Global Affairs

Company Description

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applicants for a Postdoctoral Scholar starting in Summer 2026. We seek talented scholars with a demonstrated ability to do innovative and rigorous teaching and research related to civil and human rights in the disciplines of Political Science, International Relations, Sociology, or Economics. Areas of particular interest include, but are not limited to, global human rights; domestic civil rights especially racial justice and criminal justice; migration; and human rights in the Catholic social tradition.

Job Description

Postdoctoral Scholar, Klau Institute for Civil and Human Rights - Keough School of Global Affairs

Please do not submit your application through this platform - here are the application instructions:

Applications including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and research statement should be submitted through the Interfolio system: \"https://apply.interfolio.com/177620\" Applicants should also arrange for three confidential letters of reference to be submitted via Interfolio. Questions about the position can be directed to \"mailto:amonteve@nd.edu\". The deadline for applications is December 31, 2025.

Successful candidates are expected to lead and collaborate on research projects with faculty at the Klau Institute. Possibilities include: an international race and rights lab, migration research working groups, and new research initiatives related to civil and human rights. At least half of the postdoctoral scholar's time will be committed to research. The scholar will be supervised by the Klau Institute Faculty Director, Jennifer Mason McAward, a legal scholar in civil rights law and habeas corpus, and mentored by additional Klau Institute faculty and its Associate Director. The anticipated start date of the appointment is August 1, 2026. This is a one-year appointment with the possibility of renewal for a second year based on performance and funding availability.

The scholar will lead initiatives related to student engagement at the undergraduate and graduate level which may include experiential learning, research projects, guest lectures, and more. In addition, there may be the possibility to teach one introductory level course for the civil and human rights minor. Competitive candidates for this position will have a scholarly track record with evidence of, or potential for, high-quality research related to the research priorities of the Klau Institute. Successful applications will clearly identify how their research relates to priority areas described above. We encourage candidates with a PhD in sociology, political science, international relations, or economics to apply.

The appointment will be based in the \"https://keough.nd.edu/\", which promotes interdisciplinary and policy-relevant research on critical issues in global affairs, transformative educational programs, and partnerships for global engagement. The Keough School approaches global affairs and development through a focus on integral human development, which is also central to the University of Notre Dame's mission. The Klau Institute, founded by Fr. Hesburgh in 1973, aspires to be a leading scholarly voice in the areas of civil and human rights with a three-pillar mission of education, inquiry, and engagement. The Scholar will enhance the Klau Institute's current capacity.

The University of Notre Dame seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to our Catholic tradition, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. The Keough School is committed to fostering a culture of diverse views and approaches to Global Affairs. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or service has prepared them to contribute to our mission and commitment to diversity and excellence.

Qualifications

We encourage candidates with a PhD in sociology, political science, international relations, or economics to apply.

Additional Information

Applications including a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and research statement should be submitted through the Interfolio system: \"https://apply.interfolio.com/177620\" Applicants should also arrange for three confidential letters of reference to be submitted via Interfolio. Questions about the position can be directed to \"mailto:amonteve@nd.edu\". The deadline for applications is December 31, 2025.

At Notre Dame, we know our impact depends on exceptional people, people like you. We are committed to fostering a vibrant, welcoming community. In keeping with our mission, we encourage applications from all who will help build and strengthen our beloved community. We strive to empower every employee to flourish, knowing your success propels Notre Dame to new heights of impact.

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6727605

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16229

Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory

Rank: Center for Global Security Research Postdoctoral Researcher

Center for Global Security Research Postdoctoral Researcher

Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory

Entry Level | Full-time

Postdoctoral/Fellowship | Livermore, CA | 11/05/2025

Reference #: REF7675D

Job Code: PDS.1 Post-Dr Research Staff 1

Organization: Office of the Director

Position Type: Post Doctoral

Security Clearance: Anticipated DOE Q clearance (requires U.S. citizenship and a federal background investigation)

Drug Test: Required for external applicant(s) selected for this position (includes testing for use of marijuana)

Medical Exam: Not applicable

Company Description

Join us and make YOUR mark on the World!

Are you interested in joining some of the brightest talent in the world to strengthen the United States' security? Come join Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) where our employees apply their expertise to create solutions for BIG ideas that make our world a better place.

We are dedicated to fostering a culture that values individuals, talents, partnerships, ideas, experiences, and different perspectives, recognizing their importance to the continued success of the Laboratory's mission.

Pay Range: $118,068 Annually

This is the lowest to highest salary we in good faith believe we would pay for this role at the time of this posting; pay will not be below any applicable local minimum wage. An employee's position within the salary range will be based on several factors including, but not limited to, specific competencies, relevant education, qualifications, certifications, experience, skills, seniority, geographic location, performance, and business or organizational needs.

Job Description

Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory's Postdoctoral Research Programs provide mentored training to enhance professional skills and research independence for individuals who have recently earned their doctoral degree and are pursuing their chosen career path.

We're looking for a Postdoctoral Researcher for the Center for Global Security Research (CGSR). CGSR was established at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) in 1996 to serve as a bridge between the science & technology experts at the lab and the broader national security policy communities. Given LLNL's mission to support nuclear deterrence, CGSR's core topics are related to nuclear matters, including strategic deterrence, international stability, arms control, and nonproliferation. The Center also conducts work on other topics related to the changing security environment such as regional studies, emerging and potentially disruptive technologies, energy issues, and biosecurity. The five main research thrust areas at the Center are:

Major Power Rivalry and Conflict,

New Regional Challengers and Challenges,

Toward Deterrence Strategy 3.0,

Future of Long-Term Competitive Strategies, and Future of Cooperative Strategies to Reduce Global Dangers.

Complete descriptions of the CGSR thrust areas and examples of the Center's work can be found at https://cgsr.llnl.gov/.

The Center works to achieve these objectives by 1) convening seminars with outside speakers to better understand national policy priorities and national and international developments bearing on the lab's missions, 2) providing analysis and expertise to laboratory leadership in support of strategic planning and to national leadership in policy development and implementation, and 3) advancing thinking about contemporary and emerging national security challenges related to strategic conflict through independent research, workshops, and publications. The Center's work is conducted on an entirely unclassified basis and is multidisciplinary and entirely nonpartisan in character.

CGSR Postdoctoral Researchers will spend their time engaged in research and writing and are expected to participate in seminars and workshops and to interact and collaborate with leading scientists and researchers across the lab. They will have the opportunity to conduct research on the scientific and technical aspects of security topics, as well as to work in collaboration with CGSR research staff. The CGSR Postdoctoral Researcher provides an unparalleled opportunity for scholars to explore complex national and international security problems across the five thrust areas and innovative solutions in a collaborative research environment.

Application Details

Research abstract (200 words max)

Research project prospectus or description of dissertation (1,500 words max, not including footnotes/endnotes)

Writing sample (50 pages max)

Three references (will be contacted if short-listed).

All application updates and attachments should be submitted by January 17, 2026.

Selected applicants are expected to start no later than September 1, 2026

You will

• Conduct research on politically significant national security topics in line with CGSR research thrust areas.

• Meet with your CGSR mentor at least once a month to review and refine your research topic, discuss project progress, and receive general career and intellectual guidance.

• Publish papers in external outlets such as peer-reviewed journals and/or via CGSR's in-house publication options.

• Communicate and present research findings to different audiences, including the laboratory, U.S. policymakers, officials in allied countries, academia, think tanks, or at workshops and conferences.

• Lead or contribute to the organization and execution of CGSR workshops.

• Respond effectively to the needs of CGSR and other LLNL managers with timely, high quality, finished analyses for presentation or publication.

• Pursue independent (but complementary) research interests and interact with a broad spectrum of scientists internally and externally.

• Collaborate with others in a multidisciplinary team environment to accomplish research goals.

• Complete brief quarterly fellowship reports in which you describe your research, writing, and presentation activities during that period.

Qualifications

• PhD in Political Science, International Relations, the physical or life sciences, engineering, regional or area studies, or a related field.

• Experience researching, analyzing, and writing on one or more of the following subjects: nuclear deterrence, arms control, nonproliferation, emerging technologies, cybersecurity, biological & chemical security, regional studies, and energy security.

• Experience effectively conducting independent research, publishing papers (including publication of peer-reviewed literature), and presenting research findings via briefings, lectures, or general presentations.

• Ability to work effectively both individually and in a team environment to achieve results in a timely manner.

• Proficient verbal and written communication skills to collaborate effectively in a team environment and present and explain technical information.

• Attention to detail, rigorous logic skills, and familiarization with advanced analytic tools and methodologies.

Additional Information

All your information will be kept confidential according to EEO guidelines.

Position Information

This is a Postdoctoral appointment with the possibility of extension to a maximum of three years, open to those who have been awarded a PhD at time of hire date.

Why Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory?

Included in 2025 Best Places to Work by Glassdoor!

Flexible Benefits Package

401(k)

Relocation Assistance

Education Reimbursement Program

Flexible schedules (*depending on project needs)

Our values - visit https://www.llnl.gov/inclusion/our-values

Security Clearance

This position requires a Department of Energy (DOE) Q-level clearance. If you are selected, we will initiate a Federal background investigation to determine if you meet eligibility requirements for access to classified information or matter. Also, all L or Q cleared employees are subject to random drug testing. Q-level clearance requires U.S. citizenship.

Pre-Employment Drug Test

External applicant(s) selected for this position must pass a post-offer, pre-employment drug test. This includes testing for use of marijuana as Federal Law applies to us as a Federal Contractor.

Wireless and Medical Devices

Per the Department of Energy (DOE), Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory must meet certain restrictions with the use and/or possession of mobile devices in Limited Areas. Depending on your job duties, you may be required to work in a Limited Area where you are not permitted to have a personal and/or laboratory mobile device in your possession. This includes, but not limited to cell phones, tablets, fitness devices, wireless headphones, and other Bluetooth/wireless enabled devices.

If you use a medical device, which pairs with a mobile device, you must still follow the rules concerning the mobile device in individual sections within Limited Areas. Sensitive Compartmented Information Facilities require separate approval. Hearing aids without wireless capabilities or wireless that has been disabled are allowed in Limited Areas, Secure Space and Transit/Buffer Space within buildings.

How to identify fake job advertisements

Please be aware of recruitment scams where people or entities are misusing the name of Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) to post fake job advertisements. LLNL never extends an offer without a personal interview and will never charge a fee for joining our company. All current job openings are displayed on the Career Page under "Find Your Job" of our website. If you have encountered a job posting or have been approached with a job offer that you suspect may be fraudulent, we strongly recommend you do not respond.

To learn more about recruitment scams: https://www.llnl.gov/sites/www/files/2023-05/LLNL-Job-Fraud-Statement-Updated-4.26.23.pdf

Equal Employment Opportunity

We are an equal opportunity employer that is committed to providing all with a work environment free of discrimination and harassment. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, marital status, national origin, ancestry, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, medical condition, pregnancy, protected veteran status, age, citizenship, or any other characteristic protected by applicable laws.

Reasonable Accommodation

Our goal is to create an accessible and inclusive experience for all candidates applying and interviewing at the Laboratory. If you need a reasonable accommodation during the application or the recruiting process, please use our online form to submit a request.

California Privacy Notice

The California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) grants privacy rights to all California residents. The law also entitles job applicants, employees, and non-employee workers to be notified of what personal information LLNL collects and for what purpose. The Employee Privacy Notice can be accessed here.

For full application instructions and position description, visit https://apptrkr.com/6704297

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/17/2025
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: $110,000 - $119,999
eJobs ID: 16220

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor of Cooperative Extension - Climate Resilient Rural Community Development - Department of Environmental Science, Policy, and Management

Assistant Professor of Cooperative Extension - Climate Resilient Rural Community Development - Department of Environmental Science, Policy, and Management

Position overview Position title: Assistant Cooperative Extension Specialist / Assistant Professor of Cooperative Extension
Salary range: The UC academic salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and step at appointment. See the following table(s) for the current salary scale(s) for this position: https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2025-26/policy-covered-july-2025-scales/t29.pdf. The current full-time base salary range for this position is $90,600 - $118,500. "Off-scale" salaries, which yield compensation that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.

Percent time: 100%

Anticipated start: July 1, 2026

Application Window
Open date: November 7, 2025

Next review date: Tuesday, Jan 6, 2026 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time) Apply by this date to ensure full consideration by the committee.

Final date: Tuesday, Jan 6, 2026 at 11:59pm (Pacific Time) Applications will continue to be accepted until this date.

Position description

As part of the Rausser College of Natural Resources, the Department of Environmental Science, Policy, and Management (ESPM) at the University of California, Berkeley (UCB), in partnership with UC Agriculture and Natural Resources (UC ANR), seeks an Assistant Professor of Cooperative Extension (CE) in Climate Resilient Community Economic Development.

This position will provide statewide leadership in climate resilient approaches to community economic development (CED), with particular attention to community resilience and disaster planning and policy that promote equity and justice within California's rural communities. California's rural and natural resource-dependent communities are on the front lines of climate change, with rural livelihoods increasingly compromised by record-setting heatwaves, droughts, and wildfires. Research shows that the process of adaptation now shapes future adaptive capacity, producing narrow and brittle resilience - vulnerable to novel shocks like COVID-19 - or broad and nimble resilience that fosters robust community responses to change in the future. UC ANR is uniquely poised to support rural residents, workers, and consumers across the state who must adapt to climate change. This position will augment UC ANR's longstanding expertise in the technical aspects of agronomy and climate science by building commensurate research and outreach capacity focused on climate adaptation and resilience within the context of community economic development in rural California, leveraging and building partnerships with relevant internal and external stakeholders.

Examples of high-priority issues for this position include:

• CED across different socio-economic, geographic, and climatic contexts
• State and regional-level CED policies
• Participatory, community-based decision-making and envisioning for CED

• Small-scale manufacturing, alternative productive activities, and ecosystem protection
• Community organizations and innovations that support CED
• Intersections between CED, rural adaptation, and social justice
• Migration effects on CED
• Disaster planning and implementation efforts in rural communities
• Sustainable farming practices, adaptations, and crop diversification in a changing climate
• Political ecology of sustainability transitions in rural communities
• Regional economic connectivity strategies to promote equitable growth in rural areas
• Green energy or material transitions in rural areas
• SGMA-mandated land transitions out of large-scale irrigated agriculture

The successful candidate will provide statewide leadership on Climate Resilient Community Economic Development, with the primary components of the position involving extension and network-building, research, UCANR capacity building, and extramural funding solicitation.

Extension and Networks: The successful candidate will be expected to create a collaborative, multidisciplinary research and extension program inclusive of diverse rural clientele and aligned with UC ANR's Community and Economic Development Program Area. This program should leverage collaborations with state and local government agencies (e.g. California's Climate Change Assessment, CDFA, CA Office of Planning and Research, State Water Resources Control Board, Cal Fire, local agricultural commissioners, county governments), community-based and regional organizations and networks (e.g. California Stewardship Network, California Climate and Agriculture Network, California Coalition of Family Farms, local food policy councils), UC centers and institutes (e.g. UCB Ethnic Studies Center, UCB Labor Center, UCSC Center for Economic Development, UC Riverside Center for Economic Development and Innovation), and

UC ANR's network of CED county-based Advisors across the state. This successful candidate should be well positioned to liaison with California's Deputy Secretary for Climate Change and the California Jobs First] Council. Clientele for this position include climate vulnerable rural communities, including those with limited water or energy infrastructure, those economically and socially disadvantaged, and those vulnerable to wildfire risks and other disasters. Additionally, the successful candidate will be expected to collaborate with Cooperative Extension Advisors working on related issues. Specific extension-related activities of the position might include: developing workshops; writing policy briefs; hosting symposia; planning field days; organizing webinars; drafting technical documents; blogging; and facilitating networking events.

Research: The CE Specialist will establish an active research program and submit original findings to be published in various journals, including (but not limited to): Journal of Rural and Community Development, Journal of Rural Studies, Journal of Community Practice, Society and Natural Resources, Environmental Planning and Management,, Rural Sociology, Environmental Health Perspectives, American Journal of Public Health, and California Agriculture. Other important outlets include proceedings of various conferences, professional publications such as ANR leaflets and manuals, and trade or organizational journals.

UCANR Capacity Building: The successful candidate is expected to provide statewide CED leadership, participating in relevant UCANR program areas (e.g. Community and Economic Development; Natural Ecosystems and Working Landscapes; and Agronomy and Horticulture) and providing leadership within relevant Program Teams (e.g. Labor and Workforce Development; Food Systems, Food Waste, and Business Support; Disaster Preparedness and Response; Climate Science and Ecosystems Impacts; Water Quantity, Quality, and Security; Native American Community Partnerships; Agroecology, Organic, and Regenerative Systems; and Systemic Inequalities).

Extramural Funding Solicitation: It is expected that the CE Specialist will diligently pursue sources of extramural funding/grants for research and extension activities from private, state and federal sources and will work with community groups to apply for rural development-related grants.

Location & Support: The position will be housed on the Berkeley Campus in the Department of Environmental Science, Policy and Management. The successful candidate will have an office and laboratory space on the Berkeley Campus. A startup package will be provided for equipment, computers, and travel needs.

Applicants must be authorized to work in the United States at the time of hire. Visa sponsorship is not available for this position.

UCANR: https://ucanr.edu/site/about-us

Department: https://ourenvironment.berkeley.edu/

UC ANR's Community and Economic Development Program Area: https://ucanr.edu/site/community-economic-development

California Jobs First Council: https://jobsfirst.ca.gov/

UCANR program areas: https://ucanr.edu/site/uc-anr-program-areas-and-program-teams

Qualifications

Basic qualifications (required at time of application)
PhD (or equivalent international degree) or enrolled in PhD (or equivalent international degree) degree-granting program at the time of application.

Additional qualifications (required at time of start)
PhD (or equivalent international degree) required by the start date.

Preferred qualifications
A doctoral degree (or equivalent) related to Climate Resilient Rural Community Development is preferred.

Preferred disciplinary backgrounds include: agrarian studies, rural sociology, geography, environmental studies, political ecology, Latino Studies, Southeast Asian studies, ethnic studies, food justice and policy, disaster justice or other related fields.

Other Preferred qualifications include:

• Evidence of leadership experience
• Strong communication skills to engage with program-related clientele groups
• Demonstrated team-building experience for bringing together stakeholders
• Proficiency engaging in policy and planning
• Experience collaborating with underserved populations, such as refugees, farmworkers, and other minoritized groups.

Application Requirements

Document requirements
• Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.

• Cover Letter

• Statement of Research - Please discuss research accomplishments and proposed plans. This can include, for example, your publication record, awards, presentations, inclusive research practices that promote the excellence of your research, and areas for future research.

• Statement of Extension - Please discuss your extension philosophy, accomplishments and/or proposed plans as they relate to this position. (Optional)

• Publication One - Copy of a publication such as journal articles, book chapters, or other appropriate products.
(Optional)

• Publication Two - Copy of a publication such as journal articles, book chapters, or other appropriate products.
(Optional)

• Publication Three - Copy of a publication such as journal articles, book chapters, or other appropriate products.
(Optional)

Reference requirements

• 3 required (contact information only)

Apply link: https://apptrkr.com/6711817

Help contact: se_ap@berkeley.edu

About UC Berkeley

UC Berkeley is committed to diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging in our public mission of research, teaching, and service, consistent with https://regents.universityofcalifornia.edu/governance/policies/4400.html and University of California Academic Personnel policy (https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/apm/apm-210.pdf). These values are embedded in our https://chancellor.berkeley.edu/about/principles-community, which reflect our passion for critical inquiry, debate, discovery and innovation, and our deep commitment to contributing to a better world. Every member of the UC Berkeley community has a role in sustaining a safe, caring and humane environment in which these values can thrive.

The University of California, Berkeley is an Equal Opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, or protected veteran status.

For more information, please refer to the https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/apm/apm-035.pdf and the https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/1001004/Anti-Discrimination.

In searches when letters of reference are required all letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a third party (i.e., dossier service or career center), to the http://apo.berkeley.edu/ucb-confidentiality-policy prior to submitting their letter.

As a University employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, state, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

As a condition of employment, the finalist will be required to disclose if they are subject to any final administrative or judicial decisions within the last seven years determining that they committed any misconduct.

• "Misconduct" means any violation of the policies or laws governing conduct at the applicant's previous place of employment, including, but not limited to, violations of policies or laws prohibiting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other forms of harassment or discrimination, as defined by the employer.
• https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000385/SVSH
• https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/1001004/Anti-Discrimination
• https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/apm/apm-035.pdf

Job location
Berkeley, CA

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6711817

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/6/2026
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 16221

University of Toronto

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow of Conflict Resolution

The Munk School of Global Affairs & Public Policy is looking to hire the Craig Hunter Postdoctoral Fellow. Of particular interest are candidates whose research examines the perspectives of individual decision makers in conflict resolution, broadly conceived. This might include (but is not limited to) examination of the contribution of historical figures to peace making, the factors inducing individuals towards compromise and tolerance, the relationship between intragroup and intergroup dynamics in building support for peace, and the practice of diplomacy in mediating disputes. While the primary interest is in resolving (potentially) violent conflicts, the position is open to candidates from disciplinary backgrounds that include political science, history, psychology and adjacent fields with a preference for multi-method approaches and a strong commitment to careful empirical research. The fellow will participate in events of the Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice that seek to learn lessons from prominent peace makers.

Area of Research: Conflict resolution

Description of Duties: To conduct research related to individual perspectives on conflict resolution, research collaboration with the director of the Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice, and participation in Munk School events.

Salary: $ 70,000 per year, plus standard benefits

Closing Date: For full consideration, please apply by December 20, 2025 but applications will continue to be reviewed after this date until the position is filled.

Supervisor: Professor Brian Rathbun, Munk Chair for Global Affairs

Expected Start Date: August 1, 2026

Required Qualifications: Candidates must have a PhD, with a strong background in a discipline relevant to conflict resolution studies. Applicants who have received their PhDs within the last five years are eligible to apply, including current assistant professors who have the possibility of sabbatical or other leave.

Application Instructions: All individuals interested in the position must submit the following documents by the closing date to Professor Brian Rathbun, at brian.rathbun@utoronto.ca using the subject line "Postdoc – [Your Name]":

A cover letter outlining how you meet the qualifications for the position

a. Your academic CV
b. A cover letter indicating how your interests align with the mandate of the Hunter Postdoctoral Fellowship.
c. A research sample that showcases your research ability and methods skills (e.g., a dissertation chapter, a conference paper, or a published article)
d. The names and contact information for three academic referees (Your referees will only be contacted once you've advanced to the interview round)

Term: 1 year with the possibility of renewal subject to availability of funds.

FTE: This is a full-time position. The normal hours of work are 40 hours per week for a full-time postdoctoral fellow, recognizing that the needs of the employee's research and training and the needs of the supervisor's research program may require flexibility in the performance of the employee's duties and hours of work.

If you have any questions about this opportunity, please connect with Professor Brian Rathbun, at brian.rathbun@utoronto.ca.

Employment as a Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Toronto is covered by the terms of the CUPE 3902 Unit 5 Collective Agreement.

This job is posted in accordance with the CUPE 3902 Unit 5 Collective Agreement.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons, persons of colour, women, Indigenous Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16213

The American University in Cairo

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science with emphasis on the Middle East (Fall 2025)

Company Description:

The American University in Cairo (AUC) has a rich legacy that dates back 100 years. Founded in 1919 as an English-language university based on high standards of conduct and scholarship, AUC remains a vibrant institution that contributes to the intellectual growth, discipline, and character of the future leaders of Egypt and the region. AUC emphasizes a liberal arts education, with all undergraduate students studying a common set of courses in the humanities and the natural and social sciences as part of the University's Core Curriculum. The AUC Libraries contain the largest English-language research collection in the region and are an active and integral part of the University's pursuit of excellence in all academic and scholarly programs. Located in one of the most interesting and important cities in the world - at the nexus of Africa, the Middle East, Asia, and Europe, and the center of events of the Arab world - AUC is chartered and accredited in the United States and Egypt. AUC is an English-medium institution.

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an assistant professor position in Political Science with an emphasis on the Middle East starting Fall 2025. The position is on a 2-year fixed-term contract. Teaching responsibilities include a combination of courses at the BA and MA levels in Political Science, Comparative Politics of the Middle East, Introduction to Political Science, Research Methods, International Politics of the Middle East, and Comparative Theory. Responsibilities include supervision of MA theses, teaching at the BA and MA levels, and research and service to the department and the university. The search committee is eager to receive applications from individuals who demonstrate excellence in teaching and have an active research agenda. Candidates with experience in and familiarity with the North American higher educational system are preferred.

Requirements:

A PhD is required at the time of appointment. Teaching experience is required. Candidates should have an ongoing research program and publications.

Additional Information:

Priority will be given to applications received by November 20, 2025. The position is open until filled.

Application Instructions:

Applicants must submit the following documents via the online system:

(a) an updated CV; (b) a letter of interest addressing the required qualifications; (c) a completed AUC Personnel Information Form (PIF); (d) a statement of teaching philosophy; (e) copies of recent student evaluations; (f) an example of a recent publication relevant to the position; and (g) letters of reference from at least three referees familiar with the applicant's professional background sent directly to polsref@aucegypt.edu.

Candidates are encouraged to submit their applications by November 20, 2025, to ensure full consideration. The committee will begin reviewing applications after this date; however, applications will continue to be accepted until a qualified applicant pool has been achieved or until the position is filled.

Questions may be directed to: Dr. Nadine Sika, Chair, nadinesika@aucegypt.edu; Dr. Dina Hosni, Assistant to Chair, dina_h@aucegypt.edu; or visit the department's website at:

http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx

Apply Here: https://www.click2apply.net/Dd4Z8ZigVPJGnf2e4Ijkno

PI279656500

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/10/2025
Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16210

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, Space/Politics of Technology

The School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) in the College of Sciences (COS) at the University of Central Florida (UCF) invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning assistant professor in the areas of space, science, and technology policy and politics anticipated to begin August 2026.

The ideal candidate will have a well-developed research agenda on the politics and policy of space, broadly defined. Possible areas of interest include space power theory, governance of space and space commons, strategy and deterrence, the political economy of space technologies, and the intersection of science, technology, and policy in space. The candidate should also be able to teach courses related to space politics and, more broadly, in areas connecting science, technology, and international security at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Candidates will be expected to contribute to the Security Studies PhD program. The instructional duties and service assignments are in accordance with the department's current equitable workload policy.

School of Politics, Security, and International Affairs (SPSIA) prepares students for a changing world, equipping them with knowledge and the critical thinking and decision-making skills necessary to make a positive impact on politics and government at the local, state, national, and international levels. SPSIA offers a Ph.D. in Security Studies, a Master's in Political Science, and Bachelor's degrees in Political Science and in International & Global Studies. It is ranked as the #1 Best Online Political Science Bachelors Programs by Best Colleges. SPSIA's faculty and centers cultivate cutting-edge research and provide expertise that address society's biggest challenges.

For more information about SPSIA, see https://sciences.ucf.edu/politics

The UCF College of Sciences (COS) is the largest college at the university and a powerhouse for the regional and national STEM workforce, spanning the natural, computational, physical, and social sciences and housing centers, institutes and initiatives that serve as hubs for research and innovation. Through sharing and applying knowledge, COS is cultivating pathways for students to solve our world's most pressing and complex problems. With a mission to provide a world-class education in an environment where faculty, staff, and students thrive, research flourishes, and our community prospers, several COS academic programs are among those nationally ranked by U.S. News and World Report, Princeton Review, and others.

For more information, please visit https://sciences.ucf.edu

UCF, located in Orlando, Florida, is classified as a Very High Research Activity university by the Carnegie Foundation. With a diverse student body of more than 70,000 students, UCF is one of the largest universities in the country. The university offers more than 240 degree programs. UCF is designated a Hispanic Serving Institution. For more information, visit http://www.ucf.edu.

Minimum qualifications:
A doctorate degree in Political Science, Security Studies, International Affairs or a closely related field from an accredited institution at the time of appointment is required.

Preferred Qualifications:
Have a demonstrated record of high-quality publications in space politics, space governance and/or in broader areas of science, technology, and international security.

Have a promising research agenda that reflects theoretical creativity and empirical sophistication.

Have a record of, or potential for, external research funding as appropriate for the discipline.

Can teach courses related to space politics and/or in broader areas of science, technology, and international security at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Can teach qualitative and/or quantitative research methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Can contribute to the Security Studies Ph.D. program through doctoral student supervision.

Additional Application Materials Required:
UCF requires all applications and supporting documents be submitted electronically through the Human Resources employment opportunities website, https://www.ucf.edu/jobs/ (job number 44467). In addition to the online application, interested candidates should upload the following materials: (1) a current curriculum vitae, (2) a letter detailing your interest in the position; (3) a teaching statement (one to two pages).

NOTE: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents later.

The selected candidate will be required to submit official transcripts (and, as applicable, U.S. degree equivalency evaluations) documenting the conferral of their qualifying academic credentials.

Questions regarding the position should be directed to Jacopo Baggio, Search Committee Chair, at Jacopo.Baggio@UCF.edu

Job Close Date:

12/04/2025

Are you ready to unleash YOUR potential?

As a next-generation public research university and Forbes-ranked top employer in Florida, we are a community of thinkers, doers, creators, innovators, healers, and leaders striving to create broader prosperity and help shape a better future. No matter what your role is, when you join Knight Nation, you'll play an integral role at one of the most impactful universities in the country. You'll be met with opportunities to connect and collaborate with talented faculty, staff, and students across 13 colleges and multiple campuses, engaging in impactful work that makes a positive difference. Your time at UCF will provide you with many meaningful opportunities to grow, you'll work alongside talented colleagues on complex projects that will challenge you and help you gain new skills and you'll have countless rewarding experiences that go well beyond a paycheck.

Working at UCF has its perks!?UCF offers:

Benefit packages, including Medical, Dental, Vision, Life Insurance, Flexible Spending, and Employee Assistance Program.?
Paid time off, including annual (12-month faculty) and sick time off and paid holidays.
Retirement savings options.?
Employee discounts, including tickets to many Orlando attractions.?
Education assistance.
Flexible work environment.?
And more…For more benefits information, view the UCF Employee Benefits Guide click here.

Unless explicitly stated on the job posting, it is UCF's expectation that an employee of UCF will reside in Florida as of the date the employment begins.

Additional Requirements related to Research Positions:

Sponsorship for employment-based visas will only be considered under exceptional circumstances and is not guaranteed. Preference will be given to candidates who are currently authorized to work for any employer in the United States.

Pursuant to Florida State Statute 1010.35, prior to offering employment to certain individuals in research-related positions, UCF is required to conduct additional screening. Applicants subject to additional screening include any citizen of a foreign country who is not a permanent resident of the U.S., or who is a citizen or permanent resident but is affiliated with or has had at least 1 year of education, employment, or training in China, Cuba, Iran, Russia, North Korea, Syria, or Venezuela.

The additional screening requirements only apply to research-related positions, including, but not limited to faculty, graduate positions, individuals compensated by research grants or contract funds, postdoctoral positions, undergraduate positions, visiting assistant professors, and visiting research associates.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/21/2025
Date Posted: 11/7/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16203

Augustana University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government & International Affairs

The Department of Government and International Affairs at Augustana University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor. The effective start date is August 19, 2026. Please submit application materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=026eaaee-2102-4004-840c-8e8ad42d78b1&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=541370

Responsibilities:
The successful applicant will demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching excellence in a liberal arts environment. The position involves teaching seven courses each academic year: three courses per semester, with an additional course during the three-week Interim term in January.

While the department welcomes applications across the full range of the International Relations field, it especially encourages scholars to apply who are prepared to offer courses on international law and security, conflict studies, and Western/non-Western political theory (to be offered to support our political philosophy minor). The successful candidate will also offer sections of introductory political science courses that contribute to the general education curriculum. Additionally, they will maintain an active research agenda and contribute to university service, consistent with the expectations for tenure.

Qualifications:
A Ph.D. completed by August 1, 2026 is required, with evidence of teaching excellence expected.

Candidates must value interacting with students, faculty, and leadership from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and must also have a deep appreciation and respect for academic principles and culture.

Application Procedure:
Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position has been filled.

Interested applicants are asked to submit the application materials listed below in one document to our career center portal, URL provided above.

-Letter of interest
-Curriculum vitae
-Statement of teaching philosophy
-Statement of research agenda
-Evidence of teaching effectiveness
-Letters of recommendation and contact details for three professional references

If assistance is needed in the application process, please reach out to humanresources@augie.edu. Official website: augie.edu.

Augustana University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Title IX Employer. Applicants must comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act and may be required to submit official transcripts upon employment. Finalist candidates must satisfactorily complete a pre-employment background check.

About Augustana University:

Located in the growing and vibrant city of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Augustana University has, for more than 160 years, provided a strong student-centric education based on its five core values: Christian faith, liberal arts, excellence, community, and service. The institution continues to expand its pre-professional and graduate offerings, while remaining true to its liberal arts tradition. Guided by the Viking Bold: Journey to 2030 strategic plan, Augustana seeks to grow its enrollment from just over 1,900 students to more than 3,000 undergraduate and graduate students.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16198

RAND

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellows Program
Subfield(s): Other, Other, Other

Description

The application period for 2026–2027 is now open. Deadline to Apply: December 15, 2025

Overview

The purpose of the Stanton Nuclear Security Fellows Program is to stimulate the development of the next generation of thought leaders on nuclear security issues by supporting interdisciplinary research that will advance policy-relevant understanding of these issues. Fellows will carry out a year-long period of independent research but will also be given an opportunity to be associated with RAND client-sponsored research (up to one day per week). Within their RAND tenure, fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant studies that contribute to the general body of knowledge on nuclear security. The written product will be considered for publication by RAND. Each fellowship will extend for a full year beginning in September of each year. Fellows will be located at one of RAND's three U.S. locations for the duration of their fellowship (Santa Monica, CA; Washington, DC; or Pittsburgh, PA). Additionally, each fellow will receive a stipend: doctoral students will receive a $66,000 stipend, post-doctoral students will receive an $101,000 stipend, and junior faculty members will receive a $137,000 stipend.

Eligibility

Candidates for the program will be post-doctoral students or tenure track junior faculty members. Doctoral students may be considered if they have a well-defined dissertation topic in the field of nuclear security and are enrolled in a widely recognized graduate program, and must include as part of their application at least three dissertation chapters (that have been approved by the candidate's adviser for submission). Junior faculty at law schools or with a law degree as their terminal degree are eligible. Prior experience will be defined broadly to include disciplines such as nuclear policy, security, engineering, physics, and related fields.

Applications

Applicants should submit a completed application form, curriculum vitae, two letters of recommendation, a personal statement, and a project proposal. In addition, each applicant may be requested to provide official undergraduate and graduate school transcripts from all institutions attended since completing high school.

Selection

Up to two (2) Fellowships will be awarded each year. Fellows will be selected by a committee composed of RAND faculty and distinguished outside experts in the field of nuclear security. Selections will be made by February.

For additional information, please contact:

Anne Stickells
Email: Stanton_Fellowship@rand.org
Telephone: (703) 413-1100, ext. 2900

About the Stanton Foundation

The Stanton Foundation was created by Frank Stanton, former president of CBS, who is widely regarded as one of the greatest executives in the history of electronic communications. In 1954, Dwight Eisenhower appointed him to a committee convened to develop the first comprehensive plan for the survival of the U.S. following a nuclear attack. Stanton had lead responsibility for developing plans for national and international communication in the aftermath of a nuclear incident. Stanton also served as the chairman (1961–67) and trustee (1957–78) of RAND. The Stanton Foundation aims, through its support of the Nuclear Security Fellows program, to perpetuate his efforts to meet these challenges.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 11/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16195

SUNY Plattsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Expected to begin Fall 2026, the duties of this tenure-track position are expected to include instruction of three courses (e.g. introductory course in U.S. national politics, upper-level electives in American political institutions and behavior, and other courses related to their areas of expertise) per semester, scholarship, and participation in department and university service, including the academic advisement of a diverse student body with a large population of first-generation students. The successful candidate may be asked to teach courses in a distance learning format. The Political Science Department is a small, collegial department that offers a wide range of courses in politics and government, preparing our students for a variety of career paths while developing valuable relationships and skills. We are part of the School of Arts & Sciences which provides excellence in learning opportunities for all students at SUNY Plattsburgh through a core liberal arts education. We train students who can think critically, have mastered their discipline, can communicate effectively and are broadly educated. As SUNY Plattsburgh is an institution that delivers challenging and high-quality educational experiences to a diverse group of learners, the successful candidate must demonstrate an understanding of and sensitivity to diversity, inclusion, and equity-minded policies, programs, and practices.

SUNY Plattsburgh is an AA/EEO/ADA/VEVRAA employer committed to excellence through diversity and supporting an inclusive environment for all.

To learn more about this position and to apply, please visit https://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/15623

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/3/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16186

Brown University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate in Climate Solutions, Thomas J. Watson Jr. School of International and Public Affairs 2026-2028

The Watson School for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for a two-year joint Postdoctoral Research Associate position in climate solutions beginning in the Fall of 2026.

The selection process, open with regard to nationality and geographic area of research, is highly competitive. Applicants must have received their Ph.D. since September 1, 2024 or intend to receive their Ph.D. before July 1, 2026. Individuals who are currently – or have previously been – postdoctoral fellows or postdoctoral research associates in other programs are not eligible to apply. Watson Post-Docs will receive a competitive salary, for this benefits-eligible position. Additional funding may be made available for research expenses and research-related programming on campus.

This postdoctoral position offers early-career scholars the opportunity to pursue independent research while engaging with leading faculty across both the Watson School for International and Public Affairs and the political science department. An ideal applicant will focus on topics relating to the political economy of the clean energy transition. The postdoc could help research topics such as: the social reception of new energy infrastructure and stakeholder engagement in the clean energy transition; how states and market actors can work together to finance decarbonization; the politics of climate backlash, obstruction and delay; how climate change affects electrical grids in the United States, Europe, India, or elsewhere; the industrial organization of renewable energy providers; policy instruments for electric vehicles or other modes of transportation; the social & racial justice dimensions of electricity or energy; the diffusion of clean energy innovations; and carbon border adjustment mechanisms or supply chain challenges.

Ability to conduct and write policy-oriented research, as well as academic research, is essential. The successful candidate will have roughly two-thirds of their time for their own research and be asked to spend roughly a third of their time contributing to the Watson School (such as by teaching and/or working on a research project). Applicants applying any type of social science methodology (qualitative, quantitative or experimental) are welcome.

Selected candidates who have not completed all requirements for their doctoral degree by the position start date will be appointed as a Research Associate at a reduced salary until all degree requirements are completed.

Review of applications will begin on January 9th; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced by March 31, 2026 at the latest. Successful applicants are expected to be physically present on-campus. Remote or hybrid working arrangements are not permissible for this position. For this position, Brown offers only the J-1 visa classification to scholars who need immigration sponsorship in order to enter the U.S. and commence lawful employment under the terms of their appointment.

Applications should be submitted via Interfolio https://apply.interfolio.com/176144

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 1/9/2026
Date Posted: 10/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16176

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in Political Science - Artificial Intelligence

The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Miami seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty appointment in the field of Political Science. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor and would begin August 15, 2026. The ideal candidate will be studying politics or policy around artificial intelligence or making sophisticated use of artificial intelligence methods in their research. We are particularly interested in applicants who can contribute to existing university programs in Data Science, Democracy, Public Administration, and Public Policy. Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D. in political science, public administration, public policy, or a cognate field, by the start date of the appointment.

Interested applicants can apply at https://umiami.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/UMFaculty/job/Coral-Gables-FL/Assistant-Associate-Professor-in-Political-Science---Artificial-Intelligence_R100091922 or by visiting the University's Careers Website. Applicants should compile the following into a single PDF document and upload it under the CV/Resume link: cover letter, CV, research statement, and a teaching statement focusing on your ability to contribute to the undergraduate political science / public administration majors through teaching and mentoring activities. Please arrange for three reference letters to be sent directly to the search chair at umpolsearch@miami.edu. Applications received on or before November 30, 2025, will be given full consideration, though the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled.

For further information about the position please contact Dr. Casey Klofstad, Chair, c.klofstad@miami.edu. Additional information about the department is available at http://www.as.miami.edu/politicalscience/.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16179

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Government
Specializations: International Security, International Political Economy, Science & Technology

The United States Coast Guard Academy has an opening for an Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Government. Please see our website for a complete job description and application instructions at https://www.uscga.edu/about/jobs

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/18/2025
Date Posted: 10/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16171

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Spatial Data Science

The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) (https://cosspp.fsu.edu/sdsc/) at Florida State University is hiring two tenure-track assistant professors in any area of spatial data science (e.g., GeoAI, spatial statistics, health, transportation, urban, crime, voting, environment, etc.). The candidate will have an academic home in one of the departments (Geography, Urban and Regional Planning, Economics, Political Science, Public Administration, Sociology) of the College of Social Sciences & Public Policy at FSU.

Application review begins December 1, 2025.

Application link: https://jobs.omni.fsu.edu/psc/sprdhr_er/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_FL.HRS_CG_SEARCH_FL.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST_FL&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=61348&PostingSeq=1

RESPONSIBILITIES

The successful candidates will have an academic home in one of the departments of the College which will be responsible for teaching assignments. Normally, the teaching assignment is two courses per semester during the 9-month academic year.
- Contribute to research and scholarship through high quality publications in top-tier venues.
- Introductory undergraduate, advanced undergraduate, and graduate courses related to some aspect in the candidate's area of specialization.
- Standard service responsibilities with rank.

QUALIFICATIONS
- Ph.D. in any field related to spatial data science.
- Ability to demonstrate clear potential to produce frontier research in any aspect of spatial data science.
- An established record of successful teaching at the university level, commensurate with the rank being sought, and a demonstrated ability to teach and participate in the Department's undergraduate and graduate programs.

OTHER INFORMATION
The College of Social Sciences & Public Policy at Florida State University invites applications for two tenure-track appointments at the Assistant Professor level to begin August 2026. We seek individuals in any area of spatial data science who would work within the newly created Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) under the Directorship of Professor A. Stewart Fotheringham. The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) brings together some of the world's most prominent experts in the field. It currently consists of 12 faculty members and 18 Ph.D. students dedicated to advancing knowledge and practice in spatial data analytics. The Spatial Data Science Center (SDSC) is committed to developing solutions to some of society's most pressing problems in areas such as health, transportation, crime, poverty and the environment through the power of spatial data analytics. To support this mission, the center also has dedicated space and resources designed to foster collaboration, innovation, and impact.

The successful candidates will be dynamic and innovative, with demonstrated commitment to maintain an active research program that will yield high-quality research publications and external grant submissions. The candidates will also demonstrate and value high quality teaching and mentoring at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Contact Info: Stewart Fotheringham - stewart.fotheringham@fsu.edu

UNIVERSITY INFORMATION
One of the nation's elite research universities, Florida State University preserves, expands, and disseminates knowledge in the sciences, technology, arts, humanities, and professions, while embracing a philosophy of learning strongly rooted in the traditions of the liberal arts and critical thinking. Founded in 1851, Florida State University is the oldest continuous site of higher education in Florida. FSU is a community steeped in tradition that fosters research and encourages creativity. At FSU, there's the excitement of being part of a vibrant academic and professional community, surrounded by people whose ideas are shaping tomorrow's news! Learn more about our university and campuses.

FSU TOTAL REWARDS
FSU offers a robust Total Rewards package. Visit our website to learn more about our Compensation, Benefits, Wellness, Recognition, and Employee Development programs.

Use our interactive tool to calculate Total Compensation options based on potential salary, benefits and retirement contributions, earned leave, and other employment-related perks.

HOW TO APPLY
If qualified and interested in a specific Faculty job opening as advertised, apply to Florida State University at https://hr.fsu.edu/facultyjobs.

Applicants are required to complete the online application with all applicable information. Applications must include education details even if attaching a Vita. Applicants must attach to the application:
- Cover Letter.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- Statement of research interests.
- Statement of teaching philosophy and experience.
- Copies of up to three relevant publications.
- Names and contact information for three professional references.

CONSIDERATIONS
This is a Faculty position. This position requires successful completion of a criminal history background check. This position is being advertised as open until filled.

Review of applications begins December 1, 2025 and continues until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16135

Truman State University

Rank: Interdisciplinary Assistant Professor (NTT) in Social Science and Human Inquiry
Subfield(s): Other, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: African American Politics, History & Politics, Social Welfare

The School of Arts and Humanities at Truman State University seeks applicants for an interdisciplinary, non-tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin August 2026. Applicants' field(s) of study/research should fall within one or more of these broad academic fields: African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, Health Studies.

This position is a full-time, nine-month appointment located on Truman's campus in Kirksville, Missouri. In addition to the duties and responsibilities described below, faculty are expected to contribute to the campus culture of the Liberal Arts and Sciences and interdisciplinarity by teaching in the University's core curriculum (The Dialogues) and contributing to interdisciplinary initiatives and coursework as needed.

This position is subject to annual renewal up to three years.

Responsibilities: The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory courses in at least one of the major programs within the SSHI department (see below) and upper-level electives complementing existing offerings in two of the department's major programs OR in one of the department's major programs AND another program at Truman. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach courses to support Truman's Dialogues curriculum, campuswide interdisciplinary programs, participate in SSHI departmental activities including student recruitment, and perform other regular service to the University and community.

Required Qualifications: Appointment requires a terminal degree in at least one of the above-mentioned interdisciplinary areas or one of the academic fields represented in the SSHI department (with a research or teaching background in the interdisciplinary field).

Applicants will be evaluated on:

- academic qualifications,
- compatibility with department and university needs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching introductory courses in one or more major programs within SSHI,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in one of the SSHI major programs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in a second SSHI major program OR a major program outside the SSHI department,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses in one of Truman's Dialogues perspectives,
- evidence of teaching effectiveness, including potential for developing critical thinking and problem-solving skills in undergraduates,
- evidence of experience with or interest in interdisciplinary and/or cross-disciplinary teaching, including interdisciplinary majors and minors,
- demonstrated ability to develop an active research program, preferably involving undergraduates,
- strong oral, written, and interpersonal communication skills,
- commitment to collegiality within the learning community.

Benefits: Truman offers a comprehensive benefits package including life, health, and disability insurance, retirement contributions, paid sick leave, and a stipend for moving expenses. Paid parental leave and a tuition discount are available for eligible employees after one year. More details: https://hr.truman.edu/benefits/.

Program: Social Sciences and Human Inquiry is a multidisciplinary department housing the following academic majors: Criminal Justice Studies, History, Philosophy & Religion, Political Science & International Relations, Social Issue Advocacy, and Sociology/Anthropology.

The University: Truman State University is home to a vibrant educational community. Our approximately 3,000 students thrive in a challenging, yet supportive, academic environment. More than 25% engage in significant undergraduate research and creative projects. Nearly 40% gain leadership experience, and nearly half go on to graduate or professional school.

Founded in 1867, Truman focuses on student learning outcomes and emphasizes high-impact experiences such as internships, research, and study abroad opportunities. Truman has the highest overall graduation rate among the state's public four-year colleges and universities. For nearly three decades, Truman has been recognized as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest regional category by U.S. News & World Report, and Washington Monthly consistently ranks Truman as one of the best master's universities in the nation. For more information about our mission and values and to see additional rankings and acknowledgments, visit truman.edu/about.

The Community: Located in northeast Missouri, Kirksville is a cultural and economic hub in the region. In addition to being the home of Truman, Kirksville is the birthplace of osteopathic medicine and features a medical school, dental school, and community college. The Kirksville School District is consistently recognized for academic excellence. The community takes pride in several annual events including the Red, White and Blue Festival, the Red Barn Arts and Craft Festival, and the FLATS Trail Half-Marathon. The charming downtown area features an arts center, local shops, and restaurants, and it is the site of numerous community events including weekly farmers' markets and summer concerts on the courthouse lawn. Just a few minutes outside of town is beautiful Thousand Hills State Park with hiking and biking opportunities surrounding the 700-acre Forest Lake. Kirksville offers easy access by car to Kansas City, St. Louis, and Des Moines. Daily flights from Kirksville Regional Airport to Chicago O'Hare provide quick access to one of the country's major metropolitan areas. More information about Kirksville can be found at visitkirksville.com.

Application: Applications must be submitted electronically at https://apply.interfolio.com/174717
For assistance with submitting an application, please contact Human Resources at 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Completed applications must include:

- a letter of application that clearly addresses the qualifications and evaluative criteria listed above,
- statement of scholarly activity interests,
- teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy that includes the candidate's commitment to the liberal arts and sciences and student development, and teaching evaluations,
- writing sample,
- current curriculum vitae,
- official or unofficial undergraduate and graduate transcripts (official graduate transcripts are required at the time of hire), and
- names and contact information for 3 references.

Review of applications will begin 11/5/2025 and will continue until the position is filled. If hired, applicants must provide proof of eligibility to work in the United States, official graduate transcripts, or documentation of degrees if transcripts are not available. Final candidates are required to successfully pass a background check. Questions about this position may be directed to the chair of the Department of Social Sciences and Human Inquiry, Kathryn Brammall, at (brammall@truman.edu).

Truman State University is an equal opportunity employer. We do not discriminate in hiring, promotion, or any other employment practices on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex (including pregnancy), age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or Missouri law. We are committed to fair and equal treatment in all aspects of employment. Inquiries about these policies may be directed to the Institutional Compliance Officer, 660-785-4354, and titleix@truman.edu.

Truman is committed to providing reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with disabilities upon request. To request this document in an alternate form or to request an accommodation, please contact Human Resources, McClain Hall 101, 100 E. Normal, Kirksville, MO 63501, 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16131

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Lightning Scholar and Postdoctoral Fellows
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's home for global policy engagement, is pleased to announce the application processes for the 2026-27 Postdoctoral Fellowships and Lightning Scholar (untenured faculty) are now open through December 1, 2025.

Perry World House is pleased to offer two unique opportunities for postdoctoral fellowship.

- The first postdoctoral fellowship (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/fellowship-opportunities/postdoctoral-fellows/) is open to scholars who study global affairs and have interests in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants working on subjects broadly related to Perry World House's thematic research areas: Climate Change, Democracy, Global Justice and Human Rights, and Security. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173254.
- The Borders and Boundaries Project (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/programs-and-reports/projects/the-borders-and-boundaries-project/) is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173258.

The Lightning Scholar program (https://perryworldhouse.upenn.edu/opportunities/faculty-opportunities/lightening-scholars/) brings untenured, but tenure-track, faculty from around the world to Philadelphia for a semester or year of writing, fellowship, and bridging the gap between academia and the policy world. Application information is available at https://apply.interfolio.com/173301.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/1/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16099

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The McDonough School of Business seeks to add to its ethics faculty. We have one opening for a tenure-track assistant professor of ethics to begin in the 2026-27 academic year. We have a strong preference for applicants who are ready to teach ethics courses in the MBA and executive curriculum as well as at the undergraduate level. McDonough's ethics courses are an amalgam of true normative ethics with social psychology, political science, and economics. All contain an experiential aspect in which the students engage in real-time ethical decision-making. We seek a dynamic classroom teacher able to publish research that can meet McDonough's rigorous standards for tenure.

This position I open to recent PhDs in normative disciplines such as philosophy, political science, business ethics, and public policy, social science applicants researching behavioral ethics and moral psychology, as well as to recent law graduates who hold a PhD in a cognate field. Compensation is highly competitive.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to building global business knowledge and inspiring ethical leaders to serve the common good. Known for its emphasis at the intersection of business and global affairs and its values-based approach to business as part of Georgetown's rich Catholic, Jesuit tradition, the school also is focused on how business can be a force for change by addressing fields of the future, such as healthcare, sustainability, and AI and the future of work. The school's undergraduate and graduate degree programs provide solid grounding in all the core management disciplines, with an emphasis on the global, ethical, and political environment of business. The McDonough School of Business has an ongoing commitment to being a community in diversity as a fundamental aspect of the Georgetown community.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE
All applications should be submitted electronically by Interfolio [apply.interfolio.com/175134]. Interested applicants should provide a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, published and working papers, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants can also submit research and teaching statements.

Applications are due November 15, 2025.

The projected salary or hourly pay range for this position is $150,000-$190,000, which represents the full range of anticipated compensation for this position. Compensation is determined by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the candidate's individual qualifications, experience, education, skills, and certifications, as well as the University's business needs and external factors.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: $150,000 - $159,999
eJobs ID: 16054

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows, Liberal Studies, GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Literature & Politics, History & Politics, Leadership Studies

Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows
Liberal Studies
-GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
New York University Arts & Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for two Postdoctoral Faculty Fellow positions to begin September 1, 2026, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

The Liberal Studies Core is a dynamic liberal arts curriculum that provides a global and interdisciplinary foundation for nearly 100 NYU majors. The curriculum emphasizes conceptual and spatial frameworks to trace the movement of ideas and the interconnectivity of material culture, through the study of different texts, histories, exchanges, structures and systems, languages, arts, and writing from early antiquity through contemporary times. Small seminar-style classes and close faculty-student interaction ensure the benefits of a liberal arts college within a large urban research university. We are especially interested in hiring qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching and service to the intellectual diversity and excellence of the Liberal Studies community.

Liberal Studies Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows teach two courses each semester in the Core Curriculum. Fellows work closely with an assigned Faculty Mentor, they attend pedagogy workshops that explore innovative approaches to interdisciplinary global teaching, and they have the opportunity to lead faculty development workshops or host program wide events in their area of scholarly, creative, or pedagogical expertise.The initial appointment is for one (1) year, and it may be renewed for two additional years, based upon satisfactory performance reviews and mutual agreement. Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows are limited to a maximum of three (3) years in rank; they are non-tenure track..

We seek applicants in the following area:

GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to draw on ancient and early modern sources in their teaching with a global emphasis in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary and intersectional approaches from a variety of global perspectives and must have the ability to examine relationships of power and to interrogate the historical roots of current challenges.

Minimum qualifications: Successful candidates must have a PhD conferred by the date of appointment, or have received the PhD no more than three years before the date of appointment. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who share Liberal Studies' commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, and who can contribute to the diversity of intellectual life in LS and NYU. Candidates must present demonstrated experience and commitment to interdisciplinarity, intersectionality, and a teaching approach informed by global perspectives. Commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching required; some college-level teaching experience, and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are desirable.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) and a current c.v. Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), November 15, 2025. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/174370

Liberal Studies sees equity and inclusion and belonging as essential to education and the development of leadership in a globally interconnected world. These values inform LS as a collegial and respectful environment for students, faculty and staff—with particular attention to improving the student experience. To learn more about the Liberal Studies commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, please read here: Global Inclusion. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here: A&S Inclusive Excellence

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16046

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency & Disaster Management

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking a faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track), beginning August 1, 2026. This is a nine-month position with summer teaching possibilities and is for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Political Science, Public Administration, Public Health, Urban Planning, or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management, experience and/or graduate coursework related to Emergency & Disaster Management, and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality.

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:

Application materials must be submitted online to the Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin October 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

Western Carolina University holds inclusive excellence as a core value, and we work together to foster a welcoming community, where all are respected and know they belong. WCU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16027

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor-Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor position in Comparative Politics, starting in Fall 2026. We welcome applications from candidates from all subfields of Comparative Politics and are particularly interested in those whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological training, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication (commensurate with the rank for which they are applying). Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science.

Review of applications will begin October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal:

https://careers.uh.edu/jobs/assistant-associate-or-full-professor-comparative-politics-houston-texas-united-states

The position number keyword is FAC 494806. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, a writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide letters of recommendation only for junior candidates.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

For further information please contact Professor Royce Carroll, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at racarroll@central.uh.edu. Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidate.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/23/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15994

Randolph-Macon College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Environmental Studies--Social Scientist

Randolph-Macon College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Environmental Studies to begin in Fall 2026. The opportunity for an accelerated tenure decision may be available. We broadly seek candidates whose research and teaching focus on the complex interrelations among environmental systems from political, cultural, critical, and/or social perspectives. Ideal candidates are interdisciplinary scholars dedicated to teaching and mentoring students in a project-based environment. Currently, the program is distinguished by its novel and successful three-course, problem-solving sequence. In these courses, students work for off-campus clients to solve real environmental problems. Clients range from multinational corporations to small non-profit groups. Projects and clients are developed to complement the disciplinary expertise of the faculty involved and routinely include a mixture of natural and social sciences. Faculty teaching these courses serve as project managers overseeing the work students conduct.

Environmental Studies faculty are committed to conducting research with undergraduate students. The College's Schapiro Undergraduate Research Fellowships are available to support students and faculty in all disciplines during summer research. The successful candidate will also be eligible for internal research and travel grants and have access to the program's research facilities.

Major/Essential Functions:

Randolph-Macon College faculty teach, advise, conduct research and engage in scholarship, and serve the college and program. Primary teaching responsibilities currently include the three-course problem-solving sequence (co-taught with other faculty), core courses in the Environmental Studies major (including GIS, environmental law, and/or environmental policy), courses in the applicant's area of study, and contributions to general education.

Institutional Information:

Randolph-Macon College is a nationally-recognized residential institution of about 1800 students located in Ashland, Virginia, just north of Richmond. Founded in 1830, the college offers a broad range of academic programs, including a graduate program in PA studies. The RMC curriculum, grounded in a liberal arts core, fosters intellectual growth and personal development, with a steadfast focus on helping students find and navigate pathways through college and to successful outcomes. With a commitment to inclusivity and hands-on learning, Randolph-Macon College provides an extraordinary educational experience – enhanced by exceptional athletic and extracurricular activities and supportive alumni – and prepares graduates for success in their chosen fields and in their lives.

Minimum Qualifications:

• Ph.D. in a social science (broadly defined) with a focus on the environment in hand by August 31, 2026
• Demonstrated effectiveness in teaching
• Evidence of a commitment to undergraduate teaching and student engagement
• Ability to teach courses in core subjects in Environmental Studies, including: GIS, environmental law, and/or environmental policy
• Ability to teach upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialty
• Experience working with students and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical methods that support all learners in reaching their maximum potential.

Preferred Qualifications:

• Experience in project-based learning with real-world clients, preferably through experience in environmental consulting
• Evidence of scholarly productivity in the applicant's area of study
• Evidence of ability to engage undergraduates in the applicant's area of study
• Commitment to collaborative teaching with other faculty

Application Procedures:

Please complete an online application at http://bit.ly/4gFDrwJ. And include the following as a single pdf addressed to Sabrina Granderson, Administrative Services Coordinator. Review of applications will begin on October 31.

• Letter of application that addresses the position qualifications;
• Curriculum vitae;
• One page statement of teaching philosophy;
• One page statement of research goals;
• A brief (one page) statement describing inclusive teaching practices you employ and how you actively support students across a broad range of experiences, interests, and perspectives.
• Transcripts (unofficial and scanned copies are acceptable); and
• The names and contact information for three professional references (at least one must be able to address teaching experience and teaching effectiveness; please indicate the teaching reference in your letter of application). Please do not ask references to submit letters of recommendation; the committee will conduct reference checks by phone.

For full consideration, applications must be received by October 31. While applications may be accepted after this date, it is not guaranteed that they will be considered.
Incomplete applications will not be considered by the search committee. For specific inquiries about the position, contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Liz Burmester (lizburmester@rmc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/13/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15937

University of Southern California
Rank: Postdoctoral Researcher

The Everyday Respect research project (https://dornsife.usc.edu/everydayrespect/) at the University of Southern California is seeking a highly motivated Postdoctoral Researcher to join our NSF-funded interdisciplinary project focused on analyzing police body-worn camera (BWC) footage using cutting-edge AI. This groundbreaking research, conducted in collaboration with the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) and community partners, aims to transform police training, policy, and community relations by developing novel tools for understanding police-civilian interactions.

The University of Southern California (USC), founded in 1880, is located in the heart of downtown L.A. and is the largest private employer in the City of Los Angeles. As an employee of USC, you will be a part of a world-class research university and a member of the "Trojan Family," which is comprised of the faculty, students and staff that make the university a great place to work. The USC Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences is the largest and oldest of the USC schools, USC Dornsife functions as the academic core of the university, offering courses and advancing knowledge across the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences.

The ideal candidate will have a PhD in Computer Science with a strong interest in computational social science, or a PhD in Psychology or Political Science with a deep background in computational methods. You will play a key role in developing and deploying advanced multimodal and multiperspective models, video summarization techniques, and personalized reinforcement learning frameworks to analyze an unprecedented dataset of ~50,000 BWC videos of police traffic stops. The project has already completed several thousand hours of human annotation of these videos, providing a deep and rich set of training data. Our video annotators include both former police officers and formerly justice impacted individuals; their annotations include both subjective and relative objective features of officer-driver interactions. The successful candidate will work collaboratively with scholars from the Morality and Language Lab, the Signal Analysis and Interpretation Lab, the Security and Political Economy Lab, and the rest of Everyday Respect's multidisciplinary team.

Must have PhD in hand before starting the position (ABDs may apply).
Salary range: The annual base salary range for this position is $84,000.00 - $85,000.00. When extending an offer of employment, the University of Southern California considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, federal, state and local laws, contractual stipulations, grant funding, as well as external market and organizational considerations.

Performs other related duties as assigned or requested. The university reserves the right to add or change duties at any time.
Required Documents and Additional Information:

- Resume, cover letter, writing sample, research statement and three letters of recommendation (may be uploaded as one file). Please do not submit your application without these documents.
- Application Deadline: February 1 with applications reviewed on a rolling basis starting October 15.
- Anticipated Start Date: No later than August 15, 2026, with the option to start as early as January 9, 2026.
- Questions about this position can be directed to Benjamin Graham (benjamag@usc.edu) or Morteza Dehghani (mdehghan@usc.edu).
- How to Apply: Please apply online at: https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/postdoctoral-scholar-research-associate/1209/85917817632

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15913

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

Ohio State University

Rank: Post Doctoral Scholar - Traditional Governance in Africa

The Department of Political Science and the Mershon Center for International Security Studies at Ohio State University seek to appoint a Post-Doctoral Scholar in Traditional Governance in Africa under the supervision of Professor Amanda Lea Robinson. This will be a two-year appointment beginning August 15, 2026.

The post-doctoral scholar will work with Dr. Robinson on a research program on Traditional Governance in Africa, which is funded by the Mershon Center. The project evaluates how the history, institutional structures, and political practices of traditional institutions in Africa (e.g., chieftaincies) relate to the quality of governance they provide. The project employs a combination of original and existing data, both qualitative and quantitative.

While the post-doctoral scholar will be expected to devote 50% of their time to collaboration on all aspects of the project, candidates should also articulate an independent research agenda within the study of African traditional institutions. The remainder of the post-doctoral scholar's time is given to developing their own research, publications, and professional profile. There are no teaching or service obligations, although the scholar is expected to be an active participant in both the Mershon Center and the Department of Political Science.

The salary for this position is $63,500. The postdoctoral scholar will also be provided with an annual $4,000 research fund. Applicants must plan to reside in the Columbus area during the relevant academic years, except in the case of project-related field research.

Required qualifications:
Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field by June 30, 2026.
Candidates must be within three years of the Ph.D.
Strong methodological training (qualitative, quantitative, or both)

Desired qualifications:
Demonstrated research expertise in the study of traditional governance
Experience living, working, or conducting research in Africa or another developing region
Interest in conducting field-based research

Additional Information:
To apply, please combine the following materials into a single PDF and submit through Workday:
Cover letter describing the two-year research agenda and how it relates to the broader project on Traditional Governance
Current CV
An article-length writing sample
A list of three references (letters will only be requested for finalists)
The deadline for receipt of applications is December 15, 2025. Virtual interviews will take place in late January, with decisions by mid-February.

To apply:
https://osu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/OSUCareers/job/Columbus-Campus/Post-Doctoral-Scholar---Traditional-Governance-in-Africa_R136287-1

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15884

University of Houston

Rank: Aspire Endowed Professor
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Middle East, International Security, International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for tenured Professor for the prestigious Endowed Professorship in the Aspire Institute for Global Engagement. The holder of the Professorship must be a distinguished expert in the study of modern geopolitical states, employing a rigorous social scientific approach and cutting-edge methodology in research. Substantive areas of research focus might include terrorism, insurgency, civil wars, international conflict, diplomacy, political economy, and consequences of armed conflict. The holder of the professorship should have expertise in the Middle East and/or Israel/Israeli Studies, the history of the conflict, and policies of the State of Israel and surrounding Muslim states in the region.

We are particularly interested in candidates whose research agendas enhance or complement the department's existing strengths. Successful candidates should have strong methodological skills, a commitment to high-quality graduate and undergraduate education, and a record of excellence in scholarly research and publication.

The Professorship is part of the Aspire Fund at the University of Houston, an ambitious $50 million philanthropic donation to launch several interdisciplinary institutes at UH that can bring academic and public visibility to the university. This Professorship will be affiliated with the Institute for Global Engagement, and the holder of the Professorship will be expected to lead interdisciplinary efforts and to assume a public-facing role to share his/her expertise with the community. In addition, the Professor should be a leader in the university's focus on preparing undergraduate and graduate students for careers where understanding foreign cultures, businesses, and environments is a critical skill.

Review of applications will begin October 1st and will continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates should apply through the University's online job portal: http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/. The position number keyword is 494611. Required application materials include a cover letter, CV, and a recently published article as a writing sample.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie Tier One public research university, offering over 250 undergraduate and graduate degree programs across diverse disciplines. As the largest public research university in Houston and one of the largest in Texas, UH enrolls over 46,000 students. The university's main campus is located just minutes from central Houston.

The Department of Political Science is dedicated to achieving research excellence and to delivering high-quality education to over 800 undergraduate majors and 75 graduate students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, a dynamic hub of international commerce and demographic and economic innovation, to offer our students and faculty unique opportunities for research and professional development.

As the fourth largest city in the United States, residents enjoy a wide range of cultural experiences, from world-class dining and arts to exciting sports teams. The city offers affordable housing and has a low cost of living. Houston is also home to the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical complex— as well as numerous energy and technology companies, and NASA's Johnson Space Center.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

For further information please contact Professor Tyson Chatagnier, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at jtchatag@Central.UH.EDU.

Qualifications
Candidates must hold an earned doctorate in an appropriately related field. Preferred candidates must either have been awarded tenure or possess a scholarly record of such distinction that it would merit the awarding of tenure at a leading institution.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/22/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15809

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Environmental Social Sciences, Stanford Doerr School for Sustainability

Assistant Professor in Environmental Social Sciences, Stanford Doerr School for Sustainability

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the field of Global Environmental Policy within the Department of Environmental Social Sciences. The scope of the search is broad, and we welcome applications from scholars studying environmental policy issues from the perspective of the quantitative social sciences or related fields, including candidates who have completed or will soon complete their PhD in economics, political science, environmental policy, or data science as applied to environmental policy. The successful candidate will serve as faculty within the Department of Environmental Social Sciences, at the Stanford Doerr School of Sustainability.

Application packages should be submitted online at this LINK (https://secure.dc4.pageuppeople.com/apply/1054/gateway/Default.aspx?c=apply&sJobIDs=494886&SourceTypeID=796&sLanguage=en-us). Review of applications will begin Dec 1, 2025, and to guarantee full consideration, your application should be submitted by this date.

Candidates for an untenured position at the rank of assistant professor must have a PhD or be enrolled in a PhD program or equivalent international degree-granting program at the time of application, with expected degree completion by date of appointment as an assistant professor.
Candidates should demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory, interest in the quantitative analysis of topics related to environmental policy, and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants for an untenured position must include with their application:

1. a cover letter,
2. CV,
3. a combined research and teaching statement of no more than three pages,
4. graduate school transcripts,
5. a writing sample,
6. name and contact information for three professional references.

The Environmental Social Sciences Department, Stanford Doerr School of Sustainability and Stanford University value faculty who will help foster an open and respectful academic environment for colleagues, students, and staff with a wide range of backgrounds, and perspectives. Candidates may choose to include as part of their research and teaching statements a brief discussion about how their work and experience will further these values.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. Stanford welcomes applications from all who would bring additional dimensions to the University's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Consistent with its obligations under the law, the University will provide reasonable accommodations to applicants and employees with disabilities. Applicants requiring a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application or hiring process should contact disability.access@stanford.edu.

The expected base pay range for this position is: Assistant Professor: $143,500-$193,000

Stanford University has provided a base pay range representing its good faith estimate of what the university reasonably expects to pay for the position. The pay offered to the selected candidate will be determined based on factors including (but not limited to) the experience and qualifications of the selected candidate including years since terminal degree, training, and field or discipline; departmental budget availability; internal equity; and external market pay for comparable jobs.

For general questions regarding this position, please contact Marisa MacAskill at mmacaskill@stanford.edu.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/19/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15789

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

School of Humanities and Social Science at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is seeking to fill the open rank positions in Digit Humanities, Digital History, Digital Media, Digital Anthropology, Digital Legal Studies, and AI Regulation and Governance. Applicants should have solid training in cutting edge computational skills and address significant theoretical research questions in their respective disciplines. Successful applicants are expected to carry out an active research and publication agenda, teach courses and supervise students at both undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications are invited for faculty position at the rank of full professor/associate professor level with prospect for tenure, although junior candidate with very competitive academic records may be considered for position of assistant professor.

Candidate for full professor or associate professor position is expected to have solid evidence of excellence in teaching/research/service, and a strong track record of sustained high-quality research/scholarship outcomes in the expertise area(s), as evidenced by research publications in competitive international outlets in the relevant areas of public policy. In addition, candidate needs to demonstrate academic leadership and strong commitment to the highest standard of excellence. Candidate is advised to provide quality indicators for the journals where he/she have research publications (e.g., journal impact factor, journal ranking in a relevant category).

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2025-26. A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Salary & Benefits

Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure

Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/index?school=129 and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15757

Columbia University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Other
Specializations: China, International Security, International Political Economy

China and the World Program (C&WP)

Professors Thomas J. Christensen of Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard University's Government Department jointly founded the China and the World fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations in 2005. As part of Professor Christensen's recent move to Columbia University, the Program was renamed the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program (C&WP) in 2018. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

For academic year 2026-2027, C&WP plans to award 2 postdoctoral research fellowships. Both fellows will be in residence at Columbia University and will teach one course in the Fall or Spring semester. When not attending to program or teaching-related duties, fellows' time should be devoted to their own research, and to participating actively in the life of C&WP, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute (WEAI), the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies, etc. Fellows also will be expected to make at least one public presentation during their appointment and participate in the annual C&WP workshop where an entire day is devoted entirely to the examination of the fellows' research by former fellows of the program. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project.

The appointment is for the 2026-2027 year, beginning September 1, 2026, ending June 30, 2027. The position comes with shared office space and access to the libraries and resources of Columbia University, access to all of which is COVID permitting.

Qualifications
Applicants must have completed all Ph.D. requirements (dissertation completed and filed) between May 1, 2021 and August 31, 2026.
Applications from individuals who hold or have held full-time teaching appointments will not be considered.
Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's and WEAI's missions need apply.

Application Process
To apply, submit application materials to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration. Faxed or mailed applications will not be considered.

1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
Updated Curriculum Vitae, including a list of classes taught (if any)
Project description
Two scholarly writing samples
One course proposal with syllabus for a seminar directed at M.A. students and advanced undergraduates

Course evaluations for classes taught (if any)
Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
Two letters of reference. Please note: Applicants should submit only the name and contact information of their referees. Referees should submit their letter directly to sipacwp {att} columbia.edu.

Application Deadline
All application materials, including letters of reference, must be received by December 20, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST in the United States. Candidates may be invited for an interview to be held by video, phone, or in-person. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February or March of 2026; a public announcement will be made by April 2026.

For more information about the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program, the Weatherhead East Asian Institute, or the the Saltzman Institute of War and Peace Studies please visit www.CWP.SIPA.Columbia.edu, www.weai.columbia.edu, and https://www.siwps.org/ respectively.

This search is subject to all rules and regulations of Columbia University. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions, or any other characteristic protected by law.

As the COVID-19 Pandemic is an evolving concern around the world, these expectations guidelines are subject to change. Thank you for your patience during this challenging time.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/30/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15316

POLITICAL THEORY

Nuffield College

Rank: Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowship in Politics
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellowships in Politics (up to three posts)

Nuffield College and the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford intend to appoint jointly, with effect from 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter, up to three Postdoctoral Prize Research Fellows (PPRFs) in Politics, broadly construed to include political science, political behaviour, comparative politics, political economy, electoral studies, political theory, international relations, and political history. Applications are particularly welcomed from candidates who work in the fields of contemporary political theory, comparative government, or international relations, but this is not a requirement.

The key responsibilities of the Research Fellows are to engage in advanced study and independent scholarly research in politics broadly construed (as above); to disseminate research findings through publication and participation in conferences and workshops; to take part in the intellectual life of the College and the Department by organising workshops, seminars or conferences; and to undertake teaching not expected to exceed 48 stint units per year (the equivalent to teaching an eight-week 2-hour seminar series per year), and to assist in examining for the Department.

To be eligible, candidates should hold, or be close to the completion of, a PhD/DPhil in a relevant field. Candidates must be within three years of the defence date (viva voce examination date) of their doctorate at the time of application. Allowances will be made for career breaks (for example, family-related leave) and candidates are asked to provide relevant information. Preference will be given to candidates who have not previously held a research fellowship similar to that advertised for more than one year at the time of taking up the fellowship. Prospective candidates should also have experience of carrying out independent research, and a track record of excellent quality papers appropriate for their career level. They should have the ability to provide excellent teaching to high-achieving students; the willingness to contribute to the intellectual life of the College and the Department; and excellent oral and written communication skills.

The Fellowships are full-time, fixed-term posts and are to be taken up on 1 September 2026 or as soon as possible thereafter. The post end date will normally be 31 August 2029. Candidates who have not yet completed their doctorate at the time of application should note that to take up the Fellowship in September 2026, it may be necessary for them to have submitted their doctoral dissertation for examination by the end of May 2026. The posts will be based at Nuffield College and at the Department of Politics and International Relations. The salary offered is GBP 41,700 per annum. Subject to availability, Research Fellows may apply to rent single accommodation in College. Benefits include a research allowance and free lunch and dinner in College.

Further particulars, including information on how to apply, are available from the College website at https:\\www.nuffield.ox.ac.uk/media/s2wd5jlt/polpprf_jd2026.pdf

The deadline for applications is Thursday 4 December 2025.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16196

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2026-27, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to four postdoctoral fellows across the two programs described below. The two types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, but they form a common community at the Center and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships and do not need to tailor their application for one or the other fellowship.

Applicants for these positions must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law.

General Ethics Fellowship

This postdoctoral program is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within Philosophy or Political Science. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work bears on serious problems affecting people's lives now. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center (attend weekly workshops, Center events, and professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

Addressing many pressing social problems involves knowledge of the work of the social sciences, law, engineering, and the life sciences. The premise of this program is that the normative scholarship of our fellows will be enhanced by engagement with empirically oriented scholars. To that end, each fellow in the program will be matched with a partner center at Stanford that is dedicated to interdisciplinary work. For 2026-27, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in environmental ethics, global justice, ethics of artificial intelligence, political polarization, civic education, and those working on empircally-grounded philosophical approaches to other urgent contemporary problems. Applicants need not name a possible partner center on campus or tailor their materials for this type of fellowship. The Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the match between their work. Fellows will regularly participate in the intellectual life of the partner center and the Ethics Center (e.g., attend weekly workshops, Center events, and professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Eligibility and Application Requirements

Candidates for both types of fellowships must have normative training and hold a Ph.D. in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a Ph.D. in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. Applicants must complete all requirements for their Ph.D. no later than June 30, 2026. Candidates must also be no more than three years from the awarding of their degree at the start of the fellowship (i.e., September 2023). The term of the fellowship is September 1, 2026 - August 31, 2027 and is renewable for a second year. We welcome applications from individuals with a broad range of life experiences, perspectives, and backgrounds who would contribute to our community of scholars. The expected salary is $80,000. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single-spaced), and a list of classes that they have taught and/or are prepared to teach.

Applications can be submitted by Interfolio only: https://apply.interfolio.com/175679

Applications due 12/04/2025 9PM Pacific Time

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 10/29/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16181

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow
Specializations: Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory

We invite applications for our 2026-27 Embedded Ethics postdoctoral fellowship based at the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society and the Institute for Human-Centered AI (HAI). Stanford Embedded Ethics is a collaborative program that embeds the teaching of ethics directly into the core undergraduate courses of Stanford's computer science curriculum. Working in collaboration with CS faculty and graduate students, the fellows create curricular materials, course assignments, and teach ethics modules in CS courses.

We will hire 3-4 fellows. The postdoctoral fellows are expected to spend 50% of their time working with the Embedded Ethics program and 50% of their time on their independent research within a cohort of postdoctoral fellows appointed at the Ethics Center and HAI. The postdoctoral fellow will have responsibility for (a) working with CS faculty and students to develop course materials, (b) teaching the modules, (c) providing pedagogical training for Course Assistants in CS, and (d) participating in the intellectual life of the Ethics Center and HAI.

Eligibility and Application Requirements

We seek applicants with a Ph.D. in philosophy, law, political science, information studies, computer science, or science and technology studies who can teach ethics (however, ethics need not be their specialization). We will prioritize candidates who have a computer science background from their undergraduate studies and/or work experience. Ideal candidates will have knowledge of computer science fundamentals, coding skills, significant teaching experience, experience with cross-disciplinary research or teaching, and enthusiasm about developing ethics modules. We are particularly interested in candidates with research focused on agentic AI.

Applicants must complete all requirements for their Ph.D. no later than June 30, 2026. Candidates must also be no more than three years from the awarding of their degree at the start of the fellowship (i.e., September 2023). The term of the fellowship is September 1, 2026 - August 31, 2027 and is renewable for a second year. We welcome applications from individuals with a broad range of life experiences, perspectives, and backgrounds who would contribute to our community of scholars. The expected salary is $80,000. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single-spaced), and a list of classes that they have taught and/or are prepared to teach and a list of CS courses taken (if applicable).

Applications can be submitted by Interfolio only. Apply here: https://apply.interfolio.com/176548

Applications due 12/04/2025 9 PM Pacific Time

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 10/27/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16170

Tulane University
Rank: Faculty Fellow/Visiting Research Professor

CENTER FOR ETHICS FACULTY FELLOWSHIP APPLICATION NOW OPEN FOR 2026-2027:

The Murphy Institute's Center for Ethics (CE) at Tulane University is pleased to announce that applications are now open for the 2026-2027 CE Faculty Fellowship Program. These fellowships are available to support outstanding faculty whose teaching and research focus on ethics; political and social philosophy; moral psychology, agency and responsibility; philosophy of law; political theory; or questions of moral choice in areas such as (but not restricted to) business, government, law, economics, public health and medicine.

Faculty Fellows are appointed as Visiting Research Professors at Tulane University's Murphy Institute, receive a salary of $70,000, and are eligible for faculty benefits, including medical insurance. While fellows will participate in seminars, lectures, and conferences organized by the Murphy Institute, they will be expected to devote most of their time to conducting their research. ?

We encourage candidates from a broad range of disciplines to apply.?-Applicants must hold a doctorate in philosophy, economics, political theory, law, political economy, public health, or a related discipline at the time of application. Applicants must also hold a full-time college or university appointment at the time of application. Faculty Fellowships are open to full-time faculty at all ranks.

The deadline to apply for this position is December 15, 2025. Applications must be submitted via Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/174803 ?

Required application materials include a curriculum vitae, a project description of approximately 1500 words (including a one-page bibliography, which is not included in the suggested word count), a scholarly paper, and two confidential letters of recommendation.

Please direct any questions about the Center for Ethics Faculty Fellows program to Dr. Jennifer Beers, Director of Academic and Scholarly Initiatives, at jbeers@tulane.edu.?

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/23/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16165

Angelo State University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Philosophy at Angelo State University is searching for two new colleagues to assist in its core mission of instilling and promoting civic education in the student body and preparing its majors for excellence and leadership in their communities and careers.

The Department has been charged with teaching core courses in Texas Government and Federal Government. These courses require a thorough familiarity with the principles of liberty and free government underlying the Constitutions of Texas and of the United States, and of the structural elements by which these Constitutions seek to put those principles into practice—separation of powers, federalism, local self-government, etc.

Our major in Political Science is undergoing a period of enrollment growth, and we are currently seeking approval for a number of new program/curricular initiatives, such as new minors and certificates in PPE (Politics, Philosophy, and Economics), Civic Education and Leadership, and Constitutional and Legal Studies. Preference will be given to candidates who can assist in the implementation and growth of these endeavors, as well as those who can contribute to the major in Political Science by teaching Introduction to Political Science and some combination of the following upper-division courses: Political Parties, Congress, the Presidency, American Political Thought, and Religion and Politics.

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. A Spring 2026 start is preferable for one of the positions and Fall 2026 for the other.

Applications can be submitted at Angelo State University's Employment Page, which can be accessed at https://employment.angelo.edu/postings/7180

Any inquiries should be directed to tony.bartl@angelo.edu.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16143

Ramapo College of New Jersey
Rank: Temporary Assistant Professor of Political Science (Non-Tenure Track - 10 months)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science convening group of Ramapo College of New Jersey seeks a Temporary Assistant Professor for a one-year renewable appointment starting August 26, 2026. We seek a colleague whose teaching and scholarship engage contemporary developments in American politics and policy. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester. Courses to be taught can include American Government, Supreme Court, Civil Rights, Interest Groups and Parties, Political Theory, Presidency, and Principles of Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to the activities of the convening group and the college, in addition to teaching responsibilities. Describe how your teaching and scholarship, or outside community work, engage in trends in the discipline and support the academic success of students.

Ramapo College of New Jersey, a public liberal arts institution, seeks a dynamic and forward-thinking faculty member whose teaching, research, and service reflect a deep commitment to the College's core academic pillars: international, intercultural, interdisciplinary, and experiential learning. We welcome candidates who are passionate about integrating emerging technologies and AI into their pedagogy and scholarship, and who bring both personal and professional dedication to student success. The ideal candidate is energized by community engagement and committed to educating students from the broad range of backgrounds Ramapo proudly serves— including first-generation college students, as well as bi- and multilingual and multicultural learners of all ages.

Qualifications

Education:

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science.

Application Process:

Please submit your completed application online via http://www.ramapojobs.com. Applications will begin to be reviewed starting January 1, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Prof. Dean Chen (dchen@ramapo.edu), Search Committee Chair, School of Humanities and Global Studies. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7732.

For more information about the Political Science program at Ramapo College, please visit our webpage: https://www.ramapo.edu/majors-minors/majors/political-science/

Application Materials:

Cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, and one sample syllabus

Supplemental Information

EEO Statement:

Ramapo College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Ramapo has a long history of advocating, advising, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. Examples can be found in its mission statement, strategic plans, degree and course offerings, community outreach programs, and other diversity programs. Ramapo's commitment to diversity and inclusion is infused across all facets of the College; where the environment is welcoming, dedicated to social justice, respectful of freedom of expression, focused on educating and having an ongoing conversation regarding cultural competence and the benefits and importance of diversity.

Employer
Ramapo College of New Jersey

Address
505 Ramapo Valley Road

Mahwah, New Jersey, 07430

Phone 2016847782

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ramapo/jobs/5106344/temporary-assistant-professor-of-political-science-non-tenure-track-10-months?pagetype=jobOpportunitiesJobs

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16108

Stanford

Rank: CDDRL Pre/Post-Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory
Specializations: International Political Economy, American Politics, Political Development

Stanford University Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law welcomes applications from pre-doctoral students at the write-up stage and from post-doctoral scholars working in any of the four program areas of democracy, development, evaluating the efficacy of democracy promotion, and rule of law. The application cycle for the 2026-2027 academic year will be open from Monday, September 22, 2025, through Thursday, December 4, 2025.

Pre-doctoral fellows must be enrolled currently in a doctoral program or equivalent through the time of intended residency at Stanford and must be at the dissertation write-up (post course work) phase of their doctoral program. Post-doctoral fellows must have earned their Ph.D. within 3 years of the start of the fellowship, or plan to have successfully defended their Ph.D. dissertations by July 31, 2026.

In addition to our regular call for applications, CDDRL invites applications for the Gerhard Casper Fellow in Rule of Law for 2026-27. We welcome research on any aspect of rule of law, including judicial politics, criminal justice, and the politicization of judicial institutions. We are an interdisciplinary center; candidates from any relevant field (i.e. the social sciences, law) are welcome to apply. The Gerhard Casper Fellow will be part of CDDRL's larger cohort of pre- and postdoctoral fellows. Please apply through the CDDRL fellowship application process and indicate that you would like to be considered for the Gerhard Casper Rule of Law Fellowship.

More information on the application and the guidelines to apply can be found at our website at https://cddrl.fsi.stanford.edu/cddrl-pre-doctoral-and-postdoctoral-fellowships.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/4/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16100

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The McDonough School of Business seeks to add to its ethics faculty. We have one opening for a tenure-track assistant professor of ethics to begin in the 2026-27 academic year. We have a strong preference for applicants who are ready to teach ethics courses in the MBA and executive curriculum as well as at the undergraduate level. McDonough's ethics courses are an amalgam of true normative ethics with social psychology, political science, and economics. All contain an experiential aspect in which the students engage in real-time ethical decision-making. We seek a dynamic classroom teacher able to publish research that can meet McDonough's rigorous standards for tenure.

This position I open to recent PhDs in normative disciplines such as philosophy, political science, business ethics, and public policy, social science applicants researching behavioral ethics and moral psychology, as well as to recent law graduates who hold a PhD in a cognate field. Compensation is highly competitive.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to building global business knowledge and inspiring ethical leaders to serve the common good. Known for its emphasis at the intersection of business and global affairs and its values-based approach to business as part of Georgetown's rich Catholic, Jesuit tradition, the school also is focused on how business can be a force for change by addressing fields of the future, such as healthcare, sustainability, and AI and the future of work. The school's undergraduate and graduate degree programs provide solid grounding in all the core management disciplines, with an emphasis on the global, ethical, and political environment of business. The McDonough School of Business has an ongoing commitment to being a community in diversity as a fundamental aspect of the Georgetown community.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE
All applications should be submitted electronically by Interfolio [apply.interfolio.com/175134]. Interested applicants should provide a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, published and working papers, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants can also submit research and teaching statements.

Applications are due November 15, 2025.

The projected salary or hourly pay range for this position is $150,000-$190,000, which represents the full range of anticipated compensation for this position. Compensation is determined by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the candidate's individual qualifications, experience, education, skills, and certifications, as well as the University's business needs and external factors.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: $150,000 - $159,999
eJobs ID: 16054

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows, Liberal Studies, GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Literature & Politics, History & Politics, Leadership Studies

Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows
Liberal Studies
-GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
New York University Arts & Science

Liberal Studies at New York University invites applications for two Postdoctoral Faculty Fellow positions to begin September 1, 2026, pending administrative and budgetary approval.

The Liberal Studies Core is a dynamic liberal arts curriculum that provides a global and interdisciplinary foundation for nearly 100 NYU majors. The curriculum emphasizes conceptual and spatial frameworks to trace the movement of ideas and the interconnectivity of material culture, through the study of different texts, histories, exchanges, structures and systems, languages, arts, and writing from early antiquity through contemporary times. Small seminar-style classes and close faculty-student interaction ensure the benefits of a liberal arts college within a large urban research university. We are especially interested in hiring qualified candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching and service to the intellectual diversity and excellence of the Liberal Studies community.

Liberal Studies Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows teach two courses each semester in the Core Curriculum. Fellows work closely with an assigned Faculty Mentor, they attend pedagogy workshops that explore innovative approaches to interdisciplinary global teaching, and they have the opportunity to lead faculty development workshops or host program wide events in their area of scholarly, creative, or pedagogical expertise.The initial appointment is for one (1) year, and it may be renewed for two additional years, based upon satisfactory performance reviews and mutual agreement. Postdoctoral Faculty Fellows are limited to a maximum of three (3) years in rank; they are non-tenure track..

We seek applicants in the following area:

GLOBAL WORKS AND SOCIETY
PhD in Political Theory, Philosophy, History, or related fields in the social sciences. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to draw on ancient and early modern sources in their teaching with a global emphasis in the Global Works and Society sequence of the Core Curriculum. Candidates must embrace interdisciplinary and intersectional approaches from a variety of global perspectives and must have the ability to examine relationships of power and to interrogate the historical roots of current challenges.

Minimum qualifications: Successful candidates must have a PhD conferred by the date of appointment, or have received the PhD no more than three years before the date of appointment. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who share Liberal Studies' commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, and who can contribute to the diversity of intellectual life in LS and NYU. Candidates must present demonstrated experience and commitment to interdisciplinarity, intersectionality, and a teaching approach informed by global perspectives. Commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching required; some college-level teaching experience, and evidence of outstanding scholarship and relevant professional activity are desirable.

In compliance with NYC's Pay Transparency Act, the annual base salary for this position is $60,000. New York University considers factors such as (but not limited to) the scope and responsibilities of the position, the candidate's work experience, education/training, key skills, internal peer equity, as well as market and organizational considerations when extending an offer.

Applications include ONLY (1) a cover letter, (2) and a current c.v. Complete applications must be recorded by 11:59 p.m. Eastern Standard Time (US), November 15, 2025. Applications recorded after this deadline will not be considered.

Applicants may apply directly through the following link:
https://apply.interfolio.com/174370

Liberal Studies sees equity and inclusion and belonging as essential to education and the development of leadership in a globally interconnected world. These values inform LS as a collegial and respectful environment for students, faculty and staff—with particular attention to improving the student experience. To learn more about the Liberal Studies commitment to equity and inclusion and belonging, please read here: Global Inclusion. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the Arts & Science commitment to inclusive excellence, please read here: A&S Inclusive Excellence

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16046

Furman University

Rank: Tocqueville Center Assistant/Associate Director and Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Classical Liberal Thought

The Tocqueville Center at Furman University invites applications for the position of Assistant/Associate Director, with a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Classical Liberal Thought, beginning August 1, 2026. We seek candidates with expertise in the history of liberal thought, particularly focusing on eighteenth- and nineteenth-century European and American Enlightenment thinkers.

The successful candidate will teach four courses per academic year, including both introductory and upper-level offerings, and will carry out administrative responsibilities at the Tocqueville Center. These duties include student programming and mentorship, event coordination, and media outreach. Furman University is a selective private liberal arts and sciences college. Furman professors are exceptional teacher-scholars who mentor undergraduate students within a campus community that values and encourages diverse ideas and perspectives.

A Ph.D. in Political Thought, Political Science, Philosophy, History, Religion or a related field is required by August 1, 2026.

Applicants should submit the following documents as a single PDF in the order listed: a letter of interest, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, and complete contact information for three references. The statement of teaching philosophy should describe your inclusive teaching and mentoring efforts, broadly conceived, and how your teaching and mentoring may contribute to a liberal arts and sciences community that aims, among other things, to "honor inquiry, promote diversity, [and] strive for equity" (FUture Focused). You may also discuss any relevant professional development, service contributions, or other experiences that have refined your skills or demonstrate your efforts in these areas.

In addition, please include teaching evaluations (if available), sample syllabi (if available), and at least one writing sample (preferably single-authored). Additional materials may be requested at later stages of the search process for candidates who advance.

The Tocqueville Center for the Study of Democracy and Society promotes the core principles of a free society—individual liberty, limited government, and freedom of speech—through rigorous academic inquiry. Established in 2008 as a program within the Department of Politics and International Affairs, the Center has since grown into an independent academic unit, gaining greater autonomy, interdisciplinary scope, and programmatic flexibility.

This transition has allowed the Center to expand its influence across campus and disciplines. It plays a central role in fostering viewpoint diversity and scholarly engagement, most visibly through its prominent speaker series. The Tocqueville Fellows Program, a fully endowed, interdisciplinary initiative, supports 25 undergraduate students who engage year-round with visiting scholars and classic texts in intimate seminar settings. The Center's recent elevation reflects the strong backing of Furman's president and Board of Trustees and affirms the university's commitment to increasing its national impact.

For more information, consult the Center's website at: https://www.furman.edu/academics/tocqueville-program/

Furman University is dedicated to fostering a vibrant and inclusive community through excellence in teaching, mentorship, and programming. We believe that cultural understanding, inclusiveness, and freedom of inquiry, thought, and discourse are essential components of a transformative undergraduate education.

We advance these ideals with a liberal arts and sciences curriculum built on a substantial general education program, featuring traditional and innovative elements, and a robust portfolio of disciplinary and interdisciplinary major and minor areas of study. Additionally, we have established and continue to develop various initiatives, including historic projects, dialogue programs such as On Discourse and the Intergroup Dialogues Program, the Center for Interpersonal Connections, and four distinctive external-facing institutes.

The successful candidate will have the ability to work with students from diverse backgrounds and contribute to Furman's commitment to expanding access and opportunity to Furman's rich learning culture.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, one of the fastest-growing cities in the Southeast and consistently ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes. The city boasts a vibrant downtown with top-tier restaurants, parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. It also features an extensive network of nonprofits, international corporations, and excellent public and private schools. The surrounding region offers abundant outdoor recreation, including lakes, rivers, and mountains.
Greenville is just 2½ hours from Atlanta, 1½ hours from Charlotte, and one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. A 20-mile bike and pedestrian trail connects Furman's campus to downtown Greenville and to the nearby town of Travelers Rest—named one of "America's Coolest Small Towns." The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg International Airport, located just 25 minutes from campus, offers daily service to major cities.

Review of applications will begin on November 14 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, click on the following link:

https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Furman_Careers/job/Main-Campus/Tocqueville-Center-Assistant-Associate-Director-and-Assistant-Associate-Full-Professor-of-Classical-Liberal-Thought_R003014

Questions may be directed to the search committee co-chairs:
- Professor Brent Nelsen: brent.nelsen@furman.edu
- Professor David Fink: david.fink@furman.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16041

Brandeis University

Rank: Instructor

The Department of Politics at Brandeis University seeks an instructor for two 4-credit courses in the subfield of political theory to be offered in Spring 2026: Democratic Theory (Politics 190a) and a second Special Topics Course (Politics 193a). The Democratic Theory course explores the nature, virtues, and limitations of democracy as a way of organizing political affairs. It is an intermediate level undergraduate course. The Special Topics course can be on a topic proposed by applicants. This course can be offered as an intermediate or advanced undergraduate course in political theory.

Candidates with an MA or PhD in political science and training in Political Theory will be given preference. Interested individuals should submit a cover letter, CV, draft course syllabi, and names and contact information for two references. The deadline for first consideration is October 15, 2025. This appointment is to a position that is in a collective bargaining unit represented by SEIU Local 509.
Equal Opportunity Statement.

Please apply here: https://brandeis.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/Jobs/job/Lecturer-in-Politics--Political-Theory-_R0012281

Start Date: Spring 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 16013

University of Texas, Tyler
Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas at Tyler invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the subfield of political theory to begin August 2026.

We are a growing and vibrant department embarking on a new direction with a Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPL) focus. Our PPL program emphasizes public service and equips students with critical skills in politics, ethics, law, and philosophy. The PPL program provides our students an integrated view of politics emphasizing links between theory, philosophy, and practice. UT Tyler PPL students must complement classroom experiences in methodology, politics, philosophy, and law and a capstone cooperative off campus learning component. We are seeking a new colleague who shares our enthusiasm for this approach to teaching and learning about politics, service, and public affairs. Specifically, we are seeking a scholar who is focused on political theory, texts, and themes in political thought such as the founding of the United States and comparative constitutional principles. We seek a scholar who will work with our PPL students to explore and understand the underlying theories, ideologies, and principles that inform political thought and guide political choices and policymaking.

While most political theorists are trained in departments of politics and political science, we also welcome applications from candidates with research expertise in political theory who are trained in other disciplines or in interdisciplinary approaches. Duties will include teaching two courses (graduate and undergraduate) in the Classical Foundations of Political Theory. All faculty are expected to regularly teach an introductory course that serves our majors/minors as well as the general education requirements of the college's core curriculum. This position offers an opportunity to join a growing and academically vibrant community and to make significant contributions to teaching, research, and service.

Position Responsibilities:
- Teach a 3/3 course load.
- Demonstrate the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses.
- Maintain a record of research. Successful candidates are expected to maintain an ongoing research agenda; thus, applicants should show interest and promise of a strong publication record.
- Advise students.
- Serve the department, college, and university.
- Candidates should have an earned Ph.D. in Political Science or similar by the time of appointment.

The work location for this position is in-person on campus at The University of Texas at Tyler. The University of Texas at Tyler is a centerpiece for learning, culture and natural beauty in East Texas, located midway between Dallas and Shreveport, Louisiana. Founded in 1971, UT Tyler is one of the fastest-growing universities in the renowned University of Texas System. The University of Texas at Tyler, serving over 11,000 students, is a pivotal educational institution and a central hub for cultural and academic pursuits in the region.

Application Process:

Qualified candidates may apply at [UT Tyler Prospective Employees] (https://www.uttyler.edu/human-resources/prospective-employees/).

Please submit a letter of application detailing teaching and research interests, teaching philosophy, curriculum vitae and unofficial transcripts all in one document.

Review of applications begins the week of November 3, 2025.

Additional Information:

The successful applicant must be able to demonstrate eligibility to work in the United States. This position is security-sensitive and subject to Texas Education Code Section 51.215, authorizing the employer to obtain criminal history record information. The University of Texas at Tyler is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, status as a protected veteran, or status as a qualified individual with a disability. Women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

We are looking forward to receiving your application.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16025

University of Houston
Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at
https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026

Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Security Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Security, Political Theory

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Security Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide variety of topics in geopolitics, foreign policy, and international affairs; and we are equally interested in empirical work and formal theoretic work.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173160

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15887

University of Georgia

Rank: Lecturer

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at the University of Georgia invites applications for a Lecturer position to begin August 1, 2026. Lecturers teach eight courses per academic year, four courses in each academic term. They typically teach two or more sections of the same course each semester and/or in the same academic year. The allocation of effort at appointment will be 100% teaching. A lecturer is likely to teach the undergraduate introduction to American government and upper division undergraduate courses in political theory in areas that align with their interests.

Lecturers are valued members of the Department with opportunities to shape the curriculum and participate in faculty governance process. They are eligible for professional development support, travel funding, and summer teaching (including study abroad programs) when available. The university has a clear promotion path: upon their sixth year, a lecturer may be promoted to senior lecturer, and subsequently to principal lecturer. For details see https://provost.uga.edu/wp-content/uploads/appointment-promotion-guidelines-lecturers.pdf.

Minimum Qualifications:

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science completed by August 1, 2026.

Preferred Knowledge, Skills, Abilities and/or Competencies:

-Excellent communication skills
-Evidence of teaching excellence or demonstrated potential for teaching excellence.

Duties/Responsibilities:

-Contribute to the instructional mission of the Department of Political Science
-Teach four three-credit hour courses per academic term
-Participate in workshops, the development of new course materials, and/or supervise teaching assistants

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Prospective applicants should submit the following in electronic form: a cover letter, a curriculum vita, unofficial transcripts, a teaching portfolio that provides: a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and any additional evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a list of three letter writers who will separately provide letters of recommendation. The cover letter is expected to include a description of the candidate's strengths as an instructor and relevant teaching experiences as they relate to this position description. Application materials can be submitted at the UGA job search website: https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/450802.

Questions can be sent to Wendi Finch, Office Manager, Department of Political Science, University of Georgia, 180 Baldwin Hall, Athens, GA 30602-1615 (wendif@uga.edu).

Review of applications will begin January 7, 2026 and continue until the position is filled.

The University System of Georgia is comprised of our 26 institutions of higher education and learning, as well as the System Office. Our USG Statement of Core Values are Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect. These values serve as the foundation for all that we do as an organization, and each USG community member is responsible for demonstrating and upholding these standards. More details on the USG Statement of Core Values and Code of Conduct are available in USG Board Policy 8.2.18.1.2 and can be found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section8/C224/#p8.2.18_personnel_conduct.

Additionally, USG supports Freedom of Expression as stated in Board Policy 6.5 Freedom of Expression and Academic Freedom found online at https://www.usg.edu/policymanual/section6/C2653.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/26/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15825

Furman University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Professor of Politics and International Affairs

The Department of Politics and International Affairs at Furman University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant, Associate, or Full professorial rank in Political Thought to begin August 1, 2026. The position is open to candidates who have broad expertise in Political Thought with a particular focus on contemporary political theory. Candidates who engage with class, race, gender, identity, or democratic theory are especially encouraged to apply. The teaching load will be five courses per year, including introductory and upper-level courses.

A Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Government, Politics, or a related field is required by August 1, 2026. Applicants should submit the following documents as a single PDF in the order listed: a letter of interest containing a discussion of teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations (if available), sample syllabi (if available), at least one writing sample (preferably single-authored), and complete contact information for three references. Additional application materials will be requested at later stages of the search for candidates who advance.

The Politics and International Affairs Department is a large department with specialists in all major political science fields. The Department is committed to fostering a professional community where every member is treated with dignity. All are welcome to participate in the department's life and the respectful exploration of ideas. The candidate should show interest in and aptitude for contributing to this endeavor.

Furman University is dedicated to fostering a vibrant and inclusive community through excellence in teaching, mentorship, and programming. We believe that cultural understanding, inclusiveness, and freedom of inquiry, thought, and discourse are essential components of a transformative undergraduate education.

We advance these ideals with a liberal arts and sciences curriculum built on a substantial general education program, featuring traditional and innovative elements, and a robust portfolio of disciplinary and interdisciplinary major and minor areas of study. Additionally, we have established and continue to develop various initiatives, including historic projects, dialogue programs such as On Discourse and the Intergroup Dialogues Program, the Center for Interpersonal Connections, and four distinctive external-facing institutes.

The successful candidate will have the ability to work with students from diverse backgrounds and contribute to Furman's commitment to expanding access and opportunity to Furman's rich learning culture.

Furman is located in Greenville, South Carolina, one of the fastest-growing cities in the Southeast, and is ranked among "America's Ten Best" by Forbes Magazine. The thriving downtown features excellent restaurants, in-town parks, shops, museums, galleries, music venues, and theaters. Greenville also enjoys an impressive network of nonprofits, small businesses, and international corporations. The city also has excellent public and private schools and a vibrant international community. A 20-mile bike and running trail connects the university to Greenville and to Travelers Rest, which was named "one of America's coolest small towns." The surrounding area abounds with outdoor recreational activities and has some of the country's most beautiful lakes, rivers, and mountains. Greenville is 2½ hours from Atlanta, 1½ hours from Charlotte, and only one hour from Asheville, North Carolina. Greenville is within easy reach of the Blue Ridge Mountains and Atlantic Beaches. The newly renovated Greenville-Spartanburg Airport, located just 25 minutes from downtown, runs daily flights to major cities and airline hubs. It is an ideal place to live and work.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2025 and continue until the position is filled.

To apply, click on this link: https://furman.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/Furman_Careers/job/Main-Campus/Assistant--Associate--or-Full-Professor-in-Politics-and-International-Affairs_R002940

Questions should be directed to the co-chairs of the search committee, Professor David Fleming at david.fleming@furman.edu or Professor Akan Malici at akan.malici@furman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15731

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Harvard University

Rank: Technology and Public Policy (open rank)

Harvard Kennedy School invites applications for two open rank appointments in technology and public policy. We seek applications from scholars whose research and/or practice focuses on the intersection between emerging technologies and solving of public problems; tools, methods, and governance models to balance the societal and geopolitical opportunities and challenges technologies will create, or innovation, digital transformation, regulation, and other priority issues at the intersection of technology and public policy.
One position will focus on the application of new technologies to the solving of public problems. We are particularly interested in computer scientists or social scientists who harness tools of AI, data science, and computer science to improve the performance of public and social sector institutions in critical policy areas.
One position will focus at the intersection of science, technology, public policy, and global affairs. We seek scholars, practitioners, or technologists whose work explores how scientific and technological change shapes global affairs, and/or public policies and models of governance to address scientific and technological change. Fields of expertise could include, but would not be limited to, scientific innovation, technology development and deployment, global science and technology cooperation and competition, cybersecurity, biosecurity and biotechnology, nuclear issues, AI and autonomous systems, quantum technologies, space competition, critical-infrastructure resilience, and/or industrial and innovation policy. The successful candidate will be an affiliate of the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs.
Candidates for both positions should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Applicants from academic backgrounds will require a doctorate or equivalent credential in a relevant field and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries. Applicants who are policy practitioners or technologists will require extraordinary experience in their domain. Applicants should submit a cover letter and CV online at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15561
Review of applications will begin December 1. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16252

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Political Science and Public Administration. Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in American government, advanced undergraduate courses in policy and/or public administration, and graduate seminars in public policy and/or public administration. Demonstrated ability to maintain and active research agenda resulting in peer-reviewed publications is essential. A successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students, maintain an active research agenda leading to publication, participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university, and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Essential Job Functions
Implement effective teaching strategies.
Maintain an active research agenda that includes publication of research papers in peer-reviewed journals and/or submission of research grants.
Actively participate in academic service at the department, college, and university levels.

Minimum and Desired Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:

Applicants should have an earned PhD in Political Science or Public Administration.
Supplemental Information

Key Competencies:
Excellent interpersonal, verbal, and written communication skills.
Ability to implement effective and innovative teaching strategies.
Ability to perform academic research in degree area of specialty.
Demonstrated commitment to service to the university, profession, and community.
Physical Requirements: Able to lift 25 lbs and be able to perform a variety of physical tasks including lifting, bending, stooping, squatting, stair climbing and walking between buildings.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS: For consideration please be sure to have these documents attached to your application.
Teaching Philosophy
Curriculum Vita
Writing Sample
Cover Letter

Special Instructions: "Application considered incomplete pending receipt of three letters of recommendation to officeofthedean-COAS@lamar.edu"

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16238

University of Vermont
Rank: Lecturer-Public Administration

Lecturer-Public Administration

THE UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT Full-Time Lecturer of Public Administration (Non-Tenure Track), Department of Community Development and Applied Economics

The University of Vermont's NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration (MPA) program seeks applicants for a full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer to join us in preparing ethical, forward thinking public service leaders. We seek a public administration generalist with significant applied experience who is committed to excellence in teaching and student engagement across core and elective topics within the MPA curriculum. This is an academic-year (9-month) appointment to begin Fall 2026.

Key Responsibilities:

• Teach a variety of core and electives in the MPA curriculum, using active learning, applied projects, and evidence-based teaching practices
• Contribute to one or more of the following priority teaching areas: human resource management, policy process and analysis, organizational theory, and/or public budgeting
• Innovate in course design and delivery, adding to our emerging online programming
• Mentor students at all stages, supporting professional and academic growth, internships, and applied projects
• Participate in program, department, and university service, including contributing to program and curriculum development, assessment, and community outreach
• Advance UVM's commitment to https://www.uvm.edu/president/our-common-ground

About the Program: The University of Vermont (UVM) MPA promotes ethical leadership, evidence-based decision-making, long-term sustainability, and community resilience. As Vermont's sole NASPAA-accredited graduate option in public service, the MPA emphasizes transdisciplinary learning, social responsibility, and inclusive public service. The curriculum features community-engaged, forward-looking learning experiences designed to equip graduates with adaptable skills for effective leadership in evolving and complex public and nonprofit environments.

The MPA is housed in the Department of Community Development and Applied Economics (CDAE), part of UVM's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences (CALS). CDAE encompasses an energetic and diverse scholarly community that spans across disciplines such as public policy, community development, applied economics, public communication, community-centered design, and community entrepreneurship, making a meaningful impact both locally and globally. In addition to the MPA, CDAE supports four undergraduate majors, nine minors, a master's program in Community Development and Applied Economics, a doctoral degree centered on Sustainable Development Policy, Economics, and Governance, as well as accelerated master's and certificate pathways.

Required Qualifications:

• Master's degree in Public Administration, Public Policy, or other closely related field (doctorate strongly preferred)
• Demonstrated effectiveness as a college or university instructor, including online and in-person modalities
• Significant applied or professional experience in the public, nonprofit, or government
• Commitment to advancing public service values in public administration education

Preferred Qualifications:

• Doctorate in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, Political Science, or other closely related field
• Experience in course design, curriculum development, and/or innovation in online teaching
• Engagement with professional organizations and communities of practice in public service
• Evidence of fostering ethical leadership, resilience, and community engagement in course delivery

Application Instructions:

Applicants must apply online at http://www.uvmjobs.com. Application materials must include:

• Cover letter addressing qualifications, key responsibilities, teaching philosophy, alignment with the MPA's mission, vision, values, and commitment to public service
• Curriculum Vitae that provides a comprehensive record of academic and professional accomplishments
• A statement reflecting a commitment to advancing UVM's Our Common Ground values; showing evidence of advancing principles of: Respect, Integrity, Innovation, Openness, Justice, and Responsibility
• Teaching statement describing your core principles, methods, and goals as an educator, strategies for inclusive and accessible learning, successful for online and hybrid teaching, and articulation of how your teaching and mentorship advance public service education.

• Evidence of teaching effectiveness will be requested from those interviewed (may include formal teaching evaluations, comments from students, teaching observations, syllabi, etc.)
• Contact information for three references (reference letters will be requested from finalists if needed)

Applications without each of these components will not be considered. Employment is subject to a successful background check.

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis; for full consideration, applicants are strongly encouraged to submit all materials by January 5, 2026. For further information about this position, please contact: Dr. Christina Barsky, MPA Director and Search Committee Chair: mailto:christina.barsky@uvm.edu or Dr. Jason Konefal, CDAE Chair: mailto:jason.konefal@uvm.edu.

About the Community: Located in Burlington, Vermont's largest and most dynamic city, the University of Vermont offers faculty, staff, and students an inspiring environment. Burlington is known for its innovation, sustainability, and sense of community, set on the shores of Lake Champlain and surrounded by the scenic Green Mountains. The city consistently earns high marks for quality of life, outdoor recreation, creative culture, and civic engagement. Residents enjoy locally owned restaurants, vibrant arts and music scenes, and a welcoming environment for newcomers and long-time residents alike.

The University of Vermont is a welcoming, educationally purposeful community committed to creating an inclusive environment that embraces intellectual diversity and global perspectives. We seek to prepare students to be accountable leaders who will bring to their work a grasp of complexity, effective problem-solving and communication skills, and an enduring commitment to learning and ethical conduct. Members of the University of Vermont community embrace and advance the values of Our Common Ground: Respect, Integrity, Innovation, Openness, Justice, and Responsibility. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong commitment to UVM's mission and advancing Our Common Ground values through their teaching, service, research, scholarship, or creative arts.

Discover more about the university at http://www.UVM.edu and about Burlington at http://www.HelloBurlingtonVT.com and http://www.BurlingtonVT.gov.

The University of Vermont is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other category legally protected by federal or state law.

Job Location

Burlington, Vermont, United States

Job Close Date

12/5/2025

Category

Liberal Arts - Public Administration & Policy

Department

Com Dev & Applied Economics/51040

FLSA

Exempt

Employee FTE

1.0

Employee Term (months)

9

For full job description and to apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6699875

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16223

Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative
Rank: Senior Research Associate

The Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative (BHCLI) invites applications for a full-time Ph.D.-level Senior Research Associate to join its research team. Led by faculty director, Professor Jorrit de Jong, the research team advances knowledge on solving urban problems through effective public management, leadership, and collaborative governance—generating evidence on how to strengthen the capacity of cities and their leaders to improve residents' quality of life. The Senior Research Associate, reporting to Senior Director of Research, Dr. Quinton Mayne, will take a leading role in co-designing and executing studies aligned with this research agenda, building a field of study at the intersection of organizational behavior, public management, and urban studies, and producing research that generates actionable insights for practitioners and high-impact academic publications.

To learn more about this position and to apply, please visit: https://careers.harvard.edu/job/senior-research-associate-bloomberg-center-for-cities-in-cambridge-ma-united-states-jid-690

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16192

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley
Rank: Assistant Professor

We seek applicants dedicated to serving The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley's student body at the rank of Assistant Professor in the School of Political Science, Public Affairs, Legal and Security Studies (PPLSS), beginning September 1, 2026. The successful candidate will contribute to the development of the Master of Public Affairs (MPA) program, with a focus on strengthening its core public administration curriculum. We are particularly interested in candidates with strong quantitative skills and the ability to teach applied statistics, artificial intelligence (AI), or machine learning in public affairs contexts. The ideal candidate will integrate their research with regional policy challenges and contribute to innovative curricular offerings at the local, state, national, and global levels.

https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/49192

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16188

Harvard University

Rank: Professor of Public Policy (American Politics)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Social Movements

Harvard Kennedy School seeks a scholar of the highest distinction to appoint as a professor of public policy, focusing on American politics, elections, and policy. We particularly welcome applications from scholars whose research focuses on those American principles, institutions, and norms that support a free and fair society. Specializations may include individual liberties, federalism, government regulations and efficiency, electoral campaigns, social and religious movements, and the relationship between government and the rights of private citizens. Candidates should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Requirements include a doctorate in political science and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV to Professor Maya Sen, Search Committee Chair, via https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15417. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16149

Harvard University

Rank: Professor of Public Policy (Power and Difference)
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Housing, Social Movements

Harvard Kennedy School seeks a scholar of the highest distinction to appoint as a professor of public policy, with a special emphasis on power and difference. We particularly welcome applications from scholars with policy specializations that might include racial and ethnic inequality, economic inequality, education, family, work, housing, public finance, migration, social movements, legal reform, civil rights leadership or organization, electoral campaigns, and/or urban studies. This position is open with respect to discipline, with a particular interest in political science, sociology, or history. Candidates should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Requirements include a doctorate in a relevant field and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV to Professor Archon Fung, Search Committee Chair, via: https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15422. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16150

Murray State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Department of Political Science and Sociology invites applications for a tenure-track position in public administration starting in August 2026. We offer both an on-campus and online Master of Public Administration program with several concentrations. Teaching may include a variety of undergraduate and graduate courses in political science and public administration. We are particularly interested in candidates who can teach courses on Public Organizations, Public Sector Human Resource Management, Research Methods, and Foundations of Public Administration. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute to our undergraduate program through teaching courses, such as American Government and State and Local Government.

Candidates will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to scholarship and service as well as excellence in teaching and must also be able to use multiple delivery methods in non-traditional formats.

Responsibilities will include:
*Teaching online, in-person and ITV
*Teaching at the graduate and undergraduate level
*Contributing to other required/core courses in the program such as research methods, foundations (intro) to public administration, public policy analysis, public budgeting and finance, public organizations, and the capstone
*Contributing to other elective courses in the curriculum
*Advising students in the Master of Public Administration program
*Building relationships between the MPA program and the community
*Maintaining a record of scholarship and publications
*Building and maintaining a record of service
*Other duties as assigned.

Ph.D., DPA, or related doctorate in political science, public administration, or public policy is required. A doctorate outside of these fields may be considered with specific experience in the field. ABDs with a documented plan of completion by appointment date will be considered. Prior teaching experience is preferred.

Apply at: https://www.murraystatejobs.com/postings/12347

Along with the application, the following items must be included:
*Letter of application
*Curriculum Vitae
*Teaching Philosophy
*Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness
*Copies of transcripts
*Research Sample (please submit under "Writing Sample")

For best consideration, please submit a completed application along? with all required materials? by November 28, 2025.? Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16146

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration
Specializations: Political Development, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Social Welfare

Area: Governance and institutions
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Associate or Full Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P invites applications for a position at the associate or full professor level starting in Autumn 2026. The successful candidate will become tenured at UM6P. We are looking for an accomplished social scientist or policy scholar with specialization in the study of effective governance, political institutions, corruption, institutional reform, government accountability, and related topics. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research and teaching focus on the Global South.

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.

Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications and two recent writing samples.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16114

Mississippi College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science/Department Chair
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of History and Political Science at Mississippi College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science to start in the Fall 2026 semester. Associate Professor candidates will also be considered for the role of Department Chair, which comes with a course reduction and stipend.

Responsibilities:

Teach four courses per semester, three if department chair.
Hold office hours for student advising and mentoring.
Curriculum and program development.
Participation in departmental and university governance structures.
Active involvement in scholarly activities.
Play a key role in graduate program development.
Qualifications:

PhD in Political Science strongly preferred
D.P.A with qualifications to teach courses in American government will be considered
Primary field must be United States Government
Additional experience in Public Administration or Public Policy is desired
Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025. Additional materials may be requested after initial screening, and shortlisted candidates will be invited to interview.

To apply, please visit: https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460.

About Mississippi College: Mississippi College is a private, co-educational, comprehensive university of liberal arts, sciences, and professional studies dedicated to the pursuit of academic excellence. The 325-acre campus is located in Clinton, MS which is in the Jackson metropolitan area. Clinton is a growing community with one of the top school districts in the state. Conveniently located near I-20, it is also within easy driving distance to New Orleans, Memphis, Birmingham, and the Gulf Coast.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/9/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16101

Harvard University
Rank: FELLOWS-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM

The Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply. The call for applications for the 2026-27 academic year is completely open: we will consider any topic pertaining to the serious ethical questions of our time. All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply and will be given careful consideration; priority will be given to outstanding early career scholars and practitioners and to those whose work pertains to disagreement.

As always, our goal will be to craft a cohort in which all fellows will find valuable intellectual partnerships to support and spur their work. The ideal candidates are those who are willing to invest time and energy into building community with the other fellows in their cohort.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in—and contribute to—the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term, and working from the Center's office space at least three days per week.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with several other Centers at Harvard. We continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society
Carr-Ryan Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics and the partnering center, as well as responsibilities to both centers.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience by September 1 of the fellowship year. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The?Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

Please note that advanced language skills in both written and spoken English are required for Fellows at the Center. Fellows are expected to discuss and/or present their work in English and are encouraged to participate in informal discussions with faculty and students with related interests. Application materials, including writing samples, should be in English. If offered a fellowship, non-native English speakers who cannot demonstrate their proficiency through (1) completion of a degree from an English-speaking institution of higher education or (2) satisfactory TOEFL or IELTS scores will be contacted by the Center staff to arrange for further evaluation as needed.

STIPEND

Faculty:

We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary up to $80,000 and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Doc:

The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $7,000/month for 2026-27. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 per academic year for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioner:

Practitioner stipends are determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience, up to a maximum of $80,000. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Before beginning the application, you may wish to have the following information available:

The title of your research proposal
Names and contact information for 3 references (No letters are accepted at the application stage. Please prepare your references for the possibility that we will reach out to them for their assessment of your work. In that case, they will be asked to submit a letter and complete a form within a short turn-around period.)

To apply, complete our online application form, which will request the information noted above. You will also be asked to upload the following documents:

Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics
Curriculum Vitae
Research proposal
Recent writing sample

The deadline to submit an application is?November 15, 2025, with decisions likely to be announced in March 2026. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Please direct questions regarding this application process to?ethics_fellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16077

Harvard University
Rank: RESEARCH & DESIGN STUDIO FELLOWSHIP

Since its founding in 1986, Harvard University's Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics has convened scholars and practitioners to confront pressing ethical questions of the time. Building on this tradition, the Center invites applications for the Research & Design Studio Fellowship, a new fellowship program at the heart of the Center's innovation hub, helping a new generation of thinkers and practitioners translate ethical reflection and scholarship into practical contributions for academia and public life.

The Research & Design Studio:

The Research & Design Studio (R&DS) is an interdisciplinary network that bridges scholarship and practice. Its current theme and focus is the ethical and political dimensions of disagreement: when it proves productive, how to rebuild a culture of principled disagreement, and how to navigate difference. Through this work, the R& DS seeks to strengthen civil discourse in higher education and public life, bringing together faculty, students, researchers, and practitioners to explore how we can engage across differences more constructively. Fellows contribute to creating pedagogical resources, designing tools for dialogue, and testing models that help make engagement more inclusive and meaningful while also working on their own research projects.

Community & Collaboration:

We aim to build cohorts where fellows find valuable intellectual partnerships to support and spur their work. The ideal candidates are those committed to furthering their own projects while also investing time and energy into building community with the other fellows in their cohort.

Fellowship Expectations:

Research & Design Studio Fellows will:

Devote the majority of their time to advancing their individual research and design projects.
Participate in regular seminars with their cohort and others at the Center.
Engage actively with the Center's broader programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

Residency Requirement:

This is a residential fellowship. Fellows are expected to live in the Boston area and be present at the Center at least three days per week, with four working days per week in the area overall. Occasional travel for conferences and professional commitments is permitted.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience by September 1 of the fellowship year. Faculty, Postdoctoral Researchers, and Practitioners are all eligible to apply. Although applicants from any career stage will be considered, this Fellowship program is especially suitable for younger scholars.

Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Research & Design Studio works over the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

Please note that advanced language skills in both written and spoken English are required for Fellows at the Center. Fellows are expected to discuss and/or present their work in English and are encouraged to participate in informal discussions with faculty and students with related interests. Application materials, including writing samples, should be in English. If offered a fellowship, non-native English speakers who cannot demonstrate their proficiency through (1) completion of a degree from an English-speaking institution of higher education or (2) satisfactory TOEFL or IELTS scores will be contacted by the Center staff to arrange for further evaluation as needed.

STIPEND

Faculty:
We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary up to $80,000 and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs:
The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $7,000/month for 2026-27. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 per academic year for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioner:
Practitioner stipends are determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience, up to a maximum of $80,000. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Before beginning the application, you may wish to have the following information available:

The title of your research proposal
Names and contact information for 3 references (no letters are accepted at the application stage. Please prepare your references for the possibility that we will reach out to them for their assessment of your work. In that case, they will be asked to submit a letter and complete a form within a short turn-around period.)

To apply, complete our online application form, which will request the information noted above. You will also be asked to upload the following documents:

o Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Research & Design Studio Fellowship at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics

o Curriculum Vitae
o Research proposal, to include:
- A description of the central project you hope to pursue during your fellowship year. Please include its goals, methods, and potential impact
- Discussion of how your work connects to the themes of the Research & Design Studio, particularly around the ethical and political dimensions of disagreement
- What specific outputs or contributions (e.g., research, teaching tools, public engagement projects) do you anticipate producing by the end of your fellowship?
- How do you envision engaging with other fellows and contributing to the collaborative cohort environment?
o Recent writing sample representative of your work

The deadline to submit an application is November 15, 2025, with decisions likely to be announced in March 2026. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Please direct questions regarding this application process to?ethics_fellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16078

Florida Gulf Coast University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Public Administration. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses in an online Master of Public Administration program and contribute to the department's undergraduate program in Political Science; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Public Administration or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full position description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/eaglejobs/job/Assistant-Professor--Public-Administration_R0006855

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16033

Western Carolina University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Emergency & Disaster Management

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program within the Department of Criminology & Criminal Justice is seeking a faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track), beginning August 1, 2026. This is a nine-month position with summer teaching possibilities and is for our residential program with some likely online teaching responsibilities. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Responsibilities include teaching, research, and service.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in Emergency Management, Criminology/Criminal Justice, Political Science, Public Administration, Public Health, Urban Planning, or other discipline closely related to the field of Emergency & Disaster Management. Highly qualified ABD candidates will be considered if completion of the degree is imminent. Candidates must have a clearly articulated research agenda in Emergency & Disaster Management, experience and/or graduate coursework related to Emergency & Disaster Management, and a commitment of academic excellence and collegiality.

The Emergency and Disaster Management Program has an established record of engaging students through undergraduate research and experiential learning and is consistently ranked as one of the best undergraduate programs in the nation. The ideal candidate will have an interest in contributing to these efforts and have a firm foundation to teach a range of emergency and disaster management courses.

Application Process:
Application materials must be submitted online to the Western Carolina University Human Resources Portal at http://jobs.wcu.edu . Candidates should submit an online candidate profile, cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, unofficial transcripts, evidence of teaching experience/philosophy, and contact information for three current references.

Review of applications will begin October 15th and continue until the position is filled.

Contact:
Inquiries may be directed to Committee Chair and EDM Director Dr. Lisa Briggs at lbriggs@wcu.edu or 828.227.2180.

About WCU:
Western Carolina University is the UNC system's westernmost campus and has been consistently ranked as one of the Top 15 public regional institutions in the South. WCU's main campus sits in the beautiful mountains of Western, North Carolina, near the Great Smoky and Blue Ridge mountains, fifty-two miles west of Asheville. WCU's location in the rural mountains amidst incredible biodiversity and unique communities creates an opportunity for academic discovery and is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts. The campus covers approximately 600 acres, with a student body population of over 11,500. Please go to https://www.wcu.edu for more information.

Western Carolina University holds inclusive excellence as a core value, and we work together to foster a welcoming community, where all are respected and know they belong. WCU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16027

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Department Chair
Specializations: Criminal Justice, International Security, Intelligence

Job Description: The Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is seeking a Department Chair at the rank of Full Professor with an outstanding record of scholarly research and grants as well as experience in strategic planning, program-building initiatives, and faculty mentoring. We seek a leader with management and analytical skills, and a strategic planner committed to consolidating the national reputation of the department and its robust programs. The Department Chair will support recruitment and retention of faculty and staff, advocate for a strategic vision for the undergraduate and graduate programs, and foster an environment of inclusive excellence for students.

Required Qualifications:
- Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Political Science, Public Policy, or closely related field. Applicants with a J.D., Psy.D., or Ed.D. (without a Ph.D.) will not be considered.
- Rank of Full Professor.
- Administrative or leadership experience at the Departmental, College, and/or University levels.
- Funded extramural grants and an active scholarly publication record commensurate with a Full Professor at a Carnegie R1 institution.

Preferred Qualifications: Preference will be given to candidates with experience as Department Chair.

Application Instructions: To apply, go to www.utep.edu/employment. If you have questions about the position, please contact the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Ted Curry: trcurry@utep.edu Applicants must electronically submit FOUR files:
- Letter of interest that includes relevant administrative and leadership experiences and how they fit into UTEP, a university with the double designation of R1 and HSI; research/grants accomplishments/ impact, areas of expertise and their fit within the Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies at UTEP.
- Statement of Leadership and Management Philosophy.
- Curriculum vita
- Names and full contact information of three professional references.

Application Review Date: Review of applications will begin November 21, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled. Hiring decisions are based on budget approval.

About the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP): UTEP stands out as a Carnegie R1, open-access, Hispanic-Serving Institution (HSI), and community engaged research university at the heart of the U.S.-Mexico border region that is increasing access to excellent higher education. We advance discovery of public value and positively impact the health, culture, education, and economy of the community we serve. UTEP enrolls over 26,000 students—84% of whom are Hispanic and half of whom are the first in their families to attend college. UTEP offers 170 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs at the only open-access, R1 research university in America.

The UTEP Department of Criminal Justice and Security Studies is one of the largest departments in the College of Liberal Arts and offers six degree programs for over 1,200 students. Three undergraduate degrees are in Criminal Justice (B.A.), an equivalent 100% online B.A., and an online B.A. in Security Studies. The graduate programs offered are Criminology and Criminal Justice (M.S.), Intelligence and National Security Studies (M.S.) and an online Master of Defense and Strategic Studies (MDSS).

El Paso's active arts and culture community features the state's longest-running symphony orchestra, a nationally recognized chamber music festival, a vibrant street art and mural scene, art galleries, museums, and a full schedule of seasonal events and festivals. UTEP adds to the arts and entertainment scene with concerts and live events at the city's largest indoor and outdoor venues; theater, music and dance productions; contemporary and student art galleries; and a natural history museum and desert gardens. El Paso is also an ideal location for year-round hiking, mountain biking, rock climbing, and other outdoor activities in the nearby Franklin Mountains. For sports fans, the UTEP Miners offer exciting Division I college athletics at Sun Bowl Stadium and the Don Haskins Center. We are also the home of the El Paso Chihuahuas, the Triple-A baseball affiliate of the San Diego Padres, and the El Paso Locomotive FC, a professional soccer team.

In keeping with its access, excellence, and impact mission, The University of Texas at El Paso is committed to an open, diverse, and inclusive learning and working environment that honors the talents, respects the differences, and nurtures the growth and development of all. We seek to attract faculty and staff who share our commitment.

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, or sexual orientation and gender in employment or the provision of services in accordance with state and federal law. Discrimination on the basis of sex includes an employee's or prospective employee's right to be free from sexual harassment under Title IX of the Higher Education Amendments of 1972.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2025
Salary: $100,000 - $109,999
eJobs ID: 15978

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Open, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

University of Missouri-Columbia
College of Arts and Science
Truman School of Government and Public Affairs
Assistant Professor

Job Description
The University of Missouri, Columbia is seeking a tenure-track assistant professor with a research agenda that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas) and who can contribute to teaching needs in at least one of these areas: public administration, comparative politics, international relations and/or research methods. The position begins in the Fall Semester of 2026. This is a 9-month teaching and research appointment. The typical teaching load will be 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy/Administration, or related field, by the time of appointment.

Candidates will be evaluated on:
Competitive applicants will have a clear research agenda in an area that builds on the Truman School's emerging research strengths (https://truman.missouri.edu/research-areas), strong theoretical orientation, excellent methodological skills, ability to publish in highly ranked journals and academic presses, and potential for effective teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Applicants from scholars from all research areas and fields in Public Administration, Political Science, and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Candidate must contribute to addressing TSGPA's teaching needs in public administration, comparative politics, international relations, and/or research methods. Competitive candidates will have the ability to develop courses in these areas if they lack prior experience.

Application Materials

Please apply online at: https://hr.missouri.edu/job-openings (Job Opening ID 57198). Use the online application and be prepared to upload your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, research statement, teaching statement, and writing samples. The cover letter should address current and future research and teaching interests. Please also provide evidence of effective teaching. Your teaching statement should describe your pedagogical goals/practices including information about your ability to teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students with multiple perspectives, backgrounds, and experiences.

Candidates should provide three letters of recommendations to the Truman School Director's Office (mutsgpadirector@missouri.edu).

Applicants may contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Dr. Bryce Reeder (reederbw@missouri.edu), with any questions about the job duties. Contact Andrew Longley (Andrew.longley@umsystem.edu) for any questions about the application process. We will begin reviewing applications on September 22, 2025, and continue until the position is filled.

The Truman School of Government and Public Affairs houses a PhD in Political Science, a PhD in Public Affairs, a Master's in Public Affairs, and a Master's in Defense and Strategic Studies, as well as BA in Political Science, and a BA in Public Administration and Policy. For more information see: https://truman.missouri.edu/

Benefit Eligibility
This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits

Equal Employment Opportunity
The University of Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer. To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility and ADA at 573-884-7278.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/31/2025
Date Posted: 9/2/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15866

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, College of Arts and Sciences, at the University of Rhode Island is recruiting for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. This is a tenure-track, academic year appointment at the rank of assistant professor to commence in the Fall of 2026.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's strategic goal to foster an inclusive culture is "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." For more information about our commitment to diversity, please visit: https://web.uri.edu/president/strategic-plan/priority-3/

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
We invite applications for a faculty position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to both graduate and undergraduate teaching, research, and service responsibilities within the department and the University.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses in Public Management or Public Policy that are part of the core requirements for the online Master of Public Administration (MPA) program, as well as courses supporting online graduate certificates. In addition, the candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses in areas such as Public Administration, Public Management, Public Policy, and other subjects aligned with their area of expertise. Experience with or interest in online instruction is strongly preferred.

Applicants should demonstrate a clear research agenda and the potential to produce original, high-quality scholarship in the fields of Public Administration and/or Public Policy. A record of peer-reviewed publications or evidence of research promise is expected. The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research profile that contributes to the discipline.

The faculty member will contribute to the governance and ongoing development of the MPA program, including curriculum planning, Capstone advising, and program assessment. In addition to department-level duties, the candidate will provide service to the University and engage with the broader academic and professional community.

QUALIFICATIONS: REQUIRED
1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2026, in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

2) Specialization in Public Management subfields or a specialized public policy-related field.

3) Demonstrated ability to teach courses in at least two of the following: Seminar in Public Administration and Policy, Ethics in Public Administration and Policy, Public Personnel Management, Public Budgeting and Finance, or other Public Management courses.

4) Demonstrated ability to teach undergraduate political science courses in at least one of the following areas: Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

5) Demonstrated ability or potential to effectively deliver high-quality graduate-level online courses, with strong record of effective teaching and student engagement in virtual learning environments.

6) Evidence of research in the field of Public Administration or Public Policy with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.

7) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

QUALIFICATIONS: PREFERRED
Preference will be given to candidates who can provide a strong plan for active publication and who can demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellent teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: ethics in public administration or policy, performance management, representative bureaucracy, leadership, information and technology management, local government management, or specific policy-related fields.

2) Evidence of online instruction or extensive training in online pedagogy.

3) Ability to teach on identity plurality and their intersections in public administration and policy.

CANDIDATES WILL BE REQUIRED TO ELECTRONICALLY SUBMIT
1) A cover letter that describes your interest in this position.

2) A Curriculum Vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document).

3) A brief research and teaching statement.

4) "Other Document" - A statement reflecting how you will support URI's strategic priorities in "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." (as one complete pdf document).

5) "Other" - If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work (Document is Optional).

The application deadline is September 14, 2025.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15547

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15762

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration
Specializations: International Security, Public Finance & Budgeting, Leadership Studies

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP), National University of Singapore, invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor appointments. One position will be in international security (political science-international relations or other relevant disciplines), which is broadly defined to include traditional and emerging security issues. For the other two positions—in public policy and public administration—the areas of interest are open; however, there is a particular interest in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of international relations, political science, public policy, public administration, or related disciplines;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) to the Hiring Committee via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30182. The deadline for submitting the package is September 1, 2025.

The package should include:

1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.

5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Members of the hiring committee will be attending the APSA Annual Conference in Vancouver and will be available for an informational session and preliminary interviews. Shortlisted candidates who are unable to meet at APSA will be contacted separately over email. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15632

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – Public Administration/Public Management

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP) at the National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration/Public Management. We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:

- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of public administration, public management, public policy, political science, or a related discipline at the time of appointment;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30180.

The package should include:
1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Applications submitted prior to September 15, 2025 will receive preference; but the review of applications will continue until positions are filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified. Initial face-to-face conversations may be conducted at the Asian Association for Public Administration Conference in October 2025 in Beijing, or at other relevant international conferences in 2025. Promising candidates not attending these events will be invited to a Zoom conversation. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15631

PUBLIC LAW

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assisant Professor of Practice (Pre-Law)

Description

Position will provide teaching and service to cover courses in the pre-law specialization and pre-law minor; oversee recruitment and retention for pre-law in the College; and provide advisement/mentoring to pre-law students. This is a nine-month appointment with an anticipated start date of August 11, 2026. This is a full-time, renewable, non-tenure-track position. The position reports to the Director of School of Anthropology, Political Science, and Sociology.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, while also considering internal equity.

Examples of Duties

The candidate's workload will be determined annually by the School Director based upon a workload equivalent of 24 credit hours of teaching. The workload assignment will consist of teaching three courses per semester (9 hours) plus indirect teaching and service (3 hours).

Teaching includes:

Two introductory pre-law sections: POLS 230 (on-campus, Fall) and POLS 230 (online, Spring),
At least one of the required Constitutional Law courses: POLS 333A and 333B,
At least one of the following: POLS 435, POLS 436, POLS 437, POLS 438, POLS 475, or another course (POLS 416 or a course to be developed) that provides advanced preparation for applying to law school and a legal career.

Indirect teaching includes duties such as mentoring pre-law students, new course development, and directed readings.

Service to the pre-law specialization and the pre-law minor includes:

Serving as the coordinator for the pre-law program in Political Science. This requires working with the Director and the Political Science pre-law faculty on assessing the pre-law specialization and the pre-law minor.
Actively participating in recruitment and retention for the pre-law specialization, and for the School and College.
Engaging in faculty governance and service responsibilities as designated by the Director.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:

Appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor of Practice requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field or a JD.
The candidate must also have teaching experience in law or pre-law and demonstrated commitment to student-centered pedagogy and mentoring diverse student populations.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience advising students for careers in law.
Demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching and service.
Required Documents: Submit a letter of application, CV, teaching statement, and three references.

Contact: Kenneth Mulligan, kmulliga@siu.edu

Supplemental Information
School of Anthropology, Political Science and Sociology candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students and who can contribute to the climate of inclusivity are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas in their cover letter. New faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are offered competitive startup packages, often including graduate teaching or research assistant support and summer salary, designed to jumpstart research scholarship. All applications are welcomed and encouraged and will receive consideration.

Southern Illinois University Carbondale is an R1 Opportunity University with a statewide economic impact of $2.7 billion dollars. We offer 200+ undergraduate degrees, minors and specializations, 79 master's degrees, and 40 doctoral degrees. Our main campus is 1,136 acres, with additional acreage in University Farms, Touch of Nature Outdoor Education Center, and other facilities. The university is an essential part of the city of Carbondale and an important contributor to the culture of the entire region. While Carbondale includes many of the amenities of urban life, it retains its small-town flavor. Cost of living is considerably lower in the region than similar areas elsewhere, and many employees commute from nearby counties.

The Southern Illinois region is distinct from the rest of the state, boasting considerable natural beauty including the Shawnee National Forest, many state parks, national wildlife areas, and several lakes beloved for recreation. Local foods are readily available in the area, with a variety of eateries and a growing specialized food truck presence. The area is home to the Shawnee Hills Wine Trail, an official wine appellation designation. The wineries extend the cultural reach of the community, hosting live music and continual art exhibits. The campus itself is a microcosm of the area, with a lake and forest on campus, as well as traditional collegiate architecture, quad, and residential halls. Students enjoy outdoor study areas as well as specialized computer labs scattered across campus, including in the three million volume Morris Library. To learn about employee benefits, employee tuition waivers, and find resources about Carbondale and the Southern Illinois region, visit: https://jobs.siu.edu/.

SIU Carbondale is an Equal Opportunity Employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status.

Employer
Southern Illinois University - Carbondale

Address
900 S. Normal Ave

Carbondale, Illinois, 62901
Website
https://siu.edu/

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/1/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16243

Southern Illinois University, Carbondale

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science or Sociology

The School of Anthropology, Political Science, and Sociology (SAPSS) invites scholars with potential for excellence in research and teaching to apply for consideration as an Assistant Professor in Political Science or Sociology. This is a tenure-tracked nine-month appointment with an anticipated start date of August 11, 2026. The position reports to the Director of SAPSS.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, while also considering internal equity.

Examples of Duties

The selected candidate will participate in undergraduate and graduate teaching, engage in scholarly research and provide service to the School/University appropriate to the rank of assistant professor. Normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications: Appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor requires a Ph.D. in Political Science, Sociology, or a closely related field. The selected candidate must also demonstrate commitment to research and teaching in computational methods in support of our pre-law program.

Preferred Qualifications: Candidates who have a demonstrated record of peer-reviewed publications using computational methods such as AI, machine learning, textual analysis, network analysis, and large language models. Candidates who are prepared to teach methods at the undergraduate and graduate level. Candidates whose substantive focus is on law and politics, law and society, or criminology.

Required Documents :Submit a letter of application, CV, teaching statement, research statement, and three references.

Contact: Tobin Grant, grant@siu.edu

Supplemental Information

School of Anthropology, Political Science and Sociology candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students and who can contribute to the climate of inclusivity are encouraged to identify their experiences in these areas in their cover letter. New faculty in the College of Liberal Arts are offered competitive startup packages, often including graduate teaching or research assistant support and summer salary, designed to jumpstart research scholarship. All applications are welcomed and encouraged and will receive consideration.

Southern Illinois University Carbondale is an R1 Opportunity University with a statewide economic impact of $2.7 billion dollars. We offer 200+ undergraduate degrees, minors and specializations, 79 master's degrees, and 40 doctoral degrees. Our main campus is 1,136 acres, with additional acreage in University Farms, Touch of Nature Outdoor Education Center, and other facilities. The university is an essential part of the city of Carbondale and an important contributor to the culture of the entire region. While Carbondale includes many of the amenities of urban life, it retains its small-town flavor. Cost of living is considerably lower in the region than similar areas elsewhere, and many employees commute from nearby counties.

The Southern Illinois region is distinct from the rest of the state, boasting considerable natural beauty including the Shawnee National Forest, many state parks, national wildlife areas, and several lakes beloved for recreation. Local foods are readily available in the area, with a variety of eateries and a growing specialized food truck presence. The area is home to the Shawnee Hills Wine Trail, an official wine appellation designation. The wineries extend the cultural reach of the community, hosting live music and continual art exhibits. The campus itself is a microcosm of the area, with a lake and forest on campus, as well as traditional collegiate architecture, quad, and residential halls. Students enjoy outdoor study areas as well as specialized computer labs scattered across campus, including in the three million volume Morris Library. To learn about employee benefits, employee tuition waivers, and find resources about Carbondale and the Southern Illinois region, visit: https://jobs.siu.edu/.

SIU Carbondale is an Equal Opportunity Employer, including but not limited to disability and/or veteran status.

Employer

Southern Illinois University - Carbondale
Address
900 S. Normal Ave

Carbondale, Illinois, 62901
Website
https://siu.edu/

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/1/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16242

University of California, Riverside

Rank: Tenured Associate or Full Professor of Teaching - Law and Society

The Department of Political Science at the University of California, Riverside, invites applications for a tenured position at the rank of Associate or Full Professor of Teaching whose teaching and scholarship specializes in law and society and/or law and politics as part of an effort to develop our law-related curriculum and expand the interdisciplinary Law and Society Program in the College of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences. The Department has a strong preference for scholars who approach the subjects of law and society/law and politics from the perspectives of comparative politics or American political development, but candidates outside these areas with an appropriate terminal degree will be considered. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field, or JD is required at the time of application.

The successful candidate must be able to develop and teach courses with substantive legal content and have a record of scholarship, which may include pedagogical research. The faculty member hired through this search will be expected to teach classes and take an active service role in both the Department of Political Science and the interdisciplinary Law and Society Program in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. Professors of Teaching in the University of California are full academic senate members and are expected to engage in research, teaching, and service. The typical course load is six classes over the academic year. The appointment level and salary will be competitive and commensurate with education and experience. The appointment will commence on July 1, 2026.

Advancement through the faculty ranks at the University of California is through a series of structured, merit-based evaluations, occurring every 2-3 years, each of which includes substantial peer input.
Application Procedure: Applications must be received electronically via the UC Recruit at https://aprecruit.ucr.edu/apply/JPF02194 . Complete applications must include a cover letter of interest, an updated CV, a research statement, a writing sample, teaching evidence or evaluations, and names and contact information for 3-5 professional references. References will be contacted once an applicant has moved to the finalist stage. Only complete applications will be reviewed by the committee. To ensure full consideration, applications and supporting material should be received by January 21, 2026.

The University of California values salary transparency and reports salaries annually in the UC Annual Wage Database. The posted UC salary scales set the minimum pay determined by rank and/or step at appointment. See Table(s) https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2025-26/policy-covered-october-2025-scales/t1.pdf. Salary range for Associate Professor of Teaching is $99,600 - $125,500. Salary range for Full Professor of Teaching is $116,600 - $212,000. "Off-scale salaries" and other components of pay, i.e., a salary that is higher than the published system-wide salary at the designated rank and step, are offered when necessary to meet competitive condition.

Questions should be directed to Search Committee Chair John Cioffi (cioffi@ucr.edu). Department Contact person: Christina Gnuschke (christina.gnuschke@ucr.edu), Political Science FAO.

The University of California, Riverside is a world-class research university with an exceptionally diverse undergraduate student body. UCR is a member institution of the American Association of Universities (AAU) and the Alliance of Hispanic Serving Research Universities (HSRU). A commitment to the UCR mission (https://apro.ucr.edu/mission-statement) is a preferred qualification.

We seek to hire scholars who will both advance our research directions and effectively educate our undergraduate and graduate students, while also engaging with University and Professional service activities. Research and teaching statements that are included with application materials are opportunities for candidates to share knowledge, experience, and goals that support the mission of UCR. For more information on UC's criteria for successful faculty, refer to the Academic Personnel Manual (APM) 210 - Criteria for Appointment, Promotion, and Appraisal (https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/apm/apm-210.pdf).

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories under state or federal law. It is the policy of the University of California to undertake affirmative action and anti-discrimination efforts, consistent with its obligations as a Federal and State contractor.

As a University employee, you will be required to comply with all applicable University policies and/or collective bargaining agreements, as may be amended from time to time. Federal, State, or local government directives may impose additional requirements.

As a condition of employment, the finalist will be required to disclose if they are subject to any final administrative or judicial decisions within the last seven years determining that they committed any misconduct.

"Misconduct" means any violation of the policies or laws governing conduct at the applicant's previous place of employment, including, but not limited to, violations of policies or laws prohibiting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other forms of harassment or discrimination, as defined by the employer. A Misconduct Disclosure Survey will be completed through Truescreen, which is the vendor that administers this process for the campus.

For the University of California's Violence and Sexual Harassment Policy please visit: https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000385/SVSH.

For the University of California's Anti-Discrimination Policy for Employees, Students, and Third Parties, please visit: https://policy.ucop.edu/doc/1001004/Anti-Discrimination.

For the University of California's Affirmative Action and Nondiscrimination in Employment Policy, please visit: https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/apm/apm-035.pdf.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/21/2026
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16249

Seton Hall University

Rank: Assistant Professor -- International Human Rights Law & Public International Law

Assistant Professor -- International Human Rights Law & Public International Law

Job No: 497064

Full Time/Part Time: Full-time

Location: South Orange

Categories: Faculty

Teach and produce scholarship in the area of human rights and international law. Mentor J.D., graduate, and undergraduate students in a professional school of international affairs and in a law school.

Duties and Responsibilities:

The School of Diplomacy and International Relations at Seton Hall University and Seton Hall Law School invite applications for a joint appointment to a tenure-track assistant professor position in international human rights law and public international law to commence in the 2026-2027 academic year. The primary appointment will be to the School of Diplomacy, where the faculty member will teach in our graduate and undergraduate programs, including our new undergraduate degree in Law and Diplomacy. The successful candidate will teach three classes (9 credits) in the School of Diplomacy and two classes (5-6 credits) in the Law School per year. The expertise to teach and develop other courses related to international law is a plus.

Required Qualifications:

Applicants must possess a J.D. and/or a Ph.D. in a related discipline. Applicants with a Ph.D. should also have either a JD or an LLM. Applicants should have their degrees in hand by the time of their appointment. Successful applicants will demonstrate the ability or potential to teach effectively in a professional school at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and in a law school. All applicants should have strong research backgrounds or demonstrate substantial potential for conducting important academic research in their field of specialization.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available), an example of scholarly work, a graduate transcript, and contact information for three referees. The committee will invite candidates to ask their referees to submit letters during the first round of interviews. Review of applications will begin on January 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Salary Range:

$69,822-$77,581

Exempt/Nonexempt: Exempt

Physical Demands: General Office Environment

Special Instructions to Applicants:

Other documents: evidence of teaching effectiveness; graduate transcript. As indicated above, please provide contact information for three referees. The committee will invite candidates to ask their referees to submit letters during the first round of interviews; please direct them to send letters to mailto:susan.malcolm@ shu.edu using the subject line "Human Rights/International Law Search."

Benefits Information:

Full Time Benefits

Life today is complex. That's why Seton Hall University offers a comprehensive package of benefits and programs to help you simplify and enrich your life.

These benefits are important elements of your total university compensation package. Benefits include but are not limited to bundled medical, prescription, and vision insurance, dental insurance, and life insurance, and retirement plan. More information is available at https://www.shu.edu/human-resources/benefits.html.

Seton Hall University is located in South Orange, New Jersey, 14 miles from New York City. It is the oldest Catholic diocesan institution of higher education in the United States and is home to about 6,300 undergraduate and 3,700 graduate students. A vibrant and culturally inclusive community, Seton Hall pursues academic excellence and ethical development in a collaborative environment and prepares its students to be servant leaders in their professional and community lives. Seton Hall University is an equal opportunity employer. It honors diverse perspectives and welcomes employees from all faith traditions. In turn, its faculty respects Catholic beliefs and values, engages the Catholic Intellectual Tradition, and supports the University's mission as a Catholic institution of higher education.

Advertised: 12 November 2025 Eastern Daylight Time

Application Closes: Eastern Daylight Time

To apply, visit https://apptrkr.com/6719024

Copyright ©2025 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

https://www.jobelephant.com/

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16219

Indiana University-Bloomington

Rank: Non-Tenure Track Faculty Position in Law and Public Policy

The O'Neill School of Public and Environmental Affairs (O'Neill) at Indiana University, Bloomington campus, invites applications for a full-time, renewable, non-tenure track academic year appointment as a Lecturer or Clinical faculty position to teach in its expanding Law and Public Policy program. The course assignments are flexible, with topics related to areas such as constitutional law, administrative law, legal history, and legislative processes. The school has a particular interest in candidates with a background in environmental law and/or dispute resolution.

Qualifications for this position are: 1) a J.D. degree from an ABA accredited law school; 2) at least 10 years of professional experience in legal practice or a law-related field, such as policymaking; 3) teaching or extensive presentation experience; and 4) commitment to high quality teaching and student mentoring. 'Though not required, one or more of the following would be advantageous: significant professional experience in negotiation and/or conflict resolution; professional experience in environmental law and/or environmental policymaking; classroom teaching experience, particularly at the college level; and training or practice in other areas of O'Neill's undergraduate curriculum such as labor and employment law, health law, administrative law, or ethics.

Individuals appointed within Lecturer or Clinical faculty positions are expected to focus on teaching (including course development, revision, and delivery), as well as on teaching-related service such as student advising and curriculum development. Those appointed as Clinical faculty are also expected to actively engage in service to relevant academic and practitioner communities. Lecturers and Clinical faculty are eligible for promotions to higher ranks within lines (Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Teaching Professor; Clinical Assistant Professor to Clinical Associate Professor and Clinical Full Professor).

The standard teaching assignment for Lecturer and Clinical faculty positions is six courses per year. Lecturers and Clinical faculty are not eligible for tenure but will be considered for promotion and/or long-term contracts no later than the sixth year of appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. The expected start date is August 1, 2026.

To ensure consideration, application materials must be received by December 1, 2025. However, the search may continue until the position is filled. Please submit via the online system https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/30956, the following materials: 1) a letter of application; 2) a current vita that includes a history of academic and professional experience; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy including approaches to course design and classroom instruction and a description of successful teaching, training, and/or related professional experience (including online/distance-learning instructional experience, if applicable) and 4) contact information for three references. For more information, please contact the search committee chair: Dr. Kenneth Richards (kenricha@iu.edu).

O'Neill-Bloomington is the largest school of public affairs and public policy in the United States, with over 4,000 students, and for five years has ranked in one of the top two spots of the U.S. News & World Report rankings for graduate public affairs schools in the country. Six of O'Neill's specialty programs are ranked in the top five listings nationally, O'Neill is also tied for the topranked public administration program according to the 2020 Academic Ranking of World Universities. The school attracts very high performing faculty and students and provides a collegial workplace environment.

Indiana University is a major research University founded in 1820 and currently enrolls over 38,000 undergraduates and 10,000 graduate and professional students on the Bloomington campus. Additional information about the school and Indiana University can be found at https://oneill.indiana.edu/. Bloomington is a welcoming community located in the beautiful, wooded hills of southern Indiana approximately 1 hour from Indianapolis and 4 hours from Chicago, with abundant cultural and recreational opportunities, low housing costs, and excellent schools. Additional information about the city of Bloomington can be found at https://www.visitbloomington.com/.

Indiana University is an equal opportunity employer and provider of ADA services and prohibits discrimination in hiring. See Indiana University's Notice of Non-Discrimination here which includes contact information.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16199

California State University, Northridge

Rank: Part Time Lecturer
Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Law, Public Law
Specializations: American Politics, United States, Constitutional Law & Theory

Department: Political Science Effective Date of Appointment: Spring 2026

CSUN's Commitment to You:
CSUN is committed to achieving excellence through teaching, scholarship, learning and inclusion. Our values include a respect for all people, building partnerships with the community and the encouragement of innovation, experimentation and creativity. CSUN strives to cultivate a community in which a diverse population can learn and work in an atmosphere of civility and respect. CSUN is especially interested in candidates who make contributions to equity and inclusion in the pursuit of excellence for all members of the university community.

As a Hispanic-serving Institution (HSI), inclusiveness and diversity are integral to CSUN's commitment to excellence in teaching, research, and engagement. As of Fall 2024, CSUN enrolls 36,848 students, where 56.3% are Latinx, 18.9% are White, 8.7% are Asian-American, 5.3% are Black/African American, 0.1% are Native American, and 0.1% are Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander.

For more information about the University, visit our website at: http://www.csun.edu

About the College:
For information about the College, visit our website at: https://www.csun.edu/social-behavioral-sciences

About the Department:
For information about the department, visit our website at: https://www.csun.edu/social-behavioral-sciences/political-science

ANTICIPATED NEEDS:

Note: All part-time faculty appointments are temporary and do not confer academic rank. Final determination of part-time teaching assignments is contingent upon student enrollment figures and funding. In addition to teaching, the position requires weekly office hours and participation in assessment of student learning, and university. The successful candidate will be held to the standards and requirements of the college and department in which he/she/they is/are employed. Given CSUN's commitment to excellence in teaching, research, and engagement in a diverse environment, the successful candidate will help the Department achieve equitable academic outcomes for all students through teaching, student mentorship, and scholarship.

Position:
POLS 471F Proseminar Public Law

Qualifications:
1) Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field, be in the advanced stages of Ph.D. candidacy, or hold a J.D. Applicants who are in the advanced stages of Ph.D. must have passed the comprehensive examination for the Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field. A background in public law is required.

2) A demonstrated ability and commitment to teach, mentor and work with a diverse student population.

Salary Range
Fractional Amount of Base Salary ($5507 - $6221)
Paid in 6 monthly installments

Current Courses or Specialization (Specify time if appropriate)

Application Process:

Applicants must submit a current resume, a cover letter, a sample syllabus, evidence of teaching effectiveness to the address in the section below. The resume should include educational background, prior teaching experience, evidence of scholarship, and/or related professional experience. In later phases of the search process, applicants may be requested to provide verification of terminal degrees, licenses and certificates.

Application Deadline:
For Spring 2026: November 17, 2025

Inquiries and applications should be emailed to keiko.hirata@csun.edu and copied to sue.talavera@csun.edu.
With a subject line of "Lecturer application Spring 2026".

Dr. Keiko Hirata, Chair & Eugene Price Professor Department of Political Science
California State University, Northridge
18111 Nordhoff Street
Northridge, CA 91330-8254

General Information:

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to work in the United States. Applicants must be authorized to work for any employer in the United States.

Please note: California State University, Northridge (CSUN) is currently not sponsoring applicants for H-1B employment that are subject to the $100,000 fee established by the "Presidential Proclamation: Restriction on Entry of Certain Nonimmigrant Workers" issued on September 19, 2025. Applicants are responsible for determining the applicability of the fee.

In compliance with the Annual Security Report & Fire Safety Report of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, California State University, Northridge has made crime-reporting statistics available on-line here. Print copies are available by request from the Department of Police Services, the Office for Faculty Affairs, and the Office of Equity and Diversity.

The person holding this position may be considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the status of applicants. Please note that working in the state of California is a condition of employment.

CSUN is an Equal Opportunity Employer and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, ethnicity, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, and disability. Our nondiscrimination policy is set forth in Interim CSU Nondiscrimination Policy. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for applicants with disabilities who self-disclose by contacting Political Science at 818-677- 3488.

Start Date: Spring 2026

Application Deadline: 11/17/2025
Date Posted: 11/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16187

Florida Atlantic University

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Public Law
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Florida Atlantic University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law, open subfield, at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning August 2026. Candidates should expect to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in public law, offer introductory undergraduate courses, and closely advise students interested in law. Eligible candidates will hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (or commensurate discipline), with preference given to candidates who additionally hold a J.D. with legal experience.

Those hired will have a teaching load of 3/2 and should be able to provide instruction in a variety of modalities, including online, hybrid and in-person. We seek a program builder who can demonstrate both the ability and commitment to establish and lead a pre-law program. Preference will be given to candidates who also show promise in securing external support through public or private grants. We favor applicants who are comfortable working with those in the local legal community to build relationships and networks between students and those practicing in the community.

The Department of Political Science has 17 faculty members committed to excellence in research and teaching. The department has over 400 undergraduate majors and 25 Master's students. The department also contributes to the College of Arts & Letters' interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Comparative Studies. Programs in the department or led by department faculty include the Advanced Campaigning Program, the FAU Florida Internship Program and the Leon Charney Diplomacy Program and the Political Communication and Public Opinion Research (PolCom) Lab.

Further information about the department can be found at: https://www.fau.edu/artsandletters/politicalscience/

Summary of Responsibilities:
- Responsible to a Chair or other appropriate administrator of a State university.
- Responsible for teaching, research, service, and related administrative activities.
- Responsible for academic advising and related activities.
- Responsible for a teaching load of 3/2 with the ability to provide instruction in a variety of modalities, including online, hybrid and in-person.
- Responsible for seeking internal and external grants.
- May represent the university, college/school, or department/unit on university and/or Statewide committees.

Minimum Qualifications:
- A Ph.D. in political science or a related field.

Salary:
Commensurate with Experience

College or Department:
Dorothy F. Schmidt College of Arts and Letters/Department of Political Science

Location:
Boca Raton

Work Days and Hours:
N/A

Application Deadline:
2025-12-15

Special Instructions to Applicant:
This position is open until filled and may close without prior notice.

This position is subject to funding.

All applicants must apply electronically to the currently posted position on the Office of Human Resources' job website (https://fau.edu/jobs) by completing the required employment application for this recruitment and submitting the related documents.

Required Documents:
FAU's Career Page permits the attachment of required/requested documentation.

PLEASE NOTE: A maximum of five (5) documents may be attached to your application. If more than five (5) documents are required for submission, please combine additional documents into a single attachment to not exceed the maximum permitted.

The site permits the attachment of required/requested documentation. Candidates wishing full consideration are to provide the following: (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) research statement, (4) teaching statement and (5) the names and email addresses of three persons who will be writing letters of recommendation (letters will be solicited later).

Transcripts:
The selected candidate for this position is required to submit an official transcript sent directly from the institution for the Provost's credential file prior to the first day of employment. Similarly, for degrees from outside the United States, the evaluation by an organization belonging to the National Association of Credential Evaluation (NACES), with an indication of the documents the evaluation was prepared from (official transcripts, diplomas, dissertation abstracts) is required for the Provost's credential file prior to the first day of employment. Transcripts must be issued to Florida Atlantic University, not to the individual applicant.

Background Screening:
Selected candidates must successfully complete and pass all employment screenings prior to the start of employment. Employment screenings may include a criminal background check (level I and level II), motor vehicle check, credit check, reference checks, alcohol, and drug screening check.

Accommodations:
Individuals requiring accommodation, please call 561-297-3057. 711

To Apply:
https://fau.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/FAU/details/Assistant-or-Associate-Professor-of-Public-Law_REQ21125

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 12/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16128

Truman State University

Rank: Interdisciplinary Assistant Professor (NTT) in Social Science and Human Inquiry
Subfield(s): Other, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: African American Politics, History & Politics, Social Welfare

The School of Arts and Humanities at Truman State University seeks applicants for an interdisciplinary, non-tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin August 2026. Applicants' field(s) of study/research should fall within one or more of these broad academic fields: African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, Health Studies.

This position is a full-time, nine-month appointment located on Truman's campus in Kirksville, Missouri. In addition to the duties and responsibilities described below, faculty are expected to contribute to the campus culture of the Liberal Arts and Sciences and interdisciplinarity by teaching in the University's core curriculum (The Dialogues) and contributing to interdisciplinary initiatives and coursework as needed.

This position is subject to annual renewal up to three years.

Responsibilities: The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory courses in at least one of the major programs within the SSHI department (see below) and upper-level electives complementing existing offerings in two of the department's major programs OR in one of the department's major programs AND another program at Truman. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach courses to support Truman's Dialogues curriculum, campuswide interdisciplinary programs, participate in SSHI departmental activities including student recruitment, and perform other regular service to the University and community.

Required Qualifications: Appointment requires a terminal degree in at least one of the above-mentioned interdisciplinary areas or one of the academic fields represented in the SSHI department (with a research or teaching background in the interdisciplinary field).

Applicants will be evaluated on:

- academic qualifications,
- compatibility with department and university needs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching introductory courses in one or more major programs within SSHI,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in one of the SSHI major programs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies,

Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in a second SSHI major program OR a major program outside the SSHI department,

- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses in one of Truman's Dialogues perspectives,
- evidence of teaching effectiveness, including potential for developing critical thinking and problem-solving skills in undergraduates,
- evidence of experience with or interest in interdisciplinary and/or cross-disciplinary teaching, including interdisciplinary majors and minors,
- demonstrated ability to develop an active research program, preferably involving undergraduates,
- strong oral, written, and interpersonal communication skills,
- commitment to collegiality within the learning community.

Benefits: Truman offers a comprehensive benefits package including life, health, and disability insurance, retirement contributions, paid sick leave, and a stipend for moving expenses. Paid parental leave and a tuition discount are available for eligible employees after one year. More details: https://hr.truman.edu/benefits/.

Program: Social Sciences and Human Inquiry is a multidisciplinary department housing the following academic majors: Criminal Justice Studies, History, Philosophy & Religion, Political Science & International Relations, Social Issue Advocacy, and Sociology/Anthropology.

The University: Truman State University is home to a vibrant educational community. Our approximately 3,000 students thrive in a challenging, yet supportive, academic environment. More than 25% engage in significant undergraduate research and creative projects. Nearly 40% gain leadership experience, and nearly half go on to graduate or professional school.

Founded in 1867, Truman focuses on student learning outcomes and emphasizes high-impact experiences such as internships, research, and study abroad opportunities. Truman has the highest overall graduation rate among the state's public four-year colleges and universities. For nearly three decades, Truman has been recognized as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest regional category by U.S. News & World Report, and Washington Monthly consistently ranks Truman as one of the best master's universities in the nation. For more information about our mission and values and to see additional rankings and acknowledgments, visit truman.edu/about.

The Community: Located in northeast Missouri, Kirksville is a cultural and economic hub in the region. In addition to being the home of Truman, Kirksville is the birthplace of osteopathic medicine and features a medical school, dental school, and community college. The Kirksville School District is consistently recognized for academic excellence. The community takes pride in several annual events including the Red, White and Blue Festival, the Red Barn Arts and Craft Festival, and the FLATS Trail Half-Marathon. The charming downtown area features an arts center, local shops, and restaurants, and it is the site of numerous community events including weekly farmers' markets and summer concerts on the courthouse lawn. Just a few minutes outside of town is beautiful Thousand Hills State Park with hiking and biking opportunities surrounding the 700-acre Forest Lake. Kirksville offers easy access by car to Kansas City, St. Louis, and Des Moines. Daily flights from Kirksville Regional Airport to Chicago O'Hare provide quick access to one of the country's major metropolitan areas. More information about Kirksville can be found at visitkirksville.com.

Application: Applications must be submitted electronically at https://apply.interfolio.com/174717
For assistance with submitting an application, please contact Human Resources at 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Completed applications must include:

- a letter of application that clearly addresses the qualifications and evaluative criteria listed above,
- statement of scholarly activity interests,
- teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy that includes the candidate's commitment to the liberal arts and sciences and student development, and teaching evaluations,
- writing sample,
- current curriculum vitae,
- official or unofficial undergraduate and graduate transcripts (official graduate transcripts are required at the time of hire), and
- names and contact information for 3 references.

Review of applications will begin 11/5/2025 and will continue until the position is filled. If hired, applicants must provide proof of eligibility to work in the United States, official graduate transcripts, or documentation of degrees if transcripts are not available. Final candidates are required to successfully pass a background check. Questions about this position may be directed to the chair of the Department of Social Sciences and Human Inquiry, Kathryn Brammall, at (brammall@truman.edu).

Truman State University is an equal opportunity employer. We do not discriminate in hiring, promotion, or any other employment practices on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex (including pregnancy), age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or Missouri law. We are committed to fair and equal treatment in all aspects of employment. Inquiries about these policies may be directed to the Institutional Compliance Officer, 660-785-4354, and titleix@truman.edu.

Truman is committed to providing reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with disabilities upon request. To request this document in an alternate form or to request an accommodation, please contact Human Resources, McClain Hall 101, 100 E. Normal, Kirksville, MO 63501, 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16131

College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

The Political Science Department at the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University invites applications for a full-time, one-year term position with the possibility of renewal starting August 2026.

Review of applications will begin October 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Please note, this position is not eligible for employment-based visa sponsorship (i.e., H-1B or Green Card sponsorship). Applicants must possess the required authorization to work in the U.S. at the time of hire.

Why Join Us?

The College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University offer a competitive and comprehensive benefits package for full-time employees, including:

Health, Dental, and Vision Insurance
Life and Long-Term Disability Insurance
Tuition Remission for Eligible Dependents
Employer Contributions to a Retirement Plan
Employee Assistance Program with access to free or discounted counseling, legal guidance, financial coaching, and more Join a committed team dedicated to safety, community, and service in a supportive and values-driven work environment.

To learn more about our benefits, visit mycsbsju.edu/jobs.

DEPARTMENT HIGHLIGHTS

Our supportive and collaborative political science department is dedicated to encouraging our students to maintain high academic expectations and value civic engagement. We pride ourselves in providing our students with opportunities to engage with local, state, national, and international organizations and governments. We offer pre-law advising and have an impressive law school admittance record. Our competitive mock trial team often wins awards for their commitment to their roles and academic strengths, and their faculty advisor has a talented group of students to mentor. All political science majors take part in relevant experiences that move them beyond the classroom. As a department, we work to guide them to ensure they align these opportunities with their interests. These range from local to international opportunities and even include our highly praised and well-connected Washington, D.C. Summer Study Program. Our combined efforts ensure students are prepared to lead successful lives and careers.

COLLEGE/UNIVERSITY HIGHLIGHTS

The College of Saint Benedict (CSB), a liberal arts college for women, and Saint John's University (SJU), a liberal arts college for men, are located in the central lakes area of Minnesota, surrounded by more than 3,000 acres of pristine forests, prairies, and lakes. The campuses are minutes away from St. Cloud, an increasingly diverse regional center with a population of over 100,000, and 70 miles from Minneapolis and St. Paul. Some CSB/SJU faculty and staff choose to reside locally, while others commute from the Twin Cities. Both St. Cloud and the Twin Cities offer a wide range of fine arts, cultural, dining, recreational, and sporting opportunities.

CSB/SJU are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition enlivened by values of community, hospitality, stewardship, and justice. The schools are dedicated to cultivating an equitable, inclusive community founded on respect for all persons. Students, staff and faculty from many diverse belief systems and backgrounds collectively bring a rich dimension to the academic, cultural, and religious experience at CSB/SJU. We welcome faculty who devote themselves with passion and integrity to their disciplines and to a transformative education of their students. Please view our brochure regarding Higher Education in the Catholic and Benedictine Tradition.

With a total enrollment of approximately 2,900 students, faculty members develop relationships with students in small classroom settings and have opportunities to work closely with students on research projects, experiential learning experiences, and study abroad programs. Recent initiatives to create a dynamic general education curriculum and to develop plans for a new teaching and learning center demonstrate strong institutional support for faculty development.

Responsibilities

Teaching responsibilities for this position include teaching upper- and lower-level undergraduate public law classes with the opportunity to also teach introductory course work and research methodology, depending on the candidate. The candidate will be responsible for teaching three 4-credit courses per semester plus contributing to departmental-level service and student advising.

Qualifications

Required:

PhD in political science, or equivalent, an ABD will be considered
Expertise in Public Law including Constitutional Law and Politics, Civil Rights & Civil Liberties, Judicial Politics, Judicial Process, and Research Methodology
Evidence of the ability to be an effective teacher
Demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion
Preferred:

Demonstrated experience teaching undergraduate research methodology course
Ability to advise pre-law students on law school applications, personal statements, LSAT preparation, and career planning
Experience establishing and maintaining relationships with external internship partners
Ability to mentor and coach mock trial team
To Apply

Applications are accepted online by clicking on "Apply" above. Applicants are asked to provide the following materials:

Curriculum vitae.
A letter of application which addresses how the applicant's education, teaching interests, and teaching and/or work experience meet the position qualifications.
A statement of teaching philosophy, including how you will integrate diversity and support inclusion for all students in the classroom and use innovative/active-learning pedagogies.
Unofficial copies of transcripts; official copy required upon hire.
Names and contact information of three references.
Evidence of teaching effectiveness, for example: student course surveys, examples of learning outcomes, peer or student testimonials, or other materials.

If you require an accommodation to participate in the College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University hiring process, please contact Human Resources at (320) 363-5500 or employment@csbsju.edu.

It is the policy of CSB and SJU to conduct a pre-employment background check. An offer of employment is contingent upon a successful background check.

The College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University are Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employers.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16080

Florida Gulf Coast University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Law, Open, Open

The Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History at Florida Gulf Coast University invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Political Science with specialization in Judicial Politics and/or Public Law, broadly defined. The successful candidate will teach lower and upper-level courses in an undergraduate Political Science program; be involved in course and/or curriculum development; maintain an active research portfolio; participate on College and University committees and/or initiatives; and perform other duties as assigned. The position is open regarding secondary subfield in political science and geographic concentration.

Florida Gulf Coast University is a regional comprehensive university dedicated to quality education, research, and service. All faculty are expected to: be excellent teachers, responsive to changing professional needs; be committed to innovative delivery of instruction resulting in improved student learning; be committed to effective use of technology including distance learning; produce peer reviewed scholarship; and provide service to the College, University and Community. Teaching assignments may be on the main campus or at off-campus sites within our region.

For information about the Department of Political Science, Public Administration, and History, please visit: https://www.fgcu.edu/cas/departments/pspa/

Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related discipline from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent accreditation is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. ABD will be considered if degree is conferred by August 7, 2026.

The review process will start on November 7, 2025, and will continue until position is filled. Appointment will be based on a 9-month continuous multi-year contract starting in August 2026.

For full job description and to apply, please visit https://fgcu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/eaglejobs/job/Main-Campus/Assistant-Professor--Political-Science_R0006842

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/30/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16032

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for an open rank position of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor with specialty in American Political Thought, to begin Fall 2026. We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on American political development and/or constitutional law, theory and development. Successful candidates should be an ABD or have a Ph.D. in political science, extensive training and experience, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 1st and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a dynamic research institution founded in 1927, stands as a vibrant hub of academic excellence in Texas. With over 46,000 students, it offers a comprehensive range of programs across 15 colleges, fostering innovation in fields such as energy, health, hospitality, business, education, law, STEM, and the humanities. Boasting top-tier faculty, state-of-the-art facilities, student success initiatives, and a strong commitment to community engagement, UH prepares students to thrive in a globally interconnected world while contributing impactful research and innovation to the region and beyond.

The Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education, with over 800 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region that is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

The University's prime location in America's fourth-largest city supports extensive industry partnerships and experiential learning opportunities. Renowned for its energy industry and NASA's Space Center, Houston is home to a vibrant scene with world-class museums, theaters, and restaurants. Houston thrives as a hub for innovation, education, and arts, fostering a unique blend of community charm and modern progress.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, https://uh.edu/provost/faculty/prospective-faculty/index. The position number keyword is FAC 494742. To apply please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, unofficial transcripts, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Professor Alex Badas, Department of Political Science, University of Houston, at abadas@uh.edu

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/17/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15960

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): Political Theory, American Government and Politics, Public Law
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, American Politics

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2026 to June 1, 2027. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Office of Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (9-month term) in residence at Princeton University, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are encouraged, however, to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance, up to a maximum of $130,000. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/39462

A complete application must include the following:

cover letter
a curriculum vitae
a scholarly paper written in the past three years
a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
contact information for two references
Selected candidates will be asked to either submit a confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2025 – June 1, 2026) or provide written authorization for Princeton to confirm their salary.

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025 for appointments beginning in September 2026. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu
Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15942

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, James Madison Program
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients, or recipients who anticipate receiving their Ph.D., to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the anticipated year from September 1, 2026 to September 1, 2027. Appointments will be through the Department of Politics. All James Madison Program researchers are expected to be in residence in Princeton, or the local vicinity, to fulfill responsibilities relating to in-person participation, office hours, and the like. The work location for this position is in-person on campus at Princeton University.

They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Researchers appointed in the Madison Program are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates are required to have a Ph.D. degree awarded within the last three years (no earlier than September 1, 2023), or candidates must have less than three years of post-Ph.D. research experience prior to the anticipated start date. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the future contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply
Applicants are required to submit an online application at https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/40261

A complete application must include the following:

*a cover letter
*a curriculum vitae
*a scholarly paper written in the past three years
*a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research
*contact information for two references

For priority consideration, application materials must be received by 11:59 p.m. EST on December 5, 2025; applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2026 or before.

Please address any inquiries to:
Adam Thomas, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: adamt@princeton.edu / Web address: jmp.princeton.edu

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 2/27/2026
Date Posted: 9/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15943

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Law and/or Public Policy)

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Long Beach is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and/or Public Policy. The position is open regarding subfield, and all methodological and theoretical approaches are welcome. This is a general hire recruitment (not part of a cluster hire effort).

Application Deadline: Review of applications to begin October 10, 2025. Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled).

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate closely related discipline. Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2026.
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication
Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population, including low socioeconomic and first-generation students

Preferred Qualifications:

Evidence of academic training and expertise in one of the following specializations: Public Law, Judicial Politics, or Public Policy
Evidence of scholarly activities grounded in law, public policy, or broader questions within the intersection of law and policy, such as environmental law and policy, immigration law and policy, international law and policy, health law and policy, law and economic policy, civil rights law and policy, social welfare law and policy, education law and policy, labor and employment law and policy, administrative law and policy, election law and voting rights policy, and intersectional approaches to law and social inequality, including the ways race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, disability, nationality, and other identities interact within legal and policy frameworks
Evidence of ability to effectively teach current and future University course offerings in legal studies and public policy broadly, at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Constitutional Law, Environmental Law, Queer Law, International Law, Law and Social Change, Jurisprudence, Public Policy, Fundamentals of Public Administration, and Public Values and Public Policy
Evidence of the ability to develop new course offerings in political science related to law and public policy
Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body
Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.
Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service
Experience of successfully working with populations demographically and/or socioeconomically similar to the CSULB student body
Experience mentoring or supporting students with minoritized identities or experience using inclusive and culturally relevant teaching strategies in a diverse classroom

Duties:

Teach courses in Law and Public Policy at the undergraduate and graduate levels (Mode of instruction may include in-person, hybrid, online, and/or any combination thereof.)
Develop courses in Law and Public Policy at undergraduate and graduate levels
Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and writing theses
Engage in research leading to conference participation and peer-reviewed publications
Participate in faculty shared governance
Participate in service to the school, college, university, and profession/community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The Department of Political Science takes great pride in having one of the most diverse student bodies in higher education. We have more than 600 students in one of our three academic programs: a Bachelor of Arts, a Minor, and a Master of Arts. Our 18 full-time and 14 part-time faculty are passionate about teaching politics in the twenty-first century, offering courses that are directly relevant to the contemporary world. Together we seek to provide our students the foundational knowledge and skills essential to understand and engage issues relevant to our common political life today. Our department offers numerous programs and clubs, including a Legal Studies certificate, a judicial internship course, nationally competitive Moot Court and Model United Nations programs, undergraduate and graduate student associations, chapters of the Phi Alpha Delta pre-law fraternity and the Pi Sigma Alpha National Honor Society, a peer mentoring program, extensive internship and research opportunities, and much more.

The College of Liberal Arts at CSULB is the largest college on campus, with thirty-one excellent departments and programs, several innovative centers and projects, over 685 outstanding faculty members, and over 74 individual staff members. The college faculty are among the best in the nation and have received a variety of national and international awards. CLA has 9300 undergraduate students pursuing a variety of highly valued degrees through the college's 99 unique majors and minors. Additionally, 575 graduate students are also obtaining advanced degrees and special certificates in the college. With degrees ranging from humanities and foreign languages to social and behavioral sciences, CLA's graduates are well-rounded citizens, effective communicators, and analytical thinkers who live knowledgeably, responsibly, and humanely in a world where complex problems demand informed, creative, and thoughtful solutions. The skills gained through degrees from CLA are invaluable and open up countless career paths for graduates to follow

Information on excellent benefits package available to CSULB faculty is located here: CSU Employee Benefits

How to Apply - Required Documentation:

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (maximum two pages, single-spaced). For further information and guidelines, please visit: Student Success Statement
Letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications
CV
Names and contact information for three references (to be contacted for confidential letters of recommendation should you reach the semi-finalist stage)
Sample of scholarly work (e.g., peer-reviewed article, conference paper, or dissertation chapter)
Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including, if available, representative syllabi and teaching evaluations from courses taught as an instructor of record)
Copy of graduate school transcript/s
Finalists should be prepared to submit an official transcript (e-transcript preferred, if available)
How to Apply: Click Apply Now icon to complete the CSULB online application

Requests for information about the position and process should be addressed to the Search Committee Chair:

Darin DeWitt, Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

Darin.DeWitt@csulb.edu
(562) 985-4711

EMPLOYMENT REQUIREMENTS:

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment.

Pursuant to the CSU Out of State Employment Policy, hiring employees to perform CSU-related work outside of California is prohibited effective January 1, 2022. By prohibiting employment outside of California, the CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States. Exceptions to the Policy are limited to approved and documented purposes for conducting CSU business outside of California.

All employees who assign and/or oversee work are responsible for ensuring that compliant work controls and procedures consistent with Federal, State and local regulations and University policies are implemented and maintained to provide for the protection of individuals and to safeguard the environment. Everyone is expected to comply with applicable Environmental Health and Safety regulations and University policies, programs and procedures. For more information, the systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/18172024/latest/ and questions may be sent to Environmental_Health_Safety@csulb.edu.

The CSU strongly recommends that all individuals who access any in-person program or activity (on- or off-campus) operated or controlled by the University follow the COVID-19 vaccine recommendations adopted by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) applicable to their age, medical condition, and other relevant indications and comply with other safety measures established by each campus. The systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/9779821/latest/ and questions may be sent to fahr@csulb.edu.

All university program and activities are open and available to all regardless of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin. Consistent with CSU's Nondiscrimination Policy, as well as state and federal law, CSULB provides equal opportunity in education and employment without unlawful discrimination or preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin. To access CSULB's full statement on Equal Opportunity and Excellence in Education and Employment, please visit Equity and Compliance.

Apply Here: https://csucareers.calstate.edu/en-us/job/551207/assistant-professor-of-political-science-law-andor-public-policy

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15901

Morehouse College

Rank: TT Assistant Professor (American Politics/Public Law)

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor of political science. Candidates should be trained broadly in American politics. We are particularly interested in candidates who work in the area of public law and are prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, civil liberties, and/or the judiciary. Responsibilities including teaching five courses per year (a 2-3 load) and contributing to our pre-law program. The start date for this position in August 2026.

We are looking for someone who thinks creatively about their teaching, is committed to an active scholarly agenda, and can support the mission of Morehouse College -- to develop men with disciplined minds who lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of Black people.

Morehouse College is a private, all-male historically Black liberal arts college in Atlanta, GA. Our Political Science Department, one of the largest departments at the College, offers a broad range of courses, including majors in urban studies and international studies. Applicants should have experience teaching political science concepts to a diverse group of students including non-majors. We welcome candidates who can develop innovative first-year experience courses for our general education program.

Questions may be directed to the department chair, Dr. Andrew J. Douglas, at pscfacultysearch@morehouse.edu.

PLEASE SUBMIT APPLICATION HERE: https://morehouse.peopleadmin.com/postings/12883

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Applications received by October 1, 2025 are guaranteed full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/1/2025
Date Posted: 9/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15867

Dickinson College

Rank: Professor of American Public Law, open rank

The Political Science and Law, Justice, & Society programs at Dickinson College invite applications for a full-time, open-rank professorship in American Public Law. Successful applicants will have research and teaching interests in public law, law and society, and/or the United States court system. The successful candidate will direct Dickinson's Law, Justice, & Society program. This position carries a five-course (annual) teaching load, which includes capacity an introductory level course in either American government or political philosophy, with a one-course release in both of the first two years at Dickinson, to prioritize program management.

The department expects the successful candidate to conduct high-quality research while maintaining high standards of teaching excellence. Ph.D. must be in hand by September 2026; strong preference will be given to advanced assistant professors or mid-career tenured faculty, and those with demonstrated ability to provide vision for and management of the Law, Justice & Society major.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City.

The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin at the start of October and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu. Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Preferred Qualifications
Ph.D. must be in hand by September 2026; strong preference will be given to advanced assistant professors or mid-career tenured faculty, and those with demonstrated ability to provide vision for and management of the Law, Justice & Society major

The College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 15846

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

Job Summary
The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the assistant professor rank beginning in August 2026. The department seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American Politics and upper-level courses in their specialty. The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching and advising in the liberal arts tradition. The department has a strong history of pre-law advising at the College, a responsibility that is available to interested faculty with expertise in judicial politics. The teaching load for this position is the equivalent of five courses (typically 2-3 or 3-2) over the academic year.

Gettysburg College is a highly selective liberal arts college located within 90 minutes of the Baltimore/Washington metropolitan area. Established in 1832, the College has a rich history and is situated on a 220-acre campus with an enrollment of over 2,200 students.

Qualifications
Candidates should have a Ph.D. (or be ABD) in Political Science or closely related field with a specialization in judicial politics, law, and/or courts. Teaching experience or promise of excellence in teaching is desirable. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, scholarship, and/or governance that they can contribute to the inclusivity of our community.

Special Instructions to Applicants
Applicants should complete the online application at https://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/5982. A cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research program, and statement of teaching goals in a liberal arts context should be submitted. As part of the teaching statement, we ask applicants to specify the courses that they would be prepared to teach, and we also ask applicants to elaborate on their experiences and plans for building an inclusive learning environment. Applicants should include the names and email addresses of three professional references, at least one of whom can speak to the applicant's teaching effectiveness. After the applicant completes the online application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2025 and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Lindsay Reid at lreid@gettysburg.edu.

EEO Statement
Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15848

University of South Carolina
Rank: Assistant Professor Search in Judicial Politics

The faculty of the Political Science Department at the University of South Carolina, Columbia campus, invites applications for a 9-month, full-time, tenure track position to begin August 16, 2026, in the subfield of Judicial Politics. We are interested in scholars whose expertise in Judicial Politics can speak to broader themes of Problems of Democracy, as part of a cluster hire. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically informed research agendas who have the potential to publish in leading outlets.

The position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science by start date of appointment.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct highly visible, high-quality research and teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at a high level of performance. The standard teaching load is 2 classes per semester.

The University of South Carolina strives to cultivate an inclusive environment that is open, welcoming and supportive of individuals of all backgrounds. We recognize diversity in our workforce is essential to providing academic excellence and critical to our sustainability. We celebrate the diverse voices, perspectives, and experiences of our employees.

The Department of Political Science is a research-active, collegial, and growing department. The department has more than 800 majors in its undergraduate Bachelor of Arts degree programs in Political Science and in International Studies. At the graduate level, the department offers a Ph.D. in Political Science as well as Masters Degrees in Public Administration and International Studies. For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our website at https://sc.edu/study/colleges_schools/artsandsciences/political_science/.

From the Upstate to the Lowcountry, the University of South Carolina system is transforming the lives of South Carolinians through the impact of our eight institutions and 20 locations throughout the state. More than 50,000 students are enrolled at one of eight institutions, including the research campus in Columbia and comprehensive four-year universities in Aiken, Upstate and Beaufort. In addition, our Palmetto College campuses in Salkehatchie, Union, Lancaster and Sumter enable students to earn associate or bachelor's degrees through a combination of in-person, online or blended learning. All of our system institutions place strong emphasis on service — helping to build healthier, more educated communities in South Carolina and beyond.

How to Apply

All applicants must apply online at USCJobs at https://uscjobs.sc.edu. Applications must include: (1) a cover letter that describes their research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae (3) a writing sample and (4) contact information including phone number and email address for three references. References will be contacted directly for letters.

Review of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Search Committee Chair, Kirk Randazzo (RANDAZZO@mailbox.sc.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/5/2025
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 15737

University of Central Missouri

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Science - Tenure Track
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Judicial Politics

Description:
The Department of Government, Law, and International Affairs (GLIA) at the University of Central Missouri (UCM) is seeking qualified candidates to fill a 9-month, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics with an emphasis on U.S. Constitutional Law beginning August 2026. GLIA resides in the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences (CAHSS).

Faculty in CAHSS support the University's mission of providing a high-quality education and are committed to the success of their students.

Successful candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate (and potentially graduate) courses in American Government, Public Law, Constitutional Law, as well as Civil Rights and Liberties. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach Administrative Law, Trial Advocacy, and/or the American Presidency.

Additionally, candidates should be prepared to serve as the Coach of the UCM Mock Trial team (negotiated with the Chair as part of the teaching load or service).

Candidates must be committed to excellence in teaching and are expected to carry out a sustained research agenda in their area of expertise.

Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Review of completed applications will begin October 31st, 2025, and will continue until the position is filled.

Examples of Duties:
The faculty member's job duties will include:

Teach 9-12 hours per semester in consultation with the Department Chair.
Coach the Mock Trial team.
Conduct scholarly research in their area of expertise.
Advise and mentor undergraduate Political Science majors who pursue a Legal Studies minor.
Undertake service at the department, college, and/or university levels.
Teaching:

The primary responsibility of the faculty is quality teaching in their respective content areas, regardless of delivery format. This entails adequate preparation for courses, effective course design and instruction, and fair and timely evaluation/feedback of student progress. To ensure quality teaching, faculty must be committed to student success and ongoing assessment of curriculum and student learning.

Keep current in your discipline.
Organize courses to facilitate quality student engagement and high-impact practices.
Assist department/school chairs with scheduling classes that meet the needs of students.
Comply with departmental, college, and university standards concerning the academic quality and integrity of their classes.
Keep current in their use of technology by attending university training sessions and other professional development opportunities.
Be available to meet students outside the classroom by being available before or after classes and scheduling office hours in both physical and electronic formats, including in-person and virtual office hours.
Assist with department and college assessment and be proactive with modifications to the curriculum based on assessment feedback.
Scholarship/Professional Development:

The strength of a university rests on the knowledge and skills of its faculty.

Faculty must stay current in their field of expertise/teaching area.
Authoring academic writings.
Presentation of work at local/state/regional/national conferences.
Active membership and/or office holding in professional organizations at the local/state/regional/national levels.
Service:

An expectation of a professional faculty member is to serve the department, college, and university community.

Attending department/college/university meetings.
Engaging in committee work that will advance the department/college/institution.
Assisting with student mentoring.
Participating in graduation and convocation ceremonies.
Serve on committees at the department, college, and university levels.
Typical Qualifications
Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science are preferred, but ABDs in Political Science and J.D.s will be considered.

Supplemental Information:
UCM is located 40 miles southeast of the Kansas City Metropolitan area. It is a public comprehensive university with roughly 11,000 students providing a small-college learning environment coupled with large-university opportunities.

The Department of GLIA offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in Political Science, a B.A. degree in International Studies, and minors in those fields as well as Legal Studies and Global Security Studies. More information about GLIA can be found here: https://www.ucmo.edu/college-of-arts-humanities-and-social-sciences/department-of-government-law-and-international-affairs/

To apply, Candidates must complete the online faculty profile (position #997659) by going to

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

Candidates will attach a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and copies of transcripts showing all degrees completed to their online application.

UCM requires that all applicants for this position complete the online faculty profile and submit it to the appropriate position for consideration at https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ucmo.

All documents requested for this position must also be attached to the faculty profile at the time of application. Only completed faculty profiles with attached documents will be accepted for this position.

Direct inquiries regarding this position to: Dr. Gregory Streich, Search Committee Chair, at streich@ucmo.edu

For information about the online application process, contact Human Resources at humanresources@ucmo.edu or (660) 543-4255 and note position #997659 in the request.

Special Instructions:

Full-time benefits-eligible position: Benefits include competitive salary; health, dental, vision, life insurance, AD & D, long-term disability; 3 weeks paid vacation per year; 3 weeks of accrued sick leave per year; 13 paid holidays; retirement; and generous education assistance for an employee, spouse and dependent children taking classes at UCM.

Completed UCM online application for employment required. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

NOTE: A background check is required for the selected candidate of all staff, faculty, adjunct, and temporary positions and any job offer is contingent on the results of this check. Student employees and graduate assistants do not require a background check to be conducted prior to employment.

The University of Central Missouri is an Equal Opportunity Employer and specifically invites applications from women, minorities, veteran status, and people with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/31/2025
Date Posted: 8/1/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15692

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics (American Public Law)
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties, Social Movements

The Department of Government and Law at Lafayette College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor commencing July 1, 2026. The Department seeks candidates specializing in U.S. Public Law, with research and teaching expertise in law and society, constitutional law, and civil rights. Research programs that focus on law through the lenses of politics and power, as well as additional expertise in American political development and social movements, are especially welcome.

Applicants must possess a Ph.D. in political science or demonstrate the Ph.D. is near completion. The successful candidate will teach Introduction to U.S. Politics, Law and Society, and other intermediate and advanced courses in their areas of expertise, including one or more courses in the Department's constitutional law offerings. The successful candidate will also be expected to make a contribution to the College's interdisciplinary programs and maintain an active research agenda. The Department especially welcomes applications from candidates who will contribute to Lafayette's commitment to diversity and inclusion. The teaching load during the first year is four courses (normally two each semester) and five courses each year thereafter.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. The letter of intent should contain a statement of teaching philosophy and scholarly interests, and address the ways in which the applicant's teaching, scholarship, and/or community engagement will advance Lafayette College's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion as articulated in the College's diversity statement (https://belong.lafayette.edu/diversity-statement/).

Please upload application materials electronically through Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/170467. Review of applications will begin on September 22, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Professor Michael Feola (feolam@lafayette.edu).

Located within 70 miles of New York City and Philadelphia, Lafayette College is a highly selective undergraduate liberal arts and engineering institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship. Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette welcomes applicants from diverse backgrounds.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 9/22/2025
Date Posted: 7/17/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15679

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (Comparative Law/Law and Society)

The Political Science and Law & Policy programs at Dickinson College seek applications for a full-time Visiting Assistant Professor of law and society. A successful applicant will have research and teaching interests in either law and society or in comparative law. This position is for one year with the possibility of renewal and carries a five-course (annual) teaching load. The department expects the successful candidate to be a committed, collaborative, and imaginative scholar with a Ph.D. in hand by September 2025.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials. Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu.

Review of applications will begin February 1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.

dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin at the start of February and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu.

Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15333

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Political Science (US Public Law)

The Political Science and Law & Policy programs at Dickinson College seek applications for a full-time Visiting Assistant Professor of American Public Law. A successful applicant will have research and teaching interests in either constitutional law or the judiciary. The ability to teach either American politics or political theory at introductory level is a plus. This position is for one year with the possibility of renewal and carries a five-course (annual) teaching load. The department expects the successful candidate to be a committed, collaborative, and imaginative scholar with a Ph.D. in hand by September 2025.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and Philadelphia. Students, faculty, and staff often enjoy the food, art, entertainment, and cultural enrichment of these major hubs and/or New York City. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. Applicants may highlight their ongoing or anticipated contributions to promoting equity and inclusion in their materials.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via https://jobs.dickinson.edu. Review of applications will begin February 1, 2025. Candidates should submit via QUEST (online application system) at https://jobs.dickinson.edu; please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin at the start of February and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the department chair, J. Toby Reiner at: reinerj@dickinson.edu. Dickinson College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We strive to foster an inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive together. Accordingly, we encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15332

PUBLIC POLICY

Harvard University

Rank: Technology and Public Policy (open rank)

Harvard Kennedy School invites applications for two open rank appointments in technology and public policy. We seek applications from scholars whose research and/or practice focuses on the intersection between emerging technologies and solving of public problems; tools, methods, and governance models to balance the societal and geopolitical opportunities and challenges technologies will create, or innovation, digital transformation, regulation, and other priority issues at the intersection of technology and public policy.

One position will focus on the application of new technologies to the solving of public problems. We are particularly interested in computer scientists or social scientists who harness tools of AI, data science, and computer science to improve the performance of public and social sector institutions in critical policy areas.

One position will focus at the intersection of science, technology, public policy, and global affairs. We seek scholars, practitioners, or technologists whose work explores how scientific and technological change shapes global affairs, and/or public policies and models of governance to address scientific and technological change. Fields of expertise could include, but would not be limited to, scientific innovation, technology development and deployment, global science and technology cooperation and competition, cybersecurity, biosecurity and biotechnology, nuclear issues, AI and autonomous systems, quantum technologies, space competition, critical-infrastructure resilience, and/or industrial and innovation policy. The successful candidate will be an affiliate of the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs.

Candidates for both positions should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Applicants from academic backgrounds will require a doctorate or equivalent credential in a relevant field and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries. Applicants who are policy practitioners or technologists will require extraordinary experience in their domain. Applicants should submit a cover letter and CV online at https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15561

Review of applications will begin December 1. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16252

University of Mississippi

Rank: Chair

The Department of Public Policy Leadership at the University of Mississippi is seeking applicants for the position of department chair. Public Policy Leadership is an interdisciplinary unit, including public policy, philosophy, geography, political science and more. The ideal candidate will have a PhD in Public Policy or a closely related field, and an excellent record of teaching, research, and academic leadership. The successful candidate must be tenurable as an Associate or Full Professor. Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their vision for the department and their qualifications for the job, c.v., and other supporting material they think appropriate. References will be checked for interviewed candidates. Start date will be July 1, 2026. Apply online at https://jobs.olemiss.edu.

The department offers a selective B.A. degree, providing a challenging undergraduate major that prepares high-performing students for positions of leadership in an increasingly complex world. The program emphasizes the global nature of responsible decision-making, the ethical imperatives of leadership, critical thinking and communication skills required for careful policy analysis. See https://olemiss.edu/ppl for more information.

Appointment: 12 months

Interview Requirements: Any candidate who is called for an interview must notify the Department of Equal Opportunity/Regulatory Compliance in writing of any reasonable accommodation needed prior to the date of the interview.

About the University of MS & Oxford, MS
The University of Mississippi welcomes international applicants. However, due to current federal regulations, we are unable to sponsor new H-1B petitions that request consular notification, port of entry notification, or pre-flight inspection. Candidates already in the United States who hold valid work authorization or are eligible for an H-1B transfer or change of status remain eligible for consideration. Candidates in other visa statuses who are in the United States, including, but not limited to, F/OPT, J, O-1, TN, and E-3, remain eligible for consideration.

Founded in 1848, the University of Mississippi (UM), affectionately known to alumni, students and friends as Ole Miss, is Mississippi's flagship university. Included in the elite group of R-1: Doctoral Universities - Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification, it has a long history of producing leaders in public service, academics and business. The University of Mississippi, consistently named by The Chronicle of Higher Education as a "Great College to Work For," is located in Oxford, MS, which is ranked one of the "Top 10 Best College Towns." With more than 24,000 students, UM is the state's largest university and is ranked among the nation's fastest-growing institutions. The University of Mississippi, which has aggressively implemented many health and wellness initiatives for its more than 2,900 employees, has consistently been named one of Mississippi's Healthiest Workplaces.

Touted as the "Cultural Mecca of the South", creativity abounds in Oxford as musicians, artists and writers alike find inspiration in Oxford's rich history, small town charm and creative community. Oxford is a one-hour drive south of Memphis, TN and is known as the home of Nobel Prize winning author William Faulkner. Over the years Oxford has also been known for offering exceptional culinary experiences and as the home of the University of Mississippi and the Ole Miss Rebels, there is always something here to immerse yourself in. Oxford has also been featured as a literary and arts destination in such publications as The New York Times, Southern Living, Condé Nast Traveler, and GQ. Among other cultural activities, annual events include the Oxford Film Festival, a thriving local music scene, and the Ford Center Performing Arts Series. Oxford is a vibrant university town, filled with unique shops and galleries, eclectic restaurants and clubs, historic landmarks, and comfortable inns.

Background Check Statement
The University of Mississippi is committed to providing a safe campus community. UM conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

EEO Statement
The University of Mississippi provides equal opportunity in any employment practice, education program, or education activity to all qualified persons. The University complies with all applicable laws regarding equal opportunity and does not unlawfully discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment based upon race, color, gender, sex, pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, religion, national origin, ethnicity, citizenship, age, disability, military status, protected veteran status, genetic information, or any other legally protected status.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/20/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16247

Lamar University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Political Science and Public Administration. Candidates should be able to teach introductory courses in American government, advanced undergraduate courses in policy and/or public administration, and graduate seminars in public policy and/or public administration. Demonstrated ability to maintain and active research agenda resulting in peer-reviewed publications is essential. A successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students, maintain an active research agenda leading to publication, participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university, and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Essential Job Functions
Implement effective teaching strategies.
Maintain an active research agenda that includes publication of research papers in peer-reviewed journals and/or submission of research grants.
Actively participate in academic service at the department, college, and university levels.

Minimum and Desired Qualifications
Minimum Qualifications:
Applicants should have an earned PhD in Political Science or Public Administration.
Supplemental Information

Key Competencies:
Excellent interpersonal, verbal, and written communication skills.
Ability to implement effective and innovative teaching strategies.
Ability to perform academic research in degree area of specialty.
Demonstrated commitment to service to the university, profession, and community.

Physical Requirements: Able to lift 25 lbs and be able to perform a variety of physical tasks including lifting, bending, stooping, squatting, stair climbing and walking between buildings.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS: For consideration please be sure to have these documents attached to your application.
Teaching Philosophy
Curriculum Vita
Writing Sample
Cover Letter

Special Instructions: "Application considered incomplete pending receipt of three letters of recommendation to officeofthedean-COAS@lamar.edu"

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16238

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate - Political Design for Effective Goverment Project
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Professors Alan Gerber, Gregory Huber, and Josh Kalla at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) seek postdoctoral research associates for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2026. Projects will be funded by the Democratic Innovations Program's new Political Design for Effective Government Project.

Research projects will likely include, but are not limited to, field experiments using informational interventions to improve government performance, measurement of bureaucratic and officeholder quality and careers, designing politically viable general interest policy proposals, elite surveys, and developing political economy models of government performance.

Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicants and will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and data analysis.

Technical skills such as computer programming, database management, or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. PhD or equivalent degree at time of hire is required. Salary is negotiable.

Application materials include a cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample. Applications should be submitted online at Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/177876.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/18/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16237

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Energy Policy, Political Economy

POSITION OVERVIEW
Position title: Postdoc Employee, Political Economy of Climate Policy and Energy Transition
Salary range: The UC postdoc salary scales set the minimum pay determined by experience level at appointment. See the following table(s) for the current salary scale(s) for this position: https://www.ucop.edu/academic-personnel-programs/_files/2024-25/oct-2024-scales/t23.pdf. The current minimum salary range for this position is $69,073 - $77,030. Salaries above the minimum may be offered when necessary to meet competitive conditions.
Percent time: 100
Anticipated start: as early as possible, negotiable
Position duration: Initial appointment is for 2 years with possibility of renewal based on performance and availability of funding.

APPLICATION WINDOW
Next review date: Monday, December 15, 2025
Final date: Applications will continue to be accepted until a candidate has been chosen.

POSITION DESCRIPTION
The Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative seeks applications for a Postdoctoral Scholar in the area of the political economy of climate policy and the energy transition.

The Postdoctoral Scholar will be part of the Berkeley Economy and Society Initiative (BESI), a campuswide program to advance new political and economic thought on urgent societal challenges. BESI's climate cluster conducts research and engagement on climate politics and policy, with a focus on the intersection of climate and economic policymaking. The Postdoctoral Scholar would work with Jonas Meckling. Areas of research interest include but are not limited to the intersection of climate policy and economic policy broadly understood. Specific interests relate to the greening of innovation, industrial, trade, development, monetary, and fiscal policy as well as the geopolitics of the energy transition. We welcome international political economy, comparative political economy, or regional/country perspectives as well as firm-centered approaches. Applicants are expected to pitch their existing research and possible areas of collaboration. They may also contribute to possible projects of collaboration proposed by us.

QUALIFICATIONS
Basic qualifications (required at time of application)
PhD or equivalent international degree or enrolled in such a program.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS
Document requirements
Curriculum Vitae - Your most recently updated C.V.
Cover Letter - Please include a 1-2 page cover letter.
Statement of Research - This research proposal should not exceed 5 pages. Applicants should provide specific information about research plans, including possible areas of collaboration.
Recent Publications - Please include at least one recent publication.

Reference requirements

Names and contact details for 3 references. We will only request letters of recommendation for shortlisted candidates.

Apply email: Submit your application as a single pdf file to BESIHR@berkeley.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/16/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16228

California State University, Fullerton

Rank: Assistant Professor, Asian American Studies (with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific Studies)
Specializations: Asian American Politics, American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Department of Asian American Studies
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
Assistant Professor
Fall 2026

The Department of Asian American Studies (ASAM) at California State University, Fullerton (CSUF), invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or advanced Assistant Professor in Asian American Studies with an appointment to begin Fall 2026. The advanced rank will include up to two years of service credit (time counted toward the normal six-year probationary period).

California State University, Fullerton (CSUF) is an equal opportunity employer and a minority-serving institution, with a Hispanic-Serving Institution designation. CSUF earned the prestigious Seal of Excelencia in 2021 and 2024, joining a distinguished group of colleges and universities recognized for their commitment to the success of Latine/x students. Our 45,000 Titans, including international students, study in 122 dynamic degree programs. CSUF is firmly committed to student success by equipping students to achieve academic excellence, career success, and economic mobility. Candidates who can contribute to this goal through their teaching, research, advising, and other activities are encouraged to identify their strengths and experiences. We are seeking to recruit and retain faculty who can teach and mentor our students to achieve their academic and career goals while advancing the University's strategic plan objectives. CSUF strives to retain all faculty by providing resources to build meaningful connections and community within and across disciplines. The campus community is designed to foster an inclusive environment that enables students, staff, administrators, and faculty to thrive.

Position
The Department of Asian American Studies at California State University, Fullerton invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position with appointment to begin Fall 2026. We seek a teacher-scholar of ethnic studies or related fields with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific studies.

CSUF faculty are committed teachers/scholars who bring research and creative discovery to life for students in classrooms, labs, studios, individually mentored projects, and faculty-student collaborations on papers and presentations. They teach broadly in the curricula of their departments, advise students, serve on departmental and university-wide committees, and engage in community work. The primary responsibilities of the person in this position will include the development and teaching of introductory and core courses in Asian American studies and ethnic studies and the development of courses in their area(s) of specialization. This faculty member will also be responsible for producing scholarship or creative work commensurate with the requirements for tenure. The successful candidate will also be expected to contribute to and participate in the life and development of the department, advise students, serve on committees, and participate in the broader university and disciplinary communities.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. in ethnic studies or related field, with an emphasis in Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific studies, by the time of appointment
- Ability to teach a wide range of Asian American studies and ethnic studies courses
- Demonstrated commitment to and excellence in undergraduate teaching
- Strong record of scholarly or creative accomplishments appropriate to the level of appointment
- Demonstrated commitment to department/university, professional, and community service
- Experience in working collaboratively with colleagues
- Ability to balance excellent teaching, scholarship/creative activity, and service
- Demonstrated commitment to working effectively with students from intersecting marginalized social groups

Preferred Qualifications

- Emphases in history; cultural studies (literature, digital/media studies, music); colonialism, empire, and war; queer of color theories; women of color feminist theories; diaspora; and/or community and social movements
- Interdisciplinary, intersectional and/or comparative approaches
- Evidence of effective use of a variety of instructional methods and learning modalities
- Evidence of successful scholarly/creative works and publications
- Evidence of engagement with student co-curricular activities and Asian American or Pacific Islander/Native Pacific communities

Application
A complete online application must be received by electronic submission to be considered. To apply, please visit http://hr.fullerton.edu/careers/Faculty.php, choose full-time faculty, search for the 553089 and provide the following required materials:

- Cover letter addressing the required and/or preferred qualifications
- Curriculum vitae
- 500-word-maximum teaching statement describing experience and philosophy
- 500-word-maximum research statement describing current and future projects
- 500-word-maximum service statement describing experience and interests
- 500-word-maximum statement on commitment to inclusive excellence:

Inclusive excellence is a strategic framework that recognizes the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusion in achieving organizational success and high-quality learning and teaching. It is a way of thinking and acting that integrates these values into all aspects of an institution, from curriculum and pedagogy to recruitment and hiring. Essentially, it means that excellence is not just about achieving high standards, but also about ensuring that all members of the community have the opportunity to thrive and contribute (Williams et al., 2005).

With the Inclusive Excellence Statement, we aim to learn about the applicant's perspective on their past and present contributions to and future aspirations for promoting and engaging with a diverse student population. This statement should showcase the candidate's professional experience, intellectual commitments, and/or willingness to teach and create an academic environment supportive of all students, including but not limited to those of diverse ages, abilities, cultures, ethnicities, gender identities, languages, religions, and sexual orientations.

Cal State Fullerton serves a student body that reflects the rich cultural, ethnic, and socioeconomic mosaic of Southern California. Please provide concrete examples of how you, as a faculty member, will support our students in one or more of the following areas, which fall under the areas of awareness and understanding, experience and commitment, and future plans.

1. Your contributions (past, present, or future) to embedding perspectives that are reflective of the student population into your teaching and/or scholarship.
2. Your experience in service activities that are reflective of a diverse student population.
3. Your experience and commitment to mentoring and providing opportunities to a diverse student body inside and outside the classroom environment.
4. Your experience integrating creative activities that are inclusive of the identities of our student body and communities.

- Evidence of excellent teaching:
- Sample syllabi (i.e., previously taught and new course proposals in area of expertise)
- Teaching peer observations
- Professional development training
- One writing sample (ABD applicants to provide a minimum of 2 dissertation chapters)
- A list of three references with relevant contact information:

Semi-finalists must submit three letters of recommendation. Please have these ready for the?references to submit. On the References page of the online application, enter information and email?addresses of three individuals who will provide a confidential letter of reference for your application. At?the appropriate time in the search process, they will receive a request via email along with information on?uploading the letter. You may verify that CSUF has received each letter by logging?into your applicant portal.

- Semi-finalists and/or finalists may be asked to submit additional materials for further consideration (e.g., scholarly articles, portfolio, etc.).
- Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review)

Please direct all questions about the position to Search Committee Chair Dr. Eliza Noh at enoh@fullerton.edu.

Application Deadline
To be assured full consideration, all application materials must be received by December 9, 2025. The anticipated appointment date is Fall 2026. The position is open until filled.

The College and Department

The mission of the Department of Asian American Studies is to realize the department's vision of achieving and sustaining social justice for all through creating knowledge, teaching, and serving our communities, with an emphasis on Asian and Pacific Islander American communities. The department goals are to promote study and research by, for, and about Asian and Pacific Islander Americans; to teach students about the experiences of Asians and Pacific Islanders in the US and in the world; to teach students critical thinking and communication skills; to prepare students for social and community engagement by providing opportunities to gain skills and organizational experiences; and to advance social justice for Asian and Pacific Islander Americans.

ASAM is housed within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the largest college within CSUF, offering 23 undergraduate degrees, 38 minors, and 15 graduate degrees. Our college mission is to educate students to be culturally, globally, socially, historically and environmentally astute, civically responsible graduates able to navigate an increasingly complex and interconnected world. ASAM often collaborates with the Department of African American Studies, the Department of Chicana/o Studies, the Asian American and Pacific Islander Faculty & Staff Association, the Asian Pacific American Resource Center, various student organizations including the Student Association for Asian American Studies, alumni, and various community-based organizations in Orange County.

Compensation
The Assistant Professor (Academic Year) classification salary range is $6,221 to $13,224 monthly (12 monthly payments per academic year). The anticipated hiring range is $7,465 to $7,608 per month.

Salary offered is commensurate with experience and qualifications. In addition, the California Equal Pay Act prohibits employers from paying its employees less than those of the opposite sex and/or another race or ethnicity for substantially similar work (https://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/california_equal_pay_act.htm).

Summer research grants, moving expenses, start-up funds, and a reduced teaching load may be available.

CSUF Benefits
An excellent comprehensive benefits package includes health/vision/dental plans; spouse, domestic partner, and dependent fee-waiver; access to campus child-care; and a defined-benefit retirement through the state system and optional tax-sheltering opportunities. For a detailed description of benefits, please visit https://hr.fullerton.edu/total-wellness/.

New employees hired by the CSU for the first time who first become CalPERS members on or after July 1, 2017, are subject to a 10-year vesting period for retiree health and dental benefits.

Additional Information
Multiple positions may be hired from this recruitment based on the strength of the applicant pool.

CSU Policies
The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and must comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083, revised July 21, 2017, as a condition of employment.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be formally offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or the continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Reasonable accommodations will be provided for qualified applicants with disabilities who self-disclose.

Notice of Non-Discrimination based on Gender or Sex and Contact Information for Title IX Coordinator (http://www.fullerton.edu/titleix/about/notice.php).

In accordance with the California State University (CSU) Out-of-State Employment Policy, the CSU is a state entity whose business operations reside within the State of California. It requires hiring employees to perform CSU-related work within the State of California. The employee must be able to accept on-campus instruction, as assigned, and come to campus when needed. The CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States.

California State University, Fullerton, is not currently sponsoring faculty positions for H-1B employment visas. At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit the Faculty/Staff Visas and Permanent Residency page: https://hr.fullerton.edu/risk-management/faculty-staff-visas-permanent-residency/default.php

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: $90,000 - $99,999
eJobs ID: 16226

Duke University
Rank: Dean, Sanford School of Public Policy

Search for the Dean, Sanford School of Public Policy
Duke University
Durham, North Carolina

"There is nothing wrong with being outrageously ambitious." —Terry Sanford, 1984

Duke University invites applications and nominations for Dean of the Sanford School of Public Policy. Founded in 1971 as the Institute of Policy Sciences and Public Affairs by Duke President and former North Carolina Governor and U.S. Senator Terry Sanford, the academic unit was focused on cultivating those with outrageous ambition—those who dare to ask the hardest questions, act with integrity even when no one is watching, reject the notion that suffering is inevitable, and remain grounded in ethics and morality. In 2009, the Institute became Duke's tenth school, building on decades of innovation in policy education and research.

Today, Sanford continues to educate policy professionals to lead in a rapidly evolving public sector, preparing them to address complex challenges where innovation, collaboration, and excellence are essential to driving transformative change. The School offers a suite of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral degrees. The undergraduate major is among the oldest and largest in the country and remains one of Duke's most popular majors. The School's impact is magnified through its research centers and initiatives, which serve as transdisciplinary hubs for policy innovation and engagement at local, national, and global levels.

As one of the nation's premier public policy schools, Sanford thrives within Duke's vibrant interdisciplinary ecosystem and benefits from Duke's extensive resources and collaborative culture. The School is dedicated to producing knowledge and cultivating leadership that transforms complex policy challenges into opportunities for positive change. With a strong emphasis on evidence-based solutions, Sanford is recognized for its transdisciplinary approach, global outlook, and dedication to preparing students for lives of civic engagement, public service, and leadership in diverse policy arenas.

Reporting to the Provost and Chief Academic Officer, Alec Gallimore, the Dean will be responsible for collaboratively creating and advancing a bold strategic vision for Sanford that deepens the School's innovative approaches to public policy education, research, and leadership development. The Dean will lead efforts to secure philanthropic support and manage resources effectively to ensure Sanford faculty, staff, and students can deliver the education, research, and service missions of the School with distinction. The successful candidate will bring a record of exceptional leadership and the vision to drive innovation and excellence, foster collaboration, and advance Sanford's enduring commitment to public service.

Duke University has engaged Issacson, Miller to assist in this search. Inquiries, nominations, referrals, and applications should be sent in confidence via: https://apptrkr.com/6722043.

Duke is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, (including pregnancy and pregnancy related conditions), sexual orientation, or military status.

Isaacson, Miller, and Duke University are committed to creating an inclusive environment and welcome applications from candidates with disabilities. If you have any accommodation or access needs, we are happy to provide reasonable accommodations.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16224

Boston University
Rank: 2026-2027 Fellows Program

The Boston University Global Development Policy Center (GDP Center) is seeking applications for the 2026-2027 Fellows Program. The GDP Center is a policy-oriented research center working to advance financial stability, human well-being and environmental sustainability across the globe through rigorous interdisciplinary research, policy engagement and strategic communications.
The Fellows Program provides a one-of-a-kind opportunity to engage and collaborate with GDP Center researchers, BU faculty members and Global South-based institutions to conduct policy research in line with one of the GDP Center's research initiatives: the Global China Initiative or the Global Economic Governance Initiative.

The Global China Fellows Program trains the next generation of thought leaders to advance policy-oriented, interdisciplinary academic research on China's overseas economic activities and engagement. Fellows will be paired with a BU faculty member, GDP Center Senior Academic Researcher under, or a Non-Resident (Senior) Fellow on one of the four workstreams: Data Analysis for Transparency and Accountability (D.A.T.A.); Forestry, Agriculture, and Indigenous Rights (FAIR); Energy and Climate; and China and the International Financial Architecture (CHIFA).

The Global Economic Governance Fellows Program pairs fellows with a senior researcher in their field to conduct research in line with one of the following thematic programs: the role of development banks (multilateral, regional or national) in enhancing climate and development action, particularly in mobilizing resources and facilitating a just transition away from fossil fuels; the intersection of international trade and investment rules with the needs of the climate crisis, including green industrialization strategies; and financial stability and development, with a focus on reform of the global debt architecture to be fit-for-purpose, the global financial safety net and the International Monetary Fund.

The majority of the fellowships will be awarded for the 2026-2027 academic year (September 2026 to May 2027). In addition to the fellowship award, fellows will receive a competitive stipend to support fieldwork and conference travel, and other approved professional development expenses. This fellowship program is in-person at the GDP Center's office at Boston University.

Required Qualifications:
- Enrolled in or graduated from a PhD program:

o Pre-doctoral applicants must have completed their qualification/comprehensive exams and defended their dissertation proposal
o Post-doctoral applicants must have successfully defended their dissertation by August 2026.
- For GCI: Strong research interest and expertise in China's overseas economic activities and engagement with international institutions.
- For GEGI: Strong research interest in one or more of the GEGI areas of focus: development finance institutions, trade and investment rules, and financial stability.

To apply:

For Global China scholars: Interested applicants should send the following materials in one PDF to the Global China Initiative Team (gci@bu.edu) with the subject line "<<LastName_FirstName>> GCI Fellow Application 2026-2027"

For Global Economic Governance scholars: Interested applicants should send the following materials in one PDF to the Global Economic Governance Initiative Team (gegi@bu.edu) with the subject line "<<LastName_FirstName>> GEGI Fellow Application 2026-2027?

Required Application Materials:

1. Recent Curriculum Vitae.
2. A 1-2 page cover letter describing applicant's academic training, research interests and experience.
3. A 1-2 page working paper proposal that outlines the research question(s), methodology, research plan and its significance.
4. Contact information for two references.

Applications must be received by December 19, 2025, 11:59 PM EST. Applicants will be reviewed on a rolling basis, with screening interviews starting in October. Due to the volume of applicants, only shortlisted candidates will be contacted.

For International candidates: International candidates will need express approval from their sponsoring institution stating that the potential fellow is allowed to earn income from another institution. This is especially important for international students with J-1 visas. Note: If you do not currently have a valid US scholar visa, certain research positions at Boston University qualify for immigration sponsorship. Prospective scholars should first establish their potential affiliation with the GDP Center as a pre- or post-doctoral fellow and clarify the terms of their appointment. BU's International Students and Scholars Office (ISSO) will work with the prospective scholar and the GDP Center to evaluate which immigration classification is most appropriate. The ISSO will consider various factors such as the appointment/affiliation terms, the scholar's educational achievements and US immigration history.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/19/2025
Date Posted: 11/13/2025
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 16218

Michigan State University

Rank: Associate Director, Institute for Public Policy and Social Research

Academic Specialist - Outreach - Fixed Term

Michigan State University actively promotes a dynamic research and learning environment in which qualified individuals of differing perspectives, and cultural backgrounds pursue academic goals with mutual respect and shared inquiry.

Michigan State University is seeking an Associate Director that supports the overall leadership and strategic direction of the Institute for Public Policy and Social Research (IPPSR) by fostering connections between academic research and public policy, managing compliance and budgeting, and advancing outreach to state and local stakeholders. It also involves developing independent and collaborative projects, strengthening the survey research unit, mentoring staff, and cultivating a research-driven culture among faculty and students that emphasizes communication, policy engagement, and external funding.

The Associate Director will co-lead signature programs with the Director, such as the Legislative Leadership Program, Michigan Political Leadership Program, Policy Forums, and other educational and training programs. They will also support the Institute's survey research unit, manage large-scale data projects like the Correlates of State Policy database and the Michigan Policy Insiders Panel, oversee the Michigan Applied Public Policy Research grant program, and mentor student research teams.

IPPSR operates within the College of Social Science and seeks to apply research to urgent public issues by offering survey services, educational programs, and fostering problem-solving relationships across academic and policymaker communities on society's most pressing needs. This role requires a collaborative spirit, a commitment to public engagement, and the ability to translate academic research into actionable policy insights. The Associate Director will also contribute to fundraising efforts and represent IPPSR and MSU across campus and beyond.

Minimum Requirements:
• Master's degree and at least 6/8 years' experience in fields of government law, policy affairs, or public policy or bachelor's degree and 8/10 years' experience in fields of government, law, policy affairs, or public policy
• At least three years' professional experience leading teams, managing projects in public policy arenas with increasingly responsible roles involving external relations, program development and execution, strategic planning, team building, conference coordination, budget development and administration, or related fields
• Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively and maintain strategic alliances and relationships with a wide cross section of stakeholders

Desired Qualifications:
• Strong familiarity with Michigan and national policymaking
• Strong writing, editing, and public speaking skills
• Commitment to civic engagement and public service
• Familiarity with strategic planning, organizational operations, and administrative procedures associated with a university setting
• Experience with data-driven policy analysis or survey research

Required Application Materials:
• Cover letter
• Curriculum Vita
• Please provide the names and contact information of three references.

Website: ippsr.msu.edu

Apply at: https://careers.msu.edu/
Posting number: 1083287

Start Date: Winter 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 16214

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions Senior Visiting Scholar
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Public Opinion

Vanderbilt University's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) seeks up to three Senior Visiting Scholars to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior during the 2026-27 academic year. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions.

The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending the entire academic year at Vanderbilt. There is no teaching requirement associated with these positions. Successful candidates will receive office space and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing your research project, what you hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applicants should submit materials electronically at: https://apply.interfolio.com/177613. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 5, 2026.

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/12/2025
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 16216

Washington State University

Rank: Director of Foley Institute and Associate Professor/Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Administration

Washington State University seeks a visionary leader for the position of Director of the Foley Institute for Public Policy and Public Service and as a faculty member in the School of Politics, Philosophy, and Public Affairs (PPPA) in the College of Arts and Sciences. Applications are invited for a permanent, full-time 9-month, tenure-eligible position at the rank of Associate Professor or Full Professor as well as a termed, though renewable, administrative leadership appointment as the Director of the Foley Institute for which an administrative stipend will be paid.

The mission of the Foley Institute is to provide public affairs education, engage students in public service, and support academic research on public policy and democratic institutions. As the Director you are expected to interact with and serve the public, build connections with state and national institutions, and create and sustain pathways for students interested in pursuing public service careers.

You will be expected to strengthen your own disciplinary area while fostering collaboration and building connections across PPPA's multiple disciplines. PPPA engages in scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and public outreach to address the ethical, philosophical, and political challenges facing the world. As a member of PPPA faculty, you are expected to work within the School to prepare students to be effective and engage citizens and leaders equipped with a strong understanding of research methods and a multidisciplinary, problem-solving mindset. Additionally, you are expected to be an effective administrator, while maintaining a strong research agenda in your area of expertise, and contribute to teaching in the School of PPPA.

As the successful candidate is expected to have an exceptional record of collaborative leadership that fosters common goals within a department or program and the broader university community, experience with public service, and a record of effective communication with the university community and the broader public. The successful candidate will also have an outstanding record in research and teaching in American Politics, interpreted broadly. Successful candidates will be expected to begin the four (4) year renewable appointment as Director on August 16, 2026.

See the following link for full details and to apply: https://wsu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/WSU_Jobs/job/Associate-Professor-Professor_R-14220

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/10/2025
Salary: $140,000 - $149,999
eJobs ID: 16211

Indiana University-Bloomington

Rank: Non-Tenure Track Faculty Position in Law and Public Policy

The O'Neill School of Public and Environmental Affairs (O'Neill) at Indiana University, Bloomington campus, invites applications for a full-time, renewable, non-tenure track academic year appointment as a Lecturer or Clinical faculty position to teach in its expanding Law and Public Policy program. The course assignments are flexible, with topics related to areas such as constitutional law, administrative law, legal history, and legislative processes. The school has a particular interest in candidates with a background in environmental law and/or dispute resolution.

Qualifications for this position are: 1) a J.D. degree from an ABA accredited law school; 2) at least 10 years of professional experience in legal practice or a law-related field, such as policymaking; 3) teaching or extensive presentation experience; and 4) commitment to high quality teaching and student mentoring. 'Though not required, one or more of the following would be advantageous: significant professional experience in negotiation and/or conflict resolution; professional experience in environmental law and/or environmental policymaking; classroom teaching experience, particularly at the college level; and training or practice in other areas of O'Neill's undergraduate curriculum such as labor and employment law, health law, administrative law, or ethics.

Individuals appointed within Lecturer or Clinical faculty positions are expected to focus on teaching (including course development, revision, and delivery), as well as on teaching-related service such as student advising and curriculum development. Those appointed as Clinical faculty are also expected to actively engage in service to relevant academic and practitioner communities. Lecturers and Clinical faculty are eligible for promotions to higher ranks within lines (Lecturer to Senior Lecturer and Teaching Professor; Clinical Assistant Professor to Clinical Associate Professor and Clinical Full Professor).

The standard teaching assignment for Lecturer and Clinical faculty positions is six courses per year. Lecturers and Clinical faculty are not eligible for tenure but will be considered for promotion and/or long-term contracts no later than the sixth year of appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. The expected start date is August 1, 2026.

To ensure consideration, application materials must be received by December 1, 2025. However, the search may continue until the position is filled. Please submit via the online system https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/30956, the following materials: 1) a letter of application; 2) a current vita that includes a history of academic and professional experience; 3) a statement of teaching philosophy including approaches to course design and classroom instruction and a description of successful teaching, training, and/or related professional experience (including online/distance-learning instructional experience, if applicable) and 4) contact information for three references. For more information, please contact the search committee chair: Dr. Kenneth Richards (kenricha@iu.edu).

O'Neill-Bloomington is the largest school of public affairs and public policy in the United States, with over 4,000 students, and for five years has ranked in one of the top two spots of the U.S. News & World Report rankings for graduate public affairs schools in the country. Six of O'Neill's specialty programs are ranked in the top five listings nationally, O'Neill is also tied for the topranked public administration program according to the 2020 Academic Ranking of World Universities. The school attracts very high performing faculty and students and provides a collegial workplace environment.

Indiana University is a major research University founded in 1820 and currently enrolls over 38,000 undergraduates and 10,000 graduate and professional students on the Bloomington campus. Additional information about the school and Indiana University can be found at https://oneill.indiana.edu/. Bloomington is a welcoming community located in the beautiful, wooded hills of southern Indiana approximately 1 hour from Indianapolis and 4 hours from Chicago, with abundant cultural and recreational opportunities, low housing costs, and excellent schools. Additional information about the city of Bloomington can be found at https://www.visitbloomington.com/.

Indiana University is an equal opportunity employer and provider of ADA services and prohibits discrimination in hiring. See Indiana University's Notice of Non-Discrimination here which includes contact information.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16199

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Department Chair
Subfield(s): Administration, Open, Public Policy
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice, Defense

The Department of Political and Global Affairs invites applications for the position of Department Chair (128005). Applicants must be eligible to meet the criteria for the rank of either associate professor or professor. Expedited tenure upon appointment is possible. The start date for the position is August 1, 2026.

The successful candidate will lead a department that offers undergraduate degrees and concentrations in Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Policy Management, International Relations, Global Studies, and Human Geography, and an M.A. in International Affairs. The department seeks candidates who emphasize collaborative leadership and the ability to manage quotidian operations while focusing on long-range plans to foster growth and sustain quality programs.

The successful candidate will prioritize excellence in teaching, have a distinguished record of scholarship, and a commitment to equitable student success. In addition, the successful candidate will have demonstrated leadership abilities, strong interpersonal and problem-solving skills, and will provide advocacy for multi-faceted student and faculty concerns.

A terminal degree in Political Science or a closely related field is required. While the teaching specialization and research are open, those specializing in public policy or pre-law may receive special consideration. In addition, candidates with prior administrative experience—including management of budgets, experience with assessment for learning improvement, and interest in recruitment and fundraising may also receive special consideration.

To apply or for more detailed information, visit https://careers.mtsu.edu. MTSU is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified individuals are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16200

Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative
Rank: Senior Research Associate

The Bloomberg Harvard City Leadership Initiative (BHCLI) invites applications for a full-time Ph.D.-level Senior Research Associate to join its research team. Led by faculty director, Professor Jorrit de Jong, the research team advances knowledge on solving urban problems through effective public management, leadership, and collaborative governance—generating evidence on how to strengthen the capacity of cities and their leaders to improve residents' quality of life. The Senior Research Associate, reporting to Senior Director of Research, Dr. Quinton Mayne, will take a leading role in co-designing and executing studies aligned with this research agenda, building a field of study at the intersection of organizational behavior, public management, and urban studies, and producing research that generates actionable insights for practitioners and high-impact academic publications.

To learn more about this position and to apply, please visit: https://careers.harvard.edu/job/senior-research-associate-bloomberg-center-for-cities-in-cambridge-ma-united-states-jid-690

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16192

College of Charleston
Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and MPA

The Master of Public Administration Program and the Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invite applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in environmental policy and politics beginning August 16, 2026. The ideal candidate will have the skills necessary to teach the public policy core course and elective courses on environmental law/policy in our NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration program. Undergraduate teaching requirements include a US-focused environmental policy course as well as American government and introductory courses in public administration and policy. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a 3-3 course load, maintain an active research agenda, and contribute to the governance of the MPA program. A PhD in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field is required.

Applicants should apply online at https://jobs.cofc.edu/ and submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, a sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, including, but not limited to, course syllabi and course evaluations), and three reference letters.

The Political Science Department has 21 full-time faculty, over 360 undergraduate majors (http://polisci.cofc.edu/), and a Geography Minor (http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/). The department also supports a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Administration (http://puba.cofc.edu/) and a Master of Science in Environmental and Sustainability Studies (http://mes.cofc.edu/) program. The Department of Political Science is committed to the rigorous study of politics, power, and place, expanding opportunities for learning and service, career preparation, and civic participation locally and globally.

The College of Charleston is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 870,000. The College is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with a student body consisting of approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 900 graduate students, including 20% of whom identify as minorities and 140 international students from 34 different countries. Additional information about the institution, the student body, and the surrounding area is available athttps://www.cofc.edu/.

Questions about the search can be directed to the department chair, Dr. Hollis France (franceh@cofc.edu), or Dr. LaTasha Chaffin (chaffinly@cofc.edu), Director of the MPA program and chair of the search committee. Review of applications will begin on November 27 and continue until the position is filled.

See posting here: https://jobs.cofc.edu/postings/17348

Start Date:
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16190

Princeton University
Rank: CITP Fellow: Postdoctoral, Visiting Professional, Visiting Professor Researcher

About:

The Center for Information Technology Policy Fellows Program is a competitive, fully-funded, in-person program that supports scholars and practitioners in research and policy work tied to the Center's mission. CITP research falls into the following three areas: Platforms and Digital Infrastructure; Data Science, AI and Society; and Privacy and Security. Fellows accepted into this program conduct research with members of the Center's community — including faculty, scholars and other fellows — across disciplines, and engage in our public programs, such as workshops and conferences. The program offers three fellowship tracks:

- Postdoctoral track: for people who recently received a Ph.D. or doctorate degree
- Visiting Research scholar/Visiting Professional track: for academics and professionals (e.g., lawyers, journalists, technologists, former government officials, etc.)
- Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor track: for academics

Find additional information and compare each track below.

Application Process:

We hire for the Fellows Program each year. Applicants may apply for more than one track. Both CITP and Princeton University place high value on in-person collaborations and interactions. As such, candidates are expected to participate in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

CITP's fellows committee begins reviewing applications mid-December every year. Candidates are encouraged to apply by the start-of-review date, Monday, December 1, 2025, 11:59 p.m. EST, for full consideration. Applications received after that date will only be considered if the position has not yet been filled.

Contact information for three references must be included in the application materials.

 Postdoctoral Track **

The postdoctoral track is for people who have recently received or are about to receive a Ph.D. or doctorate degree, and work on understanding and improving the relationship between technology and society. Selected candidates will be appointed at the postdoctoral research associate or more senior research rank. These are typically 12-month appointments, commencing on or about September 1, and can be renewed for a second-year, contingent on performance and funding. Fellows in the postdoctoral track have the option of teaching, subject to sufficient course enrollments and the approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

Most postdocs are matched to a specific faculty adviser. A list of CITP Associated Faculty and the areas in which they are looking for postdocs will be forthcoming below. Please check back periodically as topics and people could be added throughout the hiring process.

Faculty advisers/topics will be listed on the CITP website.

Candidates are expected to have their Ph.D. on the start date of the appointment. The appointment will not be finalized, and an exact start date will not be set, until the candidate has successfully defended their thesis or provided proof of their doctorate degree. Official proof of Ph.D. should be provided by July 1, 2026.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed here.

 Visiting Research Scholar (Visiting Professionals Track) **

The Visiting Professional track is for professionals who hold an advanced degree —such as a M.A., Ph.D. or J.D. — and must be on leave from their full-time job. This includes professors on sabbaticals or journalists on leave from their newsrooms. This fellowship appointment is roughly nine months long and will begin on or about September 1. However, CITP does offer some flexibility between May 1 and October 1. The primary appointment will be at the rank of "Visiting Research Scholar" or "Visiting Professional Specialist" depending on experience. This position is in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

In addition to a current curriculum vitae, research statement, and cover letter describing your background, interest in the program, and salary requirements, applicants to the Visiting Professionals track should provide a breakdown of all of the sources of financial support you will receive during the fellowship. This includes sabbatical funding or financial support from your home institution. Upon hire, written proof of employment, leave dates, and salary must be provided by the candidate's home institution for the appointment period while at CITP.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed here.

Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar (Visiting Professor Track) **

The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor track is for visiting academics who are nationally or internationally recognized experts in technology policy. Appointments are typically for a term of up to nine months with an expected start date in September. The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor must hold a Ph.D. or J.D. and must be on leave from their home institution. This position is in-person at CITP on the Princeton University campus.

The Microsoft Visiting Research Scholar/Visiting Professor is expected to collaborate and contribute to CITP's mission in at least one of the following ways:

- Teach one course related to their research during their nine-month term, subject to sufficient enrollment and with the approval of the Dean of the Faculty.
- Envision and lead a conference or a series of workshops during their time at CITP.
- Collaborate with existing faculty members on research and jointly mentor students or CITP's emerging scholars.

Please include a proposal in your cover letter elaborating on how you plan to contribute to CITP during your term. For example, if you are proposing to teach, please include details about potential topics you are willing to teach (provide a sample syllabus and reading list). If you are proposing to develop a conference or workshop series, please include a proposal describing the series, potential speakers, audience, and output of the conference. Finally, if you are proposing to collaborate on research with existing faculty members, please describe the joint project and potential mentorship opportunities associated with the project.

The Microsoft Visiting Professor track will carry the title of Microsoft Visiting (Assistant/Associate) Professor in the semester of teaching. Their primary appointment will be at the rank of "Visiting Research Scholar" or "Visiting Professional Specialist," depending on experience. Typically, there will be one Microsoft Visiting Professor per year.

In addition to a current curriculum vitae, research statement, and cover letter describing your background, interest in the program, and salary requirements, applicants to the Visiting Professionals track should provide a breakdown of all of the sources of financial support you will receive during the fellowship. This includes sabbatical funding or financial support from your home institution.

Upon hire, written proof of current employment, leave dates. and salary must be provided by candidate's home institution for the appointment period while at CITP.

The application and comprehensive details about the position, including all requirements, can be accessed at: https://citp.princeton.edu/programs/fellows-program.

Start Date: Fall 2026

Application Deadline: 12/5/2025
Date Posted: 11/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16194

Harvard University

Rank: Professor of Public Policy (American Politics)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy
Specializations: American Politics, Electoral Systems, Social Movements

Harvard Kennedy School seeks a scholar of the highest distinction to appoint as a professor of public policy, focusing on American politics, elections, and policy. We particularly welcome applications from scholars whose research focuses on those American principles, institutions, and norms that support a free and fair society. Specializations may include individual liberties, federalism, government regulations and efficiency, electoral campaigns, social and religious movements, and the relationship between government and the rights of private citizens. Candidates should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Requirements include a doctorate in political science and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV to Professor Maya Sen, Search Committee Chair, via https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15417. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16149

Harvard University

Rank: Professor of Public Policy (Power and Difference)
Specializations: Race & Ethnic Politics, Housing, Social Movements

Harvard Kennedy School seeks a scholar of the highest distinction to appoint as a professor of public policy, with a special emphasis on power and difference. We particularly welcome applications from scholars with policy specializations that might include racial and ethnic inequality, economic inequality, education, family, work, housing, public finance, migration, social movements, legal reform, civil rights leadership or organization, electoral campaigns, and/or urban studies. This position is open with respect to discipline, with a particular interest in political science, sociology, or history. Candidates should have a demonstrated interest in public or policy engagement and applying their perspectives to the practice of public policy. Requirements include a doctorate in a relevant field and a strong capacity to integrate methods and insights across disciplinary boundaries.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV to Professor Archon Fung, Search Committee Chair, via: https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/15422. We will consider applications until the position is filled.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/21/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16150

Bilkent University

Rank: Two positions in Political Science and Public Adminsitration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Bilkent University in Ankara, Turkey, invites applications for two positions (see details below). Candidates must demonstrate an active research agenda and a strong record of publication. They are also expected to offer high-quality teaching and training at undergraduate and graduate levels. The preferred starting date is September 2026. Applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

Bilkent University was founded in 1984. It has since been a leading research institution in Turkey. The medium of instruction is English. The University is an internationally diverse community with students and faculty. The university offers on-campus housing. For further information about Bilkent University, please visit: http://w3.bilkent.edu.tr/bilkent/about-bilkent/.

The Search Committees will start evaluating the files starting on 1 January 2026 and continue until the position is filled. Contact details: pols@bilkent.edu.tr

1) Open rank (Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, preferably Assistant Professor) position in Turkish Politics. Application website: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/POLS2026T

2) Assistant Professor position in Public Policy. Candidates whose research focuses on politics of the policy process will be given priority. Application website: https://stars.bilkent.edu.tr/staffapp/POLS2026P

For both positions, please submit your application by uploading the following items at this address:

* Cover letter
* Teaching statement
* Research statement
* CV
* Names and contact details of three referees
* Two sample publications (e.g. articles, chapter of a monograph, dissertation chapters in case of continuing Ph.D. students.)

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/1/2026
Date Posted: 10/18/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16139

Boston University

Rank: Professor of Global Public Policy and Director of the Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future
Specializations: International Security, Environmental Policy, Economic Policy

Boston University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of professor in the Frederick S. Pardee School of Global Studies.

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for Frederick S. Pardee Professor of Global Public Policy and Director of the Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future. The Director shall hold the rank of Professor, with tenure. The appointment is expected to begin July 1, 2026. The search is open to applicants from all disciplines and functional specializations. Successful candidates would be expected to have demonstrated the potential for excellence in any discipline relevant to international affairs, broadly understood, and share a commitment to the Pardee School's institutional values and to advancing human progress. The successful candidate must have a demonstrated record of interdisciplinary research that addresses globally important issues and with increasing global relevance over the next several decades, such as the challenges of climate change and other forms of environmental degradation, artificial intelligence, cyber security, the future of technologies, governance, and/or human security. We are particularly interested in work that has policy relevance, and candidates who have demonstrated policy experience in addition to scholarly qualifications are encouraged to apply.

The Center Director oversees the operations and activities of the Center, including research affiliates, research seminars, summer graduate fellows program, and supervises staff. The Director is expected to participate in fundraising activities for the School and the Pardee Center. In addition to leading the work of the Center, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses in his/her/their area(s) of functional expertise and will also advise and mentor our undergraduate and graduate MA students.

The Frederick S. Pardee Center for the Study of the Longer-Range Future is an interdisciplinary research center of the Frederick S. Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University. The Pardee Center was established in 2000 through the generosity of the late Frederick S. Pardee, whose career as a systems analyst and an economic forecaster was imbued with a passion for analyzing trends for the future. Both the Pardee Center and the Pardee School are motivated by Mr. Pardee's lifelong dedication to the creation of a better future for all of humanity. The Center conducts interdisciplinary research on globally important issues that affect the human condition over the course of several decades. Through programs of scholarship, outreach, and education, the Pardee Center works to improve public decision-making and policy and to train future generations of interdisciplinary scholars.

Since its founding in 1839, Boston University has embraced a mission of openness and access, becoming one of the first universities in the nation to welcome all students of ability regardless of race, gender, or creed. That tradition shapes our enduring commitment to academic freedom, free inquiry, and the robust exchange of ideas.

We seek scholars who will contribute to our community of teachers and researchers through excellence in innovative scholarship, engaged teaching, and participation in the intellectual life of the University. Boston University provides an environment where faculty and students work together across disciplines, perspectives, and experiences to advance knowledge and address society's most pressing challenges.

Boston University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender, age, national origin, ethnicity, disability, veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law or identified in the University's Notice of Non-Discrimination. Retaliation is also prohibited. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor. Under Massachusetts law, we may not require or administer a lie detector test as a condition of employment or continued employment. Boston University, consistent with the AAU's Principles on Preventing Sexual Harassment, conducts background checks for final candidates for certain faculty and staff positions. As part of this process, we ask current and past employers of the last seven years whether there has been a substantiated finding of sexual misconduct under their policies. To move forward, final candidates must complete and sign an "Authorization to Release Information" form after receiving an offer to enable this background check.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, and 2) curriculum vitae electronically at https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30827. At least three letters of reference will be solicited separately. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Elaine Bidianos at elaineb@bu.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis, beginning October 15, 2025, but applications will be accepted until the job is filled. The expected starting date for employment is July 1, 2026.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/17/2025
Salary: Above $159,999
eJobs ID: 16138

Truman State University

Rank: Interdisciplinary Assistant Professor (NTT) in Social Science and Human Inquiry
Subfield(s): Other, Public Law, Public Policy
Specializations: African American Politics, History & Politics, Social Welfare

The School of Arts and Humanities at Truman State University seeks applicants for an interdisciplinary, non-tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin August 2026. Applicants' field(s) of study/research should fall within one or more of these broad academic fields: African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, Health Studies.

This position is a full-time, nine-month appointment located on Truman's campus in Kirksville, Missouri. In addition to the duties and responsibilities described below, faculty are expected to contribute to the campus culture of the Liberal Arts and Sciences and interdisciplinarity by teaching in the University's core curriculum (The Dialogues) and contributing to interdisciplinary initiatives and coursework as needed.

This position is subject to annual renewal up to three years.

Responsibilities: The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory courses in at least one of the major programs within the SSHI department (see below) and upper-level electives complementing existing offerings in two of the department's major programs OR in one of the department's major programs AND another program at Truman. The successful candidate will also be expected to teach courses to support Truman's Dialogues curriculum, campuswide interdisciplinary programs, participate in SSHI departmental activities including student recruitment, and perform other regular service to the University and community.

Required Qualifications: Appointment requires a terminal degree in at least one of the above-mentioned interdisciplinary areas or one of the academic fields represented in the SSHI department (with a research or teaching background in the interdisciplinary field).

Applicants will be evaluated on:

- academic qualifications,
- compatibility with department and university needs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching introductory courses in one or more major programs within SSHI,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in one of the SSHI major programs,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses related to African-American Studies, Disability Studies, Legal Studies, Environmental Studies, Child Studies, AI and Human Impact (including disinformation), Rural Studies, or Health Studies that can serve as upper-level electives in a second SSHI major program OR a major program outside the SSHI department,
- teaching background or the potential for teaching courses in one of Truman's Dialogues perspectives,
- evidence of teaching effectiveness, including potential for developing critical thinking and problem-solving skills in undergraduates,
- evidence of experience with or interest in interdisciplinary and/or cross-disciplinary teaching, including interdisciplinary majors and minors,
- demonstrated ability to develop an active research program, preferably involving undergraduates,
- strong oral, written, and interpersonal communication skills,
- commitment to collegiality within the learning community.

Benefits: Truman offers a comprehensive benefits package including life, health, and disability insurance, retirement contributions, paid sick leave, and a stipend for moving expenses. Paid parental leave and a tuition discount are available for eligible employees after one year. More details: https://hr.truman.edu/benefits/.

Program: Social Sciences and Human Inquiry is a multidisciplinary department housing the following academic majors: Criminal Justice Studies, History, Philosophy & Religion, Political Science & International Relations, Social Issue Advocacy, and Sociology/Anthropology.

The University: Truman State University is home to a vibrant educational community. Our approximately 3,000 students thrive in a challenging, yet supportive, academic environment. More than 25% engage in significant undergraduate research and creative projects. Nearly 40% gain leadership experience, and nearly half go on to graduate or professional school.

Founded in 1867, Truman focuses on student learning outcomes and emphasizes high-impact experiences such as internships, research, and study abroad opportunities. Truman has the highest overall graduation rate among the state's public four-year colleges and universities. For nearly three decades, Truman has been recognized as the No. 1 public university in the Midwest regional category by U.S. News & World Report, and Washington Monthly consistently ranks Truman as one of the best master's universities in the nation. For more information about our mission and values and to see additional rankings and acknowledgments, visit truman.edu/about.

The Community: Located in northeast Missouri, Kirksville is a cultural and economic hub in the region. In addition to being the home of Truman, Kirksville is the birthplace of osteopathic medicine and features a medical school, dental school, and community college. The Kirksville School District is consistently recognized for academic excellence. The community takes pride in several annual events including the Red, White and Blue Festival, the Red Barn Arts and Craft Festival, and the FLATS Trail Half-Marathon. The charming downtown area features an arts center, local shops, and restaurants, and it is the site of numerous community events including weekly farmers' markets and summer concerts on the courthouse lawn. Just a few minutes outside of town is beautiful Thousand Hills State Park with hiking and biking opportunities surrounding the 700-acre Forest Lake. Kirksville offers easy access by car to Kansas City, St. Louis, and Des Moines. Daily flights from Kirksville Regional Airport to Chicago O'Hare provide quick access to one of the country's major metropolitan areas. More information about Kirksville can be found at visitkirksville.com.

Application: Applications must be submitted electronically at https://apply.interfolio.com/174717
For assistance with submitting an application, please contact Human Resources at 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Completed applications must include:

- a letter of application that clearly addresses the qualifications and evaluative criteria listed above,
- statement of scholarly activity interests,
- teaching portfolio including a statement of teaching philosophy that includes the candidate's commitment to the liberal arts and sciences and student development, and teaching evaluations,
- writing sample,
- current curriculum vitae,
- official or unofficial undergraduate and graduate transcripts (official graduate transcripts are required at the time of hire), and
- names and contact information for 3 references.

Review of applications will begin 11/5/2025 and will continue until the position is filled. If hired, applicants must provide proof of eligibility to work in the United States, official graduate transcripts, or documentation of degrees if transcripts are not available. Final candidates are required to successfully pass a background check. Questions about this position may be directed to the chair of the Department of Social Sciences and Human Inquiry, Kathryn Brammall, at (brammall@truman.edu).

Truman State University is an equal opportunity employer. We do not discriminate in hiring, promotion, or any other employment practices on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, sex (including pregnancy), age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by federal or Missouri law. We are committed to fair and equal treatment in all aspects of employment.

Inquiries about these policies may be directed to the Institutional Compliance Officer, 660-785-4354, and titleix@truman.edu.

Truman is committed to providing reasonable accommodation to qualified individuals with disabilities upon request. To request this document in an alternate form or to request an accommodation, please contact Human Resources, McClain Hall 101, 100 E. Normal, Kirksville, MO 63501, 660-785-4031 or hrstaff@truman.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/5/2025
Date Posted: 10/16/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 16131

Mohammed IV Polytechnic University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration
Specializations: Political Development, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Social Welfare

Area: Governance and institutions
Deadline: January 15, 2026
Job location: Rabat, Morocco
Salary: Competitive

Mohammed VI Polytechnic University (UM6P) is hiring an Associate or Full Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Governance, Economics and Social Sciences (FGSES).

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P invites applications for a position at the associate or full professor level starting in Autumn 2026. The successful candidate will become tenured at UM6P. We are looking for an accomplished social scientist or policy scholar with specialization in the study of effective governance, political institutions, corruption, institutional reform, government accountability, and related topics. We are particularly interested in scholars whose research and teaching focus on the Global South.

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in political science, government, or a closely related field in the social sciences.

UM6P faculty decide whether to teach their courses in French or in English. The successful candidate may be asked to teach some political science courses that are not in their immediate area of expertise. Faculty members typically teach two courses per semester.

The Social Sciences, Economics, and Humanities cluster of UM6P is less than 10 years old but has already attracted a significant number of distinguished faculty members from around the world and a strong cadre of undergraduate, master's, and doctoral students spread across five disciplines.

The campus, located in the Moroccan capital city of Rabat, features striking architecture and includes a public policy school, a think tank, and a major research incubator. The 2026 Times Higher Education World University Rankings places UM6P among the top 400 universities in the world.

UM6P offers its faculty members salaries and benefits that are competitive with many North American and European universities. It also offers an annual performance bonus and substantial research support.

Application Procedure

Applicants must provide a detailed CV, a full list of publications and two recent writing samples.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please click on the following link:

https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/https://recruitment.fgses-um6p.ma/

If the application site does not work, please send applications to Recrutement.fgses@um6p.ma.

UM6P does not discriminate based on religion, race, gender, age, disability, national, or ethnic origin.

The application deadline is January 15, 2026.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 1/15/2026
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16114

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Assistant Professor

Position Description

The Public Policy and Political Economy program in The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in domestic (U.S.) public policy with a focus on technology, beginning fall 2026. We seek a scholar whose research and teaching explore how technological change shapes and is shaped by U.S. policymaking, regulation, governance, and society. Areas of interest may include—but are not limited to— regulatory policies related to medical and health technology, artificial intelligence, digital privacy, labor and automation, cybersecurity, or the intersection of technology and inequality. The successful candidate will demonstrate evidence of an active research agenda and a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching.

The teaching load is two courses per semester, and the candidate will have opportunities to teach core courses in American politics and public policy, as well as specialized electives in their area of expertise. Candidates are expected to contribute to the intellectual life of the department and the university through collaborative research, mentoring, and service.

The appointment commences for the fall 2026 semester.

Qualifications

Minimum Education and Experience: A PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required prior to employment; those with ABD status will be considered at the application/interviewing stage. Candidates are expected to demonstrate the ability to work effectively in a highly collaborative, engaging, and dynamic environment comprised of individuals with a range of backgrounds, skills, and perspectives. We are seeking candidates able to produce research and scholarly or creative achievements that enhance the program and the discipline, and able to deliver high quality teaching using evidence-based practices to effectively engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.

Preferred Education and Experience: A PhD in political science or public policy.

The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences

The School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (EPPS) at UT Dallas is a national leader in research addressing critical social, political and economic issues.
Our graduates work in government, nonprofits and the private sector, with many pursuing advanced degrees that prepare them for leadership roles in advancing positive changes on the local, national and global levels.

Application Instructions

Applicants should upload the following:

· Full curriculum vitae and cover letter summarizing their interests and qualifications for the position.
· Statement of teaching philosophy describing their conceptualizations of teaching and learning, and teaching and assessment methods, and how their teaching practices will engage students from a range of backgrounds and experiences.
· Research statement describing past, present, and future research, including how they mentor (or will mentor) student researchers and foster (or will foster) collaborative research environments.
· A writing/publication sample.
· Full contact information for at least three academic or professional references.

Priority will be given to completed applications received by October 31, 2025. Reviews will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed on March 1, 2026.

The University and Community

UT Dallas is a top public research university located in one of the nation's fastest-growing metropolitan regions. Our seven schools offer more than 140 undergraduate and graduate programs, plus professional certificates and fast-track programs. Our student body is approximately 30,000 strong, reflecting students from over 100 countries and a multiplicity of perspectives and experiences. Over 65% of our undergraduate students receive some form of need- or merit-based financial aid; and 66% of graduating seniors have no student debt compared to 48% in Texas and 32% in the nation (2021 TICAS report).

UT Dallas is committed to graduating well-rounded members of the community whose education has prepared them for rewarding lives and productive careers in a constantly changing world. Our mission centers on providing Texas and the nation with excellent and innovative education and research. The University's rapid growth is fueled by our creative and enterprising spirit, bright students, innovative programs, renowned faculty, dedicated staff, engaged alumni, and research that matters.

The University promotes a welcoming environment through programs and initiatives designed to support engagement and success for members of the campus community. Employee benefits include a range of physical and mental wellness resources, competitive insurance and retirement plan options, lactation facilities located throughout the campus, and Employee Resource Groups (ERGs) comprised of individuals who share common interests to help build community among UT Dallas faculty and staff (e.g., Universal Access ERG, Military and Veteran ERG, UT Dallas Young Professionals). Additionally, the University's modern campus, 400+ campus organizations, and prime location foster collaboration and community.

Situated in Richardson, Texas, the University's location offers abundant professional development and entertainment options. The Dallas-Fort Worth (DFW) metroplex is rich in visual and performing arts venues, museum districts, professional and semi-professional athletics teams, botanical gardens, accessible trails, and much more, ensuring there's something for everyone. The University's partnerships with regional higher education institutions, local school districts, numerous companies, and the Richardson Innovation Quarter (Richardson IQ) – a major hub for innovation, entrepreneurship, and educational activities – promotes collaboration, professional growth, and educational excellence.

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Texas at Dallas is committed to providing an educational, living and working environment that is welcoming, respectful, and inclusive of all members of the university community. The University prohibits unlawful discrimination against a person because of their race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, disability, genetic information, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/15/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16125

Ramapo College of New Jersey

Rank: Temporary Assistant Professor of Political Science (Non-Tenure Track - 10 months)
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

The Political Science convening group of Ramapo College of New Jersey seeks a Temporary Assistant Professor for a one-year renewable appointment starting August 26, 2026. We seek a colleague whose teaching and scholarship engage contemporary developments in American politics and policy. The teaching load is 3 courses per semester. Courses to be taught can include American Government, Supreme Court, Civil Rights, Interest Groups and Parties, Political Theory, Presidency, and Principles of Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to the activities of the convening group and the college, in addition to teaching responsibilities. Describe how your teaching and scholarship, or outside community work, engage in trends in the discipline and support the academic success of students.

Ramapo College of New Jersey, a public liberal arts institution, seeks a dynamic and forward-thinking faculty member whose teaching, research, and service reflect a deep commitment to the College's core academic pillars: international, intercultural, interdisciplinary, and experiential learning. We welcome candidates who are passionate about integrating emerging technologies and AI into their pedagogy and scholarship, and who bring both personal and professional dedication to student success. The ideal candidate is energized by community engagement and committed to educating students from the broad range of backgrounds Ramapo proudly serves— including first-generation college students, as well as bi- and multilingual and multicultural learners of all ages.

Qualifications

Education:

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science.

Application Process:

Please submit your completed application online via http://www.ramapojobs.com. Applications will begin to be reviewed starting January 1, 2026. Inquiries may be directed to Prof. Dean Chen (dchen@ramapo.edu), Search Committee Chair, School of Humanities and Global Studies. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7732.

For more information about the Political Science program at Ramapo College, please visit our webpage: https://www.ramapo.edu/majors-minors/majors/political-science/

Application Materials:

Cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, and one sample syllabus

Supplemental Information

EEO Statement:

Ramapo College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity Employer. Ramapo has a long history of advocating, advising, and supporting diversity, equity, and inclusiveness. Examples can be found in its mission statement, strategic plans, degree and course offerings, community outreach programs, and other diversity programs. Ramapo's commitment to diversity and inclusion is infused across all facets of the College; where the environment is welcoming, dedicated to social justice, respectful of freedom of expression, focused on educating and having an ongoing conversation regarding cultural competence and the benefits and importance of diversity.

Employer
Ramapo College of New Jersey

Address
505 Ramapo Valley Road

Mahwah, New Jersey, 07430

Phone 2016847782

https://www.schooljobs.com/careers/ramapo/jobs/5106344/temporary-assistant-professor-of-political-science-non-tenure-track-10-months?pagetype=jobOpportunitiesJobs

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/14/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16108

Mississippi College

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science/Department Chair
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of History and Political Science at Mississippi College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or Associate Professor of Political Science to start in the Fall 2026 semester. Associate Professor candidates will also be considered for the role of Department Chair, which comes with a course reduction and stipend.

Responsibilities:

Teach four courses per semester, three if department chair.
Hold office hours for student advising and mentoring.
Curriculum and program development.
Participation in departmental and university governance structures.
Active involvement in scholarly activities.
Play a key role in graduate program development.
Qualifications:

PhD in Political Science strongly preferred
D.P.A with qualifications to teach courses in American government will be considered
Primary field must be United States Government
Additional experience in Public Administration or Public Policy is desired
Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2025. Additional materials may be requested after initial screening, and shortlisted candidates will be invited to interview.

To apply, please visit: https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460https://www.mc.edu/offices/human-resources/employment?rID[32]=460.

About Mississippi College: Mississippi College is a private, co-educational, comprehensive university of liberal arts, sciences, and professional studies dedicated to the pursuit of academic excellence. The 325-acre campus is located in Clinton, MS which is in the Jackson metropolitan area. Clinton is a growing community with one of the top school districts in the state. Conveniently located near I-20, it is also within easy driving distance to New Orleans, Memphis, Birmingham, and the Gulf Coast.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 12/9/2025
Date Posted: 10/9/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16101

Harvard University

Rank: FELLOWS-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAM

The Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard University invites applications from a broad range of researchers and practitioners who will work over the course of the year on pressing issues in ethics. Faculty in arts and sciences and professional schools, postdoctoral scholars, practitioners, and researchers from industry, government, and NGOs are eligible to apply. The call for applications for the 2026-27 academic year is completely open: we will consider any topic pertaining to the serious ethical questions of our time. All eligible applicants are encouraged to apply and will be given careful consideration; priority will be given to outstanding early career scholars and practitioners and to those whose work pertains to disagreement.

As always, our goal will be to craft a cohort in which all fellows will find valuable intellectual partnerships to support and spur their work. The ideal candidates are those who are willing to invest time and energy into building community with the other fellows in their cohort.

Fellows-in-Residence will be expected to devote the majority of their time to their individual projects and to participate in regular work-in-progress seminars. In addition, Fellows are strongly encouraged to participate in—and contribute to—the Center's programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

This Fellowship is residential. With the exception of travel to conferences and meetings, Fellows are expected to be in residence in the Boston area at least four working days per week during the term, and working from the Center's office space at least three days per week.

For the last few years, the Center has offered the possibility of joint fellowship opportunities with several other Centers at Harvard. We continue to offer that possibility, with specific potential affiliations to be worked out on a case-by-case basis:

Berkman Klein Center for Internet and Society
Carr-Ryan Center for Human Rights at the Harvard Kennedy School
Center for Bioethics at the Harvard Medical School
Hutchins Center for African & African American Research at Harvard University
Petrie-Flom Center for Health Law Policy, Biotechnology and Bioethics at the Harvard Law School

Applicants will be invited to indicate on the application form whether they wish to be considered for a joint fellowship position with one of these Centers. If selected, the joint fellowship will offer access to development opportunities and programming at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics and the partnering center, as well as responsibilities to both centers.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience by September 1 of the fellowship year. Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The?Fellows-in-Residence Program runs the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

Please note that advanced language skills in both written and spoken English are required for Fellows at the Center. Fellows are expected to discuss and/or present their work in English and are encouraged to participate in informal discussions with faculty and students with related interests. Application materials, including writing samples, should be in English. If offered a fellowship, non-native English speakers who cannot demonstrate their proficiency through (1) completion of a degree from an English-speaking institution of higher education or (2) satisfactory TOEFL or IELTS scores will be contacted by the Center staff to arrange for further evaluation as needed.

STIPEND

Faculty:

We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary up to $80,000 and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Doc:

The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $7,000/month for 2026-27. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 per academic year for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioner:

Practitioner stipends are determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience, up to a maximum of $80,000. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Before beginning the application, you may wish to have the following information available:

The title of your research proposal
Names and contact information for 3 references (No letters are accepted at the application stage. Please prepare your references for the possibility that we will reach out to them for their assessment of your work. In that case, they will be asked to submit a letter and complete a form within a short turn-around period.)

To apply, complete our online application form, which will request the information noted above. You will also be asked to upload the following documents:

Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Fellows-in-Residence Program at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics
Curriculum Vitae
Research proposal
Recent writing sample

The deadline to submit an application is?November 15, 2025, with decisions likely to be announced in March 2026. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Please direct questions regarding this application process to?ethics_fellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16077

Harvard University
Rank: RESEARCH & DESIGN STUDIO FELLOWSHIP

Since its founding in 1986, Harvard University's Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics has convened scholars and practitioners to confront pressing ethical questions of the time. Building on this tradition, the Center invites applications for the Research & Design Studio Fellowship, a new fellowship program at the heart of the Center's innovation hub, helping a new generation of thinkers and practitioners translate ethical reflection and scholarship into practical contributions for academia and public life.

The Research & Design Studio:

The Research & Design Studio (R&DS) is an interdisciplinary network that bridges scholarship and practice. Its current theme and focus is the ethical and political dimensions of disagreement: when it proves productive, how to rebuild a culture of principled disagreement, and how to navigate difference. Through this work, the R& DS seeks to strengthen civil discourse in higher education and public life, bringing together faculty, students, researchers, and practitioners to explore how we can engage across differences more constructively. Fellows contribute to creating pedagogical resources, designing tools for dialogue, and testing models that help make engagement more inclusive and meaningful while also working on their own research projects.

Community & Collaboration:

We aim to build cohorts where fellows find valuable intellectual partnerships to support and spur their work. The ideal candidates are those committed to furthering their own projects while also investing time and energy into building community with the other fellows in their cohort.

Fellowship Expectations:

Research & Design Studio Fellows will:

Devote the majority of their time to advancing their individual research and design projects.
Participate in regular seminars with their cohort and others at the Center.
Engage actively with the Center's broader programming, which includes public lectures, themed seminars and reading groups, conferences, workshops, and lunch discussions.

Residency Requirement:

This is a residential fellowship. Fellows are expected to live in the Boston area and be present at the Center at least three days per week, with four working days per week in the area overall. Occasional travel for conferences and professional commitments is permitted.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must have a PhD, professional degree, or a minimum of 5 years of equivalent professional experience by September 1 of the fellowship year. Faculty, Postdoctoral Researchers, and Practitioners are all eligible to apply. Although applicants from any career stage will be considered, this Fellowship program is especially suitable for younger scholars.

Applicants from any discipline or professional field will be considered. Those who have previously held a yearlong residential Fellowship at the Center are not eligible; this limitation does not apply to former Undergraduate Fellows or former Graduate Fellows. The Research & Design Studio works over the course of the academic year, typically from the beginning of September through the end of May, and is open to all applicants who meet the above criteria, regardless of citizenship.

Please note that advanced language skills in both written and spoken English are required for Fellows at the Center. Fellows are expected to discuss and/or present their work in English and are encouraged to participate in informal discussions with faculty and students with related interests. Application materials, including writing samples, should be in English. If offered a fellowship, non-native English speakers who cannot demonstrate their proficiency through (1) completion of a degree from an English-speaking institution of higher education or (2) satisfactory TOEFL or IELTS scores will be contacted by the Center staff to arrange for further evaluation as needed.

STIPEND

Faculty:
We offer a stipend of one-half of your base academic year salary up to $80,000 and a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Post-Docs:
The stipend for post-doctoral fellows will be $7,000/month for 2026-27. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 per academic year for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

Practitioner:
Practitioner stipends are determined on a case-by-case basis, commensurate with experience, up to a maximum of $80,000. We also provide a research allowance of up to $3,000 for approved expenses directly related to your work, such as travel, books, and research assistance.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Before beginning the application, you may wish to have the following information available:

The title of your research proposal
Names and contact information for 3 references (no letters are accepted at the application stage. Please prepare your references for the possibility that we will reach out to them for their assessment of your work. In that case, they will be asked to submit a letter and complete a form within a short turn-around period.)

To apply, complete our online application form, which will request the information noted above. You will also be asked to upload the following documents:

o Cover letter stating your background and interest in the Research & Design Studio Fellowship at the Edmond & Lily Safra Center for Ethics
o Curriculum Vitae
o Research proposal, to include:
- A description of the central project you hope to pursue during your fellowship year. Please include its goals, methods, and potential impact
- Discussion of how your work connects to the themes of the Research & Design Studio, particularly around the ethical and political dimensions of disagreement
- What specific outputs or contributions (e.g., research, teaching tools, public engagement projects) do you anticipate producing by the end of your fellowship?
- How do you envision engaging with other fellows and contributing to the collaborative cohort environment?
o Recent writing sample representative of your work

The deadline to submit an application is November 15, 2025, with decisions likely to be announced in March 2026. Please note that the application form will be saved automatically while in progress, but no edits or alterations will be allowed once you have submitted the application. Please direct questions regarding this application process to?ethics_fellowships@fas.harvard.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 16078

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor, School of Public Policy

The School of Public Policy at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park Campus, invites applications for one tenured or tenure-track position as Associate Professor or Professor of Public Policy.

In addition to maintaining a productive research program, responsibilities include teaching public policy courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and service to the School and University.

Teaching responsibilities may include MPP core courses, policy specialization electives, and undergraduate courses aligned with the candidate's expertise. A demonstrated ability to teach policy analysis, economics for public policy, statistics for public policy, or public finance is desirable. Teaching responsibilities during the academic year will be consistent with School and College norms and balanced with research and service expectations. Teaching is expected to be in residence and onsite teaching is essential. Online courses may be necessary depending on programmatic needs.

Service responsibilities include participation in assessment activities required for accreditation by NASPAA (Network of Schools of Public A??airs and Administration).

A Ph.D. in Public Policy or related field is required by the appointment date.

Candidates for Associate Professor of Public Policy must have demonstrated excellence as a researcher, scholar, and teacher in a relevant field, and one must have an established reputation in scholarly achievement. Duties include a combination of teaching, research, and service that is commensurate with the candidate's qualifications.

Candidates for Professor of Public Policy must have demonstrated excellence as a researcher, scholar and teacher in a relevant field, and provide evidence of a substantial record of advanced research as well as leadership in their field of specialization. Duties include a combination of teaching, research, and service that is commensurate with the candidate's qualifications.

Interested candidates are invited to submit an online application at Penn State's Job Posting Board where they should upload a letter of interest, a current CV, and a list of three references with contact information. Inquiries may be directed to the search chair, Anthony Bertelli at amb12@psu.edu.

Visit our website at https://publicpolicy.psu.edu/ for more information on the School of Public Policy.

To apply, please visit https://psu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/PSU_Academic/job/Penn-State-University-Park/Associate-Professor-or-Professor--School-of-Public-Policy_REQ_0000072288

To review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters and policies, please go to https://www.police.psu.edu/annual-security-reports, which will also explain how to request a paper copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16073

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Policy in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor with a July 1, 2026 start date. The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in Public Policy or a related social science discipline (e.g., political science, economics, etc.) by the time of appointment.??

The department is looking for individuals who conduct rigorous, policy-relevant research on topics related to environmental policy, economic development, or poverty. Applicants must be well prepared to teach core classes in public policy at the undergraduate, master's, and doctoral levels. Strong potential for outstanding university teaching, research excellence, a desire to train and work with a diverse body of students, and a capacity to contribute productively to an active multidisciplinary department, are necessary for consideration.

The Department of Public Policy at UNC is an interdisciplinary social science major that confers the B.A., MPP, and Ph.D. degree (http://publicpolicy.unc.edu/). The core curriculum includes training in multiple disciplinary fields, including economics, political science, policy analysis, philosophy, research methods and statistics. Our dynamic faculty are award-winning researchers and teachers with domestic and global policy interests. We emphasize student-focused learning and real-world impact while pursuing innovative research and service in the public interest.??

A global higher education leader in innovative teaching, research and public service, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill consistently ranks as one of the nation's top public universities. Known for its beautiful campus, world-class medical care, commitment to the arts and top athletic programs, Carolina is an ideal place to teach, work and learn. One of the best college towns and best places to live in the United States, Chapel Hill has diverse social, cultural, recreation and professional opportunities that span the campus and community.

The University is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes all to apply without regard to age, color, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, or sexual orientation. We encourage all qualified applicants to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities.

To apply for the position, complete an online application at https://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/307190. Your application should include: a cover letter that describes your policy-relevant research and teaching interests, articulates your rationale for seeking a position in an interdisciplinary unit, and explains how your expertise aligns with the requirements described above.

Start Date: Summer 2026
Application Deadline: 11/3/2025
Date Posted: 10/6/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16068

University of New Mexico
Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Mexico invites applications for a full-time, tenure track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy, broadly defined, to begin August 10, 2026.

Minimum Qualifications

1. Earned Ph.D. in Public Policy, Political Science, Government or closely related field by start date of August 10, 2026

2. Specialization in public policy, broadly defined.

Preferred Qualifications

1. Demonstrated or potential excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in public policy reflected in a record of publication in this subfield

2. Demonstrated or potential excellence in applied policy research and engagement, including community-engaged, public-facing, or evidence-based policy work that connects academic research to pressing policy challenges in New Mexico, nationally, or globally

3. Demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in public policy

4. Demonstrated or potential commitment to service at the department, college, university, state, and/or disciplinary level, contributing to shared governance and advancing institutional and community goals

5. Strong methodological expertise

6. Research program alignment with any of the department's emphases, including democratic representation and effective governance; environmental protection and adaptation; human rights, the rule of law, and conflict resolution; indigenous, race, gender and ethnic politics; or the impact on democracy of new communications and computational technologies

7. A demonstrated connection to/commitment to cultivating an understanding of the rich and varied cultures of New Mexico and to the success of the university's mission to serve local and global communities

---

Applications MUST be submitted via the UNMJobs Portal: https://unm.csod.com/ux/ats/careersite/18/home/requisition/34732?c=unm&referralToken=rSMwBIyAoEG5X8M5fUVt9A

The Department of Political Science currently employs 12 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high quality undergraduate major (BA); it also plays an active role in the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies BA and MA programs, the interdisciplinary International Studies BA program, the Master of Public Policy (MPP) program, and the Professional Masters of Science in Global and National Security. UNM's Latin American and Iberian Institute, as well as the International Studies Institute and Global Education Office, provide funding and programmatic support for international scholarship and faculty development.

UNM is the premier research university in New Mexico, is a Carnegie Highest Research Activity Institution. Our campus is located in the heart of Albuquerque, which has cultural, outdoor and recreational opportunities for everyone. Learn more about our city, our welcoming campus, and research opportunities at http://advance.unm.edu/why-abq/ and https://advance.unm.edu/why-unm/. For more information regarding the College of Arts and Science's ambitious hiring plan, including a list of departments that are hiring faculty members with shared interests, please see this page.

For best consideration, apply no later than October 22, 2025. This position will remain open until filled.

Applicants selected as semifinalists will be asked to arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent directly by referees to Marliss McGarvey at mcgarvey@unm.edu. Emails from referees should include "Attn: Comparative Politics Search Committee" in the subject line. Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, additional sample syllabi, and official graduate transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/22/2025
Date Posted: 10/3/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 16066

Georgetown University
Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethics
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The McDonough School of Business seeks to add to its ethics faculty. We have one opening for a tenure-track assistant professor of ethics to begin in the 2026-27 academic year. We have a strong preference for applicants who are ready to teach ethics courses in the MBA and executive curriculum as well as at the undergraduate level. McDonough's ethics courses are an amalgam of true normative ethics with social psychology, political science, and economics. All contain an experiential aspect in which the students engage in real-time ethical decision-making. We seek a dynamic classroom teacher able to publish research that can meet McDonough's rigorous standards for tenure.

This position I open to recent PhDs in normative disciplines such as philosophy, political science, business ethics, and public policy, social science applicants researching behavioral ethics and moral psychology, as well as to recent law graduates who hold a PhD in a cognate field. Compensation is highly competitive.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to building global business knowledge and inspiring ethical leaders to serve the common good. Known for its emphasis at the intersection of business and global affairs and its values-based approach to business as part of Georgetown's rich Catholic, Jesuit tradition, the school also is focused on how business can be a force for change by addressing fields of the future, such as healthcare, sustainability, and AI and the future of work. The school's undergraduate and graduate degree programs provide solid grounding in all the core management disciplines, with an emphasis on the global, ethical, and political environment of business. The McDonough School of Business has an ongoing commitment to being a community in diversity as a fundamental aspect of the Georgetown community.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE
All applications should be submitted electronically by Interfolio [apply.interfolio.com/175134]. Interested applicants should provide a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, published and working papers, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants can also submit research and teaching statements.

Applications are due November 15, 2025.

The projected salary or hourly pay range for this position is $150,000-$190,000, which represents the full range of anticipated compensation for this position. Compensation is determined by a number of factors including, but not limited to, the candidate's individual qualifications, experience, education, skills, and certifications, as well as the University's business needs and external factors.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 11/15/2025
Date Posted: 10/2/2025
Salary: $150,000 - $159,999
eJobs ID: 16054

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Law and/or Public Policy)

The Department of Political Science at California State University, Long Beach is seeking applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Law and/or Public Policy. The position is open regarding subfield, and all methodological and theoretical approaches are welcome. This is a general hire recruitment (not part of a cluster hire effort).

Application Deadline: Review of applications to begin October 10, 2025. Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled).

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate closely related discipline. Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2026.
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching
Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication
Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population, including low socioeconomic and first-generation students

Preferred Qualifications:

Evidence of academic training and expertise in one of the following specializations: Public Law, Judicial Politics, or Public Policy
Evidence of scholarly activities grounded in law, public policy, or broader questions within the intersection of law and policy, such as environmental law and policy, immigration law and policy, international law and policy, health law and policy, law and economic policy, civil rights law and policy, social welfare law and policy, education law and policy, labor and employment law and policy, administrative law and policy, election law and voting rights policy, and intersectional approaches to law and social inequality, including the ways race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, disability, nationality, and other identities interact within legal and policy frameworks
Evidence of ability to effectively teach current and future University course offerings in legal studies and public policy broadly, at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Constitutional Law, Environmental Law, Queer Law, International Law, Law and Social Change, Jurisprudence, Public Policy, Fundamentals of Public Administration, and Public Values and Public Policy
Evidence of the ability to develop new course offerings in political science related to law and public policy
Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body
Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.
Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service
Experience of successfully working with populations demographically and/or socioeconomically similar to the CSULB student body
Experience mentoring or supporting students with minoritized identities or experience using inclusive and culturally relevant teaching strategies in a diverse classroom

Duties:

Teach courses in Law and Public Policy at the undergraduate and graduate levels (Mode of instruction may include in-person, hybrid, online, and/or any combination thereof.)
Develop courses in Law and Public Policy at undergraduate and graduate levels
Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and writing theses
Engage in research leading to conference participation and peer-reviewed publications
Participate in faculty shared governance
Participate in service to the school, college, university, and profession/community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The Department of Political Science takes great pride in having one of the most diverse student bodies in higher education. We have more than 600 students in one of our three academic programs: a Bachelor of Arts, a Minor, and a Master of Arts. Our 18 full-time and 14 part-time faculty are passionate about teaching politics in the twenty-first century, offering courses that are directly relevant to the contemporary world. Together we seek to provide our students the foundational knowledge and skills essential to understand and engage issues relevant to our common political life today. Our department offers numerous programs and clubs, including a Legal Studies certificate, a judicial internship course, nationally competitive Moot Court and Model United Nations programs, undergraduate and graduate student associations, chapters of the Phi Alpha Delta pre-law fraternity and the Pi Sigma Alpha National Honor Society, a peer mentoring program, extensive internship and research opportunities, and much more.

The College of Liberal Arts at CSULB is the largest college on campus, with thirty-one excellent departments and programs, several innovative centers and projects, over 685 outstanding faculty members, and over 74 individual staff members. The college faculty are among the best in the nation and have received a variety of national and international awards. CLA has 9300 undergraduate students pursuing a variety of highly valued degrees through the college's 99 unique majors and minors. Additionally, 575 graduate students are also obtaining advanced degrees and special certificates in the college. With degrees ranging from humanities and foreign languages to social and behavioral sciences, CLA's graduates are well-rounded citizens, effective communicators, and analytical thinkers who live knowledgeably, responsibly, and humanely in a world where complex problems demand informed, creative, and thoughtful solutions. The skills gained through degrees from CLA are invaluable and open up countless career paths for graduates to follow

Information on excellent benefits package available to CSULB faculty is located here: CSU Employee Benefits

How to Apply - Required Documentation:

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (maximum two pages, single-spaced). For further information and guidelines, please visit: Student Success Statement
Letter of application addressing the required and preferred qualifications
CV
Names and contact information for three references (to be contacted for confidential letters of recommendation should you reach the semi-finalist stage)
Sample of scholarly work (e.g., peer-reviewed article, conference paper, or dissertation chapter)
Evidence of teaching effectiveness (including, if available, representative syllabi and teaching evaluations from courses taught as an instructor of record)
Copy of graduate school transcript/s
Finalists should be prepared to submit an official transcript (e-transcript preferred, if available)
How to Apply: Click Apply Now icon to complete the CSULB online application

Requests for information about the position and process should be addressed to the Search Committee Chair:

Darin DeWitt, Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

Darin.DeWitt@csulb.edu
(562) 985-4711

EMPLOYMENT REQUIREMENTS:

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 Revised July 21, 2017 as a condition of employment.

Pursuant to the CSU Out of State Employment Policy, hiring employees to perform CSU-related work outside of California is prohibited effective January 1, 2022. By prohibiting employment outside of California, the CSU also prohibits hiring and retaining employees working permanently from a business location outside of the United States. Exceptions to the Policy are limited to approved and documented purposes for conducting CSU business outside of California.

All employees who assign and/or oversee work are responsible for ensuring that compliant work controls and procedures consistent with Federal, State and local regulations and University policies are implemented and maintained to provide for the protection of individuals and to safeguard the environment. Everyone is expected to comply with applicable Environmental Health and Safety regulations and University policies, programs and procedures. For more information, the systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/18172024/latest/ and questions may be sent to Environmental_Health_Safety@csulb.edu.

The CSU strongly recommends that all individuals who access any in-person program or activity (on- or off-campus) operated or controlled by the University follow the COVID-19 vaccine recommendations adopted by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) applicable to their age, medical condition, and other relevant indications and comply with other safety measures established by each campus. The systemwide policy can be found at https://calstate.policystat.com/policy/9779821/latest/ and questions may be sent to fahr@csulb.edu.

All university program and activities are open and available to all regardless of race, sex, color, ethnicity, or national origin. Consistent with CSU's Nondiscrimination Policy, as well as state and federal law, CSULB provides equal opportunity in education and employment without unlawful discrimination or preferential treatment based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin. To access CSULB's full statement on Equal Opportunity and Excellence in Education and Employment, please visit Equity and Compliance.

Apply Here: https://csucareers.calstate.edu/en-us/job/551207/assistant-professor-of-political-science-law-andor-public-policy

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2025
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 15901

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, and political economy. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July, 2026.
The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173149

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15885

IE University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in International Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other
Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Trade

IE University's School of Politics, Economics, and Global Affairs (SPEGA) seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting September 1, 2026.

We are interested in scholars studying a wide range of topics in IPE, including but not limited to international trade, foreign direct investment, global value chains, and global governance.

Successful candidates will join the Political Science and International Relations group within SPEGA, which consists of 16 tenured and tenure-track scholars studying comparative politics, international relations, political economy, and political behavior. Recent publications from this group appear in APSR, AJPS, JOP, BJPS, and many other top generalist and field outlets.

Candidates should have a PhD from a recognized department of political science, international relations, public policy, or related field, or demonstrate clear evidence that their PhD will be complete by July 2026.

The IE SPEGA is part of IE University, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain. We are a fast-growing department of professors committed to world-class academic research and teaching in the social sciences, public policy, and international affairs.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and student body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the diversity of our faculty.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, a job market paper, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

Candidates may apply via Interfolio by October 6, 2025, using the following link: https://apply.interfolio.com/173150

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 10/6/2025
Date Posted: 9/5/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15886

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor – American, State, Urban Politics and Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology
Specializations: Research Methods, State Politics, American Politics

The Hobby School of Public Affairs at the University of Houston (UH) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Public Policy to begin September 1, 2026. We are interested in scholars who will bring fresh ideas, a commitment to public policy, and an interdisciplinary mindset.

The successful candidate will pursue research in American, state, or local politics and public policy, with particular preference for applicants who demonstrate expertise and a national reputation in survey research and political methodology. Depending on background and experience, the faculty member may also be considered for appointment as the Lanier Chair in Public Policy and/or as Director of the Survey on Public Attitudes and Community Engagement (SPACE City Panel)—a multi-year longitudinal survey project launched in 2025 by the Hobby School's Center for Public Policy (https://uh.edu/hobby/research/space-city-panel/).

Applicants should have an established record of rigorous scholarship and a demonstrated commitment to advancing the Hobby School's mission of applied policy analysis and interdisciplinary research.

Expertise in advanced statistical methods—including data visualization, mapping, local area models, spatial analysis, policy evaluation, and structural or quantitative modeling—is highly desirable. Candidates who have experience and expertise in designing, implementing, and analyzing panel surveys and surveys focusing on state and municipal areas or advanced methods to estimate local area public opinion from national surveys, are particularly encouraged to apply. The faculty member will be expected to produce both academic and applied research that informs evidence-based policymaking, supports the development of viable and politically feasible strategies, and contributes to the University of Houston's core research priorities.

In the selection process, the search committee will prioritize collaborative scholars who: (1) engage in nationally-recognized, interdisciplinary work on significant public policy issues, (2) demonstrate an eagerness to contribute to undergraduate and graduate education and student success, and (3) pursue grants, awards, and other sources of funding to support research, academic programming, student success, community engagement, and impact.

We are seeking applicants with a strong research record and developing reputation who can help build our growing programs. We are interested in candidates with a background in rigorous research methods that can support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

About the Hobby School
The Hobby School of Public Affairs was created in 2016 by the University of Houston System. Incoming faculty will have the opportunity to join existing faculty in building and shaping the direction and culture of the school. The Hobby School emphasizes advanced social science methodology, leadership development, and ethical analysis in its teaching, training, and research. It is the home of UH's Center for Public Policy, Survey Research Institute, and Elizabeth D. Rockwell Center for Ethics and Leadership.

The Hobby School offers: (1) a Master of Public Policy (MPP) degree, (2) a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree, (3) BA and BSc degrees in public policy, (4) Dual Degree programs combining public policy with degrees in other fields—multidisciplinary studies (UH's Honors College), business, economics, law, psychology, and social work, and (5) Certificate programs in data analytics, energy policy, ethics, infrastructure policy and population health, health care policy, public policy, and public administration. We are in the planning process for launching a PhD program. The Hobby School also runs the Institute on the Empirical Implications of Theoretical Models (EITM) and is expanding its research and instructional mission through innovative initiatives, such as the SPACE City Panel.

The University of Houston is a Carnegie-designated Tier One research institution and is the flagship campus of a state-assisted higher education system that enrolls over 70,000 students (system-wide). We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence.

Houston (www.houston.org) boasts a high quality of life with the following attributes: (1) a growing economy, including a vibrant energy sector, robust manufacturing, a bustling port that serves as a hub for international trade, the Johnson Space Center, and the Texas Medical Center—the world's largest medical center, (b) rich traditions in music, theatre, art, and sports, (c) award-winning restaurants and (d) a relatively low cost of living among large cities.

Salary and rank commensurate with experience.

The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Application Instructions
Interested individuals should apply at Prospective Faculty | Office of the Provost | University of Houston and provide: (1) a letter of interest, (2) evidence of teaching effectiveness and commitment to mentoring students, (3) a statement of research specialization and interests, (4) three names and email addresses of prospective writers of letters of recommendation, (5) a curriculum vita, and (6) up to three representative papers. Referees may be contacted to submit letters. Review of applications will begin on October 31 and continue until the position is filled. Questions may be directed to the search committee co-chair Mirya Holman (mrholman@central.uh.edu) and Pablo M. Pinto (ppinto@central.uh.edu).

Qualifications
Doctoral degree required. Advanced Assistant, Associate or Full Professor. We are primarily seeking applicants with a strong research record and established reputation that can help build our growing program. Candidates should have a strong background in rigorous research methods to support the Hobby School's mission to provide training in tools, methods, and analysis.

Official transcripts are required for a faculty appointment and will be requested upon selection of the final candidates.

All positions at the University of Houston-System are security sensitive and will require a criminal history check. Individuals conducting research in critical infrastructure areas (i.e., communication infrastructure systems, cybersecurity systems, electric grid, hazardous waste treatment systems, and/or water treatment facilities) are subject to regular review to ensure the security and integrity of the research is maintained.

The University of Houston System and its universities are Equal Opportunity Institutions. Everyone is encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/4/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15879

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen
Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position in AI and Society

Tenure-stream: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor

School of Humanities and Social Science at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is seeking to fill the open rank positions in Digit Humanities, Digital History, Digital Media, Digital Anthropology, Digital Legal Studies, and AI Regulation and Governance. Applicants should have solid training in cutting edge computational skills and address significant theoretical research questions in their respective disciplines. Successful applicants are expected to carry out an active research and publication agenda, teach courses and supervise students at both undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications are invited for faculty position at the rank of full professor/associate professor level with prospect for tenure, although junior candidate with very competitive academic records may be considered for position of assistant professor.

Candidate for full professor or associate professor position is expected to have solid evidence of excellence in teaching/research/service, and a strong track record of sustained high-quality research/scholarship outcomes in the expertise area(s), as evidenced by research publications in competitive international outlets in the relevant areas of public policy. In addition, candidate needs to demonstrate academic leadership and strong commitment to the highest standard of excellence. Candidate is advised to provide quality indicators for the journals where he/she have research publications (e.g., journal impact factor, journal ranking in a relevant category).

Appointment will normally be made on contract basis for up to three years initially, leading to longer-term appointment or tenure later, subject to successful performance evaluation and mutual agreement. In cases where a candidate has an established record of excellence and demonstrable potential for continued success, tenure may be offered to the candidate at the time of initial appointment.

The appointee is expected to commence work in academic year 2025-26. A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment.

Salary & Benefits

Salary will be competitive, commensurate with qualifications and experience. Appointment will be made under the establishment of CUHK, Shenzhen and statutory benefits will be provided according to the prevailing labor laws applicable in the People's Republic of China. The appointee will be based at the University campus in Shenzhen, Guangdong Province, China. Successful applicants can also apply for additional benefits through high-talent schemes at the Guangdong provincial level, the Shenzhen city level, and the Longgang district level.

Application Procedure

Applicants should apply directly through https://jobs.cuhk.edu.cn/index?school=129 and upload up-to-date CV, cover letter, certifications of all degrees, teaching statement, research statement, course and teaching evaluation report, and representative publications. Applicants will be required to arrange three recommendation letters after being shortlisted.

Applications will be reviewed immediately and considered until the post is filled.

E-mail Address: talents4hss@cuhk.edu.cn

About The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen

The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Shenzhen is established in accordance with the Regulations of the People's Republic of China on Chinese-foreign Cooperation in Running Schools upon approval of the Ministry of Education. It inherits the educational philosophy and academic systems of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. It is intended to evolve into a world-class research university with strong international orientation. It is committed to nurturing high-end talents with a global perspective, Chinese cultural tradition and social responsibility.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15757

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science, College of Arts and Sciences, at the University of Rhode Island is recruiting for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. This is a tenure-track, academic year appointment at the rank of assistant professor to commence in the Fall of 2026.

We are seeking to attract a diverse pool of job applicants for this position. A key pillar of URI's strategic goal to foster an inclusive culture is "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." For more information about our commitment to diversity, please visit: https://web.uri.edu/president/strategic-plan/priority-3/

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

We invite applications for a faculty position in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy. The successful candidate will contribute to both graduate and undergraduate teaching, research, and service responsibilities within the department and the University.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate-level courses in Public Management or Public Policy that are part of the core requirements for the online Master of Public Administration (MPA) program, as well as courses supporting online graduate certificates. In addition, the candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses in areas such as Public Administration, Public Management, Public Policy, and other subjects aligned with their area of expertise. Experience with or interest in online instruction is strongly preferred.

Applicants should demonstrate a clear research agenda and the potential to produce original, high-quality scholarship in the fields of Public Administration and/or Public Policy. A record of peer-reviewed publications or evidence of research promise is expected. The successful candidate is expected to maintain an active research profile that contributes to the discipline.

The faculty member will contribute to the governance and ongoing development of the MPA program, including curriculum planning, Capstone advising, and program assessment. In addition to department-level duties, the candidate will provide service to the University and engage with the broader academic and professional community.

QUALIFICATIONS: REQUIRED

1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2026, in Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

2) Specialization in Public Management subfields or a specialized public policy-related field.

3) Demonstrated ability to teach courses in at least two of the following: Seminar in Public Administration and Policy, Ethics in Public Administration and Policy, Public Personnel Management,

Public Budgeting and Finance, or other Public Management courses.

4) Demonstrated ability to teach undergraduate political science courses in at least one of the following areas: Public Administration, Public Affairs, or Public Policy.

5) Demonstrated ability or potential to effectively deliver high-quality graduate-level online courses, with strong record of effective teaching and student engagement in virtual learning environments.

6) Evidence of research in the field of Public Administration or Public Policy with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience.

7) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments.

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

QUALIFICATIONS: PREFERRED
Preference will be given to candidates who can provide a strong plan for active publication and who can demonstrate a record of, or potential for, excellent teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: ethics in public administration or policy, performance management, representative bureaucracy, leadership, information and technology management, local government management, or specific policy-related fields.

2) Evidence of online instruction or extensive training in online pedagogy.

3) Ability to teach on identity plurality and their intersections in public administration and policy.

CANDIDATES WILL BE REQUIRED TO ELECTRONICALLY SUBMIT
1) A cover letter that describes your interest in this position.

2) A Curriculum Vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document).

3) A brief research and teaching statement.

4) "Other Document" - A statement reflecting how you will support URI's strategic priorities in "cultivating a diverse, inclusive, equitable, and accessible learning, living, and working environment. We value intellectual curiosity, creativity, scholarship, and the global exchange of ideas that enrich our community and contribute meaningfully to the world." (as one complete pdf document).

5) "Other" - If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work (Document is Optional).

The application deadline is September 14, 2025.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/15547

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: 9/14/2025
Date Posted: 8/11/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15762

Ave Maria University
Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Assistant Professor of Politics
AVE MARIA, FL, US

The Department of Politics of Ave Maria University in Ave Maria, Florida, invites applications for a full-time position in politics at the rank of assistant professor to begin Fall of 2026. Applicants whose primary fields are American government and/or public policy are strongly preferred. Those with a foundation in political economy will also be regarded favorably. Competitive applicants will be gifted teachers and active in research and publishing. Applicants should also understand the nature and purpose of a Catholic liberal arts education and be familiar with and committed to the Catholic Church's teaching on the mission of Catholic universities as expressed in Ex corde Ecclesiae. Duties include three undergraduate courses per semester, mentorship of undergraduates, and committee work. Ph.D. or the equivalent by June 2026 is expected. Salary will be commensurate with experience and credentials.

The application dossier should include: (1) a letter of application; (2) a CV; (3) a writing sample of no more than 15 pages; (4) a brief statement discussing the applicant's teaching method and providing evidence of excellence in teaching (official teaching evaluations should be submitted when available); (5) a 1-2 page personal statement in which the applicant explains the contribution he/she can make to a Catholic liberal arts institution that is committed to implementing Ex corde Ecclesiae.

Applicants should arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation supporting their application. These should be sent directly by the recommenders to Megan Hare, Academic Affairs Administrative Assistant: Megan.Hare@avemaria.edu. Only complete applications will be considered. Official transcripts are required for faculty appointments and will be requested upon the final decision of the administration and search committee.

Questions may be addressed to Dr. Lidiya Zubytska, Chair of the Politics Department: lidiya.zubytska@avemaria.edu

Review of applications will begin on September 25, 2025 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, submit your materials here: https://workforcenow.adp.com/mascsr/default/mdf/recruitment/recruitment.html?cid=70cb71c1-96f8-4956-8cce-ce625b0b2943&ccId=19000101_000001&type=JS&lang=en_US&jobId=540989

Ave Maria University offers an excellent benefits package to full-time faculty and staff.

Ave Maria University is a Catholic, liberal arts institution of higher learning dedicated to the formation of joyful, intentional disciples of Jesus Christ through Word and Sacrament, scholarship and service.

Start Date: Fall 2026
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/7/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15752

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations, Public Policy, Public Administration
Specializations: International Security, Public Finance & Budgeting, Leadership Studies

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP), National University of Singapore, invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor appointments. One position will be in international security (political science-international relations or other relevant disciplines), which is broadly defined to include traditional and emerging security issues. For the other two positions—in public policy and public administration—the areas of interest are open; however, there is a particular interest in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of international relations, political science, public policy, public administration, or related disciplines;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;
- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) to the Hiring Committee via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30182. The deadline for submitting the package is September 1, 2025.

The package should include:

1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Members of the hiring committee will be attending the APSA Annual Conference in Vancouver and will be available for an informational session and preliminary interviews. Shortlisted candidates who are unable to meet at APSA will be contacted separately over email. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15632

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor – Public Administration/Public Management

Job Description

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (LKYSPP) at the National University of Singapore (NUS) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration/Public Management. We are especially interested in candidates with research and teaching expertise in public budgeting and finance, social policy and administration, leadership in public service, decentralization and local governance, and Technology/AI.

Job Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have:
- a PhD conferred by 1 August 2026 in the fields of public administration, public management, public policy, political science, or a related discipline at the time of appointment;
- publications in quality peer-reviewed journals in their field and/or a strong pipeline of working papers;
- a clear research identity and trajectory to become an independent scholar;
- research that is relevant to contemporary issues in Asia and/or Southeast Asia;

- demonstrated ability to teach core and specialized courses in the public policy school environment; and
- a willingness and ability to mentor graduate students.

Application

Please submit your application package in electronic form (PDF) via AcademicJobsOnline (AJO) https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/30180.

The package should include:
1. A cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. A research statement that outlines your past, current, and future research agenda
4. A teaching statement outlining your pedagogical philosophy and practices, courses taught, and, where available, evidence of teaching effectiveness.
5. Up to two writing samples (please clearly denote which is your primary sample, which can be a job market paper or chapter(s) from a book project)
6. Names and contact information of three referees. Referees will be contacted automatically via AJO with instructions to upload their letters of recommendation.

The cover letter, research statement and teaching statement should each be a maximum of two pages, double-spaced.

Applications submitted prior to September 15, 2025 will receive preference; but the review of applications will continue until positions are filled. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified. Initial face-to-face conversations may be conducted at the Asian Association for Public Administration Conference in October 2025 in Beijing, or at other relevant international conferences in 2025. Promising candidates not attending these events will be invited to a Zoom conversation. If you have any questions, you may contact Ms Sarah Seow, Senior Manager, Academic Affairs, LKYSPP at email: sarah@nus.edu.sg.

Additional Information

About the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

LKYSPP is a leading public policy school in Asia, attracting an internationally diverse, world-class faculty and student body to engage and address the world's most pressing challenges. Its mission is to inspire, improve lives, and take central positions in the policy and governance conversations within Asia and beyond. We do this by working hard on two planks: pursuing academic and intellectual excellence, and crafting lessons for meaningful public policymaking. The school is housed within the National University of Singapore, the highest ranked university in Asia and 8th in the world (QS World University Rankings 2026).

LKYSPP offers highly competitive research funding, salary, relocation and housing support, and other benefits. The teaching load (typically three per academic year) allows faculty to focus on providing quality instruction while maintaining their research excellence. For more information about LKYSPP, please visit www.lkyspp.nus.edu.sg.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 6/25/2025

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 15631

Washington University in St. Louis
Rank: Weidenbaum Center Postdoctoral Fellowship

We are pleased to announce a new Postdoctoral Fellowship in Survey Research through the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship allows new Ph.D.s and early career scholars the opportunity to contribute to cutting-edge research using high-quality survey data collected by the Weidenbaum Center. This fellowship is uniquely situated at the intersection of academic and public-facing scholarship, allowing the fellow to pursue a multitude of career paths, contribute to research that directly affects important issues in American politics, and increase visibility of their research.

The Weidenbaum Center at Washington University in St. Louis invites applications from recent Ph.D. graduates for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship. The fellowship will run for 12 months, starting on or around July 1, 2025, with the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The Weidenbaum Center has supported survey data collection efforts through The American Panel Survey (TAPS), The American Social Survey (TASS), and the Weidenbaum Center Survey (WCS). The Center's most recent efforts have focused on the launch of the WCS, which is fielded three times each year, includes a sample of 3,000 respondents (2,000 general US adult population and oversample of 1,000 African Americans), with each survey paired with voter file data and web-tracking data for a subset of respondents. For more information on survey work supported by the Center, please visit: https://wc.wustl.edu/weidenbaum-center-survey-work.

The Fellow will work collaboratively with Taylor Carlson, graduate student fellows, and other Weidenbaum Center affiliates to support the launch of the Weidenbaum Center Survey and other data collection efforts through the Center. The Fellow will assist with the launch of an online dashboard that allows people to analyze and download the survey data, write public-facing reports describing key findings from the data, draft survey instruments, create publicly available data repositories, and conduct both coauthored and independent academic research.

We are seeking an individual with social science research interests who will advance the Center's mission by engaging in collaborative and independent research and who will enjoy the opportunity to contribute to public scholarship (blog posts, reports, website graphics). We are especially interested in candidates with training in survey methodology and experience with public-facing scholarship (e.g., op-eds). Candidates should detail their experience in these areas in their cover letters and showcase any of these interests in the writing sample. We anticipate that the Fellow will spend most of their time working on Center-related and coauthored projects with Taylor Carlson and other Center affiliates.

Qualifications

We invite applications from qualified candidates who will have a PhD in hand by the time of the appointment, are no more than four years from the granting of their Ph.D. at the time of the submission, and who do not yet hold tenure-track academic positions.

Applications are evaluated against a broad set of criteria with special consideration given to contributions the candidate can make to academic diversity in our University community and more specifically to the study of survey methodology or addressing contemporary issues in American society with survey data.

Application Instructions
Proposal Submission Deadline: We will begin reviewing applications on February 7 and anticipate scheduling Zoom interviews as early as late February.

Proposal Format:

Applications should include the following:

- Cover letter

- Curriculum vitae

- Research statement not to exceed 2000 words describing the dissertation project and other research

- Writing sample

- Three letters of reference

- The cover letter should be addressed to Taylor Carlson

NOTE: Please apply through Interfolio: https://apply.interfolio.com/161709

Start Date: Fall 2025
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/15/2025
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 15339